The question as to whether women should be allowed to serve with men in bars has been a matter of concern for a long time. The barroom ordinance regulating places for the dispensation of alcoholic beverages distinctly states they shall not. It appears that the rule has not been rigidly enforced and a license appeared before the board to ask for a little leniency in this at late seasons. He has women companions, accompanied by their husbands, or male friends are told they cannot be served at the bar they go elsewhere—to neighboring communities where the law is not so rigid.

The appearance of women at the bar is not an ele­vating sight but has become a common one in the best regulated and most desirable places throughout this and other states. Despite the fact that in an instruction of the state law it is winked at and has grown to be a regular custom.

The proprietors of licensed places have here a very good argument, looked at in a general light, but they have a very weak one if they look at the law, they should be allowed to. They know it, or should they know it when they apply for a license and promise to abide by the rules and regulations which licenses and measure.

According to present day conventionality women are not at all friendly with men in anything they care to assume even though it is said that the law's side and measured by old standards goes beyond the bounds of decency. We are living in an "advanced" age and it seems to actually to balk against the fact and measures present day customs with the yardstick of Victorian days.

One Doper View

A man named William Burke, whose address is under the Act of Congress 1027, 50th St., New York City, has been arrested by the United States Marshal for credit purposes.

He is the second man to be arrested under the provisions of the law for credit fraud in the district of New York. The first was a man named John Doe, who was arrested last week.

The law, which was passed by Congress last year, provides that any person who makes a false statement in any application for credit, or who fraudulently obtains credit, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by fine not more than $5,000, or by both.

The United States Marshal said that Burke had made false statements in his application for credit and that he was in debt to several banks.

Along the Waterfront

By Dorothy L. Present

Covering the waterfront after a record-breaking week-end. Over 2,000 participated in the various beach activities—playground games, dancing, and swimming. The bins, the bath houses, the beach houses were literally packed with bathers and swimmers. The ice in the largest outdoor facilities of the ocean bath pools is broken up, and the other in the New Columbia Hotel pool was unable to make too much headway on the other side of the ocean roof.

The exercise has been a well-spring of interest and sports for all. Museums are open, and those who want to rest can sit in the sun and watch the sea as it goes by.
