

Sale of Sugar Loaf Hill Farm Made to South Orange Man

Property of 106 Acres Near Phalanx Purchased by Ildon R. Blackburn for Country Estate.

New Owner Plans To Make Many Alterations

Sugar Loaf Hill farm in Atlantic Township near Phalanx has been purchased from Daniel McCormick by Ildon R. Blackburn of South Orange, who intends to improve and alter the ancient house on the place and make it his home. The sale was made last week by the Joseph G. McCue agency of Rumson. The property had been on the market for $20,000, but the price paid is said to have been about $10,000.

The land comprises 106 acres and has large frontages on both sides of the Col's Neck-Phalanx road. The house, which contains nine rooms, is considerably back from the road and overlooks a brook. In close proximity to it are seven outbuildings. The antiquity of the house is apparent from the huge hand-hewn timbers used in its construction and from other old-time features.

The farm derived its name from an old cone-shaped hill which rises steeply on all sides and which is the highest point in the neighborhood. The hill is a favorite place for sled coasting in the winter and is largely used for picnics in warm weather. The base of the hill covers about ten acres, but the apex is only about 12 yards square. On clear days the Atlantic ocean and the towers of New York are visible without the use of glasses. At the summit is a small building which was used by army signal corps men as a look-out a few years ago.

The farm has 94 acres on the west side of the road and 12 acres on the east side. It adjoins the Bucklin estate. For many years it was owned by members of the Polhemus family. A later owner was the late John Smock, who lived at Pleasant Valley near Holmdel. During his ownership the farm was operated by John Grant and Edward Poole. Mr. McCormick bought the property about 25 years ago.

Real estate agents throughout this section report no diminution in the demand for farms on the part of wealthy city residents who want to establish country estates. Several other sales are said to be at the point of being consummated. Despite the many recent sales made there are still a considerable number of rural properties on the market.

Council Doings At Sea Bright

Fish Drome Leased to William Keefe—Non-Resident Fishermen to be Assessed $50—Police Ordinance Prepared.

The fish drome at Sea Bright was leased to William Keefe, present occupant, for a period of 21 months at a meeting of the mayor and council last Thursday night. Mr. Keefe submitted a bid of $500.

Borough Attorney Leon Rousseau was directed to prepare an amendment to the license ordinance assessing non-resident fishermen who use the public beach $50 for the privilege. Councilman Neil Jacobson made the recommendation.

An ordinance providing for the organization of the police department was referred to the police committee for study and for a report at the next meeting.

Red Bank attorney, appeared in behalf of Peter Murray, who has a refreshment stand on East Church street at the beach, with regard to parking congestion in that area. Mr. Gray said that he suggested that only commercial vehicles be permitted to park in the street from the railroad to the beach. The council refused to consider any such action but instructions will be given to the police to keep driveways clear.

There was a discussion relative to the payment of firemen who guard properties following fires until the arrival of an insurance representative. The question arose as to whether the borough or the owner of the property should pay for the men's services. Some citizens said that years ago they were paid by the borough, while others stated that in recent years the property owners paid the cost. The discussion ended without any definite action upon the matter.

Council approved the payment of $1,000 to the board of education.

W. Fary, borough clerk, reported receipts of $281.

First House On New Development At Shrewsbury

Fine Dwelling Being Erected on Shrewsbury Acres Tract Near Sycamore Avenue—Nine Other Houses Will Be Built.

The first house to be built on Shrewsbury Acres, Shrewsbury's newest real estate development is well underway and it will be completed early in September, when it will be placed on the market by A. W. Bry. The tract comprises approximately five acres and is divided into ten plots, each of which consists of about half an acre. The land was purchased from the Emerson estate a short time ago. It is a short distance south of Sycamore avenue and through it is a new street of cinders and gravel which has been named Corn Lane. This thoroughfare extends eastward from Fisher place and its eastern extremity is a traffic circle. In order to accentuate its country appearance no flagwalks or curbs will be made. Pedestrian traffic will be over grass walks. The development is provided with gas, water, electricity, sanitary and septic systems. Only two-story houses will be built and there will be other restrictions.

The house is being built on a plot, 135x155 feet, on the north side of the street. On the south side the plots are 140x155 feet. The new dwelling is to be 32x58 feet, including a side porch, 12x18. On the first story will be a living room, a fireplace, a dining room, a modern kitchen and a powder room. Upstairs will be three large bedrooms and two bathrooms, each with a stall shower. A two-car garage with overhead doors will be attached to the dwelling. The house is of the triple-inlaid Johns Manville type, with an asbestos roof, recessed radiation, rock wool insulation throughout, brass piping and a Petro oil burner. When completed the building will be open for public inspection for 30 days.

Mr. Bry states that he intends to build houses on all ten plots and to place them on the market at prices ranging from $10,500 to $11,500. He says air conditioning will be featured in the next residence to be constructed. Town and Country, Inc., of Red Bank has the contract for the carpenter and mason work. The subcontractors are Victor Perotte of Sea Bright for electrical work, Fred Murray of Bradley Beach for painting and decorating, Alex Hunter of Red Bank for plumbing and heating, Darby & Bray for roofing and sheet metal work and Oil Delivery, Inc., of Long Branch for the oil burner. The mill work material will be supplied by the Monmouth Lumber company.

Mr. Bry states that one of the reasons why he chose Shrewsbury for the development was because this municipality has the lowest tax rate in Monmouth county. He believes this will prove a large factor in influencing home seekers to settle on his tract. Other considerations which he considers important are the historic background and picturesque scenery of Shrewsbury, its proximity to Red Bank and other natural advantages.

The dwelling under construction is known in the building trade as the Pennsylvania farmhouse type. It will be enclosed with Princeton quarry red and blue-gray stone. So far as this is the first of a series of houses to have such enclosures. All the houses are to be colonial in design and are to be financed under the Federal Housing Administration plan. A number of trees are on the tract. More will be set out and considerable landscape work will be done.

Vanderveer Talks To Red Bank Lions

Supervisor of Monmouth County Inheritance Tax Commission Explains Provisions of Inheritance Tax Laws.

Edgar I. Vanderveer, supervisor of the Monmouth County inheritance tax commission, spoke to members of the Red Bank Lions club Tuesday night on the subject, "The Inheritance Tax." He explained several of the provisions and phases of inheritance tax legislation, particularly those concerning New Jersey. Mr. Vanderveer declared that the State of New Jersey has the lowest inheritance tax in the United States. Only one state has no tax, this being Florida. Mr. Vanderveer was the sponsor of the reciprocal act concerning personal property being taxable only by a state of domicile and no other. The supervisor also mentioned that the Arthur Brisbane estate was divided among several states so that New Jersey was unable to realize any single amount of tax. Mr. Brisbane had no real property in the state and very little personal property. The federal government will collect or has collected the largest tax from Mr. Brisbane's estate, he said.

Mr. Vanderveer told the members present that he would donate the attendance prize at next Tuesday's meeting. He will present an interesting and not too hard question for them to guess. The nearest answer will win a prize of much practical use.

Theodore Moore presided at the meeting. The attendance prize, which was to have been presented at Tuesday night's meeting by Raymond Johnson and John Hawkins, will be given next week with Mr. Vanderveer's prize. The postponement is due to the fact that no person present was able to answer the hard question presented to them by Mr. Hawkins. He has promised to have an easier question next week.

Lester R. Ross reported that the sale of chance on a trailer now being raffled off by the National Sweepstakes committee to help finance the cost of the Regatta was encouraging. A committee to aid Mr. Ross was appointed by President Moore. Edwin Conover is in charge assisted by George Olmstead and Frank P. Merritt.

James H. Mattenlee was also appointed to serve as chairman of a committee for a worthy project of the service club to send two young men to Camp Ockanoke for the summer period. Reports and details will be given by Mr. Mattenlee at a future date. Lion John P. Mulvihill was responsible for presenting the guest speaker at Tuesday night's meeting.

Leonardo Citizens Solid For Harbor and Beach Project

Five Attractive Residences Sold In This Locality

New Owners for Houses in Shrewsbury Township, Riverside Drive, Eatontown, Oceanport and North Long Branch.

Sales in the neighborhood of Red Bank of five residences and one home site have been made during the past few days by Ray H. Stillman of Eatontown. The purchasers will occupy the places which they bought. Mr. Stillman states that the demand for residences and residence sites is increasing, especially on the part of city folks who desire to become commuters.

The house at the northeast corner of Sycamore avenue and Hance road in Shrewsbury township has been bought by Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Sporgberg of Red Bank from J. K. Freeman, who now occupies it. The property is a short distance east of the Mickey Walker farm. It consists of about an acre of land, with frontages of 103 feet on Sycamore avenue and 400 feet on Hance road.

The house on the premises was built about five years ago by Fletcher Sherman. It has seven rooms and two bathrooms and connected with it is a two-car garage. The dwelling is in first-class condition and the new owner does not anticipate making alterations. The property was on the market for $11,500.

One of the features of the house is the old-fashioned Dutch front door which is said to have been built more than 200 years ago. The door is divided into three panels. Recently a photograph of it was taken by a representative of the Chesterfield cigarette company to be used on the covers of cigarette packages. The door was obtained by Mr. Sherman shortly before he started building the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Sporgberg have been stopping at the Molly Pitcher hotel the past two months, moving there from Bronxville, New York. They were so pleased with Red Bank and its environs that they began seeking a home in this section shortly after they moved here. Mr. Sporgberg is a retired business man.

Atterbury Boudinet of Locust has bought George Librale's residence property of three acres on Riverside drive fronting on Claypit creek, a tributary of the Shrewsbury river. The new owner is now occupying the house which is of the old-fashioned rambling type and which is said to have been built more than 150 years ago. The property had been on the market for $20,000.

The house is picturesquely located on high land commanding a wonderful view of the countryside. Giant oaks said to be 300 years old, tremendous evergreens and a variety of other "trees" are on the premises, while on the opposite side of Claypit creek is the famous Hartshorne woods. The residence has ten rooms and three bathrooms and it is equipped with steam heat.

Cyril Samoy of New York, a Swiss clockmaker, has bought the property on Broad street, Eatontown, owned by the Lincoln Motor company of Newark. The lot is 100x200 feet. The house has eight rooms and a bathroom. A two-car garage is on the place. The residence was one of the finest at Eatontown, but in recent years it has been unoccupied and has become run down. Mr. Samoy plans to make many improvements and to open a business for the sale of clocks and watches.

Clarence E. Lovejoy, yachting editor of the New York Times, has bought Clifford A. Spoer's property near Leonardo, located in the Horse Neck section of Oceanport. The land has frontages of 600 feet on the South Shrewsbury river and 500 feet on Leonard avenue. It comprises 3 1/2 acres. Two houses are on the premises. The largest one has eight rooms and a bathroom. The other is known as a guest cottage. A two-car garage is on the place. Mr. Spoer is vice president of the First National bank of Jersey city and a former director of the Eatontown National bank.

Dr. R. Sterling Mueller of New York, a surgeon, has bought the residence owned by Mrs. Alverda C. Jones fronting on the ocean at North Long Branch. The property has a frontage of 150 feet on the ocean and is 400 feet deep. The house contains 13 rooms and three bathrooms. The place had been on the market for $15,000.

Thomas Joyce of Eatontown, formerly of Newark, has bought an acre plot at Stillman Park, Eatontown, on which he will build a house for his own occupancy. He paid $10,000 for the land. The new owner has had a lake made on the property, the contractor for this work having been Green Bros. of Long Branch.

Miss Grace Sheppard, assistant dean of the New Jersey college for women at New Brunswick, has bought a lot adjoining her summer cottage at Shelter Cove near Barnegat for use as a garden and as a site for a garage. Shelter Cove is owned by Ray H. Stillman of Eatontown and Wellington Wilkins, Sr., of Tinton Falls. They have just finished building a model five-room cottage on the development.

Moreland's Maid Takes Championship At Rumson

Horse Bought for $5.00 Wins Jumping Honors

Miss Helen Bedford's Woodfellow and Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn's Prince Charming, II, Champion Hunters.

Displaying marked style and action, Moreland's Maid, the almost invincible chestnut mare owned by Mrs. L. Victor Well of Rumson, was named grand champion saddle horse Saturday at the closing session of the Monmouth County Horse show at Rumson. The victory gave Mrs. Well her first leg on the Plainfield Riding and Driving club trophy, won four years in succession by the veteran performer, Winning Ways.

Moreland's Maid was ridden to this signal honor by Frank Connor, the man who trained and rode Winning Ways to her first cup victory in 1933. Winning Ways, Kaiser of Lincoln, owned by Louis Kaiser of Lincoln, was sold recently to a Western state and was not shown at the Rumson show. Mr. Kaiser died last spring.

When three fox hunters with records of championship victories that date back several years got together in the same show ring it is a job for any judge to select the best of the lot. This was the case when Helen Bedford's Woodfellow and Mr. and Mrs. Edward V. Quinn's Prince Charming, II, were paraded for the championship Saturday.

After considerable debate and with blue-ribbon records from this show taken into account the tri-color judges planned to the bride of Woodfellow. Prince Charming won the reserve ribbon. In the $250 hunter stake event, however, the decision was reversed, and Prince Charming took the blue as well as the largest end of the purse.

The jumper championship went to Mrs. Gordon Wright's Sonny, a horse that was bought at the owner in White Plains, N. Y. The owner of the horse discarded him on the street. Second award in the jumper stake went to Playboy, a bay gelding owned by Mrs. Jean Guerin of Orangeburg, New York.

Although hard pressed by Modern Rouge, a smart looking bay mare owned by Mrs. Fred Wetach of Shrewsbury, the tri-color judges voted money in the $250 champion five-gaited stake went to Janet Sue, the veteran gelding owned by Mrs. Elsie E. Holdsworth of Stoughton, Massachusetts. Miss Holdsworth's horse gave just a little better performance than Mrs. Wetach's mount.

Miss Ann Bingham of Little Silver lost the good hands championship to Archie Dean, Jr., of White Plains, New York, after the young rider had been put through severe test to show that he was the best. The class was won by Mrs. James A. Hewes of Jericho, Long Island, who had a world of experience in the show ring and is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on horsemanship in the East.

Fliz Lee, a well-bred fencer from the stable of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Finch of Sea Bright, distinguished himself twice Saturday when he rode his horse to win the tri-color ribbon and four of the day. The most important victory was the Billy Brook trophy awarded to the best hunter under regularity with the Monmouth County hounds. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Neuberger of Sunnyside farm, Middletown township, took second honors in this class with Town Crier, an aged dark brown gelding.

Ridden by Miss Louise Finch, Fliz Lee gave a sterling performance in the open jumping class for horses jumping and height, and won another blue. High Time, owned by Miss Clara Weber of Mount Kisco, New York, was second. Lucky Gold, another Finch entry, took the measure of Mrs. Raymond G. Wolfe's Luolifer in the class for bridle trail and Beau Joe, a five-year-old Finch mount, topped a large class of hunter hacks.

It was Frank Connor's lucky day. Besides winning the grand championship with Moreland's Maid, he also won the $250 stake for three-gaited saddle horses with Dixie Maid and then drew the winning number on a jumping horse called Galloping Hope. He sold the horse before he left the show for $100.

Dixie Star, aged chestnut mare owned by Sheldon E. Prentice of Rumson, became champion polo mount of the show after retiring the coveted H. Herbert Lightweight cup by winning it two years in succession. Mr. Prentice announced that he would put a new cup in competition next year.

Dixie Star had fought her way through the local class, where she took a blue, the model mount class, where she took a third, and the breeding class, where she took a second, before edging out Tuffy, owned by W. H. Foulke of Shrewsbury, for the Herbert cup. She then entered a four-way contest in the championship to take the lead over J. L. Kemmerer's veteran chestnut gelding Cammaron, a Sea Bright entry.

Much interest centered in the children's classes Saturday. The Alfred B. Macleay trophy in the A. B. P. C. A. horsemanship event was won by Miss Clara Weber of Mount Kisco, New York. The open horsemanship event for children under 17 went to Miss Cynthia Cleva Wrighton of Glenhurst. Miss Jane Mooney won the contest for children under seven on lead line and the Junior A. H. S. A. horsemanship class was captured by Miss Ann Fennessy of Flushing, Long Island. The remaining children's event of the day, open horsemanship to those under 12, went to Miss Fennessy also.

William Woodruff of the polo pony race Saturday for the third day in succession with Royal Splendor.

energy and public support that can only be supplied by the people right here in Leonardo. The matter of securing the harbor project cannot be initiated and carried through these projects without the wholehearted support, active participation and real work on the part of the people in Leonardo who are the ones vitally interested therein.

PART II.

To the Middletown township committee: We ask your board, as the governing body of Leonardo, to initiate such official action as may be necessary to accomplish the plan herein set forth.

In making this request we assure you that this is the expression of an overwhelming majority of the locally affected, and that we will stand back of and support you in the various official steps that may be necessary to undertake to accomplish the plan as herein set forth.

That we pledge not only the support of our association in this matter but pledge our actual participation in the work of bringing this about. We realize that the working out of the many details of the plan herein proposed requires a lot of negotiations with various individual people and governmental agencies. It is not only the support of the people here in the locality but their actual work in helping bring the various matters to a successful conclusion.

PART III.

OUR PLAN.

We realize that to accomplish success in this matter a definite plan must be had, with practical ideas as to what can be done to be brought about and financed.

We therefore submit and endorse the following plan, viz:

That we at once proceed to acquire a public bathing beach and a public boat harbor.

That the township at once proceed to acquire title to the property known as the lagoons, take title there to in the name of the township of Middletown.

That the township exercise their option of purchase of additional land surrounding the lagoons, being some 300 lots surrounding the lagoons and the entire length of the shoreline of the body of water, surrounding lands to the extent of between six and seven acres.

It is understood that this property purchased comprise lots 5A and 5B on the map of the township, running the whole length of the shoreline of the lagoons, being 100 feet in width, and in addition thereto with Conard avenue it making a strip of ground at least 15 feet in width, running the entire length of the shoreline of the body of water, surrounding lands to the extent of between six and seven acres.

The boat basin is to be self-supporting through rentals of boat owners in the new harbor. The anchorage for 300 boats and a conservative estimate of income from this source is about $5,000 per season. This sum will provide for maintenance of the beach and harbor and defray a big percentage of the initial cost, although to initiate, finance and complete the entire project would necessitate a small assessment to be borne by local property owners in the vicinity.

That the cost of this be paid for by the township at large.

That the township committee be assured that the township at large will be benefited by the project and that the locality for any future aid from the township of Middletown at large for the repair, maintenance or improvement of the bathing beaches and harbor in any respect.

That any further improvements that may have to be borne locally be paid for by a local assessment, for local improvements, in an area covered by the project, the area of the fourth election district of the township of Middletown, with the exception of the Hillside section.

That immediate steps be taken to take over and acquire as much of the beach that can be acquired from private ownership, it being understood that we endeavor to acquire at least 500 to 700 feet of shore front. That it is the judgment of this body that this can be accomplished in the same manner as was done at East Kearsburg, where the owners of the beach turned the same over to the township upon the same being improved by the township.

That the bulkheads of the present lagoon be repaired, rebuilt and improved as is necessary. That for the purpose of defraying the cost of the project, the township of Middletown, the county of Monmouth for aid to the extent of $5,000. That an application be made to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works for a grant of 4 per cent.

That the present application pending before the Works Progress Administration for aid in digging out the present lagoon be followed up. That steps be taken to dig out the present lagoon.

That upon taking title to the bathing beaches, plans be made for the building of jetties and other protection to the same and to provide for the extension of the same.

That this locality go on record as favoring a maximum expenditure of $25,000 to be borne by the locality by

Sacred Concert Tomorrow Night

Annual Event Will Take Place at the Atlantic Highlands Presbyterian Church Under Direction of Ruth Sorenson.

The choir of the Presbyterian church of Atlantic Highlands, under the direction of Miss Ruth Sorenson, will present a sacred concert in the church tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock. The service has a unique arrangement since it is formed in likeness to a morning worship service, the only difference being that all the service will be sung and played.

Miss Sorenson will play as the prelude on the organ, "Romance," followed by "To a Lone Pilgrimage," which Mrs. Harmon McBrayer will play as the prelude, "Festive Postlude" by Clarence Kohlmann. Hymns being presented by the choir include "We Gather Together," the call to worship; "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind," the prayer of invocation, and "Praise Ye the Lord," the first hymn of adoration.

The sermon of the evening, which will be sung, is comprised of "The Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah," B. Wilson's "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," J. Carlton Drew's "Oh, Be Joyful," and "God So Loved the World" from Stainer's "Credulity."

The benedictory anthem is "Sing Unto God, Our Strength," Mrs. Harmon McBrayer will sing "The Holy City" by Adams, and Miss Dorothy Paddock will sing "The Twenty-third Psalm" by Samuel Liddle. Mrs. William Bennett and Miss Ruth Sorenson will sing "Whispering Hopes." The closing adoration, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," will be sung by both the choir and the congregation. Stanley K. Gambell, pastor of the church, will give the benediction.

The public is invited to attend this sacred concert. There will be no admission charge but a free-will offering will be received for the music fund of the church.

The choir is composed of Mrs. William Bennett, Mrs. Harmon McBrayer, Misses May Dennis, Ruth Koppel, Dorothy Paddock, Alice Sorenson and Cecilia Sorenson, Woodrow Lulick, Ralph Pool, William Pool and Albert Woodruff.

Mr. Gambell, assisted by the music committee, Mrs. S. P. Harris and Mr. C. A. Reed, will entertain the members of the choir at an informal reception in the manse after the concert.

Monmouth Graduates Start
Work on Second Annual All-
Alumnae Benefit to be Held
This Fall.

Monmouth county graduates of New Jersey College for Women are among the sponsors of the second annual all-alumnae benefit Friday, October 29. Cornelia Otis Skinner, internationally famous actress and monologist, will be presented by the alumnae in a program of modern monologues at the Mutual Benefit auditorium at Newark.

The benefit is a combined effort of 16 clubs, through which the 2,600 graduates of New Jersey College for Women maintain contact with their institution and with friends in their vicinity. Atlantic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, North Jersey, Passaic, Somerset, South Jersey, Union, New York, Long Island, Staten Island and Philadelphia clubs are promoting the benefit. Funds raised through this program will be used for the maintenance of the central alumnae office.

The benefit is more than a theater party to the graduates of alumnae and their friends who are scattered through the state. The evening will begin with dinner parties, both in private homes and in public places, and dancing and refreshments will follow in a Newark hotel, making the evening an important fall social occasion. Public sale of tickets will not begin until late in September.

In the picture Russell B. Ohi, a member of Boy Scout troop 67, is shown riding a spotted pony. He was accompanied by C. G. Gideon, who was in charge of the round-up. The picture was taken at the finish of a ten-mile drive of 100 buffaloes.

VINOENT DeMARIA WINS CASE.

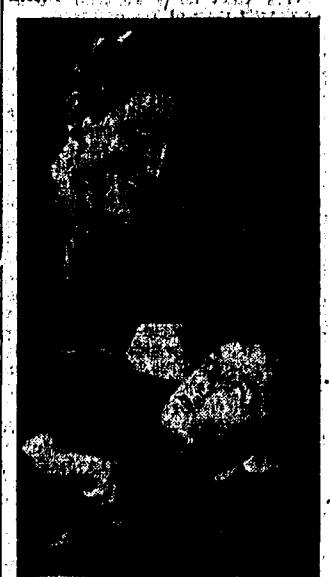

Jury Brings in Verdict of No Cause for Action in His Favor.

A lawsuit brought by Marcus Robbins of Bradley Beach against Vincent DeMaria of Branch avenue, Red Bank, was tried Friday before Judge Henry Klatsky and a jury in the Long Branch district court. It resulted in a victory for Mr. DeMaria.

Last January a house on Branch avenue owned by Mr. DeMaria was destroyed by fire. It was contended by Mr. Robbins that the owner of the dwelling entered into an agreement with him whereby he was to act as agent in settling the claim for fire insurance. It was testified that the insurance company offered to settle for $3,150, but this was not satisfactory to Mr. DeMaria. The outcome was that Mr. Robbins brought suit for $315, claiming this amount on the basis of a ten per cent commission on the sum mentioned. Several persons testified that they were present when the agreement was made and that both parties had stated that no money was to be paid unless the settlement was satisfactory to Mr. DeMaria. The jury brought in a verdict of no cause for action in favor of Mr. DeMaria, who was represented by Edmund J. Canzona of the law firm of Quinn & Doremus.

VEGETABLES IN ROTATION

Possible For Growers to Work Out a Practical Rotation Plan.

It is possible for the vegetable grower in Monmouth county to work out a more practical rotation than is now being carried on many farms, according to Ellwood Douglas, county agricultural agent.

Some things the grower should consider when setting up a rotation are to maintain as well as increase soil fertility; to prevent erosion caused by wind and rain; to make plantings with a definite ripening period in mind and follow with the best possible cover crop. To discuss this further let us give a concrete example of a program that is being followed in rotation on contour on an up-to-date vegetable farm in Monmouth county.

First, the rows are planted on contour, with the area being divided into three blocks, each block seeded at different periods of the season or seeded when the farmer is sure that the adjacent strip is sufficiently covered to prevent washing.

For 1938, in the lower area, we have parsnips planted from March 1 to 15. The second area, sweet corn planted from May 10 to 15, and the last or highest block planted to cabbage from March 1 to 15. There is difference enough not only in the planting date of these crops but in the plowing date to prevent serious washing.

For 1939, the grower has in mind for the first block, peppers planted April 25 to May 5, the second block cabbage, March 1 to 10, and the third block in sweet corn planted May 1 to May 10.

For 1940, the lower block, corn, May 10 to 25; next parsnips, March 1 to 15, and last peppers, April 25 to May 5.

In 1941, cabbage, March 1 to 15; second, corn, May 1 to 15; parsnips in the third block, March 1 to 15.

Immediately following the harvest of each crop, a cover crop will be seeded of plants which do best at this particular time of year on this particular type of soil. It will be so arranged that each cover that is seeded will be of sufficient size and height to be an excellent protection before the next block is seeded.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

Additional Compensation for Martin Syvertsen of Port Monmouth.

The suit of Martin Syvertsen of Port Monmouth against the Central Railroad company was settled in the compensation court at Asbury Park last week without a trial. April 17, 1937, Mr. Syvertsen, who was employed by the company in question, suffered a fractured leg when he fell from the running board of a locomotive. The company paid compensation to him until 1935 and Mr. Syvertsen then filed a petition for more money. Under the terms of the settlement additional medical expenses incurred by Mr. Syvertsen and his attorney's fees were paid by the railroad, together with a sum for compensation. Mr. Syvertsen was represented by Edmund J. Canzona of the firm of Quinn & Doremus.

Eatontown Man Hurt In Crash

Henry Erving of Eatontown was injured in an auto crash last week at the corner of Ridge and Hance roads, Fair Haven. He was cut on the head and arms and bruised about the body and was taken to Riverview hospital in the Fair Haven ambulance.

Mr. Erving was traveling north on Hance road and at the intersection of Ridge road his car collided with a machine driven by Roland R. Ross of West Orange, a summer resident of Rumson, who was going west on Ridge road. Mr. Ross was not hurt. Recorder Harry B. Kurtis held Mr. Ross in $500 bond to await the outcome of Mr. Erving's injury. Summons charging reckless driving were given to both drivers by Police Chief Joseph Herdon. The hearing is scheduled for Saturday before Recorder Kurtis if Mr. Erving is able to leave the hospital by that time.

"The Home-Town Editor Speaks"

W. Earle Dye Pens the Following Article for the July Number of The Rotarian—Reprinted by Editor's Permission

When you married "the finest girl in the county," where did you look for that notice that meant so much to you—and so little to nearly everybody else? In your home-town paper.

When your home was invaded by a blue-eyed girl, or a bouncing boy, whom did you immediately give details about the time of arrival, sex and weight? The editor of the home paper.

In after years, when some young fellow took the blue-eyed girl to a home of his own, or the boy, now a man, was given a partnership in your business, to whom did you tell the news—which once more meant much to you and so little to everyone else? To this same editor of that same home-town paper.

And when trouble invades your home, and you add to your earthly possessions that desolate bit of real estate in the cemetery, and somehow the sun doesn't seem to shine as brightly as it did, and there's a flutter of crepe on the front door, and the chair that has been beside you for years is vacant—when this happens, who is it that makes it his business to "write up" the obituary? Again—it's the editor of the home paper.

Did you ever stop to count the times you begin conversation with the words, "I see by the paper . . ." Sleeping at home, you may not appreciate your home-town paper; but just take a trip, and be away from your intimate friends for several months, and then pick up a copy. You will welcome it as you would your closest friend.

I have always disliked publishing information about misdeeds or misfortunes of others. When I could do so, I have left such matter out, or have given the main facts, without going into details. To my way of thinking, there is something wrong with a newspaper that brings tears to the eyes of an old man, or causes a mother to feel stabbed to the heart by publicity given to an erring son or wayward daughter.

I do not, however, mean that a newspaper should entirely suppress crime news. A hard and fast line between what to print and what to omit cannot be drawn. The mitigating circumstances, and the far-reaching effect, must be studied and decided upon.

In the main, it is the province of a newspaper to print the so-called crime news, as it occurs. In so doing, it provides a safeguard to the community at large, which is invaluable. Men are deterred from criminal actions by fear of publicity. Judicial use of printers' ink can do more toward law enforcement than a dozen peace officers.

Newspapers, like all human agencies, make mistakes, but such errors are generally traceable to misinformation given the newspaper.

I remember one such instance which happened to me in my early reportorial days. During the absence of the editor a communication came telling of the marriage of a young couple in a near-by community. The letter was apparently in the handwriting of one of our correspondents, and in good faith I published the story. A few days later, a sandy-haired citizen, accompanied by his older son, his wife, and daughter, stormed into the office.

"I've come here to see the rascal who put a notice in the paper about my daughter's marriage," he shouted. In his hand was a long, old-fashioned "blacksnake" whip, held at a dangerous angle. Before I replied I stepped to the door leading to the shop and asked the two men at work there to come up front. Then I told my visitor that I had edited the item and, summoning all my nonchalance, casually inquired whether anything about it was wrong.

As he cooled down a little—helped perhaps by the sight of a stove poker in the hands of our Irish foreman-printer—he explained that the report was false, and that his daughter was not married. I had saved the letter which told of the marriage, and showed it to him. It then developed that it had been written in spite by a young lady who had been going with the same fellow as the man's daughter!

Another apparently gross error, charged to me, happened when my make-up man tramped two handfuls of type. When the paper came out, an irate hostess called me and wanted to know why I had put the names of her bridge-party guests in the "Farm News" column—just under an account of a sale of registered bulls!

I am confident that all newspaper editors will go to heaven. No matter how frequently the editor may boast for the development and progress of his community, no matter how diligently he may labor to build up his home county, no matter how loyally he supports a friend in politics, extolls the virtues of a famous native son, stretches the truth to praise a local prima-donna-to-be, or gently lays a metaphorical wreath on the grave of the departed, he seldom hears a "Thank you." Rarely does anyone say, "Well done." Almost never does he hear, "We appreciate that."

But let him make a slip. Let him say that Sam Jones did something he didn't do, or Mrs. Smith Brown said something she didn't say! Everyone in town then takes a whack at him. And that is why I believe that all newspapermen go to "heaven"—they get their share of hell on earth. It is surprising how much people expect a country newspaper editor to know. A week never passes but what there are many calls for varied information, facts and figures, and if they are not instantly supplied the editor is put down as an ignoramus. Typical are the following, noted in the course of a few ordinary days:

One woman called by long distance to know if her husband had divorced her. A boy wanted to know how to get an agency for a magazine. A farmer wanted to know if a man summoned for service on the petit jury had to serve on juries in criminal trials. A woman called for the address of the District Public Works

Administration director. A tourist wanted to know the best route to a distant city. Six school children in succession came in for the names of the members of the President's Cabinet. One man wanted to know the address of the division engineer of the State Highway commission; the next asked about the governor's salary.

So it goes. Coming in contact intimately with every business and profession in his territory, the successful editor has to be well informed intelligently to handle the news of the day. Too, he must—or should—know the peculiarities and the family relations of everybody.

Fifty years ago, the newspaperman was largely regarded as a necessary evil, sometimes was the object of charity. The fault was all his. Instead of conducting his business on a businesslike basis, he was content merely to exist on the gratuities of the community. Nor was he judged by any higher standards than those by which he judged himself. A story carried in his sheet was generally conceded by his fellow businessmen as a sort of a donation, necessary in order to keep the paper alive.

Today, that is no longer true. Your successful home-town publisher is a keen businessman, recognizing the value of the commodity which he sells. If he is asked to bid on printing, his figures are submitted on a businesslike basis in most instances. He knows his costs, and his work is judged accordingly. If his competitor underbids him, he will not do it. A job taken below cost is worse than no job at all.

Efforts to build up a circulation, the newspaper's main stock in trade, have caused more hard feeling between rival newspapers than any other thing. Politics included. The home-town newspaperman is jealous of his subscribers, and will fight to hold them. A story is told of an old-time editor who lay dying. The pastor had been called to administer spiritual comfort. The physician bent over the prone form of the editor, placed his ear on his chest, and said, "Poor man! Circulation almost gone." The dying editor's eyes opened. He rose in his bed. "You're a liar!" he shouted. "We have the largest circulation in the county!"

But rivalries are today less acrimonious. In years not so long past, newspapers were judged by the amount of bitter and cutting invectives that they hurled at competitors. The editor who said the most mean things was the one who, generally, had the largest following. But a better day has dawned in small-town journalism. Editors recognize the value of competition, and they have their own codes of ethics. They recognize that their competitors are pretty good men, as worthy of a place in the community as are they themselves.

THIS WEEK—150 YEARS AGO

The Story of the Constitutional Convention of 1787

BY RAYMOND PITCAIRN

JUDICIAL AND OTHER POWERS

During late July of 1787, members of the Convention that wrote the Federal Constitution stated two principles which, for a century and a half, have remained fundamental characteristics of our National government.

They were: (1) that the three branches of government—Legislative, Executive and Judicial—must remain independent of each other; and (2) that power not specifically allocated in the Constitution should remain with the people.

The statements were made during discussions on methods of establishing judicial and other powers in the new nation, and of choosing the Chief Executive.

"If it be a fundamental principle of free government that the Legislative, Executive and Judiciary power should be separately exercised," said James Madison, of Virginia, "it is equally so that they be independently exercised. There is the same and perhaps greater reason why the Executive should be independent of the Legislature than why the Judiciary should."

To which Rufus King, of Massachusetts, added that he wished the Convention to remember "the primitive axiom that the three great departments of government should be separate and independent; that the Executive and Judiciary should be so, as well as the Legislature; that the Executive should be so, equally with the Judiciary."

In support of that principle James Wilson, of Pennsylvania, explained: "The separation of the departments does not require that they should have separate objects, but that they should act separately though on the same objects."

In contrast to the long and often bitter debate which had marked consideration of the Legislative branch of government, discussion of the Judicial branch was comparatively brief.

It involved, among other things, methods of selecting judges; a point solved by the proposal of Nathaniel Gorham, of Massachusetts, that they be appointed by the Executive with the advice and consent of the Senate.

On the method of electing the Chief Executive, also discussed this week 150 years ago, there was longer debate.

Various methods were proposed, including selection by the National Legislature, by the executives of the different states and by electors appointed by the legislatures.

Proposals for the length of the Presidential term were similarly varied. They ranged from two to twenty years.

In this discussion, Madison, pointing near Freehold for the second consecutive summer. Most of the members are doctors from the shore section.

Death of Aged Man. Jonathan T. Cayce of Farmingdale died at the age of 89. He made his home with his granddaughter, Mrs. Walter Cottrell. Three daughters and one son survive him.

It was not, however, until a later date that agreement was reached on methods of election.

The power of the people came strongly to the fore in still another debate during the week—the discussion on methods whereby the Constitution, when written, should be adopted.

Certain members proposed submitting the final draft to the state legislatures. Others wanted it passed upon by the people, either directly or through representatives chosen by them for that purpose.

Among the leading champions of the latter method was George Mason, of Virginia. Vigorously he demanded that the plan be referred to the people, "with whom all power remains that has not been given up in the Constitutions derived from them."

"This doctrine," he held, "should be cherished as the basis of free government."

It was then agreed that the Constitution be referred to assemblies chosen by the people.

Next week: The National Executive.

OCEANPORT CLUB MEETS.

Members of 4-H Club Plan For a Beach Party.

The members of the Oceanport 4-H club held their regular meeting Friday evening, July 18, at the home of Lloyd and Pete Goldsberry. Previous to the business meeting, the gardens being grown by these members in the club were visited by the club agent and the members. Of particular interest was the clove house 100x30 feet where Thomas and Jack Deas, as their project, are growing asters under a cloth screen. This is the modern method of growing asters to prevent introduction and spreading of aster yellows by such insects as leaf hoppers and aphids.

During the business meeting it was decided to plan a beach party for the regular August activity which will be on Friday, August 13. A committee consisting of Lloyd Goldsberry, Thomas Dean and Harry Postel was appointed to make detailed plans. A special meeting of the club was called by the president for Friday, July 30, at the home of Harry Postel at eight o'clock at which time the committee will report plans for the beach party to the club.

Rotarians Hear Interesting Talk By Newark Man

J. Douglass Gessford, Prominent Newspaper Executive, Tells
About the Inner Workings of The Editorial Office.

The members of the Red Bank Rotary club and their guests last Thursday listened to a most interesting as well as educational talk by J. Douglass Gessford of Newark, one of the foremost newspaper men in the East, secretary of the Newark advertising club, a prominent polo player, able story writer and a former theatrical man.

Mr. Gessford spoke on "Kill That Story" and he gave a real picture of the inner workings of the present-day newspaper, principally as to the method of handling news copy, from the time the reporter hands it in to his editor to the time it appears before the reader in his favorite paper.

The speaker told of a number of news articles that get into print in certain newspapers that would have been better for the readers of those respective publications had the stories been "killed."

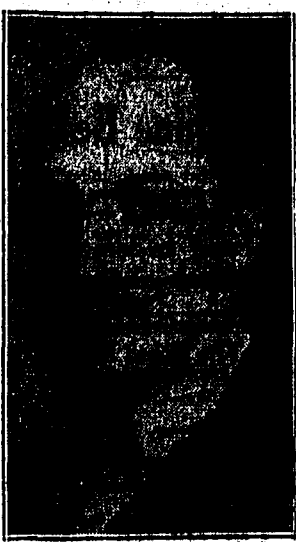

He further stated that the suburban territory surrounding New York city is the most popular, the most prosperous and in all respects the most important "purchasing" suburban area in the entire world. Each of these suburbs is a community of homes and each one is a distinct and separate place of itself with its own local interest, its own local community church and its own local newspaper, the chronicle of its daily life and habits.

The suburban newspapers are really local publications. They are home newspapers and welcome visitors of all members of the families. They are usually interesting to all because they deal with all the affairs of the community affecting the wife, husband and children. They contain among other things, the news of the various local associations, churches and society and register, social, political, business and other happenings of their community. These people read their names in these papers continually; the most important news in their individual worlds, regardless of how unimportant it may appear in comparison with world events.

Newspapers of this kind are always closer to their readers than any other. What does Mrs. Smith care if England went off the gold standard, if two members of her bridge club were hurt in a motor accident and she can't play Tuesday. Mexican bandits, Pharaoh's Tombs, labor wars mean nothing to her until she has read about the things she's interested in. That's why the only place she can find her own local paper! Advertisers using their columns get great benefit of all this.

In selling the direct personal contact is always sought. Honored direct mail. Perhaps never opened! Obviously a sales pill! But in the local paper your advertisement is all wrapped up with madam's greatest intriguing power—news of herself!

The average shopping needs of the suburban homes are far greater than those of city dwellers in parallel circumstances. The average suburban family buys more goods than the parallel New York family because, as a rule, it is a larger family and needs more room. Here is a real home to live in instead of a flat of but a few rooms—very often rented furnished. Here they keep grounds for the children to play in; a garden in which to raise vegetables, flowers and fruit as well as space and facilities for sport. And all these things emphasize the importance of the suburban families as customers. The best way in which to reach the suburban families is through the advertising columns of their own home newspaper, just as you would join a club through the intimate connection of a personal introduction! You can reach these people directly through their own home newspaper which they read for the news of themselves. The most impelling motive in the world, far better than you can through the metropolitan newspapers which only have but the slightest smattering of coverage in these communities compared with the local paper by actual statistics. The problems of editing a small-town newspaper in many respects is more difficult than editing a metropolitan daily, as the "personal" relationship of the editor and his readers are much more intimate. This is often the reason that local editors are called up and requested to "kill" stories that would prove harmful to the community. Such cooperation on the part of the publishers should be appreciated.

I have found the local newspapers of different communities throughout the country are in reality local institutions and they occupy an important place in the civic, social and business life of a community. Through the "power of press" these papers are in a position to benefit or destroy a community. It is necessary that a greater understanding should exist between the paper and its readers.

Mr. Gessford has represented the Red Bank Register in the Newark district many years. Knowing The Register as he has for these years he did not hesitate to pay a glowing tribute to The Register for the manner in which it presents the local news to its readers. He told the Rotarians that they have not read nor will not read any of the so-called "yellow journalism" type of news in The Register's columns.

The World Of Stamps

A picture of Mohammed Zahir Shah, king of the Afghans, appears for the first time on the postal paper of his country, with the issuance of a 60-poul violet and brown adhesive thought to commemorate either the fourth year of his reign or his coronation. The photograph of the king is so poorly reproduced that it is hard to tell what he looks like. He seems to wear a beard.

The king's head, in a medallion at the right, is lithographed in brown; the rest of the stamp is violet. The left medallion carries a view of Independence monument in Kabul, which has been illustrated on at least four previous stamps. This monument was erected after the Afghan war of 1919 in memory of Nadir Khan's capture of Tal-ai event which the British question.

Zahir Shah was born at Kabul in 1914. He came to the throne at the age of 19 when his father, Nadir Khan, was assassinated November 8, 1933. Two years before, he had married his cousin, Ummalrah, the daughter of Sirdar Ahmed Shah Khan. They now have two sons and two daughters.

Afghanistan is that rugged, mountainous land above the Khyber pass, with borders touching Iran, India and Soviet Russia. About 6,000,000 people live there.

Five More Coronation Sets.

Coronation sets have recently been received from the dominions of New Zealand and South Africa, from the mandated territories of Southwest Africa and Nauru, and from the island of Niue.

The New Zealand set of three large stamps resembles those for the colonies, with heads of both king and queen. Denominations: penny rose carmine, 2½-p dark blue, 6-p orange. This set has been overprinted Niue in black.

The South African set of five, printed in both English and Afrikaans, consists of: ½-penny green and black, 1-p carmine rose and black, 1½-p green and orange, 3-p ultramarine, 1-shilling blue and reddish brown. The design includes a sculptured head of the king, ornate border and crown at upper left corner.

On the Southwest African set of eight, the king's head is framed in sugarbush leaves. The central medallion is in black. Border colors and values are: ¼-p green, 1-p carmine, 1½-p orange, 2-p brown, 3-p blue, 4-p violet, 6-p yellow, 1-shilling gray.

Nauru's set of four is simply designed, lacking all border and ornamentation. The king's head appears against a plain shaded background. Values: ¼-p scarlet, 2-p orange, 2½-p blue, 1-shilling purple brown.

For Nippon Aviation. Japan has joined the long list of countries which issue semi-postals, by putting out a set of three patriotic aviation stamps June 1.

The extra revenue is to be used to develop the air service in the Land of the Rising Sun.

The single design shows a large Douglas-type passenger plane flying over the Japan Alps. Two characters of the lower right corner stand for "patriotism." In size, the stamps are large, upright rectangles. Denominations: 2 plus 2-sen, rose carmine; 3 plus 2-sen, dull violet; 4 plus 2-sen, green.

Seuvenier Sheet.

The ten-cent Smoky Mountain postage stamp of the National Parks series has been selected as the central design for the SPA souvenir sheet.

The size of the sheet is 2 7-10 inches wide and 3 1-10 inches high, since the 10c stamp is a vertical one.

Across the top of the sheet will be the inscription, "Under the Authority of James A. Farley, Postmaster General," while at the bottom will be the wording, "Ashtville, N. C. August 26-28, 1937, Plate Number 26195." At the left margin will be the inscription, "Printed by the Treasury Department, Bureau of Engraving and Printing," and in a corresponding position at the right will be the wording, "In Compliment to the 43rd Annual Convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans."

The stamp and lettering on the new sheet will be printed in green ink.

Air Mail Service.

Millinocket, Houlton and Caribou, Maine, will be authorized as stops on route AM-27 in the near future. Lewistown and Great Falls, Montana, are to be made stops on AM-28 soon.

Special cachets will be furnished to the Postmasters, and the usual treatment of philatelic mail will be authorized. Enclose a note with covers authorizing P. M. to hold for first flight—Rice's, Weekly Postal News.

When Taking A Man At His Word

A Chocolate-y Chocolate Cake

When a man, woman or child expresses his or her desire for a chocolate cake, he usually isn't fooling and he doesn't mean a cake in which the chocolate has been treated like a piece of garlo in a fine salad (that is usually waited until the end of the party). What he means is chocolate with a capital C. So, taking the request as a demand we calmly serve this:

CHOCOLATE FUDGE LOAF

2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup milk

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt and sift together. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add chocolate and blend; then add egg and vanilla. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in a greased pan 8x8x2 inches, in moderate oven 325 F. for 1 hour. Cover thickly with:

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING

2 egg whites, unbeaten
1 1/2 cups sugar
5 tablespoons water
1 1/2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put egg whites, sugar, water and corn syrup in upper part of double boiler. Beat with rotary egg beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg beater, and cook 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from fire, add vanilla, and beat until thick enough to spread. Spread on cake thickly. Then melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate with 2 teaspoons butter. When frosting is set, pour chocolate mixture over cake, letting it run down on the sides.

Here Are Eggs In Bologna Cups And Other Sausage Novelties, Too

By SIDNEY SNOW

WASN'T it Al Smith who said something about being bologna no matter how thin one slices it? But what of it? The plebian tid-bit rises to new heights of glory when crowned with a golden steamed egg and encircled with a wreath of parsley or water cress. And so we suggest:

Eggs a la Al Smith

6 slices of large bologna
6 eggs
Salt and pepper
parsley or water cress
toasted bread or muffins

Brown the slices of bologna in a frying pan, with butter or bacon fat. As the bologna heats, it will curl into little baskets. Turn over and into each basket drop an egg. Season with salt and pepper. Add a tablespoon of water to the pan. Cover with a tight lid. Let the eggs steam for a few minutes until set. Serve on slices of toast.

Stuffed Wienies

Split the wienies lengthwise and spread surfaces with mustard. Lay a strip of American cheese lengthwise. Fold the wienie shut again. Wrap with a slice of bacon. Fasten with a tooth-pick. Broil until bacon is crisp and cheese melted. Serve very hot, preferably in a fresh, hot roll.

Liver Sausage Appetizer

As an appetizer for a first course, prepare half a cup of butter and a teaspoonful of curry powder into a curry butter. Spread this curry butter generously on small slices of freshly made toast. On each slice of toast and curry butter lay a thin slice of lightly broiled or grilled liver sausage. This is a most appealing tid-bit, quickly and easily made.

Hot Off the Griddle

ESTHER DONLAN

A nice hors d'oeuvre is made by browning tiny onions with a little sugar and serving them cold.

Onion soup is good at any time but tastes best as a midnight snack.

A fine dish is made by pouring a sauce made of white sauce, seasoned well with salt and pepper, four ounces of grated Gruyere cheese, all melted and poured over some fried or broiled fillets of sole in a buttered casserole and bake in the oven until brown.

Broiled veal is best when accompanied by mashed potatoes and spinach.

The common way of preparing rabbits is to boil, stew or make a pie of them. Few people realize that a rabbit is capable of being roasted.

When preparing a vegetable plate for the sake of color, place the vegetables in the following order: a heap of new potatoes; a heap of green peas; a heap of carrots; a heap of turnips and a heap of beans. On each heap place a slice of butter and sprinkle copiously with chopped parsley.

Everyone knows how to boil or bake a potato and as everyone likes them, that is the reason it is necessary to know how to cook them in a variety of manners.

LILLY WHITE'S HOMINY

Dear Miss Wilma:

You know how Al likes me, hominy with pike chops, but den, hominy goes with hams ob platters. In Maryland de folks eat it all de time wit de turkey, but no matter how its et it should be fixed rite. Now hominy befor it be cooked is grit, ah, ah, hominy until after de cooking, but no matter, yo fixes it like dis: Wash ob grit in a couple ob waters and cover it in de parts ob one part ob grit to three parts ob water, and put in on de stove in a double boiler with salt to taste. Let it boil for one hour or more, an 'till often to keep it from bein lumpy likt.

Den if yo is lucky enuf to have any left over, yo spreads it out, about one inch thick on a platter an gets it cold. Den yo slices this cold mixture in any way yo desires, roll it in eggs an bread crumbs and fry it in deep hot fat.

Hopin yo is de same,
Your humble servant,
Lilly White.

FOR AFTERNOON TEA

An afternoon tea doesn't really require hours of preparation, nor for that matter does it require a lot of various foods. A simple cake, cinnamon toast or something a little novel, accompanied by a cup of tea is sufficient. Here is the novel touch:

BANANA BREAD

2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sour milk
1/2 cup butter
3 ripe bananas
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda

Sift flour and measure. Add level teaspoon soda and sift 3 times. Cream sugar and butter, mash bananas and add. Add flour and sour milk and bake in loaf pan 1/2 to 1 hour in a slow oven 325 F.

DATE LOAF

2 cups pecans
3 cups sugar
1 cup milk
1 pound dates

Mix all together and cook until it leaves the side of the pan, then when you take it off de fire add 2 cups pecans. Put in wet napkin and roll. Cut in slices when cold. Very good.

Entertain A Group In Limited Quarters

Nowadays when servants are scarce and dining rooms are small, the problem of entertaining a group of friends in the buffet style, here we give merit to one of our great inventors who ever he or she may be, for it is truly a delightful way of entertaining as well as a great problem solver.

The menu for a buffet supper need not be elaborate and can consist of something so simple as a salad and assorted sandwiches, plus a dessert. A salad such as this:

DREAM SALAD

1 package lime flavored gelatine
1 cup warm water
1 cup grated cucumber
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon scraped onion
Dash of cayenne
1/2 teaspoon salt

Dissolve gelatine in warm water. Add remaining ingredients. Force through sieve. Turn into ring mold. Chill until firm and fill center of ring with the following:

GREEN VEGETABLE SALAD

Combine cooked string beans and new peas, sliced cucumber and minced onion. Marinate and serve with French dressing.

The salad to accompany this can be many. Snappy cheese sandwiches, assorted butter sandwiches, and an unusual minced-ham sandwich like this:

MINCED HAM SANDWICH

1 cup boiling water
3 tablespoons tapoca
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 pound boiled ham, ground
1/2 cup sweet pickle, chopped
1 tablespoon scraped onion
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon mayonnaise

Place water in top of double boiler; add dry ingredients, bring to brisk boil, stirring constantly. Place over rapidly boiling water, cook 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add other ingredients. Cook until thickens as it cools. Makes two cups filling.

ALTERATIONS ON A BOILED POTATO

It may be a mean thing to say of such a good thing, but said friend potato can be awfully monotonous at times. It's like seeing a person every day for years in one of three dresses when the least she could do would be to alter the dress a little with changing styles. The same is true with Mr. Spud, he's usually boiled, half baked or properly mashed. For a change, if boiled he must be, boil him like this:

POTATO BALLS

Grate 6 boiled potatoes. Add 1/3 as much grated bread crumbs, salt to taste, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 tablespoon fat, 3 eggs (whites beaten separately) and make into balls. Boil 15 minutes in salt water without lifting cover from pan. Serve with onions fried in butter, poured over potato balls.

RICE AS A LUNCHEON DISH

A lunch is by no means a simple meal to prepare. Ideas are usually beyond reach and sandwiches get boring after just so long.

Now take something like rice, most people like it and though not as tasty by itself, has the happy habit of combining readily with other foods to make grand dishes, such as:

SPANISH RICE

2 cups cooked rice
2 tablespoons fat
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 1/2 cups canned tomatoes
1 tablespoon capers
1 tablespoon mushrooms
1/2 teaspoon salt
Buttered crumbs
Cayenne
Grated cheese

Chop onion, pepper and mushrooms, add to melted fat together with capers and seasonings and cook until onion browns. Add tomatoes and cook until moisture is nearly evaporated. Arrange alternate layers of rice and tomato mixture in a well buttered casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs and grated cheese. Bake until heated through and crumbs are brown. Serves six.

RICH-GOOEY-LUSCIOUS

When the urge for something rich, gooey and most luscious arises, don't deny yourself the sake of a streamlined figure but just this once try:

RUSSIAN CUSTARD

2 1/2 dozen lady fingers
1 quart whipping cream
Candied cherries
Peppars
1 quart milk
3 eggs
4 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla

Break the lady fingers in two and line the bottom of a deep dish with them. Cover with whipped cream, sprinkled over with chopped nuts and cherries. Another layer over this, and repeat until the dish is filled, leaving the top layer be lady fingers. Take an knife and make many holes and fill them with the custard. Then place in the ice box overnight, for several hours.

For the custard: Cream the eggs and sugar. Add to the boiling in a double boiler, stirring constantly until thick. Cool, flavor before adding to pudding.

SHRIMP NEWBERG

Newbergs, when prepared just so, make grand dinner dishes. Their fine flavor making eating a distinct pleasure. Shrimp lovers will relish this recipe and vegetarians will be tempted to try it.

SHRIMP NEWBERG

3 pounds shrimp
1/2 cup salt
1 bay leaf
Cayenne pepper
Thyme
1 pint scalded sweet milk
1 tablespoon flour
1 heaping tablespoon butter
1 wine glass sherry
1 egg

Boil the shrimp about 20 minutes in water to which the seasonings have been added. Remove the shells, butter every of the shrimp, put in a double boiler and add the scalded milk very gradually, stirring constantly, and let it cook until it thickens. Add shrimp, salt to taste and a dash of red pepper. Remove from fire and add the sherry. Just before serving add the egg well beaten.

Healthful Food Gone Palatable

All these modern test kitchens have been a great help to housewives though they probably don't know it. One boon is the fact that due to the efforts of others healthful foods have gone palatable and we now serve such dishes as:

SPINACH SOUFFLE

1 tablespoon butter
1/2 tablespoon chopped onion
1 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
2 cups chopped cooked spinach
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons grated cheese
4 egg yolks
4 egg whites, beaten

Brown onions in shortening; stir in flour; add milk slowly. Add spinach, cheese, seasoning. Heat, remove from fire. Mix in unbeaten yolks. Cool, fold in whites. Pour into greased baking dish, and set dish in pan of water in a slow oven. Bake until mixture rises and sets.

Another nice way to fix it is Spinach Croque. Put spinach in boiling water (just a little) containing a little salt and sugar. Boil it only two minutes, then drain and put in cold water to preserve color. Grind or chop up. Put in the frying pan with a little butter and a little cream, and let cook 5 minutes. Add a dash of garlic and nutmeg. If too thin, add just a little flour.

CUCUMBER CATSUP AND CHILI SAUCE

The making of meat loaf and many cold meats often lies in the catsup or chili sauce accompanying it. The fact that chili sauce or catsup is home-made, makes it just that much better. Here are two recipes that the housewife will enjoy having among her collection of home-made goods:

Cucumber Catsup—Is made by grating on a bread grater one-third as many onions as large cucumbers, drain off some of the cucumber juice, but none of the onion. To every quart of cucumber and onion juice add 1 1/2 pints strong vinegar. To each gallon of juice (cucumber, onion and vinegar) put 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons mustard and 2 tablespoons black pepper. Put in bottle and cork tightly.

Chili Sauce—Is made by paring 12 large tomatoes and chop fine, two large onions chopped fine, 4 medium sized green peppers. Cut vegetables separately and stir all together and add as follows:

2 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 3 teaspoons vinegar.

Boil one and one-half hours, stirring well, and bottle as catsup.

A GOOD PEACH—THE APPLE OF A MAN'S EYE

Even when cheap, fresh peaches are a treat to use in our cooking. They have such a flavor and always give the impression of eating luxurious foods. Sliced for breakfast or in a shortcake they are superb but in dumplings they are the apple of many a man's eye, and the core of his heart.

PEACH DUMPLINGS

1/2 cup milk
6 large soft peaches
Butter size of an egg
1 cup flour
2 level teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Sift together the dry ingredients with the fingers mix in thoroughly a piece of butter and add the milk. Roll out and cut in pieces to cover the fruit. Have dough just moist enough to be able to handle it.

Make a sauce of 1 cup sugar; butter the size of a large egg; 2 cups water. Boil and while boiling drop in dumplings. Then place over about 1/2 hour, or longer, if necessary. Serve hot with cream. It is also good cold.

DEVILED CRAB IN SHELLS

Those cute little baking shells that so many stores sell come in very handy every now and then when a nice little sea food dish is in order. They certainly do add to the spirit of the occasion and make such an attractive appearance.

Deviled crab is just one of the many things that can be baked in these fine little shells (they also make grand holders for a little dirt, moss and a fat ant, but then, that isn't our line). To get back to this food problem, to make deviled crab, pick over 1 pound of crab meat. Scald 1 cup of milk; blending meanwhile two tablespoons melted butter and two tablespoons flour. Four milk over

FANCY FOOD FOR FAMILY BREAKFAST

A Sunday morning breakfast is usually a very special occasion. The whole family is at the table and more often than not, there is a guest or two. So we do our best aprons and tempting to the men folk. Chicken livers and bacon are quite ideal but seating as how this is Sunday, we change the little bit calling it:

CHICKEN LIVERS EN BROCHETTE

Cut the livers into pieces one-quarter inch thick and 1 inch square (some prefer to leave the livers halved). Cut sliced bacon into similar pieces. String liver and bacon alternately on 5-inch skewers thrust through center of each piece. Broil under flame until done. Serve very hot.

TASTY SANDWICH FILLING

Are you interested in a delicious sandwich filling that will come in handy on many occasions when a snack is in order? Then, try this:

1 pound American cheese
1/2 pound dried beef
1 cup condensed tomato soup
Run cheese and beef through food chopper, then moisten with the tomato soup. You will find that this filling will keep in the clean-washed, fresh if stored in the clean-washed, properly moist atmosphere of a modern ice refrigerator.

Dining Abroad At Home

AUSTRIAN NUT CAKE

Though Austria's most popular recipe is usually for soup, which is the main dish of the Austrian peasants, their cakes are perfectly delicious and should not be overlooked in the glory of their famous soups.

NUSS TORTE

3 tablespoons grated chocolate
2 tablespoons bread crumbs, soaked in a little rum
2 tablespoons flour
4 eggs
6 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons ground nut meats
Cream or milk
Butter

Cream the butter and sugar until light and creamy, add the chocolate and mix thoroughly, then add the ground nut meats, the bread crumbs, the flour and finally the whites of egg beaten until stiff. This cake should be thoroughly beaten or it is apt to be heavy. When well beaten, pour into a cake pan and bake in a slow oven for about three-quarters of an hour, when the cake should have risen. When done, turn out of the pan and let it stand until cold. Cut the cake carefully into 2 layers, and fill with a mixture of ground nuts worked into a smooth paste with a little warm milk or cream, butter and sugar. Cover the cake with a layer of this mixture, sprinkle with chocolate and with very finely chopped nuts.

TRY NEW DISHES

Concocting left-overs into different and delicious dishes requires imagination on the part of the homemaker. Left-overs, of course, have to be appetizing and palatable. Dried up bits of this and that can't possibly inspire a work of culinary art, so they generally get thrown out. Provident homemakers, however, are finding that left-overs are kept fresh in a modern air-conditioned ice refrigerator and little bits of this and that can be converted into fascinating fare—first aids to the budget!

BAKED ONIONS

8 white onions (medium size)
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 cup canned corn
1 teaspoon sugar
Paprika
1/4 cup water

Parboil onions and remove centers to make firm onion cups. Lightly saute ham, add corn and sugar, and heat thoroughly. Fill onion cups with this mixture and top each onion with a dash of paprika. Place in baking pan to which water has been added. Bake in a moderate oven (350 F) for approximately 25 minutes.

A TROPICAL DRINK

6 or 8 sprigs mint
1 1/2 cups sugar
5 lemons
1/2 cup water
8 bottles gingerale

Put the sugar and water on the fire long enough to melt the sugar thoroughly. Cook—add lemon juice and crushed mint. Place in a bottle. When ready to serve strain. Fill the glass with ice, fill each glass a quarter full of mixture, and fill the remainder with gingerale. Stir and serve.

Simple Rectangular Plan Helps 'Budget Builders'

A simple residence with three baths and five bedrooms can be built successfully on a very limited budget. This one cost $7,800 to build in Seattle.

The house is a simple rectangle, with all superfluous breaks and detail eliminated. The exterior follows traditional lines, with the exception of the small windows on the second floor. The side porch lattice gives interest to the design.

The downstairs layout is especially compact and attractive, with an spacious living room, good-sized dining room and kitchen, library, maid's room and bath, breakfast room, enclosed porch and rear terrace.

Architect J. Lister Holmes designed this home. The plan was chosen by the Architectural Forum, 135 E. 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

Walling, Stacy Carhart, R. H. LeRoy, Harry Pasoux, Edmund Carhart, Lester Bahrenburg and Edwin H. Walling.

Union Beach.

(The Red Bank Register can be bought in Union Beach at the store of Gus Seneca.)

An ordinance to regulate the sale of alcoholic beverages and to fix penalties for violations within the borough limits was passed on final reading at the meeting of the borough council Thursday night. The terms of the ordinance are patterned for the most part after the state liquor laws. The ordinance also limits the number of retail licenses to 11, one less than heretofore, and the number of retail distribution licenses is placed at one, and two club licenses will be the limit. The State Highway department, replying to a letter relative to application for funds to lay sidewalks on Route 36, stated that no funds are available for such purposes and that, therefore, if the borough desires to undertake this work, it must be done at the expense of the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dahmer requested the council to take action to buy some form of dust-laying material for borough streets. The matter was referred to the street committee to learn the cost. It was said that if the work can be done within the street budget appropriation the work will be done. It was indicated that application will be made to the State Highway department for aid for next year. A tax revenue note due August 1 was approved for renewal for one month. Complaint was registered by board members over the condition of the borough hall after being used by social organizations. It was stated that in the future those who desire the use of the hall must sign an agreement to clean up the hall after each affair. The hall has always been used by these organizations without charge. The purchase of a new police car was laid over.

Laundry Guilty of Borough Violation; Appeal to be Made

Donald Matthews Fined
$100 by Recorder John
V. Crowell Last Night on Nuisance Complaint.
Many Witnesses On Both Sides Heard

The constitutionality of a borough ordinance prohibiting the use of soft coal by Red Bank Industries may be tested in the courts as the result of a decision made last night by Recorder John V. Crowell in police court, who found Donald Matthews, president of Donald's and DeLuxe laundry company, guilty of a charge brought by Mrs. Belle R. Johnson of Harrison avenue under the ordinance.

The ordinance provides for a fine of $100 or 30 days in the county jail or both. Mr. Matthews paid the fine. His attorney, Lawrence A. Carter, Jr., announced that he would obtain a writ of certiorari for his client.

Mrs. Johnson complained that on Saturday last, clothes which she had put out on a line in the rear of her home had been covered with soot and smoke emanating from the chimney of the Matthews laundry on Marion street.

Mr. Carter at the outset moved to have the complaint quashed on ten grounds, chief among them being that the complaint was invalid because it was indefinite and vague, that the offense as charged was an indictable one and was not in the jurisdiction of the recorder's court, that the ordinance was unconstitutional, arbitrary, confiscatory, vague and indefinite, that it violated due process of law and that it failed to provide a trial by jury.

Recorder Crowell denied the motion and Mr. Carter entered a plea of not guilty for his client.

Matthews operated the laundry. His motion was denied.

Mr. Matthews, first to testify for the defense, stated that he was president of the laundry company and that Joseph Dunn was manager. He described the machinery of the plant and exhibited pictures of the smoke stack to show how the discharge of smoke was made. He said his plant burned a mixture, which contained about 80 per cent soft coal. The balance, he said, consisted of hard coal screenings.

George C. Squier of Brooklyn, fuel engineer for the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke company, said he had examined the plant on Tuesday and found that it used a low volatile bituminous coal. He said that the laundry, in his opinion, had "overstepped" itself in attempting to reduce the amount of smoke. He saw no way that conditions could be improved, regardless of what type of fuel was used, and said in his opinion the plant would pass any type of ordinance in any city that he had ever visited.

Daniel Dorn, photographer who took the pictures entered into testimony, testified to that effect.

Several witnesses, some of them neighbors of Mrs. Johnson, testified that they saw no smoke or soot coming from the Donald's laundry at any time and that clothes which they had placed on the clotheslines had never been damaged. These witnesses were Mrs. Lawrence Kennedy, Miss Elaine John, Mrs. J. Lindale, Mrs. Nellie Polk, Mrs. Frances Blake, Mrs. Alice MacAdam, Mrs. Mae Tallman and Mrs. Mary Chamery.

Mr. Carter at the outset moved to have the complaint quashed on ten grounds, chief among them being that the complaint was invalid because it was indefinite and vague, that the offense as charged was an indictable one and was not in the jurisdiction of the recorder's court, that the ordinance was unconstitutional, arbitrary, confiscatory, vague and indefinite, that it violated due process of law and that it failed to provide a trial by jury.

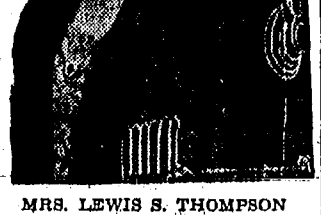

Parking Limit Reduced One Hour

An ordinance restricting parking to one hour on weekdays from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m., and on Saturdays from 8 a. m. until 10 p. m., on the principal streets of Red Bank was passed by the second and third times at Tuesday night's meeting of the mayor and council. At the recommendation of the Tri-County League of Municipalities, the council passed a resolution favoring the establishment by the board of freeholders of a county shade tree commission. Mrs. Julia M. Keough, borough collector, was authorized to receive a $5,000 borough bond and to pay $2,925 interest on bonds.

Eatontown Bank Wins Celebrated Nursery Suit

Vice Chancellor Berry Orders Receiver for Shrewsbury Nurseries, Inc.—John S. Applegate, Jr., Appointed.

In an order filed yesterday in the Court of Chancery, Vice Chancellor Maja Leon Berry of Toms River ordered John S. Applegate of Red Bank to take possession of the personal property of the Shrewsbury Nurseries, Inc., and ordered the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage held against the corporation by the First National bank of Eatontown in the sum of $12,000.

The decision of Vice Chancellor Berry is the outcome of a series of law suits which have been pending for the past several years against the Shrewsbury Nurseries and which involved questions of interest to practically every lawyer in the county as well as many laymen.

The Shrewsbury Nurseries, Inc., was operated on property formerly owned by George Steele in Eatontown, which used to be called Steele's Nurseries. Several years ago this property was sold by Mr. Steele to Edward W. Walder. The nursery business at that time was likewise owned by Mr. Steele and was conducted under the name of Steele's Shrewsbury Nursery. Mr. Walder likewise purchased the nursery business and the name of the corporation was changed from Steele's Shrewsbury Nursery to Shrewsbury Nurseries, Inc.

Sometime thereafter Mr. Walder being in need of funds found it necessary to borrow and loans were arranged from Alton Beekman in the sum of $10,000 and from the late Sarah Ely in the sum of $10,000 secured by mortgages upon the real estate owned by Mr. Walder. Another loan was negotiated from the Broad Street National bank of Red Bank.

The First National Bank of Eatontown also advanced money to Shrewsbury Nurseries, Inc., to the extent of $12,000. This indebtedness was secured by a chattel mortgage covering the personal property of the Shrewsbury Nurseries including the plants and other growing stock on the premises. Until November 19, 1936, the Shrewsbury Nurseries continued to operate as a going concern.

In December, 1936, however, due to a series of bad years in the nursery business, Vice Chancellor Berry ordered John S. Applegate as receiver of the corporation. In the meantime, foreclosure proceedings had been instituted on the real estate mortgages. Deeds had been entered ordering the property to be sold to satisfy the mortgages. During the pendency of the foreclosure proceedings every effort was made by the officials of the First National bank of Eatontown to cooperate with Mr. Walder in order to keep the business going so that all creditors might be paid in full. When the real estate mortgages insisted upon proceeding with the foreclosure however, the bank officials found it necessary to institute foreclosure of their chattel mortgage. The holders of the real estate mortgages, namely, Mr. Beekman and the Ely estate, resisted this however, claiming that the stock of growing plants and trees located at the nursery was part of the land and was covered by the real estate mortgage. The bank contended otherwise, claiming that it was personal property and was part of the stock in trade of the nursery company.

Robert C. Hance To Retire After 30-Year Record

He Rounded Out That Length of Service Last Week and He Will Receive a Pension of $100 Per Month.

"Yow-e-e-e!" Intimate friends of Robert C. Hance of Riverside avenue, when they heard him give this outcry last week at the close of his day's work as a mail carrier, knew that he must be in an especially happy frame of mind, for he reserves such an expression of exuberance for rare occasions. The reason for it last week was that Mr. Hance had just completed 30 years of service as a mail carrier and was eligible to retire on a pension of $100 a month. He plans to give up his position in October.

Mr. Hance began his service as a substitute carrier in 1907. Mail deliveries had been in effect only a short time and the community was much smaller than at present. Only four regular carriers were on the force, they being John Kearney, William Elliott, Fred Hyman and Harry Hance. Mr. Elliott is the only one of the four who is still in service and he plans to retire during the coming winter. Mr. Kearney was placed on a pension of six years ago. Mr. LaFetra is now living in California. Mr. Hyman died a number of years ago and Mr. Hance was then made a regular carrier.

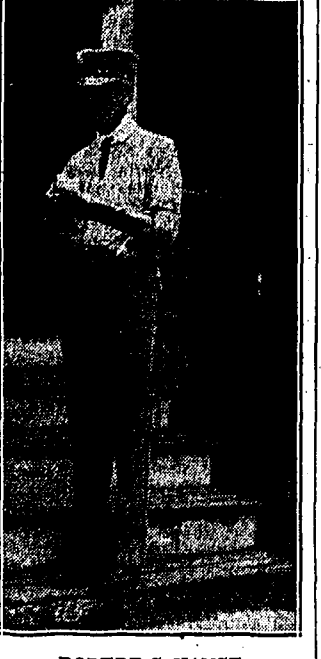

Thirty years ago large sections of Red Bank were without sidewalks and no deliveries were made on such streets. Today every street is serviced and also portions of Fair Haven, Little Silver and River Plaza. The eight-hour day was not observed. Carriers worked until all deliveries were made, regardless of how much time this required and not infrequently they did not get through until eight o'clock at night. They went to work at 6:45 o'clock in the morning and brought to the postoffice the mail which had been left in street mail boxes. Occasionally at holiday times a carrier would have to make two trips because of the large amount of mail matter. Today all such mail is hauled to the office in trucks. Mr. Hance recalls one occasion when postal cards were just becoming popular, when an Easter morning delivery was made.

Mr. Hance is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Hance and was born on the old Hance homestead on Riverside, where the Harding homestead is now located. The Hance house was razed a number of years ago. Mr. Hance attended a private school on Union street which was conducted by Mrs. Perkins and he afterwards attended the public school. Riverview hospital is now on the site of the former schoolhouse. One of Mr. Hance's first places of employment was at St. Joseph, Missouri, where he served as cashier for a street car company.

Returning to Red Bank, Mr. Hance married Miss Nellie Bailey, daughter of Catherine and the late William Henry Bailey. Mrs. Bailey, who is in her 96th year, is hale and hearty despite her advanced age. She makes her home with her daughter and son-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. Hance have one daughter, Miss Kathryn Hance.

For a time Mr. Hance served as chief of police of Red Bank and in a reminiscent mood the other day he contrasted the duties of the policeman of those days with those of today. When he began his duties as chief in 1904 the force had only four members. Sometimes this was not sufficient to cope with offenders and the officers had to resort to various makeshifts to preserve law and order. The town jail was a roomer and hearings were held before justices of the peace, who exacted fees for their services.

TO RETIRE IN OCTOBER

and out of sight behind a hedge. He then marched the other fellow to jail. The weather was warm and the man behind the hedge spent the night there slumbering peacefully. The next morning the chief aroused him and the fellow went off his way home because the worse physically for his experience.

This story was told to a Register reporter by an old-time Red Banker who witnessed the incident.

Another Offer For Methodist Church Property Is Made

Jewels Stolen At Two Middletown
Township Homes
Gems Worth a Small Fortune
Missing from the Residences of Senator W. Warren Barbour and Wilbur C. Ruthrauff.

Jewelry valued at several thousand dollars is missing from the Middletown township homes of former Senator and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Ruthrauff. County detectives, township police and insurance detectives are investigating. The officers refuse to make any estimate as to the value of the missing gems, but from another source it is conservatively estimated that the loss is $4,000 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barbour and $5,000 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ruthrauff. The Barbour residence is on Riverside drive and the Ruthrauff home is on a road a short distance away.

It is said that at both homes the losses were noticed early last week. However, they were not reported to the police until Saturday. The reason for the delay is said to have been due to the fact that it was at first thought that the jewelry had been misplaced. The Barbour jewels, comprising a ring and a bracelet, were heirlooms owned by the mother of the former senator and bequeathed to his wife. They were studied with a number of diamonds.

At the Ruthrauff residence the missing goods comprise an oblong sapphire and diamond platinum brooch, a platinum ring with one large and two small diamonds and 10 small diamonds, a yellow gold cluster ring, with an oval turquoise and 14 diamonds, a diamond scotty brooch, two clips of sapphires and diamonds and a string of pearls with a diamond clasp.

According to the best information obtainable, there is nothing to indicate that entrance was forced into either house. It is regarded as remarkable that the thieves did not take more, as booty of great value could have been obtained. One theory which finds credence is that the thieves were surprised and frightened away in each instance. The jewelry at both homes is insured.

Breakwater May Cost $1,000,000

Bill to Spend $850,000 on Sandy Hook Bay Project Now Before Congress—State Has Authorized $150,000.

Possibility that the breakwater project in Sandy Hook bay at Atlantic Highlands will be a million dollar proposition was seen in developments within the past week at Washington, D. C. Earle S. Snyder received the first news of the government's intention of spending more money on the project in a letter from Congressman William H. Sutphin stating that a favorable report for the expenditure of $850,000 on the breakwater has been sent to the rivers and harbors committee. Yesterday Mr. Snyder received a telegram from Senator A. Harry Moore to the effect that the authorization bill for the breakwater was now in the hands of the commerce committee of the senate and the prospects of its adoption were very favorable.

The cost of a breakwater at the inception of the movement several years ago was estimated at $250,000. When army engineers made a survey of the breakwater, they recommended which increased the cost several hundred thousands of dollars. A bill was recently passed in the state legislature authorizing the appropriation of $150,000 as the state's share. This sum together with the latest amount the federal government intends to spend brings the total cost to a million.

R. V. R. H. Stout Says Isadore Wolff of New York Has Paid a $1,000 Deposit on the Property.

He Says The Deal Will Be Closed Soon

R. V. R. H. Stout, realtor of Red Bank, stated this morning that his client, Isadore Wolff of New York, had deposited a check for $1,000 for the purchase of the Methodist church property at the corner of Broad and Monmouth streets and that the sale would in his opinion be consummated within a few days. He said Mr. Wolff was engaged in making arrangements to construct a large business building on the former postoffice site at Newark which he recently bought from the federal government. He said the sale of the church property would have been concluded by this time but for this fact.

Readers of The Register are familiar with negotiations which have been underway several weeks for the sale of the church property to various parties. Recently the congregation voted to authorize the trustees to sell the property at a price which would net the church not less than $100,000, and Mr. Stout says the sale is being made on the basis of the amount mentioned being received.

Mr. Wolff is president of the Metropolitan Realty Holding corporation of New York. He purchased the postoffice site for $2,133,333.33 and he plans to erect on it a business building costing $3,000,000. Mr. Stout states that Mr. Wolff is having a large store building and residence built at East Orange, a business building at Journal square, Jersey City, and a business building at Norwalk, Connecticut. Mr. Stout states that it is the intention of his client to construct a building for stores and offices on the Red Bank property.

Transportation will be provided in automobiles owned by members of the organization. Each member will provide for the children in his or her district. Last winter the organization had a very largely attended Christmas party at the organization headquarters on Leonardville road.

Dinner Given For Keansburg Council

Democratic Clubs Give Affair for Mayor and Councilmen—Harmony Now Prevails
Between the Two Factions.

A testimonial dinner was given Monday night to Keansburg's governing body, Mayor William Turner, Jr., and Councilmen J. P. S. Martin and James Fallon, who were elected to office last May. The dinner was given by the two Democratic clubs, the Regular Democratic club and the Thomas Jefferson club. Although the affair was therefore given in a Democratic spirit, it really was a love feast between local Democrats on the one hand and Republicans on the other.

The dinner was given in William Fallon's new and well-furnished home, with about 300 persons being served with a turkey dinner. Former Fire Chief Richard Treney acted as toastmaster. Keansburg for many years has been one of local strife, and the dinner Monday night indicated that in the future friction between the two Democratic groups will be only a memory.

Among the speakers were two county officials, Sheriff George H. Roberts and Assistant Prosecutor Edward F. Juska. The latter has a law office in Keansburg and has taken considerable interest in Keansburg civic affairs. Both speakers pointed out that during the four years Mr. Turner and Mr. Martin have served as members of the governing body considerable progress had been made, and also that the financial condition of Keansburg had greatly improved during their terms of office. Both speakers were of the opinion that much more improvement would be made during the next four years.

Howard W. Roberts, who has been Keansburg's borough attorney for many years, was another speaker. He spoke briefly on the work accomplished in his legal work for the borough. Borough Manager Clinton B. Lohsen was another speaker, and paid a glowing tribute to the members of the council.

Harry M. Wellford of Asbury Park, county commander of the American Legion and Commander George Morvan of Keansburg post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, were other speakers. Both directed their remarks for the most part to James Fallon, a former soldier. They pointed out that Mr. Fallon had spent several years as a soldier, and since he became a resident of Keansburg he had spent much time in organizing a Keansburg American Legion post.

The committee in charge of the dinner consisted of Police Chief Charles McGuire and Benjamin A. Dreach, assisted by Mrs. Blanche Horvath. The Woods headed the reception committee. Others serving on committees were A. A. Franck, John Callahan, Joseph Papa, Mrs. Della Murphy and Mrs. Catherine McGuire. A number of vaudeville acts brought the affair to a successful conclusion.

It was only within recent months that the two Democratic organizations brought about harmony by adopting a more liberal policy. Borough Councilman A. A. Franck, president of the Jefferson club and Councilman Martin, president of the Regular organization, are credited with bringing about harmony in the Democratic ranks.

The first move was to give each club equal membership on the County Executive committee. This move was successful and the Democratic machine was working smoothly until along in April, when a slight crack in the machine occurred. An election for three councilmen was in the offing, and both clubs desired to play an important part in the election, and when Councilman Martin, sponsored a resolution to endorse Mayor William Turner, a Republican, as a candidate for councilman, considerable opposition to the resolution was voiced by former Mayor James P. Mahr and his supporters. Mayor Turner was endorsed and Mr. Mahr and his friends "took a walk." The Jefferson club likewise endorsed Mr. Turner. Mr. Mahr and his friends placed an opposition ticket in the field with dire results. Although the Democrats have a majority in the borough council they nevertheless failed to retain Republicans in office at the reorganization meeting. Among them were Borough Manager Clinton B. Lohsen, who has held the post several years and devotes his entire time to the job. Howard W. Roberts, who has served as borough attorney for several years, was also reappointed. During recent years while the depression was in full swing, Mr. Roberts played an important part in bringing about the present financial standing of Keansburg. Borough Clerk Richard A. Jensen is another Republican office holder.

Bluefish Scarce And Price Soars

Scarcity of bluefish has sent the wholesale price at Sea Bright skyrocketing to the highest figure in years. At one time Tuesday the price reached 39 cents a pound. Fishermen have been able to catch only several hundred pounds daily as compared with hauls of 1,000 pounds or more at the time last summer. The price last year, however, never exceeded 18 cents a pound but only a few years ago the fishermen were lucky to get six cents.

Fortune smiled on one Sea Bright fisherman last week. While other fishermen considered themselves lucky to catch a few "blues" Arent Olsen managed to strike a school and caught 1,200 pounds. The haul netted him over $400, the largest haul at Sea Bright for a single haul in a long time.

Senator Durand To Give Trophy For Sweepstakes

Prize Will be the Finest Individual Award for Coming Event—Sleeping Quarters for Visitors in Monmouth Boat Club.

The prize committee of the National Sweepstakes regatta announced that Senator Frank Durand has volunteered to donate a handsome trophy to be given as a prize for one of the major events.

FRANK DURAND.

A. J. Lupton, chairman of the committee, states that the trophy will be the most valuable individual prize given. He says the senator expressed a desire to cooperate in every way possible to make the regatta successful. What form the trophy will take has not been decided.

Arrangements have been made to convert the second floor of the Monmouth boat club into sleeping quarters for visiting boatmen. This will mark the first time for such action to be taken. In the past the Globe hotel has been largely used by visitors and the fact that it has been destroyed by fire will make the matter of housing more difficult to deal with. A committee headed by Courtland White is looking after the housing arrangements. All persons having spare rooms available for the use of visitors have been asked to notify him.

The Red Bank Yacht club, which will be used as headquarters for the patrol committee and coast guards. All incoming boats will stop there and the skipper will receive their mooring designations. At first consideration was given to a proposal to move the float nearest to the public dock at the foot of West avenue, but it was decided that the present location would be more advantageous.

Chairman Joseph C. Irwin of the regatta committee is pleased over the large number of entries made and he expects a bigger field than ever before. He expects Saturday and Sunday, August 14 and 15, the regatta dates, to be the biggest regatta days the town has ever experienced.

Nell Wolcott, chairman of the anchorage committee of the Red Bank Yacht club, states that the club will co-operate in every way possible.

Spiritualist Camp Meetings.
Camp meetings are being held at the camp of First Spiritualist church of Divine Love on Mason place, Keansburg, one block off Palmer avenue. Meetings are held Tuesday and Thursday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock and Sunday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings at 8:15 o'clock. Rev. Phoebe Daley is pastor of the church.

Seek Cause Of Fair Haven Fire

House Owned by Ulysses S. Allen Destroyed Early Tuesday Morning—Officials Conducting an Investigation.

An investigation is being made in the cause of the fire which destroyed a house on Third street, Fair Haven, early Tuesday morning. The house, unoccupied at the time of the fire, was owned by Ulysses S. Allen, who lives near by. The loss is estimated at $2,300. The house was insured for $1,500.

The investigation is being conducted by Robert Amendt, chief of the Fair Haven fire company; Joseph Hadden, police chief of Fair Haven; William VanDyke, county fire marshal; William Munn, town fire marshal; and George Scheriff, town inspector for the board of underwriters. They questioned Mr. Allen and his son.

Pierre Lyons, who discovered the fire, said he heard an explosion and then saw part of the house burst into flames. Firemen fought the blaze an hour before they got it under control. Two empty five-gallon cans were found on the scene. Firemen said the odors from the cans indicated that one had contained kerosene and the other gasoline.

Atlantic Highlands Crash.

Cars driven by Mrs. Daniel Oakes of Memorial parkway, Atlantic Highlands, and Harold Lawrence Clinton of New York, collided Monday at the corner of Third and Lincoln avenues, Atlantic Highlands. Mrs. Oakes, suffering from shock and after receiving treatment at the office of Dr. Robert McTaggart, was taken home. Both machines were badly damaged. Policeaman James Egido investigated but neither driver preferred charges.

William K. Brown's New Trailer

William K. Brown of River Plaza, a Red Bank mail carrier, recently completed the construction of his third trailer, most of which was made in his garage workshop in his spare time. The equivalent of 28 eight-hour working days was required from the time Mr. Brown started the actual building work until the trailer was ready to roll.

It is 16 feet one inch long, six feet eight inches wide, seven feet ten inches high and weighs 2200 pounds. It has clothes closets, eight storage cabinets, a fully equipped kitchen with gasoline stove, ice box, sink and dish closet and two double beds. One bed is built for use in the daytime as a studio couch and the other may be folded into two breakfast nook seats. The kitchen sink is equipped with a 12-gallon water tank and boat pump.

The trailer has seven windows, a ventilator in the roof and a folding screen door. It is equipped with five 110-volt electric lights and two lights, which receive their current from the battery of the car to which the trailer is attached.

The exterior is made of quarter-inch plywood boards, fastened with screws, over which is a covering of one-eighth inch felt paper. The interior finish is of Dupont green fabric. The interior walls are of quarter-inch plywood, the cabinets are of three-eighths inch plywood and the floors, which are covered with linoleum, are of half-inch plywood. The walls and cabinets are finished with colonial maple minway stain. The frame is of fir wood and is braced in every corner with four-inch angle irons, bolted to the frame. The vehicle has a regulation trailer axle with a 62-inch tread and the wheels are 5x20x17 inches in circumference. The trailer also has 38 inch by two inch springs containing 11 leaves.

Lumber used in the construction was purchased from local dealers and the equipment was bought from trailer equipment houses at Chicago and Detroit.

Mr. Brown is contemplating the formation of a corporation for the manufacture of trailers and he has engaged Ed vonKattengell, Jr., as an agent, through whom the trailers will be offered for sale at $850 each. Sanitation Commission Has Hearing

Testimony Heard at Keansburg Regarding the Waters of Raritan and Sandy Hook Bays—Decision Not Expected Soon.

A meeting of the Interstate Sanitation commission was held in the borough hall at Keansburg yesterday to take testimony as to how the water areas of Raritan and Sandy Hook bays should be rated from Sandy Hook to the Monmouth-Middlesex line west of Keyport. The distance is about 15 miles in length. About 25 persons living in the affected area were present and testified that the two bays between the points mentioned should be given a rating, or in other words designated as a pure water area for recreational use and for the use of the fish and shellfish industry. Several owners of industries at Perth Amboy and other points in Middlesex county contended that the area should have a rating in which event it would be permissible to dump waste, refuse and other matter from industrial plants into the bays.

Middletown township was represented by Committee men John T. Lawley and Victor E. Grossinger and Engineer Craig Finnegan. They pointed out that a "B" rating would wipe out the fishing industry and cause large injury to owners of places for recreation. Another Middletown township resident at the hearing was Fred Freiboth of Fort Monmouth, who is part owner of a large swimming pool at that place. The Middletown township officials stated that Howard W. Roberts, the township clerk, would prepare a brief setting forth reasons why the "A" rating should be given.

A representative of the new Chesapeake Park commission was among those who spoke in favor of an "A" rating. Last winter the legislature made a substantial appropriation for such a park. This was not known by many of those who attended the hearing yesterday, and when it was revealed quite a sensation was caused. Those who want the "A" rating regard the Chesapeake Park commission as a powerful ally.

The sanitation commission consists of a board of New Jersey and New York state residents. One of its members is Colonel J. Lester Elsner of Red Bank, and he acted as chairman at yesterday's meeting. The commission is holding a series of meetings to ascertain public sentiment regarding waters skirting New Jersey and New York, and it is not expected that it will make known its decision for several weeks.

Edward G. Applegate, who has a position with the state board of health, said that no one should be allowed to pollute a stream to the detriment of others. Joseph N. Fowler, a member of the state board, said the bay should receive an "A" rating. It was testified that oysters in Chesapeake creek were unfit for use because they contained copper as a result of waste from factories and other industrial plants being dumped in the water. It was pointed out that pollution could readily be eliminated through the use of modern sewage disposal systems and by the use of chemicals. Some of the Middlesex industrialists who testified said that they had no objection to the bay receiving an "A" rating within the limits mentioned but that they wanted it rated as B in the neighborhood of their plants. It was claimed that the stuff dumped into the bay is carried by the currents towards Long Island and that very little of it finds its way to the Monmouth shore.

Radio Artists Visit Red Bank

Frank Iaculucci and Joseph L. Milani to Appear With Red Bank firm in Music Exhibit at New York Next Week.

Two radio stars of national reputation spent Sunday at Red Bank as the guests of Donato Annesse of Washington street and John D'Amico of East Front street. They were Frank Iaculucci, accordionist, and Joseph L. Milani, who is known as the "Singing Chef." They are fishing enthusiasts and spent part of the day fishing in Shadow Lake.

Mr. Iaculucci, formerly of Seattle, is now connected with the accordion department of the New York branch of C. G. Conn, Ltd., manufacturer of musical instruments. He has appeared frequently on national radio hook-ups. Mr. Milani intersperses his songs over the radio with cooking recipes, hence his sobriquet.

The two artists will appear at the Musical Trades convention at the Hotel New Yorker in New York July 26, 27, 28 and 29, in connection with the exhibit of the Annesse Melatone Modulator corporation of Red Bank. The corporation, of which Mr. Annesse is president and Mr. D'Amico is vice president, will occupy room 218. The firm makes an accordion tone modulator invented by Mr. Annesse and used by famous accordionists—James Kennedy of Matawan, an accordionist who won a prize on the Major Bowes program, will also be at the exhibit.

A Friendly Visitor. Bringing Good News every week for 58 years, to all the area should have a rating in which event it would be permissible to dump waste, refuse and other matter from industrial plants into the bays.

Delegates Home From Convention Of Rainbow Vets

Abe Benjamin, Former Red Bank Resident, Entertains Red Bankers Royally at Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Slattery of Broad street and Thomas Valentine of Bank street represented New Jersey chapter, Rainbow Division Veterans, last week at the annual Rainbow convention at Columbus, Ohio. The purpose of their attendance was to cement closer relationships between the New Jersey chapter and the national association.

Six hundred persons attended from various parts of the country and it was unanimously resolved to condemn all forms of communism and fascism. A history of the Rainbow division in book form, the title of which is "Americans All," was offered for sale to the public at the convention for the first time.

A memorial service was held on a platform on the bank of the Scioto river for members of the Rainbow division who died in the past year. The service was conducted by Chaplain Rev. James Murray.

Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, assistant secretary of commerce, was chairman of the "Champaign Hour." This hour commemorates the entrance of the Rainbow division into the battle of Champaign, one of the most decisive battles of the World War. For ten minutes a realistic fireworks barrage was put on across the Scioto river in plain view of the platform on which the service was being conducted.

Abe Benjamin, who conducts a successful clothing business at Columbus, entertained the Red Bank delegates in royal fashion. He is a former Red Bank resident and at one time was employed at M. M. Davidson's clothing store on Broad street. It was announced that the next convention would be held in 1938 at St. Paul, Minnesota, and that the 1939 convention would be the only one held that year in New York city. The Father Duffy chapter of New York will hold a dinner during the American legion convention this year at New York for all legionnaires who are Rainbow veterans.

In connection with the 50th anniversary tournament the following history of the club has been published in booklet form through the courtesy of Mr. Prentice:

Lawn tennis in this country started in the fall of 1875, when a tennis set was imported from England by the Staten Island Cricket Club. The club's first installation of its grounds. This club was disbanded about 1920. When this new apparatus reached the customs officials in the port of New York they did not know what it was and should be classified. It was admitted duty free! Only a few months after this the residents of Sea Bright, New Jersey, became interested in the game and placed order for equipment, which was delivered in the spring of 1877 and used on the courts of Robert Rutherford, James W. Alexander and William W. Shippen. This marked the beginning of the Sea Bright Tennis club. On July 25, 1878, the first formal meeting of the Sea Bright Tennis club was held at the residence of Robert Rutherford, and a definite organization was decided upon.

Interest in the game increased steadily, and other and better courts were built, till we find in 1880 that the tennis activities of the Sea Bright club were chiefly centered mainly on the courts of Antonio and Alfonso de Navarro, situated on the Rumson road. The first club championship was played in August, 1879, and was won by William Shippen. Miss Elizabeth Shippen won the ladies' singles. There were about 15 entries in the men's event, and it was played on the Navarro courts and was won by Joseph S. Clark of Philadelphia.

When Cricket was Popular.

During these years cricket was gaining in popularity, and in 1880 George C. Kobbie and Herman Clarke proposed the formation of a joint tennis and cricket club to be known as the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club, which would have its own club house and grounds. The idea was endorsed, and money was collected to secure the land and build the club house. Articles of incorporation were drawn up which provided for "the practice of lawn tennis, of cricket, and of baseball by the members of the club, and the encouragement of the practice among others in the state of New Jersey. The incorporators were John L. Riker, Charles Macdonald, R. L. Crawford, George Wood, R. L. Crawford, Robert W. de Forrest, William Shippen, Herman Clarke and George C. Kobbie. The present site of the club was selected as the location and a modest club house was built. The grounds were ready for use late in 1886 and in 1887 the season was definitely opened with three tennis courts and one cricket crease.

The cricket crease, at present used for the second tier of courts, was considered the best in the country, the turf having been imported from England.

Cricket Competition.

The first cricket match was played with the Staten Island Cricket & Tennis club in 1885. Matches were also played with the Brooklyn Cricket club of Hoboken in 1886, the Wood Creek Cricket club of Boston, which was founded in 1877 as a cricket club; the Marion Cricket club of Philadelphia, the Orange Lawn Tennis & Cricket club, the Staten Island Cricket & Tennis club, the Germantown Cricket club and St. Paul's school of Concord, New Hampshire. In 1886 an international match between an All United States team, captained by George Wright of Boston, and an All Canada team, was played on the club grounds and won by the United States team.

After the Sea Bright team, traveling in a private car, made a trip to Canada and as far west as Chicago, playing matches in Toronto, Detroit and Chicago. The team was very successful, winning four games and losing two, and was royally entertained everywhere it went. About this time the club adopted the colors of black, red and gold, the same as those of the Zingari Cricket club, one of the most famous cricket clubs of England. Consistent use of these colors was graciously given.

Archery was also indulged in with some interest, and the bull's-eye target was adopted as the club's insignia.

Tennis Becomes Popular.

The interest in cricket continued till about the year 1890, when tennis became more popular and more courts were laid out under the direction of Charles Macdonald, the president of the club, with the help of committees headed by Holcombe Ward, Roosevelt and Ewart, J. Wendell.

Between 1895 and 1900 the club was not so active but in 1900 it was revived by the active efforts of Samuel Riker, Jr., the president; George Biagden, Rudolph Neeser, Samuel S. Auchincloss, Cecil Barrett, Anton E. Smith, Dr. David Clark, Bokman Hopkin and Henry M. Alexander, with the support and encouragement of William A. Street, William E. Strong, Harold F. Hadden and Colonel J. J. McKee. Under their leadership the tennis courts were built and many members were elected. In 1902 two squash courts were built connecting with the club house.

About 1910 the fourth tier of courts was prepared and opened for play. During this period the responsibility for the care and growth of the turf was assumed actively by the grounds committee, and the officers of the club, and the club is much indebted to E. A. S. Clarke, the president; George W. Carpenter, Gardner E. Miller, Harden L. Crawford, Henry Riker, Jr., and the many other members who have contributed their interest and zeal for the excellent condition of the turf today is due in no small degree to their efforts.

Improvements in Club House.

From time to time alterations have been made in the club house, till in 1926 it was necessary to make extensive repairs and improvements. The interior of the house was completely done over and the upper balcony built. At the same time a new winter months. These improvements were made possible by the generosity of the club members, who subscribed liberally to a fund raised for the purpose.

The Club Spirit.

The club has a record in its members may well be proud of—a record, becoming the oldest tennis club in the country today. This record is due to the spirit of co-operation which has been maintained in the club. Officers and members from the very beginning have worked in harmony with one and in view of the welfare of the club. An atmosphere of good sportsmanship has prevailed, and the club has brought to the club by the fact that its officers have, especially of late years, held responsible positions in the community and have played no small part in the development of the sport in this country.

The Invitation Tournament.

The first invitation tournament was held in 1886 and has since that time, with the exception of three years, has been held annually. The 50th anniversary of this event will be celebrated this year. In 1917, and 1918, however, it was held at the Rumson road. Invitation tournament was omitted, and special patriotic tournaments were held. The proceeds of these tournaments were used to purchase uniforms for the Red Cross for services at the front, and the donor plates of these machines are now in the collection in the club house.

The Invitation tournament, developed under the guidance of Dr. Prentice, president of the club; Holcombe Ward and James C. Auchincloss, officers of the club, and the members of the Rumson road committee, is now one of the most important tennis events in the country and has given the club a national and international reputation and its members the opportunity of seeing the greatest players of the game in action. Of late years the Davis Cup selection committee has attended this event to witness the play of candidates for the cup. At first only men's events were held but in 1920 it was decided to hold a women's tournament as well, and today the invitation tournament is made up of five events, men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, and mixed doubles, all running simultaneously and finished within the space of two days. The club has the opportunity of such a schedule. The invitation tournament is now in the hands of Holcombe Ward, Charles D. Halsey, Hooker Talbot, Clements, the Red Cross, C. Maury Jones and Mrs. Schuyler VanVechten and their able committees.

Famous Trophies.

The first Challenge cup, which had to be won twice in succession, was won by William A. Street in 1902. The following year the Challenge cup given by Mrs. Fritz Achels, was first put into competition. To win this trophy outright the tournament had to be won three years in a row for the winner to play through the tournament. The Achels cup was in play for 14 years before it was finally won outright by R. Norris Williams, 2d, in 1916. The names of the most famous players of the game are engraved on it, among them being Wright, Larned, Alexander, Little and Giffin.

In 1917 the Sea Bright bowls were put into competition. To win these trophies outright the winners must play through the tournament and win them three times. William L. Allison won the first Sea Bright Bowls in 1923, and the first Sea Bright Doubles Bowls were won in 1925 by William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin. The Women's Bowl was put into competition in 1920 and the first bowl was won by Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory in 1923. Bowls for mixed doubles are also in competition.

Famous Players.

The greatest singles players and the most famous doubles teams in the history of the game both here and abroad have played on the courts. They include Joseph S. Clark, Richard D. Sears, R. L. Bieckman, Dr. James Dwight, Henry Slocum, Richard Stevens, O. S. Campbell,

Robert D. Wrenn, Malcolm B. Whitman, J. P. Farst, W. C. Grant, Dwight F. Davis, William A. Larned, Beals C. Wright, Raymond D. Little, William C. Clothier, N. W. Niles, R. Norris Williams, 2d, Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Frank Hunter, Robert L. Roy, Theodore R. Pell, Karl H. Behr, William M. Johnston, R. L. Murray, Anthony F. Wilding, William T. Thilman, 2d, Watson, W. C. Grant, Kinsey, Vincent Richards, John H. Doeg, Sidney B. Wood, Jr., Gregory S. Mangin, John VanRyn, Ellsworth Tines, George Lott, Frank Z. Shields, William Allison and Deane, Budie. The doubles teams include Sears and Dwight, the Huntingtons, the Dohertys, Hovey and Hobart Chase, and Wrenn, McLoughlin and Bundy. Little and Touchard, Ward and Davis, the Wrenn brothers, Brooks and Wilding, Church and Mathey, Ward and Wright, Hackett and Alexander, Johnston and Griffin, Williams and Washburn, Patterson and O'Hara-Wood, Borotra and Gobert, the Kinsey brothers, Tilden and Hunter, Tilden and Richards, Allison and VanRyn, Perry and Austin, Doeg and Little and Budie and Mako.

Women Players.

Among the women players, Mrs. Marion Zinderstein, Josephine Eileen Bennett, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, Miss Mary Brown, Mrs. Thomas C. Bundy, Miss Eleanor Goss, Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Mrs. A. Z. Harper, Miss Helen Jacobs, Miss McKane, Mrs. Covell, Mrs. Beamish, Mrs. John VanRyn, Miss Carolyn Babcock, Mrs. Ethel B. Arnold, Miss Alice Marble and Mrs. Alfred Fabian have competed.

The Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket club has entertained also in its invitation tournament members of the Davis Cup teams of Spain, France, England, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Mexico, Belgium, Ireland, Czechoslovakia, the Philippines, Cuba, Argentina, Brazil, Germany, South Africa, China, Japan and Hawaii. These teams include the names of such famous players as Doherty, Lowe, Parke, Borotra, Gobert, Cochet, Brooks, Wilding, Patterson, Anderson, Alonso, Kunguag, Perry, Wether, Shimizu, Norton, Satoh, Austin and Crawford. All the leading college players have also competed on our courts, including teams from Oxford and Cambridge.

A real inspiration it should be to play on the very turf where the greatest players of the game have battled out their victories.

Tennis Memorabilia.

Another feature of the club is the collection of photographs and memorabilia on view in the club house, which is presented to the club by its president, Dr. Prentice. At this time there are over 350 pictures in the club house. These include photographs of all the prominent players, men and women who have competed on the courts, a graphic history of the development of tennis. The club also has the old tennis racket won by Miss Anna Shippen and Frank L. Henry in 1880, which was the first used on the club in the mixed doubles. There is also the cricket bat used by George Wright of the Longwood Cricket Club when he played a match with our club in 1887. The collection in itself is indeed not only a record of the club's growth but of tennis in this country.

Famous Turf.

The club's most precious heritage is its turf. The original turf on the second tier of courts was brought over from England when the first cricket crease was built in 1887. No care or expense has been spared in keeping the turf up to the very highest standard, and doing so much credit must be given the head groundsman, James Murphy. The condition of the 22 courts today is the result of constant study and hard work and has not been achieved by luck.

Team Matches and Junior Activities.

The club teams for the past few years have been increasingly active and their team matches play an important part in the club's activities. The principal adversaries have been the Rockaway Hunting club, Oxford and Cambridge, the Tuxedo club, the Annapolis Country club, Somerset Hills Country club and the universities of Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

Every effort has been made to encourage play among the junior members of the club, team matches have been arranged and the best possible instructors retained for them. This activity is now under the guidance of Stuart A. Young.

Honorary Members.

In 1921 a change in the by-laws was made to permit the election of honorary membership in the club of persons who have been conspicuous in the service of tennis, especially in the field of lawn tennis. The following have been elected honorary members: George F. Adams, Dwight F. Davis, William M. Johnston, William A. Larned, Julian S. Myrick, R. Norris Williams, 2d, Robert D. Wrenn, William C. Clothier, Devereaux Milburn, Henry W. Slocum and Watson Washburn, men who have done much for the advancement of tennis in this country and throughout the world, and who have stood for the highest standards of sportsmanship and fair play.

Club Ideals.

It would not be proper to close a history of this kind without referring to the spirit of simplicity which has always been a great feature of the club. Nothing elaborate has ever been attempted in the club house or on the grounds. It has always aimed to develop a simple spirit of wholesome sportsmanship.

"The club stands today preeminent as the club of the highest ideals and traditions of the game."

Matched

The scheduled series of international match races, between the Italian-owned Musketone and E. J. Baker's Greyhound is the tipoff on the great strides trotting has made in its comeback to popular favor.

These races are probably the first of their kind ever arranged for trotters. The plan is to bring Musketone over from Italy for a brush with Greyhound, and later to stage a return race on Italian soil. The horses will race for a minimum guarantee of $10,000, to say nothing of the sizable side bets.

Musketone is an American bred and trained trotter. He was shipped to Italy in 1934 after placing second (behind Lord Jim) in the Hambletonian. His owner is listed as one Givo Malani, but it is whispered that Mussolini has more than a rooting interest in the trotter.

As a three-year-old, Musketone established a mark of 2:02, but reports from Europe say the horse has improved greatly since then. He is regarded abroad as every bit as fast as Greyhound, who set his mark at 1:57½ as a four-year-old last summer. Clockers abroad have timed Musketone over the mile route at 1:57 and 1:58, indicating he belongs in Greyhound's class.

There seems little doubt as to Greyhound's ability to hold up his end of the argument. The grey ghost made a show of the field in the 1935 Hambletonian and established himself as one of the great trotters of all time.

Goldstein and Piskin On Ocean View A. A. Card

One of the most colorful fighters of all times will try the hard combat of all times when Ruben Goldstein, former state jewel of New York, gets out of retirement to meet Freddy Fitzsimmons of Garfield over the eight-round route in one of the co-feature bouts at the Ocean View A. A. boardwalk arena Friday night.

Goldstein's greatest moment was at the tender boxing age of 17 when he fought Sid Torres at Madison Square Garden before a crowd that paid $170,000. They fought only six rounds because of Goldstein's age, and the record still stands as the biggest for any six-round bout in history.

Now broke, Goldstein seeks to start anew on the flat trail and regain some of the thousands he made and lost. Fitzsimmons fought Gold-

Pirates Lose Third To Carta Blanca Club

Mexican Baseball Club Triumphs Over Red Bank Semi-Pro Team in Ninth Inning—Cuban Stars to Play Return Game Tomorrow Night.

An error by Tommy McElroy cost the Red Bank Pirates their third consecutive defeat Tuesday night when the Carta Blanca baseball club of Monterrey, Mexico, handed the local semi-pro nine a 5-4 drubbing on the Pirates field on Newman Springs road.

Red Bank held a 4-0 lead going into the first half of the ninth. Lopez pinch hit for Carrizales and reached first on an error. He was thrown out at second when Martinez reached for a fielder's choice. Buenrostro struck out and Munoz walked. Both base runners advanced on passed ball. Morales, next man up, grounded to McElroy, who in attempting to throw out the runner at first, whipped a high and wide ball to Posnak. The wild throw to first scored Martinez and Munoz. Delgado grounded out to shortstop for the third out.

The Pirates attempted to tie the score in the half of the ninth. Hammond batted for McElroy and grounded out to second. Ristan doubled and Posnak was walked purposely for the third time. Marzetti struck out and Lau reached first on a fielder's choice. Ristan was thrown out at home on Lau's throw, catching the runner about three feet from the plate.

"Babe" Adams started on the mound for Red Bank and did commendable work for the Pirates. He was relieved by Art Clark in the seventh after he allowed eight hits and three runs. Clark whiffed three consecutive batters and held his opponent hitless for the remainder of the game.

Manager Joe Bennett substituted McElroy for Frank Moseleski at third base in the seventh. Moseleski worked well in his position getting four assists in the field and one hit out of three trips to the plate.

The game throughout was nip and tuck with Pitcher Palma throwing hook after hook to the Red Bank batters. He was touched for eleven hits, two of which were doubles and one a triple. He struck out four Red Bankers.

Red Bank's first scores came in the fifth when Schwartz and Cowan walked. The latter advanced on Adams' grounder. Schwartz scored on Morales' single and Cowan tallied the second run on Ristan's single. Their other pair of runs came in the seventh when Clark batted for Adams and batted out a single to right field. Clark advanced to second on Leonard's single. McElroy reached first on an error and Ristan grounded out to second scoring Clark. Posnak was walked to load the bases. Marzetti struck out and Lau walked, forcing in a run.

The Mexicans scored two runs in the fourth when Morales singled, Delgado grounded out and Ramirez tripled scoring Morales. Ramirez scored when Carrizales singled. Their third run came in the sixth when Morales singled for the second time and was advanced to third by Delgado and Ramirez who grounded out. Pitcher Palma singled to score Morales.

Ristan was heavy Red Bank batter getting three hits out of five trips to the plate. Leonard, playing at second base for the Pirates, got two hits out of four, one of which was a triple.

Tomorrow night the Pirates will play a return engagement with the Cuban Stars, who earlier in the season suffered a 5-0 defeat at the hands of the Red Bank team. Next Tuesday night Charlie Jamison's All-Stars will return here to seek revenge for a 7-0 defeat early in the season.

More than 1,000 spectators saw Larry Mahoney, youthful New Jersey state horseshoe pitching champion, set a new record last Thursday night when he defeated Vito Filiccia of Brooklyn, New York state horseshoe pitching champion, in three out of four games at the Red Bank Elks home.

The match was sponsored by the entertainment committee of the Elks and was sanctioned by the New Jersey Horseshoe Pitchers' association. Reynold Sanford of Perth Amboy, state secretary of the association, conducted the match.

The new official record was set by Mahoney when he pitched 17 consecutive ringers and averaged a 72.3 ringer percentage, while his opponent averaged 65.5 per cent. Mahoney broke his previous record of 15 consecutive ringers set in a sensational match in 1935 at Middletown.

For the four games last Thursday night Mahoney pitched 227 ringers for his average, while Filiccia threw 216 ringers for a 68.8 per cent average.

In the first game Mahoney came from behind to nose out the New York champ, 50 to 48. Filiccia took an early lead in the second game and won easily, 50 to 32. Mahoney led throughout the third game and won, 50 to 30. The new record was set in this game. Filiccia weakened in the last game and Mahoney overwhelmily won, 50 to 21. He averaged 80 per cent ringers in the last game.

Mahoney Sets A New Horseshoe Pitching Record

Lincroft Lad Defeats Vito Filiccia Three Out of Four Games in Match at Red Bank Elks Last Thursday.

More than 1,000 spectators saw Larry Mahoney, youthful New Jersey state horseshoe pitching champion, set a new record last Thursday night when he defeated Vito Filiccia of Brooklyn, New York state horseshoe pitching champion, in three out of four games at the Red Bank Elks home.

The match was sponsored by the entertainment committee of the Elks and was sanctioned by the New Jersey Horseshoe Pitchers' association. Reynold Sanford of Perth Amboy, state secretary of the association, conducted the match.

Anglers Vie For Prizes Given By C. W. Feigenspan

Rumson Resident Offers Cash and Trophies for Biggest Tuna, Marlin, Striped Bass, Weakfish and Bluefish.

C. W. Feigenspan of Rumson, president of the Feigenspan Fishing Club, is offering $1,000 in cash prizes and trophies to amateur salt water rod and line fishermen for the big tuna, marlin, striped bass, weakfish and bluefish caught off the New Jersey and Long Island coasts. The contest opened Monday. For tuna and marlin the contest ends September 30 and for striped bass, weakfish and bluefish it ends October 31.

In 1933 Mr. Feigenspan caught a 407-pound tuna off Sea Bright after a five-hour battle. Since then larger tunas have been caught, but Mr. Feigenspan hopes to see the day when a tuna, weighing more than 1,000 pounds is landed by a rod and line angler.

In order to be eligible for one of the prizes the angler must have caught his fish within the area bounded by an imaginary line drawn due east from Cape May to intersect with a line drawn due south from Montauk Point, Long Island. This area includes all the rivers and bays along the Jersey coast and the bays along the south coast of Long Island.

The fish must be weighed on tested scales and the date of the capture must be included in an affidavit signed by two witnesses—other than the boat captain or the crew—who witness the weighing of the fish. The measurements of the fish should be included and a photograph is desirable, but not compulsory.

This data should be sent to C. W. Feigenspan, Federal Trust company, Newark.

Handline fishermen are not eligible nor will any fish which has been barpooned or killed with a firearm be considered. All fish for prize classes must be brought to gaff without assistance being given at the rod, although the boat captain or member of the crew may hold the leader while the fish—tuna or marlin—is being gaffed. A broken rod disqualifies, as does a broken line.

All the species mentioned for prizes may be captured from a boat with the exception of the striped bass. Mr. Feigenspan, by reason of his nearly twenty years experience in fishing for tuna, knows that the capture of record-breaking fish depends to a large extent on the skill of the boat captain. Accordingly, they, too, will benefit through cash prizes.

The prizes follow:

$250 cash and a trophy for the largest tuna caught on heavy tackle; line over 24-thread. $250 cash and a trophy for the largest tuna caught on light tackle; 24-thread line or lighter. $250 cash and a trophy for the largest marlin caught on line not exceeding 24-thread. $100 cash to the boat captain in the aforementioned classes.

$100 cash and trophies to the amateur anglers who catch the largest striped bass, bluefish or weakfish on rod and line. $50 cash to the boat captain from whose boat the largest weakfish or bluefish is caught. $100 cash for the smallest tuna under five pounds taken by any method anywhere along the Atlantic coast. This fish must be submitted to Mr. Feigenspan or some one designated by him. Mr. Feigenspan offers the last mentioned prize with the hope that the capture of "baby" tuna will throw some light on the spawning grounds of the species.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SYMBOLS OF SUMMER

"The summer comes with flower and bee."

THE beauty of flowers is an attraction and a challenge to every camera owner. Frankly, good flower pictures are not easy to take and for that reason success brings more than ordinary satisfaction to the amateur photographer.

Proper lighting, a large image and patient work with the camera are the essentials of flower photography. The best camera to use is one with a long-extension bellows, enabling one to focus close to the flower, and having a ground glass focusing screen on which you can see the image before snapping the shutter.

But, if you haven't such a camera, good work may be done with ordinary folding or box cameras, provided a portrait attachment is used to obtain a large image. This supplementary lens, which comes with a table of focusing distances, makes it possible to work within arm's length of the subject. Always use a tape measure to determine exactly the specified distance between lens and flower. Panchromatic film gives the best rendering of the tone contrasts among the colors.

Flower pictures need to be vividly sharp; hence, a small lens opening should usually be used—f.16 or f.22—or the smallest stop on box cameras, and the camera should be on a tripod or held securely with a camera clamp. The exposure should be from 1/2 to one second.

Wind is a problem, of course. At such close distances movement of the subject makes more difference. It is worth while to wait for a moment when the blossom is motionless. If you find the wind too blowy, devise a wind-breaker of some sort. Hazy days, or when the sun is shining under light clouds, makes the ideal time for flower pictures. Direct bright sunshine is not desirable, but if you can't wait for better conditions, give your subject the protection of a cheesecloth screen. Better results are obtained in the early morning or late afternoon when the light is less harsh and comes from the side. This is especially true for cup-shaped flowers. Nearby foliage, or other blossoms not wanted, may be tied back with string or cut away. A piece of stiff gray cardboard placed behind the flower often is a better background than the natural one.

Sometimes, if you are patient enough to wait, a roving bee will enter the chalice of your flower. Click! Your patience is rewarded with a picture that is a perfect symbol of summertime.

'Artist' Sticks To Last Despite Shoe Machines

HE SHOD YESTERDAY'S GREAT

87-year-old Charles L. Weber of St. Louis is still making shoes by hand just as in the old days when Lillian Russell wore a last like the one in his hand.

St. Louis (AP)—With a steady hand despite his 87 years, Charles L. Weber continues to practice a fast-fading trade in his little shop here. Amid dusty souvenirs of another day he sits on a small stool and turns out three and four pairs of hand-made shoes a week. Twenty years ago he employed 35 men, he says, and had a shop in downtown St. Louis.

"Of course, my clientele is restricted," Weber explains. "Most persons aren't willing to pay the price I have to charge. But my shoes are works of art."

Stacked along one wall are boxes containing lasts of judges, bishops, bankers, doctors, politicians, prominent business and professional men. Actresses and actors were among his best customers in the old days and he did some of his finest work for Lillian Russell and Sarah Bernhardt.

"As soon as a customer dies I remove his last and add them to a growing pile in the basement. I have had to remove 175 in the last two years," he remarks sadly.

Most prized in his assortment of oddities are the gold medal and first award won for boot and shoe making at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, in 1893. That was the crowning climax of his career.

Custom shoemakers from all over the world competed and Weber spent two years and employed 30 to 40 craftsmen, he says, to prepare a $17,000 entry.

"I showed 304 pairs of boots and shoes, no two alike, and won not only for workmanship but for design."

He started winning medals at the Philadelphia Centennial in 1876. From then on he took prizes at all the expositions up to the St. Louis World's fair in 1904.—Robert O. Boello.

WORK OF ART Weber turns out three or four pairs of shoes a week.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

New York (AP)—To measure the lower edge of infinity—that place or condition where heat ceases to exist, and which is called "absolute zero," two English scientists, J. F. Allen and E. S. Shire of Cambridge, have found a new kind of thermometer.

It is very fine phosphor bronze wire. As temperature drops, the wire's resistance to electric current likewise goes down. The resistance drop is exactly in proportion to loss of heat, so that the wire measures the steps in the last degree.

It has accurately charted two hundredths of one degree above absolute zero; the scientists report in Nature. Whether it will remain accurate for the last two hundredths of a degree they do not know. But dropping through this last fraction of a degree would be all the way to infinity, and no scientist expects to attain that goal. Infinity lies in the fact that no matter how close to absolute zero you get, there is always a smaller fraction you can think of, and that really exists.

New York—It's getting so that a plant can't have any privacy, even for its roots.

A new way of looking at them has been invented by G. H. Bates, English agricultural scientist of Stafford. He uses the principle of a dental mirror, a tilted glass fastened to the end of a rod.

His mirror has a handle several feet long. It carries an electric light bulb just above the mirror.

To look at roots Mr. Bates bores holes sometimes five feet deep, and fits hollow pipe or glass tubes into them. The tops of the pipes are covered against rain. When it is time to look at roots, the cover is lifted, mirror lowered, and there are the roots, growing in and around the pipe.

Mr. Bates has been watching the effects of fertilizer. He expects to begin looking at sugar beet roots next.

Morgantown, W. Va.—A radio race track has been set up between here and Columbia, G. C., by E. C. Calkins and A. Friend of West Virginia university.

They send a radio signal to the station of J. R. Bouknight, in Columbia. He shoots it back. The round trip speed of the signal can be timed with an accuracy of five per cent.

First returns indicate that the ether waves don't know the meaning of punctuality. The results are announced in the Physical Review, in March 18 the radio waves rode the air at a speed of 102,000 miles a second. Two days later they did it 144,000 miles. Then they dropped to 94,000 miles, a comedown of 50,000 miles a second only three days afterward.

Cleveland—Folks with badly shaped jaws, irregular teeth or alms troubles perhaps owe it all to a bump on the nose.

The way in which this happens during babyhood is discussed by Myron Metzbaum, M. D., in the Archives of Otolaryngology. The soft tip of a baby's nose seems to be nature's way of guarding against harm when it falls on its face.

But Dr. Metzbaum says some of these bumps lead to adult deformities. The damage is indirect. No one notices that the baby's septal cartilage—the tip of his nose—is dislocated. Breathing is interfered with. Ultimately jaws, teeth and sinuses suffer.

All the instruments a skilled surgeon needs to correct most of these dislocations are his thumb and forefinger.

Cleveland—Add to the "burnished skies" sung by poets a new one discovered by three Cleveland scientists—a sky that burns you more than the sun.

The rays from one of these "burnished skies" are ultra-violet. They come from the sun but scatter in the blue of the sky and fall like mist from all parts of the sky at once. This scattering is nothing new to science. But it was not supposed that on a clear day more burning could come from the sky than from the direct rays of the sun. M. Lukesh, A. H. Taylor and G. P. Kerr, reading sunburn meters that recorded continuously for two years, discovered days in September when the sky rays carried nearly twice the burning power of sun rays. They report their discovery in the Journal of the Franklin Institute.

Pittsburgh—Heavy ice, made by freezing heavy water, has found its first practical use.

It is a good target to shoot at—with an atom gun. One of these guns is made by setting a positive and negative electrode so that there is a slight difference in potential between them.

If electrified atoms are fed to one electrode they shoot like bullets against the other electrode. Ice is not a good electrode. But the heavy ice is so used by freezing a thin layer of heavy water over a metal electrode.

The atomic bullets used to shoot at heavy ice are heavy hydrogen particles, the stuff which makes heavy water when combined with oxygen. The result of hits on the ice is a nice stream of electrons, an atomic particle used by physicists to investigate the structure of matter.

C. M. Black and L. F. Ehrke of the Westinghouse company tell of the new ice gun in the Review of Scientific Instruments.

Assessment Body Not Appointed

Atlantic Highlands Council Lacked One Vote of Confirming One Member and Turned Down Two Appointments.

The appointment of members of the assessment commission of the borough of Atlantic Highlands is still up in the air. A month ago the council refused to confirm the reappointment of John S. Filmer, Thomas Jennings and William T. Peck as submitted by Mayor Chauncey C. Phillips. The vote was 4 to 2 on each appointment.

Last night, marked the end of the 30-day period given to mayors on appointments and a special meeting was held to reconsider the matter. Councilman William Dunphy was absent. Mr. Filmer's name was again presented by Mayor Phillips and this time the vote was 3 to 2 in favor of his reappointment. At this point John M. Ellishbury, borough attorney, questioned the legality of the appointment and quoted the law stating appointments must be confirmed by a majority of the entire council. This means that the affirmative votes of four councilmen are necessary. Mr. Phillips then placed the names of Mr. Jennings and Mr. Peck before the council and the vote against both was 3 to 2. The names of Morris Joslin and John Koak met the same fate. Mr. Phillips submitted no more names.

Searches For Friend, Becomes Toastmaster

The best laid plans of men, often go astray. This is a story of how Leon Reussille, attorney, came to be toastmaster at the dinner given last week at the Smoke Shop tavern by Postmaster Ed vonKastengel for workers in the Democratic party.

Mr. Reussille and Horton Garrison set out that evening in search of Tom Clusey of Mechanic street, who was to be a component part in a card game. Inquiries revealed that Tom was attending the Democratic dinner at the tavern. They delayed their appearance there so as to arrive after the dinner was over but as it happened they reached the tavern before the dinner started. When James Curley spied the attorney he immediately drafted him as toastmaster.

Port Monmouth To Have Airport

George W. Kinney has leased for two years 34 acres of his meadow-edge farm at Port Monmouth to Federal McIlried of Foxwood Park, near Red Bank, who plans to use it as an airport. The property is at the northeast and southeast corners of Route 35 and Wilson avenue. It is sowed in wheat and the crop will be harvested within a few days. Mr. McIlried operates a Waco-F-2 airplane and he plans to take passengers for flights. He has applied for a license for an airport. Previously he carried on a business of this kind at Belmar.

Last summer the camp was operated by Mrs. Ormberg and it was not opened this summer.

Fresh Buttermilk Proves Popular As Healthful Summer Beverage

Recommended for Adults, Modern Cultured Buttermilk Has Uniform Flavor and Texture. Useful in Cooking

By FRED W. JACKSON
New Jersey Department of Agriculture

Office Girls Pause for the Afternoon Pick-up

A GLASS of cool buttermilk touches the spot as nothing else can do on a hot summer day. Hence, the well chosen term "lactical elixir" which has been applied to this popular beverage by a prominent health authority.

The refreshing and restful flavor of fresh buttermilk, as well as its high nutritive content, justifies such recommendation. In addition, the carefully controlled processes used by modern dairies in preparing this tasty beverage food insure a mild tartness and uniformity in flavor and texture.

Ideal for Adults Although buttermilk is a substantial food, it can be enjoyed freely by those seeking to control body weight. This beverage is recommended as ideal for adults who face the problem of over-weight because it is made from pasteurized defatted milk—butter fat free.

On the other hand, one occasionally hears regrets expressed that the so-called old-fashioned "butter-milk" is no longer available. The reason is that but very little butter is now being made in New Jersey. The old-fashioned buttermilk usually had a richness which was imparted by the flakes of butter remaining after churning, but at the same time it was often lacking in uniformity of flavor and texture.

Closing Crossing Topic Of Debate

Question of Shutting Off Road at Silverlake Avenue Crossing to be Discussed at Council Meeting Next Tuesday.

The question of closing the Silverlake avenue railroad crossing at Little Silver, where four persons were killed recently, will come up for public discussion at the meeting of the Little Silver mayor and council next Tuesday night. Enough railroad officials had a conference at the crossing last Saturday morning. The railroad officials stated there was not enough traffic to warrant gates or signals. They say the Oceanport avenue crossing, which is guarded with gates, is only a short distance away and can be reached with virtually no inconvenience by motorists traveling on Silverlake avenue.

Several residents in the vicinity of the crossing state they will oppose any attempt to close the road. They say it is the railroad's duty to provide adequate protection. A petition opposing any move to shut off the road is now being prepared. Borough Attorney William A. Stevens is preparing an ordinance to close the road and this will be introduced next Tuesday night.

Sit Right

"Sit right and don't speed" is a simple formula outlined by the Key-stone Automobile Club of New Jersey for "fatigueless" driving. A vacation bulletin issued by the club gives valuable hints to motorists planning long trips this summer involving the driving of an automobile eight or ten hours a day.

"If you are going in for distance driving," says the bulletin, "you will want to drive with the least possible fatigue and the way to do that is sit correctly and not drive too fast. Slumping over the wheel is not regarded as restful by authorities who have conducted scientific studies on the subject. The most restful position for the driver is sitting erect with the back of the seat providing support.

"Of course, the seat should be adjusted to the requirements of the individual; that's why the manufacturers have made them adjustable. The driver who is relaxed finds motoring effortless. The driver who 'lightens up' holds himself tense, is easy prey to fatigue, and that in turn, makes him a dangerous driver because his reactions are too slow for emergencies and his judgment of timing and distance is impaired.

"Intense concentration required by high-speed driving is a factor in fatigue not generally appreciated by motorists. It is best and safest to find a 'comfortable' speed and to stick to it, reducing the mileage to be covered in the original plan, if necessary, or adding to the time allowed for reaching destination."

'SLO-O-O-OP!'

Says A Minnow: And Another Wiggle-tail Won't Grow Up to Be a Mosquito

By Sigrid Arne. Washington (AP)—Minnows like nothing better than a good meal of wiggle-tails. And thereby hangs a tale of international good will that should make the state department jealous.

Wiggle-tails are adolescent mosquitoes: just after they leave the eggs and just before they sprout wings. So obviously, every minnow stop for lunch leaves a human being that many bites, and maybe, that many cases of malaria and yellow fever.

On a good day a minnow can consume a hundred wiggle-tails. He goes after them something like a spaghetti-devotee goes after spaghetti. "Slo-o-o-p!" and another wiggle-tail wiggles no more.

The minnow is a joy to public health departments. It is "planted" in shallow, sluggish waters over which mosquitoes buzz on summer nights. However, not all minnows are so useful. Some are vegetarians and pass up wiggle-tails. It is only the "Gambusia" species, from southeastern states, that is sure death to the mosquito.

He revealed his eating habits to Dr. S. F. Hildebrand, of the federal bureau of fisheries, way back in 1916, when Dr. Hildebrand was stationed at Beaufort, N. C.

Dr. Hildebrand kept minnows in a tank of water. He kept some of the scum-like colonies of eggs which mosquitoes deposit on the surface of the water. When the eggs burst they turned into creatures that look like tiny sections of a watch chain with a whisker-like fuzz at one end. That's a wiggle-tail.

It hangs head-down from the surface of the water, breathing through its tail. Then up darts a minnow from the water below. "Slo-o-o-p!" and a whole flock of wiggle-tails are gone.

The news about these Gambusia was bruited about when the World War broke and Dr. Elmer and his wife were asked to lead mosquito ponds around large army camps in this country. He did.

Italy Was Jubilant. Slowly, the information spread. Italy wrote for help, and four years later expressed jubilant praise of the minnow. Since then he's been "introduced" to Portugal, Palestine, the Philippines, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Argentina.

Dr. Hildebrand sends off tanks of the fish and grins because they probably arrive doubled in number. A female minnow gives birth to as many as 200 young at one time. And she repeats five to six times each summer.

There is one drawback. Gambusia doesn't like cold climates. He has managed to struggle through the winter in southern Illinois and Indiana, but that was in ponds fed by warm springs. Now Dr. Hildebrand is looking for a northern fish that also has a tooth for wiggle-tails.

Efficiency

I wrote an advertisement in this "Opportunity." I said I believed that efficiency was more than anything else when it came to the power of doing one's best in the shortest time and in the least expenditure of all.

I want me a copy of the New York Times and a long editorial on "Efficiency." I want the best definition of efficiency I have ever seen. Here it is:

"The power of doing one's best in the shortest time and in the least expenditure of all."

And common sense tied up to that definition.

I ought to learn that definition of efficiency. If they learn it by heart and use it in a while, especially when they are in doubt, it will make that tag light up the power of efficiency with-

Want Bridge Closed For Further Dredging

Brielle and Manasquan Make This Request to Freeholders—County Asks State Aid for Road Improvements.

Permission was requested from the board of freeholders at their regular meeting at the court house yesterday morning to close the bridge across Brielle road to allow for further dredging. The project is the continuation of the dredging of the Manasquan river, north through Dille's creek to Glimmer Glass lake.

Application for the permission was made by G. Rolland Moore, engineer for Brielle and Manasquan, and was accompanied by Councilmen William F. Rao of Brielle and Abram D. Voorhees of Manasquan, the two municipalities connected by the bridge. They also spoke briefly, pointing out the additional deep water that would be made available for anchorage. The request was referred to the bridge department of the board. It was estimated that the bridge would be out of use for a week or ten days while the work is in progress.

The chairman of the road committee was authorized to requisition the State Highway department for two sums, $10,000 for the repair of township roads and $25,000 for the repair of municipal roads. The $10,000 fund has been apportioned as follows: Freehold township, $3,000; Howell, $1,000; Manasquan, $1,000; Middletown, $2,000; and Neptune, $3,000. The $25,000 fund was allocated to the following boroughs: Atlantic Highlands, $1,500; Eatontown, $3,000; Farmingdale, $1,500; Fair Haven, $3,500; Keansburg, $2,500; Little Silver, $2,500; Shrewsbury, $3,000; Sea Girt, $3,500; West Long Branch, $4,000.

The semi-annual report of Glenn L. Berry, county superintendent of weights and measures, was received and ordered filed. Like action was taken on a resolution from Spring Lake, endorsing the establishment of a County Shade Tree Commission as suggested by the Tri-County League of Municipalities at the last meeting of the board.

Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson, president of the board of managers of the county tuberculosis hospital at Allentown, requested the board to approve the request of WPA funds for a new project at the hospital, which they granted. The project will include the repainting of the interior and exterior, the enlarging of the incinerator, garage and disposal plant and the completion of the road work in progress there.

A resolution adopted by the board took over as a county road F street in Belmar, from Eighth to 15th avenue. Another resolution appointed John T. Leavy, chief clerk in the freeholders' office, as acting treasurer in the absence of Treasurer Van R. Halsey of Rumson, who is away on vacation.

The morning session was adjourned to permit members to attend the luncheon of the Belmar Kiwanis club, at which Governor Harold Hoffman was the speaker.

A session was held in the afternoon, at which the audit of the accounts of the various departments of the county government for 1936, as prepared by Hart & Stevens, was accepted and referred to the board for consideration, and County Engineer Otis Seamon was directed to prepare specifications for road materials for 1937, which will be submitted to the Highway department and used in the advertising for bids on the materials necessary. The reading of the bills concluded the business of the session.

Prepares Now For Next Winter's Snow

Challenging the present heat waves, State Highway Commissioner E. Donald Starnes yesterday laid plans for more equipment in the 1937-1938 winter battle to keep New Jersey roads clear of snow.

Risking his reputation as a weather prophet, he recommended that State Purchase Commissioner Frederick A. Brodessor buy 35 plows to be attached to the State Highway department's one and one-half ton trucks and 40 to be used with the trucks ranging from three to five tons. The light trucks are being found more efficient, he said, in combating the winter elements, as they make better speed in pushing snow aside before it is compacted by traffic.

As evidence that highway maintenance is an all-year job, the trimming of grass also entered the picture and Commissioner Starnes asked that orders be placed for three triple-purpose power grass mowers. He also requested that two mud-jacks be bought. "Mud-jack" is a designation given to machinery that pumps fill under concrete slabs which have been thrown out of alignment by winter freezing and thaws where the sub-grade has settled.

Accepting the low bid of the Delta Construction company of Hopewell, Commissioner Starnes with the approval of the U. S. Bureau of Roads, awarded the contract for the reconstruction of the Mantua Boulevard Bridge on the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines, near Sewell Station, Mantua Township, Gloucester county. The figure of $70,662 by the Hopewell firm gives a saving of $10,495 under the estimated cost. The entire improvement will be paid for by the Federal Government with WPA funds voted to New Jersey in 1935 to reduce unemployment.

The contract for building a traffic intersection at the junction of Routes 25 and 33 at Robbinsville, near Trenton, was given to H. Lem White of Haddonfield, the low bidder at $24,849. This new intersection will have the divided roadways being completed between Robbinsville and Hightstown for traffic traveling over both Route 25, the Camden-New York road and Route 33, the Trenton-Asbury Park highway.

Big Reception Held For Negro Graduates Here

Annual Event at River Street Schoolhouse Last Night Was Attended by About 400 Persons—Prizes Awarded.

In attendance and in every other respect the annual reception given last night at Red Bank for Monmouth county colored graduates of colleges, normal schools and public schools was the most successful event of the sort ever held. It took place in the River street schoolhouse and about 400 persons were present. The program was given as outlined in The Register last week, with a few additions.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. Lewis S. Thompson of Brookdale farm, Lincoln. She was introduced by Rev. Charles Nelson, vicar of St. Thomas chapel, who was chairman of a committee of Red Bank colored and white citizens who staged the reception. Mrs. Thompson praised the graduates for making the most of their school and college opportunities and urged them to use the education which they had acquired for good citizenship.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Verner Ayer, principal of School 24 of New York. Her talk related chiefly to her own experience and the processes by which she built up an intelligent self interest. Father Nelson introduced as an honored guest Miss Thelma Harris, who graduated a short time ago from Knoxville college at Knoxville, Tennessee. Dr. John W. Parker introduced Solomon Porter Hood, ex-minister to Liberia. Other honored guests were Rev. Obadiah G. Goodwin of Red Bank and Rev. Mr. Hargrave of Keyport.

The graduates stood up and took bows as the names were called. The total number was 223, which was the largest in the history of the annual receptions. The names of those who made contributions for the reception were read.

An award of $5 was made to Perzealla Parker, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John W. Parker, for having the highest standing among senior high school pupils. Elizabeth Green received second prize of $2.50.

Everett Jordan received $5 donated by Monroe Elmer for the most promising boy graduate in the grade school of Red Bank. Cedar Jackson of Keyport got an award of $5 for being the most promising grade school graduate in the county. Father Nelson stated that she was second among a class of 101. Second prize of $2.50 went to Olga Johnson of Atlantic Highlands. The Girls activity club prize of $2.50 went to Harriet Alston.

At the conclusion of the reception refreshments were served and general sociability was enjoyed.
