Want ouster

Incumbent

Board of Education member James Risoli this week became the third and possibly last candidate to announce his intentions in the upcoming election. Risoli is seeking a second term.

Perserverance and a little acrobatic work by local volunteers like the one below made possible the completion of the roof this week of the Belleville Senior Citizens building at Franklin and Mill Streets. Mostly inside work remains on the project.

Coach's behavior comes under fire

By PAUL STERN

A season of discontent, strained emotions and conflicts of opinion on the Belleville High School football field came to a head last Monday when a group of irate fans, parents and players asked the Board of Education not to rehire head football coach Thomas Testa for next fall.

Speaking for a group of approximately 20 parents and players, former resident Anthony Pratola charged Testa with "irrational...irresponsible...and egotistical" behavior, unbefitting his position as a teacher and coach.

Despite objections by some Board members that the group's attack was "a kangaroo court," Pratola, who is currently vice president of the South River Board of Education, enumerated a list of "totally objective and substantiated" grievances that were, he said, cause for Testa's dismissal.

On that list of grievances were charges that Testa destroyed team morale by cutting seniors, belittled injured players, intimidated others, and generally showed "no respect to parents, players or anyone else."

In one instance, said Pratola, Testa called one of his players "an S.O.B.," and in another was reported to have failed to supply photographs one player needed for a scholarship potentially worth $20,000. Testa also belittled a player, said the group spokesman, for an injury that later required surgery.

While the Board members promised they would schedule a full hearing of the "nitty gritty" complaints next month, for the most part they remained silent, asking few questions of the parents and players as they added their remarks to Pratola's. The Board was aware of the dissatisfaction prior to the meeting, said president Matthew Pica, adding that Testa, parents, players, Board members and director of athletics Herman Wische would all be brought together for a discussion prior to rehiring.

Earlier in the proceedings, as individual players stood to express their dissatisfaction with the coach, Board members G. Fred Burlazzi and Mrs. Viola Spray voiced concern over what Mrs. Spray termed "a kangaroo court." "It's not right," she said, "to have children condemning their coach without him here." Burlazzi commended the students, all of them seniors, for their courage, but said the group's approach to the situation was "poor." "It won't do the system any good," he said, and recommended a private session.

Of the players at the meeting, two were among those cut from the team early in last year's grid season. "Most of the juniors don't like him," noted James Mauncele (Pratola's brother-in-law), "but they're afraid to talk out."

At other portions of the group's

Incumbent announces

Incumbent School Board member James Risoli this week became the third and possibly last candidate to announce his bid for the upcoming annual Board of Education election.

Risoli, a staff assistant for the Public Service Electric and Gas Company, is seeking a second term on the Board, vying for one of two open seats with challengers Michael Chieffo and Rocco Constantino.

Though the deadline for filing nominating petitions with the School Board is today at 4 p.m., according to Board secretary-business administrator Mrs. Mary Shader, no one other than the three announced candidates has even requested a petition to fill out. Petitions require ten signatures and are available at Mrs. Shader's office. Should no other candidates file by today, the field would be the smallest since 1973 when only three candidates lasted out the campaign.

Risoli, who finished second in the 1972 election, is the only incumbent seeking reelection this year. Board member G. Fred Burlazzi, whose term also expires next month, has said he will not seek reelection.

As an incumbent, said Risoli this week, his approach to the campaign will be, by necessity, different from that of the challengers. "When you're an incumbent," he pointed out, "it's different. You run on your record."

The betterment of communication throughout the school system has been one of Risoli's prime concerns during his tenure, he said, and he is presently in support of improving the system's physical facilities. Belleville's school buildings are in "a deplorable state," he said, adding that he is behind a complete renovation.

Noting that his position on improving the present school facilities might cause some voters to view him as "a spender," Risoli added that he holds a "deep interest" in protecting the taxpayer.

Despite the fact that Belleville has the lowest per pupil expenditure rate in

Officials pondering C&IDC nominees

Belleville's town commissioners are now in the process of selecting possible appointments to the recently established Commercial and Industrial Development Committee, Mayor Joseph McGreevy said last Tuesday.

Monday, the Times/News learned, the Mayor sent word to the Commissioners requesting they choose their nominees for the five open positions of the nine-member body, and appointments will be made following approval of all nominees.

Meanwhile, the Belleville Economic Development Council, comprised of a number of private citizens, said it has asked the Mayor to appoint it as "an official town body which will work in cooperation with the Town-created panel.

According to Steven Rogers, chairman of the unofficial group, the Economic Development Council has also requested Chamber of Commerce president Stanley Slavin to meet with it for the purpose of "negotiating an agreement which would create an atmosphere of cooperation" among all groups concerned for Belleville's economic welfare.

During the EDC's formation late last year — it was then named the Belleville Business and Industry Commission — Slavin had made clear the Chamber's intention to act solely through the official

Vandals spur action

By CHUCK JACKSON

School officials are taking a hard look at building security and methods of property protection following break-ins last weekend at two Belleville schools.

The Senior High School athletic equipment rooms were broken into Saturday night, and athletic supplies valued at over $500 were taken. The previous night, someone entered School Number Seven and extensively vandalized the first floor, police and school officials said.

News of the break-ins brought angry comment from Matthew Pica, president of the Belleville Board of Education, who questioned the efficiency of police patrols in the area.

There were no signs of a forced entry at the high school, and police and school officials say they do not know how the thieves entered the building. Padlocks on the equipment room doors appeared to have been pried and broken off. Various

Locals again press Board to resolve Greco question

A group of residents intent on keeping Anthony Greco as superintendent of Belleville schools again last Monday pressed the Board of Education for a decision on the controversial matter.

Saying he was afraid the Board's decision would become "political" if delayed until after the March School Board election, Chris Albanese, one member of the citizen's group, urged the Board to act immediately on Greco's recent letter asking the Board to rescind his resignation.

The Board, however, is still considering the matter in caucus sessions, said president Matthew Pica, adding that "I don't think this is an item you want us to just rush through."

The Board was scheduled to again discuss the situation in private Monday night, said Pica, who also promised to notify Albanese and his group of the Board's decision prior to taking public action on it.

After the meeting, Albanese said he suggests the Board prove that if Greco had not resigned he would still be superintendent. "Failure to do so," he said, "will infer that there must be some motivation on the part of certain members to dismiss him."

Pica admitted to the Times/News that there are some members of the Board who would prefer not to keep Greco on. That's why the Board is still discussing Greco's resignation in private, he said.

Constantino blasts court on latest school decision

Belleville Board of Education candidate Rocco L. Constantino this week called the decision by the State Supreme Court to give the legislature an additional year to produce an equitable school funding system a "step backwards."

"In effect," Constantino said, "the Court reversed its own earlier decision which mandated a change by January 1, 1975." He called the recent action a "judicial somersault," and expressed reservations that the legislature would act this year.

Constantino noted that "elections for the state legislature are to be held in November," and cited its inability to act equitably within the previous deadline as proof that action this year would not be forthcoming.

"Under a plan proposed by Governor Byrne," said

Constantino, "Belleville would have received an additional $300 thousand this year in state aid." He called the Byrne formula "evidence that Belleville is being short-changed with the current formula. The result is a heavier burden on Belleville's taxpayers," he added. "In the meantime," Constantino continued, "school districts which are receiving more than their fair share will continue to do so and thus benefit by the unequal program."

If elected to the Board, said the candidate, he would "exert strong efforts with the state legislative branch to press for immediate and positive action."

Stolen goods recovered in local shop

Philip DeAngelis, 59, owner of the Bell Coin Shop, 194 Washington Avenue, is free on $500 bail following his arrest on charges of receiving and possessing stolen goods, police said.

According to Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight, a search of the suspect's store last Tuesday turned up $3,000 in jewelry and silverware taken from a Maplewood home on Monday. The search was conducted after Maplewood police obtained a search warrant for the premises, based on information supplied them by one of the suspects in the burglary.

Two Newark men, reported to be John Cataldo, 23, of 800 Ridge Street and Richard Marion, 31, of 901 Lake Street, are charged with breaking into the home of Mario Genoa, 85 Oakland Road, Maplewood, and making off with $14,000 in jewelry, silverware and bonds.

Deputy Chief Haight reported that Belleville police recovered $9,000 in U.S. Savings bonds from a sewer at the corner of Belleville and Franklin Avenues after Maplewood police informed them of the location.

DeAngelis is scheduled for a court appearance on the charges February 2.

City Federal reports growth in '74 assets

Assets of City Federal Savings and Loan Association increased $131,632,000 during 1974 representing a 16.8% increase over the previous year. Total assets for the 47 office institution reached $913,578,000 as of December 31, 1974.

Playhouse to hold casting for musical

Two audition sessions for parts in the up-coming Family Playhouse production of "The Sound of Music" will be held next week for local residents, director Ray Napolitano has announced.

February 5 at 6 p.m. has been scheduled for try-outs for all children's parts; and adults may audition February 6, at 7 p.m., for the major roles. Auditions will be held at the theater on 28 Brookline Avenue, Nutley.

"The Sound of Music," said Napolitano, is slated to open April 4, and will run for two or three weekends.

Anyone interested in helping the theater in a non-acting capacity may attend a meeting February 1, 2 p.m. at the Family Playhouse. Napolitano will be setting up committees to handle costumes, set design and construction, programs, music and make-up.

Chieffo is concerned about economic slump

Michael Chieffo, first announced candidate for the Belleville Board of Education, this week gave additional insight into his platform and the type of campaign he will be running.

He is concerned he said, about the "inflation, stagflation, recession" the nation is going through, and how Belleville and its school system will be able to cope with it. And he is concerned about the psychological and philosophical effects that such an economic slowdown can have on the people of the town, on the students, and on the directions local education will take.

"Due to the economic uncertainties we are now experiencing," he said, "costs must be carefully monitored. There may even come a time, although none of us really wants to believe it, when things must be pared from future budgets." But he also sees the pitfalls of such a low-level economic climate, and the need to maintain and intensify the quality of education offered to Belleville's young despite possible "hard times."

"Under such circumstances a careful choice of the priorities must be made," he explained, "and it must be a choice that is responsive to the needs and desires of the community." But most important, he feels, "is to guard against simply accepting the inevitability of a less ambitious level of operation." Instead, he said, "we must find new and creative ways to fight against and overcome our current fiscal doldrums."

Besides a stand for prudent money management to get the most mileage out of the Belleville tax dollar, (without shortchanging the school children in anyway) Chieffo is most interested in seeing to it that "the student who graduates from the Belleville school system does not find himself ill-equipped to take a productive role in our society."

With unemployment figures rising at a rapid rate, and experts predicting a situation unknown since the Depression of the 1930's, "it is important to realize," Chieffo points out, "that it is not because there are no jobs available. While certain M.A.'s and M.B.A.'s and Ph.D.'s are finding it increasingly difficult to gain employment, many employment opportunities are also going begging. Rewarding careers in law enforcement, paramedical work, nursing, and a wealth of areas requiring manual skills are available even now — and there are too few applicants to fill the gaps."

"We should make sure that the students in our school system are exposed to the significance and fulfillment of knowing a trade, and knowing it well, in addition to academics. Our local distributive education program should be sufficiently expanded so that every young man and woman is aware of the opportunities and alternatives available. A college education is not necessarily for everyone, nor is it necessary for everyone. A balance program of educational opportunities is important."

Of course, said Chieffo, it is not the business of a board member to formulate curricula — "that's for the professionals, the experts — but it is the business of a Board of Education to show foresight in making sure that as many options as possible are available to the school-children that the board serves."

Finally, the attitudes of the young people and the citizenry of the town is as important as the fiscal and educational climate, Chieffo said. "As the Bicentennial approaches," he explained, "we have a perfect chance to re-examine the basic tenets on which the American way of life has been formulated, through which the American way of life has been formulated, through which American government operates. Perhaps some cooperative Bicentennial-type effort of project, involving both the general community and the school system, can help us to get back to the basic principles that brought about the birth of this nation, this democracy, this new concept in living, an experiment in government unknown to the world before 1775. Perhaps through such a project we can reawaken the attitudes and the energy of our forefathers, and pioneer a new frontier born of a new kind of individualism and a new kind of motivation that will lead us out of our current crises."

"It would at least be nice to think that we can help our young toward this goal now, through new attitudes of leadership and a responsible educational system in this town."

Let's do some undoing

To paraphrase the oft quoted section of Ecclesiastes, to everything there is a time to do and a time to undo. And as this biblical wisdom applies to the entrance to Branch Brook Park on Franklin Avenue near Belmont, the Times/News thinks it's time to do a little undoing.

Last week, Belleville's leaders again pressed the county to move the present park entrance south on Franklin Avenue a short distance to the traffic light at Belmont Avenue next to Clara Maass Hospital. As it exists now, Mayor Joseph McGreevy rightly points out, the park entrance in front of the Andrew Jergens plant is exceedingly dangerous. Anyone who has ever tried to use that short piece of roadway, particularly in leaving the park to head south on Franklin Avenue, would undoubtedly agree wholeheartedly with the Mayor.

Cars zipping along Franklin, especially downhill from the north, are hard pressed to stop when someone pulls out of the park in a left hand turn. Cars headed north see cars entering the road only at the last minute. The situation is compounded by a sharp bend in the road and a small hill to the south of the intersection.

Our only quarrel with the alternate plan, besides the fact that it would cost taxpayer money, is that it seems unnecessary.

The whole park entrance, come to think of it, seems unnecessary.

Let's face it. Cars using the park entrance are mostly trying to avoid the traffic light at Franklin Avenue and Mill Street, about 200 yards north. Mill Street, despite the atrocious condition of the road surface, serves as a main artery, for trucks and cars, through the park. Park Drive brings southbound traffic to almost the same place as would Franklin Avenue southbound.

If Branch Brook Park is a park, why not use it as one, instead of a scenic thoroughfare? To our way of thinking, the best thing to do would be to simply close the dangerous park entrance, rip up the blacktop, sod the whole thing except for a walkway or bicycle path, and forget about it.

Motorists who want to cross the park only have to drive one extra block from Belmont to Mill Street, where they can also enter the park. Southbound traffic can use Franklin Avenue.

Pedestrian and cycling park users may use the new entrance in peace, and Belleville is rid of one threat to life and limb. It would only cost the county the wages of three men with jackhammers, some top soil and sod.

Let's undo it.

I didn't need this

Motorists be on guard for a ruthless, scoundrelous band of juvenile Belleville scamps who are plaguing unwary car owners and the local police juvenile authorities with a senseless rash of auto thefts which result not only in inconvenience, but, costly losses to the car owners.

It is a shocking, heart rending experience, especially, after having under gone the harrowing tensions of one's operations which shortly followed surgery on his wife a few short months ago, to arise during convalescence, at home, and observe from the window that the car is gone. In view of all the other misfortunes illness offers with attendant expenses and loss of pay earnings due to inability to work pending recovery, this becomes the "knock-out" blow.

The efficiency and cooperation of the police departments of both Belleville and Harrison, where the car was later recovered, should be noted and is fully appreciated. Unfortunately, their hands are somewhat "tied" by the "kid-glove" treatment too softly meted out to these kids who because of the workings of "do-gooders" are accorded "soft" punitive sentences by juvenile judges who might do better were they to apply the whip and save the child, rather than "slap their wv" and tell them not to do it again.

Even getting the car back becomes, a saddening, traumatic "headache" since the "car thieves" aren't satisfied with their wild jaunt in a stolen car, but either "brutally" dismantle or otherwise damage the vehicle or "sell" it for a pittance to some garage mechanic "fagan" who "cannibalizes" it for parts otherwise, difficult to obtain. Most stolen cars are of the older vintage, since those later than 1970 have locking steering apparatus which deters easy theft.

Now comes the "kick-in-the pants" that really hurts. Your reliable metal means of transportation needed to get to work at four in the morning which you had pampered and kept in the best mechanical condition at considerable expense, a car you wouldn't part with for $500, despite the fact its a 1963 model, is judged by some insurance companies to be written off as a complete loss and you are piqued and stunned with the shocking notification your insurance, you thought meant what it implied when it said comprehensive, is not what you thought it to be because the insurance carriers have come up with a "gimmick" called "bookvalue" which they knock you for a loop saying on a take it or leave it basis" we'll give you a hundred bucks. That's it with which goes "down the drain" your fond hopes you might, at least, get your "cream-puff" restored to some semblance of its former good shape and respectability. The police do an excellent job all around and your insurance, you sadly may learn has not been placed in the capable hands you had hoped would be more sympathetic and understanding.

State Insurance Commission regulations should be amended to overcome this injustice. Insurance coverage should provide, by legal mandate, that the automobile be restored to its comparable condition at the time of theft or replaced by a car of comparable value by the insurance carriers who are allowed to do business in this state, then these inequities, which happen all too often, would be averted.

Perhaps someday when these devilish kids grow up, although it is doubtful, they will then realize the execrable pang of metal suffering and unnecessary expense they have unwittingly inflicted upon innocent victims of their wild, thoughtless escapades. With all the troubles coming in bunches, aloa damn sure could have done without this.....I DIDN'T NEED THAT.

President Ford's fiscal energy program

President Gerald Ford is trying to push through a program designed to raise taxes, refund income taxes, and reduce the consumption of fuel.

Ford's program has some good points and some very bad ones. The income tax refund is bad. It helps the poor the least. Reducing the use of fuel by increasing the price of gas at the pump is not the way to serve the public interest. The Democrats in the Congress are divided among themselves as to what program can best meet our fiscal-energy problems.

So where we go from here — is anybody's guess. The undersigned believes Ford may score most of his points — and in the process retard the progress of the average American.

Vets must wait

As a result of inaction by the Department of Institutions and Agencies, more than 250 eligible disabled New Jersey veterans are still waiting to be admitted to the Soldier's Homes at Menlo Park and Vineland. This fact was brought to light today by James H. Hall, State Commander of The American Legion. In making the announcement publicly Commander Hall also mentioned that a resolution urging the State to make funds available to cover the operational needs of the two new homes was recently sent to Governor Brendan T. Byrne, Department of Institutions and Agencies Commissioner Ann Klein, all members of the State Legislature and the New Jersey Veterans Affairs Council.

"Each of these homes — built at a combined cost of almost $3,000,000 — Commander Hall stated, "has a spanking new building, already completed, containing a total of 200 beds which stand empty, while ill, aged and infirmed veterans, now eligible for admission, wait for the facilities to be staffed so that the doors may be opened. The tragedy here is that the delays in opening are not caused by the lack of financial support for staffing as the legislature has already appropriated sufficient funds for the hiring of necessary personnel.

Grateful for Clara Maass staff

To the Editor:

Recently I was admitted to Clara Maass Hospital. I want to take this opportunity to thank each and everyone of the staff assigned to the Intensive Care Ward for their excellent care and attention they gave me.

If it were not for their wonderful teamwork and cooperation, I am sure I would not be here today thanking them.

They truly deserve our highest praise and compliments for their outstanding skills put to use. Thank you.

Policy's policy

To the Editor:

How come if it's your "policy" to "withhold from publication, upon request, the names and addresses of letter writers" you haven't to this day withheld one name?

How's that for "forthright public comment?"

address, parents reported hearing that Testa had caused seven Montclair State College players to leave that school's team while he was coaching there two seasons ago. Considering the "multiplicity of talent" Testa had available during his former stint as Belleville head coach, "his record is horrendous," said Pratola.

Testa this past season achieved a 5-4 record, the first winning season for Belleville in four years. In spite of that, said the spokesman, the coach's record against the better teams of the league has historically been poor.

Pratola also charged that the number of Belleville football players who eventually received football scholarships to college was lower than should be. He called Testa "an irrational individual" an "egotistical individual," and, sarcastically, "this paragon of virtue."

"He has not changed one iota," said Pratola, "since his first job here."

FLIGHT 897

To Florida on 60 cents

ALIZA AZIKRI

With 60 cents in your pocket would you dare go to Florida? Well I did. After checking in at the Newark Airport I discovered my wallet was home and all I had in my pocket was 60 cents. So aboard Eastern's Flight 745 I went. I had the pleasure of sitting next to a senior citizen, Mrs. Anna Marge from Union, New Jersey who was on her way to Florida to visit her sister-in-law. Mrs. Marge was a very delightful person — and we both came to the conclusion that the cabin crew serving us was one of the worst — except for one little stewardess, Amy Starr. The others were for the birds. If you're riding Eastern we can tell you who not to fly with — senior stewardess Gerri Rafferty and her assistant Carole Davis. We hung up our own coats and stored away our carry-on luggage — an unusual experience. Even to the removal of a food tray, Mrs. Marge had trouble getting a stewardess to do the job.

The ride back on Eastern Flight 740 was a different story — a beautiful experience. The joy of flying was with a cabin crew consisting of senior Gayle Kocak, her able first assistant Sylvia Toro, baby-face Susie Frisco, chief cook and bottle washers Maria Ekstowicz, Dianne Kinlock nee Grier, Ruth Seemann and Lula Smith, and it was on a jumbo jet LC-1011 that these girls performed like superstars. Mark these names down if you're flying Eastern and you're looking for A-1 service. And by the way, add to your "good guy" list two more Eastern personnel who service the Newark Airport check-in counter — Leigh Havanic and Jean Lattanzio, very efficient employees who do a good public relations job for Eastern Airlines.

For the first time in all my flying did I see the following signs light up simultaneously, the incident occurred on Eastern's super jet Flight 740, "Fasten Seat Belts-Lavatories Occupied."

Jimmie Podius, one of New York's prominent restaurateurs, is very heady over the success of his new Israeli supper club restaurant, Sabra East at 232 East 43rd Street. Opening night for his all-Israeli floor show was Monday, January 27, starring Israel's most popular singer-entertainer Aliza Azikri. Aliza was featured in the M.G.M. production of "Kazablan" and last year was voted one of the ten most beautiful women in Israel. The 29-year old, beautiful, brunette is a very dynamic performer. The comedian of the show is Hanan Glodblatt, star of the Israeli Broadway production "To Live Another Summer." The musical director of the Sabra East orchestra is David Krivoshei who composed "I Dream of Neomi" which won the first prize in the International Song Festival of Japan and sold over one million copies. Anyone who has a hankering for Israeli lifestyle, songs, comedy and food is advised to take in the Sabra East whose management includes Rabbi Solomon Shapiro.

THE STATE WE'RE IN

'Belt-tightening' chokes ecology

By DAVID F. MOORE

It's about time we begin to wonder seriously where the Byrne administration's true intentions about the environment of this state we're in, and whether mere lip service is being paid to environmental basics by Trenton.

The latest news is that 14 grants to municipal environmental commissions have been "Deferred" by the Department of Environmental Protection, even those which have been approved by the Department and whose hapless recipients have already committed their towns to expenditures. Of a maximum $2,500, the grants must be matched by local sources, so some towns are faced with obligations they can't meet.

Notification letters to the 14 went out last Dec. 11, stating that due to the current state fiscal crisis Governor Byrne and State Treasurer Leone had ordered in November that all state departments "defer or suspend actions which involve new expenditures."

The 14 towns learned in the same Department of Environmental Protection letter that the deferrals and suspensions will remain in effect "at least" through February, when "a reassessment of the state's fiscal condition can be made."

Now I know that things are getting rough and belts must be tightened, but isn't it a bit much for the DEP to renege on its commitments? All grant applications were carefully screened as to merit, and they generally cover consultant fees for various kinds of surveys in support of improved master plans, zoning codes, open space conservation and the like. None of them are trivial.

Mayor Henry R. Cioffi of Long Branch, one of the 14 municipalities caught short by DEP's doubtful action on grants, called for support of "our efforts to insure that the state honors its contractual commitment to the city." Long Branch matched the state's promised $2,500 to finance a study necessary to preservation of the Takanassee Lake Watershed there — a regional project also affecting Ocean Township, West Long Branch and Eatonton.

The Long Branch chief administrative officer, Vincent J. Mazza, puts it this way: "Needless to say we were shocked. We have reached a point of "no return" in our project in that we have awarded a contract to a consultant firm to conduct the project as a result of the state's prior commitment to provide the funds."

Others can decide whether DEP acted with full legality in this action. What I'm more concerned about is this: Do we still have a Department of Environmental Protection committed to advocating the protection of our environment?

What's more, the grants have added considerably to the strength of environmental commissions, which in turn can assist DEP as an extension of its reach. Such an extension can help DEP meet its backlog of problems if the operation is properly orchestrated, doing a better job with the money available.

RECORD REVIEW

A new Dylan: a new album

By ANTHONY BUCCINO

In four years Bob Dylan seemed to lose his charm and flavor. He struck out on tangents for too short a time leaving his songs as weak as castles in the sand.

Then along comes "Blood On The Tracks" to prove that Bob Dylan is just as brilliant as he ever was. It is an album with enough zest and intrigue to let his fans say, "Okay, Bob, we'll forget the last four disasters."

On this album is the magic of the mystic. The lonesome hobo singing songs to melt your heart and ease your troubled mind. It has the sweet country taste of "Nashville Skyline" and "John Wesley Harding."

The first track, "Tangled Up In Blue," is a bouncy ballad of a rambling roving lover. It's the story-telling Dylan of the early sixties once again. The genius is back! In "Simple Twist Of Fate," Dylan sings in a mature Od McKuen rasp whispering a secret in a song.

"You're A Big Girl Now" is full of clear country pictures. It has four too many "I dropped a bowling ball on my foot" yells. Here is a pleading love song with mature "Big Girl" lyrics.

Paranoia has been evidenced in some of Dylan's earlier songs (e.g. "Positively Fourth Street"). It is evidenced here in "Idiot Wind," a song about what it's like to be a star. Sounding like a left-over from "Planet Waves" (ugh!), "Idiot Winds" is my least favorite cut.

"You're Gonna Make Me Lonesome When You Go" is a fast rolling bitter-sweet prophecy of poetic imagery.

"Meet Me In The Morning" is a walking blues song with that familiar incoherent nasal twang of Dylan. This is one cut worth passing over.

Eric Weissberg and Deliverance are most noticeable on "Lily, Rosemary And The Jack Of Hearts," a fun hoe-down song about gambling and dance hall gals in the old west. Slowly the plot unfolds in this ballad not to be confused with Lily Of The West (her name was Laura.)

One might expect another "Girl From The North Country" in "If You See Her, Say Hello." If you do you're in for a surprise. Dylan's sadness brings out the beauty of this song. His feelings are real.

The best song from Bob Dylan in four years is the lively poem of whispered words called "Shelter From The Storm."

"Buckets Of Rain" ends the album with its gentle sweet music and jelly sandwich lyrics. It's pleasant enough to make me start the record over again.

"Blood On The Tracks" is surely for any Dylan fan worth Bringing It All Home to.

body created by the Town. The Mayor was not available for comment on the EDC's recent request, but Rogers speculated McGreevy would not move to make official the EDC. As an alternative, the unofficial body may ask the Mayor to agree to the appointment of a "neutral" liaison who would help the two bodies avoid duplication of effort. Slavin and other members of the Belleville business community, however, have been reported as skeptical that duplication of efforts could be avoided under any circumstances.

At a meeting January 15, the Economic Council voted unanimously to recommend the construction of a three-level parking tier on the lot adjacent to Town Hall.

He's a banker and likes it

When children are asked what they want to be when they grow up, they frequently come up with professions that seem romantic at the time, like a policeman or a fireman, or in days gone by, a cowboy. When he was growing up, Robert M. Williams told his parents he wanted to be a Greyhound bus driver. He didn't make it. Instead he became president of the DeWitt Savings and Loan in Belleville.

Williams was just recently re-elected as president for the sixth time, and it appears that he is farther away than ever from fulfilling his boyhood dream. He has never regretted it, though, and he finds banking a highly satisfying career.

"There's a tremendous amount of satisfaction in being able to help somebody with their problems. If you can straighten out a financial difficulty somebody has been living with for years, you really feel like you have done something."

Williams was born and raised in neighboring Bloomfield, and it was there that he developed his "love affair" with buses. "I used to stand on Bloomfield Avenue and watch the buses as they went by heading for Pennsylvania. I told my parents that my ambition was to drive a Greyhound, and they never discouraged me."

When he graduated from Bloomfield High School in 1947 at the age of 16, he decided he wanted to see some of the country. So, he boarded (what else?) a Greyhound bus and headed for Oregon. He was gone about three months, stopping along the way to work and spend some time in different parts of the land. The highlight of the trip probably occurred in Oswego, Oregon where, working as a busboy in a restaurant, he set the table for presidential hopeful Thomas E. Dewey. It was a big moment in the life of a 16-year-old boy.

Williams spent two years in the Army, from 1951-53. He was a member of the Army Medical Corps, and served as an operating room technician at the 98th General Hospital in Germany. Since getting out of the Army, Williams has remained associated with the field of medicine, serving on the Verona Ambulance Corps. He puts in 24 hours a week with the group, and finds it highly rewarding.

"Working with an ambulance corps has to be the most satisfying job in the world. When you know that you helped get a child to the hospital in time to save its life, you have got to feel great."

Williams is also involved with several other organizations. He is president of the Belleville Lion's Club, a director of the Chamber of Commerce, and a member of both the Belleville Masonic Lodge, and a member of the Belleville Craftsman's Club. He is also first vice chairman of the Essex County League.

He lives in Verona with his wife, Wilma and their two children, Gregory, 17 and Karen 15.

SEEMS ONLY YESTERDAY

Teacher strike is averted

By PETER CLARK

One year ago

An unexpected Sunday meeting brought Belleville teachers and the Board of Education together after avoiding a job action threatened by Belleville teachers almost a week ago to step up contract negotiations with the Board of Education.

Members of the Belleville Education Association who voted to stage the action would have entered and left the school with the bell schedule and would have performed only their teaching assignments, with no non-contractual duties.

An agreement was reached, however, to call off the action and go to the bargaining table after a meeting was requested by Board President Lawrence Schwartz.

Mrs. Norma McCool, announcing that she would not seek reelection to a fifth term on the Board of Education a month previously, closed the door on a 12-year term, in which she fought for and gained many improvements in the Belleville School system, and in which she fulfilled a pledge to a deceased teenaged daughter's request for her mother to continue working on her many projects.

Throughout years, McCool's years on the Board she was instrumental in bringing about the reconstruction of gyms of two Belleville schools, thus ridding them of safety hazards, and in the construction of a new high school.

With work at a standstill because a wage settlement had not been reached with 150 non-uniformed town employees in addition to the state of disruption brought about by faulty computers, the Department of Revenue and Finance, Town Treasurer Francis McCoy announced that no calculations were as yet made for the 1974 municipal budget.

Attorneys for Essex County Number One of the New Jersey Civil Service Association were scheduled to respond to the commission's only answer to the Belleville unit's salary requests and 15 non-wage demands. A few weeks before, the Board of Commissioners agreed to grant a $500 across-the-board increase over the next two years to each of the 150 association members on the Town Hall payroll.

Ten years after having performed duties as Editor of the Belleville Times School Page, Marlie James, former town resident, had her first book published. The non-fiction book, entitled, "The People's Lawyers," marked a 10 year climb up the ranks of the nation's free lance writers, for the now married Mrs. Marlie La Duke, who was making her new home in Reno, Nevada.

For the sixth year in a row, Belleville's churches celebrated a "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity," a series which included churches and clergymen from most Christian houses of worship in town.

The services were held at the Belleville Reformed Church followed by a fellowship in the church hall.

Five years ago

U.S. Attorney Frederick Lacey's much-publicized probe into organized crime reached into Belleville and indicted Joseph Biancardi, a teamsters official and former State Assemblyman. Lacey also ordered grand jury appearances for Mayor Ken Smith and Anthony "Jack Panels" Santoli, also of Belleville.

Biancardi, who was negotiating a labor contract in Nutley's town hall when he learned of the indictment, was scheduled to be arraigned on embezzlement and conspiracy charges. He was later cleared of all charges.

Mayor Smith, who stated that he had been called to answer questions concerning Belleville residents, had not been called. Panels, referred to frequently in the "DeCarolo tapes" and alleged to be a close friend of reputed Syndicate leader, was unavailable for comment.

Mayor Ken Smith's proposed flight into the future via a mass modernization project for the town was to be a solo trip into fantasyland. The Board of Education, toying with the idea of joining a town-wide effort to modernize, stated that it would not participate in the project.

"Though we do not disagree that our schools need modernization, we cannot take part in the bond effort at this time," Board Attorney Max Schwartz stated.

Speaking for fifteen minutes before the Town Commission, the representative of the Board stated that the litigation between the two bodies required that his client withdraw from the Mayor's proposal to modernize all town owned buildings through a multi-million dollar bond issue.

And so fizzled the great bonfire that would have remade Belleville, due to inter-department rivalry and feuding.

Ten years ago

At the annual meeting of the DeWitt Savings and Loan Association, Belleville resident John P. Dailey was elected president.

The Town Council was informed that attorney Emil Wulster of Hackensack would not accept the post of special counsel to the Town. Councilman Robert Westry made the surprise announcement to the council, charging that Wulster refused to accept the post because of an editorial printed in the Belleville Times.

Mayor Nuncio Pico kicked off the annual Cookie Sale of the Girl Scouts when he purchased a box of each of the five varieties of cookies from Camille Di Costa, who represented Belleville's over 700 girl scouts. Sampling the girl's ware's, Mayor Pico pronounced them delicious, and admonished local residents to buy a box to help support a worthy charity.

Fifteen years ago

The controversial amendment to an old town ordinance to permit local bowling alleys to remain open around the clock found no opposition from the Belleville Board of Commissioners. However, a number of citizens did object to the proposal.

New officers were elected by the Democratic Club of Belleville — Miss Adela Madis of 40 Charles Street, succeeded Raymond R. Jordan as president of the organization. Jordan was the group's charter president and Miss Madis is the first woman president of that group.

The fundamental issue in the Board of Education election appeared to be the question "What is the relationship of the superintendent of schools to the Board of Education?" Most of the candidates made clear their position on the issue, with a few notable exceptions.

Twenty years ago

An ordinance that would have permitted funeral homes in residential areas died in the making. The vote was 3-2 against the measure, with Mayor Isadore Padula casting the deciding vote. Before the climatic vote, the crowd that gathered at the Council meeting had heard 1½ hours of recital by lawyers for and against the measure, provoking one resident to exclaim "They sure like the sound of their own voices, don't they?"

The Town Commission showed their power by voting unanimously against an ordinance that would permit stores to operate on Sundays. The plea was originally voiced by Max Schwartz, an attorney for Emmanuel Vorius, a hardware store owner at 390 Washington Avenue, representing other hardware store owners.

Thirty years ago

Two bandits led Belleville police on a two mile chase over icy streets after they staged a hold-up with a gun filled with blanks at the Washington Liquor Store. Officer Harry Winfield's crack shooting wounded one of the fleeing desperados, Edward Solhgren of Bloomfield while Paul Ruggiero of Newark was apprehended by officers Fletcher and Dacey. The car that the two men were driving crashed into a Belleville apartment house, thus leading to their capture.

Pvt. Chester Roskove, wounded in France on November 16, was recuperating in an English hospital according to word received from his wife, who was living at 207 Washington Avenue. A member of General Patton's third army, Pvt. Roskove was sent overseas in October.

Concentration filled Belleville High School auditorium during first period on January 16. It was the Annual Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion, Post 105 of Belleville. The post member in charge of the contest was Mr. Walter Weiss. Faculty sponsor was Mrs. Daria Bonivita.

The two contestants in the contest were junior, David Ritacco, first place and winner of $100, and senior Bonnie Low, second place and winner of $50.

The first of the two categories of the contest was an eight to ten minute speech based on the American situation. This speech was to be prepared at home, however, no notes were allowed.

The second speech was to be three to five minutes and the topic was given to the contestants only five minutes before they were to give their extemporaneous presentation.

All in all the contest was successful, although a greater turn out was expected, since four prizes were offered and only two people took part.

Rescue at School 5

By ROXANE BELLAVIA

It's 3:15 and the dismissal bell of Number Five School has rung. The children are running out of their classes around the playground and then on their way home. In the mean time, there has been an accident. A woman has fallen down and is laying at the foot of her stairs.

At Number Five School the children are just about all gone. One late stroller, Raymond Bellavia, a sixth grader at Number Five School, is now walking down the street on his way home. All of a sudden he spots the lady in front of her house.

Unlike the other children, Raymond did not get frightened from the sight of the injured woman; instinct told him he should inform someone of the accident and get help immediately.

Raymond ran across the street to his boyfriend's house, the Calvitos. Mrs. Calvito then came out and helped the lady to her feet but because of a serious bruise on the lady's forehead, Mrs. Calvito called an ambulance.

When Raymond told the story of what had happened, he felt good inside. The fact that he could help this person when she needed help was very rewarding. Although the lady did not know who it was that went to get help, she was very grateful.

Children may sometimes be called "pains in the neck" and may be always in the way, but they too like to reach out and extend a helping hand. In the case of Raymond, who opened up his heart to a fellow human being in distress he showed that kindness, concern, and responsibility towards others are not values monopolized just by the adult world.

FIELDS, MARX BROS.

More comedy goes over big

By JENNIFER CISERO

If you enjoy a laugh every now and then, Belleville High School was the place to be when the senior class sponsored a Marx Brothers and W.C. Fields film festival, in the auditorium of B.H.S., January 13.

When hearing the horn of Harpo or coughing just at the sight of Groucho's cigar smoke makes tears of laughter fall from your eyes, then "Mossaic" starring the Marx Brothers would have been worth viewing. Although the volume was a little low for an average human's ear to hear with no difficulties, the laughs from the audience still came in dozens. It seemed no matter where or when those four zanny brothers never give a moments rest to those tired heavy eye-lids. Imagine the Marx Brothers enlisting in the army!!

W.C. Fields got his share of laughs also, another all time classic enjoyed by both young and old with his pot belly and somewhat ironic sophistication made the highlight of his golden "Fatal Glass of Beer". The Voice of W.C. Fields still can be heard from the walls of our auditorium. No matter how much time seems to slip us by, the "Old Chickadee" never loses his touch.

To enlighten the audience's attention during intervals of the two famous classics, a documentary on motorcycle riding was captivated by the viewers. An enriching and interesting documentary on some questions about motorcycle riding you always wanted to ask. Also the audience was presented with a presentation of "Football Follies". To make that more clear, excerpts from primary games within the past two years.

AN EDITORIAL

'Reunion' cast united efforts

By MARY JANE IZZO

Score one point for Belleville High School.

Score 38 points for the Drama Club. During periodic assemblies on December 13, the Drama Club presented "Class Reunion", a bright lively musical freely adapted from the hit Broadway play, "Grease." For the thirty eight members of the cast and crew, the experience was both novel and exciting.

"It was an interesting experience," John Cacella, who played Danny Zuko, explained. "It was rewarding after practicing so many times. I can't wait until the next show."

Susan Santigm Miss Lynch, also thought the show was fun to be in but expresses some reservations about doing another one. "Yes and no to the next production. This one took a lot of time and energy."

All of the cast had praise for the directors. "I enjoyed the play tremendously, mainly because of the cast, crew, and the directors," said Pattie Meyer, the female lead. "They help make any show and they also helped me reach my full potential."

Barbara Ann Del Russo said that it was her first show and a good experience. "I'm looking forward to the next production. Both Mrs. Grancagnolo and Miss Hosley were great directors. I really enjoyed working with them."

The same two ideas were echoed by all those involved in "Class Reunion." This group has shown that it is possible to obtain a cooperative effort at Belleville High. Not only were the performers involved in this communion but the stage crews, ushers, publicity, and most important the school departments. Without an interaction among these factions, any type of creative endeavor can be successfully hindered or stopped.

Mariruth Cavanaugh, the student director, said, "For a lot of them, it was their first show, so we had to explain certain aspects of the theatre to them. All in all, they were very cooperative. To get them here was no problem but rehearsals themselves were really hectic until last week when things shaped up really quickly. I thought the show went great. Everything went so smoothly."

Smoothly. Cooperation. That is the key word. With it a group of 36 underclassmen and two faculty members were able to do the impossible, put on a top-notch production of a difficult play with inexperienced and, at that time, untied talent. These people have proved themselves. It remains to be seen whether the class of 1976 show such togetherness. If not, then over 300 seniors will not be able to accomplish what one small, newly-formed organization did.

NEW FORMS OF TORTURE

Beware: college applications ahead

By MARY JANE IZZO

From the dark recesses of piles of postcards and thick volumes of catalogues, lurks the College Application, the most dreaded creature of its species. It has the power to cajole, confuse, and otherwise irritate an unsuspecting applicant with a display of rhetoric unequalled in any form.

College applications generally can be divided into three types: the so-simple-even-a-child-of-three-could-do-it, difficult but not impossible, and the I-don't-want-to-talk-about-it model. Unfortunately for the applicant, most of them fall into the last category.

The first few lines of this deceptive creature are a masterpiece of simplicity designed to lull to sleep its unwary opponent. All the student must know is how to write, or type preferably, his name. The catch is the last name must come first. Therefore, John Doe must become Doe John, and James Johnson becomes Johnson James (not to be confused with Jameson John who are two totally separate and distinct people, and Roy Vice becomes Viceroy.

Now the next section becomes slightly more complicated. One must keep in mind the difference between home, mailing, and temporary address. The first one is the place of residence, the second a place of reference, and the third one nonexistent. For the average high school student, they are all one in the same. Hence, he need write only one address — three times.

By this time the applicant has put the student at ease. One can almost hear it whispering, "there now, that wasn't bad, was it?" Unable to realize that he is being lead astray by sweet nothings and false promises, the applicant ventures ahead. Before he reaches the first line of section two, part three, heading five, the student has already become panicky. This is the first time he has come face to face with questions concerning his educational background. The section reads like an interrogation. What high school are you attending? Address? Expected date of graduation? Who's your guidance counselor? Ever attended another high school? College? Specialized school? Come on, confess. Were you ever suspended for disciplinary reasons?

By this time, the applicant has broken out in a cold sweat from the harsh lights and in mumbling incoherently to his questioner denials of being anywhere near the scene of the crime. Totally bewildered, he is confronted by more questions concerning his extracurricular activities. This section is the real terror. Since there are only so many positions one can hold in high school, when those positions are filled, the majority of the student population is left out in the cold. Therefore, he begins to elaborate on his few minor accomplishments. The day he lead the three flutes in band practice because the rest of the hundred piece company was home sick with influenza becomes "conductor of the high school marching band." Drawing a poster for the Senior Dinner Dance is transformed into "advertising director of the Student Council."

With this trial behind him, the applicant moves on to the last and most perilous adventure of his journey — the essay question section. In eight hundred words or less, the applicant is asked either to solve the major problems of the World in a three point program, or explain his career and educational objectives. The latter is definitely the more difficult of the two particularly if the student is undecided. Then he must borrow, beg, or steal a career objective, or print in large letters across the space provided I DON'T KNOW, and hope for the best.

Finally, mercifully, the ordeal is over. The applicant has filled every nook and cranny with the appropriate and not-so-appropriate information. All he has to do is sign the vile thing. The exhausted student zips his signature on the dotted line, and the process is completed. But alas and alack! the college applicant has just signed his name in the space labeled "for office use only."

Belleville wrestlers are also lecturers

by FRED LARDARO

Wrestle! Takedown! Escape! So went the unique lecture performed by Belleville Wrestlers for the benefit of the gentlemen who attend gym class period 8, 9, daily.

It is a program instituted by teacher Mr. Charles Travers, every Friday, where time has been set aside so that wrestlers Vin Mustachio, Tom Zarra, Don Tucci, and Frank "ZAP" Zatorski may explain the rules, regulations, and tenacity which are all involved in grappling. Serving as a change of pace from the routine gym activity, this enlightening program has been excitedly received by the appreciative audience, for what better way to hear of a sport, than from the "horses mouth?"

Because the Belleville Wrestling Team, spewing fire in the early going, has dominated many of the wrestling powerhouses, interest is particularly high. Fans have literally stormed the gates to be present at home bouts, however, Vinny Mustachio expressed his opinion, that many times during the course of a match, people easily become confused, especially in a heated, swift, high scoring contest. Attempting to follow a match can often times submit itself as a frustrating task. An effective orator, Vinny expounded on the point scoring system, wrestling moves, penalties, and the definition of an official's purpose. He also revealed many of the unobtrusive facets of wrestling. Meanwhile, Vinnie's companions demonstrated hypothetically the moves as the lecture rolled along.

The excellent example performance makes every Friday a calendar marking occasion, as "matmania" has inflicted the period 8, 9, gym class.

Cindermen begin pre-season training

BY BRIAN WOOD

In about a month and a half, on March 1, the Belleville High School track team will be headed for the cinder track at the stadium for the start of another season. A season which most of the Bellboy cindermen feel will be one of the most successful in a long time.

The team finished a very respectable 7-7 record last year and hope to improve on it with a lot of hard work this year. Many of this year's candidates for the team have started working out already at the universal gym in the school and on the track. Sixteen members of the team got a head start this past fall by participating on the cross country team which also finished up with a good 8-5 record. The squad did lose some fine performers due to graduation but some really good prospects are coming up in the ranks. The backbone of the team will be comprised of fairly equal amount of juniors and seniors. A minority of sophomores will be on the team this year.

In past seasons Belleville has been known to have a fine distance team but this time around should have a very strong sprint team as well. The distance events consist of the 1/2 mile, the mile and the 2 mile. The sprint events consist of the high hurdles, the 330 intermediate hurdles, 100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, the 1/4 mile and the last event the mile relay. Other events are known as the field events. These include the shot put, the discus, the long jump, the high jump and the pole vault. A track meet is truly an exciting event.

With the resignation last year of head coach Raymond Haneke the team has found it is in need for a new coach to take his position. A prime candidate will be the cross-country coach Richard Ruffalo, however no decision has been made as of yet.

The senior cindermen what to make this their most memorable season yet and with strong support from the juniors and sophomores will do just that.

New year's resolutions, or: 'take me to Utopia'

By CHRIS MANNING

Since Wednesday, January 1, 1975, people throughout the nation have been committing themselves to promises; most of which will be forgotten before the month terminates. This long practiced ritual has not undergone any drastic changes this year except for the fact that its popularity has lessened even more than in past years.

New Year's Day means a lot of things to a great many people such as recovering from last night's party, visiting relatives, having an extravagant dinner, remembering events of the past year and discussing all our bad habits and characteristics that we hope to rectify. However, many of these good intentions become empty promises. No one really knows why all of these resolutions are made; in most cases they are made by people who have neither the genuine desire or ability to carry them out.

Those who do fulfill their resolutions are the minority. Perhaps their resolutions are easier to achieve or they are just more determined than others. Maybe some of us are trying to reach for a star that is too far away. No matter what the situation, we may all be dreaming of a utopian year to come with everything going just right for us.

Resolution making may be compared with a commercial on T.V. in which someone is trying to convince themselves not to cough but alas, their will power is not strong enough and of course, the cough returns. We make our resolutions and often our will isn't strong enough to overcome our weakness, our promises become empty and we become disillusioned to the extent of not even trying. A New Year's resolution must be carried out until we achieve all that we possibly can without quitting at the first sign of failure.

With the birth of a new year, we feel a sense of a new beginning or a fresh start in life. Those people who at least try to rectify their problems will have made an attempt at a fresh start which is better than not knowing if they could do it or not. Many of us today, seem to have taken the attitude of not caring about what our drawbacks are. Any bad habits we may have acquired over the years are just intensified and go unnoticed as they get increasingly worse.

New Year's resolutions may be thought of as "Humbug" and worthless but we will continue to make and break them. It's really too bad because can you imagine what a great world this would be if each of us would really carry out one New Year's resolution each year that would make us a better person? After a few years we probably could even have our "utopia".

DEAR DEE DEE . . .

She untangles lovers' triangles

By DEE DEE

Dear Dee Dee,
All my girlfriend likes to do is watch football on television. Our weekends are a complete waste. I try everything from the latest anti-perspirant to pacing in front of the set in my birthday suit. The only pass that excites her is a forward pass. What should I do?
FRUSTRATED

Dear Frustrated,
This is really a switch! Well, first you can try making a compromise with your girl. You can watch one game with her in turn for a day with you.
If that doesn't work you can keep walking around naked and maybe you will catch pneumonia. How will she resist you then?

Dear Dee Dee,
I've lost face!!!!!!
What can I do? The other night my parents went out and told my sister and I, no friends in the house when we aren't home!! However, we didn't listen and invited our boyfriends over. So the story goes, my parents came home early and took a fit. I'm so embarrassed and feel totally horrible! My parents will never trust us again. I didn't mean anything wrong. How can I gain their trust again??

CRYING IN CALIFORNIA

Dear C in C,
Since you and your sister were wrong in the first place, for the time being you should abide by your parents punishment.

Until you are forgiven your sister and yourself should do everything possible to regain their trust.
Tell them you know you are wrong (that one always gets them) and you will never again disobey them (until the next time). If you show them you have learned a lesson and are responsible young women maybe they will change their tune.

Meanwhile if you happen to find your face, let me know.

Dear Dee Dee,
Recently I have been engulfed in an inescapable love triangle which has led to a great deal of hardship among people who are very close to me. It seems that my best friend's girlfriend has become my girlfriend and that is a sticky situation. However, they had been broken up for a while and I took advantage of this fine opportunity. I didn't rat on my friend. He brought the break-up on by himself and no one had any assistance, but how do I convince him that I didn't do this to hurt him? I think I'm falling in love!

HELP ME

Dear Help,
If you are as fond of the girl as you say and your friend feels the same way towards her then the decision is entirely up to the girl. All I can say is may the best man win.

Dear Dee Dee,
My sister-in-law has just committed suicide. She had cancer and I am the only one she had told. Should I keep it a secret?

TROUBLED

Dear Troubled,
Of course the only right thing to do would be to tell of her disease, since something might be able to be done to help future family cases. If you yourself cannot bring yourself to tell, suggest an autopsy where the cancer can be detected. And your sister-in-law's physician may be able to tell them the news.

Dear Dee Dee,
I have this awful problem. First there is Mr. A. He is really a nice guy but after the summer he went away to college. He stayed on my mind all the time he was gone. I never thought of anyone else. He has now come back for Christmas and he says he only wants to be friends. Other people have come along since then, but none can compare with him. What should I do to get Mr. A off my mind?

A BOTHERED BELLEVILLEITE

Dear A B B,
Since Mr. A seems to have no love feelings for you I say you should except his invitations and be friends. Sometimes friendships last longer than love affairs. And you never know what it may lead to.

Dear Dee Dee,
I hope you can give me advice that will help solve my problem. One of my very close friends is having serious problems within her family. These problems are causing serious difficulty within her own life. Her mother and father are both alcoholics and refuse to go for personal or public assistance, as a result my girl friend has decided to run away. What advice can I give her?

ANOTHER RUNNER

Dear A Run,
If you really want to help your friend you should advise her to see a counselor or clergyman. There is a possibility that she can be placed with foster parents. Also, when her parents are sober, try to convince them to seek professional help.

Dee Dee?

Senior notes

By GEORGE CHENOWETH

It is very hard to understand at this time why the President finds it necessary to limit the cost of living increase in Social Security benefits.

Increased pension payments to retired consumers would certainly help the economy just as much as a tax cut to wage earning consumers. So where is the logic in this unpopular decision? We Seniors spend money, too. So why not give the Seniors the cost of living increase that they are entitled to in 1975?

Several of our seniors have been laid up with an assortment of illnesses, so dip your pen in sunshine and drop a line to the following shut-ins: Michael Santasieri, James Clarizio, Claire Ochs, and William Koehler who are all recuperating at home; and John Del Vecchio, Ann Foselli, Peter Santiglia, Vincent Stanglino, all at Clara Maass Hospital.

Sally Hood is home from the hospital and feeling just fine. The good wishes to get well soon are from all of us seniors.

State director Sheehan to visit seniors tomorrow

Commissioner Patricia Sheehan, Director of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, will tour several senior citizen facilities operated by the Essex County Park Commission, including the Belleville Senior Center at Branch Brook Park at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Starting her tour at a Montclair senior center, the Commissioner will address a group of 150 senior citizens, where she will highlight the importance of recreation as a social tool that provides the stimulus for creative living, particularly as it relates to the life style of a senior citizen.

The all-day affair, which will feature five workshops giving participants practical experience in the fundamentals of weaving, rug making, terrarium construction collage and toy making, will be interrupted by a hot lunch, and will finally conclude at 4:30 p.m.

The programs objectives are to improve the quality and quantity of services offered to senior citizens in an effort to enhance the quality of life through meaningful recreational programs and secondly to establish an environment that is conducive for the implementation of a broad range of social, cultural, and recreational opportunities for the country's senior citizens.

MRS. MARGARET LEONE, director of radiologic services and education at Clara Maass Memorial Hospital, gives some advice to Donetta Ruscillo of Newark and Bruce Wraga of Carlstadt, junior students at the hospital's School of Radiologic Technology.

Clara Maass Memorial Hospital trains radiologic technologists

What's the second largest group of paramedical personnel?

No, it's not nurses or laboratory technologists. It's radiologic technologists — the x-ray techs.

And the Clara Maass Memorial Hospital School of Radiologic Technology has been adding to their number since it opened in 1969.

According to Margaret Leone, director of radiologic services and education, the field attracts people of all ages and backgrounds.

"While many of our applicants come directly from high school, we have some who are veterans, college graduates and other adults who want to continue their education," Mrs. Leone says.

"We have no maximum age limit for applicants, but our minimum is 18 which is the occupational dose age," she continues.

The Clara Maass school is accredited for 26 students by the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association in conjunction with American College of Radiology, the American Society of Radiologic Technology, and the N.J. Dept. of Environmental Protection.

But the school receives many more requests for applications than it can accommodate each year.

"Last year we sent out over 150 applications and received 80 returns. From that we interviewed about 50 people for a class of 12-16. So you can see that we can afford to be selective," Mrs. Leone states.

The x-ray curriculum is a tough one. Each year students have only two weeks vacation and ten holidays. All students are required to have supervised night duty several times each year, while seniors are also required to have clinical duties on weekends and holidays.

According to Mrs. Leone, the reasoning is to give the students the opportunity to repeat again and again the procedures involved under conditions paralleling those he will encounter when he goes to work.

Just a sample of the required courses include physics, anatomy and physiology, darkroom chemistry, radiographic positioning and medical terminology.

Students divided their time equally between classroom and clinical experience.

The classroom gives them the theory — the 'why' knowledge while the clinical gives them the practical — the 'how to' knowledge.

"Radiologic technology is a challenging and demanding field. I always tell applicants that the number admitted isn't important. It's the number admitted who want to learn that makes the school," Mrs. Leone states.

All instructors are members of the hospital's radiologic staff. Radiologists (physicians who specialize in radiology) as well as technologists lecture to students.

"Any well-trained technologist is qualified to teach," says Mrs. Leone. "In fact, three of our own graduates are now instructors at Clara Maass."

Once a student graduates, the job opportunities are almost unlimited. X-ray techs are in demand for hospitals, industry, government, public health, private physicians' offices, and clinics.

For many becoming a radiologic technologist is only the first step in their career. They continue their education and go on to be nuclear medicine techs, radiation therapy techs, veterinary radiology techs, and instructors.

"At Clara Maass our goal is to produce radiologic technologists who are competent and efficient, and who understand the patient-technologist relationship with the patient as the primary concern," Mrs. Leone says.

Miss Carolyn Anne Bogatay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank John Bogatay of 208 Walnut Street and Bruce Allen Redwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude George Redwood of Flushing, New York, were married December 7 at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Gerard Walsh. A reception followed in the Louis XVI Suite of the Waldorf-Astoria.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of soft candlelight sata-peau, Venise lace and French pleating styled in the empire tradition. The gown had a portrait neckline, Queen Ann sleeves and a chapel train. She wore her great-grandfather's yellow gold watch for a locket.

A bouffant train veil fell from a matching bonnet trimmed with Venise lace and pleating and she carried a cascade of stephanotis and baby orchids.

Miss Claire Maria Capacio of Nutley was maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Miss Linda Denise Scanlon of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, cousin of the bride, Miss Claudia Mary Redwood of Flushing, sister of the groom and Miss Janet Shat Zaretsky of New York.

Their haltar gowns of emerald green velvet were accented with white Venise lace bibs and had matching lace edged bolero jackets. Headpieces were of English holly. The honor attendant carried red sweetheart roses and babies breath while the others had red sweetheart roses, white baby carnations and babies breath.

Joseph Dominic West of Sterling, Virginia, was best man. Ushering were the bride's brother, Frank John Bogatay Jr. of Nutley, Steven Israel Mursuli of Flushing and Wayne Joseph Puglia of Floral Park, New York.

Mrs. Bogatay chose a gown of poinsettia red qiana and wore a corsage of gar-denias. The groom's mother was in mint green chiffon with a beaded embroidered bodice and had a corsage of baby white orchids.

Mrs. Redwood, an alumna of Nutley High School and Beth Israel School of Nursing, New York City, is an obstetrical nurse at Beth Israel.

Mr. Redwood, a graduate of Bishop Reilly High School, and Villanova University, received his master's in business administration from St. John's University and is assistant manager of the Chase Manhattan Bank, N.A. Kew Gardens Branch. The couple have made their home in New York City after honeymooning in Aruba.

School break-ins draw comment

pieces of football, basketball, and wrestling equipment, costing $531.50 were stolen, and school officials said the sum could be higher, since a complete inventory of baseball and track equipment has not been taken yet. There was also evidence that the culprits attempted to enter the school cafeteria and failed.

According to Deputy Police Chief Frank Haight, School Number Seven was entered through a first floor window on the east side of the building. The vandals smashed about 12 windows in classroom doors on the first floor and extensively vandalized the principal's office, writing obscenities on the walls and furniture and taking $2.50 from a desk drawer, said Deputy Chief Haight.

School Board president Pica said that the spot where the vandals entered School Seven was well lit, and he believed the smashed window should have been noticed by police cars cruising the area. "What annoys me most," said Pica, "is that the persons who got into the school apparently had time to sit down, have a cigarette, make soup and coffee for themselves, drink beer, and then go on and tear the place up. The place where the entry occurred is well lighted, and it should have been obvious to anyone patrolling the area that a break-in had occurred."

Earlier this month, Pica sent a letter to Belleville Police Chief Joseph Smith requesting, "...cooperation in closer surveillance of school property on weekends, after school hours and holiday periods." Chief Smith stated that in response to the request he had, "notified the men to increase their watch on the schools." Smith added, however, that his police force doesn't have the manpower to give the schools constant surveillance.

"We just can't guarantee a policeman will be there every time. We have a lot of territory to cover. Auxiliary police hours are limited and they don't patrol long enough to assure total coverage of the schools. People seem to think a police force is like a rubber band, that can be stretched out to cover everything, but it just isn't like that."

These two break-ins are only the most recent in a series of attacks against school property. According to Pica, School Number Seven alone has been entered illegally five times in the past nine months. Last fall, the school was broken into and approximately $1,000 in musical instruments were stolen. The total loss for the high school in equipment over the past year is estimated at $1,300.

According to School Board president Pica, estimates as to the cost of these crimes are far below their actual expense. "The figures presented only represent material found missing from the schools, such as the musical instruments and the athletic equipment stolen. They do not include the cost of replacing broken windows, the number of man-hours involved in the repair of the buildings, and hours lost or wasted in teaching because of lack of equipment. The cost, therefore, is actually higher."

Superintendent of Schools Anthony Greco said that the effect of the robberies and vandalism would be felt not only in the schools where they occur, but in the community at large.

"All the missing equipment and the damage done to school property will have to be underwritten by tax dollars. If the cost of repair and replacement of school property continues to rise, it could be reflected in an increase in local taxes. Everybody in Belleville ends up paying for the destruction done."

Solutions to the problem, say officials, are difficult and expensive. Pica and Chief Smith have considered putting men in the buildings on weekends, but the plans have been discarded as being prohibitively expensive. Pica estimated that, including benefits, the cost to put a custodian in the building on a midnight to eight shift would cost about $850 per weekend to cover all school buildings. The School Board has been looking into the possibility of installing burglar alarms in the schools, and has received a $3,500 quote on a system for School Number Seven. Superintendent Greco said the Board is now waiting for a quote on a system for both the High School and School Seven. If a price is received that can be accommodated in the current school budget, Greco said he believes the board members will approve the installation of the systems by June. He conceded, however, that it is possible that the town may have to wait until a vote on the bond issue next fall.

It is possible, according to school officials, that if the thefts continue, they could have a great impact on the sports program at the High School. Herman Wische, director of athletics at Belleville High said effects have already been felt by some of the teams at the school. He said that there are not enough home basketball jerseys left, and the team has been forced to take old jerseys and turn them inside out so that they will match the new ones stolen.

"These thefts are making it increasingly difficult for us to keep our sports program going," said Wische. "We have tried to get the best equipment and uniforms possible for the players, but these break-ins are making it harder and harder to supply the students' needs."

Police officials and school officials are asking that anyone with any information about the break-ins contact the police department or the high school.

Helen's thing

ODDS AND ENDS.

I have devised, out of desperation, a new way to straighten up the toy room which often-times resembles something akin to the city dump.

Seizing the broom firmly in two hands, I start in one corner, the one farthest from the door, and sweep whatever is not nailed, screwed or otherwise attached to the floor toward the entrance. Nothing escapes. If your best hair ribbon, favorite puzzle or anything else is reposing on the floor, it joins the pile which gets progressively larger as it goes along.

THEN THE mad scramble begins. The four little imps who reside herein have until mama reaches the garbage bag to retrieve anything they want to save. But retrieved, it has to be put away. If deposited on another part of the floor, it will end up in the pile again and if it does, it is doomed. You'd be surprised how quickly the room gets straightened using this method. We set a new record this week - 27 minutes - and that included cleaning out the toy chest and reorganizing the dress up box.

Now that that the quartet is aging, I have decided that I will no longer put away folded wash. That job has been delegated to them and boy, don't they dislike it. Ryan, disclaiming any knowledge of women's lib, informed me recently that it was "woman's work" and hence, out of his domain. I just as quickly informed him that it was "family work" and if he planned on putting on any clean duds during the ensuing seven days, he had better hove to and get his laundry upstairs or he was likely to be departing for Spring Garden in his pajamas. He hove.

MY COUSIN'S baby is due in a week and a half and one of her friends hosted a shower for her last Sunday. Looking at all those infant things made me slightly nostalgic (not nostalgic enough to do anything about it though!). The shower was in Parsippany and I carted most of the presents, including a play pen, back to Nutley in the Volkswagen.

Rod and I went over to deliver them later that night and got into a ridiculous discussion about relationships. Since Sandy is my first cousin, our children and hers will be second cousins which is simple enough to understand. What alternately amused and dismayed the Irishman is that Sandy and Ed and our children are first cousins once removed and we will bear the same relationship to the Bridges' offspring.

Rod announced summarily that he was not interested in being anything once removed. He would be an "uncle" to this child and that was that. Having 18 assorted nieces and nephews, he has had a lot of experience in the uncle role even though it falls to me to keep track of their names and ages and who belongs to who. The only one he remembers vividly is Christopher, now 11, who came perilously close to being born in our kitchen. I don't think I'll ever forget him either.

Hooray for freedom! Hooray for freedom! No one's sick. All are well. (and where's a piece of wood for knocking!)

Hard win

The Belleville-Paterson Kennedy wrestling match last Wednesday was one of the toughest of the year, but the Bellboys came out on top. Keith Waddell, shown here, managed to edge out his opponent, 4-3.

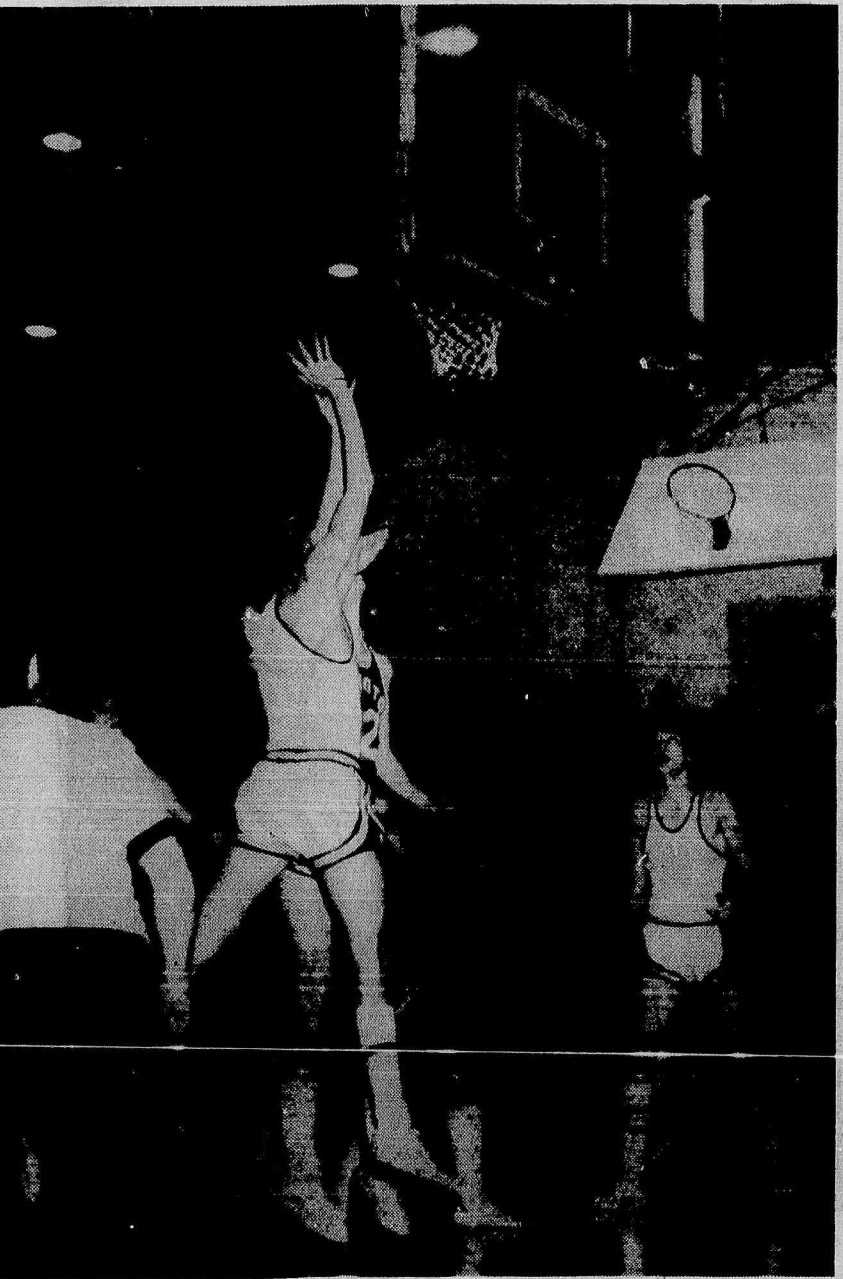

Close scrape

The Bellboy basketball players walked away with a narrow 49-47 victory over the Irvington Campers. It was a wild affair that had the fans, coaches and players on their feet all during the last quarter.

The victors

Doug Jackson (jumping) and Ron Krych (14) were instrumental in defeating Irvington. Jackson hit for 13 points and Krych poured in 11 points.

Times/news Sports

Wrestlers un-stoppable after nine straight wins

The Blue and Gold grapplers made it nine in a row last week as they traveled to Paterson Kennedy to wrest a 27-20 win from their hosts, and then proceeded to Irvington to put the Campers aside, 35-17. Tucking those two victories under their belts, the wrestlers could look with satisfaction to their outstanding 9-1 record.

Last night, the Bellboys matched their skills with the Bloomfield Bengals, but results came in too late for the Times-News deadline. Tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., the BHS men host the Kearny Cardinals for a meeting that could decide whether or not Belleville is the Big 10 champ. Last Wednesday, the matmen traveled to Paterson Kennedy to fight what coach Jim Silvestri calls, "the toughest team we have met this year." It was, in fact, one of the strongest challenges the Bellboys have had this year, but Belleville was up for the match, and came away victorious.

Though all the grapplers acquitted themselves superbly, there was only one pin of the night on the Belleville side of the board. It was Carl Arlt at 101 who logged the pin, putting Rich Dock on his back at 4:52.

Though they couldn't get their men on their backs for the count, there were other standouts in the Blue and Gold lineup. Vinny Mustacchio totally dominated the 108 contest and left the mat with a 22-0 win. Chris Tremel at 135 and Robert Villano at 148 also racked up the points, Tremel winning 20-4 and Villano 16-3. These big points, added with the victories of Anthony Villano, Keith Waddell, and Jack Vogel, all stacked up to give the men the seven point margin that made their win.

According to Silvestri, the Paterson Kennedy team had the ability and all the moves necessary to win, but his men had the pride and confidence needed to win.

"The boys just wanted to wrestle and wanted to win. They have a lot of pride and a lot of heart. They get psyched up for every match and they were really psyched for Paterson. The opposition tried to intimidate us mentally, to put us at a psychological disadvantage, but they couldn't do it. I really believe that's what won that meeting for us—the pride and team spirit of the boys."

After dishing it out to the folks at Paterson Kennedy, the matmen traveled to Irvington to give the Campers their

Cagers score two more

The Bellboys hauled in two more victories this past week as they crushed Nutley's Maroon Raiders Tuesday, 95-56 and just nipped the Irvington Campers 49-47 on Friday. The two wins hyped up the hoopsters record to 8-6.

Tomorrow, the bucketeers travel to Kearny to take on the Cardinals in their second meeting this year. The Blue and Gold squad was victorious the first time they played, and they will try and repeat the performance.

There's not much you can say about the Nutley game. The Raiders, with a record of 1-12, didn't stand a chance against the Belleville onslaught. The BHS men had control of the game from the first tip-off, and Nutley never even came close. At one point, in the fourth quarter, the hardwood heroes had a 37 point lead over their opposition. Five Bellboys ended up with totals in the double figures, with Abdel Anderson leading them with 27. Anderson was 8 for 8 from the line, and led the game in rebounds.

The Friday clash between the Bellboys and the Irvington Campers was one of those games that is great for the fans to watch, but a hairy affair for all the players and coaches involved. The Belleville hoopsters held the lead throughout the game, but the contest was wickedly close.

The hometown hardwooders came out of their corner fighting from the start, and the Campers came to town determined to go home with the victory. The two teams battled throughout the low scoring game, with the BHS men coming out on top in every quarter. At the end of the first half, the Blue and Gold was on top by nine points. In the third quarter, they held the visitors down to only two points, and hit for eight themselves. It was the fourth quarter that turned out to be the wildest of them all.

The Irvington team came out determined to gain ground, and cut down the Bellboys' 19 point lead. They took over the wheel and controlled the speed of the game.

At times during the fourth quarter, the Belleville backboarders seemed to panic, rushing back and forth madly trying to keep possession of the ball. Their guests pressed them to the limit,

Female hoopsters choke Camperettes

Belleville High's female hoopsters brushed aside Irvington last Friday in a 58-18 walk away match up that raised the girls' season record to 6-4.

Yesterday, the BHS women crossed the border into Nutley to take back the win that the Raiderettes ripped from their hands in their last meeting. Results of the game, however, came too late for the Times-News deadline. Tomorrow at 3:30 p.m., the Bellgirls play host to the Kearny Cardinals. The Cardinals will be looking to get revenge for the 56-41 pounding they received last time around.

Friday's romp over Irvington was a basketball game in name only, with Belleville's female five exerting complete control of the game from the start. The Campers, with a record of 0-9 couldn't do a thing with the Bellgirls. The Blue and Gold girls worked their plays smoothly, and kept their fouls to a minimum. In the few instances where they did foul, the Campers missed their free shots.

The junior varsity members of the girls' team had an opportunity to show their mettle, and proved they could hold their own. The team as a whole did a real number on Irvington by holding them down to only two points in the second and third quarters, while racking up 18 in the second and 21 in the third for themselves. The Irvington team didn't help their cause any by piling foul upon foul, and the Belleville she-shooters took advantage of their mistakes to the tune of 12 points in free throws. The whole affair was a repeat of the two teams last meeting, an 83-10 victory for the Blue and Gold, and the Campers were helpless to prevent it.

As of Tuesday, the hometown hardwood heroines were psyching up for the Nutley game on Wednesday. They lost the last one 46-44 in overtime, and they wanted the win bad.

Tomorrow, the girls will take on the Cardinals. The team will be looking to put down Kearny once and for all this season, and add one more game to the plus side of their record. In their last

Bowlers to meet Campers today in tie-breaking test

The Belleville bowlers took two out of three games from Montclair, and shut out East Orange on Monday to boost themselves into a tie for second place and up their record to 20-10.

The Blue and Gold Keglers are now just four games behind first place Bloomfield in a tight three way tie for the second place spot with Irvington and Nutley. The hometown alley cats will have a chance to better their position when they go up against Irvington today at 3:30 p.m. at the Belleclair Lanes in Montclair.

Tony Cortese led the team in its 2-1 victory over Montclair last week with a 577 series. Ed Stoklosa and Dave Boxer tried not to stay too far behind, and turned in 562 and 538 totals, respectively.

Captain Boxer showed his team the way in the first game, when he knocked down a 204 game. They seemed to cool the second game, but Cortese showed his form even in defeat by shooting an even 200. In the final game, the team got up a head of steam and rolled to a win with a 924 series, their best single game total of the year. Stoklosa led the charge with a strong 229 game and Linda "Pins" Winship did her part by chalking up a 200.

The keglers swept all three from East Orange and were led by Stoklosa again with a fine 620 series. His games of 229, 217, and 177 put him at second place for the high series in the league. Boxer blew through the match with a 526 series and Pins Winship helped blast the opposition with a 520 series.

The Blue and Gold alley cats now seem to be building the momentum of a steamroller, and it looks like they could break the three way log jam in second and give the Bloomfield bowlers a real run for their money in the top spot.

A good/bad day for hockey

By CHUCK JACKSON

As far as the weather went, Sunday was both a good day and a bad day. The sun shone intermittently, and a harsh chilling wind blew. Sunday was also a good day and a bad day for Belleville's street hockey teams. Victory shone round the DeWitt Rangers, and an ill wind in Harrison blew defeat into the faces of the Belleville Flames.

At School Number Three, the Rangers romped over the last place Jersey City Blackhawks in a 10-2 mismatch. It was a game notably devoid of physical contact, and as a kind of exclamation point to the lack of physical contact, there was not one fight in the entire game.

The Rangers cut the hapless Jersey City team to ribbons on both offense and defense. Both the Rangers and the Blackhawks seemed to know from the start that the game would be no contest, and went at the game with styles adapted to the situation. On their part, Jersey City men seemed to take the game lightheartedly, with the only exception being the goalie. The Blackhawks seemed to be smiling a lot, and stopped smiling only long enough to deliver what can only be called semi-checks, and take 15 shots on goal. They managed to put two of these past Ranger goalie Mark Lukowiak.

The Rangers seemed at times to be half asleep. They played a good enough game, obviously, but they didn't seem to have the spirit that they have shown in the past. The notable exception had to be Bill Sauers, Ranger Captain, who kept trying to urge his men on by saying such things as, "This is it, you guys. We're gonna score 20 goals today." The rest of the team didn't completely respond, but they did come through with 10 big ones, and piled up 70 shots on goal. The Blackhawk goalie was busy all day, and did an excellent job of cutting his team's losses. Dave Boxer, Joe Vincenti, Paul Denning, and Bill Sauers all managed to penetrate the Jersey City defenses for two goals each, and Dennis Barretta and Rich Vincenti managed to slap one each into the net.

The Belleville Flames, on the other hand, lost a close one to the Harrison Flyers, 5-4. The day started out in confusion for the Flames, and ended in defeat.

It seems there was a mix up about where the game was to be played, and the two teams, after being asked to leave one field in Belleville, headed back to Harrison to play the game. The shifting around may have hurt the Belleville men, but it's hard to tell. In any event, they went down before the second place Flyers in a close game.

The Flames went with their usual close checking game, putting the muscle to their opponents. The checking resulted in a few temper flares, but no serious fighting. The Flyers scored their winning goal in the last seven minutes of the game when they caught the Flames with their defenses down and managed to get a two on one break. With seven minutes to go, the Flames, according to Captain Gary MacDonald, "had to fight both the Flyers and the clock." They tried, but couldn't make it. It was a tough loss, because with it went the Flames only chance of moving into second place in the Eastern Division.

Despite the defeat, MacDonald had good things to say about his team. "We played a pretty good game. Their win-ing goal was actually just a fluke. They just caught us off balance. I thought John Coccavle did a really fine job on defense. He was all over the place. He did a good job of keeping the crease clean, and he also managed to get one assist."

The Flames were able to whip four goals in against the Flyers' goalie, and credit for the scores went to MacDonald, Mike Martino, Tom Lamin, and Reuben Stadilo.

Next week, the Rangers will take on the Harrison team, and try to get revenge for the 6-5 loss handed them the last time they met. For their part, the Flames will host Jersey City, and try to repeat the 12-2 pounding they gave the Blackhawks the last time the two teams crossed sticks. Both games are scheduled to be played in Belleville, but the locations are in doubt at this time.

forcing turnovers, drawing fouls, and in the process hitting for 11 points in a row before they let the hometown hoopsters hit anything.

Anderson left the game early when he got into foul trouble, and that only made things more difficult for the squad. When they lost the long arm of Anderson, they had to fight even harder to keep the ball and the victory in their grasp.

The fans went wild as the struggle shifted back and forth, and both teams looking at times like they would win. The big break for the Bellboys, though, came in the last couple minutes of play, when sophomore Ron Krych managed to draw three consecutive fouls from the opposition. Though, in a way, a hero for drawing the penalty shots, Krych looked at times like he was getting the worst of the deal. He was on the receiving end of an unintentional, but stiff forearm to the head, and almost immediately afterwards, grabbing his own rebound and going in for the layup, was knocked to the floor with a heavy and loud thud. It was these three fouls, however, that iced the victory for the Blue and Gold squad, and forced the Campers to strike their tents and head for home, defeated.

Tomorrow night, the Bellboys will travel to Kearny to knock heads with that town's Kardinals. The men from across the river will be looking to take back the win wrenched from their hands in the two teams' last meeting. In their first battle, the Blue and Gold took the honors, 64-59. It's a sure bet that the Kearny bucketers will be looking to reverse that outcome, and an equally sure bet that the Bellboys will do everything in their power to come back to town with yet another "Bellboys Win!" headline for their scrapbooks.

Meeting scheduled to discuss County charter change

An official campaign to have a referendum to change the form of government in Essex County will get under way this Sunday, February 2, when a public meeting is held at 8 p.m. at the Municipal Building in Maplewood. The meeting has been called by the newly-organized Citizens for Charter Change in Essex County. The new organization, which is a bipartisan effort, has been formed to implement recommendations made in a minority report issued after the Essex County Charter Study Commission had recommended last year that no change be made in the form of Essex County government. No minority report had been allowed to be published at the time the Charter Study report was made. Subsequently, Charter Study Commissioners Peter B. Cooper, Francis X. Jones, and Helene Kaplan issued their report strongly recommending a change to the strong elected County Executive system, which includes district election of five members of the Board of Chosen Freeholders. This would replace the current form which allows the Board of Freeholders both to legislate and administer the policies of the county. Backed by the Essex County Conference of Mayors and the League of Women Voters of Essex County, but rapidly expanding to encompass all interested individuals and organizations, the Citizens for Charter Change have been preparing a campaign for a charter referendum for the past two months. Charter Study Commissioner Peter B. Cooper of Livingston has accepted chairmanship position of the executive committee information, which consists of the following: Councilman Gary Davis, Bloomfield; Norman Lapidus, chairman of the Maplewood Charter Revision Committee; Jeanne Graves, president of the Essex County League of Women Voters; Edward Hume, executive director of the Essex County

Conference of Mayors; Phyllis Halpern, past president of the Essex County League of Women Voters; Alan A. Siegel, chairman of the Irvington Committee for Charter Revision; Major Francis X. Jones of North Caldwell; Mayor Jay Holland of Cedar Grove; Helene Kaplan of Glen Ridge; Mrs. Renee Lane of the West Orange League of Women Voters; Gus Heniengburg of Newark; and William Klaber, Jr., publisher of the West Essex Tribune of Livingston.

The governments of ten Essex County Communities have already registered support for the movement by appointing local committees to work for Charter Revision. A steering committee to correlate the various activities of the movement is now in the process of formation. All persons interested in serving on this or any of the other committees are invited to attend this Sunday's meeting.

December no exception in the inflationary trend

Prices paid by consumers for goods and services in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose 0.5 percent in December, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's Assistant Regional Director for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, who heads the BLS office in New York.

THIS IS A SKINNY AD BECAUSE WE'VE TRIMMED 20 YEARS OFF OUR PRICES

Remember the good old days? Come dine and drink at Schindler's at 1955 prices! Right now, thru the end of February at the luxurious new Quality Inn, Rt. 23 Pompton Plains, N.J., 5 minutes North of Willowbrook, N.J. 80 to Rt. 23 North

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the index rose 0.4 percent following a 0.8 percent increase in November, a 0.9 percent rise in October and a 1.0 percent increase in September. In the last quarter of 1974 monthly price increases averaged 0.7 percent compared to a 1.1 percent average rise in the previous quarter.

The December rise largely reflected sharp price increases for a number of food items such as sugar products, milk and bakery products. Other consumer price rises included electricity charges, rents, cigarettes and medical care. Partially offsetting the effect of these upward movements were price declines for women's and girls' clothing, footwear, meat products, fruits and vegetables, used cars and gasoline.

Over the year ending December 1974, the area CPI rose 10.8 percent — the first month since August with a less than 11-percent rise. The food index rose 12.1 percent over the year; housing was up 10.8 percent. Transportation prices were up 10.1 percent, with private transportation rising 12.5 percent and public transportation up 2.3 percent. The medical care index rose 14.0 percent. Apparel prices increased 8.2 percent since December 1973.

In contrast with a sharper rate of consumer price rise in recent years, the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area's December to December rise of 10.8 percent was below increases for the other four areas for which consumer price data are issued monthly. Increases ranged from 11.6 percent in Detroit, and 11.9 percent in Los Angeles to 12.0 percent in Chicago, and 12.6 percent in Philadelphia. Since the 1967 index base period, prices in the New York area have risen 61.7 percent, outpacing the increases in the other areas. Prices rose 59.2 percent in Philadelphia, 56.2 percent in Detroit, 53.2 percent in Chicago and 50.0 percent in Los Angeles.

The New York-Northeastern New Jersey food index rose 1.2 percent in December, largely because of a 5.6 percent increase in the other-foods-at-home index as sugar products and egg prices rose sharply. The dairy products index was also up substantially by 3.2 percent, largely due to higher prices for milk. The cereal and bakery products index rose 2.6 percent, with price increases reported for cake and bread. Fruits and vegetables declined seasonally by 1.8 percent.

The housing index rose 0.7 percent over the month. Rents, collected bi-monthly, rose 1.2 percent between October and December. The gas and electricity index was up sharply by 3.9 percent in December, reflecting higher electricity prices; fuel oil prices were down 1.2 percent. Homeownership costs rose 0.3 percent.

The apparel index, which typically remains unchanged in December dropped 1.7 percent. The women's and girls' index declined substantially by 3.7 percent as prices were down for women's coats, dresses and sweaters and girls' raincoats and skirts. Footwear prices declined 3.5 percent reflecting lower price tags on women's and children's shoes. Men's and boys' apparel, typically down in December, rose 0.7 percent primarily due to higher prices for men's jackets.

The transportation index rose 0.7 percent over the month. Private transportation was up 0.6 percent, reflecting higher prices for automobile insurance and parts such as tires and batteries. Partially offsetting the effect of these increases were lower prices for used cars and gasoline. The public transportation index rose 0.8 percent, primarily reflecting higher air fares. The medical care index rose 0.8 percent, as prices were up for physicians' visits, health insurance and prescriptions.

The December increase brought the area's Consumer Price Index to 61.7 percent above the 1967 base. With the December index at 161.7 (1967-100), the area consumer now has to spend $16.17 to buy what $10.00 was able to buy in the 1967 base period. Expressed as purchasing power, the dollar in December 1974 was worth 61.8 cents in 1967 dollars and 61.9 cents in 1957-59 dollars.

Blue Shield reports growth in past year

Growth of its two highest payment programs, improvements to bring better service, and a special committee to look out for the interest of consumers were the major concerns of Blue Shield of New Jersey during 1974.

As a result of special promotional and marketing efforts, the Plan at year-end 1974 had more than 1,075,000 persons enrolled in the two programs which provide better payments.

These are: The Series 750, a fixed-fee schedule, which provides paid-in-full benefits for families with incomes below $12,000 a year for eligible services rendered by participating physicians; and the Usual, Customary or Reasonable Fee program (UCR) which provides paid-in-full coverage for eligible services by participating physicians regardless of the amount of subscriber income.

The Series 750, introduced in late 1973, is available to individuals and groups, while the UCR program is available to groups as small as four.

Public Service Electric and Gas Company has completed negotiations for the sale of a new 350,000 share issue of 12.25 percent Cumulative Preferred Stock ($100 par value). The underwriters headed by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated and Kidder, Peabody & Co. Incorporated purchased the New Preferred Stock at a price of $100.00 per share with a commission of $3.00 per share. This results in an annual money cost to the company of 12.629 percent.

The shares of New Preferred Stock are not redeemable prior to February 1, 1985, with proceeds of debt or preferred stock of equal or prior rank obtained at a lower cost of money than 12.629 percent per annum. In addition, the New Preferred Stock is subject to a Sinking Fund which requires the redemption of 5 percent of the total issue each year, beginning February 1, 1980. The underwriters propose to offer the shares to the public today (January 9) at a price of $100.00 per share to yield 12.25 percent.

Catholic vets ready mass in memorial

The Catholic War Veterans of the Department of New Jersey and its Ladies Auxiliary will hold their annual Father Washington Memorial Mass on Sunday, Feb. 2, at 12 noon at the St. Stephen's R.C. Church, Kearny and Washington Avenues, Kearny, N.J.

Mass Celebrant will be Rev. Joseph Cevetello, State CWV and Auxiliary Chaplain; assisted by Msgr. Aloysius S. Carney, Chaplain Emeritus and Msgr. Charles Demjanovich, Chaplain Emeritus of the Ladies Auxiliary.

This special event is held yearly to honor the memory of this now famous Soldier-priest, Father Washington, who went down with the torpedoed troopship Dorchester, after giving his life jacket to a soldier, received the Distinguished Service Cross, posthumously.

Receiving similar honors were two ministers and a rabbi, also reported to have given their life jackets to others, and who remained on the Troopship Dorchester, as it sank in icy waters off Greenland on February 3, 1943. With Father Washington, they are known as "The Four Chaplains". In Philadelphia, Pa., a Chapel was dedicated by former U.S. President, Harry S. Truman in memory of "The Four Chaplains."

All Catholic War Veteran and Auxiliary Units will assemble with their Colors at 11:30 a.m. outside the Church on Washington Avenue and will march into church as a massed unit. The family of Father Washington will also attend, this 32nd anniversary of the death of our Hero-Priest.

Post Office reports Special stamp issues

The U.S. Postal Service today announced the issue dates and first day cities for five commemorative stamps scheduled for release in early 1975.

Design details about the stamps will be disclosed later. A 10-cent stamp saluting the Pioneer unmanned space probes of the planet Jupiter will be issued on February 28 at Mountain View, California, the site of NASA's Ames Research Center. Pioneer 10 passed within 81,000 miles of Jupiter in December, 1973, and Pioneer 11 narrowed the distance to 27,000 miles in December, 1974. Both spacecraft provided valuable new knowledge about the solar system's largest planet.

On March 13, in Washington, D.C., a 10-cent stamp will be issued commemorating Collective Bargaining, a social force that stabilized labor-management relations in the United States.

A four-stamp set honoring unheralded persons who played important roles in the American Revolution will be issued on March 25. The set, called Contributors to the Cause, will be issued at four separate locations:

At Cambridge, Massachusetts, a 10-cent stamp will be issued to honor Salem Poor, the black militiaman whose conduct at the Battle of Bunker Hill won him a citation for bravery.

At Carmel, New York, an 8-cent stamp will be issued to salute Sybil Ludington, a 16-year-old who rode through the night to bring soldiers to the aid of the Danbury militia being attacked by the British.

In Chicago, a 10-cent stamp will be issued in honor of Haym Salomon, a merchant and banker known as the "Financier of the Revolution" for his contributions to the bankrupt Continental Army and to the emerging new nation. At Greensboro, North Carolina, an 18-cent stamp will be issued to salute Peter Francisco, a hero of the Battle of Guilford Court House, Francisco, who enlisted at age 15, fought with distinction until the British surrender at Yorktown.

A second 10-cent space stamp, honoring the Mariner 10 space mission will be issued April 4 at Pasadena, California, site of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory of the California Institute of Technology. Mariner 10 visited the planets Venus and Mercury during 1974 and is scheduled for a third encounter with Mercury in mid-March.

Continuing the Bicentennial theme, a 10-cent stamp commemorating the Battle of Lexington and Concord will be issued on April 19 at Concord, Massachusetts. The first battles of the Revolutionary War were fought at Lexington and Concord on that date.

Requests for first day cancellations for the above stamps with proper remittance should be postmarked no later than the issue date and be addressed as follows: "Pioneer Stamp, Postmaster, Mountain View, CA 94042."

"Collective Bargaining Stamp, Postmaster, Washington, DC 20013"
"Salem Poor Stamp, Postmaster, Cambridge, MA 02139"
"Haym Salomon Stamp, Postmaster, Chicago, IL 60607"
"Peter Francisco Stamp, Postmaster, Greensboro, NC 27420"
"Mariner Stamp, Postmaster, Pasadena, CA 91109"
"Lexington & Concord Stamp, Postmaster, Concord, MA 01742"
"Sybil Ludington Stamp, Postmaster, Carmel, NY 10512."
(For the Sybil Ludington stamp, a remittance of 16 cents per cover will be required for first day cancellations.
