OMI Announces Higher Milk Prices;
Cent Upstate, 1/2 Cent in South Jersey

TRENTON—Effective Dec. 6, the retail price of milk in upstate counties, including Mercer county, will be raised one cent per quart and in the remainder of the state one-half cent per quart, according to an announcement made Friday by C. Wesley Armstrong, Jr., director of the Office of Milk Industry. Proportionate advances are ordered for smaller units of milk and for milk products. No changes will be made in the price of cream.

The announcement of the new prices followed a hearing held in Trenton Nov. 13.

The increase of one cent will be split evenly between distributors and producers in area three (north shore, including parts of Monmouth and Ocean counties); area four (Hudson, Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Morris, Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties); and area five (including Sussex, Warren and Hunterdon counties and the remainder of the counties of Monmouth and Ocean), and in Mercer county.

The one-half cent increase in the South Jersey area is effective in area one (including Burlington, Camden, Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland, Cape May and Atlantic counties) and area two (including the lower seashore district of Atlantic City to Cape May).

Farmers and milk distributors asked for the hike Nov. 13 in the face of a housewife's warning that the industry is pricing itself out of the market. At the same time a grocery store spokesman told O. M. I. that it costs a storekeeper more to handle milk than he makes on it.

Here is the gist of arguments presented to Armstrong:

By farmers—The distributors asked for a minimum increase of about a cent a quart to make up for increased operating costs brought about by the late summer drought which forced farmers to buy feed at a time of the year when cattle normally graze in the pastures.

By dealers—The processors and distributors of milk asked for a hike of three quarters of a cent to two cents a quart to cover increased labor costs which followed last month's strike.

By consumers—Housewives warned that they are turning to substitutes such as powdered milk at eight cents a quart as a protest against the price of bottled milk (about 24 cents a quart).

By retailers—The storekeeper makes a gross profit of six per cent on milk while his overhead is 17 per cent.

One of the 27 farm spokesmen at the hearing was Lloyd B. Westcott, a Hunterdon county dairy farmer and president of the New Jersey Dairyman's council, who spoke as an individual. In asking that last year's one cent cut in the price of milk paid farmers be restored, Westcott said:

"Disarmed by Trend"
"Consumers and farmers are dismayed by the present trend in our economy. They see the cost of living creep steadily upward while the returns to the farmer steadily decrease. The consumer is at a loss to understand why her grocery bill stays so large while she hears constant reports of falling farm income."

"In New Jersey, as of today, the farmer is receiving one cent less per quart than he did a year ago yet the consumer is paying at least one cent more—a difference of two cents per quart. Now the dealers, as the result of the strike, are asking for an additional raise."

"We suffered from one of the worst droughts the northeast has seen. Pastures dried up, production dropped, and farmers fed costly hay and silage months earlier than usual. In August and again in September, we asked for a hearing to raise our price to at least where it was last spring, but months passed and no hearing was called."

"What happened in the past few weeks? Labor struck—got a wage raise in five and one-half days—the dealers asked for a hearing a few days later—and a mere five days after the strike was over a hearing was called to consider a price rise. Maybe we farmers don't go about things the right way."

"Mr. Director, the farmers need relief. We urge that you raise their price to the level it was a year ago."

The dealers asked to be reimbursed for their additional operating costs. They said the new contract signed by distributors in North Jersey cost them about $5.50 per week per driver, or about three quarters of a cent per quart of milk.

"We are requesting that the industry be reimbursed for only the exact costs of the increases resulting from the new labor contract and not any other increases in spread or profit," Dr. Palmer Searles, executive director of the Milk Dealers' Association of Northern New Jersey told O. M. I.

One dealer, Henry Becker of Fairland, said the new union contract costs him about one and one-half cents per quart. He also asked that a cut instituted in 1952 by O. P. B. be restored and that the price of milk be raised two cents per quart.

Consumers were represented by Mrs. Robert D. Parker of Glen Rock, president of the American Housewives Organized, Inc. Mrs. Parker, a registered nurse, told O. M. I.

"The outlook, for the sale (of milk and cream) has a gloomy future if the indignation that we have been hearing housewives express and the heavy shopping for powdered milk and other adequate substitutes are indicators of an economic trend."

"The milk industry in New Jersey must remember the successful milk boycott that the American Housewives Organized conducted in recent years, when the threat of a milk price was reversed. Certainly, non-fat fluid milk at 24 cents a quart should be left to sour rather than purchased, when an adequate substitute can be bought in stores for about one-third this amount, or eight cents a quart."

Retail stores were represented by Fred Kaminawski of Jersey City, secretary-manager of the N. J. Food Merchants association.

Kaminawski told O. M. I. that the cent and a half minimum profit provided for retailers has become a maximum. He said because of its bulk and need for refrigeration, milk is an expensive item to handle, and that storekeepers are losing money on it.

County Boards
Honor Clayton

SEA GIRT — The Monmouth County School boards association paid honor to the former county superintendent of schools, Joseph E. Clayton, Thursday night at the Sea Girt Inn. About 460 members and guests attended the association's semi-annual meeting.

Mr. Clayton will take over Dec. 8 as a deputy commissioner of education. He has been serving since early this year as director of school building services for the state department of education. Mr. Clayton was presented with a three-dimensional camera by the association.

The association elected Mrs. Robert McTague, president of the Atlantic Highlands board, as its representative to the state federation of district boards of education, which meets in Trenton.

All the speakers discussed the problems of overcrowded school conditions prevalent throughout the county today. They all praised Mr. Clayton.

Dr. Chester Robbins, deputy commissioner, whom Mr. Clayton will succeed, said it is unfortunate that many persons look upon the children overcrowding the schools as a problem. "We are fortunate to have them with us," he said.

Mr. Clayton's successor as county superintendent, Earl B. Garrison, told the group there are two problems in the school today. He said they are, simply, "Too many children and too few teachers."

The main speech was given by Donald V. Pack, former mayor of Allentown, Pa., an attorney, whose subject was "The Nine Promises of a Good Citizen." He said the promises include regular voting, respect for laws, acceptance of duty during war and peace, and support of the free public education system.

Mr. Hook urged teaching at home of the three R's needed for citizenship. He said they are "rights, respect and responsibility."

Duncan Perrine, president of the association, was toastmaster.

Another Held
On 'Smoke' Charge

Nicholas Siollano of Newman Springs rd., Lincoff, a partner in the S and R grocery and liquor store at Leighton ave. and Catherine st., was added to the list of three men charged with receiving cigarette stolen from Whelan Drug company, New York city.

The other three—Albert Menna, manager of the West Bergen Market; Eugene Pinlor, owner of the Milk Bar at 115 Shrewsbury ave.; and Joseph Murdock of Shrewsbury, a clerk at West Bergen Market—were picked up Wednesday by the detective bureau here. Siollano was arrested Friday.

The four men appeared before Magistrate John V. Crowell Friday. All except Siollano were held in $500 bail for action of the grand jury. Pinlor was sent to county jail in default of bail.

Deputy Chief George Clayton, head of the detective bureau, said the men were arrested on complaints made by inspectors for the Whelan firm. He said 500 cartons of cigarettes are involved and that the men allegedly paid $1.75 per carton. The local chain store retail price for cigarettes is $2.25.

Lawton Proud
Of Post Relations

FORT MONMOUTH—In comparison with other military installations in the country, Fort Monmouth has attained an enviable reputation for a harmonious relationship with the surrounding communities. Maj. Gen. K. B. Lawton, commanding general, said this week.

The soldier on pass or leave in the civilian community is in a position to raise or ruin the prestige of the service, the general declared.

The Army, through the co-operation of military police and civilian authorities, tries to insure the welfare of both the public and the soldier "off post." Nothing they can do, however, can equal the effect of a proper attitude in the minds of the servicemen.

It is a deep concern of Gen. Lawton to insure that all of the men under his jurisdiction understand their role in the reputation of the post, and the service in general, with the people of Monmouth county.

For this reason he has conducted, since assuming command of the post, an orientation lecture which every man, enlisted or officer, arriving at this post must attend.

At this talk, which is given every Saturday morning, the general speaks to the men personally on a down-to-earth level, which is all too uncommon in the Army. With logic and an unparalleled degree of sincerity, Gen. Lawton outlines that which he expects from the men of his command.

He explains to them the menace of Communism and its relation to their being in the Army. Also it is pointed out that each man should be proud to serve in the service of a country which has given them life as we know it.

There are few persons of Monmouth county—and definitely none on the post—who are not aware of the general's feeling as regards motor vehicles and their operation. Here he states, beyond the question of doubt, how his men should operate their cars, and what happens when they do otherwise. This is one of Gen. Lawton's pet projects.

In addition to his remarks there are several actual demonstrations in which anyone is invited to test himself against statistics. This has resulted in Fort Monmouth having one of the best safety records of any Army installation.

Perhaps on a plane with his efforts on safety are the general's feelings on religion. He cares not to touch which religion the men go, only that they go to church. The benefits derived from religious participation are immeasurable in the building of a proper attitude and good morale. The self-discipline of spending one hour a week in church is highly worth while, moreover, in building character.

In lauding this orientation that Gen. Lawton explicitly outlines the manner in which the men of Fort Monmouth conduct themselves while in the civilian domain.

The results of this lecture are evidenced by the acceptance of the soldier into the life of the community. There is no doubt that the men of Fort Monmouth are aware of their duty to the community, and that the people of Monmouth county appreciate the efforts of the command to insure continued good relations in the future.

Red Bank Ministerium Commends
Chamber's Christmas Lighting Delay

The Red Bank Community Ministerium last week commended the Red Bank Community Chamber of Commerce for delaying the lighting of Christmas decorations of the borough until after Thanksgiving.

Meeting at the Community YMCA Wednesday of last week, the ministerium directed Rev. Dr. Wallace L. Gallup of Holmdel, secretary, to write the chamber of commerce in commendation of its decision to postpone Christmas lighting until after Thursday.

Rev. James W. Marshall, pastor of Embury Methodist church, Little Silver, and ministerium president, was in the chair. Rev. C. R. Bearmore, pastor of the Eatontown Methodist church, opened the meeting with a prayer.

Planned for next year are two luncheon meetings, motorcade to Princeton and two papers by local clergy.

Appointed to a committee for a men's Communion breakfast were Rev. W. Clinton Powers, Rev. Kenneth Wagner and Forrester A. Lee, and to a committee for ministerium Lenten observances, Rev. Harold Hornberger, Rev. Roger J. Squire, Rev. Charles E. Bourne and Rev. Mr. Marshall.

The ministerium extended congratulations to Rabbi and Mrs. Arthur H. Hershorn of Congregation B'Nai Israel on the 20th anniversary of their spiritual leadership in this community.

Text of the ministerium's letter to the chamber of commerce follows:

At the direction of the members of the Red Bank Community Ministerium, I am writing to express their keen satisfaction in knowing that the Christmas lighting of the city will not be turned on until after Thanksgiving this year. We believe this is a good thing, in order that our people may not grow weary of the festive spirit of Christmas before they have had time to give thanks for the harvest of the year. All of us are grateful for the illumination of the city at the Yuletide, and wish you to commend the Chamber for its efforts in making this possible. We believe its effect is heightened by its use during the weeks just before the New Year.

Sincerely yours,
Wallace L. Gallup,
Secretary.

22 Enter Guard;
6 on Active Duty

A current recruiting drive by the 64th tank battalion of the New Jersey National Guard has resulted in the enlistment of 22 area residents, it was announced this week by battalion headquarters.

Headquarters also announced that six battalion members have left for active service with the Army for two years, under provisions of a Department of the Army policy that enables National Guardsmen to enter active military service voluntarily when inductions are imminent.

Now on active duty are Cpl. Leonard T. Frisica, 1 Church st., Rumson; Cpl. Lawrence J. Folio, 1000 Madison ave., Leonardo; PFC Michael P. Hernandez, 604 Second ave., Long Branch; Sgt. John Lagrotteria, 358 Morris ave., Long Branch; Sgt. Eugene J. Patterson, Nutanawap rd., Middletown township; and Sgt. Sebastian A. Russo, 85 Bay ave., Atlantic Highlands.

Recent recruits include Walter L. Cuje, Malcolm R. Wright, Arthur W. Wildanger, Thomas F. Boockel and Walter L. England of Red Bank; Joseph Lamberti, Middletown; Sidney J. Davis, Joseph E. Hyslop and Joseph E. Miller, Eatontown; David A. Scott, Tinton Falls; Robert R. Nay and Howe L. Bialley, East Kearsburg; Ernest R. Mayer, Kearsburg; Delaford Walden, George J. DeBona, Louis DeBona, Jr., Joseph B. Donato, Francis A. Rioli, Anthony J. Califano and Joseph J. Cieri, Long Branch; Theodore S. Huff, Avon, and Richard P. Bradley, Brielle.

During the present recruitment drive, which will run through December, the Red Bank armory at Chisout and West ave. and the Asbury Park armory, Lake ave. and Bond st., are open between 8 and 10 p. m. with personnel on duty to explain advantages and opportunities of enlistment in the National Guard.

Relief Engine company Sunday at 7:45 p. m. extinguished a fire caused by an overflow in a kerosene stove at the home of Pernell Johnson, 14 Central ave. Damage was slight.

Zimmerman Gets
$1,485 and Costs

Martin G. Zimmerman of Laurel ave., Shrewsbury, received an award of $1485 after a hearing before Referee Thomas J. Holwerda in Workmen's Compensation court here Friday.

An employee of Tuller Construction company, Red Bank, Mr. Zimmerman was operating a company jeep on the Colt's Neck-Scobeyville rd. last Dec. 17, when his vehicle was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by Vera Jones, Englishtown, and owned by Martha Hamilton of Englishtown.

As a result of injuries, Mr. Zimmerman was treated at Riverview hospital and was unable to work for two weeks. He was under the care of Dr. Boyd of Red Bank. The court also awarded all hospital and medical bills paid.

Samuel Carotenuto of the firm of Applegate, Foster, Reussell & Cornwell, represented Mr. Zimmerman. Fred R. Daniels of Newark represented Tuller.

Property owners here who say they are ready for battle, if necessary, will appear before the mayor and council Nov. 7 with a demand that Red Bank start earning some of its own income with parking meters.

The demand is that the parking meter plan—drawn up after a 31-municipality survey last winter, and approved by the Chamber of Commerce—be pulled out of the police committee's pigeon hole and put up for a council vote.

This was the almost unanimous decision made last Thursday night, when about 175 persons gathered for a meeting of the Red Bank Community Property Owners' Foundation at the Molly Pitcher hotel.

Guiding policies of metered parking, they said, should be a parking authority which would be set up by the local governing body, as authorized by state law.

Money from the meters, it was said, might not be enough to result in a cut in the local tax rate, but it was argued it should work against tax increases by paying for some things tax money is used for today—such as maintenance of the borough parking lots, painting of white lines, snow removal and necessary salaries—with enough left over to save for the future installation of another public parking lot east of Broad st.

It also was argued that purchase of the meters would be self-liquidating. Advocates of the plan said that while a bond issue would be required for the equipment and its installation, the nickels and pennies parkers would put in the meters would pay the entire cost of paying off ten-year bonds and yield a profit, starting from the day service began.

Students of Asbury Park high school will take over complete operation of the station Feb. 5, manning all posts and presenting their own programs, including a special film in which 1,200 students will appear, which is now being prepared by the school.

WRTV, the first television station in the north Jersey area, will be on the air with test-pattern operation the first week in December, and will begin commercial programming several weeks thereafter. The studio and transmitter building are at the Drive-In theater here and business offices are in Asbury Park. Physical construction of the station, which represents an investment of nearly half a million dollars, is rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. Burke said the Red Bank Story will be designed to show the background, facilities and advantages of the borough. It will open with aerial photographs, introduce city officials, go over the rich history of the community, show the residential areas, and the shopping district. Films will be made of a shopping night in which thousands of residents will be brought before the cameras.

The Asbury Park high school day has been arranged with the co-operation of John Ballig, principal, and other school officials. In addition to the film, which will bring every student before the camera, the various departments of the school are preparing special programs, and the students will select fellow pupils to take over every one of the staff positions on the station, from Mr. Burke's managing directorship through announcing and sales and programming.

Both programs will be followed on a regularly scheduled basis by salutes to all other communities which are interested in telling their story over television, and by high school days for every member community in the three-county area which express an interest in participating.

Mr. Burke added that arrangements are nearing completion which will enable him in about a week to announce that the borough council of one of the communities in the reception area will hold a regular business meeting which will be covered by WRTV's cameras.

Seek Other Studies
Parking meters may not be the end of demands from the foundation, Mr. Bowers said. His board of governors will undertake a study to find out if the town is properly enforcing its laws to make sure everybody is paying his share of personal taxes; if there should be a full reassessment of the borough for tax equalization; if the state should make a contribution from money taken in at the Monmouth Park race track to defray the cost of added traffic police here during the racing season. He said he is making no claim now that more money should be available from these sources. That, he said, is a thing to be found out after studies are made.

The foundation also is making its business to learn if there is any need here for public housing or if it would not be better to rehabilitate present structures to absorb any need for more housing. Property owners generally expressed themselves as against either public housing or any possible return to rent control, the idea being that free enterprise can better handle local progress than could any form of controlled economy.

Little time, however, was given to discussion aside from the parking meter question.

R. Thomas Bowers was chief spokesman on this question. He told of how he conducted a 31-municipality survey last year that resulted in these findings:

There was unanimous agreement that parking meters eased traffic congestion, established a better climate for growth of local business and gained profits well beyond their cost.

Shoppers turned away from business districts where there were no meters to do their buying in areas where parking is available. The general reaction to parking meters before their installation often has been: "Don't put 'em in. Reaction afterward has been 95 per cent favorable, with the public saying: 'Don't take 'em away.'"

Cites Business Parkers
Mr. Bowers blamed much of the present parking difficulty here upon local businessmen and merchants who, he said, put their cars in the municipal lots and leave them there all day, depriving this space to the shoppers. "I know," he said, "that I am one of the chief offenders."

Suggestion was made that if meters are placed in the public lots, free parking for as many as 300 cars owned by business people could be made available at Marine park, which would mean those drivers still would have only a short walk to work.

Mr. Bowers gave Norwalk, Conn., as an example typical of Red Bank. He said that town is about the same size and also, like this one, is the hub of a shopping community. Metered parking there, he said, has resulted in a net income of $50,000 a year.

Plan 'Quietly Sleeping'
Last Jan. 5, the Red Bank Community Chamber of Commerce put itself on record in favor of parking meters after the survey of 31 municipalities was completed, said Mr. Bowers. The matter was brought up before council which put it in the hands of the police committee last February, he added. "Until now, it appears the matter rests in the hands of the police committee, peacefully, quietly sleeping."

Although many members of the foundation asked a number of questions about the workings of parking meters, opposition was very slight. Louis A. Jacobus, former Democratic council candidate, however, termed such a system "double taxation."

R. Thomas Bowers said this has not been the experience in other towns that have metered parking. He said that in other towns, where metered parking has been used, there have been no local expenses which, otherwise, would have to come from direct taxation. He cited the experience of Plainfield, where authorities claimed meter money paid for parks and playgrounds. He told of Newark earning a net $70,000 from its meters last year, and said the general experience has been for each meter to earn about $70 a year. Montclair and Morristown also did well, he said.

Nickels and Pennies
Philip J. Bowers, in response to questions, said that it would be up to the borough to decide how much money the parker will have to put in the meters. It may be decided to ask five cents an hour or one cent for each five minutes on the street meters and five cents for two hours in the parking lots, he said.

The president said that the foundation's board of governors had met and decided to bring the parking meter proposal before the membership for action. The governors were appointed, representing all sections of the borough, following the foundation's organization meeting in October. Named to the board were:

$50,000 Plan for Parking Meters

Meter Collection System Changed

ASBURY PARK—As a solution to the parking meter collection problem which caused a probe resulting in the firing of three meter collectors, the city has a new method of collecting the coins.

City Manager J. Oliver Armstrong explained that a new mobile metal vault is being used. The wagon-like vault is wheeled from one meter to the next and the coins from the meter are emptied into the vault in the street in view of the public. When the coins from all meters are collected, it will be wheeled to city hall where the money will be counted.

Previously, the money was collected by the three-man team which dumped it into satchels and later turned it into city hall. Commenting on the new system, Mr. Armstrong said, "I can't see how anything can go wrong under these circumstances."

SCHOOL NEWS

RUMSON

At the end of each marking period at Rumson high school, an "honor roll" and a "meritorious list" are announced in an assembly program and posted in the main hall. Compiled by the school's Honor society, under the direction of Mr. Taggart, the honor roll list will include those students who receive no mark below B- in a major subject and no mark less than a C in one minor subject on their report cards for the preceding six weeks.

The meritorious list will consist of those students who received no mark lower than a C- in any subject, major or minor.

The National Honor society feels that by this reminder after each marking period, students will continue striving to maintain a report card without having any marks below average.

At the end of the school year, all students who have maintained at least an 87 average in all major subjects will be initiated into Rumson's national honor society and be registered at the society's national headquarters in Washington, D. C. for that year. ## Bank to Open Drive-In Branch in Asbury Park

ASBURY PARK — The Asbury Park National Bank and Trust company will open a branch consisting of a drive-in service in the railroad station in the North Asbury Park railroad station. Part of the station has been leased from the New York and Long Branch railroad.

The bank is now negotiating for a plot, 100x367 feet, owned by the railroad. If it is bought, it will be the site of a larger bank. Contract for the station alteration has been awarded to S. J. Day Associates.

Estimates of the weight of blood in the human body vary from one-thirteenth to one-twentieth of the weight of the body, and it is believed the proportions vary from time to time.

Reade Seeks Miss WRTV

EATONTOWN — Poise, charm, personality, photogenic qualities, stage presence, and a touch of stardust—these will be the attributes of Miss WRTV.

A three-county search covering Monmouth, Ocean and Middlesex counties is being conducted by Walter Reade Theatres to select a "Miss WRTV" for the circuit's television station, the "Walter Reade Theatre of the Air" on channel 58, which will begin telecasting next week.

Through eliminations starting today, Nov. 24 at the St. James theater in Asbury Park, the Strand in Freehold, the Community in Toms River, the Paramount in Long Branch, the Carlton in Red Bank, and the Majestic in Perth Amboy, WRTV is seeking a talented girl who will be given a 13-week contract on the new station, in addition to a load of other prizes.

The search will not be a beauty contest, the Reade organization said, inasmuch as the winner will announce and "m.c." programs on the air, so that the winner will have that fine combination of brains and beauty.

Eliminations will be held for three successive Tuesdays at each of the six theaters, with two winners each week going on to the semi-finals Dec. 15 at each theater. From the semi-finals one winner from each community will go into the finals at the St. James theater Dec. 22.

There will be prizes for each week's winners, with local television dealers in each community serving as judges in the eliminations, and picking the winners on the basis of audience applause. A panel of television stars will be the judges of the finals on Dec. 22.

Each girl will be asked to give a brief recitation and some form of entertainment—such as singing or dancing—in her appearance on the stage. The judges and the audience will be asked to rate each entrant on her poise, charm, on the way she can project her personality, and that she can hold her own as an entertainer.

Before the semi-finals in each town, the six girls from each town will go to the station's studio at the Drive-In theater here to be introduced over the air. In this way, the public will be able to judge how the girls will actually project and perform before the video cameras. The six finalists for the St. James will also appear before WRTV's cameras during the week prior to the Dec. 22 finale.

Entries are being accepted at all six theaters.

Hollingshead Will Filed for Probate

Former Red Bank Pastor Writes Book, 'The Boys on the Courthouse Steps'

McDONOUGH, GA.—"The Boys on the Courthouse Steps" is the title of a new book written by Rev. John Alexander Hayes, minister of the Presbyterian church here, and a former pastor of the Red Bank Presbyterian church.

The book is "dedicated to that group who down through the years, always with more time than energy at their disposal, drape themselves on the courthouse steps of a thousand towns; the self-appointed arbiters of all phases of life."

Robert H. Gardner, recognized as a local literary light in this Georgia town, wrote the following review:

It is indeed a far cry from the serious accents on "An Old Rusty Bayonet" to the alliteration and tinkle of "The Boys on the Courthouse Steps," but the facile vocabulary of John A. Hayes, local Presbyterian minister, makes the transition with ease and presents with dry, factual humor that timeless and ageless group that decorates the courthouse steps in a thousand towns throughout the East, West, North and South.

Rev. Mr. Hayes has introduced some colorful individuals that he has known in other small towns, but, be that as it may, there are local citizens who will try in vain to match up some of the characterizations presented in the book.

Since this book is a composite picture of the courthouse steps in all small towns, it will lend itself easily as a portrait of any county-seat and should be in demand as a gift for irate wives who know that the man of the house is prone to fritter away too much time with the "boys."

Through the vividly descriptive pages pass and pause briefly the local clergy, the town wit, the village half-wit, the bachelor, the constable, the justice of the peace, the town drunkard and many others. The lines that sound the only serious note, with perhaps the best writing, are devoted to the octogenarian who finds life taking from him the things that it gave him.

The whole work is devoted to the lighter side of life, but the author does not lose sight of the fact when he advises the open-mouthed youth who stands in awe of the "boys."

The concluding lines of this book of very free verse explode in a couplet which has a slight Rabelaisian tinge.

Bearing the imprint of the Press of the Deep South and limited to 1,000 copies in the first edition, the book is printed by the Advertiser Printing Company in McDonough, and displays the usual fine typography featured by this publisher, Frank Linch.

Rev. John A. Hayes

Copies of "The Boys on the Courthouse Steps" may be secured at the Adams Sloan Company in McDonough, Ga.

In a letter to Thomas Irving Brown, publisher of the Red Bank Register, Rev. Mr. Hayes wrote: "Anybody who feels that life is valueless until they secure a copy of this book may send a dollar to the Press of the Deep South, McDonough, Ga., and it will be sent forthwith."

Insurance Men Meet at CBI

EATONTOWN—The monthly meeting of the Monmouth County Association of Insurance Agents was held here Thursday at Crystal Brook Inn.

About 40 members attended to hear Donald Perrin, assistant secretary of the National Association of Insurance Agents, also a chartered property casualty underwriter. Mr. Perrin's topic was "Our Association and What It Does For Us."

The county association was also honored to have S. S. Holland, president of New Jersey Association of Insurance Agents; Herbert Brooks, director of the National Association of Insurance Agents; and Charles J. Unger, executive secretary of the New Jersey Association of Insurance Agents.

President of the Monmouth County association, Henry Brewster, reported on the "beach erosion" problem and reported on a meeting he attended earlier in the day at Atlantic City.

Robert McKee, chairman of the educational committee, reported on the insurance course the association is sponsoring at the Garfield-Grant hotel, Long Branch.

The next meeting will be Dec. 16 at the Shadowbrook Inn, and will be a Christmas party.

Funeral Directors To Meet Friday

EATONTOWN—The Funeral Directors association of Monmouth and Ocean counties will hold a special meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock at Crystal Brook Inn here to discuss a suggested amendment to the rules and regulations of the state board of mortuary science.

C. Ensley Clayton of Adelphi, chairman of a special resolution committee, will be in charge. Committee members are H. Laurence Scott of Belford, Robert F. Worden of Red Bank, Marvin S. Campbell of Toms River and William P. Walton, Jr., of Asbury Park.

The association will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday, Dec. 9, at the Old Union house on Wharf ave., Red Bank.

BALLOON PARADE SATURDAY
ASBURY PARK—The famous Jean Gros parade of fairyland floats and giant balloons will be held here Saturday. An annual event, sponsored by the Asbury Park Chamber of Commerce, the parade will be composed of all sorts of unusual figures that have been fashioned from rubber balloons. The parade has as its theme, "The Night Before Christmas." The procession will start at noon. An added feature this year will be the personal appearance of Bobby Benson, "cowboy kid" of the radio and television, who will ride his horse Amigo.

Nov. 7, Other Storms Aggravated By Recent Years' Temperature Rise

ATLANTIC CITY—The devastating flood of Nov. 6 and 7, which so heavily brought loss of life and property to the Atlantic seaboard, "were undoubtedly aggravated by the rise in temperatures of the past few years," declared Dr. Thurlow C. Nelson, chairman of the New Jersey Water Policy and Supply Council, in an address Friday before the 38th annual New Jersey Utilities association meeting at Absecon.

"Moreover, we can expect increasing storm damage along our coast, and we must prepare for it," Dr. Nelson, Rutgers zoologist and state biologist for shell fisheries, advised the public utility group. He spoke on the subject, "Urgent Water Supply Problems of New Jersey."

Dr. Nelson said higher temperatures have increased evaporation from streams, reservoirs and vegetation and have markedly melted glaciers and ice caps all over the world and, in the past few years, have resulted in the ocean level rising off the New Jersey coast by approximately three-quarters of a foot. "This added water in our oceans may return again, with force, as lethal salt water to deaden much of our state's underground fresh water supply."

As serious as this threat and condition brought by exceptionally hot weather to our area, it is merely one factor responsible for the New Jersey water supply approaching a critical level. In outlining the causes, Dr. Nelson also presented a detailed plan for the cure. "The state section of the American Water Works association, in its Oct. 23 report, forcefully recommended legislation this winter to make possible acquiring at least one reservoir site in Northern New Jersey and another in Southern New Jersey."

"The only available site in the southern area encloses the Batsto and Wading rivers in the Mullica watershed. This is now being threatened by Air Force plans to build a bomber base in the Wharton tract."

"Great Potential Supply" "Here in the wilds of Central Southern New Jersey lies the greatest potential water supply of the state, enough to meet the needs of this area for at least another century. One of the most important steps to be taken in the immediate future is the acquisition of the Wharton tract, setting it aside for recreation until needed for water supply," the water planner-scientist said.

"The Round Valley site in Northern New Jersey, recommended in the 1945 report of the State Water Policy commission, is threatened by possible quarry operations on Cusheunk mountain. We have no time to lose. We are building up very rapidly and few possible reservoir sites are left."

Dr. Nelson listed as causes of the acute water situation industrial and residential growth, pollution of potential supply, and the destruction of natural storage areas, such as swamps and woodlands, and covering the land with houses, sidewalks and highways that keep rain from penetrating into the earth. "Washing machines, automatic dishwashers, garbage disposal units and home air-conditioning all place new burdens on water supply."

The depletion of ground water supplies, even though the state has set up safeguards, has resulted in some of the state's being faced with conditions that may in one sweep deprive the area of its total water supply.

"A real factor in the success of the Atlantic City area is undoubtedly by the high quality potable water drawn from the 800-foot wells which lie beneath the city. When first drilled these wells were artesian, flowing to a height of 14 feet above mean sea level. Now the static water level is some 72 feet below sea level, but as yet the sea has not broken through to salt up the priceless water-bearing horizon. Each year the record in our recording wells shows levels from one to three feet lower than the year before.

"The major hazard of salt intrusion now facing our state is in the lower Delaware river area. Here lies one of the great water-bearing strata of the entire world, the Raritan formation, which outcropping in the northeastern portion of New Jersey, strikes to the west and south, passing beneath the Delaware river at a depth of approximately 140 feet.

22,000,000 Gallons Daily "From this rich aquifer the city of Camden alone has been drawing in excess of 22 million gallons daily while numerous industries in Camden county southward have private wells in the same stratum—with individual diversions upward of six million gallons daily authorized. Preliminary studies indicated that when pumped at the maximum permitted, this diversion might cause depression of well levels in the Philadelphia Navy yard of from 10 to 15 feet, which indicates the porous nature of the Raritan stratum in this area and its interstate location," he said.

The Army Corps of Engineers plan to dredge the channel of the Delaware river by removing an additional 15 feet or more of river bottom, and base its decision on tests of an engineer's model as justification. Dr. Nelson said that the State Water Policy and Supply Council has taken a firm stand against this proposal because of the threat of salt water intrusion.

"We must fairly face the fact that the lower Delaware valley is now expanding industrially at a greatly accelerated pace. The water needs of the next 25 years will be far in excess of those of the past quarter of a century. Dare we gamble on the future of this great area in the face of known facts and with only the tests on the engineer's model as a guide?"

Speaking directly to the public utility audience, Dr. Nelson said: "You who have done so much to furnish our great state with the utilities, which are its life blood, are in a strategic position to demand the necessary action to secure for the future adequate supplies of the one utility—water—without which all others must ultimately be of no avail."

New October High In Egg Production

TRENTON—New Jersey egg production broke all previous October records last month, according to the federal-state crop reporting service.

There were 245 million eggs produced in October, six per cent above the previous month and 11 per cent more than in Oct., 1952.

Also setting a new record for October, farm flocks in the United States laid 4,614 million eggs last month. This is six per cent more than in Oct., 1952, and 35 per cent above the ten-year average for 1942-51.

Consumers will find that egg prices are declining somewhat because of the increase in production, said Gerald E. Zich, assistant director of markets, State Department of Agriculture. The recent mild weather has been an important factor in this early production by New Jersey flocks, he continued, and production of eggs is expected to continue to rise during the coming months.

A second factor, according to Zich, is the increasingly general practice of starting chicks for market egg flocks earlier than in former years. Spring hatching is being replaced by hatching in winter and even late autumn months, and these chicks come into egg production much earlier than did those of several years ago.

Thanksgiving

In two more days, citizens of this nation will observe Thanksgiving day, a holiday unique to the United States. It would be a wonderful thing if each of us could recapture the fervor and sincerity of the first Thanksgiving in 1621.

This great nation faces trying times, of that there is no doubt. So, too, however, did the Pilgrim Fathers. Their faith in God and in the country they were helping to build resulted in the creation of the greatest nation the world has ever known. Our faith in God and nation will be the foundation for an even greater tomorrow.

Materially, there is much for which we can offer thanks. A year ago, our troops were facing a barbaric enemy in bloody combat. Today, uncertain as the world may be, we at least have many of those men back within our borders. A grateful citizenry should remember that by paying homage to Him Thursday because He saw fit to answer our fervent prayers for an end to hostilities.

Too many of us worry about tomorrow's uncertainty. We should realize that today is good, much better than yesterday. Thanks to God and our way of life, Americans possess and enjoy much more than those of any other land. "In God We Trust" is the banner under which our people confidently relegate the future. This we must do willingly, just as did our founders.

Thursday provides a day of peace in our collective family life. It is a proper occasion for a pause because there are busy days ahead before we celebrate the birth of Christ and make ready for year-end revelry. To appreciate the full significance of Thanksgiving, may we suggest that you comply with the appeals of clergymen in the community to attend services in the church or synagogue of your choice. We are a grateful people. Let's show it. We at The Register hope you do, for it will bring you happiness and courage, which are our hearty wishes for you on this wonderful national holiday.

Schools, On the Savings Plan

Officials who have been worried about what they are going to do if the Garden State parkway promotes a "gold rush" building boom in this county, bringing a sudden need for more schools, might listen to some advice by Donald J. O'Connor, Washington columnist. He says we should let the builders who build the homes also build the schools.

Let's do away with the "conventional huge roof mass" covering most multi-story schools, says Mr. O'Connor. Let's instead build the classrooms in a row, on the single-story level, and do so out of conventional home building materials, is his advice. The result would be a classroom costing $10,000 instead of $40,000, and a school any good builder could put up, he said.

"You don't have to build a monument to the ages to teach children," said Mr. O'Connor. "The place to spend your money is on teachers." We'll bet many will agree with him.

Help 'Save a Life a Day'

Attorney General Theodore D. Parsons' traffic-safety campaign to "Save a Life a Day" on the highways, roads and streets of New Jersey has inspiring merit. The clergy has taken up the theme as a sermon topic. So have the newspapers. And many, many people are talking about it.

One cannot rightfully say there are any fewer highway deaths merely as the result of any slogan or campaign. Better driving is the real life saver; that plus, of course, better traffic control and higher respect of driver for driver and driver for police.

But when the drum beat of a slogan like "Save a Life a Day" is backed up by figures showing nearly that many lives are now being saved, the impact upon the public is impressive. Here are some figures: From Sept. 1 to Nov. 8, 1952, 173 persons were killed in Jersey accidents. From the opening date of Mr. Parsons' campaign (this past Sept. 1 to Nov. 8, 1953), 114 died. That was a saving of 59 lives—only ten short of the goal. The full goal is to save 122 lives from Sept. 1 to the end of the year, and it may be reached.

The essence of what it takes to be a good driver was contained in this message by Rev. Albert D. Curry, pastor of the Matawan

Methodist church and president of the Council of Churches:

"Safe driving is simply a matter of observing rules, being alert to the errors of others and remembering that, in traffic, as in other ways of life, each driver is his 'brother's keeper'."

There's been a lot of good driving in this state this year. State Police Superintendent Col. Russell A. Snook reports that with many more cars on the roads, the death rate for the 1952-53 fiscal year was 228, down by 45 over that for 1951-52. There's been much bad driving, too. Col. Snook said he is gratified, but "not entirely satisfied" by the sum result.

More state patrolmen have been added to the staff; more tickets are being handed out. Reports show many died trying to out-pace the police; but they also show thousands of drivers who took their tickets with grace, and understanding. The feeling is getting around that it's better to keep an appointment with a judge, alive, than with a mortician, dead.

If we make "good driving" everybody's business, lives could be saved and motoring made a happier thing. Let's try it.

'A Job Well Done'

America salutes one of its highly respected religious and charitable organizations on National Salvation Army week, Nov. 29 through Dec. 6.

Seventy-four years ago this great force for spiritual and social good had its beginnings in America when Lieut. Eliza Shirley came from London's East End slums and conducted the first Salvation Army meeting in Philadelphia. Its vigorous preaching of the gospel was readily accepted by men and women who sought a proper understanding of their relationship to God. Soon New York, Boston, Baltimore, St. Louis and San Francisco felt the spiritual, moral and physical reformation as corps were established in those cities.

In 1886 President Grover Cleveland gave the Salvation Army his official and personal endorsement—and every president since has done the same.

As a permanent power in the religious and social life of our country the Salvation Army accomplishes its missions in many ways: Dissemination of Christian truth by street and indoor meetings; visitation among the poor, needy and sick; establishment of social service centers; maternity homes and hospitals; workingmen's hotels; nurseries; employment bureaus; Red Shield youth clubs, and in many other ways.

From Florida to Washington, from Maine to California, in the far reaches of 87 countries and colonies of the world, march the soldiers and officers of the Salvation Army.

The observance of National Salvation Army week in this country is America's way of saying, "a job well done!"

Juvenile Court

Judge Harry W. Lindeman, chairman of the state bar association's new juvenile delinquency committee, says all New Jersey counties should have a standard procedure for handling court cases involving young people. He adds that "personalized attention" may offer "a more constructive answer." He recommends special juvenile courts with judges such as operate in only five counties, Essex, Hudson, Union, Passaic and Bergen.

In Monmouth county the juvenile court operates under a referee—John L. Montgomery—not a judge. Mr. Montgomery authored a system of juvenile conference committees which generally is conceded to have done much to hold down delinquency. Local committees, comprised of trusted citizens, work to keep youngsters out of jail and to help rebuild the lives of those who have been jailed. By and large, a fine job has been done.

A standard pattern for handling young people who circumstance led astray sounds like a practical step toward solving a serious and continuing problem. The judge appeals for advice from lawyers, educators, clergymen, social workers and others. We hope his request is answered. A solution is imperative.

Jobs Speak For Themselves

State statistics show 6,300 more persons had non-farm jobs this past September than did during the same month of 1952, with the biggest gains made in the durable goods, primary metals, electrical machinery and transportation equipment industries. The state listed a job total of 1,838,000, with 843,000 of these in manufacturing. It said workers received an average raise in pay of 1.6 per cent per week while working time was cut 1.3 of an hour each week.

Surely this record speaks for itself. Opportunity is growing for the sons and daughters of this state to work, as they live, here, and do so more abundantly. From this report, there appears little reason for some words of fear some careless persons have been saying, that "hard times" are near at hand. They aren't. We're busy and our prosperity at home and in this nation is growing.

THE AMENDMENT SPEAKS PLAINLY

Congressmen disturbed by the way so many suspected Reds are dodging questions about their affiliations by pleading the protection of the Fifth Amendment are discussing legislation which would permit immunity to be granted such people, which would permit them to be forced to answer the questions.

This is one way, but perhaps not a very satisfactory way, of approaching the problem.

We think it is best to go back to the Constitution itself. The Fifth Amendment says:

"No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb, nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

It should be noted here that the Fifth Amendment specifically bans compelling a person to be a witness against himself "in any criminal case." These are the words of the Constitution. They are plain words. Had the Founding Fathers not intended to place a limit on this prohibition, they had no need of the words "in any criminal case."

Now these people who come before the investigating committees are not involved in a criminal case. They are not involved in a case at all. On the plain words of the Fifth Amendment itself, they are not entitled to its protection. They might later, if answers they gave to the committee were used against them in criminal prosecution, be then able to plead the amendment successfully and have that evidence made unavailable against them.

The current difficulty is that the courts have not seen fit to interpret the Fifth Amendment narrowly. They have held that the Amendment goes beyond its words and is not limited to criminal prosecutions but is available to people before investigating committees.

We would like to see a new case brought all the way up to the Supreme Court to determine whether current interpretations are correct or whether the law should be what the plain words of the Fifth Amendment say that it is.

WISCONSIN ELECTION

Certainly the Republicans cannot afford to laugh off the defeat of their candidate in the 9th Congressional District of Wisconsin last month, if only because the Democrats won't let them. Having prided themselves out of the agricultural export market, largely because of subsidies and price fixing, we are suffering from the hang-over from former follies. The farmers are mad and, as is traditional in this country, they took it out on the "ins." However, a certain amount of sober second thought has already set in and appears to have checked the original disposition by some of the more jittery to delight the Democrats by plumping for the Brannan plan.

What happened in Wisconsin is that a congressional district which has long been represented by LaFollette "progressives," including the late Representative Hull, the nominal Republican, who had been being filled, has elected another LaFollette progressive, this time one labeled "Democrat." It is true that the loser, Arthur J. Padrucci, did run on a "Support Eisenhower" platform. However, the fact that the late Representative Hull was at least a semi-isolationist who had supported Eisenhower on almost no major issue suggests that public opinion in the district has undergone no revolutionary change. The Democratic winner, Lester Johnson, told the voters that he planned to carry out the policies of his Republican predecessor, presumably including opposition to foreign aid and demands for greater subsidies for agriculture.

In short, it would appear that in this Wisconsin district the Dutch have taken Holland. Even on the farm issue, the Republican leadership should be able to convince voters that nothing has happened to parity or farm subsidies under Republican rule except that the Secretary of Agriculture doesn't like them. The situation calls for more definite attention to an agricultural program which the President promptly stated would be forthcoming. But the Wisconsin reverse doesn't mean that Republicans can candidates should turn around in their tracks and begin outperforming the Fair Deal in political promises. For one thing, this would be dishonest, and, for another, it wouldn't get many votes.—Saturday Evening Post.

LAGGING UNEMPLOYMENT CHECKS

Things apparently are bogging down badly in the State Division of Employment Security, the department that handles unemployment checks, among other things. Reports say that the Trenton office is seven weeks behind on its correspondence. There is said to be a backlog of 50,000 unemployment checks.

Division officials blame the situation on the layoff of 500 employees since summer when a sharply curtailed federal budget resulted in reduction in the division's appropriation. Officials insist, however, that there is no slowdown by employees remaining on the job in the hope of getting increased help.

There is little hope on the scene at the present time that the state's allotment of federal funds will be increased in the near future. All signs point in the other direction. Faced with a situation like that there is nothing the department can do but bear up under the strain and summon all its ingenuity to insure that the people who will be patient and appreciative of any efforts to save it money.—The Jersey Journal.

'MISCHIEF HOUSES' MIGHT CUT VANDALISM

A schoolmaster of Hatfield, England, recently offered a bold suggestion for channeling the hell-raising instincts of a group of local child vandals. The kids were having a merry time tearing apart houses when their elders were in the process of building. The gentle educator, one of a committee that was set up to cope with the problem, advised the Town Council to build a special structure called "Mischief House." The hypothesis was that after the little lads had worked off their surplus energy wrecking the joint, they would be "rid of their lust for destruction."

We find many admirable implications in this thesis. It takes cognizance of the too-often-overlooked fact that there is a certain amount of destructive instinct in most people, adults as well as children. This craving possibly accounts for the feeling of glib satisfaction sidewalk superintendents get from watching a building being demolished. Since most people don't dare go out and give full rein to their secret cravings, it's almost as good for their souls to watch other people do it.

Elaborating on the Englishman's idea, we suggest that adults be allowed to use Mischief House too. If a man comes home from work sore at his boss, what better way for him to vent his spleen than to take a few dozen whacks at the walls with a sledge hammer? It's easy to see how a Mischief House could become the social center of town.

THE 'BEST SELLER'

The revised Protestant edition of the Bible was the subject of much criticism when it was issued in 1952 after 15 years of study by representatives of 40 denominations.

Some fundamentalists, assailed the revision as sacrilegious and burned it publicly. Others based their objections on a preference for the language of the King James version. But now, after a year of publication the "new" Bible has a total sale of 2 1/2 million copies, according to the National Council of Churches—more than that of any other book in a like time.

This phenomenal success clearly indicates a widespread interest in Bible study. When it comes to reading the Bible, the public response is many among the purchasers who infinitely prefer the grandeur and the poetic beauty of the King James version to the phrasing of the new work. In their search for religious understanding, however, they have availed themselves of a work in which archaic language has been translated into clearer, modern terms, and in which, so it is asserted, many errors of scholarship have been rectified.

But whatever one's beliefs or preferences, the public response to this revision of the Bible should reassure all of the continuing vitality of religion in this country. Perhaps, too, it will serve to abate somewhat the fears of those who are inclined to believe, despite the tremendous sales of religious works, that the American public is interested only in tales of crime and violence.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

PARKING METERS

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mayor Katharine Elkus White:

851 Ocean Ave.,
 Long Branch, N. J.
 Nov. 20, 1953.

Dear Mayor White:

As you well know on different occasions I have written to you and complimented you upon your very fine handling of the Red Bank parking situation, which I have always felt was a model on our Eastern seaboard. It now appears that the pressure is again going to be put on to force your hand on the meter question.

It is true that I do not live in Red Bank and really should not concern myself with its problems; but since I do shop there and consult some of your very fine doctors, I feel that I should have my say. On occasion I come to your fine town.

I do not know where the meter advocates get their figures, but I can give a few of ours here in Long Branch which have been made much to my sorrow. We have some 1,500 meters that cost over $100,000, and all that we have received this year from them is between $30,000 and $35,000. In other words, we are losing $65,000 to $70,000. I think like that nebulous figure of $50,000 quoted by the meter enthusiasts in Red Bank. Unfortunately this is but a fraction of the real story. Long Branch has had three men in the meter business at salaries over $10,000 per year, but this is wholly inadequate since enforcement is lacking, especially in the summer time.

The meter business is a truck and motorcycle, together totaling over $2,500 for the meter department. The interest on the $100,000 initial investment is over $3,000 per year. The total loss thus far is $16,000, or thereabouts, for expenses. The need for at least two other men to enforce the meters is essential and this would bring the cost up to well over $20,000.

The net result would be a take of about $14,000 per year. For this sum a great deal of inconvenience, hard feeling and bad publicity is made. To my mind this paltry sum of money is not worth the loss of the people's respect when we stop to consider all of the scandal that now surrounds the collections of meter monies. The people of this country already are being taxed the breaking point, without more levies on their backs, especially when there is no sure way of knowing if all the monies really find their way into the public coffers.

That you put your honor will not weaken and permit meters to be put in your fair community. You are doing very well and growing daily, and one of the reasons is that people are sick and tired of being plagued with the meter in Asbury Park, Long Branch and other places. A great deal of your business comes from these individuals. I do hope that you and your board will keep up the good work of providing more and better parking areas to keep pace with your ever-growing community.

Edgar Dinkelspiel.

Health Hints

(This column is contributed as a public service by the Medical Society of New Jersey and the Monmouth County Medical Society. Questions should be addressed to the Medical Society of New Jersey at 315 West State st., Trenton 5, N. J.)

Coming to a Boil

A boil is a familiar form of infection in which most people fall prey some time in their lives. The commonest germs involved are staphylococci, and the most frequent site of their penetration is the back of the neck or any other part of the body where friction encourages abrasion and irritation of the skin, usually at a hair follicle. Prevention through painstaking cleanliness is best. It has been glibly remarked that "a washed neck never boils." Persons exposed to dust, dirt, oils, and chemicals should be especially on guard.

When a boil occurs, the affected area should be kept as immobile as possible. The abscess should be treated with medical attention and treatment, because boils may be the first sign of diabetes and infections in diabetic persons are serious. A boil on the face, above the lips needs particular watching because that area drains into the cranium, and therefore infection may be carried into the brain. Medical experts caution against squeezing boils because of the danger of pressing germs into neighboring tissues or of releasing them on skin surfaces to cause a crop of new eruptions. If a boil ruptures, a careful, gentle cleansing of the surrounding surface is needed.

The Housewife's Plight is Dermatitis

The life of a housewife is at best a romantic idyll, on the average a labor of love and sacrifice, and at worst a monotonous serfdom—but scientists tell us that at all times it is a prolonged flirtation with occupational dermatitis. In other words, the job of a housewife is a dangerous occupation because of the exposure to skin diseases, of the hands especially, which it involves.

Causes of inflammatory skin conditions: authorities have recently warned, are very numerous. "The skin," they state, "is the dividing line between the person and his environment. It combines the features of a barrier, and adaptive mechanism, and a sensory organ." The skin of the hands is exposed to diseases provoked by heat, cold, light, moisture, irritant chemicals, sensitizing chemicals and disease-producing organisms to a high degree. It is subject also to all the diseases of internal origin that affect the skin of other parts of the body, and the hands, being organs of touch, are especially subject to disturbances of a psychosomatic nature. Therefore, not only to have the skin you love to touch, but in order to have a skin that is free of infections and inflammations of many kinds, the housewife must be careful not only of her general health, but of her contact with all substances and materials that might induce skin diseases.

EVENTS OF YEARS AGO FROM REGISTER FILES

50 Years Ago

The pupils of the 10th and 11th grades of the Red Bank high school had a masquerade party, which was the annual event when the senior class entertained the juniors. More than 60 pupils attended in costume. One costume which was particularly well designed and carried out was that of a baker, impersonated by Lester Eisner. He wore a baker's square hat and was dressed in spotless white with a long apron and carried a basket of cakes and doughnuts on his arm. He offered the cakes and doughnuts to all he met and those who partook of his generosity found that the cakes and doughnuts were April-fool affairs, stuffed with cotton.

A triple celebration took place in Easton town at a family reunion, which celebrated the 50th birthday of Mr. and Mrs. Longstreet Harvey, he being 67 years old and his wife, 62, and the 63rd anniversary of their marriage.

John W. Stout died at his home on East Front st. He was born in Farmingdale and was in his 77th year. At one time he owned many canning factories and was considered the largest canner of tomatoes in the country. His residence on East Front st. was one of the first to be built on that street.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Bray, widow of Daniel Bray, a Holmdel resident, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Sutphin of that village, in her 74th year.

A delegation from Red Bank visited the Long Branch hospital to attend an X-ray exhibition given by Dr. Edwin Field. In the party were Mrs. Charles B. Parsons, Mrs. Frank L. Blaisdell, Mrs. Arthur A. Patterson, Mrs. Thomas E. Griggs, Mrs. Richard Borden, Mrs. James R. Smock, Mrs. Herman Koch, Mrs. Joseph Applegate and Mrs. John Garrison.

A brass band was organized at Sea Bright. The members were Stephen McGill, William Armstrong, Frank Covey, William Farry, Eugene Pannack, Albert Slom, Thomas Garland, Nathaniel Jahnke, Charles Hampton, William Fowler, George Armstrong, William Kline, George Condon, Daniel S. Poppinga, and Chester Parker.

Miss Mae Lee entertained a group of friends at a house party at her home on Spring st. The evening was pleasantly spent with music and games. Her guests were Edna Hibbets, Libbie, Clara and Emma Hurley, Gertrude Sniffen, Sadie Boden, Edith Slicks, Florence Moody, Mae Conklin, Kittle Stiles, Florence Bainton, George Wilson, Harry Patterson, Harry Ford, Oliver Brown, Frank Fenton, Myron Beckman, Ernest and George Worthley, Herbert Cullington, Paul Parker, Charles Brannin, Harry Sniffen and Clifford Stiles.

A pretty home wedding took place at Oceanic when Miss Margaret White, of Bril, daughter of John C. Bril, became the wife of Harry J. Allen of Morris Plains. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. W. Knipe, pastor of the local Presbyterian church.

Miss Lillian Hawkins, daughter of Mrs. Mary Hawkins of Irving st., received a severe scalp wound which necessitated 12 stitches to close it when she was hit by a falling limb while driving past Albert Dennis's residence at Easton town in company with Mrs. Nellie McCaffrey, a neighbor. She was rendered unconscious by the blow.

The Keyport cullery factory went into the hands of a receiver, Benjamin B. Ogden was the principal backer and it was reported that he had backed the enterprise in the amount of about $60,000, putting in his own money and that of others which had been entrusted to his care.

Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Schenck of Holmdel celebrated their golden wedding, at which more than 100 persons were present. The Schencks were numerous and principally of gold, but one which Mr. Schenck prized very highly was an easy chair from his class in the old brick church Sunday-school.

Wilson Edwards, who worked for the New York and New Jersey Oil company at Port Monmouth and who slept on the premises, said that when he retired one night, he had $45 in his trouser pocket, and when he went to dress the following morning, the money had disappeared. Mr. Edwards had suspicions as to who took his money, as a lot of foreigners were employed about the factory, and that the culprit was in that group.

Ellison D. Petley, editor of the Keyport Weekly, was appointed postmaster at that place to succeed Benjamin B. Ogden. The appointment was made upon the recommendation of Congressman Benjamin F. Howell.

The Monmouth Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, were entertained at the Matamoros Tavern, family. During the afternoon the guests were taken in carriages to the grave of Philip Freneau, the Revolutionary poet, who was buried near Freneau in Matamoros township. A wreath was placed on the poet's grave by Mrs. Henry S. White of Red Bank, president of the society.

Misses Lidora Walling and Ethel Wilson of Port Monmouth, who were enrolled at the State Normal school, were home for the Thanksgiving vacation.

25 Years Ago

Theron McCampbell posted 2,000 "No Gunning" notices on his farm at Holmdel, and he determined to stop hunting on his premises. In spite of the large number of notices put up, many gunners trespassed on the farm and he came to the conclusion that the only way to stop the hunters was to invoke the law and warrants were sworn out for 11 men, the arrests being made by James Boden of Lincolnton. Each hunter was fined $20 and costs.

About 100 persons attended a testimonial dinner at the Molly Pitcher hotel in the esteem which Fair Haven showed to its mayor-elect, Ferd S. Salmon. Tony Hunting, a member of the borough council, was toastmaster. Mayor Salmon outlined a very progressive program for the borough during his administration.

A group of Red Bank businessmen formed a volleyball club with 14 members on the charter list. They were Edwin R. Conover, John J. Quinn, Theodore D. Parsons, Ira Crouse, Morgan F. Knapp, John L. Montgomery, Theodore Labrecque, Frank C. Cobb, Thomas P. Doremus, Louis W. Slom, Robert S. Johnson, Eugene Magee, George L. Lovett and John B. Allen. Richard T. Smith of the Red Bank Y.M.C.A. was the instructor.

The girls' H-Y group of Red Bank elected Marjorie Worthley president; Theodore Mustoe, vice president; Dorothy Gibbons, secretary and Cecile Dixon, treasurer. Other members were Miriam Durham, Vivian Layton, Grace Patrick, Mildred Scheidt, Ruth Parker and Marian Dietz.

John Parker, who left Red Bank early in August and whose whereabouts were unknown, wrote a letter to The Register stating he was in Oakland, Cal., and described his experiences.

The largest flock of turkeys in this section of the state was owned by Samuel P. Ely of the 11th home farm in Marlboro township, near Bradaville. He expected to have at least 1,000 turkeys ready for market for the holidays.

Daniel S. Ely of Holmdel returned from Canada, where he spent two weeks buying horses for the sales and exchange stable of the William C. Ely estate. He also acted as representative for William H. LaBoiteaux of Rumson in buying polo ponies.

A wireless station was being set up at Seabrookville to cost at least $100,000. It was located on the farm formerly owned by Mrs. William Hance and was being erected for the Universal Wireless Communication company.

The annual memorial services of the Red Bank lodge of Elks for members of the lodge who had died during the year were held at the Hunting theater on East Front st. Members of the lodge who had passed away were Henry Southgate, Thomas J. Stevenson, William O'Brien, John A. Carolan, Augustus Heuser, Frank A. Long, Al Schroeder, Nils H. Anderson, George W. Miller and John J. Schlechtling.

The Red Bank Board of Commerce recommended to the mayor and council immediate action for a public comfort station, better train service, more parking space and the opening of Broad st. to the river as the most important things to be accomplished for a better Red Bank.

Ninety Red Bank men and boys were present at a father and son dinner at Trinity parish house. William A. Sweeney was toastmaster. John H. Mount and David Russell spoke on the relationship of a father and his son. Albert W. Worden, Jr., was awarded a prize for having more sons than any other man at the dinner. Mr. Worden and his three sons were present.

Mrs. Lavinia Minton of Highlands was tendered two parties during the week in celebration of her 88th birthday. One of the parties was a family gathering and the other was by members of the Highlands Methodist church, who paid her a surprise visit.

Richard M. Johnson, who made his home with his daughter, Mrs. A. L. Davidson of Monmouth st., was granted a patent on a submarine safety device. Mr. Johnson was a telegrapher, having learned how to receive and send messages at the same time. He received his telegraphic instruction under Thomas J. Heuser, an employee of the Camden and Amboy railroad.

Richard Kettel Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Brown of E. Laren st., was baptized by Rev. Arthur A. McKay of Rumson. The baptism was performed on the 11th anniversary date of Mr. and Mrs. Brown's wedding.

Charles W. Schneider gave up his position as district manager for the Wagner meat markets and planned to go into business for himself.

Dr. Herman Heller of Monmouth at the vice president of the Ladies' Hebrew Association of Red Bank, was a patient at the Long Branch hospital, being treated for blood poisoning as a result of a severe burn on her hand.

Mrs. P. Otto Weigand of Hazlet was entertaining her niece, Miss Elizabeth Carney of Coconut Grove, Florida, who had recently returned from Kiel, Germany, where she spent a year with relatives.

Mrs. Malcolm Fisher of East Front st. entertained in her private dining room of the Smoke Shop tavern for Miss Helen Denney, daughter of Frank M. Dennis of South st., and Mrs. Fisher's son, Leslie Blanchard McClees. They were to be married in a few days.

Every so often comes a survey on the comparative driving abilities of the male and female motorists. Enlisting in one of these the Hudson Motor company has produced the usual verdict in favor of women operators. On actual count, made by a team of touring observ

Questions and Answers To Vets' Problems

The following questions and answers on veterans' problems have been released by the Veterans Administration:

Q—I plan to start training under the Korean GI Bill. Can you tell me what evidence I'll have to furnish the V.A. to establish dependency of my wife and child, so that I can get a higher rate of allowance?

A—You must submit a certified copy of the public or church record of your marriage, and a certified copy of the public record of birth or the record of baptism of your child. If either you or your wife have been married before, additional documents will be required.

Q—I am a World War II veteran with a $5,000 National Service life insurance policy. Would it be possible for me to obtain $5,000 more of GI insurance?

A—No. The law now prohibits the issuance of new policies to World War II veterans who did not return to active service after the Korean hostilities started.

Q—I was training under the World War II GI Bill at the time I was called back to active military duty. I've just been separated. May I resume my GI studies?

A—Yes. You may resume your training under the World War II GI Bill, so long as you go back into training within a reasonable period after your separation.

Q—I have a 20-year GI home loan and I've recently had to take on some additional financial obligations. Now I'm afraid I won't be able to meet my monthly payments. Is there anything that can be done, so I won't have to default on my loan?

A—Yes. It may be possible for the terms of repayment to be extended over a longer period of time, which would result in lower monthly payment. You should discuss the matter with your lender or your V.A. office.

Q—Through an oversight, I paid my GI insurance premium just before the 31-day grace period came to an end. But I'm afraid the premium won't reach V.A. until after the grace period expires. Will my insurance lapse?

A—The postmark date on the envelope is considered as the date on which the premium was paid. So long as the postmark date is within the grace period, you will be protected.

A—I had to interrupt my World War II GI Bill training to go back into military service. I'm about to be separated from service, and I want to resume my studies. Is there any time limit on going back to school?

A—You will be required to resume your GI Bill training within a "reasonable period" after your discharge. This reasonable period is determined individually, and depends upon a number of factors, such as availability of training, and the like.

Q—I'm a disabled Korean veteran, and I'm planning to take training under Public Law 16. How long would I be allowed to train? Would the length of training depend on the amount of military service I've had?

A—You would be permitted to train for as long as is necessary to restore your ability to earn a living in spite of your handicap; that is, to become rehabilitated. The maximum, generally, is four years. Training time does not depend on your length of military service.

3-State Show Opens Next Week

TRENTON—With the opening of the first farm and garden show to be scheduled on the boardwalk, Atlantic City will be host in Convention hall to the agricultural interests of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland next week.

The New Jersey, Mid-Atlantic farm show opens Friday, Dec. 4, and will continue through Wednesday, Dec. 8.

Exhibits of interest to dairy, poultry, fruit and vegetable farmers, including the latest farm and garden machinery and equipment as well as a wide array of modern homemaking facilities, will occupy the main floor of the hall.

Other features will be educational displays from state agencies and the state agricultural colleges of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, and also farm crops, livestock, dressed poultry of all types, nursery stock, orchids and other garden and farm products. More than 100 commercial concerns are participating in the exposition.

The show is a non-profit enterprise designed to meet the needs of farmers and commercial interests alike, to present the intensive and diversified agriculture of the tri-state area. The value of agricultural output in the three states is estimated at approximately 772 million dollars for 1953.

New Jersey's Governor-elect Robert B. Meyner will address a meeting of farm people at the show. Making one of his first appearances since the election, he will be the featured speaker Masters Night, Tuesday, Dec. 8. He will be introduced by Franklin C. Nixon of Vincentown, master of the New Jersey State Grange.

Featured at the show will be the state 4-H dress revue, 4-H baby beef show and auction, apple packing and egg grading contests by students of vocational agriculture in high schools from Sussex county to Cape May, and gardening and landscaping demonstrations for farm, home and school grounds.

Agricultural associations will hold their annual meetings while the show is in session. In addition to the New Jersey State Grange, these include the New Jersey State Horticultural society, Baby Chick association, Turkey Growers association, Shade Tree commissioners and the Tri-State Packers association.

Drought Has Caused Serious Strain On Dairymen's Hay and Silage Supply

FREEHOLD—Drought conditions in summer and early fall left a serious strain on New Jersey dairymen's normal supply of hay and silage for winter feeding. Short, dry or non-existent pastures have made early feeding of hay and silage necessary, making serious inroads on the winter supply.

As a result, according to Edward T. Oleksie, extension dairy specialist at Rutgers university, many dairymen will be forced to buy roughage for the first time in several years. Top quality hay already is scarce and expensive.

Oleksie recommends buying No. 2 hay as soon as possible if it is available and the price is right. Feed it once a day and sprinkle each feeding with two pounds of molasses to make it tastier. Then feed top quality hay at the other feeding.

Any dairyman who can see a hay shortage ahead, would be wise to plan his feeding schedule so that top quality hay will last through winter by feeding it once a day and supplementing it with second quality molasses-sprinkled hay.

If silage supplies are not adequate, think about buying beet or citrus pulp early when supplies are plentiful and prices are relatively low, County Agent M. A. Clark adds. Plan to feed soaked pulp to supplement silage, he says. About two pounds of wet beet pulp equals one pound of dry silage in total digestive nutrients.

Manure Substitutes

Many farmers are finding that their land is not as productive as it formerly was. They state that the soil is less friable, is lighter in color, bakes more easily during dry spells, the top soil has become thinner and that gullies in the field are more numerous than they were a number of years ago.

With a decrease in the supply of manure during the last two or three decades and the acreage of intertilled crops increasing at the same time, the organic matter in the soil in many fields has been gradually disappearing over on farms where winter cover crops are consistently used.

When the use of manure is not possible, adoption of a rotation where some of the acreage could be taken out of production and rested for a year or two would be the solution on many farms, says Mr. Clark. The term "resting land" means the growing of a sod or green manure crop for one or more years on fields that have been intensively tilled, and now are in such a condition that a profit cannot be made because of low yields.

Sources of manure are still available in certain areas of New Jersey at a reasonable figure. These include horse, cow, pig and poultry manure as well as wool waste, sewage sludge and even sawdust and native peat moss. Experiments in Connecticut have shown that 27

Grand Jury Frees Cop Who Shot Man

FREEHOLD—A rookie Asbury Park patrolman was cleared by the grand jury last Thursday of technical homicide charges resulting from his shooting a man carrying a gun Oct. 21.

The panel ruled there should be no action against Patrolman Peter Montano after hearing evidence for three hours. The policeman had been held on the technical charge pending the grand jury's action.

Patrolman Montano fatally shot Lee Andrews Williams, 21, of 135 Sylvan ave., Asbury Park, who police said had a criminal record. According to an announcement of the shooting by Asbury Park Chief Fred Lemke, Williams fled from cops after menacing them with a gun. He was about to jump over a fence when Patrolman Montano shot him.

South American Hunter to Open Junior College Events Series Dec. 2

LONG BRANCH—The public events series for 1953-54 at Monmouth junior college will be launched Wednesday, Dec. 2, when Sasha Stemel, South American jungle hunter and color films producer, is presented at the college auditorium.

Known as the "tiger man," Mr. Stemel is credited with having killed 261 South American jaguars, 30 of them in spear fights. His presentation on "South American Cowboys and Indians" will include a color film on the cowboys of Mato Grosso, showing the life of the Brazilian "vaquero." The presentation will begin at 8:15 p. m.

For the first time the public is invited without charge to the series. Dean Edward G. Schlaefler announced this week. "We wish our community college to be a place where people can meet in person and share the experiences of distinguished guests of the college," Dean Schlaefler said.

The second speaker in the series will be Nigel Chattey, who will give a talk Jan. 13 on "Journey to Ladakh," supplemented with large-scale maps and color movies taken when he was official photographer and recorder for the first frontier survey patrol sent out by the Pakistan government in 1948.

He will be followed Mar. 10 by G. Edmund Wallace, lecturer on memory, extrasensory perception, hypnotism and handwriting analysis.

The final speaker in the series, to appear Apr. 21, will be Russell Curry, director of the Curry school of dancing, Boston, Mass. His program, "It's a Dance," will include hints on social behavior with stress on correct behavior and caricatures of incorrect behavior.

Dr. Robert E. Pike, head of the department of languages, is chairman of the public events series.

Bankers Hear Talk On Pension Plan

ASBURY PARK—New Jersey bankers were urged last week to press for passage of Congressional bills that would permit self-employed persons and those employed in small businesses to enjoy benefits of a pension plan.

At present there are some 10,000,000 who are covered by corporate plans while over 40,000,000 "have only the basic subsistence of Social Security," Earl S. MacNeill, vice president of Irving Trust company, New York, told the 25th annual trust and banking conference of the New Jersey Bankers association at the Berkeley-Carter hotel here.

For the past two years, he said, "opponents have blasted the bills as discriminatory, as favoring the rich. But for heaven's sake, what rich?" he asked.

Under terms of the legislation, there would be a ceiling of accumulated funds in any one pension of $150,000, or ten per cent a year of income. For those over 55, there would be an additional allowance of one per cent for each year over 55.

But even the limit, Mr. MacNeill said, would only mean a pension 16 per cent of annual income, whereas corporate plans now in existence average from 35 per cent for workers to 53 per cent for top executives. The bills would also mean pensions for farmers, salesmen, and all professional men.

Turkey Talks Set For Atlantic City

NEW BRUNSWICK—Turkey growers, now in the midst of their busy season, will take a break after Thanksgiving to spend a day in Atlantic City for their annual state convention.

Most topics to be considered at the New Jersey Turkey association's annual meeting Dec. 9 in Convention hall will deal with turkey salesmanship and the business side of turkey farming, according to John C. Taylor, secretary of the association.

John Carncross, farm economist at Rutgers, is expected to answer the question, "Will There Be Profits in '54?" Robert R. Stockbridge, instructor in the poultry department, Long Island Agricultural and Technical institute, will show new methods of processing to please the consumer. Both will speak at the morning session.

In the afternoon Dr. Victor Heiman, director of research for Kasco mills, Waverly, N. Y., will tell how to control feed costs. Finally, Harvey C. Wood, public relations director for Limestone Products corporation, Newton, will speak on "How to Sell More Turkeys."

Chairman of the morning session will be Mrs. Austin Risse of Sparta, and of the afternoon meeting, Richard H. Lee of Hightstown.

The convention is one of the activities scheduled in connection with the Mid-Atlantic farm show.

Oakland St. PTA Has Spaghetti Supper

More than 150 persons attended the spaghetti supper served by Oakland Street Parent-Teacher association last Thursday at the school. Proceeds will be placed in a fund to provide money for educational field trips for the pupils.

Mrs. Joseph Caruso and Mrs. Raphael DeCarlo were chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Jack Loversidge, Mrs. Fred D. Wilkoff, 3d, Mrs. Frank Mazza, Mrs. Joseph Triglia, Mrs. Victor Policastro, Mrs. Louis Tromboli, Mrs. Edgar Werner, Mrs. John Pettilo, Mrs. Max Fokus and Carl Colmorgen.

Sports Car Paces Studebaker Styling

Nash Motors this week unveiled its new 1954 line, the most diversified line in the industry, featuring the all-new 108-inch wheelbase Rambler four-door sedan. The Red Bank dealer is Ed vonKattengell, Inc., 83 Monmouth st. Highlighted by the advanced continental styling of Pinin Farina, foremost European designer of custom-built cars, models available in the 1954 Nash line are: Ambassador and Statesman two and four-door sedans and Country Club hardtop; the new 108-inch wheelbase Rambler four-door custom and super sedans, and the 100-inch wheelbase Rambler custom series, including convertible, station wagon and Country Club hardtop models.

The completely new 1954 Nash Rambler four-door sedan is a compact custom car on a 108-inch wheelbase. This luxurious model offers traditional Rambler economy, performance, comfort, and ease of handling, with greater rear seat and luggage compartment roominess.

Nash engineers have added eight inches to the over-all length of the new custom model, which totals 193 1/2 inches. This increase provides ample rear entrance room and rear legroom, in addition to increasing the cubic capacity of the luggage compartment.

The Rambler four-door is powered by the improved six-cylinder L-head "Super Flying Scot" engine, developing 90 horsepower. As on all Nash cars, Dual-Range Hydra-Matic and automotive overdrive are available as optional equipment, and synchromesh transmission is standard equipment.

Featuring "Airflyte" construction used in all Nash cars, the new Rambler has a unitized body and frame welded together to form a single unit, said by Nash engineers to be safer, stronger and more rigid.

The exclusive newly improved Nash convertible twin beds and "Airliner Reclining" seats are offered as optional equipment for the first time on the new Rambler four-door sedan.

The new 1954 Nash Ambassador and Statesman models feature numerous exterior and interior styling refinements, and many mechanical advancements.

Major mechanical changes in this series are: a new Statesman "Dual Powerflyte" engine, featuring an aluminum cylinder head and dual carburetors as standard equipment; increased horsepower in the Ambassador "Super Jetfire" engine; new power steering and power brakes, offered as optional equipment, and electrically operated window lifts, called "Power-Lift" windows, available at extra cost.

The horsepower of the Ambassador "Super Jetfire" six-cylinder overhead valve engine has been increased to 130. The "L-Mans Dual Jetfire" engine, equipped with an aluminum cylinder head and two carburetors, is offered as optional equipment on all Ambassador models. This six-cylinder engine develops 140 horsepower.

Nash power steering, available as optional equipment on both models, takes about 75 per cent of the effort out of steering, and allows the driver to retain the "feel" of the car at all speeds and under all conditions. Nash power brakes are available on both models when equipped with Hydra-Matic drive at extra cost. They reduce braking effort up to 40 per cent, according to Nash engineers.

The new 1954 custom Rambler 100-inch wheelbase series features three distinctive models, including convertible, station wagon and Country Club hardtop.

The new 1954 Rambler custom convertible offers the safety of a sedan with the advantages of an open convertible. The electrically operated nylon top, available in black or tan, travels along built-in tracks on the top rails.

The 1954 Rambler custom station wagon offers ample space for both passengers and cargo. This model features simulated wood grain on steel side panels. The rear seat can be lowered to increase the cargo platform to more than six feet in length. Other 1954 Rambler station wagon models include the two-tone Greenbrier all-purpose sedan and the Suburban.

The compact 1954 Rambler Country Club custom hardtop features an all-steel top and unique reverse angle rear windows which provide increased all-around visibility. It offers the open air advantages of conventional convertibles. The Country Club has a curved one-piece windshield and a wrap-around rear window.

Proper Lighting Adds Pleasure to TV Viewing

If your neighbor's television screen seems to be brighter than yours, it may not be that the neighbor's set is superior but that you don't have the proper lighting in the room.

Lighting arrangements have much to do with eye comfort in watching television and also with getting a clear picture from the screen, says Mrs. Lorna K. White, home agent. New owners of television sets often make the mistake of thinking that the room should be entirely dark when the television is turned on. Watching a bright screen in an otherwise dark room may be almost as tiring to the eyes as driving against the glare of oncoming headlights on a dark night. Subdued general illumination of the room will avoid both glare and gloom.

To balance the bright light from the screen, low lights may be used—or soft indirect lights placed at the back of the television set, above it or on either side.

The influence of television may be one reason that more lamps, both floor and table models, are coming out with a three-way switch so that they may be turned low when television is on or higher for other purposes. Torchier-type lamps turned to low switch give comfortable light free of glare and shadows, too.

The placing of lamps in the room also is important, says the agent. No light should be located directly in the line of vision toward the screen because it will interfere with a clear picture and also tire the eyes.

No light should be located where it will be reflected on the screen. The reflection causes a bright spot that conceals part of the picture. Also no light should shine directly on the screen.

A mirror held next to the glass on the receiver but facing the room lighting quickly shows up annoying reflections as the mirror is moved up and down and from side to side. If reflections appear, the lamps should be relocated.

Daylight viewing also calls for some adjustment of light from windows. This may require curtains or Venetian blinds that will cover a window from which light shines directly on the screen or into the eyes of the viewer. Television viewing under proper conditions does not cause eye strain.

Given Hints on Mending Worn Household Linens

When household linen is kept in good repair and mending goes wrong for a stitch in time may save dollars every year says Mrs. White. She recommends machine stitching for mending most household articles. It's faster and more sensible than hand work, even though it does not look as delicate. If a sheet wears thin or tears in the middle, cut it in half and remove any very weak sections. Seam the salvage edges together and make narrow side seams. In this way, the weakened portions are used where there is not much wear.

Because the side folds of pillowcases are always ironed in the same place, they frequently tear or split. When this happens, open the hem where it crosses the folds and make new seams deep enough to take in the worn sections. Then restitch the edge. Frayed hems and edges should be cut off and new ones made but most often there is not enough material left for a generous hem. An attractive band of matching or contrasting fabric can be added easily. Cut bands of suitable width and length, making certain to keep a straight grain. Fold in half lengthwise. Turn in the raw edges 1/4 inch and press. This band should be stitched onto the body of the material like bias tape.

Because lumps of asphalt sometimes ooze from the bottom of the Dead Sea and are washed ashore, it is believed there may be rich oil deposits in the area.

THE TEN-WEEK FOOTBALL SEASON moves along the calendar at a hare's pace with the finish line only a short way off when Monmouth and Ocean county high schools will conclude their grid campaign Thanksgiving day. Right on the heels of the football season, basketball will be moving in faster than the hare's pace. Some coaches already have held court meetings.

With the season almost upon us, we understand there are several changes on the coaching front. Locally we'll have new mentors at Rumson high school and Red Bank Catholic high to replace Joe Rosati and Vince Gorman, respectively.

Down Rumson way the Bulldogs are getting a hard-working and spirited coach in the services of Bill McCann, former Freehold high school star athlete, who later matriculated at Panzer college, East Orange.

In digging into the history of Mentor McCann we find that he graduated from the county seat school in 1943. While wearing the Blue and Gold colors of the Colonials, he starred on the gridiron, diamond and basketball court. Before entering Panzer, Bill went with Uncle Sam's Navy, where he saw service in Africa and England and also had plenty of sea duty time.

Of course that is a painful phrase to mention, "sea duty." While at sea, and on a destroyer, Bill joined the well known sea sick clan and it took some time before he was able to stand watch. It took a little time, but Bill finally got used to the rolling and pitching of one of those little battle wagons and he advanced to radioman second class.

Getting his sea legs back on land, Bill then entered Panzer where he received his sheepskin in 1950. While at the East Orange school he played basketball and was tutored by his former high school coach, Les Goodwin, who moved there from Roselle Park high school.

McCann is not new to the county sports family as he played with Freehold teams in the Jersey Shore Baseball league for six years, but his clubs just couldn't cope with the Red Bank Towners and later the Red Bank Glants. Bill played in the popular Big 8 court loop at Freehold and also coached Shermans Pontiac, the club that topped the title three years in a row.

The county seat coach started at Rumson last year and his first taste of coaching duty at the Bulldog school was as an assistant to Mentor Rosati in the 1952 grid and baseball seasons. Being active in three sports, his knowledge was an asset and greatly appreciated by the Rumson athletic boss.

Mr. McCann married the former June Hemphill and although he would have liked to have had a griddle, courtman or a basketball in the family, he settled for a little cheerleader. The McCanns have a one-year-old daughter, Mary Ellen.

At Red Bank Catholic high school Athletic Director Joe Bolger will once again take over the court reins of the Casey's. The spot was made vacant when Vince Gorman, last year's coach, resigned to take a position with the Prudential Insurance company. Joe coached the year before and it was the year before that when the Casey's came up with a championship five. If our memory is correct, it was the 1949-50 season that the Green and Gold won the class B South Jersey Catholic school title. Coaching that year was Hugh Tyndall. Some of the championship courtmen were Bob Hotelling, Jack McNeil, Charlie Naughton, Kevin Loftus, Wally Bauer, Dick Homan and Ralph Marchetti.

At Freehold, it is reported that Al Bennett, junior varsity coach for a number of years, will advance to the head coach's job. He'll replace Charlie Nelson, who guided the Colonials for a number of years.

Sumnerpozi to suo qd of jno paimy ummno qjv sv fnoy sy new coaches. He will go right along and introduce another lad who is in a sports field which finds very few participating from this area. Charles A. "Toby" Downes of Port Monmouth is training to be a jockey. "Toby" is the son of Mrs. Minnie Downes Smith and the late John E. Downes of Monmouth ave. Charlie, who tips the scales at 1536 ounces, which in pounds is 96, is 5'11" tall, and was a student at Middletown township high school. He first started training last summer at Aqueduct race track in New York. When the season concluded there he moved over to Belmont under the supervision of Trainer Edward A. Holtan.

When racing concluded at New York tracks, the 17-year-old apprentice transferred to Columbia, N. C., with Max Hirsch, veteran conditioner, taking him under his wing. Speaking of Hirsch reminds us of a track oddity concerning him.

For disappointments, Hirsch, who trained Bold Venture and Assault, has one incident that comes close to being a record. On Nov. 8, 1938, Hirsch started a five-horse entry in a race at Pimlico which, naturally, was made favorite. Fast Flight, one of the five, finished first. But he was disqualified—and under the rules of racing the numbers of all others in the entry also were taken down, including Just Once, who finished third.

Under the watchful eye of Hirsch, "Toby" will be riding yearlings and certainly he'll be in the best of hands with Trainer Hirsch bringing the lad along slowly. Comes next summer, the Port Monmouth lad hopes to be riding at Monmouth Park and other tracks on the east coast circuit.

Charlie certainly should receive the best of assistance from the veteran reinmen as he is popular in all jockey circles. "Toby" plays the accordion and in off minutes he entertains the riders by playing his instrument and leading them in songfests.

Charlie has two brothers, William and John, and two sisters, Mrs. Charles Thompson and Mrs. Irene Dobrosky, who all have their fingers lightly crossed wishing their younger brother all kinds of success rides in the near future.

SHORT SNORTS FROM SPORTS—Coach Tom Phipps of the Red Bank Buccaneers, last yesterday that rumor is that he is quitting his coaching job. Mentor Tom stated that currently he had no thought about quitting and that he had not heard from school officials regarding it. Coach Phipps found the sledging rough this year with no wins, seven losses and a tie. The last victory posted by the Buccaneers was more than a year ago when downing Neptune, 19-7. Wonder if this is the first year that a Red Bank high school team went through a Shore Conference season without a victory?

Irwin W. Weiss, assistant director of physical education in Princeton schools, has been elected president of the New York chapter of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials. Weiss is well known through this area, having worked numerous Red Bank high school games.

Rev. Clifford Beardsmore, pastor of the Easton town and Tinton Falls Methodist churches, was the official 16 mm movie photographer for the Olympic games in Los Angeles and Berlin. In over 15 years of shooting movie film he has a black and white collection of some 30,000 feet. Banquet chairman take notice: his films should prove interesting to high school athletes. . . . Molly Pitcher will be host county golfers Friday night when Pro Andy Sikora and Roddy Newman of Haddon Hill and Homestead C.C., respectively, will conduct the affair. It's for benefit of the polo fund.

Lions Move Up In Conference Runnerup Slot

Middletown Edges
Manasquan, 14-6
In Class A Contest

LEONARDO — Lacking the spirit and zip displayed in the Freehold game Oct. 14, Manasquan high school fell before a hard-charging Middletown township grid squad, 14-6, here Friday afternoon in a battle for the runner-up position in the class A division of the Shore Conference.

Coach Hal Manson's Big Blue squad, despite the absence of star Bill Hewitson, played hard ball, but it was the shifty running of Jackie Brothers that kept the Manasquan brothers in the thick of the battle.

Brothers was a thorn pricking at the Lions all afternoon and it was his running that was responsible for the lone Manasquan touchdown. Not only did he score the TD, but he kept the Big Blue out of trouble on numerous occasions as he found holes in the Lion forward wall and lugged the oval out of dangerous territory numerous times.

Middletown shoved over two touchdowns, the first coming in the second period on a short plunge by Jim Schultheis. The second one was scored on a brilliant 81-yard run by Sal DeSalvo.

The first score came after DeSalvo returned a punt 17 yards to the Manasquan 28. DeSalvo, Schultheis and big Ernie Vaughan took over at the center of the field. After ducking three 'squad tacklers, DeSalvo cut over to the left side-line and, with blocking assistance from Schultheis and John Trezza, he made the route standing up.

In the fourth period, Manasquan scored. The visitors took over on their own 20 following a Middletown punt. Carrying the ball on four plays, the little back ripped off 57 yards. After lugging the pigskin down to the two, on the next play he hit right tackle to cross the goal line standing up. Richie Morgan, who is the fanciest placement kicker on the shore, missed the placement attempt.

The Orange and Black concluded another successful season with seven wins in eight outings, losing only to Freehold, 13-7. Manasquan's defeat gave the Big Blue five victories against two setbacks.

Last year's undefeated Lions still have hopes of sharing the 1953 Shore Conference class A crown with Freehold. To do this, however, the Lions will have to have an assist from Neptune high school's Elfers, who'll meet Freehold Thanksgiving day. Last year Neptune upset the Colonials in the finale.

ASBURY RACKS UP
Eighth Victory

ASBURY PARK — Woodbridge remains the only stumbling block for an undefeated football season for the Blue Bishops. Asbury Park high school chalked up its eighth victory Saturday in a one-sided, 38-7 contest, over South Side, Newark.

The Asbury Park eleven had the ball game won in the first quarter when racing up 19 points. Asbury then added lone touchdowns in each of the next three periods.

South Side posted its one touchdown on the final play of the game when Quarterback Dave Posner tossed to End Bud Warren.

The Blue Bishops will attempt to keep its record unmarred Thanksgiving day when Woodbridge will travel to the Asbury Park stadium.

The Detroit Lions of the NFL, have 11 ex-Big Ten players on their roster. The schools represented are Ohio State, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan State.

Only one member of Tulane football squad hailed from above the Mason-Dixon line. It is Bill Spolien, tackle, from College Point, N. Y.

In the 1953 National League pennant race the Dodgers took place on June 24 and never relinquished their lead.

Batted Down Aerial

George Anderson, Manasquan end, has his arms ready to cuddle an aerial tossed by a teammate, but a Middletown player bats down the pass deep in Lion territory. Middletown copped the runnerup spot of the Shore Conference by clipping Manasquan, 14-6, Friday afternoon.

Bulldogs Conclude Grid Season Defeating Rugged Sayreville, 18-6

SAYREVILLE — Coach Joe Rosati's Rumson Bulldogs concluded their 1953 grid season in a blaze of glory Saturday afternoon when the Purple and White squad bested a rugged Sayreville high school, 18-6, on the gridiron here.

The Bulldogs finished their season with three victories after getting off to a rapid start by slaughtering Red Bank high school, 27-0, and then, after dropping three in a row, Rumson came back to take two out of its three remaining encounters.

After both clubs played scoreless ball in the first half, Rumson's offensive went to work in the second half, scoring a TD in the third session, and a pair of six pointers in the final quarter.

Bob Aumack sparked the Rumsonians scoring two touchdowns and passing for the third. Following a sluggish first half, Aumack warmed up in the second and scored the first time he carried the oval.

Rumson took possession of the ball on its own 33-yard line and then Tom Brennan and Fred Ciambone, in four plays, moved the pigskin to the Sayreville 31. Aumack then faked a handoff to Brennan, hid the ball on his right leg, and with the aid of some excellent blocking, he scored standing up. George Terry missed the placement attempt.

The Bulldogs scored again shortly after the kickoff. Sayreville took the ball and advanced to Rumson's 11 where Dick Kurceski fumbled cutting through tackle. Terry picked the oval out of the air and returned it to the Sayreville 45. Line bucks brought the ball to the Sayreville 34 from where Aumack tossed to Bud Looser to give Rumson a first down on the 11. After three plunges failed, Aumack again took to the air to fire a touchdown pass to Looser. Terry again missed his placement attempt.

Sayreville closed the gap to 12-6 when taking to the air lanes, with Bob Shorovsky firing and Jack Callahan receiving. It took just two passes for the score with Callahan hauling down the pass in the end zone.

With seconds left on the clock and Rumson on its own 46, Aumack went back to pass but when he was rushed, he cut to his right to go 54 yards for the final TD. Terry, having a bad day with his conversion attempts, had the final one blocked.

Mr. Manasquan

Jackie Brothers, lugging the pigskin, slips out of the reach of a Middletown tackler in the Manasquan-Middletown grid contest Friday afternoon. Middletown won, 14-6, but Brothers was a thorn pricking at the Lions all afternoon as he scored the Big Blue touchdown and ripped off numerous gains against the victors.

KEYPORT — Scoring three touchdowns in the first half, Frenchtown-high school took a 21-12 measure from Keyport's Red Raiders here Saturday afternoon.

The victors racked up their touchdowns on drives of 43, 57 and 88 yards with John Leidy sparking the offensive with two six pointers, and Red Shaffer marking up the third TD.

Shaffer's talented toe also accounted for the three extra points. Hal Shumock was once again Keyport's beaming light as he scored both TD's for the home team. Following a 53-yard drive Shumock went over from the five and then repeated his performance from the same yard stripe to climax a 67-yard drive.

Keyport threatened in the initial quarter and advanced as far as the 12-yard stripe before its offensive bogged down.

Golf Benefit For Polio Fund

A "Golf Show," featuring leading New Jersey Professional Golf association pros, will be held in the main ballroom of the Molly Pitcher hotel Friday at 8 p. m. for the benefit of the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation. Heading the arrangements are Andy Sikora, Beacon Hill Country club pro, and Roddy Newman, Homestead Golf and Country club pro.

Topping the list of those who will show "how to improve your golf game" is J. Bud Goehagan, New Jersey's "ambassador of golf." Others scheduled to give demonstrations include Jack Mitchell, P.G.A. president; Fred Baker, P.G.A. secretary; John Alberti, honorary president; Art Marks, Lakewood Country club pro; John Cafone, Manasquan River Country club pro; George Sullivan, Old Orchard Country club pro; Jack Welsh, Port Monmouth Country club pro; Angelo Petrolia, Spring Meadow, and Joe Dante, West Orange Country club.

Top amateur and lady golfers of New Jersey will also be present. Besides the demonstrations, sound golf films will be shown.

The Sister Kenny Foundation operates the Sister Kenny Institute in Jersey City Medical Center. Patients are treated free in this largest polio hospital in the east. The foundation depends upon public contributions to support its program of treating patients, training therapists and polio research.

Red Bank Catholic Upset by Lakewood

Piners Come from Behind to Defeat
Caseys, 9-6; Saxenmeyer Scores TD

LAKEWOOD — Lakewood high school's grid squad gave Coach George Stirnweis' Red Bank Catholic eleven a surprised jarring Friday afternoon when the Piners turned in a 9-6 decision over the Casey's in a tight grid contest here.

Lakewood scored a safety in the initial quarter to complete the scoring for three quarters and then the most thrilling part of the contest was played in the fourth chapter when both clubs crossed the goal line.

The Casey's enjoyed a 6-2 lead with about five minutes remaining in the ball game, but a determined Piner squad fought back to post the insurance TD that paid off big dividends.

Lakewood started the offensive drive by going into a kick formation, but crossed the Casey's with a desperation, fourth-down pass. Olin White took the pass from center and, instead of kicking he fired a long pass into the arms of End Harold Neal, who went over with the winning TD. The play started with White tossing from his own 38 to Neal, who nabbed the oval on the Casey 40 and slipped down the left sideline for the score. While flipped a short pass to John Marshall for the extra point.

Lakewood took the opening kick-off but failed to insert an early offensive. The Casey's then took the Piner punt and on the first down Ray Dobson ripped the Lakewood line wide open for a 14-yard gain. Penalties bogged down the Green and Gold offensive and the Casey's were forced to kick.

After the oval exchanged hands, with the Green and Gold putting the ball in play on the 20, a 15-yard penalty pushed Red Bank Catholic back to the five. On the next play Dobson took the snap from center behind the goal line and didn't have a chance to get it out of danger. Leo Reizer broke through and nailed Dobson about two yards behind the goal line for the safety.

Late in the third period the Casey's gained possession of the ball when Ronnie Riddle intercepted a Piner pass on the Casey eight-yard line and ran it back to the 21. An off-tackle play by Riddle moved the pigskin to the 30. A Riddle pass to Jim Sigler picked up ten yards for a first down to conclude the third period.

With Riddle still sticking to the air lanes another aerial moved the ball to the Lakewood 27, with Sigler on the receiving end. In two running plays Riddle charged to the 11. After losing ground on a penalty, Riddle tossed a pass to

SPLITS and MISSES

By PAUL A. ALBRECHT

The more we learn about this great game of ten pins the more we wonder just how large it will grow. Present indications tend to show that it will increase indefinitely. In other words, the only limitation is the number of people in the world. When they are all bowling there will be no further increase. There can't be. What is all this leading up to? Why, the new ten-team league that was formed this season up in Fort Monmouth, the St. Agnes Holy Name league. Yes, even with all the bowlers there have been in this county there still were enough bowlers, and all members of the St. Agnes Holy Name society, to form this new loop. Most of these men are new bowlers, new to the ranks of organized bowling, that is. As could be expected, Walter Davis was one of those instrumental in organizing this league. Walt and John Byrnes were the two who collaborated in getting this league rolling, but we must say that all the hard work would have been fruitless if it weren't for the Devino Bros. These boys are the proprietors of the Keyman Recreation and this past season they increased the size of their establishment from ten alleys to 20. Were it not for this fact there would not have been a place for this new loop. John and Walt continued to guide the destinies of this infant loop until last week when the first election was held. From here on in, the problems of this league will be the problems of Bob Waldman and Al Wolfe, who are president and vice president. John Kozak is custodian of the money and Sam Morrissey the one who makes with the figures. A look at the team names would lead one to think that this was a college league, as each team has taken the name of a well known villager. With this in mind we would not be surprised to hear that Villanova, Notre Dame and Santa Clara had each sent a coach to these three teams as they have only won five, six and eight and one-half games in the order mentioned, of the 27 games played to date. As we all know, it isn't the team names that win games, nor is it one player. It takes all five bowlers to win, and seldom will a brand new team emerge as champions the very first season they roll. Add to this fact that this is a brand new loop and we realize that many a team will lose games they will not lose with a little more experience under their belts. So, even though these teams find themselves at the wrong end of the league, they should take heart and fight a little harder. There is still time for them to pull up the line and a never-say-die spirit is half the battle. Niagara is leading the league by 3½ games with La Salle and Georgetown tied for second with 17 and 10. Manhattan is but a half game further back and only a half game better than Seton Hall and Holy Cross. Fordham rounds out the list with 14½ won and 12½ lost. Here is another league for which we predict a long and prosperous history.

This week's question posed an interesting point, even though it is not one of rule interpretation. J. P. wants to know: "Dear Paul: The rule for splits defines just what a split is but rules out this type of setup if the head pin is standing. Just to make the comparison a glaring one, you will have to admit that the 1-7-10 pin would be further apart than the 5-7-10 pin split. Also, the 1-10 is harder to make than the 3-10, yet the former is not a split while the latter is. Why? In other words, why is it not a split if the head pin is one of the standing pins?" You know, John you have raised an interesting point. We have always taken this rule for granted and never given it much thought, until you came up with this question, that is. Even though the head pin is standing it could very well be called a split, except that the rules state it can't. We had our own thoughts opposing calling this setup a split, but before answering your question we talked it over with a few of the old timers in the county. They all verified our line of reasoning: if a bowler is not good enough to hit the head pin with his first ball he does not deserve a split decision. In baseball, if a batter lets a good ball go by without swinging at it he is still charged with a strike. A split implies a bad break, or pin-fall, but if the head pin is still standing it implies a bad ball; so a split is not warranted. To find out why this rule was passed originally we would have to dig into back history, but believe the result would be the reason we have given above. We have been receiving some interesting questions from you bowlers, so keep them coming. We will endeavor to answer each and every one.

The Monmouth County Catholic league is rolling along in fine style this season and at this point it looks like a six-team race. St. Joseph's 2 is currently enjoying a two-game lead over St. Agnes 1 and 3, who each have 20 won and 13 lost. St. Agnes 1 has another half game deficit, while St. Joseph's 1 and St. Catherine's are tied for fifth with 19 and 14. Yes, a close race between these six teams. St. Agnes 2, Catholic War Veterans 2, St. Mary's 2, Catholic War Veterans 1, St. Mary's 1, Holy Family, C.W.V. 3, and St. James 2 round out this 14-team loop. The St. Joseph's 2 team seems to have everything its own way at this writing as it is the proud possessor of high team game after series as well as first place, 275 and 2,627. Stanislaus Kozinski sports both in the individual races with 256 and 610 while John Byrne is the average leader with 131. The four officers represent the four corners of the northern part of the county. President is the same John Byrne, vice president, Eugene Carroll; treasurer, Tom Francey, and secretary, Walter Davis, are from Atlantic Highlands, Red Bank, Matawan and Leonardo. Here is another league that is improving with the years and will develop some of our best bowlers.

The Highlands Monday Night league has tightened up a little, and also spread out some. The top three teams are only a game apart while the next nearest team is 7½ games back. Last week's action saw the one and two teams each win two, but the second place Ellis Heating still dropped to third place due to Mahler's Trimmers trimming the Lions club in three, thus moving them into a first place tie with the Leonardo Field club, both showing 21 wins and 9 losses. Wel-Bilt Doors, Lions club and Kennedy's market round out this six-team loop in that order.

Looking over the Wednesday Night loop from Highlands we find that old boggy man, the dummy, Mahler's Trimmers, Bahr's Landing and Kornek's Plumbing were all tied for third place with Mahler's and Bahr's facing each other, and what happens? Bahr's rolled with a dummy and of course lost all three. They are now roasting in fifth place with Kornek's two games up and Mahler's three. Better Housekeeping is out in front, eight games better than Bahr's and three games over the Lobster Pot. The New Jersey Natural Gas Co. representatives are in the cellar with a 12-game deficit, having won only seven out of 27.

The Bayshore loop operates under the bumper system so the two top teams always face each other. Easttown Radio & Television was riding high wide and handsome until last week. They had a six-game lead on the Casino restaurant and Brown's Packard of Freehold. Casino, having the higher average, tangled with the leaders and took them for two. Things didn't end here, however, as the Packard boys put Johnny's Landing in the garage for all three games, thus moving into second place, four games off the pace. The boys in the cellar, Cedar Inn, won the odd one from Mewes State dairy, but remain six games in the cellar. Perhaps they are starting to roll. Another oddity here is that the Television boys should be so far in front. It is the same lineup as last season yet they started in the cellar and remained there all last season. Now they are in front and from all indications, intend to remain there. Perhaps they installed a new antenna. At any rate, we wish them all the luck in the world.

Here and there in the world of bowling, Tom Curtis has been one of bowling's greatest exponents for at least the past 50 years. For years he ran New Jersey's largest establishment, the Curtis Bowling academy, consisting of 32 lanes. He retired last season, but before doing so he saw to it that this season all 32 alleys would be equipped with the new, all-automatic pin-setters. Tom was always first with any good new idea and always put the bowler's welfare first. Many a top bowler owes his high average to the patience of Tom Curtis, and to his advice.

As always happens in cases such as these, the hero of our story had to make his retirement to be honored. There will be a dinner in Tom's honor at the White Horse Bowling academy Saturday, Dec. 5, just outside of Camden. It is expected that all those who even knew Tom slightly are planning to be there, including most of the officers of our county association. While we are on the subject of dinners, one of the most historical ones in the history of New Jersey bowling is scheduled for some Saturday next September. For the first time in the 51 years of the ABC, a New Jersey man will be the national president. At the convention in Seattle next spring, John McNamara will be elected. How do we know? As in the Monmouth County Bowling association, it has become the custom to elect the first president to the office of president. This means that the New Jersey Bowling association will be throwing a cocktail party the following evening, after the election. This has also become a custom. But this September will be the real party. Last Sunday, a state committee met to complete plans for this dinner and an expected turnout of 700 people is being figured. The dinner will be held at the Essex House in Newark and all those who are interested should contact County Secretary Ed Bahr. We already have.

This season's county tournament will be a little larger problem than in the past. As we have so often stated, there is only one written rule to establishments: to be a second time before all have had it at least once. There are only five places left on the list and they all want it. Keyport Recreation, Freehold Recreation, Asbury Park, Belmar and Vayido. The plan has been to rotate the tournament around the county and this means that it should be up this end or the Keyport-Freehold direction. Vayido, Freehold and Keyport are all eight-alley establishments and the tournament has grown too large to be held in places like this. This means that two of those places must be used, which will they be? This coming Sunday there will be a county meeting and the tournament will be awarded at this time. To make matters a bit more complicated, our first vice president, George Carr, Sr., has resigned, due to the pressure of business. This means that at present we are minus a tournament chairman. Willard "Pop" Annack is next in line for the job, but to move him up will be for the meeting to decide. In any event, the present president, John Callando, could very well take over as acting chairman. We will know Sunday, as Vayido and Keyport are old establishments we would like to see these two awarded the tournament.

At the federation's regular meeting Friday night, Charles A. Campbell of Highland Park, a member of the fish and game council, said trespassing by hunters had become a serious problem. He said farmers and suburban residents have threatened to close off hunting lands if hunters do not stop trespassing on private property. Campbell also warned that there is a $50 fine for invading posted property.

Gordon Herbert of Hackensack, chairman of the federation's anti-pollution committee, told the meeting he had received a letter from Governor-elect Robert B. Meyner backing their cleanup campaign for the state's streams.

68 Deer Violators
Convicted in 2 Months

TRENTON—Deer jacking and illegal killing of deer continued to harass New Jersey's herd according to an announcement by the Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation and Economic Development. A conservative estimate by the division's game management department places the illegal kill during the past year on a par with the legal kill of 5,687 animals.

Despite the lack of an adequate game warden communication system, and the tendency on the part of the public to refrain from testifying against a deer poacher or contribute evidence to the prosecution, the state's warden service has secured the conviction of 68 deer violators during the period between Sept. 1 and Nov. 10. This is just a drop in the bucket as far as deer violations in the state are concerned, a spokesman for the division pointed out. Until many people stop shooting deer poachers and realizing that these people are as criminally liable as any thief in the night stealing public property as they do, the division's law enforcement arm will continue to operate under a severe handicap.

Chief Protector Fred Craig was high in his praise of those law-abiding citizens who notify his office of deer violations which have come to their attention. His great regret is that frequently, due to lack of radio communication, he has been unable to summon the nearest warden in time to apprehend the criminal.

FORT DIX — Fort Monmouth opened its basketball season Thursday night, but the Signalmen's debut was marred as Fort Dix defeated the Signalmen, 77 to 69, at the winners' court.

Closely contested all the way, with the score tied nine different occasions, the Dix team overtook the lead late in the third quarter and bounced back in the final six minutes to withstand a Monmouth threat in the closing minutes. The winners were paced by Marty Donohue, ex-St. Francis college courtier, who scored 21 points.

Monmouth led for the first time in the game with four minutes to go in the opening period at 12-11. However, the quarter ended deadlocked at 19-all as Fred Christ of Fordham tallied a Monmouth basket in the last three seconds.

Ronnie MacGillivray, former all-American at St. John's, registered his only field goal in the first half to tie the score at 23-all early in the second quarter. But, with six minutes to go before the half, MacGillivray committed his third personal foul and was rested. Tied again at 29-all, Coach "Mule" Haas made his first substitution in sending Ray Halstead in for Roy Wagner. The former, who played at Carroll College, Wis., aided Monmouth's attack with four field goals in less than two minutes as the Signalmen left the floor at the half, leading 38 to 34.

Early in the third period it looked like Monmouth was going to win easily as the Signalmen quickly increased their lead to six points, 43-37. However, MacGillivray held to four points in the first half, came through with two goals and two fouls to cut the lead. With one minute to go in the period, Dick Jenkins from LeMoyne tied the score, at 48-all and Donohue put Dix ahead with another field goal. Christ evened matters with a bucket, but after MacGillivray made a free throw, Bill Keats of DePaul, hit with a setshot at the buzzer to give Dix a 53-50 lead going into the final ten minutes.

In the next two minutes, Monmouth cut its deficit to one point, 58-57, with Christ getting two field goals, and 20 seconds later, former CNY star Al Roth put Monmouth ahead with a basket. Roth got another goal to give Monmouth a three-point spread. At this point, Markey clinched with his four goals to pull Dix ahead.

At the four-minute mark, Dix led by seven points and Brennan and Roth both had four personal fouls. With less than three to go, the victors led by ten. The Signalmen chopped four points off on two baskets by Christ, but Donohue came through with a field goal to put Monmouth out of contention.

High scorer for the game was Signalmen Christ with 23 points. Donohue, with 21, and MacGillivray, with 17, led the winners.

HALLANDALE, Fla. — Gulfstream Park will request two Scholarship days during its 1954 spring meeting which, if allowed, will bring the season to a close Wednesday, Apr. 21, according to President James Donn of the sea-side track. This is in line with similar dates of last year when two days were presented, one each for the University of Florida and for the University of Miami.

Although funds realized for the University of Florida accrued to the general fund, the Scholarship day for the University of Miami was earmarked for the medical building fund, and slightly more than $80,000 was raised for this purpose. Dr. Jay F. Pearson, president of the University of Miami, has warmly expressed his appreciation of the day, stating that without such funds the medical building fund activities would have been seriously hampered. In all, a total of more than $280,000 has been raised for the schools since the inception of Scholarship days at Gulfstream Park.

During the past summer Gulfstream Park went to court to protest the allotment of racing dates which included such Scholarship days on the calendar at Tropical Park and Hialeah Park.

"Our fight was not against Scholarship days, but merely their allocation which drove Gulfstream Park's meeting back to a deep April closing," said President Donn. "We believe that such days, particularly set aside for the University of Miami's medical fund, will have a far reaching effect on all of South Florida. Our sole contention was that they belonged in their place, either before or following the regular season. Through such days we hope to increase our contributions to both schools by another $150,000."

"Should Hialeah Park wish to run either one or two similar days at Gulfstream Park we will be happy to add them to the schedule, and turn over such monies as the contribution of Hialeah Park."

Timely Notes On The Great Outdoors

BY STEW VAN VLIET

LANDS RECORD HEAD-FISH

Stew Van Vliet

ever seen—a 30-pound sea monster, belonging to the "Dark Ages."

The above names all apply to one of the fiercest looking fish we know commonly known among local fishermen as a "head-fish." This name is the most descriptive of all the others, because it consists mostly of a tremendous head, which is mounted with a double row, top and bottom, of fine-sharp sharp teeth.

We hit the rip tide off the point of Sandy Hook at 7 a. m. last Wednesday, and by 8 a. m. Capt. Hoyt boated a 28-pound, fighting mad green-head. We trolled the "rip" for the next two hours without another strike, so decided to head into shore and troll down to Monmouth Beach, giving the area along Sea Bright, where it was reported that on the previous day "Babe" Tilton and party had landed 24 school strippers, a good working over.

When we reached the guardhouse gate at Fort Hancock Allan received a heavy strike. At first we thought he was fast on the bottom, but it soon proved to be alive and required a lot of grinding on the crank of the reel to get it near the boat. As it came through the clear water, with its big mouth wide open, it was the meanest and worst looking fish you can imagine. The captain gaffed it with one stroke and laid it on the stern of the boat in order to remove the hook. When it opened its big mouth some one stuck the end of the gaff in it. With one vicious snap the jaws closed, and it required considerable persuasion, by means of a knife, to get it to open. We have caught a number of head-fish in past years but have never seen one to compare with the size of this one.

TWO SEA GULLS IN A BELLY AT A TIME

Several years ago we remember receiving a phone call from Joe Irwin of Red Bank, telling us to come down to the Yacht basin, where some one had caught a head-fish in the area of McClees' creek in the Navesink river, which had two fully grown sea gulls in its belly. They had been swallowed, feathers and all, and were in perfect condition without a tooth mark on them. However, in this case its belly was bigger than its head.

In looking through our reference books on fishes we find the following notes in a treatise entitled, "A History of Fishes" written by J. R. Norman: "A remarkable feature found in the angler-fish is that the first ray of the spinous dorsal fin is placed on the snout and transformed into a line and bait. In the common angler or fishing-frog of our own shores, for example, this ray is quite flexible and bears a membranous flag-like appendage at its tip, its function being to attract the attention of small fish which are lured about in the water in front of the angler's formidable jaws."

"Among the oceanic angler-fish spending their lives in a region of more or less perpetual darkness, the bait generally takes the form of a bulb of varying size, which can be made luminous at will, and acts as a lamp to attract other fish to destruction. In one species the basic part of the dorsal fin has been converted into a stout rod, followed by a slender line, which is provided, not only with the usual luminous bulb, but also with a series of curved, horny hooks—a complete angler, indeed."

"The teeth on the palate are directed backward toward the gullet and can be depressed in order to facilitate the entrance of prey; at the same time, however, as they cannot be pressed in the opposite direction they effectively prevent any chance of escape."

"Many of the deep-sea angler-fish habitually seize and devour fish larger than themselves, and this greediness frequently leads to the death of victim and captor. Specimens have been found floating helplessly on the surface of the sea, each of which had nearly coiled away its stomach a fish more than twice its size. The does not rely entirely on its angling for food, but when hungry approaches ducks and other water birds from below and drags them down."

(Ed note)—As in the case of the two sea gulls found in the belly of a head fish in the Navesink river.

MORE ABOUT 'STRIPES' IN TENNESSEE

Among the letters which we received regarding an article appearing in last week's column, "Stripes of the Footballs of the Smokies," is the following, written by Arthur L. Cone, Jr., of Little Silver:

"Dear Stew: I was interested in your comments about 'stripes' in the TVA reservoirs. The fish in question are not striped bass as we know them, but a related fish water species known in some areas as white bass. Both these white bass and another common called the yellow bass are striped like our local strippers."

"These white bass, which are found in the Mississippi drainage, are shaped more like a white perch than the salt water stripper. They reach about five or six pounds maximum size, and are often found in large schools. The yellow bass are found in much the same area but don't reach more than about three pounds, and are brassy yellow rather than the silver color of strippers and white bass."

"To confuse the matter further . . . really none of these fish are bass at all but are closely related to the white perch, which you catch in the Navesink in the spring and in Maine lakes, and these freshwater strippers which I have seen look very much like a big, white perch with stripes. They are deeper and narrower than our strippers, with a narrow back."

Art ends his letter with the following: "Am hoping you're right about a late November run of bass along the shore. Frankly, from the surf fishing viewpoint, this has been about the most disappointing year I can remember. May be this revived 'no-netting' program will do some good."

FEDERAL STRIPED BASS LAW

Michael Hudoba, conservation director for the Outdoors Writers Association of America, sends us the text of the two striped bass bills which are in House Merchant Marine and Fisheries committee. One, HR-4585 by Rep. James J. Delaney (D-N.Y.) and HR-4787 by Rep. Charles Wolverton (R-N.J.) are the same.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled that it is unlawful for any citizen of the United States to take or attempt to take, with or by the use of a net, seine, or any other contrivance of any kind or description, except a hook and line, any striped bass within the maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

Sec. 2. The Secretary of the Interior is authorized to promulgate rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purpose of this act, and he is authorized to empower such officers and employees of other departments, including the Coast Guard, to make arrests for violations of the act.

"Sec. 3. Any violation of this act will be prosecuted in the district court of the United States of the district wherein the offender is found or into which he is first brought."

"Sec. 4. Every person guilty of a violation of this act shall be liable to fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 or imprisonment for 60 days, or both, such fine and imprisonment."

(Ed note)—For years we have been an advocate of a federal striped bass law similar to the migratory wild fowl act. The striped bass is too valuable as a "poor man's" recreational and sport fish to have the supply endangered by the wholesale destruction by the use of nets, and unless a federal uniform law, such as the one proposed, is not enacted, the slaughter will continue to exist in the various states which do not have a protective law. Take, for instance, the thousands of tons of striped bass which have been shipped into the Fulton fish market during the past month from Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York. From New York alone there were many days when 20,000 to 30,000 pounds were reported.

We like the penalties proposed in Section 4. They are severe enough to make a person hesitate to break the law. Most fish and game penalties are so light that they are a joke.

THE GULL ON THE STEEPLE HAS RETURNED

It could have been the smog, or it could have been too busy to give a thought to gulling at the golden crosses which adorn the steeples of St. Anthony's church on Bridge ave., and St. James church on Broad st., where two old, gray sea gulls have returned to take up their winter vigil.

"For many years throughout the long winter months, by night and by day, in the face of blinding blizzards, when the herring have left our seas and there is nothing in the ocean for an old, gray sea gull to eat and he is no longer able to make the long flight to the Southland, they can be seen perched on top of the gilded crosses."

Each seems to have claimed squatters' rights to their lofty perches and each defends their rights against all new-comers. These gulls have become a landmark to the residents of their respective sections who, during heavy storms of the winter put out feed for them, and they will fly down from their perch and sit on the steps of the near-by houses where they will cackle for their dinner.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

Heavy run of big whiting, cod up to 45 pounds, black and ling are on the program for the snicker-bouncing run. It is one of the heaviest runs of big front-fish we have had in many years. No mackerel have arrived but we feel they will hit in within the next ten days, and that we will be in for some of the best mackerel fishing in a number of years. Our reason: the ocean is alive with sand eels. Winter flounders are a disappointment. The flaties are scarce and very small.

There has been too much smog to fish the tide rip off Sandy Hook to determine if they are still there. We gave it a try last Saturday when the S. S. "Cherry" Galtagher of Red Bank, Harry Banger of Little Silver was at the wheel, but after two hours of groping around in thick fog-anion we managed to make the Coast Guard station, where we tied up for an hour or so. We found several other would-be striped bass boats at the dock and after talking it over decided to head for home. It was mighty tough going and often we found ourselves in water not over two and a half feet deep.

Due to the inactivity of Capt. Ad Howland of Humton we enjoyed a good black-duck dinner. Ad recently returned from a hunting trip to Barnegat bay, where he reports plenty of ducks and brant.

The 1952 Georgia Tech football team did not have a touchdown scored against it the entire season. All scores were tallied on the ground.

Turkey Day Tilts Will End Shore Football Season

Caseys Play Morning Tilt at Home; Buc 11 Travels to L.B.

Seven football encounters Thanksgiving morning and afternoon will end the 1953 shore scholastic gridiron season when the remaining games will conclude with traditional tussles.

Coach Tom Phillips and his Red Bank high school squad will meet one of its oldest rivals, Long Branch, when the Green Wave plays host to the Buccos in a 2 p. m. tilt.

In the past ten years Red Bank teams have been no match for the Branchers, winning only one game and tying two.

This year both clubs are having their troubles finding the win column, although the Branchers have then, advantage with two victories, while the Buccos are still seeking the initial win. In fact, the past decade saw the Buccaners score only three touchdowns against Long Branch eleven.

Red Bank Catholic will play the only local contest when Coach Stirnweis' eleven tackles New Brunswick's St. Peter's squad in a morning contest on the Red Bank high school athletic field. Kickoff time is 10:30.

The Coagys, under Mentor Stirnweis, produced one of their best seasons in years with three wins, three losses and one tie displayed on the '53 schedule.

St. Peter's, an eleven which books heavy North Jersey clubs, dropped five encounters while posting two triumphs. A parochial state title could be in the offing.

The annual Bayshore morning feud between Matawan and Keyport should be a crowd pleaser and a thriller. This traditional battle is always good no matter what the record of the teams might be.

Matawan lost only one game this season and that was to the mighty Freehold eleven. Keyport has three wins, two losses and two ties.

Other holiday contests include Asbury Park meeting Woodbridge at home with the Blue Bishops in their final lap of an undefeated season.

Neptune taken on the undefeated Freehold eleven and if the Scarlet Filers could repeat last year's game, they would pull the major upset of the season. Last season the Filers upset the Colonials, 13-7. Point Pleasant will oppose Manasquan and Toms River will travel to Lakewood to complete the turkey day slate.

PENGUIN WINNER

Winning two of a three-race series Sunday afternoon, Skipper Jack Howie led the Penguin salaried in the fall series conducted by Monmouth Boat club. Howie, sailing Joker, copped the first and third events and gave way to Roger Brown in Beehive in the second race. Dick Davis finished second in the first race, while Bruce Anderson topped that spot in the third race.

News from the Navesink

By Karen Lindsay

After the fog had lifted, our river was a beautiful sight Sunday afternoon. Three Penguin races were sailed from the Monmouth Boat club, with Jack Howie, in Joker, winning the first two, and Roger Brown, in Beehive, winning the third.

Peter Stefferson was out in his Comet, sailing on first the job and then the main sail, while the Hatches and the Engrbers were out in their Lightnings.

The annual Lightning dinner will be held Friday evening at the Casino in Atlantic Highlands at 7 o'clock for members of Lightning 70 and their crews.

Hatchet Brant is in Monmouth Memorial hospital, where he is convalescing from a recent operation. Get well quick, Hatch, 'cause we all miss you around the club.

Margie Eichman has made a quick recovery from her appendectomy and is now up and back at work.

John Stega is nearly finished with the Penguin he has been building. He plans to put on the last coat of paint sometime in March so he can sail it in the spring series.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ungerer have just adopted a seven weeks' old puppy.

Plans for the Turkey Bowl regatta Dec. 6 are progressing finely. About 25 persons are expected. Lunch will be served between the second and third races. Come on all you long-jawed penguins! Let's come down and help make this a whopping success.

The dance and get together, to be held on the night before the regatta, also promises to be a lot of fun. Just one last word before I sign off for this week. In your prayers on this Thanksgiving day, why not remember to give a little thanks for our river that offers us so much joy and beauty all through the year. See you next week with more "News from the Navesink." Until then, have a wonderful Thanksgiving.

Coast Guard Removes Beached Buoy

DEAL—Shrewsbury rocks lighted buoy No. 1—which broke away from its moorings during the Nov. 7 storm—is shown being removed from the beach at Hathaway ave. here by Coast Guardsmen of the Monmouth Beach and Shark River stations.

The project was under the command of Lieut. J. E. Klang group commander at Sandy Hook, who directed shore operations, while Lieut. Hoyt W. Rollinson, commanding officer of the Coast Guard

From Atlantic Highlands To New York for a Dime

Commuters from Staten Island and the North Jersey shore going by boat to New York city will be interested in the following paragraphs submitted to The Register by Paul G. Cavacchia of Jersey City, whose hobby it has been over many years to gather material regarding steamboat transportation on New York harbor and its tributaries. It is possible that Mr. Cavacchia has the most complete record of any researcher relative to the steamboats that have plied on Raritan and Sandy Hook bays and the Shrewsbury and Navesink rivers.

"In 1887 the Staten Island Rapid Transit Ferry company sought to give the natives of the island better service to and from Manhattan. A consulting engineer by the name of A. Mintzer, who was at the time on leave from the U. S. Navy, was commissioned to design a pair of ferryboats which were to be bigger than any other that had ever run on the East coast up to that time."

"As these vessels introduced several innovations which were new in ferryboat practice, a complete technical description will not be out of place. Each was a steel-hull, double-decker of 1,592 gross tons, measuring 224 feet eight inches (236 feet over-all) by 36 feet (61 feet overgards) by 13 feet nine inches. Motivation was by a two-cylinder inclined compound engine, having cylinders 39 1/2 inches, 70 inches by five feet stroke, rated 1,200 horsepower, turning feathering paddle wheels 17 feet in diameter, which features limited the vehicle gangways to a narrow width of 7 feet six inches over the crank covers. These wheels made 40 r.p.m. Two double-end steam boilers (Scotch) supplied steam at 110 pounds working pressure. These were the first Staten Island ferryboats to sport electric lights."

"The Columbia Iron Works and Dry Dock company of Baltimore, Md., got the contract to build them for $225,000 apiece. First to be launched was the Robert Garrett which went into the water Jan. 18, 1888. The second came off the ship-builder's ways, April 26, 1888, and was named Erastus Wiman, after a prominent Staten Islander who was much in the public eye because of his constant advocacy that our country unite with its northern neighbor, Canada. Miss Minnie Hill, sister-in-law of W. T. Malster, then president of the shipyard which built these two boats, christened the Wiman."

"The Staten Island Rapid Transit had anticipated making the five-mile course of New York bay in 17 minutes! However the management no doubt must have been sadly disappointed with their performance, for the 'Seaboard' magazine was constantly poking fun at them by saying that the 'Gorgeous Garrett' and the 'Wonderful Wiman' were now howling successes. Within her first six weeks of operation, After 70 harness racing nights at Roosevelt Raceway in New York the record shows that horses in post one position have won 127 times."

"After a few weeks operation, during which the promoters did make money, the 'Jersey Central' bought off the competition, paying them a five-figure sum to stay out of the field, but allowing them to keep the old ferryboat which was subsequently taken for emergency war-time ferry use at Norfolk, Va. In 1919 she burned down there, thus ending her career."

Hen Bauer Paces Beacon Golfers

LEONARDO—Beacon Hill's sea gull golfers played their third week of a 17-week winter tournament series over the week-end with Hen Bauer, Sr., copping low net honors. Mr. Bauer led the field with a pair of 42s for an 84. His 16 handicap gave him a 68 card. Other net scores were Norm Scott, 75-4-71; Dick Treney, 96-25-71; Bill Johnson, 94-22-72, and Sam Glaimo, 84-12-72.

The Beacon Hill Country club golf team will play a match with Spring Meadow Sunday at the links here. Trophies for the match have been donated by Pro Andy Sikora of Beacon Hill and Angelo Sikora, pro at Spring Meadow. Members of the Beacon team are Joe Stevenson, Willie Cannavo, Don Corwin, Dick Hearn, Fred Merriam, Norm Scott, Larry Scott and Ed Savidge.

It will be an 18-hole match affair with individual and team awards being made.

Vic Janowicz of the Pirates wears No. 31 on his uniform. It is the same number he wore during his collegiate football days at Ohio State.

McCarthy Session Opens to Public

NEW YORK CITY—"Wait until Tuesday!"

With those words, Roy Cohn, chief counsel of the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee Sunday advised the public that dramatic if not sensational disclosures may be made at today's open hearings on alleged espionage at Fort Monmouth.

For the first time since the probe started about two months ago, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is allowing the public and press to sit in on a session of his subcommittee today. Doors at Room 110 hearing chamber of the Foley Sq. courthouse were due to open at 10 a. m.

Telecast Doubtful

According to the Associated Press, last night, it is unlikely that there will be a direct telecast from the courtroom today. At least, it said, no heavy equipment of the type normally used in making such a telecast was put in place yesterday. The A.P. said it was likely filmed scenes will go on the air later in the day or evening.

Mr. Cohn first gave his "wait and see" advice to Joseph Rauh, Washington attorney and vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, in a Sunday night radio-TV panel discussion.

Mr. Rauh had said this: "Sen. McCarthy held hearings at Fort Monmouth for weeks. He charged espionage at press conferences twice a day... I predicted they will have nothing on Tuesday to support their hoax."

Said Mr. Cohn: "Wait until Tuesday!"

He added that while he then was not at liberty to say just what Sen. McCarthy has ready for delivery at the open hearing, the information will "bear out everything that Sen. McCarthy has said."

McCarthy Claims Evidence

Sen. McCarthy has said evidence that Army Signal Corps radar secrets were stolen by spies and turned over to the Communists is in the possession of his subcommittee. Some of this evidence, it has been brought out in his news statements, tied in radar secrets thefts to the spy ring of the executed Julius and Ethel Rosenberg were leaders.

The subcommittee is expected to produce the testimony of David Greenglass, confessed spy in the Rosenberg ring, given to Mr. Cohn when he recently visited Greenglass at the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. Greenglass is serving a 15-year term there.

It has been said that Greenglass linked Julius Rosenberg—a former Fort Monmouth employee—to the theft of radar secrets and classified information on proximity fuses, used to detonate weapons.

Signal Corps personnel files show Rosenberg was assigned to inspecting proximity fuses during the war.

Whatever Greenglass said in his private questioning by Mr. Cohn may be read into the record by O. John Rogge, counsel for the convicted Greenglass is the brother of Ethel Rosenberg. His testimony helped send both of the Rosenbergs to their deaths.

Merchants Seek Seasonal Workers

For several weeks the local office of the New Jersey State Employment Service, located at 48 East Front st., has been receiving orders from local merchants for seasonal workers. According to the agency's local manager, Warren B. Clark, most merchants are willing to hire part-time as well as full-time workers.

"The seasonal demand cannot be met from the supply of unemployed workers," said Mr. Clark yesterday, "and that means there will be many job opportunities for housewives, students and workers who have retired and who want to supplement their incomes."

Assuming that this season will follow the pattern of previous years, there will be openings for sales people, wrappers, warehousemen, toy assemblers, delivery men, Santa Clauses, appliance assemblymen, cashiers and other miscellaneous workers. While experienced workers are usually in greatest demand, some employers indicate a willingness to accept workers with little or no experience.

Many are anxious to use senior high school pupils. Apparent aptitude for the job, however, seems to be a requirement.

Mr. Clark stated that employers should not delay hiring their seasonal workers, as the high level of full-time employment makes recruitment this year more difficult than during previous years.

Church Women Plan Dec. 5 Rummage Sale

Circle B of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Red Bank Methodist church will hold its annual rummage sale Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Westbrook building, opposite the Westside "Y" on West Bergen pl.

Plans for the event were completed at a meeting last week in charge of the leaders, Mrs. Fred Boyd and Mrs. Howard S. Higginson. Gifts will be sent the Methodist Home for the Aged at Ocean Grove. A contribution was made to the foreign mission fund, a Thanksgiving book review, "Spanish-Speaking Americans," was given by Mrs. Elizabeth Lindquist.

The next meeting, Dec. 15, will be a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Higginson in Lee Gertrude apartments on Broad st.

Winona Darrah To Address PTA

HIGHLANDS—Miss Winona Darrah, executive director of the Monmouth County Organization for Social Service, will speak at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher association Thursday night, Dec. 3, at the school. An informal Christmas covered-dish supper party and a surprise package sale will follow.

At a meeting of the executive board yesterday, plans were made for a revision of the P.T.A. bylaws. The association's first "teen-age" dance for the winter season will be held Friday, Dec. 4, between 7:30 and 10 p. m. at the school. There will be a small admission charge. The program is directed by Robert Senna, faculty member.

The P.T.A. has completed a school survey for Highlands and the findings of which may enable the board to obtain federal aid. More than 600 homes in the borough were contacted under the direction of Mrs. Philip Crowley.

Survey workers were Mrs. Reginald Robertson, Mrs. Robert Robertson, Mrs. William Kennebeck, Mrs. Lester Whitfield, Mrs. Richard Weiss, Mrs. James Irwin, Jr., Mrs. John Grasso, Mrs. Gilbert Parker, Mrs. Horatio Parker, Mrs. Edward Lennox, Mrs. Clifford Schenck, Mrs. William Little, Mrs. Martin Fehlbauer, Mrs. Edward Bunting, Mrs. Ralph Newman, Mrs. George O'Brien, Mrs. Donald Stull, Mrs. Frank Thomas, Mrs. Leroy Marston, Mrs. Frank Amadio, Mrs. Andrew Dalno, Mrs. Vincent Crist, Mrs. Alexander Bahr, Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Mrs. Thomas Thompson, Mrs. Norman Davidson, Sr.

As one of its main projects this year, the P.T.A. is seeking to raise funds to purchase instruments for a school band to participate in school activities, through civic projects and patriotic events. Jack Schwartz will be the band's instructor.

The first concert will be a bridal pageant and musical in January. The band committee, of which Mrs. William Mendes is chairman, will meet Monday afternoon at the borough library to plan the event. Mrs. Selbert Walstrom is pageant chairman.

AC&W Base Host

HIGHLANDS—Mayor Katharine Wilkus White of Red Bank and Councilmen Harold Hurley and Harry Malchow toured the aircraft control and warning squadron here yesterday.

Mayor White and the two councilmen attended a briefing of activities at the base, then completed a tour of the operations section at the Air Force installation.

They were escorted by Lieut. Anthony Cima, public information officer. The tour was the first in a projected series of visits for municipal officials of this area to acquaint them with base operations.

Hadassah to Pick Outstanding Member

The outstanding member of Red Bank chapter of Hadassah will be selected at a paid-up smorgasbord supper meeting Thursday night, Dec. 3, at the Molly Pitcher hotel.

Highlight of the program will be a sketch, "This Is Our Life," by Mrs. Murray Rosen and Mrs. Jerome Bueler are in charge. Mrs. Maurice Rosoff will be pianist and soloists will be Mrs. Jules Cohn, Mrs. David Sklar and Mrs. Leo Kugler.

Old Christ Fair Set for Friday, Dec. 4

SHREWSBURY—The annual fair of Old Christ Episcopal church will be held Friday, Dec. 4, from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. in the parish house on Sycamore.

The committee in charge lists the fair as an opportunity for the public to purchase Christmas gifts and home-cooked foods for the weekend.

TEACHERS' PAY RAISE

SHREWSBURY—The board of education met last night in executive session to discuss the 1954-55 budget in general and teachers' salaries. Frederick Tessina, president, said the board's findings will be disclosed at a regular board meeting. It was indicated that local teachers may be in for a pay boost.

Weddings

MENEL-HAWKINS

Miss Rita Ann Menel, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dorsini of New Shrewsbury, with whom she made her home, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ercole Menel of Norristown, Pa., and Robert Francis Hawkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Hawkins of River rd., Fair Haven, were married Sunday at St. Anthony's Catholic church. Msgr. Salvatore DiLorenzo, pastor, officiated at the ceremony and nuptial mass. All white Fuji chrysanthemums decorated the church. The mass was sung by the choir.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle. Her gown of candlelight satin was made with a fitted bodice, which had a Peter Pan collar and long-pointed sleeves, trimmed on the collar and sleeves with rose point lace embroidered in seed pearls. Her French illusion veil fell to fingertip length from a coronation styled crown of beads. As the bride approached the altar she carried a bouquet of white carnations which she left at the shrine of the Blessed Virgin in the church. As she left the church, she carried a prayer book with sprays of white orchids and streamers of ribbons and Stephanotis.

Mrs. John Shaw of Trooper, Pa., the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Scaramazza of Little Silver, the bride's cousin; Miss Rita Talerico, Red Bank, and Mrs. Max Weisendanger of Wayside. The bride's attendants were dressed alike in bouffant, waltz-length gowns of iridescent green tulle, styled with strapless bodices and worn with matching jackets. All wore small crown styled caps of matching chiffon velvet, trimmed with seed pearls. They carried chiffon velvet muffs, which were covered with sprays of chrysanthemums in autumn colors.

James Menel of Norristown, Pa., the bride's brother, was best man. Ushers were George Hawkins of Fair Haven, the bridegroom's cousin; Louis Dorick, Shrewsbury, and Max Weisendanger, Wayside.

A reception for 150 guests followed at the Paddock lounge in Long Branch. The bride's aunt chose a rayon blue taffeta and lace gown, her mother a navy blue lace and crepe costume. The bridegroom's mother was attired in hunter green lace. All had corsages of Tulleman roses.

The couple left by plane for Bermuda where they will spend a week. Upon their return, they will reside on West End ave., West End. The bride's traveling suit was light green tweed, worn with black accessories and a corsage of white orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Red Bank high school and Newark Preparatory Business school. She is employed at Fort Monmouth. The bridegroom, a graduate of Red Bank Catholic high school, just completed two years service with the Army.

SCHENCK-STRYKER

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP — Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schenck of Apple Farm rd., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Grace Mae Schenck, to James Clyde Stryker, Jr., son of James C. Stryker, Sr., of Bound Brook, and the late Mrs. Stryker. The couple were married Nov. 14 at the Keyport Reformed church by Rev. Warren Hensler, pastor of Second Reformed church of Freehold.

Mrs. Robert Kastner of Rahway was soloist, and Mrs. John E. Sartorius, Keyport, organist. A reception was held at McGuire's grove on rt. 35, Middletown township.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a waltz length gown of pale blue brocade satin, made with an off-shoulder neckline and a hoop skirt. She had a matching stole and a crown of matching tulle. Her bouquet was white roses.

Mrs. Louis VanZandt of Middletown township, was her only attendant and her waltz-length gown was pale yellow organza, worn with a matching cap, and she carried roses. Mr. VanZandt was best man, and the ushers were George Blew of Bound Brook, and Theodore Schenck of Woodbridge, the bride's brother.

The bride's mother wore navy blue lace with a deeper shade of blue for her velvet hat and accessories. Her corsage was of red roses.

When the couple return from their wedding trip to Canada they will reside on Crescent dr., Bound Brook. The bride's traveling costume was taupe colored wool worn with a fur coat and red accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Middletown township high school and attended Ann May school of nursing of Pitkin hospital. She served in the WAVES in World War II, and has been employed as dental assistant to Dr. Melvin Edwards of Red Bank.

The bridegroom is employed as superintendent of maintenance at Belle Meade. He is a graduate of Bound Brook high school, and served with the Armed Forces in the European Theater.

CHROMCZAK-LAZZATI

LEONARDO — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chromczak of Florence and Cedar aves., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Marion May Chromczak, to Frederick B. Lazzati, son of Anthony Lazzati of Center ave. The wedding took place Nov. 7 at St. Agnes Catholic church, Atlantic Highlands. Rev. Carl Wagner performed the ceremony.

The bride's ballerina length gown was satin brocade, trimmed with nylon tulle, and styled with a scalloped heart shape neckline. She wore a matching bolero jacket, and a shoulder length veil of paper lace, attached to a seeded pearl headpiece. She carried white carnations on a prayer book with streamers of white Stephanotis.

Miss Joan Harvey of Freehold was the bride's only attendant, and her costume was a red ballerina length taffeta gown, with all white

Bride of Charles K. Woodward, Jr.

Mrs. Charles K. Woodward, Jr.

Saturday afternoon, in a setting of all white autumn flowers at St. Anthony's Catholic church, Miss Judith J. Mazza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mazza of Hope rd., New Shrewsbury, became the bride of Cpl. Charles K. Woodward, Jr., U. S. Army, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Kenneth Woodward, Sr., of Newman Springs rd. Msgr. Salvatore DeLorenzo, pastor, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Joseph Callendillo sang "Ave Marie" and "Mother at Your Feet, O Mother." Mrs. John Famulari was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of antique silk taffeta, designed with a basque styled bodice of Chantilly lace with a portrait neckline, embroidered in sequins, pearl and crystal beads. The skirt was trimmed at the front with an apron of lace, which formed a lace chapel length train in the back. The bride's veil of imported illusion, fingertip length, was held in place by a jeweled tiara. Her cascade bouquet was composed of sprays of white orchids, white carnations and ivy leaves.

Mrs. Nessim Demmerle of Red Bank was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Mazza of New Shrewsbury, the bride's sister; Miss Maria DiFiore, the bride's cousin, and Mrs. Chester J. Beaman, the bridegroom's sister, both of Red Bank.

All the attendants were dressed alike in gowns of white taffeta, styled with off-shoulder necklines, fitted bodices and bouffant skirts, accessories. Her bouquet was white spider chrysanthemums, and red and white carnations. Robert H. Chromczak of Leonardo was best man.

A wedding breakfast for the immediate families and bridal party followed at the home of the bride's parents. The couple are making their home on Center ave. and Ocean blvd.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lazzati are graduates of Middletown township high school. The bride is employed by Bendix Aviation corporation at Eatontown, and the bridegroom is employed at Campo Construction company, Middletown township.

Mrs. Theodore Voorhees Honored at Shower

Miss Nancy Miller of Spring st. was hostess Friday at a baby shower for her sister, Mrs. Theodore Voorhees, Jr. Gifts were placed on a table decorated in pink and blue.

The guests were Mrs. Richard Orndorff, Mrs. Russell Wyms, Mrs. Wilson Miller, Mrs. John Euler, Mrs. Humphrey Miller, Mrs. Theodore Voorhees, Sr., Mrs. Isadore Catalano, Mrs. Spencer Miller and Misses Susan Miller, Carol Hardy and Ann Falvo.

Thanksgiving Service At Old Christ Church

SHREWSBURY — A community Thanksgiving day service will be held here at 10 a. m. in Old Christ Episcopal church. Rev. Arthur S. Jolec, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will preach the sermon and the senior and teen-age choirs of the Presbyterian church, as well as the junior choir of Christ church, will sing anthems. Rev. Theodore A. LeVan, rector of Old Christ church, will be in charge. The two churches, which have a combined age of 472 years, have had a long association in community activity. At various times in their long history they have used facilities and buildings jointly. For an 18-year period after the Revolution the Presbyterians worshipped in Old Christ church until they could build their present edifice. Father LeVan announced that the public would be welcome to attend the service and that various antique objects owned by the church, such as the Vinegar Bible, will be on display for those who wish to view them following the service.

Doelger Displays Rare Book of Prints

SHREWSBURY — Richard J. Doelger of Broad st., who conducts an antique shop on highway 35, Middletown, this week is displaying a nurseryman's book of prints painted in 1689.

The book will be shown at Mr. Doelger's display booth at the historic home here at the intersection of Broad st. and Sycamore ave. It contains 120 fruit and flower prints, hand-painted in vivid colors by D. M. Dewey. Since photography was not in use then, Dewey's 8½ by 5½ inch paintings were used to catalogue available fruits and flowers. Only three such books are known to have been published, according to Mr. Doelger.

Kenneth R. Duffie

LONG BRANCH—Among eight Monmouth Junior college students elected to Lambda Sigma Tau, the college leadership society, are Mrs. Marie H. Parker, wife of Dr. James W. Parker, Sr., of 175 Shrewsbury ave., Red Bank; Miss Betty Anne Stewart of Lincroft; Frederick P. Century of Riverside Heights and Kenneth R. Duffie of 147 Oxford ave., Fair Haven.

Election to the honor society is based on high grades, campus leadership and good personality traits. The society takes its name from the motto on the college seal, "Leadership, Service, Truth."

Assistant Dean Arthur H. Hafner, society adviser, set forth the purposes of Lambda Sigma Tau in a letter to the students: "To foster qualities of leadership among the students of the college; to encourage students who exhibit such qualities by honoring them with membership; to stimulate further leadership among members by group discussion of pertinent topics; to illustrate how democratic leadership is dependent on processes of persuasion, co-operation and orderly procedure; and to further the interests of the college and the community in whatever ways the organization finds possible."

Also elected to the society were Robert H. Jones of Bay Head, Russell L. Martin of Belmar and Francesco Fusco and Ronald T. Ellstrom of Long Branch.

Across the Counter

BY

ROLSTON WATERBURY

As I was presenting the need for an owner's liability policy recently Mr. White asked, "Why is property damage necessary? My building isn't like a car. It's not going to collide with another. I can see that I should be protected if a person gets hurt on the premises. But, I can't picture this building doing damage to someone else's property."

"It might seem unlikely," I said, "but let me give you a few examples. Suppose you had a bad fire, due to your negligence, and the flames spread to adjoining buildings. Or, suppose you had a bad explosion. It might severely damage buildings or cars nearby. And I've heard of cases where an explosion caused plate glass windows to break for blocks around. Or, suppose the tenant asks you to fix the roof. You agree, but put it off. In the meanwhile, during a severe rain storm, the roof leak causes damage to merchandise below. These show some of the possibilities."

Mr. White pondered. "I can see the importance of the property damage. Go ahead on the Owner's Liability Policy as you have it set up."

May we discuss Adequate Protection with YOU?

C. T. Aldrich, 83; Noted Performer

FARMINGDALE—Charles T. Aldrich, of Aldrich rd., Howell township, a well-known actor, died Friday at the age of 83. He started his stage career when he learned in his teens that he could draw cartoons with both hands simultaneously. He started with an itinerant dime museum outfit in his native Columbus Station, Ohio.

He then traveled throughout the Midwest and West, after which he arrived in New York. He played the old Hammett Olympia for nine weeks. During his tours he had played in some dramas, but most of the time in variety. He went to London and played the most famous variety house there, the Empire theater, for four consecutive summers.

At the turn of the century, he returned to this country and then made another trip to London, where he appeared in the first command performance of variety at the Palace theater with the British royal family often in attendance.

Mr. Aldrich had two children by his first wife, Gloria Gordon, a character actress. They were Charles T. Aldrich, Jr., known in radio as Gall Gordon, of Enid, Okla., and a daughter, Mrs. Jewel Wormser, wife of the novelist, Richard Wormser, Santa Fe, N. M.

The present Mrs. Aldrich is the former Beth M. Smalley, a featured singer and dancer whom he met when both were in the cast of the Broadway show, "Chin Chin." He also had two sons by this marriage, Aidan, who lives here, and Alwood Aldrich, who died about a week ago.

MRS. ELIZABETH COLEMAN

San Diego, Cal.—Mrs. Elizabeth Coleman, widow of Andrew R. Coleman, a well-known photographer in Red Bank, died Oct. 27 in a nursing home here, several blocks from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helen Coleman Smith, with whom she made her home many years. Mrs. Coleman was born in Red Bank, and was a resident of East Port at many years.

Mrs. Coleman also is survived by two grandchildren, Richard Coleman Smith and Mrs. Judith Mae Sternberg, and two great-grandchildren, Neil Sternberg and Garry Sternberg. Her daughter is the widow of Harry Y. Smith, who died Oct. 24. Mr. Smith's brother is Mayor Waldron P. Smith of Atlantic Highlands.

The funeral was held in San Diego.

Tree Planting Plan Proposed

SHREWSBURY — Rabbi Arthur Hershen gave the opening prayer at the meeting of the Civic organization, Inc., last Tuesday at the fire house. Judy Barg, Emily Lyman and Beatrice Reed of Intermediate Girl Scout troop 158 led the flag salute.

Walter Bouffard, chairman of the dance which the organization is sponsoring at Green Grove Manor Friday said tickets may be obtained by contacting him. Highlighting the evening will be Arthur Murray dance instructors, who will assist in the dance program. Proceeds will be used to help pay for signs at the four entrances to the borough. Harold Melstreich reported that paint and lettering for these signs have been donated by Red Bank merchants.

Mrs. Bouffard, organization member who was appointed to contact Mrs. Oscar Newman, Jr., president of the P.T.A., said the "Mom Caps" patrol idea would be presented at the next meeting of the P.T.A. Entry blanks for the Christmas decoration contest the organization is sponsoring will be distributed early in December.

Philip Meyer, chairman of the planning board, guest speaker, outlined the functions of the planning board and described the future long range plan for the borough.

In a special meeting Sunday, Mrs. Bruce W. Campbell, chairman of the shade tree commission, said there is a possibility the council will use surplus funds to plant shade trees. Albert Tebo has been appointed chairman of the organization's shade tree project designed to speed up tree planting. He will be assisted by Edmund Courter and Warren Jailer, who, with Mrs. Campbell, will obtain information needed for a flyer to be sent to residents of streets where trees are needed. The flyer will contain a questionnaire to determine how many residents will want trees planted. The trees will be planted on streets in order of their acceptance for maintenance by the borough. Streets said to be in need of trees are East End ave., Court dr., Crest dr., Beechwood dr., Parker pl., Garden rd., Slickles pl., White st., Patterson ave., Alameda ct., Trafford st., Francis st., Patterson ct. and Obere pl. Others should contact Mr. Tebo, East End ave.

Clubwomen Hear Youth Needs

Mrs. Rolston Waterbury was chairman of a program, "Our Citizens to Be," given Friday at a meeting of the Red Bank Women's club. Speakers were Mrs. Robert D. McKinley of Breton Woods, youth conservation chairman of the State Federation of Women's clubs; Dr. M. Gregg Hibbs, superintendent of Red Bank's public schools, and Martha Barr, Red Bank high school senior.

Mrs. McKinley told of the rise in juvenile delinquency, and felt that one of the causes was overcrowding in schools and lack of recreational facilities. Dr. Hibbs told of plans for Red Bank high school's newest addition, and of the new workshops which will offer special training to the boy or girl who will not go to college.

Mrs. Robert H. Disbrow reported plans for the club bazaar Wednesday, Dec. 2. Mrs. Mavor V. Campbell is co-chairman.

Mrs. George Weiss is in charge of a garden booth, Mrs. Irwin Schlosser, grab bag; Mrs. Cronwell Watson, food table; Mrs. Gezah DeVegh and Mrs. Stanley M. Dahlgren, arts and crafts; Mrs. Payson W. Lyman, holiday candles, and Mrs. L. C. Richardson, towel bar.

A snack bar luncheon will be operated by Mrs. Philip Walton. In the afternoon the annual fine arts tea will be held. In charge are Mrs. Fred Dugan, literature chairman; Mrs. DeVegh, music and arts chairman, and Mrs. Lyman, drama department. Members will bring Christmas gifts for the patients at the county welfare home at Freehold.

NAVESINK BAZAR

NAVESINK — A bazaar selling Christmas gifts and decorations will be held Thursday and Friday, Dec. 3 and 4, at Navesink library by the Navesink Garden club. Mrs. Edward Polak is chairman.

What is bait advertising? It can be defined as "an alluring offer to sell something which the advertiser does not actually intend to sell, tries not to sell or deliberately avoids selling." For example, to advertise a $22 aluminum combination window for $14.88—would seem questionable. (Think of the customer who paid the regular price of $42.00). Our organization does not claim to offer such "bargains" but we do have what we think is the finest aluminum combination window and doors available. Most sizes can be sold installed for as low as $24. Won't you phone us for a demonstration without obligation to you? REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATES. We are impressed with the idea that trying to select just a few separate homes to describe in our classified ads we are missing the boat on many others, so we will try to generalize on the overall picture and say that whatever your needs, our listings are adequate to supply them. We have ranch homes ranging in price from $14,000 to $55,000, even communities within a ten-mile radius of Red Bank, and down and country places to cover the needs of the most discerning people. We have many older places which could be fixed up and new ones offering the latest in modern living. To those who would like a custom built home incorporating their own ideas, we can supply plans and contractors in many locations. The finest offerings in shell construction for those who like to finish their own homes, located in Little Silver, and financing which makes possible owning your own home cannot be overdone. If the prospective buyer is sincere in his efforts. Let us wish you a Happy Thanksgiving and suggest that during your holiday you consider what we say here and come in and see us so that we may discuss your problems with you. New 1954 Nash Rambler Four-Door Sedan

Nash Motors this week unveiled its new 1954 line, the most diversified line in the industry, featuring the all-new 108-inch wheelbase Rambler four-door sedan. The Red Bank dealer is Ed vonKattengell, Inc., 83 Monmouth st.

Highlighted by the advanced continental styling of Pinin Farina, foremost European designer of custom-built cars, models available in the 1954 Nash line are: Ambassador and Statesman two and four-door super sedans and custom four-door sedans and Country Club hardtops; the new 108-inch wheelbase Rambler four-door custom and super sedans, and the 100-inch wheelbase Rambler custom series, including convertible, station wagon and Country Club hardtop models.

The completely new 1954 Nash Rambler four-door sedan is a compact custom car on a 108-inch wheelbase. This luxurious model offers traditional Rambler economy, performance, comfort and ease of handling, with greater rear seat and luggage compartment roominess.

Nash engineers have added eight inches to the over-all length of the new custom model, which totals 193 1/2 inches. This increase provides ample rear entrance room and rear legroom, in addition to increasing the cubic capacity of the luggage compartment.

The Rambler four-door is powered by the improved six-cylinder L-head "Super Flying Scot" engine, developing 90 horsepower.

As on all Nash cars, Dual-Rango Hydra-Matic and automatic overdrive are available as optional equipment, and synchromesh transmission is standard equipment.

Featuring "Airflyte" construction used in all Nash cars, the new Rambler has a unitized body and frame welded together to form a single unit, said by Nash engineers to be safer, stronger and more rigid.

The exclusive newly improved Nash convertible twin beds and "Airliner Reclining" seats are offered as optional equipment for the first time on the new Rambler four-door sedan.

The new 1954 Nash Ambassador and Statesman models feature numerous exterior and interior styling refinements, and many mechanical advancements.

Major mechanical changes in this series are: a new Statesman "Dual Powerflyte" engine, featuring an aluminum cylinder head and dual carburetors as standard equipment; increased horsepower in the Ambassador "Super Jetfire" engine; new power steering and power brakes, offered as optional equipment, and electrically operated window lifts, called "Power-Lift" windows, available at extra cost.

The horsepower of the Ambassador "Super Jetfire" six-cylinder overhead valve engine has been increased to 130. The "LeMans Dual Jetfire" engine, equipped with an aluminum cylinder head and two carburetors, is offered as optional equipment on all Ambassador models. This six-cylinder engine develops 140 horsepower.

Nash power steering, available as optional equipment on both models, takes about 75 per cent of the effort out of steering, and allows the driver to retain the "feel" of the car at all speeds and under all conditions. Nash power brakes are available on both models when equipped with Hydra-Matic drive at extra cost. They reduce braking effort up to 40 per cent, according to Nash engineers.

The new 1954 custom Rambler 100-inch wheelbase series features three distinctive models, including convertible, station wagon and Country Club hardtop.

The new 1954 Rambler custom convertible offers the safety of a sedan with the advantages of an open convertible. The electrically operated nylon top, available in black or tan, travels along built-in tracks on the top rails.

The 1954 Rambler custom station wagon offers ample space for both passengers and cargo. This model features simulated wood grain on steel side panels. The rear seat can be lowered to increase the cargo platform to more than six feet in length. Other 1954 Rambler station wagon models include the two-tone Greenbrier all-purpose sedan and the Suburban.

The compact 1954 Rambler Country Club custom hardtop features an all-steel top and unique reverse angle rear windows which provide increased all-around visibility. It offers the open air advantages of conventional convertibles. The Country Club has a curved one-piece windshield and a wrap-around rear window.

Three-Car Crash In Fog Hurts 4

NEW SHREWSBURY — Three drivers and a passenger suffered shock and cuts in a three-car accident Saturday night at the intersection of Newman Springs rd. and Shrewsbury ave.

State police at Shrewsbury barracks said cars driven by Mrs. Ruth Peterson of 45 Center st. Rumson; her husband, Jon Peterson, and a Fort Monmouth military policeman, PFC Major J. Tucker, collided in "heavy fog."

State police said Mrs. Peterson stopped her car for a traffic light at the intersection. Following in another car, Mr. Peterson slowed down to stop for the light. His car was struck in the rear by the third car, driven by the military policeman, and in turn, the second car collided with the halted auto.

All three drivers and Miss Marguerite Williams of 101 Borden ave., Asbury Park, a passenger in the soldier's car, were taken to Riverview hospital. The soldier and Miss Williams later were taken to the station hospital at Fort Monmouth. All were released after treatment.

A summons for careless driving will be issued to Tucker, state police said. Police also are investigating the status of the soldier's driver's license.

In Santiago, Chile, the owner or manager of a building which catches fire, is arrested and must prove that the fire was an accident.

Chevrolet Dealers Spotlight New Trucks

Completely re-engineered to give outstanding performance in meeting modern hauling requirements, a new line of 1954 Chevrolet trucks will be introduced by dealers Saturday. The Circle Chevrolet co. of 325 Maple ave. is the local dealer.

Improvements in every part of the vehicle—engine, chassis and body—have been designed with an eye to current and future needs of truck owners and drivers. Among the more important advancements are the following features:

1. Three new engines, with increased horsepower and outstanding, economical performance, include the most powerful truck engine ever built by Chevrolet.

2. Automatic transmissions optional through the one-ton (10,000 pounds GVW) model range.

3. Increased durability, with heavier axle shafts in the two-ton models, bigger clutches on light and heavy duty models and more rigid frames on all models.

4. Dramatically improved comfort for the driver through a new Ride-Control seat, standard on cab-over-engine models and optional in all other cabs.

5. Appearance improvement with a new, more massive radiator grille and front end design, while a one-piece curved windshield increases visibility and safety as well as adding to the distinction of the vehicle.

6. More space for payloads and easier loading. The body height of pickup, platform and stake models has been lowered through modified body mountings. Unobstructed loading space has been lengthened on several models.

Changes in the new Chevrolet trucks, according to the company, have been made to meet and anticipate the needs of drivers and operators. They are the results of suggestions made by users to Chevrolet field men, and long range planning by designers and engineers.

Most of the truck models are easier to load. In pickup bodies, although the sides are higher, the over-the-side loading height is less. The rigid, grain-tight tail gate will support long loads when lowered.

The new Chevrolet stake bodies are wider and longer. On the 161-inch heavy duty chassis, the body of this multi-purpose truck measures a full 12 feet inside the stakes. Loading heights on the stake models are lower, rear corners have been rounded and the stakes themselves are higher, extending 42 inches from the body floor on the nine and 12-foot bodies.

The automatic transmission is a new optional feature, available on light and medium-duty models. It offers new driving ease and important time saving, particularly in frequent-stop delivery work. The automatic transmission is a four-speed hydraulic design, except on the sedan delivery model on which Powerglide is available. The selector lever is conveniently mounted on the steering column.

Comfort for the driver has been increased greatly with the new Ride-Control seat. It provides real driver comfort even on long, continuous hauls. The seat and back are built as a unit, and the back moves up and down in unison with the seat cushion.

Cub Scout Pack 61 Adds Third Den

KEANSBURG — Cub Scout pack 61 will hold a harvest fair Friday night at 7:30 at the parish house of the Methodist church.

A third den was added to the pack at a meeting last Thursday night at the parish house. Mrs. Dorothy Johnson will be den mother. The pack has made application for the renewal of its charter.

Cubs have donated two Thanksgiving baskets to the church for distribution to needy families. The next meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 10.

The Register's job printing department turns out work in an efficient manner, has the work ready when promised and at a price that is fair to both the Register and its customers. Advertisement.

Club Celebrates
30th Anniversary

KEYPORT—The Kiwanis club marked its 30th anniversary with a dinner and dance at the Rollo post house. President Edward E. Florian welcomed members and guests and introduced Addie D. Shultz, a club member, and former past district governor of Kiwanis.

In an address on "The First Thirty Years," Mr. Shultz spoke of the organization of the club in 1923 and read the list of charter members. He listed among the club's accomplishments the furnishing of a dental clinic for the local school, formation of the Key club, numerous welfare activities, the sending of hundreds of boys and girls to camp and providing the first public parking lot in the borough. The speaker predicted the club will give greater and enlarged services to the community in the future.

Gifts from the club were presented to F. Palmer Armstrong, the club's president; Judson S. Hopla, J. Leon Schanck, Sr., also charter members, and to William F. Stanhope, who has served as club secretary many years. A program of entertainment was presented by Melvin A. Philo, vice president. Other club officers are James H. Ward, Jr., treasurer, and Norman R. Scott, immediate past president.

Music for dancing was provided by Dave Huggins and his orchestra. Arrangements for the celebration were in charge of Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Hopla, Mr. Shultz, Harry B. Thomas, George G. Downes, Mr. Philo and Harry P. Seaman.

Mental Health Needs of the State Explained

Dr. Crawford M. Baganz of the Lyons veterans' hospital, speaking at the annual meeting of the County Mental Health association last week in the Mechanic Street school, said New Jersey does not hold an enviable position in its care of mental patients. His subject was, "New Jersey's Mental Hospital Needs."

He said other states do a far better job of care and rehabilitation. He stressed the point that low marginal custodial care is not economy, and that under a "look 'em over, lock 'em up and leave 'em" philosophy, the state may exercise this care for many years and in purely economic terms, spend a far greater amount of money than would be required to return a large percentage of patients as top paying members of society.

"This is a real problem in your community," concluded the speaker. "More than half of the hospital beds in the state are occupied by mental cases, and one out of every seven persons will, at some time, need mental hospital care."

Elected were F. Bourne Ruthrauff of Little Silver, president; Jules Gordon Deal, vice president; Robert N. Kastor, Long Branch, treasurer; Mrs. Jerrold Meyer, Sea Bright, corresponding secretary; Miss Emily LaMarche, Rumson, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Jerome Gorlin, Rumson, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Alvin Parker, Red Bank, assistant recording secretary; Miss Elisabeth Kelley, Red Bank, and Gen. George L. vanDusen, Fair Haven, Paul Brown, Eatontown, Miss Winona Durrain, Little Silver, Walter Reid, Jr., Allentown, and Leo Weinstein, Matawan, directors. Magr. Joseph T. Casey of Bay Head was chairman of the nominations.

Mr. Kastor, as finance chairman, said the association has exceeded by nearly $2,000 the $7,500 goal set by the national organization for its first finance drive, and that he is confident that the total will reach $10,000. The money will be used to work for better mental health facilities in the county and to educate the public to the need for such facilities.

Mrs. Meyer, retiring president, outlined developments in the field of mental health in the county. She said that Monmouth Memorial hospital has made provision for care of some psychiatric cases. She said the county welfare home has achieved hospital status and is qualified to care for some mild mental cases among older patients, and that Marlboro state hospital has regained approval as a training school for psychiatrists after a lapse of two years.

Awards for outstanding service to the cause of mental health through the fund drive were made to Marcus G. Daniel, John L. Lee, Charles S. Morris and Mrs. Samuel Lerner of the Rumson Community appeal drive.

Electronic Associates
Declares Dividend

LONG BRANCH—Electronic Associates, Inc. of this city, has declared a dividend of 20 cents per share to all shareholders of record Dec. 21, Lloyd F. Christianson, president and chairman of the board of directors, announced this week.

At a meeting of the board of directors, Mr. Christianson reported that expected sales for 1953 will be in excess of $4,200,000 as compared to 1952 sales of $1,070,000. Sales for 1954 are estimated at over $6,000,000, with a higher profit percentage. Estimated profits for 1953, after taxes, will be $125,000 after charging off a large development program for future products. This represents a net profit per share of $1.13 as compared to 98 cents per share in 1952.

A bonus totaling $19,000 to associates of the firm also was announced. The bonus will be distributed on the basis of length of service and earnings of each associate.

Strangling Baby

ENGLISHTOWN—Mrs. Josephine Nienick Rooney, 30, of 20 Harrison ave. here, was committed to the state mental hospital at Trenton Friday after she admitted strangling to death her nine-week-old daughter, Mary Jane Rooney, so "she can go to heaven before she has a chance to sin."

Police Chief Henry Narozanick and County Detective Merritt B. Kent said Mrs. Rooney readily admitted slaying her daughter. They said she sent her two other daughters, Arlene and Joyce, out of the house, then choked the infant to death with her hands as the baby lay in her bassinet in the living room. After making sure the baby was dead, Mrs. Rooney told police, she told her other daughters to call a neighbor, who summoned police.

Mrs. Rooney was sitting in the living room in a dazed condition when he arrived, Chief Narozanick said.

The infant was pronounced dead by Dr. Samuel Bar. Dr. Julius A. Toron, county physician, after performing an autopsy at the Hulse funeral home, said that death was due to asphyxiation by strangulation.

Suicide Attempt

When Mrs. Rooney's husband, William Rooney, a boiler plant worker in Red Bank, arrived at the prosecutor's office in Freehold, he embraced his wife, then burst into tears. Chief Narozanick said Mrs. Rooney showed no emotion. She told police that her tiny daughter was old enough to sin.

Mrs. Rooney wandered away from home Wednesday night of last week, police said, and she was found hours later, after her children reported her absence, by state police, walking along rt. 9, miles from her home.

Mrs. Rooney was examined by Dr. James B. Spradley, former director of the Trenton state hospital. Prosecutor J. Victor Carton said Mrs. Rooney signed a voluntary commitment to the hospital, where she was placed under observation. Police said Mrs. Rooney had not been under a physician's care.

Funeral

The funeral was held yesterday at Our Lady of Mercy Catholic church, with Rev. Albert A. Tomaszewski officiating. Burial, under the direction of the Freeman funeral home, was in St. Rose of Lima cemetery, Freehold.

'Home and School'
Donates Records

EATONTOWN—Braxton Burt, president, on behalf of the Home and School club, presented Miss Margaret Vetter, principal, phonograph records for the school at Thursday's meeting. The club authorized the presentation of the records last spring. They were selected from a list compiled by the teachers.

The attendance plaque given to the class having the most parents present at the meeting was presented to Mrs. Maydawn Smith's class for the second month in a row.

The club voted to conduct a campaign to collect extra curricular books for the school over and above those already purchased by the board of education. The teachers have compiled a list of appropriate books for each class. Donations toward the books or the donation of the books, is urged by the club.

Mrs. Norman Thetford announced the stamp club was to meet the following night at Mr. and Mrs. Russell Anderson's home on Campbell dr. Miss Nelson, adviser, led this meeting, which was attended by Jon Anderson, Mary Stoffel, Andy Thetford, Kenneth Bullock and "Spike" Carling.

The club is also sponsoring a photography class which will soon begin meetings and will be instructed by J. E. Allen and Henry Burnham.

Miss Julia Killian, director of the Monmouth county library, addressed the meeting in place of Miss Mildred Lease, children's librarian, who was unable to attend. Miss Killian said the child's greatest interest in reading is shown at the age of ten. She said children learn only the mechanics of reading in school, but actually learn to read at home.

"It is up to parents to guide the child to good reading because the child, being a 'copyist,' will follow his parents' taste in literature," she said. Miss Killian cautioned parents who are thinking of purchasing encyclopedias to first visit the public libraries "with a stiff question in mind and then seeing which encyclopedia answers the question best." She recommended the World Almanac for the budget minded. Finally stating that only ten per cent of the population of the United States use public libraries, Miss Killian urged everyone to take advantage of this privilege.

Mr. Burt announced the executive board would meet the second Monday of each month and that the December board meeting would be at the home of Mrs. R. W. Alton, program chairman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. H. Caughman and her committee of third grade mothers, Mrs. William Bolvig, Mrs. William Layton, Mrs. Herman Ertischweiger and Mrs. Alan Harwood.

Donations Made To Vets' Hospitals

Contributions to Christmas projects of auxiliaries of Veterans of Wars' posts were approved at a meeting of the Red Bank unit last Thursday at the post home on Mechanic st. Donations were made to Lyons and East Orange Veterans' hospitals for Christmas parties for patients and to the New Jersey hospital at Eastern Rapids, Mich., for a holiday party for the children in the hospital. A contribution also was made to a fund to supply gifts for servicemen in foreign countries.

The Red Bank unit will hold a card party Thursday night, Dec. 3, at the post home, with Mrs. Hazel Schultz as chairman. Members were invited to attend the card party the sixth district auxiliaries will hold Friday night, Dec. 11, at Cypress Inn, Wanamassa. Proceeds will be used for services to veterans' hospitals.

A new member, Mrs. Josie Emerson of Port Monmouth was accepted. A birthday covered dish social hour followed the business meeting. The next meeting will be Dec. 3.

National Defense
Reviewed by DAR

Mrs. John Wesley Smith, state chairman of national defense of the New Jersey society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, spoke at a meeting of Monmouth chapter, D.A.R., Thursday at the Red Bank Woman's club. She spoke on American thinking and attitudes through the years and its relation to the problems of national defense.

Mrs. Smith urged members to give "more than mere lip service" to patriotism, morality, and the American ideal. "They must be truly dedicated," she said, "to the principles set down in the American creed of the D.A.R. and thoroughly informed on present trends so as to be prepared to fight subversion actively at any level and recognize its threat whether it be in the school room, in books, in political life or in international relations." Mrs. Smith recommended several books and pamphlets which would enable the reader to evaluate and understand the confusion and fear throughout the world. A discussion period followed.

Mrs. Jacob B. Rue, Jr., read a letter from Miss Gertrude Carraway, president general of the D.A.R., and several congratulatory letters from state personnel on the chapter's year book.

At the conclusion of the meeting, George Castleman, Jr., junior president of Mary Stillwell society, Children of the American Revolution, and a society member, Cora Lewis, sold dish cloths for their project to raise money for a scholarship fund.

Miss Dorothy Logan, regent of Tenth chapter, D.A.R., was a guest.

Tea was served in the club library. Those attending were Mrs. E. Story Hallock, Mrs. John B. Allen, Mrs. William R. Hamnell, Mrs. Bruce W. Campbell, Mrs. John P. Cooper, III, Mrs. Fred Brink, Mrs. Mildred Coe Dunham, Mrs. Fred M. Burell, Mrs. William Hugh Ryder, Mrs. Paul T. Ryder, Mrs. Carlos Ordonez, Mrs. Charles H. Brown, Mrs. John Norton Jones, Mrs. C. Otto Kratoch, Mrs. Vernon W. Rose, Mrs. Jacob B. Rue, Sr., Mrs. William M. Thompson, Mrs. Harry S. Willey, Mrs. Minor B. Tilton, Mrs. James C. Henderson, Mrs. R. A. G. Stetler, Mrs. Virginia Langendorf, Mrs. B. H. Thome and the Misses Ruth R. Dixon, Grace Sickles, Victoria L. Coddington, Lidora S. Walling and Mary A. Walling.

RECITAL FRIDAY
"Let's Have Fun With Music" is the theme of a recital to be given by Miss Grace Malchow's piano pupils Friday night in the Red Bank Baptist Fellowship hall. The children will appear in appropriate costumes for the various selections presented.

AL WEBER AT BUTTOWOOD
MATAWAN — Al Weber and his orchestra are playing nightly for dancing at Buttowood manor on rt. 34 here. Last week's issue of The Register listed the orchestra as Hart Webber's.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winkelman were Mr. and Mrs. William Winkelman of Union City and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cotton and daughter Barbara of Fairview, Bergen county.

Mrs. Gerry MacLennan and Mrs. Joan Fink were hostesses at a card party for the Republican Women's club Tuesday of last week. Attending were Mrs. Alice Freibott, Mrs. Freda Winkelman, Mrs. Mildred Noon, Mrs. Lillian Clayton, Mrs. Jennie Merker, Mrs. Mary Landmesser, Mrs. Caroline Downey and Mrs. Jennie Cheney.

William Shakespeare had to leave Stratford-on-Avon in 1585 at the age of 21 under suspicion of poaching deer.

Sports Car Paces Studebaker Styling

A brand new line of sedans, sports cars and station wagons incorporating gay and colorful interiors as well as many engineering improvements was introduced for '54 to the motoring public today by the Studebaker Corp. Studebaker cars are sold in Red Bank by Bailey Bros. Auto Sales and Service, 91 Monmouth st.

Twenty body types are represented by the company's two- and four-door sedans, hardtop convertibles, coupes, Land Cruiser and new pleasure-utility car colorfully named the Conestoga. The station wagon, like all the other models, was designed by internationally famous Raymond Loewy.

The striking exterior lines have been enhanced by further refinements, and by exciting new interiors, elements which the company believes will keep Studebaker cars at the head of the style parade. The interior styling, characterized by new fabrics and textures selected expressly for Studebaker, is the work of Eleanor LeMaire, well-known interior decorating expert and color stylist. Upholstery fabrics are offered in four different basic color motifs harmonizing with the exterior hues of the cars. Such items as steering wheels, steering wheel columns, instrument panels, moldings, door trim and carpeting likewise harmonize with exterior body colors. Twelve different exterior solid color options and ten different two-tone combinations make up the color repertoire for Studebaker's '54 models.

The Conestoga, Studebaker's new station wagon, accommodates six passengers with ease. When used as a utility car, with the rear seat folded down, an area of 64 cubic feet is available for baggage or hauling purposes. One of the outstanding features of the Conestoga lies in the suspension which has been designed so as to provide full passenger car riding comfort under all load conditions.

Exterior body changes for Studebaker's '54 models include new grilles with vertical fins; bumper guards which provide increased protection for grilles; new hood ornaments as standard equipment on station wagons and on all sedans with the exception of the custom Champion. Chrome "rub rails" extending on either side of the car from a point near the tail light to the forward edge of the front door are standard on all regal sedans and Land Cruiser models. The rub rails help accentuate the flowing lines of the cars and offer protection against body dents and scratches.

Trunk lid handles, with integral locks, are of the popular wing type.

Tinted glass, which reduces eye strain by decreasing glare and which cuts heat by filtering out some 65 per cent of the sun's heat rays, is available on all models at slight extra cost. Hydraulic power steering is likewise optional on all models at extra cost.

Foremost among the chassis improvements are new and larger brakes for both Champions and Commanders. These, according to intensive engineering tests, provide up to one-third greater braking power and thus add substantially to driving safety. They are self-centering and self-energizing and have, in addition to greater stopping power, increased pedal reserve, heavier drums, more durable brake lining, and labyrinth-type drum seals which keep out dirt and mud.

Acceleration and performance have been stepped up on both the Champion and Commander. Automatic transmissions on Champions now have three power ranges in "Drive" position: automatic low, intermediate and direct. The automatic low gear start makes possible much greater acceleration at low traffic speeds.
