CRANFORD,
NEW JERSEY

FOREWORD

One hundred years ago men sought gold to enrich their lives. Today, our prospectors are looking for something more precious than gold; they are digging for peace. To reach this end, they are panning their ideas and sifting away strife.

In 1849 people travelled in covered wagons, on horseback, by boat, and even on foot. Their journey was long and tedious, and some were not rewarded. There is only one road to peace. It is long, and much of it has not been blazed. The reward at the end is beyond appraisal, but it can be reached only through understanding.

Therefore, we, the members of the graduating class, will lend all our resources to the building of the road to peace. Where our ancestors used picks and shovels to reach their gold, we shall use intelligence and cooperation.

The world will strike it rich!

DEDICATION

RAY A. CLEMENT

"Steve"

"His ready speech flowed fair and free,

In phrase of gentlest courtesy."

Pet Expression: "Forsan et haec olim meminisse iuvabit."

(In the future it will be a pleasure to remember these things.)

Hobby: Telling jokes on Class Night.

Activity: Principal of Cranford High School.

"Good morning! These are the announcements." This greeting is familiar to anyone who has attended Cranford High School. The man who repeats it every morning and reads the latest announcements is our Principal, Ray A. Clement. This daily salutation and the conferring of diplomas are about the only times the average pupil has much contact with Mr. Clement. However, under his guidance our school has maintained a high scholastic rating. Moreover, he is always ready and willing to help in any way possible in all extra curricular activities.

His sincerity, honesty, and subtle sense of humor make one feel at ease in his presence. He has no favorites but regards each student as an individual who will be a credit to our school.

Now, after many years of service, he is retiring. It seems appropriate that he do so in 1949, for he, too, is a prospector. He has blazed a path for future administrators to follow and because of his accomplishments he has established a living monument of grateful graduates.

To Mr. Ray A. Clement the class of 1949 dedicates this Golden C as a token of its sincere gratitude.

In Memoriam ♦ ♦ ♦

WILMER FIELD WHITESCARVER, JR.

Buddy's kind and sincere nature which won him so many friends can never be forgotten, nor the time and energy he willingly gave in the service of our class. During his brief life he set a fine example for us to follow, and we shall remember him always as a classmate and a "swell fellow."

MISS ELLA HAVER

*Dick - Don't lose that smile as the cheery greeting you've always given me. I like it and it helps stand the way right.
Best wishes,
E. M. Haver.*

A sponsor has the responsibility of advising and guiding a class, thus transforming it from individual students to a united group capable of working together toward a common goal. The teacher who undertakes this task must give up many hours to insure its success.

Our sponsor, Miss Ella Haver, has been not only a good advisor but also a good friend. We sincerely hope that she will remember us and recall the many activities we shared. We, the class of 1949, wish Miss Haver all the happiness and success which she so richly deserves.

GO WEST YOUNG MAN, GO WEST!

(and we don't mean O. L.)

We were off! The gold rush started in September 1945. An insignificant group of dead "pans" set forth on their four year journey toward the ultimate goal. After the hard, hard winter at our first attempt at the unknown (Latin, Algebra, etc.) we welcomed the Spring with great rejoicing. Many characters joined in and proclaimed a "Hepcat's Holiday." We all were now under the leadership of "Trail Blazer" Haver. Many said our valiant band would be sure to fail and would go astray but we struggled on with the $35 we had made.

By the next year we were once again poverty-stricken so we volunteered our services to help clean up the local burg. After having been rewarded generously (with a fountain pen) we left our gleaming bridge behind us and continued forth. Because St. Patrick's Day was so close we celebrated this gala occasion with the "Leprechaun's Leap." Many of us remember the novel way those prospectors, Burnash and Dunn, helped by trying out their new-fangled contraptions. They believe someday people may use cameras. (Jimmy Bamford looked so cute as a leprechaun).

Then came the great triumph. We tried a different approach to the gold vein. We struck it rich after we had had "A Date With Judy." This new idea netted us $300. We met Miss Sarah Bernhardt Wurth at this point. It was rumored that Hawk Smooze, head of the local opera house, wanted her talent for an all star revue. She was no piker though. She headed for greater stakes. We went boldly on, but after a few months we discovered that the vein had petered out when we learned we had made only $.07 (7c) profit that winter. We had fallen off the "Ski Jump" because everyone had kept his eyes and ears on Jersey Joe Walcott who was trying to jump Joe Louis' claim.

Since we were now in sight of our destination we held a grand prom for those older members who were giving up their claims. We took them all for a big boat ride complete with a band, a magician, and live animals. After the great merry-making was over it slowly dawned on us that we were now on our own entirely. Gone was the carefree, gay spirit of the pioneer in our struggle westward. We had reached our goal and had to start settling down to a more serious life.

As a celebration of the starting of this new life, we held a grand dramatic presentation. We had our Miss Wurth and a few other top performers, (Dunn, Apgar, Brescka) that we had picked up along the way, give a delightful interpretation of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

We have been so firmly established here that now we are going around in international circles. We entertained a visitor from Norway and in November sent one of our troupe, Carolyn Burelbach, abroad to see how the other half of the world lives. In February we had a midyear celebration of our advance westward, the "49ers' Dig." This was about the last time we could get gold from the vein.

Now there is still one thing we seek, even though we have attained a certain amount of fame and fortune. You guessed it. We want our diplomas!

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

Carolyn

Anne and her hostess

The class of '49 had the unusual opportunity of exchanging students. This project was fostered by the Metropolitan School Study Council and the New York Herald Tribune.

In the winter of 1948 Anne Vogt, a Norwegian girl, visited our school for one month. The next autumn Carolyn Burelbach, one of our own classmates, represented our school in Norway for seven weeks. Again during the winter of 1949 John Williams, from England, and later Christian Lange, from Norway, came to live in our community.

These visitors participated in the daily life of the teen-agers, going to school, discussing mutual problems with their new friends, explaining the ways of government in their own countries and being taken on interesting sight seeing trips.

This exchange of students has done much to promote good will and understanding among the youth of today. They have learned about the customs, beliefs, traditions, social systems, and forms of government of the countries in which they visited. In turn the people with whom they stayed came to know these young people well enough to realize how much alike teen-agers are in every country.

Our story begins as the four of us forty-niners, representatives of the Society for the Protection of Elderly Cows, entered the gates of the Union County Fair.

All about us were brilliant billboards, proclaiming the super terrific merits of the various midway events. One of the most astounding of these was Lulu Von Lynn and her Honolulu girls. Joan Wallace, Gracie Johnston, Nancy McLaughlin, and Marilyn Searle. Another act, Lackadical Listo and his Lazy Lions seemed to be attracting great crowds.

As we walked down the bustling midway, we passed more of these exciting shows. We caught a glimpse of the eloquent Eloise Woltz, the world famous swam through an open tent flap. Next we passed a concession owned by Ed Kelly, in which we saw Tom Goodman's head actively dodging baseballs.

Further down the midway we heard a barker calling the people to look at Joseph, the Kayelousal Strong Man and his million ounce barbell. Next to him stood Duane Nostraniano, the dinosaur tamer, whose "little pets" were trying to wind themselves around her neck. However, our attention was distracted from these oddities as we noticed a brave little man prancing about the top of a flagpole. Greatly intrigued, we walked over to read the sign underneath, which to our surprise said "The flag pole sitter." Our friend Frickie loudly suggested from his sixty-two foot elevation that we go to the main tent where we might meet some of our old buddies.

Just as we arrived at the huge arena, we saw Nancy Voll receive an award for the best pickled pig's ears. She was followed onto the platform by John Turner who received an award for his alarm clock for late sleeping nooters.

Frank Massa and his "Milky Way Boys" including Stan Sjursen, George Guerriero and William Gohring struck up "Milk, Milk, for Old Cranford High" which reminded us of the primary purpose of our visit to the fair.

We left the main tent and went to the cow show. There we found cattle raiser, Bob McGinnis working desperately over his ailing blue-ribbon Jerseys. He informed us that two pranksters, Yarrow and Brendel, had been feeding sawdust to the cows in that area. He suggested that we go out to Pete Fairchild's farm to see if any damage had been done there.

We immediately informed police chief Bill Herzer and rushed out with him and his lieutenant Ed Boone to this famous landmark. There we were joined by cub reporter Virginia Young and photographers Burnash and Bamford.

Our investigation was abruptly halted, however, as we heard above us a stentorian roar of anguish. We looked up to see surveyor Nicholson dangling by his whiskers from the telephone wires. It seems he had lost his bearings. A goodly crowd composed of Mr. and Mrs. William Colles and family quickly accumulated, watching with open mouths as trapeze artist Robert Dunn swung into action with his Burton Boy Scout Knife. Nicholson, freed from his hairy entanglement, fell gracefully through the net held by visiting licemen, Hemmigham, Wilcox, and Clayton.

We followed his ambulance to the Hart-Cramer Hospital, a New York establishment exclusively for Cranfordites, in a cab driven by Dot Eustice, an employee of Homan's Taxi Service. Upon stepping out of the taxi we were almost bowled into the gutter by the passing of playboys Buck and Hobbie, in their new, twelve cylinder, chrome-plated Proudmobile. We consulted the physical therapist, M. J. Markey, concerning our few lost toes and he advised us to see Barbara Lewis, the noted chiropodist, who recommended that we try her new plastic pre-fit toes.

Walking down the hospital hall, we happened to see, through an open door, surgeon Ann Barbara Catts and her "surgical sweeties," Baldeschwieler, Bender, and Morgan. They were clustered about David Hulse, Esq., the millionaire, untangling the kinks in his tongue as a result of his profitable profession as a French linguist.

Close by him stood our old friend, the soul thrilling opera tenor, Joseph Ogonowski. We stepped in to speak to him and got so immersed in our discussion concerning the perplexing international problem of retrieving aviator Paul Bartholomew from the moon, that we were hardly conscious of leaving the hospital. We found ourselves approaching Joe's destination, the Bates-Carus Academy of Music and Dance. Following him into its murky depths, we heard Leo Johnson still struggling to get the right note. Clutching our ears, we moved on down the musty corridor toward a distant light. There we found Doug Strack and Richard Nielsen directing Eleanor Clifford, Freda Force, Joan Thome, Ann Houston, and Matilda Porzella in chorus line techniques. Standing near was Joe Earhart, auditioning the girls for a featured act at Liddy's Entertainment Palace.

As we regretfully turned to leave we found our passage blocked by the three eminent composers, Barrett, Seavy, and Yater, down on their knees begging us to listen to their Compound Concerto for Castenets.

Closing our eyes and leaping over their heads, we dashed into light of day, only to stumble blindly over a double row of kindergarteners out for a walk with their teacher, Barbara Maxwell.

Thoroughly perturbed by this time, we jumped onto the nearest Bieda Bus not caring where we went, just as long as it was far away. To our surprise, the driver refused to credit our plug nickels. We were astounded until we realized he was Frank Schumacher. Because we would do anything for an old buddy, we broke down and shelled out our plug dimes. These plugs by the way, were made by a patented process invented by John Biley, prominent banker.

We rolled by Mona Lee Reiman standing on a street corner vociferously clashing two garbage cans lids together, campaigning for Colonel Glover, a candidate for the presidency.

Hearing the scuffle of feet, we looked out of the bus window to see Frevert, Forster and Allen ru-lung neck and neck with Coogie Page on his Whizzer bike.

On another corner stood Babenic and Sheral's selling ten cent pure silk ties. High above them we caught sight of Carolyn Burelbach, girl explorer, sliding over the Bond waterfall in a barrel.

Turning our attention to the inside of the bus, we felt the presence of a flea circus in the vicinity. Looking around we saw our old pal Jonathan Franz letting his pets out for their monthly airing. This disturbance, combined with the reek of Harner Apgar's exotic perfume, Chanel No. 5, and a shrill singing commercial being rendered by Joan Tillett over the bus's radio, was enough to drive us off the bus.

Stepping off at Nylen's Newstand we picked up a copy of the Fireman's Pictorial. Thumbing through the pages we noticed many familiar names and faces. On the cover was the 'Brescka Girl,' Hecky Sarnoski. The list of editors was headed by Maureen Malloy, the conscientious, hard-working, pink-blooded American girl and her stocky side kick, Audrey Martinson.

Turning to Snyder's Society Sum-up we noticed several interesting items.

Miss Jeanice Lyons, noted authoress, was visiting some of her old flames at Hartman's Home for Elderly Gents.

Ex-Toni twins, Coe and Blake had been given movie contracts at the Ryan Kamin-Oram ('R.K.O.') Studio.

In a mix-up concerning the beneficiary of an ancient Grupe family will, the famous lawyer, William Halford, decided in favor of Roger Grube over Minerva Grupe.

The last item on the page was an announcement of an open house that evening at the suite of Charles Christian in honor of Michael Buontempo, who had just been appointed supersensational, supersonic, civil statistician for N.Y.C. As he lived only about two blocks away downhill, we slipped on our roller skates and coasted down. Upon entering the door we found ourselves in the middle of a no-man's land in a battle between Balsam of the Balsawood Cigar Company and Buckley of Sal-vaged Cigarette Butts. Dodging an ash tray we burst into a bevy of beautiful secretaries; Carol Lyons, Rosie DiSpirito, Jean Thomas, Marilyn Webster, Antonette DiFabio, Joan Mente, Joanne Callanan, and Theresa Kopycinski, surrounding blushing Ronald D'Arcy, a famous sidewalk engineer.

All through the crowd we spotted various celebrities chewing on pretzels and caviar. We saw Sarah Fort Vaughan, famous coloratist talking to Ed Stickney, manager of the All American Bloomer Girl's Baseball League. Bill Guerrero, president of U. S. Pharmacopoeia, was seen with Marion Jensen, star test-pilot for Dudash's Dare-devils.

Utterly bored, we were glad to accept the offer of Marilyn Miller, millionaire co-owner of the Miller-Mack Millinery Company, to fly us to Cranford in her new Hearn's Helicopter.

A few minutes later, as we hovered for a second over the Cranford Athletic Field we saw Thelma Thomas receiving the championship trophy of the ping-pong league while her runner up, Robert Wright stood sadly by.

Dropping onto the C.H.S. roof, we climbed down into a P.T.A. meeting where we stopped to rest for a while. We were surprised to see Professor Jamieson soothing an irate mother whom we recognized as our childhood pal, Barbara Brand. She was complaining because her child had received an A minus in Greek V. We heard history teachers Bynes and Tunner rehashing the Civil War. Then the program began. First Lee Cobbs and Betty Burr, gym instructors, taught a few of the more daring parents the fundamentals of the modern dancing. Then the music instructor, Lyle Burnett, gave a beautiful rendition of "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" accompanied by Robert Morley of the percussion section of the Wassmuller Philharmonic.

Lastly, Miss Nancy Brodeen, the school nurse, gave an interesting lecture entitled "The Evil Influence of Modern Dance Upon the Moral and Physical Wellbeing of Our Children."

The meeting having adjourned, we decided to take a walk through our lovely town. It seemed more beautiful than ever. The river was a gorgeous blue, colored by Merritt's Lavender Blue Ink, one of fifty-six scented varieties.

The parks were filled with all sorts of animals. Outstanding among them were the six-foot tall chair-pheasants which were walking advertisements of Barbieri's Pheasant Farm.

Walking through the center of town we noticed several new shops, all apparently flourishing. At Callendo's Candy Corner we were given free, small cakes, with whipped cream. We passed Szymanski's Sandwich Shoppe, the home of the famous pineapple and pickle sandwich. Further on we noticed Gus Swanholm and Eugene Woehr modelling in the window of Denman's Department Store. Both the Tarver-Johnson 'Salon de Rejuvenation' and Fulkrod's Pharmacy were turning away crowds of customers.

Our last stop was June's Jive Joint, the town's record and recreation center. Miss Steven's, the owner, had become a nationally known disc jockey. Here we met Warren Blakely who offered to take us home to our respective shacks in his record-tuned Model A.

Before we parted, we made plans for a future tour through Westchester County, where we could gaze enviously on the mansions of our old class mates, Mildred Leidy, Joan Reilly, Irene Schedenreck, Dot Colaneri, and Margaret Colaneri, and all the rest of the forty-niners whose husbands had struck it rich in the Cranford Gold Rush.

With the closing thought, "Have you had your quart today?" we bid thee farewell and also moo-moo.

The three blushing milkmaids and the lone cow-hand.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the eminent and highly esteemed members of the graduating class of 1949, being physically exhausted, but mentally surfeited with knowledge, do hereby make the following bequests:

I call those who will try to take our places, we leave our patient and understanding teachers, with the hope that somehow or other those who fall under their jurisdiction can survive in spite of the homework.

To next year's seniors, we will the middle section of the auditorium for assemblies, the front door as an exit, and the power to boss the whole school.

And now, each of us would like to leave a little something . . .

We, Marilyn Smid and Bill Coles, leave our midnight rendezvous to Audrey Purcell and George Rankin.

We, Mary Ann Wurth, Eleanor Clifford, Joan Wallace, and Jane Tunner will --- now leave Jean Snyder.

We, Marilyn Miller, Joan Muller, and Helen Von Lynn, will our little red hats to the Senior Play prop crew apprentices who wanted to know how to make them.

We, Grace Johnston and Mary Ellen Whelan, will our ability to get to school on time (but no sooner) to Sue Lackey, who'll be able to use it.

I, Bob Nicholson, leave my voice and love for hill-billy music to any underclassman who can stand ridicule and open insult.

I, Mona Lee Reiman, leave my Southern "you-all" to Miss Mathews.

I, Janet Gove, will Mr. Lawrence's mimeograph machine to any Junior girl who may wish to indulge.

We, Dot Colaneri and Catherine Ryan, will our courage, which we show by riding in Joan Holcombe's car, to any timid Junior.

We, Joe Kaye and Bill Fricke, leave our last pack of butts to the R. C. C.'s, so they can learn how.

I, Gene Denman (the voice), leave my overworked tonsils and vocal chords to any Junior lucky enough to be misunderstood.

I, "Hecky" Sarnoski, leave my continual flirting to Addie Hall and Betty Owen.

I, Carolyn Burelbach, leave my "Whale Meat" frankfurters and dates to the school cafeteria, and to the sophisticated Junior girls, respectively.

I, Gus Swanholm, will my height to any Junior who can breathe in the thinner atmosphere.

We, Barbara Lewis and Jeanice Lyons, will our great love for the alumni to the Junior girls.

We, Barbara Brand, and "Harold" Glover, will the lease to the main floor landing on the down stairway in the rear wing to Mr. Wilson, so he can charge rent from future steadygoers.

I, Joan Bates, will Mr. Sarnowski and his teasing to any future Senior girl who is able to refrain from blushing.

I, Bill Balsam, being of sound mind, but clogged lungs, will my smoker's hack to Hansel Hall.

I, Doug Strack, leave Jim Burnash's chemistry tests to any future Senior who wants good marks.

We, Frank Wood and Joe Wright, hereby will our sleeping hours in band to any two fellows who can hide behind the brass drum.

I, Mafalda Porcella, will my extensive vocabulary and collection of "good" jokes to Don Wooley, who could make good use of them.

We, Ron Hart and Dan Caruso, leave to Jimmy Walker and Dick Walters our "curly locks."

I, Richard Nielson, leave my 1928 Buick to the Junior girls, so they won't have to ask me for a ride.

I, Harriet Apgar, leave my naturally blonde hair to any Junior girl who wants to save money on peroxide.

We, Helen Weaver and Eleanor Poeltler, leave our part time jobs at the Empire to Irene Roberts, Diane Ossmann, and Judy Starr.

We, Fred Cramer, Dave Yarrow, and Michael Buontempo (the class tubs), leave our overabundance of weight to any undernourished and sickly underclassmen.

I, Ann Barbara Catts, leave the gray hairs, sleepless nights, and fallen arches I have acquired to next year's editor of the Golden C.

I, Nancy McLaughlin, leave to Bob Root my undying love for Red Bank and the people in it.

I, Wally Williamson, leave all my frequent visits to Mr. Sarnowski and Mr. Clement to Bill Fisher.

We, Jean and Joan Blake, will our cluttered date books and boy friends to the underclass girls.

We, "Fritzie" Force, Adair MacDonald, and Lucille Rudolph, leave our engagement club to the underclass girls who wish to start a club of their own and also a collection of rings.

We, the members of the "Fightin' 49ers" football team, leave our appreciation and compliments to Mr. Weekly and his staff for their guidance and faith in us and a victory over Jeff on Thanksgiving Day.

We, the members of the basketball team, leave our shooting ability and high scores to next year's team.

We, Gloria Di Fabio and Antoinette Di Fabio, will our stature to any Senior girl who wants a date with a Freshman.

I, David Hulse, leave my gunboat, namely, the 1928 Pierce Arrow, to anyone who would like to have a car from a by-gone era.

I, Joe Ogonowski, leave my boys from the "Port," and anyone interested in flipping dimes Port style to someone who would like to pick up quick change.

I, Don Buck, leave my sharp pair of dungarees, with the adhesive and all, to the Junior boys who want to dress in the correct style.

I, John Biney, leave my size 14 shoes to anyone who has feet big enough to fill them.

I, Bob Beda, leave my 5 and 10 cent delivery of the Times to any energetic person who wants hard work.

And we, the members of the will committee, Gene Denman, Grace Johnston, and Bob Nicholson, will . . . now check out.

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Cranford High School has been made "Headquarters" of the Junior Red Cross of Cranford, Kenilworth and Garwood. Our sponsor, Miss Abrams, was elected chairman of the Red Cross Activities in schools in all three towns. Due to the interest and cooperation of the students regarding donations and contributions an enviable record was made.

ENTRE NOUS

From making gay Parisian hats, worn at the annual initiation, to seeing French life in New York, this year has been active for Entre Nous. The members have enjoyed an early breakfast at Echo Lake Park, a gala evening at the dance with the Spanish Club, the King's Day celebration, and the interesting evening with Mrs. McClellan just back from Paris. The club sent Christmas packages to France and with the Mask and Bauble presented the Christmas Play. A Mardi Gras and the trip to New York topped off the year's activities.

LA TERTULIA

The Spanish Club, under the sponsorship of Anthony Terregino, is designed to create for the Spanish student an interest in Spanish-speaking countries, their language, literature and life, as well as to further the student's language abilities.

The club has had an enjoyable and profitable year. Activities included learning Spanish folk dances, seeing movies, and listening to lectures. A field trip and the Spanish-French Club dance highlighted the year.

Membership is open to any second-year student.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club, one of the oldest groups in the school, has planned many activities for this year, including the annual party. The club is also organizing a chess team, which will play teams from other schools. The dues are spent mainly for new equipment which is used by the members at the bi-weekly meetings.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club members have gained valuable experience through an unusually active program this year. Its members have covered the activities of the Cranford schools for the local papers, sponsored a club of seventh and eighth grade pupils, and taken snapshots for the Golden C. Monthly competitions helped to prepare the members to make a satisfactory showing in the Eleventh Annual Salon co-sponsored with the Cranford Photographic Society.

VISUAL AIDS CLUB

The Visual Aids Club is one of the oldest organizations in C.H.S. Under the able management of Mr. Courtland Daley it has come to be known in every classroom in our school. Although the number of operators is small the amount of work done both in and out of school is great.

ROD AND GUN CLUB

The Rod and Gun Club is a school organization of approximately thirty members dedicated to the conservation and enjoyment of wildlife and the outdoors. Many talks on fishing, hunting, and trapping have been given during meetings throughout the year. In March the club held a fly casting tournament and later in the spring there was a series of fishing trips. Boys from the ninth to twelfth grades are eligible and welcome to join the Rod and Gun Club.

BIOLOGY CLUB

There is a club in C.H.S. that you should keep your eye on, the Biology Club. In its second year, its membership has jumped from seventeen to sixty; the second largest club in the school. Activity number one is field trips. The Club has already visited Merck's lab in Rahway and the Museum of Natural History in New York.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

THE G.A.A. COUNCIL

Under the inspiring leadership of Miss Jean Voorhees and Miss Catherine Liotta, the Girls' Athletic Association, more commonly known as the G.A.A., enjoyed an active, interesting year. The Council, which is the foundation of the organization, consists of the president, Ann Barbara Catts; vice-president, Grace Johnston; secretary, Dorothy Rader; treasurer, Mary Elizabeth Coffee, and five members from each of the four classes. Within this structure, activities are arranged for the club's numerous members.

Beginning the season with the annual hockey intramural tournament, the girls suffered many bruises in order to play one of the most interesting sports. The weather did not permit the final play-offs and consequently the championship was not determined.

A more successful season followed, when the volley ball net made its grand appearance. The senior team enjoyed a glorious victory in a closely contested match.

Proving to be one of the most popular activities, basketball interested many G.A.A. members again this year. A newly adopted rule in Girls' basketball, allowing two bounces instead of the previous one bounce, made the game faster and more exciting.

The Cranford High School G.A.A. was invited to participate in the All State Hockey Tournament. After a preliminary playing session, Catherine Ryan and Marilyn Smid were selected to play on the All State hockey team. Inter-scholastic playdays were held with Rahway, Roselle, Regional and Scotch Plains at which field hockey and basketball were played in their respective seasons.

During the Christmas vacation, the annual alumni playday was given. A large number of graduates attended the meeting, but because the G.A.A. was not sufficiently represented, the traditional playday has been indefinitely postponed.

The girls have participated not only in hockey, volleyball, and basketball, but also in badminton, archery, tennis and baseball. The Girls' Athletic Association is an organization which presents the opportunity for girls who are interested in intramural sports to exercise their athletic desires. It is a club whose membership is open to girls in the senior high school, and each year the four classes are largely represented.

CHEERLEADERS

T-E-A-M was a popular cheer heard during both the football and basketball seasons. Hoping to cheer the teams to victory, the cheerleading squad faithfully followed both sports. The nine members of the 1948-49 squad were:

Marilyn Searle, captain; Harriet Apgar, Beverly Lissenden, Virginia Kiani, Susan Clement, Barbara Sudimack, Mary Lib Coffee, Matilda Juracek and Patricia Van Duyn.

The Cranford High School cross country team coached by Anthony Terregino had an impressive season last year with two wins and one setback in dual meets. Frevert and Forster placed 1st and 2nd respectively in the county meet with Cranford being nosed out by the narrow margin of one point by Westfield for the championship. With only one letter man returning next year the team will face a rebuilding problem.

Don

The Blue and Gold of Cranford in 1948 was light as compared to their opponents and, therefore, the squad had to use its speed as its potent factor of play. Cranford's first encounter was a strong Linden team who fought toe-to-toe with Cranford and was beaten by a single touchdown in the first quarter. Strong defensive play on the Blue and Gold's part kept Linden from pay dirt.

Playing North Plainfield on our own gridiron, the Weekleymen staged a 0-0 tie over a favored North Plainfield squad. After a series of several losses to overpowering teams, Cranford turned back a spunky Roselle squad 16-14 for their second win of the season. Key blocking and running of Cranford's attack paved the way for victory.

A determined Cranford eleven pressed hard for victory at Thomas Jefferson on the traditional Thanksgiving meeting and surprised the strong Jeff team by drawing a 7-6 win over them.

Fourteen seniors are leaving this year, namely, Christian, Kelly, Allen, Yarrow, Kaye, Fricke, Coles, Hearn, Glover, Denman, Nicholson, Brendel, Bartholomew and Halford.

We all want to wish the 1949 team a successful season.

BASKETBALL

*Don't talk
Take good care of the
Take good care of the
Take good care of the*

The basketball team of 1949 was one of the shortest to be seen on a basketball court. Built around four returning lettermen, namely Bilney, Byrnes, Buck and Burnett, the Blue and Gold dropped many a close decision due to their lack of height. Their uncanny ability to shoot accurately was said to be equal to that of the strong Thomas Jefferson squad.

Fighting behind their coach, Paul Selby, the Cranford cagers battled desperately to achieve a successful team. Although the record does not show it, Cranford had one of the most spirited teams in the school's long history. Credit is certainly due to our Coach who fought to win despite opposition from all sides.

The future looks brighter, for next year's squad has height plus shooting ability equal to that of the four B's, who all hit over one hundred points during the regular season. The team should turn in quite a creditable record. Though the seniors of this year had their hearts set on a good season, they feel extremely satisfied in knowing that only the lack of height held them back. Good luck to the 1950 team.

OUTDOOR TRACK

*lots of luck

The coming year has many bright aspects for our track team. The 1949 men are determined to attain the County Relay Championship which has been missed only by narrow margins in the past.

With emphasis on distance running, the team will try to repeat their undefeated dual meet season of 1948. With top-notch runners like Bob Frevert, Russ Forster, Fred Allen and Eugene Woehr, Cranford can't miss. Good luck!

Indoor Track, although a fairly new sport in Cranford, has come home with numerous trophies for its various accomplishments.

This past year, the squad successfully defended its Group II Indoor Relay Championship in addition to winning sixteen plaques. The squad attended the St. Peter's College High School meet, the State, Newark C.Y.O. and the Hudson County C.Y.O. meets.

We owe our thanks to Coach Anthony Terregino who ably produced an outstanding team.

HOCKEY

The Cranford High Ice Hockey Team, supervised by Courtland J. Daley, played a six game schedule this year. Fairly mild weather in September prevented the team from extending its schedule and getting in the proper amount of practice.

The group dropped two of its encounters to the fast moving teams of Peddie and Lawrenceville. Cranford's pucksters, playing four of their games at Hobey Baker Rink in Princeton, beat Nutley and tied them once.

With this year's team made up almost entirely of juniors, the outlook for next year is very good.

Cranford in 1948 fielded a surprise team which developed under its coach, Paul Buonaguro. The team was slow in starting, losing its first three games, but finally hit their stride with an extra inning win over Plainfield 5-4. From then on they compiled an impressive record of five wins, seven losses, to end the season with six wins and ten losses.

For his excellent work in handling the team, Coach Buonaguro received honorable mention for Coach of the Year, an honor he well deserved.

This year the team will be captained by Lyle Burnett who succeeds Wesley Wehrenberg and Martin Scanlon, co-captains in 1948. With a tentative eighteen game schedule for 1949, Cranford is looking forward to a successful season.
