William L. Russell
Buys Former Louis
J. Boury Estate

RUMSON—Joseph G. McCue, realtor, Ridge rd., has sold to William L. Russell, Jr., of Fair Haven, partner in the Red Bank law firm of Quinn, Doremus, McCue & Russell, the southern colonial manse belonging to Milton A. Connor, and situated on the west side of Buena Vista ave., Rumson, extending to Conover lane.

The residence is one of the few outstanding examples of old southern colonial architecture, and for many years was the home of Louis J. Boury. After his death the property was acquired by Uzal H. McCarter, who resided there until he moved to Princeton.

The dwelling contains ten rooms, including four main bedrooms, each with private bath. It adjoins the homes of Harold Van Tine and Mrs. Alan Field. The new owners plan to occupy the residence very shortly as their permanent home.

The grounds embrace two acres, and include many exceptionally fine specimen shade trees and shrubs, in which the late Mr. Boury exhibited great pride.

PTA Plans Events For Halloween

HIGHLANDS—Under the sponsorship of Highlands Parent-Teacher association, a Halloween celebration, with a window painting contest, parade and ten-age dance, will be held here Oct. 31. Arrangements for the event were made at a meeting of the P.T.A. executive committee last week at the home of Mrs. John Adair on Portland rd.

Mrs. Milton Wright, president, said the Bahr brothers have offered to help the P.T.A. with their school band fund. The band is sponsored by the P.T.A. Jack Schwartz, Highlands grammar school music teacher, is director, and Mrs. Vincent Mendes is P.T.A. band chairman.

Mrs. Adair is chairman of a card party to be held Sept. 24.

Mrs. Joseph Derby said the learn-to-swim program, sponsored by the association, will be concluded this week.

Authority Seeks Nine Properties

FREEHOLD—The New Jersey Highway authority last week filed nine more condemnation suits to acquire properties in Monmouth county needed for the Garden State parkway.

Under the law, the authority may start making use of the lands sought immediately after filing the action. A condemnation commission appointed by the court then sits in on negotiations and decides at what it deems a fair price for the property sought.

RUMSON—Magistrate Arnold Tulp, who put 20 questions to the board of education at the board's July meeting and had the questions answered Wednesday night of last week will pursue the matter, he said this week.

Mr. Tulp stated that although he complimented the board on their courtesy and promptness in answering the questions he reserved the right to consider the answers and to make such comment as he thinks they warrant at a future time. Mr. Tulp emphasized that in remarking about the courtesy and efficiency of the board in presenting the answers, he wasn't passing judgment on the answers themselves but merely on the way in which they were presented.

Trade Exposition In Local Armory To Begin Oct. 5

Reussille, Conway
Predict 'Best Ever';
To Lease 82 Booths

Under the leadership of Robert Reussille and Edward H. Conway, the Red Bank Trade Exposition plans for its third annual show are going at a rapid pace.

The date of the trade show has been set for the week of Oct. 5, and it is expected to dwarf all preceding ones. The Chamber's board of directors is satisfied with the trade show idea, which seems to be its members' agree, a natural. While it entails a lot of work, many months of planning and endless correspondence, the fruit it bears has justified the effort expended.

What makes the exposition an important part of the Red Bank community is its drawing power. In 1949 at least 25,000 persons filed through the armory to look at the many exhibits which took exhibitors the better part of the week to set up.

Plan Innovations
That year's trade show had 98 booths, and the same number in 1950, which includes charity and community exhibits which are free. This year, however, only 82 are being leased, the reason being that one section of the armory which had been used in the past is no longer accessible.

The trade show is expected to be bigger in other respects. This will be due to many innovations: increased production and inventions, not overlooking a planned program of entertainment, both amateur and professional.

Reservations for booths are rapidly coming in to headquarters from many firms with diversified displays. The following have already signed to display their products, namely, Red Bank Register, Necchi Sewing Circle, J. H. Kelly company, Kearny & Lefferts, Inc., Jersey Central Power & Light company, South Jersey Burglar Supply company, E. Allen Shoe company, O. M. Sales, Inc., Kridel's, Daily Record, Brander Radio & Television Service, Waterproofer, Inc., Carroll's Stationery, Bright Stores, William A. Fluhr, Satter Lumber company, Sterling Furniture, Blaisdell Lumber company, Klarin's Paint store, Fogging Unlimited, L. D. Seely company, Allen Electric company, Leon's Cleaners and Reussille's Jewelers.

Name Committees
The trade show committee is made up of members and officers of the Red Bank Community Chamber of Commerce, who have been working diligently during the past few months. On it are Mr. Reussille, general chairman; Mr. Conway, co-chairman; Mr. Beverly Anderson, program committee; Ray E. Taylor, publicity and advertising; Joseph Holiday, decorations and signs; J. Raymond de Ridder, exhibits, loans and allocations; William A. Fluhr, legal committee; Frank Blaisdell, exhibits construction; Roscoe Angle and Robert Matthews, tickets, passes and cards; William D. Bradley, exhibits maintenance and electricity; William A. Fluhr and Mr. Conway, treasurers; J. Ray de Ridder and R. Thomas Bowers, prize committee; Hubert Farrow, Jr., insurance; and Maxwell H. Klarin and C. Donald English, automobile committee.

Rotarians Help In the Fight Against Polio

Red Bank Club Launches Program of Community Education

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has invited the Red Bank Rotary club to join in a nation-wide campaign to bring out the facts in the fight against polio.

Professor Gregg Hibbs, president of the Red Bank Rotary club and supervising principal of the Red Bank public schools, has solicited the co-operation of The Register in this campaign as community education is recognized as the most effective weapon yet devised in the fight against infantile paralysis. The Register is glad as part of its community service to give space to this timely undertaking.

With new advances in scientific research, there comes a growing need for an adequately informed public and the Red Bank Rotary club not only brings up-to-date information about polio, but it plans a strenuous campaign to aid this community's fight against this dreaded disease.

A Community-Wide Problem

Polio control is a community-wide problem. While children are the most likely victims, this crippling disease can and does strike adults—and all with geographical impartiality.

Foremost scientific and medical men are devoting every possible effort to a study of the control of polio. Much has been learned in the past, new facts are becoming known, and hopes are high that before long an effective method of control will be perfected.

Until that day arrives, the public—for its own protection—must be prepared to do everything that possibly can be done in the light of present scientific knowledge to help prevent polio from striking or to help lessen its ill effects when it does strike.

The community service committee of the Rotary club will perform a service by soon arranging a program that will give to the club members a new look at the advances science has made toward the eventual control of polio. Such information will prepare the members to take all possible steps to protect not only themselves, their wives and families from polio, but also their employees, neighbors and friends. The better they are informed, the more intelligently they, in turn, can inform others about polio as it relates to individual members of the community.

Facts About Polio

The Cause—Polio is caused by a virus that attacks the motor nerve cells of the central nervous system which control muscle action. Polio is usually spread by person to person contact.

As a matter of fact, there are three kinds of polio virus that cause the disease. All three produce identical clinical symptoms, but infection by one type will not result in immunity against either of the others. There is no proof that water, insects, food or sewage are responsible for epidemics.

How Many Will Get It?—It cannot be foretold with accuracy how many persons will be stricken with polio in any one year or in any one locality. The rate of incidence has been greater in some years than in others—and it has varied considerably in different geographical areas.

According to the U. S. Public Health Service, the national yearly average in the U. S. A. for the period 1948-1952 was 25 cases per 100,000 population—or an average each year throughout the country of one person in every 4,000. The year 1952 witnessed the greatest incidence of polio in recorded medical history. There is no scientific basis on which incidence can be forecast.

Among children under ten, the rate may mount to two or three times the general rates for a given region.

Polio outbreaks occur annually usually in late June through September, although sporadic cases may appear at any time. Peak incidence generally appears in mid-September in the North, with outbreaks climaxing somewhat earlier in the South.

Is There a Preventive?

Vaccine—Research conducted during recent years by National Foundation grantees clearly suggests that a practical method for the control of paralytic polio might be achieved through vaccination. Although progress toward this goal has been rapid, the objective has not yet been achieved. Widespread use of any polio vaccine must await proof of both safety and effectiveness. Such studies are under way. As rapidly as they can be completed the results will be announced. No vaccine can be expected for 1953, however.

Gamma Globulin—This substance provides some temporary protection against paralytic polio. It is a part of human blood that contains disease-fighting antibodies, including those of polio. In field trials during 1951 and 1952, gamma globulin was demonstrated to provide some protection against paralytic polio for about five weeks when administered to children who were being exposed to infection during a polio epidemic.

The polio antibodies present in gamma globulin provide some temporary protection if administered shortly before or immediately after the individual is infected with polio virus.

Since gamma globulin is in extremely short supply, it has been put under the control of the Office of Defense Mobilization, a federal agency which distributes it to state and territorial health officers who, in turn, make it available to local health departments and private physicians. There is no charge for this material.

The Office of Defense Mobilization has indicated that 57 per cent of available gamma globulin may be used for household and other intimate contacts of diagnosed cases of polio and even, in some instances, for contacts of suspected cases. It has recommended that gamma globulin be administered to contacts who are 30 years of age or under, and pregnant women of any age. 33 per cent of the supply is being reserved for mass immunization in communities suffering severe epidemics for individuals in those age groups most affected. Ten percent is being held in reserve for emergency or investigative purposes.

Gamma globulin is in short supply primarily because of the inability to expand the processing facilities by which it is extracted from human blood. Even this limited supply is dependent to a large degree on blood donations to the American Red Cross.

It is estimated that up to September 1, 1953, there will be approximately a million doses of gamma globulin available. Since there are 16 million children and adolescents in the age groups most susceptible to polio, the shortness of the supply is evident.

Common-Sense Precautions

Since there is no vaccine to protect against polio, and because most families will be unable to obtain gamma globulin, it is important that all observe the following precautions during the season of polio epidemics:

—Let your children continue to play and be with their usual companions. They probably have already been exposed to whatever polio virus may be in that group, and they may have developed immunity against it.

—Do not allow your children to mingle with strangers, especially in crowds, or go into homes outside their own circle. Strangers may carry a polio virus to which they are not immune.

—Teach your children to wash their hands before putting food in their mouths. Polio virus may be carried into the body through the mouth.

—See that your children never use anybody else's towels, wash cloths or dirty drinking glasses, dishes and tableware. Polio virus could be carried from these things to other people.

—Follow your doctor's advice about nose and throat operations, inoculations, or teeth extractions during the polio season.

—Be ever watchful for signs of polio: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of the neck and back, tender or weakened muscles. If such occur call your doctor at once and, in the meantime, put to bed and away from others, any member of your family showing such symptoms.

—Do not allow your children to become fatigued or chilled. Over-tired or chilled bodies are less able to fight off polio.

—Do not take your children away from your community without good cause. Polio time is the time to stay at home and keep with everyday companions.

Your Chances If Polio Strikes

Even if polio does occur, there is a good chance for complete recovery. Studies have shown that out of every 100 cases of polio, 50 recover completely, 30 have slight muscle weakness, 14 are disabled, and 6 may die.

Treatment of polio can be prolonged and very expensive. In the U.S.A., four out of every five patients need and receive some financial aid from county chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. If you need such help, get in touch with the chapter nearest your home. Your health department will advise you where it is. March of Dimes assistance is provided for by the generosity of the American people; patient aid provided by the March of Dimes is not charity.

The National Foundation assists doctors and hospitals to give the best care. It sends funds, polio equipment, and trained workers where needed. It is supported by the March of Dimes held in January.

Kaiser's Unit Rated Excellent

CAMP DRUM, N. Y.—Transportation battalion of Long Branch, N. J., under the command of Lieut. Col. Frank N. Kaiser, has been attending field training here since Aug. 8.

The unit left Red Bank by motor convoy Friday, Aug. 7, and arrived here Sunday, Aug. 9. The battalion bivouaced at Flemington fair grounds Friday night and at the Cortland, N. Y., fair grounds Saturday night. The trip was made without incident.

Sunday at camp was devoted to the usual housekeeping details necessary for the comfort, health and welfare of the men. Training officially began Monday morning. The majority of training time is devoted to carrying out the mission of the unit. A transportation battalion such as the 156th supplies truck transportation for cargo and personnel of other units who are in need of such services. When not in service of other units, the men of the battalion receive classroom instruction on convoy procedure, maintenance, map reading, use of compass, and many other subjects related to the operation of a transportation battalion.

Tuesday afternoon the battalion went into the field for an overnight bivouac. Prior to departure, the men were briefed by Maj. William G. Miller on the proper way to occupy an area. Upon arrival at the bivouac area, the men set up field kitchens, placed security guards on the perimeter, applied the knowledge they had gained during the winter months in the armory on how to camouflage a bivouac area. Favored by good weather, the men spent a pleasant night in the field. The battalion returned to their assigned area in Camp Drum proper by motor convoy Wednesday.

Thursday night the battalion went on a "blackout march." This means that the entire battalion goes on a motor march without benefit of lights through unfamiliar terrain. A march such as this is excellent training for drivers and tests the efficiency of the drivers under tactical conditions.

The morale and health of the battalion is excellent. The unit has been periodically inspected by the summer training command headquarters and has received an overall rating of excellent.

Saturday afternoon the battalion will participate in a command review at which time awards and decorations will be presented. Sunday is a day of recreation which all men are looking forward to. Special convoys will be provided to take the men to the vacation spots nearby, such as Clayton and Alexandria Bay. The men will have the opportunity to tour the Thousand Islands and visit Canada. Special arrangements have been made by Brig. Gen. Edward O. Wolf for aerial flights over the camp and the surrounding area for those men who have been most outstanding during the first week of training.

Grape Field Day at Experiment Station

NEW BRUNSWICK—More than 200 different varieties and new hybrid selections of grapes will be on display at a grape field day to be held Tuesday, Aug. 25, at 2 p. m., according to Ernest G. Christ of the Rutgers University Horticulture department. In case of rain the field day will be held Aug. 26.

In addition to the old standard American varieties the display will include the new American-European hybrids, which have attracted considerable attention, Mr. Christ said.

The experiment station trial plantings include varieties from all the United States stations doing grape-breeding work, as well as some from Canada and importations from Europe.

The field day, which will be held at Horticulture farm No. 2 on Ryder's lane, is open to the public.

Of the people in the United States who marry after the age of 60, nine-tenths have been married before.

FREEHOLD—The board of education here has scheduled a referendum Tuesday, Oct. 6, on a proposal to have this community take part in a regional high school with six surrounding school districts. If the proposal is carried, the high school here would be sold by the borough to a regional board of education.

The board's action, taken Wednesday night of last week, must be followed by similar action by school boards in Freehold, Atlantic, Howell and Marlboro townships, Farmingdale and by the English-Town-Manalapan joint board to place the question before voters.

They are expected to take such action this week. Approval by all seven school districts is needed to place the plan in operation.

'Lions' Night' Sept. 16 For Hazard Hospital

CLIFFWOOD BEACH — Robert Cavanaugh of this place, chairman of the Monmouth county Lions club Hazard hospital building fund, this week announced that a "Lions' Night" will be held at Wall stadium Wednesday, Sept. 16, for the fund's benefit.

County clubs will donate trophies for each of the seven auto races. The event is the first of a series of projects to raise the balance of the $150,000 needed to build an addition to Hazard hospital. Each of the county's 23 clubs has pledged $1,000 to the fund, payable in three years.

The building fund committee was formed when the state department of institutions and agencies ordered the hospital closed by Oct. 30 unless a new wing was added.

RIDDING THE SOIL OF INSECTS

Root-knot nematodes are observed to be severely injuring carrot, tomatoes, beans, lettuce and a number of other vegetable crops in many local areas of the state, reports Dr. Ordway Starnes, Rutgers entomologist. County Agent Clark urges growers to examine plants that appear to be in low vigor in low areas. Root-knot nematode is indicated by the presence of usually abrupt enlargements of the roots, particularly the small, feeder roots. This symptom should not be confused with the nodules attached to roots of leguminous plants. Having located infested areas plan to rotate to crops that are relatively resistant, such as grains or corn, or plant to treat. The best time to treat under most farm conditions is during September and early October. Fumigants suggested are ethylene dibromide or O-D mixture at manufacturer's recommendations. Soil should be relatively free of live plant tissue and in ideal condition for plant bed preparations is concerns moisture and temperature when the treatment is applied.

Reade Promotes Paul Petersen

ASBURY PARK—Promotion of Paul Petersen, for the past four years drive-in theater supervisor for Walter Reade theaters, to the new position of assistant general manager of the circuit, has been announced by Walter Reade, Jr., president of Walter Reade theaters. Mr. Petersen will work directly with Nick Schermerhorn, circuit general manager, in direction of all field activities of the independent theater circuit, as well as continue supervision of the organization's six drive-in theaters. The promotion was disclosed at a meeting of circuit city managers and drive-in managers at the

New York city home offices last week. At the same time Mr. Reade announced that Ted Davidson, manager of the Paramount theater in Asbury Park, would shortly after Labor day take over as city manager for the circuit's Majestic and Strand theaters in Perth Amboy. Prizes for "Manager of the Month" were also awarded at the meeting. Each month the circuit singles out two managers who have done the best jobs in the combined fields of theater management, exploitation, personnel management, community relations and development of business, for the honorary titles and to receive cash awards.

Mr. Petersen came to the Reade circuit in 1948, after extensive theater experience in North Jersey, as manager of the Savoy theater here. He helped open the Woodbridge Drive-In theater in the fall of that year, the 9W Drive-In in Kingston, N. Y., the following spring, and the Lawrence Drive-In in Trenton the following summer, after which he was placed in charge of all outdoor theaters in the circuit.

A resident of Allenhurst, he is married and the father of two children.

At Savoy Next Week

Academy Award winning motion picture star Van Heflin will enact the leading role in the Pulitzer prize-winning play, "The Shrike," at the Savoy, the Walter Reade theater opposite the railroad station in Asbury Park, Monday through Saturday, Aug. 22.

The distinguished actor, who scored a tremendous success for his role in the current movie, "Shane," will portray the role created on Broadway by Jose Ferrer of the victimized husband of a preying wife. Isabel Bonner will play the role of the scheming spouse who tries to have her husband committed to an insane asylum—a part from which the play gets its title.

Performances will be staged nightly at 8:40, with extra matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2:40. This will be the ninth of the ten-week season of big-name stars in Broadway hits, with "I Am a Camera," starring Zachary Scott and Ruth Ford slated to follow Aug. 31. The current show, which ends its run Saturday evening, Aug. 22, is Jackie Cooper in the comedy, "Remains to Be Seen."

"The Shrike," a real challenge to an actor, received uniformly rave notices when it opened on Broadway, being hailed as a tremendous drama and "real theater." After receiving the Pulitzer prize it seemed destined for a long run, but was forced to close when Mr. Ferrer had to leave the cast to fill commitments for the movie "Moulin Rouge."

For Mr. Heflin the Savoy engagement will mark his first return to the stage in many years—inasmuch as he decided only in mid-July that his movie commitments would permit a respite for theater work. For the Savoy it will be one of the highspots of a season which already had brought many top-caliber stars to its stage.

In addition to his heralded role as the beleaguered homesteader in "Shane," Mr. Heflin has starred in such outstanding films as "The Philadelphia Story" with Katharine Hepburn, "My Son John" with Helen Hayes, "Tap Roots," "Green Dolphin Street" with Lana Turner, "Tomahawk," "Johnny Eager," and MGM's recent film version of the Dumas' novel, "The Three Musketeers."

He is regarded by fellow actors as an "actor's actor," one who can always be counted on to make the most of any part, and do it to perfection. He selected "The Shrike" for his return to the stage because he felt it would give him the range of drama that he wanted. About two weeks ago he previewed a scene from the play on Ed Sullivan's weekly "Toast of the Town" television show.

A Great Public Service

We'd like to join Little Silver's Councilman Joseph F. Lord in complimenting a group of Red Bank men who unselfishly performed a great public service. We refer to the 30 members of the Civil Defense police reserve who were on traffic duty each night during the Monmouth Park race track season. Stationed at intersections along highway 35, these men efficiently handled heavy streams of traffic. Their presence offered the only possibility local motorists had of getting across the highway.

As Mr. Lord pointed out at last week's meeting of the Little Silver council, the service in effect was a good neighbor activity, particularly for commuters coming from the Red Bank railroad station.

This service was performed at no cost to Red Bank. In fact, the men who volunteered for the work had to go to the expense of paying for their own shirts, ties and trousers. Their caps were donated by Robert Eisner.

Police Capt. Leroy McKnight, head of the reserves, explained that the service actually was part of the training program under way here the past two years. It is a pleasure to praise such a venture for it is encouraging to know there are Red Bankers who have real pride in their borough. They did an excellent, useful job which merits the thanks of everyone.

Our Worst Advertisement

It is interesting to note that "tentative" plans have been made by the New York and Long Branch railroad to modernize Long Branch's railroad station. As good neighbors, we hope the plans materialize faster than those for Red Bank's station have to date.

The worst advertisement for Red Bank is its railroad station. Those people who only get to see our station must have a terrible opinion of what is a wonderful borough. The problem isn't a new one. It's been with us a long time and—unlike wine—it doesn't improve with age.

We occasionally are lulled in a campaign for a new station by the fact that railroad service itself is so poor. In repeatedly asking—and not getting—better train accommodations, we seem to be forgetting the station itself.

The question of a new station for Red Bank is one that needs official action. We suppose the health and fire departments are satisfied that all is well at the station, but we have our doubts. A little prompting by the mayor and council might do some good.

Of course, the railroad will not take full responsibility for the station's dilapidated appearance. We understand there has been interest in negotiating some sort of deal which would relocate the station. A thorough airing of any such proposal would seem to be in the public interest. We hope it is forthcoming.

Not a Lost Virtue by Any Means

Thrift is far from being a lost virtue of the American people, according to the report for June issued by John G. Lawley of Long Branch, president of the New Jersey Savings and Loan league.

Savings receipts in the savings and loan associations throughout New Jersey in June increased approximately 25 per cent over the same month a year ago. The total exceeded $10,000,000.

When we consider the first six months of the year, the record is even more impressive. The total for that period was well over the $90,000,000 mark, and represented an increase in savings of 18.3 per cent over the corresponding period in 1952.

So much for the totals in savings. Some folks, quite naturally, may argue that these totals alone do not necessarily indicate that people generally are becoming thrifty. They may contend that what is equally important is whether or not there has been any sizable increase in the number of savings accounts. Mr. Lawley has the answer. He reports that between May and June, approximately 5,000 persons opened savings accounts in the savings and loan associations throughout the state. He also reports that the number of savings accounts in these associations increased 14.4 per cent over a year ago.

The people of New Jersey should be proud of the above record.

Is the Law Enough?

We hope all municipal officials follow Red Bank's lead by adopting ordinances to prohibit the discarding of refrigerators, freezers and iceboxes unless doors, hinges or locks have been removed.

The refrigerator is a great lure to a child anxious to "play hide" or one seeking an answer to the question of who puts the light on when the door is opened. The resulting suffocations in homes and in dumps are indeed tragic.

The local law will be inadequate as long as refrigerator manufacturers fail to provide the best safety factor—an inside release bar such as is found in walk-in boxes in our larger restaurants and butcher shops. One life saved is the reward offered the designer of such a device.

Band Needs Your Support

Weekly concerts by the Atlantic Highlands municipal band Sunday nights at the yacht harbor have become a part of summer activity at the basin, performances attended by hundreds in parked cars, on beaches along Simon Lake dr., seated near the bandstand and concerts heard by other hundreds aboard boats.

Support for the aggregation has come from the borough council, Lions club and other groups, but a large portion also has come in the past from contributions from residents and others who have enjoyed the presentations.

Band director Joseph Schena last week said that rain twice has postponed performances and this absence has been reflected in a scarcity of donations. But rain did not halt the weekly rehearsal before the missed performances and other concert expenses also were unaffected by inclement weather. It is to be hoped that those who've enjoyed the concerts are aware of these constant expenses and will add their contributions to the band's support.

Fire Loss on Our Farms

It seems almost incredible but farm fires in the United States last year took 3,000 lives and destroyed $133,000,000 in farm property. These startling figures were printed in a pamphlet issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters and were obtained from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Principal fire hazards on the farm include combustible substances like hay, straw and gasoline, plus heat-producing equipment, matches and smoking tobacco and sparks from machinery. Another factor to reckon with is that many farms are in isolated areas which firefighters cannot quickly reach. Lack of water also is serious danger.

Monmouth county is fortunate in having many efficient fire companies located throughout the rural areas, and there is hardly a farm that cannot be reached within a few minutes. Lack of water, however, still presents a serious handicap, but each year finds more and more artificial ponds on farms in this county.

Proper planning and spacing of farm buildings can help, but only by practicing eternal vigilance can we hope to reduce this terrible loss. The National Board of Fire Underwriters admonishes that "each phase of the farmer's daily work should be done with the threat of fire in mind." Farmers seeking information on the subject can obtain the booklet, "Your Farm and Fire Safety," by writing to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 35 John St., New York 38, N. Y. No farmer should be without a copy.

Driving and Drowsiness

The Keystone Automobile club this week warns against highway hypnosis, which it declares is "an especially dangerous and often fatal summer complaint." Factors which produce this condition are monotony, summer heat and humidity, the "purring" of the motor and seemingly endless stretches of bright road surfaces.

What should the motorist do to avoid highway hypnosis? Here are some things a driver can do, states the automobile club: On long trips motorists should stop at regular, frequent intervals and get from behind the wheel for a cup of coffee or a stretch. If driving alone, the motorist should lower the car windows in order to get or create a breeze, munch candy or chew gum, and turn on the car radio. The club warns, however, that in using the radio, such things as "soothing music must be avoided."

All of this is sound advice, and if put into practice will undoubtedly prevent many accidents and fatalities. It's best to start early before there is any sign of drowsiness. That first doze may be the last.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

'MARXIST CONSPIRACY'

Rumson, N. J.
Aug. 17, 1953.

To the Editor:

Dr. Daniel A. Poling is one of our great Protestant ministers. His son was one of the four chaplains widely memorialized in World War II when they went down with their ship.

Dr. Poling recognizes the Marxist penetration into Protestant leadership and supports the investigation of "false prophets among us." As editor of the Christian Herald he printed an article in April by Herbert A. Philbrick, which should be widely read for information on the way ministers have been used to promote the Communist objectives through petitions, mass meetings, etc.

Dr. Lewis H. Haney, lecturer on economics has just written a pamphlet, "Will Individual Freedom Survive?"—a profound and penetrating study on the part Christianity should play in government and economic problems.

Dr. Haney comes from a long line of Methodist preachers; his book, "History of Economic Thought," now in its fourth edition, is the standard text in its field. He is a Phi Beta Kappa (thus qualifying with the intellectuals), and writes a daily column in one of the metropolitan newspapers. Opposed to the welfare state and "social action" Dr. Haney warns us the danger is that in our attempt to gain "security" in the material world we will lose our own souls. This pamphlet can be obtained from the publisher, for the Preservation of Methodism, Box 937, Houston 1, Tex.

The Aug. 7 issue of United States News and World Report contains the entire ten-hour testimony of Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam before the Velde committee. It occupies 53 pages of the magazine and was printed by David Lawrence at a cost of approximately $50,000 as a public service, thus reaching far more than half a million subscribers who might not have written for the House report itself.

No objective reader can fail to be depressed and disgusted by the bluster and evasion of Bishop Oxnam's testimony, which were not so evident in the devoted space the daily press devoted to it.

These three publications will help the average citizen understand how the Marxist conspiracy was able to dupe and misuse the Christian conscience. The spreading of mistaken slogans for which too many Protestant leaders fell are curiously parallel to those used by the business Communists and North American League for the Defense of W. A. Let us about the "minority" racket, the designation of loyal Americans as "reactionaries," the designation of Communists as "progressives."

Sincerely,
Marian M. Strack.

LIONS PILGRIMAGE

73 Linden Dr.,
Fair Haven, N. J.
Aug. 14, 1953.

To the Editor:

As chairman of Region Five, District 16-B, Lions Sight Conservation and Blind Committee, I wish to thank you for the very kind editorial appearing in The Register yesterday. I am sure it will bring to the attention of our community the importance of our project.

Although the clubs you mention are a nucleus around which the pilgrimage was built, it is a project in which ten clubs are giving their support. Hence I feel the Red Bank, Eatontown, Sea Bright, Rumson, Bay Union Beach and Keamsburg clubs should be recognized for their good efforts.

All ten clubs are doing a good job and are building for future aid to Camp Happiness together.

Again many thanks.
Cordially,
Wilfred M. McCracken.

A 'MUST' FOR THIS FAMILY
164 Navalair River Rd.,
Aug. 11, 1953.

To the Editor:

I just want to tell you how much we all appreciate the space you gave to our picture and write-up on the occasion of the Lion's pilgrimage. Needless to say, the whole family got a real bang out of it and if you noticed an increase in particular, I am sure you remember how many Kells there are in the world who were buying the paper like crazy that day.

Clippings were even sent as far away as Ireland and I am sure they were eagerly digested by the folks back on the "Old Sod." We are eagerly anticipating a return engagement of your photographer on mother's birthday. In the meantime, keep the good old Register humming. It's a "must" in our household.

Sincerely,
Joseph G. Kelly.

HARMONY MAY BE OVERDONE

A point that seems to have been missed in the extensive comment upon Freeholder Walton Sherman voting last week against expenditures for bridge repairs in view of a million dollar new courthouse, etc., is that it favorably impresses the public for there to be some difference of opinion in a governing body expressed in voting. It really adds to the popularity of the entire group, for the public is suspicious when there is an overdose of harmony.

In last year's Surrogate's Dorman McFadden when he was a Freeholder and Director Joseph C. Irwin have not hesitated to cast minority votes. As for Freeholder Sherman, minority votes are nothing new to him. In 20 years in the City Commission here he was always independent and voted "No" whenever it was necessary to back up objection to majority action.—Monmouth American.

FEWER TURNPIKE ACCIDENTS
Accidents on the New Jersey Turnpike for the first six months of this year were fewer by more than one-third than in the same period in 1952, numbering 601 as against 90.9 per 100,000,000 miles traveled, respectively. Furthermore, the Turnpike Authority is able to report that the rate was lower for the second quarter of this year than for the first.

Here is a gain that can be attributed to new safety installations and an increase in state police patrols. It is proof that rapidly moving traffic on New Jersey highways can be regulated successfully.

The supreme test, of course, is in the number of fatalities. Those on the turnpike in the first six months of this year were 4.1 per 100,000,000 miles. That ranks the turnpike with the five state highway systems that had the lowest relative death rate in the six months period. The rate on the turnpike on all this state's public highways is to be contrasted with 7.3 on the national public highways.

Users of the turnpike are well aware that there is stricter regulation now. In the first six months of this year the police issued 7,822 summonses as contrasted with only 529 in the same period last year. What has followed, naturally, has been greater obedience of regulations by most drivers. This is a condition that should continue to improve.—Newark Sunday News.

'ETERNAL VIGILANCE'
Some bad news and some good news from the fronts on which the public schools battle those who would wreck their integrity in the name of "Americanism."

The Houston, Texas, school board, by a 4-to-3 vote, acted to discharge its deputy superintendent of schools, Dr. George W. Ehey, after one year's service. The campaign against him was set off by an anonymous circular letter which had been coming from Portland, Oregon, and alleged to rest chiefly on charges that he had not done enough to fight communism when he was chairman of the California American Veterans committee six years ago.

When reporters asked the principal advocate of Dr. Ehey's dismissal who was behind the campaign, he replied, says the Houston Post, "It's none of your business who they are." Dr. Ehey, however, appears to have sturdy backing in the school board and in the city, although it is not clear that there is as yet any possibility of reversing the action.

Marin county, California, on the other hand, seems to have got on top of a threatening situation in time. Some of the veterans' organizations imported a speaker from Los Angeles who inveighed hotly against the "evils" of UNRCA and its influence on the public schools. Other veterans forthrightly organized a group known as Friends of the Marin Schools to give the teachers and administrators backing against any possible aftermath of the incident.

No one, obviously, in Houston, in Marin county, or elsewhere, wants subversives in American schools—except, of course, the subversives themselves. But enough good people have been beguiled into joining anti-foreigner attacks on the public schools under the label of anti-communism that it behooves communities to stay on the alert.—The Christian Science Monitor.

HUDSON TO DELAWARE
The New Jersey Turnpike's quarterly report to motorists, issued recently, indicates that the toll on the toll road is continuing to surpass the highest expectations of its sponsors. Traffic in recent months has averaged 76,700 vehicles a day, more than three times the engineers' estimate and approximately the amount that was forecast for 1971. Apart from the traffic, moreover, it is known that the toll on the turnpike is continually setting up new records and shooting them down: July 3 set a high daily mark with 89,000 odd vehicles, but July 18 had more than 93,000, and Aug. 2 topped this with a whopping 97,870.

This huge volume of traffic raises questions of safety, and it is reassuring to be informed that up to June of this year fatalities on the turnpike came to no more than 4.1 for 100 million miles—below New Jersey's rate of 4.4 and the nation's 7.3. This favorable ratio is due in part to the engineering skill that went into the construction of the highway; it is also due in part to the strict enforcement of speed regulations. Since the turnpike opened in November, 1951, the number of state troopers patrolling it has been nearly doubled, and some six thousand speeding tickets were issued in the first half of this year, more than ten times the number in the same period last year.

In view of the success of the turnpike to date, it is not surprising that New Jersey plans to extend the system. On July 29 Paul L. Tronst, chairman of the Turnpike Authority and Republican candidate for Governor, described a $100,000,000 extension that is soon to be begun from Newark Airport to the Holland Tunnel. Other projects contemplated include a spur from south of Bordentown to the Delaware River, a continuation from the northern end of the pike to the New York line and a new east-west toll road from the Hudson to the Delaware. The state is carrying rapid road transportation to a high level of development, and all who enjoy its advantages may well be grateful.—N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

THANKS TO THE CAMELS
As New Orleansians who met him last March Grand Knox, Prime Minister Mohammed Ali of Pakistan, has an excellent knowledge of how to deal with Americans. Mohammed Ali is doubtless one of the reasons Congress quickly granted a million tons of surplus United States wheat to his famine-ridden country last month upon the President's request.

When the Anchorage Victory, bearing the first shipment of the wheat arrived in Karachi port on the evening of the 15th, the prime minister had decided to do the city with posters showing clasped hands of friendship and had American flag hung out "all over the place." All the camels drawing the carts on which the wheat was unloaded from the ship bore placards saying—in Urdu—"Thank You, U. S. A."

American gifts and grants have seldom, if ever, been so enthusiastically appreciated abroad. Due to this clear expression of gratitude by "Mr. Ali"—as he urged Orleanians to call him when he was here last February—we feel good about that wheat shipment in more ways than one.—The Times-Picayune.

THE CARPENTERS WALK OUT
It was a blow for the new and vigorous leadership which Mr. George Meany is giving the American Federation of Labor that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners should leave the organization. The reason given by the seceding union was its dislike of the new leadership and the CIO.

It seems unlikely that this is the real reason. It has been hinted that Mr. John L. Lewis encouraged the withdrawal, hoping to form a third major labor organization and using the catch-all District 50 of his United Mine Workers as bait. A more plausible explanation, however, is that the carpenters' union did not like the new arbitration system established by the Building Trades Division of the International Union of Bricklayers and Allied Craftworkers.

The numerous changes in building construction methods, the increasing use of metals, cement, glass brick, composition flooring and other substances in place of wood, have certainly curtailed the demand for carpenters. The carpenters have increased, so have disputes between carpenters and metal workers as to which group should install the metal window frames which have in many cases replaced the older wooden types. This was the kind of dispute that held up completion of the United States Labor Department Building in Washington twenty years ago, and which will continue to harass the building trades unless there is some effective method of solution without recourse to strikes. It is at least a tenable supposition that the carpenters decided they could not afford to be bound by anti-striking rules or arbitration in the face of the competition produced by new techniques and substances. Whatever their reason, however, the results of the secession will probably intensify inter-union quarrels in a vital segment of American industry.—N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

EVENTS OF YEARS AGO FROM REGISTER FILES

50 Years Ago

Rumors that the Navalair National bank was in difficulties proved correct when its doors were closed by the order of the comptroller, and W. A. Mason was placed in charge as receiver by the federal government. The cause was the embezzlement of the bank's funds and the falsifying of the bank's accounts.

Michael Tracy, foreman on Louis Stuart's place between Eatontown and Oceanport, shot a large eagle which was perched on a telegraph pole. It measured six feet from tip to tip of its wings.

The X-ray apparatus bought for the Long Branch hospital by the Red Bank auxiliary was installed, and was to be operated by Dr. H. E. Shaw. The auxiliary was loudly praised for their expensive gift.

Miss Jennie McGuire of Shrewsbury, a saleslady in Joseph Sal's store, was spending her vacation with her sister, Mrs. John B. Hulise of Bayonne.

Miss Cora Johnson of Shrewsbury, and Miss Louella Price of Oceanport returned from a two weeks' stay at Peekskill, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Percy Sherman, who were spending the summer at the Sea Bright, were driving home from Long Branch when they noticed a man standing on the opposite side of the road talking to a woman. Just before the party reached him he jumped on a bicycle and rode directly in front of them, causing Mr. and Mrs. Sherman to be thrown from their wagon.

Mr. Sherman was not hurt but the wife's instep was so badly injured that she was laid up for several weeks as a result of the accident.

Peter F. Collier of Eatontown, whose hounds hunted over Atlantic township's farms, gave 3,000 books to the township's schools.

Mrs. Martha Bennett of Fair Haven, who had been unable to speak for several years due to a stroke of paralysis, was in critical condition and very little hope was entertained for her recovery.

William J. Wilkins of Jolt's Neck took possession of the John Johnson farm at Tinton Falls. He began at once to repair the buildings, planning to move on the farm in the fall.

Miss Chrissie Bogie and Miss Mattie Fenton of Oceanic were to enter the State Normal school at Trenton in the beginning of the fall term.

Thomas Holland took a job as assistant clerk in the Little Silver postoffice to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Ella Curtis, who took a position as bookkeeper at West End.

The children of Trinity church, assisted by several of their elders, held a fair on the church lawn. Many articles sold at the various booths were made and donated by the children. The handiwork of the four-year-old daughter of W. Strother Jones was much admired.

Mrs. Theodore Slicks, Mrs. Thomas A. Curtis and Miss Amy Chambers were in charge of the fair. Those who presided at the various tables were Jesse Mallory, Tillie Van Pelt, Alma Braun, Sarah Allen, Ella Cullington, Anna Kollock, Marie Beckles, Alice Weeks, Dorothy Beckles, Mrs. Samuel Cullington and Mrs. Charles S. Beckles.

Irwin G. Bennett of Seaford, who had been working in Valentine Phifer's blacksmith shop, returned to his old position as clerk in the village store conducted by his father.

Edgar Smith of Fair Haven was appointed by the Shrewsbury township board of education to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George B. Snyder.

Edward Lisk and H. C. Wyckoff of Matawan left for a six weeks' trip with Capt. Abram Longstreet on his coasting schooner which sailed between Newport News, Va., and Fair River, Mass.

John E. Lanning, receiver of the Monmouth Trust company of Asbury Park, paid a dividend of 25% of the cash assets of the company to the creditors. The claimants against the company, whose claims had been presented and allowed.

Howard Hance, William H. Hough, George M. Quackenbush, William Walnwright, William King, Elmer Pope, John Moore, Jr., Mabel George, White, Mrs. Henry Conover, Miss Gertrude Lilley, Gardiner, Conover and Charles Iford, all of Little Silver, went on the Red Men's excursion to Atlantic City.

Miss Edith Loveridge was voted the most popular young woman of Eatontown village in a contest conducted by the Forester's lodge of that place.

Mrs. Sally Bennett of Shrewsbury was stricken with a dizzy spell at her home and fell to the floor with such force as to dislocate her shoulder.

Frederick Andree died at his home on Rector pl. at the age of 88 years. For many years he was employed as bookkeeper in a large stationery store on Nassau st., New York city. He had lived in Red Bank more than 30 years.

The Relief company ran a quarter mile and had full pressure up in 40 seconds, which was the fastest time made by any of the contestant companies. The Red Bank Ladies' auxiliary won first prize for the best auxiliary in line.

Artificial Dairy Cattle Breeding Inaugurated in State 15 Years Ago

FREEHOLD—This year is the 15th anniversary of artificial dairy cattle breeding in New Jersey. The associate agricultural agent, Richard O. Rice, gives a summary of its aims and accomplishments. Co-operative artificial breeding of dairy cows started in New Jersey May 16, 1938. In the 5-year period since then there has been made a total of 375,915 first artificial services. Last year the number served was 56,733, or 30 per cent of our cows of breeding age. This year the figure should exceed 60,000.

Today more than 4,000 New Jersey dairymen are actively affiliated with the nine breeding co-ops. In this 15-year period the conception rate has jumped from 56 per cent to 71 per cent on first insemination (based on cows not coming back for service in 60 to 90 days).

Since 1938 average yield for New Jersey cows has risen from 6,560 pounds to 7,420 pounds—an increase of 860 pounds per cow. This has been due to better breeding, better feeding, better health and better housing.

Last Jan. 1, 30 of the 63 bulls in use at the three bull headquarters at Sussex, Annandale and Plainsboro had a total of 769 daughters with yearly records. The average yearly production of these daughters on 2X milkings was 11,744 pounds of milk and 451 pounds of fat on the mature basis. This is equal to about 10,597 pounds of milk and 406 pounds of fat average for all ages of these daughters. The average yearly yield returns above feed cost for cows resulting from artificial breeding in New Jersey are $120 more than for the average cow in the state.

For 14 years the breeding fee was $5 per cow in nearly all localities—a remarkable fact in the light of greatly rising prices during the war years. Only recently has the charge been raised in some areas—to provide barn space for more bulls and improve the service.

This breeding business is being run by the dairy farmers themselves. They select the bulls, hire the technicians, have all accounts audited, etc. Every effort is made to improve the service all the time.

Roslyn Promoted To Airman First Class
NAVESINK—Joseph Roslyn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roslyn of Sears ave. here, has been promoted to airman first class. He is stationed with the 654th Operations squadron at Eleuthera auxiliary air force base on Eleuthera islands in the Bahamas.

Assigned to supply, Roslyn helps in providing all the items necessary for the squadron's operations. The organization is one of several in the Florida Missile Operations range. The operations squadron obtains data on missiles tested on the range, which consists of three bases in Florida and several in the Caribbean area.

MAKE NEW LAWN IN AUGUST
Late August is the best time of year to make a new lawn, advises Mr. Clark. Seedlings made at this season have more time to become established before next summer's weeds, heat and drought arrive.

Establishing a contour that slopes gently away from the house is the first thing to do. This will keep water from standing on the surface of the lawn. Most all lawn soils in this area need lime before seeding.

An application of 75 pounds of ground limestone per 1,000 square feet is recommended in most cases. Apply 35 to 50 pounds of a 5-10-5, or similar fertilizer, per 1,000 square feet. Mix lime and fertilizer with the top six to eight inches of soil while preparing the seed bed.

Seed with a good lawn mixture, using three to four pounds per 1,000 square feet. Buy from a reliable dealer, a New Jersey or mixture that meets your conditions of sunlight or soil fertility.

Spread the seed evenly. Divide the total quantity into two parts and spread half while walking north and south and the other half while walking east and west.

The seed should be raked very lightly into the surface of the soil. Usually, normal rains enable to grass to become established. If you wish to water use a mist-like spray to avoid washing the seed out of place. Also once watering has been started, keep the surface moist until grass seedlings emerge.

Salt hay or straw mulch helps retain moisture and protects the seedlings, but such material should be spread thinly and evenly. Success of the new lawn will depend on regular fertilization each spring and September, proper liming and cutting no closer than 1 1/2 inches.

IMPROVED FORAGE SEED

There's plenty of certified Atlantic and Buffalo alfalfa and Kenland red clover available for late summer and early fall planting, advises County Agent M. A. Clark. Only certified seed of these varieties is recommended in New Jersey.

Prospects are good, too, for the 1953 crop of Atlantic and Buffalo. More than 100,000 pounds of the Narragansett variety also is expected to be harvested. This will be distributed among the experiment stations and extension services in the various states for trial. Up to now this variety has not looked promising in Jersey trials.

More than 2 1/2 million pounds of Kenland red clover seed is expected to be harvested this year. In addition there has been a considerable increase in certified Pennscott red clover. This has made an excellent showing in New Jersey trials and probably will be added to the recommended list as soon as enough seed is available.

Rutgers to Give Farming Courses

NEW BRUNSWICK — Rutgers university's seven short courses in agriculture will start Monday, Nov. 2, two weeks later than usual.

According to Westervelt Griffin, assistant dean of Rutgers College of Agriculture, the later starting date for the 48th annual session of short courses is to permit farm people interested in taking the courses more time to finish their season's work.

Courses will be given in dairy farming, fruit growing, vegetable production, animal husbandry, poultry husbandry, turf management and landscape maintenance. Each is a full-time course, and includes lectures and laboratory work conducted by regular members of the faculty. Each course runs for ten weeks, exclusive of Christmas recess with the term ending Jan. 22.

Although the courses are planned principally for farm people, many city and suburban residents are among the enrollees each year. A grade school education, a minimum age of 16 years and an interest in farm subjects are the only prerequisites for registration. Tuition is free to New Jersey residents.

Further information about these courses can be obtained from the Assistant Dean of Agriculture, College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

British officials report that in 1939 they could pay for a ton of copper by exporting 16 sewing machines, but in 1952 it was necessary to export 21.

Questions and Answers To Vets' Problems

Q.—I want to take training under the Korean G. I. Bill, but the only way I can reach my goal is to take courses in two different schools at the same time. Would this be possible to do?

A.—Yes. Concurrent enrollment and attendance at two schools is permitted under circumstances such as yours. But you'll need monthly certifications of training from each of the schools you attend.

Q.—I'm planning to enroll in college under the Korean G. I. Bill this fall, and I want to know if I could get a part-time job in the evenings to supplement my monthly G. I. allowance. Also, would my allowance be reduced if I got a job?

A.—There are no restrictions on veterans getting part-time jobs to add to the monthly allowance they receive while going to school under the Korean G. I. Bill. And they'd receive the same allowance regardless of how much money they earned on the side.

Q.—If I interrupt my Korean G. I. Bill schooling some time within a month, would I receive my G. I. allowance for that entire month?

A.—No. Your G. I. allowance would be discontinued as of the last date of attendance in school. It would not be paid to the end of the month.

State Hospital Auxiliary Plans Theater Party
"Song of Norway"
At Music Circus
Sept. 3 Aids Marlboro

NEPTUNE—The Woman's auxiliary of the State Hospital at Marlboro, will have a theater party at the Music Circus, Sept. 3, at a performance of "Song of Norway."

Plans for the event were outlined at a committee meeting Monday at the home of Mrs. Leslie D. Seely at Eatontown, presided over by Mrs. James Green of Locust, auxiliary ways and means chairman.

The performance will feature Lawrence Brooks, who created the leading role on Broadway, and Jo Sullivan, who has the feminine lead, and who portrayed Kathie in the "Student Prince" recently at the Neptune Music Circus. "Song of Norway," after a successful run on Broadway, has had a long road tour. This popular operetta, with Grieg's brilliant music, which will be played by the Music Circus's own orchestra, will have an extensive corps de ballet.

The public is invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Owen B. Gibson of 25 Elm pl., Red Bank, or any member of the auxiliary before next Thursday.

The Marlboro auxiliary is one of the first mental hospital auxiliaries established in the United States. Most of the volunteers work directly with the milder patients, doing occupational or recreational therapy, or participate in organizational work, planning teas for student nurses, and assisting in conducting tours of the hospital for interested persons.

In an effort to continue this work, the public's support is requested for the theater party by Mrs. Green, who pointed out that the co-operation also provides an evening of splendid music at the now widely-known Neptune Music Circus.

Fisher Calls for County Planning To Prevent 'Honky-Tonk Community'

LONG BRANCH — Samuel M. Fisher, Jr., of Middletown township, Democratic candidate for assembly, Monday night called for "adequate county planning (to prevent) a honky-tonk, unorganized, uncareful community."

Speaking at a meeting of county leaders at city hall here, Mr. Fisher reviewed the "handling of negotiations" by Garden State Parkway officials for needed land, negotiations "characterized," said he, by "bungling and confusion."

Concluded he: "Through effective, organized planning, we can have a change in outlook, enthusiasm and capacity. The 'new look' in our geography must be accompanied by a new look in the composition of our governing bodies."

Mr. Fisher said the parkway represents "notable and welcome progress. Unless properly administered, however, it also poses a serious threat to the welfare of the communities most affected by its development. There are strong evidence that Monmouth county faces such a threat—because of a lack of basic planning to meet the impact of the parkway and because of the mounting evidence that the parkway's handling of negotiations is characterized by bungling and confusion."

"Indifference"

"The indifference of county officials is demonstrated by a lack of understanding of the serious problems faced as a consequence of the mounting 'parkway' developments. This new look brought efforts in 1950 to organize a regional planning board. Democratic candidates have called for a county planning board. County newspapers have editorially recommended positive planning. Republican officials have failed to take notice. Not only must our elected representatives act as watchdogs over the parkway's operations, they also must stimulate effective county planning to meet the impact of this development upon our lives."

"No one today knows the amount of population increase the parkway will bring to our county. During the past ten years our population has doubled. During the next ten years this trend will continue and perhaps accelerate. It is reasonable to assume that the parkway will drastically increase the current trend to settle in this area. The problems we must face are almost overwhelming."

Mr. Fisher cited the failure of real estate taxes paid by the owner of a $15,000 home, who has two children of school age, to meet the costs of educating his children.

"Not a Cent"

"And not a cent is contributed toward county and municipal services such as road maintenance, lights, water and public health and welfare programs." He listed "what we can expect if our population rises rapidly: New schools will have to be constructed; additional administrative, educational needs will expand rapidly requiring tax revenue beyond the capacity of property taxes to assume; local services like police and fire protection and garbage collection that existed, in many instances, on a volunteer or private basis must be greatly expanded to meet the requirements of a large suburban population, and roads, water, sewage services as well as parking and playground facilities must be developed and expanded, services that require heavy financial investments."

"Business as Usual"

These problems demand, he said, the "best brains and abilities our county and state can obtain. As a consequence, we cannot accept the indifferent unimaginative 'business as usual' program offered by the Republican party." "The current 'horse and buggy' thinking will wreck our communities. Let us not be fooled by the 'no new tax' cry they're serving to the public. We may not have new taxes, but you can be certain we'll have a doubling and tripling of the property taxes we now have. This situation calls for far more creative imagination and deep sense of human relations than has thus far been demonstrated. Examples of bad faith bargaining and strong arm measures are representative of impatience, haste and authoritarianism which are contrary to our concepts of American democracy.

"What is basically needed," Mr. Fisher declared, "is a change in thinking that will put people ahead of gravel, sand, concrete and bulldozers. Unless this is done all the talk of progress will fall on deaf ears, because the state finds itself in the position of being the oppressor rather than the protector of basic human rights and interests. What we must have is a government with a heart."

"A basic choice must be made: A honky-tonk, unorganized, uncareful community, or a community whose development is founded upon the county's natural advantages and beauty. If we bury our hands in the sand as have the Republican leaders, we can expect the former. If we want the latter we have got to work for it through effective organized planning. We must have a change in outlook, in enthusiasm and in capacity. We need new blood in our governing bodies. And, this change must be made now. Our time is running out. The new look in our geography must be accompanied by a new look in the composition of our governing bodies."

Teen Age 'Hop' Termed Success

EATONTOWN — The second "Swing hop" sponsored by the Teen Age club here was held Tuesday in the parking lot behind borough hall. There were 200 persons present, 175 of whom participated in the fun frolic.

The dances were the "bunny hop," the Mexican hat dance, the waltz, fox trot and barn dances. Club members expressed appreciation for the splendid co-operation received from the Women's Community club and local individuals such as Milton Fink, who donated the use of his public address system, the chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Theford, Mr. and Mrs. William Wye, Mrs. Harold Magathan and those who made donations.

Mrs. Jessie Kirby of the Mabel Coleman studios, Red Bank, advised and instructed club members on dancing games the week before the "hop."

The club has announced that plans for a third dance to be known as the "Eatontown Swing hop" are under way. It will be held Tuesday, Sept. 1. It is believed that even more persons will attend this event because of the success of the Aug. 15 "hop."

Mrs. Acerra Dies After Tree Crash

LOCUST — Mrs. Virginia Acerra, 29, of 571 Hopping rd., Belford, died at Riverview hospital early Monday morning from injuries suffered when the car she was driving struck a tree on a curve on Locust Point rd. here late Sunday night. Dr. Julius A. Toren, county physician, said death was caused by a brain concussion. Mrs. Acerra died at 12:10 a. m.

Middletown township police, summoned at 11:15 p. m., reported that Mrs. Acerra's car was going south on Locust Point rd. She failed to make a turn, and her car crossed the road and struck a tree head-on. The car's front seat was driven against the tree in the impact. Police found no skid marks on the road. The Atlantic Highlands first aid squad took Mrs. Acerra to the hospital.

Mrs. Acerra was born at New Monmouth, daughter of Michael and Emilia Lisowski. She was the wife of Charles Acerra and the mother of Carolyn and Jeannette Acerra. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church, New Monmouth. Also surviving are six brothers, Michael Lisowski of Eatontown, Stanley Lisowski of Detroit, Edward Lisowski of Miami, Fla., Peter Lisowski of Little Silver, and Thomas Lisowski and Herbert Lisowski, on active service with the Army, and three sisters, Mrs. George Lombard of New York City, Mrs. George Vesolowski of Belford and Miss Sophie Lisowski of New Monmouth.

The funeral was held this morning at St. Mary's church, where Rev. Robert T. Bulman, pastor, offered a high mass of requiem. Burial, under the direction of the John E. Day funeral home, was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Father Bulman recited the rosary last night at the funeral home and pronounced benediction at the grave.

Civic Group Asks Action on Light

PORT MONMOUTH — Failure to date to install a traffic light at rt. 36 and Main st. was criticized last Thursday night at a meeting of the executive committee of the civic association here.

Meeting at the home of John Ketchum, vice president, committee members declared that it was their understanding that the traffic light was to be installed this summer. They pointed to the opening of school Wednesday, Sept. 9, and directed Charles Naughton, secretary, to lodge a protest with the state highway department.

Mr. Naughton also was instructed to write to the Middletown township committee and the board of public utility commissioners protesting further curtailment of service on the Shore branch of Jersey Central lines.

Other aims of the civic association discussed last week were the dredging of ditches in the community removal of the sand bar at the mouth of Pew's creek, the installation of street signs, and spraying for mosquito control.

Marlin V. Lawlor, a member of the township school board and president of the association, urged residents to attend the first fall meeting Thursday, Sept. 10, at the grammar school here.

Fire Destroys

Parmy Barn

NEW SHREWSBURY — Tinton Falls firemen, assisted by three other companies, battled a stubborn blaze Tuesday in a barn at the Theodore N. Parmy farm on Swimming River rd. here.

Although no estimate of loss was reported by Chief Carlton Maher, who led the firefighters, it was known that 20 tons of hay, a tractor and other farm equipment were destroyed.

The alarm was sounded at 4:35 p. m., with help coming from Pine Brook, Eatontown and Earle Naval Ammunition depot. It was under control by 7 p. m., but firemen stood by until 1 a. m. yesterday. They were called again at 8:45 a. m. yesterday to wet down hay which had burst into flames. Chief Maher said the cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Comments Register On Bendix Story

107 Monmouth St., Red Bank, N. J., Aug. 18, 1953

To the Editor:

As president and in behalf of the officers and members of Local 417, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, CIO, I wish to thank The Bendix Register for the news item appearing in last week's edition reporting in full the agreement on a new contract between this union and the Red Bank division Bendix Aviation corporation.

It is encouraging to know that in this locality the press and in particular The Register, is impartial in its treatment of both labor and industry. Unfortunately in many localities the press is too often biased and unfair. Keep up this type of reporting and The Register will continue to be the great newspaper which it is.

Very truly yours,
Otto Van Hove, president,

Delay Action on Veloc

The New Jersey legislature, whose 1953 session lasted through June, and its busy Hannold committee, aren't finished yet.

The lawmakers adjourned June 25 after passing some 500 bills, and returned to Trenton last Monday to look over 100 measures vetoed by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll. But with only 35 assemblies on hand the lawmakers could not vote on any vetoed bills—a two-thirds vote (40) is needed. So the legislators adjourned until Sept. 10.

The Hannold committee, whose inquiries into law enforcement, began in February and lasted through June, was all set to prepare its report when Harold John Adonis decided to return from the Netherlands. Adonis landed at Hoboken Tuesday, and the committee plans to question him Sept. 11.

Adonis, former clerk in Driscoll's office, is under indictment on charges of having handled $228,000 in bribe money to protect Bergen county gambling operations. He has denied the charges.

The committee is interested in finding out what Adonis knows about links—if any—between gamblers and politicians.

Many Visitors At Antique Fair

MONMOUTH PARK — Several hundred persons attended the two-day antique fair sponsored by the Monmouth County Historical Association in the grandstand area at Monmouth Park Jockey club. Highlight of the event Saturday was the Monmouth county horse show. Sunday featured an exhibit of old cars, driven by their owners to the event from many sections of the state.

Antique dealers from the Middle Atlantic states displayed a wide variety of items. There were informal pieces of pine furniture, artistic selection of old glass, both of the pressed variety and of old blown glass. In each dealer's booth, county women interested in floral design, did special arrangements in keeping with several displays.

Highlight of the show Sunday afternoon was the appearance of the antique and fine art expert appraiser, Sigmund Rothchild. Rothchild appraised a variety of items for a dollar, giving his entire fee to the historical association. The appraiser conducted his own TV show Thursday nights under the title, Treasure Hunt.

The historical association also had its own booth. On sale were Molly Pitcher plates, marking the 175th anniversary of the Battle of Monmouth, which was observed in June.

Sweepstakes Regatta Financially Stable

Edward H. Conway, Finance Chairman,
Reports $9,000 Net Needed to Operate

Edward H. Conway, finance chairman of the National Sweepstakes Regatta association, reported to the committee Tuesday night at a business meeting in Molly Pitcher hotel that a net of $9,000 is needed to operate the 1953 classic which is scheduled for the Navesink river Sept. 12-13.

Revenue to conduct the regatta has been coming in at an encouraging pace and the cost of operation is considerably less than the $10,784 it was last year.

Mr. Conway reported the committee expected to realize $3,300 from program advertising, plus $450 from the sale of programs. Monmouth Park Jockey club, which inserted new life to the river classic this year after the committee had canceled the affair, came through with $3,500. The "buck brigade" is expected to reach about $200 before regatta time and additional revenue is expected this week from program advertisements. Robert Elser, chairman of the program, stated that the program deadline is Saturday.

Commodore Joseph C. Irwin checked with various committee chairmen for reports of preparedness for the water event, which is but 21 days away.

The reception for contestants and mechanics, which proved a successful event last year, will again be held, headed by William A. Fluhr. This affair was recently adopted by the committee to provide social activity for the men participating in the two-day affair. Each year it is held at the Molly Pitcher hotel.

Roiston Waterbury was again named chairman of a committee to conduct a drive for "dressing up" the spectator fleet that surrounds the oval racing course. Mr. Waterbury will judge the fleet and will present certificates to the first three winners.

Shrewsbury post, American Legion, will donate a silver trophy which will go to the winner of the National Sweepstakes event.

DEAL—The board of commissioners is considering a request by Mrs. Willie Moretti, wife of the slain gangster, for a deed to the property in the rear of the Moretti home at 60 Poplar ave. at the corner of Poplar and Elmer aves.

The property was purchased from the borough in 1941 for $900 by Mrs. Moretti on the condition that a house be built on it within a specified time. Her attorney, Theodore D. Rosenberg, said that although the time has elapsed and no house has been built Mrs. Moretti would like the deed so she can convey it to someone who would build a house there.

Hy Cunningham Spotting Sports

JUST HOW MANY PEOPLE REALIZE that Red Bank is known as the "River Sports Center of the East?" Locally it isn't mentioned very often, but when news releases and programs for the National Sweepstakes regatta go on the market, this borough is continually referred to as the "River Sports Center of the East." And what motto is more fitting for it?

Over the week-end we attended the National Sweepstakes Open Sailing regatta at which time the Navesink river produced a beautiful sight of white sails and colored boats sailing smoothly over the water. If anyone takes a quick ride down to the waterfront and sees just a few sailboats sliding over the ripples, the beauty of it is not taken into consideration. But if a person rides or walks to the waterfront from Red Bank to Fair Haven when almost 100 sailing craft are in competition, they'll see and enjoy a beautiful sight.

Sailing, like baseball, football, track, tennis, golf, or any other sport, is really competitive among the skippers of all sailboat classes. Maybe from the shoreline the competition is not noticed, but when riding in a motor launch near the racers it is detected. The crew of each boat try all maneuvers in the sailing book when attempting to overhaul the leader of a race.

Right here, at the "River Sports Center of the East," we have some of the hottest Lightning skippers operating on the eastern seaboard. The most torrid among the local skippers at the present time is Ed Waters and his crew that sail Revenger. Ed has been taking everything within reach, title or non-title races. In the span of only about three weeks, Waters chalked up two big titles when he won the Atlantic Coast championship at Sandy Hook Bay and the National Sweepstakes Open Sailing regatta title held here.

And when the "Sweeps" sailing concluded Sunday, six of Monmouth Boat club's Lightning pilots were among the top ten. In a series of three races, Waters was tops and was followed by Charlie Allaire, veteran sailor, who took second, and Reid Dickerson, who finished in third spot.

In the other classes Monmouth's skippers found the competition to be a little bit tougher. Hank Miltenberger led the homers over the finish line in the Comets when he took third place in this class. Last year when the mist cleared M.B.C. also had a Penguin champion when Jack Howie won the laurels. The best the home fleet could do in this division this year was a fifth when Don Wilson made this spot in his little craft, Cold Feet. Howie, the defending champion, dropped back to an eighth slot to lose his '52 title.

In the final Lightning race Sunday, Waters was well behind several boats and he knew he had to be up there with the first four boats to win, especially after chalking up two previous victories. Brub Hance and Bob "Spinnaker" Wood worked like demons in the home stretch sail, passed several boats and followed Allaire over the line. There were not many skippers hoisting the spinnaker for the home run, but knowing what a seventh place finish would do to the Revenger, Wood was really working the big "putt" sail that helped to bring home the loot for the crew.

Sailing spectators are no different from grid spectators. When a touchdown is in the making the grid fans are up cheering in a frenzy of excitement. When the sailboats are nearing the finish line, the crews are cheered from yachts, rowboats, motor launches and fans from the shoreline.

PREDICTED LOG RACING IS BECOMING popular and from the Navesink river numerous skippers are always on hand to test their navigational skill. There has been a new introduction of rules and increased participation in this sport which is drawing local pilots. Dr. Amson Hoyt, Rumson, notched a place in the sport last month when he won the Block Island race. Dr. Hoyt competed in the 100-mile event against 25 boats, largest entry in years in this particular event.

Dr. Hoyt's victory in the event proved that the new rules are equitable. For his boat, Pompano, was the oldest, slowest and one of the smallest. These races test predicted piloting accuracy, not speed, and the error-margins this summer have been phenomenally low. Dr. Hoyt is fourth in the Eastern Cruising Association standings, having compiled 568 points.

NEXT MONTH THE 21ST ANNUAL NATIONAL SWEEPSTAKES regatta will be held on the Navesink river. The river classic is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 12 and 13. Releases are starting to reach the sports desk and as usual they state that Slo-Mo-Shun IV, is expected to be among the starters. These releases are accurate as far as the "Sweeps" publicity staff is concerned, but what about Stanley Sayres and his business associates responsible for mapping out Slo-Mo's racing schedule?

We'd all like to have the privilege of watching the fastest boat in the country in action, but will it be here? A group of wealthy boat owners have conceived a new regatta at Lake Tahoe, Cal., and it is slated the same dates as the Red Bank regatta. To lure the best on the water, the California affair lists $10,000 in cash and prizes. The leader is Stanley Dollar of San Francisco, who won the Gold Cup in 1949 with Skip-A-Long, which later sank in 900 feet of water in Lake Tahoe.

Dollar's group has already signed three boats that competed in the Gold Cup at Seattle and is hopeful about Slo-Mo-Shun IV. This will not help Red Bank's regatta! Future plans of the Slo-Mo are supposed to be released from Seattle this week or next.

Last year just a short time before the National Sweepstakes here was to come into its own, Commodore Joseph C. Irwin received a letter from Mr. Sayres, who dropped the eastern campaign because of illness.

In his last two paragraphs of the letter, dated Sept. 2, 1952, it stated, "I feel that we have some obligations to other regattas and that in the interest of the sport, we should compete. Certainly, I am most unhappy over our inability to be with you this year."

"I can only repeat what I said to Detroit: I do expect to bring Slo-Mo to Red Bank next year."

Every year when regatta time rolls around, the big timers of the speedboat racing world are always accepting invitations to race in Red Bank, but just before the racing week-end arrives, something always happens to take the fire out of what might have turned out to be one of the top boats. And, generally, it is some part that has to be made to order and the boat fails to make its appearance because of the time element involved.

Those hot shots of the water may not know it, but they invariably put the local committee on a hot seat, especially after releases go out to papers all over the country stating that certain boats will race at Red Bank. Just about regatta time, follow up releases go out stating such and such craft will not be able to race at Red Bank. On the back of that, local and nearby speedboat fans claim all over the committee and the regatta, claiming that false publicity is released to draw the crowd. Regatta officials just can't win.

SHORT SNORTS FROM SPORTS—Barbara kept numerous persons waiting for a date Friday and it wasn't to be a pleasant one at that. Barbara was the code word for the hurricane that was supposed to have struck in this vicinity last week, but didn't show, and the chaps that were stood up were more than in a jovial mood because the date was not kept.

Merrill Pinkerton, steward at the Shrewsbury River Yacht club, forwarded a first hand report of "good turn" skippers in that organization and here it is.

"One of the most thrilling and fast-moving events of rescue occurred Friday night between 5 and 5:15 o'clock on the Navesink river off the yacht club dock.

"As there had been warning of hurricane and 15-mile-per-hour winds there had gathered at the club a group of boat owners and friends awaiting what might transpire after they had put out extra line and augmented security measures. Alan Conklin walked to the door and gave the alarm: 'The Zig Zag is adrift!' Dr. Douglas Hoyt, 12 Woodland rd., Fair Haven, dashed to his Harty-Toy which was already warmed up, and was followed in a matter of seconds by Pat Talbot, Omar Nichols, Jr., Walter R. Mathison, and Bill Whitlock, each taking a position on board as if drilled for the event! In a matter of 15 minutes they had cast off, caught up to the Zig Zag, owned by W. H. Zillger of Little Silver, tied her and returned her to her mooring. The speed and efficiency were witnessed from the deck of the club as the loose boat barely missed three craft in the river at their respective moorings, and was caught just before it ran aground.

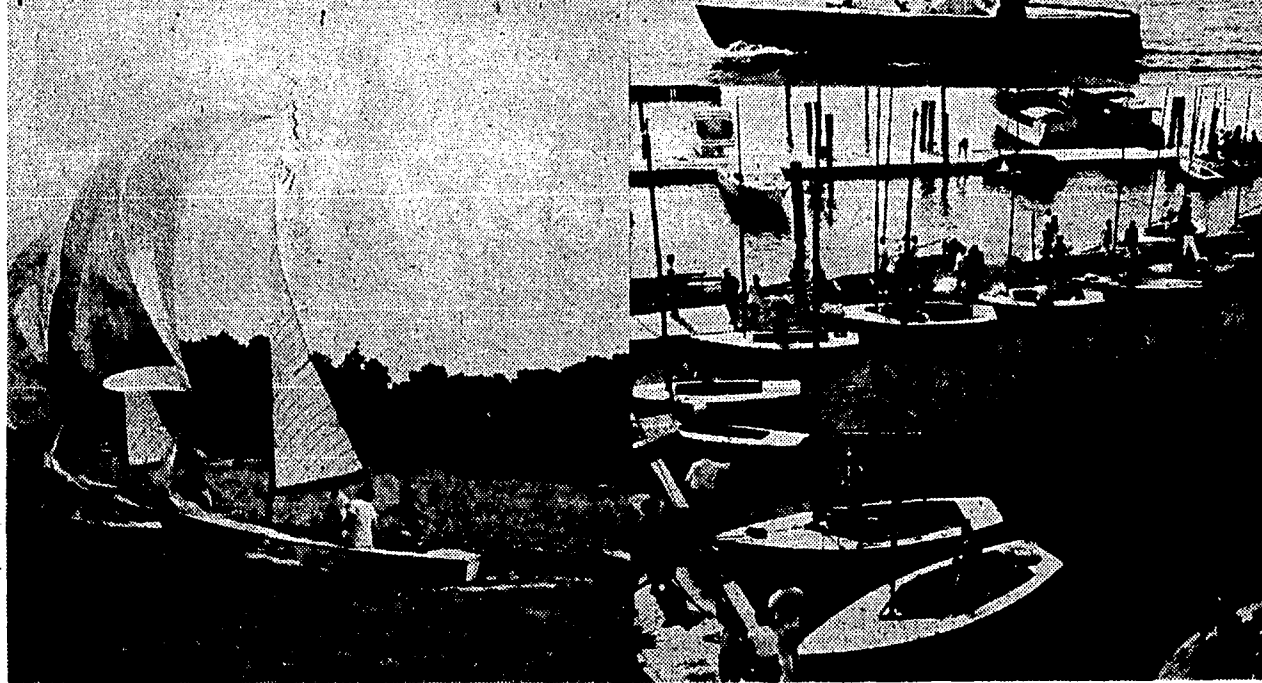

"These men and their quick action deserve credit, and are indeed a credit to Fair Haven, Rumson and Red Bank." Thank you, Mr. Pinkerton, for your eye-witness report of river heroes in action.

Harold Kerr, who has been playing tennis years and years, is still in pretty good court shape. Saturday afternoon he upset youth who had defeated him in the final round of the Red Bank Borough Tennis tournament. Wilkins, defending champion, was taken in three sets, 6-3, 6-6 and 6-4.

Lou Jacobus, former member of Red Bank high school's coaching staff, is going in for college officiating in a big way. You have been assigned five games for the 1953 grid season and he'll work three Princeton, Army and Rutgers games. On the subject of Red Bank high school coaching, John R. Hoycock set some sort of a Buc non-coaching record as a coach who didn't coach. Hoycock was employed as assistant basketball and track coach last month and last week he resigned because he couldn't find living accommodations for his family here.

Coaches Arnie Trux and Arch Shaw, Leonardo; Frank Fingers and Tom Phillips, Red Bank high, and Joe Holger of Red Bank Catholic high school, went on vacation last week when Monmouth Park concluded its racing season. All mentors were Monmouth Park employees during the meeting.

Scenes from the National Sweepstakes Open Sailing Regatta

Ed Waters Unseats Allaire As "Sweeps" Sailing Champ

Ed Waters of Monmouth Boat club, was the lone local skipper to ice a championship over the week-end when the fifth annual National Sweepstakes Open Sailing regatta was held here on the Navesink river.

Eighty-eight boats represented Lightning, Comet, Woodpussy and Penguin classes participated in the two-day sailing classic. Skipper Waters, at the tiller of his Lightning Revenger, won top honors and the National Sweepstakes Open Sailing goblet when he amassed 64 points. With crew members Brub Hance and Bob Wood aboard, Revenger sailed to two firsts Saturday and a third Sunday to take the title by a slim one-point margin.

Allaire Tough Sailor Last year's champion, Charlie Allaire, at the tiller of his sleek craft, Magic, was Waters' toughest competitor and when the spray cleared Sunday afternoon, the 1952 champion turned over his title to his clubmate skipper.

Pilot Allaire finished behind Waters Saturday morning and came in third in the afternoon race. However, Sunday when the chips were down, Allaire went all out and built up a considerable lead over the fleet of 24 Lightnings to finally break the water for a first place.

Monmouth Boat club wrapped up the first three places when Reid Dickerson, sailing Valhalla, took third position in the three-race series by compiling 60 points.

Jerry Howie, who topped the Penguin diadem last year, fell by the wayside over the week-end when he hooked up with a fleet of 27 Penguins. Runyon Cole of Mantoloking, Y. C., who currently holds the International championship, was on hand and was by far no soft touch for Penguin pilots. Cole only topped on first place in three races, but he was up in the first three each time to pile up enough points to win the laurels.

Cole's Penguin Title Cole, at the tiller of Outsider, finished third in the initial race and then came back to cross the finish line in the number one slot in the second event. In the final race, Cole was outmanned by Phil Mariner in Party Party, who led the fleet over the line in the payoff position. The International champion was not to be outdone when it came to piling up points as he grabbed a good share when he took second place to win with a total of 73 points. He just needed one more point to take a close second with 72 points.

Hank Miltenberger of Monmouth Boat club, sailing Rascal, led local skippers in the Comet class as he finished the series with 57 points to wrap up third position.

Doug McNitt of the Raritan Yacht club of Perth Amboy annexed the Comet championships with 60 points. Skipper McNitt duelled the entire series with Sam Fortenbaugh in Sad Sam for the title and finally edged out his rival by the slim one-point margin, which settled three of the four class titles.

Fortenbaugh won the initial race as McNitt took third and came back for a repeat in the second race as McNitt brought Doxy home in second place. The Raritan Y. C. skipper then topped the championship in the final race as he scored a first and Fortenbaugh failed to finish in the first three.

Waters rounded up into the final boat to the finish line in first place with Allaire finishing second and Miss Methot third.

Boats Dismasted In the afternoon the wind freshened perceptibly and again the fleet broke out spinnakers and the run into Fair Haven. Here Waters and Miss Methot started to gain as the rest of the fleet changed positions. Waters held his spinnaker to the mark and entered the reach to Brown's dock second to Bob Adams, who held an early lead.

On the beat home, Waters overtook Adams, who simultaneously fouled out of the race when he collided with Revenger on port tack and Waters went on to win.

Three boats were dismasted during the race. Miss Methot, who had moved into a challenging position for third place on the final leg, was struck by Adams, and as their masts locked, both snapped off. Joe Neiner, in Foxy, lost his stick by trimming his mainsail with too much enthusiasm.

Waters Gambles In the final race, Allaire hit the line in one of his brilliant starts and stayed there the remainder of the race to romp home in first place. Waters was the master sailor in the race as he had a three-point lead and had to get out of someone's apple to chalk up points to top the title. With nothing to lose and with a possibility of being defeated, he flew his spinnaker on the reach home long after all others had killed their sails and resorted to a jib. This maneuver, born of desperation, paid off for a third place in the race and the championship to boot.

At the conclusion of the regatta, Mayor Katharine Elkus White awarded trophies at ceremonies at Monmouth Boat club.

William L. Bennett was general chairman of the regatta.

SURF, FIELD AND STREAM

Timely Notes On The Great Outdoors

BY STEW VAN VLIET

MISS "BARBARA" OF 1953

Stew VanVliet

Five hours after "Little Barbara" was away from Sandy Hook we were headed off shore to find out what effect, if any, she had on the current brand of top-notch fishing the waters off Monmouth county have to offer.

Although the wind velocity had reached nearly 80 miles per hour during Friday and the early part of the night, accompanied by heavy rain squalls and the piling up of high seas, we found the surface of the ocean as flat as a pancake when we rounded the point of Sandy Hook.

Within ten minutes after leaving the point aboard the Sandy, Capt. Bill Frank, Shrewsbury, we hit our first choppers, and from then on we caught big, splendid conditioned blues until our arms ached. We found the fish located about two miles southeast of the point in the sea of a red and black line. They were feeding on a new run of big sand eels, several of which they disgorged in the boat. We promptly tipped our spoons with them. They proved sure fire.

This run of sand eels guarantees that our splendid fishing will continue for the balance of the season, and should tend to bring the blues to the surface. However, at this writing they are feeding deep. We found the best results were had by trolling 400 feet of leaded line with spoons of long, yellow nylon lures mounted with tail-hook pork rind.

SQUID TOSSERS INVADE SHARK RIVER INLET

Hearing that 1 1/2 to 2-pound blues are hitting at Shark River inlet we decided last Sunday to give it a whirl. The inlet is the scene of our old stamping grounds, where for many years in the old days we enjoyed some of the finest fishing we have ever had. Many were the exciting bass we had with 20 and 25-pound strippers of the end of the alpery old jetty when there was nothing but an old rusty railroad rail to hang on to. Many were the 6 and 8-pound tide-running weakfish we laid up on the rocks. When the silver mullet school during the middle part of September Shark River inlet is the place to head for. There is no finer spot on the coast for a squid toser. After Labor day many of the "City Folk" will be here and you will have room to fish.

We arrived about 3 p. m. and never have we seen the equal of the show that the surf casters were putting on. There wasn't standing room to be had on either the north or south jetties. A fellow took his life in his hands to try and work his way out to the end of the jetty where the blues were hitting.

It was like running the Indian "bluefish" where, instead of toms, hawks and knives, fish hooks and sinkers were hurled at you from all directions. We finally made it after being hooked in the right sleeve of our shirt by a caster, who failed to look behind him when he cast.

After rigging up we sat on a rock and sized the situation up, trying to figure out the best spot to squeeze into. We noticed two fellows who seemed to know what they were doing and were catching blues, so we selected a rock next to them and made a few casts. The first one we got a backlash, the second, third, fourth, and so on. Some one cast over our line and tangled us up so we decided to call it a day.

While there we saw blues, nice size fluke, spots and scabbard landed. The best time to fish the inlet is on the outgoing tide. We intend to give it another try during the middle of the week when we hope there will be fewer fishermen present.

PUBLIC HEARING 1953 HUNTING REGULATIONS

A public hearing will be held on the 1953 hunting regulations in the Assembly Lounge of the State House, Trenton, at 8 p. m. this evening. The purpose of the meeting will be to consider the following dates and regulations for the 1953 season, as proposed by the New Jersey Fish and Game Council.

Small game hunting Nov. 7 through Dec. 12, with the resumption of quail, grouse and squirrel from Dec. 21 to Dec. 31.

Deer of either sex by bow and arrow from Nov. 21 to Dec. 13. Shotgun deer for bucks only, and black bear, either sex, from Dec. 14 through Dec. 19.

The proposed woodcock season is Apr. 1 through Sept. 30. For fox, Nov. 7 to Apr. 30, and raccoon from Oct. 15 to Jan. 15.

Muskat, mink and otter, under the proposed regulations, may be trapped from 6 p. m. Nov. 30, to Mar. 15. This does not apply to State Public Hunting and shooting grounds, where the season starts Jan. 1 to Mar. 15.

Beaver may be trapped only by special license, which can be secured from the Division of Fish and Game at a cost of $5. The season will run from Feb. 1 to Feb. 28, with a limit of three.

BIRDFOWL RESTRICTIONS LESSENED

According to the Department of Interior the states themselves will select specific season dates within the framework of the period Oct. 1 to Jan. 10, 1954, based on the number of days allotted in this way. The states have the choice of a consecutive or a split season. The Atlantic Flyway, of which New Jersey is one, will have the choice of 60 consecutive days, or two periods of 27 days each. This is an increase of five days over last year. Field investigations indicate that the fall flight of ducks in this flyway will be better than in 1952.

Bag and possession limits on ducks remain the same as last year—four a day and eight in possession. The bag and possession limits on geese (except snow geese), have been changed from three a day and three in possession, to two and four.

There will be a 15-day season on brant, with a bag and possession limit of six. Last season the limit was three.

This year's regulations provide for a special anti-wide season on Wilson's snipe, or jackknipe, of 15 days in all flyways, with bag and possession limits of eight birds.

The "no-baiting" regulation for the 1953 season has been modified to remove the controversial one-half mile clause. Essentially it remains all other provisions which existed in prior years.

THE CALL OF THE BLUEFISH

The starting gun of the 11th Annual United States Atlantic Tuna tournament will be fired next Tuesday, Aug. 25. This outstanding big game fish contest will be staged this year at Point Judith, Narragansett, R. I., and will run three days.

A number of clubs from Monmouth county will be represented and from present indications it should prove the most successful in the history of the event.

According to reports giant bluefish are increasing in numbers daily off Narragansett, and several in the 600 and 700-pound weights have been hooked. As many as four and five have been seen in the chum slicks.

It has been our good fortune to be able to attend every one of these events in the past, and so we are heading for Narragansett next Monday. We will try to give you a word picture of one of the greatest sporting events to be held on the Atlantic coast.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

Weakfish hitting at Long Branch fishing pier. As many as 100 to a man have been caught. They are also at Shark River inlet, where they are hitting after dark. According to Jim Ormond of Ror's Landing, Highlands, school weeks have arrived off Water Witch in Sandy Hook bay. Jim says that not many are fishing for them because the cost of live shrimp is in the "New Deal" figures—$4 a gallon. A gallon goes mighty quickly. Tip—In chumming, pinch their heads to stun them, or else they will swim straight to the bottom.

There are plenty of grass-shrimp along the shores of the Navesink and Shrewsbury rivers. It is fun to catch them. All you need is a seine about three feet long. Work it into the little crevices in sedges. Pull a live car behind you. In order to keep them alive try packing them in salt water, damp sawdust, or use a live car or you might try OXAB Oxygen Tablets, made by Fomble Laboratories, River Falls, Wis. School weeks should be here what the doctor ordered when it comes to spinning.

Plenty of big porgies at the Tin Can grounds. Big bluefish all over the map, chumming and trolling. Fluke still holding up in good shape. Fluke, porgie and crabs in the rivers. Coming week-end and should stand out as a banner one for 1953 season.

Fair Haven Wins Softball Crown

FAIR HAVEN—The Fair Haven Playground softball team wrapped up the Red Bank Y.M.C.A. Softball league championship last week by slaughtering Little Silver, 80-0.

A string of 12 consecutive wins earned the championship for the local club. Playground squads defeated by Fair Haven included Eatontown, Rumson, Mechanic st. of Red Bank, Westside of Red Bank, Vail Homes and Little Silver.

Richard Riley of the victors was a big spark in the championship drive as he chalked up 11 victories from the mound.

Eatontown Wins Sixth Time

SARATOGA, N. Y. (A.P.)—Eatontown, a seven-year-old thoroughbred who was prime for a social security number two years ago, won his sixth race of the season Monday to up his 1953 earnings to $54,040.

The classy sprinter returned his owner, Mrs. Alfred Roberts of Eatontown, a tidy purse of $4,226 by coming home first in the $10,000 added American Legion handicap.

Eatontown, named for the Monmouth county town, was in front most of the way in the seven-furlong sprint and won by a length and a half from Kaiser. He returned his backers $18.70 for a $2 win ticket.

It was Eatontown's 10th start and his sixth win of the year—not bad for a horse who was courting death two years ago. Mrs. Roberts almost gave up on him in 1951 when he developed a strange mania. But, it developed Eatontown wasn't ready to quit and he responded to treatment.

Last year he won six out of 28 races for $33,070 and has been improving with age.

Shrewsbury Post Wins County Legion Circuit

Red Bank Combine Finishes Season With 14-2 Record

Shrewsbury post, Red Bank, earned the Monmouth County American Legion Junior Baseball league championship Thursday by trimming West Long Branch, 5-1, on the West Long Branch grammar school diamond.

The Red Bankers finished the regular schedule with 14 victories in 16 outings.

Shrewsbury post had no trouble disposing West Long Branch as Ronnie Riddle scattered five hits, fanned nine and walked two batters. Don Gilman, on the mound for the losers, was tagged for a half dozen singles by Red Bank, including a double by heavy slugger Bud Dupree.

The victors scored twice in the first inning, but the home team came back with a run in its half of the first and the 2-1 tally held until the fifth inning when the Red Bankers scored twice.

Malawan trounced Atlantic Highlands 5-0, and secured itself of nothing worse than a tie for third place, behind the shutout performance of Bob Pittius. Pittius fired a four-hit ball game as his teammates went to work on Collins to slam out seven hits.

The Huskies started gathering runs early, scoring single tallies in each of the second and third frames.

In other contests Neptune clipped Long Branch, 8-3, in its final encounter on the Springfield ave. field.

Shoestring Stable, owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Armstrong of Oak Hill rd., Middletown, garnered its share of ribbons at the county horse show Saturday at Monmouth Park track.

Barbara Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lane of Monmouth Beach, won the novice horsemanship class for children under 14 years of age. Susan Ticehurst, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ticehurst, was second, while fourth place went to Ann Davenport, granddaughter of Mrs. Frank Hayes of Middletown. In the lead line class, Gail Stryker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stryker of Lincolnton, was fourth.

Deane Blaisdell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blaisdell of Red Bank, ranked 11th in the lead line class for children under 11 years of age and fourth in an open three-gaited saddle horse class. Both times she was mounted on Mrs. Armstrong's bay mare Chiquita. Pamela White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard White of Shrewsbury, was third in the class for children under 11.

Mr. Armstrong drove Shaker, owned by Mark McLean of Middletown, in the harness class for horses over 142 hands to win third place.

Mrs. E. C. Klein of Monmouth Beach rode Mrs. Armstrong's mare Chiquita to victory in the road hack class, winning a silver trophy.

Thomas Wins Alberti Tourney

NEPTUNE—Emery Thomas, pro at the Forest Hill Field club of Bloomfield, totaled a 70 on a pair of 35's to cop the annual Johnny Alberti day golf tournament Sunday afternoon at the Jumping Brook Country club course.

Thomas, shooting excellent golf, ended a nine-and-seven par for the outgoing. Conner back Thomas shot par golf which was rescued by a fine putt on the 18th green.

Jerry Plesano, Jr., of Jumping Brook, posted a 72 card to register the best amateur tally of the two-day affair. He recorded a two-stroke margin of victory over club champion Tony Alderelli.

Alderelli was in the running on the out nine, but came home two over par to wash out his chances.

Ben Hogan, 41, Who Almost Quit Golf At 25, Seen by Pros as Boon to Game

By FRANK ECK, AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

"It's a wonderful thing for golf" everybody chorused when President Eisenhower took a golfing vacation at Augusta National last spring. But stop to think for a moment what Ben Hogan has done to create new interest in a game he almost abandoned at 25.

William Ben Hogan is 41 today. The PGA book says so, as do the Erath county records at Dublin, Tex., where the blue-eyed son of blacksmith, Chester Hogan, was born Aug. 13, 1912.

Hogan should be a boon to the club pro as well as the tournament pro. Those who believe in the trite expression, "Life Begins at 40," and who are just starting out in the businessman-golfer class will be going to club pros and public course pros for lessons.

Club pros long have advocated lessons and practice but they've always had a time getting this across to the fellow who would like to break 100 and then 90. Now, with Hogan placing so much significance on technique, control, concentration and determination, the teaching pro's business should pick up.

20 Per Cent Skill
"Golf," says Hogan, "is 20 per cent skill and 80 per cent management."

The technique in hitting a golf ball has changed. It's not in club making. Ten years ago now the golfer who shot today will look silly. Control, concentration, discipline—you build that up through years of play. Anyone who can shoot par golf can beat any golfer on a given day."

Hogan's recent successes also figure to bring new players to the sport. And his game is a boon to the little fellow, for Ben stands but five feet 9½ inches, and weighs about 135 pounds. He has disproved the accepted theory that the tall, husky man has the advantage in golf.

The touring pro feels much better because Hogan has overcome disappointments. At 17 he turned pro and a few days later sought to regain his amateur standing, but failed to wait the necessary three years. At 19 he quit the tournament trail, flat broke after two events. In 1937 at 24 he went on tour and stuck after Fort Worth business leader, Marvin Leonard, had staked him. Even then Hogan had a hard time.

He Stands Apart
But today, following victories in the Masters, U. S. and British Opens, within a three-month span, he stands apart from any other golfer.

How he won the Big Three—each with final rounds of 68—has made the sports world peek up.

"Hogan has been playing golf for almost 30 years," says Jack Mallon, Cold Spring, L. I. pro. "It just goes to prove that it takes that long to learn how to really play good golf. Of course not everybody can be a Ben Hogan. But a lot of people are going to try."

"The thing that surprised me about Hogan when I saw him in the locker room during the U. S. Open at Oakland was his strong, heavy legs. They are all the more remarkable when one considers the suffering he endured when his car and a bus crashed in 1949 and put him out of the game for almost a year."

'Old as'
"At our club everything is 'Ben Hogan' this and 'Ben Hogan' that." His play has been an inspiration because of his age. About 80 per cent of our members are over 40. Some are calling Ben 'Old 68' as a result of his final round scores. "Some people are interested in the Hogan fade. It's a shot that starts out straight or slightly to the left and then drifts to the right. It is not to be confused with a slice."
"Few people will be able to emulate Hogan's fade because strong arms and control are necessary. But some of them will give it a try. They recall that Hogan once was a hooker (ball going from right to left) of the worst sort."

Garden State Sprucing Up

CAMDEN—Applications for more than 500 stalls already have been received by the Garden State Racing association for the fall meeting at Garden State Park. The meeting opens Oct. 9 and runs through Nov. 11, with no Monday racing, except Columbus day, Oct. 12. Sixteen requests are for eligibles for "The Garden State," the world's richest race, which will be run Saturday, Oct. 31. Two hundred and thirty-six two-year-olds are still in good standing for this mile and 16th race for juveniles. "The Garden State" now has a value of $220,395, and is expected to gross well over the quarter of a million mark.

Emil Weiler, general superintendent of Garden State Park, has made many improvements to the stable area for the coming meeting. All streets have been regraded, repaired and resurfaced, and many improvements have been made to the dormitories to make stable employees more comfortable.

All living quarters have been repainted and brightened up. Each of the rooms is equipped with hot water heat and hot and cold shower baths are conveniently located for all residents of the backstretch section. All barns have been repainted and minor repairs made.

Weiler also has completed an extension of 20 acres to the parking facilities of the park. The new lot is located on rt. 70, just before reaching the main track entrance on the route from Camden. The additional acreage has been graded, drained and covered with asphalt, and will enable the track to park more than 15,000 automobiles.

The only American horse ever to win England's Epsom Derby was Troquois, ridden by Fred Archer in 1861.

Fair Haven Wins 'Y' Playground Title

Baptists Lose Title to YMHA

SHREWSBURY — A three-run rally in the fifth inning gave the Young Men's Hebrew association a 5-4 victory over the Red Bank Baptist church and the championship of the Red Bank Y.M.C.A. Inter-Church league in a contest played on Patterson ave. field last week.

Y.M.H.A. was trailing, 3-2, when the victors exploded in the winning fifth chapter. The deciding runs came when Hoffman got a bunt single and went to second as Shortstop Buggy White errored on Silberstein's grounder. After two were out Freddie Hoffman singled, scoring Bernie Hoffman, and Bob Benowitz walked. Silberstein and Freddie Hoffman scored as Strasburger hit his second double of the game. The Baptists closed the gap in the seventh with a tally. Jack Oakley singled, stole second and scored on Wyms' double.

Sam Lefkowitz went the entire distance for the Y.M.H.A. to earn credit for the win, while George Springsteen absorbed the loss for the Baptists.

Miss Voorhees, Up on Javelin, Wins Weil Trophy at M.C. Horse Show

OCEANPORT—The Monmouth County Horse Show, which is slowly gaining the prominence of the former Rumson Horse Show, held a successful event Saturday for the benefit of the Monmouth County Historical association at Monmouth Park.

Miss Ann C. Voorhees, Monmouth Beach, won the Weil trophy for champion hunter, riding Javelin, owned by Mrs. Thomas Forman, Franklin Farms, Mendham, by collecting 14½ points. The trophy, which has to be won three times for permanent possession, has been previously won by Wynformere Farm's Woodfellow, Mrs. J. T. Moore's Troop, and twice by Sunwood Farm's Bond Street. Miss Betty Foales of Shrewsbury was a close second in the class, compiling 13 points atop Colonel.

The Annette T. Haskell Memorial trophy for thoroughbred broodmares was won by Ralph T. Reeve's Chipperoo. Second place went to Winnepur, owned by Miss Phoebe Phillips.

The Lewis E. Waring Memorial trophy for thoroughbred foal of 1953 was won by Phoebe Phillips' colt, and was judged as a racing prospect. A filly from Bernadotte Farm, Tinton Falls, topped second place, and third went to a filly from Amory L. Haskell's Woodland Farm.

In the novice horsemanship event under 14, Barbara Lane won the laurels with Susan Tichehurst taking second and Thomas O'Mara finishing third.

Children's hunters were ridden over jumps of three feet and proved to be an interesting event. Miss Voorhees topped first place, Miss Voorhees again taking first place on Kheyr and third on Javelin.

Children also competed in a horsemanship display, with Deanie Blaisdell first, Sandra Nagro second, Pamela White third and Nancy Lord, fourth.

Miss Foales also took the Ladies' finishing class, with Miss Voorhees finishing second.

A Western class, featuring a rope task, along with walking, galloping and loping a figure eight, was won by Anthony Giordano on Gem. Ben Mills, riding Why Worry, topped second honors and third place went to George Peterson.

Miss Foales and Miss Voorhees again duelled for the Ruthraut

Memorial trophy for working hunters, with the Shrewsbury Jassie coming out on top.

Miss Hope Haskell won the harness pony class under 142, driving her pony Night and Day. Miss Haskell put her pony and cart through a series of turns in the ring to win over Ebony, driven by Miss Nancy Kiley.

Third place in this event went to Mrs. George Howell of Tourlay Farm, who drove her pony Hard Times. In the harness pony division over 142 Mrs. Allison Stern, driving Corn Cob, won first, with Miss Laura Harding taking second.

The class which caused the most trouble was the Touch-and-Go Sweepstakes. A refusal constituted a touch, and all mounts were eliminated on the first attempt, necessitating jump-offs. This was finally won by Lila Phillips with William Holsey of Lincoln copping second.

Mr. Haskell was honorary president of the show, with Mrs. William C. Riker as president, Mrs. C. Ellis, secretary; Mrs. Joseph Lord, treasurer, and Richard G. Metcalf, show chairman.

The ring committee consisted of Edwin Stewart, Jr., chairman; William Haebler, Albert Smith, James Hauck, Robert Riker and William Gamwell.

Judges were Mrs. Henry Obre, Monmouth, Md., and W. Haggin Port, Cobham, Va., and for the western stock, Harry Kiley of Eatontown.

Kerr Upsets Winkie Wilkins

Winkie Wilkins, defending champion of the Red Bank borough tennis tournament, was eliminated from competition Saturday afternoon when Harold Kerr pulled the upset in a match that went three sets.

Kerr started out fast in the first set with his powerful serve and strong backhand to take the lead, 6-3. Wilkins came back stronger in the second set to halt Kerr's pace by an identical 6-3 tally. The final set was a nip-and-tuck affair all the way, and went into extra games before Kerr came out the victor, 8-6.

In other matches over the weekend Bob Wilson defeated William Hagerman, 6-2, 6-3. Playing in a second match Wilson eliminated Jake Umberger, 8-6, 2-6, 6-2.

William Wye and George Koenig, in the only doubles match, defeated Doug Tauchert and John Kuhlman, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6.

Singles finals will be played Sunday at 10 a. m.

Doctor Seeks McCarter Residence For Use as Professional Building

RUMSON—The zoning board of adjustment after a two-hour hearing last night promised an early decision on an application for a recommendation for a variance to permit use of Rumson Hill, former home of Thomas N. McCarter as a professional building housing 18 doctors' offices.

The application was submitted by the Meadow Realty company, present owners of the property and Dr. Anthony J. Pisani, of Little Silver, surgeon, and Dr. L. L. McKim, who have signed a contract of sale contingent on the granting of a variance.

Dr. Pisani, called as a witness by Vincent J. McCue, Red Bank attorney, representing the applicants, explained if the variance is granted, his plans call for maintaining his own practice there and providing a maximum of 18 offices for other doctors. The building would include quarters for a resident physician and his family. As things stand now, said Dr. Pisani, Dr. Gerald F. Whalen of Red Bank, neurosurgeon, would be the resident.

No Hospital

Dr. Pisani, in answer to a question by the board stated he has no idea of turning the building into a clinic or hospital. There would in fact, he added, be no provision for nor intention of keeping patients overnight. The house would include, according to the doctor, an X-ray room, physical therapy room and laboratory room which he stated he felt are a necessary part of a doctor's practice.

Dr. Pisani explained that probably a maximum of 23 doctors would use the 18 offices. The majority, he pointed out, would be specialists with three or four general practitioners. Asked if the building would have a name, he replied he would prefer to maintain the present name, "Rumson Hill."

In regard to signs, Dr. Pisani stated outside signs would depend on local rulings. A sign inside the building, he added, would list the physicians practicing there and their specialties.

Dr. Pisani stated provision would be made on the property for a parking area capable of handling between 40 and 50 cars.

Has 36 Rooms

Joseph G. McCue, local realtor, who said he is vice president of the Meadow Realty company and manager of the property in question, stated he has had the 36-room house for sale the past year and during Mr. McCarter's ownership also had it listed for sale for a year. In those periods, he added, he made unsuccessful efforts to sell the property as a private dwelling. However, said Mr. McCue, it has no utility as a private residence and is fit only for use as a semi-professional or institutional building.

Mr. McCue stated he had never had any prospective buyers for the house as a private dwelling. He

Judge Dismisses Genovese Suits

TRENTON—The separate maintenance suit filed by Mrs. Vito Genovese against her husband for divorce have been dismissed by Superior Court Judge Donald H. McLean.

Mrs. Genovese filed her suit last December on grounds of cruelty and asked $350 weekly alimony and $5,000 in counsel fees. After hearing testimony by Mrs. Genovese in which she linked her husband to almost every branch of the underworld, Judge McLean issued a temporary order of $500 in alimony.

Genovese, who lives on Ocean Blvd., Atlantic Highlands, filed a suit and said he was unable to pay. He denied his wife's testimony and said his only income was $107 a week as manager of a New York scrap paper firm. Judge McLean held Genovese in contempt when he failed to meet the temporary alimony payments, but no further charges were made when he agreed to sell the Atlantic Highlands home and its furnishings to make alimony payments. The furnishings netted Mrs. Genovese about $5,000, but the house is still for sale.

Judge McLean notified the lawyers by mail that he was dismissing the original complaint by Mrs. Genovese and the counter complaint. "If there is to be an appeal, my memorandum will be completed for the record," he wrote.

Osin M. Silber, Newark, who is a deputy attorney general and at case, said he would appeal the decision for Mrs. Genovese in this case.

The new operators have a long-term lease with a rental value of more than $250,000, according to the announcement. Mrs. Koopman was represented by V. Victor Carlton, Asbury Park, and the lessors by Kalman Friedman, Newark.

Cleans Windshield, 2 Trucks Crash

EATONTOWN—Thomas Blease of Asbury Park, a truck driver who tried to clean his windshield and drive at the same time, will answer a careless driving charge tonight in police court as a result of a crash Monday at 1:20 p. m. at Wyckoff rd. and highway 35.

Police Chief William Zadorosny said Blease's truck crashed into a truck driven by Alfonso Mercogliano of Asbury Park. According to Chief Zadorosny, Blease was cleaning his windshield while driving and failed to notice that Mercogliano's truck had stopped for a traffic light. Blease tried to avert to avoid a crash, but was too late. The first aid squad took both drivers to Monmouth Memorial hospital where 25 stitches were required to close lacerations to Blease's left arm. Mercogliano was treated for contusions of the back and right knee. Both men were discharged from the hospital. Special Policeman William Huttling investigated.

County Promises Planning Board

FREEHOLD—The early creation of a county planning board is a goal of the Board of Freeholders. Director Joseph C. Irwin disclosed yesterday in replying to a suggestion of Stephen J. Remsen of Manalapan township, Democratic candidate for a freeholder's seat.

After Mr. Remsen requested that the board set up a planning board, Mr. Irwin said the freeholders have been considering such appointments. He thanked Mr. Remsen for agreeing as to its need.

Mr. Remsen said there is an urgent need for county planners because Monmouth's population has doubled in ten years and will increase more rapidly when the Garden State Parkway is completed.

Mr. Irwin said board members have met twice with Chamber of Commerce and other groups about planning and that another meeting is being scheduled.

In other business: Contracts were awarded the A. P. Thompson company of Red Bank for reconstruction of two bridges in Upper Freehold township. Their low bids called for $412,288 and $426,775; picture in color of the proposed three-story courthouse was displayed by James W. Mancuso of Long Branch, architect, and a resolution of regret was adopted to note the death of Mayor James R. Mount of West Long Branch.

Population Rise Seen in Monmouth

TRENTON—The state department of conservation and economic development has estimated that Monmouth county's population for the period from 1950 to 1960 will be 40 per cent higher than that during the preceding ten years.

The department's projection shows that Monmouth's population will increase from 227,035 in 1950 to 317,912 in 1960, the fourth highest estimated gain for that decade. From 1940 to 1950 the county experienced a rise of 39.7 per cent.

In its statewide estimate, the department says there will be a total population of 5,857,000 by July 1, 1960, which would be a 20 per cent increase. During the previous ten year period there was a gain of 16 per cent.

The more rapid rise, according to the department, is predicated on anticipated industrial expansion, new residential development, improved transportation facilities and other economic factors already exerting strong population pressure in various sections of the state.

13-State Alarm For Missing Boys

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP—A 13-state alarm has been broadcast for two boys whose disappearance was reported to police here Tuesday morning after they were last seen about 6:30 the night before.

They are Dominick Namoli, 11, of 109 Atlantic ave., a ward of Mrs. L. Ellison of that address, and George Nicol, 10, of 63 Atlantic ave., who lives with his parents. Dominick was wearing dungarees, sneakers and a yellow polo shirt. He is four feet ten inches tall, weighs about 70 pounds and has blue eyes and light brown hair. George was wearing dungarees, sneakers and a brown shirt. He also is four feet ten, weighs 70 pounds and has blue eyes and blond hair.

Police said they were told the boys headed toward Freehold. Patrolmen Charles Adriano and Ralph Wallace made a thorough check of the route, then broadcast an alarm. Places they were known to have frequented have been exhaustively checked, police said.

Night Registry Sought by Board

FREEHOLD—The Monmouth county board of elections voted Monday to ask municipal clerks throughout the county to hold night registration sessions again this year for at least three days prior to the Sept. 24 deadline for registration.

The clerks will be asked by letter to hold the sessions from 7 to 9 p. m. Sept. 22, 23 and 24 so that there will be uniform hours throughout the county. The board also decided that it would provide help on the dates to register the voters wherever help is required.

Last year the county board voted against a mobile registration unit and decided on the night plan. There were more than 125,000 registered last year for the Presidential election, a new high for the county.

Mayor Mount Dies at 92

WEST LONG BRANCH—Mayor James R. Mount, 92, a member of the governing body here 39 years and New Jersey's oldest mayor, died Tuesday afternoon at his home, 446 Monmouth rd.

In failing health since December, the mayor became critically ill during the week-end. His illness prevented attendance at council sessions this year. He was administered the oath of office for his final term by Borough Clerk J. Russell Woolley at his bedside New Year's day.

Mayor Mount, prior to this year, missed only six of the 678 meetings of borough council since 1914. He attended 412 consecutive sessions before he missed his first meeting Apr. 2, 1942.

Son of the late George and Mary Reynolds Mount, the mayor was a lifelong resident of the borough. He was a retired landscape gardener, and chairman of the board of directors of the Long Branch Bank and company and the Shadow Lawn Savings and Loan association. The mayor was president of the Glenwood Cemetery association, vice president of the West Long Branch cemetery trust and an honorary member of the fire department here. Mayor Mount was a member of the official board of Old First Methodist church.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Lavinia Mount, with whom he made his home.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in Old First Methodist church, with Rev. Harry R. Pine, former pastor, officiating. Burial, under the direction of the Woolley funeral home, will be in Glenwood cemetery.

The body will lie in the Mount residence until 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, when it will be moved to the church. Honorary pallbearers will be members of borough council and directors of the bank and the savings and loan association. Active bearers will be members of the borough fire companies.

Abramoff Named Bond Chairman

MILTON ABRAMOFF, local attorney, has been named chairman of the High Holiday drive for Israel bonds at Congregation B'Nai Israel.

The announcement was made yesterday by Morris Cinnamon, chairman of the Israel bond drive for the shore area, who said that Assistant Prosecutor Charles Frankel of Asbury Park has accepted the position of shore area chairman for the High Holiday drive.

The practice of obtaining subscriptions for State of Israel bonds in synagogues during the High Holy days began with the inception of the Israel Independence bond issue two years ago, and has become a widely accepted custom throughout the county.

Planners Promise to Reach Zoning Decision by Sept. 3

NEW SHREWSBURY—That an answer to this borough's zoning problems will be given by the planning board at the Sept. 3 meeting of the mayor and council was indicated last night by Douglas Downs, planning chairman.

Mr. Downs made his statement at a two-hour meeting of the board, during which both sides of a two-plan argument were heard. The chairman said the board has held more than two dozen meetings since last spring in an attempt to resolve the differences and will hold more before it reaches a decision. He warned residents who asked for delay that the present zoning law represents "dynamite."

The principal difference comes from those who favor one-acre plots and those who favor 125x200-foot plots. In general, the former represent those who do not want to sell their land. At present, in the section north of Tinton ave., two-acre plots are required for homes along main streets, with half-acre plots with 100-foot frontages required for homes not on main streets.

Stress 'Time' Factor

Mayor J. Lester Rigby agreed with Mr. Downs that "time was of the essence." He urged the board to reach a decision as quickly as possible, mainly because developers could build 864 square foot houses by developing the "rear" areas where only 100-foot frontages are required.

The need for the haste suggested by Mayor Rigby and Mr. Downs was emphasized in an application made by Leslie Finch, attorney for Jerry LePre and Sons. "The LePre firm intends to develop the Honigman-Seider 60-acre tract on Sycamore and Riverdale aves. Early in the meeting, Mr. Finch submitted a map calling for 125x200 lots. After hearing arguments at the meeting, however, he offered an alternate map calling for 100x200 lots behind the two-acre lots. He explained the alternate plan was submitted for consideration under the existing ordinance.

Faced with the problem it is trying to avert, the board was successful in getting Mr. Finch to

Council Acts to Protect Children From Death in Discarded Ice Boxes

At the suggestion of Councilman Harold Hurley, Borough Attorney Leon Reussille was authorized Monday night to draft an ordinance controlling discarded ice boxes, refrigerators, freezers, etc. According to Charles Knoll, captain of the fire department's first aid squad, the instances of discarded refrigeration boxes about the borough were enough to warrant a request for action.

Discarded boxes such as those to be controlled in the proposed ordinance became death traps for nine children last week in various parts of this country. It was suggested that it be made mandatory to remove the doors before discarding the boxes.

Action was delayed until the next meeting Tuesday night, Sept. 8, on the awarding of a contract for repairs to the incinerator chimney. Bids opened Monday night were from the Riley Chimney company, Spring Lake, $9,000; American Chimney, Inc., Philadelphia, $13,400, and New Jersey Chimney company, Bradley Beach, $12,400.

William C. Story, who joined the police department Aug. 15, 1952, as a probationary patrolman, was made a full-fledged patrolman. Council adopted a resolution commending the many years of agree to hold off on the alternate map. He told the board, though, that his clients are anxious to get started—particularly in constructing roads this fall.

May Force Bigger Houses

In general, the board seemed to be of the opinion that a solution to its dilemma might be the raising of the requirements for house sizes while going along with 125x200 lots.

Mrs. Arthur S. Joyce, president of the Republican club here, presented a petition signed by 30 residents asking for one-acre plots. Another petition, also asking for one-acre plots, was presented from 30 Hope rd. residents. One asked for 175-foot frontages, the other for 150-foot frontages.

Mrs. Joyce told the planners their proposal to reduce lot sizes was not fair to those who purchased land here in the belief they would be living "in the country." She questioned the advisability of getting immediate gains, saying the board should take more time. Gerald F. Nagle, former councilman, also said the matter "shouldn't be rushed."

Stevens, Ford Speak

George Stevens, former mayor, opposed one-acre plots. He said the two questions he has heard most in recent years are: "Why are taxes so high?" and "Why do we have so few services?" He said the 125x200 lots would bring houses worth $16,000-$20,000 which would mean a better class of ratepayers for the borough. He estimated such development would raise the average assessment from its present $1,547 to $1,765. He argued that taxes will not be reduced unless the developers are "let in."

L. C. Ford, Sycamore ave., said he thought large lots place a severe restriction and work hardships on people who want to develop their land. He said it would only be fair—if large lots are required—that the borough make large tax concessions to those owners who would be adversely affected.

In an informal "hand count" which Mr. Downs said would have no bearing in the planners' deliberations, 24 residents indicated favor of one-acre plots. There were 19 in favor of 125x200 lots.

Citizens' Group Names Zalesak Chairman

New Organization
At Sea Bright Sets
Aug. 31 for Election

SEA BRIGHT—An organizational meeting of a local citizens' group was held last night in the borough hall with more than 60 persons attending, overflowing the council chambers.

William Zalesak, named as chairman pro tem at a prior meeting, continued in that capacity. A nominating committee was named to prepare a slate of officers for the next meeting, Aug. 31, at 8 p. m. in the borough hall, and a membership committee was named to solicit prospective members for the newly-formed organization.

Named to the nominating committee were C. R. Faalen, Mrs. Jerry Meyer, Otto Hauser, Roger Ryan, Mrs. Lillian Todd and Alex Crossin. Named to the membership committee were L. A. Verleger, Mrs. T. A. Lynn, W. D. Frame, John Donatello, R. B. Tilton, A. J. Hillary, William R. Fowler, Harold Ryan, Jerry Meyer, Edward Price, Robert Norton, Mrs. E. J. Oakey and Edward Palmeri. Mr. Zalesak will serve on both committees.

Mr. Zalesak, at the opening of the session, said the aim of the new group is to provide citizen representation in municipal affairs, to provide a voice of popular opinion in terms of governmental management, both pro and con as deemed necessary, and in general to build a better Sea Bright. One of its first considerations, he indicated, will be to try to obtain a better picture "of where our tax money goes."

Talks on Tax Equalization

In connection with the concern over taxes, the group heard a talk by Jack Powell of the J. K. Powell Co. of Metuchen, appraisal engineers. His firm provides property assessment, equalization surveys and he outlined in brief the vast problems involved in this work.

Mr. Powell said that only four counties in the state thus far have begun tax assessment equalization programs, Essex, Bergen, Middlesex and Monmouth. He added that these programs are necessary in order to effect a more equitable distribution of the tax load on real estate. Powell was critical of the state-wide assessment system because, he said, it is not based on the true value of property, "which is the market value."

He urged that all assessments be made on the basis of market value of the property and that municipalities decide individually on a percentage figure to be used to arrive at the amount of this market value to which the tax rate would apply. Mr. Powell told the audience that this system would provide a more equitable distribution of the tax load. "Many property owners now overassess under the present system would get tax relief and others underassessed and not paying their proper share would be brought up to a level equitable to all," he said.

During the meeting the emphasis by some members of the audience on a suggestion that borough officials be excluded as potential officers or committee members of this new group drew criticism from Mayor George H. Krauss and Councilman Ralph Lawrence, both of whom declared they were local taxpayers as well as officials and felt they had every right to participate in a citizens' group. Mr. Lawrence in particular scored what he referred to as the "side remarks" on politics.

Those attempting to draw a sharp line in an effort to preclude political machinations within the new organization emphasized that they made this suggestion only as a matter of principle for organization of this sort and without any intention of casting any reflection on the service they are rendering.

Actually, a spirit of co-operation with borough officials in their administrative functions and goals was underscored and the hope was voiced that the mayor and council members would attend all meetings of the new citizens' group as a means of maintaining a close contact with the pulse of the municipality.

State Says County Jail Is Overcrowded

Interrupt Sale Of Priest's Book

Four men who said they were "slaves of the Immaculate Heart of Mary," of Cambridge, Mass., who were selling books written by Rev. Leonard Feeney, who was excommunicated by the Catholic church, were picked up by police last night for soliciting without registering.

The men, identified by police as Brother Brendon McGovern, Ignatius Picardo, George Favreau and Henry Beltencourt, were released after being told they weren't permitted to sell books in Red Bank without first registering.

Chief Frank W. Reuther said he had been told by Assistant County Prosecutor George E. Gray there is nothing police can do to stop the soliciting if the men are properly registered unless Catholic church officials make a complaint charging misrepresentation and obtains an injunction against the salesmen.

Governor Vetoes Many New Bills

TRENTON—Four bills by Sen. Richard R. Stout (R-Monmouth) and three by Assemblyman Alfred N. Beadleston (R-Monmouth) were among the 100 bills Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll returned to the legislature Monday. Three of Senator Stout's and two of Assemblyman Beadleston's were returned conditionally for corrections suggested by the governor.

The Beadleston bill vetoed outright by the governor was one that would require five-member township committees in Monmouth county townships only of more than 7,500 population and over 4,500 in all other townships. The governor said it should await completion of study by the legislative committee on effects of the 1950 census.

The Stout bill vetoed validates authorized or confirmed municipal land sales heretofore made, but does not cover defective tax sale certificate assignments. The governor said this would "excuse the failure to comply with any and all safeguards imposed by law."

Returned to Assemblyman Beadleston because the title was inaccurate was a bill that provides that employees of newly-created boroughs who served in the municipality of which borough was formerly a part and in new borough shall not lose pension rights. The other one sent back to him validates certain final decrees or judgments in tax certificate foreclosures. It was returned because it needs definite time limit stipulation and apparently words were omitted, the governor said.

The three bills returned to Senator Stout for correction are as follows: 1—Gives tenure in office as district clerk to any person having tenure under a second order of education who is appointed district clerk; 2—Permits claim for temporary disability benefits for first seven days of disability if claimant has been eligible and has received benefits for three consecutive weeks following waiting period, and 3—Authorizes municipalities to modify conditions for use of land imposed by sale "hereafter" as well as heretofore.

4 Condemnations Asked by Authority

FREEHOLD—Four more condemnation proceedings have been filed here by the New Jersey Highway Authority for land needed for the Garden State Parkway.

Three Authority officers are for land on Grant ave., Eatontown: Mrs. Olympia Cattani, $7,151.78; Henry E. Arrick, $421, and the estate of Abigail and John Coy, $72. The other suit involves James J. Colt of Deal, $632.50 for property in Neptune.

FREEHOLD—An overcrowded county jail is among the problems facing the Board of Freeholders. This was disclosed yesterday when Freeholder Director Joseph C. Irwin made public an Aug. 12 letter from Sanford C. Bates, director of the State Department of Institutions and Agencies, who asked that a remedy be found to the present unsatisfactory conditions.

As a possible answer to the complaints, the board accepted an offer from Mr. Bates to send state representatives for the purpose of making recommendations to the county.

Administration O.K.

Though the jail's administration drew praise in a recent visit by Joseph C. Irwin, state inspector, the possible lack of segregated quarters for men and women prisoners was among his complaints. Another was that prisoners exist in an atmosphere of "idleness and futility." Because there is not an adequate work program, Mr. Irwin reported, the effect on prisoners is "likely to result in physical, mental and moral deterioration."

Irwin's report stated that when he visited the jail Aug. 4, 100 of the 131 prisoners were serving terms for minor offenses. The aggregate time of their terms was 21 years. Mr. Irwin declared: "It is no exaggeration to state that 80 per cent of this time will be served in an atmosphere of complete idleness."

The jail's listed capacity is 135, leading the inspector to conclude that since part of the jail is reserved for use of women prisoners and that section was not full the day of his visit—"it is evident that the male quarters are at their maximum occupancy." Mr. Bates pointed out that, despite the "best efforts" of the administration, "little flexibility can be achieved under these conditions and the desired segregation practices break down."

Work Program Needed

The need for "constructive work" for prisoners was emphasized. Mr. Irwin said he visited the jail in the middle of the day and that many prisoners were lying in their bunks sleeping or just wasting time as best they could." He said, however, that the jail was well maintained, clean and orderly. He added that the food appeared to be "entirely adequate."

In offering the state assistance in further inspections, Mr. Bates warned that the condition should be improved, lest the county be faced with the expense of providing a new and larger jail.

The freeholders also heard a report from Sheriff Ira E. Wolcott. In it, he listed the jail's population as of Tuesday at 131 men, seven women. Of the men, 95 are serving out sentences, 33 are either awaiting grand jury action or are material witnesses or probation violators and three are held on other charges. Of the women, six are serving out sentences. The other is awaiting grand jury action.

Sheriff Wolcott said prisoners are classified upon admittance by the warden and guards, who determine those who are able to work. There are two determinations: First is physical ability. The other is a consideration of the prisoner's being a good risk, not from another state and no record of escapes from other institutions.

The sheriff explained that by using that two-point formula, only 21 male prisoners were found qualified to work at cleaning up the courthouse and the welfare home grounds. An additional 25 are used on inside details such as cleaning and maintaining the kitchen and other facilities. Warden Joseph Schwark, the sheriff added, said the 21 "outside" workers could be increased to 50 if there were a county workhouse.

Cab Hits Pole, Two Injured

MIDDLETOWN—A taxi driver and his passenger were injured early this morning when the cab hit a pole at the intersection of King's hwy. and Mountain Hill rd. here, it was reported by Middletown township police.

The driver, Allyn H. Frichard of 67 Lafayette st., Rumson, refused to remain at Riverview hospital, where he was treated for possible fracture of the left wrist, possible fractured ribs and other internal injuries. He is to be X-rayed today.

The passenger, Gladwin C. Toews of Lamar, Kan., a seaman apprentice aboard the U.S.S. Diamond Head, now berthed at the Earle naval ammunition depot at Leonardo, was unconscious upon admittance to the station hospital at Fort Monmouth. He has regained consciousness and hospital authorities said he is "no danger." He is undergoing X-rays for possible concussion.

Keansburg Seeks State, County Aid With $100,000 Beachfront Project

KEANSBURG—Borough council Tuesday night adopted a resolution making formal application to the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development for a $50,000 grant and to Monmouth county for a $100,000 grant toward a $100,000 beachfront rehabilitation project.

Mayor James J. Gravany said the borough's $40,000 share will be raised through general taxation as a capital improvement during a 15-year period. The resolution says council will "undertake the adoption of necessary ordinances and other proceedings to authorize the appropriation as soon as possible."

Rankin's Advice

Council's action followed the adoption of a resolution at a session two weeks before directing that the state be notified that application for state aid would be made. Council also appointed an advisory committee of representatives of borough organizations of James Rankin, chief engineer of the division of navigation of the conservation department, Monday night told the state, setting an application to the state, setting the minimum proposed cost of the project, before the first week in September to be eligible for a grant for "protection against beach erosion out of the appropriation for this purpose for the fiscal year beginning next July." The committee recommended that the project be undertaken, and the cost estimated at $100,000.

Mayor Gravany told residents Tuesday night that council was acting in a rapid manner to insure the possibility that "we will have some semblance of a beach at Keansburg next summer."

Copies of the resolution, setting forth the terms of the formal application, have been forwarded to state officials and to the board of freeholders.

To Welcome Gorki

Councilman Martin C. Lohsen will head a committee to provide a "welcome home" for P.F.C. Charles Gorki of 62 West Shore st., who is expected to be released from a Red prison camp in Korea after 26 months' confinement. To council's knowledge, the Army private is the only borough resident a prisoner of the Reds. He asked residents to let council know of any others. "We want to let Gorki know that we're glad he's back," Mr. Lohsen said. "It wouldn't do for him to arrive here without some celebration."

Mayor Gravany seconded these statements, saying that the borough should indicate its recognition and appreciation.

Mrs. Lucille Mazzei of 55 Oak st., in a letter to council and in an appearance Tuesday night, once again objected to council's approval of a variance for a house owned by Leonard A. Bellaza on Center ave. The dwelling was built in 1949, and two years later, Harold F. Martin, building inspector, charged that this house violated ten-foot minimum setback requirement.

Conviction Upheld

Mrs. Mazzei Tuesday night reiterated that Mrs. Bellaza was fined for the violation in magistrate's court here and that the conviction had been upheld in county court. After hearing no objection at application two weeks before council granted the variance, only to have Mrs. Mazzei make an objection later in the meeting after her tardy arrival.

Mayor Gravany explained that council's action was in accordance with established procedure. Residents who, according to law, must be notified of pending action on variance requests, were informed to be at the meeting, he said. In the absence of protest, the mayor continued, council granted the variance. However, Mrs. Mazzei's attempt toward clarification of the issues, council instructed Mr. Martin to confer with Mrs. Mazzei to explain the "contradictions" Mrs. Mazzei "was at a loss to comprehend."

Council also approved the sale of two lots adjacent to her property in the Greenville Park section to Mrs. Ruby Z. McDonald; granted permission to the New Point Comfort fire company to conduct a house-to-house canvass for the sale of tickets to the company's second annual ball at Balbach's auditorium Oct. 17, and referred to Borough Attorney Howard W. Roberts a letter from New Jersey Natural Gas company informing council of a hearing Monday, Aug. 31, before the board of public utility commissioners of rate increases sought by the firm.

Fish Factory Worker Murdered in Neptune

NEPTUNE—Parcell Green, about 60, an employee at the J. Howard Smith fish plant, Port Monmouth, was murdered Monday night when a man they suspect for investigation.

Green's body was found in sand hills off West Bank ave. Tuesday, Dr. Julius A. Toren, county physician, said he died of head injuries. Being held in Robert M. Butler, 32, Atlantic City, a cook, who has told police that he and Green visited several bars on Springfield ave., Asbury Park, Monday night before the latter was murdered.

Crowell Postpones Case Against Driver

According to Patrolman Charles Jones, who arrested Coyle Aug. 14, the driver hit the car he was driving at the Broad st. crossing, where it got stuck. Coyle was examined at police headquarters by Dr. Alfred A. Poffel and pronounced under the influence of alcohol.

CONSIDERED FOR ASSEMBLY

FRESHOLD—Clifton T. Barklow, local attorney, may be the choice of the county Republican steering committee for the state assembly if Assemblyman Elvin R. Simmell is named to the county court. It was revealed recently by Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll that he is considering recommendations that he appoint County Judge J. Edward Knight to Superior court and Mr. Simmell to the County court. Prominent in local politics, Mr. Barklow is a member of the Republican steering committee. He also is secretary of the Freshhold board of education.

NO EGGS TODAY, LADY

The art of government is not unrelated to the art of mystification. Hard facts are presented to the electorate in soft words; simple facts are presented to whom it may concern in a legislative, welter of elaborately polysyllabic verbiage calculated to wider the wits of the uninitiate.

We are moved to this observation by a bit of officialdom that has come to our desk from South Africa—the match of anything we have seen from the jungles of Washington or the wide Potomac valley.

With the approval of the Minister the board may from time to time prohibit any person or any person belonging to any class or group of persons or any person other than a person belonging to any class or group of persons from acquiring, selling, or disposing of any quantity of eggs.

There, we submit, is a rhetorical tour de force that should be preserved for posterity. Who says that the language of bureaucracy is lacking in poetry, drama, or sense of the ultimate mystery? Poised on that splendid crescendo of prohibitions, nestled among all those unfortunate, unprivileged persons in or out of groups and classes, hidden at the quiet heart of that explosion of gobbledegook we find the small, incontestable, almighty pathetic incoherence where an egg ought to be.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Doctor Seeks

said however, a representative of a Catholic boys' school has expressed an interest in the property. The Realtor emphasized the former McCarter home is one of the most institutional buildings he has ever seen in and in these days is unsuitable for residential use.

Questioned by Arthur Pettit, one of two objectors to the proposal, Mr. McCue admitted the present zoning regulations were in effect when the Meadow Realty company purchased the property. Mr. Pettit asked if the owners stand ready to destroy the building and break the property up. Mr. McCue said they did if it proves impossible to use the building.

Asked by Mr. Pettit what the Meadow company paid for the property Mr. McCue stated "I don't think it's any of your business."

Wants Limit to Offices

A Mr. Guarino, who has purchased another part of the McCarter tract at the corner of Ridge rd. and Kemp ave. and is in the process of building a home there, said he had no objections to use of the building if done in a dignified manner as outlined by Dr. Pisan. He said however, he felt the variance if granted should limit the number of offices to be contained in the building. He further stated he would want to be sure the building could not later be sold to other doctors who would make additional changes.

Mr. Pettit prefaced his objections by stating it was unfortunate more publicity was not given the matter as it affects the whole community and will affect it for years. He pointed out Mr. McCarter accepted the loss on the house imposed by zoning restrictions for the benefit of the entire neighborhood. Laws are passed, he said, because they represent the consensus of the people in a community.

Voicing further objections, Mr. Pettit said he didn't feel that a man who bought the property at a small price should be permitted to appear before the board "crying about" hardship or the uniqueness of the building. "They bought the property to make money," he said, "and they come in now to seek a bonanza at the expense of others."

The property, stated Mr. Pettit, would be a doctor's center—a medical center regardless of its name. It planned such, he said. Mr. Pettit contended this would be the beginning of an institution. Zoning laws are broken down, he said, in steps. The first step is the depreciation of surrounding properties because as soon as an institution moves in people stop wanting to live near it.

Allen Objects

Ronald Allen, who lives diagonally across the street from the McCarter property and owns all the property directly across Ridge rd., also objected to the proposed use of the building. No matter how magnificent it is, he said, the house is a thing of the past and doesn't fit in with what is called for today. The house, he added, could be torn down and a modern dwelling constructed on it and adjoining lots on the McCarter tract. "I'm against any use of the buildings," said Mr. Allen, "except as a private dwelling."

Mr. Allen explained he feels the application for use of the building as a residence for one doctor and offices for others goes beyond the intent of the usual zoning ordinance with respect to a physician and his residence.

If the variance were granted contended Mr. Allen, it would result in a great deal of traffic and confusion in the area which he said embraces a number of substantial homes.

Pro Arguments

Speaking in favor of the proposal were Dr. H. B. Reese of Waterman ave., a retired physician, and Richard Muller, who said he is interested in buying the farmhouse on the McCarter property. Dr. Reese said the building would be an asset to the community. It would be a credit to the borough, he said, to have such a group of physicians here. Mr. Muller said he could see no objections to use of the building as outlined and would not object living near it.

Also in favor of the proposal is Mr. McCarter. In a letter to the board, Mr. McCarter states "I take pleasure in expressing my wholehearted approval of this project." He also expressed the hope the request would be given "favorable action."

RETURNING FROM KOREA

NORFOLK, VA.—Scheduled to return here from Korean duty Saturday aboard the destroyer Owen is Navy Lieut. Joseph Borlotti of 21-B Spring rd., Red Bank. The Cushing and Owen left the U. S. early last January for service off the east coast of Korea. While there he served as a carrier in fast carrier Task Force and participated in shore bombardment of the Wonsan area.

The trip to and from Korea resulted in an around-the-world cruise for the destroyers. In addition to visits to Japan they made the ports of Manila, Singapore, Colombo, Ceylon and in the Mediterranean Athens, Genoa, Cannes, Algiers and Gibraltar.

KINDERGARTEN PROGRAM

MANALAPAN TOWNSHIP—The board of education at a special meeting Monday night made plans to inaugurate a kindergarten program in local schools. The school district, according to school officials, is experiencing the same unprecedented growth in lower grades as other districts in the area. Introduction of a kindergarten program, they said, will save the service of one or two teachers and the use of one or more classrooms. The saving will be made possible, they said, because under state law, kindergarten children need attend school only two and a half hours a day. The tentative schedule provides for morning and afternoon classes.

EDITORIAL VIEWS OF OTHER PAPERS

HOW TO LOSE FRIENDS

A Swiss journalist visiting in Salt Lake City the other day put his finger on one of the real sore spots in this country's relationships with the rest of the world. The visitor said he had formed a new opinion of Americans since seeing them in their native haunts. He explained that he, along with most other Europeans, had held rather unfavorable impressions of us simply because of the conduct and attitude of the majority of Americans traveling abroad as tourists.

This is not exactly a new story. In the popular conception, the American tourist is a tasteless, ill-mannered show-off, inclined to treat his European hosts as inferiors and cover up his cultural shortcomings with a vulgar display of material wealth. We are convinced this type, which may have been common at one time, is now the exception rather than the rule, yet apparently there is still enough of it to prejudice a great many Europeans against Americans as a people.

There has been much in the news columns about the resentment caused by the ostentatious living and generally autocratic attitude of some of our American military and diplomatic personnel stationed abroad. This has become a matter of official concern, and the government is making an earnest effort to remedy the situation by setting up strict codes of conduct and deportment for overseas employees.

Tourists, as a rule, are on holiday, and unfortunately many of them, whether traveling abroad or just immediately away from their accustomed surroundings and associates, seem to feel they must assert their inhibitions and normal good sense and cut loose for a big time. It's rather like the mild, law-abiding citizen who becomes bold, inconsiderate and reckless when he gets behind the wheel of a car on the open highway.

In contrast, there is a group of employees of a large American concern who have been saving systematically for a trip abroad and who meet regularly to study the languages, geography, history and traditions of the lands they plan to visit so as to get the very most out of their tour.

When millions of American dollars are being spent throughout the world to spread the ideas and ideal of democracy, it is too bad a few thoughtless tourists foster a spirit of resentment and mistrust among the very people whose friendship we need. All the Voices of America and good-will missions in the world can't put over our way of life if our unofficial representatives abroad persist in un-selling it.—Deseret News (Salt Lake City).

LIMITING THE RETIRED

Although various schemes to increase Social Security benefits are discussed in Congress and out, there is still reluctance to take one step which would enormously improve the lot of retired people. We refer to the limitation in the Social Security Law which denies the right of a Social Security annuitant to earn more than $75 a month and still receive his benefits. The limit was formerly $50 a month, and Congress moved in the right direction by raising the ante to $75. Simple justice and sound social policy.

Farmers Given Little Choice In Wheat Vote, Says Voorhees

TRENTON—Wheat farmers were given little choice last week when the government asked them to vote on marketing controls on their 1954 crop. This is the contention of Herbert V. Voorhees, president of the New Jersey Farm bureau.

He explains that under the present farm law, a "yes" vote in the marketing quota referendum Aug. 14 meant that farmers were agreeing to abide by strict acreage and marketing controls as a condition to the receipt of 90 per cent parity support on their next year's crop. To vote "no," Mr. Voorhees said, was to agree to a reduction in the support price to 50 per cent of parity. Even to receive this support protection, Mr. Voorhees claimed, it would be necessary for wheat growers to comply with government acreage allotments.

Considering the present over-supply situation in wheat, Mr. Voorhees said, wheat farmers would have been voting themselves right out of business had they voted "no" on the referendum. He insisted that those who did vote "no" were growers who were feeding their wheat and were not dependent on the market for their livelihood. The world wheat market would have been completely demoralized, according to Mr. Voorhees, had growers agreed to a 50 per cent support protection.

"Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson was required by existing law to call the referendum," Mr. Voorhees said, "and had no authority to give the wheat farmers any choice other than was offered to them."

Mr. Voorhees blames the high mandatory provisions of the present law for the current wheat supply problem. He stated that the Congress in bi-partisan action had passed in 1947, with the full support of the farm bureau, a flexible farm price support law which provided for automatic adjustment in the support level as the supply of a farm product varied. This law, Mr. Voorhees said, was not permitted to become operative because it was replaced the following year with an Act which provided for high mandatory supports at 90 per cent of parity with flexible supports becoming operative after three years. We are still operating under this law, Mr. Voorhees said, but Congress saw fit last year to again postpone the flexible provisions of the law through the 1954 crop year. This action by Congress, he said, was taken despite the opposition of the farm bureau and other responsible farm organizations.

Mr. Voorhees claims that had the flexible farm price support program been operating we would not have the tremendous over-supply of wheat now and even if we had the current over-supply, the support level would be 75 per cent of parity rather than the present 90 per cent.

No one, Mr. Voorhees said, can deduct from the vote on the marketing quota referendum that farmers are desirous of high fixed supports or are favorable to strict controls on their production. He claims that the farmers are victims of an impractical farm program that has forced them into their current predicament. Mr. Voorhees stated that the New Jersey and American Farm bureaus will work very hard next year to get a reasonable farm law passed. The next session of Congress has been set aside by President Eisenhower and administration leaders in Congress as the session to review the Farm Act dealing with price supports.

Officers Visit Fort For Orientation Plan

officers, representing different corps of the Army, started a three-day inspection tour of this post this morning as part of a plan whereby key officials of technical and service organizations can help integrate their services.

Brig Gen. W. T. Guest, commandant of the Signal School, welcomed the visitors representing ordnance, engineers, quartermaster, transportation, signal, Army field forces and Department of the Army at 8 a. m. with an orientation talk. The program is patterned after the recent Wilson conference at Quantico, Va., and is designed to show the officers what is going on in the Signal Corps, and at the same time indicate how one corps can assist another.

Heart Surgery Aids Youngster

LONG BRANCH — Benjamin Eckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Eckman, Jr., of 1715 J st., Belmar, was the subject of a history-making operation at Monmouth Memorial hospital a week ago yesterday.

A special type of refrigerating equipment, made specifically for his type of surgery, was installed at the hospital and used for the first time. The equipment is now a regular part of the hospital's operating room equipment and will be used for certain "blue baby" operations.

Benjamin was a congenital blue baby and has been physically incapacitated since birth. While he did attend school, he was unable to take active part in any normal school activities. His operation has been considered a success. The child is up and about the hospital in a wheel chair and will go home today or tomorrow.

According to the hospital public relations department in a release concerning the operation, the pulmonary artery, which carries blood from the heart to the lungs, was constricted within the heart and it was decided that Benjamin would undergo a new type procedure at this time.

A light anesthesia was first administered and then the refrigerating device was applied until the body temperature of the patient was slowly lowered to between 88° and 89°. The operation was performed by entering the heart through the right ventricle and the obstruction opened. The operation took approximately one hour, but the patient was under refrigeration for more than three hours.

This was the first time that this operation had been performed in the state and had only previously been performed in four places prior to Monmouth Memorial hospital; namely, Hahnemann hospital in Philadelphia, St. Vincent's hospital, New York Medical Center in New York and the University of Minnesota.

The Monmouth County Heart association played an important part in this Monmouth county "first" by furnishing special nurses who assisted during the operation.

Black Skimmer

Flying in spectacular unison close to the water of some river mouth, bay or harbor is a relatively compact flock of good sized birds that appear conspicuously black above and white beneath. They look much like slender-billed gulls but fly more rapidly and on close examination with glasses we may see that the bills are red with black tips. The birds may fly one way across a stretch of water, wheel and come back over the same path. On occasion one may dip its bill into the water but continue its flight with little interruption. If you are in the proper place at the proper time the flock being observed may be black skimmers.

Black skimmers breed from southern New England to Florida, Texas and south to central Argentina on the Atlantic coast and from Ecuador to Chile on the Pacific coast. They winter from North Carolina southward. Sometimes the birds are found as far inland as Tennessee and one race lives in central South America. The presence of the birds in the northern part of their range may be erratic. Hurricanes may be responsible for their appearance in regions where they have not been seen before.

The male black skimmer is slightly larger than the female. He may be 20 inches long including a six-inch tail with its 1 1/2-inch fork. The wing-spread may be to 50 inches. If the bird can be observed closely, identification may be made simply through the bill. The lower part of the bill is definitely longer than the upper portion and the whole bill is conspicuously compressed. With a structure like this the bird may skim along the water surface while flying with the bill in position to quickly pick up a small fish or other animal that may serve as a meal.

Black skimmers nest in colonies on bare ground such as shell beaches or sand flats. They build no nest but lay to three to five eggs in a more depression. The eggs are 12-13 inches by 1-1 1/2 inches, white, greenish or brown and are spotted or blotched with brown, gray or lavender. While the birds nest in colonies, the individual nests are not too close together. Incubation is probably by the female only and there is but one annual brood. In the northern part of the range the nesting period is from the middle of May to the middle of July. The young birds have bills that are more nearly equal in length than are those of the adults and because of this they may pick food from the surface of the ground, a feat that is practically impossible for the adults.

The birds are themselves inedible but the fresh eggs are sometimes eaten, in spite of the fact that it is illegal to collect them. It is quite probable that egg collectors have done much to reduce the range of these interesting but not economically important birds. The National Wildlife Federation joins with other organizations interested in the protection of wildlife in urging the protection of these birds. They do no harm and only probable value lies in providing for some nature lover an interesting field adventure.

Boro Awards $1,250 Curb Contract, Seeks Ordinance Clarification

HIGHLANDS—Borough council Monday night awarded a contract for the installation of 1,000 feet of curbing on Ralph st. to M. J. Stavola, Incorporated of Chapel Hill for $1,250.

The Stavola firm's lone bid of $1.25 per lineal foot matched an estimate submitted by Borough Engineer Otis R. Seaman. Council a month before rejected as too high a bid of $1.85 per foot submitted by the Mills Construction company of this place. Advertisement for bids followed a conference with a majority of property owners on the street, who will pay for the project. Mr. Seaman told council that curbs must be installed on several borough streets before road repairs can be made in an efficient manner.

Trailer Parking

Council referred the trailer ordinance to the planning board for study and recommendation after a discussion of confusion that exists in reference to parked, unoccupied trailers. The ordinance limits trailers to parks and the parks to two in number. The discussion was prompted by Councilman A. Meade Robertson's report of complaints received by the police department because trailers have been parked in various places in the borough outside trailer parks, though not occupied. Chairman of the police committee, Mr. Robertson said action has been delayed because of the illness of Borough Attorney John M. Pillsbury. He pointed to the number of residents who use trailers to reach summer homes here after using them as residences in Florida during the winter.

After public hearing, where no objection was voiced, council authorized Borough Clerk Frank Bolen to advertise for bids for the demolition of buildings at 217 Bay ave. and 16 Valley st. Condemnation proceedings, leading to public hearing, have been followed, it has been reported. Councilman Alexander Bahrs reported that demolition of an old coal yard office at 217 Bay ave. is in progress.

Other Actions

Council also: Approved the installation of a three-quarter-inch water service line to the Garden club's Miller st. project; instructed Mr. Bolen to determine the attitude of the Monmouth county league of municipalities in reference to rate increases sought by the New Jersey Natural Gas company—a hearing before the board of public utility commissioners is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 31; granted permission to Borough Buses, Incorporated, to run sightseeing buses between Asbury Park and Atlantic Highlands through the borough; approved the payment of $7,755.09 in bills; referred to Mr. Pillsbury a request for $9.90 to replace two bedspreads damaged by dogs; instructed Mr. Bolen to notify property owners on Linden, Huddy and Bay aves. to clear brush from sidewalks and, failing their compliance, to proceed with the work and bill the property owners; and heard Mayor Charles Hatzendubler report that the installation of a water main to serve Jennie Parker Manor, the 30-unit, $300,000 low-cost housing project on the site of the former incinerator plant, is in progress.

RED GROUPEE

The red grouper grows to a length of three feet. It is basically brownish but often mottled with indistinct darker spots. There are however about the eyes definite darker spots. At the base of the tail there seems to be a series of obscure saddle-like patches.

The fins including the tail are colored essentially like the remainder of the fish except that there sometimes seems to be an obscure, dark band running horizontally along the back fin and there may be dark or light markings along the edges of the paired fins. The head is large and bears a correspondingly large mouth. The fins are all relatively large and do not indicate any ability to swim rapidly. The end of the tail is straight or slightly concave in outline.

1772. The MORRIS HOUSE, Germantown, Pennsylvania.

AP Newsfeatures.

Opposite the Square, where one of the hardest actions in the Battle of Germantown took place, this mansion stands. It is a beautiful example of Colonial simplicity and was built, in 1772, by David Deshler. It is forty feet square and might have been wider, but for the fact that it would have necessitated cutting down a plum tree, highly prized by the builder. The mansion has the distinction of having been the "White House" for President Washington, when Philadelphia was the National Capital. To escape yellow fever, then raging in the city, in 1793, Washington rented the house and occupied it during the month of November. In the year following, to avoid the summer heat, he again came here with his family in August and September. In 1804, Elliston and John Perot purchased the property, and it was successively owned by Elliston's son-in-law, Samuel B. Morris, and Samuel's son, Elliston Perot Morris. At the side and rear of the house, there are charming gardens, which are kept up, as in Colonial Days.

Red groupers range from New England to the West Indies and are possibly most abundant in shallow waters over coral around the Florida Keys. They are well known for their ability to live some hours out of water.

Convention Hall Books Joni James

ASBURY PARK—Joni James, who comes to the Convention Hall of Name Bands on the boardwalk, for one night, Saturday, Aug. 22, is a young lady who has literally skyrocketed to fame and is now being hailed as the new "Miss America of Music."

Joni James

Joni's dramatic arrival on the entertainment scene was heralded in the fall of 1952 by her sensational MGM recording of "Why Don't You Believe Me." Barely six weeks after its release it was in the No. one spot on every popularity and sales chart. Within but a few months she scored with other smash recordings, "Almost Always," and "Is It Any Wonder," "Have You Heard," "Wishing Ring" and "Your Cheating Heart." Soon Joni was being booked and rebooked into one after another of the nation's leading cafes and theaters.

It all adds up to a lot of success for a 23-year-old girl who, upon graduation from high school five years ago, turned down a scholarship in journalism in order to try for a career in show business...

As a dancer, not a singer. Joni started her theatrical career at the age of nine when she joined a dramatic club but it was dancing that really interested her, and at the age of 12 she decided she would like to study dancing seriously. She won a scholarship with the famed Children's Civic Dramatic group and at 13 took part time jobs to enable her to take private dancing lessons.

At Bowen high school, where she was a student, Joni was extremely popular and also extremely active in school affairs. She organized a ballet club, was a feature writer for the school newspaper, and sang in the school glee club. After school she earned money modeling—and diligently continued her dance lessons.

It was during this time that Joan Carmella Banno became Joni James. The "Joni" resulted from a typographical error in her school paper, and the James was bestowed by the modeling agency.

Joni was graduated from Bowen high school in 1948. She was offered a journalism scholarship at De Kalb university, but dancing was her main ambition and so she went to see Ernie King, noted Chicago dance producer, and asked him for his advice. Mr. King not only told her that if she wanted show business she should start right away, but offered Joni a job in his troupe that was to do a summer tour of Canadian exhibitions and in fairs. For 13 weeks she did a solo in Scheherazade. Then she returned to Chicago. Joni's mother hoped that she would quit dancing now and that she would find that nice fellow and get married.

There were lots of nice fellows around for Joni. The trouble was, Joni still wanted to dance. She auditioned for Dorothy Hill, choreographer and producer of shows for the Edgewater Beach hotel and got a job in a new production. Then, two days before the start of rehearsals, the event occurred that was to sweep Joni to the pinnacles of show business but as a vocalist, not as a dancer.

It was an attack of appendicitis. Joni was rushed to a hospital and underwent surgery. Her recuperative process was lengthy and her doctor cautioned her to go easy on dancing. So Joni developed an act which featured singing. Only as a temporary measure, she thought.

ROLSTON WATERBURY

Jim Jones had a big building which he used storing some of his own equipment. It was somewhat isolated and there he had never thought much about the need for liability insurance and property damage.

One day a friend, Pete Smith, asked Jim if he could use a part of the building temporarily for storage. As an accommodation, Jim agreed.

Then fire struck. The building and contents were badly damaged. Fortunately, Pete Smith had fire insurance so he was reimbursed for his loss.

However, Smith's fire insurance company threatened a damage action against Jim, alleging negligence. Jones hired an attorney and the matter was set out of court. A friendly settlement cost Jim Jones $2,300.

Naturally, Jim has liability insurance NOW. He learned that even, well-intentioned actions can lead to damage suits. It's like we said to Jim, "A man simply can't anticipate the unexpected." The only rule is to be prepared through proper liability insurance.

Eddie Fisher to Sing At Convention Hall

ASBURY PARK—Climaxing a season that has seen some of the nation's top bands and vocalists on its stage, the Convention Hall of Name Bands on the boardwalk announces the first New Jersey appearance and also the first ballroom appearance of Eddie Fisher for a four-night engagement, Monday, Aug. 24, through Friday, Aug. 28.

Eddie Fisher

Fisher won the official title of "America's Most Promising New Male Vocalist" in the annual nationwide poll of disc jockeys conducted by Billboard magazine, and in 1952 he ranked second only to Perry Como in the disc jockey poll of top male singers.

Fisher's RCA-Victor record sales figures also reflect the opinions of his ratings as a tip-top singing sensation. In 1950, his "Thinking of You" was one of the top sellers, as was his "Turn Back the Hands of Time" in 1951. Eddie's all time biggest was his recording of "Anytime" in 1951 that skyrocketed to a record best seller in 1952, but that has given way to "Wish You Were Here," which has reached the three-quarter-of-a-million mark. This he followed with "How Do You Speak to an Angel," backed by "Downhearted" and an Irving Berlin album.

Tree Swallow

The swallows are a group of birds about which it is easy to write in superlatives. The swallows of El Capistrano manage to hit the front pages of newspapers across the continent each spring. We have the saying that one swallow does not make a spring and if you happen to be in a barn or around a boathouse when barn swallows are building their nests, you are likely to get a new interpretation of what is meant by "here's mud in your eye."

Tree swallows congregate in great numbers, usually in marshes, just prior to the southern fall migration. One day they are in an area in abundance; the next day they are gone. There was a time when people believed that they vanished because the swallows turned into frogs to reverse the process in the spring. Since the tree swallows may well be the first swallow to arrive in the spring, they may be responsible for the saying that one swallow does not make a spring.

Tree swallows are relatively easily recognized because of their immaculately white under parts and their steel blue-black or greenish-black backs. Their tails are forked but not so deeply as is the case in the barn swallows and purple martins. The length of a tree swallow is about 6 1/2 inches; of a barn swallow, 7 1/2 inches; of a cliff swallow, 6 inches; and of a purple martin, 8 1/2 inches. In comparison, therefore, the tree swallow may be considered a relatively small swallow.

Tree swallows breed from northwestern Alaska to southern California and east to north Quebec and Virginia. They winter from Central California to North Carolina and south to Honduras, Mexico and Cuba, these limits being general rather than specific. During the winter while the birds are South, the young birds of the year are more grayish than blue above and the throat is not the clear white so attractive in the mature birds.

Tree swallows nest readily in bird boxes or in tree cavities. A nesting colony may be of considerable size. The nest has a grass lining and is abundantly supplied with feathers. The 4 to 10 rosy-white eggs are approximately 4/5 by 9/16 inches in size and are incubated by both sexes for two weeks. Two broods may be raised in a season and two females may occupy the same nest, all of which should lead to interesting interpretations of the family life.

Tree swallows are great insect eaters but may eat more plant food than most swallows. They are known to feed on the berries of the Virginia creeper and the fruits of red cedar. They are probably almost as valuable in an agricultural sense as are the barn swallows. Their beauty to me is such as to place them in top rank but beauty is a variable feat, fortunately and there are those who can justly differ with that statement.

New power developments at Niagara Falls will operate at night and in the off season to cut the flow over the falls to about one fourth of the normal volume, but will permit almost full flow when sightseers are likely to be present.

A legend of the Nigerian city of Ife says that an ancient queen made the people work so hard they resolved to have only men rulers thereafter.
