The Captain's Money.

A Tale of Buried Treasure, Cuban Revolt and Adventure Upon the Seas.

IN FOUR PARTS.

BY JAMES FRANKLIN FITTS.

[Copyright, 1887, by The A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Company.]

PART I.—CHAPTER III.

Had Louis Hunter possessed a frank, sympathizing nature he would have embraced this opportunity to remove all misunderstandings with his uncle. The old sea-dog was now in that frame of mind that made him wish to talk with some one, and with Louis especially, about the stirring events of the day, the inconveniences and annoyances suffered from the Cuban authorities, and the dubious prospects of the return voyage of the bark, with her picked-up crew. But Louis had neither generosity of heart nor nobility of nature. He was cold, selfish and sinister; he had no real affection for the man who had faithfully tried, in his own rough, hearty way, to benefit him; and it may be—I do not know—that some dark schemes of self-aggrandizement, prompted by late events, had already entered the young man's brain. However that may be, it is certain that he repelled all the Captain's friendly advances, went to bed, and was presently asleep. Captain Willis also soon retired; but this rude disturbance of his slumbers had made him wakeful, and it was not until the clock struck two that sleep visited his eyes. Then his rest was uneasy, and troubled by dreams in which were mingled in one grand confusion Cuban garrotes, escaping filibusters, sick sailors, storms, calms and helpless vessels drifting without crews. Nor did his slumbers become calm and peaceful till another vision had soothed them—a dream of a quiet home in far-away New England, and faces there that were very dear to the old sea-dog's heart.

PART I.—CHAPTER V.

ON THE DECK.

The master of the "Nellie" awoke the next morning in a state of uneasiness lest he should be kept away from his vessel for another day. Louis wanted to remain in the city some hours longer, but the Captain declared that he should get back to the bark just as soon as he was allowed, and would then weigh anchor at once. After an early breakfast Louis sullenly followed him down to the quay. Many small boats were waiting here under the surveillance of the guard, the "Nellie's" among them. The hour was not yet nine, but quite a crowd of sailors had gathered, anxious to return to their vessels. The officer of the guard closely examined all of them, permitted the greater number to enter their boats, and detained a few for further examination. Captain Willis and Louis easily passed, and were about to step into the boat which Dick Purvis pulled up to the steps, when the shipping-agent hastened up, followed by a man in a worn suit of sailor's clothes.

"I've got another man for you, Captain," he said. "He claims to be an able seaman; but, unluckily, he can't speak a word of English. But I thought, considering everything, you'd like to take him. He talks Spanish fast enough, anyway."

This last acquisition of the agent was a man of apparently fifty years of age. His bristly hair was grizzled, his shoulders were slightly stooped, and his forehead and cheeks were wrinkled. His face had the decided hue of the Spaniard. A great patch almost concealing his left eye gave rather an unpleasant aspect to his face. He was not heavily built; his motions were alert, and he seemed strong.

"Will you take him, sir?" asked the agent.

The Captain looked at this new sailor with no great enthusiasm in his face.

"Mr. Simmons," he said, "you've already brought me eleven of the worst looking fellows that ever stood on a deck; and now here's another of the same sort. Suppose he is a seaman—I can't swear in Spanish. But I suppose we might as well have a round dozen of 'em. Put him in the boat."

"ANOTHER OF THE SAME SORT."

Before this could be done the man had to be examined by the officer. He answered all the questions asked him in good Spanish, which the Captain caused Louis to interpret to him. He said his name was Jose Gardez; that he was fifty-five years old, and was born at Bahia Honda, of Spanish parents. He was bred a sailor, and had always followed the sea. He had lately been on the merchant ship "Cid Campeador" between Cadiz and Havana; but he had been sick, and his ship had sailed a week before without him. He did not want to be idle, and this was the first chance he had got.

This account was perfectly satisfactory to the officer; he nodded permission; and in a few moments the stout arms of Dick Purvis were propelling the party across the harbor.

Captain Willis was no sooner on deck than he called for the mate.

"Call the crew aft, Mr. Hardy," he said. "I've a word to say to them."

They came, most of them sauntering along with their hands in their pockets, and looking altogether very unlike a good ship's company. The four negroes stood in a group by themselves. Dick Purvis stood with his cap in his hand, in an attitude of respectful attention; the others were collected behind those. Captain Willis surveyed them a moment with an eye like a hawk, and then spoke clearly and distinctly:

"My men, I've sailed the seas for well nigh forty years, and I've commanded ships for thirty; but this is the first time I ever went out with a lot of green hands. Dick Purvis, avast there! —stand aside; you know this talk ain't for you. Except Mr. Hardy and Dick, I learn that there's only two seamen now in the ship. We've got a voyage of nearly two thousand miles to make, and a valuable cargo aboard. You can't learn to be sailors on this trip—but you can learn a good deal. You'll be well treated by Mr. Hardy and myself—but there's one thing you must understand now, right at the start. You must obey orders—d'ye hear. I'm the Captain, and Mr. Hardy is the mate of this ship. Louis, put that in Spanish for the benefit of those that don't understand me."

The nephew did as requested.

"That's all. Go forward now. Mr. Hardy, up anchor at once."

The four negroes did not stir.

The others had started, but seeing that something was about to happen, they paused.

"Go forward, I say!" repeated the Captain, sternly.

One of the negroes took a single step in advance of his comrades.

"We hab been deceibed," he said, speaking in a thick voice and in broken English. "Dis bad ship; dis unlucky ship; debbil in de ship. We four nebber go in um! Put us ashore, sah, quick."

The others heard this startling declaration with various feelings, but every eye was upon the Captain. They saw his face darken, and his little eyes shine like coals. He stood motionless as a post, his head slightly thrown back, and his right hand thrust into the breast of his tightly-buttoned coat. He spoke low, but there was a dangerous rasp in his voice.

"Mr. Hardy, get a pair of handcuffs. Shackle that man, and confine him below three days on bread and water."

There was a low muttering among the negroes as the mate started to obey the order. The balance of the crew edged back a little, as though they wanted to be out of the way of the impending trouble. Dick Purvis stood aside, somewhat nearer the Captain, holding a capstan-bar behind him. To his surprise and delight, he found Jose Gardez by his side with another such bar in his hand, nodding his head to him, as much as to say: "I'm with you." The Mate stood close up to the Captain when he spoke, and immediately started for the handcuffs.

The strain and suspense of such a moment is exquisitely painful. All on that deck felt it, though with different thoughts and emotions. The mate was certainly not gone two minutes; but the time that passed before his head emerged above the deck as he ran up the cabin-stairs seemed an age.

The attitude and appearance of one man there ought to be mentioned. This was Louis Hunter. He stood at the right of the Captain, leaning up against the quarter-rail, smoking a cigarette. He looked on as carelessly as though he had not the slightest interest in what occurred.

The mate went directly to the negro. "Hold out your hands," he said.

With a motion like a flash, the fellow seized the handcuffs and tossed them overboard. One sweep of his powerful arm thrust the mate aside. His clasp-knife was plucked from his waistband, opened, and brandished; with a yell he sprang toward the Captain. His eyes were bloodshot and glaring; those who saw his face saw something more pitiless and ferocious than is in the faces of wild beasts.

Some of the men on the deck shuddered; some closed their eyes. Some rejoiced like fiends. Two, at least, started forward, brandishing capstan-bars. Yet they could not have been in time to avail against the agile, sudden movements of this mad human animal.

There was a loud report; the negro suddenly stopped. His eyes rolled horribly in his head; his knife dropped from his grasp. He threw up his arms, plunged forward, and fell in a heap on the deck—dead, with a bullet through his heart!

The Captain advanced a single step. A great navy revolver, still smoking, was in his hand.

"You see what I mean," he quietly said. "Now, to your duty, every man! You all know who is Captain, by this time."

There was not an instant's delay. The crew fell back, dumb and conquered by this stern exhibition of authority. The mate speedily assembled them at the capstan, the anchor came up, the sails were spread, slowly and awkwardly, and the bark with wind and current in her favor, so that nothing was needed, sailed out past the frowning guns of Moro Castle, and to the open sea.

The Captain paced the after-deck, and watched the mate as he moved about among the crew. Cool as the man had been through this exciting scene, he now began to feel the revulsion as the strain was removed. He wanted some one to talk to, and looked around for Louis, but he had gone down into the cabin.

In a few moments the mate came aft and touched his cap.

"They're doing fairly well, sir," he said. "Lubbers, the most of them, but they don't hang back now. I reckon we shall get all out of them that they can do."

"Very well, Mr. Hardy. Who's at the wheel?"

"Dick Purvis, sir."

"Right again. We're well out of the harbor, I should think."

"Quite outside, sir."

"Keep her east by north for the present."

"East by north, sir!"

"And I say, Mr. Hardy, just see if there is any life in that fellow on the deck there. I meant to shoot him straight through the heart, and I think I did."

The mate went and turned the cumbrous body over on its back. A pool of dark blood had gathered on the deck.

"He is quite dead, sir."

THERE WAS A LOUD REPORT.

"Very good. Now you will see, Mr. Hardy, since this thing has happened in port, it would ordinarily be correct to make a report of it to the United States Consul, and have the body taken ashore, ask for an inquiry and all that. As things are, I'll do nothing of the kind. I wouldn't stay another day in this harbor for a million. Have the deck swabbed up, Mr. Hardy, and the body taken below and sewed up in spare canvas, with an hundred pound weight at the heels, and tonight chuck it overboard."

"Aye, aye, sir."

"You think these fellows are pretty well quieted now—eh, Hardy?"

"I should think so, sir," replied the mate, with a smile.

"Well, you and I will have to take tricks at the wheel with Purvis, till we know whom we can rely on—I'm going below now for an hour. Keep close watch, and call me if anything happens. You've got a pistol?"

"Aye, aye, sir."

PART I.—CHAPTER VI.

A SURPRISING REVELATION.

Captain Willis had not entirely disposed of his cargo of salted fish at Havana; he had about a fourth of it still on board. He had learned that there was a good market for it at Nassau, and he had resolved to take the Bahamas on his course home and dispose of this surplus.

He had often sailed this course—along the Cuban coast to Matanzas, thence up the Bahama Channel, Port Abaco and Eleuthera, and so out into the North Atlantic. Nassau was but two days' sail, provided the winds were what he might reasonably expect at this season.

But well as he knew the route, we find him now with his charts spread out on the cabin table, locating the many islands of this group, and carefully examining the various channels and passes. It was Captain Willis' boast that he had never lost a ship; and, certainly, if care, and study, and good seamanship could avail, he was not likely to.

Satisfying himself, for the present, about the course, he put away the charts. Looking out from the cabin bull's-eye on the starboard side, he saw ten miles away over the sparkling waves the mountainous coast of Cuba. The bark was bowling along before a southwesterly breeze; he was at sea again; he shook off in a moment all disagreeable thoughts of the harsh but necessary event of the morning, and indulged in some pleasing reflections of the profits that he was likely to make on this voyage. Unlocking a small locker in the side of the cabin, he took out two [illegible] bags and weighed them in his hands. They were heavy; they well might be, since each was full of Spanish and Mexican gold pieces. He carefully replaced the bags in the locker.

The bells sounding the hour from the deck told him that it was now four o'clock. He remembered his promise to the mate to return in an hour. As he put on his hat to go above, a thought of Louis occurred to him. He had not seen him since the tragic incident of the morning. What could the boy mean by shunning him at such a time? His conduct had been so strange lately that the Captain was seriously troubled by it. Considerably agitated by these reflections, Captain Willis was about to go on deck, when he heard a smart rap at the cabin-door. The mate entered in answer to his bidding.

"Well, Mr. Hardy—any trouble?" he said, "I was just coming up."

"No particular trouble, sir, but some things have happened that you ought to know. I've put the mulatto at the wheel, and left Purvis to watch the deck for ten minutes, till I could tell you."

"Quite right, Mr. Hardy. Now out with it."

"Well, sir, in the first place, that mulatto. You know the story he told about his being a green hand?"

"Yes."

"He's no more a greenhorn than you are, sir! He tries to look slow and clumsy; but every motion satisfies me that he's an old hand, and knows every rope and spar in the ship."

"I thought as much."

"But that isn't all. You know, sir, I'm an old sailor, and know pretty much every thing about sailors' ways. I've been in pretty much every sea, and in the South Pacific I learned all that there was to be learned about tattooing. I suppose I know all the marks that sailors used to distinguish each other. Well, sir—the mulatto rolled up his sleeves to take the wheel—and there on his right arm above the elbow was the true Isle of Pines mark."

"Great Heaven!" said the Captain. "You don't mean that he is a pirate?"

"I mean that he has been one, whether he is now or not."

"And you left him at the wheel?"

"Only long enough to come and tell you what I had discovered."

Captain Willis snatched his revolver from the table.

"Come up at once," he said. "Bring another pair of handcuffs with you. Take the wheel yourself."

The Captain gained the deck, and strode directly to the wheel. His pistol instantly covered the giant who held it.

"What's your course?" he demanded.

"East by south."

REPORT

OF

P. SHERIDAN, County Collector

OF THE

COUNTY OF UNION,

UP TO

MAY 1, 1887.

To the Director and Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

GENTLEMEN: Your committee to settle with the county collector would respectfully report that they have examined his annual report, which is hereunto annexed, and have compared each disbursement, and its accompanying voucher, and find the same correct in every particular, as bank books and his warrant of advance to the Sheriff, per resolution of the Board, having been submitted to the committee.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

BRET HARDIN,
MOTT M. HAPMAN,
JES. T. PERSON.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 3, 1887.

To the Committee to Settle with the County Collector.

GENTLEMEN: I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report of the receipts and disbursements of the county, from May 12, 1886, to May 1, 1887.

It was my duty as well as pleasure, on assuming the office of county Collector, in May, 1871, to change the form of these reports. Since that time only the number and amount of warrants were given, since that time the number, name, amount and account have been given at each term of the Board. As some fault was found last year that the law was not strictly complied with, at the suggestion of the Director and on consultation with the Attorney, I have this year added two columns, viz.: Amount claimed and by whom or what committee ordered. These two items, in all previous years, have always appeared on each bill or warrant. This seems very material in the length and breadth of my report.

My thanks, gentlemen, are due you, as well as to the members of the Board, for the kindly feeling and support given me during the past year.

Respectfully submitted,

P. SHERIDAN,
County Collector.

Mr. Hubbard was escorted to the chair and introduced by County Clerk Crowell. Mr. Hubbard thanked the board for the honor shown him. He recognized fully the responsibilities of the office, and hoped he would have the co-operation of all the members, and he would try to rule impartially and treat all with uniform courtesy. If he made mistakes they would be of judgment and not intention.

Freeholder Littell moved that the salary of the clerk be fixed at $800. Carried.

Mr. Howard nominated Mr. Charles E. Reed, of Rahway, for clerk. A ballot being taken, Mr. Reed received 14 votes; blank, 3.

Mr. Reed was escorted to his seat by County Clerk Crowell, sworn by director Hubbard, and returned thanks for the honor conferred.

Freeholder West moved that the salary of collector be fixed at $1,000. Carried.

By Freeholder West: Resolved, That all persons appointed to office by this board who are required by law to give official bonds shall give bonds for the faithful performance of their duties, signed by at least three residents and freeholders of this county as sureties, and that such sureties shall each justify to the amount of said bond as he is willing to justify for as such surety. Carried.

Mr. West said that owing to the legal complications connected with the matter between the county and sheriff inherited from the retiring board, and the fact that the courts do not hold ignorance as an excuse, he offered the following:

WHEREAS, An information in nature of a quo warranto having been filed at the relation of the sheriff against this board and Sylvester Cahill, jr., requiring them to show by what authority they claim to withhold the possession of the jail from said sheriff, and it being deemed of great public concern that a judicial and authoritative determination should be had in said proceedings at the earliest practicable moment, and serious question arising as to the legal right and power of this board to appoint a warden and as to the rights of said Cahill under an alleged appointment to the office of warden;

Resolved, That no payments be made said Cahill on account of any claims for salary or services until after his rights to the said office, if any he has, be established in the pending suit, and that in the meantime and until further action is taken, the committee on jail inspection make such expenditures as may be necessary to purchase supplies for the feeding of the prisoners, and further that the attorney of this board be instructed to take every step necessary to secure a hearing in said proceedings and determination thereon at the earliest day practicable at the coming June term of the supreme court, and that he does not permit such proceedings to be delayed for any technical or other reason if it can be prevented; and, further, that the clerk of this board give to said Cahill a copy of these resolutions that he may be apprised that any claim he may make for salary or services will not be recognized or allowed by this board unless and until his right to hold such office, if any he has, shall be established by the judgment of the court in said proceedings.

Mr. Roll moved the adoption of the resolution, and the motion was carried.

Mr. West said he wished it understood that the resolutions were adopted in justice to all and malice toward none.

IS NOT INTENDED to reach our regular customers, who already know and experience the advantages of dealing with us, but is more especially an invitation for gentlemen who have never given us the pleasure of their patronage, to call and ascertain why they should not do so.

In the first place, as price is always an important matter, we give below a schedule of figures to which we direct special attention:

ALL-WOOL BUSINESS SUITS, $8, 10, 12, 15, 18, 20.
FINE DRESS SUITS, $12, 15, 18, 20, 25.
MEN'S WORKING TROUSERS, $1, 1.25, 1.50, 2.
EXTRA TROUSERS FOR DRESS WEAR, $3, 4, 5, 6.

Juvenile Department.

CHILDREN'S KNEE BREECHES SUITS, $2, 3, 4, 5, 6.
CHILDREN'S SEPARATE KNEE BREECHES, 40c., 50c., 75c., $1, 1.50.
BOYS' AND YOUTHS' SUITS, $3.50, 4, 5, 7, 8, 10.

There is hardly a desirable fabric in the trade that is not embraced in the above schedules. And one thing more. If it so happens that in consequence of any peculiarity of shape the customer does not find a perfect fit, his measure is at once taken in our Custom Department, and any suit he selects made perfect for his use, without extra charge.

Goods exchanged or money refunded for such as are not satisfactory or as represented.

Great preparations are being made by ...e ladies of the Second Presbyterian Church for ...eir strawberry festival next Thursday and Fri...y evenings.

The festival given by the ladies of the German Ev. Lutheran Church on Tuesday evening was well attended and proved a success in every particular.

On Thursday last the S. O. B. B. C. defeated a nine composed of Lawrence, VanPelt, Mackey, Chamberlain, Burns, Haley, and others, by a score of 18 to 4, in six innings. VanDyke was the mascot catcher for the "Socials."

Memorial Band, of the First Presbyterian Church, will hold a lawn festival on the church grounds next Tuesday afternoon and evening. Strawberries and cream and other refreshments will be served. Admission 10 cents.

W. C. Westlake, M. D., dentist, of this city, has taken charge of the Albany and Troy Dental Association at Troy, N. Y., for the summer. Dr. A. Westlake, assisted by a senior member of the New York College of Dentistry, will attend to his practice in this city.

Rev. Mr. Ruth preached an able sermon last Sunday evening on the fallacy of a doctrine which some persons have been recently promulgating at meetings in this city, to a large congregation. Next Sunday he will preach sermons on special subjects, morning and evening.

The Amaranth Circle, including twenty couples, went in three large stages to Seaside on Tuesday evening and had a very enjoyable time. They arrived there at about 7 o'clock and partook of an excellent supper, after which dancing was indulged in until near 12 o'clock, with music by Prof. Stratemeyer.

Mrs. M. Gulowsen, mother-in-law of Mr. Rummelhoff, of the firm of Rummelhoff & Thruelsen, died suddenly of heart disease about noon on Wednesday, while attending to some household duties. She had been complaining for two or three days and was under the care of a physician, but nothing serious was anticipated.

The following have been elected as the officers of the First Baptist Sunday School for the ensuing year: Superintendent, Mr. Robert H. Kent; Assistant, Mr. Geo. C. Miller; Secretary, Mr. Charles Seaman; Treasurer, Mr. Stewart B. Moffoet; Librarian, Mr. Herbert Hulett; Assistant, Mr. Allie Wilson; Organist, Miss Emma Kent.

The entertainment and strawberry festival given by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. on Tuesday evening, and repeated on Wednesday evening, drew quite good audiences; the refreshments were served up stairs, and the patronage by the friends was as good as expected. The recitations by Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Boughton, Mrs. Gage, and others were very entertaining, and brought forth much applause.

Barker Bradford, the local of the Adocate met with a painful accident one day this week. He was showing his new rifle to an acquaintance when it accidently discharged, one of the bullets taking effect in Mr. B's index finger of the left hand. The wound is but superficial and will not cause much inconvenience but is very painful.

It is very seldom that the "down towners" show themselves in upper Rahway but when they do they are welcomed in a substantial manner. The other evening President or Council B. F. Crovell and Ex-Councilman Silas H. Leonard managed to get up as far as MacAnn's sugar store, where the uptown boys gave them a send off, in good style.

In last week's issue, by some disarrangement of figures, the number of men mustered by each company, were published incorrect. They should have appeared as follows, as reported by the Orderly Sergeant of each company: Co. A., 47; Co. B., 67; Co. C., 49; Co. D., 74; Co. E., 67; Co. F., 50; Co. G., 48, total not including the staff and line officers, 402 men.

The Annual Re-union of the survivors of Ninth Regt. N. J. Vols. will be held in the city of Plainfield, Thursday, June 16th. It is requested that every comrade who possibly can will attend. An interesting report will be made by the Gettysburg Monumdent Committee. It is requested that each comrade write out some incident which came under his observation while in the service, in connection with his company or regiment. The citizens of Plainfield are making every effort to make the re-union the most successful ever held. Maj. Gen. Sickles, the old Corps Commander, and Brig. Gen. Carr, the old Brigade Commander, will be present.

HON. PETZEL—KREIG.—Mr. William Hobliz(?) of this city, was married to Miss Elizabeth Kreig, of Elizabeth, on Thursday evening last. The bride was dressed in cream-white silk, trimmed with lace, and looked very pretty. Rev. Mr. Mellen officiated, and a number of relatives and friends were present. After the ceremony the company sat down to a bountiful supper. Wolf's orchestra was present and gave some good music. The presents were numerous and elegant, including a handsome gold watch and chain, and earrings from groom. The married couple went on a bridal wedding trip and will settle down to housekeeping in the new house recently finished by the groom, on Pierce street.

ANOTHER HIGH-TONED TRAMP.—One of the wanderers from home " called at a house in Sempsey street the other day and very politely requested the lady of the house to be so kind as to give him something to eat. There was soon produced a good plump sandwich, consisting of two full cut slices of bread, well buttered and interlaid with corned beef. After sizing up the article, he graciously asked the lady if she would be so good as to get him a piece of paper that he might wrap the article up for further consideration. The paper was furnished as per request and while in the act of wrapping the sandwich up, he turned his eye up to the lady and patronizingly told if she would make him a cup of nice coffee he did not know but what he might set down right there and then, and partake of it. He was given to understand that it was not coffee time, and he had better get out, and he "got."

SERMON ON LIVING THEMES.

Rev. Mr. Rollinson's third sermon on social subjects was preached last Sunday evening before a large congregation. It was a continuation of the general subject of social wrongs and abuses. The particular themes discussed were monopolies, the taxation of industry, and speculation in and combinations for raising the price of the necessaries of life. More than half the sermon, which occupied nearly an hour and a half, was devoted to the first named topic, the preacher showing by many striking examples the disastrous effects of the great monopolies of the age, among which were the building up of a power practically superior to law, and the concentration of enormous wealth in the hands of a few persons. Mr. Rollinson held that the taxation of industry is virtually a fine laid on thrift, labor and enterprize, and he condemned in strong terms speculative gambling in the food of the people. The remedy for these growing evils, he said, the people hold in their own hands, and it can be made effective whenever they will use the ballot to place men in our legislative halls who can be neither purchased nor intimidated.

Two quite pretty young ladies stopped in this city on Wednesday to see the photograph and clothing of the murdered girl. They called at Police headquarters but could not gain an entrance. They then paid a visit to Stacy the photo-artist who kindly showed them the pictures of the unfortunate woman. They gave their names as Mary Comiskie and Belle Livingston, and said that cash had been supposed to have been the victim of the crime. They had been in company with each other for several months, and were on their way home to Newark from Summerville, S. C. where they had been visiting relatives. While at Stacy's they sat for their pictures. Each one somewhat resembled the murdered girl.

All the boxes which were placed by the Memorial Hall committee for the collection of funds for the erection of the new building have been handed in. The amounts are: From Franklin school, $39.95; from Washington school, $40.73; from Third Ward school, $20.60; from Columbian school, $19.13 together with $5.97 from some outside boxes making a total of $132.88. The scholars receiving the largest amounts as a reward for obtaining the largest amounts are Mamie Schneider of Washington school, $8.20; Sadie Davis, of Columbian school, $5.15; Belle Fowler, of Franklin school, $3.08, and Charles Baker, of the Third Ward school, $1.72. The badges were presented by Mr. M. M. Theise and are on exhibition in his jewelry store window on Cherry street.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Naylor, below mentioned, formerly of this city, sympathize with them in the sad accident referred to:

The young wife of Mr. W. D. Naylor, a clerk in Lemkau's grocery, was quite severely burned by falling on a hot stove at her residence on P street, about 6 o'clock (Friday morning of last week). In falling she apparently became unconscious and a portion of her person was exposed to the heat of the stove until she recovered from the faint, when she was enabled to notify her husband, who was engaged in Mr. Lemkau's, near by. A messenger was despatched for Dr. Thompson, who at once responded and applied the proper remedies for the relief of the sufferer. Upon examination it was found that the left arm was literally roasted, from the tip of the fingers to the shoulder. The right arm was slightly burned, as was also the face, neck, mouth and nose. Dr. Thompson is of the opinion that Mrs. Naylor will not recover fully from the burns inside of three or four months.—Ocean Beach Patrol.

BASE BALL.

THE BUTLER'S WIN ANOTHER VICTORY.

The Butlers played the Actives, of Cranford, on the grounds of the former, on Saturday afternoon. The game opened with the Butlers at the bat. VanPelt struck out; Rich made a scratch hit, and got the run on an error. The Actives were whitewashed in the first three innings, and the Butlers did not score again until the fourth inning, when they made four runs. The Actives scored two in their fourth inning, one being made on an error. The Butlers made five more runs in the fifth inning, while the Actives only made one. The Actives were unable to score again throughout the game, while the Butlers made three runs in the sixth, eight in the seventh, one in the eighth, and one in the ninth inning.

The main features were the battery work of Tiernan and Burns, Tiernan having struck out sixteen men, and Burns always catches good. They make a battery that no club should be ashamed of, while Lawrence's and Barber's playing are right up to the standard. VanPelt also plays good ball, and Haley can play good ball, but it seems that Tom is having hard luck. Lohmiller played first base with only one error and did very good work at the bat, but we missed Billy Downes nevertheless. Rich was lame and could not do much, but when "Jack" is in condition he can generally make the opposing club "hunt leather." Mackey is a good substitute, and very often helps the boys out with entire satisfaction. Brokaw will soon be with them again, and that will help considerable. Schenck, for the visitors (the colored catcher), got hit by a foul ball in the nose, and the pitcher told him he had better go in the field, but the colored fellow said: "Go ahead, and kill me—that's all right;" but he took the field till the inning was played, and the rest of the game he put on his mask and caught. Galaway, as short, made some very pretty stops. Following is the score by innings:

	1st	2d	3d	4th	5th	6th	7th	8th	9th
Butlers.....	1	0	0	4	5	3	8	1	1	—23
Actives.....	0	0	0	3	1	0	0	0	0	—4

Umpire—Geo. White.

The game to be played on the Hamilton street grounds on Saturday next will be between the Butlers and the Eliza beths, and will in all probability be one of the best games played here this season. The Butlers, as has been proven, have a faculty for "finding the ball" on all occasions, and very few, if any, clubs can present as clear a record. Since its organization, one year ago, this club has played seventeen games, which have resulted in one long line of victories, and not a single defeat. These games have been won from all the clubs of any prominence in both this and Middlesex county, with the exception of the club they are to play with on Saturday. The Elizabeths have beaten such clubs as the Summers, of Brooklyn, by a score of 6 to 4, and the Perth Amboys, by 9 to 8, and who say that if the Butlers preserve that clean record, they will have to play ball all they know how.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—Regular monthly meeting Monday evening, June 6. All the commissioners present, with the clerk and superintendent. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Teachers' reports for May read and ordered on file. Communications.—From Mr. C. W. P. Banks tendering his resignation to the teachers' committee was laid over until new business when it was accepted. From County Superintendent Pease, stating the amount of the State appropriation due this city was $7,005.70. Applications from several teachers for re-appointment were received. The pay rolls of the teachers and other employees were ordered paid. The following approved and audited bills were ordered paid: Geo. M. Freece, coal, $7.59; W. E. Clark, taking school census, $65.52; Clayton Hall, supplies, $6.57. The teachers' committee reported that it had accepted the resignation of Mr. Banks, principal of Columbian school, and had appointed Miss Maggie Burdon to fill the vacancy at the same salary as paid to Mr. Banks. The clerk was directed to inform Council by place in the next tax levy the sum of $9,500, in addition to the State appropriation, for the maintenance of the school during the coming year. Mr. Freeman moved that rule 41 relating to the annual examination for certificates be suspended, and the date be changed to the 17th and 18th of this month; also that the schools be closed for the summer vacation on Thursday June 30th. Adopted. Mr. Lindsay said he had learned that Professors Cook (State Geologist) and Gates (President of Rutgers College) were about to offer a scholarship to three boys best qualified to enter the college, from the public schools of this city. A resolution was offered to elect the superintendent and clerk at the regular meeting in July. Adopted. Adjourned.

PRESBYTERIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

The Home Sunday School and the schools of the Six Roads Mission and Grand Street Chapel, all under the protecting wing of the Second Presbyterian Church, held their anniversary in the church on Sunday afternoon last. There was a large attendance, as usual. The music was very fine, the following programme being nicely carried out: Hymn, "Rejoice, Ye Pure in Heart;" Prayer, by the Rev. J. P. McMillan, President of Alexander College, Kentucky; Responsive Reading of the 23d Psalm; Hymn, "Give Thanks to Our Creator;" Reports by the Superintendents of the several schools, showing a scholarship of about 580 children; Hymn, "The Children's Day;" Addresses by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Liggat, and Rev. J. P. McMillan; Hymn, "There's a Song in Our Hearts We Would Sing;" Presenting the rewards for perfection in the catechism by the superintendents, preluded by words of commendation by the pastor; Hymn, "Under the Banner of Jesus To-day;" Doxology; Benediction, by the Rev. J. P. McMillan.

The scholars who received rewards for committing to memory the "Shorter Catechism," were: Charlotte C. Mooney, Sadie C. Waters, Jennie Birkett, Edith P. Brewster, Charles A. Bliven, Lena A. Stoll, Henry C. Bliven, Florence M. Brown, Lizzie Drumpelmann, Mary L. Schuppman, and Edith B. Cook of the Home S. S., and Annie Ramsin and Phœbe Wilson of the Grand Street Chapel S. S. These rewards consisted of handsome bibles. The scholars receiving testaments for committing to memory the "Introduction to the Shorter Catechism," were: Helen C. Bonney, Helen A. Lindsay, Charles C. Coddington, James R. Housman, Julia P. Appleby, Charlie L. Dunn, Margaret C. Thomas, Harry Gordon, and Scott F. Mooney of the Home S. S., and Maud VanOstwick, and Sophie Dreeger of the Grand Street Chapel. Each book will have the name of the scholar imprinted on the outside of the cover.

THE SAVINGS BANK ASSETS.—The following is a complete list of the assets of the old Savings Bank:

Water Bonds.....	$181,000 00
Interest due on same to June 4, 1887.	73,714 47
U. S. Bonds, par value.....	5,000 00
C. H. Jackson, mortgage.....	2,500 00
John Smith, mortgage.....	2,000 00
Banking House.....	30,000 00
Paid Bonds property (cost).....	2,311 07
Building lots, Broad and Fulton, (cost).	1,676 47
Pottery Property, on river (cost).....	3,183 90
Wood Works, (cost).....	13,031 53
Cash (including $4,029.22 of city warrants, drawing 6 per cent. taken from Water Board and for rent).....	5,673 91
	$311,100 25
Deduct compromise on interest.....	48,564 26
	$262,535 99

We deduct above the 65 per cent. which would be the result of compromising the deficiency of interest, at 85 per cent. and still, there is left, over the $224,000 due the depositors on principal, nearly $40,000. The shrinkage on the real estate and mortgages certainly would not be as much as that. All depositors we have spoken to say they would gladly take the water bonds at the face value and four per cent. interest for whatever may be due them, if the bonds could be cut up in such a way as to admit of it, which, can no doubt be done, to the advantage of the depositors, and the city, and a great relief to the bank managers, certainly.

Dr. Silvers, the chairman of the committee of the Savings Bank depositors has received notification from Chancellor McGill, that the committee will be heard before him, in Newark, instead of Jersey City, on Monday, the 13th, and requested him to notify all parties to that effect.

At a special meeting of Franklin Engine Company, No. 4, held on Wednesday evening, Assistant Engineer Frederick Franck was presented with a fine new fire hat and belt. The presentation was made by Mr. Michael Mellon. The hat and belt will be on exhibition in Mellon's drug store window for a few days.

LETTER FROM BELFAST.

We are permitted to extract the following from a letter dated at Belfast, May, 22d, from Dr. F. W. Oliver: Arrived here yesterday, after one of the most delightful journeys I have ever experienced. Have not had a stormy day since I left home. The country around Cork, and the Lakes of Killarney defy all description. All Ireland is like one vast Park. The roads are all macadamized. The fields are green with grain, and flowers line the roads and by-ways. There is an air of peace, happiness and contentment wherever you go. Of course I have seen some poverty and misery too, but no more than we often see even at home. Whiskey is the curse of the poor Irishman. Cork is a busy place. Dublin is the Queen City of Ireland—with clean, wide streets, stately stores and marble buildings which reminds one of "down town" in New York. I saw the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in company with Prince Bismark, while I was in Dublin the other day. They passed in an open carriage drawn by four horses and preceded by two mounted officers in cavalry uniform. Belfast is a neat, clean city, and has many elegant buildings. I was met at the depot upon my arrival by Mrs. Geo. W. Savage, wife of our U. S. Consul here. We took several drives about the city. This morning we attended service and after lunch we walked through a large park not far from the residence of Consul Savage. The park is called "The Botanic Gardens." To-morrow I will visit the scene of an old castle and at night sail for Glasgow, Scotland. They call drug stores here, "Medical Halls." I saw a colored man last night, he is a great curiosity, and is said to be the only one in Ireland. Pumpkins, corn and tobacco do not grow here. You can imagine my surprise when I saw a pumpkin growing in a green house and of which the greatest care was taken, and people coming for miles to look at it. The horse cars here are two stories high with stairs from the front and rear platforms. The fare is one penny a mile, for every mile you wish to ride. I am getting English money down fine and am able to make my change with great ease and correctness.

I cannot imagine of any country more attractive or beautiful than the section I have passed through. I have seen more style, wealth and display here than anywhere. The funniest thing is an Irish Jaunting Car. It holds four besides the driver. You sit side-ways and directly over the wheels as seen in the pen sketch I send you. Saw the NATIONAL DEMOCRAT for the first time since I left home, yesterday. Shall be in London about the 20th, and shall be able to start for home by July 1st. Will write again from London or Paris.

ASTONISHING SUCCESS.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 30,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sam le bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. nov5-1y.

When all the blood in a man's body is filled with poisonous germs taken into the system through the lungs and stomach, he suffers from malaria. How this poison affects all the organs, and how it is expelled by Kaskine, the new quinine, which alone destroys the germs, is shown by the human model, or manikin, exhibited at Dr. F. W. Oliver's drug store, Rahway. We have seldom seen anything half so interesting and instructive.

For a time my life was despaired of. My trouble was with the Kidneys, Liver, and Bladder—also Constipation. Finally I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, and in my opinion it saved my life.
