Jersey Shore Sludge Still Tainting Ocean

TRENTON (AP) — It will require at least five years before a lid is put on winter flushing of the Jersey Shore, according to state officials.

Billions of gallons of "poorly treated" human wastes will pour into the Atlantic Ocean starting Dec. 15 and continue running through to March 15.

The winter flushing has been going on for 40 years along a 70-mile stretch of beaches between Sandy Hook and Beach Haven.

The flushing has been mentioned in connection with attempts to seek passage of bond issues or to obtain approval of programs to finance new sewer treatment plants.

But communities for the most part have been loathe to publicize the practice because it could hurt the tourist business, observers noted.

Robert Vincent, supervising water engineer with the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, says that by 1977 the state hopes to phase out antiquated sewer plants.

The Sunday Star-Ledger reported that 25 sewer plants along the shore store up the wastes in huge settling tanks that are discreetly concealed from everyone's sight and smell during the summer.

In the next two months the tanks will be emptied into the Atlantic Ocean only a few hundred feet from the beaches where millions of bathers swam and surfed this past summer.

The paper claimed that Point Pleasant Beach kept its storage tanks hidden underground next to the busy boardwalk and that only a few people know of its whereabouts.

In the past, the sewer plants had been pumping the raw sewage into the ocean, but as of Oct. 15, they will be required to chlorinate it before discharging it. This is part of a program to clean the shore.

Four regional sewer treatment plants, costing $225 million, are scheduled to go into operation in Ocean County by 1975-77, with the state subsidizing construction of the secondary treatment plants under a state-local matching funds program. The New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection keeps a list of municipalities along the Jersey Shore that discharge their wastes into the ocean, a practice that began about 50 years ago.

The state says all the plants are obsolete and use primary treatment, a method of skimming solids out of fluids. The municipalities are Asbury Park, Avon, Bay Head, Beach Haven, Belmar, Bradley Beach, Deal, Lavallette, Long Beach, Long Branch.

Also, Manasquan, Neptune City, Neptune Township, Ocean Grove, Point Pleasant Beach, Sea Bright, Sea Girt, Seaside Heights, Seaside Park, Ship Bottom, Spring Lake, Spring Lake Heights and Surf City.

DESPITE THE FOG — Although the weather was against it, the boat ride went on and Miss America, who visited Monmouth County Saturday, was transported from the Channel Club, Monmouth Beach, to the Molly Pitcher Motor Inn, Red Bank. She's greeted aboard by Walter Mihm, left, club owner, and Richard Welsman, Monmouth Shopping Center general manager, who was her host for the day. (Story, other photos, on page 13.)

Thieu Draws Big Vote, Foes Charge Rigging

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu won reelection by a far greater margin than the 50 per cent "vote of confidence" he sought, South Vietnamese election officials announced today.

But even as the final vote tally was reported, opposition politicians charged that the election was rigged. An election official in Saigon said he was ordered to replace anti-Thieu ballots with votes for the president.

The national election center claimed Thieu—the only candidate—won 91.5 per cent of the votes cast, with 5.5 per cent of the votes against him. They were unable to account for the remaining three per cent of the votes cast.

"Now, for the moment, we can't say where they are," said government spokesman Vu Khanh. "Maybe later."

One election official said the discrepancy could be due in part to the fact that seven ballot boxes were stolen in Da Nang, the scene of bloody anti-Thieu street riots during the election.

He added that some voters might have thrown away both the Thieu ballot and the voting envelope after having their voting cards punched, possibly accounting for more of the "missing votes."

Before the election, Thieu told voters he would step down if he did not receive at least 50 per cent of the vote. He said they could vote against him by mutilating or defacing their ballots or by putting an empty envelope into the ballot box.

Thieu's office issued a statement, read over national television and radio, that was described as "the president's first impressions" of Sunday's elections.

Thieu noted the official nationwide voter turnout exceeded 87 per cent of the more than 7 million registered voters, while the turnout in 1967—when there were 11 candidates—was 83 per cent.

At least 21 persons were killed and more than 100 wounded in enemy shelling, terrorist incidents and antigovernment riots Sunday.

There were a number of indications that neither the large voter turnout nor the high number of pro-Thieu votes were entirely authentic.

An election official in charge of a Saigon polling station said that "all polling places received orders prior to the election to replace invalid — anti-Thieu — ballots with valid ones."

In Long An Province, just south of Saigon, television cameramen filmed the same voter casting two ballots.

Restore Colts Neck School

By JIM MCCORMICK

COLTS NECK — Six years ago the Montrose School House, over 150 years old, was just a wooden hulk in the midst of an overgrown field at Montrose Road and Cedar Drive.

Today, the one room structure is restored, the result of the tireless efforts of this township's Historical Society.

More than 200 residents yesterday attended ceremonies officially reopening the school after almost 50 years of non-use. It was a day of great satisfaction for Historical Society members, and a day of reflection and memories for five alumni of the school who were in attendance.

Costumes Worn

Outside the school, now painted a gleaming white, the Joshua Huddy Boys, Troop 90, dressed in Revolutionary War uniforms, led a processional prior to a flag raising ceremony. Following were speeches by Dr. C. Malcolm B. Gilman, a township resident and former county medical examiner, who spoke on "education in the Colonies" while nattily attired in his Jersey Blues Revolutionary War uniform, and Mrs. William Miles, society president, who gave an account of the restoration.

Inside the school, Mrs. Thomas C. Russo, a third grade teacher at Atlantic Elementary School, conducted a class for a group of school children. All were dressed in 19th century costumes.

Vacated in '21

Mrs. Miles said that the school house was vacated in 1921, after the construction of the Atlantic Elementary School. She said that the state's Tercentenary celebration in 1964 prompted the historical society to restore the building.

Over $5,000 of work was done on the building, she said, thanking those who donated their time and physical efforts to the project. Funds were raised through pleas mailed to residents and antique shows held each year.

The land was purchased and donated by George Ilmensee, locally prominent realtor, who also provided the wood fencing encompassing the site.

Inside, the musty scent of age engulfs the flip seat wooden desks sitting on an unfinished plank floor. A pot-bellied stove rests beneath a portrait of George Washington, an integral part of any classroom tradition, and a pointed dunce's hat waits to be worn in a corner.

Memorabilia of classes gone by were displayed on tables, and school books over 70 years old were on the desks. Mrs. Miles said that a copy book used by Derrick Zutphen, now Sutphen (a family still living here), dated 1767 gave rise to the hope that the school was in operation in the 18th century.

Spotted browsing inside the school was Mrs. Clara McCue Cooper, 82 years old of Red Bank, who attended the school for five years, leaving in 1901. The spry senior citizen said that the school "looked about the same," but that the entrance was on the side of the building and not where it is now.

Jobless Black Labor Seen Spurring Trouble

RED BANK — The United States "sits on the verge of trouble" unless it quickly sets to changing an economic system which leaves vast numbers of blacks underemployed or unemployed, Phillip H. Savage, regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told 100 persons attending the Red Bank NAACP Branch's first annual achievement awards dinner, here.

Mr. Savage, who directs NAACP activities in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania-Delaware area was the principal speaker at the dinner which honored Stafford Thompson, a former branch president who heads its legal redress committee. The Saturday dinner was held in Red Bank Regional High School.

Mr. Savage declared that both the Vietnam war and its winding down "have caused great dislocation and will cause even greater dislocation in the employment area."

He said that while recognizing the problems of scientists and workers in war industries who are thrown out of jobs "let us not fail to recognize what happens daily to black people in the employment area... the last hired, the first fired..."

In the unemployment rate "we are beginning to accumulate that explosive" that has brought riots to American cities, he said.

Few Alternatives

Asserting that welfare or theft are the only alternatives open to the jobless... "and the Alticas of this country are populated by the uneducated and untrained who have been pushed out of society," Mr. Savage criticized what he said is the general attitude that welfare is "undignified" and its recipients "undesirables."

He said that large industries, such as Lockheed and the Penn Central Railroad, "don't say that when they ask the government for millions of dollars to bail them out... it only becomes welfare when poor blacks need it to care for their families..."

One of the greatest disappointments, Mr. Savage said, has been the failure to end school segregation.

He said New Jersey has more segregated schools today than in 1954, the year of the Supreme Court decision on school integration "and more schools where black children receive an inadequate education."

Holmdel Hassle Results In Lower Gridiron Plan

By LINDA ELLIS

HOLMDEL — The Board of Education will lower the bowl of the football field at the high school site, but will lower the boom on anyone who wants to make any other changes in the tract plan.

Suggestions by outsider advisers have been instrumental in the school board decision last week to eliminate a small parking lot and the upcoming decision to lower the elevation of the football field five to eight feet.

A controversial plan presented to the board during the week by Planning Board vice chairman Larrabee M. Smith to also relocate the field 100 feet to the east and shift other athletic facilities within a small area has met with a decidedly negative response from the majority of the board and its construction experts. The word is that under no circumstances will the football field be moved one inch.

Reasons given by those favoring the move are that the relocation would allow for better drainage areas and increase the land usage to a more efficient level. Grade changes associated with the move would leave more flat land for future utilization, advocates claim.

Those against moving the field — a clear majority — balk at the extra cost of change orders and a possible two-to three-month delay in the completion of the high school site.

When Larrabee Smith went into the meeting last week with the plans, he said he thought he had blockers in position to guard against the expected blitz from the construction consultants. A key figure in this chalk talk was to be George S. Kinkade, a school board vice president, who brought Mr. Smith into

Three other board members, Mrs. Cass Lewart, Joseph H. Weber, and board president Webber H. Glidden, also approved the plan to bring Mr. Smith before the board, but did not commit themselves to the plan sight unseen. Apparently Mr. Smith and Mr. Kinkade got their signals crossed.

"I agreed to get (Mr. Smith) into the meeting to present the plan," Mr. Kinkade said. See Lower, Page 2

Keyport Mayorality Race Goes to Court

FREEHOLD — The president of the Keyport Democratic Club is expected to seek a court order today to strike the name of an independent mayorality candidate from the Nov. 2 general election ballot.

Alexander Lehrer of Asbury Park, representing James Lawson, club president, said the order also will seek to restrain county election clerk Stanley A. Davis from sending the ballots to the printers today.

The club is seeking to remove the name of William A. Ralph of St. Peter's Place, from the ballot. Mr. Ralph has filed as an independent candidate, creating a three-way race for the mayorality seat. Also running for that seat are Henri J. Hansen, a Republican, who is acting mayor, and Theodore W. Csik, the Democratic candidate.

The three are seeking the three-year unexpired term of Robert J. Strang, who resigned.

Mr. Lehrer presented Mr. Lawson's petition to strike Mr. Ralph's name from the ballot to Mr. Davis Friday, but Mr. Davis advised him to obtain a court order.

William Friedrich, Keyport Democratic municipal chairman, said Mr. Ralph's petition is being challenged on the grounds that the signatures were improperly signed and witnessed.

He alleged that five persons swore in the petition that they witnessed all the signatures, but he maintained that they did not witness 80 per cent of them.

He further alleged that the petitions were circulated by 15 persons including two youths, aged 13 and 14.

"We are challenging all the signatures except nine out of 250," he said.

Mr. Davis said he validated Mr. Ralph's petition when he found 49 validated signatures, the number required to be placed on the ballot.

Fire Probe Continues In Long Branch

LONG BRANCH — City police today continue a probe of Saturday's fire which gutted the Uptown Washing Center laundry at Norwood and Bath Aves.

Fire Chief James Juliano termed the fire "suspicious" and has called for an investigation of the blaze. City Detective John Perri heads the probe.

Although the laundry was demolished, police said, the Blue Ribbon Meat Market next to the burned out structure received only smoke and water damage.

The nearby liquor store owned by Julius Tomaini also received smoke damage, it was reported.

The Oceanic and Independent Fire Companies contained the blaze in the laundry structure, which is owned by Romeo Gizzi, 13 Grove St.

The origin of the fire, which took place while the laundry was closed, has not been determined, police said.

Passersby reported the fire to Patrolman Gary Tomaini, who alerted the firefighters, according to police.

Crash Hurts 2 In Middletown

MIDDLETOWN — One person was injured when two cars collided Friday night on Middletown-Lincroft Road.

According to investigating officer Patrolman Jerome T. Sullivan, Mrs. Mary A. Steffer, 38, of 15 Harvard St., was taken to Riverview Hospital, Red Bank by members of the Fairview First Aid Squad where she was treated for lacerations of the mouth and released.

William Lewandoski, 55, of 137 Middletown-Lincroft Road, Lincroft, driver of the other vehicle, was not injured.

Mrs. Steffer was issued a summons for careless driving.

Dr. Marcus Pierce, Red Bank NAACP president, Raymond Williams, master of ceremonies, Phillip Savage, regional NAACP director, and Mrs. Thompson.

Black Joblessness Is Hit

Mr. Savage won applause when he denounced the Nixon administration as people "who don't give a darn about those who suffer."

Nixon Assailed

He called for a coalition of whites and blacks to fight what he said is a Nixon attempt "to wreck the Supreme Court" by "packing it with the Carswells, Haynsworths and Poffs."

Rep. Richard H. Poff, a Virginia Republican, on Saturday said he had asked the President to withdraw his name from consideration for a Supreme Court vacancy. Mr. Savage said the NAACP "had promised a fight" if the President nominated Rep. Poff, who has voted against civil rights legislation. Judges Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and G. Harrold Carswell, also opposed by civil rights groups, were nominated by the President and rejected by the Senate.

Asserting that change must come "peacefully... by voting power..." Mr. Savage lambasted the newly-enfranchised 18-to-21 year-olds who have failed to register to vote.

"My God!" Mr. Savage exclaimed, "What would Medgar Evers, shot down on his Jackson doorstep, think about young people who say they want to change this country but who won't register to vote! Did he shed his blood in vain?"

Medgar Evers, a Mississippi NAACP official who led the fight to register black voters there, was murdered.

Mr. Thompson said he was accepting the Red Bank

NAACP's first annual recognition award "with the knowledge that no black man can say he's made it as long as any black man isn't free to have the opportunity to make it."

A Learned Man

Mr. Thompson, 41 W. Westside Ave., here, received a law degree from Rutgers Law School this past June. He earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics from City College of New York and a master's in applied mathematics from the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. He is an electronics engineer with the Army Electronics Command at Ft. Monmouth.

As chairman of the Red Bank NAACP's education committee he organized its tutorial program and worked to end de facto segregation in Red Bank's elementary schools and for construction of the new elementary school opened in September. He is a member of the Red Bank Housing Authority.

Red Bank Mayor Daniel J. O'Hern said Mr. Thompson's achievements are "concrete evidence that a man of reason and judgment can do in a community."

Lower Football Field Pledged in Holmdel

kade said this weekend, referring to a special board meeting held last week during which Mr. Smith presented his ideas in sketch form before the board, the public and the construction experts.

"But he was to stop at lowering the field five feet. He went beyond our agreement in bringing up the field relocation. I can't help but think that one reason is the relocation makes the eventual connection of Holland and Longstreet (Roads) easier, a play Larry backs," Mr. Kinkade said.

'The Only Way'

"Larry is absolutely right about the parking lot (it was eliminated) and the field being so high. The elevation is on the drawings now at 15 feet above street level, for heaven's sake!" the board members grumbled. "For aesthetic reasons it's the only way to go. But the field cannot be moved at this late date. The educators and the architects know their business, and they say no. For one thing, we'd lose our surveyor to other jobs if we had to halt work. I worked on the board to get Larry in, but he didn't stick to the plan. This isn't to say we aren't grateful for his help. We are."

"This whole thing of moving the field could have been avoided if my motion to reject all bids on construction had been passed in August," Mr. Kinkade continued.

"I wanted the contracts to stop five feet from the buildings, so that we could let the site work out in pieces, have flexibilities and avoid just this kind of dispute. But I never saw the plans in time to do much about it," he concluded.

Survey Problem Told

"There was a problem getting the site plans to all the board members for study. We had trouble getting the plans from the architect in time to put in a lot of study," Board president Webber H. Glidden recalls.

"There was a slow reaction time from the architect on that. As I recall, we got all the plans, building, classrooms, site, all together about a month before we advertised for bids. There was really no opportunity for a whole night to study the site plan as a board. I do not think, though," Mr. Glidden said, "that plans were deliberately withheld from Mr. Kinkade."

Much Seen Involved

"There was a great deal involved in Mr. Smith's plan," Holmdel Superintendent Jan C. ter Weele noted. "But our architect, the consulting engineer and his site man felt that at this point in the game the engineering and design problems (of relocating the field) are so large that it would result in serious construction delays and would lead to extensive extra costs."

"The project might even have to be rebid as it would be a complete departure from the specifications," the administrator continued. "But we truly appreciate Mr. Smith's giving us this advice."

As far as architect Brooks Kaufman and high school site clerk of the works Arthur Gibb are concerned, Mr. Smith can keep his advice regarding relocating athletic facilities.

"The magnitude of the job," Mr. Kaufman explained, "would warrant stopping the project, and at least two months delay to reverse plans, and reissue them to the contractor for a price estimate." Mr. Gibb, who is on site daily, agrees.

"On the matter of lowering the bowl," the architect continued, "the board has authorized us to proceed with a change in the drawings."

Mr. Smith said last night that delay estimates on moving the field are way off base and that, in the opinion of professional engineers he has talked to, if there is any delay at all resulting from the moving of the field in the plans that "somebody has dropped the ball."

"I'm delighted they are apparently lowering the field," Mr. Smith continued. "That's a savings of perhaps $30,000 because they have to cut so much less field... I do wish they'd get a variety of other opinions before they decide definitely not to move the field because it's an important item. It would create an area adjacent to Crawfords Corner Road suitable for overflow parking. It would move the field farther from the beech tree. I think it will help the drainage situation and it maximizes land usage."

Mr. Smith said that he does not feel he overstepped his charter at the meeting by presenting the relocation plans as "I've discussed these matters with individual members of the board and administration in their fullest and there had been exposure of this before the public meeting."

"I strongly resent the suggestion," Mr. Smith concluded, "that the Holland realignment is at issue. If anything, this new proposal makes that road situation even more difficult."

In addition, children from families which receive public assistance from any federal, state or local welfare program are eligible for free meals.

Unusual circumstances such as illness or death in the family, temporary disability and seasonal unemployment are also taken into account.

The schools try to insure that children do not know who is paying and who is receiving a free meal.

Participating in the program are the Mechanical Street, Red Bank Primary and River Street Schools.

Parents who believe that their children are eligible should apply. Application forms will be sent to each parent and are available in the offices of the participating schools.

If an application is denied, an appeal may be made to Mrs. Kayvonne Davis, school social worker, 14 Tower Hill Ave., Red Bank.

The district's complete policy concerning free meals can be reviewed in superintendent Dr. Robert C. Hoop's office, 76 Branch Ave.

Agnellino Sentence Delayed for Appeal

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan has stayed a prison sentence imposed on Attilio "Artie" Agnellino pending an appeal to the state Supreme Court of Agnellino's conviction last year of possession of stolen property.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court last week upheld Agnellino's conviction on charges of possession of stolen air conditioners and stolen carpeting in Long Branch Dec. 1, 1967.

He was sentenced to one to three years in state prison and fined $2,000.

Judge McGowan continued Agnellino in $5,000 bail pending the appeal.

The items involved — two rolls of carpeting stolen from the Ozite Corp., Newark, and three Frigidaire air conditioners stolen from Ft. Monmouth — were found by state and local police in a shed behind the Paddock Lounge in Long Branch, which is managed by Agnellino and owned by a corporation he heads.

The Appellate Division ruled Wednesday that Agnellino, 51, was properly arrested and tried and that there was no violation of his constitutional rights.

Agnellino appealed his Monmouth County Court conviction, claiming that his place of business was searched illegally, that the search warrant was defective, that he was not told by police of his right to remain silent, that the prosecutor made improper comments to the jury during his trial, that the trial judge erred in instructing the jury and that the judge erred in not dismissing one of the two counts against him.

The Appellate Division ruled against him on all counts.

Agnellino, who lives on Larchwood Ave., West Long Branch, was tried before Judge McGowan in May, 1970. He is represented by Robert I. Ansell of Asbury Park.

Indictments Returned By Grand Jurors

FREEHOLD — Charles Lamberson, 38, of Main St., Port Monmouth, was indicted by the grand jury on charges of stealing a power lawn seed roller valued at $1,500 April 14.

The roller was the property of Frederick Johnson, Harmony Road, East Kearsburg.

Police Pay Hike Put On Ballot

FREEHOLD — Voters of Freehold Township will decide Nov. 2 on the general election ballot if the police department should get a salary increase for the next three years.

The voters will be asked if a starting patrolman should get $8,000 a year — an $800 raise over the present starting salary of $7,200 — and increasing a $1,000 a year for the next three years starting Jan. 1. Sergeants would receive $12,000 and lieutenants, $13,000, under the proposal.

The second year calls for an 11 per cent increase over the 1972 pay scale and the third, a 9 per cent over the 1973 scale.

County Election Clerk Stanley A. Davis received a letter from Freehold Township Clerk Harold H. Schank Friday stating that he has received petitions from residents to put the question on the ballot. Mr. Schank said he has verified the petitions, which means that 20 per cent of the registered voters have signed the petition.

Two Acquitted In Robbery Case

FREEHOLD — Two Neptune men were acquitted by a jury on charges of robbing $500 from Robert Cusach, 8 Jagger Ave., Neptune, June 22 in Ocean Township while armed with firearms.

Found innocent after a three-day trial were Jesse Copeland of Anetve Ave. and Thomas Swan of 1033 Corlies Ave. They also were acquitted of atrocious assault and battery upon Mr. Cusach.

County Court Judge Louis R. Aikins presided at the trial. The public defender's office represented Copeland. Phillip G. Auerbach of Red Bank represented Swan.

Lamberson also was charged with stealing shrubs valued at $210 April 16 from Siano's Farm Market, Rt. 35, Middletown.

This indictment and these six were among those handed up to Superior Court Judge Francis X. Crahay, the assignment judge, who ordered them filed.

Eugene C. Clark of First St., Middletown, was charged with receiving a stolen motor vehicle valued at $450, the property of Lorraine Kozlowski, Seawaren, May 5 in Middletown.

Jay DeItotel of Laurence Harbor was charged with possession of LSD July 2 in Middletown.

Rosetta N. Jackson, 26, of Seventh Ave., Long Branch, was charged with atrocious assault and battery upon Brenda Turner, Ludlow St., Long Branch, July 6 in Long Branch.

George Parker, 31, and John Joyce, 28, both of Atlantic City, were charged with receiving a stolen motor vehicle valued at $3,800 belonging to Hertz Corp., New York City; receiving stolen credit cards belonging to John L. Greene, Jacksonville, Fla., and to Eastern Television Service, Philadelphia; receiving stolen property, a Pennsylvania driver's license belonging to Louis Sensi, Philadelphia; receiving stolen property, a motor vehicle registration belonging to Eastern Television Service; attempted larceny of a color television set, belonging to Holiday Inn, Rt. 35, Hazlet, and possession of burglar tools Dec. 23 in Hazlet.

Joyce is additionally charged with resisting arrest by Hazlet Patrolman John Sullivan.

Edward LaVoie, 33, of Washington St., Long Branch, was charged with obtaining $380 under false pretenses at the N. J. National Bank, Neptune, May 10 and issuing a forged check, belonging to L. and J. Auto Body Inc., W. Bergen Place, Red Bank, to the bank.

Jimmie L. Moore of Hillside Ave., Long Branch, was charged with possession of heroin July 7 in Long Branch.

WASHINGTON — A party-line scramble in the House and a rider in the Senate put veto votes on part of President Nixon's economic package before both chambers of Congress today.

House Democrats pushed up the vote on veto of Nixon's proposal to delay a $1.3 billion federal pay raise after Rep. H. B. Gross, R-Iowa, served notice he wouldn't wait until Wednesday when they wanted it.

Before the Senate was an amendment by Sen. Charles McC. Mathias, R-Md., to, in effect, write the veto into the $2.1-billion military weapons procurement bill.

House Republican and Democratic leaders marshaled their forces over the weekend to be on the floor today with Democrats trying to muster their 244 members to pass the veto resolution over the 178 Republicans by sheer force of numbers.

The resolution would veto President Nixon's decision to delay until next July a scheduled January pay raise for 4.9 million federal employees.

The $1.3 billion saving is the biggest single item on the $5-billion spending cut side of the President's economic package. The House is to vote on its own version of the inflation fighting tax credit portion of the President's package Wednesday.

Both Parties Back Bond Issues

TRENTON — With the Nov. 2. elections coming up, the heads of the Democratic and Republican parties in New Jersey have joined in support of two bond issues on the ballot.

Republican State Chairman John E. Dimon and his Democratic counterpart Salvatore A. Bontempo yesterday issued a joint statement urging passage of the college and Green Acres bond issues.

The party leaders asked all legislature candidates "to work as hard for public acceptance of the bond issues as they are for their own elections."

One of the first to heed the call was Senate Democratic Leader J. Edward Crabel, who warned today that failure to pass the two bond questions would deal New Jersey "serious setbacks."

Voters will be asked to approve a $155 million measure for higher education. The money will be earmarked for construction of facilities for 22,000 additional students in the state college system.

The Green Acres referendum would give the state $80 million for the preservation of parkland and other open spaces.

Riot Traced to Guard's Error

NEW YORK — An inmate at Attica State Prison says that a guard's chance misunderstanding of the actions of two prisoners practicing football moves led directly to the bloody four-day rebellion, the New York Times reports.

Both the Times and the New York Daily News today published lengthy background accounts of the Attica uprising. Both accounts emphasized that confusion reigned before and during the assault that crushed the insurrection.

The News, in the first of a five-part series on the revolt, said there exists "no single objective record" of the events during the assault Sept. 13 when most of the 42 deaths at Attica occurred.

Both the Times and News told of prisoners, accused by their fellow inmates of not going along with the rebellion, being found with their throats cut.

The Times said its 10,000-word chronology of events leading up to and including the assault was pieced together from inmates, doctors, lawyers and legislators and from tapes, films, letters and notebooks.

The Times said the misunderstanding that sparked the rebellion occurred late Wednesday afternoon Sept. 8 as the prisoners gathered in the yard.

A white inmate, Ray Lambrie, said to be a coach of the prison football team, was demonstrating a lineman's moves and feints to a young black inmate, Leroy Dewer, the Times said.

Rent Freeze Cheat Trap Set

The U.S. Internal Revenue Service is zeroing in on landlords who may be making an end run around President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

The IRS is considering turning over a number of complaints from tenants about increased costs to the Justice Department for prosecution, according to a spokesman.

"Rent is number one on the list" of reports of violations, he said.

The freeze has been in effect for six weeks and the IRS in New Jersey has received about 29,000 inquiries, with about 700 callers complaining of alleged violations.

The spokesman said 84 cases may be turned over to the Justice Department and a majority of them involve rent problems.

While landlords are not boosting the actual rent of apartments, the spokesman said, they are getting more money from tenants through various methods.

He said some tenants have been asked to pay additional fees when a landlord turns off utilities that were free before the freeze began and then turns them back on.

Others have been made to pay cash bonuses in addition to the monthly rent.

Services which were normally free, including garbage collection, cleaning and maintenance, are now being delivered for a special wage by some landlords.

Currency Restructuring Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 118-nation conference of finance ministers has produced a blueprint for rebuilding the shattered structure of world currency values.

When the governors of the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank adjourned their five-day annual meeting here Friday, snapped shut their briefcases and headed for the airport, they were a happier lot than when they came.

They had agreed to agree. They had broken the seemingly hopeless deadlock of the mid-September meeting in London of finance ministers from the non-Communist world's 10 richest nations.

The crisis is far from over. There is hope—only hope so far—of a solution by the end of the year. The 118 countries have adopted unanimously a "work agenda" for action this fall.

Even that solution will be a temporary one. It can buy time for the longer, harder task of reforming the whole international monetary system to provide a dependable framework for expanding world trade, investment and payments. This may take a year, or two, or three. In effect, it means doing all over again what the embattled non-Communist nations did in wartime urgency at the Bretton Woods, N.H., conference of 1944.

She said that the walk to school each morning was about 1 1/2 miles, "rain or shine," and said that when she left the school, the teacher presented her with a letter of good conduct.
"I think that they were glad to get clear of me," she said with a mischievous smile.

Delight Told
"I am tickled to death that they restored it. I remember when it was just a black, unpainted building," she said.

Mrs. Rita Brown, Deal, went from the first to the eighth grade in the school, leaving in 1914 to go to high school. She has been teaching for 46 years, and now teaches kindergarten at the Neptune City Elementary School.

"I believe that I am the school's only graduate to go on to higher education," she said.

Mrs. Brown said that she remembered that when she went to school, "there was discipline and respect for the teacher."

"The 18 or 20 pupils in the school were always obedient," she said.

Three other former students were present at the ceremonies.

Mrs. Miles said that the school will be open for special occasions, and added that teachers in the township school system may be able to hold limited classes in the building.

Other speakers were Dr. Roy Unger, township Superintendent of Schools, Lee Schiller, a member of the Historical Society, and Nicholas Miles, a divinity student, who gave the invocation and blessing. Mrs. Robert Buck, Freehold, led the audience in a medley of old-time songs.

Fingerprints Identify Body of Man, 40

FREEHOLD — Fingerprints taken about 20 years ago for enlistment in the Air Force has led to the identification of a body which was found more than a week ago by a Coast Guard vessel two miles off Avon.

County Detective Capt. Andrew B. Manning said the prints identified the body as Peter Edward Davich, 40, whose last known address was 91 East 21st St., Brooklyn.

The body, brutally beaten and bound with chains, was found Sept. 25. A rope was around the neck and the hands and the feet were bound with chain, rope and wire. Authorities theorized the bloated corpse had been in the sea from three to five weeks and surfaced only a few days before it was discovered.

Man Admits $90 Robbery

FREEHOLD — Larry Tilman of 1000 Bangs Ave., Asbury Park, has pleaded guilty to charges of robbing $90 from Arthur Engelhart, 9 Long Branch Ave., Long Branch, Oct. 21 in Long Branch.

County District Court Judge Thomas L. Yaccarino accepted the plea and set Oct. 22 for sentencing.

The judge set the same sentencing date for June Olsen, 44 Riverlawn Drive, Fair Haven, who pleaded guilty to possession and distribution of heroin in Long Branch March 6 and March 8, respectively.

Manalapan Told To OK Station

FREEHOLD — Superior Court Judge Francis X. Crahay has directed Manalapan to issue a license to Michael Subock of 80 Freehold Road so he can operate a gas station on Freehold-Englishtown Road in the township.

Mr. Subock took the matter to court after the board of adjustment in 1969 refused to issue him a variance for the station.

Judge Crahay ruled that there was no demonstration of a willful intentional abandonment of use and he felt that the zoning board erred in its findings.

Charles J. Birmingham of Freehold, representing the zoning board, said the board found that there was a change in property use when a tenant of Mr. Subock's used the premises to sell fruits and vegetables and not gasoline.

Mr. Subock bought the property in 1965 when it was a gas station. The township's zoning ordinance changed in 1968, placing the land in a residential zone. Samuel Matlin of Freehold, representing Mr. Subock, introduced as evidence retail fuel dealer's licenses for 1965, 1966 and 1970 to show that Mr. Subock's intention was to continue the gas station usage.

The attorney maintained that the tenant had promised Mr. Subock he would sell gas when he leased the property and that after he started to sell fruits and vegetables, Mr. Subock attempted to find another tenant who would sell gas.

When the case was heard by the late Superior Court Judge Elvin R. Simmill in April, the judge remanded the matter to the board of adjustment for a full hearing because of an inadequate record of the first hearing.

When the board reheard the matter, it restricted the second hearing to what was heard the first time. Judge Crahay allowed evidence the board did not consider.

New Hospital Functioning Well

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — All major departments of Freehold Area Hospital are staffed and functioning, according to Lloyd R. Currier, administrator.

The announcement coincided with release of statistics for the new hospital's first partial month of operation.

Mr. Currier praised the nursing and administrative staffs for "bringing Freehold Area Hospital to its present stage of efficiency and development in so short a period of time." The hospital opened its emergency facilities and some of its medical-surgical beds on Sept. 20.

In less than two weeks, the administrator said, "this team has pulled together all the strings that go to make a hospital function. It is a tribute to the department heads and the spirit and dedication of their people."

According to Dr. Robert Maggs, chief of staff, minor and major surgery is being performed on a daily basis at the hospital and there are patients in all all departments.

Statistics released for the hospital's first 11 days included 59 admissions; 29 discharges; three births, and 304 people treated in the emergency department. Laboratory and x-ray also report approximately 30 out-patient tests per day being performed on private patients referred by physicians.

Freehold Area Hospital, which is operating on a 90-day provisional license from the state, has been approved for emergency Medicare and Medicaid. Full Medicare and Medicaid approval is expected "any day," Mr. Currier said.

The hospital's information desk and coffee and gift shops are also in daily operation. These units are staffed by volunteers.

Freehold Area Hospital is the first new hospital to open in Monmouth County since 1928. Situated 1.5 miles west of Rt. 9 on County Route 537, the 120-bed hospital includes 88 adult medical-surgical beds, 12 pediatric beds, a 12-bed obstetrical suite, and eight cribs.

were eligible for federal aid. Under the August grant of $53,233, borough officials announced they will hire four additional patrolmen, two laborers, two recreation supervisors, a sanitation man and a clerk typist.

Under the latest funding, the borough was notified it qualified for $41,000 in additional revenue because it has an unemployment rate of at least 6 per cent of the total populace.

It has been learned by The Daily Register that the borough will hire six additional laborers with the additional grant.

The grants will run for two years with the borough paying 10 per cent of the total cost each year plus fringe benefits. After the two-year period the borough is required to retain at least eight of the persons to be hired.

The borough, with a population of 9,720, had 715 residents file for unemployment during 1970.

Move Kidnap Suspect Attacked in County Jail

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 39-year-old man accused of kidnaping a 7-year-old Philadelphia girl has been transferred from the Monmouth County Jail in Freehold, N.J., to the Federal Penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa.

Lawrence Offer, who was arrested in Maine, was transferred Wednesday after another prisoner at Freehold punched him in the eye, Dennis Eisman, Offer's attorney said.

Eisman said the attack occurred shortly after Offer had been brought to the jail from Maine on Tuesday.

Offer will undergo psychiatric tests at Lewisburg under an order issued by U.S. District Court Judge A. Leon Higginbotham.

Offer is charged with taking Dawn Sherman, 7, from Philadelphia on Sept. 14. He and the girl were found in a northern Maine motel on Sept. 22.

He was held in Freehold because Philadelphia jails were crowded.

Motorist Gets Variety Of Charges

NEW SHREWSBURY — Lucious Boynton, 128 W. Westside Ave., Red Bank, is free in $200 bail following his arrest Friday on a variety of motor vehicle charges.

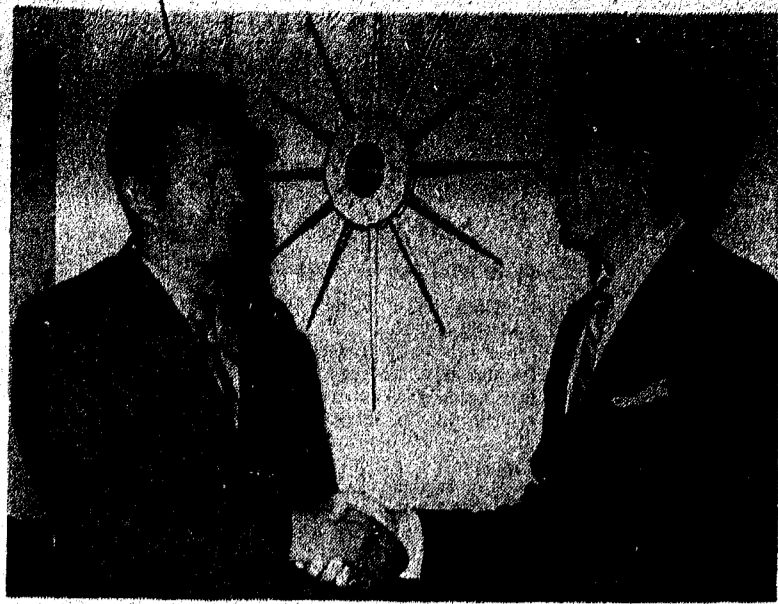

Mr. Boynton was arrested shortly after 5 p.m. following a high speed chase on Shrewsbury Ave. from Sycamore Ave. to the parking lot of the Boro Bus Co.

Patrolman Louis Vitale said he saw a car driven by Mr. Boynton pass another car and run the red light at Sycamore and Shrewsbury Aves.

He said he chased the car north on Shrewsbury Ave. at a high rate of speed until the car finally stopped in the bus company parking lot.

Mr. Boynton has been charged with attempting to elude police, reckless driving, and driving without a license. A court hearing is scheduled for Oct. 18.

Assisting in the arrest were New Shrewsbury Sgt. Getchell McCall and Shrewsbury Patrolman John McGuire.

through their administration the Republicans have had an uncanny ability in creating a great deal of noise and excitement, but in fact accomplishing nothing.

"It's like someone putting a car engine in neutral and then stepping on the gas," he continued, adding, "A lot of noise, but really no action."

Also running with Mr. Lumia and Mr. Halek for four seats on Township Council are Michael Brodnitz and Philip N. Gumbs.

Referring specifically to a controversial township report which first appeared last March, Mr. Lumia said he anticipated another "cream puff propaganda report" within the next few weeks to coincide with the upcoming general election.

The Republicans, he said, "are good in creating a feeling of accomplishment, but in fact their road record is really very poor."

Steps To a Relevant University

New Education Phase?

Rutgers University's new president, Dr. Edward J. Bloustein, has made an impressive start, particularly in expounding his views on a question that is frequently asked: "Is college necessary?"

His answer is a resounding, "yes," but with some very definite reservations. Students who should not be in college, he says, include "status seekers" from upper middleclass backgrounds; self-styled reformers who view the university as a base from which to rip off society; young rebels who want to reject their parents' life-styles, and draft dodgers.

Although he admits that he has not been in New Brunswick long enough to accurately determine if those groups are enrolled at Rutgers, he has clearly and simply explained that he, for one, doesn't want them there. We believe most students and the general public agree with him.

"Knowledge power is what the university has to offer. Those who are in search of it will find the university relevant," he says. That pretty well answers another of youth's persistent questions these days about relevancy.

Dr. Bloustein believes a college can ensure that students are enrolled for the right reasons by changing the admission procedures to determine in advance that they are "well motivated in the direction of goals."

We especially liked his determination to search for motivated students among the returning Vietnam veterans. A gentleman who served in World War II and then went on to college with government support, he is grateful that he was afforded that opportunity and he wants it extended to today's veterans.

Dr. Bloustein's comments may be regarded, in some quarters, as a blunt warning, yet perhaps it is but an extension of a phase our nation has entered. With greater emphasis being placed on vocational training in our high schools and community colleges, and with adults being given many chances to enter — or return to — colleges, there is a definite pattern emerging to fit education to our needs and desires.

For his part in this scheme of things, Dr. Bloustein is a champion of those who support the cause of adequate institutions of higher education in New Jersey. Once our citizens are assured that space in college is being filled by people who really should be there, the ranks of state aid for education supporters will grow larger.

Honors for Thompson

In selecting Stafford W. Thompson for its first achievement award, the Red Bank Area Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People made an excellent choice. A past president of the chapter, he served many years as its education chairman and he gave freely of his time and energy in making NAACP a truly effective community organization.

There are those who may believe he has been too vocal on occasion, but the fact is that he spoke on subjects that had to be heard in the pursuit of equal rights for all our citizens.

Mr. Thompson provided the type of responsible community leadership that helped Red Bank move along in improving human relations, and he is an acknowledged positive force in the county.

The award dinner marked the start of NAACP's membership drive. Those who join the chapter will, in effect, be paying tribute to Mr. Thompson and others like him who are striving to make Red Bank a better place.

Controlling Our Bicyclists

The appointment of a seven-member committee in Middletown to prepare an ordinance to regulate the use of bicycles in the township points up a real danger that exists there and in the rest of the county.

In other years, such a law would be directed mainly at the young. In these times, however, the use of bicycles for ecological and health reasons extends to all age groups.

So far this year, 16 children on bicycles have been in accidents on township roads. Fortunately, there were no fatalities, but the statistics continue to be frightening.

Regulation of such a pleasant activity may irk some residents, but it is obvious that, for their own good, a crackdown is needed on such people as night-riders who are without lights on their bicycles, and the like. These, for the most part, are adults who should know better.

Many municipalities are planning bicycle paths, but they are difficult to come by in heavily developed areas, and roads designed for automobiles will still be used. With many bicycles traveling as fast as some motorists care to drive, we can expect municipal courts soon to be handling speeding summonses issued to bicyclists.

A bicycle safety code is a good idea for Middletown, and elsewhere.

GOP Whip Rebuffed

INSIDE WASHINGTON

By ROBERT ALLEN

For the White House to flatly rebuff a top Republican congressional leader on a highly personal patronage issue is most astonishing, but that's exactly what happened to House GOP Whip Leslie Arends of Illinois.

Compounding this extraordinary backstage affair are two unusual factors:

(1) Arends wasn't trying to pluck this patronage plum for himself, but was opposing the appointee who finally got it. (2) Arends, a steadfast Administration supporter, was licked by a rookie Republican senator of uncertain loyalty.

As might be expected, Arends is deeply offended and his many House friends are furiously outraged.

For the White House and the appointee, it is very fortunate he does not have to be confirmed by the House. If he did, it's very doubtful he would make it — regardless of merit or anything else. That's how strong the resentment is over the inconsiderate treatment of Arends.

The acrid inner-party wrangle centered around the generally little-noticed selection of Ohio Court Justice Robert Duncan as a member of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals — for a 15-year term at $42,500.

Named to succeed Homer Ferguson, 82, who retired last May, Duncan will be the first black on this tribunal — which has the last word on military law.

Vigorously sponsoring Duncan was Sen. William Saxbe, R-Ohio, who has been advancing Duncan's career for a long time. A state attorney general, Saxbe made Duncan his chief counsel, and had a big hand in his elevation to the state supreme court in 1968 — as the first black in the history of that bench.

That appointment was made by then-Gov. James Rhodes on Saxbe's strong recommendation. That same year, Saxbe ran and was elected to the Senate.

Two years later, Rhodes ran for the Senate but narrowly lost the Republican nomination to then-Rep. Robert Taft. Subsequently, as a senator, Taft backed Saxbe in putting over Duncan for the Military Court seat.

In some respects, the most curious aspect of the long and tense backstage tug-of-war over this patronage prize is that Saxbe, a more or less inconsequential rookie of wavering Administration loyalty, won out over the No. 2 GOP leader of the House.

A 37-year congressional veteran, Arends has been Republican Whip for 28 years and is unmatched for personal popularity and influence. Tall, dapper and courtly, the Illinoisian is widely liked and respected. Further, he is not only GOP Whip, but also ranking Republican member of the powerful Armed Services Committee — where he carries great weight.

Camping in a Private Forest

By SYLVIA PORTER

If you are planning a vacation with a kindred soul in this, the most vibrant, most riotously colorful month of the entire year, how about a camping trip in a private forest owned by one of the leading forest products companies and available to picnickers and campers for free or for an insignificant fee?

Or how about a salmon-fishing trip along one of the hundreds of salmon-spawning streams flowing through these company forests and also open to you without charge or for next to nothing?

Or a hunting trip in these forestlands for game animals in season in accordance with the laws of the states involved?

Or a hiking trip along any of millions of acres of scenic trails in the forests? Or a motor tour in your own car along lightly traveled roads with special tour maps to guide you?

YOUR MONEY'S WORTH

It's improbable that you are aware of the scope and great variety of the facilities open to you on the 63 million acres of land owned by the forest products companies, including: Crown Zellerbach, Union Camp, Georgia Pacific, International Paper, Kimberly-Clark, Scott Paper, St. Regis, Weyerhaeuser, Boise Cascade and Potlatch. I found out quite by accident just a few weeks ago when I went on a salmon-fishing trip at Campbell River in British Columbia and on the way, saw some of the vast areas CZ has opened to the public in our Pacific Northwest. (Yes, I caught a BIG one, 30-3/4 lb. on 14-lb. test line in a regulation rowboat with no one but me permitted to touch the rod and line, in less than 45 minutes.)

Open Space Available

It's also unlikely that you know the extent to which leaders of the pulp and paper industry are welcoming you now — if only to help call your attention to their efforts to control their pollution of water and air. As Clarence W. Richey, a CZ vice president, put it, "We recognize our responsibility to make open space available for the enjoyment of the public." And Richey, who once taught forestry at Oregon State University, quietly added, "We must manage our forestlands wisely so that we permit as many uses as are compatible with each other and with the land itself."

Since this translates into your use of the private forests for your joy and benefit, how do you go about taking advantage of these free or very low-cost recreation areas?

(1) First, recognize that the forests are available to you.

While you're waiting for more progress to be made on President Nixon's proposal to convert some 500,000 acres of federally-owned forest and wildlife land into recreational areas, use the private lands.

To illustrate, Crown Zellerbach has 770,000 acres of managed forests in the Pacific Northwest interlaced with a 7,000-mile network of roads opening up to you areas which would otherwise be inaccessible. Union Camp has a superintendent for each of its three woodlands divisions on the 1,700,000 acres it owns or controls in six Southeastern states whose responsibilities include handling your requests for the use of the lands. These are typical.

(2) For specific information on private forest sites you can use, write to the American Forest Institute, 1619 Massachusetts Ave., Washington, D.C. 20036. Also write to the U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 for "Guides to Outdoor Recreation Areas" (40c), "National Forest Vacations" (30c), "Camping" (20c).

(3) If you decide to visit any of the sites, write the company in advance for details. Facilities vary and the lands are closed at times because of logging operations, fire danger or poor roads.

(4) Be sure you have precise and accurate information on the kind of vehicles permitted in the private forests; there are varying rules governing trailers, tents, boats. Also check the overall rules on tent sites, limits on stay, etc.

Word From 'Walking Dead'

By JIM BISHOP

"Dear Mr. Bishop," a man writes from Texas. "I read an article of yours published in the Caller-Times of Corpus Christi, about drug addiction and the 'walking dead.' It is of special interest to me, for, you see, I have been placed in prison and given a 99-year sentence for my addiction. Yes, I'm an addict, not the kind you refer to, but closely related, and I have just joined the Walking Dead.

"Let me bore you with a little about myself. I was one of three children, one brother, one sister, born of poor parents. I served in the Air Force 1951 to 1955. I married in 1955 while my wife was still in high school. I put us both through college in Oklahoma by working.

"We have five children, two boys, three girls. No one in our family has ever been in jail. Anything I have, or used to have, I earned. I say this, not bragging, only to show that addicts come in all sizes, shapes and forms.

"On Sept. 7, 1969, I had a coronary occlusion. It can happen to anyone. Hospital —

THE REPORTER

7 weeks; home, 6 weeks. My business began to fall apart, but it couldn't be helped. Health comes first.

"Speaking of health, I was on the bed with my oldest son, who is 12 years of age, watching tv. A commercial came on from one of our home stations, warning about narcotics. As I say, he was only 12, but, to make conversation, I asked if he knew anything about drugs. 'Sure Dad,' he said candidly, 'there is all kinds of dope around; I see it every day.'

"Smoked Pot? "As I slowly sat up in bed in horror, he prattled on about all kinds of pills, heroin, weed and pot. He sounded to me like a pharmacist. 'Pat,' I said casually, 'have you ever taken any...?' He hesitated. Then he grinned. 'I've smoked pot,' he said. 'I'm afraid my voice began to crack. "Where do you get it?" I said, 'Oh,' he said, 'at the school, here at the apartment, or the Drive-in.' I begged him to tell me who was pushing it. 'Dad,' he said, 'I can't. Those people would really hurt me.' I had a 12-year-old son who was terrified of his friends.'

"Emotionally, I went overboard. Out of my mind. I told my wife we would sell out, business and apartment, and move out into the country where the air is clean, and pray to God we weren't too late. I was panicky to leave at once. I went to my bank and tried to borrow money on a farm home. No, money was tight. I tried all the bankers and savings and loans.

"They had no money for a farm. The doctor looked me over and said if I didn't quit worrying and smoking I would not live another year. He didn't know that my heart was the small problem. I went after the pushers. On two occasions, I called the police and told them where the pusher was. Nothing happened. I furnished his name and address. Nothing. One day at the school I watched him, make contact with 11 kids. No police car answered my call for help.

Seller Not Arrested

"Two boys were arrested for using pot. No one arrested the man who sold it. I kept telling myself 'hat I had to get my children away from it. I had to. On Aug. 2, 1970, I bought a gun. Two men and I robbed a bank of $81,000. I took $40,000 to my lawyer and told him my brother was helping me to buy a farm selling for $28,000.

"I don't know how they do it, but the FBI men were waiting for me. I begged the lawyer to take the money quick and at least buy the farm for my wife and kids. He couldn't. No one was hurt in the robbery, and the guns were empty, so I'm in for 99 years. I don't ask mercy. The guy who dances must be ready to pay the fiddler.

"We have the most intelligent, religious and wonderful country in the world, but we have fallen asleep and do not recognize our enemies. Dope has done more damage than the attack on Pearl Harbor. I'm broken. I'm helpless. I can't fight in prison. But you can. Organize against organized crime. We're bigger than they are. America needs prevention, not cure.

"Still, there is a happy ending to my story. My brother has a good farmhouse. There, my wife and children are content. School grades are up; behavior and discipline are good. They are all much closer and spend more time together.

"My 12-year-old is 14. He's a bus boy. After only three weeks he was promoted to head bus boy — think of that! He bought his own clothes, a bike, and had his teeth fixed. He's saving up for two tape recorders, so that we can speak directly to each other.

"If I ever get out, I'm going to become a probation officer and try to turn out hundreds of bus boys."

Hope and Jacaranda

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

SALISBURY, Rhodesia — You might have expected, if you had been visiting in Rhodesia 10 days ago, that the astonishing news from Washington would have inspired at least a little dancing in the streets. Forty-six senators had just voted, in effect, to hell with the sanctions on chrome; and these were, after all, very nearly the first kind words Rhodesia has heard in six years.

Moreover, the Senate's action came hard on the heels of some encouraging indications that the long negotiations between London and Salisbury might be nearing agreement at last.

All this cheerful news arrived as Salisbury's jacaranda trees burst into their full, incredible flower. In the little park across from Parliament House, the soft spring wind lifted the lavender petals and tossed them upon the fountains. Blacks and whites alike sunned themselves in drowsy peace. It was a nice place to be.

Yet of dancing there was none. A considerable irony, for one thing, appeared in the matter of chrome. Rhodesia produces, by general agreement, the finest metallurgical chrome on earth. Before the madness began in 1965, with the first of the U.N.'s hypocritical resolutions, Rhodesia was the principal supplier of chrome to the United States; and chrome is vital to our national defense. After the sanctions set in, we had to buy our chrome — at twice the price — from the Soviet Union. It was part of the madness. The senators who voted 46-38 for the Byrd amendment proposed to restore some small degree of sanity — in brief, to permit the resumption of chrome purchases from Rhodesia.

None for Sale

The irony is this: Rhodesia no longer has chrome for sale. Sanctions or no, her total production already is committed for the next three years.

Neither could a visitor detect much jubilation at reports of a prospective accord between Rhodesia and Great Britain. The people have been through this too many times before. Repeatedly, talks between London and Salisbury have come close to the target. Every time, they have missed.

This time, however, it appears that settlement truly is closer than ever. London, it is said, has agreed explicitly to acknowledge Rhodesia's absolute independence and sovereignty. The draft agreement contains no provision for external veto by Westminster over Rhodesia's constitution or its cabinet. New constitutional protections for the 5 million Africans reportedly would be guaranteed by two safeguards: Certain constitutional rights would gain new judicial protection, and a solemn treaty would embody Rhodesia's pledge against regressive amendments.

Stumbling Block

The stumbling block, one is told, remains in the British demand for unimpeded progress toward African majority rule, but even here a compromise is close. This is described as a true compromise — at once the most and the least that Rhodesia's Ian Smith and Britain's Edward Heath could take to their parliaments.

Maybe it will work. The negotiations under Britain's Conservative government have been friendly all the way. Neither side has advanced ultimatums. The tipoff will come if announcement is made that Britain's Foreign Minister Douglas Home will go to Salisbury. He will not board a plane until full agreement has been reached and privately approved at the highest level in both countries.

Hazlet Gives Hospital $10,000

HAZLET — This township has answered the opening of the Bayshore Community Hospital's appeal to "Finish the Job" by giving their first check for $10,000 against a $25,000 pledge made earlier this year. Mayor Joseph Morales in presenting the check to Thomas Goldman, the hospital administrator urged the residents of his community to support the hospital in its Nov. 14 Bayshore Community Hospital Day drive to obtain the $800,000 still needed to furnish and equip the hospital for the planned spring 1972 opening. All Bayshore area mayors have issued proclamations announcing the start of the "Finish the Job" campaign and Monmouth County Board of Chosen Freeholders surprised the hospital's trustees with an additional $50,000 pledge, making their total gift $100,000.

Landers

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young married woman (under 30), no square and certainly not a prude. I'm writing about something that has been bugging me for a long time. I realize you can't do anything about it but I must get this off my chest.

What's with these slobos who think it's sexy and "with it" to go without a bra. I can't tell you how many times, while walking on the street with a casual friend, or my dad, or my husband, and I see, coming toward us, a cow-like female, her breasts flopping around. It is embarrassing and disgusting. A person doesn't know where to look or what to say.

And this is only part of it. I work three days a week in a dress shop. You wouldn't believe the women who come in here to try on expensive dresses with no bras, and sometimes no underwear. I refuse to wait on these pigs and my boss has backed me up. Please publish this letter so it can be tacked up in every fitting room in the country. Then, instead of having to say something, the salesperson need only point to your column on the wall. Much obliged. — Hollywood.

Dear Much: Here's the column and I hope it helps. But prepare yourself for a shock. Some of those sloppy broads can't read.

Dear Ann Landers: A personal family problem: Can you shed a little light on an already overheated argument? My young cousin was expecting her first baby in a few months. The family got together and furnished her nursery, complete with organdy curtains. A great deal of thought and imagination went into that project, aside from the money.

A few days ago Lila gave birth to a premature baby. He lived only a few hours. Lila is heartsick and, in my opinion, not thinking clearly. She instructed me to phone her sister-in-law and ask her to send her husband with the semi and take everything out of the nursery.

The relatives are very upset. They say they did not buy this furniture for Lila's sister-in-law. I believe they have a point. What's the best solution to this knotty problem?—Hedda In Erie

Dear Hedda: I agree with you that the young woman is not thinking clearly. In my opinion the best solution would be to put the furniture in storage. She is young, I gather from your letter, and hopefully she will yet have a baby of her own.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with the man I plan to marry in a few months. He is in love with his ex-girlfriend. If you think I am crazy, let me assure you I am not. Fred and I have discussed this in detail and I know the facts. He agrees that I have them straight. His reasoning is simple. He says I would make a much better wife for him than his former sweetheart. He states quite openly that she is more beautiful, more sexually appealing and more exciting, but he says I am better educated, will be a better hostess, a better helpmate and a better mother for his children. He also says I will undoubtedly be a more faithful wife to him.

I have told him several times that I think we should break up and that he should marry her. He says, "No... my mind is made up." I love him very much and everything is fine — until we run into his ex someplace and then I see that look in his eyes — and in hers, too.

What do you think, Ann? Should I marry him? — The Large Q.

Dear Q.: Not unless you are willing to live a lifetime knowing you are second choice.

Dear Ann Landers: In most of our classes we are seated in alphabetical order. The girl who sits ahead of me several hours a day does not bathe often enough. I am trying to put this delicately but the simple fact is that she has a very offensive odor and it makes me sick.

If I wrote her an anonymous note she might guess I was the one and I wouldn't be able to look her in the face. Please advise.—Faceless Friend

Dear Friend: Ask the Phys. Ed. instructor to talk to the girl. She can do it in a tactful way and you will not be involved.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like an honest answer from you. My wife and I celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary last week. We have four married children. They all live in this city.

On that very special day we received a card in the mail—signed by all four children and their spouses. Is it petty of me to feel that they could have done a little more—such as sending a plant, taking us out to dinner, or having us over to one of their homes to celebrate the occasion? My wife didn't say much but she was unusually quiet and downcast the whole day. I took her to the finest restaurant and tried to make it a festive dinner but we both shared the unspoken thought that our children had let us down.

What do you say—A Dad. Dear Dad: I say it's too bad when four children can't stir themselves to do something a little more imaginative than mail a card to their parents in honor of their 35th anniversary. Who raised those vegetables?

When romantic glances turn to warm embraces is it love or chemistry? Send for the booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference," by Ann Landers. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35c in coin with your request.

The sweetness of corn-on-the-cob drops rapidly from the time the corn is picked.

An uncommon recipe from the uncommon salt
Be sure to use Diamond Crystal. It is a better salt—uncommon because it's differently made to make food taste uncommonly good. Every grain has diamond-like facets that cling where you shake it for even salting; and in cooking, its crystal purity really tells.

Scott's Potential

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q — I would appreciate your advice concerning Scott Paper. I have shares averaging $25 each. Should I hold for future recovery or sell to invest in some other issue? I am single and do not need the money now — K.Z.

A — Scott Paper shares (NYSE) are selling near their 13-year low, primarily as a result of lower earnings and a slowdown in the company's recurring charge of 19 cents per share from the discontinuance of the firm's Baby-Scott diaper line.

While full year net will most likely be below the $1.40 earned last year, longer-range prospects are encouraging. Greater gains from consumer lines, especially overseas, potential for Scott's nonwoven products and partial new management should aid recovery results.

IFF Nominated For State Award

NEWARK — International Flavors & Fragrances, Inc., Hazlet, has been nominated as an entry in the 12th annual "New Good Neighbor" Awards competition. It was announced today. Announcement was made by Leonard C. Johnson, president of the New Jersey Manufacturers Association, whose monthly publication, New Jersey Business, annually conducts the competition to give recognition to new industries and new industrial facilities contributing to the economic and social well-being of New Jersey.

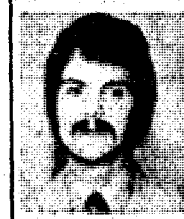

The IFF facilities were nominated by Joseph A. Morales, mayor of Hazlet Township. Mr. Morales also called for recognition of the design-engineer, Wigton-Abbott Corporation, Plainfield.

Commissioner Ronald Heymann, New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, chairman of the independent judging committee, and his committee of business leaders, representing major business associations and professional societies of the state, will select the 10 top award winners of the year. Judging will be on the basis of architectural design, landscaping and the company's contribution to the economic climate and community well-being of the areas in which they are located.

To be eligible they must have moved into new buildings in the Garden State between July 1, 1970 and June 30 of this year.

The competition will culminate in an awards dinner in early December.

What's new, Andrew?

Feel as though I was back in Britain, all the shirts, coats, gloves, mufflers and things coming in from there. They're very suitable for Monmouth County winters, because the climate is quite similar — cold and wet a good deal of the time. Clothes have to be comfortable as well as good-looking.

Disaster Loan Period Extended

FREEHOLD — Eligibility for Farmers Home Administration Disaster Loan Assistance has been modified, according to C. William Haines Jr., state director for that agency.

Mr. Haines said that while the earlier designation restricted assistance to those with damage caused in connection with tropical storm Doria, a new decision extends the eligible period through Sept. 14.

Federal disaster assistance will be available to those suffering storm related damage and loss during the period from Aug. 27 through Sept. 14.

The program includes rural housing disaster loans to replace or repair damaged homes of rural residents and farmers (includes other farm buildings), and a farm emergency loan program which provides funds to replace damaged equipment, and for operating and other expenses involved in restoring normal farming operations. Under certain conditions, up to $2,500 of these loans, after the first $500, may be written off. The loans are scheduled for repayment as soon as possible, consistent with the borrower's ability and resources.

There are 12 county FHA offices serving rural New Jersey. Applications for help should be made there. They are located in Belvidere, Bridgeton, Cape May Court House, Clayton, Cranbury, Flemington, Freehold, Mays Landing, Mt. Holly, Newton, Toms River and Woodstown. Mr. Haines suggested that county cooperatives contact their county cooperative extension office, 20 Court St.

Middletown Court Refers Drug Case to Grand Jury

MIDDLETOWN — After preliminary hearing in Municipal Court, a charge of illegal possession of a prescription drug against Patricia A. Marron of 186 Geary Drive was referred to the Grand Jury by Judge Jerry J. Massell.

Detective Joseph Shaffery, arresting officer, testified a pill found in Miss Marron's wallet Aug. 6 was reported to be methamphetamine and barbitol by the State Police. The defendant had no prescription in her possession and the pill was not in a prescription bottle, the detective said.

Miss Marron also faces five charges of uttering forged checks. She was released in $1,000 bail on each of these counts and on her own recognition on the charge of possessing the pill.

Drop Charge
On motion of Robert H. Otten, municipal prosecutor, the county prosecutor will be asked to approve dismissal of charges of being under the influence of heroin and possession of a narcotic drug pending against Miss Marron. Mr. Otten stated there is insufficient evidence to sustain these charges.

Probation
Three young persons pleading guilty to charges of possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana, a disorderly persons offense, were placed on probation for a year. They are Donald E. Lubitz of 37 Hilltop Road, West Long Branch; Stephanie Thurston of 76 Darlington Road, Deal; and Michael J. Hostler of 1214 Mattison Ave., Asbury Park.

The defendants' arrest and conviction records will be expunged if there are no more convictions within the year probationary period.

Joan P. Ruby of 81 Center Ave., East Keansburg, who pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly, was fined $25. Ralph Van Brunt of 71 Poplar Ave., Fair Haven, pleaded guilty to using loud and abusive language in public. He was fined $25.

Charles Mack of 9 Navesink Ave., East Keansburg, pleaded guilty to driving while impaired by alcohol. He was fined $50 and lost his license for six months.

Amend Charge
John J. Bennett 3d of 29 Fourth Ave., Atlantic Ave., was fined $100 and lost his license for six months. With approval of Mr. Otten, a charge of drunk driving against Mr. Bennett was amended to driving while impaired by alcohol.

Mr. Bennett also drew a $15 penalty when he pleaded guilty to passing a red light. Edward Rynkoski Jr. of 7 Crawford St., New Shrewsbury, pleaded guilty to drunk driving and leaving the

Utilities Retain Hyland's Firm

NEWARK (AP) — The law firm of William F. Hyland of Cherry Hill, former president of the Public Utilities Commission, is representing two power companies seeking higher rates from his former agency.

Hyland's firm is representing the Jersey Central Power & Light Co. and the New Jersey Power & Light Co. They are seeking permission to raise their rates by a total of $58.7 million a year.

Hyland left the PUC in 1968 after seven years with the agency to return to private law practice. The following year he was appointed by Gov. William T. Cahill to be a member and the first chairman of the bi-partisan State Investigation Commission.

The two utilities serve 556,000 customers in Central and northern New Jersey. They are both subsidiaries of the General Public Utilities Corp.

scene of an accident. He was fined $200 and lost his license for two years. An additional six-month license suspension was imposed because the defendant refused to take a Breathalyzer test as required under the implied consent statute. Mr. Rynkoski was penalized

$25 for leaving the accident scene. A charge of fraud against Allen J. Zeiger of 244 Cross St., Morganville, was referred to the Grand Jury after preliminary hearing. Mr. Zeiger is accused of purchasing a sweater from Sears Roebuck and Co., Rt. 33, with a credit card not his own. Judge Massell reduced bail to $2,000. William J. Hedley 3d, of 922 Main St., Belford, convicted of assault, was fined $25. John Schwartz of 6 Marsand Drive, Hazlet, who pleaded guilty to illegal possession of an alcoholic beverage, was

Miss America Reigns for Day in Monmouth

By MARYBETH ALLEN

The crown's jewels aren't real. And neither is the image of Miss America. Laurie Lea Schaefer, who holds the title for 1972, is a real person who works hard at being herself. It took her three tries to win the contest as Miss Ohio. And she believes she succeeded just by being herself. Formerly, CROWNING TOUCH — Rita Ann Flannigan of Howell Township, who will reign as Miss United Fund, is crowned by Laurie Lea Schaefer, Miss America of 1972. The ceremony on Saturday marked the official opening of the fund drive in Monmouth County.

RED CARPET AND ROSES — Monmouth County rolled out the red carpet for Miss America. And there were also red roses, which were presented to her by Richard Weisman, general manager of Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, where she appeared.

she had had professional counseling. Her hairdo and make-up had been changed. The image she was projecting wasn't her own — and she believes the judges could tell.

Since winning the national title, she notes that instead of being a student, she is "out working." And she faces a year of days similar to Saturday, which she spent in Monmouth County.

It was a day of drizzle, rain, and fog. Reporters, photographers, and radio newsmen gathered at the Civic Auditorium of Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, to await her arrival for an 11 a.m. press conference. Richard Weisman, who is general manager and handles public relations for the center, was her host for the day. He preceded her into the room, explaining there had been a delay because of heavy rains while driving her down on the parkway. (On Friday, she had been in New York for the TV Guide luncheon.)

All eyes turn to the doorway, waiting for Miss America to appear. She knows questions and flashbulbs are going to be fired at her — and her first concern is finding a place to put her navy blue handbag. She looks none the worse for the wetness and is svelte in a dress featuring a navy blue top and a white skirt (not a mini) which is trimmed with navy binding.

Unintended Pun

A radio newsman holds a microphone to her mouth and prefaces his question with the words, "Now that you're getting your feet wet as Miss America..." before he realizes his pun. Miss America, however, is quick to pick up the humor and comment that that was exactly what she had just done.

She began posing for pictures (always the same type pictures) and answering questions (always the same questions) which continued all day... and will undoubtedly continue all month and all year.

First, there's the matter of weight. Everybody wants to know how she can stay so slim when she's constantly guest of honor at luncheons and dinners. She admits she does watch her waistline — because she couldn't afford to grow out of her clothes. She exercises regularly and is active, anyway. And when she has time to herself (like today and the few days she will have back at Atlantic City to work on her forthcoming schedule) she will eat mainly salads and take off a few pounds so she'll again be able to eat her way up.

She's from Ohio. And on Saturday, it seemed as though so was almost everybody else in Monmouth County. Again and again she was asked if she happened to know someone's aunt, cousin, brother, or sorority sister — and every once in awhile, she did.

During an afternoon autograph session at the shopping center — which extended for two hours — the children's main concern was: "Is your crown real?" Over and over, but always with fresh enthusiasm, she would comment "I wish it were" and added that it was sterling silver.

Constantly, she was asked what states she had already visited and if she had ever been to New Jersey before. And after a while, one begins to wonder what the Miss America title is really all about... and if it's worth it.

Enjoying It All

The thing is, Miss America seems to be enjoying it all. And maybe it's easy because she isn't trying to be an image... she's just herself. Crowds, she says, don't bother her. She would wonder what was wrong if she showed up for an appearance and there was no one there.

She's sincere. When a little boy presented her with a stick of gum, she commented "Thank you — I'll need that." And what he probably doesn't know is that two hours later, when the last autograph had been signed, the first thing Miss America did was tear off the wrapper and stuff the stick of gum into her mouth.

If there's one thing Laurie Lea Schaefer doesn't want to be, it's an image. She notes that there's a new trend in Miss Americas and many restrictions have been done away with. Those who hold the title are well-educated, outspoken young women.

"I think this is good," she says, "because if there's one thing Miss America has to do, it's let people know that she isn't just somebody pretty to look at. She has feelings, brains and opinions. She's become more relative to today."

When she's given an opportunity to speak about anything she chooses, talk turns to her small hometown, Bexley, Ohio, and her family. Her father is deceased and her mother is curriculum consultant for Franklin County Elementary Schools. She has a sister who is 31 and brothers who are 29 and 12.

Wanted Scholarship

She talks about the pageant, noting that she got involved because she was putting herself through school and the prize was a scholarship. She comments, though, that at first she wasn't very enthused and when her sorority sisters asked her to represent them in a local pageant, she thought they were "crazy." (She is a 1971 graduate of Ohio University and will be using her scholarship for further education to prepare her for a career in the field of radio and television.)

As for her statistics: she's 22, stands 5 feet 7, and weighs 118. She measures 35-24-35 and has auburn hair and green eyes.

She speaks about President Nixon, with whom she spent 40 minutes... when she had thought she would just have the opportunity to meet him. She describes him as being "very warm and sincere." And she notes that the talk never once turned to politics. Instead, they discussed who was number one in football, some philosophies about TV shows, what direction movies are taking, and what young people are thinking. Before she left the White House, he presented her the pin she was wearing on her navy blue dress. It's a presidential seal suspended from a gold bow.

PRESIDENTIAL GIFT — Miss America shows the pin which was presented to her by President Nixon. She spent 40 minutes with him — and says that the talk never once turned to politics.

GRAND ENTRANCE — Miss America waves "Hello" as she enters the Civic Auditorium of Monmouth Shopping Center, Eatontown, where she was greeted by a crowd estimated at 1,500. She is escorted by Richard Weisman, general manager of the center.

It has become a Miss America tradition to visit troops in Vietnam. Miss Schaefer notes that she is not for the war, but is for the men. "We've got to make it as easy as we can for them until we can get them home," she comments. And she is hoping that the troops will be back before she has to go overseas to see them.

After the press conference, Miss America was guest of honor at a luncheon in Old Orchard Country Club, Eatontown. As she took her seat, she noted that she liked to think of herself as a gourmet cook — but some of her dishes were gourmet's delights for the disposal unit.

People at nearby tables gawked. But she seemed unaware and spoke of the famous people she had met the day before at the TV Guide luncheon. She recalls that she had repeatedly asked herself "What am I doing here?"

Memorize

After lunch, she will crown Miss United Fund. Mr. Weisman hands her a card of information, which she will be asked to read. "Give me five minutes," she says, "and I'll memorize it."

She exclaimed over the size of the coconut "shrimp" she was served. And when this was followed by a salad, meat, vegetables, and potatoes, she admitted that she had thought the shrimp was the lunch.

She accepted gravy for her meat, sampled a strawberry from the flaming fruit bowl — and proclaimed everything "delicious." She was asked to autograph a cookbook for chef Rocky Penta. And she told him, "Truthfully, I've never had a better meal."

After lunch, she was whisked off to the shopping center for the autograph signing session. Because of the rain, the outdoor ceremony — featuring the 389th Army Band from Ft. Monmouth — had to be moved inside the auditorium.

Eatontown police report they had been contacted by women's liberation representatives, who had apparently been planning a protest. They asked police what the rules would be. The police told them they would have to come into headquarters... and nothing further happened.

Doing Their Thing

Miss America, who had been told beforehand that there might be a demonstration, commented "They're doing their thing and we're doing ours." She noted that she would welcome an opportunity to sit down and "rap" with some of the women's lib representatives because she doesn't understand them entirely and would like to know what their complaints are.

She doesn't feel that as Miss America, she is being exploited. On the contrary, she notes that through the pageant, women are given money so they can go on and pursue the careers of their choice. "I think what they (the women's lib people) are doing is fine," she says. "But I think it's wrong to criticize others for wanting to look like women. If being a housewife makes a woman happy, that's what she should be."

She entered the crowded auditorium, waved to the audience, and crowned Miss United Fund, Rita Ann Flannigan, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Flannigan, 64 Pinewood Road, Howell Township.

This marked the kickoff for the United Fund campaign. She will be official hostess at the numerous fund-raising activities, which will benefit the 26 agencies involved. Maurice A. Scully, vice president of Electronic Associates Inc., West Long Branch, is president of the Fund and Mr. Weisman is a director of the Fund and chairman of its publicity committee for 1972.

Miss Flannigan, who was graduated in 1970 from Howell Township High School, is a teller at the Central Jersey Bank and Trust Co., Howell Township. She is majoring in education at Brookdale Community College, which she attends at night. She was the winner in the Miss Monmouth County Pageant, a preliminary to Miss America 1970-71.

Gets It Straight

As Miss America worked to get the crown adjusted on Miss Flannigan, she commented: "They never get these on right, so I'm going to just work until I get it straight."

Becoming Miss America, she says, has made her Mom very gratified. "She sent me to ballet school when I was a little kid," she commented, "and it's as though maybe finally some of the things she did for me paid off in the long run. But when I talk to her on the phone, she still can't believe it."

She reached out to take the hand of a blind boy who came to the stage clutching a cane. "I watched you on television," he told her, "and I said 'wouldn't it be funny if we got to meet her this year?'"

"What's so funny about that?" she asked as she pressed the paper into his hand.

The crowd was estimated at 1,500 and for many of them she wrote "Laurie Lea Schaefer, Miss America, 1972." After hundreds had been signed, she was asked if she would like a break... but she kept right on writing.

Notes Birthdays

She made special notations for birthdays, signed the backs of checks, and even autographed a $1 bill. She was presented a flower from a little girl and a box of chocolates from two bigger girls. She took all the gifts with her and later passed around the candy when she got back to her hotel.

She took the time to notice a little girl's nail polish and a boy's baseball jacket. And she warned one child that drawing a "smile" face on her arm wasn't good for her.

"Are you going to get married?" she was asked. "Oh, probably sometime in the next 25 years," she responded. (She does have a boyfriend, but till Christmas vacation, she won't have many opportunities to see him.)

She notes that she answers all her mail personally, by "making the time." She writes on planes and before going to bed.

A reception at the Channel Club in Monmouth Beach followed the autograph session. Walter Mihm, club owner, was Miss America's host there and for a boat ride which took her to the Molly Pitcher, Red Bank, where she was staying. Among those aboard were guests invited by Mr. Weisman, including Mrs. Dorothy Schwager of Atlantic City, who is Miss America's traveling companion.

Fog enveloped the river and the ride took over an hour, with the boat once running aground. Miss America asked to see the craft and went out onto the deck, taking the risk of what the weather would do to her hairdo. "You just don't worry about that," she commented.

Dinner at Shadowbrook, Shrewsbury, followed. It was a day of elegance. But Mrs. Schwager notes that Laurie isn't a prima donna — she's just like any girl on a college campus... and that's where the day ended.

B.B. King was singing at Monmouth College... and there was Miss America in the front row.

Political Debate Prospects Bleak in Marlboro Now

By JIM McCORMICK

MARLBORO — Prospects for a debate between the candidates for mayor and council appear bleak today after the Republicans and Democrats failed to agree to the latest Jaycee proposal.

Paul Higham, external Jaycee vice president, said last night that the Republicans agreed to his organization's proposal, but that the Democrats would not.

Mr. Higham said the latest proposal was that the debate include all candidates, but that only one mayoral and council candidate from each party make opening statements. He said that all candidates, however, would be open to questions from the audience.

The Candidates

Democratic candidates are incumbent Mayor Morton Salkind, Richard Vuola and Richard Kaplan for full council terms, and Howard Klau, for a two-year unexpired term. George Lemberger is GOP mayoral candidate, while Councilmen Richard Herman and David Stokes are up for full terms, and Saul Hornik is running for the unexpired term.

The Republicans have maintained they will debate their opponents "anytime, anywhere," and have apparently compromised since they originally wanted all candidates to be able to make opening statements in the debate.

Mayor Salkind, however, wants the debates to take place on a "person to person" basis. He says that a debate including all the candidates will take up too much time, and that issues will be obscured.

The mayor said that he will debate Mr. Lemberger "anytime and anyplace, and before any recognized political, social or civic organization — even on radio if he is willing."

Mayor Salkind said last night that he had agreed to a debate proposal put forth by Everett Hirsh, who preceded Mr. Higham in the Jaycee post and who was originally in charge of the debate arrangements.

Mr. Hirsh said that originally, Mayor Salkind wanted to debate Mr. Lemberger alone. He said that the idea was rejected, and that he proposed that one mayoral candidate and one council candidate from each party debate at one time.

Mr. Higham said that Mr. Hirsh's proposal was not agreed to by the Jaycees. He said that "the Jaycees always wanted all candidates to debate at once."

Given Authority

Mr. Hirsh said that he was empowered to speak for the Jaycees when he informed both parties of the original proposal. He said that Jaycee president Richard Robinson said "whatever decision you make we will go along with."

No longer a Jaycee member, Mr. Hirsh said that he resigned his post as external vice president last month due to business commitments, but retained his position as chairman of the debate committee. He said that "when the Republican chairman (Richard Previte) infiltrated the Jaycees in his own little way," he decided not to pay his dues.

Problems Seen

"This political infiltration has caused problems — politics does not belong in the Jaycees," Mr. Hirsh said.

Mr. Previte said last night that the Jaycees are not, and should not be political. He said that his position is "clear — we want all candidates to be heard."

"To have a debate where some people who are running are not present is ludicrous," he said.

"I don't know what Salkind is afraid of. I suspect he is trying to hide Klau and Vuola... maybe that's why he does not want the debate," Mr. Previte said.

Mr. Higham said that his organization has reserved the Central School auditorium on Oct. 26 for the debate.

Probe Entry, Theft at Plant

NEW SHREWSBURY — Police are continuing their investigation of a breaking, entry and larceny at Seajay Inc., 54 Apple St.

Police, at about 1:30 a.m. Friday, discovered that a rear window was missing from the building. Richard Hartung, company owner, was notified and reported that $50 in cash was missing and a further check of the premises would be made.

Patrolmen Wayne White and Thomas Burch head the investigation.

Orioles 1 Up; Pirates Even Series

A's Blue Questions Umpiring After Foiled Playoff Debut

BALTIMORE (AP) — The defending world champion Baltimore Orioles belted Vida Blue for four runs in a seventh-inning uprising, defeated Oakland 5-3 yesterday in the opening game of the American League playoffs and left the A's left-handed ace questioning Hank Soar's umpiring. "The umpiring wasn't the best," a gregarious Blue said after two days of virtual silence in which he rebuffed newsmen.

"I'd have a 1-2 advantage on a batter and the next thing I knew I'd be 3-2."

Blue's quiet questioning of the umpiring job done by Soar was echoed by Oakland Manager Dick Williams.

"There were some debatable pitches," Williams said. "It was a typical Hank Soar game."

Williams didn't elaborate on that, but Blue did on his remarks, pointing out that he felt he pitched as well as he had in his last couple of outings, which added up to 12 innings of scoreless ball.

"But," said Blue, "I guess you've got to be perfect against a team like this."

Perfection is what the Orioles have attained in rolling to seven consecutive playoff victories in a string that now stretches over three seasons. But until the seventh inning here it looked like Blue might be the first one to handcuff the defending world champions.

Blue, the moody, silent left-hander whose confidence had been questioned prior to the opener, breezed into the seventh inning with a three-hitter and a 3-1 lead, raising the specter of the Orioles' first defeat in playoff history.

But the world champions, winners of all six of their previous playoff games over two seasons, struck decisively in their half of the seventh and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five series to determine the American League representatives in the World Series.

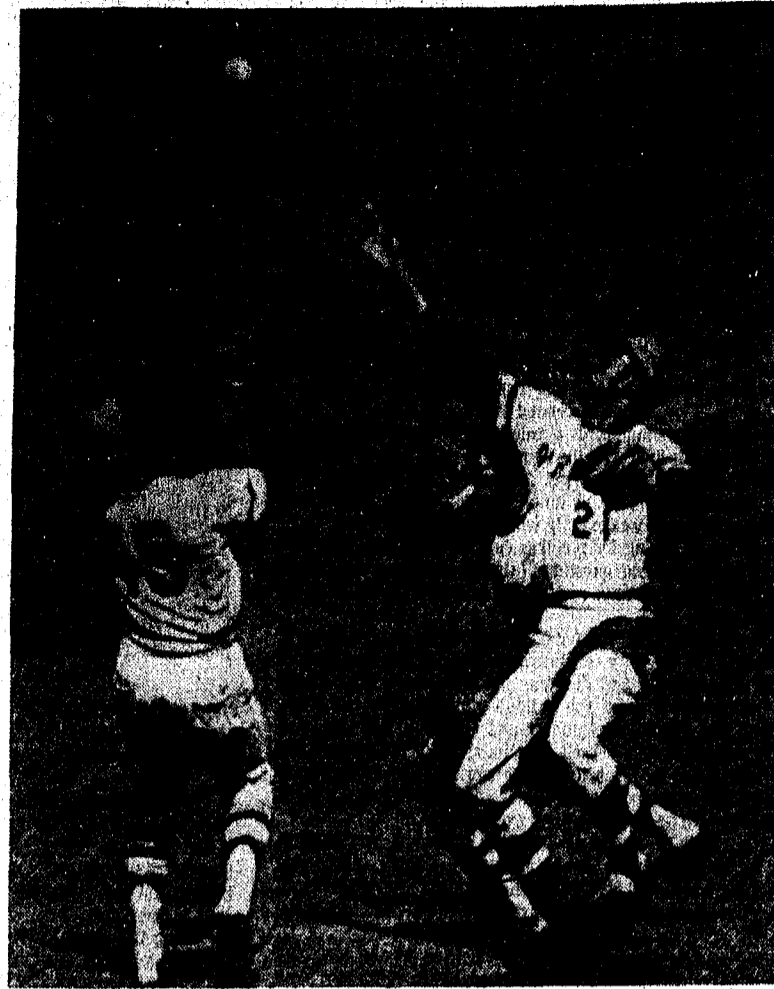

Frank Robinson, who had struck out twice previously, opened the Baltimore seventh with a walk, and one out later Brooks Robinson singled him to second. But Blue bore down and got Andy Etchebarren for the second out on a fly to right that enabled Frank Robinson to move to third.

Mark Belanger, the Orioles' shortstop, then singled to center, scoring Frank Robinson, and Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver went to his bench, sending up reserve outfielder Curt Motton to pinch hit for starter Dave McNally.

Motton, a .189 hitter during the season, lashed a liner to the left field corner that drove in Brooks Robinson with the tying run. Jim Palmer went in to run for Motton, and scored behind Belanger when Blair stroke a liner down the third base line for two runs and a 3-1 lead that put it out of the A's reach.

Blue, a 24-game winner with just seven of those victories after the All-Star Game, finished the inning but was subjected to derision in absentia when Roland Fingers went to the mound for the A's in the eighth.

As Fingers walked slowly to the mound, the crowd of 42,621—some 10,000 under capacity—howled "We want Blue, we want Blue." But there was no more Blue to be had. The Orioles had taken him as they extended a season-ending winning streak to 12.

"I GOT IT, YOU TAKE IT" — Pittsburgh Pirates' Gene Cline (15), Roberto Clemente (21) and Jackie Hernandez all make an effort to glove a bloop off the bat of Giants' Dave Kingman in the first inning of yesterday's National League playoff game in San Francisco. Clemente fielded the ball after it fell for a single and filled the bases. The Pirates evened the series with a 9-4 victory.

Robertson's Three Homers Level SF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh knows the secret of success for his Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We have to hit to win," decided Murtaugh yesterday after Bob Robertson had walked three home runs and the Pirates collected 15 hits to beat San Francisco, 9-4, in the second game of the National League's pennant playoff series.

"I just got good pitches to hit," said Robertson, "and I was lucky enough to hit them. I felt pretty proud."

The big first baseman, who missed the entire 1968 season because of a kidney problem, had never connected three times in a single game before.

"I worked hard in spring training on improving my hitting against left-handers," said Robertson. Yesterday's three shots came off southpaws, the last two towering blows that were labeled homers the moment they left his bat.

"That fellow at first base was nasty," was all Charlie Fox, manager of the Giants, had to say.

The third game of the playoff is scheduled for tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

Robertson, who also doubled, drove in five runs as Pirate power asserted itself against the second line Giant pitchers.

The red-haired first baseman was ending a month-long dry spell. He slugged 26 homers during the regular season, but had not connected since August 25.

The Giants, riding an emotional high after Saturday's opening game victory, nipped Pirate starter Doc Ellis for a run in the first on Willie Mays' RBI double. But Ellis escaped further damage, pitching his way out of a bases-loaded, one out jam.

In the second, Pittsburgh tied it on Robertson's double and a single by Manny Sanguillen, but hits by Chris Speier and Ken Henderson restored the Giants' edge in the bottom half of the inning.

It stayed 2-1 until the fourth when Robertson, leading off, lofted a long fly to right field. Dave Kingman, playing in place of injured Bobby Bonds, reached over the eight-foot-high fence but the ball glanced out of his glove for a home run, tying the score.

Then the Pirates took the lead when Manny Sanguillen singled, stole second and rode home on Jackie Hernandez' hit.

Pittsburgh added another run in the fifth when Gene Cline, who had only one home run during the regular season, socked a shot over the left field wall to make it 4-2.

Ellis Settles Down

Ellis had settled down after his shaky start and seemed in control going into the sixth inning. But he hit leadoff man Alan Gallagher in the shoulder with a two-strike pitch and then Speier singled up the middle, giving the Giants two men on base and none out.

Veteran Bob Miller relieved and the Giants sent up Frank Duffy, hoping to sacrifice the runners along. But Duffy failed, bunting foul on the third strike. Then Ken Henderson walked, loading the bases and putting the pressure on Miller.

GIANT STEP FORWARD — New York Giants' tight end Bob Tucker of Matawan (38) pulls away from the grasp of St. Louis Cardinals' safety Dale Mackbari (49) to go over for a touchdown during the first period of yesterday's game in St. Louis. The play started on a pass from Fran Tarkenton on the 10-yard line. The Giants won, 21-20.

Giants Hold Off Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Fran Tarkenton's passing spurred the New York Giants to a 21-3 first half lead, and they withstood a St. Louis Cardinals rally in a 21-20 televised National Football League game yesterday.

Tarkenton, a longtime St. Louis nemesis, followed rookie Rocky Thompson's 93-yard kickoff return with touchdown marches of 58 and 75 yards producing the Giants' decisive lead.

St. Louis rallied on two Peter Bearhead bombs to fleet wide receiver Mel Gray in the second and third quarters, but elected to forsake a try for a third touchdown in the game's final six minutes.

Jim Bakken was sent into the game on fourth and one at the Giants' 15 and boot a 22-yard field goal, trimming New York's advantage to 21-20.

Cornerback Willie Williams recovered a MacArthur Lane fumble at St. Louis' 35 with 2:50 to go and the Giants, with Tarkenton at the helm, ran out the clock.

"At that stage and in that particular football game it was the thing to do," said Cardinals Coach Bob Hollway, who dictated the field goal try by Bakken.

"Our defense was doing a good job; we were containing their offense," Hollway said. "I felt that by getting the three points in would take only three more to win. With five minutes to play, we figured we'd get the ball twice more.

"We did as we expected to do," Hollway said. "But we fumbled. If we knew we were going to fumble the ball, then we would have gone for the touchdown."

The Cardinals, pushed around by the Giants' offense most the first half, came to life after Tarkenton — who completed 14 of his first 17 passes — whipped a 10-yard touchdown pass to Bob Tucker and ran two yards to score, establishing the 21-3 lead.

Bearhead, successful on only three of his first eight aerials, arched a 64-yard bomb to Gray, who caught the ball behind Williams and sped to the end zone as the first half ended.

St. Louis' drive, ending with Bakken's fourth quarter field goal began at the Giants' 48 following a pass interception by linebacker Mike McGill.

The Cardinals pounded 33 yards in eight plays to the New York 15 and were less than 36 inches from a first down when Hollway called the play that left them one point short of a tie at the final gun.

Fumbles Cost Caseys Again

RED BANK — One of four Red Bank Catholic fumbles lost cost the Caseys a ball game here yesterday. St. Joseph's of Toms River's Joe DeTuro picked up an RBC bobble and raced 80 yards giving the Griffins an 8-6 come-from-behind victory.

Red Bank Catholic has lost eight fumbles in two games, and proved yesterday just how costly that mistake can be.

The Griffins got on the board early when Casey punter Mike Kester received a high center in the first period that went into the end zone. He was quickly swarmed by four Griffins for a safety.

Red Bank Catholic went into the lead in the second quarter. Charlie Scollard ran a double reverse into the end zone from eight yards out.

The play culminated a 40-yard drive which took eight plays. Scollard scored with 51 seconds remaining in the half. The drive was helped along by a pass interference call which brought the Caseys from the 24 to the 12-yard line.

RBC wasn't the only team with slippery fingers. The Griffins lost three of five fumbles.

The Caseys had six first downs to the Griffins' five. They picked up 116 yards on the ground, while St. Joseph's managed only 66.

Neither team had much of an attack from the air. St. Joseph's went to the air eight times and completed three passes good for 39 yards. RBC completed two of seven attempts which netted three yards.

Skins Relive '43 Season With Third Win in Row

By The Associated Press

The Washington Redskins are for real.

The underdog 'Skins, stunning Dallas on Charley Harraway's 57-yard touchdown jaunt and a 50-yard Billy Kilmer-to-Roy Jefferson scoring strike, beat the Cowboys 20-16 yesterday to grab sole ownership of first place in the National Conference's East Division.

It was the first time since 1943 that Washington has won its first three regular-season games and the first time in seven tries it has beaten Dallas.

In yesterday's other National Football League games, Detroit outlasted Atlanta 41-38, Baltimore belted New England 23-3, Minnesota muffed Buffalo 19-0, Los Angeles beat Chicago 17-3, Green Bay edged Cincinnati 20-17, Kansas City dumped Denver 16-3, the New York Jets surprised Miami 14-10, the New York Giants held off St. Louis 21-20, Pittsburgh defeated San Diego 21-17, San Francisco shelled Philadelphia 31-3 and New Orleans and Houston played to a 13-13 tie.

The Oakland Raiders face the Browns in Cleveland in tonight's nationally televised (ABC) 9 p.m. EDT game.

"We had to make up for the Senators' coming to Texas. We had to make the folks back home proud of us," said Redskins Coach George Allen, referring to the shift of the Washington baseball team to Dallas-Fort Worth.

"We played our game and didn't make any mistakes," Allen said after the 'Skins rolled up 200 yards rushing against the Cowboys' Domsday Defense to counter 175 yards on passing that Dallas gained.

Harraway's gallop came on Washington's third offensive play and Kilmer's touchdown pass gave the Redskins a 14-9 halftime lead. Curt Knight's field goals of 25 and 32 yards closed their scoring while Mike Clark had three field goals and Calvin Hill plunged over from the one yard out for Dallas.

"It's a simple game of knocking them out or getting knocked out," Cowboys Coach Tom Landry shrugged, "and we got knocked out."

Greg Landry threw two passes, safety Mike Weger raced 52 yards with a fumble for a score and Ron Jessie tallied on a 97-yard kickoff return in the Lions' seasaw victory. Bob Berry tossed for three touchdowns, two to Ken Burrow, as the Falcons wound up with 265 aerial yards.

Tom Matte and rookie Don Nottingham barreled over for first-period touchdowns that sent the Colts on their way. Jim O'Brien added three field goals while his teammates held the Patriots to a Charlie Gogolak field goal.

The Vikings held the Bills to a meager 64 offensive yards, 58 of them on the ground, while Dave Osborn and Norm Snead broke over for one-yard touchdowns.

The Bears, counting on more Kent Nix heroics when quarterback Jack Concannon was injured in the second period, came up empty while the Rams offered late-game fireworks — a 50-yard touchdown romp by Lane Rentzel on a reverse play.

Rookie John Brockington rumbled for 120 yards to lead the attack by the Packers, who got a decisive 14-yard field goal from Lou Michaels midway in the final quarter for their victory. The Bengals lost star quarterback Virgil Carter with a shoulder separation and safety Ken Dyer with a spinal injury which, a team physician said, apparently paralyzed him from the neck down.

Aaron Brown's 68-yard touchdown run with an interception and Jan Stenerud's three field goals gave the Chiefs their easy decision over the Broncos.

The Steelers turned a fumble and a bad pass by quarterback John Hadl into a pair of John Fuqua touchdowns in their slim win over the Chargers.

John Brodie ripped apart the Eagles' secondary with three touchdown passes, two to tight end Ted Kwalick covering three and 42 yards, in the 49ers' easy victory.

Charley Johnson of the Oilers and Archie Manning of the Saints matched touchdown bombs but it was a 37-yard field goal with nine seconds to play by Charlie Dercke — released earlier this year by Houston — that lifted the Saints to a tie.

Luck Smiles on Jets

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — New York's seemingly-doomed Jets got one lucky bounce of the football yesterday to upset the Miami Dolphins and Jets Coach Weeb Ewbank said, "It's about time."

Miami safety Dick Anderson was nicked by a bounding Jet punt with five minutes remaining and New York recovered, then drove 37 yards for a 14-10 victory.

George Nock swept two yards to score amid a cascade of boos from a crowd of 70,670 in the Orange Bowl.

"It hit me," Anderson later admitted. "There's no use denying it. The film will probably show it anyway."

The twice-beaten Jets appeared finished when Steve O'Neal punted from deep in New York territory, as Miami nursed a 10-7 lead. The Dolphins, trying to play safe, scampered out of the way—but Anderson didn't make it.

"The ball has taken a lot of terrible bounces for us this season," said Ewbank. "It finally bounced our way and fortunately we took advantage of it."

Paul Crane of the Jets, who made the crucial recovery, didn't realize what was happening. "I didn't know it had been ruled a fumble," he said, "I was just downing the ball so Miami couldn't pick it up and run."

Emerson Boozer ignited New York's drive against the deflated Dolphins, sweeping the left side for 14 yards and the right for eight to set up George Nock's winning score from the two at 1:55.

SWING 'N' SWAY — Bob Coleman (6), Red Bank Catholic quarterback, swings wide but finds John Anuso (13) waiting with open arms. Griffin Albie Larkin (89) moves in to help out. The Toms River Invaders upset the Caseys, 8-6.

Frenchman Captures Grand Prix

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (AP) — Francois Cevert, a 27-year-old extrovert from France, passed teammate Jackie Stewart on the 13th lap yesterday and went on to win the United States Grand Prix for Formula 1 cars.

The curly-haired Cevert, in only his second year on the world circuit, finished about 40 seconds ahead of Jo Siffert of Switzerland. Ronnie Peterson of Sweden was third, Howden Ganley of New Zealand was fourth and Stewart fifth. Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland came in sixth despite an early pit stop that took him out of contention.

The race, run in almost perfect weather after a dense fog that didn't clear until midday, drew a crowd estimated by police in excess of 100,000. They said it was a record for this event.

Cevert, son of a Parisian jeweler, collected $50,000 from the record $267,000 purse. Siffert was paid $20,000 and Peterson $12,000.

Cevert, who had started fifth on the grid, overhauled pole-sitter Stewart as they roared down the backstretch during their 13th circuit of the new 3.377-mile Watkins Glen Grand Prix circuit.

Youthful Huskies Scare Forward-Looking Wave

By CHUCK TRIBLEHORN
Register Sports Editor

MATAWAN — Looks often can be deceiving, but they told the story here Saturday as Long Branch struggled to a 22-15 cross-conference victory over Matawan Regional on muddy turf.

Long Branch may have been caught looking ahead to its Friday night test against Pennsylvania power Woodrow Wilson, while the young Matawan team looked better than it did a week ago and almost sprung an upset.

"Boy, this has been a flat day all the way around," said Green Wave coach Ken Schroeck whose charges were razor-sharp a week before against Toms River South. "We didn't expect an easy time this week, but the boys were anxious about last week."

"I think this was a stronger performance than against Middletown," said a disappointed Matawan mentor Barry Rizzo. "But we're starting to jell now. This is a young team as far as varsity game experience goes."

Slow Starters

Both teams were slow getting started through a scoreless first period, but the touchdowns came in rapid succession in the second quarter to create a 15-all tie at halftime. The Green Wave scored the winning touchdown early in the final session and then held off a serious Huskie threat as time ticked away to seal the pulse-pounding verdict.

Long Branch's "gamer" came with 10:50 remaining. It was a modest drive from the Huskie 21 after Greg Berger intercepted a Deitz pass.

"When you put the ball into the air, three things can happen," said Rizzo. "And two of them are bad."

What was bad for Matawan was good for the Branchers. Steve Schwartz picked up 10 yards in two carries, but a pair of five-yard penalties put the Wave back where it started from.

Greene then gained five before a pass interference call moved the ball to the eight from where Greene took it over. Penta converted.

Matawan again came back. Starting on their 40, the Huskies drove to the Wave 16 before that man Berger struck again, recovering a fumble to turn the ball over.

Four Long Branch downs later Matawan made one final bid from the Wave 47. Aided by a pass interference call, the Huskies paraded to a first and 10 on the 11. Geran gained five in two carries, but two passes into the end zone fell incomplete and Long Branch gained control to run out the final 1:21 on the clock.

Game of Breaks

Schroeck and Rizzo agreed that it was a game of breaks, with each club gaining its share. Long Branch's "flatness" showed in its timing and the Wave was guilty of nine procedure penalties, several aiding Matawan drives or thwarting its own.

"That long run really hurt us," said Rizzo, noting Schwartz's 88-yard kickoff return in which the Wave speedster went to the distance untouched.

The dash came moments after Matawan had cracked the scoring ice with a 15-play, 80-yard drive which got an early life when the Wave was flagged for an offside penalty on a fourth down punting situation. The Huskies' march continued with a first down on their own 45 and four first downs later, they reached the Branchers' two when tailback Skippy Deitz hit Geoff Barron for a 22-yard gain.

On the next play wingback Tom Geran barreled into the end zone. Mike McClune's placement put the Huskies out front, 7-0, but the lead was short-lived as Schwartz took the ensuing kickoff all the way back.

Matawan finally put their paws around Schwartz on the two-point conversion attempt, but he didn't have the ball. Quarterback Jim Eisele put it on his hip and trotted unmolested into the end zone for a one-point Long Branch edge.

Long Branch scored again late in the second quarter after taking over when Matawan fell inches short of a first down on a fourth down buck by Geran to the Huskie 41. Seven plays later, one a 24-yard pass from Eisele to Greene, Eisele snuck over from the one. Kerry Penta booted the extra point to up the count to 15-7 with only 32 seconds showing on the clock.

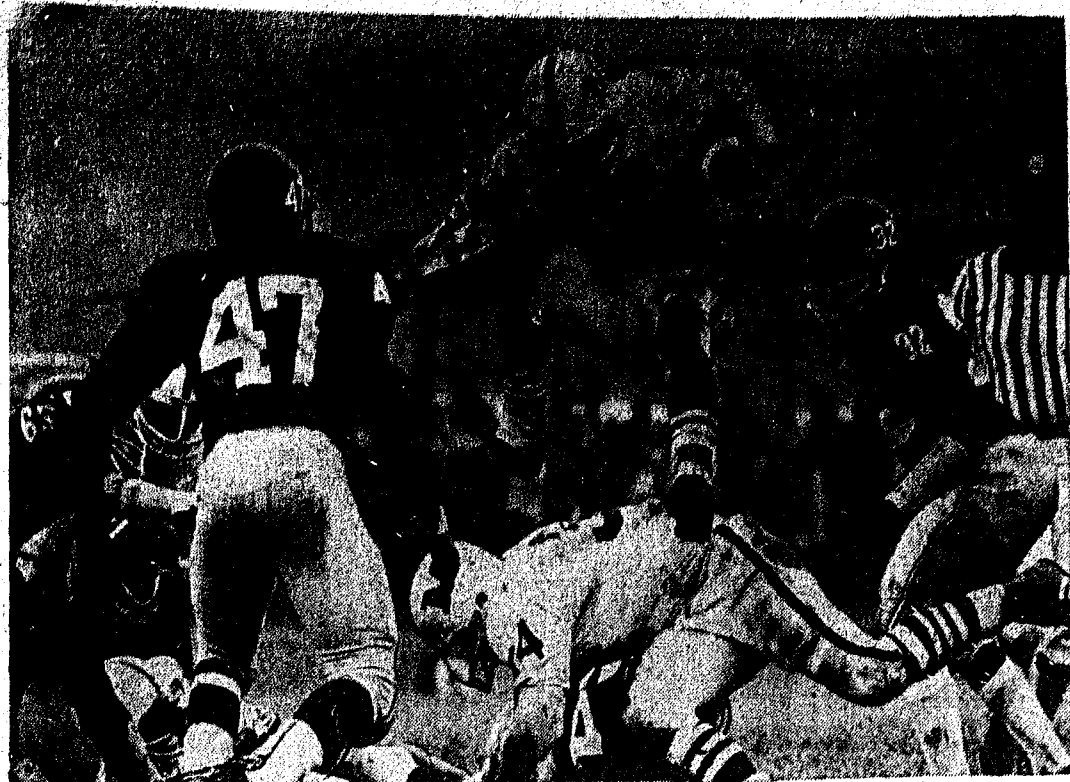

Tie Halftime Knot

That was just enough time for Matawan to tie the halftime knot. The Huskies took the kickoff on their own 38, and Deitz braved the Wave's preventative defense. He fired a 55-yard strike down the middle to end Mark Wojcik to put the ball on the seven. A penalty moved it to the three from where Deitz flipped a shortie to Orian Johnson as time ran out. The same combination clicked for the tying two-point aerial.

"It was amazed that they could do that against our prevent defense," said Schroeck, who expected Matawan to go to the air in the contest. "I didn't think they could run against us."

Rizzo concurred, "We had a pretty good passing attack," he said, "but we haven't developed our running attack yet. That forces us to pass."

The statistics support the coaches' observations. Matawan was held to 69 yards on the ground — 82 in the first half. However, Deitz hit on 12 of 21 passes in puncturing the Wave secondary for 178 yards. Five connections for 104 yards went to Wojcik alone, while three for 40 yards were snared by Geoff Barron.

LIFT OVER LINE — Tom Geran (32), Matawan Regional's wingback, appears to be getting a lift from teammate Bob Casagrande (34), but he's only hurdling between a pair of Long Branch defenders, Terry Rawls (47) and Greg Berger (32). The Green Wave eked out a 22-15 victory over the hustling Huskies.

Rumson Bulldogs Show Better Breeding

By JONNI FALK

RUMSON — Bulldogs were bred to be pugnacious, and the Rumson-Fair Haven Regional variety proved to be just a little more of a thoroughbred here Saturday than the Metuchen species.

Rumson-Fair Haven's aggressive gridders overcame 13 penalties for 142 yards and four turnovers to squash Metuchen, 20-6.

The Purple Bulldogs' goal line was crossed for the first time this year just 1:13 from the end, concluding 94:47 of shutout defense that began with the 26-0 trimming of Hudson Catholic last weekend.

Metuchen's TD came on a four-yard sweep of left end by Larry Taylor four plays after Butch Tyson had intercepted a Jeff Pezzuti pass at midfield and scampered to the Rumson nine. Had coach Bill Savage stayed with his first team, the winners would have another shutout.

Roselle Park Next

Savage was already looking toward next week's foe, Roselle Park. "We have plenty of work to do before the next game," he said. "We got some senseless penalties, and we weren't as sharp as we should have been."

Sharp or not, Rumson got excellent games from fullback Jim Finn, quarterback Dave McCormick, and linemen Mike Mullins and Kevin Callinan. The rest of the defense was so stubborn it held Metuchen to a net-19 yards on the ground and forced five fumbles.

Finn blasted for 76 yards and one touchdown on 17 carries, many of his gains coming on sheer second effort.

Penalties, an interception and a fumble of a completed pass held Rumson scoreless in the first period. Forced to kick early in the second period, Metuchen got tagged with a personal foul on the return, and the Purple Bulldogs drove 37 yards to the first score.

The big gainer was a 28-yard pass and run, McCormick to Jim Shea, to the nine. On third down, Finn ducked under two tackles and scored from the two, and Joe LaGrotteria kicked the point.

Metuchen drove to the Rumson three at the end of the half, but the clock and Rumson's stubborn defense ended that threat.

In the third period, the Purple Bulldogs drove 55 yards in nine plays to score again. Finn picked up 23 yards during the drive, and a McCormick-Bob Molke pass gained 13.

Co-captain Jon Loux beat Metuchen's defense to the left corner for the last nine yards. A bad snap cause LaGrotteria's kick to be blocked.

Molke and tackle Joel James covered a fumbled Metuchen handoff on the Metuchen 14, and even though a penalty set Rumson back from the one to the 18, the winners scored again in the fourth period. Halfback Mike Tardiff had a 10-yard gallop, and McCormick swept the left side on the option play for the TD. LaGrotteria's kick was good.

Hit With Penalties

Rumson-Fair Haven was hit with seven holding penalties during the game and also had a personal foul, a face mask infraction and a questionable pass interference call.

In addition to Molke and James, Callinan, Rich Smith, Loux and Pete Roy also recovered Metuchen fumbles. Vic Barnes recovered a pair for Metuchen.

In all, the Purple Bulldogs gained 142 yards on the ground and 74 in the air on four completions in 10 attempts.

Metuchen was minus three rushing in the second half.

The upstate Bulldogs got 82 yards on nine completions in 12 tosses.

Savage gave his entire squad playing time in the fourth period as fog started to shroud the scoreboard.

He was pleased with the efforts of Finn, who is a 195-pound junior. "He ran real well," Savage said. "Last week we didn't have to use him so much because Tardiff and Harry Riley ran so well."

Rumson runs out of a full-house backfield and two tight ends and has good overall size. The backfield average is about the same as the line.

Metuchen now has one loss and one tie, while Rumson-Fair Haven takes a perfect two game record to Roselle Park next Saturday.

Lakewood Surprises Middletown

LAKEWOOD — In Ocean County, they can hail Lakewood's 17-6 win over Middletown as a decisive victory; in Monmouth County it may be considered a mild upset.

However, the Lions, who showed ragged edges in winning their opener against Matawan, never really got the ground game which is so necessary to their offense going here Saturday and again showed pass defense deficiencies.

The Lions were held to 65 yards rushing and picked up 82 yards on three pass completions. Although the Middletown secondary allowed only three pass completions, one went for a touchdown and another set up the first Piner score.

In the long run, the Piner win rested on the arm of quarterback Dave Flaum and the foot of veteran kicking specialist Bob Pinkos.

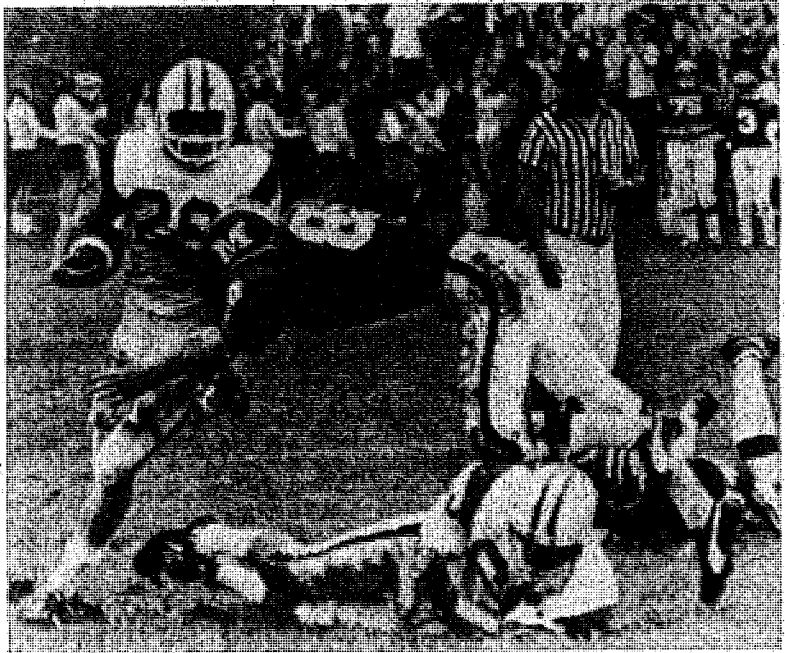

Pinkos was perfect after both TD's and sandwiched a 17-yard field goal in between.

Lakewood broke the ice early in the second period when Aaron Fox, a consistent gainer all day, plunged over from the one on fourth down.

The tally was made possible by a 50-yard pass play from Flaum to Mike Mincey which ended on the Lion five.

As it turned out, Pinkos' conversion would have been enough for the win. However, his third period field goal after a Piner drive stalled at the seven upped the count to 10-0.

Middletown went 84 yards in the early part of the final period to get back into the game. The drive started after Mark Monaghan intercepted a pass and juggled the ball out to the 16. Tom Erbig completed three passes on the drive, and the Piners helped with a roughing-the-kicker penalty.

Chargers Cop 4th Straight; Rumson Rolls to Easy Win

River Plaza had to fight off tough Keansburg before winning its fourth straight game in the Jersey Shore "C" Division Pop Warner game, 12-0, yesterday.

Rumson (3-1) hung a 31-0 setback on New Shrewsbury; Red Bank won its first game by blanking Matawan, 6-0, and West Long Branch outscored Atlantic Highlands, 31-12.

In the "B" Division, Ocean Township and Jackson Township remained deadlocked for the lead. Ocean defeated previously-unbeaten Toms River, 12-0, and Jackson downed Belmar, 32-0.

In other "B" battles, Ft. Monmouth blanked Wall Township, 27-0, Manalapan edged Asbury Park, 13-6, and Lakewood bombed Manahawkin, 33-0.

Brick Township and St. Joseph's of Toms River are still undefeated in "A." Brick surged to its third straight shutout by topping Freehold, 39-0, and St. Joseph's nipped Middletown Township, 6-0.

Howell beat Haritan, 18-6; Manasquan zipped Long Branch, 24-0, and Point Pleasant clipped Neptune, 39-19.

Keansburg Tight Defensively
Keansburg held River Plaza scoreless throughout the first half, but the Chargers came back in the second half when Mike Meeker ran a quarterback sneak over and followed with a 15-yard run.

Kyle Parks, Steve Morse and Keith Fitzgerald all starred for the winners on defense.

Chipper Shields caught three passes for the Blue Jeans in the losing cause.

The Chargers won the Pee Wee game, 22-0.

River Plaza's taxi squad played to a 6-6 tie against Ocean Township. Rumson's Steve Fitzgerald passed and ran his team to the easy win over New Shrewsbury.

Fitzgerald opened the offense in the first period with a 30-yard pass to Jeff Ziph. In the second quarter, he ran a 15-yard TD and passed to Ziph for the extra point.

St. John Vianney Nets First Victory

HOLMDEL — St. John Vianney scored the first varsity win of its young history here yesterday by whipping St. Thomas Aquinas of Edison, 25-0.

The win evened the Lancers record at 1-1. St. Thomas, also a first-year Trenton Diocesan high school, lost its second straight.

The Lancers converted three Tommie fumbles into scores and also took advantage of a fourth down gamble that failed.

Angle Young got St. John Vianney underway by recovering a St. Thomas fumble on the losers' 21 in the second period. Four plays later, Kevin Nunziante belted four yards for the first score. Joe Mauro kicked the extra point.

Also in the second period, St. Thomas gambled on fourth down with a fake punt, and the Lancers took over on the 43.

Mike Kiley piloted the Lancers down to the eight yard line from where he swept right end for the score. The drive took eight plays and was actually the farthest the Lancers had to go to score.

St. John Vianney got its remaining 12 points in the third period, and both scores were set-up by fumble recoveries by the Donaghue brothers, Mike and Jerry.

Mike recovered the first one on the St. Thomas 34, and it took the Lancers seven plays to hit gold. Jim Lenahan swept end for the last six.

Jerry Donaghue recovered the next fumble on the St. Thomas 37, and eight plays later Kiley barged over on a sneak.

St. Thomas mounted two threats during the game, but the Lancers stiffened, both times. Near the end of the first half, the Tommie drove to the Lancer 14, but Matt Coulson intercepted a pass to stymie the drive.

Fitzgerald also intercepted a New Shrewsbury pass in the third period and ran it back 40 yards for a touchdown.

Curt Bruckman chucked a 10-yard TD pass to Ryder Gosnell in the fourth period to cap the winners' scoring spree.

The Rumson Pee Wees won, 40-2.

Carl Miller started the West Long Branch attack with a 30-yard run off tackle, but Atlantic Highlands' Matt Suckocki ran 69 yards around end to tie the score in the second quarter.

West Long Branch took the lead again on a 20-yard pass from Tony Anusoso to Tim Malone.

Atlantic Highlands got its final score in the third period when Keith Reed ran eight yards around end.

Carman Santanni put the winners in front for good with an 18-yard run around end in the third period.

John Lucassen ran a two-yard plunge in the fourth for insurance, and Anusoso followed with a quarterback sneak for the PAT.

The final score came on a 50-yard end run by Miller.

West Long Branch's Pee Wees won, 27-0.

Manalapan Stubborn In Defeat

CEDAR GROVE — Cedar Grove scored 27 points in the second half to down a stubborn, but young Manalapan team, 36-8, here Saturday.

The loss was the first for Manalapan, playing its first year of varsity football. They downed Holmdel in the opener last week.

Manalapan took an 8-7 lead in the second period when Les Pierce intercepted a pass and raced 20 yards for six points.

Harry Bray passed to Regis Yoboud for the two-pointer which gave Manalapan the lead.

However, Bray was fackled in the end zone just before the half to give Cedar Grove a 9-8 lead.

Pete Treichter, who had scored the winners' first TD on a 59-yard run in the first period, scored twice on short plunges and once on a 28-yard pass to lead the second half Cedar Grove onslaught.

Bob Symons scored the final Cedar Grove score on an eight-yard pass from Jim Lubarski.

Keypoint Specializes in Kickoff Returns

WALL TOWNSHIP — Keypoint's best offensive maneuver during this young season has been the kickoff return. Unfortunately for the Red Raiders, most kickoffs come after the opposition has scored.

That's what happened here Saturday as defending champion Wall Township doubled up the Keys, 40-20, in a Shore Conference "D" Division game.

For the second consecutive game, Keypoint, held to minus rushing yardage, received a boost from speedboy Charlie Carter. Carter, who returned a kickoff 85 yards in the opening game loss to Marlboro, brought one back 75 yards Saturday. However, Wall held a comfortable 24-0 lead in the third period before Carter did his thing. In the fourth period, Hal Bell took a cue from Carter and raced 72 yards with a kickoff after Wall had drawn out front, 32-14.

The Crimson Knights received two-touchdown performances from Mike Saitta and Tom White. Saitta tallied twice in the first period on one and three-yard dives which climaxed sustained drives of 52 and 33 yards. Mike Blackett ran successfully twice for extra points for a 16-0 Wall advantage.

Keypoint came back in the second stanza when Ken Faaland hit Tom Shughnessy for a 43-yard pass-run touchdown.

After the intermission, Wall turned the game into a rout as White went three yards on the first play following a fumble recovery. White's second TD, a 40-yard scamper, closed out the scoring. A one-yard pass from Mike Hackett to Bob Shanklin accounted for the other Wall TD.

Freehold's Randolph Deprives Monmouth of Moral Victory, 16-8

By RICH NICOLETTI

NEW SHREWSBURY — If it hadn't been for Freehold's Rodney Randolph and his ability to pick up first downs, Monmouth Regional may have been able to chalk up Saturday's game as a moral victory.

Freehold won the Shore Conference "B" Division game, 16-8 after Randolph led the Colonials to within striking distance, and Bill Daniels went over from one yard out with 30 seconds left to play.

After a scoreless first half which saw one opportunity after another crushed by the sloppy turf and slippery ball, both teams went to work. Maybe the fog which rolled in after intermission bothered the defensive players' ability to see. No one will ever know.

Freehold scored late in the third period on a 10-yard run around end by Randolph. Sherwood Wiso added two more on an off-tackle run.

The Colonials may have been a little sorry at that point because their scoring campaign awakened the sleeping Falcons into a rally of their own. It was obvious to everyone that the momentum had swiftly changed hands. It was another mystery in a game loaded with question marks.

Monmouth looked like a new team as it moved goalward in 12 plays. The sparkplug was Carl Norman, the 5-11, 170-pound fullback who ate up 43 of the 57 yards necessary for the tally.

Falcons Help Out

The Colonials couldn't win the game all by themselves. They needed the help of the Falcons. The Falcons responded with two consecutive five-yard penalties which put Freehold on the Monmouth 17.

It still almost wasn't enough. Randolph was caught behind the line for a nine-yard loss on the next play, but quarterback Dave Mackey took matters into his own hands and carried for 15 yards before Randolph went in from the 10.

It looked as though the momentum had swung back to Freehold moments later when the Colonials reached the Falcon 37, but a fumble stopped the threat.

Freehold really needed some help in its final drive to pay dirt, and once again the Falcons obliged.

Freehold set up shop on its own 41 and proceeded to lose a yard on the ground and throw an incomplete pass.

Randolph gave the winners a big break with a 29-yard scamper to Monmouth's 31, but Mackey was caught six yards behind the line on the next play.

It was Randolph who would not allow the Colonials to lose the day. He added 12 more yards to the Falcon 25 before a penalty stalled the drive.

Spartans Show They're No Splash in 'B' Pan

By AL TOOZE

ASBURY PARK — On a Saturday morning more fitted to rolling over and going back to sleep, the Spartans of Ocean Township sild, swam, outmudded and outplayed Asbury Park for the Spartans' second 14-0 verdict in as many weeks. Ocean's 11 proved to be the better water sport enthusiast of the two.

tans and gave them excellent field position but Ocean couldn't capitalize. The strong Bishop secondary looked tough, rising to the occasion when called on by knocking down many Spartan touchdown bound aerials in the end zone.

the first half they went to the air against the Bishops and attempted 18 passes, completing only three. In the second half, they didn't throw a pass but played it conservatively on the ground.

The kickoff of the rare pre-noun traditional rivalry not only signaled the start of the game, but touched off a rain storm which lasted throughout the first half, making it virtually impossible to play, watch, or report a football game. Due to the poor field conditions both teams' offenses found the footing treacherous as they slipped and fell while trying to make cuts and sudden stops.

Finally, the Bishop defense could repulse the Spartans no longer. Early in the second period Bishop quarterback John Pettillo had his pass picked off by Chuck Kasky at the 25-yard line of the Bishops. On first down Taylor arced one for all the marbles in the direction of the Spartans' Mike Vignola, who made a diving splashing catch in the end zone. The extra points try on a pass from Taylor to end Hilmut Kinnofer was perfect, giving Ocean an 8-0 lead with eight minutes still remaining in the half.

At this point it looked as though the game would surely end deadlocked, but Mackey went to the air on fourth down. The pass was incomplete, but the Falcons were called for pass interference.

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Viewers who have looked in on "The Doctors" segment of NBC's "The Bold Ones" over the past couple of years may have noted the shift of emphasis in its plots. It has moved from an exploration of the new frontiers of medical science to treating human dilemmas.

This puts it in the category with CBS' "Medical Center" and ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." but sometimes there is a difference. Sunday night's drama was a sympathetic treatment of a hospital paramedic — a doctor's assistant — who was stealing hospital supplies to treat illegally sick people in a slum district.

Performance Intense

It was notable for the intense performance of Zwoy Hall as a former Vietnam medic and even more for some of his explosive dialogue about inadequate medical care for the poor-lack of phyicians in slum areas and long waits for short appointments in clinics.

Most of television's doctor shows have scripts checked and approved by committees from physicians' organizations and treat the profession with velvet glove reverence.

The story had, however, the balance of concerned, dedicated doctors in the series' regulars, David Hartman, E. G. Marshall and John Saxon.

It was an hour with something to say and it said it with bite — a rather rare program among television's deliberately bland dramatic efforts.

Imports Clicks

The Public Broadcasting stations opened their new season last night with another in the "Masterpiece Theatre" series. This time a six part adaptation of Thomas Hardy's "Jude the Obscure," acquired from the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Like its earlier imports — "The Forsythe Saga" and "The Churchills" — it is a beautifully produced period piece. Unlike the earlier two, the American viewer had a problem during the first show understanding the thick country accents of the English characters.

It is the story of Jude Fawley, an orphan from a working class family who has a passion for books and learning and is determined to win a university education. His passion for a pig farmer's daughter, however, forces him into a brief, unfortunate marriage.

The acting was excellent, headed by Robert Powell who plays the worried Jude and Alex Marshall as the wanton farmer's daughter. Hardy was making some caustic observations about class distinctions and, in the first episode, indicated strongly that he thought marriage was a trap for the unwary male.

Quality Sildes

NBC's "World Premiere" film features were, until this season, an occasion two-hour program. Now they are turning up weekly, a new show each Friday, and there is going to be a roller-coaster effect in quality.

Last Friday's "River of Diamonds" was strictly on the downside — a tired adventure yarn that depended for its suspense on the transportation of a couple of barrels of nitroglycerine sloshing around the back of a truck as it traveled over rough mountain roads.

Black Congresswoman Eyes Social Upheaval

WEST LONG BRANCH — Change in this nation—if it comes — will be brought about by coalition.

So said Shirley Chisholm, the black New York congresswoman who spoke at Monmouth College Friday at a session sponsored by the school's Student Union.

Mrs. Chisholm said she envisions a massive social revolution brought about by a powerful union of blacks and young persons and women.

Change Battle Is On

She added that many facets of the nation's elements are striving for a change. The Negroes demand their share of the "American dream," the young citizens question established values and seek new priorities.

Women, the congresswoman said, insist on recognition on the basis of their intellect.

She predicted that a broad-based coalition of the three groups, as well as other "exploited minorities," will build a political structure to "reform the present system from within."

Mrs. Chisholm said that blacks are tired of "tokenism" and, as a result of 300 years of exploitation, are erupting.

She termed racism "the bugaboo of the country" and said it is a cancer gnawing at the roots of society. White politics, she said, has brought "serious trouble" to America and that young people will bring about a better system.

"They believe we are bankrupt in our moral values," Mrs. Chisholm said. "Our actions do not bespeak our words."

She paralleled American women to other groups dominated by the white male and said a coalition of the spectrum of these groups would produce a powerful group which could shape politics and policies in future years.

Mrs. Chisholm said she will announce her intentions of presidential candidacy in a formal statement New Year's Day.

She added that she believes she can form a coalition of a wide range of religious, racial and age groups.

"My candidacy will not be a question of having a chance," the congresswoman said. "My only possible appeal is based on coalescence."

FBI Seeks Three In Hijacked Truck

MARLBORO — The FBI has joined local police in the hunt for three men who hijacked a truck in New York City Friday and dumped the driver, bound and gagged, into a field off Wyncrest Road.

Police said the three men, one of whom was a Negro, used a gun to overpower Thomas Moloughney, a driver for the Blue Comet Express Trucking Co., Jersey City, at 12th Ave. and 25th St., New York, about 5:30 p.m.

Mr. Moloughney was bound, gagged and blindfolded, and was found in the field by police, who were notified by a passing motorist, at 8:30 p.m. He reportedly was uninjured.

Police have declined to reveal the contents of the truck.

Lord Hosts Party For Travelers Aid

NEW YORK — Joseph F. Lord of Little Silver was host to more than 100 chairmen and committee members at a meeting of the Travelers Aid Society in New York's central office, 201 E. 39th St.

Mr. Lord, vice president of Morgan Guarantee Trust Co., joined the board of directors of Travelers Aid Society in 1949. He has been treasurer of the agency since 1951.

Purpose of the meeting was to bring together volunteers who are devoting themselves to making a success of the agency's fall 1971 fund-raising campaign which opened Sept. 20 and will continue until February.

The goal is $500,000, the amount needed to carry on the agency's program of service for the coming year.

A SOLDIERS' ISLE INVERNESS, Scotland (AP) — The romantic and peaceful looking little Scottish island of Skye has provided the British army with 23 generals, 48 lieutenant-colonels, 600 other officers, 120 pipers and more than 10,000 ordinary soldiers or enlisted men in the 40-year period up to 1815, according to a new booklet, "Highland Regiments," by an Inverness writer, Iain Cameron Taylor.

Man Jailed For Forgery

FREEHOLD — John Tillman, 17 Stevens Ave., New Shrewsbury, has been sentenced to an indeterminate reformatory term for conspiracy and forgery.

Tillman pleaded guilty July 27 to conspiring with six other persons Dec. 10 in Red Bank to cheat and defraud the Monmouth County National Bank (MCNB) by issuing forged MCNB money orders to 10 business establishments in the Red Bank area. He also admitted forging an MCNB money order in the amount of $75 Dec. 15 in Long Branch.

The sentence was imposed by Monmouth County Court Judge Louis R. Aikins.

Innocence Claimed In Woman's Death

FREEHOLD — An Asbury Park man has pleaded innocent to a charge of murder arising from the death of an elderly Asbury Park woman who suffered a heart attack and died after an armed robbery at her home.

LaCurtis Sullivan, 26, of Fifth Ave., Asbury Park, is accused of robbing Meyer and Ethel Feldman, also of Fifth Ave., of $125 in cash, four diamond rings valued at $2,000 and a $65 man's watch at gunpoint June 12 at their home.

He allegedly went into their bedroom, masked, and woke them up to commit the $2,190 robbery.

Mrs. Feldman suffered a heart attack afterward and was dead on arrival at Jersey Shore Medical Center, Neptune.

Prosecutor Vincent P. Keu-

per said Mrs. Feldman had a history of heart trouble and the state will try to show that the armed robbery "aggravated a pre-existing condition and precipitated her death."

Sullivan pleaded innocent to those charges and to some alleged break-ins and larcenies.

He denied breaking into the home of Laurie Tolario, 614 Third Ave., Asbury Park, June 8 and stealing a pocket-book valued at $10 and its contents, valued at $42, including cash, credit cards and papers.

He denied breaking into the office of Dr. Joseph Del Sordo, 508 Fifth Ave., Asbury Park, between June 2 and June 3 and stealing two tape recorders valued at $120.

His innocent pleas were accepted here by Superior Court Judge Walter H. Conklin. A trial date is to be fixed.

Says State Won't Control Aid Squads

FREEHOLD — "I believe it is high time that the current first aid squad versus Dr. Marie Senna of the state Department of Health confrontation be elevated from the political arena of the present campaign," Assemblyman Joseph E. Robertson says.

"If there is any place that politics does not belong, it is in our first aid squads, fire companies and police departments."

"I and all of my running mates on the Republican ticket for the Assembly have fully and strongly given our assurances to the squad men that we will not permit state intervention," he added.

The first aid squads of Monmouth County have proven time and time again, over many years, their indispensability, he said, and any state involvement could only weaken, if not destroy, the efforts of these dedicated men.

Assemblyman Robertson said Dr. Watson E. Neiman, assistant state health commissioner, publicly said in Howell Township that the voluntary training program being conducted by his department has no relationship with Assembly Bill No. 1384, the New Jersey Highway Safety Act of 1971, nor has he requested legislation.

This bill originally included a lengthy paragraph 6 concerning increased state control over first aid training and they made known their objections to this paragraph.

The bill was introduced in December, 1970, and was held in committee by myself and others until paragraph 6 was amended out of the bill.

On May of this year, the amended version of the bill passed, 51-0, in the Assembly, when we were advised the State Association of First Aid Squads had lifted their objections to the legislation with the elimination of paragraph 6, because of the training program and its possible relationship with Assembly Bill No. 1384.

"I have discussed the bill with the governor's staff," he revealed, "and I am confident developments outside of the current political campaign between now and Nov. 15 will make it unnecessary for hundreds of squad men to take time from their work and families to go to Trenton on this matter."

"I cannot imagine any legislator or any legislative candidate opposing the first aid squads, so let's keep politics out of the issue," he said.

Atlantic Highlands Post Receives Charter

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS — A new Veterans of Foreign Wars post has been chartered here.

Formal ceremonies marking the institution and installation of officers were held Friday.

The new post has been named the Atlantic Highlands Memorial Post, No. 10071.

Installation of officers was conducted under the direction of Herbert Unger of Long Branch, district commander.

The new officers are: Robert Pitman, commander; Robert Conard, senior vice commander; Daniel Shea, junior vice commander; Lynn Perry, quartermaster; Robert Scott, advocate; John Rogers, chaplain; Michael Reilly, surgeon; and Phillip Dinkler, Anthony Costa and Ray Harrison, trustees.

Guests included Thomas J. Lynch, state commander; George Heikle, state senior vice commander; Charles E. Kinney, national awards and citations chairman; Robert Bischoff, county council commander; Louis Wolda, District 6 senior vice commander; and Mrs. Genevieve Bischoff, ladies auxiliary department chief of staff.

The new post has 35 charter members. General meetings will be held at the Sea Scout building at the Atlantic Highlands Marina, the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

All eligible veterans are invited to attend.

NUMBER 6 IS NUMBER 1 — James Francis Kiernan doesn't quite know what all the fuss is about as he poses for a photo with his mother, Mrs. John Kiernan of 682 Colts Neck Road, Colts Glen, Freehold Township. Young James Francis, who was born at 9:27 a.m. last Thursday has the distinction of being the first child born at the new Freehold Area Hospital. He may be Number One at the hospital, but he's Number Six at home.

Freehold Hospital Visited by Stork

FREEHOLD TOWNSHIP — The stork waited a long time before paying her first visit to the new Freehold Area Hospital, but she apparently liked what she saw, because she made three calls the first day.

The first baby born at the hospital, James Francis Kiernan, first glanced at his new world at 9:27 a.m. Thursday. He weighed in at seven pounds, four ounces.

Little "JFK's" parents are John and Margaret Kiernan of 682 Colts Neck Road, Colts Glen, Freehold Township. James Francis will not be lonely at home because he joins three brothers and two sisters, bringing the Kiernan clan to six. At home are Jack, 18; Kevin, 16; Nancy, 11; Peggy, 4, and Patrick, 7.

The second child born on opening day bowed in at 5:05 p.m. She is Peggy Ann Stoffel, the fourth child born to Julia and Robert Stoffel Jr. of 2 Lee Road, Manalapan. Peggy Ann, who tipped the scales at six pounds, 1 1/2 ounces, joins sister Julie Ann, 5; Robert III, 4, and William, 3, in the Stoffel household.

The stork paid another visit Thursday for a nine-pound, 10-ounce boy at 7:03 p.m. to Linda Lee and Robert Kelly of 127 Wilson Road, Neptune. The new arrival, Patrick, is a first for the Kellys.

Devices Put In School For Security

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — A new security program designed to cut down on school entries and vandalism will be employed by the Regional Board of Education.

Although details of the new protective devices are not yet available temporary techniques including round-the-clock custodial shifts will be put into motion.

Curriculum media supervisor Anthony F. Crego has been named by the board to implement the new system.

He reported very little trouble finding volunteers among the custodial staff for the 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. work shift which will pay a 10 cents per hour premium.

A rash of vandalism and larcenies in the spring prompted the board to embark on a study of security problems.

Mr. Crego stated the custodians are not employed as security men but will provide surveillance of buildings and notify police in case of incidents.

To Demonstrate New Plane Today

FT. MONMOUTH — An aerial demonstration of a new high-altitude, long-endurance drone airplane is scheduled this afternoon at the Monmouth County Airport, Rt. 34, Wall Township.

The plane was developed by LTV ElectroSystems, West Long Branch, and was on static display this morning at the Hexagon.

The plane — designated as the L450F — is a mid-wing, all-metal, propjet aircraft designed for long endurance flights at high altitudes. It can be operated either as a drone aircraft or as a manned plane. The plane has a wing span of 57 feet and an overall length of 30.3 feet and can fly for 24 hours at altitudes of up to 50,000 feet. A spokesman for LTV said typical applications include electronic reconnaissance, communication relays, and electrooptics reconnaissance. The plane can carry a payload of 44 cubic feet (750 pounds). The aerial demonstration will be between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. at the airport.

At Berkeley ASBURY PARK — Guy Mollica of Middletown will appear at the Berkeley Carteret Hotel tomorrow night with his "Symphony of Magic."

State Transportation Solutions Offered

FREEHOLD — Mayor Daniel S. Kruman of Deal, Republican candidate for the Assembly from the Coastal District 5B, says futuristic technology is the only real answer to present day transportation problems in New Jersey.

In a position paper on transportation, the candidate from the busy corridor district between Union Beach and Bradley Beach said he wants government and private industry to do more to encourage construction and use of monorails, STOL-ports, hydrofoil ferries and non-polluting automotive vehicles.

On the subject of pollution, Mayor Kruman said all roadside utility poles and wires should be installed underground from now on to prevent visual pollution and as a safety factor as well.

"We have been talking about dramatic innovations in transportation for many years in this country," Mayor Kruman said, "but we have seen precious few of them. European countries and Asian nations that do not have a tenth of our wealth and know-how are far ahead of us in this field."

He said private industry will have to do the principal funding for these new transportation modes but, he said, government cannot absent itself from the picture. New Jersey, as a busy transportation state, should especially encourage advanced thinking in ways of moving people and goods, Mayor Kruman said.

"It takes very little imagination," he said, "to see the benefits of a high-speed monorail to Monmouth County whose commuters now ride as long as two hours each way to and from work five days a week."

"STOL-ports (short takeoff and landing airports) will be ideal for our county as we enter the true air age," the candidate said, "the age when commuting to work by air will be as natural as riding on a bus."

Mayor Kruman said that the Port of New York Authority is already planning to build a STOL-port in the Secaucus meadows and he said that, if he is elected, he will encourage location of at least one such facility in Monmouth County. The STOL-ports require little land and the planes that will use them carry small passenger loads.

The candidate said he would like to see the state encourage further experimentation on hydrofoil boats with an eye to instituting commuter service between Highlands and New York.

"Let's try them all," Mayor Kruman said. "Monorails, heliports, STOL-ports, electric cars, hydrofoils; but let's not get caught trying to solve future transportation problems with out-of-date equipment. It won't work. That's being demonstrated every day."

Mayor Kruman said he wants these transportation innovations introduced "Now, not later." But he added that even saying "Now" does not mean today and he said existing transportation facilities must be maintained and improved while new methods are being introduced.

In line with this, he recommended:

—More state involvement in scheduling and operation of commuter rail and bus service.

—Increased state aid to local bus lines to maintain service for the young and elderly and those who cannot afford their own cars.

—Establishment of Asbury Park, Red Bank and Long Branch as true transportation centers by coordinating bus and train services.

—Construction of "Park and Ride" lots by the parkway and turnpike authorities in northern New Jersey to accommodate shore commuters who would take their cars part way to work and then board express buses which would ride on exclusive bus lanes into city centers.

—General widening and upgrading of all state highways in the shore area.

—Planned growth at the shore to prevent further crowding of existing transportation facilities.

GOP Silence Annoys Bell

MARLBORO — In reaction to statements that he appeared to be running against the Cahill Administration rather than his opponents, Eli Bell, Democratic candidate for Assembly from Western Monmouth County, criticized the state government under Republican control as being "a monolithic monster in which no differentiation of ideas or opinions can be discerned."

He referred to the Republican controlled Assembly as being "a rubber-stamp apparatus performing the script orchestrated by the Cahill group without independent thought."

"I would have preferred to develop a campaign in response to my opponents' public records, but not only are their public records devoid of accomplishment, their campaigns have been political phantoms."

"One opponent, an incumbent, has no record to which any politician could presume to point in pride. The other opponent for a Western Monmouth County seat, supposedly knowledgeable on welfare matters, has yet to state his position in this vital area or on any issue whatsoever.

"I intend to give the voters of Western Monmouth County a clear statement on all of the issues upon which they can decide whether Bell can best serve this area in the legislature. I shall not engage in the conspiracy of silence apparently favored by the Republican opposition in the manifest hope that the electorate can be fooled. Bell has more faith in the voters' intelligence than my Republican opponents appear to have."

He said the November election will reverse the largely one-party political control in Monmouth County. Recognizing a dynamic change in the electorate in Western Monmouth County, he said, "The economic, social, and political stakes are too high for the voters to continue to cling to the notion that all governmental wisdom resides in a single political party in Monmouth."

Your Horoscope, Birthday

MONDAY, OCTOBER 4 — Born today, you are highly sensitive to criticism, particularly that of an adverse nature — but you are at the same time objective and intelligent enough to be able to grasp whatever kernels of truth may be hidden among the chaff of other's opinions, and to act accordingly. Not one who has a compulsion to figure everything out for himself, you are quite willing to have shortcuts pointed out to you or to accept any honorable suggestions that might help you on your way to success. Everything points to your sharing that success with others. There is nothing of the lone wolf about you; you enjoy working alone — and you most definitely do not enjoy living alone. Your desire to share both your material and your spiritual assets with others makes it paramount that you have many friends.

Tuesday, October 5
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Prudence is advised if you would help the family finances swell. Take care, however, not to overlook an opportunity for action.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Major distractions may cause you to lose sight of your present goal. Afternoon hours should see relationships rearranged.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Know which activities have in the past proved injurious to your health or your pride. Keep clear of these.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — Trying moments this morning need not spoil afternoon plans. Take care that social relationships remain intact. A good evening.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Don't wait until matters on the home front really get out of hand before asserting your authority. Children need attention.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) — Concentrate your efforts along a single line of endeavor. Otherwise, you will incur risks you can ill afford.
ARIES (March 22-April 20) — Outstanding possibilities for gain makes this an exceptional morning. Success, however, will take direct and forceful action.
TAURUS (April 21-May 21) — Problems will not be solved today if you insist upon taking the negative approach. Look at things optimistically.
GEMINI (May 22-June 21) — Where your affairs stand at the present time is precisely where they should be left — for the moment. You can branch out shortly.
CANCER (June 22-July 23) — Excellent prospects for a bargain this afternoon. Be on your guard, though, against being shortchanged in goods.
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — Avoid any activity which another could interpret as daring. You want to increase your reputation for coolness and calm — not the reverse.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — Business problems require a mature intellectual approach. Consider opinions recently given by those with experience to spare.

Sheinwold's Bridge Advice

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

President Nixon's 90-day freeze had a profound effect, I am told, on the national economy. I can't comment on that, because it's not my beat. But the effect of the freeze on certain bridge players has been catastrophic; and 40 million bridge players in the United States are waiting for the freeze to lift. Today's hand tells the story.

West opened the ace of clubs, a very fortunate choice. Leading the ace from A-x of a side suit is not really recommended as a steady diet. You try it when you're desperate, and in this case West had reason to believe that only desperate measures would defeat the contract.

The lead should have worked well because the defenders could take two top clubs, ruff a club and then cash the ace of spades. In normal times, East would play the jack of clubs at the first trick to signal unmistakably for a club continuation. West would carry on with the ten of clubs at the second trick, and the rest would be easy.

Patriotic Move
 These are not normal times. East thought it would be inflationary or antifreeze to waste the jack of clubs when the four of clubs was an encouraging signal. So East patriotically played the four of clubs at the first trick.

South followed suit with the three of clubs, and West began to think. "If my partner wanted a club continuation, surely he could afford something bigger than the four," West said to himself. That's what comes of letting nonconformists play bridge.

So West shifted to a diamond, and South gratefully won and drew trumps. Maybe we should get a ruling from the government: Do the new regulations permit a bridge player to play a higher card than necessary?

 Answer: Pass. The hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If the queen of diamonds were the king, you would open the hand with one heart. (Some experts would prefer an opening bid of one club.) Colts Neck Plans Squad Building With Municipal Garage Cluster COLTS NECK — The Township Committee is formulating plans for the construction of a new $316,000 First Aid Squad building and municipal garage cluster near the township hall on Hyers Mill Road.

Mayor Kenneth B. George Jr. said the new buildings will be constructed between the municipal building and Hyers Mill Road. The State Police barracks also are in the municipal complex.

The mayor said the first aid building will look like an early colonial home, with white clapboard siding, shutters and dormers. Three ambulances and a rescue truck will be housed in the building's garage, and there will be room for squad meetings and a standby duty team in the meeting hall.

The volunteer First Aid Squad is currently operating out of the old Town Hall, on Rt. 537.

Adjoins Garage

The municipal garage cluster will adjoin the First Aid building. The cluster will consist of a gambrel-roofed municipal garage and several equipment storage sheds.

All of the buildings will be gathered around a central work yard so that all vehicles will be screened from public view. The road department currently operates out of leased buildings on the grounds of the Colts Neck Airport.

Maurice Shaw Is Promoted

BROOKLYN — Brooklyn Union Gas announces the promotion of Maurice K. Shaw of Middletown, N.J., to assistant vice president. He will be responsible for customers' billing and accounting.

Mr. Shaw started with the utility, which serves natural gas to a million and a quarter customers in Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, in 1960 as a trainee. After a stint in the Coast Guard, he returned as a new business district representative. In 1963, he was promoted to district house heating representative. His next assignment was with the personnel department as personnel administrator. In 1967, he joined the customer inquiry department. He was named its assistant manager in 1968 and its manager in 1969.

A graduate of Lehigh University, Mr. Shaw holds a

Mayor George said discussions will be held with the Board of Education to determine if its school buses will be parked in the cluster.

The mayor said that while no target date for completion has been set, he hopes to see the bids advertised in December, and contracts awarded in January. He said construction could begin immediately after.

Cost Breakdown

Of the $316,000 cost, $114,000 is for the First Aid Building, $110,000 is for the garage and sheds; $40,000 is for landscaping and other site work, $10,000 is for new equipment, $31,600 is for architects and legal fees, and $14,000 is for contingencies.

The new buildings were designed by Bernard B. Kelenyi, Architects, of Red Bank, who designed the municipal building and State Police headquarters.

The mayor said a bond ordinance will be adopted to cover the cost.

Industry Unit Rapped In Matawan Township

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP — The four Democratic candidates for Township Council have criticized the Industrial Commission for failing to "reap any of the rewards it has been promising for the past 30 months."

Youth Faces Charge Of Car Damage

MIDDLETOWN — A Bedford youth was arrested and charged with malicious damage to property.

According to Detective Sgt. William J. Halliday the suspect, Ronald Smith, 17, of 235 Church St., is accused of taking a car belonging to Atlantic Highlands Councilman Alfred F. Katz of 38 E. Highland Ave. and damaging it.

Upon his arrival, Mr. Katz found the car missing and notified police.

The damaged vehicle was later found by Patrolman William Brunt, who conducted the investigation with Sgt. Halliday.

The Smith youth was released in the custody of his parents pending action by juvenile authorities.

Sgt. Halliday said he expects to make several other juvenile arrests in connection with the incident.

KEYPORT — The Senior Citizens will meet today at 1 p.m. in Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall.

Sixteen new members were welcomed at the last meeting. Mrs. Alvina Fitzgerald was appointed to the sunshine committee.

Elected to serve on the borough Recreation Committee were Mrs. Ann Emery, Mrs. Ruth Smith, Mrs. Mary Krotulis, Richard Johnson and Mrs. Helen Terry.

Mrs. Vera Williams is the unit's new secretary.

A trip to Pennsylvania's Amish country is planned for Wednesday, Oct. 13. The bus will leave at 8 a.m. from the VFW Hall and Bethany Manor.

Building Officers To Honor Four
MONMOUTH BEACH — The Building Inspectors' Association of Monmouth County will present past president's awards to four members at a dinner meeting scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Channel Club.

Recipients will be Maxwell H. Klarin, Red Bank; Newton Mallett, Middletown; Sylvester Hoffman, Red Bank, and Walter A. Smale, Holmdel.

The Democrats say they are interested in finding out why. Candidates Peter J. Lumia, Michael Brodnick, Philip N. Gumbs and Andrew B. Halek issued a statement in which they propose that the activities and expenses of the commission be examined very carefully. Furthermore, they urge that constructive plans be formulated to attract needed ratables.

Results Lacking
Mr. Lumia said the Industrial Commission has received "over 100 inquiries from prospective firms, yet not a single one has materialized for the township."

The candidates contend that the two largest projects, a

$1.2 million addition at Midland Glass, and $1.6 million in single-family home construction cannot be credited to the commission.

Mr. Lumia attributes the rise in the township's assessed values to new accounting procedures in assessing property, "not as a result of any new industrial locations."

The candidates contend there are over 250 acres available for industrial use under the master plan. They say the largest parcel is about 25 acres and "there is no reason why the Industrial Commission cannot try to attract one good ratable at a time instead of shooting for the whole pie and coming up holding crumbs."

Mr. Cherrits was district supervisor for group insurance service for Hartford Insurance Company and individual service for both life and health insurance.

He and his wife, Joanne, live with their 9-year-old son, Glenn, at 9 Ivy Court, Matawan.
