MISCELLANEOUS.

[illegible] Mr. Frear [illegible] Water Gap. [illegible] The log pegged on into the cave, [illegible] Hundreds of people have visited this remarkable cave, and witnessed this mysterious phenomenon of the [illegible] No satisfactory explanation has as yet been given as to the cause. There are a number of crevices in the rocks near the opening from which the cold air also issues.

Mr. Frear erected a temporary platform in front of the cave. A person standing on this five minutes would experience a sensation of almost complete numbness. It was the owner's intention to excavate a passage way and erect a building over it for the accommodation of inquiring visitors. He was taken ill and confined, however, before his project was carried out. The cave is considered one of the greatest curiosities of the world.

At the opening of the Episcopal Convention at Burlington, the introductory sermon was preached by Rev. J. Stansberry, of Newark, who took his text from the eleventh chapter of Matthew, fifth verse, "The poor have the Gospel preached to them." During his discourse he said that classes in the Church should be abolished. No distinction should be made between the rich and poor; but he was sorry to say that this was not the case. If the fishermen of Galilee or the carpenter of Nazareth entered fashionable churches what sensation it would create, how unwelcome they would be received. He held that this was not wise, and that such practices would [illegible] It is our safety to obliterate all distinctions in the Church of God. In olden times distribution was made to every man according as it ought to have all things in common—one fold and one shepherd. He suggested some means for this consummation—first, the church doors must be open wide, every seat free, no sittings should be appropriated. Open the doors and sanctuaries and [illegible] filled churches, and zeal laboring men, and women ample privileges to worship their Creator. He hoped the day was not far distant when every soul should feel he has a right in the Church of God. He said that they also needed a large and disciplined ministry and more ministers.

At a meeting of the committees from the various temperance organizations of the State of Albany held in Albany last week, resolutions were adopted substantially as follows:

First—That the failure of the Republican party to redeem its pledges to enact a local prohibition law places upon us the imperative necessity for immediate and decisive action.

Second—That the tendency of the leaders to cater to the lager Bier interest, and thereby disrespect for the Sabbath, thereby imperilling our institutions, should arouse all moral, temperance and religious men to earnest opposition.

Third—That a convention consisting of one from each church, Young Men's Christian Association, temperance organization, and other organized bodies in favor of the Christian Sabbath and the suppression of the liquor traffic, be called to meet in Albany on the 24th and 25th of June next to consider and decide upon future action.

Fourth—Thanking the members of the Legislature who stood firmly by the Local Prohibition bill.

A bushel of corn will bring only fifteen cents in Kansas; while it is worth sixty eight cents in the city of New York. The difference, fifty three cents, goes into the treasury of the Railroad, for carrying the corn to market. While the farmers of the Great West are thus robbed, is it any wonder that they are establishing "Granges" to protect themselves?

Illustrating the relation of producers to railroads, and commission men and consumers, it is asserted that a farmer at Paxton, Ill., shipped one hundred and eighty bushels of potatoes to Chicago, and received $10.40 cents as his share of their value in market, which left $60—the railroad company and commission men absorbing five-sixths of the market value of his product.

The Newark Advertiser publishes a long editorial to show that the historical New Jersey mosquito is bound soon to disappear before the advancing wave of emigration and modern drainage. It contends that the mosquito tribe is falling back to the mountains, where it will be unable to propagate its kind, and the race will disappear. This is good news for people that have to board them.

The late James Fisk's park carriage is to be raffled for in New Haven, Conn. Every day, in order to attract ticket buyers, it is drawn through the streets by four horses in elegant gold-mounted harness.

Two fellows who are told that the best remedy for palpitation of the heart is to stop hugging and kissing the girls, said: "If that is the only remedy which can be proposed, I say, let 'er palpitate."

Three sets of twins have been born in Jericho since March 1st. Just seven years ago eight sets of twins were born in the same place within a space of four months.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MATTER.

ANSWERS.—The following are the answers to the questions of the 7th inst.

1. "Nothing better than to eat." (Ecclesiastes ii, 24.)

2. "Buss her." (Jeremiah xiii, 22.)

Correct answers to both by E. [illegible] and by Charles Terrel, of the M. E. Sunday School, of Rahway, N. J.

QUESTIONS.—In what part of the Bible may the following be found:

1. "Plaiting of hair."

2. "Plastered the house."

Answers to the above must reach us by Saturday.

Those sending questions should give the answers at the same time.

PRAYING PARROT.

Mrs. Jones had a large, green parrot, very talkative, and sometimes very noisy. Poll had heard her mistress read her prayers, and caught up short snatches of them. So when her mistress had visitors, Poll would become very devout and solemnly cry, "O Lord have mercy upon us!" "O Lord forgive us our trespasses!" "We are miserable sinners," and such like petitions and confessions.

One day, Mrs. Brown came to make a fashionable call on Mrs. Jones. She came in her splendid carriage and rustling silks. After passing the compliments of the morning, Poll broke out in her prayers, being just in the mood, and poured out all she had.

"O, Mrs. Jones, what a bird! I never heard anything like it! How delightful it must be to sit here and listen to the prayers of that beautiful creature! Why, I have a parrot, but I grieve to say, instead of praying, it uses naughty and profane words. I wish you would be so kind as to lend me your parrot for a little while; I have no doubt she would teach my bird to pray."

Mrs. Jones was but too happy to lend her parrot, and so this missionary left to go and win the heathen bird, she charged her to say her prayers often.

Poll went on this sacred mission, and came back with the profane acquaintance. She was gone from home a few weeks, and when she got back, it was soon discovered that she had forgotten her prayers, and could swear like a pirate.

Was the result strange or unnatural? I leave my readers to make the application.—Dr. Todd, in S. S. Times.

A SOMBRE SCENE.—A young man entered the bar room of a village tavern and called for a drink. "No," said the landlord, "you have had too much already. You have had the delirium tremens once, and I cannot sell you any more." He stepped aside to make room for a couple of young men who had just entered, and the landlord waited upon them very politely. The other had stood by silent and sullen, and when they had finished he walked up to the landlord, and thus addressed him: "Six years ago, at their age, I stood where those young men now are. I was a man with a fair prospects. Now, at the age of twenty eight, I am a wreck, body and mind. You led me to drink. In this room I formed the habit that has been my ruin. Now sell me a few glasses more, and your work will be done! I shall soon be out of the way; there is no hope for me. But they can be saved; they may be men again. Do not sell it to them. Sell to me, and let me die, and the world will be rid of me; but for heaven's sake sell no more to them!" The landlord listened, pale and trembling. Setting down his decanter, he exclaimed, "God helping me, this is the last drop I will ever sell to any one!" And he kept his word.—Nat. Temperance Advocate.

A NEW RAILROAD.

According to invitation, a number of interested citizens met at Union Hall on Thursday afternoon last, to consider the subject of a new railroad from Rahway, by which another connection with New York may be made.

[illegible]

The meeting adjourned until next Thursday afternoon at five o'clock, at the same place, when the committee is to report as to the result of the canvass, and further steps toward organization will be taken.

It is hoped that our citizens generally will at once take an interest in the matter, and it cannot help being a success.

The Waverly Park Spring Meeting will be held during the last week in June, 24th, 26th and 27th.

It is poor policy to put off paying a yearly newspaper bill. It gets more troublesome by letting it accumulate to a large sum.

O'Rourke & Bro., contractors, commenced the Seminary street sewer on Monday morning.

Rev. Dr. Abercrombie preached an excellent sermon at the Church of the Holy Comforter last evening.

[illegible]

The fine weather of the past week has given the contractors a good opportunity to progress with the various street improvements under way.

The people and press of Plainfield are jubilant over their new [illegible] and the immense amount of building going on at present and in contemplation.

[illegible]

On Monday, there was a complaint preferred against proprietors of drinking places in New Brunswick, for selling liquor on Sunday. [illegible]

[illegible]

BASE BALL.—On Saturday last [illegible] The Atlantic and Unknown base ball clubs, of this city, played a game for a bat, on Saturday afternoon last and resulted as follows: [illegible]

We understand that the Second Presbyterian Church is about to be closed for a season in order to allow another improvement—the addition of galleries [illegible]

CHILDREN'S DAY AGAIN.—The 1st Baptist Church Sunday School will hold a floral concert next Sunday evening, at 7½ o'clock. Charles T. Goodwin, of New York, a prominent S. S. speaker, will make the address. All are invited.

Our coon hunters had another evening's sport last week, having procured one of those interesting animals, from South Jersey, for the occasion. [illegible] the hunters and their dogs, was unable to take the dust.

An unknown man was killed on the railroad near Metuchen yesterday afternoon. The body was brought to this city, but no papers were found upon it by which to ascertain who it was. A piece of a plug of tobacco, some matches, three cents and a shoemaker's knife well worn and sharpened were all that was found in the pockets.

The latest attachment to sewing machines is an ingenious contrivance for attaching a fan, which is operated by the crank of the machine, keeping the operator delightfully cool while working the machine. Everybody should buy a machine, if only for the sake of being kept cool during the heated term.

Our usual routine of business has been interfered with this week by reason of removing our presses and other working material into the new extension which we have just erected in the rear of our building. Our business office will remain as heretofore, only the working department being removed back from the street. The trouble has not been quite so great as a removal, to entirely new quarters, yet we must ask the indulgence of some of our customers for two or three days until our machinery gets in good working order, when we will have improved facilities for executing all kinds of printing, "neat, quick and cheap." Call and see us!

CHILDREN'S DAY.—Sunday last was the day set apart by the authorities of the Methodist churches throughout the country to be devoted to the children, and was so observed in this city. The 2d M. E. Church was very handsomely trimmed with fragrant flowers and evergreens, with the words "God-Bless our School" in large letters formed of evergreens over the pulpit. In the evening the children were addressed by Prof. Sanders and Rev. Mr. Lockwood the pastor, the church being crowded in every part. From a statement made by the secretary, it appeared that the school numbers two hundred and fifty scholars and teachers. The exercises were very interesting, and the singing of the children was good.

A serious railroad smash-up occurred at Newark yesterday afternoon. A heavily laden freight train started from Newark for Jersey City, crossing the new bridge, and at the same time the two o'clock passenger train from New York, was approaching on the old track; the signal was not displayed soon enough and the trains collided, smashing both locomotives and several cars, but strange to state, killing no one. The engineer on the passenger train, Samuel Stewart, aged 60 years, who stood bravely at his post, was the most seriously injured, and it is thought cannot survive. Conductor Maxwell and a number of the passengers were more or less bruised and cut, but none, it is said, seriously. The freight train contained a number of sheep, many of which were killed and injured, while others skipped over the meadows in all directions. It has not yet transpired "who was to blame."

Mr. J. B. Cornish, State Senator from Warren county, has been elected President of the "South Mountain and Boston Railroad."

The Colored Men's State Convention, held last week at New Brunswick, [illegible]

A Jersey City paper speaks of a man who, [illegible]

Elizabeth and Paterson are both to have the free postal delivery, under the new law authorizing the extension of the free delivery system to cities having a population of twenty thousand. [illegible]

Mr. Charles Wilson, keeper of the State Prison, states that the report of a threatened riot at the prison [illegible]

The concert at the Congregational Church, Plainfield, on Tuesday evening, was a grand success. [illegible]

The handsome bronze statue in front of Suydam Hall, on the Campus of the Theological Seminary, at New Brunswick, was daubed with white paint by some vandal on the night of the 3d inst. The trustees offer a reward for the apprehension of the scamp.

A law passed at the last session of the legislature, compels rope to be affixed to all bell cords [illegible] cars, every freight cars, to the last car and rear end of each car of every train, and the penalty for every violation $100. The informer gets $100 and the state $200 of the fine. [illegible]

On Wednesday of last week, [illegible] were engaged in raising a barn belonging to Messrs. Wycoff Brothers, at Keyport, a post placed on the ground to hold the rope gave way, letting one side of the frame down, instantly killing H. C. Taylor and John Wise and severely injuring several others.

Princeton College numbers among its graduates the representatives of three distinct families who have for three successive generations gained places in Congress. These families are the Wymers, of Pennsylvania, the Archers, of Maryland, and the Stocktons, of New Jersey.

There is an old lady named [illegible], of Flemington, Hunterdon county, who is an applicant for a pension from the pension bureau at Washington. It would appear [illegible] her husband served in the war of 1812; one of her sons in the Mexican war and she had twelve grandchildren in the Union army during the late war, two of the number being killed, and the other ten returning safe home, with the exception of slight wounds. The ancient dame will compare favorably with the Spartan or Roman matrons of history.

SOMETHING NEW.—Mr. Patrick Cannon, a converted Roman Catholic, will exhibit his Bible Panoramas at the Irving street Baptist Church, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 17th, 18th and 19th, 1873, commencing at 8 o'clock. Tickets for the course (three), single tickets 25 cents—to be had of Geo. M. Plum, John H. Durand, J. T. Crane, S. T. White and A. H. Brown, committee. The object is to benefit the church, and at the same time to give an entertainment worth far more than the cost of admission, interesting and instructing all lovers of truth, giving them a view of the Bible history of the world from creation down to the end of time, well calculated to strengthen their faith in the authenticity of the Holy Scriptures. Don't fail to see it.

SUNDAY TRAINS.—It is stated that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company propose running Sunday trains on the New Jersey divisions of their road, for the accommodation of dwellers in cities and towns in this State who are now isolated from one another from Saturday evening to Monday morning. We trust the company has no such intentions. We are sure that the people of New Jersey desire no such accommodation. Railroad companies have already made such innovations upon the sanctity of the Sabbath as to leave scarcely any distinction between it and other days; and the demoralizing effects permeate every channel of society. One great industry or business is in operation on that day, starts a dozen others. Let the roar of unrestricted travel banish the peaceful serenity of the Sabbath, and we should soon see a rapid breaking down in all directions, of the beautiful customs which characterize this holy and restful day. Great corporations owe it to society that they should not sacrifice the sanctity of the Sabbath to greed, and we trust the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will commit no such inexcusable blunder.—State Gazette.

The Pennsylvania Legislature passed a law last winter prohibiting the sale of oysters during the months of June, July and August.

A PRACTICAL TEST.

"A Danbury" man named Reubens, recently saw a statement that counting one hundred when tempted to speak an angry word would save a man a great deal of trouble. ...

"What in thunder do you mean by letting your hens tear up my garden?"

... "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight."

Then the neighbor laughed, ...

"Why don't you answer my question, you rascal?"

But still Reubens maintained his composure, and went on with the test.

"Nine, ten, eleven, twelve, thirteen, fourteen, fifteen, sixteen."

The mad neighbor glared harder than ever.

"Seventeen, eighteen, nineteen, twenty, twenty-one."

"You are a mean skunk," said the mad neighbor, backing toward the fence.

Reubens' face flushed at this charge, but he only said:

"Twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five, twenty six."

At this figure the neighbor got up on the fence in some haste, but suddenly thinking of his peas, he opened his mouth:

"You mean, low-lived rascal, for two cents I could knock your cracked head over a barn, and I would—"

"Twenty-seven, twenty-eight," interrupted Reubens, "twenty-nine, thirty, thirty-one, thirty-two, thirty-three—"

Here the neighbor broke for the house, and entering it, violently slammed the door behind him; but Reubens did not dare let up on the enumeration, and so he stood out there alone in his own yard, and kept on counting, while his burning cheeks and flashing eyes eloquently affirmed his judgment. When he got up into the eighties his wife came to the door in some alarm.

"Why, Reubens, man, what is the matter with you?" she said. "Do come into the house."

But he didn't let up. She came out to him, and clung trembling to him, but he only looked into her eyes, and said:

"Ninety-three, ninety-four, ninety-five, ninety-six, ninety-seven, ninety-eight, ninety-nine, one hundred—go into the house, old woman, or I'll bust ye."

And she went.—Danbury News.

A son of the Emerald Isle, says the Woodford Sentinel, whose wife had the day before bought a box of matches of Sam Miller, a prominent grocer in Minonk, came into his store the other day, and presenting the box to Sam, says:

"Mr. Miller, my wife says these matches are no account."

"How is that?" asks Sam. "I keep the best of everything."

"Well," says Pat, "my wife can't light 'em, and she told me to go back with them."

Sam thereupon takes out match after match, and striking them upon the leg of his pants holds the brightly burning fuse, before the astonished Celt, exclaiming:—"There, don't you see, they are good matches, not one has missed."

"Do you take me for a d——d fool?" asked Pat. "Do you suppose that I'm going to send my wife down here to scratch matches on your dirty ould pants every time she wants to light the fire?"

This brought down the house and Sam willingly paid the cigars.

The Sunday School Times published by John Wanamaker, and edited by H. C. Trumbull, 1428 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and 812 Broadway, New York, is an excellent paper and should be taken by all interested in the Sunday School work, especially teachers and scholars, as it contains each week a full exposition of the international lessons now in general use, for the approaching Sabbath, besides other instructive matter. Single copies $2 per year; clubs of ten $1.50; from twenty to forty, $1.25; over forty, $1; pastors and superintendents $1.50.

Col. David Perry, the hero of the capture of Captain Jack, is a nephew of Hon. Nehemiah Perry, of Newark. He entered the army at the outbreak of the rebellion, in a New Jersey cavalry regiment, and at the close of the war he was gazetted captain in the First Regiment of Cavalry. He was brevetted colonel April 5th, 1873.

Two brothers in Iowa married two sisters, and afterwards their father married a sister of their wives. Most of their time is now devoted to efforts to ascertain the relationship of their children.

CAPTAIN JACK'S EARLY LIFE. Mrs. Joseph Knott, an old lady living in Portland, Oregon, gives an interesting account of the early life of the Modoc chieftain. She says that while living at Canonville, Douglass county, in 1851, an Indian boy came to her house and asked in the jargon of the Indians that he might live there. He was active, keen and shrewd, he lived with the family several years, and at his own request was christened Jack, after the oldest son of Mrs. Knott. "Jack" was the constant companion of his namesake in those times, and they often spent the whole day together hunting. On one occasion, after he had been whipped, he became offended and attempted to kill one of the family, Levi Knott, but failed. This circumstance led to his expulsion from the family, and from that time until now he has not been seen by them, except in 1869, the year in which he murdered Mrs. Harris. His mother was a sister to Rogue River John, who attempted to seize the steamer Columbia, while she lay at anchor in the harbor of Crescent City, and a half sister to the war chief Sam, of the same tribe, and Chief Joe, who received his appellation from having fought Gen. Joe Lane.

A BALLOON TRIP TO EUROPE.—Prof. John Wise and W. H. Donaldson, two experienced aeronauts, propose to take the balloon voyage of which so much has been said and so little done. The Boston Board of Aldermen have responded to a petition from them, and an appropriation of $4,000 to aid them in fitting out their aerial ship, in which they will start from the Common in that city on July 4th. The gentlemen will take two other persons with them, and through the co-operation of the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia expect to secure the services of two scientific men. Prof. Wise bases his reason for undertaking this perilous voyage on the following theories. At a certain height above the earth there is a continuous air-current, or tide setting from west to east, caused mainly by the centrifugal force generated by the revolution of the earth on its axis, and this current moves at the rate of 60 to 100 miles per hour. Thus he expects to reach England in two days, at the most, from the time of starting.

"Whitney's Musical Guest," for June contains the following choice music: "The Two Villages," vocal duett, James G. Clark; "The Dear Old Cottage," song and chorus, Chas. H. Carroll; "Campanula Waltz," by S. L. Hill, and two beautiful Sunday School Songs. The editorial and literary departments, as usual, glitter with good things. Among them we notice the last chapter of the interesting serial, "Mozart's First Love," "Vienna as a Musical Metropolis," "Work and Wife," a special address to the ladies; "Manners," a complete and interesting account of the Cincinnati Musical Festival; "Music in the public schools," the usual department, "Hints for the Household," generally designed for the ladies' perusal, and other articles of great interest which our limited space forbids mentioning. Only $1 per year. W. W. Whitney, publisher, 111 Summit street, Toledo, O.

The New York Legislature has passed the civil damage liquor law, under which the vender of liquor and the owner of the building in which it is sold are made responsible in damages to "every husband, wife, child, parent, guardian, employer, or other person who shall be injured in person or property, or means of support by any intoxicated person, or in consequence of any person." A similar law has been found to diminish the evils of intemperance in Ohio and other States.

A curious fact in connection with the death of ex-Senator Budd, of Morris county, is that during a period of about two years and a half, five Senators and ex-Senators of Morris county have died, and that there now only remain Senator Cutler and ex-Senator Beach. The deceased were Messrs. George T. Cobb, Alexander Robertson, Andrew B. Cobb, John A. Hooker and Daniel Budd.

Erastus Corning, who married Miss Mary Parker, of Albany, sailed for Europe, and will be absent two years. The honeymoon trip will cost $75,000, which is only equal to his income for one month. Erastus Corning is the richest man of his age in the world. His estate is now valued at $—, while his income is put down at $—, or $— a week, over $2,000 per working day.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MATTER.

The following are the answers to the questions of the 5th inst.

1. "They that handle a pen of a writer." ...

2. "Plant pine trees and box."—Isaiah xli. 19.

Correct answers to both by E. L. of Tottenville, N. J., and by Charles Terrill of the 1st M. E. Sunday School, of Rahway, N. J.

QUESTIONS.—In what part of the Bible may the following be found:

1. "Presbytery."

2. "Three presidents."

Answers to the above must reach us by Saturday morning of next week.

Those sending questions should give the answers at the same time.

The modern lesson-papers are all very well if teachers do not attempt to press every point suggested in these papers on each scholar of their classes. A lesson-paper is like a hotel bill-of-fare. It names a long list of dishes, from which each guest must select for himself, or from which a parent or guardian may select for his child or charge. The man who attempts to cram every separate dish down his own throat, or the throat of his little one, is likely to overload a stomach, but not to secure nourishment and health. An important work of the teacher is to look carefully over the lesson bill-of-fare, to see just what dishes each scholar of his class should have, and then leaving the others for those to whom they are better suited. No one can arrange the plan of a Bible lesson so that it shall equally well suit old and young, sinner and saint. But from each Bible lesson food suitable for the ... by a wise teacher, for a scholar young or old, Christian or reprobate. No teacher can teach all of a Bible lesson. No small part of his power depends on a wise selection of what part of it he is to teach.—Independent.
