THE ATLANTIC CABLE SUCCESSFULLY LAID

The following is part of a dispatch received from Mr. Cyrus W. Field:

HEART'S CONTENT, July 27.

The cable was successfully landed at this place at noon, June 27th, and we arrived at Newfoundland on Saturday at noon, June 28th, and sent a dispatch to Mr. Bright, but the cable failed when we had run about 10 miles from the shore. We then returned to England, and have now run 1,200 miles, and have 300 miles to run. We shall be there in 48 hours.

[illegible]

The average speed during the time the ship was in the cable was 2 miles an hour, and was a little less than two miles at night. The cable has been [illegible] miles long, and the ship has been [illegible] miles. The cable was laid at the rate of two miles an hour, and the speed was increased to three miles an hour when we neared the shore. We have lost one mile of cable, leaving 1,200 miles in the ocean.

THE SOLDIER'S SOLILOQUY!

Good bye, blue rum! Go into the dye tub—into the rag bag, anywhere out of my sight. For three years I wore those blue duds, and now, thank God, they are off, and onto more. I am in command of myself.

What did I go to war for? That's the question—what did I go hard tack for, drink commissary whiskey—carry a mule's load along in the mud—suffer in hospital and lose this limb for? Who knows?

I enlisted to save the Union.

I went to war to put down the rebellion.

I fought to punish traitors.

I killed people to restore the harmony of things.

I went to war because that was in old times the way to patriotism.

And what was there gained? I had thirteen dollars a month. I rode shank's mare from Bull Run to Red River, almost for nothing.

I fought to keep the Union whole, and now, when the war is ended, I am told that fighting divided, and that legislation alone can restore the Union! Then why in thunder must I lose three years of time and a limb, if all this work must be done by Congress? Why were a million of us killed by drunken, thieving, cotton-stealing, silver ware hunting, succulted, upstart, political generals, who went up like rockets and come down like sticks, if Congress can or could restore the Union by legislation?

I went to war in good faith.

I forgot a score of times and the more I fought and the less I stole the slower came promotion.

I helped make a dozen generals, fifty colonels and a hundred officers rich.

I have lugged many a piano, rosewood bedstead, marble-top table, cabinet of books, mahogany sofa and still not Southern homes, to be sent North for the use of my superior officers, and the adornment of the homes in the North. Title was the big dare for putting down the rebellion.

And I went to war for less wages than I could have earned at home. And my wife was often starving while I was away. And my children became ragged and dirty.

My farm ran to weeds—my shop ran down—my tools were stolen or lost—my place is filled by some other man. I come a cripple, filled with disease, and am now looked upon by the same men who sent me to go to war, much as people look upon some dead beat who has gone through them for all their spare change.

And the abolitionists who forget to take care of soldiers families. The abolitionists who told us that the Democrats wanted the Union dissolved. The abolitionists who said the Democrats were traitors. The abolitionists who stayed at home and dared not fight except in the form of a mob, in the attack of some Democrat, now tell us that

The late war did not restore the Union.

The war was a failure.

The white men of the North were no match for the white men of the South.

The war would have ended in defeat for the North but for the niggers.

This is what abolitionists tell us. Look on they will have a good time getting up a peace party. Look on they will have a good time getting up a party to compel us to recognize the rebel States as part of the Union. Look on they will have a good time getting up a party to compel us to pay the rebel debt. Look on they will have a good time getting up a party to compel us to pay for the niggers they lost in the war. Look on they will have a good time getting up a party to compel us to pay for the niggers they stole from women and children.

It seems to me as if the late war was a gigantic swindle, a wicked, impossible, unfortunate jag. It did not restore the Union, but it made a pile of abolitionists and war Demos. It made a pile of money for contractors, speculators, and those who knew how to work the levers at Washington. It made a pile of cotton, niggers, mules and stolen plunder, taken by force of the bayonet from women and children.

READ! WHO SAYS SO!

From the Rev. Levi G. Beck, Pastor of the German Reformed Church, Easton, Pennsylvania:

NORTH HAMPTON COUNTY, Pennsylvania, [illegible]

I have found Hoofland's German Bitters favorable to health, and have used them in my family with good effect. I believe that I was indebted to them for the restoration of health to my wife. They have operated in a strikingly beneficial manner upon her system, and I feel pleasure in publishing this fact, and calling the attention of those who are afflicted to the means that they are recommended, in these Bitters, knowing from experience that we recommend what can be sustained. I do this more cheerfully as Hoofland's German Bitters proceeded to heal the lungs, and to "cut a consumption."

Yours truly,

LEVI G. BECK.

A

From Rev. J. Newton Brown, D. D., Editor of the Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge and Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia:

Although I cannot properly give my testimony to the efficacy of patent medicines in general, through distrust of their ingredients and effects, I yet think it due to the health of the public to say that I have found Hoofland's German Bitters a preparation of great value, and have found it in the hands of my family to be the best tonic for the loss of strength and nervous prostration consequent on long continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters at the beginning of the present year, effected a complete cure of my wife, who had been for years a victim to dyspepsia and its attendant evils, and had almost despaired of recovering health. I therefore think God and my friend for directing me to the use of the Bitters.

J. NEWTON BROWN, Philadelphia.

N

From Rev. Wm. Wolfe, formerly pastor of the Vineyardson and Millville (N. J.) Baptist church, Philadelphia:

Having used in my family a number of bottles of your Hoofland's German Bitters, I have to say that I regard them as an excellent medicine, especially adapted to remove the diseases they are recommended for. They strengthen and invigorate the system when debilitated, and are fitted to disorders of the liver, loss of appetite, &c. I have also recommended them to others, who have used them with benefit, and found them greatly conducive to the restoration of health.

Yours truly, WM. WOLFE.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

A compound remedy, designed to be the most effectual disease that can be made. It is a concentrated extract of Pure Sarsaparilla, combined with other substances of such greater alterative power as to afford them, we believe, the most decisive curative powers that are possessed by any medicine of our knowledge. We need only allude to some of the more prominent diseases for which this preparation is confidently offered to the afflicted, as those in which it has shown itself to be a powerful and lasting cure. Such as Scrofula or Kings Evil, Tetter or Ringworm, Erysipelas, Eruptions, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tumors, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ulcers, Sores, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Dimness of Sight, and Indigestion, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Dull Sensation, Irregularities, Headache, Pain, Rheumatism, Dropsy and Dim Vision
