Farm and Home Facts

"What is needed today is not more farmers, but better farming."

The dealer will pay you nothing for the bad fruit in a shipment and will discount the rest because the bad is there.

The best time to start building a reputation for selling only good products is when the market is poor and the public hard to please.

Marketing "field run" potatoes labeled as No. 1 grade not only knocks the bottom out of the market but eventually knocks a dent in the reputation of him who does it.

It is often said that the American farmer is the most self-sufficient man on earth. Perhaps that is why his marketing methods are insufficient.

Many farmers seem to believe that it is better to be independent and fail, than to co-operate and succeed.

The farmer who sells scrub crops injures all farmers, including himself.

Peach tree borers have no gas masks. If you would like to know how to gas them in their dugouts during September, write to the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station at New Brunswick for a free copy of Circular 156.

Issued by the State College of Agriculture.

Oil is cheaper than new bearings.

Discussion is always safer than argument.

It is said that adversity makes strange bedfellows; it is equally true that strange running mates, such as midway shows and agricultural exhibits, court adversity.

Care, and not equipment, is what produces clean milk.

Birds have to be classy as well as feathery to flock together at the poultry show. Send for "Hints to Poultrymen," No. 11, New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J., if you have never given your birds a chance at the shows.

When prices for crops are low the aim should be not to cut down production, but to reduce the cost of production.

FARM FAMILY CONTESTS NEEDED AT FAIRS

In order to give the farm family a better representation at the agricultural fairs, New Jersey home economic workers recommend the holding of "fitter families" contests, similar to those which have aroused so much interest at the big fairs in the West.

"Families are classified according to the number of members they have," says Mrs. Ida S. Harrington, of the State College of Agriculture, in describing the contests. "For example, the classes might be father, mother, and one child, father, mother and 12 children, or father, mother, four children and grandfather. Families are scored for the percentage of physical fitness which they, as a family, represent. If the score is low, the family is advised to work toward the hundred mark by such means as better food habits, saner methods of work and play, freer use of fresh air, treatment for physical ailments, or whatever is needed to make them possible prize winners another year.

"Where these contests have been tried keen interest has been shown by the farm families, for they come early to avoid the rush at the office of the physician who gives the examinations and makes the score.

"Considering how much this state has done in freeing her fairs from gambling devices and fakirs, and introducing 'Better Babies' contests and health exhibits, it is to be expected that New Jersey fairs will be the first in the East to copy the 'Fitter Families' idea.

CARE AND NOT EQUIPMENT NECESSARY FOR CLEAN MILK

Contrary to common belief, expensive barns and equipment are not necessary for the production of clean milk, says the dairy department of the State College of Agriculture.

"When in the udder of the cow, milk contains no dirt and few, if any, bacteria. It is during and after milking that contamination takes place. The three most common sources are, dirty teats and udder, dirty pail and other utensils, and a dusty barn.

A little care eliminates all of these factors which make for dirty, unwholesome milk. The farmer with the simple equipment should find it easier to exercise care than if he had a lot of complicated equipment.

The three precautions recommended are that the teats and udder of the cow be cleaned with a damp cloth before milking, that all utensils be sterilized in live steam or boiling water, and that a small top pail be used.

Milk drawn under these conditions will be free from dirt and will contain only a few bacteria. In order to prevent these bacteria from multiplying, the milk should immediately be transferred to the can and cooled to as near 50° Fahr. as possible. Straining of such milk is unnecessary.

USE LIME-SULFUR NOW FOR APPLE FUNGI

Sooty blotch, or sooty fungus, and Brooks' spot are the only obstacles that now stand between the fruit grower and a crop of clean, perfect apples, provided the six summer sprays recommended by the Agricultural College have been applied, says A. F. Mason, extension specialist in fruit growing.

Sooty fungus is the black, unsightly web-like blotch which appears late in the fall and sometimes gets so bad that the whole apple is covered. It occurs very generally in orchards situated on low ground, or in foggy localities. If the fall weather is rainy, it is frequently abundant in orchards on high ground. Control measures are very simple. Concentrated lime-sulfur, diluted 4 quarts to 50 gallons of water, applied in early September is very effective. Dry-like sulfur-lime or self-boiled lime-sulfur may be substituted for the commercial concentrated lime-sulfur wherever there is danger of russeting the fruit or burning the foliage with the latter material.

Brooks' spot is the small greenish-brown spot with irregular edges which commonly appears around the blossom end of some varieties, notably Grimes, Stayman and Black Twig. This fungus does not attack apples until they are nearly mature. During the past few years it has been prevalent in many orchards, causing heavy loss. Where the disease has been severe in previous year, it may be necessary to make one to three additional applications of concentrated lime-sulfur at ten-day intervals between the sixth and seventh applications of the regular spray schedule, in order to keep the fruit clean.

EMPIRE THEATER

"Human Wreckage," with Mrs. Wallace Reid and a notable cast of stars, began a three-day attraction at the Empire yesterday and will be continued today and tomorrow. This is a powerful drama of great heart interest that startles and amazes, dealing with the traffic in dope in Hollywood. It is a picture that grips and holds one during the entire showing.

In addition to the above tonight a special, "Water Sports," and tomorrow a comedy. In the evening there will be four acts of real vaudeville—no vaudeville shown at matinee.

Thursday and Friday—Dorothy Phillips in "Slander the Woman," a drama of a woman's soul on trial. Thursday a Hal Roach comedy and No. 11 "In the Days of Daniel Boone." See advertisement in another column for details.

Morris County Fair

Busy scenes are being enacted at the headquarters of the Morris County Fair, 31 South street, Morristown, where arrangements are being completed for the big county exposition which opens at the Whippany River Club, Morristown, Thursday, September 20 and continues for three days.

Assistant Secretary Charles W. Farrell and his assistants are handling a large number of entries and concessions daily. Prospective exhibitors seeking information about the fair come and go in an almost endless stream. At the fair grounds there is also great activity, workmen beginning their labors in making the buildings ready for the displays, and fair officials all over the county are busy engaged on the thousand and one details necessary to be completed in order to make the show a big success.

An entirely new feature will be added to the list of attractions this year, the association having engaged Francis Durand, famous basso cantante, and Blanche Valloza, well-known lyric soprano, who will give free concerts afternoon and evening during the three days of the fair. The afternoon program will be at 3:30 o'clock, and the evening program at 8:30 o'clock. The singers will appear in costume, and will alternate as Italian peasants, singing folk songs and playing an old Italian lute, and as Hawaiians, singing and featuring a native dance. A special platform for the free act will be erected near the band stand. Three bands have been engaged for continuous concerts from 1:00 to 11:00 p. m. The bands that will be heard are from Morristown, Dover and Morris Plains.

Another feature of the fair will be dancing, to be held every evening. A large dance floor will be placed along the main avenue of the fair grounds and music will be furnished by Price's orchestra of Madison. The Morristown post of the American Legion has secured the concession for the automobile parking space.

Mayor Furber Again Balked In Naming of Police Chief

Others Refuse to Second Bill to Reinstate Gerlach With View to Advancement—Police Head Wipes Hands of Consequences

Mayor James B. Furber in a statement made Wednesday night at the Board of Commissioners' meeting disavowed all further responsibility for the condition of the police department of which he is the head, when for the second time his colleagues on the commission balked his attempt to have Joseph Gerlach, a former patrolman, reinstated to the force with subsequent advancement to the place of Chief of Police to come soon after. A resolution by the Mayor to that effect received no second from either Commissioner Frank L. Foulks or Commissioner Harry Simmons, and was accordingly tabled.

The refusal on the part of the other two commissioners to agree to Mayor Furber's appointment continues a deadlock over the police department reorganization which has been in effect for several months and leaves the possibility of settlement in a hopeless state, Mayor Furber vowing that he will have no man at the helm in the police department with whom he, as the commissioner in charge cannot work and his colleagues holding out for an appointment from the present police department rolls.

Puts Case Before Public

In moving for the adoption of the resolution, Mayor Furber made a plea to his fellow-commissioners and a statement of his case to the general public when he stated that the only motive behind his support of Gerlach for the post of police chief was to place the police department on an efficiency basis. This he said could not be accomplished if a man from the present ranks was chosen for the post since the department was split into two factions and to take a man from either opposing group would only antagonize the other and successful rebuilding of the department would be stumped.

Mayor Furber challenged his colleagues' right to "play favorites" when when he said the only aim should be to bring efficiency into the police ranks. That he would like to bring in a man from the New York City department was admitted by Mr. Furber, but he said as this couldn't be done under the law, he held that Gerlach was the next best choice, and was eligible.

New Chief Essential

In disavowing responsibility for condition of the department Mayor Furber referred to the complaint of the State Bureau of Institutions and Agencies, who have termed the local jail as one of the worst in the state, saying that it was essential that a new chief be named at once so that

BOWLING LEAGUE IS REORGANIZED

City Circuit Arranges For Opening, Oct. 15—Sets Tourney Rules

The Rahway City Bowling League will open its 1923-24 season Monday night, October 15, it was decided last night at a meeting of the bowling committee, which is this year composed of one member of each of the eight teams in the circuit. All teams must be entered before October 1. Branching out of the loop to embrace ten and possibly twelve teams is considered likely owing to the fact that the eight teams comprising the League last year are intact and at least four more are seeking franchises. These are the Vernons, the American Legion, Automotive Equipment and one more.

Much of the time at the meeting last night was given over to drafting rules for governing the league which are as follows:

"All games are to start at eight-thirty, promptly, and if a man doesn't show up by the fifth frame of the second game his team must take the absentee score of 125.

"All bowlers must be members of the "Y" in good and regular standing.

"The entrance fee (team) is due and payable on the opening night of the season for that team.

"After the tournament has begun a captain wishing to enter a man must submit his name to the 'Y' office for approval.

"During the annual membership drive of the association there will be no schedule.

"In case of the postponement of a game when absolutely necessary, such team captain shall give the secretary forty-eight hours' notice. The secretary is to notify the captain of the opposing team and set the date for the roll-off of the game, which shall be within ten days of date of postponement.

"Play starts Monday night, Oct. 15.

"All teams must be entered on or before Oct. 1.

"The entrance fee for each team is to be $6.00, $1.00 to go toward paying an official score keeper.

"Prizes will be awarded for the team winning the race; a high team score prize, and another for the team having the second high score; a prize for highest individual average and one for individual high score."

The members of the committee present last night included: Harold Olson, Baptists; S. C. Terrill, West Ends; Guy Howard, N. S. Club; Randolph Gilman, Trinity Ushers; Maurice Chaillet, Business Men. The task of drawing up a schedule for the league was placed in the hands of Maurice Chaillet. It is expected that the lanes will be used tonight for the first time since spring.

Tries to Save 9 Lives, Is Seriously Wounded

Animals as a rule are grateful for kindnesses but there are always exceptions to prove the rule and a pet cat of Miss Lettie Hoff, of 36 Irving street, proved a painful exception Tuesday night to its owner who tried to save pussy from over-zealous efforts on the part of a German police dog to be "friendly." So badly frightened became Tabby that Miss Hoff came out of the fight to save nine lives with severe scratches, making a neat criss-cross pattern on left hand. Physician's attention was necessary to cauterize the wounds. The dog belongs, it is said, to H. W. Diers, of 112 West Grand street.

Lindsay and Jones Repeat, Winning City Tennis Crown

Doubles' Champs Capture Laurels by Decisive Victory Over Miller-Chase Combine—Singles' Finals Tomorrow

Carlton Jones and Brainerd Lindsay, who as partners, captured the city doubles' championship Wednesday night, will be opponents for the city singles' title Saturday afternoon in the finals having last night eliminated Albert Harned and Newell Chase, respectively, in the semi-final round.

Lindsay, who is the present city champion, furnished the treat of the two matches by playing super-tennis. The dope had picked him to come through his match with Harned victor, but a close battle was looked for, and his strongest supporters had not expected such a decisive win as the 6—1, 6—0 victory he scored. Jones, too, was a favorite in his match which he annexed, 6—2, 6—1. In the finals of last year Lindsay and Jones were opponents also, the former winning, 6—4, 7—5.

Doubles Champs Repeat

Playing a brand of tennis which brooked no opposition Wednesday night on the lighted courts of the Ilderan Outing Club, the present city champion doubles' team of Brainerd Lindsay and Carlton Jones, annexed that title for third consecutive time, eliminating Newell Chase and Clifford Miller in the finals, 6—1, 6—4, 6—3.

The victory of the champion was even more impressive than their most ardent followers had expected as the Chase-Miller combination loomed as a formidable one before the match. Nothing could be more decisive than the winners' triumph, especially in the first and third sets. The match was for the best three of five sets. Both the winners and the runners-up will receive valuable prizes from the Rahway City Tennis League.

All play up to semi-finals in the singles was completed Wednesday night when Newell Chase won a decisive victory over Dave Armstrong, 6—2, 6—0. Chase showed the best form he has displayed in the tournament to date.

Semi-Finals Fast

Carlton Jones and Brainard Lindsay, present city doubles' tennis champions, fought their way into the finals of the 1923 city championship Tuesday night by winning from David Armstrong and Robert Miller, champions of the city for a number of years prior to the ascension of the victors to that throne two years ago. The Armstrong-Miller combination got off to a flying start, taking the opening set, 6—4 but the second set went to Jones and Lindsay 6—1. The final set was decided at 6—3.

Pushing the contest between the two championship outfits in interest was the other semi-final setto in which Clifford Miller and Newell Chase won the closest match of the tournament from Albert Harned and Blanchard Durand. In this match also the losers annexed the first set, the score being 6—4. Miller and Chase rallied in the second and won handily, 6—1. The deciding set was one of the hardest fought contests ever seen on local courts, going to 12—10 before a decision was reached. The losers had then lay five times at a point where a single would have won the match for them. The fight of the victors against these almost overwhelming odds was superb.

S. P. C. A. Makes Plans To Observe Anniversary

Having in mind the object of making their celebration the greatest in the history of the organization, the Rahway Branch of the S. P. C. Schoeffler presided with Henry Schoeffler, recorder.

Confer on Widening Street

A conference was held this morning at the City Hall between City Attorney Charles Corbin and H. A. Stutzlen in connection with the proposed widening of Irving street at the cornr of West Grand street. Judge Morgan, of Elizabeth, was present as counsel for Mr. Stutzlen, also City Engineer Blank.

While no definite decision was reached a proposition to move the historic old house at the corner, to the vacant lot adjoining the former German Presbyterian Church on Irving street, rather than to turn it around to face on Irving street at the rear of its present site was favorably considered. Another meeting will be held later to adjust damages, etc.

By the proposed arrangement Mr. Stutzlen can utilize the land for the erection of a modern building thereon, which will be a marked improvement to that section.

Arcanum Plans

It is expected that the gymnasium class of the organization will resume activities next month with a large class. Class initiation is scheduled for November. Two Hundred Attend Get-Together Social

In the neighborhood of two hundred persons of the congregation of St. Mark's Church last night enjoyed the hospitality of the Dramatic Club of the church in a big get-together social held in the church parlors. A varied and interesting program was presented by the dramatists and merriment ruled king of the evening.

Music was furnished by the Frisco Boys Orchestra and dancing was indulged in. Informal card games furnished diversion for those who were not devotees of terpsichore. Delicious refreshments were served in abundance. One of the features of the evening was a cotillion led by Thomas Moulton.

The committee on arrangements, which deserves great credit for the big success of the affair comprised: John Keisecker, chairman; Miss Helen Drexler, Miss Anna Cordes, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Sauers, Frank Cordes, Thomas Stephan, Bernard Polin. The contest for the beautiful hundred-piece dinner set was decided in favor of Frank Cordes.

Sunday School Plans

Resumption of activities of the Sunday School of the Second Presbyterian Church has been entered into with much vim and several eventful dates should be borne in mind by the members. At a meeting of the officers and teachers held following the session last Sunday arrangements were gone into for the annual get-together rally and social of the officers and teachers to take place at the church, Monday night, October 1. Rally Day will be observed by this school the last Sunday in September, the thirtieth. Every member of the school should make it a point to be in attendance on that occasion.

Wins Fraternity Honors

At a meeting of the Delta Tau Delta Alumni Association of Newark and vicinity held in Newark on Monday night, Ross Nichols, of Elm avenue, this city, was elected vice-president for the coming year. There were forty-six present at the meeting representing fifteen colleges. Rev. Dr. Henry Rose, of Newark, and Mr. Nichols were the speakers of the occasion. Mr. Nichols is an alumnus of Gamma Eta chapter of the fraternity at George Washington University and is now assistant secretary of the Newark Chamber of Commerce.

Forty-three persons attended the mid-week prayer meeting services of the First Baptist Church Wednesday night, an excellent record this early in the fall. Activities at the church are booming all along the line.

KIWANIS PLANS "LADIES' NIGHT"

Boosters' Club To Hold Big Social Affair at the Pines. Other Events

REV. MR. SADTLER GIVES INSPIRING ADDRESS

Climb up, look around, get inspiration and then come down and help others was the thought contained in an inspiring address given before one of the largest gatherings at the Elks' Club Wednesday of members of the Kiwanis Club, Rahway's business and professional men's organization, since its founding, the Rev. H. A. L. Sadtler, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, being the speaker.

Rev. Mr. Sadtler, who only recently returned from his summer vacation in the White Mountains, spoke on the topic, "Going Up—Looking Out—Coming Down." His talk was a very vivid description of the beauty and grandeur of this great range of mountains as well as a timely and inspirational message. Mountain climbing the speaker likened to the hunger in man for the higher things and better things. One cannot help but have a broader vision, Rev. Mr. Sadtler held, when he has reached the top of a high mountain peak and realizes the spiritual significance of their being and the sordidness of the mad rush for material attainments. "There is a great distinction" he said, "between making a success in life and making a success of one's life." The world needs more mountain climbing and more mountain air, the speaker said figuratively, in this age when civilization is being swamped by things material. His advice to the assembled Kiwanians was that in business and social life the thing that counted was looking up.

The speaker was loudly applauded for his excellent talk and was extended a rising vote of thanks by the members of Kiwanis. The initial indication of the success of the Kiwanis advertising signs on Lincoln Highway was seen in a short visit paid to the club by a Mr. Stillman, of the Miami, Fla., Kiwanis Club, who, reading teh notice of the club luncheon hour, dropped in for a brief time and made a few remarks.

Reports of several committees on plans for coming activities presaged a particularly busy fall season. "Ladies' Night" will be observed next Thursday night, September 20, when a big dinner will be held at the Hotel Pines, Metuchen, when a regular business session and many special features will be in order. Henry L. Lamphear, William F. Little and Paris R. Forman were named as the committee on arrangements for the occasion. As told in another column of this issue of the Record, it is expected that a part of the time at this special session will be devoted to the observance of "Constitution Week." There will be no regular Wednesday noon luncheon next week.

Looking forward to making as large a showing as possible at the annual state convention to be held at Newark, October 12 and 13, a committee to arrange for Rahway's participation was named, comprising: J. Willard Urmston, chairman; Frank W. Henson, William F. Veech and A. Bruce Cook. The local delegation hopes to have a special part on the program, and it is also expected that the motion picture film of the Rahway Kiwanis Girls' Outing will be displayed.

The Rahway club has taken under advisement the question of sponsoring the organization of a new unit at South River. The possibilities at that place will be investigated.

Word was received from Mrs. Warren G. Harding expressing her appreciation for the message of condolence telegraphed by the Rahway Kiwanis Club immediately following the news of the late President's death.

All members of the club who desire to join a party of Rahway Kiwanians on a visit to the Irvington Club next Tuesday are asked to notify President H. A. Stutzlen or Secretary F. W. Henson of this intention as soon as possible. Those who desire to attend are asked to meet at the Elks' Club at 11:30 o'clock, Tuesday morning.

Ready For Big Event

All that is now needed to make the annual clambake of Rahway Aerie, No. 1863, F. O. E., this Sunday a howling success is a clear day, everything in the line of preparation having been well arranged by the tireless committee on arrangements. Several hundred persons are expected to be on hand at Cordes' Grove, Clark Township, and the program which has been mapped out for entertainment is expected to contain something doing all day long. Among the social diversions will be a series of athletic contests, including a baseball game between the married and single men, an annual feature of these events; 100 yard dash, 50 yard dash, sack race, three-legged race, shoe race, fat man's race and possibly other numbers.

GRANTED WIDOW'S PENSION

Among the pensions granted to eight widows Wednesday by County Judge Stein, following hearings in each case, was a pension to Mrs. Elizabeth Kutchers of 35 S. Montgomery street, this city, of $41. per month to care the support of her children.

Kiwanis Clubs Sponsoring "Constitution Week" Move

Local and National Organizations Devoting Much Time and Energy To Exposition of Great U. S. Document to the People

Teaming with all other clubs of the Kiwanis International organization, the Rahway Club is making plans for the observation of "Constitution Day," September 17, and of "Constitution Week," September 16 to 22. Accordingly it is expected on the occasion of the big Kiwanis Ladies' Night dinner to be partaken Thursday night, September 20, at The Pines, Metuchen, a portion of the program will be devoted to that purpose.

Governmental authorities, both national and state, throughout the whole United States, are in full accord with this great movement being sponsored principally by the Kiwanis organization.

President Coolidge Endorses

That the American people will be the more disposed to live in accordance with principles of the Constitution of the United States as they understand the advantages of that document, is the statement made by President Coolidge in a communication to The Kiwanis Club International, in commenting upon the activity of that organization in holding this nation-wide celebration of the signing of the Constitution, by over a thousand clubs. The President's message in full reads:

"The annual observance of September 17th as Constitution Day in honor of the fact that it is the anniversary of the signing of that great charter, is a custom altogether worthy of continuation and perpetuation. I am glad to know that the day will be so widely celebrated this year, for I am sure that, as the American people widely appreciate the blessings that their Constitution has insured to them, so they will be the more disposed to live in accordance with its precepts and purposes."

Silzer for Plan

"I desire to commend you for the program which you have undertaken for 'Constitution Week.'

"Others will speak of the Constitution and its makers. I want to say a word for those who are making efforts to stimulate interest in the Constitution, and so bring substantial and lasting results to our people.

"I have always felt that the movement which brought into existence the Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and other similar clubs, had a deeper significance than was even dreamed of by their originators. I have always believed this movement to be on the part and in behalf of the great unrepresented classes of the American people.

"Your club could not have undertaken any finer work than that of reviving interest in the Constitution and the abundant advantages that will come from a wholesome respect for and compliance with its provisions."

Essential Says Pershing

Patriotic efforts in connection with "Constitution Week" towards the "refutation of the vicious doctrines which have been disseminated throughout the nation for the past few years" are highly necessary at this time, said General John J. Pershing, in a letter to the Kiwanis Club International, in commenting upon the needs of education regarding the Constitution and its makers.

In accord with the movement he has issued orders to each corps area and department commander directing that "Constitution Week" be observed at every post, camp and station throughout the United States, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and Panama.

"An eminent Englishman, the late Lord Bryce, who was a profound student of the Government of the United States," wrote the General, "said of our Constitution: 'The Constitution of 1789 deserves the veneration with which the Americans have been accustomed to regard it. * * * It ranks above every other written Constitution for the intrinsic excellence of its scheme, its adaptation to the circumstances of the people, the simplicity, brevity and precision of its language, its judicious mixture of definiteness in principle with elasticity in detail.'

Most Wonderful Work

"Great, however, as are the merits of this fundamental law, discribed by an eminent English statesman as 'the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man,' it must draw its sustenance, its living force, from the people. It was conceived by virile, high-minded men and it has continued to exist because it has had the support of men who were worthy successors of its founders.

"It offers protection to the weak, but it is an instrument for the government of a strong people. No [illegible] of weaklings could make our Constitution work, and if we are to continue to enjoy the blessings which have come to this nation through its [illegible] visions we must measure up to the standards of our forefathers.

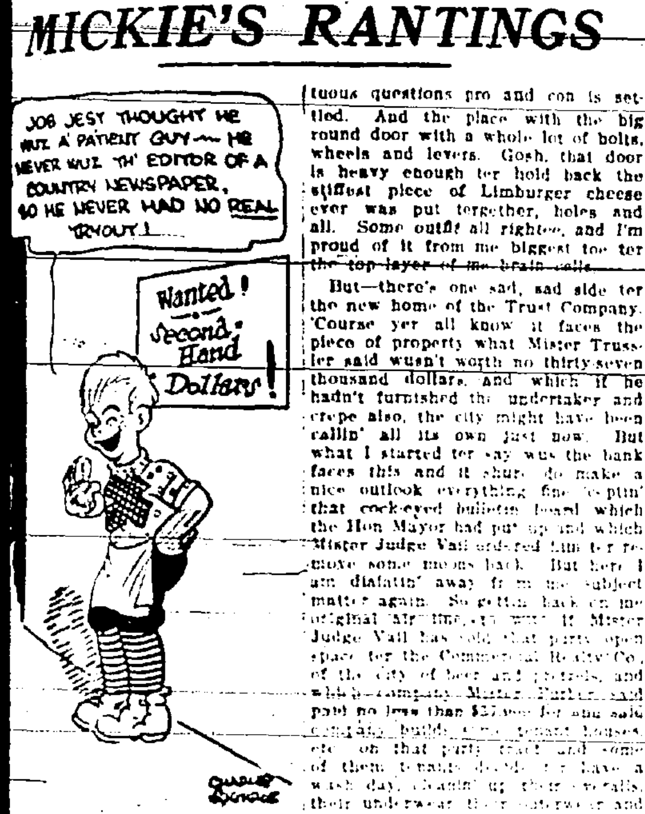
MICKIE'S RANTINGS



MICKIE THE MYSTERY

(Matter Entirely By Meself)

[illegible] the subject [illegible] of congratu[illegible] on his brand [illegible] opened up day [illegible] day. It [illegible] without the seeds [illegible] overshadowin' [illegible] when we take [illegible] when we go in fer [illegible] on our I. O. U. [illegible] stoop over there [illegible] story. Then [illegible] Purty new [illegible] from the coverin' [illegible] givin' light ter [illegible] also helpin' [illegible] assistants ter count [illegible] Then the wide [illegible] railin' on the left, [illegible] the floor, nice new [illegible] This is the spot [illegible] sorrows. Joy if our [illegible] borrowin' piece of [illegible] a darn; sorrow if it [illegible] a darn. Then in the [illegible] all fixed up for [illegible] special occasions, [illegible] handsome furni[illegible] They calls this officially [illegible] whatever that [illegible] is where momentuous questions pro and con is settled. And the place with the big round door with a whole lot of bolts, wheels and levers. Gosh, that door is heavy enough ter hold back the stiffest piece of Limburger cheese ever was put tergether, holes and all. Some outfit all rightee, and I'm proud of it from me biggest toe ter the top layer of me brain cells.

But—there's one sad, sad side ter the new home of the Trust Company. 'Course yer all know it faces the piece of property what Mister Trussler said wusn't worth no thirty-seven thousand dollars, and which if he hadn't furnished the undertaker and crepe also, the city might have been callin' all its own just now. But what I started ter say wus the bank faces this and it shure do make a nice outlook everything fine 'ceptin' that cock-eyed bulletin board which the Hon Mayor had put up and which Mister Judge Vail ordered him ter remove some moons back. But here I am dilatin' away from me subject matter again. So gettin' back on me original 'Air Line,' [illegible] if Mister Judge Vail has sold that party open space fer the Commercial Realty Co., of the city of beer and pretzels, and which company Mister Furber said paid no less than $27,000 fer and said company builds some tenant houses, etc. on that party tract and some of them tenants decide fer have a wash day, cleanin' up their overalls, their underwear, their outerwear and wear between the underwear and outerwear and hang 'em all on the clothesline at once and together, why Mister Joe Potter ain't going ter be able fer see the choo-choo cars when they leave the railroad station and people passin' by in the choo-choos won't be able ter see the new bank either. That's a dosh-dang downright shame.

But then Mister Squier said at the meeting the night Mr. Trussler and Mr. Armstrong and several other hometown natives hung the crepe on the proposition of acquisition, that Mister Judge Vail's family had been tryin' ter sell that piece of property for one hundred years, and I been thinkin' that maybe that same piece of dirt ain't been sold as yet, and maybe tain't too late ter start some proceedings fer see what's what.

'Course we all know the Hon Mayor and Mister Savage wuz pretty feverish fer the city ter put its O. K. on the purchase, statin' wouldn't be possible ter get it after twelve hours as the time limit had expired. But there's many a slip betwixt cup and lip and maybe so 'tis in this case.

* * *

You know folks, I felt downright sorry for me good-lookin' friend Amie Terrill, who as a result of his failure to "take unto hisself a wife," don't need twin beds and sleeps at Mr. Henson's roomin' house, the Y. M. C. A. The cause of me sorrow was as follows along: Me friend Amie is runnin' for the honorable office of Freeholder, and t'other morning when he came down from a night spent in innocent sleep he wuz more than surprised ter read on the bulletin board at the Y. the following announcement: "Vote for Amos Terrill for Freeholder. The people's choice; the logical candidate. His platform—Free Air, Free Beer, Free Love." On second thought I sez ter meself, Gosh, but the fellar who put that recommendation on the Y bulletin board must have been pretty dosh dang acquainted with Amie.

* * *

As announced elsewhere for the benefit consummation of the old home town the Hon Mayor has appointed a committee ter investigate conditions within the boundaries of this city of homes, industries and eatin' houses, in ice cream saloons, nosebag places and so on, ter see if matters pertaining ter bad dreams and indigestion was being conducted on sanitary lines. Begee, this is a good move all rightee; 'cause folks, some days ago I let go of the price of a hamburger sandwich and got in return—well, by the beard of the last prophet which had a harem—something orful. That hamburger must have come all the way from Hamburg on the slowest sailin' vessel in the fleet, and the animal was killed on t'other side before it started the three thousand mile journey ter little Mickie's stomach. No kiddin' folks, it was all there 'ceptin' the skipper and I guess they must have died before they got across. 'Course I didn't call up Miss [illegible] 'bout it, 'cause I didn't want her to worry Mister Doctor Sell with such trifles, as he said he wuz only hittin' the high spots and that hamburger—well, it wuz pretty low down before it started ter come up.

* * *

Saw an unusual advertisement in our hometown neuspaper t'other day. Seems like a Jane had lost her male collie dog, answerin' ter the name of "Nellie." I said t'won't be long before yer couldn't tell wimen from men, the former wearing pants, etc., but honest ter goodness folks I didn't think they would so soon commence ter callin' male animals by female names. Wunder what'll happen next. Bet begee meerskeeters will be hatchin' butterflies, then what will Mister Will Randolph do, 'cause we won't need any meerskeeter commission. Shure do hope I won't get lost, fer if ma advertised for me they might think "Little Mickie" wuz a female. Some mortifyin' ter us strong chested, high brow fellars. Then suppose Mayor Furber went astray and he wuz advertised "Lost—Mare Furber." There you go—all sounds same ter a blind fellar.

Begee, me own ma wuz madder t'other day than a wet hen. No she wuzn't wet neither. That's just the trouble. She wanted ter get wet and couldn't. The whole cause of ma's cyclonic fury wuz that Mister Commissioner Harry Simmons' submarine pilot had ordered th ecity supply of water shut off in our neighborhood, without even givin' ma notice he wuz going ter do it. 'Course it's all reasonable-like ter have ter get the pressure off ter fix a hole in the water main, but seems like ter me the water department oughter tell ma, 'specially when it happens on wash day. Ma says no son of Adam and Eve has a right ter shut HER water off, not even Mister Harry Simmons, without first gettin' her personal consent. Sumbody oughter tell "Our Harry" the wimen can vote, as he might needum before election day is over. Nuf sed.

* * *

I wuz thinkin' if it takes Mister Commissioner Harry Simmons five months ter get the garbage ordinance from his desk ter the desk of Mister City Clerk Williams ter read fer us hometown citizens' benefit, how long will it take ter get inter operation a city crematin' plant ter burn up us citizens' castoff refuse. But then I heard a fellar say "large things move slowly."

* * *

I noticed by Tuesday's comeout of our hometown neuspaper that the editor in reporting the Elks' clambake held at Picton last what-oughter-been the Lord's Day, stated in the story that "athletic contests, music, games and various other social diversions occupied the time until the big treat of the day." Me cranium refuses ter percolate just what he means by "other social diversions." Yes, I know I'm thicker than a hedgehog, but we can't all be smart. If we wuz, Mister Dick Fordham wouldn't never get the nomination fer sheriff of Union county.

* * *

After readin' over the wonderful record as published in Tuesday's paper of our own Johnny Brooks, I got up in front of me little cracked mirror in me snoozin' attic and says, "Mickie, what about your record?" and I got ter thinkin'. Begee, all at once it dawned on me that I had a record far superior ter what even the wonderful Johnny Brooks had. Don't know, do yer folks? Well, I'll tell yer, but yer mustn't repeat it.—The Rahway Record. Gosh!

* * *

Has anybody, white or black, got a jitney bus timetable? If they have won't they please send me a copy, so I kin tell what time me best girl may expect ter see me on "holdin' hand" nights. Accordin' ter the present schedule, begee, I don't know whether I'm goin' ter get ter her house at 8 o'clock or midnight. Gosh, but I'll be glad when Mister McCarter gets his trolley cars runnin' agin.

I shure am worried 'bout me neighbor scribe Mister Abe Clark, the purveyor of Clark Township news items. Hope he didn't elope with any of them there purty female carnival girls, 'cause fellars who do that don't live long and are never more happy. Abe, if yer need a life line let Mickie know and I'll steal the one what holds up Ma's mattress.

* * *

Why in the divil don't the street department fix the flagstones or lay a cement walk around the Vail tract? If they're goin' ter wait till that realty company of Newark gets buildings put on this piece of ground, all us hometown citizens who get fog-eyed on clear as well as foggy nights, will be blacked and blued all over from stumblin' along tryin' ter find the pavement.

* * *

See by news item where Mister Acting Chief of Police Detective-Sergeant James Thompson of the local police equipment, with a party of friends, went fishing t'other day at Barnegat Bay. Sincerely hope Jimmy didn't snatch a bottle and start ter run across the bay, thinkin' the boat wuz Mister Ben Farber's saloon, the bay wuz Main street, and the lighthouse the police station.

MICKIE.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Capron Marsh and family will return to their home St. George avenue, Sunday, from Popham Beach, Maine, where they have spent the summer.

"CONSTITUTION WEEK"

"We should keep before us the circumstances preceding and attending the adoption of our Constitution, and the sacrifices that have been made to preserve it as the law of the land; and we must keep before us too those characteristics of our forefathers, common sense, judgment, high character and patriotism, which made the Constitution an effective instrument.

Voices Appreciation

"I shall not deny myself the pleasure of expressing my appreciation of your patriotic efforts in connection with 'Constitution Week.' I think this work is especially necessary at this time, and in the speeches I have made throughout the country during the past year I have repeatedly called attention to the necessity for the refutation of the vicious doctrines which have been disseminated throughout the nation during the past few years. I am heartily in accord with this movement, in which I am sure you will take a most important part, and I have issued orders to each corps area and department commander directing that 'Constitution Week' be observed at every post, camp and station throughout the United States, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands and Panama.

"I am glad to be able to recall in this connection the valuable assistance the War Department has received from Kiwanis Clubs in connection with Civilian Military Training Camps and other activities; for, as you know, an essential feature of the training given by the Army, whether to civilians or soldiers, has to do with instructions regarding the Government of our country, and that better citizenship is the chief aim of all our training."

Raymond Blakely, of 117 Hamilton street, one of the local post office carriers, has returned from a two weeks' vacation, spent at Manasquan.

TWO LOCAL PASTORS LEAD INSTALLATION

Rahway Clergyman Prominent in Presbyterian Ceremonies at Hillside

Two Rahway clergymen were prominent in the installation ceremony Tuesday night at the Hillside Presbyterian Church, when Rev. R. P. Mattright, D.D., took up the work of leader of that congregation. Rev. Wallace H. Carver, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church, who is moderator of the Elizabeth Presbytery, was in charge and delivered the sermon, which Rev. Joseph L. Ewing, D.D., of this city, gave the charge to the people. The constitutional questions to both the pastor and the congregation were asked by Rev. Mr. Carver.

In a world of the people living in a shaken world a counterpart of the giant moving earthquake which is shaking mankind and the changes that are taking place in human mankind. He said, if this country fails to keep the word of God, it will go the way of other fallen nation. He also spoke of the World War, saying that the world stopped in its course in the summer of 1914, when the great crisis was only started.

There are things which remain throughout the generations" said Rev. Mr. Carver, and these are the things that are shaken. There are three great things which cannot be shaken and these are: First, the Word of God that abideth forever more; second, the world, the church of the living God; and third, God's only Son, Jesus Christ."

He said that although the Word of God had been attacked in every generation, it still goes on.

In comparison he told of how modern leaders have lost power when at one time practically controlled the world. These leaders were former Premier Orlando, of Italy; former Premier Clemenceau, of France; former Prime Minister Lloyd George, of Great Britain, and former President Woodrow Wilson, of the United States.

Dr. Ewing spoke of the installation as a marriage ceremony in which the pastor became united to the congregation. He said the marriage ceremony and the installation are most closely related because of the fact that both the pastor and the congregation have taken solemn vows and that it was the keeping of these vows which would mean success or failure of the pastor. He told council of the pastor should be sought at all times for his charge comes from God. He described the duties of the pastor and what is expected of him. He told of the pastors making visits to the homes of members at his congregation at all times, and to support their pastor in every way possible.

Huggan Again In Mixup With Officer of Law

Playing with fire usually means scorched fingers and perhaps worse sooner or later. Police records show that William A. Huggan, of St. George avenue, has on several occasions enjoyed in his own way baiting police officers for which he has been called into the local police court twice. The first time he was dismissed with a warning, the second he was fined $10. Now he awaits trial the third time on a charge of interfering with an officer.

Mr. Huggan's latest row with a law enforcer of this city came Wednesday night and the officer in the case was Patrolman James A. Conner, officially detailed to the "Bridge." Police reports show that the two was a fight and those who have seen Huggan since are of the opinion that his profile in the fists mixup does not compensate.

Police reports that Huggan attempted to call him to account for alleged favoritism in admission to the bridge, the officer differentiating between the day the bridge was closed to all but pedestrians and the day it was open to all comers. Conner says Huggan dared him to fight, and called him a vile name, calling him to take off his uniform and come to Huggan's backyard. Conner would not remove his regalia but evidently took the man at his word for some minutes later Acting Chief Thompson, informed of a mix-up in that section, found the two sparring in the invited place, with Conner on top of Huggan. The two officers, after a struggle, placed Huggan in a taxi and took him to police headquarters, where the charge of interference with an officer was preferred and the man released on his own recognizance.

Mayor Fischer was informed of the affair Thursday morning and promised Conner and public to take care that Huggan got what he deserved. Officers Coolidge and Flanagan were the officers with whom the man has had rows previous to his latest mix-up.

Members of the Young Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Methodist Church had an enjoyable outing Monday and Tuesday with Mrs. J. W. Hyde, of Colonia Grove, formerly of this city. Those participating were: Mrs. Jesse F. Wright, Mrs. Alfred T. Atkinson, Mrs. A. Y. Carkhuff, Mrs. E. J. Lawson, Mrs. Lawson, Sr., Mrs. Charles E. Reed, Mrs. S. W. Townsend, Mrs. R. L. Miller, the Misses Hilda Bowers, Sarah Lawson and Caroline Manchester.

Accidents

Two Rahway automobiles figured in accidents in Elizabeth Tuesday, one mishap resulting in a thirteen-year-old boy being run over. The accidents occurred at Broad and Jefferson avenue, and James Street, of St. George avenue.

The accident in which Miss Brunt's machine figured occurred at Broad and East Jersey street.

William Amerio, of 1025 Elizabeth avenue, was riding a bicycle south on Broad street. When he reached East Jersey street he was directly in front of the automobile of Miss Brunt, which bumped Amerio so that he was thrown off and when the auto was brought to a stop, he was under it. Patrolman Mengel assisted in rescuing the youngster from under the car.

WHY NOT?—If so simple, understand wisdom; and we fools, be ye of an understanding heart. —Proverbs 8:5.

FEEDING TIME—

At the Zoological Garden in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, some years ago there was held in captivity a magnificent specimen of the South African lion, a male. During certain hours of the day this animal would commence to pace his cage with the regularity which would have done credit to the tick of a time-piece. Following a period of pacing to and fro in the fore part of its cage the beast would emit a roar of such volume as to arouse all the animals in that part of the garden, and a general hubbabaloo of noises followed. It was feeding time in the garden and the rest of the animals seemed to wait until this king of the forest gave the signal before they showed any signs of restlessness.

Similar scenes may be witnessed regularly in the large barn of the Borden Milk Company. When feeding time comes the cows know it, and you can see them munching impatiently at their mangers awaiting the arrival of the caretaker. Over in an adjoining building may be found a large number of horses. These, too, know when feeding time comes. Their pawing and neighing tell the visitor something interesting is about to take place. Following the serving there is intense quiet, nothing to be heard except the crunching of the grain.

So it is in the human kingdom. Even the smallest babe knows when feeding time arrives. Any skepticism on this statement may be readily dispelled by a visit to a large maternity hospital; at morning, noon or evening mealtime these infants are fully cognizant that feeding time has arrived, and if the attending nurse is in any way dilatory you may shortly expect to hear a unique serenading from the little cribs on their four-wheel two-deck tramway car as it is slowly pushed down the long hallway of the hospital and the occupants removed and taken in to their respective mothers. Following this action quiet prevails, and sleep follows.

According to Mayor James it Further, it's feeding time in Rahway. Not for the animals or the babes but for the municipality itself. In quite a lengthy article in Tuesday's issue of the Record the Mayor relieves himself of some pent-up feeling, interwingling pathos with irony, sarcasm with dismay, and carries the pail of food before the eyes of our citizens in his endeavor to satisfy their appetites. Among other things he stated:

Is there anyone so foolhardy as to say in this age and generation that city parks are an extravagance? Such a statement can be made only by one who is untraveled, unread or penurious beyond compare.

Pessimists have afflicted Italy, way perhaps more than any of her neighbors, but a spirit of enterprise and progressiveness seems now to have pervaded the community. This spirit should not be killed by a few disgruntled who may not have been conferred with sufficiently to satisfy their ideas of their own importance. It is quite impossible in any public undertaking to satisfy everyone, but the citizens at large should not make the mistake of assuming a small windstorm to be a cyclone. A few pigs under a fence can make more noise than a whole herd of contented cattle. Also, a few malcontents can make disturbance enough to almost make one think they represent a majority, when in fact the whole clamor is but the exhaust of a flivver.

Some people carry common sense to such an extreme that it becomes pessimistic; wholesome thrift becomes kind avarice. To spend a dollar that another dollar may return to them seems the height of folly and the man who does these things seems to them a fool. Wise to the real fool—the man who spends that he may receive of the avaricious man who dies with a reputation for never having let go of a penny for the good of his community; the "parasite species that lives on the community tree and at the same time injects the deadly germ that destroys it. Such are like a breath from the tomb, whose touch is death; they live with their ears to the ground listening for the rumbling of approaching disaster.

The real contents didn't sink at a tax rate of $3.31 when their friends were at the helm, but $2.96 scares them now.

The Mayor in his official role as head chief, seems to be up against considerable stiff opposition relative to the bill-of-fare he has provided for his constituents. It is very evident that the articles on the list prepared to satisfy the community's hunger is not properly seasoned. In fact a little too much seasoning may be the means of toppling over the entire list, and queering the diners to such an extent that there will be nothing for the chef and his assistants to serve.

Judging from the opposition as expressed against Public Parks, a la City Planning Commission, this seems to hardly digestible to a great many and they refuse to accept it as a part of the municipal menu. They claim it should be taken away from the entree list and relegated under the desserts.

The head of the opposition to the Mayor's bill-of-fare reverts back to what he claims are substantial extravagants proposed. But he does confess to water, a la chloride supply, dirty streets, a la bumps and dodgers, sewers, a la interference, etc.

Mr. Further, as chief dispenser, fails to agree with the malcontents and, claims that through proper economy, management and business ability, they would discard a list of attractive and bound to pay dividends of the future, for what he terms as merely imaginative obstacles and dashes separating the entrees from the desserts.

So, as a municipality, we hear the roar of the million-of-living street in the filing of his petitions signed by property owners representing an assessed valuation of over $2,000,000, against the acquisition of the Custom House properties for park purposes. The puzzling part of this menu is that considerable has already been expended by options and purchases, and it seems that somebody must have bungled to permit this preparation without proper procedure. Probably there were too many cooks, and they have spoiled the entire mess card.

But whatever the outcome of the menu, there is one very outstanding item of failure—the lack of local prepaid—municipal—hospitals and fair, if Mayor Further in his attempts to place Rahway on the map Park cities has followed one of his house with all its hydraulic and electrical equipment cost only $25,00 per horsepower, less than one-fifth of the total. The dam, conduits, and tailrace together cost $89,00; and the transmission line and sub-stations $34,00. Transportation facilities alone cost nearly $5,00 per horsepower. Furthermore, if this plant were not merely an addition to an existing system, it would be necessary to add from $16,00 to $60,00 for steam reserve, and probably as much more for distribution line and equipment.

Electric power development and particularly hydro-electric development, it is to make advances necessary to meet increasing demands of industry, will require enormous amounts of new capital, far beyond financial capabilities of any small group or of any single community. To secure the fullest economy and lowest costs will require co-ordinated utilization of water and fuel, and interconnection of individual stations over wide areas. Such a task calls for the best mechanical ability and administrative talent that the country possesses. The problem is not local one, it is not even to be limited by State boundaries. It is in fact, a national problem.

The primary public concern is to secure the most widespread and most satisfactory service at least price to consumers. If public ownership be honest competition can do this, it will survive. We should not however overlook necessary limitations that surround public ownership. Its field of operation is limited to territory over which the particular public corporation has jurisdiction. Dollars were it Statewide something not yet attempted in the United States—it would still have a field far less than many of our existing power systems already cover. It cannot, therefore, irrespective of efficiency of management, secure the full economies of group development over wide areas. This, however is among least of its limitations. Until the character of our political institutions is radically changed it will never be practicable to secure and retain in public management the character of personnel which private management can secure or to free public operations from political control.

MAKE IT NATION WIDE

Daily we read of grade crossing accidents with the inevitable death list.

Warning devices, gates, signposts and even approaching trains which are in plain sight fail to deter many drivers in their mad attempts to cross tracks without bothering to look.

In their determination to challenge fate at every turn, the Grim Reaper is their constant companion. Day after day the toll mounts and the list of victims lengthens. Hardly a week passes over our heads without a fatality occurring at some railroad crossing.

The penalty for violating the traffic laws is a fine of not less than $5 nor more than $50 or imprisonment for ninety days, or both.

Throughout the country would be fine to a minimum the price taken for the death toll which runs between 20,000 and 25,000 persons annually.

Such a law which carries $25 would be the equivalent of an expense to the taxpayers, a money-maker through fines collected for law-breaking.

NATIONAL FIRE PREVENTION EXPOSITION

One of the outstanding features of the Fire Prevention Week this year, October 7 to 13 inclusive, will be the National Fire Prevention Exposition in New York City. The focal point of the National Fire Prevention campaign in its physical aspects will be the National Fire Prevention in New York City. Here, for the first time, will be shown thousands of products and devices such as fire resistive roofing, metal doors, windows, sprinkler systems, fire extinguishers, safety electrical goods, etc., which are listed and labeled by Underwriters Laboratories. Only those products which have passed the field tests of this independent, non-profit, non-commercial, non-profit making and public service institution, will be eligible for display at the Exposition.

The Exposition will be participated in by many important organizations and will visualize to the public what is meant by an average fire loss of thousand dollars per minute throughout the year. It will show that at least 50 per cent of this destruction is totally unnecessary, that it constitutes a terrible drain on the resources of the nation, that it costs the life of one person for every 35 minutes in the year and that it holds the menace of a possible conflagration over every community in the country, according to statements made after investigation by a Federal bureau.

VAST INCREASE IN CHILD LABOR

Utter failure in the courts of attempts to regulate child labor by national legislation and grossly inadequate regulation by the States, or none at all, seem to have produced effects that might have been anticipated. In a plea for a constitutional amendment granting Congress full power in this field Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the United States Children's Bureau, offers statistics showing a vast increase in the employment of children.

There were 1,990,000 boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 15 at work in this country in January, 1920, a third of them were under the age of 13. Figures indicate an increase of ten per cent since then, chiefly in cities. The present increase since June, 1922, is about 57 per cent.

Honestly speaking Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation freed 4,000,000 slaves. It half as many slave-labors are now exist in America, the subject is not to be laughed out of the court of public sentiment. Technology, wage-earners, those children do not own what is paid to them. Technically free, they may be whipped just as were slaves were whipped if they disobey the masters who have hired them out to other employers. And the spectacle of a mother and father loading through life, living on the earnings of a brood of children, is not an uncommon so it ought to be in many of our States.

A philosopher might say truthfully that it is a good thing for boys and girls to learn to use their hands, a good thing for them to acquire habits of regular industry. There is no protest against reasonable home work or responsable farm work. Parental love and care and interest may make even hard work tolerable, even enjoyable. But this much is certain: a minor under 16 should not be economically an industrial unit in some big, an industrial unit in poise. In other words, the end Society ought to aim at is child development, not wages, if any, regarded as an incidental matter.—Exchange.

TO RESTORE COOPER'S BIRTHPLACE IN BURLINGTON

After having sheltered several different families in the last century and a quarter, the birthplace of James Fenimore Cooper, pioneer novelist in America, N. J., has been bought from private owners by the County Historical Society, and will be reopened as an historic shrine on September 15, the 154th anniversary of Cooper's birth.

The quaint brick and plaster house on South High street, still in a good state of preservation, has been repaired and restored as nearly as possible to the style of the days when the Cooper family occupied it.

It was here that James Fenimore Cooper was born September 15, 1789. He was one of twelve children, but most of the others died young after only the first year of life spent in Burlington, for in 1790 the family moved to the wilds of New York, where they enjoyed a

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP NOT PRACTICAL

Addressing Appalachian Water Power Conference at Washington, executive secretary, Federal Power Commission says that until radical changes are made in present political systems, public ownership of power plants is not practical.

"There is going on at the present time in the field of power development, and of public utility service in general, many controversies, more of them acute, which are hindering the development of our resources and delaying the extension of utility service. There is also much popular ignorance of what is involved in the way of capital outlay and of technical skill in developing and operating modern electric power systems, and of what are the obstacles which enter into the cost of service. This popular ignorance is due primarily to lack of correct information. The same lack is the fundamental cause of the majority of the existing controversies.

"Since water costs nothing "and runs down hill of itself, water power development is a relatively simple and inexpensive matter which almost anyone is capable of undertaking. At least, many of applications filed with Federal Power Commission would indicate prevalence of such a point of view; for we have had applications from individuals, from corporations and from municipalities, which present no showing of ability to finance proposed undertaking, which give evidence of no training or experience in hydro-electric development, and which plainly indicate that applicant has no adequate conception of the problem involved in modern water-power development.

"Lack of training and ability appear not only in the desire but also in the estimates. In computing the capital cost of a power development too many people stop at the generator switchboard, and overlook or ignore the costs of transmission and distribution, and of auxiliary steam reserve. Too many, also and I must include in this list many so-called engineers fail to take account in their estimates of accessory construction costs.

"As illustrating the major cost elements in a typical modern hydro-electric plant, I will cite certain figures of actual cost from the Connecticut River of a plant recently completed in California. This plant of 15,000 horsepower capacity consists of a diverting dam, a tunnel some three and one-half miles in length, a concrete power house with generating capacity of 120 miles of transmission line and four substations. The total cost of the dam, tunnel and conduit of distributing is $156,00 per horsepower. Of this amount the power house with all its hydraulic and electrical equipment cost only $25,00 per horsepower, less than one-fifth of the total. The dam, conduits, and tailrace together cost $89,00; and the transmission line and sub-stations $34,00. Transportation facilities alone cost nearly $5,00 per horsepower. Furthermore, if this plant were not merely an addition to an existing system, it would be necessary to add from $16,00 to $60,00 for steam reserve, and probably as much more for distribution line and equipment.

"Electric power development and particularly hydro-electric development, it is to make advances necessary to meet increasing demands of industry, will require enormous amounts of new capital, far beyond financial capabilities of any small group or of any single community. To secure the fullest economy and lowest costs will require co-ordinated utilization of water and fuel, and interconnection of individual stations over wide areas. Such a task calls for the best mechanical ability and administrative talent that the country possesses. The problem is not local one, it is not even to be limited by State boundaries. It is in fact, a national problem.

"The primary public concern is to secure the most widespread and most satisfactory service at least price to consumers. If public ownership be honest competition can do this, it will survive. We should not however overlook necessary limitations that surround public ownership. Its field of operation is limited to territory over which the particular public corporation has jurisdiction. Dollars were it Statewide something not yet attempted in the United States—it would still have a field far less than many of our existing power systems already cover. It cannot, therefore, irrespective of efficiency of management, secure the full economies of group development over wide areas. This, however is among least of its limitations. Until the character of our political institutions is radically changed it will never be practicable to secure and retain in public management the character of personnel which private management can secure or to free public operations from political control.

Good Fellowship

While nothing at all may be said against good fellowship in all walks of life, and particularly in business, yet it has to be reckoned that there is a limit even to that immensely good thing.

What passes for good-fellowship often is merely a device behind which variety masks itself. How many men do we each know who are always suave, always wanting to slap one on the shoulder, always with surface smiles on their faces, always protestations of their friendship and—and yet who impress us as not only bores but as insincere. They profess good-fellowship too much. They play the game too continually. They never do anything to prove their protestations.

The man who proves his good-fellowship does not do so by honeyed phraseology—by formal protestations, but by his deeds and endeavors attitude towards us, and—by not attempting to intrude on our independence of power to judge and act for ourselves. Good-fellowship is an attitude of mind and a quality of heart, rather than a process of pretty-pretty words and compliments.—Marion County Press.

New Pest

The good natured automobilists of New York State have developed a new pest. It is the tourist who tries to hitch a ride on a car. Yesterday these pests, of both sexes, on all the roads in Western Nassau. They come in flocks and drove, and their numbers seem to increase constantly. They stand at the side of the highway or on a corner and hail every driver asking for a ride. Many of them do not care where they go. They will accept a ride to anywhere. They are out for a free ride in any direction. Most of them are young people. They include all classes of society from the bashful schoolboy to the touch New York hoss. The average female tourist usually wears knickers, with bobbed hair and she is perfectly happy. She is as good a sport as the male. It is not unusual to meet three freeloaders in some place. It is not unusual for a car to be stopped by a dozen of them on the road. New

Commissioners' Meeting

be could experiment the proposed relocation of the police headquarters as well as the rebuilding of the department itself.

Commissioner Foulks stated after the meeting that his reasons for refusing to endorse the Mayor's proposal were that he believed that local service in the department had entitled some man from within to the position and further that Mayor Purber had no way of knowing that Gerlach was better qualified for the post than either Acting Chief Thompson or Desk Sergeant Smith, who have been proposed and who are held by the Mayor to be ineligible of holding the post. Foulks points out that Gerlach was only a patrolman when he quit the department several years ago after having served a short time.

Chief Fire Chief Success

Reference was made by Mayor Purber to the fact he had to obtain the approval of his nomination of Fire Chief Walter H. Hitzman, which was finally given by Foulks but not by Simmons, a fight having been made for authority rights of another member of the department at that time. It is stated said that his choice was admitted to all hands to have proven a success Hitzman, he said, has already saved the city two his annual salary.

Rahway has been without a permanent police chief for more than a year since Chief David H. Ramsey was dropped by Mayor Purber on a charge of disobedience of orders. Ramsey carried the case to courts and won on technicality and resigned because he said he and Mayor Purber are agreed that they could not work together. Detective Sergeant Thompson has been Acting Chief since that time. Thompson was a candidate for the place but withdrew from the race.

Offers Jail Co-operation

A communication was received from Joseph M. Thompson, director of the division of Inspection of the Department of Institutions and Agencies in which he stated that he was glad to know that the city had decided to act favorably on his report of the condition of the local jail. Thompson said, "There isn't a city in New Jersey the size of Rahway that needs a new police and jail quarters so badly."

The writer suggested that a representative of the city see him in Trenton and go over the proposed crection of a new city jail here. He pointed to the First Precinct quarters in Trenton as a model with a few exceptions which could be eliminated in a new building here. He further suggested that the city send copies of the plans before adoption to his office for the approval of the state architect. The letter was received and filed.

Firemen Want Pay

A more believed-to have been [illegible] upon by the volunteer firemen to force the issue on the status of the department resulted in the filing at this meeting of bills of indebtedness against the city for six months. The bills were $150 each, one-half of the annual amount formerly paid to each company. The bills were all received and filed.

Evidently this action means that Mayor Purber means to carry out his promise of last February when he announced that the companies that there would be an appropriation forthcoming unless the books of each company were turned over to the city auditors, which was never done. The firemen were informed that even if they did turn over the books that there would not be enough money left to pay a warrant, specifying the use to which the money is to be put. The firemen of the Walling day night were scandalized at the "for service."

Firemen Nominate

Despite the fact that the paid fire department now has a chief and an assistant, the volunteers continued their annual custom and filed the nominations of three candidates for the October election. These are Hose Company, Fred Hansen; Engine Company, Fred Bowman; Hook and Ladder Company, Chief Sautmer, and Franklin Hose Company nominated a William A. Hose Company nominated Chief Sautmer, Assistant Chief Hose and Lieutenant Hose.

Independence Truck asked that exemption papers be granted to the following firemen: Theodore Kelly, John Boyd, Thomas Walsh, William Dumbach, Frank Murray, John Quinn. This was referred to the City Clerk and the Mayor. Protection Hose Company called attention to the fact that a plank in the gutter in front of its firehouse had been removed some time ago and never replaced. The danger to the apparatus of the company in case of a general alarm was pointed out. This was referred to the Chief of the fire department.

Must Have Water Meters

Mayor Purber offered a resolution governing the installation and use of water meters, effective October 1. The bill provided that all business premises must have meter installed on that date and that for the present all dwellings will have a flat rate, in cases where there is business and dwelling under the same roof both systems will be used.

In explanation of the resolution Mr. Purber told of the system instituted by the former Water Board requiring metered service in business houses, because it had been found that it was being used for commercial power and other purposes and should be charged for in proportion to the use by the consumer. As he recalled it, that board attempted to meter all dwellings for that action was rescinded. The present commission some time ago began requiring meters to be placed in all new buildings. These, Mr. Purber explained, were not to be used at present but were ordered so that when the meter system is enforced in all dwellings replumbing will not be necessary in new homes.

The Mayor pointed out that there have been some dwellings paying for metered service and some business houses getting a flat rate. The new resolution is to correct these faults and to prevent an alleged practice of men with influence being favored. "That's what gets the Mayor," Mr. Purber said. "Those who can stand it are favored and those who haven't much are not."

Hospital Gets $4,000

Treasurer J. W. Aldus, of the Rahway Hospital, wrote asking that the city make payment of the balance of the $2,000 appropriation for the year as the sum could be used to better advantage now than at a later date. Commissioner Foulks presented a resolution authorizing the payment as requested. The letter also thanked the city for the appropriation and hoped that 1924 budget would contain a like appropriation or if possible an increase.

All the papers in connection with the transfer of the Roche property to the city were received and filed, closing out the purchase. Nothing was said by any of the commissioners about the [illegible] and purchase and also the Demaas property. Mayor Purber called attention to reports that the Vail tract might not have been sold, and referred to the letter received from Judge Vail by the Board on August 13, in which were the words, "having sold" the property, followed by instructions to remove the municipal bulletin board. The Mayor said that when a sale is made it doesn't necessarily follow that the proposed changes hands at once, many months being required for title searches and the like. "We have only Mr. Vail's statement to rely on and no authority that the property was sold," said Mr. Purber, "and we believe him."

Authorize Bonds

The report of Mills & Co., auditors for the city accounts the first eight months of 1923, was received and filed. A warrant was authorized for $14,000 in payment of a series of short-term notes. The ordinance providing for the issuance of $52,000 serial bonds or notes for street paving in the Lincoln Park section was passed on third and final reading, as was the ordinance authorizing the issuance of $[illegible] in notes in anticipation of the making of sewer and water connections in the same streets.

The City Engineer reported that the new sewer in Central avenue between Madison and Madison Terrace had been completed at a cost of $23,[illegible]. Commissioner Simmons offered a resolution referring the report to the Board of Assessors, of proper assessments. The City Engineer commissioner also reported that sidewalk construction was being pushed as rapidly as the labor situation would allow. He submitted to the city engineer's report appended he recommended the work being done by the department.

Sidewalk Bids

Bids for some miscellaneous sidewalk construction were received and referred to the City Engineer with power to act. The following were received and opened: From the following, P. Camilla & Co., of Westfield, $1,412.50; Central Hero Building and Finance Company, of Rahway, $1,[illegible]; reading extra, $[illegible]; Ernest Ciccone, of Rahway, $[illegible]; no signature to one bid, $[illegible]; Frank Ciccone, of Rahway, $[illegible]; Ciccone Brothers, of Rahway, $[illegible]. The bids were referred to the city engineer and the commissioner of streets for tabulation.

The city engineer's report for the week ending September 7 showed the following labor charges as follows: Collection of garbage, $12,[illegible]; street cleaning, $[illegible]; construction of concrete sidewalks, $[illegible]; care of traffic lights, $[illegible]; maintenance of sewers, $[illegible]; repairs of streets, Broad and Milton avenue, $27,50; maintenance of parks, $8.00; laying 6-inch water line in Central avenue, $54.20; laying 6-inch water line in Jaques avenue, $118.60; repair of hydrants, $6.00; carting coal, $12.50; general repairs and water, $4.00; total, $[illegible].

CLARK TOWNSHIP

Citizen's letter in last week's issue complaining of the award by the School Board of the transportation contract was based on hearsay evidence—never a dangerous base. Fair-minded residents are satisfied that the Board acted for the best interests of the children, rightly the superior consideration in this case. The critic claims is due to the discontent of certain parties who had an interest in the other bids and a disappointed applicant for a position.

Other critics of the award are those who are always dissatisfied with affairs here. Wonder why they left where they were? There is no compulsion to stay here and they are free to betake themselves whenever they come if things here do not suit them. Chronic croakers they may well be called; their complaint is hardened chronic. Become boosters, not knockers—boys!

The Union-Middlesex Farmers met at the Hall in Terrill road Thursday evening. Active preparations were made for the exhibition of local agriculturists to be held at the Hall on September 21-22. The problem of transporting the high school children of the Township to Rahway engaged the attention of the Board of Education at its meeting Tuesday. CARRYING AUTOMATIC EARNS JAIL TERM

Negro Nabbed With Weapon In Possession Feels Ire of Judge O. H. Dey

Continuing his campaign against carriers of the law prohibiting the concealed weapons, Judge Oliver H. Dey Tuesday afternoon sentenced John Bonnet, 21 years old, of 65 New street, Wood-Ridge, to ten days in the county jail. Bonnet was arrested Monday night by Patrolman Flanagan for carrying a .32 caliber automatic revolver.

Flanagan told the judge he found the defendant put his hand in his pocket after the gun, when Flanagan met him in St. George avenue, Monday morning. The officer said he took the gun, which is a new model, straight round to the French Cartridges and seven loaded shells were found in the gun. There were also two pairs of brass knuckles in the pocket of the gun on his person, claimed the judge that he had taken from Woodbridge to Philadelphia where his parents live, on the ground that he feared he would be robbed.

Patrolman Flanagan, first on the railroad crossing over St. George avenue, Monday morning, received a suspicious look from the man who passed by with the gun. He followed the man to the Rahway station and when he came out of the station he was walking with the gun in his hand. Flanagan stopped the man and found the gun in his pocket. Flanagan was in court to tell the Judge that when he first saw the man he was carrying the gun. The Judge asked Bonnet if he had any excuse for carrying the gun. The defendant said he was afraid of being robbed. The Judge said that was no excuse and fined him the $25 and costs or ten days in jail.

Wouldn't Eat the Best Grain!

Charles Fabian, of Rahway, was arraigned before Judge Dey on a charge of stealing the fork from a pile of hay on his premises. Testimony was taken on both sides, but the witnesses were so confused and the evidence so weak, that Judge Dey dismissed the charge.

Forces of the law and a citizen clashed views in the case of Herbert Brunt, of this city, who was accused of speeding on Lacretia avenue. Officer Reiner who made the arrest, told the court that Brunt was making better than forty-five miles an hour and that it was necessary for him to go two hundred feet before stopping when the officer blew his whistle. Brunt claimed that he was making but forty-five an hour and that the officer did not blow his whistle. When other Reiner said that Brunt admitted making fifty miles an hour because friends in the car wanted to catch a certain railroad train and Brunt denied having said this. Judge Dey postponed the case until early in October when he ordered Brunt to produce witnesses. Brunt claims that he said he was going fifty-five miles an hour.

Arrested to pay for the damage done Raymond Carey, of 49 Crescent avenue, Jersey City, who drove his machine into the traffic post at Irving street and Lexington avenue, Monday morning and injured Mrs. W. A. Boulton, of 23 Georgia street, received a suspended sentence. Cates told the Judge that the man blinded him and when the woman stepped in front of his car he drove into the traffic post to avoid hitting her. The man's wife testified one hundred feet.

Union-Middlesex Farmers Plan Three-Day Showing At New Building

The annual exhibition of the Union-Middlesex County Farmers Co-operative Association, Inc., will be held September 20, 21, 22, at the association building, located on Terrill Road, at Brewer's Corner, opposite Topper Brook Park. The exhibition will be held for visitors from 2 to 10 p. m. each day. The committee in charge are planning to have on sale choice fruits and vegetables, Thursday and Friday and on 3 p. m. on Saturday all the exhibits not reserved will be sold at auction.

Fruits flowers, vegetables, grains, canned goods, and pastry will be exhibited by the members of the association and premiums awarded for first and second prizes, this being the second year for twenty years, for the plans and holding of exhibition for the three days, afternoon and evening, are made possible by the association having their building nearly completed and ample room for staging the exhibits under cover. This will give many people, who could not heretofore attend the exhibition, a chance to visit it any time during the days when open.

Another feature in connection with the exhibition will be the showing of farm tools and machinery in operation by tractor power in a field adjoining that of the exhibition building, also a display of autos and trucks by the Westfield Motor Sales Co. Plans are under way for the lighting of the grounds so that the outdoor features may be seen during the evening as well as the afternoons.

The former exhibitions held by the members of the association have created much comment upon the very high class of exhibits shown and the exhibition committee Messrs. Brewer, Corden and Schlefersteln, are expecting, this year, to stage an exhibit worth knowing, worth seeing and of interest to everyone interested in the leading products of the soil produced within the territory of the association. An admission fee of ten cents will be charged, to help defray expenses.

Refreshments will be on sale during the exhibition for those who wish. Members of the association will be present to answer any questions pertaining to the exhibits that the visitors may ask. The committee extends a cordial invitation to everyone to visit the exhibition.

Exhibition Committee: C. H. Brewer, chairman, Lester Corden, Fred Schlefersteln.

MINER'S THEATER, NEWARK

"Nifties of 1924," which comes to Miner's Orpheum Theater next week, Sunday Matinee, September 16, under the management of Joe Hurtig, is said to be appropriately named, for, lapsing into slang for a moment, it is a very "nifty" show according to all reports. In the superb cast Billy Foster and Will H. Cohan are the two featured players. These two clever actors are delineators of the more refined Hebrew comedy type. In the list of entertainers who so ably assist these two funmakers in amusing the audience, are Harry C. Van, Maude Baxter, Shirley Mallette, Irene Leary, Patti Marshall, Pat Cliff and Ben Morcroft and his Band.

Effective September 1, President John N. Willys of the Willys-Overland Company, announces a price reduction in the entire Overland line as follows:

Model	Was	Now
Touring	$525	$495
Roadster	$525	$495
Coupe	$775	$750
Sedan	$895	$875
Red Bird	$750	$695
Chassis	$425	$395

Equipped with the bigger, much more powerful new motor, these new prices make the greatest value throughout the entire line. The greatest sales and largest production in the history of the Willys-Overland Company has made it possible to pass this price reduction on to the American automobile buying public. This price reduction follows closely on the heels of the reduction in prices in the Willys-Knight line recently announced by Mr. Willys.

Such accelerating sixth breaks new records at Willys-Overland in both sales and production. The first and second quarters of the present year were the largest in the history of the company. July and August topped any similar months of the past and September has started out to continue the record breaking habit. Public acceptance has made these records possible.

Coach "Johnny" Brooks has been drilling his squad hard all this week but he has a gigantic task ahead to develop a winning combination. There is much material but it is markedly green for the most part. The squad this year is the largest ever out for a Red and Black eleven, thirty-two being out yesterday and several more possibly to come. Falling on the ball, setting up exercises, taking passes, running down under punts, receiving punts and other preliminaries kept the squad hopping yesterday, concluding with a couple of laps around the field.

The first blow to prospects has fallen since it has been ascertained that neither Ferguson nor White, the colored players, will be in school this year. The former particularly had been counted on heavily for this year's eleven.

The candidates for the team out yesterday were: Captain Casaleggi, Clos, Castor, Coppola, Tamburina, Quinn, Roarke, Albisser, Nadel, Haut, Grosmasn, Helms, Prietz, Vought, Crowell, Simon, Henderson, Patterson, Doty, LaMorte, Wolcott, Van Cline, Forrest, Furber, Brown, Farber, Smith, Clifford, Thompson, Jacobowitz, Harrington. The latter is said to be a halfback of Seton Hall Prep's team of last year.

Full particulars of the date of opening will be told in our advertising columns of next week.

REVISED HIGHWAY MAP OF JERSEY IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made by the State Department of Conservation and Development that the official State Highway Map, revision of 1923, is now ready for distribution. This map, which has attained great popularity with motorists and other users of New Jersey roads because of its great accuracy and clearness, shows every highway in the State with its condition as of July 1, 1923.

The map is of large size, 25 by 45 inches, which gives it a scale of about four miles to the inch and permits great detail. By folding in quarters, the map is easily [illegible] to a handy size.

New Jersey's roads are divided into five classes according to type of construction and each type is distinctly indicated. Concrete and bituminous roads of the State Highway System are shown by a heavy [illegible] line. Roads of macadam, gravel or other less durable material which are part of the State Highway system are indicated by a heavy [illegible] red line. Improved roads [illegible] State Highway Department, other than the State Highway, are similarly divided and are indicated by means of lighter solid and broken red lines. Unimproved roads are marked with black lines.

A comparison of the new map with the 1922 edition shows the very considerable extent to which concrete and bituminous highways have replaced the less durable types of pavement in the past year both on the State Highway System and on roads under the jurisdiction of other agencies.

Copies of the new map may be obtained from the State Department of Conservation and Development, State Office Building, Trenton, for 25 cents.

Drivers Put Blame On Each Other for Crash

In an auto crash at Jaques avenue and Commerce street yesterday noon, in which each driver blames the other, a Ford touring car had its front badly damaged, while a truck escaped unscathed. Neither driver was injured. Each driver made separate report and complaint to police headquarters.

The truck driven by Sam Edgar, colored, of this city, is the property of the Miller & Hoff Lumber Company, while the Ford was driven by Frank W. Thomas, also colored, of 409 North Fifth street, Newark. Edgar was driving east on Commerce street, crossing Jaques avenue, while Thomas was proceeding north on Jaques. The touring car hit the truck amidships. Edgar told the police he sounded his horn loudly before reaching the street intersection and only drove on when he thought the other would stop.

Baptist Ushers

Failure of enough members to be present to constitute a quorum prevented the scheduled meeting of the Ushers' Association of the First Baptist Church from taking place Friday night in the church parlors. The Ushers have decided to again enter the City Bowling League this year and Harold Olson, chairman of the athletic committee is bending his, and the resources of the committee, to the task of forming the strongest lineup possible. The organization is aiming to place a bowling quintet in the race this year that will be a strong contender for the loop title. The October meeting of the group will be held with Frank W. Kidd, of St. George avenue, at which time an energetic launching into the fall and winter program of activities is planned.

Teams Decide To Play Tilt Despite Ruling By Officials

City Loop Leaders Schedule Contest For Saturday Calling It Play-off for Title Though Officers Are Likely to Discount it

Following a dispute last night at a meeting of the representatives of the American Legion and National Pneumatic teams and the officials of the city twilight league, held at the Y. M. C. A., at which time it was decided that the proposed play-off of the first place tie asked for Saturday afternoon would not be played because the officers refused to allow the two teams to collect eighty per cent of the receipts, Manager Neugebauer announced that the game would be played without official consent and would be submitted as the deciding game in the league race. Neugebauer claimed that this decision was reached between himself and Captain Brady of the Pneumatics.

Just what the officials of the league will do when they receive this defy remains to be seen, but in accordance with their stand they can hardly do other than discount the game's result. When the matter of allowing the players of the two teams to split twenty cents of the charge of twenty-five cents which it was proposed should be made for the Saturday afternoon game and give the league treasury the five cents for each admission which it has always received at twilight games, the officials took the stand that such procedure would be setting a precedent which they did not care to see established as all games heretofore have been played without league payments to players; also that poor collections this season have kept the league treasury low and taking these receipts would possibly kill chances for the annual league banquet.

The two teams contend that playing the game on Saturday afternoon will necessitate making up to a number of their players payments which they would otherwise receive by playing with semi-pro nines with which they are connected. Difficulties owing to the early darkness and other causes of playing the game by twilight have called for the game to be played in mid-afternoon. It was suggested that the game be played some evening but advanced to five o'clock or shortly thereafter, but the Legion claims that it can't get its men on the field at that hour because of business [illegible]. When the meeting finished last night the league officials had instructed the teams to arrange to play the game as a regular twilight contest, but the team leaders evidently viewed the matter differently and have booked the game for Saturday afternoon at Riverside Park.

Citizens' Committee Studies Water Plant

In order to [illegible] personal [illegible] into the conditions at the water works [illegible] in their studies of the local water problems, the Citizen's Water Investigating Committee, recently appointed by Mayor Furber, Sunday afternoon made a tour of inspection of this great municipal asset, under the able direction and with the courteous assistance of Engineer David Gage. Members of the committee to make the investigation included Chairman William A. Ransom, William F. Davis, Walter B. Crowell and A. Bruce Cook.

Engineer Gage conducted the party through the plant personally, starting at the intake after a preliminary survey of the laboratory had been completed, thence to the big pumps which lift the water to the sedimentation basins and the standpipe through the boiler room and the filter room, with a view of the process of treating the water with alum and chlorine and later a view of the sedimentation basins. Engineer Gage supplied the committee with many details connected with the operation of the plant and co-operated heartily in the survey by answering any and all questions asked.

The committee in its work of studying conditions effecting the water supply of this city will make further investigation, intending to look over the watershed in the near future.

FINGER CRUSHED

Frank Gangano, R. F. D. No. 2, of this city, was taken to the Rahway Hospital yesterday suffering from a badly torn finger on his left hand, crushed by some object falling upon it. He was treated by Dr. Ira Spencer and allowed to go to his home.

Young Marauders Figure In Entry and Attempt

Marked activity among young boys with criminal inclinations have given the police some investigation work during the past few days and have resulted in three youngsters being connected with entry into the home of C. A. C. Johnson, of 81 Campbell street, Sunday afternoon, and an attempted "break" at Schwartz's Shoe Store, Irving street, by three others the same afternoon. In the first case the boys were eleven, nine and seven years old. They have been warned by the police and will be watched.

The Johnson home was entered while the family was out for an auto ride Sunday afternoon, they not being certain whether the back door was left open or not. The boys confined their thieving to foodstuffs and some silver tableware which was found by the police yesterday in a hut the youngsters had erected in a rear lot in Campbell street. They took two and one-half loaves of bread, four oranges, four eggs, some candy and a cake which they evidently ate on the back porch as remains of the delicacy were found there upon the family's return.

Officer Kelly surprised the other party of boys attempting to enter the Schwartz store, they having removed the putty from a window by the time the discovery was made. The timely discovery foiled any entry. During the past several months numerous small entries have been reported to the police and attributed by them to depredations of boys. In most cases the police have fixed the blame.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Ruddy and family, of Hamilton street, haev removed to Woodbridge Township, near Keasby. Mr. Ruddy has taken a position with Valentine Bros., of Woodbridge.

BIG EAGLES OUTING AT CLARK ATTRACTS THRONG; IS SUCCESS

The plans for the big outing of Rahway Aerie, No. 1563, F. O. E., contemplated nothing but a rousing success when the affair took place at Cordes' Grove, Clark Township, on Sunday and the splendid efforts of the live committee on arrangements were amply rewarded and the forecast justified when in the neighborhood of two hundred persons turned out for the event and marked down one of the finest social times in the history of the local aerie.

The program for the day was brimming over with attractions and from the word go until the close of the affair there was something doing every minute. A big dinner, a series of athletic contests and games and various other social diversions occupied the time. Many out-of-town Eagles were in attendance.

Much credit is due the committee for the splendid preparations it made and for the success which was scored. The committee comprised: Charles M. Forgle, chairman; Frank Ginfrida, Edward J. Best, Edward H. Cliffo, Harold Boulton, William Williams, William Carpenter, Claude H. Reed, George Loveland, Timothy O'Connell, Edward Schwindinger.

Call Tourney Off

Owing to the fact that the season is so far advanced and partly due to cool weather now in progress, it has been decided that there will be no intra-club tennis tournament at the Ilderan Outing Club this season. This annual event has attained a wide popularity among the devotees and followers of the court game and the announcement will be certain to disappoint many. It had been expected that with the closing of the Rahway City Tennis League tournaments that the Ilderan event would follow about the end of this week or the first of next week and it was so announced.

PLAN OPENING OF BOYS' WORK

Y. M. C. A. To Resume Activities in Department at Social Next Monday

The official opening of the activities of the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. will be on Monday, September 24, with games in the social rooms at 4:00 p. m., for the grammar school group.

In the evening an attractive program for all boys of Rahway over 10 years of age has been planned. At 730 in the club rooms assembly will be called and a short explanation of the program of activities for the season will follow. "Y" buttons will be given to all boys present on time. Guy Hunter, the blind entertainer, noted for his humor and fun-making for boys, will then proceed. It will be fun for all so no one should miss it.

Charles R. Scott, State Boys' Secretary of New Jersey will also be present and will give a few words of greeting. Mr. Scott was at the local association on Thursday last and discussed the coming state older boys' conference to be held here in December. One of the features of this great gathering will be a meting at the New Jersey Reformatory to be addressed by Superintendent Dr. Frank Moore.

Boys' Secretary E. H. Chase was in Elizabeth yesterday morning making arrangements for a series of inter-association meets between the local and Elizabeth "Y." The first will be held here the latter part of October, while Rahway will go there in November. Meets with Perth Amboy, Metuchen and New Brunswick are also pending.

Mr. Chase took a group of twelve boys through the local telephone exchange Friday on a tour of inspection.

Firemen Rescue Cat

Not all of the tasks which the firemen are called upon to do are connected with extinguishing fires, as was attested to Sunday afternoon when the department received a call to play the hero role to a badly frightened cat which had lodged in a tree in Lake avenue, between Pierpont street and Jaques avenue. The hook and ladder went to the scene upon call and Captain Joseph Mohr and Fireman Post went aloft to bring down Miss Pusy, succeeding in their quest without any untoward incident, thus relieving the neighborhood of a feline chorus which had been hardly in accord with Sabbath quietude.

To Make Plans

Reports on the big picnic to Linden Sunday, received last night by Rahwack Tribe No. 165, Improved Order of Redmen, showed the affair to have been a complete success. Routine matters occupied most of the time of the session. Every member of the order is urged to attend the next meeting at which time arrangements will be made for a special program of activities at the club during the fall and winter.

Card Party Tonight

The opening public card party of the fall season is scheduled for tonight at the G. A. R. Hall, Main street, in the Roberts building, when a big attendance is expected to enjoy the play which is under the auspices of Manchester Grove, No. 8, Woodmen Circle. An energetic committee has been at work on the arrangements for the party and a real evening's pleasure is assured.

The foremost aim of the League, educating the voters to the qualifications of those who seek public office, will be furthered at this meeting when a general discussion on a non-partisan basis of those who are candidates at the coming primaries will be had. This pre-election forum should prove of unusual interest and bids fair to bring out a large attendance. RAHWAYAN HELD IN MAN'S DEATH

BRONX CYCLIST IS KILLED IN CRASH WITH AUTO

William F. Haenel, of 567 Eagle avenue, the Bronx, was instantly killed shortly before noon time Sunday on the Lincoln Highway at Metuchen, when the motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Raymond Larkins, colored, of 192 West Hazelwood avenue, this city.

Larkins, as well as his companion, Edward Lewis, also of Rahway, were buried under the small coupe in which they were riding, but received injuries of a minor nature, though Haenel when pulled from out of the wreckage was found to have sustained a broken neck, a fracture of the skull and a broken jaw.

The two colored men had left their home here at an early hour in the morning, according to a statement made by Chief of Police Willard B. Hutchinson, of Metuchen. They had visited a friend, Henry Banetta, of Middlesex avenue, and were returning to Rahway about 11:30 when in attempting to pass a line of traffic ahead of them they pulled to the left and crashed head on into the motorcycle of the deceased.

Coroner Arthur K. Hillpot was called to the scene and removed the body to his morgue. Larkins and Lewis were taken to Dr. Clarence E. Hoffer, where they were treated for bruises and lacerations about the arms and legs after which they were arraigned before Recorder C. C. Weber, of Metuchen.

Larkins was charged with manslaughter and his companion was held as a material witness, both men being transferred to the county jail by Chief Hutchinson, pending the fixing of bail by County Judge John F. Kirkpatrick.
