Claim 250 Viet Cong Killed

SAIGON (A)—Vietnamese government forces today claimed a toll of about 250 Viet Cong concentration in the Mekong Delta 90 miles southwest of Saigon.

Vietnamese reports said 156 Viet Cong were killed in heavy ground fighting and another 100 were estimated killed by air strikes. Government casualties were reported light.

U.S. military sources said they considered the Vietnamese figures "pretty good" estimates, although there apparently was no complete body count.

The major fighting came yesterday afternoon during a government operation 15 miles southwest of Can Tho. Taking part in the sweep through the canal-laced, rice paddy area were Army, Ranger, armored and regional force personnel accompanied by U.S. advisers.

U.S. spokesmen said the force pinned the Viet Cong down on a wide front. Helicopters lifted in Ranger units to cut off the guerrillas.

38 Sorties

U.S. and Vietnamese Air Forces planes flew 38 sorties, spokesmen said, and forward air controllers estimated 70 buildings were destroyed and about 40 others damaged.

Scattered ground action was reported elsewhere during the night.

Military officials said a militia unit ran into a small group of Viet Cong just after midnight south of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut airport. The militiamen killed three guerrillas, captured two and had no casualties of their own, the officials said.

A fleet of helicopters landed a company of U.S. Marines shortly after midnight to comb two villages 12 miles northwest of the Da Nang air base. As many as 500 hard-core Viet Cong sometimes operate in the area, and by dawn one dead guerrilla had been found and 20 prisoners had been taken.

First Night Strike

The Marines said it was the first large-scale night helicopter assault in history. The operation was planned after captured of an enemy document warning Viet Cong fighters to clear out of villages before dawn because "the Marines always attack after first light."

The Viet Cong continued its nightly mortar attack on the special forces camp at Duc Co, where large U.S. and Vietnamese ground forces lifted a 70-day siege yesterday. Ten rounds from 81mm mortars were fired at the camp late last night, but there was no report of damage or casualties.

In Seoul, the South Korean National Assembly approved the government's plans to send 15,000 combat troops to South Viet Nam. Military sources in the Korean capital said the first contingent of the force would leave this month.

Boycott

The assembly acted despite a boycott by 62 members of the opposition Minjung Party who resigned en masse this week to protest the government's refusal to delay ratification of the Japanese-South Korean amity treaty. Park's Democratic Republican Party holds 110 of the 175 assembly seats.

South Korea now has about 2,500 troops in South Viet Nam on engineering and medical duty.

FLOWERS FOR FIRST LADY — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, escorted by Gov. Richard J. Hughes, right, was greeted at the Mennonite Church in Lambertville by two small children offering bouquets. Camera-shy Raymond (Yogi) Williams seems to be hiding behind the bouquet and little Nancy Guerrido is somewhat awe-struck. Mrs. Johnson viewed movies of poverty conditions in the area in connection with project Head Start, a pre-school program. (AP Wirephoto)

First Lady's Visit

Puts Footprints on the Piano

NEWARK (AP) — The footprints have been wiped off the piano but the 18 children in Mrs. Mildred Hill's pre-school class haven't forgotten Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's visit.

Mrs. Johnson and more than 60 officials, newsmen and anti-poverty workers visited two basement classrooms at Cleveland School in a predominantly Negro neighborhood of Newark yesterday. She visited a similar project at a Mennonite church in rural Lambertville.

Footprints on the piano — and on a stove, sink, bookcases and tables in their classroom — made more of an impression on Mrs. Hill's pupils than did the visiting dignitaries.

The First Lady sat in a kindergarten-sized chair with the students sitting around the floor at her feet, answering questions about their activities.

As they told of visits to the airport and a zoo, one boy said, "Look at that man standing there," pointing in wonder at a photographer standing on a snowy white stove. Mrs. Hill, who has been teaching the children how to behave, wiped off the footprints after the visitors left.

News that Mrs. Johnson was coming didn't mean much to most of the children, Mrs. Hill said. One little girl thought her aunt, Mrs. Johnson, was going to visit.

Many of the children recognized Mrs. Johnson's face but didn't really know or care whether she was a movie star, cowboy's wife, or the President's wife.

Two 5-year-olds selected as Mrs. Johnson's guides, Dawn Rudd and William Purdie, were awed by the First Lady's arrival amid flashing police lights and the cheers of more than 1,000 neighbors. They were almost crushed by the surging crowd around Mrs. Johnson.

"There are a lot of people who say they are not going to be bothered... After they see this maybe they will take an interest in the project," said William's mother, Mrs. Lillian Purdie.

Mrs. Purdie told Mrs. Johnson that William "dresses himself better than he used to, plays with the other children at home and who has taken a new interest in food."

Wave of Criticism Hits Surfboarders

LONG BRANCH—A tidal wave of criticism hit surfing youngsters last night as an angry group of Kiernan Blvd. residents told City Council they had been abused by surfers illegally using their private beach.

Barakave G. Elian, a West New York attorney with a home on Kiernan Blvd., spoke for himself and a number of neighbors when he said that youths had ridden their surfboards to a crest of trespassing, immorality and property destruction.

"Our experiences with these teenagers have been far from pleasant," he said. He cited instances of profanity directed at residents by the surfers, attempted burglaries, wild drinking parties and "other indecent things which I would not like to mention here."

One property owner saw two teenagers nude on the beach, he declared.

Mayor Vincent J. Mazza said the police department would be advised to increase its vigilance there. He said criminal activities would not be tolerated.

S. Thomas Gagliano, an attorney representing other residents in the area, declared that, "Basically, there has been a tremendous invasion of property along Ocean Ave."

He credited the city manager and police department with doing good jobs for the past two weeks, but added that the problem was inevitable because the adjacent beach, where surfing is allowed, has only 215 feet of frontage, which is inadequate for surfing in large numbers. The surfers spill over to private properties, he said.

Mr. Elian called for the revocation of Kiernan Blvd. as a means to limit access. City Manager James F. Roosevelt said the vacation was being discussed as part of the proposed General Neighborhood Renewal Program.

Robert Laurin, 362 1/2 Long Branch Ave., told council he had called the police so often that "I get ulcers." The youths constantly sing at night and scatter garbage, he said.

Charles Coccora, 20 Atlantic Ave., a member of the Summer Festival Committee which has sponsored one surfing contest and plans another for next month, charged that adults were responsible for the refuse, adding that the youths cleaned it up.

Besides, he said, referring to the plight of the surfers: "What are they going to do?"

A voice from the rear of the room snapped: "Stay home!" "Why don't you stay home?" he retorted.

Mayor Mazza promised the problem would be discussed at next Tuesday's caucus session.

For Long Branch Sale

Traffic Diverted

LONG BRANCH — Traffic will be diverted from an expanse of Broadway stretching from Third Ave. to Liberty St. today for a sidewalk sale.

According to Elmer F. Lawyer, executive director of the Greater Long Branch Chamber of Commerce, a temporary mall will be established upon which merchants will display their wares.

Merchants in other sections of the Broadway shopping district, he added, will man sidewalk merchandise displays. The sale will run until 9 p.m., with free parking and balloons provided.

Participating merchants number 33, Mrs. Lawyer said. In the event of rain, the sale will be conducted tomorrow.

Deadline Set on Burnt Fly Bog Talks

MARLBORO — An unofficial deadline has been set in the Burnt Fly Bog controversy here.

Township Council last night "unofficially" agreed that if the town fathers had not heard from Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development, by Sept. 23, then the township will try to reach an agreement with a Dominick Manzo of Matawan, who wants to buy the area for a sanitary landfill.

It was back in January that the Planning Board decided that the area, which has long been used as a dump, would be better off in open spaces.

Mr. Manzo had won approval from the township zoning board of adjustment approving the application, but the planners denied their blessings when learning from the Monmouth County Planning Board that the state was considering the area for a wildlife preserve under the Green Acres program.

Meeting Is Planned At the Planning Board meeting last week, Harry Bernstein, the attorney, assured his board that a meeting for September was in the offing with four township officials and Commissioner Roe.

The area involved, Councilman McCue questioned last night, is about 687 acres in Marlboro, with about 700 acres in Madison Township, Middlesex County.

Mr. McCue, who is the only Republican on the majority Citizens Committee council, asked "are we trying to go along with the state, or are you trying to force the state" in the Burnt Fly Bog matter.

Mr. McCue told the councilmen that he would go along with the Green Acres plan if the state were interested in it, but he warned the board that if it were only to be a township project, then he would not support it.

Here Mr. McCue had company. Norman Janwich, followed by Phillip Arnold, both Citizens Committee councilmen, agreed that they wouldn't support the project if it were sponsored only by the township.

It was Mr. Arnold's suggestion that an agreement with Manzo be reached if the matter hadn't been discussed with Commissioner Roe by the last meeting in September.

"This gives plenty of time," he said, "and leaves no doubt if the mall gets through by pony express."

Democrats Disturbed About High Cost of Party Socials

RED BANK — Monmouth County Democrats are mumbling over the big bite being put on them to purchase costly tickets for two party affairs within a week of each other.

The first one, costing $75 a person, will be an all day outing and star-studded show Thursday, Aug. 26, on the national guard camp grounds in Sea Girt. The Democratic state committee is sponsoring this one.

For their hard earned money, the Democratic faithful will get hot dogs, hamburgers, beer, beefsteak sandwiches, clams, plenty of corn; soft drinks; a speech by Gov. Richard J. Hughes and a chance to see the famous "Little White House" where past Presidents and governors wined and dined. The building, closed for years, will be opened for the occasion.

The contributors will be able to eat in comfort under a number of large tents which will be erected.

On Thursday, Sept. 2, just seven days later, the local Democrats will be asked to again open their check books for tickets for the Democratic county committee's fund raising dinner in the Spring Lake Golf and Country Club.

The price to eat fillet mignon and the trimmings and to hear the governor talk again is $50.

The Democratic county chairman, P. Paul Campi, Little

Silver, and state committeeman Paul Kiernan, Long Branch, would have preferred to hold their dinner first so they could tap the organization workers for more tickets.

"It's rough shelling out that kind of money in such a short space of time," one leader told The Register.

Receipts from the county dinner will be used in helping the campaigns of the local candidates.

CROWD EXPECTED Chairman Campi, nevertheless, expects to have a good crowd at his dinner. Although it is expected the state committee's picnic and gala will draw a good crowd, too; just how many county Democrats will attend is another story.

"We have received very little patronage from the State House and paying out $75 a head is going to be extra hard to take for that reason," The Register's informant declared.

The Democrats fund raising attempts didn't start with these two planned affairs. They have been buying tickets for various clambakes, outings, luncheons and small dinners since last May and the end of the treasure hunt isn't in sight.

In September and October, affairs will be moved into restaurants and the Democrats will be soaked—and like it—from between $6 to $25 for the privilege of seeing and hearing the candidates.

Ponder Reasons for Big Death Toll

KEYPORT — Why, despite considerable efforts maintained by safety-minded individuals and groups nationwide, do highway fatalities go right on increasing year after year?

This question led to much discussion yesterday at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Monmouth County Traffic Safety Committee in Ye Cottage Inn.

There is no single answer—no panacea, according to Henry J. Ney, newly appointed county traffic engineer.

"Five years ago it was speed," Mr. Ney told the group. "Speed was publicized as the great killer, but it was no good. Highway deaths continued to rise," he continued.

"Now it's alcohol factor programs," Mr. Ney went on. We find that more than 50 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents show at least some blood alcohol content, and we say, that's the answer. Get the drinking driver off the road," the county engineer continued.

Cars 'Front End Lift' Seen Causing 'Fatals'

KEYPORT — Too many fatal accidents on our highways involve "front end lift," W. Robert Warwick, Monmouth County traffic co-ordinator told the County Traffic Safety Committee yesterday.

"The problem is a touchy thing; no one likes to talk about it," Mr. Warwick told members, assembled for their monthly luncheon meeting at Ye Cottage Inn.

Front end lift apparently results from the fact that some makes of cars can go too fast for their design and construction, the co-ordinator went on. Then such cars top a rise at high speed on an express highway, he explained, for some reason they fail to nose down into the following dip. Instead, the car apparently acts like an airfoil and literally "flies" its front end off the road. The driver, losing control, often is killed.

Probe Being Asked State and national safety councils are being asked to investigate the various makes of cars for this tendency and to pursue the problem with appropriate auto manufacturers, Mr. Warwick said.

The accident involving a huge automobile if you're thinking of a car, think of McCarthy Chevrolet. 291-1101. —Adv.

(The implied consent laws proposed but never enacted all provide, in one form or another, that consent of the driver to undergo a chemical or other blood test if he is ever accused of drunk driving is implied when he accepts his driver's license. If he refuses to undergo the test, the license is revoked.)

"There is no panacea," Mr. Ney repeated. "We need an integrated program to hit at all these things. The only permanent answer in the long run is better engineering," he added.

A start in this direction will be provided by a Traffic Accident Analysis Clinic to be sponsored jointly by the county and the state Division of Motor Vehicles. Mr. Ney announced. Purpose of the clinic will be to train supervisory police personnel in analysis of accident records to improve accident prevention methods.

John E. Smiley, acting secretary of the traffic safety committee, said thinking on the alcohol factor in accidents is changing. The slogan of the National Safety Council, Mr. Smiley said, has long been "If you Drink, Don't Drive."

National safety men, he went on, are now asking if the slogan might not better be, "Drink if you Wish, but Wait before you Drive."

Social drinking is a widely accepted national custom, Mr. Smiley pointed out.

Garbage, Fill Site Contracts Tabled

LONG BRANCH — Over the pleas of Councilman Milton F. Untermyer, City Council last night tabled awarding contracts for garbage collection and a land fill disposal site.

Scheduled to receive a five-year contract for disposal facilities was M. J. S. Enterprises of Red Bank on a low bid of $219,400 for the period.

W. J. Barrett Enterprises of Mt. Holly, a newly formed company, was set to receive a three year contract for garbage collection on their low bid of $341,100.

The bids had been received July 22.

Hits High Costs Councilman Edgar N. Dinkelspiel, declaring that he felt the "cost is way out of line," assailed also the provisions of the proposed contracts and called for re-advertising of the bids.

Citing a study he has taken, he told council that contract costs for this city were more than double the per capita figures of nearby municipalities. In his study, the city figure was $1,326, while other figures were Eatontown, 60 cents; Highlands, 57.8 cents; Rumson, 52.4 cents; Fair Haven, 70.4 cents, and Asbury Park, 56 cents.

Mr. Untermyer, pointing out that the deadline for awarding contracts was last Sunday, warned that by deferring awarding contracts the city chanced losing "he bids and put itself in "grave danger of having the next come in at a considerably higher figure."

Cites Increase He explained that now the element of surprise was gone and the benefits of having sealed bids were voided. He pointed out that with the new contracts, collection and disposal costs increased only $2,500, while three years ago the increase was $17,500.

Mr. Dinkelspiel assailed the lack of Sunday pickups under the new contracts and the fact that the dump would not open until 7 a.m.

Noting that the Barrett firm had never been in the garbage collection business before, he stated: "We will be the guinea pig to be practiced upon." (See LONG BRANCH, Page 3)

Asks Probe About City Resignations
LONG BRANCH — Councilman Michael G. Celli called last night for an investigation of why so many residents have resigned from city committees in recent weeks.

Last night Miss Gloria G. Alberti told City Council in a letter that she was unable to accept appointment to the Citizens Committee on Special Events. Miss Alberti was campaign manager for Councilman Donald L. Phillips, who won an at-large seat in the June 15 election.

Mario Alterio, president of the Second Ward Civic Association, by letter told council he was resigning from the Industrial Development Advisory Committee.

Yesterday Anthony Mazza became the fourth member of the Summer Festival Committee to resign in less than a month. Chairman Harry Levin and vice chairman Frank Fasano and Bruce Robinson announced their resignations on July 16.

Neither Miss Alberti nor Mr. Alterio gave reasons for their resignations in their letters. Council is expected to discuss the resignations at its caucus meeting Tuesday.

Sleeping Pills Cause Death Of Woman

WANAMASSA — A Pennsylvania woman was discovered dead yesterday morning in her motel room from an overdose of sleeping pills.

According to Dr. C. Malcolm B. Gilman, county physician, Mrs. Catherine Barton, 60, of Upper Darby died shortly after taking phenobarbital tablets with a glass of liquor. He ruled her death an accident.

According to police, Josephine Barber of 406 Monroe Ave., Asbury Park, a maid at the Park Motel, Rt. 35, discovered Mrs. Barton's body at about 10 a.m. when she opened the apartment door to clean the room.

Police said Mrs. Barton was on a pleasure trip with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Struck of Haddonfield.

They had come from the New England states and had planned to spend a day in Asbury Park, police said.

The travelers had checked into the motel at about 8 p.m. Wednesday evening, police added.

Mrs. Barton, whose husband died about six months ago, police said, was pronounced dead by Dr. John Malta.

According to her brother, police said, Mrs. Barton had been depressed for some months.

Dr. Gilman said she had been dead for about 12 hours.

$365,000 School Bond Issue Will Be On Colts Neck Ballot

COLTS NECK — Township voters will go to the polls Oct. 5 to decide the fate of a $365,000 bond issue to finance the construction of a proposed 13-room addition to the year-old Cedar Drive School.

By a six to one vote last night, the Board of Education approved a resolution calling for the special election. The resolution said in part that the board could authorize only $25,000 more in bonds for the school district beyond exceeding its legal debt limit.

The remaining $340,000 in debentures would be applied against the legal debt limit of the township.

Thursday, Sept. 23, was set as the date for a public hearing on the referendum. The hearing will take place at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Cedar Drive School.

The Oct. 5 vote will be in the Atlantic Elementary School, Rt. 537, and will be tallied by two voting machines.

If approved by the voters, the addition would contain 10 classrooms, a kindergarten room, a music room and an office.

The board's lone dissenter was Melvin C. Willett. He said he was casting a no vote because in his opinion the classrooms called for in the architect's plans were too large and the additional office space was not needed.

Mr. Willett contended that the $365,000 figure was $50,000 in excess of what the board really needs to add the necessary facilities.

Board president Lee S. Tuomenoksa told Mr. Willett the plans were based on the opinions of experts.

"You've criticized our plan but haven't offered one of your own," he remarked.

Mr. Tuomenoksa said he repeatedly had asked Mr. Willett for an alternate plan.

New Store Manager 'Delivers' a Suspect

FREEHOLD — As the new assistant manager of his father's grocery, Foottown, Rt. 33, Robert Norkus, put a new meaning on "home delivery" yesterday.

He delivered, with help of other employees, a suspect led thief to a temporary home at the county jail after a chase for about two blocks from the store.

Mr. Norkus, whose father, Francis Norkus, is part-owner of a two-store chain here and in Farmingdale, was checking stock at the rear of the highway outlet at 3:30 p.m. He saw a number of clerks dash out the front door, apparently in pursuit of another man.

Stopping only momentarily at the front door, where a surprised woman had a brief fainting spell, the young Mr. Norkus, just two weeks on the job, jumped in his car and took up the chase.

Two blocks away he caught the group which by this time had surrounded the lead man.

Then Mr. Norkus found out what was happening. The object of the chase, Beverly Herschel Brown, 43, of 43 Koenig La., Freehold Township, allegedly had scooped $71 in bills out of an open drawer of the cash register and run.

Putting Brown in his car, Mr. Norkus drove back to the store where Patrolman Richard Hibbs had arrived to investigate.

Brown was jailed on a charge of larceny. Magistrate Alexander Levchuk ordered him held pending arraignment this morning. Police said all of the money was recovered.

Just out of the Navy and eager to begin work at the managerial level, Mr. Norkus observed: "Started off with a bang, didn't it."

Missing City Funds Matter Ruled Closed

LONG BRANCH — A report on the disappearance of $1,763 from the desk of then acting City Manager J. O. Jones two years ago will not be made public and is a closed matter, City Manager James F. Roosevelt declared last night.

In answer to the taunts of Sebastian Bracey of 22 Airsdale Ave., a constant City Hall critic, Mr. Roosevelt said the findings in the report were inconclusive and, inasmuch as it was a police matter, would remain secret.

Release of the document could injure the reputations of innocent persons who are mentioned in it, he said. There was not enough substance contained in the report for the county prosecutor to take action, he added.

Mr. Bracey has been calling for release of the report for some time. "Jones pleaded guilty so there can be no further reason for not giving the report to the people," he declared at last night's city council meeting.

The acting city manager pleaded guilty July 2 to having an illegal interest in city land fill contracts.

Glaring at Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bracey stated: "What hidden interest has the city manager in holding back the report? What great concern is it of his? He is merely an employee of this council and the people. That report belongs to the people; let them hear it now."

The manager is acting as though he is above public responsibility in his relations with the people. The people will not like this attitude in regard to their $1,763."

Mayor Vincent J. Mazza told Mr. Bracey that council would discuss the matter and apprise him of its findings.

The funds, six days' beach admission receipts, were discovered missing from Jones' desk shortly after July 4, 1963. The money was never recovered.

Probe Entries In Red Bank

RED BANK—Detectives are investigating two breaking and entries of business establishments some time early yesterday and attempted entries at two other places.

According to Police Chief George H. Clayton, Sr., between $10 and $15 was taken from two vending machines at Circle Chevrolet, 325 Maple Ave.

He said the building was entered by forcing a rear window. The chief said an antique .22 carbine pistol and a machete were taken from the Walter Heath Co., 11 West Bergen Pl.

Entry was made by forcing a rear door.

Chief Clayton said unsuccessful attempts were made to break into the Douglas Auto Electric Co., West Bergen and Maple Pk., and Shore Speedometer Service, 5 West Bergen Pl.

In both cases, the attempted entries were foiled because windows had either been nailed or welded shut.

Beers St. play area; Daniel Frigioletti and Richard Brunje, Middle Road; and Susan Hand, Roy Schneider and Douglas Depew, West Keansburg.

A total of 1,970 children already have participated in the planned activities at the township's three play areas.

Jay Johnson became the checker champion for the third consecutive year at the Beers St. play area, and will compete for the summer recreation championship as soon as winners are determined at the Middle Road and West Keansburg play areas.

"Circus" has been selected as the theme of the fourth annual summer festival to be held Tuesday, in the old Township Hall on Middle Road.

Hanging Death Ruled Suicide

FAIR HAVEN — A 26-year-old woman was found hanged in the home of her father here yesterday.

Dr. C. Malcolm B. Gilman, county physician, said, Mrs. Sandra Janes Bryan, of 506 North Lincoln Ave., Monterey, Calif. hung herself from the cellar stairs in the home of her father, Paul N. Janes, 15 Cooney Ter.

Dr. Gilman said Mrs. Bryan, who was divorced from her husband, left a note addressed to her father.

Mrs. Bryan was dead between two and three hours when her body was discovered at 2:20 p.m., the county physician said.

Police Chief Carl J. Jakubecy said Mrs. Bryan's body was discovered by Victor J. Voglino, an employee of the Consolidated Water Co., who was reading meters in the area.

Chief Jakubecy and Patrolman Louis A. DeVito, summoned to the scene, administered artificial respiration and police and the borough First Aid Squad administered oxygen in an unsuccessful attempt to revive her.

The Worden Funeral Home, Red Bank, is in charge of arrangements.

OCEAN TOWNSHIP—Maurine Estelle, 17, of 1311 Franklin Ave., Wanamassa, was reported in fair condition in Fitkin Hospital, Neptune, this morning with head injuries suffered last night in a motorcycle accident on Logan Rd.

According to police, Miss Estelle was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Robert Berrardese, 19, of 124 Sunset Ave., Asbury Park. The driver was treated at the hospital for bruises.

Police said the motorcycle skidded in sand, upsetting and throwing the riders beneath a car parked just east of Rt. 35. The accident happened at 10:35 p.m.

Jet Canopy Falls in Yard

CHESAQUEAKE (AP) — The canopy from an Air Force T33 jet trainer plummeted 26,000 feet into the backyard of a suburban home yesterday, narrowly missing the house.

A spokesman at McGuire Air Force Base said the canopy — about eight feet long and weighing about 400 pounds — came from a plane returning to Stewart Air Force Base near West Point, N.Y.

The plane landed safely a short while later at Stewart, the Air Force spokesman said.

Madison Township police said the canopy crashed into a yard about 30 feet from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Puleo, 40 Van Ethyl Dr. The Puleos and their two children were inside the house at the time.

Principal's Aide Resigns Colts Neck School Post

COLTS NECK — Assistant principal Mrs. Cristina D. Johnson resigned last night from the township's school system.

The board of education voted to accept her resignation with regrets. In a letter read by the personnel committee chairman, Carroll W. Barclay, Jr., Mrs. Johnson said she was forced to resign because her husband had been transferred by his company to their Chicago office.

Mrs. Johnson had taught in the Atlantic Elementary School some time ago and had returned in 1963.

Board secretary Leslie H. Douglass told her, "If you ever get back to Colts Neck, please let us know."

Authorize 16 Bus Routes In Colts Neck

COLTS NECK — Shuttle buses are a thing of the past in Colts Neck.

The Board of Education last night authorized a new bus schedule which would eliminate students being shuttled between the Atlantic Elementary School and the new Cedar Drive School.

The board hired Mrs. Patricia Rosenberg, Wayside, as a seventh grade teacher. Mrs. Rosenberg, with eight years experience, will receive an annual salary of $7,200.

The principal, Mrs. Zella Hamilton, said that with Mrs. Rosenberg's appointment the teaching staff is ready for the 1965-66 school year.

She added, however, that the administrative staff still is not at full strength.

Mr. Barclay said the board was looking for a "highly qualified" person to take Mrs. Johnson's place as building principal of the Atlantic school.

Last year, five shuttle buses were employed for this purpose. Under the plan introduced last night by transportation committee chairman C. Edward Tilton, last year's 12 bus routes and five shuttle routes would be abandoned in favor of 16 bus routes.

According to Mrs. Hamilton, enrollment at present in the township's two schools is 734 pupils with 750 expected by the September 9 opening of school.

Wants Better Protection For School Pupils

MARLBORO — Mrs. Honey Davis, a Texas Rd. resident of the Morganville area of the township, last night warned the council that there might be some dead little children if something is not done to safeguard the youngsters when school starts.

Mrs. Davis is concerned with the corner of Greenwood and Texas Rd., where children from five years old through the high school age crowd on one corner to take several different school buses.

She brought the matter to the attention of several township officials last year, and says she wants something done soon to protect the children.

Traffic Book Is Not One Of Humor

KEYPORT — A small pink booklet was distributed yesterday to members of the Monmouth County Traffic Safety Committee at Ye Cottage Inn by W. Robert Warwick, county traffic coordinator.

It's not a very funny booklet, though it contains quite a few cartoons.

It's not funny because it also contains, listed by name, age, type of accident, and date of death, the 72 persons killed on Monmouth County highways in 1964.

The news this year is sad, Mr. Warwick said. He reported that so far this year in the county, 49 persons have lost their lives on the road — two more than at this time last year.

More have been killed than at this time last year; the score is 621 in 1965 to 598 in 1964.

These 1965 fatalities have not yet been listed by name, age, type of accident, and date of death in any small pink booklet, but they're people just the same. Or rather, they were.

Salute Given Absent Flag

MARLBORO — Council President Joseph Brodnick looked for a flag to salute last night before beginning his council meeting.

He couldn't find one.

The council met in a classroom because of renovations in the all purpose room, where a flag is always kept for the traditional opening service of meetings here.

And after "the moment of silence," Mr. Brodnick decided that the flag should still be saluted.

"Just imagine that it's over there on the left," he said.

ACTION AUTHORIZED

RUMSON — William R. Blair, Jr., borough attorney, was authorized by Borough Council last night to proceed against Richard P. Eagan, developer of Broadmoor Dr. Council ruled the developer failed to provide proper surfacing of the roadway as required in a performance bond.

Trade School Bids Taken By County

FREEHOLD — Bids were taken yesterday on two proposed Monmouth County vocational high schools and the $771,919 total of low offers apparently fell within funds available.

The county Vocational Board of Education reserved decision until next Thursday on awards for construction of buildings adjacent to existing high schools at Middletown and Wall Townships.

Under a county plan, the vocational board builds schools on property given to the county by the local districts. The schools are to be financed in construction and operation by the county and administered as part of local school programs.

The first of several schools to be built under such an arrangement is nearing completion in Long Branch and is scheduled to be opened next month.

Similar buildings are contemplated in Middletown and Wall Townships, though the latter will be somewhat more costly because it will include an elaborate auto body repair shop.

The board had allocated $400,000 for construction of the Middletown building, with equipment to be built out of current budget funds, and $200,000 for construction and equipment at Wall.

The total of low bids and the bidders were:

For Middletown, general construction, Donato Construction Co., New Shrewsbury, $217,000; steel, Industrial Engineering, Trenton, $36,550; plumbing, Van Cleve Co., Inc., Neptune, $23,723; heating and ventilating, Van Cleve, $52,822; electrical, Little Silver Electric, $45,880.

For Wall, general construction, Henry Vaccaro Construction Co., Asbury Park, $224,941; steel, Industrial Engineering, $39,850; plumbing, Van Cleve, $29,205; heating and ventilating, $58,034; electrical, Freehold Electric, $45,450.

The totals for Middletown were $376,075, and Wall, $397,480. By taking advantage of combined offers where bidders were low on both schools, the minimum cost would be $771,919, exclusive of various alternates permitted in the different contracts.

Night Noises
Being Probed
In Rumson

RUMSON — Borough Council will study a noise condition at the south end of Ave. of Two Rivers.

A complaint by George Coe, an area resident, claims that late night parking at the site leads to noise, drinking and carousing. He called for a ban on parking at the street end after 10 p.m.

Mayor Charles S. Callman said the issue will be studied. He said borough officials and Police Chief William Zerr will attempt to solve the problem. He called on borough residents to call police when such incidents begin. He said that police check the area frequently, but that a call to police would tend to stop the condition.

Councilman W. Dinsmore Banks stated that the condition will not be taken lightly. The police committee chairman, Harry Sundermeyer, will study the matter with the police chief, Mayor Callman said.

U. S. Water Crisis Team in Newark

NEWARK (AP) — President Johnson's water crisis team moves into this severely drought-stricken city today.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, who heads the 16-man federal task force, called Newark, the state's largest city, "the most critical" area in the parched Northeast.

Mayors, freeholders and water officials throughout North Jersey were invited to meet with the team to work out a water conservation program.

In Philadelphia yesterday, first city on the team's four-stop journey through the Northeast, Udall told worried officials:

"This is an immediate problem. We will not find immediate relief in engineering projects which will take months to complete. We must find ways of conserving our present water supply."

Land Needed for Senior Citizens' Project Housing Authority Preparing Condemnations in Keansburg

KEANSBURG — The Housing Authority is expected to start condemnation proceedings soon to acquire property for its $1.2 million senior citizens apartment project.

The property is at Main and Church Sts.

Michael J. Barnacle, authority attorney, said a wedge-shaped parcel in the center of the property has a title defect that requires condemnation to insure clear title.

The authority also expects to apply for a building permit shortly.

Still to be resolved however, is the impasse between the authority and the Planning Board over location of the project.

Although strongly in favor of the project, local planners are dead against the site.

Reject Site

In June, the board formally declined to give site approval for several reasons.

Planners argued that the site is in a prime commercial area and that the master plan recommends the business character of the area be maintained.

They also reasoned that the apartment site fronts on two heavily-traveled roads and would add to traffic congestion in the area.

According to Mr. Barnacle, the project is subject to municipal regulations including approval by the planners.

Thomas Kennedy, board chairman, said the authority had been invited to attend an Aug. 25 meeting of the planners to discuss the problem.

He said he personally felt there was little chance of the board changing its position.

Mr. Kennedy said the authority has been advised of several other sites the planners think could be used for the apartment building.

The Public Housing Administration has given its approval to the proposed site.

Plans call for construction of a seven-story building housing 59 one-bedroom and 20 efficiency units.

Barnett D. Singer, Bayonne, is the project architect.

Once built, the borough would receive an annual fee from the authority equal to 10 per cent of the yearly rentals. This would be in lieu of real estate taxes.

After 40 years, the federal government will turn title to the building over to the authority.

State 'Cinderella' To Ride as Queen

WASHINGTON — "Let's send Cinderella to the ball in good style."

The remark was made to The Register yesterday by Rep. James J. Howard (D-3d Dist., NJ) when it was learned he had pitched in to help raise funds to send pretty Cathy Holmes to the Miss America Beauty Pageant in Atlantic City.

The congressman phoned his friends and other seeking contributions after Cathy, who lives in Toms River, had won a Miss New Jersey contest.

The idea is to get the prettiest float possible for Cathy to ride on. "Those things cost $1,000 or more and she deserves the best," said the representative.

To date, Howard has raised $1,200 and hopes to receive more so the contestant can make a real run of it for the Miss America title.

Rep. Howard is interested in Cathy Holmes' progress in beauty contests because she is from Ocean County which, with Monmouth County, comprises the 3d district. He represents that area. Howard opened a district office in Toms River last week.

School Officials Given Raise in Little Silver

LITTLE SILVER — In accordance with a salary guide adopted at a special meeting last month, the Board of Education last night increased the salaries of the superintendent of schools and the principal of the Markham Place School.

The salary of the superintendent, C. David Vanderhoof, was raised to $12,300 to meet the guide's level, which ranges from $10,500 to $15,900 in 10 increments.

His placement on the guide gives Mr. Vanderhoof a salary increase of $1,800 this year.

Last April 8, before adoption of the guide, Mr. Vanderhoof's salary was increased $700 from $10,500 to $11,200.

The salary of Douglas C. Horan, shifted from the Point Road School to the principal's post at the Markham Place School was set at $11,000. The guide on this ranges from $9,500 to $14,000 in 10 increments.

The new salary gives Mr. Horan a total raise of $1,600 this year. His salary was increased last April from $9,400 to $10,000.

Donald J. Gudaitis, hired last night as principal of the Point Road School, will receive an annual salary of $10,000. The salary guide for the job ranges from $9,200 to $12,800.

The board adopted the guide when John J. Sullivan, principal of the Markham Place School, resigned to accept a more lucrative position at the University of Georgia and Mr. Horan received an attractive financial offer elsewhere.

"Having lost one principal and facing the possible departure of another, we reviewed our salaries and adopted the guide," Charles A. O'Malley, board president said.

$317,800 Improvements
Bonds Okayed by Council

LONG BRANCH — A bond ordinance appropriating $317,800 for various city improvements was passed last night by City Council.

The bond issue, which needed and received the approval of the state Board of Local Government, will be spent for beachfront and street repairs and maintenance. Approval from the board was needed because the city has exceeded its debt limit.

An ordinance raising the $2.25 dog license fee to $2.50 was also passed.

Up to $128,000

The added sum would bring the city's cash contribution to $128,000.

Condemnation hearings for two properties were set for the Aug. 26 meeting. The properties are located at 346 Joline Ave., owned by Joseph C. Catalano, and 128 Washington St., owned by Jeanne R. Matousek.

The "Workable Program," which sets forth codes and ordinances and is required periodically by the federal Housing and Home Finance Agency, was approved by council.

Unregistered Boat Owners Warned

TRENTON (AP) — The state Conservation Department today adopted a get tough policy toward boat owners who fail to renew their boat registrations.

Peter J. Gannon, chief of the Marine Patrol, said 30,000 renewal notices were sent out before the June 30 expiration date and 10,000 have not been returned.

He said Marine Patrol officers have been directed to set up check points along main waterways to find boaters without proper registrations. Those who fail to renew are subject to fines of up to $100. The registrations cost $6 and are good for three years.

Craft with Coast Guard Auxiliary decals will be deemed properly registered, Gannon said, because the decals are issued only for boats with correct registration papers.

Time For Study

Mr. Dinkelspiel said that three years ago the issue had to be decided at the last minute because the contract had run out, but now the present contract was good until Feb. 1 which would give time for adequate study.

It was his fear of being forced into municipal garbage collection that motivated his vote then, he explained.

Councilman Henry R. Cioffi, calling for a special meeting to further discuss the problem, said the collection contract should be re-bid and the landfill awarded.

Describing Mr. Dinkelspiel's figures as "nebulous," he declared last spring's sale of the city incinerator because it could have been used as a "lever" in negotiations.

The resolution for the collection contract was withdrawn after the land fill contract was tabled because there would have been no place to dump the garbage.

Freed Pending Narcotic Appeal

FREEHOLD — Albert J. Maxson, Center St., Highlands, convicted of illegal sale of narcotics last April 15 and sentenced to two to three years at Bordentown Reformatory, was released in $2,500 bail yesterday pending an appeal.

Monmouth County Judge Edward J. Ascher approved his release in bail to permit a challenge of his conviction to the Superior Court Appellate Division.

Krebiozen Trial Again Is Delayed

CHICAGO (AP) — The trial of four men charged with mail fraud and conspiracy in the promotion and sale of Krebiozen has been delayed once more by the continued illness of one of the defendants.

Two court-appointed physicians told Judge Julius J. Hoffman of U. S. District Court yesterday that Dr. Stevan Durovic, 60, discoverer of the drug, reported he was still in pain from a urinary tract infection.

The trial, which began April 28, has been in recess for nearly two weeks because of Dr. Durovic's illness. Judge Hoffman continued the trial until Monday.

Board Alters

LITTLE SILVER — The Board of Education last night changed the boundaries of its school districts to insure a more equal distribution of youngsters in kindergarten classes.

All kindergarteners living in the Point Road School district north of the center line of Kings Rd. and east of Seven Bridges Rd. north of Little Silver Creek will attend classes in the Markham Place School.

The board will ask county Superintendent of Schools Earl B. Garrison to issue Mrs. Aline Shannon emergency certification as a school librarian.

Mrs. Shannon, who has a degree in library science from the University of Alabama, lacks three credits for New Jersey certification, David C. Vanderhoof, superintendent of schools, said.

Front End

Jetty stone which killed a woman driver some months ago near Allentown is not unique, Mr. Warwick reported. Between 20 and 30 of these accidents, in which the chain holding a boulder on a flat bed truck trailer parts, releasing the stone, have occurred in the state, he reported.

One Slim Chain

Most of the huge stones are held by only one slim chain, Mr. Warwick continued, and it is suspected that load capacities of the trailers are often exceeded. Credence is lent to this theory because of the apparent habit of such trucks of using back roads — "to avoid State Police and weighing stations?" the co-ordinator suggested.

Attorney General Arthur J. Silis has requested legislation specifically placing the safety burden on shippers transporting such loads, Mr. Warwick said.

Expect Accused Rapist To Retract Earlier Pleas

FREEHOLD — George C. Riley, Eatontown, the 32-year-old accused masked rapist of lovers lanes, was scheduled to retract prior not guilty pleas on two indictments charging rape and robbery today in Monmouth County Court.

Riley, who has been indicted in connection with four alleged rapes and attempted rapes in the county last fall and winter, has pleaded innocent to all charges in previous court appearances.

In today's session he is slated to appear, with his attorney, William T. Wichmann, Red Bank, who has been assigned by the court, before Judge Edward J. Ascher.

Both indictments on which he is to appear include several counts but he is scheduled only to make new pleas on one count of rape in one indictment and a count of robbery in the other.

Charges Made

In the first he is charged with rape in one indictment and a count of armed robbery of $10, with a .22 caliber rifle, from a male companion of a young woman confronted in an Ocean Township lane Dec. 12, 1964.

Other counts in the Howell Township indictment allege unlawful use of a dangerous weapon against two men and another girl who were with the rape victim, and armed robbery of $1 each, with use of the same rifle, of the two men.

The Ocean Township indictment includes a count of rape, another for committing another indecent act, and three for unlawful use of a dangerous weapon against the girl and two male companions.

The indictments are those on which Riley had been scheduled for trial last June when he obtained postponements until September.

Other Factors

Cars with faulty steering, bad brakes, badly worn tires, and other faults which in the judgment of inspection station supervisors make them immediate menaces on the road now receive a rectangular red and black rejection sticker, clearly recognizable, Mr. Smiley explained.

Instead of the usual 14 days, owners of such vehicles have only 48 hours to repair the defects and present the cars for re-inspection.

Work is also being done on standards for vehicle tires and on getting people not only to install seat belts in their cars, but more important, to use them, the secretary went on.

"We don't want any more fatalities where people are sitting on their seat belts," Mr. Smiley said.

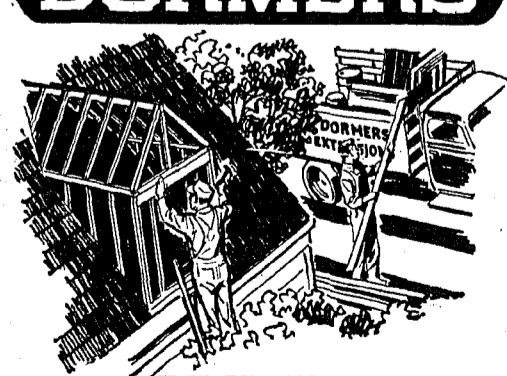

Elmer J. Noll, committee chairman, summed up: "It's up to the people," he said. "You can't get into the seat with them and tell them to use their belts... Until the driving public respects the law and the law enforcement officers, the problem will be with us."

Zoners Reject
Garage Appeal

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — The Zoning Board of Adjustment last night rejected a variance request by Andrew Sorba to add a two-car garage to a house-trailer he has on a 160-by-50-foot lot on Davern Ave., West Keansburg.

The board said the garage would extend a nonconforming use, since the zoning ordinance now prohibits house trailers.

A Struggle, But Market Shows Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced yesterday for the second straight session, but it was a struggle.

Most of the gain was registered in the final hour of trading. Before that the average showed small losses.

Brokers said there is no lack of cash reserves in the hands of institutional and large private investment funds, and if a small percentage of this were put to work a summer rally might well materialize.

They also said the best chance for the Dow Jones average of 783 level which has halted rally each month this summer probably lies in the inflationary hint inherent in price increases for basic commodities.

The Dow Jones industrial yesterday edged up 0.49 to 881.96.

Volume rose to 8.17 million shares from 8.03 million Wednesday.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Volume dipped to 1.6 million shares from 1.63 million Wednesday.

Corporate bonds were mixed. Treasuries were mostly unchanged.

The Register's Opinion

What's Under the Rug?

A businessman in Union Beach is giving up.

He has put his building up for sale and will move his business from the borough Sept. 1.

He will do this because a group of youthful vandals has not yet—for all its teenage wisdom—learned there is little lasting satisfaction in wantonly destroying the property of others.

Ronald Harpootlian's establishment, Flair Manufacturing Co., has been vandalized six times in the past year.

If he were the only victim of such acts the situation in Union Beach would be shameful enough. But numerous businessmen, residents and school officials have reported similar acts of vandalism, theft and assault. These complaints date back over a number of years. It is not a new situation.

The local police are undermanned, underpaid and under-equipped, and Mr. Harpootlian, tired of inaction, reported to the office of County Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper for help.

For this move the businessman received a public wrist-slapping from Councilman Frederick Heckelmann, police committee chairman. Criticized with Mr. Harpootlian were other businessmen who voiced similar complaints. They struck a low blow at the police department, according to Mr. Heckelmann.

The councilman contends that if residents, voters, taxpayers, are unhappy with service rendered by the department they should air their problems to him as police chairman or to Borough Council.

Heeding this suggestion the local Businessmen's Association requested strict enforcement of an existing curfew and adoption of an anti-loitering ordinance.

This request brought a wrist-slapping from Mayor Maurice W. Oakley. The mayor isn't certain that the culprits are teenagers. He isn't certain that they are local youths. This, despite the fact that merchants report that their problems stem, generally, from the same group of youths.

The mayor's concern for innocent teenagers is understandable, if misdirected. An innocent teenager isn't taken to police headquarters for loitering on the streets of the borough after 10 p.m. The innocent teenager isn't sitting in a parked car drinking beer. He isn't hurling stones through plate glass windows or breaking into homes and businesses. Nor does he publicly shout profanity to let off steam from his frustrations.

Residents and businessmen deserve relief from such anti-social aggressions regardless of the age of the perpetrators and regardless of where they live. The innocent teenager, too, deserves to have these acts stopped so that his good name is not tarnished by others.

It is time to lift the rug in Union Beach and end the practice of sweeping that which is unpleasant underneath this rug.

The tax rate in the borough is unquestionably high. It will be a sacrifice to increase this rate in order to provide salaries for additional patrolman, and higher salaries and better equipment for the existing force. However, it is obvious that improved police service is required in Union Beach. Sweeping problems under the rug does not eliminate them.

Robert S. Allen, Paul Scott: Inside Washington

Viet Nam Timetable for Peace

WASHINGTON—President Johnson and his military and civilian advisers have a 116-day timetable to bring North Viet Nam to the conference chamber.

This is the single important piece of information unveiled during those two days of elaborately fanfared White House briefings for members of Congress on the Viet Nam conflict.

That's all that can be reported about this intriguing item. Nothing more was said about it.

It was passively mentioned in the course of a 15-minute otherwise general statement by Secretary Rusk about Southeast Asia. Beyond a fleeting reference to a 116-day timetable to bring about Viet Nam peace negotiations, he said nothing more regarding it.

Curiously, more no questions were asked. None of the legislators pursued the matter further. It was left dangling in the air—unexplained and unamplified.

Lesser disclosures, elicited chiefly by questions, were:

1. Nationalist Chinese troops will not be used to fight the Viet Cong. President Johnson brusquely cut off questions on that, saying, "That can't be done. There are good reasons against it."

2. UN Secretary General U Thant is reluctant to place the Viet Nam problem before the Security Council because, "This would embarrass the six non-permanent members." Ambassador Arthur Goldberg revealed this.

3. Defense Secretary McNamara strongly intimated the Army had given "erroneous information" to the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee about serious weapons and equipment shortages. Last week Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman, announced the committee staff had submitted a report charging numerous shortages. McNamara flatly denied that.

Nothing else of any consequence was imparted to the senators and congressmen who attended the four two-hour briefings.

What these sessions added up to was big publicity hoopla and little substance. Sardonicly remarked an influential Democratic senator, "We didn't learn a thing we already didn't know. With a few minor exceptions everything we were told had either been published or broadcast. Most of what (General) Taylor and (Ambassador) Harriman said was a repetition of their television interviews the day before. The whole affair is what I would call a propaganda stunt."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS—At each of the four briefings, President Johnson sternly enjoined silence and secrecy on the legislators.

Although no classified information of any kind was divulged, the President went out of his way to stress that the sessions were confidential and off the record. Nothing remotely resembling a military or any other secret was touched on. But the President acted as if the lawmakers were being let in on the hottest inside information.

Graphically illustrative of his touchy attitude was his sharp response to a question by Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-NJ, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, about relations with the new South Viet Nam government. He cited Premier Nguyen Gao Ky's haughty remark that he didn't consider it necessary to greet Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge when he arrives in Saigon.

"This subject is a very sensitive area," snapped Johnson. "I don't feel it should be discussed here. As I said before, ladies and gentlemen, I must remind you that everything said here is strictly off the record. We are talking privately and nothing must be said about it."

The two leading Democratic critics of Viet Nam policy, Sen. Wayne Morse, Ore., and Ernest Gruening, Alaska, remained silent throughout the briefing they attended.

Most of the questions were by Republicans. Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, raised the matter of employing Nationalist Chinese troops in Viet Nam. A member of the Armed Services Committee, he asked, "Why aren't they used? They have expressed a desire to fight the Viet Cong, so why not give them the opportunity?"

"We can't do that," spoke up President Johnson. "I decided against it." Refusing to be brushed off, Miller persisted, "Why? What's the reason? We've spent billions on Formosa; we've armed and trained these troops; they are Asian; so why aren't they available?"

Retorted Johnson brusquely, "It can't be done. That's the answer."

MORE BRUSH-OFFS — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Me, member of the Armed Services Committee, and Rep. Frances Bolton, R-Ohio, member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, similarly got nowhere inquiring about arms and equipment shortages.

Secretary McNamara answered Mrs. Smith, asserting emphatically no shortages exist in Viet Nam, Korea, West Germany or anywhere else.

"The report of the staff on the Senate Preparedness Committee is incorrect," asserted the Pentagon chief. "It was based on erroneous information from the Army. I will shortly present the accurate facts and figures at a meeting with the committee. I am absolutely confident I can refute these erroneous allegations."

President Johnson replied to Rep. Bolton's question about replacing weapons and equipment being taken from U.S. forces to supply the combat units in Viet Nam.

"That is no problem," declared Johnson. "We are maintaining a very high rate of production that is taking care of all our needs. None of our troops anywhere, in the U.S. or throughout the world, are being deprived of their requirements. We are producing many times more than what we are using up. For example: We are producing three times as many helicopters as we are losing in Viet Nam. Reports to the contrary are completely unfounded."

Secretary Rusk, in discussing U.S. relations with India and Pakistan, admitted those with the latter are strained because large amounts of aid are being withheld. However, he expressed confidence amicable ties will be restored in time.

"Why don't we cut off aid to both of these countries?" demanded Sen. John Pastore, R-I., whose stentorian keynote address at the 1964 Democratic convention was a dramatic highlight and was effusively praised by President Johnson.

A startled silence followed Pastore's blunt exclamation.

Finally, Rusk soothingly replied, "Oh, we couldn't do that. These two nations constitute a vast subcontinent with more than 600 million people. India, particularly, is of utmost importance. It must not be allowed to fall into chaos and turmoil. It must be helped in every way possible. To fall to do that would be playing into the hands of the Communists."

Sylvia Porter: Your Money's Worth

Beware of Gyps in Carpeting

"Wall-to-wall nylon carpet . . . Two rooms plus hall or stairway . . . Complete with padding and custom installation . . . $119."

"Three rooms of wall-to-wall carpeting . . . Free tickets to a Broadway show and a free vacuum cleaner . . . All for $115."

"Wall-to-wall carpet . . . Living room, dining room, completely installed . . . This is not junk carpet. First quality only . . . Free measure and decorator service . . . $88."

These and hundreds of similar ads which have appeared across the U.S. in recent months have brought on a storm of anguished complaints from consumers and a rash of warnings by Better Business Bureaus of Metropolitan New York. They are typical of the "bait and switch" racketeers, who, according to Irving Genett, editor of "Floor Covering Weekly" and a major campaigner against carpet frauds, "know nothing about carpeting, but every trick in the book in making a sale—often at a price many times the carpet's value."

One New Jersey victim reported paying $2,064 for a carpet worth $650. Another shelled out $3,000 for a small carpet valued at a few hundred dollars.

Another, who paid $1,010 for her carpeting less than a year ago (six times the price estimated by a reputable local dealer) reported last month that the carpet was already "worn, pattern gone."

Carpeting today are among the biggest home-furnishing investments a homeowner makes. In 1964 alone, carpet sales totaled about $1.5 billion and sales are expected to more than double in the next decade. A new range of inexpensive carpets has arrived in the market, bringing prices within reach of millions of modest-income families.

The "bait and switch" racket is probably the most widespread in carpet selling. You respond to a come-on ad offering rooms of carpeting, completely installed, for $100 or so. A high-pressure salesman arrives and immediately down-grades the carpet his company advertised. Sample remarks made by a fast-buck salesman to a "detective" planted by the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York: "If you take it up, you will have to resand your floors." "Be careful how you vacuum it—it will run like a silk stocking from the corners." "With baseboard heating like you have, it will crumple right up and won't last six months."

The salesman has instructions to sell not the low-priced carpet to you but some other, vastly overpriced product. If you insist on buying the $100 range carpeting, he simply refuses to sell.

Another type of carpet gypster advertises "industrial" or "commercial" carpeting at bargain prices—claiming that the carpet is left over from a big job in a hotel or office building and that such carpeting wears longer than regular covering. As it turns out, you may end up paying the gypster up to three times the price you would pay at your local store for the same stuff. "The fact is," says one industry expert, "that there is no established commercial standard and seldom is there enough carpeting left over from a commercial installation to cover an average sized bathroom."

Here's how to spot the gypsters:

- (1) Beware of ads that offer an "astoundingly low" price. You just can't carpet three rooms with lasting covering for less than $100.
- (2) Beware of the salesman who tries to switch you from his company's advertised special. Bait-and-switch techniques are outlawed in most states, but enforcement of the law is defiantly difficult.
- (3) Ask for a sample of the carpet to be installed, or at least make sure the same carpet is actually delivered.
- (4) Beware of "free" offers along with "bargain" carpeting. The offers aren't free and the racketeers gyp you on these, too.
- (5) Deal with an established, reputable dealer. "This," says Genett, "is the only way to be sure you are getting fair value for your money and that you are getting the many real bargains in carpeting available today."

John Chamberlain: These Days

Project 'Camelot' or 'Costalot'

The Latin American countries which waxed furious when they learned that the Pentagon was contemplating a multi-million dollar study of "the potential for internal war" in Chile, Argentina, Colombia, Peru and Venezuela might have spared themselves some agony. For even if the so-called Project Camelot had not been publicly buried by President Johnson, it would have revealed nothing that is not known already to practically anybody who has good Latin American sources — and it would have revealed that much too late.

These surveys! They assemble so much ponderous machinery to measure over a protracted period of time what a good reporter can get by judicious interviewing within a couple of weeks that they are invariably on the slow freight. I remember working on the editing and illustrating end of a government study of the comparative strength of Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia on the eastern front in 1942. For six months a group of professors, many of them quite able, made like beavers to correlate every last scrap of information they could get. Much of it came from the daily newspapers. By the time the job was completed the German Army had made a decisive move—and the work had to be done all over again. The cream of the ironic jest is that the U.S. military attaché in Moscow had been feeding more—and better—material to General George Marshall than he would have gotten from the survey even if it had reached his desk in time to be of any use.

All of which raises a question: why did the Pentagon feel it needed a "Project Camelot" to tell it about Latin American revolutionary potentialities if its own military attachés are on the ball? No possible "Project Camelot" for pre-World War II Nazi Germany could ever have matched the material which our military attaché in Berlin, Colonel Truman Smith, gathered in the course of his daily duties. A good military or naval attaché is supposed to be on top of situations, with sources that it would take months for a team of academic researchers to tap. If a "Project Camelot" was indeed needed for Latin America, then we must assume that our military, naval and air force attachés in Chile, Argentina and the other countries are spending all too much time on the cocktail circuit.

Moreover, if a "Project Camelot" was justified, what are we to say of the Central Intelligence Agency and the area desks of the State Department itself? If the CIA files aren't filled to the gunwales with relevant stuff about Latin American revolutionary potentialities, then why are we spending billions to keep CIA personnel employed? And why do we have a State Department? Or are we to believe that the CIA and the State Department have secrets that are too precious to divulge to the Pentagon on request?

Of course, you might say that our military attachés and CIA operatives and diplomats are not social scientists. As is well known, "social science research" consists of surveying the Indians of the Peruvian altiplano and recording their grunts as they are asked leading questions. The researcher invariably finds that the Indians don't live very well, and they might very well be predisposed to listen to Castroites. Which is the sort of thing that anyone can glean from the reports put out each month by Paul D. Bethel, the able editor of the bulletin published by the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba. The bulletin can be had for free.

It doesn't take a ponderous "social survey" to tell us that the military regime of Colonel Enrique Peralta Azurdia in Guatemala is vulnerable, or that Soviet and Cuban "trawlers" are smuggling Havana-trained guerrillas into Central and South America via Islas Mujeres off the Mexican coast, or that rebels control parts of Colombia, or that Ecuador is unstable, or that the Indians of Peru are hungry, or that the new Chilean president has to walk a tightrope between orthodox Communists and Maoists, or that Brazil is having difficulty overcoming the ravages of inflation. Information is what we have in abundance. The main trouble is that nobody has time to read it, it's so all-fired voluminous.

Police Need Help

The cop has never fallen so low. He must (1) prevent crime; (2) detect crime; (3) apprehend a criminal without bruising him; (4) appraise the criminal of his legal rights and try to stop him from confessing; (5) hide the story from the press; (6) give the criminal the benefit of every legal doubt; (7) when facing sudden death, be prepared not to defend himself because he might kill someone and be dismissed from the force.

J. Edgar Hoover says that serious crime is up 13 per cent over the previous year. The population is up 1.5 per cent. There were 1,100,000 burglaries in America last year. Fifty-seven policemen were killed. One in every 10 cops was assaulted. There were 9,250 murders; 20,550 forcible rapes reported, and perhaps another 10,000 not reported.

America, as currently constituted, has small respect for law, and less for law-enforcement officers. Life is becoming cheaper here. The cop is the defendant; the district attorney must bargain with criminals; the judge must extend mercy or expect to be hounded as a hanging judge.

This is not to say that all policemen are good ones. The uniform will not make a thinker of a stinker. The big risks among cops are (1) the ignorant and inefficient; (2) the sadists who use the sanctity of the shield to bend the helpless to their will; (3) crooks in uniform; (4) homosexuals.

My father was a police lieutenant. My grandfather was a patrolman. My brother John was once a railroad detective. Still, none of us had copitis. We were not permitted to believe that a policeman was right no matter what he did. When a policeman was wrong, we believed that his peers in the department should try him and punish him, as soldiers are tried in a court martial.

The pressure on Mayor Robert Wagner and the police department of New York to permit the trial of policemen by civilians is a cynical disgrace. The legal limp in the premise is that civilians are better qualified to deal with malefactors in uniform. To the contrary, no one understands law enforcement better than a captain or inspector who once pounded a beat, and no one is more merciless.

The policeman now has a new emotion: fear. He's afraid of his job; he's afraid of making the wrong move, so his tendency is to play it safe. The pay is minimum; the risk is maximum. Why take a chance?

In many cities, the cop is now at the mercy of the mob. If he makes an arrest, he must be prepared to fight for his life. The citizen whose bounden duty it is to assist the law enforcement officer finds it easier to surround the policeman and taunt him and dare him to fire at any one in the crowd.

The breakdown in civilian morale is closely followed by a breakdown in police morale. The cop in the squad car will take $10 to forget the violation. Or he will make a date with the woman driver instead of giving her a date in traffic court. He becomes conscious of races and minorities because, if he offends them, he can be charged with bias.

In the public demonstrations which have engulfed the nation, only the cheapest elements of both sides clash. The hysterics find each other readily, and they make good photographs for television and the press.

Recently, I was a guest in the home of a lawyer and he paraded his little red-headed son before the company. "I'm teaching him to grow up and obey all the good laws," he said. As a guest, I forgot my place for a moment. "What the hell is a good law?" I said. "And who decides it?"

He was offended. I got out as gracefully as possible. There are lots of laws we do not like. But they are laws. And laws are to be obeyed in toto, not by selective fiat. Bad laws are smashed on successful appeal. The lawyer, in my estimation, is handicapping his son.

Crime, I feel, can be reduced through education and protection. For example, I would permit corporal punishment—within bounds—to be restored as the right of teachers. If a few teachers abuse the right, try them and dismiss them. I would also restore the right of policemen to carry and use a nightstick. With a stick, he is less likely to use a gun.

My grandfather, who retired in 1913, was known as a non-arresting cop. I asked him how he kept order on a tenement house beat. "I had no trouble," he said. "If the boys on the corner got fresh, I gave them a touch of the stick." In 30 years on the force, he never had to draw a gun.

The cop in your neighborhood doesn't need your friendship. He requires your active assistance. Someday, you may need his . . .

Car Blaze Is Put Out In Shrewsbury

SHREWSBURY — The Shrewsbury Hose Company was called out at 11:04 last night to douse a fire in the rear seat of a car owned by Robert Mellis, Millburn, and parked at the Shadowbrook.

Police said a parking lot attendant, sent to fetch the car, was greeted by a burst of flames when he opened the door. The fire apparently had been smoldering for some time, according to police. Damage was confined to the rear seat and back of the front seat, police said. The cause of the fire was not determined. Firemen were on the scene about 20 minutes.

Agent Has Free Leaflet On Drought

FREEHOLD — M. A. Clark, senior county agricultural agent, is offering free copies of a new Extension Service leaflet, "How to Take Care of the Home Grounds in a Drought."

The leaflet, just off the press at Rutgers University, answers questions about using waste water to save garden and foundation plants and trees.

College of Agriculture specialists whose advice is included in the leaflet suggest irrigating plants and shrubs with kitchen, laundry and bathtub waste water, even if it contains soap or detergent.

Mulching plants and caring for the lawn are also explained in the leaflet.

A post card to the agent at 20 Court St., mentioning "Drought" will bring a free copy.

Lawn Billbugs Are at Work

FREEHOLD — A Rutgers turf specialist, Dr. Henry W. Indyk, has discovered lawn billbugs at work trying to destroy a lawn.

The young billbug is described as a short, white, chunky, legless grub with a distinct hard brownish-yellow head.

They feed on stems of grasses and later move into the soil and feed on the fibrous grass roots until they are grown.

Adult billbugs have long snouts or bills and feed on the base of grass stems near the surface of the soil as well as on grass blades.

They may range in color from clay yellow to reddish-brown to jet black.

Several species of billbugs damage lawns.

If you find them in your lawn you can control them with Diazinon, states Marvin A. Clark, senior county agent. Follow label directions and water the lawn thoroughly after you apply the insecticide.

Hulsberg of the Lawley Agency, Middletown, arranged the sale for Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Sabold, who have moved to Cinnaminson. Mr. and Mrs. William T. Cochran from Chatham have purchased a home at 77 Park Ln., Fair Haven, from Mr. and Mrs. Lee Polk Brown, who have moved to an apartment. Mr. Cochran is with Bell Telephone Laboratories in Holmdel. The sale was made by Mrs. Kay Campi of The Low Agency, Fair Haven.

William A. Nelson of the Crowell Agency, Red Bank, reported two sales this week. Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Christ from Pittsburgh, purchased the former home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Styles at 38 Park Dr., Middletown. Mr. Christ is Eastern regional sales manager for Standard Packaging, and also an avid golfer. The Styles moved to Riverside, Calif.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Hughes of Baltimore, Md., have purchased a new home at 34 Kamar Ct., Middletown, built by Frank Kaszuba, president of Kamar, Inc. Mr. Hughes is in charge of the legal department of the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., handling all claims and settlements.

Building Coming Down,

By STEPHEN M. AUG NEW YORK (AP) — They're tearing down P.S. 93.

The wooden scaffolds are up. The windows of the 75-year-old brownstone school are thrown open. The first floor is boarded up with old doors from classrooms and stairwells.

I think that in all the world there is no sight that touches one with such poignancy as that of the wrecker about to tear into one's childhood school.

In recent years, P.S. 93 has fallen almost to disuse.

Its last function was as a relocation center for those displaced from tenement homes because of redevelopment of the vast slum area of Manhattan's upper West Side.

But when it was built — in 1899 — the area included three- and four-story one-family brownstones, home to the city's elite.

By the time my family moved in — in 1940 — there were still many brownstones, but their status had declined to that of rooming houses.

School Still Nice

But P.S. 93 was still nice. I remember the classrooms with walls that were pushed back on rollers to make an assembly hall.

I remember, too, the red ties and white shirts the boys had to wear to Wednesday assemblies — and the flowing red, sailor-type, ties the girls had to wear, with white middle blouses and blue skirts.

In those days I had such important classroom jobs as window monitor, paper monitor and ink monitor. Being ink monitor required occasional trips to the basement so the school charlady could fill the class ink bottle. Each desk had a glass inkwell.

I graduated about the time ballpoint pens started to become popular. But the first ones cost about $5. So, in those days we could still write in an elementary school autograph book: "On this beautiful page of pink I give you a sample of Waterman's ink." Steffi — whose last name I don't remember — wrote that in my book. Then there was this: "I think you're so swell, I think you're so swell, if I had a peanut, I'd give you the shell." Alan Friedman wrote that.

I haven't seen my classmates in years — not since we graduated. That was the day this entry was made in my autograph book: "To Steve: Prison — P.S. 93. Jailer — Mrs. Mitchell. Ward — Mrs. Frey. Released — June 27, 1947. Your cellmate, Mildred."

Well, the old jail is coming down. But as Marcia Hauptman wrote in my autograph book, my days at P.S. 93 were: "2 Sweet 2 be 4 Gotten."

STUDENTS DRAFT

NEW YORK — Some Selective Service boards say they will tighten rules deferring college students from the draft in the Viet Nam crisis.

Draft boards that have been liberal in giving students deferments in the past say they are going to get tough to meet heavy draft calls beginning next month.

A sampling by the Associated Press of 20 states showed 13 planning to review the status of deferred students. At least two others in the survey are considering such action.

"If we need men to draft, one place we'll look is the college classroom," said Lt. Col. Wayne Rhodes, deputy state director of the Indiana Selective Service system.

Trees, Dead or Alive Have Useful Lumber

FREEHOLD — Dead or alive, some trees are still useful for lumber. Marvin A. Clark, senior county agent, says when sound dead trees are sawed into lumber and the weathered or charred outside is cut away, there is no method known to the Forest Products Laboratory by which the lumber can be distinguished from that cut from live trees.

The Forest Products Laboratory indicates that timber cut from trees killed by insects or fire is just as good for any structural purposes as that cut from live trees of similar quality. Heartwood is dead wood whether the tree is living or not, and so most wood cut from trees is dead even while the tree itself is living.

Dumont's Hassle With Rutgers Board Isn't the First on Record

By JOHN KOLESAR
TRENTON (AP)—Sen. Wayne Dumont's latest issue in his campaign for governor finds him on familiar ground—battling a Democratic governor and Rutgers University's governing board over a cold war issue.

Dumont has been criticizing Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes and the Rutgers Board of Governors for refusing to fire Prof. Eugene Genovese, who told a Viet Nam "teach-in" last April that as a Marxist and Socialist he would welcome a Viet Cong victory.

The board of governors refused to fire Genovese, claiming he did not expound his opposition to the United States' Viet Nam policies in his history classes. As a free man, they argued, he is entitled to state any views he wants outside of the classroom. Hughes sharply supported the board of governors, though he called Genovese's views outrageous.

For Dumont the battle is reminiscent of one which occurred in 1956 and created state history. The issue then was the appointment of John O. Bigelow to the Rutgers Board of Governors.

The board of governors was being created in 1956 to give the state greater control over Rutgers, its state university. Bigelow, a retired superior court judge with a reputation as a conservative Democrat was one of the half dozen nominees submitted by former Gov. Robert B. Meyner, a Democrat like Hughes.

But Bigelow, as an attorney, had represented a Newark school teacher who took the Fifth Amendment during an appearance before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Bigelow's confirmation had been a routine certainty until the state senators learned Bigelow had represented someone who took the Fifth.

Suddenly, the expected, routine, one-hour confirmation session on a July day ground to a halt. The senate Republican majority met for hours behind closed doors while mystified newsmen stood outside in a State House corridor, wondering what had happened.

Then one senator came out and told the newsmen why Bigelow's nomination was being blocked. That senator was Wayne Dumont Jr., then president of the senate and now the GOP candidate for governor.

The senate summoned Bigelow to a closed hearing that night, but went home after midnight with four Republicans on the Judiciary Committee blocking Bigelow's nomination. The case created a national furor in those days of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's declining influence.

The senate Republicans who opposed Bigelow found themselves the targets of a wave of criticism. Dumont caught much of the criticism because Meyner left on a trip to Europe. Dumont became acting governor and his availability left him chief spokesman for the Bigelow opposition.

The battle split Republicans sharply. Walter H. Jones, then the GOP senator from Bergen County, became Bigelow's volunteer attorney in an unprecedented public hearing by the Judiciary Committee. The Republicans split 7-4 in favor of confirming Bigelow in the final rollcall vote that approved the nomination 11 days after it was submitted. Jones today is head of the powerful Republican organization in Bergen and a somewhat unenthusiastic supporter of Dumont.

Dumont, as acting governor in 1956, abstained in the final vote but said he was dissatisfied with Bigelow's answer to a key question: What would you do if a Rutgers professor took the Fifth Amendment? Bigelow

Bigelow is gone from the board of governors and now it is faced with the question of what to do about a professor who voices sympathy for Marxism, Socialism and the Viet Cong. Dumont still doesn't like the answer.

Hughes has already accused Dumont of possessing the "McCarthy syndrome." He ties Dumont's position on Genovese to the Republican candidate's espousal of a compulsory flag-saluting law which was declared unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court two decades ago.

"When a man will do anything to be governor, he's a very dangerous man," Hughes said in a speech to the Democratic State Committee two weeks ago.

"It's the first time I ever heard of a commander-in-chief lining up as an advocate of the enemy," Dumont retorted in later comment.

Senate Majority Leader William E. Ozzard, R-Somerset, has called Dumont's stand "positive" and Hughes' "weak."

Hughes has also sought to turn the Viet Nam issue to his benefit. He has said that a victory for him would be an expression of support for President Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

It is early in the gubernatorial campaign, too soon to tell just how far the Genovese issue will develop. But if it snowballs, a new generation could get a faint taste of what politics was like in the days of McCarthy.

Board Delays Action On Middletown Site

KEANSBURG — The Board of Education is taking a wait-and-see attitude toward purchase of property in neighboring East Keansburg for a school site.

The board is considering purchasing 40 acres of property off Port Monmouth Rd., in Middletown, as a site for a 40-room intermediate-high school building.

Board officials said Wednesday they do not know at this point how much land they will need for the school. They said it all depends on how large a building the state will allow them to construct, based on the borough's financial status.

Two other problems have cropped up which have forced the board to take a cautious attitude.

State law now allows a school board to acquire only 25 acres in another community for a school.

Need 40 Acres
If the board builds the 40-room school it will need at least 40 acres in Middletown.

Earl B. Garrison, county superintendent, said he is seeking a way to clear this legal obstacle. He said yesterday he is sure it could be done but did not know at this point exactly how.

The second problem is that approximately 14 acres of land that the board is considering has been suggested as a recreation area by Middletown recreation officials.

Middletown officials feel there is no need to develop the land immediately and are aware that the local school board is interested in it.

Frank De Maria, Middletown Recreation Commission chairman, said the school board should get first preference on the property if it needs it for a school.

For Access
The property in question is just off Port Monmouth Rd., and would be needed by the board to

A Forgotten Art - The Formal Call

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY
The tempo of American life has changed so much in recent years that in most communities the practice of formal calling has been sadly neglected. It is a friendly, considerate custom which, in my opinion, should be revived.

If a new family joins your church or moves into a house in your neighborhood, you should make it a point to call. Telephone in advance to see if the call would be timely and welcome. If the new neighbor indicates that she is not yet ready for visitors, tell her you hope she will let you know when the proper time comes.

When making the first call upon a new neighbor, never stay more than 20 minutes. When you leave, place your calling card on a hall table.

The proper calling hours are between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Families in the community may wish to invite new comers, whether they be family groups or single men and women, to come over for coffee, tea, or cocktails. When making that first call on a new neighbor, take along a few flowers, if possible. If you have no garden, you may wish to buy an inexpensive gardenia or a bunch of violets, or one or two fine roses. It is not necessary to take along an expensive bouquet.

In small towns and suburban areas, it has always been customary to make calls on families who are in sorrow or who have joyful occasions such as the engagement or marriage of a child. Find out what is customary in your community, and follow it.

Phone in Advance
It is always perfectly permissible at a proper hour to call at the door of a bereaved family. You may ask if the family is receiving. Under any circumstances, leave your card on the tray or on a table in the hall.

It is also proper to ask if you may assist in any way — for example, by making telephone calls or answering the door. If your help is required, you will be told what to do. Otherwise depart.

Newcomers who are moving in, or people with sickness or bereavement, always appreciate neighbors who bring over a cake or a pie or other food.

Make it a rule never to arrive unexpectedly. It is extremely bad manners for neighbors to run in and interrupt the household duties of other neighbors, whether they live in houses or apartments. Few people these days have household help. Many women are employed or have small children. It is bad manners to break in when a person may be busy.

Never visit a friend in the hospital unless you first inquire by telephone of the hospital authorities, a friend, or members of the family, if the patient may have visitors. Many doctors now prefer that their patients have few or no visitors while in the hospital.

Keep Visit Brief
A visit of five minutes or so is sufficient in the hospital, unless the patient has been hospitalized for many months with, for example, a broken bone. In the latter case, you would still inquire as to what is best for the patient.

When the patient is at home,

the same practice should be followed.

Notes or cards are always welcome, as are modest arrangements of flowers, or small gifts. They need not be expensive. Don't send large arrangements of overpowering flowers. Find out if the patient should have flowers in his room.

In governmental and diplomatic life, calling is still considered important and is regularly practiced. For example, the wife of each new congressman is expected to call on the First Lady, the wife of the Vice President, and the wives of certain other personages. These calls involve, almost without exception, merely leaving cards showing that you made the expected gesture.

(To leave cards for the First Lady, one drives to the East Entrance of the White House and hands the cards, in a small envelope, to the White House guard on duty. At the home of the Vice President, the caller rings the bell and asks if Mrs. Humphrey is at home. The answer normally will be "No." The caller then leaves cards.)

Necessarily, these calls in governmental life are often restricted, perfunctory, and lacking in personal contact. No such conditions are imposed on ordinary citizens in their daily lives, but somehow most of us do not find the time to call upon our friends and neighbors.

Perhaps we need to slow down a little and ask ourselves what is really important.

Give 1,161 Hours To Marlboro

MARLBORO — A total of 1,161 hours of service was given this month by 45 teenage volunteers working directly with patients at the State Hospital here.

Mrs. Marion Winer, Red Bank chairman of the program for the auxiliary, commented, "The most remarkable aspect of this group of teenager volunteers is their willingness to undertake any type assignment. Nothing bothers them; they take everything in stride."

Mrs. Elma Anable, director of volunteer service, stated, "The sight of the 'wheel chair brigade' — 10 or more juniors pushing elderly patients about the grounds chatting continually is beautiful."

Five former junior volunteers now have summer jobs as attendants to aid to the value of this program.

"If only a few (students) find a vocation in the nursing or medical field, then the value of this program is increased," Mrs. Stanley Butkus, Belmar, president of the auxiliary, said.

Areas open for the teenage volunteers program this summer are Vanity Fair and Esquire, the patients' clothing shops maintained by the auxiliary; recreation, library, occupational therapy, children's unit and geriatrics unit.

A New World of Fashion

Beaded Gown
A very interesting thing has happened to the fashion world. It has expanded to now include that most feminine and intimate collection of items, the undergarment.

But oh, what a lovely scene it is, with the fancies of fashion coloring, shaping and glamorizing these garments. Gone, or rapidly disappearing, are the large, dull, prim cotton garments that constricted everyone's mother.

In place of whalebone and monstrous tie-up corsets are the wonders of lycra spandex and the other powerful stretch fabrics that give better support with less weight, bulk or discomfort.

Even the heavy padded bra of not so many years ago has been replaced by the wonders of modern chemistry and fashion, as fiberfill, a lighter-than-air concoction, gives support and fullness where needed.

The purpose of the girdle (despite new fabrics and styles) has always been to mold and hold. The bra's raison d'etre, however, changes from generation to generation, if not sooner.

And when there is the backless bra, the sideless one, frontless one, and all the other variations on a theme of exposure, leading to the ultimate uselessness, the no-bra.

Besides new fabrics and designs, color has become a significant factor. Since the basic skin tones appeared recently, black has lost some popularity and even white is being challenged as the basic foundation.

In short, the foundation revolution has been in favor of comfort, beauty and freedom. Everything is lightweight and drip-dry, and you can select from Courreges-type bras and slips to the lacy, ultra-feminine foundations that bear my name.

FASHION MIRROR
Take out your strings of beaded jet and your feather boas. Romance is in the soon-to-come autumn air and the prevailing look is glitteringly feminine.

are grading cloths for evening. An especially opulent look is afforded by jewel beads, whose facets catch the light and shimmer with warmth and fire.

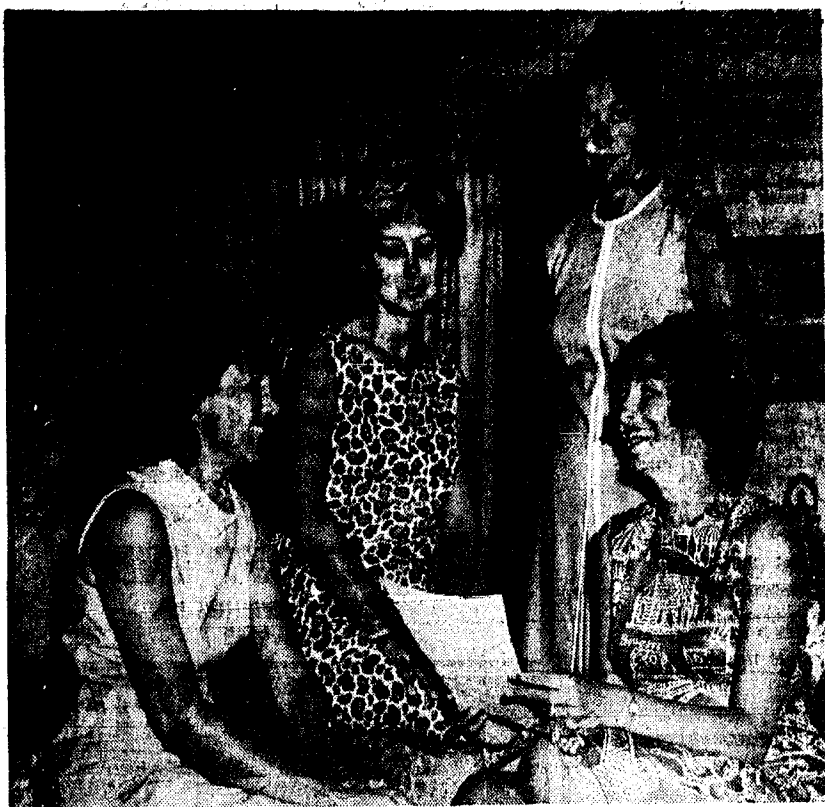

For example, a long sleeveless shaft of simple solid-colored wool flannel might flash with the fire of jewel beads clustered in a panel outlining the deeply cut neck.

Even the fabrics will be electric with color and the play of lights, as metallic brocades are used to great advantage in garments that reflect the splendor of the evening.

FASHION TIP
Certain tenets of fashion never change, and one of the most sensible is the need for a basic black or grey dress. The backbone of any well-conceived wardrobe, a carefully selected style should be able to take you anywhere from a museum to a restaurant, from afternoon tea to a small dinner party.

It's easy in the excitement of today's wildly patterned prints, over-sized checks and houndstooths and vividly colored synthetics, to forget the quiet tastefulness and usefulness of black or grey (the best for you depending upon your age, complexion and hair color).

WEDNESDAY EVENTS in the shore area will include annual Elberon Night, being planned in top picture by, left to right, Mrs. Alan Grossman, Mrs. Anthony Villano, Mrs. Robert O'Brien and Mrs. Richard Padberg, members of the Elberon Voters and Property Owners Association.

Question — Is "Our Private World" going to continue after the summer or will it go off the air? I have become a fan of this show and I think it's just beginning to get interesting. My favorite actors on the show are the ones who play Brad and Dr. Larson.—S. L., Milford, Conn.
Answer — The twice weekly "soap opera" is scheduled to fade from the scene before too long. David O'Brien (Dr. Larson) and Robert Drivas (Brad Robinson) will probably show up as guest stars on some of the TV drama series after the demise of "Our Private World."
Question — Are those exciting men from "UNCLE," Robert Vaughn and David McCallum, going to appear as guests on any of the other series during the coming year? I think Vaughn and most especially McCallum are great.—M. W., Troy, N. C.
Answer — David McCallum has been signed as a guest on the upcoming Carol Channing special scheduled for airing early in 1966. Robert Vaughn will make a guest appearance on a "Hollywood Palace" bill headed by Jimmy Durante.

Matawan Neighborhood Council Drafts By-Laws

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP—Mrs. James B. Smith, was appointed chairman of the housing committee of the Matawan Neighborhood Council at a meeting Sunday evening in Mt. Moriah Baptist Church, Cliffwood.

The executive committee is drafting by-laws to be presented for adoption. Mrs. Charles Erickson, 56 Idlewild La., will accept suggestions pertaining to the by-laws.

Louis Armour, chairman of the youth committee, stated there is a need for a domestic job corps in the Matawan area. He has been asked to investigate the possibilities and report his findings to the council. The youth group is currently organizing another picnic outing, similar to one held July 24 in Thompson Park, Jamesburg.

The recreation committee assigned a member to look into the possibility of supervised playground activities in the Cliffwood area, like the programs instituted in other parts of the township.

The mayor's economic opportunity committee is in need of teachers for its tutoring program, and also the names of pupils in the area who are in need of the service. Michael Rapoport, 30 Newland Pl., is in charge of transportation for the pupils.

The council has received a donation from Bayshore Lodge, Bnai Brith, which will be used as admission fee to a puppet show for some children who would otherwise not have the opportunity to attend. The show is sponsored by the Matawan Woman's Club and will be presented Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the Jackson St. clubhouse.

The day care center committee has delegated two members to attend a meeting of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Trenton. There will be a discussion of day care centers in the state.

The economic opportunity committee has been corresponding with Washington concerning local problems on allocation of money for different projects, among them the Neighborhood Council's proposal for a day care center. Sen. Harrison Williams, in reply, promised to appoint someone to investigate the problems.

Meanwhile, the council agreed, members should continue the work. More Matawan area residents should become involved, they said. There have not been many tangible results so far, mainly due to the fact that the Monmouth Community Action Program (MCAP) office has had problems of its own.

The council's next general meeting will be held Sunday, Sept. 12, at 8 p.m. in the Mt. Moriah Church.

Testimonial Tomorrow For Greene

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — The Democratic Executive Committee will sponsor a testimonial dinner honoring William R. Greene, former assessor, tomorrow night in Buck Smith's Restaurant, Palmer Ave., East Keansburg.

Mrs. Willard Warren, dinner chairman, announced that tickets are almost sold out for the dinner. Mr. Greene is being honored on his transfer from the community. He has been promoted by the New Jersey Natural Gas Company to the office of southern divisional manager, serving all of Cape May County.

A native of Brooklyn, Mr. Greene moved to the township when he was four years old. He served the township as tax assessor since 1959. He served as chairman of the township Democratic Executive Committee in 1950.

Placed high on the list of other interests were the youth of the community. Mr. Greene has served as manager for the Little League of West Keansburg, the Pop Warner League of Keyport, and is coaching the Pony League of the township. He has also served as president of the Board of Health. He is also an active member of the VFW Post of West Keansburg, the Keyport Kiwanis, the Keyport Chamber of Commerce and the Monmouth County Assessors' Association.

Among the honor guests expected to attend will be friends as well as political leaders in the community from both parties. Mayor Marvin Olinsky will be toastmaster.

Serving with Mrs. Warren on the committee are Mrs. Edward Aikens, Mrs. Eugene Balestriere, Mrs. Harold J. Conroy, Mrs. Jonas Dinicola, Mrs. Patrick McDonough, Mrs. Mary C. Dugan, Mrs. Joseph DiVirgilio, Mrs. Edward P. Morgan, Mrs. John Nicholl, Mrs. George P. Reseter, Mrs. Walter E. Sherin, Mrs. William Smith and Mrs. Joseph J. Trotta.

Second Night of Wild Riot Hits L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A second riotous night — wild shooting, burning, brawling and widespread property damage — has ripped a normally serene neighborhood in the heart of Los Angeles' Negro district.

And police and Negro leaders say the end is not in sight. New violence is expected tonight — unless somehow unruly young gang leaders can be persuaded to cool off.

An outburst Wednesday night, when a white officer arrested a Negro on a drunken driving charge, touched off an eight-hour demonstration with heavy damage and more than a score of injuries. This was topped last night.

Teenagers who were the ringleaders the first time around carried out vows to "show those cops."

After daylong calm, knots of youths and young men formed at sundown along Avalon Blvd. in suburban Watts. Two shoe-shine boys, in pale mimicry of the previous night's brick tossing and board swinging, began chucking pebbles at passing cars.

In no time, crowds that were virtually 100 per cent Negro poored out of homes, apartments and shops and were joined by others from outside the area. They jammed sidewalks and overflowed into the street, blocking traffic.

Rocks grew larger and more numerous with dusk. The target: anything that moved, including other Negroes on foot and in passing cars.

With darkness, the lid blew off. For 4½ hours, from 7:30 p.m. to midnight when police proclaimed the situation controlled, an estimated 6,000 persons milled, ran, shouted, cursed and fought virtually uncontrolled.

Police, who hoped to get through the evening with a skeleton force after daylong efforts by civic leaders and social workers to head off a new outburst, steadily beefed up forces.

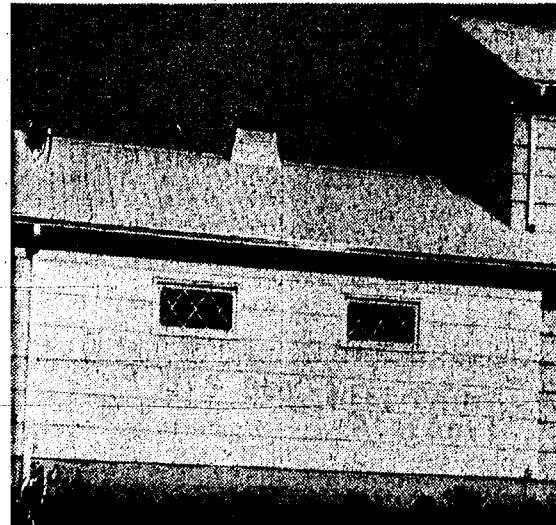

An initial contingent of 80 was quickly reinforced and ultimately there were 200 police, 195 sheriff's deputies, 283 sheriff's reserves and 40 California highway patrolmen in the melee. The California National Guard was alerted for a possible short-notice call-up.

The night's statistics: 17 arrests, four police injuries, an undetermined number of civilian injuries, a heavy toll of damage.

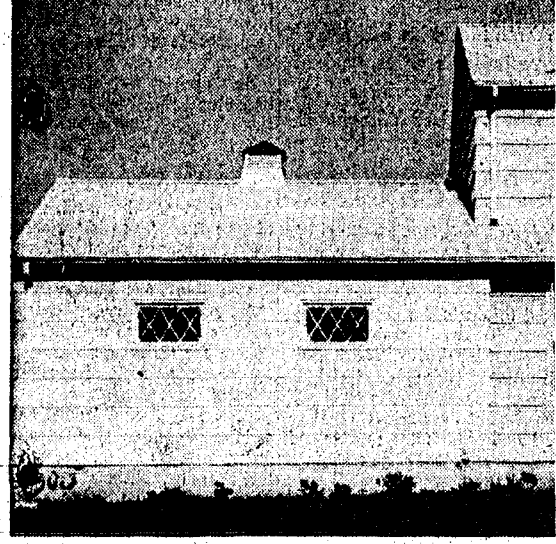

Officers sealed off a six-block area, permitting people to leave but not enter, hoping tempers would cook quickly. They didn't.

Scores of police cars, fire engines, ambulances and private autos were bombarded by bricks, stones and fragments of concrete. Officers chasing rioters were mobbed and had to club their way to safety. At least a score of vehicles were overturned, several were burned and countless windshields shattered. Two stores were looted and burned, then the mob marched down a street looting others.

Just before midnight as the mob began to thin, a flying wedge of 75 policemen marched up the thoroughfare that was headquarters for the ringleaders and dispersed them. A few minutes later, the riot was pronounced controlled.

After photographer snapped the picture, yesterday, however, the message was blurred out with fresh paint (below).

Vandalism Issue Stirs Union Beach Storm

By JAMES M. NEILLAND

UNION BEACH — The vandalism issue led to rapid-fire developments here last night that included demands for a bolstered police department and a change of government, and a threat of action to seek the ouster of Councilman Frederick Heckelmann.

Triggering the chain of events was disclosure to The Register by county Prosecutor Vincent P. Keuper that Mr. Heckelmann was given certain recommendations and suggestions last Friday to help correct problems of vandalism, larceny and assault that have harassed businessmen and residents of the borough.

Mr. Keuper said the nature of the recommendations could not be divulged as this would "telegaph our punches to those responsible for the vandalism."

His statement confirmed businessman Ronald Harpoottlian's complaint to the prosecutor and indicated that the recommendations concerned steps to be taken by police to apprehend anyone guilty of reported acts of vandalism, theft and assault.

Not of Police

Monday night Mr. Heckelmann told council only that the investigation had not been of the police department. In a lengthy speech that criticized local merchants and some unnamed news articles, he made no mention of recommendations from either Mr. Keuper or county Chief of Detectives John Gawlor.

The police committee met Tuesday night and, according to Councilman Arthur Lembo, there still was no mention of such recommendations.

Police Chief Walter A. Huton reported that he knew of no recommendations made by the prosecutor's office.

Reaction throughout the community was instantaneous and from several quarters came demands for action.

Gus Strauch, chairman of the Businessmen's Association's municipal affairs committee, declared:

Demands Resignation

"This is definitely grounds for demanding his resignation. This is too much. Our committee is meeting Monday night and I will press for a demand by the association for his removal."

John R. Murray, former councilman and a Democratic Club chieftain, was shocked.

"It's fantastic," he said. "I think it's time for us to have a police survey here similar to the one held in Keyport. We've waited long enough. I will personally undertake to get this survey instituted."

"There's no longer any question that Mr. Heckelmann has got to go. If he doesn't resign, we can move toward a recall election, but the problem goes deeper than that. The whole system stinks."

"We need a new form of government and we can't afford to wait for a charter study. We've got to act now and round up enough signatures to get a change of government put on the November ballot."

The former governing body member estimated that 750 signatures will be needed to get the question on the ballot.

Higher Pay

Ira Werley, Republican campaign manager, called for an immediate emergency appropriation to increase the size of the police department and provide higher salaries that will attract qualified men to the force.

"Knowing all of the damage that has been caused, council should not wait for a new governing body to act but should authorize these funds now."

"The chief, the captain and the sergeant are being forced to perform patrol duties as well as carry out their own assignments. They must be freed of this double duty so that they can adequately provide leadership for the department."

"Special officers, because of their own full time jobs, cannot perform as satisfactorily as can regular patrolmen. We need men who can be trained at police academies and can qualify to provide the police service that this borough requires."

Pressed for Letter

Mr. Strauch, who operates Gus' Taxi Service here, was a leading force behind a letter from the Businessmen's Association to council.

The group called for strict enforcement of an existing 10 p.m. curfew for all youths aged 17 and under, adoption of an anti-loitering ordinance, establishment of a juvenile conference committee and provision of police powers to implement them.

The association urged council to provide adequate equipment for police, an increased police force or civilian employees to relieve officers from desk duty and make them available for patrol, reinstatement of foot patrols in trouble areas and higher pay for patrolmen to attract and hold good officers.

The association charges that the low pay scale here necessitates moonlighting by policemen in order that they may support their families.

Commented Mr. Strauch:

Smoke Screen

"Despite the storm that's been raised over these kids — and they're not all teenagers — nothing is being done. The big smoke screen by Mr. Heckelmann reappointing a bunch of special officers is not an answer. These kids — the trouble-makers — have no respect for the specials and show it."

"The loitering is still going on. I drive my cab every night and I see them hanging out along Union Ave. and the beachfront as late as one and two in the morning."

"Some are under 18, some are over. They sit around drinking and they have no trouble getting either beer or liquor. The ones who are old enough buy it and the rest help drink it."

"Mr. Heckelmann's talk of a low blow to police officers is so much nonsense. We know there are good men in the department. I was a policeman here myself for 10 years and I was the juvenile officer."

"But right now there is no department. It's just not coping with the problems that have to be contended with here."

Fear Darkness

"There are women here who are afraid to walk out on the street after dark. I know them. They're girls, young ladies and older women and I know they're afraid. Is this the kind of situation that calls for ignoring recommendations from the county prosecutor?"

Mr. Heckelmann yesterday continued to maintain his silence on any recommendations, insisted he had not heard from any businessmen on continued problems caused by youths and questioned if something was not trying to be made from nothing.

"I have no further comment," he stated.

Argue About City Spending

Cioffi, Dinkelspiel Battle

LONG BRANCH — The City Council meeting was but two minutes old last night when Councilmen Henry R. Cioffi and Edward N. Dinkelspiel were at each other's neck.

The argument, between the two on-again, off-again antagonists, erupted when Mr. Dinkelspiel asked to speak before bids for the repaving and repair of four city streets were opened.

Referring to the proposed pavings, Mr. Dinkelspiel declared that there is "no reason at this time with our finances the way they are that they have to be paved."

Reacting immediately, Mr. Cioffi asserted that Mr. Dinkelspiel had not objected to the pavings in caucus session and questioned why he should object now. "I find it highly irregular," he said.

Claims Being Duped

Mr. Dinkelspiel claimed he had been duped when the planned library addition and construction of a new firehouse had failed to be included in the pending capital improvements program. Calling these projects more essential, he said there was "no dire need for repair of the streets at this time," adding that "the engines are going to fall through the floor at any time."

Expressing scornful amazement, Mr. Cioffi said he thought Mr. Dinkelspiel wanted the library addition "pay as you go."

Adding that Mr. Dinkelspiel should have spoken up when the capital improvements ordinance was introduced, he declared: "He sets us up and then he shoots us down."

Mayor Vincent J. Mazza, noting that the $317,000 capital improvements ordinance was introduced on a unanimous vote, said:

'Separate Items'

"Approving these (the road pavings) tonight does not preclude appropriating money for the firehouse or library. They're separate items."

Bids received for the paving of Third Ave. from Bath Ave. to Broadway were: Stavola Contracting Co. Inc., Red Bank, $22,870; and Fred McDowell Inc., Neptune, $23,445.

Bids for the paving of Bath Ave. from Norwood Ave. to Ocean Ave. were: Stavola, $35,724; McDowell, $38,135.

Bids for the resurfacing of Ocean Ave. from South Bath Ave. to Brighton Ave. were: Stavola, $23,765; McDowell, $30,645.

Bids for the paving of Seventh Ave. from Atlantic Ave. to Broadway were: Stavola, $18,243.75; McDowell, $19,427.

The bids were referred to the city manager for study.

Advice From Union's Mayor

Wants Parkway Tolls Cut

UNION — Mayor F. Edward Biertuempfel, Sr., of this municipality, says he believes the New Jersey Highway Authority should take immediate action to reduce tolls on the Garden State Parkway.

"I feel the Authority should scrap its plans to use its $2 million surplus for the construction of a cultural center and, instead, cut the toll charges," the mayor stated yesterday.

Mr. Biertuempfel also said that Assemblyman William T. Herring, Ocean County, is calling a meeting shortly to discuss the feasibility of such a move.

"The New Jersey Automobile Association early this year called for a study. This is a very important step in the right direction and should receive the support of all motorists who use the highway," the mayor asserted, adding:

'A Worthy Goal'

"Cultural advancement in the arts is a worthy goal for our state but it should be a public spirited and civic minded achievement and not a toll tax supported institution."

Biertuempfel remarked that hundreds of commuters use the parkway daily with each toll coming close to $300 yearly.

"The Garden State Parkway Authority was not organized for recreation and entertainment. Its funds should be used for the maintenance and safety of the highway and when a surplus is available, to reduce the charges," the mayor stated.

"The Union mayor finished his remarks by saying: "Our governor, our state senators and our assemblymen can stop the project in its tracks. They all can play an important part in reducing the toll rate."

Let's not let the toll rate increase when we are not nourishing.

Gudaitis to Be Principal Of the Point Road School

LITTLE SILVER — The Little Silver and Monmouth Beach Boards of Education don't see eye to eye about school principal David J. Gudaitis.

Mr. Gudaitis, whose dismissal as principal of the Monmouth Beach School in June provoked a storm of public protest, was hired by the Little Silver board last night — and got a $1,000 salary increase.

Mr. Gudaitis was named principal of the Point Road School. He will serve from Aug. 23 to next June 30, at an annual salary of $10,000.

Mr. Gudaitis' salary as administrative principal of the Monmouth Beach School was $9,000.

In the judgment of a five-member board majority, Mr. Gudaitis' qualifications topped those of seven other candidates interviewed and screened by the board. There were 43 applicants for the position, Charles A. O'Malley, board president, said.

Robert L. Lehman cast the only negative vote. He said he favored another candidate for the job.

Charles B. Sheridan abstained. Mr. Sheridan said he couldn't vote intelligently because he was not present when candidates were interviewed.

Voting for the Gudaitis appointment were Mr. O'Malley, Benjamin Sanderson, Mrs. Janet Badgley, William S. Howard and C. G. Callan.

Says He's Happy

"I am very happy to be working for Little Silver and its children," Mr. Gudaitis said last night.

Mr. Gudaitis will replace Douglas C. Horan as Point Road School principal. Mr. Horan last night was named principal of the Marcham Place School, succeeding John Sullivan, who resigned to accept a position at the University of Georgia.

The new assignment will increase Mr. Horan's annual salary from $10,000 to $11,000.

"I am sure I speak for the Monmouth Beach Citizens Committee for Education when I say our loss is Little Silver's gain," Stanley Tsigounis, the newly-formed organization's temporary chairman, said last night.

Mr. Tsigounis, who last month headed a march of nearly 150 persons protesting the Gudaitis ouster, said "we are all very happy for Mr. Gudaitis, of course, but we are sad for the children of Monmouth Beach."

Board Commended

Declaring that "Little Silver has gained one of the top educators in this area," Mr. Tsigounis added, "we want to commend the Little Silver Board of Education for seeing in Mr. Gudaitis the same fine qualities we saw in him. He did a tremendous job here in one year."

Lack of Harmony

The Monmouth Beach board said Mr. Gudaitis was dismissed because of a lack of harmony between him and the board, and tension and unrest on the staff and absence of discipline which seriously affected morale. However, some of those protesting his removal contended he was ousted because he supported the school budget — which went down to defeat last February along with three board candidates who endorsed it.

Mr. Gudaitis received his bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from Seton Hall University, did graduate work at Rutgers and the University of Maine and is working towards his doctorate in educational administration at New York University. Before coming to Monmouth Beach last September he was an elementary school principal in the South Brunswick system for five years. He established that community's teacher rating scale, headed committees investigating the ungraded school program and social studies curriculum, and was head of a parents' study group evaluating the reading program. In Monmouth Beach he introduced departmentalization of the seventh and eighth grades.

Rules Moving Cars May Go Through

ASBURY PARK — Magistrate Eugene Capibianco last night conceded that a car which has already entered an intersection when the traffic light changes has a right to proceed.

In finding Miss Jeanette Brown of Harrison Ave., Neptune, innocent of disregarding a traffic signal, the magistrate noted that he has often been in a similar situation himself. Miss Brown had testified that her car had entered the intersection before the light had changed.

Mr. Capibianco said that a driver has the right to proceed in that case.

11 Drivers Fined

James R. Nash of Sand Point Dr., Brick Township, was fined $25 for failing to keep right.

Jean Durepos of White St., Long Branch, was fined $25 for failing to give the proper signal.

G. Decus Demuthen of Heck St., here, was fined $25 for speeding.

Robert Vafiadis of 11th Ave., Neptune, was fined $10 for driving with a noisy muffler.

Fined for disregarding a stop sign were Edward Hakimian of North Bergen, $10, and Joseph Picciullo of McCabe Ave., Bradley Beach, $5. Fined for careless driving were Richard Keleman of Summers Ave., West Long Branch, $25; Nancy Vaccaro of Park Ave., here, $15; Harry Dennis of Woodrow Wilson Homes, Long Branch, $5; and Bernard Milmoce of Kentucky, $10.

Cathy Scher of New Milford was fined $5 for driving with a noisy muffler and Suthi Kullphongpatana of Oklahoma was fined $3 for driving without his registration in his possession.

On Libraries, Bridge, Etc.

Freeholders Set Sessions

FREEHOLD — A schedule of meetings and a hearing on such normally unrelated subjects as libraries and a bridge were agreed upon last night by the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders.

Thrown together in part by political consideration, the items involve construction of two new county libraries and elimination of the Valentine St. bridge, an aged county structure, over Manahasset Creek between Long Branch and Monmouth Beach.

Freeholder Director Joseph C. Irwin announced that the freeholders and the County Library Commission will confer at a dinner meeting next Thursday with representatives of the 13 municipalities which are not part of the county library system.

At a later date, he added, the two groups also will meet separately with representatives of the 39 towns which comprise the service area of the county system.

Bridge Hearing

And, on Aug. 30, at 11 a.m. at the Monmouth Beach Borough Hall, the freeholders will conduct a public hearing on the fate of the little bridge.

The board's lone Democratic freeholder, Eugene J. Bedell, had put a spotlight on both issues as a single item Monday when he announced opposition to the contemplated bridge hearing and said he would press for public meetings on library plans.

As bridge director, Mr. Bedell had closed the Valentine St. crossing for safety reasons more than three months ago and had recommended demolishing it and not replacing it.

His four Republican colleagues agreed but, at the behest of Long Branch officials while Mr. Bedell was on vacation, cancelled plans to take bids for demolition and agreed to a public hearing.

Asked Meetings

Two months ago the Democrats had asked for public meetings

Sees Grants Giving City Park Areas

LONG BRANCH — City Manager James F. Roosevelt told City Council last night that an increase in federal aid might allow the city to acquire park and playground areas at no cost.

Tuesday night Mayor Vincent J. Mazza said the city was in the process of acquiring 10 pieces of property for park use. At that time he said a 20 per cent contribution from the federal Open Space program, coupled with a 50 per cent grant from the state Green Acres plan, would leave the city paying only $180,000 of the estimated $600,000 expenditure.

Mr. Roosevelt last night said recent federal legislation has boosted the federal limit to 50 per cent of the total.

APPROVE PROJECT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee approved today construction of watershed projects that included:

New Jersey — Assumpink Creek, 58,300 acres in Mercer and Monmouth Counties, $1,567,114, including $4,824,786 federal.

Stieve to Talk To Democrats

RARITAN TOWNSHIP — Theodore J. Stieve, president of the Board of Education, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Hazel Democrat's Club to be held on Tuesday night at 9 p.m. at the Shore Point Inn, Route 35.

Local residents have been invited to hear Mr. Stieve discuss the proposed "middle school" and the program to be offered at the vocational school unit to be constructed at the high school site by the Monmouth County Vocational School Board of Education.

Angels Beat Cleveland, 5-1, On Kralick's 9th-Frame Goofs

ASSOCIATED PRESS
 What Jack Kralick needs most of all is two more strike zones.

The Cleveland right-hander was doing pretty well with the standard one that's located at home plate Thursday night. But when he started aiming at first base and third base, he ran into trouble.

Kralick had limited Los Angeles to six hits and was locked in a 1-1 tie going into the ninth inning. Jim Fregosi opened the inning with a walk.

When Vic Power bunted, Kralick fielded the ball and fired to first base. Only without that strike zone to aim for, Kralick's throw sailed into right field and Fregosi wound up at third and Power at second.

Lou Clinton was purposely walked, loading the bases but Bobby Knoop kayoed the strategy with a two-run single that broke the tie.

Bob Rodgers attempted to sacrifice and again Kralick grabbed the ball. This time he tried for the force at third, but there's no strike zone there either. The ball sailed into left field as Clinton and Knoop dashed home with two more runs.

Angel reliever Bob Lee, who bailed Fred Newman out of a seventh inning jam, made the four runs stand for his seventh victory of the year. He has lost six.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota whacked New York 8-2, Baltimore downed Boston 5-3 and Detroit battered Kansas City 11-1. In the National League, Philadelphia whipped Houston 7-3, St. Louis shaded Milwaukee 5-4 in 13 innings and San Francisco split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, winning the first game 4-3 but dropping the second 5-2.

Newman retired the first 14 batters he faced but Larry Brown's single in the sixth broke the spell. The Indians knocked him out in the next inning with singles by Leon Wagner, Rocky Colavito and Max Alvis producing the run.

The Angels clipped Kralick for a third inning run on singles by Paul Schall and Newman and Jose Cardenal's sacrifice fly.

Carleton Playoffs Continue

The final playoff series of the Northern Division of the Ed Carleton Memorial Baseball League will get underway at 5:15 p.m. tomorrow when the Raritan Bears and the Atlantic Highlands 409's square off at the Atlantic Highlands Firemen's Field in the first of a best-two-out-of-three series.

The second game will be contested Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at Leocadia Court in Hazlet with the third game, if necessary, scheduled to start immediately afterwards.

The winner of this series will meet the Southern Division playoff champion, Freehold, for the over-all league title. This will be only one game. The date and site have yet to be decided.

Ski Site Chosen

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Miami, Fla., was chosen yesterday as the site for next year's National Water Ski Championships.

Directors of the American Water Ski Association, in Minneapolis for this year's competition starting yesterday, set the third week of August as the tentative time for the 1966 tournament, to be sponsored by the Greater Miami Water Ski Club.

Minnesota tagged four Yankee pitchers for 14 hits and rookie Jim Merritt coasted to his second victory. Richie Rollins and Zoilo Versalles had three hits apiece and Don Mincher hit a two-run homer for the Twins.

Hector Lopez and Clete Boyer homered for New York.

Baltimore came from behind with four runs in the seventh inning to beat Boston. John Orsino's pinch single, good for two runs, was the key blow for the Orioles.

Jackie Brandt homered for Baltimore and Frank Matzone, who drove in all the Red Sox' runs, connected for Boston.

Don Demeter drove in seven runs, four of them on a grand slam homer, and Hank Aguirre pitched a four-hitter for Detroit's victory. Demeter also had a single and a triple as the Tigers pounded three Athletic pitchers for 11 hits. Bill Freehan also homered for the Tigers.

The victory was the first since July 11 for Aguirre, who had failed in five previous attempts to win his 11th game. One of the four hits off him was Rene Lachemann's eighth home run of the season.

Aaron Leads PGA on 66

LIGONIER, Pa. (AP) — Tommy Aaron, a quiet, softly-drawing Georgian romped over the lush, hilly acres of the Laurel Valley Golf Club in a five-under-par 66 yesterday, just enough to hold off late charges by Mason Rudolph and Gardner Dickinson and stand for the first round lead in the PGA championship.

Rudolph and Dickinson each made a major bid in the lengthening, late evening shadows and had a share of the lead with two holes to go. But Rudolph bogeyed the 17th and Dickinson the 18th to fall one stroke back at 67.

One more stroke behind at 68 was the trio of youthful Ray Floyd, Australian Bruce Devlin and grizzled Sam Snead, the storied Old Slammer who has bridged two generations of golfers.

72 For Palmer
 Host pro Arnold Palmer, meanwhile, was stunned with a two-stroke penalty for a double bogey six on the opening hole and staggered home with a 72, one over for the 7,096-yard par 35-35-71 layout and well back in the field.

Jets' Sauer At Steinbach Stores Monday

George H. Sauer, director of player personnel for the New York Jets, and himself one of the all-time greats of college and pro football, will appear at all three Steinbach stores on Monday in connection with the month-long program of College and Career Seminars, sponsored by the Steinbach Company in cooperation with the Ford Motor Co.

Mr. Sauer will be at the Red Bank store at 1 p.m. to talk on his personal reminiscences of college and pro football. In his appearances at the Brick Township store at 3 p.m. and at the Ashbury Park store at 8 p.m., he will show a half-hour film of the highlights of the Jets' 1964 season, and some special shots of Joe Namath and John Huarte, two of the most talked-about quarterbacks in college football during the 1964 season, now members of the Jets' 1965 squad.

Mr. Sauer was an All-American fullback at the University of Nebraska in 1931. He played professional football with the Green Bay Packers for three years — 1935-1937. On Jan. 1, 1934, he was voted the outstanding player in the annual East-West college game and was a co-captain of the All-Stars in the game with the Chicago Bears in August, 1934.

He also served as head football coach at Baylor, the Naval Academy, University of New Hampshire and the University of Kansas. During his college coaching career, four of his teams appeared in the major bowl games. He was elected to the National Football Hall of Fame in 1954.

During World War II, he served for 18 months as a lieutenant commander on the U.S.S. Enterprise.

Eagles Better Despite Rout, Says Kuharich

(ONE OF A SERIES)
 HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—Despite a 37-0 thumping by Washington in the first exhibition game, Coach Joe Kuharich still thinks his Philadelphia Eagles can improve on last year's 6-8 record in the National Football League.

"We were hitting on no cylinders," said Kuharich. "We fumbled five times and lost it five times. We tried rookie backs, and they got burned on defense. But we're not that bad."

"We don't feel that we are going to go out and kick people around this year until we get people at all the places on our club. We have some now, and we'll get more. It may take a couple of years, but we'll get there."

Although Eagle owner Jerry Wolman and Kuharich's 18-year-old son got in a scuffle with needling fans after the opener at Hershey, Kuharich is inclined to ignore critics.

Ignores Criticism
 "You have to let criticism run off your back," he said. "There is a job to be done, and you can't let those things bother you. Whether I had a one-year contract or a 15-year (he has) the job ahead is just as hard. There are days of sadness in this game and days of wine and roses. We've had them all."

Because Norm Snead, the Eagle quarterback, had his troubles last year and gave away to King Hill on occasion, Kuharich was asked if he still would have traded Sonny Jurgensen to Washington for Snead if he had it to do over.

"Yes, I would," said Kuharich. "That was no haphazard spur of the moment deal. For the best interests of the club, we thought it was best to have a boy like Snead, but we have to get people around him. We still feel Snead can throw the ball better than he has for us."

Snead probably will open the season again although Kuharich expects to give his back-up man, 28-year-old Hill, a lot of work in the exhibition. Jack Concannon, who hurt his leg while playing catch at home, also will be ready before the opener. Kuharich thinks of Concannon as a rollout, scrambling quarterback like Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio strongboy who was the overwhelming pre-tourney favorite to win his second PGA title, was alone in seventh place with a 69.

A noted Pennsylvania amateur, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, who watched the early going, had long since departed when Rudolph and Dickinson came in near the tail of the cumbersome field of 167, a field delayed in starting some two hours by an early morning fog in the picturesque little valley.

Rudolph, a bespectacled Tennessee who has won only two tournaments but banked $117,532 in the last three years, rushed over the front nine in 32, had a birdie on the 11th and then got cautious — perhaps a little too cautious.

Misses Tie-on 17th
 He parred five straight holes, then lost his chance for share of the top spot with a bogey four on the 17th.

The slim, hungry Dickinson, a protegee and playing partner of Ben Hogan and a non-winner since 1952, reeled off three straight birdies on 13 through 15 and appeared to have a tie until he bogeyed the final hole.

Aaron got away early, then spent four hours of nail-biting while the rest of the field shot at his position. He had an unusual round of eight birdies, seven pars and three bogeys.

He included a string of six birdies in eight holes, rolled in putts of 45 and 35 feet and just missed an eagle when a 185-foot chip shot hit the cup and bounced out.

He's such a fast starter he'd be called a rabbit in track. 23 starts, he has shot a 70 or better 14 times — but it hasn't stood up yet.

"I don't know why I'm such a fast starter," he said, "but that's not nearly as important as why I'm always shooting 73 on the last round."

Rule Fells Palmer
 Palmer, the troubled charger who was hoping to use his home course for his second victory in 1½ years, ran afoul of a rule on the first hole.

His second shot landed near a bridge railing, which interfered with his swing. He called for a ruling, but marshals removed the railing before an official reached the spot, and Palmer played through to a par 4.

Officials later caught up with him and assessed the two-stroke penalty.

"It's my own fault," he said. "They pointed out a rule that I was aware of but didn't apply in this situation. It's a stiff penalty but my own fault."

Following Nicklaus was a group of four at 70, including Dave Marr, Mike Souchak, Billy Casper and Chuck Courtney.

Defending champion Bobby Nichols blew to a 74, as did U.S. Open champion Gary Player of South Africa.

Hy Spotting Sports By Hy Cunningham

TO EACH HIS OWN — It seems that every sport fan pushes his individual sport and considers it the most popular.

A release arrived this week on the sports desk and it stated that swimming was chosen the world's most popular sport.

Football in its various forms — American, soccer and rugby — ranks second followed by horseback riding, camping and hiking and tennis.

Through a computer in its World's Fair pavilion the Parker Pen Co., has matched almost half a million Americans with pen pals overseas based on their hobbies and interests.

An analysis of the sporting interests of these letter writers from some 135 countries shows that swimming is rated the number one choice by 12.8 per cent.

23.6 per cent said they were interested in discussing sports in general.

Of the 48 types of sports listed, the five least popular were karting, fencing, parachuting, acrobatics and billiards.

Sport fans may start the run to the firing line, especially baseball fans. There was nothing mentioned in this release regarding baseball.

It could be that baseball fans were in the stands watching their favorite teams in action when all the computer study was going on.

WOJY IS A REALIST — Assistant coach Alex Wojciechowicz of the Newark Bears naturally is rooting for his team to win the Continental Football League championship this year.

Alex, who resides in Atlantic Highlands, gained his football fame when he was a member of Fordham's Seven-Blocks-of-Granite in the 30's.

Sunday, the Bears will tangle with the Philly Bulldogs, formerly the champion Canton Bulldogs of the defunct United League, for their league opener at Schools Stadium.

FOOTBALL IS CREEPING IN FAST — Despite being early August, football is ready to shove baseball to one side and move in for space on the sport pages.

Saturday, Aug. 21, the New York Jets and Buffalo Bills, champions of the American League, will play a benefit game at Rutgers Stadium starting at 2 p.m.

PRIVATE NAMATH? — Jets' Joe Namath is scheduled to take his physical exam for draft purposes in the military service in the near future.

Namath was classified 1A, reclassified when he left Alabama. He is waiting to be examined with the next group at Peekskill, and if the call comes after camp is broken, the exam would be shifted to Whitehall St., New York.

Mills, Relay Team Sparkle

AUGSBURG, Germany (AP) — A smashing 10,000 meters victory by Olympic champion Bill Mills and the fastest 1,600-meter relay run of the year helped bring the United States track and field team a decisive 142-91 victory over West Germany last night.

The dual two-day meet, concluded in overcast weather, at Rosenu Stadium, ended the three-nation American international campaign which saw the men lose to Russia but defeat Poland.

The U.S. women oppose the Germans tonight in Munich, and most of the team returns home Sunday.

In an impressive windup, the Americans won eight of 11 of the final night events and finished with 16 triumphs in 21 competitions.

Mills, the durable part Sioux Indian from Oceanside, Calif., ran away from Germany's distance champion Lutz Phillip, winning in 12:17.6.

The relay victory climaxed an evening which saw the Americans lose only three events. The most significant German triumph was that of Horst Beyer, who rallied for a decathlon victory over Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif.

Karl Heinz Pape won the 10-kilometer walk — 6 1/4 miles — in 45:20.4, and Michael Sauer took the triple jump with 51-2 1/4.

RYUN WINS — Jim Ryun, 19, comes on with a rush to capture 1,500-meter run in 3:41.6 in U.S.-West German track meet yesterday.

The Americans scored 12 sweeps in the 1,500-meter race, won by 19-year-old Jim Ryun of Wichita, Kan., in 3:41.6; the 400-meter hurdles, taken by Ron Whitney of Glendale, Calif., in 50.2; the 200 meters, which Adolph Plummer of Los Angeles captured in 20.8 and the shot put, won by giant John McGrath of Los Angeles with 62-3.

Lee-Woolson Team Wins Women's Doubles Crown

RED BANK — Ann Lee and Barbara Woolson won the women's doubles title in the Red Bank Open Tennis Tournament by defeating Roddy Lissner and Tilda Hussney, 6-2, 6-2, Wednesday.

In the mixed doubles, Ann Lee reached the finals when she teamed up with Richard Nicoletti to down Charles Jones and Barbara McKissock, 7-5, 6-2.

Doug Raynor, a mainstay on Red Bank High School's net team last spring, advanced to the semi-finals in two categories. In quarter-finals of boys singles, he defeated Steve Gorsuch, 6-1, 6-0, and then teamed up with Ron Macdonald, a member of Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School's tennis team last spring, to win a quarter-final match in the boys' doubles over Tom Santry and Bill Stanley, 6-0, 6-2.

MEN'S DOUBLES: Charles Jones and Manning Lobdell def. Bob Demaree and Richard Nicoletti, 6-2, 2-6, 11-9.

MEN'S SINGLES: Dick Emery def. Jones, 6-4, 6-3. Nicoletti def. Bruce Edgington, 6-6, 6-4, 6-4. Lynn Abbott def. Dick Zoltek, 6-2, 6-1. Sterling Thompson def. Vince O'Neill, 6-1, 6-0. Bill Long def. Bill Hagerman, 6-0, 6-2.

MIXED DOUBLES: Ann Lee and Nicoletti def. Jones and Barbara McKissock, 7-5, 6-2.

BOYS' SINGLES: Doug Raynor def. Steve Gorsuch, 6-1, 6-0. Macdonald def. Jeremy Grayzel, 6-1, 6-0.

BOYS' DOUBLES: Grayzel and Tom McCroskey def. George Kreager and Clark Herman, 6-1, 6-0.

Quarter-Finals: Raynor and Macdonald def. Santry and Bill Stanley, 6-0, 6-2.

Atlantic City Win to Selari

Associated Press Selari, the choice, circled the field from last place coming into the stretch and won the feature yesterday at Atlantic City by a head over Sunshine Way.

Selari, ridden by Wayne Chambers, ran the 1 1/2 miles in 1:52.15 and paid $3.80, $2.60 and $2.20. Sunshine Way returned $3 and $2.40 with Peter Ruby $3 to show.

New Jersey's professional football teams — one in a new league and the other with a new ownership and new nickname — begin playing for keeps this weekend.

The Newark Bears, with a 2-1 record in pre-season exhibitions, take the lid off the newly formed Continental League Sunday with a 7 p.m. game at Schools Stadium against the Philadelphia Bulldogs.

The 10-team Continental League was formed by clubs from the Atlantic Coast and defunct United Leagues and, with former baseball commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler at the helm, has designs on becoming a third major circuit.

The Atlantic Coast League, reduced from 14 to eight teams, has no such aims, being content to parade its exciting brand of football on a community basis.

New Jersey's entry is the Jersey Jets (nee Giants), now owned by trucking magnate Sam Baroletta of Teaneck. The Jets will play their home games in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium but they open up Saturday night at Scranton. The Jets' first home contest is slated for Aug. 21 against Pittsburgh Valley.

The Newark Bears were runners-up in the Atlantic Coast League last season and champions the two seasons before that. Coach Steve Van Buren has another powerful aggregation, featuring the passing arms of quarterbacks Don Jonas, Julian Malinski and Bill Baker. Jonas, a star in the Atlantic Coast League, was acquired from the Harrisburg Capitals.

The Bears have drawn a rugged opponent for openers. The Bulldogs, playing out of Canton, Ohio, were champions of the United League last season and are pre-season favorites in the Continental League's Eastern Division.

New lights have been installed at Schools Stadium, along with a new all-electric scoreboard. Van Buren also managed to spirit his squad off to rural Oakland, N.J., for several weeks of training.

Anthony Abbatiello, 1958 Champ Rides Two Twin Double Victors

FREEHOLD — Anthony Abbatiello started both ends of the Twin Double at Freehold Raceway yesterday as records continued to fall at the 113-year-old harness racing plant.

Abbatiello, who won the Freehold driving title in 1958, scored with Dels Charm in the sixth race and Topmost in the ninth. Dels Charm, a 5-year-old chestnut mare, returned $7.40, $4 and $3. Topmost paid $4.90, $3.40 and $2.60. Abbatiello now has three winners in the young meeting. The daily double pool of $71,308 was the largest ever for a week-day at the historic Monmouth County oval. The old record of $70,016 was set Aug. 22, last year.

Braves Lose to Cards, Now 2 1/2 Games Back

Since Mike Shannon was yanked out of the St. Louis outfield last Sunday and pressed into emergency duty as a catcher, he has given every indication of breaking a season-long batting slump.

Shannon started his first game as a catcher in an eight-year career Thursday and with his new view of life on a baseball field, rapped a seventh inning homer and then singled in the winning run in the 13th inning as the Cardinals edged Milwaukee 5-4.

Shannon, who played himself out of a starting job in the outfield because of a .193 batting average before he turned catcher, now has four hits in eight trips to the plate as a receiver. He also handled a string of four Cardinals pitchers flawlessly, running into only two problems — a wild pitch and a knuckleball pitcher.

The wild pitch was uncorked in the eighth inning by Hal Woodeshick, enabling Hank Aaron to score the tying run as Shannon chased the ball. The knuckleball pitcher was Bob Purkey, who came on for the Cardinals in the 12th inning, but threw sliders and sinkers. The Braves' loss dropped them 2 1/2 games behind the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers, who were not scheduled. Second-place San Francisco remained 1 1/2 back, losing to Pittsburgh 5-2 after winning the opener of a doubleheader 4-3.

Philadelphia climbed to within 5 1/2 of the top by downing Houston 7-3 in the only other game scheduled.

In the American League, first-place Minnesota belted the New York Yankees 5-3, Baltimore defeated Boston 5-2, Detroit walloped Kansas City 11-1 and

Bluefish Hit Rivers

TRENTON (AP) Snapper bluefish have hit New Jersey's inshore waters, the state conservation department reported yesterday.

The department, in its weekly roundup of fishing prospects, said: The young bluefish are providing action in the Navesink and Shrewsbury Rivers, Great Bay, Delaware Bay and the surf near Island Beach State Park.

Another body of snappers is found off the southern coast of Five Fathom Bank. Larger blues are on the move off the northern coast and providing good fishing when the boats overtake them.

Surf fishing for striped bass is good from Sea Bright north to Sandy Hook, with a few large strippers biting at Sandy Hook Point. Strippers also are being caught in Point Pleasant Canal and Barnegat Inlet. Ocean temperature at Atlantic City State Marina is 63 degrees.

Kingfishing is excellent in the upper end of Great Bay, and kings are hitting the surf south of Atlantic City. Weak-fishing is picking up in Great Bay, and Barnegat Bay and Sandy Hook Bay, with some fluke being caught in the northern surf and the Navesink and Shrewsbury Rivers. Porgy fishing is good in Sandy Hook Bay, Great Bay and from wrecks eight to 10 miles off the southern coast. Crabbing has improved from Barnegat Bay north.

Good marlin fishing is found farther offshore in the Five Fathom Bank area, in water about 120 feet deep. Dolphin are biting in the same area, and the first albacore of the season have arrived. Schools of tincker mackerel are adding to the action.

Turnmill Pond on Colliers Mills public shooting grounds is the best spot for largemouth as well as panfish. Lakewood Lake is also good, and Tinton Manor Reservoir has lots of calico bass and some largemouths. Lake fishing is picking up throughout the northern part of the state.

Anglers in Spruce Run Reservoir are catching largemouths in the 12 to 13-inch class. Trout are moving into the reservoir tributaries. Skilled trout fishermen are reporting occasional good results in such streams as the Flatbrook, the Musconetcong "ro kill" area and the south branch of the Raritan.
