U.S. Soldier Executed by Viet Cong in Reprisal

HEAD START DRIVE — A jeep with a public address system circulated in Red Bank last night as the drive to register pre-kindergarten youngsters in Project Head Start began. Behind the wheel is Police Lt. Benjamin Glover, a member of the Neighborhood Council, and using the microphone is Curtis Q. Murphy, a member of the Board of Education and chairman of the Head Start Advisory Committee. Registration will continue tomorrow from 9 a.m. to noon in River Street and Mechanic Street Schools.

Keyport Planners Back School Plans

KEYPORT — The Planning Board last night appeared willing to help the Board of Education with its proposed $1,160,000 building program.

Planners informally approved addition to Central School covering Ogden Ct. North, a paper street surrounded by Board of Education property.

Protests Special Meeting

Keansburg Board Aide Walks Out

KEANSBURG — Daniel L. McLoone, a member of the Board of Health walked out of a meeting of that agency last night in protest over a special meeting held last Tuesday.

The meeting was held in order that new board president could be elected.

Arthur G. Robinson was named president of the board by a 4-3 vote. His opponent was Mr. McLoone.

Mr. McLoone in a statement at the outset of last night's session maintained that the meeting was illegal because Anthony Auer, the former president, was not invited to attend the meeting and preside over the election.

Mr. Auer's term on the board expired June 2. He was not re-named to the board by the new administration.

Mr. Robinson said the borough attorney has ruled that the special meeting was legal.

Without Officer

The new president said that since Mr. Auer was not re-named to the board, the unit was without an officer.

He said the special meeting had to be held to select a president who could preside over last night's session.

Mr. Robinson said he was advised that a special meeting of the board could be called if two members so requested it and contacted the borough clerk asking him to call the session.

Mr. Robinson said he and Walter Farley, another member, contacted Harvey Marion, borough clerk, and asked the latter to call the special meeting.

Mr. McLoone walked out of the meeting last night with the explanation that he would not increase its capacity from 250 to more than 1,000.

The school may get 375 feet of parking space on Union St. if Planning Board Chairman Howard T. Jeandron's suggestion materializes.

Union St. is currently a narrow 15 feet; Mr. Jeandron recommended it might be made one-way with parking exclusively for school use, if the Board of Education contributes another 15 feet of width along the street. Mr. Search and Board of Education Secretary Donald A. Hill tentatively said they would be glad to do so.

Elementary school double sessions will end September, 1967, if the building referendum passes, predicted the superintendent.

At that time the grammar school, built in 1872, will be dropped from the system.

Hazards Are Cited
Mr. Search said experts count at least 15 hazards, including fire danger, in the grammar school. Mr. Search anticipates expanding Central School would keep elementary students on single session through 1977.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong has executed U.S. Army Sgt. Harold George Bennett in reprisal for the execution of several Red terrorists by the South Vietnamese government, Hanoi Radio announced today. It warned that other Americans might suffer the same fate.

"This is obviously a wanton act of murder if this is confirmed," the U.S. embassy said after hearing the report of Bennett's execution.

On the battlefronts, U.S. spokesmen reported that three more Americans were killed over the past 25 hours, a fourth was missing and six were wounded.

Bennett, son of Mrs. Pauline H. Bennett of Perryville, Ark., was captured Dec. 29 during the bloody battle of Binh Gia, which cost an estimated 200 South Vietnamese lives.

Bennett was taken when the 33d Ranger Battalion, to which he was attached as radio operator with the American advisory team, was attempting to retake Binh Gia from the Viet Cong.

Another American on Bennett's advisory team, Pvt. Charles E. Crafts of North Jay, Maine, was missing after the same action.

The Hanoi broadcast said the commander of Viet Cong forces in South Viet Nam announced Bennett's execution at a news conference yesterday.

Hanoi did not say where the execution took place. It quoted the Viet Cong as saying:

"The punishment of Harold George Bennett, an American aggressor who had committed many crimes against the South Vietnamese people, serves to warn the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen who have committed acts of utmost barbarity in killing prisoners of war that the murderers must pay for their blood debts."

"The fascists acts of utmost barbarity taken by the U.S. aggressors and their henchmen... must be duly punished. The crimes of the bloodthirsty devils are intolerable."

Hanoi said that "in defiance of severe warnings"

by the Viet Cong, the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments "have arrogantly shot numerous liberation (Viet Cong) fighters and other patriots in South Viet Nam who fell into their hands."

The broadcast said that "the life of U.S. prisoners-of-war, who are in the hands of the liberation armed forces (Viet Cong) or will be captured by them, is decided by the U.S. aggressors themselves."

It added that "all the traitors, such as (chief of state) Nguyen Van Thieu, (Premier) Nguyen Cao Ky, and Nguyen Chanh Thi, who have massacred Vietnamese patriots on orders from the U.S. aggressors will also have to pay their blood debts."

The broadcast said Bennett was executed in reprisal for the deaths of Viet Cong "patriots Nguyen Van Troi, Le Dau, Tran Van Dang and others."

Broege Is Critical

Broad Tax Views Accommodate All

TRENTON (AP) — New Jersey's Republican and Democratic Parties buckled down for a gruelling gubernatorial campaign today tied to platforms they contend can accommodate the tax views of any candidate running on their tickets.

The platforms were adopted at the closing sessions of state conventions Thursday but not without some open dissension.

The Republicans were criticized by one of their delegates who contended the platform amounted to little more than a blast at the Democrats. He said the party has a responsibility to go before the voters with something more.

A Disagreement
The Democratic conclave, meanwhile, was marked by a north-south disagreement over where the state should build a proposed four-year state college.

After a brief but spirited debate, the convention inserted a plank calling for a college feasibility study not limited to any specific geographical area. The vote was 40 to 16 with south Jersey delegates protesting that the plank should have singled out their area for a college. They complained the area is short on higher educational facilities now. Delegates from populous northern counties countered their areas should be covered by any study seeking to establish a new state college.

The conventions ran about an hour each, with both parties sticking largely to the drafts drawn last week by special resolutions committees.

Both platforms skirted the tax views of their gubernatorial candidates.

The GOP candidate, Wayne Dumont Jr., has recommended a 3 per cent sales tax and Gov. Richard J. Hughes, the Democratic incumbent, advocates a personal income tax. Neither platform flatly calls for a statewide tax.

At the GOP convention, Edward C. Broege, a Monmouth County committeeman, complained that his party's platform had "little meaning" and took credit for things the Republicans had no major role in.

Two Want Third Ward Appointment

City Contest Emerges

LONG BRANCH — A contest for the upcoming appointment to the third ward city council seat emerged last night when Amdeo V. Ippolito and Thomas Marinelli both expressed hope that they would receive the appointment.

Mr. Ippolito, defeated for an at-large council seat in the June 15 run-off election and known to most as a resident of the second ward, leased an apartment at 200 Willow Ave. on Monday to become eligible for consideration for the post. He now is the city beachfront director.

Mr. Marinelli, 342 Second Ave., a branch manager for General Public Loan, voiced his interest in the job through a letter to councilman Edgar N. Dinkel.

However, insiders do not give him a chance of winning the appointment.

The fight for the seat now looms between at-large Councilman Michael G. Celli, whose term ends July 1, and Mr. Ippolito. Mr. Celli had been favored for the post but Mr. Ippolito's entry into the race, rumored for the past week, changes the situation considerably.

City
 their frame of mind at the time of the balloting.
 One of the main arguments against Mr. Ippolito is that he is in fact a "carpetbagger" who has moved into the ward not to help the people but only to obtain a seat on the council. He denies this charge and stated last night that he is only interested in doing a good job.
 Mr. Celli is considered to be the wrong man for the job by many people who feel that way because his vote total in the May 11 election was lower than Mr. Ippolito's.
 Mr. Ippolito announced he was seeking the job after four of his supporters addressed the City Council in the public participation portion of last night's meeting and urged that he be appointed to the position.

Grant Phillips 6-Month Leave
LONG BRANCH — City council last night granted newly elected Councilman-at-large Donald L. Phillips a six months leave of absence without pay from his post as city superintendent of lighting.
 City Manager James F. Roosevelt approved an additional six months leave of absence for Mr. Phillips under the Civil Service rules.

 polls than we did in 1961, 1967 and 1963," he said.
 Senate Majority Leader William E. Ozzard, R-Somerset, chairman of the convention, disagreed.
 "This isn't being mealy mouthed," he said of the platform. "This is explaining a philosophy on which many men can run."
 Unanimous Adoption
 Broege said that despite his feelings he did not oppose adoption of the platform, which was drawn up by a committee headed by Assemblyman Alfred N. Beadleston, R-Monmouth.
 The platform was adopted unanimously by the 30 GOP delegates who attended.
 The convention also adopted unanimously and without debate a resolution saying that the Republican party rejects extremism, whether on the right or left.

Center Opening
RED BANK — Bolstered by $950 in cash contributions from the Greater Red Bank Area Council of Churches and the Borough Council, the Red Bank Neighborhood Council last night moved ahead with plans for its Neighborhood Center.
 Meeting in the center—a rented, vacant store at 163 Shrewsbury Ave. now being refurbished by teenage and adult volunteers—the council named Miss Ernestine Taylor, Harrison Ave., director for the summer months.
 Miss Taylor, a teacher in Middletown Township High School, will direct youth activities at the center, scheduled for formal opening next week.
 No salary was set for the director's post, but Mrs. DeWitt Jackson, Neighborhood Council president, said a $500 donation from the Greater Red Bank Area Council of Churches will be used toward that purpose.
 Mrs. Jackson also reported a $450 contribution from the Red Bank Borough Council.
 "They (the council members) are interested in the center, too," Mrs. Jackson said, "they want to see these young people kept busy and kept off the streets this summer."
 Mrs. Jackson said the center will be open from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. and will offer varied programs for teenagers and young adults between the ages of 13 and 21.
 Among the programs outlined last night were a youth center, drama club, bowling and softball teams, discussion groups and tutoring sessions. Miss Taylor said the youth groups also will become involved in a neighborhood clean-up project.
 Variety Show
 The council-sponsored youth group, a functioning organization with a membership of 65, will present a variety show in the River Street School on July 16 and 17. The proceeds will benefit the center's youth program.
 Contributions of furniture and equipment came from the O-M Sales Corp., Red Bank; the Red Bank Methodist Church and Old First Church, Middletown. Mrs. Jackson said. She said the Red Bank Lumber Co. has offered to donate a snack bar and lumber.
 Donations of a television and a hi-fi set, draperies, cooking equipment, and books have come from individuals in Red Bank and neighboring communities, she said.
 The Neighborhood Council, the local co-ordinating group for Monmouth Community Action Program, Inc. (MCAP), the agency officially charged with administering the anti-poverty bill in the county, has applied for Office of Economic Opportunity funds for the center. But it is initiating the program while awaiting the federal approval the neighborhood group hopes will permit an enlarged community program to function year 'round.
 Among the projects it hopes to establish is a Day Care Center for two-to-four-year-olds.

Fireworks Display
RUMSON — A fireworks display will take place at 9 p.m. July 4 at the Rumson Country Club for members and guests. Borough Council last night approved a permit to hold the event.

Group leaves Lincroft academy Sunday at 9:15 a.m. to participate in goodwill program. Boys will serve as labor task force but hope to do some teaching during their stay. They'll travel in two rented sedans to Toronto and then by train to Prince George. Return date is set for Aug. 1. Another group of CBA students left by plane for San Juan, Puerto Rico, this morning. Under direction of Brother Bernard Dennis, they'll conduct instruction in religion and sports. Here, from left, are James Dooley, Gerald Morkus, Joseph Tomain, Patrick Nitto, Patrick Federici, Brother Aloysius, James Sheehan, John Feeley and William Smith.

Bodman Scholarship Winners Announced

PRINCETON — The Bodman Foundation's announcement of 15 scholarships brings to 55 the number of Monmouth students who have attended college with its help.
 Bodman Scholarships were started in 1959 in memory of the late George M. and Louise C. Bodman of Middletown. They provide grants of $200 to $2,000 to Monmouth County students selected on the basis of high school records, college Board testing and indications of character and leadership.

Following is a list of winners: Timothy D. Broege of Mansquan High, for Northwestern University; Felix H. DeSantis of Long Branch High, for the University of Pennsylvania; Dion E. Downs of Raritan Township High, for Wagner College; Nancy L. Harman of Middletown High, for Middlebury College; and Patricia S. Holub of Asbury Park High, for Swarthmore College.
 Also Arnold M. Howitt of Red Bank High, for Columbia College; Marc B. Lasky of Asbury Park High, for the University of Pennsylvania; Susan D. Lombard of Red Bank High, for Mount Holyoke College; Karen A. Lundquist of Red Bank High, for Cornell University; and Gerald S. Sagotsky of Freehold Regional High, for the University of Chicago.

Also, Paul A. Stach of Christian Brothers Academy, for Williams College; Anne B. Thomas of Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High, for Mount Holyoke College; Pantelis E. Tinios of Neptune High, for Harvard; Barry Unger of Long Branch High, for the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and Frank T. Vecchione of Asbury Park High, for Notre Dame.

Table Council Measure For Further Study
LONG BRANCH — City Council last night voted four to three with one abstention to table an ordinance waiving the reverter provisions on the property occupied by the Diplomat Apartments, Ocean Blvd. and Brighton Ave.
 Voting to table the ordinance and reintroduce it at a later date were Councilmen Edgar N. Dinkelspiel, Vincent J. Mazza, Michael G. Celli and Councilwoman Lucy J. Wilson.
 Mayor Milton F. Untermyer and Councilmen Henry R. Cioffi and Robert L. Penn voted against tabling the ordinance while Councilman Samuel A. Marks abstained.
 The decision came after the council could not agree on whether the acceptance of beach rights for the next 18 years at $1 a year from the F & L Corp., owner of the efficiency apartment complex, would be under an 18-year, 10-year or year-to-year lease.
 Under the tentative agreement half of the property would be leased for 10 years by the Square Inc., which is building a 19-hole golf course on it. The other half would be used by the city for parking.
 Those voting to table the motion generally favored leasing the land for 18 years for parking.
 Those against it generally noted that if a year-to-year lease were signed and the owner of the golf course decided to construct a building, the city would give up the parking for a rateable.
 Councilman Mazza and Councilwoman Wilson stated emphatically that the area should be used strictly for parking for a period of at least 10 years.
 City Attorney Louis R. Atkins has said that if the matter were brought to court, in all likelihood the court would rule that the terms of the deed were substantially fulfilled.

Scott Says Permit Must Be Revoked
MIDDLETOWN — The Board of Health and Township Committee met in executive session last night on the question of the Charles J. Hesse dumping permit.
 After the meeting, H. Laurence Scott, Sr., board president, said he believes the permit will have to be revoked. Action will be taken at a board meeting Monday. Indications are it may not be unanimous.
 Mr. Hesse, Belford contractor, was given a permit extension by the board, to dump Atlantic Highlands garbage in the Belford dump through April 15, 1967. The extension was granted after the Township Committee adopted an ordinance prohibiting out-of-town garbage.

Property Value
 It was noted that value of a property is no more because it has 100 feet of line running past it than if it had only 40 or 50 feet.
 Mayor Hyrpe said the hearing was being held to listen to residents' protests and decide if they were valid.
 He said the council could accept the report as filed by the commission; modify it, or send it back to the commission to be reviewed.
 Edward W. Currie, the commission's attorney, said residents could appeal their assessments in the courts if they are not satisfied with the final outcome.
 The report was prepared by a commission composed of Frank H. Bliss, chairman, and Leroy H. Sikes and Merritt Warwick.
 The commission was appointed in April 1964.

New Trials Denied For Convicted Pair
FREEHOLD — Monmouth County Judge Thomas J. Smith denied yesterday requests for new trials for two men serving terms in State Prison who contended they had been illegally convicted.
 The two, Walter McGhee, formerly of Asbury Park, serving a life term for murder, and Charles J. Ashdown, formerly of Belmar, serving six to ten years for issuing forged checks, were in court with assigned lawyers for their hearings.
 McGhee had pleaded guilty to killing Walter Patterson in Asbury Park in 1962.
 In his appeal, he argued that he had been beaten by detectives who arrested him and had not signed a statement he had given to the police; that illegal evidence had been used to obtain an indictment, and that his assigned lawyer, Joseph F. Matrice, for that case, was incompetent.
Finds Nothing Amiss
 Judge Smith said he found nothing to support the contentions. Paul Blendon, Asbury Park, presented McGhee's side.
 Ashdown had pleaded guilty to passing two worthless checks at Bamberger's, Eatontown, in 1961. He argued that he had not been given counsel when he was arraigned and when he pleaded. But Assistant Prosecutor John W. Applegate produced statements Ashdown had signed in court waiving a lawyer's services except at time of sentencing.
 The checks Ashdown was accused of forging had been stolen from Martin Rubber Co., Long Branch, and were payable to "Richard Fay," the name of a Belmar attorney.
 Long Branch Det. Capt. Joseph D. Purcell testified about how the investigation led to Ashdown.

Middletown Will Fight Suit About Sewer Plant
MIDDLETOWN — The Township Committee last night authorized its attorney, Vincent C. DeMaio, to defend the municipality in a suit which attempts to block immediate expansion of the Willett Acres sewer plant, Port Monmouth.
 The plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Young, 19 Mills Ave.; Mrs. Margaret Hemberger, 22 Mercer Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dineen, 19 Hudson Ave. Suit was filed yesterday in Superior Court.
 Judge Elvin R. Simmill issued a restraining order which, for the time being, prevents the township from signing a contract with A. Campo Construction Co., Rt. 35, for the $441,232 plant expansion. Campo has been awarded the contract, on low bid, but the pact has not yet been signed.
Show Cause
 The township will have to show cause by Friday, July 2 as to why the restraint should not be continued.
 Officials said last night the township will go to the judge before that date, to get the restraint lifted.
 The plaintiffs contend that the plant expansion was not designed properly to fit into the municipal sewer system and that the expansion was taken over by the township because of financial difficulties on the part of the builders of Willett Acres, a housing development.
 Mayor Ernest G. Kavalek and Committee member Edward J. Roth, sewer chairman, termed the charges "ridiculous" last night. They said the plant will fit in to the proposed municipal sewer and that expansion was decided on to take in some 600 additional residents in Countryside Estates, Lakewood Park, Lincoln Park, Mercer Park, Kinkade Manor and Harmony Gardens.

 Both drivers and Peter and Judith Lutz, passengers in the car driven by their mother, were released after treatment at Riverview Hospital, Red Bank. Patrolman Getchel McCall is investigating.

A Review of the Middletown Sewer Problem

By FRANK W. HARBOR

(First of Two Articles)

MIDDLETOWN — This town, with a population of nearly 47,000, is the biggest in Monmouth County, and it has the biggest sewer problem.

There are some 13,000 homes or businesses here and more than 12,000 of them — 95 per cent plus — have septic tanks or cesspools.

According to township health officer Dr. Marc Krohn, septic tank sewage water is overflowing in a number of areas, running down the streets. The situation is so bad that he has hesitated to estimate the number of malfunctioning tanks, but puts the number, at least, in the "several hundreds."

More Housing Units Due In Red Bank

RED BANK — Mayor Benedict R. Nicotia last night told the local Democratic club that several new projects are slated for the borough.

He explained that 50 more senior citizen housing units would be erected here and promised three traffic lights would be installed.

The mayor also discussed the purchase of new recreation facilities on the east side of town at Harrison Ave., and Mechanic St., and said complete descriptions of all municipal jobs had been completed.

Mr. Nicotia told the capacity audience in Borough Hall that Gov. Richard J. Hughes will attend the annual barbeque July 31 on the grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Mazza, New Shrewsbury, Mr. and Mrs. Mazza are parents-in-law of Councilman Charles K. Woodward, Jr.

The campaign to re-elect Councilmen Daniel J. O'Hern and Theodore J. Labrecque, Jr., was discussed. They will run on their fulfilled campaign promises.

Mr. O'Hern is seeking a third, two year term; Mr. Labrecque has been elected to a one year, unexpired term.

Drugs Charge Jails Man

LONG BRANCH — Magistrate Stanley Cohen yesterday sentenced Frederick J. Albanese, 24, of Bloomfield, to two years in the county jail for illegal possession of drugs and failure to give a good account of himself. Mr. Cohen also fined him $1,000 but suspended the fine.

The sentenced was delivered with the understanding that Mr. Albanese could apply for admission to the state narcotics hospital if he wished to be cured of the narcotics habit.

Mr. Albanese was found sleeping on the steps of Pedone's Market, 61 South Broadway, early Wednesday morning.

Mr. Cohen fined Scott Harris of 360 Ocean Ave., $25 for careless driving.

Mrs. Nicholas Gialella of 105 Sampson Rd., was given a $25 suspended fine for failing to send her daughter to school regularly.

William Jackson of 51 River St., Red Bank, was fined $5 for illegal parking.

SCHLOEDER CONSTRUCTION CO.

250 Shrewsbury Ave. Red Bank 741-2139 • 291-9065

Interest in the sewer problem, and septic tank health hazards, was renewed last month with the start of a series of articles in The Register.

Although the township has a preliminary master sewer plan, with over-all costs estimated in 1964 at $19 million, the Township Committee conceded recently that no progress has been made in implementing the plan for the past 12 months.

As a result of a conference with state officials last night, there is now a glimmer of hope that some progress will be made in the near future.

The delay has been over the question of a sewer plant site. The impact and effect of the delay is one which cannot be recouped. The best which can be hoped for now is that further delay might be avoided.

To put it in dollars and cents, cost escalation currently, in the field of construction, is figured at four or five per cent per year.

Based on a $19 million estimated total cost, that means the township and its taxpayers because of the one-year delay have lost nearly $1 million as a result of cost increase, a fact which has been conceded by the township sewer engineer, Mayor Ernest G. Kavalek, Township Committee member Edward J. Roth, sewer committee chairman, and members of the Board of Health.

That is, a present cost estimate, based on original (1964) plan specifications, could be expected to total at least $20 million.

The loss is more than the total amount of federal grant money which might be obtained by the township for sewer plant construction. Under present federal programs, the maximum grant would be $600,000.

State Department of Health inspectors surveyed the municipality about six weeks ago.

Were Appalled They were frankly appalled by conditions here. Said state health engineer Anthony J. Ricigliano: "There was no problem finding the pollution in Middletown."

State engineer S. T. Giallella put it this way: "You can be guided by the smell."

Not News The survey is now in the hands

Two Youths Pay Fines For Glue Sniffing

FAIR HAVEN — Two Shrewsbury 19-year-olds pleaded guilty to glue sniffing in Magistrate John V. Crowell's municipal court yesterday.

Leon A. Boeckel, 34, 123 Monroe Ave., who had been convicted of three prior disorderly persons charges in Red Bank, was fined $100 and given a six-month suspended sentence in the county jail.

John R. Van Horn of the same address was fined $50 and given a suspended sentence of 30 days.

The two were arrested Wednesday at 3:15 a.m. at the river end of Baitin Rd.

Mr. Van Horn and Mr. Boeckel are the first to appear in this court as a result of the State statute prohibiting glue sniffing, enacted last month.

John W. Rowan, 161 Hunting La. was fined $15 for careless driving.

2 Subdivisions Get Approval at Rumson

RUMSON — Borough Council last night approved a pair of subdivision applications, which had been recommended for approval by the Planning Board.

An application by Rumson Shore Estates to create 12 homesites at its section 3 tract at Rumson and Hance Rds. was approved.

Vincent J. Russo, local developer, said he would construct a dozen $55,000 dwellings.

Also approved was the application of Allen G. Miller to create seven lots at his parcel of land on Rumson Rd., between Club Way and Buttonwood La.

Council also tentatively approved a Rumson-Fair Haven Jaycees plan to number borough properties along the curb. Sanction was given to the plan, subject to borough inspection of a group of initial numbers.

of Dr. Krohn, who told The Register yesterday, "It says exactly what I knew it would say! We have widespread pollution."

The situation is not new. Commented Board of Health member Herbert F. Coffey, Jr., recently, "It's been here for eight years — but that does not make it right."

Mr. Coffey, along with sewer committee member Vincent P. Lamb has been a leading figure in pressing for a sewer system.

Board of Health members recently informed the governing body that unless concrete action is taken soon, the issue will become an open controversy.

In February of 1962, the Township Committee announced that a study would be made for the possibility of building package sewer plants in "trouble areas" as a stop-gap measure, on grounds that such plants might later be integrated into the township sewer system.

The concept was dropped, and did not become part of the proposed $19 million project designed last year by Charles J. Kupper, township sewer engineer.

Still Feasible According to Mr. Giallella, the concept would have been feasible, and still is, particularly in a municipality where health hazards are immediate.

Among the "hazard" areas listed by Dr. Krohn are parts of New Monmouth, East Keansburg, Port Monmouth, Belford, Leonardo, Lincroft, the Bann Hollow Rd. section, and others.

Ceremony

If Sen. Sandman had been on time he said he would have endorsed Dumont over the loud speaker.

Sen. Sandman then went to the hotel's cafe room on a lower floor where he approached Sen. Dumont who was talking to friends. They shook hands and Sen. Sandman said: "Wayne, I made the long car ride to tell you I'm with you 100 per cent. I'll do anything I can for you."

Sen. Dumont then said: "Everything is alright now. Charley will head a special committee which will step up the campaign for me and the legislative candidates."

It was Sen. Richard R. Stout, West Allenhurst, who took both Sens. Dumont and Sandman around to the tables, introducing them to party members.

Exchange Greetings "Hello Russ. How are you?" asked Sen. Sandman as the two saw each other, then smiled and shook hands.

They chatted for several minutes. Mr. Woolley patted Sandman on the back several times; they shook hands again and the chairman said: "I'll be seeing you soon."

Mr. Woolley said: "Charley is here as my guest. He was glad to see me and I was glad to see him. We'll all be together as one team, now."

Sen. Sandman said: "The primary is over and there are no hard feelings. Anybody who continues to hold bad feelings or resentment shouldn't be in politics, anyway."

He added: "I told a conference of eight county chairmen earlier today in Woodbury that I am going all out to elect Dumont governor."

Those attending the dinner heard Sen. Dumont get off a blistering barrage of words aimed at his rival, Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

"The governor is lambasting the Legislature about bills it didn't pass. It was well it didn't pass some of his bills. He came up with weak narcotic bills. He said our narcotic measures were too strong, that you wouldn't get verdicts out of juries."

"The governor," said Sen. Dumont, "vetoed the bill which would require children to pledge allegiance to the flag. Some children have been taught not to respect the flag. The Legislature passed the bill without a dissenting vote but Hughes vetoed the measure because, he said, 'it's not in tune with the times.' We are now in the midst of an undeclared war in Viet Nam, and our soldiers are dying and he tells us the pledge is 'not in tune with the times.'"

"He won't get the chance to veto a similar bill because he won't be in office."

Action Asked He said that things that must be done immediately are an east-west highway connecting Monmouth County with Trenton; a proper business tax; help to curb air and water pollution; a new source of water supply; a major amount of home rule instead of centralized government in Washington and Trenton; a "Little Hoover Commission" to advise on activities of state agencies; a better tax structure.

Sen. Dumont praised the entire county GOP ticket and introduced all the candidates. "The Republican party is on the march again in Monmouth County. We will win on Nov. 2."

He predicted the GOP "will pull away the Independents and Democrats from the other party."

Robert C. Stanley, Navesink, dinner chairman said the affair raised more money (over $55,000) than any of the previous nine dinners.

The guests were greeted by J. Raymond DeRidder, Fair Haven, chairman of the finance committee; Chairman Woolley opened the ceremonies and Sen. Stout was on the advisory committee.

What is to be done about it: The governing body has selected as the central sewer plant site a 14-acre parcel on the J. Howard Smith fish factory tract, adjacent to Compton's Creek, Belford, near the bay.

According to a Kupper survey, the Belford site is considered the only adequate plant location from engineering and gravity-flow standpoint.

Option to the land has not been taken because of opposition by about 100 fishermen, members of the North Jersey Commercial Fishermen's Association, who operate out of the creek.

Dispersion Patterns Six weeks ago, state and federal health officials took dye tests in the creek and the bay to determine what the sewer plant dispersion patterns might be. Analysis of test results has not been completed, Mr. Ricigliano said yesterday.

As a result of Board of Health pressure, The Register learned, the Township Committee has decided to go ahead with acquisition of the site, without waiting for test results, on the theory that the plant outfall line can be run into the bay if it is not practical to use Compton's Creek.

Township Attorney Vincent C. DeMalo has been authorized by the committee, in executive session, to reopen negotiations with C.M. Cabbage, general manager of the J. Howard Smith firm.

Asked whether he is willing to sell the property, or grant an option to the township, Mr. Cabbage referred the question to his attorney, John M. Pillsbury.

Insist on Guarantee Mr. Pillsbury said: "Mr. Cabbage will sell for whatever price the township wants to pay but there will be no agreement until the township and the state provide guarantees that the fishing industry will not be affected."

The federal government has notified Middletown that it will not provide second stage funds, $150,000 in the form of an interest-free loan, for final engineering plans until a sewer plant site is purchased, or under option.

According to Mr. Kupper, it is likely to take six months to obtain these funds, after a site option is obtained and application filed.

At a Township Committee Board of Health meeting last night, Mr. Ricigliano told local officials that an interim dye test report may be forthcoming soon — possibly before the end of this month or early next month.

Although his comments regarding test results were described as "encouraging," he did not indicate whether the state will be able to provide "guarantees" for fishing interests in the interim or final report.

He indicated the final report might take another three months. (The final Register article will deal with a proposed regional system, possible sewer plant site, condemnation, dye test problems, details of the proposed municipal sewer plan, and the question of creating a sewer authority.)

RED BANK — Magistrate Francis K. Kennedy last night fined three drivers for careless driving.

Samuel M. Finclair of Brooklyn was fined $25 for hitting a parked car.

Fined $15 each were Norman J. Dwight of Marion St., here, for driving too fast for conditions, and Otha George of Shrewsbury Ave., here, for crossing the center line and causing an accident.

Magistrate Kennedy declined to hear a complaint signed by state Marine Police, charging a 37-year-old youth with speeding in a boat on the Navesink River. The case was referred to juvenile authorities.

Cabin Cruiser Goes Aground

MONMOUTH BEACH — "Wild Goose II," a 30-foot cabin cruiser owned by Harold Fletcher of Moorestown, went aground on the beach yesterday about half a mile south of the former Coast Guard station here.

Sandy Hook Coast Guardsmen hauled a boat sent to the cruiser's aid said Mr. Fletcher refused help and was able to refloat his craft unassisted. The cruiser was en route to Manasquan.

No reason was given for the beaching and no injuries to the owner or his passenger were reported.

Bartel Named

LONG BRANCH — George J. Bartel, administrator of Monmouth Medical Center, received notification today of his appointment to the board of governors of the Middle Atlantic Hospital Assembly, which encompasses the states of New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

The assembly conducts an annual three-day conference in Atlantic City and co-operates in the organization of seminars for administrative staffs throughout the three states.

Sandy Hook C.G. May Get A New Boat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees yesterday were reported to have approved $6.2 million for construction of 17 Coast Guard patrol boats for search and rescue operations, including two for New Jersey.

The boats are designed to replace 17 others which have been sent to Viet Nam.

One of the two for New Jersey would go to the Coast Guard station at Sandy Hook and the other to Cape May.

When the vessels were sent to Viet Nam, New Jersey lost three, one each at Sandy Hook and Cape May and the other at Manasquan Inlet. However, a surplus boat was moved from Cape May to Manasquan to take up the slack there.

The House had included no funds for the vessels in its version of the appropriations bill for the Treasury-Post Office Departments in the year beginning July 1 because the situation had not developed at that time.

Accepts $2,750 In Settlement

FREEHOLD — Louis Fusco, 609 Hoey Ave., Long Branch, accepted $2,750 yesterday in settlement of a suit for injuries suffered by his son, James, and for medical expenses, arising out of an auto accident.

James Fusco was hurt Jan. 18, 1964, in a collision of cars driven by Arthur L. Guild, 130 Ocean Ave., Monmouth Beach, and Miss Lorraine Strollo, 241 Chelsea Ave., Long Branch. He was a passenger in the Strollo car. The settlement was reached on a claim against Mr. Guild.

The Fuscos were represented by Ira J. Katochen, Long Branch, Mr. Guild, by Charles E. Starkey, East Orange.

GETS $10,000

FREEHOLD — A Jackson Township man received a $10,000 consent judgment yesterday in a suit against the estate of another man killed when their two cars collided on Rt. 34, Colts Neck.

Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill entered the judgment in favor of Henry J. Muller, for injuries, against the estate of Norman L. Burney, formerly of Neptune, who died as a result of the July 7, 1964, head-on collision.

A claim against Mr. Burney's widow, Margaret, owner of the Burney car, on grounds that he was her agent at the time of the accident, was dismissed. Harold T. McGovern, Newton, represented Mr. Muller, William J. O'Hagan, Jr., and Thomas F. Shebell, Jr., the defendants.

SEEKS FEE

FREEHOLD — A lawyer who successfully defended Howell Township Committeeman David Mitchell in a criminal trial for obtaining money under false pretenses has filed suit against Mr. Mitchell to collect a $1,500 fee.

Joseph F. Montabano, Clifton, says in the Superior Court action that he has received only $200 for his services in the trial conducted in Monmouth County Court in March.

Mr. Mitchell was acquitted on an indictment charging he took money from an insurance customer and failed to provide coverage called for in an agreement.

ACCEPT RESIGNATION

RUMSON — Borough Council last night accepted the resignation of Marshall Stecker from the Zoning Board of Adjustment post.

Mr. Stecker cited business reasons for leaving the board.

Mayor Charles S. Callman accepted the resignation "with regret." He termed Mr. Stecker's board service "valuable."

The mayor said he expects to name a successor to the post at the next council session.

Nurse-Social Worker On Head Start Staff

RED BANK — Mrs. Beatrice Clark of 26 Church St., Fair Haven, has been named nurse-social worker for the staff of Red Bank's Project Head Start.

Mrs. Clark is the seventh and final appointment to the professional staff that will begin classes for pre-kindergarten youngsters Tuesday, July 6, in River Street and Mechanic Street Schools.

The other professionals are Mrs. Margaret Mann, the director; Mrs. Sandra Whible, a speech therapist who will help with speech problems and development in all the Head Start classes, and four teachers: Mrs. Joan F. Smith, Mrs. Pauline Gibson, Mrs. Marilyn Siegler and Mrs. Jane Rudrow.

Mrs. Mann, who made the last appointment, said Mrs. Clark is a registered nurse, having graduated from the Ficklin Hospital School of Nursing.

She has taught as a substitute in Little Silver schools and has served as a public health nurse in the well baby clinic conducted by the Red Bank Board of Health.

City Council Members Say Fond Farewell

LONG BRANCH — Members praise for one another overflowed last night at the City Council's final get-together before the Thursday re-organization.

Mayor Milton F. Untermyer kicked off the tribute session by thanking the members of council for having him serve as mayor. He stressed that the excellent accomplishments of the council outweighed the disputes and noted that "I have been fortunate to have had superior people working for me."

He pointed with pride to the accomplishments of his administration: High rise apartments, playgrounds, a city garage, bolstering of the morale in the police department, removal of derelict properties and the dedication of the Elberon post office.

Councilwoman Lucy J. Wilson followed with an observation that Mr. Untermyer was "the best mayor we've ever had."

The council then unanimously adopted Mr. Cioffi's suggestion to send a letter of appreciation to defeated at-large Councilman Walter George, for his fine work on the governing body.

The Councilman Henry R. Cioffi noted that "however bitter our disagreements were, I have always felt he was a gentleman."

The rest of the council chimed in with the platitudes of praise throughout the meeting.

GUILTY PLEA

FREEHOLD — A Maryland man, Carl Deigert, arrested June 7 at Keyport on a charge of stealing $18.75 from the purse of Mrs. Mary Konish, pleaded guilty yesterday before Monmouth County Judge Thomas J. Smith. He will be sentenced July 16.

Judge Smith accepted a guilty plea from David Du Voll, New York City, charged with possession of burglar tools in Raritan Township, March 5. Sentencing was set for July 30, at the fire house.

FIREMEN TO MEET

BRIELLE — The last regular monthly meeting of the Monmouth County Firemen's Association before the summer season of the organization will be held Monday at 8 p.m., at the fire house.

The Register's Opinion

A Vote for Untermeyer

Naturally, this newspaper cannot cast a vote to select the mayor of Long Branch. If it were possible, though, the incumbent, Milton F. Untermeyer, would be the person to receive it.

Mr. Untermeyer "entered politics" in Long Branch for the public good. His service is not for personal gain and it isn't to further any political ambition. He offered himself to the electorate to effect some municipal reforms and to attempt to give his city good government.

Under his leadership, the public image of Long Branch has improved tremendously. Businessmen in that city are aware that conditions have improved, and we're sure the residents realize that most of their councilmen are conscientious and dedicated.

There are many more improvements that Long Branch needs before it can again become one of the state's finest cities. When the council meets Tuesday to select its mayor, we hope there are a sufficient number of its members who recognize that Mr. Untermeyer has done an outstanding job and that he should be entrusted to another term.

Hughes and Rutgers Teach-In

Gov. Hughes exercised good judgment in giving a qualified endorsement to the teach-in on U.S. foreign policy in Viet Nam held at Rutgers University.

A mild furor arose when a professor at the university denounced our foreign policy. His comments even brought forth cries for a legislative inquiry.

The governor said he defended the right of the professor to publicly disagree with U.S. policy in Southeast Asia. And he added while he does not agree with the professor's conclusions, the teach-in provided a forum for free men and open discussion.

And this, as far as we are concerned, is the nub of the whole issue. We, too, did not agree with what the professor had to say. But in the atmosphere of academic freedom that, fortunately, exists at Rutgers—he has a right to say what he did. As the governor stated—and rightly so—the professor's position was based not upon his political opinions but upon his reputation as a scholar.

Extreme care should be exercised by those who seek to curtail freedom of debate and academic freedom at a university. In so doing they are tampering with an important principle of the American system—one, as a matter of fact, for which our men are fighting in Viet Nam today.

Sylvia Porter: Your Money's Worth

Absenteeism Costs $13.6 Billion

On every working day, an estimated 3.5 million employees fail to show up for work because of "illness." At last count the cost of absenteeism to U.S. industry was a staggering $13.6 billion a year, in the form of wages, salaries and benefits alone.

PORTER

Norman Plummer, medical director of the New York Telephone Company and a well-known authority on the problem, "A good deal of today's absenteeism is justified, but much is not. With a carefully designed program absenteeism rates might be cut by as much as one-third."

High on the list of causes of absenteeism are colds and other respiratory infections, stomach aches and other digestive upsets. Injuries and accidents come next, then major illnesses such as heart disease, arthritis, rheumatism, cancer.

But the biggest single cause of absenteeism, Dr. Plummer believes, is mental and emotional illness. "This family of problems includes everything from alcoholism and severe depression to a fight over the breakfast table or the worker's feeling that he 'just doesn't want to go to work.'"

Now, however, U.S. companies are finally tackling the absenteeism problem on many fronts. One new approach is a corporation "sick leave pool." Employees in each department pool a given number of absence days, based on a year's experience of each department. A sick worker draws days from the pool. The advantage of this system is that it avoids a set number of absence days which many workers try to use up, whether or not they are sick.

Another approach is the awarding of extra vacation time for "unused" absence days or of extra days off for periods of perfect attendance. A Boston insurance company which launched this system two years ago—giving employees a paid day off for every 10 weeks of perfect attendance—reports its absenteeism rate is down by one-third.

A third approach is the on-the-job recreation program, for it's known that exercise is a deterrent to many illnesses. The President's Council on Physical Fitness is now starting a drive to boost employee physical fitness and slash absenteeism through "industrial recreation."

How, though, can industry tackle the subtle range of emotional disturbances which account for such an enormous proportion of absences? Here Plummer thinks the most effective step a corporation can take is to train supervisors and managers in such "subjects" as morale-building, helping employees to assume more individual responsibility for their jobs, administering "emotional first aid" to troubled employees.

Hundreds of companies are adding psychiatrists, psychologists and counselors to their staffs. These professionals are available to assist workers who admit they have emotional problems and they also can pinpoint a worker's emotional problem long before the individual himself recognizes it.

Moreover, company physicians are keeping in closer touch with the sick worker's own doctor in attempts to get the worker back to his job at an appropriate time after a severe illness. While some workers are eager to return to their jobs, others may stay home much longer than necessary to recuperate. An employee's morale may be badly undermined if he is not urged to come back to his job after a reasonable period of time.

There's no disputing that the problem of absenteeism is as delicate as it is widespread. There's also no disputing that with serious and sensitive efforts, U.S. companies could do much more to relieve it and could thereby save billions of dollars a year for both themselves and their employees.

John Chamberlain: These Days

We Are Run by the Splinters

Ray Bliss, the Republican national chairman, has sure stirred up the animals by his attack on the Free Society Association that has been formed by Barry Goldwater "to clean up all of the fuzziness about the word 'conservative.'"

CHAMBERLAIN

"What a strange way of showing loyalty," said one highly placed Republican who helped nominate Goldwater but who, as a Nixon man, is far removed from any kook fringe of the party. "Ray Bliss was Goldwater's own personal choice as a compromise chairman. Goldwater trusted him. Now he has singled out Barry's study and paper-writing group for criticism as a splinter element that is bound to dilute support of the official Republican organization. The irony of it is that there are at least eight other similar groups doing position papers and supporting task forces. Why didn't Ray Bliss denounce the Ripon Society or the Trumbull Society? And what about the National Citizens' Committee and Charley Tait's Committee for a Progressive Congress and Warren Sinsheimer's Project 68? All of these are precisely on a par with the Free Society Association, only doing their work from a liberal bias."

A deeper irony is that the same Ray Bliss who has denounced the Free Society Association as detrimental to the "two-party system" has gone out of his way to welcome John Lindsay's bid to become mayor of New York. Lindsay is deeply committed to winning in New York City by combining as many splinter elements as he can pick up. He is playing the "two-party system" down as Goldwater himself has never played it down.

So, while Ray Bliss is telling the world that Republicans "should present a united front to the opposition" nationally, John Lindsay bends on supplicating knees to Alex Rose, boss of the splinter Liberal Party, and asks for the blessing of a group that is "to the left of the Democratic left." No one is blaming Republican John Lindsay for trying to work up a fusion movement to support him for the mayoralty in a city that is normally a three-to-one shoe-in for a Democrat. But if it is good tactics for Lindsay to cultivate the splinters in New York City, why is it considered bad politics for a Free Society Association to create a study group to promote its own point of view nationally?

What Ray Bliss has not reckoned with is the fact that the two-party system has become unworkable without splinter societies. The Democratic Party, which has far more political sense these days than the Republicans, never denounces a splinter organization. It watches benignly while the Americans for Democratic Action, COPE, and Alex Rose's own New York Liberal Party set up shop to campaign for the particular ideas and the particular Democratic candidates that meet with their approval. It does not care in the least whether a man votes under the Liberal label or the traditional Democratic label as long as Democratic candidates benefit.

If Ray Bliss is really convinced of the need for two-party politics, he might meditate on the fact that the opposition to the single-issue, or fusion, movement in New York City is now centered in the Conservative Party's William Buckley, the editor and columnist who is slated to be named as the Conservative candidate for mayor by the time these words appear in print. Every other aspirant for the job, whether nominally Republican or Democrat, is busy kowtowing to the Liberal Party's Alex Rose. Next autumn it will be Rose versus Bill Buckley insofar as ideas count. The two splinter extremes will be fighting it out. Rose will win, of course, but Buckley will have the exhilaration that goes with being both witty and sincere.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Carrying the Word

Back in the hills at Ossining-on-Hudson an ancient Japanese bell sent a deep note crashing through the sighing pines. It breached the walls of the Maryknoll monastery and echoed with fervor through the little villages. Thirty-nine boyish missionary priests, supine on an altar, heard it and were sent to the far corners of the world to imitate the bell: carry the word everywhere.

BISHOP

ment easy, I was in Guatemala because there was a revolution.

A diminutive colonel with a Chaplin mustache was about to take the country back from the Communists. He was Castillo Armas. His opponent was el presidente Jacobo Arbenz. Armas won and rifle shots and mortar fire whistled past the old church and prisoners were tortured by the Reds inside the elegant prison on the hill.

Father Lenihan became my host. I slept in a spare room in the rectory. A woman who looked like a voodoo doll was the cook. She could have been a year older than the church. Gently, the priest tried to tell her in Spanish my breakfast wishes. "Do not tell me what the Yanqui wants," she replied in Spanish. "It is always the same: corna flakkas."

It doesn't require much time to get to know a good priest. Like a good minister or rabbi, he is in your corner before you ask him. Father Lenihan spent considerable time asking me the latest news about the Dodgers and the Giants. If baseball was biblical, he'd be a cardinal. He also wanted to know the football news, the latest fight extras, and was there any hope that Uncle Sam would forgive Joe Louis for his tax arrears.

His voice and intonation were pure Flatbush. I asked how a man such as he becomes a missionary. "It wasn't easy," he said in a low growl. "I studied hard to become a Maryknoll, but after I was ordained, I didn't want to go off to some far-away country. I longed for Brooklyn."

The longing was so deep that he asked his superior not to send him to the mission countries. The boss reminded him that the apostolate of the Maryknolls is to "carry the word" to the ends of the earth, and that Father Dan Lenihan was aware of this all along. Still, he didn't want to leave.

The superior granted his wish. Father Lenihan was sent, of all places, to Brooklyn. He was the newest priest in a large Italian parish. Father Dan was happy. The pastor told him he would have only two duties: One, to say the five-thirty mass every morning; the other was to answer the rectory bell.

A cinch. The young priest got in a supply of sports magazines and, most especially, Sporting News. He was going to read, and enjoy. The bell at the front door was not like the old Japanese bell at Maryknoll, but it was more insistent. Besides, it rang in his room beside his bed.

From the time Father finished the morning Mass at 6 a.m. until he went to bed at 10 p.m., the bell paused only to gather strength for the next ring. He ran down four flights of stairs to answer it, listened to dialects he could not comprehend, issued copies of birth certificates and death certificates, ran upstairs four flights, just in time to hear the bell ring again.

"A few months," Father said, "and I was through. I went back to my superior and begged him to send me off to some jungle, preferably one with no doorbells." The boss wasn't inclined to grant the plea. "You're doing good work in Brooklyn," he said with a grim smile.

"Well, in time he gave me a break. I was sent here to Guatemala to work among the natives. No bells ring. I'm happy. Sometimes I bowl on those warped alleys in the American Club. Sometimes, as a lark, I ride a mule up to Chichicastenango to say hello to the other Maryknolls."

"To where?" I said. He nodded. "You heard it right. Chichicastenango. Sounds like a cha-cha." That was the last I saw of Father Dan. He went from there to Africa.

He heard the bell. The big one . . .

Payment Is Delayed For Street Repairs

LONG BRANCH — The City Council last night voted five to two with one abstention to hold up a $15,190.57 payment to Michael J. Stavola Company, Inc. for the paving of Branchport Ave., until it determines if the work meets the qualifications laid down.

Voting against pulling the bill were Mayor Milton F. Untermyer and Councilman Robert L. Penn, who noted that there was a further payment of from $4,000 to $5,000 to be made, and that if the work was not up to par the final payment could be withheld. Samuel A. Marks abstained from the voting.

Action came after Councilman Edgar N. Dinkelspiel and Councilwoman Lucy J. Wilson noted that they have received complaints about the quality of the street between Broadway and Atlantic. The street was paved last year but as recently as last week patching was being done to several spots in the street.

Mrs. Wilson asked for a test to determine if the road was fixed up according to plans and Richard Noble, a representative of city engineer Otis R. Seaman, said that could be arranged very easily.

—Leased the parking area, at the former municipal stadium, Ocean Ave. to the Long Branch Education Association for $750.

—Granted the Anchor Home for the Aged, Inc., a variance to build a nursing home on Hulick St.

—Voted to approve at least six more members from the ministerial, education and social welfare aspects of Long Branch to the Citizens' Advisory Committee, a group formed under the workable program of the Urban Renewal Administration.

—Approved a meeting with the Industrial Development Committee to discuss the possible ways to attract industry into the city.

Asks Delay In Granting Inn's License

RUMSON — Richard D. Porter, Red Bank attorney, last night asked Borough Council to delay granting of a liquor license to Reidy's Inn, 42 Avenue of Two Rivers.

Mr. Porter said that George Reidy, the applicant, is conducting "an illegal operation" in that he failed to comply with stipulations affixed to a variance to expand his premises last year.

The attorney, who represents Mrs. Katherine Frank, an adjoining property owner, noted that Mr. Reidy was to have furnished off-street parking, according to the Board of Adjustment ruling. He said Mr. Reidy entered into contract to purchase an adjacent lot from his client for parking space and later failed to do so.

Borough Council noted that the applicant now is appealing a Zoning Board ruling which denies a requested amendment to the variance. It ruled the liquor license which be granted when a Superior Court ruling it returned regarding Mr. Reidy's appeal. It was said that legal recourse is available, should the ruling be not favorable to the applicant and should he not then comply with the variance stipulation.

Council also granted nine other retail consumption liquor licenses, three package store licenses and a club license.

First Aiders Ask Aid In Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — A request for first aid funds formerly was tendered to the Township Committee at last night's meeting.

Jack Walzer, Lakeside Ave., told the committee that the three first aid squads rendering ambulance service to the township, New Shrewsbury, Lincroft and Freehold, had difficulty in soliciting funds here.

Mr. Walzer said that under present New Jersey law the committee could donate a total of $3,000 to the squads. He suggested that $1,000 be given to each.

"Three-thousand dollars is not much in a municipal budget, nor in the operations budget of any squad," he added.

Mr. Walzer maintained that in the past 10 years the first aid squads covering the township had received little support from the committee.

First Such Request
Mayor Joseph L. Morreau, Jr.,

said this was the first time representatives of the three squads had appeared before the committee to make a personal appeal.

A spokesman for the Freehold First Aid Squad said that a recent survey showed that it costs $25 each time an ambulance answered a call. He added that the Freehold First Aid Squad had doubled its ambulance calls in Colts Neck in the past five years.

The mayor promised that the request would be given "sincere consideration" in preparing next year's budget.

Official Would Hire Rainmaker for State

SEA GIRT — A high ranking state official thinks a professional rainmaker should be hired to help end the water famine in northern New Jersey.

He was serious about it. He told The Register: "If we don't get long, steady rains by the weekend I'm willing to call on a rainmaker, or meteorologist, as the last resort."

Early last week Gov. Richard J. Hughes put a ban on excessive use of water in municipalities in the northern part of the state. This developed after a conference with several mayors. New York is also in the midst of a critical drought.

This section has not, as yet, suffered from the water shortage.

Rainmaker
If New Jersey officials do decide to bring about artificial rainfall they would probably contact the East's most noted rainmaker, Dr. Wallace E. Howell, of Lexington, Mass.

Howell may best be remembered when he was hired several years ago by the then New York Mayor William O'Dwyer to bring rain into the drought-stricken Catskill watershed which comes under the jurisdiction of the city.

It so happened that when Howell went to work a cloudburst occurred and farmers in the Catskill area filed claims against New York City for damages caused by floods. The suits later were dropped.

The rainmaker never took credit for causing the rain to fall but he did collect $23,000 at $100 a day for his efforts.

Several Applicants
Now, Mayor Robert F. Wagner may call on Howell again, or some other rainmaker, to bring down rain into the same Catskill shed. Several of them have applied for the job but they refuse to pinpoint the spots where the promised rain will fall.

Rainmakers will not guarantee they can make rain. They no longer drop dry ice on clouds from planes. They now use generators to send into the sky fumes containing silver iodide. This condenses into crystals to form artificial seeds around which the moisture in the clouds can turn into raindrops.

According to people who know, New Jersey has never called on a rainmaker to end a water shortage.

"If a rainmaker can help us let's get one, regardless of the price. It's worth the gamble," said the powerful state official.

Who knows, the mere mention of a rainmaker may bring the rain down on us today — we hope.

Air Charges In Auction Site Incident

MANALAPAN — The alleged theft of eight pairs of boys' trousers—with a total value of $8—resulted yesterday in charges and countercharges in a case stemming from an incident at the Englishtown auction sales.

Jesse Pitts of 34 Center St., Cliffwood, is charged first with the theft of the pants. Lewis Goldman of Camden signed the complaint against Pitts on the day of the incident, May 1.

The second complaint, signed at the same time, was against Pitts for using loud and abusive language to Security Officer Charles White at the sale.

Bail for the first count was set at $100, with $50 additional on the second charge. Pitts stayed in the Monmouth County Jail until May 3, when bail was posted.

Charges three and four in the case are against Pitts and White and allege atrocious assault.

All four charges were heard in a preliminary hearing yesterday before Magistrate Earle Harrington.

Mr. Pitts, in a complaint signed, June 15, which was date of the original preliminary hearing, later postponed, charges Mr. White with atrocious assault.

Testimony revealed that Mr. Pitts claimed that White hit him with the butt of his revolver "two or three times."

The fourth complaint, also signed June 15, was by John Davis of 16 Marcy St., Freehold, who charges Pitts with atrocious assault with intent to kill.

Magistrate Harrington reserved decision on all four counts of the case, which were heard individually.

Innocent pleas were entered on all counts.

Attorney for Mr. Pitts is Edward Farry, Joseph H. Gibson is appearing for Mr. White.

Pupils' First Aid Course Is Held

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — First aid is an exercise in learning and common sense, which enables the student to think and act in a calm manner under emergency conditions.

This was the theme of a recent program offered by the local First Aid Squad when Victor Miller and John Strumolli visited Middle Road School and spoke to the three sixth grade classes.

The two volunteers demonstrated equipment and the ambulance facilities, and pointed out the proper use of supplies. The presentation was to conclude a one-month teaching unit that utilized text workbooks and teaching manuals prepared by the Behavioral Research Labs, Palo Alto, Calif.

Mrs. Carmen Palumbo, school nurse, arranged for the books and film strips through Johnson and Johnson, New Brunswick.

The program centered around common household and play emergencies which the school child is most likely to encounter. Sixth grade teachers stressed the importance of "what to do" when an emergency arises, and the need to have on hand, both at home and elsewhere, proper first aid materials.

Congressional Wife

Entertaining and being entertained in Washington runs the gamut from almost production-line affairs to the simplest and most straightforward meeting with people. For a new Congressman's wife, the first few months in Washington can be hectic. Invitations come from top officials, businessmen, clubs and party organizations. Most Washington entertainment is much more lavish than anything many of us have witnessed before. Jim and I waited months before attempting anything on our own except entertaining visiting family and close friends in our Maryland apartment.

Not knowing which invitations to accept makes the first months in Washington confusing. There are a variety of "circuits" here. There is the "banquet circuit," the "cocktail circuit," and after-hours events galore. Conventions are in town at the rate of several a week.

Embassies entertain continually for the stream of foreign officials who pay calls on Washington. Congressmen are often included in the invitations from the embassies. Jim and I decided early that we would try to avoid endless party-going. It's not that we don't like people, but with Jim's full schedule at his office here in Washington and the one back home, we planned on usually just attending those events here that have a direct bearing on Monmouth and Ocean Counties.

When we are home in Wall Township we prefer modest and relaxing entertaining. I usually serve a buffet if our guest list is larger than 10. Otherwise we have a sit down family-style dinner.

Recently Jim and I decided to have a buffet in one of the House dining rooms to thank everyone who has been so helpful to us since our arrival in Washington. We invited members of Jim's Committee on Public Works, several of his colleagues, a number of his friends here in Washington and his staff.

Most of the people here feel there are too many extra calories in pre-meal nibbling so I served a single hors d'oeuvres dip. The menu consisted of platters of roast beef, turkey, assorted sandwiches, Swedish meatballs, shrimp, salads, coffee and assorted cookies.

Red, white and blue flowers with silver candelabra on either side made up the centerpiece. I didn't worry about the menu because the House dining room is noted for its delicious food. Whenever I am preparing such a meal I always decide that this is the time to experiment with a new recipe. This philosophy has resulted in a few disasters and, consequently, Jim keeps hoping that I won't try another recipe again.

always have enjoyed having an outdoor barbecue when the weather gets as nice as it is now. However, because we are living in an apartment in Maryland, I have to forego this enjoyment until we get back to Wall Township this summer.

It takes food to reproduce the thought that nourishes and I'm reminded that many an important decision has been made at the table whether a banquet for several thousand; a business lunch or a family get together. Eating and the relaxation it provides seem to make the world go 'round.

GOP Women To Hold Picnic

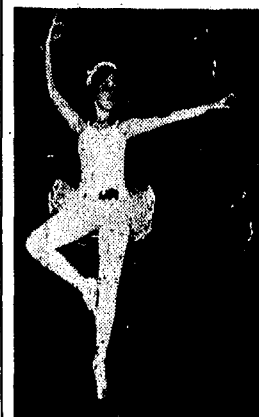

OCEAN TOWNSHIP — Plans for a fund-raising picnic to be held tomorrow at Shark River Hills Park were made by the Shore Area Women's Republican Club at the closing meeting of the season in the home of Mrs. Cynthia Eckert here.

Proceeds will be used to aid poverty-stricken families in Appalachia and to initiate a small, monthly news letter. Mrs. Eckert is picnic chairman and Mrs. Phyllis Spohrer, ticket chairman.

Three club members were elected to Republican County Committee posts. They are Mrs. Dorothy Daynard, district 2; Mrs. Barbara Bajart, district 11; and Mrs. Mary Ann Peterson, district 6.

The club's welfare chairman, Mrs. Hannelore Sweetwood, announced that she is seeking an appointment with Sen. Clifford P. Case, to present the club's Social Security petition to him. The petition, which would liberalize the Social Security Act, has more than 1,000 signatures from all over the state.

New Discotheque

'The Jerk' Is au Go Go

LONG BRANCH — The "Jerk" has arrived on the East Coast. It's being done at Voyager au Go Go, new discotheque opened Friday at Second and Brighton Aves. by two Harvard men, Dick Saxe and his brother-in-law, Bob Meredith, both of Elberon.

The "Jerk" — to these 46-year-old eyes, at least — is not so much a dance as an undulation, punctuated in time to the pound of a bass guitar with violent thrusts of hip, shoulder, and arms.

It's done by a boy and a girl who are only nominally partners; once immersed in the driving rhythm, they seem to have little to do with each other. They face one another about 10 feet apart and writhe.

It's fascinating to watch, and it undoubtedly leads to considerable suppleness of physique.

25 Couples
There were maybe 25 couples of these undulators at Voyager au Go Go Friday night. They writhed to such selections as "I Can't Get No Satisfaction," shouted by the Rolling Stones; and "A Hard Day's Night" shrilled by the Beatles.

(There was also a catchy little number which exhorted us to "be true to your school just like you are to your girl," but we missed the title and most of the lyric in the twangy melange of super-amplified guitars.)

The music, played on two turntables and piped through a 50-watt Scott amplifier, emerges through loudspeakers spotted in the discotheque's attractive main room. Tables with red and white checkered cloths surround a small dance floor. Travel posters from "Wonderful Copenhagen," "Beograd, Yugoslavia," "Barbados — Island in the Sun," "Quebec — La Belle Province," and other exotic spots look down from the walls.

Light Soft, Music Not
Dim light, which somehow seems to go with the twangy music, comes from candles in jars on the tables and a rotating beacon in the ceiling which casts traveling spots of red, blue, amber, and green. Windows are covered with paper that imitates stained glass.

It's eerie — but we found it pleasant as we sat and watched and sipped our root beer through straws.

Teenage discotheque devotees are offered a wide variety of soft drinks — no liquor is served — as well as potato chips, pretzels, cheese twists, and sandwiches, all made in a kitchen which shares the room where the record man spins his disks.

The patrons wear "the uniform" — slacks or a short skirt and sleeveless jersey, or a shift for the girls; jeans or chinos and an open-necked shirt for the boys.

Au Go Go

Long, straight hair and gold earrings in pierced lobes are "au Go Go" for the girls, but as yet we saw no Beatle haircuts nor beards on their partners.

By 10 o'clock, when we left, Voyager au Go Go was getting crowded. The dance floor was full, and at the tables you could see, but not hear, youthful huddles earnestly discussing youthful concerns.

Dick and Bob, the proprietors, are assisted by Dick's sister, Virginia, who attends Dana Hall, and Bob's wife, Kathy, who goes to Boston University. The idea for the Voyager, Dick explained, came from similar spots which abound around Harvard Square, in Cambridge, Mass.

Live folk music, Dick promised, will be featured on week-ends.

"We're trying it out for the summer at present," he went on. "Later on maybe we'll make it permanent, depending on its success."

As we left, a new cluster of teenagers approached under the lighted marquee. The twangy drive of the discotheque, heard through the open door, already made them undulate in anticipation.

WORK APPRECIATED
FORT MONMOUTH — Sgt. First Class Chide S. Sherrod received a certificate of appreciation before departing for an assignment as chief clerk of the Army Post office in Seoul, Korea. He was an administrative specialist in the Army Satellite Communications Agency.

Other members of the cast include Vicki Fredericks, Karl Bernsdriff, Robert Amron, Joseph Ferrara and Mrs. Sally Ferrara.

World War I Pilot

Recollections of a 1917 'Fly-Boy'

LITTLE SILVER — "I was just a fly-boy," Clark C. Merritt of Fairview Ave. said as he turned the leaves of an aging scrapbook.

Photos of Curtiss "Jennies," De Havilland DH-4's and British Avros flown by men in strangely old-fashioned uniforms cover the pages. There's a Jenny in an Immelmann turn, another completing a loop. A DH-4, nose-heavy with its 400-hp Liberty engine, flies straight and level on a practice bomb run over the flat Texas landscape. An Avro rears up for takeoff, looking home-made and rickety with its long forward skid thrust out between its wheels to prevent nose-overs.

"There I am; there's the fly-boy," Mr. Merritt exclaimed, pointing to a snapshot of an ancient biplane being cranked by a soldier in campaign hat and spiral puttees.

Good Ship
"That's me in the cockpit," the old pilot went on. "That Jenny was a good ship. It was the 'H' model, with an OX-5 engine — 30 horsepower, wasn't it? She was built in the USA — much stronger than the Canadian-built Jennies. She had a seven-to-one safety factor."

Mr. Merritt, who lives in a one-room, pine-paneled, air-conditioned little house called "The Wigwam," next to his plastic products plant on Fairview Ave., was reminiscing over his experiences in the U.S. Air Service from 1917 until his discharge in 1920.

Now nearing 70, the old pilot is a slender, wiry man with sharp, blue eyes, who packs his days with activity. Besides running his business, which turns out all sorts of molded plastic products, he cultivates corn, cabbage, beets, peppers, tomatoes and other vegetables in gardens around his Wigwam.

Follows Market
A former stockbroker, he's an ardent follower of the stock market, and spends a week out of every month traveling around the United States and Canada looking over the properties he's investing in.

He has a son and a daughter, both married "and doing very well." He lives alone since his wife died several years ago.

A son of Alfred Merritt, who discovered the world-famous iron deposits on Minnesota's Mesabi

Iron Range, Clark Merritt came originally from Duluth.

"I'd gotten interested in flying by watching the early fliers before the first World War," he explained. Shortly after seeing an air show at a state fair in San Francisco in 1915, he made his first flight—in an early dirigible.

"I was 19 when we got into the war in 1917," Mr. Merritt recalled. "I worked my way as a fireman on a lake freighter from Duluth down to Buffalo to enlist."

No Questions
"You had to be a college graduate for the Air Service; I'd only been to high school. But when the man in Buffalo heard my name, he asked me if I were any relation to Wally Merritt, who'd graduated from Harvard Law School. Wally was my cousin. There was no problem. They never even asked me if I'd been to college," he continued.

Passing the required physical examination in Chicago, Mr. Merritt was posted to the School of Military Aeronautics at the University of Texas. From there he went to Camp Dick, near Dallas, and was sent to Kelly Field, in San Antonio, for flight training.

"We cleared and built that field before we learned to fly," the old pilot explained with a chuckle. "Everything was pretty primitive."

Flight training was remarkably thorough, Mr. Merritt remembered.

Civilian Teachers
"We had civilian flight instructors at first; there weren't enough qualified instructors in the Army. We thought they were big men; they drew $1,000 a month for teaching us to fly. That was big money in those days," he said.

Flight training started with four or five hours dual instruction in a Jenny or an Avro. The student pilot was then turned loose for his first solo flight.

An hour and a half more dual instruction followed so the instructor could correct the student's errors. Then the fledgling pilot was turned loose solo again.

After his second solo, the student pilot was trained intensively during 20 more hours of dual instruction — instruction given through a Gosport tube connecting him to his instructor in the front cockpit. You could hear, but you couldn't answer back.

Instruction in cross-country flying and acrobatics was followed by a final checkout flight at 70 to 80 hours.

Good Training
"It was pretty good training," Mr. Merritt commented. "At 70 or 80 hours, you could fly, but you'd also started to realize how much about it you didn't know . . . Of course, no one knew very much in those days. They'd just figured out how to get out of a tailspin."

Mr. Merritt's instructor in his Jenny was Eddie Stinson, who later founded the Stinson Aircraft Corp.

The war ended just as the young pilot received his silver wings.

"We were held in the service to close down airfields the gov-

A County Landmark

TWIN LIGHTS — HIGHLANDS

A majestic example of the rich historical lore of Monmouth County is the Twin Lights Memorial in Highlands. Overlooking Sandy Hook Bay, the memorial, in days of old, served as the only double lighthouse in the world. Though the lighthouse was built in 1862, the location, which is more than 200 feet above sea level, was used by the British to warn ships as early as 1746. A Marine Museum now occupies the north wing and features nautical items. It is open to visitors every day, except Monday, from 1 to 5 p.m. The grounds are open daylight hours every day.

The sponsors of this page encourage you to visit this historical and interesting spot. It is located just above the Highlands Bridge. Take Highland Ave. off the bridge to the lights. The view of the bay and ocean is magnificent.

About 30 years ago Hy Levinthal, of Trenton, N. J., wrote about a defensive signal that all experts have enthusiastically adopted. His Suit Preference Signal is a way to show by your play in one suit where you have your side strength.

West leads the singleton ace of clubs, the best opening. Unless West is crazy, this lead of dummy's suit is clearly marked as a singleton.

If the defenders are non-experts, West will lead a diamond at the second trick, hoping to reach his partner's hand with the suit he has bid. This is natural, but it doesn't work.

South wins the diamond switch and draws trumps. Then he runs the clubs and gives up one spade at the end, scoring 650 points for game, rubber and one overtrick.

Expert Signal
East defeats the contract by using the expert signal. East plays the ten of clubs at the first trick. This play of his highest club cannot mean that East wants a club continuation. Everybody knows that the lead is a singleton.

Instead, this signal means that East's side strength is in spades, the higher side suit, instead of diamonds, the lower side suit.

Heeding this signal, an expert West shifts to the three of spades at the second trick. East takes his two spades and returns a club. West ruffs and returns a spade. East ruffs and leads another club. West's ruff puts the contract down three before South can even gain the lead.

Some players use this signal so much that they lose sight of the primary use of the high card—as a signal to show strength in that suit rather than as a way to show strength in a different suit.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: Spades—8 7 4. Hearts—K Q 10 9 8. Diamonds—A K. Clubs—8 4 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. You have 12 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, enough for an optional bid. You decide to bid because you have a very strong five-card major suit.

Long Branch Council Holds Off Meter Pact

LONG BRANCH — City Council last night voted 7 to 1 to table formalization of the parking meter agreement with the Chamber of Commerce until more information on the yearly receipts from the meters is obtained. Councilman Edgar N. Dinkelspiel voted against the motion.

The move came after City Manager James F. Roosevelt had announced moments earlier that the compromise plan approved by the council members in caucus last week was an administrative matter and did not require a vote from the council.

In fact, Mr. Roosevelt said that he already had informed the chamber of commerce that their plan to forsake monies appropriated by the council for Christmas lighting in return for free parking in four city lots had been approved.

3 Signs on Order
He noted that he already had ordered signs for the lots limiting free parking to two hours and added that, when the signs are ready, the meters will be moved to alternate locations.

Councilmen Vincent J. Mazza and Henry R. Cioffi agreed that the council should vote on the formalization of the matter with Mr. Mazza, asking for a report of meter receipts from 1961 until the present time.

Mr. Roosevelt said earlier that the four parking lots are located on Branchport, Brighton and Union Aves. and Russell Court.

Mr. Cioffi noted that it was his feeling that the people of the city were abusing the two hour free parking rule and staying in one spot all day, thus limiting patrons of stores and offering no improvement to the businessmen of the community.

In the past, the council usually has appropriated $1,500 to help the city merchants foot the Christmas lighting bill. The businessmen pay the other $2,000 needed on the lighting.

One of the main arguments against approval of the deal is that there would be no way to force the merchants to pay for the lighting themselves. Supposedly, the $1,500 extra would be gathered by raising the assessments on each individual merchant for the lighting bill but there is no provision to force them to pay the money.

Another factor to consider is the more than $108,000 debt the city has accumulated on the parking bonds.

Several spectators at the meeting spoke out against the plan, including Harry Brody of 329 Hollywood Ave. who said that if the deal was approved the taxpayers would be subsidizing the local businessmen by providing free parking.

Chamber officials have claimed for some time now that one of the reasons for the decline of business in the city is because of inadequate parking facilities for prospective customers.

The views of City Council have been that the free parking areas probably would be filled by store employees and would not increase business for the stores.

Seek Bandits In Meadows
EAST RUTHERFORD (AP)—Hundreds of police, aided by helicopters, searched without success in the North Jersey meadows last night for two bandits who got away with a $14,000 payroll.

Two other suspects were flushed from beneath a truck in nearby Carlstadt not long after the holdup at J. P. Patti and Co., Inc., a roofing supply firm.

The bandits bound six persons inside the company office, took $240 from Mayor Fred Heinig of Little Ferry and pistol-whipped a policeman responding to an alarm. They exchanged shots with the partner of the injured officer as they fled.

CUP CASE — A second floor display case and eight windows at Steinbach's Red Bank store contain Steinbach's salute to its Holmdel neighbor, the Lily-Tulip Cup Corp. Each window has a different combination of colors co-ordinated with the garments worn by the models. The design was by Edwin Natter, the store's display director. The second floor display, above, catches the eyes of Robert Hope, manager, and Mrs. Mae Kellam, personnel director.

Sweeps Queen to Get $100 Bond, Many Gifts

RED BANK — Beauty and charm will really pay off this year for the girl named queen of the National Sweepstakes Regatta.

Besides the traditional $100 savings bond, she will receive gifts from 41 member stores of the Retail Trade Board, an affiliate of the Community Chamber of Commerce.

The contest is open to single girls aged 16 to 25, and closes Wednesday. Applications and information are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 5 Broad St.

These, the chamber reports, are the gifts the winner can look forward to:

A watch-bracelet from Steinbach's, red roses from Colonial Flowers, a nylon nightie and baby doll pajamas from Lerner's, a weekend case from Surray Luggage, a sweater from Fashion Fair, a gold bracelet from Mildred Spector, a handbag from Shirley Shops, a bathing suit from Vogel's, tweed skirt or slacks from J. Kridel, cosmetics from Ermine, a lady's shaver from Woolworth's, a transistor radio from Anderson's and a dozen pairs of hosiery from J. Yanko.

But that's just the start: a hair dryer from Newberry's, a silver charm bracelet from Reussille's, a treasure chest from Acme, a travel iron from Better Housekeeping, a beaded or embroidered sweater from the Straus Co., a home fire alarm from Prown's, and key case and wallet from Carroll's.

Also monogrammed towels from Sherman's, perfume from Parke Drugs, a pair of shoes from Oliver Shoes, a badminton set from Sherwood's, a hooked rug from Baynton's, cosmetics for men from the Village Prep Shop, a pen from Louis Furst, a correspondence case from the Sheldon Card Shop, comb, brush and mirror from Melina Jewelers, the queen's crown from Love Lane, and a mohair sweater from the Surprise Store.

There will also be gift certificates from the Red Bank Youth Center, Bob and Betty Shop, Hobby Headquarters, Abbey Men's Shop, Flora, John Daniels, Goldin's Men's Shop, A. S. Miller Shoe Co., Clayton and Magee and Junior Bazaar.

JOINS THE JOB CORPS — Fred Crine, Red Bank, postmaster, congratulates James Whaley, 17, of 11 William St., Fair Haven, after swearing him into the Job Corps yesterday. Mrs. Stanley Arasian, New Shrewsbury, an employment specialist with the Red Bank Job Corps office, looks on. Young Whaley got off to a flying start when he left by air taxi from Red Bank Airport at 7 o'clock this morning for New York and a plane for San Francisco. The local Job Corps won approval from Washington, D. C. headquarters for the air taxi service — the first time travel arrangements were made locally instead of nationally. The local office argued convincingly that the air taxi was more economical in time and money than travel plans set up in Washington.

Fair Haven's Democrats Favor Commission Plan

FAIR HAVEN — Democratic council candidates have been quick to make it clear that they support the Neighborhood Action Council's campaign for a Human Relations Commission. Their Republican counterparts will maintain a suspenseful silence until Monday night's Borough Council meeting.

All four men received letters from NAC yesterday, requesting support for creation of the commission and other measures to foster better human relations in the borough.

John M. Cannon and Philip A. Clark, the Democrats, have issued a statement through Mr. Clark, saying such a commission need not be centered on racial problems, but could serve as a watchdog for any group with an opinion that needed airing.

James T. Buckley, Jr., and Ernest F. Beattie, the Republican candidates, joined in a statement to the Register that said: "We acknowledge receipt of the letters from NAC with reference to the establishment of a Human Relations Commission. We are giving thoughtful consideration to all aspects of the problem. We feel that not only the NAC, but also the Mayor and Council and all interested citizens should hear first hand our opinions on this subject. Therefore, on Monday night at the council meeting, we will publicly state our answer to the problem."

The NAC is also seeking support from the local political clubs.

The Democrats, at a recent meeting, voted unanimously to favor the proposals. Robert T. Dudley, president of the club, summed up a lengthy discussion it held, by stating "We would be sorry to see this become a political issue. Our hope is that everyone will support a bipartisan commission for the benefit of the whole borough."

The Republican Club is not slated to meet until next month.

Mr. Clark stated "A Human Relations Commission could serve the town of Fair Haven in a lot of areas besides racial housing." He added, "The white man has just as many rights as the colored man. Through such a commission, any group, a majority or minority, would be assured of not taking a raw deal. The commission might bring problems of religious, racial, age or political groups to the attention of our leaders and the public."

Monday night's council meeting, at which an ordinance providing for borough participation in a regional sewerage system is to have its public hearing, promises to be well-attended.

FBI Charges Woman With Ring Theft

NEWARK—Mrs. James Moore, 19, of 72 Chestnut St. Navesink, was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Asbury Park.

Ralph W. Bachman, special agent in charge of the FBI, said a federal complaint was filed before U.S. Commissioner David Goldstein in Asbury Park charging Mrs. Moore with a crime on a government reservation, the theft of a diamond ring valued at about $400 from the home of an officer at Fort Monmouth, where Mrs. Moore had been employed for two days as a domestic.

Following the arrest, Mrs. Moore was arraigned before Commissioner Goldstein and was released in $500 bail pending further court action.

Pirates Crush Dodgers, 13-3

Say Hey, look what Willie did. Willie Stargell, that is. The slugging Pittsburgh outfielder, who takes his glasses off to play ball, hammered Los Angeles pitching for three home runs and a double Thursday night, driving in six runs as the Pirates crushed the National League-leading Dodgers 13-3. Riding a month-long streak that has propelled him into the race for home-run leadership, Stargell brought his total for the season to 20 with his latest outburst. Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants leads the majors with 22. Against the Dodgers, Stargell homered with the bases empty in the first and with one on in the third against 11-game winner Don Drysdale, struck out in the fourth, then connected for his third homer against reliever John Purdin with two on in the sixth. He came up in the eighth against Mike Kekich and doubled, shooting a line drive down the left-field line that fell two feet short of the stands. While Stargell was leading a 15-hit attack, St. Louis belted Cincinnati 11-4 with a 12-hit offensive. Philadelphia downed San Francisco 3-1, the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 3-1 and Houston whipped the New York Mets 4-2.

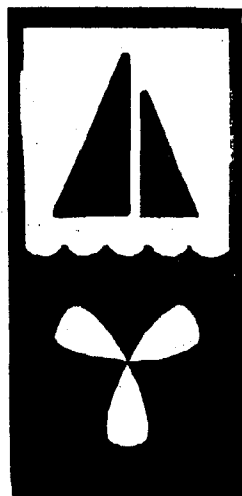

Stargell was joined in homer hitting for the Pirates by Bob Bailey and Jim Pagliaroni. Wes Parker drove in all the Dodger runs with a sacrifice fly and a two-run homer off Don Cardwell, who got the victory for a 5-2 record with a four-hitter. Drysdale lost his third straight and now is 11-6. The Cardinals, gaining only their eighth victory in the last 29 games, did most of the damage against Jim O'Toole, who suffered his sixth loss against only one victory. Phil Gagliano rapped a three-run homer and Lou Brock and Bob Uecker each stroked two-run singles while Tracy Stallard brought his record to 4-2 with relief help from Don Dennis. The Giants scored in the second inning on singles by Len Gabrielson, Tom Haller and Hal Lanier but the Phillies moved ahead to stay with a two-run sixth built on a walk and singles by Cookie Rojas, John Callison and Tony Gonzalez.

JUNIOR SKIPPER — "Junior Skipper," the latest by William Pearsall, is a book parents should make a MUST for their young family boatmen.

Boating is one of America's most popular sports and some of our most enthusiastic boatmen are young people. This book is designed to inform young boatmen and instruct them in the necessary skills needed to "Make sure — make shore."

For example, a few of the questions asked and answered are:

What are the different kinds of boats and how are they operated?

What is the necessary equipment for a boat and how should it be taken care of?

What do certain weather and water conditions indicate and how can they be used to the best advantage?

Bill Pearsall has based his book on his own experiences with the New York State Young Boatman's Safety Course — a course that has influenced boating instruction in Alabama, Florida, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Michigan, Oregon and South Carolina.

At the end of each chapter there are questions pertaining to the preceding text, taken directly from the Young Boatman's Safety Course. More questions and answers appear at the end of the book along with a glossary of boating terms. There are special chapters on water skiing, skin and snorkel diving, and the role of the United States Coast Guard.

More than 50,000 children in the state of New York have been certified to operate motor boats alone in a state-sponsored course of small craft instruction, now in its sixth year. The program, and the youngsters in it, are the subject of Pearsall's "Junior Skipper."

The book portrays the manner in which a group of children from Hampton Bays, N.Y., earned their boating certificates. It shows the youngsters, ashore and afloat, as they are taught the basics of boating by officers of the Coast Guard Auxiliary. The lessons learned, says the author, are not limited to any single state or region; they are applicable throughout the country, wherever children are introduced to boats and boating.

Under state law, in New York, children of the ages 10 through 14 must take a training program, known formally as the Young Boatman's Safety Course, before they can operate a motorboat alone. A youngster who successfully completes training receives a certificate which permits him solo operation. The N. Y. program has been so well received that many communities throughout the country are adopting this method of instruction to their own needs. (It appears to be a sound one. Youngsters at 17 are required to take a test for operating a motor vehicle. It too, works fine.)

In photos and text, "Junior Skipper" shows youngsters as they learn the rules of the road; proper equipment for a boat; basic seamanship; weather conditions; the importance of charts and aids-to-navigation; and the manner in which boats are used for skin diving, water skiing, cruising, fishing and camping. Each chapter of the book presents a summary of questions and answers taken directly from the Young Boatman's Safety Course.

Pearsall certainly is not new to the boating sport. Bill, who is great on boating himself, has been writing about the sport close to 20 years. He is the author of two previous books on water sports and is a motion picture producer. He has produced numerous films for Evinrude Motors and other organizations. Many of his pictures take in the use of small craft, here and abroad. Bill has covered a number of major power boat races, among them the Gold Cup, President's Cup and the National Sweepstakes Regatta here in Red Bank.

Middletown Youth Athletic Group Getting Set for Championships

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP — Competition in the Middletown Youth Athletic Association baseball leagues is rapidly drawing to a conclusion. Three Boys' Division Leagues have rained out games to make up on July 8. Should there be first place ties after this date, the week of July 13 will be set for playoffs before the three league winners to go at each other. The team with the best regular season percentage will draw a bye in the championship playoff. The championship final is scheduled for Saturday, July 24, at Bodman Park. The Junior Division playoffs are slated to begin July 17 with the championship tilt set for July 24. The St. Mary's Leagues of the Junior Division are still without clearcut leaders. In the National League, the Giants and Cardinals are tied for first place with 7-1 records. Both teams are playing the interlocking phase of the schedule tomorrow, with the Cards taking on the Yankees (4-4) and the Giants facing the Indians (3-5). In the American League, three teams are knotted with 5-3 records — the Twins, Orioles and Red Sox. The Red Sox could possibly slip in for the title as they play the Cubs, a one game winner this season. The Twins take on the Mets (5-3) while the Orioles battle the Dodgers (6-3). St. Mary's will conduct its annual All-Star doubleheader on July 3, at Bodman Park. Any ties involved will have to be played off during the week prior to the St. Mary's championship game scheduled for July 10.

Shrewsbury Sailing Y.C. Concludes Spring Series

SHREWSBURY — The Shrewsbury Sailing and Yacht Club concluded its spring series over the weekend with four races in each of the four classes. Guy Halton took top honors in the Blue Jays with 17 points. Bill Beck, Jr., won all four races, but didn't figure in the final standings as he was ineligible. Randy Houser finished as the top sailor in the Turnabouts with 15 1/2 points. Another sailor dominated the final four races — this time it was Alice Meltzoff. Talbot Ingram won the Comet title with 21 markers. John Stives and Bud Rogers won Saturday's races, while Arthur Fox, Jr., won both events Sunday. Art Poole won the Wood-Pussy crown with 24 1/2 points. His nearest competitor was Ted Diger with 24. Warren Cornell captured the first races on Saturday and Sunday's program, while Poole took Saturday's second event and Stimpson Brown the second contest on Sunday.

Sweepstakes is scheduled July 24-25 and you always have a standing invitation to return and cover the National Sweepstakes Regatta.

SPORT SHORTS — Max Culpepper, Red Bank, recently turned in a fine sailing performance competing in the Governor's Cup Sailing Regatta on Kerr Lake, Henderson, N. C. Culpepper had won in the Jet 14 class the past two years and is going to return next year. Culpepper is a high school music instructor. His wife, Ginger, served as crew.

Tom Gibson, Red Bank, picked up a second place in the recent Saratoga Lake Regatta. Gibson was second in the Jet 14 sailboard class crown.

Bill Reilly, a distance runner from Oceanport, was elected a co-captain of Penn State's track squad for next year....Douglas King of Point Pleasant Beach, is manager of Lehigh's 1965 football team. King is in the class of 1966.

Kansas City Trims Yanks

Mantle is out. Maris is out. Whitely Ford pitches when the weather is right. Tony Kubek hasn't scored since May 9. The team batting average is .224. The New York Yankees are 10½ games back and Johnny Keane says everything is fine and dandy.

Which should make Mr. Keane the optimist of the year. Listen. "Of course you've got an uphill struggle when you're as far back as we are, 10 or 11 games or whatever it is. But I still think we've got a very good chance."

With the M and M boys on the sidelines again. — Mickey Mantle with a pulled left hamstring and Roger Maris with bruised fingers — the Yanks dropped a 6-2 decision to Kansas City Thursday, snapping a two-game winning binge and marking their eighth loss in 12 games.

The leaders, meanwhile, made things even tighter. Cleveland beat Minnesota 3-1 and moved to within a half game of the leading Twins. Idle Chicago also moved to within a half game of the top. Baltimore, 4-1 victor over Boston, climbed to within one. Detroit edged Los Angeles 3-2 in the only other game scheduled.

The National Association of Yankee Haters is having its grandest time in two decades. The Yanks, everybody's choice to win their 15th pennant in 17 years and a record sixth in a row, have had problems in bunches.

There have been injuries galore, principally to Mantle, Maris and Elston Howard. Nobody is hitting much. They're losing the close ones. And the top-sided ones.

Keane, in his first year at the job, is — at least outwardly — undisturbed.

"I still think we have a chance." But it must have been rubbing salt into a profusion of bleeding wounds when Roland Sheldon, who went to Kansas City for Doc Edwards earlier this season, pitched a strong six-hitter against his old mates.

He was supported by a three-run homer by Ken Harrelson and a three-run burst in the eighth. Joe Pepitone had a homer for the losers.

Ralph Terry, another ex-Yankee, won his seventh of the season in pitching the Indians past Minnesota, allowing only five hits before leaving in the eighth.

Max Alvis' 13th homer and a single got the Indians all the runs they needed. Sleepy Boston — manager Billy Herman said he fined an undisclosed number of Red Sox for missing an early morning bedcheck — couldn't handle Milt Pappas, who spaced seven hits in going the distance. A three-run homer by Brooks Robinson and a solo shot by Luis Aparicio gave him more than enough margin.

Denny McLain's five-hit pitching and a two-run double by Jerry Lumpe won for Detroit. Lumpe's double capped a three run second inning and McLain made it stand up, although allowing homers to Jim Fregosi and Willie Smith.

"ASTRO-GUIDE" By Ceean

For Saturday, June 26

Present—For You and Yours... Take a cautious, wait-and-see attitude toward everything and everybody. Stay out of compromising situations as your good nature could be exploited by a ruthless individual. Avoid nerve strain as much as possible, although a little tension is practically certain under today's negative influences.

Arise, Barn Mar. 21 to Apr. 19
Your adept talents for organization can be turned to your advantage now.

Taurus, April 20 to May 20
You may be required to travel more than you like because of business necessity.

Gemini, May 21 to June 21
Discordant radiations suggest being careful of physical aspect.

Cancer, June 22 to July 21
Be practical. Make no extravagant promises you would be hard-put to keep.

Leo, July 22 to Aug. 21
You long to see distant places and the idea of an extended journey is appealing.

Virgo, Aug. 22 to Sept. 22
If unable to travel, a pleasant alternative is an absorbing adventure story.

Libra, Sept. 23 to Oct. 22
Accept the challenge of large-scale community projects. You'll enjoy it.

Scorpio, Oct. 23 to Nov. 21
Concentrate on the comfort of others. Your needs will take care of themselves.

Sagittarius, Nov. 22 to Dec. 21
Don't get involved in legal hassles while current aspects are in effect.

Capricorn, Dec. 22 to Jan. 20
A friend may point the way to financial opportunity. Consider the suggestion.

Aquarius, Jan. 21 to Feb. 19
Despite pressures, you should be able to handle a ticklish situation satisfactorily.

Pisces, Feb. 20 to March 20
Look for quiet respite as the week ends. Body and mind both require rest.

8 Motorists
Pay Fines
In Holmdel

HOLMDEL — Magistrate Seymour Kleinberg levied fines totaling $160 against eight motorists here Tuesday night.

Morton B. Cohen, 1 Orchard Ave., Hazlet, paid $30 for leaving an unregistered vehicle on the roadway.

For failing to have his registration on his possession and for being delinquent in having his car inspected, Gerald D. Morley, 66 Idlewild La., Matawan, was fined $20.

An Elizabeth driver, Ralph Simmons, was fined $10 for speeding.

Fined $20 for careless driving was Edward J. Griswald, Sr., 722 Park Ave., Union Beach.

For the same offense, Richard B. Jackson, 15 Van Dorn St., Keyport, and Michael Jordan, 286 Oceanport Ave., Oceanport, paid $15 each.

Also fined $15 were Donald J. Kovacs, Cliffside Park, for disregarding a stop sign, and John D. Vogt, North Arlington, for driving with an expired license.

A charge of assault and battery filed against Dennis E. Velcamp, 25 Orchard Ave., Holmdel, by his wife, was withdrawn.

PUT IN JAIL

MIDDLETOWN — John McKenna, Jr., 94 Highland Ave., Leonardo, was jailed yesterday, charged by police with being drunk and disorderly. Detective Sgt. Frank W. Gleason, Jr., arrested the man on Leonard Ave., Leonardo. He is being held in lieu of $50 bail.

Death Car
Driver Turns
Himself In

MIDDLETOWN — Constantino Mucci, Staten Island driver of the car that fatally injured a Hazlet man Tuesday, was released in $2,500 bail yesterday. He was charged by police with causing death by auto.

Police said Mr. Mucci, upon hearing of the death Wednesday of Oscar L. Rutledge, 70, of 115 Hazlet Ave., Hazlet, came into headquarters here voluntarily at 2:45 p.m. yesterday. He posted bail shortly after 4 o'clock.

A preliminary hearing on the charge is scheduled for July 15 before Magistrate Richard R. Burke in municipal court.

Mr. Mucci is represented by Richard R. Reigl, Staten Island attorney.

Police reported Tuesday that Mr. Rutledge had been struck by the Mucci car while he was walking across Rt. 35, just south of the Five Corner intersection. The motorist told police that he did not see the victim in time to avoid striking him.

Subdivision
Action Delayed
At Holmdel

HOLMDEL — The Zoning Board of Adjustment, after an on-site inspection last night, delayed once again a decision on the major subdivision application of George E. Ostrov, Kearsburg attorney.

While the subdivision itself is not a zone board consideration, two lots of the proposed subdivision are nonconforming in that they lack a specified 200-foot depth.

Mr. Ostrov, who proposes to purchase the land from Mrs. Shirley Greenberg, Middletown, if the subdivision is approved, represents the landowner before this board and the Planning Board.

Zoners want to know what plans the county has for adjoining lands and the land owned by Mrs. Greenberg before they make a decision. Purchase of the land by the county for use as a park has been considered.

May Halt
Septic Tank
Dumping

MIDDLETOWN — Board of Health Officer Dr. Marc Krohn

may halt septic tank operations today at the Gaggles farm, Mayor Ernest G. Kavalek reported last night.

Mr. Kavalek said residents of the adjacent Forest Park Homes development, off Nutswamp Rd., have complained of the situation, which the mayor described as "intolerable."

He said farm property is used by septic tank trucks to dump tank waste but added that the waste is not being properly covered with fill dirt and could run into nearby Shadow Lake.

The mayor told reporters that conditions there could cause disease and said Dr. Krohn agrees on this point.

"The health officer has the power to halt the entire operation," Mr. Kavalek added, "and if today he finds that conditions warrant it he will."

The mayor said it is the responsibility of the Board of Health to police the operation and he so advised the board tonight.
