The Mystery of a Hansom Cab

By PERGUS W. HUME.

CHAPTER XXIV.—CONTINUED.

If there is any strong reason why it should be kept silent, I, perhaps, will come round to your view, and let the matter drop; but if I have to find it out myself, the murderer of Oliver Whyte need expect no mercy at my hands. So think over what I have said. If I do not hear from you within the next week I will regard your decision as final, and pursue the search myself.

"I am sure, my dear Fitzgerald, you will find this letter too long, in spite of the interesting story it contains, so I will have pity on you and draw to a close. Remember me to Miss Frettlby and to her father. With kind regards to yourself, I rem in, yours very truly. DUNCAN CALTON."

When Fitzgerald had finished the last of the closely written sheets, he let the letter fall from his hands, and, leaning back in his chair, stared into the dawning light outside with a haggard face. He arose after a few moments, and, pouring himself out a glass of brandy, drank it feverishly. Then mechanically lighting a cigar, he stepped out of the door into the fresh beauty of the dawn. There was a soft crimson glow in the east, which announced the approach of the sun, and he could hear the chirping of the awakening birds in the trees. But Brian did not see the marvelous breaking of the dawn, but stood staring at the red light flaring in the east, and thinking of Calton's letter.

"I can do no more," he said bitterly, leaning his head against the wall of the house. "There is only one way of stopping Calton, and that is by telling him all. My poor Madge! My poor Madge!"

A soft wind blew, and rustled among the trees, and there appeared great shafts of crimson light in the east; then, with a sudden blaze, the sun peered over the brim of the wide plain. The warm yellow rays touched lightly the comely head of the weary man, and, turning round, he held up his arms to the great luminary, as though he were a fire worshiper.

"I accept the omen of the dawn," he cried, "for her life and for mine."

CHAPTER XXV.

WHAT DR. CHINSTON SAID.

His resolution taken, Brian did not let the grass grow under his feet, but rode over in the afternoon to tell Madge of his intended departure.

The servant told him she was in the garden, so he went there, and, guided by the sound of merry voices, and the silvery laughter of pretty women, soon found his way to the lawn tennis ground. Madge and her guests were all there, seated under the shade of a great witch elm, and watching, with great interest, a single handed match being played between Rolleston and Paterson, both of whom were capital players. Mr. Frettlby was not present, as he was inside writing letters, and talking with old Mr. Valpy, and Brian gave a sigh of relief as he noted his absence. Madge caught sight of him as he came down the garden path, and flew quickly toward him with outstretched hands, as he took his hat off.

"How good of you to come," she said, in a delighted tone, as she took his arm, and they sauntered slowly toward the house. Brian told her of his approaching departure, but not his reasons for going.

"I got a letter last night," he said, turning his face away from her; "and, as it's about some important business, I must start at once."

"I don't think it will be long before we follow," answered Madge, thoughtfully. "Papa leaves here at the end of the week."

"Why?"

"I'm sure I don't know," said Madge, petulantly; "he is so restless, and never seems to settle down to anything. He says for the rest of his life he is going to do nothing but wander all over the world."

There suddenly flashed across Fitzgerald's mind a line from Genesis, which seemed singularly applicable to Mr. Frettlby—"A fugitive and a vagabond thou shalt be in the earth."

"Everyone gets these restless fits sooner or later," he said, idly. "In fact," with an uneasy laugh, "I believe I'm in one myself."

"That puts me in mind of what I heard Dr. Chinston say yesterday," she said. "This is the age of unrest, as electricity and steam have turned us all into Bohemians."

"Ah! Bohemia is a pleasant place," said Brian absently, unconsciously quoting Thackeray, "but we all lose our way to it late in life."

"At that rate we won't lose our way to it for some time," she said laughing, as they stepped into the drawing room, so cool and shady, after the heat and glare outside.

As they entered Mr. Frettlby arose out of a chair near the window, and appeared to have been reading, as he held a book in his hand.

"What! Fitzgerald," he exclaimed in a hearty tone, as he held out his hand; "I am glad to see you."

"I let you know I am living, don't I?" replied Brian, his fair face flushing as he reluctantly took the proffered hand. "But the fact is I have come to say good-by for a few days."

"Ah! going back to town, I suppose," said Mr. Frettlby, lying back in his chair and playing with his watch chain. "I don't know that you are wise, exchanging the clear air of the country for the dusty atmosphere of Melbourne."

"Yet Madge tells me you are going back," said Brian, idly toying with a vase of flowers on the table.

"Depends upon circumstances," replied Midas carelessly. "I may and I may not. You go on business, I presume?"

"Well, the fact is, Calton"—— Here Brian stopped suddenly, and bit his lip with vexation, for he had not intended to mention the lawyer's name.

"Yes?" said Mr. Frettlby interrogatively, sitting up quickly, and looking keenly at Brian.

"Wants to see me about business," he finished awkwardly.

"Connected with the sale of your station, I suppose," said Frettlby, still keeping his eyes on the young man's face. "Can't have a better man. Calton's an excellent man of business."

"A little too excellent," replied Fitzgerald, ruefully; "he's a man that can't leave well enough alone."

"Apropos of what?"

"Oh, nothing," answered Fitzgerald, hastily, and just then his eyes met those of Frettlby. The two men looked at one another steadily for a moment, but in that short space of time a single name flashed through their brains; that name was Rosanna Moore. Mr. Frettlby was the first to lower his eyes and break the magnetism.

"Ah, well," he said lightly, as he rose from his chair and held out his hand, "if you are two weeks in town call at St. Kilda, and it's more than likely you will find us there."

Brian shook hands in silence and watched him pick up his hat and move on to the verandah, and then out into the hot sunshine.

"He knows," he muttered involuntarily.

"Knows what, sir?" said Madge, who came silently behind him, and slipped her arm through his. "That you are hungry, and want something to eat before you leave us?"

"I don't feel hungry," said Brian, as they walked toward the door.

"Nonsense," answered Madge, merrily, who, like Eve, was on hospitable thoughts intent. "I'm not going to have you appear in Melbourne a pale, fond lover, as though I were treating you badly. Come, sir—no," she continued, putting up her hand as he tried to kiss her, "business first, pleasure afterward," and they went into the dining room laughing.

Mark Frettlby wandered down to the lawn tennis ground, thinking of the look he had seen in Brian's eyes. He shivered for a moment in the hot sunshine, as though it had grown suddenly chill.

"Some one stepping across my grave," he murmured to himself, with a cynical smile. "Hah! how superstitious I am; and yet—he knows, he knows!"

"Come on, sir," cried Felix, who had just caught sight of him, "a racket awaits you."

Frettlby woke with a start, and found himself near the lawn tennis ground, and Felix at his elbow, smoking a cigarette.

Frettlby woke with a start.

He roused himself with a great effort and tapped the young man lightly on the shoulder.

"What!" he said with a forced laugh, "do you really expect me to play lawn tennis on such a day? You are mad."

"I am hot, you mean," retorted the imperturbable Rolleston, blowing a wreath of smoke.

"That's a foregone conclusion," said Dr. Chinston, who came up at that moment.

"Such a charming novel," cried Julia, who had just caught the last remark.

"What is?" asked Paterson, rather puzzled.

"Howells' book, 'A Foregone Conclusion,'" said Julia, also looking puzzled. "Weren't you talking about him?"

"I'm afraid this talk is getting slightly incoherent," said Felix, with a sigh. "We all seem madder than usual today."

"Speak for yourself," said Chinston, indignantly; "I'm as sane as any man in the world."

"Exactly," retorted the other, coolly, "that's what I say, and you, being a doctor, ought to know that every man and woman in the world is more or less mad."

"Where are your facts?" asked Chinston, smiling.

"My facts are all visible ones," said, Felix, gravely pointing to the company. "They're all crooked on some point or another."

There was a chorus of indignant denial at this, and then every one burst out laughing at the extraordinary way in which Mr. Rolleston was arguing.

"If you go on like that in the house," said Frettlby, amused, "you will, at all events, have an entertaining parliament."

"Ah! they'll never have an entertaining parliament till they admit ladies," observed Paterson, with a quizzical glance at Julia.

"It will be a parliament of love then," retorted the doctor, dryly, "and not medieval either."

While every one was laughing at this remark, Frettlby took the doctor's arm and walked away with him. "I want you to come up to my study, doctor," he said, as they strolled toward the house, "and examine me."

"Why, don't you feel well?" said Chinston, as they entered the house.

"Not lately," replied Frettlby. "I'm afraid I've got heart disease."

The doctor looked sharply at him, and then shook his head.

"Nonsense," he said, cheerfully, "it's a common delusion with people that they have heart disease, and in nine cases out of ten it's all imagination; unless, indeed," he added, waggishly, "the patient happens to be a young man."

"Ah! I suppose you think I'm safe as far as that goes," said Frettlby, as they entered the study; "and what did you think of Rolleston's argument about people being mad?"

"It was amusing," replied Chinston, taking a seat, Frettlby doing the same. "That's all I say can about it. Though, mind you, I think there are more mad people at large than the world is aware of."

"Indeed!"

"Yes; do you remember that horrible story of Dickens', in the 'Pickwick Papers,' about the man who was mad, and knew it, yet successfully concealed the fact? Well, I believe there are many people like that in the world, people whose lives are one long struggle against insanity, and yet who eat, drink, talk and walk with the rest of their fellow men, evidently as gay and light hearted as they are."

"How extraordinary."

"Half the murders and suicides are done in temporary fits of insanity," went on Chinston, "and if a person broods over anything, his incipient madness is sure to break out sooner or later; but, of course, there are cases where a perfectly sane person may commit a murder on the impulse of the moment, but I regard such persons as mad for the time being; but, again, a murder may be planned and executed in the most cold blooded manner."

"And in the latter case," said Frettlby, without looking at the doctor, and playing with the paper knife, "do you regard the murderer as mad?"

"Yes, I do," answered the doctor, bluntly. "He is as mad as a person who kills another because he supposes he has been told by God to do so—only there is method in his madness. For instance, I believe that hansom cab murder, in which you were mixed up"—

"D—it, sir! I wasn't mixed up in it," interrupted Frettlby, pale with anger.

"Beg pardon," said Chinston, coolly, "a slip of the tongue; I was thinking of Fitzgerald. Well, I believe that crime to have been premeditated, and that the man who committed it was mad. He is, no doubt, at large now, walking about and conducting himself as sanely as you or I, yet the germ of insanity is there, and sooner or later he will commit another crime."

"How do you know it was premeditated?" asked Frettlby, abruptly.

"Any one can see that," answered the other. "Whyte was watched on that night, and when Fitzgerald went away the other was ready to take his place, dressed the same."

"That's nothing," retorted Frettlby, looking at his companion sharply. "There are dozens of men in Melbourne who wear evening dress, light coats and soft hats—in fact, I generally wear them myself."

"Well, that might have been a coincidence," said the doctor, rather disconcerted; "but the use of chloroform puts the question beyond a doubt; people don't usually carry chloroform about with them."

"I suppose not," answered the other, and then the matter dropped. Chinston made an examination of Mark Frettlby, and when he had finished his face was very grave, though he laughed at the millionaire's fears.

"You're all right, he said, gayly. "Action of the heart a little weak, that's all—only," impressively, "avoid excitement—avoid exhitement."

Just as Frettlby was putting on his coat a knock came to the door and Madge entered.

"Brian is gone," she began. "Oh, I beg your pardon, doctor, but is papa ill?" she asked with sudden fear.

"No, child, no," said Frettlby, hastily, "I am all right; I thought my heart was affected, but it isn't."

"Not a bit of it," answered Chinston, reassuring. "All right, only avoid excitement."

But, when Frettlby turned to go to the door Madge, who had her eyes fixed on the doctor's face, saw how grave it was.

"There is danger," she said, touching his arm as they passed for a moment at the door.

"No, no!" he answered hastily.

"Yes, there is," she persisted. "Tell me the worst; it is best for me to know."

The doctor looked at her in some doubt for a few moments and then placed his hands on her shoulder.

"My dear young lady," he said gravely, "I will tell you what I have not dared to tell your father."

"What!" she asked in a low voice, her face growing pale.

"His heart is affected."

"And there is great danger."

"Yes, great danger. In the event of any sudden shock"—— He hesitated.

"Yes?"——

"He would probably drop down dead."

"My God!"

CHAPTER XXVI.

KILSIP HAS A THEORY OF HIS OWN.

Mr. Calton sat in his office reading a letter he had just received from Fitzgerald, and it seemed to give him great satisfaction, judging from the complacent smile on his face. "I know," wrote Brian, "that now you have taken up the affair, you will not stop until you find everything out, so, as I want the matter to rest as at present, I will anticipate you, and reveal all. You were right in your conjecture that I knew something likely to lead to the detection of Whyte's murderer; but when I tell you my reasons for keeping such a thing secret, I am sure you will not blame me. Mind you, I do not say that I know who committed the murder; but I have suspicions—very strong suspicions—and I wish to God Rosanna Moore had died before she told me what she did. However, I will tell you all, and leave you to judge as to whether I was justified in concealing what I was told. I will call at your office some time next week, and then you will know everything that Rosanna Moore told me; but once that you are possessed of the knowledge you will pity me."

"Most extraordinary," mused Calton, leaning back in his chair, as he laid down the letter. "I wonder if he's going to tell me that he killed Whyte after all, and that Sal Rawlins perjured herself to save him! No, that's nonsense or she'd have turned up in better time, and wouldn't have risked his neck up to the last moment. Though I make it a rule never to be surprised at anything, I expect what Brian Fitzgerald tells me will startle me considerably. I've never met with such an extraordinary case, and from all appearances the end isn't reached yet. After all," said Mr. Calton, chuckling, "I'm still in the bottom of this yet. All right, I'll be here at 8 o'clock."

"Very well, sir," and the detective glided out.

"I wonder if that old hag knows anything," said Calton to himself, as he resumed his seat. "She might have overheard some conversation between Whyte and his mistress, and is going to split. Well, I'm afraid when Fitzgerald does confess I will know all about it beforehand."

CHAPTER XXVII.

MOTHER GUTTERSNIPE JOINS THE MAJORITY.

Punctual to his appointment, Kilsip called at Calton's office at 8 o'clock, in order to guide him through the squalid labyrinths of the slums, and found the barrister waiting impatiently for him.

They went into Little Bourke street, and after going through the narrow lanes and alleys, which now seemed quite familiar to Calton, reached Mother Guttersnipe's den, for in truth it could be called nothing else. After climbing the rickety stairs, which groaned and creaked beneath their weight, they entered the room, and found Mother Guttersnipe dying on the bed in the corner, and the elfish child with the black hair playing cards with a slatternly looking girl at the table by the faint light of a tallow candle. They both sprang to their feet as the strangers entered, and the elfish child pushed a broken chair in a sullen manner toward Mr. Calton, while the other girl shuffled into a far corner of the room, and crouched down there like a dog. The noise of their entry woke the lag from an uneasy slumber into which she had fallen, and sitting up in bed, she nodded the clothes round her, and uttered such a grevious spectacle that Calton involuntarily recoiled. Her white hair was all unbound, and hung in tangled masses over her shoulder in snowy profusion. Her face

LAWS OF NEW JERSEY.

[BY AUTHORITY.]

CHAPTER CCLXXIX.

An Act concerning unclaimed deposits in savings banks.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all savings banks of this state shall include in their annual reports now required by law a sworn statement containing the name, the amount standing to his, her or their credit, the last known place of residence or post-office address and the fact of death, if known, of every depositor who shall not have made a deposit therein or withdrawn therefrom any part of his, her or their deposit or deposits, or any part of the interest thereon, for a period of ten or more years next preceding, when the amount exceeds the sum of fifty dollars; and the officers of such savings bank shall give notice of these deposits in one or more newspapers published in or nearest to the city or town where such banks are located, at least once a week for three weeks in succession during the month of February for two years.

2. And be it enacted, That the secretary of state shall incorporate in his annual report each return which shall have been made to him as provided in section one.

3. And be it enacted, That the officers of any savings bank neglecting or refusing to make the sworn return required by section one of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXX.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning savings banks" [Revision], approved April twenty-first, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the section one of the supplement to the act to which this act is a supplement, which said supplement was approved April tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five, be amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the governing board of every savings bank in any city of this state having a population of one hundred thousand, whether such bank be organized by general or special statute, shall, at each annual election of said board hereafter held, provide for the election of a depositors' committee of three, said election to be held at two weeks after said annual meeting, upon not less than one week's public notice thereof, in not less than two newspapers circulating in such city, which notice shall designate the time and place of said election; and the necessary expense of said election shall be paid by said governing board, and shall be charged to expense account; and said governing board shall at each annual meeting, appoint a board of inspectors, who shall be not less than four, two of whom at least, shall be depositors, outside of the board of managers: the poll for said election shall be opened from four until seven o'clock post meridian on the day of said election, and any person producing a book showing a deposit in said bank shall be entitled to vote at said election, either in person or as proxy; the three depositors receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected. Inspectors conducting the election shall certify the result, under oath, to the board of managers appointing them, and the depositors' committee so elected shall be notified by five days' notice, in writing, of such examination made by the managers, or any committee of the managers of said bank, of the fact that the examination is about to commence, and requesting them to be present thereat.

2. And be it enacted, That the by-laws of the board of managers of any savings bank in this state may fix the number that shall constitute a quorum of the board for the transaction of business; provided, that said number so fixed shall not be less than a majority of the whole board.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 6, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXI.

A Supplement to an act concerning roads [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever the legal voters in any of the townships of this state at their annual township meeting shall fail or neglect, for any cause whatever, to raise any sum of money for improving the public roads, and for defraying the costs, charges and expenses of opening, clearing out, making, working, amending repairing and keeping in good order the highways, and procuring material for the same, and also the compensation allowed for the services of the overseer thereof, then it shall be lawful for the said overseers, in each such road district, to give notice of an election to be held at any time before the first day of May next ensuing, for that purpose, and shall set up at least two notices in writing in two of the most public places in each road district, stating the time and place of such election, which shall be between the hours of two and eight o'clock post meridian, five days before the day fixed for such election, and also stating the object and purpose of such election.

2. And be it enacted, That at the election provided for in the last preceding section the legal voters then and there assembled may determine, by the votes of two-thirds of all the voters voting at such election, the sum of money to be expended within such district for the purpose of keeping the roads of such district in repair during the ensuing year; and the sum of money so fixed shall be in lieu of all other road taxes in such district, and may be used as hereinafter provided.

3. And be it enacted, That within five days after such election the overseer shall give notice to the assessor of the township of the sum so fixed, who shall assess the sum upon the taxable property within such district; and the same shall be collected as other road taxes are collected, and paid over to the overseer of such road district for the purposes provided for in this act; and for the assessing and collecting of such tax, the assessor and collector shall each be entitled to receive out of the money so assessed and collected, the sum of five cents for each and every name appearing on the assessor's duplicate of such assessment.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the overseers of the highways of the various districts to use broken stone, as well as gravel and other materials heretofore provided for by law, in forming or repairing the roads in their respective districts.

5. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act concerning roads" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That hereafter in all townships of this state, where the overseer of any road district is now authorized by law to call a public meeting of the legal voters of said road district to be held therein, for the purpose of having the legal voters so convened, or a majority of them, to vote and raise, over and above the regular tax for the improvement and repair of public roads, such sum or sums of money in such district as they may determine, for the purpose of making and repairing the roads, streets, highways and avenues in such district; it shall also be lawful at such meeting of said voters so convened, or a majority of them, to determine what, if any, amounts shall be raised for the purpose of maintaining and repairing such sidewalks as may have been laid therein, in addition to the tax for the repair of the roads as aforesaid; which tax shall be assessed and levied against and collected from the inhabitants of such road district by the same means and at the same time and in the same manner as the township taxes are assessed, levied and collected, and when collected shall be paid by the town collector to the overseers of the various road districts of said township, for the time being, for the use of such road districts.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 9, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXIII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to secure to creditors an equal and division of estates of debtors who convey to assignees for the benefit of creditors" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That at any time within two years from the making of any assignment heretofore made, it shall be lawful for the assignee or assignees, or any creditor or other person interested, by himself or attorney, to appear at any term of the orphans, court of the county wherein such proceedings shall have been had or hereafter to be had and to file exceptions to the claim or demand of any creditor, or to the final account of the assignee or assignees; and where fraud or any irregularity is shown, the said orphans' court shall cause a notice to be served on said creditor or assignee or assignees, said notice to be served in such manner and made as the said court shall direct, and thereupon the said orphans' court shall have full and complete jurisdiction to hear and determine the same.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed and this act be deemed a public act and take effect immediately.

Approved April 12, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXIV.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the orphans' court and relating to the powers and duties of the ordinary and the orphans' courts and surrogates" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the orphans' court may certify any question of fact into the circuit court of the same county for trial before a jury, and upon filing the certificate in the circuit court, such proceedings shall be had thereupon as are provided for in the trial of questions involved in the probate of wills before a jury.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 14, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to secure to mechanics and others payment for their labor and materials in erecting any building" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section 13 of the above act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

13. And be it enacted, That no act shall be a lien by virtue of this act, unless a claim is filed, as hereinbefore provided, within one year from the furnishing the materials or performing the labor for which such debt is due, and such part of any claim filed as may be for work or materials furnished more than one year before the filing of the same, shall not be recovered against the building or land by virtue of this act, nor shall any lien be enforced by virtue of this act unless the summons in the suit for that purpose shall be issued within one year from the date of the last work done or materials furnished in such claim; and the time of issuing such summons shall be indorsed on the claim by the clerk, upon the sealing thereof; and if no such entry be made within one year from such date, or if such claimant shall fail to prosecute his claim diligently within three years from the date of the issuing of such summons, such lien shall be discharged; provided, that the time in which such lien may be enforced by summons may be extended for any further period not exceeding one year, by a written agreement for that purpose, signed by said lien owner and such claimant, and annexed to said claim on file before such time herein limited therefor shall have expired, in which case the county clerk shall enter the word "extended" on the margin of the lien docket opposite such claim; and any claimant upon receiving written notice from the owner of the land or buildings, requiring him to commence suit on such claim within thirty days from the receipt of such notice, shall only enforce such lien by suit to be commenced within said thirty days.

2. And it be enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 16, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVI.

An Act to amend an act entitled "An act relative to the jurisdiction and practice of district courts in this state," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section 16 of above act be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

6. And be it enacted, That each of the judges of the several district courts of this state shall have the powers, jurisdictions and authority, upon petition for discovery in aid of the execution upon the return of any execution unsatisfied in whole or part into any of said district courts, to order the judgment debtor to appear before the court, or one of the supreme court commissioners of this state, and make discovery on oath concerning his property or things in action before said judge or commissioner, and upon the taking of the testimony by said judge or the certification by the commissioners of the testimony taken by him under the order, to appoint a receiver of the property and things in action belonging, or due to, or held in trust for such debtor at the time of issuing the execution, or at any time afterward, as is now vested in or exercised by any of the judges of the inferior courts of common pleas of this state; and such receiver, when appointed, shall have like power, authorities and duties as receivers appointed under similar proceedings by any of said judges of the inferior courts of common pleas, except that the judges may make such order when the amount due on such judgment, including costs, shall be twenty-five dollars or more: provided, however, that no receiver appointed by any of the district court judges shall become vested with the title to or have the power to demand and receive any of the real property of any such judgment debtor.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 16, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act regulating lettings in cases where no definite term is fixed," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the act entitled "An act regulating lettings in cases where no definite term is fixed," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

That in any letting where no term is agreed upon and the rent is payable monthly, so long as the tenant pays his rent as agreed, it shall be unlawful for the landlord to dispossess the tenant before the first day of April succeeding the commencemnnt of such letting, without giving the tenant three months' notice in writing to quit; provided, however, that in case any such tenant shall be so disorderly as to destroy the peace and quiet of the other tenants living in said house or the neighborhood, or shall willfully destroy, damage or injure the premises, or shall constantly violate the said landlord's rules and regulations governing said premises, and a copy of which regulations said landlord has caused to be conspicuously posted on said premises; in any such case the said landlord may cause a written notice of the termination of such tenancy to be served upon said tenant and a demand that said tenant remove from the premises so occupied by him, within three days from the services of such notice, and in case said tenant shall not so remove, it shall be lawful for said landlord or his agent, after the expiration of said three days, to make and file with any justice of the peace, an affidavit setting forth either or any of the causes for removal above set forth and of the service of such notice, and thereupon it shall be lawful for such justice to issue his summons in ejectment such as now provided under the act entitled "An act concerning landlords and tenants," for the summary removal of tenants holding over after the expiration of his or her term, and on proof before said justice, on the return of said summons, of any one of the causes for removal aforesaid, it shall be lawful for said justice to give judgment for said landlord and issue his warrant for such removal and take such other proceedings as is now provided by law for summary removal of tenant.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 16, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXVIII.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act respecting the court of chancery" [Revision], approved, March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section fifty-seven of an act entitled "An act respecting the court of chancery" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

57. And be it enacted, That neither the filing of a bill of chancery nor any proceedings had, or to be had thereon, before a final decree, shall be deemed or taken to be constructive notice to any bona fide purchaser or mortgagee of any lands or real estate to be effected thereby, until the complainant in such bill, or his solicitor, shall have first filed in the office of the clerk of the court of common pleas of the county in which such lands or real estate lie, a written notice of the pendency of such suit, setting forth the title of the cause and the general object thereof, together with a description of the lands or real estate effected thereby; provided, that nothing in this section contained shall be construed or taken to apply to any bill filed, or to be filed, for the satisfaction or foreclosure of any duly registered or recorded mortgage; and provided further, that in case the complainant named in such bill do not take steps to prosecute the suit diligently within three years after the filing of such written notice of the pendency of such suit, then the chancellor may, upon application to him by any interested party, and upon notice to the complainant or his solicitor, declare the filing of such notice to be null and void and of no effect.

Approved April 13, 1888.

CHAPTER CCLXXXIX.

An Act to authorize incorporated towns to construct sewers and drains, and to provide for the payment of the cost thereof.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the state of New Jersey, That it shall be lawful for the common council of any incorporated town in this state, to order and cause sewers or drains to be constructed in any part of such town, and to provide, maintain and order a general system of sewerage and drainage for said town or any part thereof, conformably to which all sewers and drains shall be constructed, and to establish and maintain the proper outlets or places of deposit, within or without such town, for sewage and drainage, and to provide for the disposal of the sewage and drainage from the town, and to repair and cleanse such sewers and drains.

2. And be it enacted, That whenever a petition in writing of any owners of property interested shall be presented to the common council of the said incorporated town, asking for the construction of a sewer or drain in any particular section of said town, it shall be lawful for the common council to adopt a resolution declaring its intention to cause such sewer or drain to be constructed, and the said common council shall forthwith cause public notice of such intention to be given by the town clerk, or other designated officer, in a newspaper printed or circulated in said town, for the space of ten dayr, briefly describing the proposed work and requesting such persons as may object thereto to present their objections in writing at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of such notice, to the officer signing the same; and if persons owning or representing more than one half of the lineal frontage of the land along any street, or of the portion thereof through which it is proposed to construct any lateral sewer or drain, shall present their objections in writing, then all further proceedings shall cease; but otherwise after the expiration of the said ten days it shall be lawful for such common council to adopt any ordinance for the construction of such sewer or drain, to award contracts for the same, or for any part or section or portion thereof, and to take all necessary steps for properly carrying into effect the desired improvement:

11. If in the judgment of the said common council the construction of such sewer or drain is likely to benefit and increase the value of any lands and real estate in the vicinity thereof, the said common council is authorized to treat with the owners of said lands and agree with them as to the value of the said benefits, and the compensation to be paid therefor by such owners; and in case of a satisfactory agreement being made between any of the owners of lands likely to be benefited and the said common council, the same shall be in writing, signed by the said owner or owners, and entered upon the minutes of the said common council, and the amount agreed upon as a compensation for the benefits to be derived from said sewer or drain shall be paid by such owner or owners so agreeing, on or before the completion of said sewer or drain:

III. That in case no agreement can be made for such purpose, the said common council shall apply to the circuit court of the county wherein the said town is situate, or to one of the judges of the supreme court of New Jersey, at his chambers, for the appointment of commissioners to estimate and assess such benefits, of the time and place of which application written notice shall be given by personal service of a copy thereof upon the said owner or owners, or by leaving a copy at his or their usual place of residence with a member of his family, or, in case said owner shall be a corporation, by serving a copy of the said notice upon the president, secretary, or one of the directors thereof, at which time and place the said court and judge shall, without unnecessary delay, appoint three commissioners, who shall be freeholders and residents of the town making the application, to estimate and assess the said benefits; the said court shall have power to remove any commissioner and appoint another in his place, and also to fill any vacancy that may occur in the office of any commissioner from any cause;

IV. That the said commissioners, before entering upon the execution of the duties required of them by this act, shall take and subscribe before some person authorized to administer the same, an oath or affirmation that they will make all estimates and assessments required of them fairly, legally and equitably, according to the best of their skill and understanding, which oath or affirmation shall be attached to the report that they are hereinafter required to make.

V. The said commissioners having thus qualified shall give notice under the direction of the said court or judge of the time and place when and where they will hear any persons in interest who may present themselves to be heard, and at such time and place, and at such other times and places to which they may adjourn for that purpose, the said commissioners shall attend and shall give a public hearing to all such persons in interest who may desire to be heard; the said commissioners shall have the power to examine witnesses under oath, to be administered by any one of them, to enter upon and view any premises that they may deem necessary, and to adjourn from time to time at their discretion, or as directed by said court or judge; they shall use diligent efforts to ascertain the names of the owners of the land and real estate benefited by the construction of such sewer or drain as aforesaid, and shall state the same in the report hereinafter mentioned; but the failure to so ascertain the name of any such owner, or to state the same correctly, or the omission of any such name from the said report, shall not be deemed to invalidate the said assessment nor to be a bar to the collection thereof;

VI. That after having given opportunity as aforesaid for a public hearing of the persons in interest, and having viewed the premises likely in their judgment to be benefited by the construction of such sewer or drain, the said commissioners shall make a report in writing of their estimate and assessment to the said court or judge of the supreme court, accompanied by a survey and map prepared by the town surveyor or engineer, under their direction, showing the lots or parcels of land and real estate materially benefited by such sewer or drain; the said report shall state the estimated cost of the whole work, the portion, if any, assessed upon the town at large, the amounts, if any, assessed by agreement between any owner and common council, designating the lots upon which such assessments were made, and shall give the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner, for each of such lots or parcels of land and real estate; for the said benefits, which assessment shall in each case be in proportion, as near as may be, to the advantage which each of such owners shall be deemed to have acquired by the construction of such sewer or drain; in case the costs and expenses of such work shall exceed the amount of such benefit, the excess thereof shall be paid by the town at large; in no case shall any property or owner thereof be assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from the construction of such sewer or drain;

VII. That upon the coming in of any such report signed by the said commissioners or any two of them, said court or judge shall cause such notice to be given as it shall seem proper of the time and place of hearing any objections that may be made to such assessment, and after hearing any matter that may be alleged against the same, the said court or judge, either by rule or order, shall confirm the said report or shall refer the same to the said commissioners for revision and correction; and the said commissioners having reconsidered the subject-matter thereof, shall return the same corrected and revised, or a new report shall be made by them in the premises, to the said court or judge, without unnecessary delay, and the same, being so returned, shall be confirmed by the court or judge either without alteration or with such amendments and revisions as right and justice shall require; such report, when so confirmed, shall be final and conclusive as well upon the said town as upon the owners of said lands and real estate affected thereby; the said court or judge of the supreme court shall thereupon cause a certified copy of such report as finally adopted, and the accompanying map, to be transmitted to the town clerk of the said town, with a certified copy of the rule or order of the said court confirming the same, which shall be forthwith delivered by the said clerk to the common council of the said town.

VIII. That no certiorari shall be allowed by any court to review any proceedings in relation to such improvement, nor to in any way affect any assessment made by such commissioners, after the lapse of thirty days from the making of the order of the court confirming such assessment; the court shall designate what notice, if any, shall be given of the confirmation of the report of said commissioners;

IX. That all assessments made under the provisions of this act, whether by agreement or otherwise, shall be and remain a first lien upon the lands and real estate assessed, to be enforced, for the satisfaction of any judgment to be obtained therefor, notwithstanding any error or omission in stating the name or names of the owner or owners of any lot or parcel of such land and real estate, to the same extent as taxes and assessments are now a lien under the laws of this state, and shall bear interest at the legal rate; the common council may sue for and recover of each person so assessed the amount of his assessment with interest and costs by an action of contract in the corporate name of said town, in any court of competent jurisdiction, against the person or persons assessed, for so much money laid out and expended by the plaintiff for the use of such person or persons so assessed, and may declare generally and give the special matter in evidence; and if any such person or persons reside out of the state, or if an attachment may be resorted to as in other cases of non-resident debtors, and the said proceedings of the commissioners and the rule or order of said court or judge shall be conclusive evidence against the defendant:

XI. That for his services each commissioner shall receive the sum of five dollars for each day he shall be engaged in the actual performance of the duties herein required of him, to be paid by the town in which the improvement is made.

3. And be it enacted, That whenever it shall be found to be advantageous to any such town to build and construct a part of such sewers, or any of the outlets thereto, through and upon any private lands and property, in order to reach the waters into which the sewage of such town is emptied, then it shall be lawful for said town to acquire the land in fee simple or any lesser estate or right therein; the proceedings for acquiring such property, and estimating and assessing the damages to the owners thereof, by reason of the taking and appropriating the same, to be similar to the proceedings now provided by law for the acquiring of land for the opening of streets in such town.

4. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for each town to expend not more than one per centum of the total valuation of its taxable property in any one year for the purpose of constructing sewers or drains in such town.

5. And be it enacted, That in order to meet the expenses of any such improvement, the common council may borrow the money necessary for the same, temporarily upon the promissory notes of such corporation, or may issue temporary improvement certificates from time to time, as the work progresses, in such form as the common council may prescribe; said notes and certificates shall bear interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum per annum, and shall be payable at the expiration of not more than two years from the date of issue; all receipts from assessments made against property benefited by such improvement shall be paid to the treasurer of the town, and shall be applied to the payment for such improvements; or to the payment of any temporary indebtedness incurred by the town therefor.

6. And be it enacted, that in order to provide for so much of the cost of such improvement as shall be required to be paid by any town, and the notes or certificates of indebtedness issued therefor, it shall and may be lawful for incorporated towns to issue bonds, to run for a period not to exceed twenty years, and to bear interest not exceeding four and one-half per centum per annum, which said bonds shall be styled improvement bonds, shall be issued in such denominations as the common council may determine, and be executed under the corporate seal of said town, and the signatures of the mayor, clerk and chairman of the committee on finance; coupons, signed by the mayor, for every half-year's interest, shall be attached to each bond and numbered to correspond therewith, or the said bonds may be registered, at the option of the holder; they shall be sold for not less than par, and the proceeds thereof shall be used to pay the portion of costs and expenses of said sewers or drains required to be paid by such town as aforesaid, and to take up such part of such temporary notes or certificates as have been given in payment of such costs and expenses; provided, that in order to meet the interest on said bonds, and redeem the same at maturity, it shall be the duty of the common council to order the interest thereon, together with a sinking fund of not less than five per centum of the total amount of said issue to be raised in the annual tax levy.

7. And be it enacted, That it shall be lawful for the common council of any town in which sewers or drains may be constructed under the provisions of this act, to pass ordinances for the government and control of such sewers or drains, to enter into agreements with private persons or corporations for the use of said sewers and drains under such restrictions as said council may impose, to establish a price to be paid for such use, and to collect the same; provided, that all moneys derived from the use of said sewers shall be applied to the payment of the debt incurred in building the same, and the interest thereon.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall not be operative or in effect in any city until the same shall have been accepted by the common council or other governing body therein, by a vote of not less than three-fourths of the members thereof, and be concurred in and approved by the board of finance, control of the finances therein, and receive the approval of the mayor or chief executive officer.

9. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXC.

An Act to authorize the township committees of townships to raise money for certain purposes.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That when, owing to any unusual storm or unforeseen emergency, any township of this state shall heretofore have been or hereafter shall be obliged to incur expense in the opening and clearing out of the roads of any of them of such township, and there are no moneys belonging to such township on hand or available for defraying the expense of such opening and clearing out, it shall be lawful for the township committee of such township to borrow money in anticipation of the collection of a special tax hereby authorized to be levied and collected, for the purpose of defraying the expense of such opening and clearing out, and to give promissory notes or other obligations bearing legal rates of interest for the money so borrowed; and such loans may be made for such time as the township committee shall deem reasonable and prudent, and may be reissued from time to time, until such special tax shall be received by the township collector; and when so received, such tax shall be forthwith set apart and applied to the payment of such loans.

2. And be it enacted, That when the township committee of any township within this state shall have borrowed heretofore, or hereafter shall borrow any money for any of the purposes specified in the first section hereof, then and in that case it shall and may be lawful for such township committee, in its discretion and by a majority vote of the members thereof, to order and cause the sum or sums of money so borrowed to be levied, assessed and collected as a tax upon the real and personal property within such township liable to taxation therein, in the same manner as other taxes within such township are or may be levied, assessed and collected; and the said real and personal property is hereby made liable to the levy, assessment and collection of said tax; which said tax, when so as aforesaid ordered to be assessed, levied and collected, shall be in addition to the amount of other taxes which any such township committee now is or hereafter may be authorized to impose, levy, assess and collect.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXCI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to ascertain the rights of this state and the riparian owners in the lands lying under the waters of the bay of New York and elsewhere in this state,'" approved April eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, which supplement was approved April fifth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the said act be amended so as to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the riparian commissioners may and shall, at the request of shore owners, extend their surveys over the tide waters of this state and prepare maps and have the same filed as now provided by the act to which this is a supplement and the supplements thereto; and to provide the necessary means to pay the expenses incurred by them in this work they may raise and expend for this purpose from the riparian fund, before any portion thereof is transferred to the school fund for permanent investment, a sum not exceeding in the aggregate five per centum of the amount named in the grants made to riparian owners, and they may further retain and disburse from the said fund the necessary sum to pay the salaries of the commissioners and the expenses incurred in the prosecution of their work as now provided by law, rendering their annual report a detailed statement of the amounts so retained and disbursed; provided, that when in any year the grants made by the commissioners shall not amount (after deducting the above specified five per cent.) to a sufficient sum to pay the said salaries and expenses, such deficiency and expenses shall be paid from the state treasury, and be returned thereto by the said commissioners from the proceeds of the first subsequent grants thereafter made.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXCII.

An Act to authorize the enlarging of and the building of extensions to the county courthouse of the public buildings in any of the several counties of this state in certain cases.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in any county of this state, whenever imperative necessity exists for the enlargement of or building of an extension or extensions to the county court house or like county public buildings in order to provide sufficient accommodations and room for the courts and court business, and to afford proper and necessary accommodations for the public officers and offices thereof, as well as for the keeping and preservation of the public records and papers, required by law to be kept and preserved in such county, and through or by reason of inadvertance or neglect, or other cause or reason whatever, moneys are not appropriated and set apart to provide and make the enlargement and build the extension or extensions aforesaid; and the board of chosen freeholders of such county thereof, by resolution, passed by an affirmative vote, concurred in by not less than two-thirds of all the members of such board, declares that such necessity as aforesaid exists, it shall be lawful for such board of chosen freeholders to proceed to provide for and to make and build the enlargement and extension or extensions above mentioned and specified, and the work to be done and the materials therefor required to be furnished under this act shall be done and furnished upon contract, in writing, upon bids heretofore and hereafter advertised for according to law; and provided further that the cost and expense to be incurred for the purpose aforesaid under this act shall not exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That as payment or payments may become or shall fall due under any contract awarded under this act, certificate or certificates of indebtedness may be issued therefor by such board of chosen freeholders, and the same may be made payable at such time as said board may order, not exceeding one year from the date of issue; and such certificates may be made to bear interest at not more than four per centum per annum.

3. And be it enacted, That the sum and sums of money, and the cost and expense which may be incurred under this act, which shall not exceed the said sum of fifty thousand dollars, shall be provided for and levied and raised in the same manner as other county taxes of such county are levied, or to be levied, and raised in and by virtue of the tax levy for county taxes and county purposes, to be made and levied next after the expense or obligations above provided for shall have been incurred, and the same shall be paid within the next fiscal year thereafter out of the moneys to be raised as aforesaid.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts which are inconsistent with this act, be and are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXCIII.

An Act for the preservation of the early records of the supreme court.

Whereas, the records and files of the supreme court from the year one thousand six hundred and eighty-one to one thousand eight hundred and fifty-two embrace many valuable papers relating to partition roads and the early cases of the supreme court, which papers and records have never been arranged, thereby rendering it impossible for the clerk of the court to comply with requests for the examination of said papers; and whereas, by reason of the late fire at the state capitol the records of the supreme court were destroyed and a portion of the contents thereof injured by water, therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the clerk of the supreme court be directed to arrange, label or docket the many valuable papers relating to partition, roads and the early cases of the supreme court, for convenient reference and preservation, and for that purpose he is hereby authorized to provide such books, conveniences and accommodation as may be necessary, and also to employ such more persons for said service, and the expenses of said work shall be paid by the treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller upon approval of the chief justice of the supreme court; provided that the expenses incurred under this act shall not exceed the sum of two thousand dollars.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXCIV.

An Act relating to the consolidation of corporations formed under the act entitled "An act concerning corporations" approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and the acts amending and supplementing the same, for the purposes of the improvement and sale of lands, the construction, maintaidance and operation of hotels and carrying on the business of an inn-keeper and the transportation of goods, merchandise or passengers upon land or water.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall and may be lawful for any corporation or corporations of this state, formed under the provisions of an act entitled "An act concerning corporations," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and the acts supplementing and amending the same, for all or any of the following purposes: the improvement and sale of lands, the construction, maintenance and operation of hotels and carrying on the business of an inn-keeper, and the transportation of goods, merchandise or passengers upon land or water, having their principal office in, or carrying on business, in whole or in part, in the same county, at any time, to consolidate and merge such companies and their corporate rights, franchises, powers and privileges into a single corporation in the manner following, so that by virtue of this act such corporation shall be consolidated and merged into one company and so that all the property, rights, franchises and privileges by law vested in such corporations so merged shall be transferred to and vested in the corporation into which such consolidation and merger shall be made:

2. And be it enacted, That such consolidation and merger shall be made under the following conditions and restrictions, to wit: a majority of the directors of two or more of such corporations may enter into an agreement under their respective corporate seals, for the consolidation and merger of the said corporations, prescribing the terms and conditions thereof, the mode of carrying the same into effect, the name of the new corporation, the place or places in this state or elsewhere where the business of the said company is to be conducted, the number of directors thereof, the amount of the capital stock of such company, and the number of shares into which the same shall be divided and the par value of each share, and the periods during which such company shall continue, not exceeding fifty years, and the manner of converting the capital stock of the said corporation or corporations so to be merged, into the stock or obligations of the new company into which such merger shall be made, and all other provisions as they shall deem necessary to perfect the said consolidation and merger; and it shall and may be lawful for said agreement of consolidation to provide that such merger of any one or more of said companies so desired to be consolidated, may take place by the new company purchasing and holding stock of said old company and issuing its stock, as for property purchased in lieu thereof, when, and in that event, the said old company whose stock shall be purchased, shall remain in existence and no merger of its property and franchise into the new company shall take place, anything herein contained to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding.

3. And be it enacted, That such agreement of the directors shall not be deemed to be the agreement of the said corporations so proposing to consolidate unless it has been submitted to the stockholders of each of said corporation, respectively, separately, at a meeting thereof, to be called upon a notice of at least fourteen days, specifying the time and place of such meeting, and that its object is to consolidate said companies into said new company, to be addressed to each of such stockholders at his last known place of residence known to the secretary, and deposited in the post office, the affidavit of such mailing of such notice of such meeting, and notice of meeting of such corporation to be published in a newspaper published in the county where said corporation has its principal office, at least one week before said meeting of said company, and have been sanctioned and approved by two-thirds of stockholders present at such meeting respectively, voting by ballot in regard to such agreement either in person or by proxy, each share of such capital stock being entitled to one vote, and when such agreement by the directors have been sanctioned and approved by each of the meetings of the respective stockholders separately, after being submitted to the meetings in the manner above mentioned, then such agreement of the directors shall be deemed to be the agreement of the said several corporations, and a sworn copy of the minutes of meeting, proof of service and proceedings of such meeting, made by the presidents or secretaries thereof respectively, and attached to the said agreement, shall be sufficient of the notice, service of notice, holding and action of such meetings in the premises.

4. And be it enacted, That upon filing said agreement with said sworn copy of notice, proof of service and proceedings of such meeting attached, or a duplicate or counterpart thereof, in the office of the secretary of state, the said corporation shall, except as herein stated, be merged in the new corporation provided for it in the said agreement, to be known by the corporate name therein mentioned, and the said agreement of consolidation shall be carried into effect as aforesaid, and the said new company so formed shall have all the powers conferred by the act entitled "An act concerning corporations," approved April seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five, and the acts supplementing and amending the same, but nevertheless, if any stockholders shall, at said meeting of stockholders, or within twenty days thereafter, object to said consolidation and demand payment for his stock, and serves notice in writing to this effect upon the president, secretary or treasurer of the new company within ten days after they are elected, he or she shall receive from the new company the fair value of his or her stock at the time when the vote for the agreement of consolidation and merger was carried as said, which, if not agreed on, shall be appraised by three disinterested persons to be appointed by the chancellor or a justice of the supreme court of this state, whose duty it shall be to make such appointment on reasonable notice, on the application of either party; and thereupon and upon the payment of the value so ascertained, such stockholder shall deliver up his or her certificate of stock, if any such has been issued, and the said new company into which the consolidation and merger shall have been made may issue the same amount of its own stock to any person or persons.

5. And be it enacted, That upon the filing of the said agreement with said sworn copy of notice, proof of service and proceedings of such meeting attached, or a duplicate or counterpart thereof, in the office of the secretary of state, all and singular the rights, franchises and interests of the said several corporations and consolidated and to every species of property, real, personal and mixed, and things in action thereunto belonging, shall be deemed to be transferred to and vested in such new corporation without any deed or transfer, such new corporation shall be deemed to possess all the rights, privileges, property and franchises theretofore vested in said former companies, in the same manner and to the same extent as if the said several corporations so consolidated should have continued to retain the title and transact the business of such corporations, and the title and real estate acquired by either of the said old corporations shall not be deemed to revert or be impaired by means of such act of consolidation or anything relating thereto; provided, that all rights and liens of the creditors of each of said old companies against the property of said company so purchased by the new company shall remain and continue unimpaired, and the respective corporations as to this shall be deemed to be in existence to preserve the same until the same are fully paid and satisfied, and no suit, action or other proceeding now pending before any court or tribunal in which any of said companies that may be consolidated is a party, shall be deemed to have abated or discontinued by reason of any such merger; but the same may be prosecuted or defended in the name of the said corporation that not entered into such agreement of consolidation and merger, or a new corporation may, in its application, be substituted in its place or place of any corporation of which it shall be consolidated in said former action in which such action, suit or proceeding may be pending.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 17, 1888.

CHAPTER CCXCIX.

An Act relative to the Princeton battle monument association.

Whereas, "The Princeton battle monument association," a corporation organized under the laws of this state for the purpose of erecting a suitable monument in commemoration of the battle of Princeton, has received, by private subscriptions, large sums of money for the purposes of said association, and is now receiving from week to week private subscriptions for the purpose; and whereas, the said association has collected and may not collect a sum of money sufficient to erect a monument or statue of such size and finish as the importance of that historic event demands; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly, That out of any moneys in the treasury of this state not otherwise appropriated, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be paid as hereinafter specified, toward the erection of a monument or statue of granite or marble on a tract of land in the township of Princeton, New Jersey, provided that before said money, or any part thereof, be paid to the commissioners hereinafter mentioned, or similar commissioners, the said association shall raise and pay over to the said commissioners, for the purpose of erecting the said monument or statue, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, to be used, with the sum hereby appropriated by the state, for the erection of said monument or statue.

2. And be it enacted, That the comptroller of the treasury, the adjutant-general and quartermaster-general of this state, the president of the Senate and speaker of the House of Assembly for the time being, together with five trustees of the "Princeton battle monument association," to be chosen by said association, be and the same are hereby constituted a commission under this act to select a design, to contract for, erect and finish a suitable monument or statue, to be ornamented in such a manner as the commissioners shall determine, and also to grade,

CHAPTER CCCXI.

An act to amend an act entitled "An act to amend section seventy-nine of an act entitled "An act for the organization of the militia" approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five.

It be enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the tenth section of the act to which this is a supplement, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

1. And be it enacted, That in every case in which within one year heretofore have been, or which shall hereafter be, in any of said courts, the judge may see fit, order a new trial to be granted, upon such terms as he shall think reasonable; in the meantime stay proceedings and for the purposes of this act the court shall be a continuous court.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CCCXII.

An act to authorize cities to expend the money received for license fees for sale of intoxicating and brewed liquors.

1. And be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state where the fees received for licenses for sale of intoxicating and brewed liquors are, by the charter of any of said cities appropriated, designated or set apart for any particular department of said city, and the excess of said fees is not otherwise provided for by the charter of any such city, that the board of aldermen, common council or other governing body having control over the appropriation of the moneys raised by taxes in any such city, may, by ordinance, appropriate and expend the excess or the fees so received, over and above the amount required for such specific appropriation or appropriations, for any other department or departments, and if unappropriated, such excess shall go to the credit of the contingent account; provided, that nothing in this act shall affect cities whose charters direct that fees received from licenses shall be paid into the sinking fund, or be applied to the reduction of the bonded debt of such city.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CCCXXIII.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled, "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all persons enrolled as active members of any fire engine, hook or ladder, hose or supply company, under supervision or control of any common council, township committee, or board of commissioners or other governing board or body, whatsoever, or fire commissioners of any city, town, borough, township or fire district in this state, shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars, which may be assessed against them or their said property, by authority of the municipal corporation under the supervision or control of which they may be doing public fire duty.

2. And be it enacted, That all exempt firemen of any city, town, borough, township or fire district in this state shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars, which may be assessed against them or their said property, by authority of the municipal corporation of the city, town, borough, township or fire district within which they may be doing public fire, patrol or salvage duty.

4. And be it enacted, That all honorably discharged soldiers or sailors resident in this state, who have served in the army or navy of the United States, during the late rebellion, and the widows of such soldiers or sailors so long as they remain unmarried, shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars.

5. And be it enacted, That if the entire tax levied in any township in this State, within the bounds of which any city, town, borough or fire district may have been, or may hereafter be, set off or incorporated, shall be levied by authority of the township committee of such township, then and in such case the aforesaid exemptions may be claimed and shall be allowed from the taxes levied by authority of such township committee, or if any portion of the taxes levied upon the property within such city, town, borough or fire district, or upon both, shall be levied by authority of such township committee, then the aforesaid exemptions may be claimed and shall be allowed from all taxes so levied.

6. And be it enacted, That the following shall be sufficient evidence to the collector or receiver of taxes of the right of any person to claim exemption as aforesaid, to wit, the certificate of the clerk of the city, town, borough or township, or of such other municipal or other officer as shall have charge of the records showing what persons are such active or exempt firemen of salvage corps members, which shall be furnished without charge, stating that the person claiming such exemption is either an active or exempt fireman or a salvage corps member, and in the case of soldiers or sailors, or their widows, the production to the taxing officer, board of revision of taxes, commissioners of appeals, or collector, of the discharge of such soldier or sailor from the service of the United States.

7. And be it enacted, That in case any two or more persons, residing in the same city, town, borough or township, shall be entitled to certificates, as above provided, from the same officer, or from the clerk of any city, town, borough or township, such certificates may be combined in the form of a list of the persons residing and entitled as aforesaid, which list shall be certified by such officer or clerk, and filed by him with the collector or receiver of taxes of such city, town, borough or township, at or before the time, in each year, when taxes shall be due and payable therein.

8. And be it enacted, That if any person shall falsely claim exemption under this act, such exemption shall in no case be allowed, and such person shall be deemed to have forfeited and lost all rights thereafter to such exemption in case he should become otherwise entitled thereto; no person shall, under any pretence be entitled to claim or receive the benefit of more than one exemption in any one year.

9. And be it enacted, That the incorporated towns and cities of this state in which a limitation on taxation exists, shall not be precluded from adding to and including in the aggregate amount on which taxation thereon is based, the amount hereby exempt from taxation.

10. And be it enacted, That no person shall be entitled to exemption, as above provided, unless the evidence of the right of such person to claim exemption from taxes shall be delivered to the assessor or taxing officer or officials at or before the time limited by law for closing the assessment in the city, town, borough or township where such person resides or is taxable; provided, however, that if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the board of commissioners of appeal, or of the officers by law authorized to hear and determine appeals, that the person assessed was prevented by sickness or other unavoidable cause from delivering, or causing to be delivered, such evidence to the assessor or taxing officer or officers, the said board commissioners or officers authorized to hear and determine appeals, shall permit the said person to make such proof, and if satisfied of the correctness thereof, they shall thereupon allow the deduction or exemption as if the same had been made to the taxing officer or officers.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CLXXXIII.

A supplement to an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of courts of law," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the treasurer of this state to repay to any such corporation such moneys, or so much thereof as represents any distance of railroad not constructed by said corporation within such period of limitation; provided, nevertheless, that before said payment, said corporation shall file in the office of the secretary of state, a notice in writing of the abandonment by it of said route or distance of railroad not constructed, such notice to be under its corporate seal, attested by its president and secretary.

4. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CCCXXII.

An Act to authorize cities to expend the money received for license fees for sale of intoxicating and brewed liquors.

1. And be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cities of this state where the fees received for licenses for sale of intoxicating and brewed liquors are, by the charter of any of said cities appropriated, designated or set apart for any particular department of said city, and the excess of said fees is not otherwise provided for by the charter of any such city, that the board of aldermen, common council or other governing body having control over the appropriation of the moneys raised by taxes in any such city, may, by ordinance, appropriate and expend the excess or the fees so received, over and above the amount required for such specific appropriation or appropriations, for any other department or departments, and if unappropriated, such excess shall go to the credit of the contingent account; provided, that nothing in this act shall affect cities whose charters direct that fees received from licenses shall be paid into the sinking fund, or be applied to the reduction of the bonded debt of such city.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CCCXXIII.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled, "An act concerning taxes," approved April fourteenth, one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That all persons enrolled as active members of any fire engine, hook or ladder, hose or supply company, under supervision or control of any common council, township committee, or board of commissioners or other governing board or body, whatsoever, or fire commissioners of any city, town, borough, township or fire district in this state, shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars, which may be assessed against them or their said property, by authority of the municipal corporation under the supervision or control of which they may be doing public fire duty.

2. And be it enacted, That all exempt firemen of any city, town, borough, township or fire district in this state shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars, which may be assessed against them or their said property, by authority of the municipal corporation of the city, town, borough, township or fire district within which they may be doing public fire, patrol or salvage duty.

4. And be it enacted, That all honorably discharged soldiers or sailors resident in this state, who have served in the army or navy of the United States, during the late rebellion, and the widows of such soldiers or sailors so long as they remain unmarried, shall be exempt from general and special poll tax, and from state, county and municipal taxation upon real or personal property, or both, not exceeding in the aggregate five hundred dollars.

5. And be it enacted, That if the entire tax levied in any township in this State, within the bounds of which any city, town, borough or fire district may have been, or may hereafter be, set off or incorporated, shall be levied by authority of the township committee of such township, then and in such case the aforesaid exemptions may be claimed and shall be allowed from the taxes levied by authority of such township committee, or if any portion of the taxes levied upon the property within such city, town, borough or fire district, or upon both, shall be levied by authority of such township committee, then the aforesaid exemptions may be claimed and shall be allowed from all taxes so levied.

6. And be it enacted, That the following shall be sufficient evidence to the collector or receiver of taxes of the right of any person to claim exemption as aforesaid, to wit, the certificate of the clerk of the city, town, borough or township, or of such other municipal or other officer as shall have charge of the records showing what persons are such active or exempt firemen of salvage corps members, which shall be furnished without charge, stating that the person claiming such exemption is either an active or exempt fireman or a salvage corps member, and in the case of soldiers or sailors, or their widows, the production to the taxing officer, board of revision of taxes, commissioners of appeals, or collector, of the discharge of such soldier or sailor from the service of the United States.

7. And be it enacted, That in case any two or more persons, residing in the same city, town, borough or township, shall be entitled to certificates, as above provided, from the same officer, or from the clerk of any city, town, borough or township, such certificates may be combined in the form of a list of the persons residing and entitled as aforesaid, which list shall be certified by such officer or clerk, and filed by him with the collector or receiver of taxes of such city, town, borough or township, at or before the time, in each year, when taxes shall be due and payable therein.

8. And be it enacted, That if any person shall falsely claim exemption under this act, such exemption shall in no case be allowed, and such person shall be deemed to have forfeited and lost all rights thereafter to such exemption in case he should become otherwise entitled thereto; no person shall, under any pretence be entitled to claim or receive the benefit of more than one exemption in any one year.

9. And be it enacted, That the incorporated towns and cities of this state in which a limitation on taxation exists, shall not be precluded from adding to and including in the aggregate amount on which taxation thereon is based, the amount hereby exempt from taxation.

10. And be it enacted, That no person shall be entitled to exemption, as above provided, unless the evidence of the right of such person to claim exemption from taxes shall be delivered to the assessor or taxing officer or officials at or before the time limited by law for closing the assessment in the city, town, borough or township where such person resides or is taxable; provided, however, that if it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the board of commissioners of appeal, or of the officers by law authorized to hear and determine appeals, that the person assessed was prevented by sickness or other unavoidable cause from delivering, or causing to be delivered, such evidence to the assessor or taxing officer or officers, the said board commissioners or officers authorized to hear and determine appeals, shall permit the said person to make such proof, and if satisfied of the correctness thereof, they shall thereupon allow the deduction or exemption as if the same had been made to the taxing officer or officers.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved April 23, 1888.

11. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately, and that all acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, be and the same are hereby repealed.

Approved April 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CLXXXVI.

An act relating to roads and streets in townships and authorizing the inhabitants of townships to place all roads and streets within the township under the management of the township committee, and to raise money by bonds for grading, macadamizing and improving the same.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever it shall be deemed expedient to abolish the election of overseers of the highways in townships and road districts, and to transfer the control of the roads and streets of any township to the township committee, the legal voters of such township at any annual township meeting or special township meeting to be called by the township committee for that purpose in the manner hereinafter provided, by a majority of the votes cast, may pass a resolution or resolutions directing that all the roads such township and the repairing of the same, and the making of new roads, laid out or that may be thereafter laid out, and the general management and care of the same, shall be under the control and direction of the township committee of such township, which resolution or resolutions shall be written or printed, or partly printed and partly written, on ballots, underneath which shall be written or printed the words "for the above resolution," or "against the above resolution."

2. And be it enacted, That upon the passage of such a resolution or resolutions, the election of road overseers in said township shall be abolished, and the control of roads and streets of said township shall be transferred to the township committee, and all the duties now imposed, the powers conferred by law on the overseer to overseers of the roads heretofore elected in said township or road districts, shall devolve upon the township committee thereof.

3. And be it enacted, That in case it is desirous to vote upon such a resolution at a special township meeting, it shall be the duty of the township committee, upon request to them in writing, signed by a majority of the legal voters of said township, which majority shall be determined by reference to the poll list of the last proceeding township election of said township, to call such a special township meeting; and the said committee shall give at least five days' notice of such special township meeting, specifying the time and place where the same shall be held, and the purpose and object thereof, by notices printed or written, posted in five or more of the most public places in said township; and the result of said township meeting as to the said resolution, shall in either case be certified to the said committee by the judge of election presiding at such township meeting, and the township clerk, under their respective hands.

4. And be it enacted, That the inhabitants of any township shall have power at their annual or other meeting duly called for that purpose, to direct the issuing of bonds for the purpose of raising money for the purpose of improving the streets and roads of said township, by grading and macadamizing the same and building culverts and drains, and in case it is deemed expedient to issue township bonds for the grading and macadamizing of the streets and roads of such township or otherwise improving the same, such bonds shall be issued by said township committee, and shall be signed by the chairman thereof, and countersigned by the treasurer, and numbered and registered by him in a book to be kept for that purpose; provided, however, that before such bonds shall be made or issued the following conditions shall have been complied with and observed: a petition requesting the said committee to issue such bonds, specifying the amount to be issued and the purpose for which said bonds are to be used, shall be presented to said committee, signed by taxpayers of the said township (not including such persons as pay a poll-tax only), representing not less than one-third in number of the taxpayers of the said township; provided, however, that said one-third in number of said taxpayers shall represent two-thirds in amount of taxable property of said township, which petition shall be verified by the oath of the assessor of said township that it is so signed, and before the issuing of the bonds as hereinafter provided, such petition and affidavit shall be recorded by the township clerk and filed in the office of the county clerk, and such petition and affidavits of a certified copy thereof, shall be competent evidence of the facts therein set forth, in any court of this state; the said committee shall, on receiving such petition, cause a resolution to issue such bonds to be submitted to the legal voters of said township by causing such resolution to be printed or written on ballots, underneath which shall be written the words "for the above resolution," or "against the above resolution," which vote may be taken either at the annual township meeting or at a special township meeting to be called by the said committee for that purpose; and provided, also, that bonds shall not be issued for the above purposes to an amount which shall cause the entire indebtedness of any township, for all purposes, to exceed ten per centum of the assessed valuation of property, as shown on the duplicate of assessment for the preceding year.

5. And be it enacted, That in case such vote is taken at the regular township meeting, the said resolution may be printed or written or partly printed and partly written on ballots used at such township meeting; and in case a special township meeting is called for that purpose, the ballots to be used shall contain the words of said resolution and the words thereunder as mentioned in the preceding section, and the said committee shall give at least five days' notice of such special township meeting, specifying the time and place where such township meeting shall be held and the purpose and object thereof, by notices printed or written, posted in five or more of the most public places in said township; and the result of said township meeting as to the said resolution shall in each case be certified to the said committee by the judge of election presiding at such township meeting, and the said township clerk, under their respective hands; and in case a majority of the votes cast as shall appear by such certificate shall have been cast for such resolution, then such committee shall proceed to issue such bonds forthwith and to use the same for the purposes expressed in such resolution; and the said committee are hereby empowered to grade and macadamize such streets, and to build drains and culverts and to make all contracts pertaining to the same; and all proceedings in relation to said petition, said resolution and all proceedings in relation to said petition, said resolution and the vote thereon, and the issue of bonds, shall be recorded at length in the township books by the township clerk, and such bonds shall not be sold for less than ninety-five per centum of their par value.

6. And be it enacted, That any special township meeting held under the provisions of this act shall be held and conducted in the same manner in which the annual township meeting is held and conducted, and that the expense thereof shall be held in the same way.

7. And be it enacted, That the abolition of the election of overseers of roads in townships or road districts shall not interfere with or affect the division of the township into road districts, nor shall the power above conferred on the townships to direct the raising of money for the improvement of roads by the issuing of bonds of the township therefor interfere with or affect the right of the legal voters of any road district to appropriate money to be raised by taxation for either the maintaining or repair of the roads within the road district.

8. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CLXXXVII.

An act granting the consent of the state of New Jersey to the purchase by the United States of certain lands for the purpose of erecting public buildings in the city of Newark, county of Essex, and in the city of Camden, county of Camden.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the consent of the state of New Jersey, is hereby given to the purchase by the United States of one or more pieces of land situated in the city of Newark, county of Essex, not exceeding two acres in quantity, and one or more parcels of land situated in the city of Camden, county of Camden, not exceeding two acres in quantity, on which to erect buildings for post-offices and other public purposes; and the United States shall have, hold, use, occupy and own the said land or lands when purchased, and exercise jurisdiction and control over the same and every part thereof, subject to the restrictions hereinafter mentioned.

2. And be it enacted, That the jurisdiction of the state of New Jersey in and over the said land or lands mentioned in the foregoing section, when purchased by the United States, shall be and the same is hereby ceded to the United States, but the jurisdiction hereby ceded shall continue no longer than the said United States shall own the said land or lands.

3. And be it enacted, That the said consent is given and the said jurisdiction ceded upon the express condition that the state of New Jersey shall retain concurrent jurisdiction with the United States in and over the said land or lands, so far as that all civil process in all cases, and such criminal or other process as may issue under the law or authority of the state of New Jersey against any person or persons charged with crimes or misdemeanors committed within said state, may be executed therein in the same way and manner as if said consent had not been given or jurisdiction ceded, except so far as such process may affect the real or personal property of the United States.

4. And be it enacted, That the jurisdiction hereby ceded shall not vest until the United States shall have acquired title to the said land or lands by purchase or grant; and so long as said land or lands shall remain the property of the United States, when acquired as aforesaid, and no longer, the same shall be and continue to be exonerated from all taxes, assessments and other charges which may be levied or imposed under the authority of the state.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1888.

CHAPTER CLXXXVIII.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act to prevent the burning of woods, marshes and meadows," passed November twenty-fourth, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall be the duty of the township committee of the several townships of this state to appoint persons under oath, whose duty it shall be to ferret out and bring to punishment all persons who either willfully or otherwise, cause the burning of woods and marshes, and to take measures to have such fires extinguished, where it can be done, the expenses thereof to be paid out of the township treasury; provided, this act shall apply only to those townships whose woodland is equal to forty per centum of the total area.

Approved March 23, 1888.

CHAPTER CLXXXIX.

A Further Supplement to an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments in seaside resorts," approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the twenty-first section of an act entitled "An act for the formation of borough governments in seaside resorts," approved March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, shall be amended so as to read as follows:

21. And be it enacted, That the assessor shall assess and the collector shall collect the taxes in the same manner as the assessors and collectors of townships in this state are required by law to assess and collect, and in case of the non-payment of taxes the said collector shall proceed to enforce the collection thereof as required by law of township collectors in this state; and that all laws now applicable, or which may hereafter be applicable to the assessing and collection of taxes in the several townships in this state shall be held to apply to the assessing and collection of taxes in the boroughs incorporated or to be incorporated under this act.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 28, 1888.

CHAPTER CXC.

An act to establish standard packages for cranberries.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That the legal and standard measure for a bushel of cranberries shall be thirty-two quarts, rounded measure; that crates for boxes) to be used for buying or selling cranberries in this state or for transporting the same outside of this state, shall be of the following size, to wit: twenty-two inches in length, twelve inches in depth and seven and one-half inches in width, inside clear measure, which size has been found by tests and experiments to contain the aforesaid quantity when suitably pressed in for transportation, and when barrels are used for the same purpose, they shall be made to contain not less than three times the quantity of the crate (or box).

2. And be it enacted, that the making or using of crates (or boxes) of less dimensions or barrels of less capacity than those described in the preceding section, for purposes named, shall be deemed a penal offense, and the persons or persons so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be subject to a fine of two dollars for each package so made or used in violation of this act, together with the costs of proceedings.

3. And be it enacted, That the fines and penalties imposed by this act, shall be recoverable in an action of debt, before any court of the state having jurisdiction, by and for the benefit of the person prosecuting.

4. And be it enacted, That the American cranberry growers' association be and are hereby authorized to appoint one or more persons as state inspectors whose duty it shall be to receive complaints and enforce the law; they shall receive no salary or compensation except such as may come from penalties imposed and fines collected.

5. And be it enacted, That this act or parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

6. And be it enacted, That this act shall be deemed a public act, and shall take effect immediately.

And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of every constable, and lawful for any other person to apprehend, without warrant or process, any disorderly person of the description aforesaid, and to take him or her before any justice of the county where apprehended; and it shall be the duty of the said justice to commit such disorderly person, when convicted before him by the oath or affirmation of one or more creditable witnesses other than the officer making the arrest, to the workhouse of the county, or county, there to be kept at hard labor for any time not exceeding three calendar months, except when otherwise herein particularly described; provided, that this and the succeeding section shall not apply to the persons described in section five of this act.

2. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCIII.

A Supplement to "An act concerning juries" [Revision], approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That section one of the supplement to the act to which this act is a supplement, which supplement was approved March first, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one, shall be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That in all cases where, by the law of this state, the defendant or prisoner is entitled to the service of a special panel of jurors of forty-eight men, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to draw said special panel so to be served from the whole panel of jurors summoned to perform jury duty for the term, and in the selection of the panel to serve as the jury to try the defendant or prisoner, the forty-eight names so to be drawn and served as aforesaid, shall be placed in and form, with the box in the ordinary way.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCIV.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and incorporation of insurance companies," approved April ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That it shall not be lawful for any fire insurance company not incorporated under or by virtue of the laws of this state, and doing business on the mutual plan, to recover in any action in any court in this state upon any policy of insurance upon property in this state which has been or may hereafter issued by such company, or upon any premium note given therefor, or for any assessment made upon such policy or note, unless such company has or shall have previously to the time of the issuing of such policy of insurance or the making of such premium note, complied with the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement thereto.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCV.

A Further Supplement to "An act for the better preservation of the early records of the state of New Jersey," passed March twenty-ninth, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That to enable the New Jersey historical society to complete the work of procuring material for the arranging, collating, editing and printing the early records of the state, in the form known as the "New Jersey archives," and for editing and printing the "Journals of the governor and council" during the colonial period, and which never have been printed, and for arranging, collating, editing and printing papers and documents relating to the history of New Jersey during the period of the revolution, the sum of three thousand dollars annually is hereby appropriated, to be paid to the said society as required for the said purpose, by the state treasurer on the warrant of the comptroller.

2. And be it enacted, That the printed volumes as completed shall be deposited with the commissioners of the state library to be by them distributed in the manner provided by law for the distribution of the volumes heretofore printed.

3. And be it enacted, That the appropriation hereby made shall not be continued for more than five years.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCVI.

A Supplement to an act entitled "An act to protect the health of boys and girls and secure to parents the control of their children," approved March tenth, one thousand eight hundred and eighty.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That no vinous, spirituous or other alcoholic liquors, and no ale, strong beer, lager, porter or other malt liquors shall be sold or given, in great or small quantities, to any boy or girl under the age of eighteen years, by any wholesale or retail liquor dealer, any tavern keeper, saloon-keeper or other dealer in such alcoholic or malt liquors, their servants or agents.

2. And be it enacted, That the second section of the act to which this is a supplement shall be amended so that the same shall read as follows:

2. And be it enacted, That no saloon-keeper, tavern keeper or other dealer in alcoholic or malt liquors shall permit any boy or girl under the age of eighteen years to lounge in or frequent the rooms or places where such liquors are kept or sold.

3. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCVII.

A Further Supplement to the act entitled "An act for the formation of borough commissions," approved March seventh, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two, and the supplements thereto.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever any borough commission has been formed under the provisions of the act to which this act is a supplement, the proceedings for the formation of such borough commission shall not be invalidated because of the omission to publish the corporate name of such borough commission in the notice required to be published in a newspaper by said act, but that any such borough commission so formed shall be held to be a valid and lawful municipal corporation within the meaning of said act, notwithstanding such omission, providing the act creating the supplements thereto to which this is a supplement shall have been in all other respects complied with.

2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCVIII.

An act regulating the number of school trustees to be elected in the respective school districts in this state, being a supplement to an act entitled "An act to establish a system of public instruction," approved March twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That whenever it shall appear by the annual report that there are more than thousand or more children of legal school age in any school district having but three trustees, then it shall be lawful for the legal voters of the said district, at their next annual meeting for the election of school trustees, to determine by a majority vote of those present whether the number of school trustees shall or shall not be increased to six.

2. And be it enacted, That in case it be decided to increase the number of school trustees in any such school district to six, then the six trustees shall be divided into, elect, in the manner in which school trustees are now elected, three additional trustees, one to hold office for one year, one for two years, and one for three years; and annually thereafter trustees shall be elected for the term of three years, to fill the vacancies as they expire.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of school district officers in districts comprising more than one township, in the preparation of the annual report of the election of school trustees, to report whether there are within their district one thousand or more children of legal school age, and that it will be determined at said annual meeting whether the board of school trustees shall consist of three or six; provided further that no vote shall be taken upon this subject unless public notice shall have been given as herein provided for.

4. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act, be and the same are hereby repealed.

5. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CXCIX.

An act validating certain instruments, and authorizing scroll or other device by way of seal in sealed instruments.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That every instrument in writing heretofore made, to which shall have been affixed a scroll, or ink, or other device by way of a seal, shall be taken and adjudged to be of the same force and take effect as if it had been actually sealed with wax.

2. And be it enacted, That all instruments in writing heretofore made, or which shall be made hereafter, wherein a seal has been or shall be deemed necessary, and to which a scroll, or ink, or other device has been or shall be affixed by way of a seal, shall be held to be as good and valid to all intents and purposes, in all courts and places as if they had been or should be sealed with wax, and no such instrument shall be impeached or questioned for a lack of a wax seal.

3. And be it enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act, be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect immediately.

Approved March 26, 1888.

CHAPTER CC.

An act in relation to the power of aqueduct boards having the control of the water-supply in the cities of this state, to issue bonds or borrow money on the credit of the cities wherein such boards exist, to limit the powers heretofore given to such boards and giving the common council or other governing body of such cities powers in relation thereto, and providing for the funding and payment of indebtedness heretofore incurred by such boards.

1. Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That on or before the first day of February, in each year, and annually thereafter, every aqueduct board department having the control of the water-supply in the cities of this state, shall make a transmit to the common council or other governing body having the control of the finances of such city, a detailed statement of the estimated receipts and expenditures of such board or department for the current fiscal year; said board shall also forthwith after the passage of this act transmit to the same body a statement of all the bonds issued or loans made by such board, the rate of interest thereon, the dates at

A LONE HAND.

The youth and maiden sat alone
Beside the pebbled strand,
Near by the sea, and in his own
He held her lily hand,

He gazed into her sapphire eyes,
"I love you, sweet," he said.
The maiden answered him with sighs,
And blushing hung her head.

He pressed the hand so soft and white,
He kissed the dimpled chin,
And said, "If I played cards to-night,
I know that I would win."

"You ask me why? You shall be told"—
He pressed the fingers white—
"I know I'd win, because I hold
A lovely hand to-night."

And so he taxed her (he was stupid)
Of being then possessed of Cupid.
But when dismissed with great momentum
He lost his forty odd per centum.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.

THE TRIP OF THE SPIES.

LESSON X, THIRD QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES, SEPT. 2.

Text of the Lesson, Num. xiii, 17-33. Commit Verses 30-33—Golden Text, Num. xiii, 30—Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Condensed from Lesson Helper Quarterly, by permission of R. S. Hoffman, Philadelphia, publisher.]

This lesson, which records the sending of the twelve spies to search out the land before entering into it, might well be entitled "the sad work of unbelief;" for although we are told that Moses sent them, and in the first and second verses that "the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, send thou men," yet the reason of this sending is seen from Deut. i, 22, to be because the people demanded it. The word of the Lord was, "Behold, I have set the land before you: go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their seed after them" (Deut. i, 8-21); so the only thing for faith to do was to go up and possess it.

17-20. These verses give us the instructions of Moses to the twelve spies ere they set forth. There was one from each tribe, every one a ruler, all heads of the children of Israel. (Ver. 2, 3.) It does seem to be a small, mean business in which they were about to engage, to see whether the land were good or bad, fat or lean, well wooded or not. If some father or mother should plan a gift of great value for their children, the very best and most appropriate that their love could suggest or devise, it would surely not be very flattering to the parents or creditable to the children if the latter should wish to examine the gift before consenting to accept it.

21, 24. This is the record of their journey and their search. Zin and Rehob were the southern and northern boundaries (Josh. xv, 1; xix, 28); so they went through the whole land to the extreme north. Hebron or Mamre was Abraham's tenting ground, where he built an altar unto the Lord after Lot was separated from him (Gen. xiii, 18); there, also, the Lord and His angels appeared to him as he sat in the tent door in the heat of the day, and rested themselves under the tree while they partoook of the food prepared by Abraham and Sarah (Gen. xviii); and there Sarah died and was buried in the cave of Machpelah (Gen. xxiii, 2-19). In that cave lay the bodies of Abraham and Sarah, Isaac and Rebekah, Jacob and Leah (Gen. xlix, 29-31); it is about twenty miles south of Jerusalem, and about half way to Beersheba. What a privilege to visit such a place! Had these rulers been men of faith, how that faith would have been strengthened by the remembrance of the promises to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. It is evident that Caleb never forgot this visit to Hebron, for forty-five years later he asks and receives from Joshua this same Hebron for his inheritance, nothing daunted by the fact that the Anakims were still there and that the cities were great and fenced, but saying, "If the Lord be with me I shall be able to drive them out." (Josh. xiv, 10-15.)

25-27. They returned after forty days. Some time we shall see more than we do now of the significance of that wonderful number forty. We think at once of Moses in the mount with God, Elijah visiting the same mount, Jesus in the wilderness with the wild beasts, the period between His resurrection and ascension, and the many other forties of the Scriptures; but who has seen the depths of significance in any of them?

"Surely it floweth with milk and honey, and this is the fruit of it." Just as God had said, truly a good land, and they had nothing to do but march up at His command and possess and enjoy it. It was His gift to them. Their part was to obey and take it. He brought them out, that He might bring them in and give them the land which He sware unto their fathers (Deut. vi, 23). Abundance of peace, fullness of joy, rivers of pleasures, green pastures, waters of quietness, quiet resting places—these are some of the fruits of or privileges of the Christian life which we ought constantly to enjoy, and thus give a good report of the redeemed land and of Him who brought us there.

28, 29. "Nevertheless, the people be strong, * * * the cities walled and very great; and moreover we saw the children of Anak there." This was simply leaving God out of the question, and considering only their own strength. How could they, with that Tabernacle standing in their midst, the pillar of cloud over it and the presence of God in it, thus forget Him and talk as if it was a question of what they were or of what they could do! Let us with these verses consider also verses 31-33, and then we will save the joyful song of verse 30 for the last.

"We are not able . . . they are stronger than we. We were in our own sight as grasshoppers." It reminds us of the record in Job xxix, where the pronouns "I," "my," "me," referring to Job, are used about forty-five times, and God is mentioned or referred to only five times. In Job xlii, 5, 6, we hear him saying: "I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear, but now mine eye seeth Thee; wherefore I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes." Then do we find health and prosperity restored to him. Whether it be Isaiah, or Daniel, or John, when the glory of the Lord is revealed to them, there is no beauty or strength left in them, but on their faces in the dust is where we find them. When Nebuchadnezzar talked of his great Babylon, and the might of its power and the honor of his majesty, he was soon made to know that the King of Heaven is able to abase those who walk in pride (Dan. iv, 30-37). When the day of the Lord comes all lofty looks and haughtiness of men shall be made low, and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day (Isa. ii, 12-17). Blessed are those who are willing now to come down of their own accord, submit themselves to God, and let Him work in them to will and to do of His good pleasure. These ten rulers in Israel, although they had seen God's mighty works in Egypt, at the Red Sea, and in the wilderness; although God's presence was in their midst, and they had heard His voice from the holy mount, yet they knew Him not, nor trusted in Him, nor thought of His power so often manifested on their behalf. Unbelief in the promises of God had hardened their hearts and blinded their eyes and they saw only insuperable difficulties.

30. "Caleb stilled the people." We must be still if we would hear and know the mind of God, and that voice which stilled the storm on Galilee has in all ages stilled the soul that has been willing to heed it. "Stand thou still a while that I may show thee the word of God," said Samuel to Saul; and to the people he said, "Stand still that I may reason with you before the Lord." (1 Sam. xv, 27; xii, 7.) "Be still and know that I am God" is a helpful precept for every day. (Ps. xlvi, 10.) "Let us go up at once and possess it, for we are well able to overcome it." The minority report was the correct one this time. It has been truly said that one with God is always a majority, but the world cannot see that. Every word of this utterance is weighty; it is the language of faith; of one who sees God and not self or difficulties. "If God be for us, who can be against us?"

New York, August 1, 1886. 122 E. 27th st.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass.,

Gentlemen:—A sense of gratitude and the desire to render a service to the public impel me to make the following statements:

My college career, at New Haven, was interrupted by a severe cold which so enfeebled me that, for ten years, I had a hard struggle for life. Hemorrhage from the bronchial passages was the result of almost every fresh exposure. For years I was under treatment of the ablest practitioners without avail. At last I learned of which I used (moderately and in small doses) at the first recurrence of a cold or any chest difficulty, and from which I invariably found relief. This was over 25 years ago. With all sorts of exposure, in all sorts of climates, I have never, to this day, had any cold nor any affection of the throat or lungs which did not yield to AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL within 24 hours.

Of course I have never allowed myself to be without this remedy in all my voyages and travels. Under my own observation, it has given relief to vast numbers of persons; while in acute cases of pulmonary inflammation, such as croup and diphtheria in children, life has been preserved through its effects. I recommend its use in light but frequent doses. Properly administered, in accordance with your directions, it is in any house. I speak earnestly because I feel earnestly. I have known many cases of apparently confirmed bronchitis and cough, with loss of voice, particularly among clergymen and other public speakers, perfectly cured by this medicine. Faithfully yours,

C. EDWARDS LESTER.

HIRE'S

IMPROVED ROOT BEER

PACKAGES.

PACKAGE MAKES FIVE GALLONS, 25 CENTS.

WHAT AILS YOU?

This preparation has steadily grown in public favor during the past ten years, until to-day it is used in every part of the United States and Canada, and a portion of the old world. Its popularity and wide-spread sales have induced many imitations to appear in the market. The manufacturers thereof, regardless of any merit their article may have, hope to share some of the success and profit on the reputation of Hires' Improved Root Beer Packages that we have so extensively advertised.

The tons of roots, barks and berries, which are collected in the season of their full development, that enter annually the composition of Hires' Improved Root Beer, have alone by their intrinsic valve given it national distinction and fame.

BATHGATE, DAK.

Your Root Beer excels all other drinks for family use. Send me another package.

W. W. SNODGRASS.

DELHI, NEW YORK.

Mr. Hires:—I find your Root Beer first rate, so I enclose seventy-five cents for the remaining packages. Yours respectfully,

JAMES SCOTT.

JARWOOD, FLA

We have tried your Root Beer and find it first-class. Send us a half dozen at once.

WALTON & BRO.

MATTICO, ST. MARY'S CO., MD.

Since I have been drinking your Root Beer I feel much better. Hits doing me good. Send me more at once.

MRS. WM. A. FORREST.

MADALIN, N. Y.

Your Root Beer is superb. Send me another dollar's worth. Nothing like it. R. L. BOICE.

HOMESTEAD, IOWA.

Charles E. Hires, Dear Sir:—My family have used your Root Beer for some time and like it. Some of my neighbors have tasted it and they all want it. Send me one dollar's worth at once. Respectfully,

R. SHIPERT.

STEPHEN, MARSHALL CO., MINN.

Dear Sir:—I have tried your Root Beer and find it excellent. Send me a dollar's worth.

J. L. ROBERTSON.

NELSONVILLE, TEXAS.

We find your Root Beer a most delightful beverage, and do not intend to be without it again. Send me three more packages.

Respectfully, P. M. DANES.

LOGWOOD, MD.

I cannot do without your Root Beer. I drink it in place of all other drinks. Every one who has tasted it say it is splendid, and I know you will get orders from around here.

Respectfully, AMELIA A. KAUTZ

Do you feel dull, languid, low-spirited, careless, and indescribably wretched, both physically and mentally? Have you no appetite, or bloating after eating, or dizziness, or emptiness of stomach in the morning, tongue coated, bitter taste in mouth, irregular appetite, nausea, frequent headaches, blurred eyesight, "floating specks" before the eyes, nervous prostration or exhaustion, irritability of temper, sudden alternating with chilly flashes, disturbed sleep, transient pains here, there and everywhere, cold feet, drowsiness after meals, wakefulness, or disturbed and unrefreshing sleep, haunting indescribable feeling of dread, or fear of impending calamity?

If you have all, or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common of American maladies—Bilious Dyspepsia, or Torpid Liver, associated with Dyspepsia, or Indigestion. Its more sophisticated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of dangerous complications. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will subdue it, if taken according to directions for a reasonable length of time. Most cured, complications multiply and consumption of the Lungs, Skin Diseases, Heart Disease, Rheumatism, Kidney Disease, or other grave maladies are quite liable to set in and, sooner or later, induce a fatal termination.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts powerfully upon the liver, and through that great blood-purifying organ cleanses the system of all blood-taints and impurities, from whatever cause arising. It is equally efficacious in acting upon the kidneys, and other excretory organs, cleansing, strengthening, and healing their diseases. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it promotes digestion and nutrition, thereby building up both flesh and strength. In malarial districts this wonderful medicine has gained great celebrity in curing Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Dumb Ague, and kindred diseases.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Eczema, Erysipelas, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-joint Disease, "White Swellings," Goitre, or "Thick Neck," and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large Treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a Treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength and bodily health will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofula of the Lungs, is arrested and cured by this remedy, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease. From its marvelous power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now world-famed remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "CONSUMPTION CURE," but abandoned that name as too restrictive for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for Consumption, but for all Chronic Diseases of the Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Severe Coughs and kindred affections, it is an efficient remedy.

Sold by Druggists, at $1.00, or Six Bottles for $5.00.

Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Address,

World's Dispensary Medical Association,
663 Main St., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Wm. Johnson and Wm. H. Robinson, colored, were committed to the county jail on Wednesday, charged with robbing Michael Reilley, an engineer, while he was sleeping along the road the night before in Linden, having been imbibing too freely at the Halfway House.

A young man in this city recently became so "entirely gone" upon a young lady that, when she refused his addresses he contemplated suicide. He was asked why he thought of such a rash act, and replied that Christ died for all mankind, but he only wanted to die for one!

Mr. Frank Pennock, of this city, was married on Tuesday to Miss Rose Newell, of Phila., the ceremony taking place at one of the Baptist churches, in that city. After their wedding tour they will reside in this city, at No. 45 Fulton street, and will be at home after the 15th of October.

With the heavy storm and the sad accident at Sea Girt, the annual encampment of the 2d Brigade was not altogether an enjoyable affair this year, though the soldiers had a good opportunity of experiencing genuine camp life, which they did with true military fortitude.

Dick Fordham, who recently has been shaping the political course of the Advocate, as one of the Republican leaders of the city, is enjoying a needed respite from those arduous duties, along the seashore, and when he returns the readers of that paper may look out for "thunder all along the line" again.

We go to press a little earlier than usual this week in order to give our press motor, Pippenger, an opportunity to participate in the festivities of the colored peoples' salt water day at Florida Grove. We expect he will return greatly rejuvenated and supplied up by his participation in the merry waltzes and quaint quadrilles.

Mr. Jas. B. McCartney, of this city, has been appointed as clerk in the railway postal service, in place of James T. Heath, who held the position for a number years, under the Republican administration, and has been continued under the Democratic rule. We understand several other clerks similarly situated have recently been displaced.

City Attorney Berry is enthusiastic over the beautiful surroundings and elegant entertainment at Paxinosa Inn, a new mountain resort, near Easton, where he and his son Bertram spent a few days during the past week. The proprietor is Charles A. Stone, an experienced hotel man, and everything is conducted in the best style.

The members of F Company returned from their week's encampment at Sea Girt, last Saturday evening. The men looked well and somewhat bronzed, by exposure to Neptunes winds and waves. Sunday afternoon they were ordered out to attend the funeral of their unfortunate comrade, Peter Knelpe, of Elizabeth, who lost his life at the encampment as noted elsewhere.

Friday morning last, at 7:30, the Citizens' Association of Hatters, of Millburn, Essex Co., arrived at the Rahway House, where they took breakfast. There were three large stage loads of jolly hatters on the way to Keyport, where they had their annual clam bake. They were accompanied by the Millburn Cornet Band, which discoursed several popular airs in front of the hotel.

Saturday last a party of seven left this city for the White Mountains, of New Hampshire. The party consisted of the Rev. C. F. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, of Woodbridge, Mrs. J. H. Marbacher, Miss Ella Dow, Miss Bertie Brewster, and Mr. A. E. Smith, of the Glen M'f'g. Co. They sailed on the steamer "Eleanora" for Portland, Maine, and expect to be absent two weeks.

We advise our readers to buy ten bars of Tulip soap at a time, and get a beautiful set of picture cards for the ten wrappers.

It will pay you well to investigate the merits of Tulip soap.

Dixon's "Carburet of Iron" Stove Polish is the best and purest. The new big cake is double the size of the old small cake, and sold at the same price. aug 17-6m

The New Brunswick Home News says in relation to a teacher whose advertisement will be found in another column:

Mrs. Thomas has the best of credentials, having been thoroughly trained for the work by Mme. Kraus Boelte, a lady widely known both in Germany and America. Mrs. Thomas has had a large experience in training children, both in old and new methods, and has made many friends in this city.

SETTLEMENT OF THE CORY LITIGATION.—Mr. C. E. Pratt, administrator of the Eliza B. Cory estate, gave his checks on Aug. 25th, to Thomas Douglass, executor of the Lewis Cory estate, for over $65,000, and thus ended the tedious and expensive litigation between the two estates. It is eight years since Mr. Douglass came on from California to look after his part of the business.

Several young men have organized a new drum corps in this city, of which J. Miller has been elected president, W. J. Drumpelman secretary, and C. Briggs, treasurer. Our citizens are contributing quite liberally to a fund to assist them in procuring their drums, etc., and all should aid when waited upon. They desire a few more members from fifteen to eighteen years of age. Those desiring to join should address P. O. Box 405, Rahway.

In order to meet the constantly increasing demand for the sheets comprising The Atlas of New Jersey, the Board of Managers of the Geological survey have decided to allow them to be sold at the cost of paper and printing for the uniform price of 25 cents per sheet, either singly or in lots. This amount covers all expense of postage, or expressage, as the case may be. Application and payment, invariably in advance, should be made to Mr Irving S. Upson, New Brunswick, N. J., who will give all orders prompt attention.

Mr. John Van Buren, the obliging agent of the Union News Co., in this city, is an ardent follower of Pomona. He has raised the boss cucumber of the season in this vicinity, and it takes all the drapery from the surrounding shrubbery. It is one of those kind of cucumbers that you read about in old books with the back pages all torn out. He contemplates having it embalmed and forwarded to President Cleveland, as a specimen of what he can raise. Its measurement is, length 18 inches, and greatest circumference 9 inches.

The running gear beneath a large log became detached last Monday afternoon as it was being conveyed over the Penn. R. R. crossing, at Grand street, and before it could be removed from the track the New Brunswick train due here at 3:46 came in sight. The flagman of the crossing, John Ronayne, exhibited the danger signal and the train slowed up, but struck the log, giving the passengers a gentle shaking up. Some damage was done to the pilot and cowcatcher of the locomotive, but not much to the log, that was being taken to Elizabeth.

The Veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth, under command of Gen. Madison Drake, arrived in this city at 10 A. M., last Friday morning, en route for Woodbridge, and thence to Boynton Beach, where they had a clam bake, and gave an exhibition of the wondrous workings of their Gatling gun, together with a dress parade. At Lambert's Hotel they alighted from their stages and were met by the "Rahway contingent" of the organization. They paraded through our city, carrying their old battle flags, to the strains of martial music. We are informed that they had a grand good time, and a pleasant day, nothing occurring to mar the exercises.

Mr. Christian Ehrlich, the well-known and popular Irving street cigar manufacturer, has been, during the past few days, the recipient of the congratulations and best wishes of his friends and acquaintances, he having for the second time entered the bonds of matrimony. The lady in the case was Mrs. Maria A. Philipp, for a number of years past a resident of Woodbridge. Rev. Dr. Kline officiated at the ceremony, which was quietly celebrated on Sunday last. Quite a romantic little incident is said to be connected with the first meeting of the happy couple, and in every way the affair is a very pleasant one. We join in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Ehrlich many prosperous and enjoyable years.

Tom White is at his old tricks again. His clerk came trudging into our sanctum with a large basket on Tuesday, and in that basket was a large watermelon, fresh "from the old man's farm," and on it was nailed the legend—"Compliments of Mr. Thomas White, Post Office Building." This was a gentle, but substantial reminder that he is still in the business, and had received a cargo of the watermelons which are always so popular among our citizens. They are going off like the autumnal leaves in a cyclone, and those who want to sample this lot will have to call early—though he will endeavor to procure further consignments to supply the demand.

ARRESTED IN HIGH LIFE.—For some time the occupants of the Exchange Building have been annoyed by a number of young colored men hanging around the premises, and it was ascertained that they frequently slept in the building, as the outside door is left unfastened. Mr. Jonathan Woodruff, the owner of the building, learning the names of three of his uninvited lodgers, Wm. Robinson, Holand Bland and Wm. Kinch, made formal complaint against them, and they were found about 2 o'clock Sunday morning by the officers, peacefully sleeping in the cupola of the building, and were marched to the station house. Justice Tunison decided that they should pay for their lodging at the rate of $5 and costs for each. Kinch and Robinson soon obtained friends to advance the amount and Bland did the same after some delay.

There was a fracas on Seminary street, last Sunday evening, between two families that led to an arrest. Trouble had been brewing for some time between the families who occupied a double dwelling; and an arrest had been made a few evenings before that cost one of the parties $5. During the excitement that was directly brought about by a male member of one of the families (accompained by a friend, that came out from New York to spend the day with him) trying to gain admission into the other house, a woman ran down the street out of this house carrying a nude child, and another woman, threw smoothing irons at the bystanders. There was also considerable profanity, and some choice selections of epithets floating about on the balmy evening air. The arrival of the police put an end to hostilities.

OUR CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT.

He will be nominated by the convention and will be elected by the people, because he will come nearest to filling their ideal of a Chief Magistrate. Electric Bitters has been given the highest place, because no other medicine has so well filled the ideal of a perfect tone and alterative. The people have indorsed Electric Bitters and rely upon this great remedy in all troubles of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. For all Malarial Fevers and diseases caused by Malarial Poisons, Electric Bitters cannot be too highly recommended. Also cures Headache and Constipation. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. Price 50 cents and $1 at Brown & Smith's drug store.

$21,000 FOR CHARITIES.

The charitably-inclined readers of this paper will be much interested in the following

"ANNOUNCEMENT.

"We have decided to distribute among the charitable institutions within a circuit of twenty-five miles from New York City Hall the sum of Twenty-One Thousand Dollars, pro rata, as per the number of our "German Laundry Soap" Wrappers held by each institution on the First day of November, 1888. Committee to distribute this donation to be selected by institutions holding ten thousand or more Wrappers."

This takes in Rahway, it being within 25 Miles of New York.

CAUTION.

Many charitably-disposed persons were DECEIVED last year by IMITATIONS of our German Laundry Soap, and therefore such wrappers were not counted.

Ask for

CHAS. S.

HIGGINS' GERMAN LAUNDRY SOAP

and see that each WRAPPER is BLUE and bears on its face the TRADE-MARK of a COLORED WOMAN AT THE WASH-TUB. Each wrapper is printed in both English and German.

The New York Dailies of the week ending Oct. 20, 1887, published a list of 113 Charities in New York and Brooklyn, among whom $25,000, donated by Chas. S. Higgins & Son, were distributed by committees of leading citizens.

The system of awards was based upon the number of wrappers of Higgins' German Laundry Soap turned in to the committee by each institution, they having secured from their friends all of such wrappers they could, during the year ending Sept. 1, 1887.

Among the larger beneficiaries, are:

Chas. S. Higgins & Son,

CLINTON AND PARK AVES., BROOKLYN.

At Sea Girt, Camp Green was thrown into gloom shortly before noon on Friday, by a sad accident, by which one man was killed and another badly, if not fatally, wounded. They were practicing in howitzer firing, in sham battle, when private Peter Kneip, of the gun squad, mistaking an order from an adjoining sergeant for that of the one in command of his gun, unfastened the clasp of the breech just as the order to fire was given. Gunner Herman Faller pulled the lanyard, discharging the piece; the collar and pin were thus forced backward by the load, striking Kneip, disemboweling him and tearing off his left arm, and also breaking and mangling Faller's legs. Kneip lived only a short time, and Faller was conveyed to the hospital at Elizabeth the some evening. Both were resident of Elizabeth, unmarried, and were employes at the Singer factory. It is stated that Faller was the support of his mother and her younger children. A law was passed last winter which makes provision for the families of those injured while in service, which will of course apply to this case.

Mrs. Mackey, of Main street, keeps a flock of geese in the rear of her residence that borders on the river. Some time last fall two strange geese appeared among her flock, and as there was no claimant for them, she retained and fed them along with the rest. Shortly after the geese had become domiciled, Mahlon Edgar, of California street, claimed them as his, but not being able to prove his assertion and property, he didn't get them. A few days ago Mrs. Mackey appeared before Justice Lambert and made complaint that someone had stolen her "gooses" that she had cared for ever since last fall. Like the fable of the "fox and geese," there was a boy that figured in this, the dimensions of a man, who chanced to be on the opposite side of the river about the time the geese disappeared, and the story he relates is not "off color." The affair has not as yet been settled, but the geese no longer breast the majestic river.

What can be done with benefit to pedestrians, and also to travellers by wheel, can be seen at and about the corner of Milton avenue and Pierpont street, where the occupant of the Cory House has been for some days past having the trees carefully trimmed up, and thinned out of their quantities of dead (literally suffocated) and interfering branches. It has been done with a due regard to symmetry, shade, sunshine and air, and vicinage views, and at night the electric light opposite, whenever it does officiate, lights up the far sidewalks and roadways in all directions with much safer effect, as the Pierpont street sidewalk is horribly dangerous. An enforced continuation of the work down to the depot is much needed.

SPECIAL TOURS TO CRESSON.—In accordance with its annual custom the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces a series of three personally-conducted pleasure tours to Cresson and the Alleghenies. The dates are fixed for September 1st, 6th, and 12th, and the return coupon will be good for ten days for the first two, and until the 20th for the last. Cresson is well known as one of the most delightful mountain resorts in the land, set in the midst of some of the most beautiful of American scenery. Excursion tickets, including a day's board at the famous Mountain House, will be sold from Philadelphia at $8.00, and at correspondingly low rates from all principal stations east of Harrisburg. The party, in charge of the Tourist Agent and Chaperon, will leave Broad Street Station, Philadelphia, at 11:50 A. M. on the dates mentioned. Tickets sold from other stations will be good on any regular train of the date of issue, arriving in Philadelphia in time to connect with this train. The number of each party will be limited.

REDUCING THE SURPLUS.

The disposition of the Surplus in the U. S. Treasury engages the attention of our Statesmen, but a more vital question has our attention, and that is the reduction of the Surplus Consumptives. Since the discovery and introduction of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, there has been a marked decrease in the mortality from this dreaded disease, and it is possible to still further reduce the number of Consumptives. How? By keeping constantly at hand a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and using according to directions, upon the appearance of the first symptoms, such as a Cough, a Cold, a Sore Throat or Chest, or Side Pain. Taken thus early a cure is guaranteed. Trial bottles free at Brown & Smith's drug store.

The New Excursion Resort.

A select, quiet and delightful resort.
No crowds. No liquors. No nuisances.
Unequaled surf and still bathing at all tides.
Unsurpassed rowing, sailing and crabbing.
Finest drives, walks, groves and hills.

Central Railroad of N. J., Penn. R. R., N. Y. and Long Branch R. R., and N. J. Southern R. R. connections.

The spot on our New Jersey coast nearest to New York has been made available to excursionists by the erection of a large new restaurant building, a bathing pavilion, several hundred bath houses, livery stable, boat house, stores, swings and other similar structures. The place is completely equipped with all the appurtenances of an excursion resort. Special attractions for small family parties or large excursions. The Shrewsbury dinner, served to any number, at from 50 cents to $1 by previous arrangement.

For excursion and dinner rates, or other information, apply to the Superintendent at the Beach (Highland Beach, N. J.) or at the New York office, 149 Broadway, of Railroad Companies.

The N. Y. Star says: "Highland Beach is the first station after leaving Sandy Hook, on the southern branch of the New Jersey Central Railroad. The journey down the beautiful bay is a fitting prelude to one of the most delightful days I ever spent. The beach here is quite narrow, not more than 300 yards wide, and lies about half a mile from the mainland, from which it is separated by an arm of the bay called the Shrewsbury River, which is crossed just at the station of the village. It lies just under the Navesink lights, and the hills upon which these lights stand form a background of the deepest and most beautiful green, a positive pleasure to look upon. On the ocean side the view was equally charming, hundreds of yachts, steamers and sailing vessels constantly passing and repassing, lending variety to the scene. A first-class bathing pavilion has just been completed, which contains accommodation for hundreds of bathers. The whole beach has been graded up. There have a choice of surf or still water bathing. An extensive and well stocked boathouse has been built, and the natural facilities of the place in every way improved. The fishing is first-class. A seven course-fish dinner for the small charge of 75 cents, cannot be equalled on the coast for three times the money, all the fish for which are caught within half a mile of the depot. Many new cottages are being built, and I predict for Highland Beach a brilliant future, which it it does not attain it certainly deserves."

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic voters of the State of New Jersey, and all others desiring of uniting with them in the effort to secure a continuance of pure, economical and constitutional government, as given to the country by the present Democratic administration, are requested to meet at such times and places as may be designated by the several county, city and township committees, to elect delegates to the Democratic State Convention, to be held at Taylor Opera House, in the City of Trenton.

On Wednesday, the 26th Day of September, 1888,

AT TWELVE O'CLOCK M.,

For the purpose of placing in nomination nine electors for President and Vice President of the United States.

The basis of representation will be one delegate for each two hundred Democratic votes, and one for each fraction of the same, over one hundred cast in each election district at the last Gubernatorial election in this State. But each district shall be entitled to at least one delegate.

George Preiffer, Jr.,	Jonathan H. Blackwell,
Benjamin F. Lee,	Manning Freeman,
James Inglis, Jr.,	Joseph W. Ballentine,
Gottfried Krueger,	Holloway W. Hunt,
Allan L. McDermott,	James Smith, Jr.,
Daniel P. Crean,	John Edelstein.

Democratic Headquarters!

The Democratic City Executive Committee has taken the two rooms on the second floor of the Exchange Building, fronting the railroad, as a headquarters, reading room, etc. The rooms will be opened Friday night of this week, when all voters favorable to the election of Cleveland and Thurman and Tariff Reform are invited to be present and join a general city organization. The rooms will be open every week-day evening until after election.

E. B. SILVERS, Chairman.

C. H. SHIPMAN, Secretary.

A good motto for a Democratic banner: —Protection to American industry for the benefit of the workingmen—NO TRUST!

At Meriden, Conn., James G. Blaine was introduced as the most distinguished citizen of the U. S. The question is, has he distinguished himself any more than the Rev. Mr. Buchard did four years ago? We "Trust" not.

During the administration of President Cleveland 80,000,000 acres of the public lands have been wrested from railroad corporations that had not earned it, and restored to the public domain, and 145,000,000 acres are in process of restoration to the people.

The record shows that the Democratic party in the first three years of its control has granted 168,821 more pensions than the Republican party granted during the last three years of its misrule. Old soldiers will not forget this fact, notwithstanding some of the Republican shouters are trying to make them believe that the Democrats are not the friends of the veterans!

The Richmond Star sees great trouble for the Republican party through Blaine's prominence in the present canvass, and adds: Whenever Blaine is a Burchard merely, or a traitor to the Chicago ticket, observant Republicans are beginning to wish the mighty magnetic man, the greatest living American, the uncrowned king, had remained in Europe until after the election.

AND A REPUBLICAN CONVENTION!—The following from an Asbury Park paper among its notes on the recent great Republican gathering at that place, is a sad commentary upon the tendencies of the party once boasting of its "great moral ideas:"

A regular bar was set up and run on one of the trains yesterday. The usual drinks were sold at the usual prices, and somebody made lots of money. Unfortunately for the morals of Asbury Park the car containing the liquor was allowed to stand near the station all day, and quite a number of men had more liquor than they could well care for.

The City Democratic Executive Committee has got into working order for the campaign. The Committee has been enlarged by the addition of more of the prominent workers of the different wards, and representatives of the Jacksonian Legion. There has been some restlessness in some quarters because the Committee has not been making some demonstration before, but they did not want to imitate the Republicans by being "too previous." The campaign is young yet, and short, sharp and decisive action is always best—especially after watching the enemy long enough to ascertain their plans. Now that the Committee is in working order, let the battle go on. President Cleveland and the Democratic leaders have put the Republicans on the defensive, and in fact they are now "on the run." Let the Democrats not only keep the vantage ground, but press forward and annihilate their monopolistic adversary.

A GRAND RESULT.

We are enabled this week to report that Treasurer Langstaff has paid up all the taxes due the county, including those of 1887, except a small balance on 1882, concerning which there is some difference as to the interest, on account of a mandamus obtained for that year. The treasurer is also ready to pay that as soon as it is properly adjusted, and it is thought, considering all things, the county authorities should consent to abate the interest to a considerable extent on that balance.

We do not presume that Rahway has ever been, since its incorporation, in so favorable a position in reference to the county taxes, for, though the taxes have been at some times reported as paid up, it was done by borrowing the money on bonds or notes, etc.

Our present treasurer has always paid from the cash on hand, and has gradually and carefully reached the present favorable condition. There were about $40,000 due to the county when he first took the office, and then he was compelled, by a State law, to take for current taxes about $70,000 of tax bonds then outstanding, making about $110,000 which he has virtually paid in addition to the regular levies made after he came into office. And yet there are some croakers who are finding fault with everybody and everything connected with our present careful and successful city administration!

HARRISON'S OPINION OF IRISHMEN.

While Pat. Ford and a few others of his ilk are trying (for revenue), to induce the Irish voters to sacrifice their principles and their honor by supporting Harrison and Morton, there are other patriotic sons of the Emerald Isle who are exposing the hypocrisy of the leaders of the Republican party in their efforts to get a portion of the Irish-American vote. And some of them have not forgotten the attitude of Benjamin Harrison toward the foreign born citizens and especially Irishmen, a circumstance defining that attitude being recalled by Mr. William Condon, Sr., of Bloomington, Ill., who writes the following letter under date of July 29, to Mr. R. R. Jones, of East Randolph, N. Y.:

DEAR SIR—Your note of inquiry regarding a letter I wrote to a friend at Golden, Col., has been received and I wish to reply that Ben Harrison, the Republican candidate, used the language in question at Durley Hall, in this city, a few days before the November election in 1876.

In my letter to Golden I made a merely incidental reference to the matter, not being particular as to the exact date of Harrison's speech, but since my letter received publication I have talked the matter over with another gentleman who was also present, and likewise remembers the vile remarks. I have so often spoken about the speech to my friends that the remarks are still vividly in my memory, hence my former impression that it was only eight years ago.

Harrison and Colfax were here on the same day, the former speaking in the afternoon to a large audience among whom were few Democrats and fewer Irish-Americans, including myself. Harrison on that occasion referred to the composite character of our population, and in glowing rhetoric dwelt upon the patriotism and heroism of our nationalities, except the Irish. As Harrison was leaving this part of his address, an old gentleman, with a strong Irish accent, asked:

"How about the Irish, and where were Meagher, Sheridan, Shields, Mulligan and the others?"

The crowed hissed the question and shouted "Put him out." While they were ejecting the old gentleman from the building, Harrison said, exactly or almost exactly, the following words:

"It is easy to know that man's race; you all know what they are; if it were not for them we would not need half our penitentiaries, which are almost full of them; they have no intelligence; they are only good to shovel dirt and grade railroads, for which they receive more than they are worth, as they are no acquisition to the American people."

I have mentioned this language often to my acquaintances, and long before Harrison was prominently discussed as a presidential candidate; and therefore it cannot be said I revive the matter now for mere partisan effect. Harrison's attack was the most bitter I have heard since the time of Know Nothingism, of which he is a relic, unless the leopard changes his spots faster than formerly. People who know me will not ask for my affidavit; but, if it will give you any stronger assurance, I will promptly furnish an affidavit as to the above expressions having been uttered by Harrison. The words hurt my feelings. I have no prejudice against other nationalities; indeed, it is a pleasure to remember that all nationalities have contributed to the growth of the country, and that in the terrible conflict for the maintenance of the Union the American-born fought side by side with the exiled Celt and the German heroes from the fatherland.

Like every individual, every race has virtues and faults—none wholly good or wholly bad—and, therefore, I protest against Harrison's sweeping villification of the Irish people, who usually come here to obey the laws and help develop the mental and physical capabilities of our common country. I hope a narrow, rancorous bigot like Harrison will never be elected to preside over this free and generous nation. This false clamor of those who say the Democratic party favors free trade to the benefit of England and our detriment should blind no manly Irish-American to the fact that a savage hater of his race is running against Cleveland, a superb statesman whose principles are calculated to bring cheap food and clothing to the poor and to preserve the blessings of our Constitution for Americans yet unborn. I dislike to drag nationality into politics, because we all are or should be Americans, for American progress; but Harrison by his own vile words has provoked this matter. He first brought it out on the stump. I am a Democrat, but neither office holder nor office seeker.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM CONDON, SR.

FLOPPERS.

We give below a few more specimens of those who are abandoning the Republican party and coming out for Cleveland and Tariff Reform, selected at random from our exchanges. But, then the Republicans of this section feel that they are recompensed by the acquisition of Terry McDonald and Marsh Tucker:

Hon. M. Donohue, of Clinton, Ill., ex-member of State Senate, and a Hayes elector in 1876, has come out for Cleveland and Thurman.

Coming closer to home we find Ex-Councilman Adolph Phillippi a prominent German, of Elizabeth, renouncing his connection with the Republican party.

Wm. H. H. Fenton, a nephew of Gov. Fenton, of New York, and hitherto a steadfast Republican, announces that he will vote for Cleveland and Thurman.

George A. Macbeth, of Pittsburg, the greatest manufacturer of lamp chimneys in this country, has deserted the Republican party and declared in favor of Cleveland and tariff reform.

W. Dayton Quick, a prominent insurance agent in Buffalo, always a Republican, now says he intends to vote for Cleveland, Thurman and tariff Reform if his life is spared until the 6th of November.

D. W. Minshall, a leading manufacturer of Terre Haute, Ind., and an influential Republican, has declared for Cleveland and Thurman. He says he cannot stand the utterances of the Chicago platform on the tariff question.

Rev. C. M. Morse, pastor of the M. E. church at New Castle, Pa., a life-long Republican, has deserted his party and will vote for Cleveland, on account of the tariff and free whiskey declarations in the Republican platform.

The Deerings, who run the big harvester works in Lake View, Ill., just North of the city limits, and who employ many hundred men, are out for Cleveland. Charles W. Deering will take the presidency of the Tariff Reform League. The Deerings were strong Republicans in 1884.

Hon. Andrew Anderson, a prominent lawyer, of South Bend, Ind., former member of the Legislature, and an active and influential Republican, has come out for Cleveland and Thurman, being driven out of his old party by the false doctrines promulgated by the leaders on the tariff question.

Among the new recruits for the Democrats, besides those heretofore mentioned, are Capt. Pierce, of Golconda, late chairman of the Republican committee of his Congressional district, and Ex-Senator Whiting, who, held that position more than twenty years, and is now stumping for the Democratic ticket.

The Chicago Times says: The Bohemians of Chicago have organized a strong Democratic association. It has nine branches and fifteen hundred members. A German-American Cleveland and Thurman Club is being formed on the North side. It will be composed entirely of Germans who voted for Blaine in 1884.

Rev. Alfred P. Miller, a colored delegate to the Republican convention in Hartford, Conn., is indignant over the refusal of a restaurant keeper of that city to feed him, and it turns out that the restaurateur is one of the most pronounced Republicans in Hartford. Such an "outrage" down South would be apt to elicit a congressional inquiry!

Harper's Weekly quotes Prof. Norton, of Cambridge, as saying that he is too loyal to old Republican principles to support the present platform, and it says that the remark is common. "I am a Republican who could not vote with the party in 1884 because of the candidate, and I cannot vote with it now because of the platform."

Mr. Marshall Field, the head of the great Chicago mercantile house of Field, Letter & Co., who was a life-long Republican and a protectionist, announced his intention while in Boston a few days ago of voting for Cleveland. He does this on the ground that President Cleveland's administration in its policy on the tariff question is distinctly on the side of the business interests of the country.

Mr. John Wilhelm, a leading citizen, farmer and prominent Republican of Greencastle, Pa., favors a reduction of the tariff and supports Cleveland and Thurman. Mr. Wilhelm has been a Republican since the formation of the party, and his refusal to support the Chicago nominees of his party is an event of more than usual political significance in a county where party lines are strictly drawn.

Alfred T. Sinker, a New York broker, and formerly senior member of Sinker, Davis & Co., of Indiana, prominent manufacturers, will support Cleveland. He said to an interviewer: "I shall vote the Democratic ticket next fall for the first time in my life. I am for tariff reform, and can't stand the Republican platform. I think, too, Cleveland has made a good President and will be strong enough to carry out his reform ideas."

R. F. Tucker, a partner in the firm of J. B. Brewster & Co., carriage manufacturers, of New York city, who voted for every Republican candidate for the presidency from Lincoln to Blaine, now renounces his allegiance to that party on account of its war-tax prohibitory tariff policy, and declares his intention to vote for Cleveland and Thurman and a reduction of the tariff on materials necessary to the carrying on of his business that are not produced in this country.

Col. Owen Hamilton, one of the most prominent Republicans of Southern Pennsylvania, has declared his intention of leaving the Republican party and voting for Cleveland and Thurman and tariff reform. He is night watchman at the capital, being appointed by Governor Beaver. He sent to Governor Beaver his resignation of the position he held, accompanied by a letter, in which he says he cannot longer support a party favoring trusts and opposed to a tariff reduction.

John Stephenson, who built the first tram car for the first street-car road established anywhere in the world, for the New York and Harlem Railway Company, (Fourth avenue) in 1831, is one of the latest converts from Republicanism to the party of Cleveland and tariff reform. Mr. Stephenson is now 79 years old, and has voted for every Republican candidate for the Presidency, from Lincoln to Blaine inclusive, but announces his firm determination, if his life is spared, to vote this time for Cleveland and Thurman.

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican show that the latter day Republicans are "going back" on the founders of the organization. Says that journal: "It was little more than thirty years ago that Henry Wilson, Charles Sumner and the other representatives of Massachusetts in Congress spoke and voted in favor of reducing an average 25 per cent. tariff to one of 18 and 20 per cent. Their political descendants last night at Boston denounced the proposed reduction of a 47 per cent. tariff to one of 42 per cent. as meaning free trade."

The Journal of Caldwell, Kan., for many years the leading Republican paper of Southern Kansas, made a sensation Thursday by coming out flat-footed for Cleveland and Thurman and the entire Democratic ticket. In its leading editorial it charges that the Republican party has deviated from the paths of political rectitude and absolutely repudiated the various promises made in the past with reference to lightening the burdens of unjust taxation. It lauds the executive acts of President Cleveland and denounces as hypocrites those who accuse him of being a free-trader.

Among the letters approving his course in denouncing the new high-tariff dogma of the Republicans which Congressman Fitch has received is one from Chauncey B. Ripley, Esq., the lawyer, of Westfield, in this county, who writes: "I am a Republican to this extent; I never voted for a Democrat till I voted for Grover Cleveland. I never voted any but a Republican ticket with that exception. I shall never vote a Republican ticket again if a good candidate is not put in nomination. This is getting to be a prevailing sentiment. I am proud of my company among mugwumps." Mr. Ripley indorses the tariff-reform views embodied in the Mills bill.

Mr. Samuel G. Lowell, a well-known down-town New York business man and a life-long Republican, is among the latest bolters from that party. On Saturday he said to an interviewer: "For the first time in my life I am going to vote for the Democratic nominee for the presidency. I have always been a staunch Republican, and am sorry that the time has come when I must sever my relations. I cannot follow that party in this campaign. Its platform, as adopted at Chicago, determines my action. I believe that the duties should be taken off the necessaries of life and off raw material and remain upon whisky and tobacco, but the party to which I have always pledged my allegiance says: "No; reduce the surplus by taking the tax off whisky and tobacco rather than from the raw material or the articles that are the necessaries of every man, woman and child in the country."

One of the latest converts to democracy and lower taxes is Leo Schlessinger, one of the largest manufacturers of tin toys in the United States, whose factory is at Nos. 129 and 131 Crosby street, New York, where he employs an average of 160 hands and at wages from two to three times as great as those paid to the same class of operatives in England, Germany and France. He says: "It pays us to pay the higher wages, for we get more and better work out of our employes than the foreigners do. The enactment of the Mills bill into a law would, in my judgment, be of great benefit to our trade. It would enable us to produce our goods much cheaper, and that would create a larger home demand for them. We would be able to compete successfully with foreign manufacturers in the free markets of the world and thus have an outlet for more goods, which would enable us to keep our hands and machinery constantly employed."

The Indianapolis Sentinel publishes a long interview with Mr. John H. Bass, a prominent Republican of Fort Wayne, Ind., who is probably the leading manufacturer in the State. He employs about 2,500 men, on the average, in his own shops and mines, not to speak of those who are employed in other industrial enterprises in which he is interested as a stockholder. He expresses the opinion, based upon his long experience and observation as a manufacturer, that a policy embracing the free admission of raw material and a moderate tariff on finished products is the best for our manufacturing interests, and for the country at large. He approves of the Mills bill, and pronounces Mr. Cleveland's administration "wise, safe and conservative."

OUR WOEFUL SENATORS.

Benevolent citizens who have put into successful operation societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals, and to children, should provide one for the prevention of cruelty to Senators.

There were thirty odd of these gentlemen, Republican by profession, who gathered in Washington last December, the ponderous pleasantries of distant states. Some were rolling in wealth, some were venerable in years, some were round-shouldered by weight of intellect, and some were unsteady on their pins from want of it. They crowded into the high chairs provided by a generous nation for such corpulent dignity and importance, and settled themselves for a few months' amusement with a Democratic House and President. They were hale and hearty, and looked forward cheerfully to the coming sport.

But the sufferings of these gentlemen during the past few weeks have been poignant enough to make an enjoyable chapter for the next edition of "Fox's Book of Martyrs."

A month ago, Mr. Mills shied his tariff bill amongst them. It was very tantalizing, even aggravating. The fun thermometer sank instantly from lively to serene, and a serious solicitude chilled the Senators. They were "solemn-er" than widow Bedott's husband "with a pain in the spine of his back," but no one was bold enough to read it, correct proof and return it to "the House in which it originated."

A fortnight later the American continent trembled beneath the tread of the gigantic Blaine. He strode from New York to Portland. He was furious as a cyclone, and blowed for protection to capital, monopoly and trusts—Harrison, or no Harrison. The blow reached the Senate House, and the G. O. P. bent before the blast. It drove the wind out of windy Ingalls, and the gas out of gaseous Blair. The Senate was appalled!

In a few days, however, came an opportunity for a little pleasant diversion. The President sent them the Canadian treaty, carefully arranged by Mr. Bayard and the English Commissioner, Mr. Chamberlain. Here was a chance for recreation, which they quickly improved. With the big boy Edmunds at their head, they kicked the treaty all the way from the Capitol to the White House. It was rare sport. They enjoyed it hugely, and the Tribune Republicans applauded vigorously.

But the President saw their little game and quickly punished them. He put the treaty into his desk and pulled out his big whip. He sent them a retaliatory message—asking authority to retaliate on the Canadians for any harshness or injustice done to our people or interests. The message was more retaliatory on the Senators than it proposed to be to the Canadians. He put the big whip sharp and strong over their shoulders, though he only asked permission to gently twist the tail of the British lion. His attack was so sudden and vigorous that their short-lived mirth was hushed again into depressing gloom.

Amazed, alarmed, aghast they stood,
And struck a Bowery attitude.

Edmunds got the first whack and called for instant adjournment to seek "Tom Collins" or a "stone fence," or something else, reviving and sustaining!

Was there ever such a sorrowing, suffering lot of Senators. The Mills bill was bad enough, Jim Blaine, on the rampage, was worse—but now! If they are stung into giving Mr. Cleveland the authority desired, they must fall into the rear of the procession and assist him to election. If they refuse—they elect him sure!

Their distressful position comes from trying to run a great political party, with no political principles. The once powerful Republican party is in that moribund condition. It formulates no new issue to call out spirited leaders and gallant followers. It has nothing. It is nothing. It gathers no recruits excepting men made rich and selfish by unequal laws, and others beguiled by the senseless cry of protection to American labor. It is simply and only "an opposition party."

Why should any intelligent citizen—not dominated by prejudice—continue to vote the Republican ticket!

Apropos of its impotency to generate any new political problem, comes the news that the results of Blaine's efforts have been disheartening to the Republicans of Maine. They had said, "Wait till Blaine comes home!" "We will pour hot shot into the Democracy!" Now they say "he has no new ideas!" "He seems behind the times." That's the fault of the party, not Blaine's. The party has no new ideas; the party is behind the times. "A fountain can rise no higher than its source." Jim Blaine is an excellent spouter, but he can't spout new ideas, or pour hot shot, unless the party furnishes the material. With his wonderful energy, he has tried to spout higher than the party, but has only succeeded in dampening the people and befogging the Senate.

Mr. McKinley of Ohio, has been making speeches down South and talking old time nonsense about "the balance of trade." As this bugaboo may be logged in by other Republicans to frighten voters during the campaign, it may be well to think it over a moment.

The phrase "balance of trade," means the money difference between the nation's exports and imports. Mr. McKinley says, that under Republican rule this "balance of trade" has been in our favor—that is, that our exports have been larger than our imports, and consequently the country is growing richer; but he fears that under the Mills bill we may import more than our exports; the "balance of trade" will be against us, and the country will go to the dogs.

Let's see about this. Suppose a Rahway man ships ten thousand dollars' worth of carriages to Spain, which sell, beyond charges, for $15,000. Suppose he instructs his consignee to invest the proceeds in cork, cinnabar, wines, and other products of that country, and make returns to New York. Suppose they sell in New York for $20,000. Then the Custom-house entries will read thus: Exports $10,000, imports $15,000; "balance of trade" against us $5,000, and your Republican orator says that shows the nation is $5,000 poorer! But the Rahway man has got $20,000 instead of $10,000. Is the nation poorer because a Rahway man gets richer? The absurdity of this Republican notion is seen at a glance.

The "balance of trade" is simply a commercial relation. It has no more place in American politics than the whims of Prohibitionists, or the discarded bustle of Mrs. Cleveland. All three are on equal footing in the presence of the Constitution of the United States.

Here's a good thing from the N. Y. Tribune:

"Shall American and English products stock out markets? Shall American or English wages be paid to our working men?"

This is the bogus stuff the Tribune uses to catch votes. Why, every Kane, and Higgins, and Carnegies in the country would rush to vote the Democratic ticket, if they thought Democratic policy would reduce American wages to English standard, and the Tribune would say amen.

THOMAS J. RAYNER.

A "TEN STRIKE" BY THE PRESIDENT.

The Republican Senators at Washington have doubtless come to the conclusion that it is not healthy to fool around a buzz saw, which is likely to go into active operation when they are not expecting it. Our readers who are interested in the politics of the country have doubtless read President Cleveland's retaliation message upon the fishery question, which has attracted the attention of whole world, shows him to be a true American patriot, and completely puts to flight the Republicans who have been asserting that he was being influenced by England, by British gold, etc. These Senators, hoping to put the President "in a hole," by voting against, and defeating an amicable treaty, have been completely dumped into the pit they prepared for him, and there is great "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth" in high as well as low places in their party. To use a slang expression the President has "knocked them silly," and doubly assured his re-election.

LOCAL BASE BALL NOTES.

REPORTED BY J. M. AITKEN.

THE MONTCLAIRS FORFEIT A GAME BY LEAVING THE FIELD.

Many of the games played on the grounds of the Rahway Base Ball Association during the present season have been marked by tiresome disputes, the bone of contention being always the umpire or his decisions; but never before Saturday last had any team gone to the extreme point of leaving the field. It may be remarked just here that in many of these contests the umpiring was of a very poor sort, although it cannot be said with the slightest degree of truth that any partiality was shown. The trouble was generally that the party chosen to fill the position was incompetent.

It remained for the strong combination of ball players known as the Montclairs to bring the long succession of disputes to a climax by leaving the field because the umpire gave a decision which seemed to some of the players an unfair one. The trouble occurred in the third inning. Bradley, after making a safe hit, started to steal second, and the Montclair catcher threw to head him off. The baseman held the ball, but touched the runner with his right hand while holding the sphere in his left. At least that is the way it looked from the scorers' stand, and the preponderance of evidence goes to show that umpire Johnson, when calling the runner safe, gave the proper decision.

The weather was beautiful, and the ground in good condition. A large number of spectators had assembled when play was called at 4:15, after a tiresome wait. The teams took the field in the following order:

RAHWAYS.	MONTCLAIRS.
Lufbery, s.s.,	C. Small, lf.,
Simendinger, 1b.,	Creigg, 2b.,
Bowman, 2b.,	L. Sm all, 3b.,
Bradley, 3b.,	McMahon, cf.,
Gregg, p.,	B. Small, p.,
Brokaw, lf.,	Vought, c.,
Lawrence, cf.,	Kane, rf.,
Pratt, rf.,	Nelson, s.s.,
Keenan, c.	Davis, 1b.

Lufbery celebrated his reappearance on the team by fairly meeting a good ball which Ben Small sent him and lining it out to left centre for two bases. Simendinger struck out in a very weak way. Bowman was sent to first on balls, but Creigg caught Bradley's liner and made a double play.

For the Montclairs, C. Small hit a hot liner to Gregg, and reached first safely. Creigg's pop fly was captured by Lufbery, and Lawrence performed the same service L. Small. McMahon hit safely to right, L. Small reaching third. B. Small sent a slow grounder to Bradley, whose throw to first was muffed by Simendinger and the first run scored. Vought was the third out on his grounder to Gregg.

Gregg opened the second for the home team by striking out; Brokaw was sent to first on balls, and as he was lame, Keenan was allowed to run for him. The latter stole second in splendid style. Lawrence hit a grounder to Nelson, and was thrown out at first. Pratt struck out. For the visitors, Kane was retired on strikes; Nelson hit safe to centre and stole second, but was left there when Davis struck out and Lufbery fielded C. Small's grounder to Simen.

In the third, Keenan and Simendinger struck out and Lufbery's fly was caught by B. Small. For the Montclairs, Creigg, the heavy better, was completely outwitted by the Rahway twirler and retired on strikes; Pratt captured L. Small's fly, and McMahon failed to reach first owing to Lufbery's sharp fielding.

Bowman opened the fourth by going out on a foul to Vought. Bradley hit safely to left, and was decided safe by the umpire when stealing second, as he was not touched by the ball. The visitors protested the decision, and after a long wrangle their manager ordered them to continue playing. All consented except the pitcher and short stop, and consequently the whole team left the field, the umpire declaring the game 9 to 0 in favor of the Rahways.

There was every prospect of a fine game when the trouble commenced, and the visitors were severely censured for refusing to finish the contest. They have probably played their last game in this city.

The Rahways will go to Bergen Point on Saturday afternoon next to play their third game of the season with the team of the New Jersey Athletic Club. Each club has won one game, and both will work hard for the victory next Saturday.

On Monday next, (Labor Day) the Domestics of Newark will play the home team on the Seminary street grounds. They are a strong team and will give the boys a good tussle.

Lufbery has resigned the captainship of the Rahways, and Bradley has been appointed to the position.

Another game of base ball was played between the Leetown Stars and a picked nine on Thursday last which resulted in a victory for the Leetown Stars by a score of 17 to 9.

The Young Sumners, of this city, defeated the Boynton Beach Club on Wednesday by a score of 22 to 9, on the grounds of the latter.

The Sumners then played a picked nine of men from Rahway, and the score stood a tie of 22, and the umpire gave the game to the Sumners, the men declining to play another inning. The Sumners will play the Linden club on Friday.

A game will be played on the Athletic grounds, in this city, on Tuesday afternoon of this week, called at 3:30, between the Asbury Park club and the nine of this city who recently played them at that place. Admission to grand stand as usual. An exciting game may be expected.

At the regular meeting of the Rahway Athletic Association held Tuesday evening, August 28th, a resolution was passed to refund tickets in the future when less than five innings of any game of base ball are played. This action was made necessary by the result of the game played Saturday, the 25th inst.

C. P. RYNO, Rec. Sec.

AH! THERE! FISH!

Last Friday evening, as train No. 281 passed through Rahway, it was noticed that the last car contained a lot of tough looking citizens, all with flannel shirts and old hats; it was reported that they were some of the Salvation Army from Woodbridge, as John Miller and Gomersall were seen with them, but it was only some of the members of the Ry. Freight and Passenger Association, of New York, going to Barnegat Bay, for a clam bake and an annual wash.

They had special car No. 310 all to themselves, and they crowded the rear platform and tried to make the people they passed at the different stations happy by giving them good advice and singing together such songs as they thought appropriate.

At Woodbridge a middle-aged lady and her two daughters stood waiting for the rain to pass, like one mighty voice the cry went up—Where's-Tucker?-Oh!-Tucker-here's-girls! As the train left the depot all hands (except the reporter) waved their handkerchiefs and sang—

Bye girlies, bye,
Bye girlies, bye oh, bye,
Bye girlies, bye,
Good bye, sweet girls, good bye.

The girls laughed and Ma looked angry at first, but soon joined her daughters in waving them a farewell. Geo. Eggleston then caused considerable excitement by scooping in a "jack pot."

At South Amboy a fat, good natured colored lady was seen on the station platform with a basket of clean clothes. As this was the particular style of beauty that Wm. J. Leary admires, he was called on—"Oh! Leary, here's a brunette!" Shaking her fist at them she said: "Yer good fer nuffin schalawags. Ise show yer hoo's a burnett." Then they broke loose again and gave her—

A little more soap, a little more scrubbing—
Wash that shirt!
A little more suds, a little more rubbing—
Wash that shirt!

At Red Bank and Ocean Grove the people on the platforms were saluted with different songs. At the former place an old gentleman with flowing side whiskers and an eye glass, got—"Johnnie sell your whiskers"; and Ocean Grove was made happy, or otherwise, with "Good night ladies!"

As there was a number of soldiers at Sea Girt, they flung "Soldier will you work," in solid chunks at them.

They arrived safely but very hoarse at Sea Side Park at 8 P. M., where landlord Sullivan received them with open arms, but no clam bake. The clams were all laid up with the chicken pox, and could not attend, so they made a supper off of fried chicken pie and—beer.

After supper the band which had been hired for the occasion played dance music and the boys danced.

By great good fortune Mr. Robert Fulton, of Island Heights, was stopping in the hotel. Mr. Fulton has a very fine tenor voice and he sang a great many pieces. He is a gentleman, and a jolly good fellow, and everybody was glad he was there.

Mr. J. Currie spent the best part of the evening trying to learn a young Swedish girl how to talk English.

Leary, Coppins, VanHorn, Nichols and Schlegel distinguished themselves by chasing a girl through the dining room window, which was closed; the girl got out—so did the glass.

If the guests in the hotel had been asked what they enjoyed the most, I am sure they would say it was the parade through the hotel at 3 A. M. Dick Feist with Ed. Coppins on his shoulders leading the procession, with the band playing and all hands singing "Marching Through Georgia." At 7 A. M. they had breakfast and by 8 A. M. all hands, with one exception, were sailing down Barnegat Bay. After a good day's fishing, the party returned, expecting to get a good dinner, but got sadly left. They departed for home at 4:30 P. M., on Saturday, and arrived in New York at 8 P. M.

With the exception of one man who made a fool of himself, and who it is hoped will resign from the Association, and the dinner which was "measely," everything passed off very pleasantly.

B. POWELL.

"It's an outrage, and I'll never trade another dollar's worth at your store," said an indignant Rahway lady, yesterday, to her grocer, who had sent her some other soap instead of Tulip.

AFTER EXERCISE.

When men and maidens seek the sport
They find around the tennis court,
Or when upon the diamond field
Their bats the champion players wield,
When walks, or rides, or bending oars,
Bring perspiration from the pores,
Then people all should bear in mind
The best and purest soap to find,
For after some such exercise
The system most in danger lies,
Absorbing then both swift and sure
The poisons found in soaps impure,
And those who keep for face and hands
Of general use as time demands,
The IVORY SOAP, need have no fear
From exercise throughout the year.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

Read what Watson & Co., the celebrated Newark Clothiers, have to say about the art of dressing well at a moderate cost.

You have probably had difficulty in buying clothing that was satisfactory in every particular, as either the cut did not suit you, the make-up was not pleasing, or the price was too high, and you have often been compelled to have your garments made to order, when you would rather have bought them "all ready to put on" if you could have been fully suited. Knowing that the majority of ready-made garments are defective in some detail, and that the price of ordered work is far too high, we have conceived the idea that a system of manufacturing could be so perfected that really custom made garments could be made up all ready for use, and the cost still kept down to a low level.

SINCE WE REMOVED our ENTIRE BUSINESS TO OUR NEW BUILDING, No. 795 BROAD STREET, 4 DOORS BELOW MARKET STREET, we have been steadily ENLARGING and IMPROVING our making facilities, and can now show you the results in a stock of ready-made garments cut right up to the lines of the fashion-plate and finished so perfect (as exact copies of ordered work) that it is impossible to tell them when worn from the most expensive custom goods, while the prices have been kept down fully 20 per cent. below usual retail rates. In this we have been assisted by the great competition between home and foreign makers of fine woolens and worsted goods, and the continued agitation of tariff changes, all resulting in the lowest range of prices ever known in this country; the full benefit of which we give our customers in the low figures marked on the immense new stock of elegant garments with which we open our fall season.

READ OUR NEW PRICES.

The Finest Worsted Prince Alberts, very handsome, Vests to match, $12 / 3	Full Dress Suits, with all custom extras, $15 and 18
New Broad Wale Diagonal Cutaways, wide bound, the coat of the season, $10; With Vests to match, 3	Stylish Walking Suits, in all the new cuts and colors, $12 and 15
Fancy Worsted Coats in new colors, very stylish, $8 and 10; Vests to match at 2.50 and 3	Business Suits, cut from fine shaded Suitings, very stylish and durable, $9 and 10
Youths' Suits in new and stylish cuts to fit all the difficult sizes between boys and men, in very handsome goods, complete for $8, 9, 10 and 12	Boys' and Children's Suits, both long and short Pants, cut from the best grades of goods for style and wear, very attractive, $5, 6, 7 and 8

FALL OVERSACKS.

Made by our custom tailors, between jobs, from regular custom goods, like broad wale Diagonals, in all the new shades, Meltons, Venetians and Kerseys, with or without silk or satin facings, $9, $10, $12 and $15

Look around this season before you buy your clothing; it will pay you, as the cut is entirely different from last fall, and the prices should be fully 20 per cent. lower.

Remember it is a fact well known to the young men of this city, and not disputed in the trade, that the styles of garments we get up, while extensively copied, are NEVER REPRODUCED as we set them out, and while our CUTTING IS BOLD AND EFFECTIVE, it is CORRECT, and GENTEEL, and NEVER OVER DONE.

See our New Garments before you buy, and you will notice your improved dress appearance as soon as you try them on
