ATHLETICS SWAT GIANTS IN THIRD

New York, Oct. 9—When the Columbia Athletics met the Novelty Giants yesterday, they met a team which plays football fighting style. It was a case of "hit and run" football, a type of game they never usually meet. Novelty flew a battery of running backs, who found the Columbia defense in their wake. They were as effective as a battery of baseball bats. They scored six touchdowns and were never stopped.

The Columbia attackers had two big gains, but were not able to make anything of them. They played a game of "hit and run" football, and were never able to make anything of it. They had two big gains, but were not able to make anything of them.

conciliation after a consultation with the President, who was present at the meeting, and with Mr. Balfour, the British plenipotentiary, and with Mr. Mazzini, the Italian peace commissioner. The conference was held in the presence of the whole body of the American delegation, and the agreement was ratified by the Senate of the United States, which declared that the war should be continued until peace was restored by the terms of the treaty. The treaty was signed by the President of the United States, Mr. Lincoln, and the President of the Confederate States, Mr. Davis.

The subject of the treaty was the cessation of hostilities between the United States and the Confederacy, and the establishment of a lasting peace. The treaty was accepted by both governments, and the war was declared to be at an end. The treaty was ratified by both houses of Congress, and the United States and the Confederate States were declared to be free and independent nations.

What will it be so hard to do that her breathlessness changed to a feeling of fear and with other signs of the greatest possible shock. She came to him in moments, and when the door was shut behind her, she was almost her natural self again. She had, of course, no idea of the great emergency into which she had thrown her husband, and she was not aware that she was actually in a state of shock, for she had not had any particular reason to suppose that she was in danger of losing her reason.

"I wish I could speak as confidently as that," said Miss Challoner, who had been hearing about the case for some time, and who was now overcome by the mystery of it. "But I don't know what to say. And the door—" she added, with a sob, "it was so quiet. And then, when I looked into the room, it seemed as if there had been no one there—no one. And then I heard a noise—"

"Was it a noise?" asked Mr. Greyce, the coroner, who was standing by the door of the room.

"Yes," said Miss Challoner, "but it was only a noise—like the sound of a door shutting. And then I heard the footsteps coming towards me, and then I saw the man—"

"What man?" asked Mr. Greyce, sharply.

"I don't know," said Miss Challoner, "but I saw the man—"

DENIED ONE PLEASURE

HANDICAP THAT IS THE AUGMENTATION OF SORROW.

Possesses of Great Wealth Devastated
From Owling Anything That Is Difficult to Reap—Self Is Deceived by Them.

Great wealth takes away as many hours from life as it adds to it. An old New York merchant, now 70 years old, tells us:

"The most of my time is taken up from the time of one of the great plagues in life—in the enjoyment of life. This is a sort of enjoy­ment which has been thwarted and nullified by wealth.

"If anything can prove to me that wealth has not its satisfac­tion in the enjoyment of life!"

This is a perfectly simple law of human life, and the posses­sion of wealth is only a means to an end to get the enjoyment from wealth. We will never have that enjoyment unless we get the wealth. We can get the wealth, but we cannot get the enjoyment from wealth.

"I have always enjoyed life, but it is my enjoyment of life that has been thwarted, and not the enjoyment of wealth, which is the end of all enjoyment of life."

As to the possession of wealth, I have always enjoyed the enjoyment of wealth, and have never had the enjoyment of wealth."

The winner of the series at even with accuracy the amount waging in each game. Either of the two previous champions placed their money on the result of ning with the winner of the 1911 world's championship of course, the game of "the winner of the series at even, is a game with which I am not acquainted."

The conclusion that I draw from the above is that the posses­sion of wealth is only a means to an end to get the enjoyment from wealth. We will never have that enjoyment unless we get the wealth. We can get the wealth, but we cannot get the enjoyment from wealth.

The above is a perfectly simple law of human life, and the posses­sion of wealth is only a means to an end to get the enjoyment from wealth. We will never have that enjoyment unless we get the wealth. We can get the wealth, but we cannot get the enjoyment from wealth.

There's a war of satisfaction in buying Uneeda Biscuit, because you know you will get what you want—soda crackers that are oven-fresh, crisp, cleanly, appetizing and nourishing.

Uneeda Biscuits are always uniform in quality—they are always alike in crispness, in flavor—they are soda crackers you can depend upon.

And because Uneeda Biscuit is a common soda cracker packed in an uncommon way.

Five cents every-where in the moisture-proof package.

Will Form Company To Develop Farm

The Rev. E. H. Bishop, pastor of the Morning Star church, has crashed the old Bishop tobacco farm, and is now forming a company to open it up and develop it as a garden and grove, and with adjoining land for stock.  The farm is over three miles from the town, and the reverend gentleman is said to have great confidence in the success of the undertaking.  The land is fenced and in good condition, and the reverend gentleman intends to make the farm a model one, and to turn it into a garden and grove, and with adjoining land for stock.  The farm is over three miles from the town, and the reverend gentleman is said to have great confidence in the success of the undertaking.

FOUNDER FIELD.

An interesting and unique field, named Founder Field, is being established in the vicinity of the city, and is expected to be a great success.  The field is located on the outskirts of the city, and is surrounded by fine scenery.  It is said to be the best field in the county, and is expected to be a great attraction to the public.  The field will be open to the public on the first of July, and will be a great success.  The field is situated on the outskirts of the city, and is surrounded by fine scenery. Circumstantial Proof For The Return of Rev. Schenck

Despite the fact that he is believed to be in the city, for some time past, there has been no positive evidence of his return.  However, there have been a number of reports, and the fact that he has been seen in the streets of the city, and in the hands of some of the prominent citizens, has caused much excitement. MULFORD'S MUSIC STORE

E. M. Mullford was in the city this week, and was engaged in settling up accounts, which he will take with him on his return to St. Louis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—The friendly intentions of the Chinese government to the United States were given further expression by Mr. Stevens, the American minister at Peking, in an address delivered there yesterday.  Mr. Stevens said that the Chinese government were willing to give the United States the same rights as those which they enjoyed by treaties with other nations.  He said that the Chinese government were willing to give the United States the same rights as those which they enjoyed by treaties with other nations.
