Class Song, 1933

Music from Cornell's Alma Mater, Cayuga's Waters

Words by Grace Orrok.

*Stanch and sturdy stands our high school
Friend and patron too,
With her colors flying upward;
Farewell gold and blue.*

CHORUS

*Farewell Cleveland, we have ever
Borne your banners high,
And relinquish them with sorrow;
Farewell Cleveland High.*

*We have seen you battle proudly
Win in every strife,
And we leave you strong to conquer
In our fight with life.*

Class History

IT was way back in that last year of prosperity, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, that one hundred and fifty-eight Freshmen—not quite so small as this year's crowd—entered the then spacious halls of C. H. S. After we had been duly initiated into the ritualistic atmosphere of Study Hall and had learned to conceal our amazement at it all with a sort of semi-sophisticated air, we elected our class officers: President, Robert Northcutt; Vice-President, Grace Orrok; Secretary, Margaret Haynes; and Treasurer, Doris Archer.

At our first class meeting our first great problem was settled: We decided to attend the Wild West Show at Westfield rather than go on the annual freshman picnic.

Our Sophomore year started out with a bang! (The rivalry between the two homerooms had started). After much voting Robert Northcutt was again chosen to wield the gavel and George Millett was his assistant; Mildred Anderson wrote the minutes; and Elizabeth Root was entrusted with the money bag.

The third year proved to be full of exciting events. The officers were Bud Millett, Ira Dorian, Grace Orrok, and Elizabeth Demmerle. We gave the annual Junior Subscription Dance in December and it proved very successful. In the annual debate, William Nielsen, Ira Dorian, and Bob Fuller convinced the Seniors, by defeating them, that they could not always be supreme. We tearfully bade the departing Seniors farewell at the Junior-Senior Dance in June.

Then we had our chance as leaders of the school. We had attained the full amount of sophistication necessary for every Senior. We had even learned how to walk sidewise through the halls when the classes passed. The officers of our choice during this eventful year were Robert Maxfield, President; Bill Nielsen, Vice-President; Beth Harris, Secretary; Katharine Miller, Treasurer.

As our final offering to dear "ole" C. H. S. we gave the best Senior Play ever presented, a snappy comedy entitled "Wormwood Manor". Now, amid many tearful "good-bys" we leave—the best class ever to emerge from C. H. S.

Class Prophecy

TIME: 1950

THE action takes place in the several offices of the "Daily Outlook," a rising newspaper in New York City.

SCENE I

Charles Hess's office. There is a desk down right containing many telephones. Several chairs back left. It is a very untidy room.

The "keyhole columnist" sits with his feet on his desk giving dictation to Ethel Kleeman.

C. Hess: It's rumored about that Barbara Brownell is seeking her third divorce; she certainly has made the rounds since 1933. Her present husband is Charles Harris, owner of "The Metropolitan News Stands Company". Mrs. Harris complains that Charles reads tabloids in preference to her poetry. - - - Raymond O'Brian, perennial playboy, doesn't understand why little boys who go about with various chorus-girls should be sued. Sylvia Massa is the latest breach-of-promise. That's one way to get a lot of easy money. - - - John Donovan's Brewery has enlarged its beer garden. Robert Billingsley, a Kiddie Kar manufacturer from Ohio, has been seen about there lately, (we wouldn't even hint that there is a waitress, one Louise Frank) - - -. Sidney Cheser has been sleeping about the beer garden lately also; although we could find no woman in the case of this bed designer from Grand Rapids. - - - Jackie Nagle, the fair-haired dancer who was mobbed by the girls on his exit from Loew's lately, and Benjamin Odesky, Jewish comedian, have just been signed for a new edition of the Wigglesfield Follies. Helen Young, owner of Society Dress Shop, seems to be "that way" about Lincoln Hager. This is an old affair just recently revived. This time it looks very serious. - - - By popular vote it has been found that Huntley Hitchcock and Vinny (Gonzolas) Grimes are the most popular gigilos of the moment.

Gordon MacMeekin: (Printer's devil, comes panting in the door.) Mr. Hess, you'd better leave. You'd better go quickly - - -

Bill Wallace: (Storming in dramatically.) Am I speaking to the - - -

Ira Dorian: (Bustling through the door, waves his arms about, gulps.) You have gone too far. It isn't that he minds exactly; it's the principle of the thing.

Bill Wallace: I beg your pardon, sir?

I. Dorian: It's the principle of the thing.

C. Hess: Sit down, gentlemen. (Indicates huge box) A cigar?

B. Wallace: (Aside) No bribes, thanks.

I. Dorian: You have overstepped - - -

B. Wallace: (Interrupting) As an actor it is very damaging—(He poses).

I. Dorian: The firm of Dorian and DiBattista is going to sue you.

B. Wallace: I'll have my lawyers sue, too.

I. Dorian: It's the principle! Who're your lawyers?

B. Wallace: Ensor and Borodowko.

C. Hess: If you'll tell me your grievance - -

I. Dorian: (As he exits) The principle - - - (Bill Wallace stalks out, also, as he does in Act II, Scene III of the "Gilded Lily").

C. Hess: (Wipes brow and replaces gun in his drawer.) All's well - - - (Phone rings.) Hess speaking. The only respectable lady detective I know of is Christine Fischer. She's the one that uncovered the story about the child actress who was really a middle aged woman called Elizabeth Pyle. (He replaces receiver with a disgusted bang. Another phone rings.) Hess - - - (Rings bell. Ethel Kleeman enters. Hess nods his head. She writes - - -) Professor Robert Fuller of Hazel Gates School for Girls resigns because several teachers, Anna Sanguiliano, Susan Thompson, and Elizabeth Bodnar, dumped him into the swimming pool as a lark.

MacMeekin: (Entering in time to hear the names.) For heaven sakes! Why did they do that? They never did anything like that when I knew them. I don't understand that. Why - - - ??????

Hess: (Throwing books at him) Little children should be silent. In other words "shut your trap." And while you're out, go to the files and ask Miss Olsen—Marjorie Olsen to you—to give you some information about Helen Anderson. It'll be material about five breach-of-promise suits; also in the A's something about Paul Anger.

MacMeekin: Is that the one that is supposed to be stage manager at the Apollo? The one that's got the white hair from worrying about the actors and prompters and costumes and everything - - - besides his own job?

Hess: What's it to ya? But it is. (Picks up phone. MacMeekin leaves hurriedly.) Science desk. Here's some news for you. Sean O'Dea's stratosphere dirigible will be ready to break a new record tomorrow morning. Professor Hall is fully certain of his success in his attempt to photograph the cosmic ray at an expected altitude of 150,000 feet. Gordon Schultze and Roy Hibbard will be the radio engineers, while Vincent Vano will announce the ascent to the radio fans.

MacMeekin: (Rushing in) Mr. Hess—oh—(He gulps.) Your wife's outside and—and—that blonde Follies girl is with her—you know the one—and they're coming right in.

Hess: (Jumping up, grabs hat and departs by back door.)

MacMeekin: (Standing with his mouth open, in a puzzled voice) I don't see why--

Curtain

SCENE II

Office of the Society Editor

There is a desk down right which contains pencils, a silver mounted photograph, and a memo pad. A telephone is conveniently placed. The room contains, in common with other offices, chairs. These chairs are unique, however, in that they are comfortable red-leather affairs that do not wobble when sat on.

Lucile Lansing, dressed in an afternoon frock with hat and gloves on, sits in a chair. Loveen May also in formal afternoon dress leans on the desk. Her hat and gloves are tossed in another chair. Olive Pettersen sits patiently, her pencil and pad ready.

Lansing: I think we should have Elizabeth Demmerle do the invitations. If we give a party we might as well give a correct one.

May: I thought she designed greeting cards—"Merry Christmas"—all that sort of thing.

Lansing: The firm does that. Just now she's doing invitations.

May: I still think we should have Katherine Hashim arrange it. She arranged that tea for Mrs. du Pont—and the "Doggy Party" when George Millett arrived from the coast.

Lansing: I've heard that since he came the dog sales have gone up. You wouldn't think the arrival of a dog-breeder from California would create a demand.

May: My dear, wait till you see the man! You'll rush right out and buy a dog so you can ask him questions about it. He has practically the whole city of girls all agog.

MacMeekin: (Entering) Say, Mr. Witting says if it wouldn't be too much trouble for you to get your copy in - - -

May: Tell him I'm doing it right now. (Dictates.) The arrival of Mrs. du Pont of Chicago, formerly Juanita de Guzman, in New York has started a round of brilliant social events. Mrs. du Pont, recognized as a social leader both here and abroad, will sail next week on the "Dulcia", one of the new ships of the Stewart line, owned by that austere gentleman, Charles Stewart. William Neilsen, captain of the "Dulcia", gave a party on ship for Mrs. du Pont. Another social function was a tea given by Mrs. Robert Maxfield, nee Deede Katharine Miller, - - -

Lansing: Did you know Mr. Maxfield made over a hundred thousand dollars on the Stock Exchange? Beth Harris remarked, last night, that Deede's experience as treasurer of our senior class must have been of some use.

May: How's Beth's book coming along?

Lansing: It's gone to the publishers now, I guess. They say she is the most popular historical writer of the day.

MacMeekin: (Strolling in.) The boss says - - -

Lansing: I think C. J. Witting was out last night!

May: I don't think editors of newspapers should sleep late hours; do you?

Grace Orrok: (Entering.) I'm quite angry. Chris—(She notices Gordon.) Mr. Witting just told me I had been raised to the ranks of reporter. From writing music reviews—to finding out facts from Etta Saunders, the nurse of a child heiress, and interviewing a women's matron at City Prison, called Lottie Zabielski—that's a large promotion. (She shakes her head discouragedly.)

Lansing: Did you go to Mary Di Fabio's concert at Town Hall last night?

Orrok: Yes. It was a great success. The crowd gave a great ovation.

May: I went to a party given her and they had a contest. Mary can still speak faster than anyone I know, either in English or in French.

Orrok: Have you both been somewhere?

Lansing: I've been to an art exhibit.

Orrok: Anything interesting?

Lansing: There were some fascinating pieces done by a new artist, Mary Noselski—and some sketches by Gordon Richards.

Orrok: He sold his third novel today.

May: I've been to a the dansant at one of those Kitchen Kettle shops that Flora Jansen and Dolorita Enright own.

Orrok: Who designed it?

May: Elizabeth Tarlow. She has a shop now and does all her own designing.

MacMeekin: (Entering very excited.) Mr. Witting demands - - -

May: I'll go see him. (Exits.)

Lansing: I really should go to do my write-up, I guess.

Orrok: Last night at the concert I met Frances Pernas. She's married a Lord Something-or-other. She was telling me that Evelyn Waters has become quite the thing in England. Everyone goes to her to have their hair "done".

Lansing: Not long ago, when I was in Grace Sandford's shop having my hair waved, she told me that the famous movie actress, June Peterson, has all her hair styles created by Evelyn.

Kathrine Frankel: (Enters.) Margaret McMahon of the "want ads" would like to know how to word an ad - - -

Orrok: I'm sorry, Miss May will be right back.

May: (Stalks in). I guess he'll wait! You wanted something, Miss Frankel?

Frankel: Please, could you tell Miss McMahon how an ad should be worded?

May: What is the ad about?

Frankel: Mrs. Mary Dahoney McIntosh wishes a nurse for large family;—and also there is a Miss Deborah Cannon outside. She says she has an appointment.

May: Yes, bring her in. (To Grace and Lucile.) She's the head chorus leader and director of Tuskegee. The Chorus is here this week, and I've invited her to visit us. (Rings bell, Olive Petterson enters.) Dictation. That well known business man, Eugene Foerst, took a party of friends to the opening of the wildly acclaimed dramatic actress, Mildred Anderson. What numbers of the smart set did not attend this party attended one given by Margaret Haynes, editor-in-chief of "Americana," as a farewell gesture to Arthur Brown, who leaves tomorrow for his coffee plantation in Brazil. During the evening Miss Haynes entertained her guests with several dramatic skits, and Richard Waterhouse, the cinema star, played the piano for them. Both parties later adjourned to the "Golden Pumpkin," newly opened night resort said to be owned by Frank Del Gandio. The featured singer is Doris Archer, and the orchestra is under the direction of the well known Alton Ward.

Of late the Park Avenue set have become interested in improving their minds. They listened absorbedly to the learned scientist, Victor Gaul, expound deep formulae at a dinner given last night at the Astor in his honor. At the same dinner was Miss Elaine Caruso, recently returned from a trapping expedition in Canada.

Deborah Cannon: (Entering.) I'm sorry to have been so long. I was inquiring about getting a stenographer.

May: It's Deborah!

Orrok: Kemphna!

Cannon: Lucile - - - Grace - - -. How nice to see you all. But what do you do here?

Lansing: My dear, we work here. Grace is a combination music critic and a reporter. I do art criticism.

May: And I am still rushing about.

Lansing: How have you been all these years?

Orrok: Do you know anything about any of our old class?

Cannon: A little. Dorita Willis is a physical training teacher in a girls' school.

Lansing: Yes?

Cannon: Not long ago we were addressed by the Honorable Allan Wittnebert, renowned wild animal hunter. Could you tell me the name of a good secretary? I need one immediately.

May: (Ringing bell) We have a list of names.

MacMeekin: (Appearing) Well?

May: The file of secretaries please. And on your way out ask Miss Weinpahl if she has any new books in the library.

Cannon: Elise Weinpahl?

Lansing: Yes. She's the librarian here in the building.

MacMeekin: (Enters waving a paper) Here's the list. Miss Weinpahl is going to send you several books, and there is an Elizabeth Root waiting to see you. She's a welfare worker, so she probably wants money.

May: Will you ask Miss Root to wait, please? I'll see her in ten minutes. And now, Deborah, if you'll read over these names while I finish the column?

Deborah: Wilma Aklan, Margaret Anderson, Hedwig Wenzel. Are these all?

Lansing: It seems so. There are very few secretaries left in New York.

May: There. Now my work is all done. Let's all go annoy Charles Hess—he's probably still writing his column.

SCENE III

Office of Sports' Editor.

(This office is far more untidy than any of the others. The walls are decorated with pictures of boxers and baseball men and with all sorts of athletic affairs. Anton Tinnesz is seated at a typewriter, poking the keys with one finger. There are several boxes about which are presumedly used for chairs.)

(Ray Cowperthwaite enters. He is dressed in a checked suit, has a bat on the back of his head, and chews gum.)

Cowperthwaite: How you Tinnesz, ol' kid. Whaddya know?

Tinnesz: Go out and look at the pretty flowers. I'm busy.

Cowperthwaite: That don't mean peanuts to me. (He picks up a pen and aims it expertly as one would a gun.)

Tinnesz: You know, I met a smooth female last night. Her name is Mary Korner; know her?

Cowperthwaite: Yeh, boy, I've been around. Isn't she "on the make" till that gangster's out of prison?

Tinnesz: I've got some tickets to the "Massa" Lose—"Killer" Klein Fight. I think Klein'll kill him.

Cowperthwaite: Yeh, Lose can't take it.

Tinnesz: Wilmar Lange won the tennis finals cup in France yesterday.

Cowperthwaite: Swell. I wonder if he's popular over there like he used to be in Cleveland High School?

Tinnesz: Prob'ly. (Phone rings) Yes?—Sure. Thanks.

Cowperthwaite: So?

Tinnesz: So Charles Downey has finally signed with Colonel Dadd's Yankees. I'll bet he got a fat salary out of that.

Cowperthwaite: Any inside dope on the Penn Relays this year?

Tinnesz: (Still pounding his typewriter) I don't know. Joe Downing and Herbert Weis are sure of a couple of first places.

Cowperthwaite: Wonder how Weir can keep in training? He was always a lady killer. Do you ever, by chance, read the newspapers?

Tinnesz: Nah, not unless I have a lotta time. Sometimes I read the pictures - - -!

Cowperthwaite: Well, did anyone tell you that Arthur Wenzel won the Scrymgeour medal as the most outstanding man of the year?

Tinnesz: What did they give him that for? He's only an athlete!

Cowperthwaite: You're dumb. He's a very shrewd business man. He's got brains. I bet you don't even know Mary Williams was voted the best all around athlete of the whole world.

Tinnesz: She's only a girl. How would I know?

MacMeekin: (Entering with telegrams and papers.) Here you are, boss.

Tinnesz: (Graciously.) O. K. Scram!

Cowperthwaite: Guess I'll be going. Don't forget the tickets for the fight.

Tinnesz: Here're some flashes from England: Philip Ragonese, American entry in Wales' Golf Tournament, wins "hands down" against the titled British defender, Arthur Wesighan, yacht owner, has entered his boat "Matilda" in the English Sweepstakes.

Cowperthwaite: (Starts leaving.) Well, so-long.

Tinnesz: Where ya goin'?

Cowperthwaite: Out to lunch.

Tinnesz: Wait a sec. I'll go too.

Both exit.

The Senior Play

THE annual production of the Senior Class was presented on the evenings of March 16 and 17 and again, due to its great success, on the evening of April 8. The play was a family comedy in three acts entitled "Wormwood Manor". It was written by Edwin Meiss, of Short Beach, Conn., and was produced under the expert direction of Miss Alice L. Mathews. The author was present the opening night—an honor which is seldom enjoyed by high school performances.

Girls' Sports

THE aim of the After-School Activity Program is to provide a variety of sports so that each girl may choose those meeting her interests and abilities and thereby be encouraged to participate. Records show that ninety percent of the girls enrolled were active in at least one activity, which is far more beneficial to the group than a varsity program for a limited number.

Field Hockey was one of the leading sports this year, in which ninety-seven girls vied with each other for places on the inter-class teams. Deborah Cannon was captain of the winning senior team.

Basketball, the favorite game of C. H. S. girls, interested one hundred twenty-two players and was played with genuine enthusiasm which is often lacking in a small varsity squad. Mary Williams, captain of the senior team, led her team mates through seven victories to claim the championship.

Servus-Ball players found much competition in the winning freshmen team captained by Betty Sterrett.

Hiking is a recent addition to our after-school activities and claims many loyal followers. Miss Estabrook, Miss Teague, and Miss Howell accompanied the girls on their trips.

Riding at Kenilworth has been enjoyed by forty-eight girls who are preparing to demonstrate their abilities in a Riding Exhibition.

Swimming, according to records, is the most popular sport, but only a few girls have been able to take advantage of the classes organized at the Westfield Pool. In a recent swimming meet, Betty Cumberledge of the freshman class won first place in the fifty yard backstroke.

Tennis tournaments should be exciting this year as many fine players are ready to challenge the present holder of the trophy.

Track appeals to many girls because it offers such keen competition. The cup won by last year's Seniors will be presented to the winning team in the inter-class tournaments in May.

Golf, ring tennis, roller skating, rope jumping, soccer, tether ball, hop-sotch, horseshoe pitching, dancing, bicycle riding and baseball are other activities which have prominent places in the sports program of many of our girls.

Football

Manager: IRA D. DORIAN

Captain: GEORGE ROSICH

THE 1932 football team had a very successful season, winning five of the eight games played. Every team save Union, Dover, and Roselle gave way to the hard fighting Gold and Blue players. Captain George Rosich was the main spring behind the defensive team. Charles Griffiths did the bulk of the work on the offense.

After losing the season-opener to Dover, Cranford met Roselle and held their own in a 6-6 tie. Then showing a great fighting spirit Cranford humbled four opponents in a row for a sensational comeback. The climax of our winning streak ended after Cranford beat its bitter rivals from Westfield by a 21-16 score in Cranford's favor. The next to the last game was lost to Union, though the season finished with a victory over Millburn.

Captain: GEORGE ROSICH

THE Blue and Gold Quintet established an enviable record this past season. After losing the first two openers, they won seventeen consecutive victories. With this record the team entered the State Tournament to beat Madison, Morris County Champions, by 39-14. Roselle Park succumbed to the tune of 23-15. This brought the team to the sectional finals against Caldwell which went home on the short end of a 24-21 score. Then came the semi-finals where Cranford beat an easy Fort Lee team 35-13, the twenty-first consecutive win of the season. This winning streak was cut short by Keyport in the finals by a score of 26-22.

Manager: CHRIS WITTING

Captain: GEORGE ROSICH

WITH the majority of last year's varsity back and good material from the second team, the season on the diamond was successfully closed. Vincent Grimes and Willie Klein held the opposition to a low number of hits and runs while Tommy Wallace did his part as a catcher. The infield retained the veteran players George Rosich at first and Charles Griffiths at second, while positions at short stop and third were filled by able members from last year's second team. With Al Haddad as a nucleus an able outfield was built which kept well in hand the few flies and grounders that came in their direction.

Track

Coach: MR. WEEKLEY

Manager: GORDON MACMEEKIN

THE track team flashed through this year's competition in regular championship form. With twelve experienced men one could only expect the thoroughly satisfying results. Joe Downing, Bernie Di Battista, and Jim Wikander held their own against all sprinters. Frank Del Gandio, Robert Maxfield, and Buster Weir merited much in the quarter mile. Because of the graduation of two pole vaulters, Robert Lawrence worked doubly hard to keep that part of the team in excellent standing. The half-milers, Frank Del Gandio and Robert Maxfield, with the milers, Arthur Brown and Arthur Wenzel, gave the team many victories. The weight men, George Rosich, Chester Lang, and William Schirmer, also contributed greatly toward a successful season.

Coach: MR. QUAINANCE

THE tennis team this year was one of the best C. H. S. ever produced. This was readily understood since the team was composed entirely of experienced men. These included Wilmar Lange, Robert Lawrence, Jack Nagle, Alton Ward, Curtis Culin, Howard Manchon, Dick Waterhouse, Jimmie Kress, Philip Porcella, and Bob Waterhouse.

"Oh yes," replied the employer, without glancing up from a letter he was reading.

"Well, hurry up and kiss me then," was the startling rejoinder. "I want to get to work."

CHARACTERISTICALLY DIFFERENT!

From the earliest days when man first recorded his impressions by arduous carving in stone, the inherent faculty of true craftsmanship manifested itself. Among the relics of the early stone carvers can be found outstanding examples of characteristic difference—distinctive ability that was the forerunner for the artist and the craftsman of today. ¶ And just as primitive recordings in stone show varying degrees of superiority, so does a Colyer-produced Annual stand out distinctive of the full possibilities of the highly-developed graphic arts of today.
