NATIONAL DEMOCRAT.

RAHWAY, N. J., JULY 29, 1870.

CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

The Democratic Convention of the Third Congressional District, composed of the counties of Hunterdon, Middlesex, Somerset, Union and Warren, will be held at Justice Court House, in the Town of Somerville, on Thursday, the 18th day of August next, at 11 o'clock A. M., to nominate a candidate for Member of the House of Representatives of the United States, and for the transaction of such other business as may come up before the Convention.

Delegates will be appointed by the several townships in the ratio of one to every one hundred Democratic votes that were cast at the Congressional election in 1868, with an additional delegate for a fraction of fifty or over.

By order of that Convention.

WILLIAM PATTERSON, Pres't.

An exchange speaking of the adjournment of Congress, denominates it "the devil's dance ended."

Tax payers remember you are paying the income tax not to benefit the country, but to support an army of office holders.

The Congressional Convention for this district is called for August 18th, as will be seen by notice at the head of this column.

The Secretary of the Interior asks an appropriation of $[illegible] to defray the expenses of taking the census. The last one, under Democratic authority, cost $1,097,000.

The Republican Committee of the 4th Congressional District, have decided to hold their convention for the nomination of a candidate on the 1st of September.

The New York Sun-dial, the organ of Ben Butler and Simon Cameron, desires an answer to the "Has the Republican party a President, or has the Republican President a party?"

A judge in Indiana has decided the civil rights bill unless the State can punishing intermarriage between whites and negroes. The radicals doubt exult over this remarkable decision against mixing the races.

The New York Sun says the people of this country were [illegible] a little mechanically, [illegible] put themselves on a short allowance of bread and water, which [illegible] by the time they had [illegible] the Secretary of the Treasury [illegible] succeed in hoarding up [illegible] pay off the national debt.

At a meeting of the Industrial Moulders' Union, recently held in Philadelphia, resolutions against the importation of Chinese labor were presented and discussed. After an introductory preamble they say:

That while we appreciate the benefits to be derived from Chinese immigration, we are opposed to the importation of a servile class to fulfill contracts entered into in foreign soil.

That we demand the rigid enforcement of the laws of Congress prohibiting coolie importations.

That voluntary Chinese emigrants are entitled to every the protection of our laws [illegible] citizens.

That is the position we occupy [illegible]

The radicals in Congress are now [illegible] getting their share of [illegible] through before the adjournment; rather, the laws [illegible] was present by [illegible] the President. It is a measure in the interest of the Republican party, and is intended as a means of control of the elections in large cities. It creates a new and unnecessary class of officers, and [illegible] the United States Courts [illegible] through what may be called a [illegible] power, to look after every election [illegible] alleged Naturalization and other frauds in connection for United States officers. These so-called [illegible] tors or special agents are to be [illegible] in all cities containing twenty thousand inhabitants.

The new French Minister, Prince Paradol, committed suicide at Washington on Wednesday morning of last week by shooting himself through the head. It is alleged that the news of war between his country and Prussia, together with public comment on the great event, had so worked upon his feelings as to unsettle his mind. It was a few days previous that he had presented his credentials to the President, and was received in a most flattering manner.

Count Trielhard, French Minister to Chili, has been appointed to succeed M. Paradol. He will not be able to assume his duties before October. In the meantime M. Berthemy, the Ex-Minister, will remain in charge of the legation.

The answer of the Radicals to the charges against them is that they have reduced the national debt. This is nominally true, but, as the Detroit Free Press pointedly remarks, it is not their work that has secured this contributed reduction, but the taxpaying energies of the people. Have they produced taxation? No—they have reduced the national debt out of the taxes paid by the people. Have they protected the people against being robbed of hundreds of millions annually by monopolies, through the aid of high tariff duties? No—they have ostensibly reduced the national debt a few millions. Have they inaugurated a thorough system of economy in the public expenditures, and reduced the expenditures of the government? No—but they have reduced the national debt. Have they, in any way, relieved the people of the burdens consequent upon a heavy national debt, as a result of that boasted reduction? Not of a single one!

THE EUROPEAN WAR.—Dispatches from both sides say that a Prussian force from Saar Louis, which crossed the French border on Saturday to reconnoiter in the direction of St. Avold and Metz, encountered an outpost of French troops, and after a brisk skirmish retired, leaving two men on the field. The French loss is set down as twenty killed. A French deputy, or Senator, has since made a report of a Prussian reporter at that place, discovered by a French officer to be a Prussian and shot by the French.

To-day there is the Prussian force on the Rhein, near the place where the extreme end of the bridge over that river which connected Strasbourg with Kehl. A Cologne dispatch asserts that the Prussians have taken the Rhein bridge upon the Lower Moselle, which was blown up by the French. The Prussians are now at Kehl, and it is said that they have massed 200,000 men at Mayence. Rumors are rife that Austria and Spain are about to join France. A Madrid dispatch says that Austria will not be allowed to remain neutral. The Austrian Ambassador has left Madrid. The news from the seat of war is very meagre. The Prussians have the advantage of being able to use the Rhine and Moselle rivers for the transportation of their troops and supplies, while the French are compelled to use the railroads, which are not sufficient for the purpose. The French have the advantage of being able to fall back upon their fortresses, which are numerous and very strong, and have been provisioned for a long siege. The French have not yet made a movement in force, and it is said that they are waiting for the Austrians to come to their assistance. The Austrians are said to be preparing a large force, and it is said that they will be able to put 300,000 men into the field in a few weeks. The Austrian army is said to be in better condition than that of Prussia, and it is thought that it will be able to cope with the Prussian army. The Austrian army is said to be composed of the best troops in the world, and it is said that they will be able to defeat the Prussians. The war is now in its second week, and it is thought that it will last for some time. The Prussians have taken Saarbruck, which is a small town on the Saar, and have taken Saarlouis, which is a fortified town on the Saar. The French have taken Saarbrucken

These commissioners or special agents are to be appointed in all cities exceeding [illegible] inhabitants.

Have they protected the people against being robbed of hundreds of millions annually by monopolies, through the aid of high tariff duties? No—they have ostensibly reduced the national debt a few millions. Have they inaugurated a thorough system of economy in the public expenditures, and reduced the expenditures of the government? No—but they have reduced the national debt. Have they, in any way, relieved the people of the burdens consequent upon a heavy national debt, as a result of that boasted reduction? Not of a single one!

The French loss is set at ten or twelve killed. A Frankfort dispatch of Saturday also contains a report of a Prussian repulse, that point, followed by a retreat, consequent on Prussians being led by the French.

On Friday afternoon the Prussians blew on the Rodenhof, one of the three bridges on the eastern end of the bridge over the Lauter which connected Sarrebourg with Kehl. A Cologne dispatch asserts that the Prussians were repulsed in a sharp fight on the same day, and that the French retreated to Sarrebourg.

The news is in statu quo. In the meantime everybody knows what Bismarck's policy is, and knows what will not be done. Prussia will not be [illegible] Austria will not be [illegible] France will not be [illegible] England will keep her hands off. A Constitutional Conference of the Reichstag has been called to meet on the 25th inst., when the Ministry will lay before the Reichstag the proposed measures for the defense of the Fatherland, and the Reichstag will be asked to make appropriations for the war. The Cortes will also be called together by the Regent, Prim, to meet on the 20th inst., when the Ministry will lay before the Cortes the proposed measures for the defense of Spanish territory, and the Cortes will be asked to make appropriations for the war. The Ministry will also lay before the Cortes the proposition to make Prince Amadeus King of Spain, and the Cortes will be asked to confirm the choice of the Spanish people. It is said that the Ministry will also lay before the Cortes a proposition to make the Spanish Bourbons ineligible to the throne of Spain. The Cortes will also be asked to provide means for the defense of Spanish territory in the Pacific Ocean, and to take measures for the protection of Spanish subjects in the Mexican Republic. It is generally believed that the Cortes will be asked to declare the throne of Spain vacant, and to confer the regency on Prim, and to declare that the Spanish people will not recognize any other sovereign.

The news of the day from the seat of war is very meager. Accounts are given of a battle between the French and Prussians near Saarbruck, on the 18th, in which the French were repulsed with great loss. The Prussians then retreated to Saarlouis, and the French occupied Saarbruck. The French then made a demonstration against Saarlouis, but

UNION ORPHAN'S COURT—TERM [illegible] Hugh B. Lowe, administrator of [illegible] Burns, deceased, [illegible] for leave to pay debts. The said administrator having made [illegible] to this Court under affirmation a true and just account of the personal estate and debts of said deceased, so far as he can discover the same, and it appearing that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay his debts, and praying the aid of the Court in the premises. The Court thereupon order that all persons interested in the estate of said deceased, appear before this court on Monday, the fifteenth day of August next, to show cause, if any they have, why so much of the lands and real estate of said deceased, in the county of Union, should not be sold as will be sufficient to pay his said debts.
