IMPORTANT DUTY OF PARENTS

its bearing on the school or church.

Religious Development: Education lasts as long as life. It is hard to say when education begins. some claim at birth and others that prenatal influences have a direct bearing on the child's entire life. At any rate we are the sum of all the experiences of the past. No event, secret thought or experience of a human being is awake is without its influence upon our lives. The boy is not one thing at home and another in church or school—everything he associates with influence upon him. If he goes to a moving picture show, participates in a street brawl, or any of the many things into which a child may fall the influence is left upon him.

The speaker then pointed out that the matter of education cannot be unloaded upon the school, but that it must be done by the parent with the aid of the school. He then showed that only fifteen to twenty per cent. of the time of the boy or girl is spent in school and less in the church, so that the greater part of the time and the greater part of the responsibility therefore falls on the home; that the child is developing while he is out of school as well as when in the institution. He said that it was practically impossible for the public schools to do the platform before the public work and to have evening parties for children on the alphabetical. We have those things in common with other lower and it seems to be a matter that we should give the children the same kind of recreation and amusement that we expected enjoy. Mr. portsmouth thought that we should show that there is left for the child to receive in mature years in the social side of life, if all their energies are exhausted in youth. He showed the same things left their impress on the young effect to their disadvantage.

In conclusion he spoke strongly in favor of a Parent-Teacher Association, through which the parents and teachers could cooperate for the advancement of the child, which is most wholesome and desirable thing. He urged all to join the association when it is formed and work together with the school authorities and teachers for the welfare of the child.

The address was listened to with intense interest and made a deep impression on the audience.

In the First Methodist church, the Rev. J. Edgar Washabaugh, Ph. D., made a specially effective address to a large congregation. He pointed out four great needs: First, high ideals of education without God to be taken a race of clever devils; second, is the need of enrichment of life that can only come from God, illustrated by the college—man with a pagan religion, that nothing is so poor as the life unrelated to God; third, is the need of enrichment of life that can only come from God, illustrated by the college—man with a pagan religion, that nothing is so poor as the life unrelated without faith in God. The third need was portrayed as a dynamic or power to live next room, to live next door, to live in the factory, to live in the office, to live in the home, to live in the school, to live in the church, to live in the world. He showed that the greatest need of the hour is a dynamic power do certain work he has no right to step in and change them."

Councilman Trembley called attention to the fact that there was not one member of the street committee present at the meeting to explain the matter. "I believe the committee ought to have something to say in the matter before we go ahead and do it."

"That is my idea exactly," said Councilman Lage, "that we go ahead and do it. The committee has the privilege of being here and if they are not, we are not responsible for their absence."

"If you purchase for one street you could to purchase for two," interpolated Councilman Laidlaw. He then told how it was impossible to reach some of the houses in the Second Ward with wagons during a rainy period. "It is just as logical to buy material to repair Elm street as another." Mr. Laidlaw then offered an amendment to Mr. Lage's motion that Whitter street be included. This was seconded by Councilman Trembley.

City Engineer Hoffman, questioned, then said that the liquid asphalt contracted to be purchased in 5,000 gallon tank lots and also stated that the road work as it being done now could be purchased by the acre load. He said that trap rock and crushed stone could be purchased in small lots but would not be the same as the repairs already made on the streets.

Councilman Lage said: "It will cost less to repair now than next year, and I will withdraw my motion and let it go." It always gets on my nerves when a man mentions a really needed street improvement and then have another councilman say there is another in my ward just as bad. We are not working by wards but for the whole city. Why can't one matter be discussed at first?"

Councilman Moffett said: "I feel that our street should be done that needs attention if by doing the work now we can save the city money." Mr. Laidlaw replied to Councilman Lage's remarks saying: "It was the same spirit of business and economy that caused me to call attention to Whitter street. As councilman from the second ward the matter was naturally brought to my attention and it is my duty to try to improve it."

Street Commissioner Daniel then stated that Cranford wants a half car of liquid asphalt and that possibly some arrangement could be made between the two municipalities to get a full car and then divide it. The matter was referred to the street committee and purchasing agent to obtain information and report at next meeting.

A communication was received from Gustave H. Wright, secretary of the Bethlehem Home Association, asking when the sewers are to be installed in Hazen and Stanton streets, between St. Georges Avenue and Pierpont street as the company is desirous of erecting additional houses in that section. Ordinances for sewers in that section were adopted a year ago, as were also mechanical for other sections of the city, but as yet no work has been done. Councilman Buckley expressed his opinion that it is time steps were taken and legislation made to have the work should be done or the ordinances revoked. Upon Mr. Buckley's motion it was voted to have the communication of the Gotham Home Corporation and copies of sewer ordinances placed in the hands of the drainage committee for investigation and report.

Councilman Lage called attention to the obstruction of the sewer basin at the corner of Main Street and Rahway Wood avenue and Councilman Trembley referred to the basin at the corner of Church and Madison avenue. These matters were referred to Street Commissioner Daniel.

Councilman Trembley said that there are sewer conditions that should be remedied before the paving of the small strip in Main street at the junction of bridges and Poplar streets is undertaken. He was referred to the street and drainage committee and city engineer.

C. O. Tingley asked that action be taken toward the removal of weeds from the sidewalk in St. George avenue between Scott and Linden avenues. Councilman Trembley and Buckley called attention to various other spots in the city where weeds should be removed. The city clerk was authorized to notify the street commissioner to attend to the matter immediately.

Notice was received from the voters of the nominations of the following candidates for city chief and two assistants: For chief, Francis T. Hally, Henry Cornelius, of Washington Hose Company; Nathan Randolph, Franklin Hose Company; for assistant chiefs, Kilsworth C. Miller, Henry Grothen, Elmer Hartz, Joseph Mohr, Charles Dreoma. These were referred to the fire and water committee for report at the next meeting.

Secretary James P. Dunn, of Washington Chemical Engine Company, asked that an exemption certificate be granted to A. C. Baker. This was referred to the fire and water committee.

The Merck Company asked that several night watchmen employed at their plant be appointed special officers. The names submitted are as follows: William Wakeham, 5 Underhill place; Charles Post, 52 Seminary avenue; John Hartz, 16 Whitter street; John Crosby, 21 Essex street; Camille Moreder, 10 East Grand street; John Healy, 17 Stearns street. These were referred to Mayor Fyffe.

The report of Sewer Commissioner Colisel showed that work amounting to $852.33 had been done in his department in the city last week.

Tax Receiver Reinstatzer reported the receipt of $4,124.19. In the report of City Treasurer Stillman the receipts were shown to be $2,837.56 the past month and disbursements amounting to $8,217.34, leaving a balance of $50,874.34. The balances in the various accounts were reported as follows: Contingent fund, $6,047.28; fire, $2,423.64; lamps, $2,458.88; roads, $2,947.211 bond, $152,97; police, $4,436.33. Bills amounting to $3,810.14 were ordered paid.

Superintendent E. C. Harrison, of the almshouse reported six inmates, four women and two men; receipts, $230; expenses, $81.22.

Members of council and officials present were: President Stewart H. Moffett, Councilmen George M. Lage, Harold S. Berkey, David H. Trembley, James T. Laidlaw and William S. Page, City Clerk Charles H. Leinhert, City Treasurer Frank M. Stillman, Engineer Franklin Marsh, Deputy Tax Collector Fred M. Williams, Street Commissioner George Daniel, Health Officer Dr. F. W. Hall and Fire Chief George Finfield.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE HEAD

Frederick L. Minzel Holds Important Position for G. E. Union

State President John F. Hyroult, of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union has appointed Frederick L. Minzel, of 23 Campbell street, chairman of the nominating committee, which will recommend a list of officers for the ensuing year to be selected at the state convention to be held at the Third Presbyterian church, Rahway, on October 5, 6 and 7.

Chairman Minzel has forwarded a letter to every society in the state asking for recommendations for officers and has also apportioned the entire state among the members of the committee, each member being responsible for a certain section of the state.

It is understood that President Hyroult, who has rendered such efficient and valuable service as head of the State organization, is thinking of retiring and it may be necessary for the union to select another head, however, every effort is being made to secure his consent to again accept the presidency. Mr. Minzel has already received numerous letters urging him to use every influence possible to induce President Hyroult to remain in office. The committee, of course, is expected to have a recommendation ready at the convening of the annual gathering in Elizabeth.

Besides Mr. Minzel those on the nominating committee are: Mrs. Frank R. Mallory, of Flemington, representing Hunterdon, Warren and Sussex counties; Howard J. Peck, Hackettstown, representing Hudson, Passaic and Bergen counties; William P. Moses, Trenton, representing Mercer, Monmouth, Burlington, Ocean and Camden counties; William P. Moses, Trenton, representing Mercer, Monmouth, Burlington, Ocean and Camden counties; the Rev. Walace Sutton Marple, Hammonton, representing Atlantic, Cape May, Cumberland, Salem and Gloucester counties. Mr. Minzel represents Union, Somerset, Morris, Middlesex and Essex counties.

September 21—Primary Election for City and special registration day.

October 19—State referendum election, and third registration day.

November 2—General Election Day.

THE FUTURE VALUE

The idea of instruction and education along lines that will be helpful and are of benefit in future years is the general aim of school work. This idea is well represented in the school work with some practical output, and is one that has had excellent results, according to an exhibition made this week at the two schools mentioned.

Flower and vegetable seeds were procured from the Flower Station, Cleveland, and distributed among the children from the fourth to the eighth grades, with instructions to start gardens of their own at home last spring. The products of these gardens were exhibited the first of the week and much credit is due the children for the excellent showing made.

The raising of flowers and vegetables usually instills in the mind of the young the necessity of having a neat and attractive yard to correspond with their gardening efforts. In making the gardens the general with the children the appearance of the entire city is improved. "One good turn deserves another," so one good garden means another and perhaps several more, if a certain yard is made tidy and attractive by a little effort it is noticed that it has had a good effect on the neighbors and other yards are soon "bright and shamed." As the idea of work spreads the city is improved in appearance and its beauty greatly enhanced.

Interest in flowers and the finer things of life also has a good influence on the character of a child and those who are fond of flowers and nature in general seldom stray far from the straight and narrow path and usually make the most useful and best citizens.

WHOLESOME GROWTH

While conversing with a well-known city official yesterday the editor was delighted to hear his original idea of Rahway's growth, although slow, is of a permanent and wholesome nature that must sooner or later have its effect upon the standing of the city. He called attention to the goodly number of substantial new homes now in course of erection in the vicinity of Maple terrace, Central avenue and Milton avenue, saying that the growth is of the "not desirable kind because in most cases the houses are being built by men desiring to own their own homes and not as a matter of speculation as is often the case with really concerns."

He went a step further and added that he believes there are more individuals in proportion to population living in their own homes in Rahway than in any other city in the state. There are no figures at hand to verify his statement but the statement has the ring of accuracy when one pauses to look over the city and notice the great number of people who do occupy houses of their own.

In prosecuting to the claims that building operations in Rahway are much more brisk than in some of the leading suburban towns in Essex county in the vicinity of Newark, where they have come to a compare the standard. Providing these assertions are correct and there is no reason to believe them otherwise, then those interested in Rahway and its general development and growth should feel greatly encouraged to continue their efforts. Observers may not be found indicating that evidence that the city is steadily advancing along desirable lines and the few knockers remaining should display their bannners in worse of construction instead of destruction.

PEOPLE SHOULD CONTROL

"How does he stand in regard to the volunteer fire department?" is the question said to good authority, as being asked by some of the voters of the volunteer fire companies of the city concerning councilmanic candidates in the coming primaries. It is behind this question only those within the inner circles of the department organization know. It is an indication that the firemen as an organization are in support only those known to favor the volunteer system and oppose those who do not coincide with their views, then it is high time voters and citizens in general awoke to their duty.

No single organization, unless it were possible to contain the crystallized sentiment of all citizens within that organization, whether it be a fire department or any other combination, should be allowed to control the city or dictate its representatives. The sentiment above indicates that the firemen are endeavoring to obtain control of the city government. The fire department organization is now in course of formation, which, in addition to the committees, now in existence, will be composed of the following officers: President, Chief Engineer, Assistant Chief Engineer, Secretary, Treasurer, Financial Secretary, Recording Secretary, Sergeant-at-Arms, Chaplain, Trustees, Delegates to the committee, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of New Jersey, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Essex County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Union County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Middlesex County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Hudson County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Bergen County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Passaic County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Morris County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Sussex County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Warren County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Hunterdon County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Ocean County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Monmouth County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Atlantic County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Cape May County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Cumberland County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Salem County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Gloucester County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Camden County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Burlington County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Mercer County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Monmouth County, Delegates to the Firemen's Association of Ocean

MAS FUTURE VALUE

Practical instruction and education along lines that will be useful and of real benefit in future years is the general aim of school work. This idea has been well carried out throughout the schools of Mr. Ida Farrell, principal of the Franklin and Lincoln schools, who has supplemented the school work with some practical outside training that has had excellent results. An exhibition was made this week at the two schools mentioned.

Flower and vegetable seeds were procured from the Flower Mission. Flower and vegetable gardens were made by the children from the fourth to the seventh grades with instructions to care for them and their own at home last spring. The products of these gardens were exhibited the first of the week and much credit is due the children for the excellent showing made.

The value received by the children from close contact with plant and the possible life-long usefulness of the general knowledge obtained of the vegetable kingdom in this way, through the planting and care of the flowers or vegetables, will encourage in all with the children throughout life. But aside from the value received in this way, there is still another feature of great importance which the children unconsciously obtain and which is for the general welfare of the city.

The raising of flowers and vegetables makes for thrift in the mind of the child the necessity of having a neat and attractive yard to correspond with their gardening efforts. By making the home gardening general with the children the appearance of the entire city is improved. One good turn deserves another, so our public parks in turn should and perhaps several more. If a certain yard is made to look attractive by the joint effort it is often noticed that it has a good effect on the neighbors and other yards are soon brought into harmony. As the idea or whole spreads the city is improved in appearance and its beauty greatly enhanced.

Interest in flowers and the finer things of life also has a good influence on the character of a child and those who are fond of flowers and of nature in general seldom stray far from the straight and narrow path and usually make the most useful and best citizens.

WHOLESOME GROWTH

While conversing with a well-known city official yesterday the editor was delighted to hear him express the belief that Rahway's growth, although slow, is of a permanent and wholesome nature that must sooner or later have its effect upon the standing of the city. These figures at hand to verify his belief, but his statement has the ring of accuracy when one pauses to look over the city and notice the great number of people who do occupy homes of their own.

In proportion to the signs that building operations will be very much more brisk than in some of the leading suburban towns in Essex county in the vicinity of Newark, where they have come to a comparative standstill. Providing these approaches are correct and there is reason to believe them otherwise, often these interested in Rahway and its general development and betterment should feel greatly encouraged to continue their efforts. Certainly based may be found indications and evidence that the city is gradually shaking off the lethargy of the few years remaining should employ their influence in works of construction instead of destruction.

PEOPLE SHOULD CONTROL

"How can we stand in regard to the voluntary fire department question and act on good authority, as being asked by some of the members of the volunteer fire department? Why can's we get some concluding conclusions or dates at the coming election, so that we could know the question only those within the inner circles or our fire department organization. If it is a sign of indication that the premen as an organization are to support only those known to favor the volunteer system and oppose those who do not coincide with their views, then it is high time voters and citizens in general awoke to their duty.

"No single organization, unless it were possible to contain the crystallized sentiment of all citizens within its membership, whether it be a fire department or any other combination, should be allowed to dictate or dictate its policies. If the question mentioned above indicates that the firemen are endeavoring to shape control of the next municipal body, as it will be organized next January, we respectfully of probable fire department engaged to be recommended by the committee now investigating to determine the best form of fire department for the city of the nation, and the interest in general took a hand in the matter.

"The whole point is simply, can we get a council where the people as a whole determine the policies and make their choice of men to carry out those policies is strangled and threatened with ultimate death when an organization is allowed to control the affairs of the municipality state or nation. It matters not whether it be a fire department, Board of Trade, or any other combination of individuals.

"What Rahway needs as office-holders and municipal bankers is a body of men who will work together for the city's best interests, without favoritism or partiality to any particular set. The present bickerings, underhanded methods and personal jealousy should be eliminated from the council chamber and all bend their energies for the betterment of the city regardless of personal or selfish aspirations of any man or any group of men.

"It is hoped that the voters of the city will pay particular attention to their voting of the city ticket this fall and elect only those men who are bound by no tie or promise to further the cause or aims of any particular class or group of men.

A CREDITABLE STEP

Local motorists and drivers of all sorts of vehicles are highly pleased over the action of the Board of Freeholders this week in arranging for the widening of the paved strip of roadway in St. George avenue, from Stiles avenue to the corner of West Grand street in this city a distance of about four miles. It is planned to add three feet to either side of the present strip and the specifications require 15,750 square yards of bituminous concrete road surface, laid 300 feet to the square yard being amiesite as manufactured by the New Jersey Amiesite Company. The contract has been awarded to the W. H. Walton Contracting Company, of this city, for $4,215.24.

The widening is the first step in a proposed plan to make St. George avenue paved strip in St. George avenue and will be a great benefit to all travel and will enable vehicles in passing to remain on the hard surface and not get off into the wings of the roadway where travel is much harder owing to the softness of the soil and the stones that frequently

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

Otto Kahn
On Financial Farm Loans

Every citizen who desires to become capable in business should study banking, and every farmer who wants to see the business of agriculture properly financed should study diligently the financial systems of other industries. All other lines of industry have developed financial facilities adapted to their needs.

Financial institutions authorized by law or custom to deal in a certain line of securities, but in none of these financial channels will farm securities travel without a bonus in the way of an excessive rate of interest or heavy discounts.

The most powerful financial institutions in America are private banks and they are the most important to the financial life of industry. In no line of business does honesty, efficiency and stability make more imperative demands than upon private bankers, whose greatest asset is the confidence of the buying public in his business judgment and integrity. Mr. Otto Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, when asked to state the relation of the private banker to the business of the nation, said in part:

"One of the most important functions of the private banker is to be the instrument for providing the money required for the efficient conduct and development of railroads and other industrial enterprises. He does this by buying securities in bulk from these needing of other financial houses, great and associates himself with a large number of bankers. Having in this way concluded small, this forming what is called a syndicate. He then proceeds to distribute the buying transaction he offers to and through the facilities of the retail means of advertising, circulating among his clients, of whom employs traveling salesmen, houses included in the syndicate, tender of these securities. The syndicate of course the banker and the retail dealer, who rendered services: on the other hand they receive the right to have certain profit and pay a fixed price, remaining on their hands wholly, or in part if the public, of any of securities is a highly specialized trade, requiring much experience, capital, machinery and scrutiny. This is not of the reasons why corporations do better in offering securities for the public to buy. Experts from their confidence in the integrity and the business judgment of the banker, who stands to lose if he misjudges the value of the securities he offers for sale, would ever accept the risk of the business, if it were not for the fact that the banker is willing to share the risk with them. Without the banker, the investor would be deprived of the opportunity of buying bonds secured by the functions of the private bankers—including the placing of bonds secured by the mortgages on farms and other large estates. Farm mortgages are made by local mortgagees bankers who buy mortgages on farms and other large estates, and then sell them to investors, who generally speaking, turn also sold to bankers. It is to be hoped that similar institutions will in course of time, be created in America, for placing the farming industry on a par with other important industries in facilities to obtain capital."

IRRITABILITY A WARNING.
One of Nature's Danger Signals That Should Be Heeded.

Are you unusually quick tempered? Do you find yourself on slight provocation, giving way to petty outbursts of anger? Are you constantly tagging fault finding and complaining?

Irritability is one of your co-ordinate characteristics. It is important for you to recognize that excessive irritability is always a danger signal. It points to the presence of conditions which may be disastrous to you unless remedied.

In particular, irritability means that your nerves are out of tune. This may be the result of either physical or mental causes, or a combination of both. Usually both physical and mental causes enter in to intensify one another's harmful effects.

Thus the commonest of all causes of nervous disturbance is worry. Worry is known, interfere with all the bodily functions. It is especially damaging in its influence on the digestion.

When the food is not properly digested the nervous system is poorly nourished and severely stimulated. It also in some degree poisoned by the circulation in the blood of substances which would otherwise have been removed by the eliminative organs.

All this causes a nervous tension that may express itself in chronic "grouchiness" or in frequent attacks of bad temper. These attacks in their turn cause increased weakening of the digestive powers.

What is needed to cure both the indigestion and the irritability is the cultivation of an optimistic attitude. Your tendency to worry, look on the dark side of things, must be overcome.—H. Addison Bross in Kansas City Star.

Unique American Families.

The Harrison family, like the Adams family of Massachusetts, on its illustrious genealogical tree carries the name of one signer of the Declaration of Independence and two presidents of the United States. In this record the Adams and the Harrisons stand apart in a class by themselves. Such distinction is one family, it can be noted, will never again be equaled. They remain unique in the history of the country.

Not Wasn't Missing.

One of the ushers approached a man who appeared to be annoying those about him.

"Don't you like the show?"

"Yes, indeed."

"Then why do you persist in hissing the performers?"

"Why, they're not alive. I wouldn't hissing. I'm was simply hissing to see if they were alive."—New York Globe.

Full Particulars.

The prosecuting witness in the famous suit against the city was giving in his testimony.

"Now then, Mr. Bloodson," said his lawyer, "you will please tell the jury what you saw."

"On my knee, in my feelings and right in front of the city hall, I plainly observed the witness, fearing an objection, run by the other attorney."—Case and Comment.

LETTERS FROM THINKING PEOPLE

Communications of General Interest to the Citizens of Rahway.

Mr. Editor:—We might assume that Mr. Furber is the "man who wants to see Rahway on the map." If one is judged by the alacrity with which he responds to the communication of Mr. Gage, but there are pertinent reasons why we cannot concur in such opinion. First, we are inclined to think that had Mr. Furber been author, his name would have been attached. Second, the communication was too nearly void of venomous, muck-raking malice to warrant the opinion that it emanated from the pen of Mr. Furber. Third, we have failed to find any reason to believe, judging from the expressions of Mr. Furber, that he does "want to see Rahway on the map."

We cordially admire Mr. Furber's courage in voicing that "image" that failed completely in his last attempt to carry on a newspaper controversy, so to speak. We hesitate to question the accuracy of any statements made by Mr. Gage in the said controversy, nor made any attempt to justify himself in occupying certain positions on questions at issue. Instead, he slides around every time and went off on another track, making a running fight of it, and Mr. Gage simply refused to be run off his track. Mr. Gage has not the abnormal amount of self-assurance possessed by Mr. Furber, so he did not depend on his own opinion as to the result of said controversy, but his friends, a large number expressed the opinion that he more than held one on the subject matter of the controversy, but his own. Mr. Furber's perpetuity for definite statements from the beginning of the controversy, and his failure to acknowledge defeat and be satisfied. We claim to have some reasonable ground for the belief that he still imagines himself to be the unconquerable.

We are not surprised that Mr. Furber holds friendships so lightly, as we had several illustrations of what value he places on friendship when occasion requires; but Mr. Furber must understand that I am a firm believer in true friendship and friends are of a different caliber from the counterfeit suggested by him.

Mr. Gage "retreated" with emphasis that such attacks as the communication referred to are cowardly, if over an assumed name. The same quality of cowardice as in one who slanders his neighbor, but always concludes with the request not to divulge the authority.

Any one but Mr. Furber can see at a glance that the letter which we answered was a Continuation Government argument (or intended to be such) and to take exception to the objectionable features would be comparised as an argument against Continuation government, unless otherwise specified, and while we could not submit to the unjust statements therein contained, we did not wish to make it a political document, blame the management that it was not an argumental replica (nominally provided). And we insist that it was not so intended, for we evident that we meant yet some one else, or a system that does not work, no condemnation of the man, but rather a condemnation of the system. Mr. Furber had said—"The more fact the you cannot get some system under the general system, is not a condemnation of the men," we should have agreed with him, but we still insist that if these same men refused to serve with the assertion, as suggested by "one who wants to see Rahway on the map" that they would sacrifice the city rather than themselves—it is a condemnation of the men. But which we cannot get "some" men to serve, we do not find fault with the men, but the system, and they do serve and the system will work.

A man, a real man, votes for something he wants, and not because some one else want it, unless he can be convinced it is best, and Mr. Furber to the contrary, notwithstanding. Mr. Gage does decide which is best in his own mind and then have the nerve to stand for it." One of Mr. Furber's failings seems to be that he thinks men should "decide which is best" in his (Mr. Furber's) mind; in other words, if you don't agree with Mr. Furber, you are wrong. We would have to be some contortionist to "bend" in such a game. A republican when he came to Rahway, we do not know what before, then a Progressive, then an advocate of "Continuation government, and now an advocate for the suffragists. And now, as before, we must hasten to "relicate" that we are not protesting on any of these worthy causes, but our thought is of the professional filibuster man who is never in the wrong.

Now, Mr. Editor, this new "newspaper controversy" is ended so far as Mr. Gage is concerned, but Mr. Furber will probably choose to furnish another installment from his choice collection of "knocks for Rahway," but if he does we shall left pay any attention to it, as instead we are taking the trouble to go contrary to the advice of our friends" in writing this communication, for they urged us not to bother with Mr. Furber as no one took him seriously anyway.

Mr. Furber may figure out our text for himself and decide whether or not we have stuck to it.

Will gladly furnish any citizen with any information concerning our business or answer any questions. All we ask is a square deal for all and from all.

GEORGE M. GAGE.

Compulsory Abstinence

Compulsory abstinence would have seemed a complete inversion of the natural order in some of our ancestors. They believed in compulsory drinking, and in some old county manuals may still be seen, I believe, a ring let into the wall of the dining hall for the punishment of the man who would not or could not drink his allotted share of liquor.

THE MAN IN THE BOX.

He Startled but Did Not Unnerve the Express Car Guards.

The messenger was alone in the express car, and the time was midnight that time about 200 miles outside of San Francisco. At the last stop the messenger had been very sorry to see an ordinary rough box loaded from the truck. The express car was roomy enough, but it always depressed him a little.

Having set things to rights, he sat down near his little writing desk and dropped into a doze. A sudden lurch of the train roused him, and, as he stretched himself awake, what was his consternation at seeing that the lid of the rough box was lifted about three inches!

Nervous messengers live in daily apprehension of twin robbers, and—the thought flashed through his mind in the twinkling of an eye that one of those pesky was in the box.

As he got up from his chair he was relieved to see the lid quickly drop into place. However, he knew that the bandit was no doubt watching his every movement from a hole bored in the side of the box and that what he did would be closely scrutinized.

"Moving out of the hidden man's range of vision he got his hands on a few bills and a hammer. Then he slowly walked the whole length of the express car, with his pocketbook in his hand, suddenly threw a heavy brass on the lid of the rough box, jumped astride it and drilled down the lid sociably. Then he deliberately robbed round and struggled out to avail.

"Now, Mr. Editor, I ask you if that was not a bold, brazen, cool piece of work? Yet it was not a condemnation of the express system, but a condemnation of the bandit, who should have agreed with him, but still insist that if these same men refused to serve with the assertion, as suggested by "one who wants to see Rahway on the map" that they would sacrifice the city rather than themselves—it is a condemnation of the men. But which we cannot get "some" men to serve, we do not find fault with the men, but the system, and they do serve and the system will work.

A man, a real man, votes for something he wants, and not because some one else want it, unless he can be convinced it is best, and Mr. Furber to the contrary, notwithstanding. Mr. Gage does decide which is best in his own mind and then have the nerve to stand for it." One of Mr. Furber's failings seems to be that he thinks men should "decide which is best" in his (Mr. Furber's) mind; in other words, if you don't agree with Mr. Furber, you are wrong. We would have to be some contortionist to bend in such a game. A republican when he came to Rahway, we do not know what before, then a Progressive, then an advocate of "Continuation government, and now an advocate for the suffragists. And now, as before, we must hasten to "relicate" that we are not protesting on any of these worthy causes, but our thought is of the professional filibuster man who is never in the wrong.

Now, Mr. Editor, this new "newspaper controversy" is ended so far as Mr. Gage is concerned, but Mr. Furber will probably choose to furnish another installment from his choice collection of "knocks for Rahway," but if he does we shall left pay any attention to it, instead we are taking the trouble to go contrary to the advice of our friends" in writing this communication, for they urged us not to bother with Mr. Furber as no one took him seriously anyway.

Mr. Furber may figure out our text for himself and decide whether or not we have stuck to it.

Will gladly furnish any citizen with any information concerning our business or answer any questions. All we ask is a square deal for all and from all.

GEORGE M. GAGE.

Compulsory Abstinence

Compulsory abstinence would have seemed a complete inversion of the natural order in some of our ancestors. They believed in compulsory drinking, and in some old county manuals may still be seen, I believe, a ring let into the wall of the dining hall for the punishment of the man who would not or could not drink his allotted share of liquor.

The culprit's arm was fixed to the ring, and he was given choice of drinking in the ordinary way or having the liquor he refused poured down his sleeve, hence the medieval tool, "Lavlate's sleeving."—London Standard.

Antiquated Scenery.

Of scenery for the eighteenth century debtor the value of the theater must not be overlooked. As long as the actor was in the bounds of the playhouse he was safe. There was John Palmer, for instance, who lived in his dressing room at Drury Lane for months. But engagements, even at Drury Lane, come to an end, and when Palmer was required at the Haymarket, the journey was a dangerous one. Necessity, however, always fertile inventor. They packed him in a sedan, put the caddies in a cart and called him "scenery."

YOUR CAR KNOWS THE DIFFERENCE

FILL your tank with Standard Motor Gasoline, and you notice the difference instantly in the "feel" of your engine.

Standard Motor Gasoline is so much better than "just gas" that it is worth while to be particular about what goes into your tank. Cylinder carbon frequently is caused by the use of an inferior fuel.

Standard Motor Gasoline vaporizes readily and burns cleanly. It is a straight-distilled product, not a mixture—the same for every drop in your tank.

You can get Standard Motor Gasoline wherever you can take a car. It is absolutely uniform—the same now as next week, and it is cheaper to buy because there are more miles in a gallon.

Use Polarine Oil, the Standard Oil for all motors. Friction free, carbon free. For sale wherever you see the "Standard Motor Gasoline Service Station" sign.

STOREHOUSE OF THE MIND.

There is Nothing Good or Mystical in the Subconscious.

Stated as briefly as possible, the subconscious may be described as that region of the human mind in which are stored the memories acquired by previous experience, sensation and observation.

This includes memories of sights and sounds which were perceived without our being aware of them at the time they were perceived them.

Let them come within range of the conscious mind, and we are paying attention to something else, and the delicate mechanism of these organs registers a definite memory image of them in our minds.

Such images, together with all our other memory images, no matter how acquired, remain our permanent possessions.

We are able to recall by voluntary effort only a comparatively few of our innumerable memory images. But repeated experiments as well as facts of common knowledge seem to indicate that under certain conditions any experience that we have ever had can be recalled by us. As one psychologist puts it:

"Whatever has come into the mind can come out of the mind."

Experiment from time to time a region of the mind wherein are stored these most distinctive memory images. It is in this region that psychologists refer to as the "subconscious." Fully nine-tenths of our memory images are stored in the subconscious.

JUNIOR TENNIS

The Rahway Junior tennis tourney came to an end on Saturday afternoon when Lindsay defeated Jones in one of the hardest fought matches that either of the boys had ever played. The match was started late Tuesday afternoon. The first set was the hardest fought set of all. On Wednesday afternoon the match was once again started, Lindsay having won set. The eight all set was not finished but a new set was started, Jones this time set up the score of 5-4. This evening Lindsay won the second set by the score of 6-4. Jones showed up in better form in the third set and Lindsay took it by the score of 6-3. In the deciding set Jones could not come back and after a hard battle Lindsay won by the score of 6-4. In the doubles set Jones could not come back and after a hard battle Lindsay won by the score of 6-4. The boys deserve a cup for winning. There is no runner up prize.

The next set in doubles will be between Brainard Lindsay and Carlton Jones of the West End Junior team and John Rollemover and John Mahler of the Bryant Tennis team.

The committee in charge of the tourney requests that all of those who have not paid their entry fees will hand to Carlton Jones before Saturday morning.

BOWLING TEAM SELECTED

Captain Clifford Miller of the Liberal bowling team, which will represent the local city in the athletic bowling League, the crack organization of the metropolitan district, announced the personal of the team last evening as follows: Guy M. Howard, C. N. MacCormack, H. F. Mooney, William E. Martin and Captain Clifford Miller. This combination should give a good account of itself in the league schedule as all are seasoned pinsters and have shown well in other tournaments. Martin last season captured the high individual prize in the county-league with a perfect score. MacCormack formerly bowled with the New Brunswick Elks and is an excellent pinner. He has been a member of the Liberal club several years. Miller, Howard and Mooney are recognized as leaders among the local pin knights. The Liberal Club will also put a team in the County League and another in the City League. Lindsay Dunkins, Richard Alloff, J. L. Martin, Thomas Black, J. T. Brickell, Waldo Berry, Harold Robinson, A. H. Chamberlain and others remain for the formation of the two latter teams.

Riddle.

I may be made of brass, paper or wood. I may live for a century or be easily defaced and lost. I can give as a token of love, and yet the skilled artisan may never supply my counterpart. I hold a stream, a tree, a bird, and a lady—sometimes I hold only a face. I may look like you or like your friend. I may be black or white and so small I may be worn in your ear.

Answer—A locket.

Fare Dust.

We tipped through the Forest
Out bright midsummer night,
Where the moon-dust sifted down
Lay low with twilight,
We spied a little elf mole,
With a lamp, shoot pale,
And he was singing, "Fare dust,
Fare dust for sale!"

He said we made a pathful
To warmth in our shoes,
We paid him for it, gladly,
With a bunch of meadow pea,
And then we heard a rustling,
Like whispering in the trees,
And the laughter of the fairies
Who danced beneath the moon.

We gitter pattered homeward,
And yet, but we felt queer!
For not a soul could see us
And not a soul could hear,
As fairy-like, we tripped it,
We had paid the fairies dues
The magic fare dust had us
And left the world behind us.

But when we woke next morning,
The fare dust all had gone!
Had vanished with the fairies
In the misty light of dawn,
But we think that dust of ways
Is well worth the price
We pay it happily enough,—Fare dust,
Fare dust for sale!

Phonetic Spelling.

Phonetic spelling was evidently in fashion in the sixteenth century, when even Shakespeare could not spell his own name consistently. There is a letter dug from the correspondence of a lady of the sixteenth century in the book of the "Coriswold Family"—the Hicks-Beaches, Juliana writes—it is a matter of debt between the cautious widow and "My lord a Kalder"—"My lord Amnerd and your wife I honour and love, but your false sweering and ingratitude I hatefie a pone." What she really meant was "utterly abhor"—New York American.

His Favorite Play.

Mitch—Say, Gilt—Think of correctly—humanly—impossible. While—Why? Mitch—Why, we're sitting about the stove, and when I inquired, what was the favorite play he said if he had any favorite it was "Hell." A nice detail, forsooth.—Boston Transcript.

MAN AND HIS LAUGH,

Self Restraint and Its Effects Upon Human Emotions.

Laughter is a sign of high development. The nearer one is to the animal the less one laughs. The more highly developed we become the more do we perceive humor. For laughter, it must be remembered, is a sign that an emotion has suddenly been set free. It is like a touch on the trigger of a gun, the gun being self restraint.

No one ever tells an animal on the wild water that there are certain things that he must not do. There is no direct prevention of us not that the animal wants to perform. Consequently the animal has no self restraint.

Man, on the other hand, is surrounded by commandments from babyhood onward. He is always being told by some one, first by his parents, then by the laws of society, that there are things that he must not do. The desire to do these things, coupled to the knowledge that he dare not do them, causes a tense emotion. The animal lives as the occasion rises. Man is keyed up by the continuous conflict of occasions.

It is the relief from this keying up that gives rise to laughter. The great or the tension caused by the delay before impulse and act the further does the thing seem which releases it. Something which would seem comparatively funny if it happened in the street becomes remarkably hilarious when it happens in church because of the tension of feeling that one must not laugh. Or, a gnomish one or one act the night before, one may laugh quite heartily at a joke because of the tension which the joke is intended for, it was not as a target, but as a bolt from the blue. It may give rise to laughter, because they twist our emotions in an unexpected channel.

A dirty teller who laughs at his own jokes always spoils his stories. It is the man who tells a story who is quite seem the unruffled. It is an old saying that "Laughing boys make poor men," but modern science has learned that we must "laugh and grow wise."—New York American.

Five Men Caught in Raid Single-Handed by Sergeant Thompson

HEARING EVEN TONIGHT, OTHER CASES

Through the efforts of Detective Sergeant James Thompson five men are scheduled to appear before Judge H. W. Histett in the police court this evening. The party were arrested Tuesday night and charged by Paul Lagler's 23 Union place, between 7 and 8 o'clock Sunday evening, according to the story told by the detective sergeant, he approached them through a window for some time before making the arrests. While the game was being played a woman of the household opened the door and Sergeant Thompson seized the opportunity to endeavor on the game. The men remonstrated and claimed that it was a friendly game. Mrs. Lagler on the game, considerably excited when she realized that her husband was under arrest, but no demonstration was made against the sergeant, who captured the entire party single-handed.

The quintet were marched to the police station, where Judge Histett and City Attorney Dobbins were quickly on hand. Lagler was charged with keeping a gambling house, while the other four members of the party were accused of collecting in a crowd for unlawful purposes, namely gambling. Lagler provided a bond of $150. The other members of the party were: William Kolnek, Jr., of 109 Irving street; Edward Barns, iron worker, 39 Montgomery street; Joseph Bibolo, iron worker, 10 Union place, all of Rahway, and Louis Kilne say, barber, 47 Smith street, Woodbridge.

Lagler formerly occupied the premises at the corner of Irving street and Farrell place and the police have been kept busy since then, they had been receiving complaints against Lagler concerning gambling games, but it was difficult to catch any of the participants in the game. Sergeant Thompson claims that his watchfulness was rewarded by a lucky evening when he saw money in small sums passed among the players as the fortunes of the games varied. Lagler with bond will have a lawyer in court to fight his case when the time comes.

For creating a disturbance at Geo. V. Miller's lunch wagon on Saturday night, Thomas Newton, colored, aged 63 Washington street, was arraigned before Judge Histett and was fined $10. Foreman got tired of waiting for his turn to be only served called his friend and exchanged some names when he departed. Officer Mary Hoffman made the arrest.

Charged with intoxication, James Downs, no home, was arrested in Westfield avenue, Saturday night, by Officer Amos Mowery. His sentence was $3 or 5th days.

Wheeler Gomez Pabira, Hungarian, of 41 Montgomery street, was knocked down on Main street Saturday night by a motor car. Pabira claims that he was not at fault. The case will be investigated by the police.

Chauncey Hicks, of Hicks-Beaches, Julianna—writes—it is a matter of debt between the cautious widow and "My lord a Kalder"—"My lord Amnerd and your wife I honour and love, but your false sweering and ingratitude I hatefie a pone." What she really meant was "utterly abhor"—London Telegraph.

MAKES GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP

Rahway W. C. T. U. Reaches Goal and Then Sets A Higher Mark

INCREASE LARGELY DUE TO ONE MEMBER

Because the membership campaign conducted this summer by the Rahway W. C. T. U. has proved so successful results according to reports made at the meeting held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Underhill, of Bo-Commerce-street, it was decided to continue the campaign until the 100 goal is reached. Some time ago the national organization announced that a public speaker of national ability could be secured for an address by any union securing twenty new members. The Rahway union set out to achieve this honor. Through the efforts of Treasurer Miss G. T. Underhill, who made a house-to-house canvass, twenty new members were received raising the membership to the eight-four. Now the mark has been set at 100 and the members are confident that it will be reached. At the meeting Saturday afternoon Miss Underhill was warmly congratulated by the members upon her success.

One of the principal features of the meeting was a timely address, The Relation of Suffrage to the Temperance Cause," given under the auspices of the Franchise Department of Mrs. Gertrude Orvis, who handled the subject in an able and forceful way. Mrs. Orvis showed how the ballot could be used by the women to aid the temperance cause and how it would be needed after proper temperance legislation is secured to enforce the laws and take proper educational steps.

Miss Gussie Osborn, who was delegate to the recent county convention held at Dunellen and served on the executive committee and Mrs. Amanda Towsley, a member of the resolutions committee, made excellent reports.

Delegates to the State convention to be held in the First Methodist church at Monticello on Sept. 28 to Oct. 1, were elected as follows: Delegates, Miss Julia Barker, president; and Mrs. E. R. Fuller, alternates, Miss Gussie Osborn and Miss Gertrude Orvis.

It was decided to circulate petitions for the local Superintendent Schools to the passage of a prohibition law and to have the petitions sent to Congress this fall.

FEAST OF TABERNACLES

Joyous Festival of Hebrews Will Commence Tomorrow Evening

Local Hebrews are preparing to observe the Feast of Tabernacles, commencing tomorrow evening and continuing eight days. This joyous festival, better known by the Hebrews and Hebrew name of Succoth, or Booths, will be observed in many homes of the orthodox faith, where meals will be taken during the festival. The synagogue services are especially musical at this time which marks the ancient vintage season the most joyous of the year. In ancient Israel it was the great harvest home, the "Feast of Ingathering," like our Thanksgiving Day. This made it the occasion of the most boisterous religious offerings—lulu-lucks, rams and drink offerings—the drink offerings being so abundant that nearly eighty-eight gallons of wine were poured upon the altar during the eight days. It was a time of dancing and merrymaking.

At a later time the vineyard hooths became the emblem of the rest life of Israel in the wilderness. Some 200 or more booths will be erected in Newark, nearly all by private persons. Some of these booths are so elaborately decorated and have the synagogue. At the booth in the synagogue a book is to be erected on the platform.

In the services of today the two thousand year old prayer for rain, protecting hand vouchsafed to Israel during the test life in the wilderness and thanksgiving for the blessings of harvest and for all the blessings of the year.

This year the joyous thought of the festival is clouded for the Jewish people by the sufferings of relatives and friends in the war.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ACTION

Board of Trade Plans Mass Meeting On Charter Revision Report

RECOMMENDATIONS TO BE THRESHED OUT

Suggestions for the betterment of Rahway and time ripe which the board of Trade would favor, previously asked for by President Wendell, brought forth considerable discussion at the first meeting of the new board since the Commission Government Charter Commission chambers. Numerous suggestions were received and steps taken to crystallize some of the ideas into action.

Water Commissioner F. W. Langstroth made a lengthy report concerning matters including the following: That a public mass meeting be called by the board to discuss the recommendations of the Charter Revision Commission; that the citizens be urged to show more civic pride by repairing their curbing and water keeping grass and weeds cut and be ready for the proposed planting of flowers and shrubs; that the sidewalks be in such a region offered that a committee of three be appointed to draft the letter. Wendell named Mr.
