TRAVELOGUE GIVEN BY MRS. SELL BEFORE CLUB

Interesting Lecture Given On Spain, France and England

An interesting travelogue, illustrated with many descriptive views, was given by Mrs. Frederick W. Sell, of 113 Commerce street, at the meeting of the Rahway Woman's Club, Friday afternoon. The countries described were Spain, France and England. The account of her trip was carefully prepared and delivered in an entertaining manner. Four decorative colored posters, representing the specialties of certain provinces of France, and a number of beautiful lantern slides loaned by the French Travel Bureau, of New York, added to the enjoyment of the program.

The lecture opened with an account of Spain and included a realistic account of a bull fight in Madrid. The description of the king's palace, peasantry of central Spain, ancient mosque of south Spain and the account of the beautiful historic fountains throughout this old country was excellently described. In speaking of France, Mrs. Sell gave an interesting description of this artistic country She also brought her travels home with references to the town of Claremont-Farrand, a town in France developed by the ancestors of the S. O. H. Mills family, of 26 Seminary avenue. The description of Normandy and the volcanic sections of France and rural England showed the keen observing powers of the interesting speaker.

Popular French and Spanish melodies were played by a trio consisting of Mrs. Sell, Miss Katherine Lander and Franklin Knight. Mrs. Sell wore a Spanish costume and displayed many souvenirs of each country she described which made the lecture one of the most interesting held this year by the club.

The literary department will meet next Monday afternoon when Charles Dicken's life and works will be studied. Plans for a valentine party on Tuesday, February 15, were also made. The March meeting of the club will be held on Thursday, March 3, on acount of the Day of Prayer by the women of the Rahway churches on March 4. Mrs. Agnes Sexton will be in charge of the program for this meeting. The club will be represented at the Town Circle. Reports were read by Secretary Mrs. Aaron Dean and Treasurer Miss Helen Russell. Mrs. S. C. Bull, presided.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH PLANS MISSION PROGRAM

The First Baptist Church is undertaking during the month of January an extensive program of missionary education. The missionary committee which consists of Mr. P. C. Voorhies and Mr. William Rulison, has arranged the program. The deacons are placing in each family a pamphlet called "The Log" which has daily reading for January in the form of a round-the-world trip with stops at Baptist Mission fields. The idea is to have each family read these articles to acquaint them with the places where their contributions are at work through the missionaries.

Four mission study classes are to be held. At seven o'clock beginning last Sunday night the men and women of the church met in the auditorium for a class taught by R. L. Howard, former president of Judson College, Rangoon, Burmah. This class used as its base the book "The Second Century of Baptist Foreign Missions." At the same hour the Christian Endeavor Society devote half an hour of its meeting to the study of the book "Young Islam on Trek," Mrs. Howard being the teacher. The junior Christian Endeavor meeting Friday afternoons will study "Two Young Arabs" under the leadership of Miss Manna Clark. Even the kiddies will have a class, as Mrs. Agnes Sexton will conduct a mission story hour for them at three o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Sunday evening will be given over to missionary talks which will follow up the classes held in the previous hour. Last Sunday night the Rev. Andrew Slabey of the International Seminary in East Orange spoke on "The Baptists of Europe." Next Sunday night Mr. Ranolph Howard will give a travel talk illustrated by the stereoptican called "The Road to Mandalay," which his experience in the East will make doubly interesting. On January 23 Mrs. A. H. Curtis will deliver an address entitled "The Lone Star." Mrs. Curtis is the daughter of the pastor in whose church 2,222 were baptized in one day, and will speak from personal knowledge. On January 30th the speaker will be the Rev. J. H. Cope of Haka who is Honorary Inspector of schools for the Chin Hills. His topic will be "K-i-H or Where the Chins chin."

COUNCILMAN J.H. CRAIG ELECTED PRESIDENT OF LOCAL REPUBLICAN CLUB

Harry Simmons Declines Office After Three Years As Head Of Club

The newly elected Councilman-at-large, James H. Craig, was named president of the Harry Simmons Republican Club to succeed the man after whom the club was named, at an election of officers held at the business meeting of the club last night which was followed by a package luncheon. Postmaster Simmons relinquishes the gavel of the club after three years of service, during which he worked unceasingly in behalf of the G. O. P. in Rahway. He was the first president of the club, being elected on November 13, 1924, when the club's name was changed from the Calvin Coolidge Republican Club.

The other officers elected last night were: Vice-president, Schuyler C. Terrill; recording secretary, Roscoe Conklin; financial secretary, James McCollum; treasurer, William H. Wright; assistant treasurer, William F. Veech; registrar, Albert Schaefer; sergeant-at-arms, John J. Jeffries.

Stanly W. Jones, former councilman-at-large, was nominated for president but declined the nomination. His name was brought before the body after President Simmons told the members of the club his reasons for wishing to relinquish the chair of the club after three years. The nominating committee consisted of Charles C. Filser, chairman; Clifford B. Gehring James McCollum, George M. Gage, Sr., and William L. B. Helmstadter.

Following the election the club voted to organize a Ladies' Auxiliary and the committee appointed at the last meeting to study this matter reported favorably and the vote followed. The committee only made a preliminary report last night but will make a definite announcement at the next meeting which will be at the call of the chair. The committee working on the auxiliary are as follows: Mrs. Harry Simmons, Mrs. S. D Love, Mrs. Frank L. Foulks, Miss Grace Jackson.

President Craig in accepting the chair stated that he would do everything in his power to continue the excellent work of Postmaster Simmons and asked the members of the club to co-operate with him in stirring up interest in the club work. John Vanderwende was the next speaker and spoke in general on the work of the Republican party with special reference to its work here. He urged the members of the club to get together on civic affairs for the general welfare of the city.

John Jeffries spoke on the election laws and the legal steps necessary to regulate the same. Roscoe Conklin cited reasons for the lukewarm attitude of Republicans in Rahway and told how to map out a program to create interest in the party. Mrs. Albert Foster said the club had a common purpose and should prepare not only for city and State elections but also to the National issues. She urged the club to have speakers present from time to time to make the meetings interesting. Schuyler C. Terrill, Republican candidate for mayor last November, told of a plan to improve the club and how to encourage interest in the organization. All of the addresses proved very interesting and helpful to the large number of members present Nine new members were received last night.

Permission was given the Tau Chapter, Alpha Delta Phi fraternity to use the rooms for their weekly meetings After the business session a delightful package social was held, the boxes full of sandwiches, cake and fruit were auctioned off by Councilman James McCollum, and his witticisms caused much merriment.

Army-Navy Union Honor Six Birth Anniversaries

Six birthday anniversaries were celebrated on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. Reed Gensinger, 44 Irving street, by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Army and Navy Union. The honored guests were: Mrs. Walter I. Suringer, Mrs. R. C. Hull, Mrs. John Stiles, Mrs. John Rudolph, Miss Jennie Papirnik and Miss May Fagans. A fine collation was served.

Plans were made to hold the next meeting on Tuesday, January 25, with Mrs. Joseph Klasek, of Elizabeth.

Those present not already mentioned were: President Mrs. Wallace I. Van Pelt, Mrs. Mary Langton, Mrs. Charles Klasek, Miss Frances Klasek, Mrs. George Pinfield, Miss Ida Pinfield, Mrs. Marion Martin, Mrs. Leroy Taynor and Mrs. Reed Gensinger.

BUSINESS TALKS

Some one has said: "If business is good, advertise and keep it good; if business is bad, advertise and get it."

There is more truth than poetry in that sentence.

The methods employed by large department stores are well worth observing. The men at the helm are big men, with ideas and experience. They know how to create business by keeping people interested in their stores.

CITIZENS' NATIONAL BANK SHOWS REMARKABLE GROWTH

In 14 Months Bank Has Secured 2,755 Depositors and Assets Totaling $850,000; President Forman Tenders Dinner

Opening its doors without a depositor and with assets of $250,000 only fourteen months ago, the Citizens' National Bank of Rahway on January 1, last, had 2,755 depositors and assets amounting to $850,000, showing one of the most remarkable growths of any bank starting in Union County in many years. How rapidly has the bank grown in its brief span of one year was graphically portrayed by charts displayed Tuesday night by Paris R. Forman, president of the bank, at a banquet tendered by him to the officers, directors and stockholders of the institution at Cross Keys Inn. Fifty persons attended the dinner.

The ascent has ben steady and healthful, Mr. Forman said, without any big spurts or jumps. Starting at zero, the bank has now 2,755 depositors, which would mean one out of every five men and women in this city. The chart displayed by President Forman had two sections, one devoted to assets, deposits and loans and the other to depositors, showing how the totals had climbed from month to month. These graphs are shown on page 12 of this issue of the Record

With Vice-President James M. Pettit serving as toastmaster, an interesting program was carried out. Senator Morgan Larson, of Perth Amboy, a director of a bank in that city, was the chief speaker. Mayor Thos. A. Fyffe also spoke and devoted most of his attention to the growth of the city.

Senator Larson portrayed how banking has changed in recent years. He explained the former method of bankers to tie up every bit of security a man had to cover loans made and the present plan of tying up only sufficient security to cover the loan and giving the borrower an opportunity to have greater freedom in his financial affairs. This plan is working advantageously for all concerned, Senator Larson said. Other banking methods directly interesting to those concerned were discussed by the Senator, who interspersed his points with stories and anecdotes.

Mayor Fyffe in his address gave a detailed account of the growth of the city. He traced the growth in the Fifth Ward such as West Stearns New Bryant, Oak, Walter and Lake avenues, and in the Fifth Ward, Madison avenue, Fowler and Brown places, and other new developments. He then spoke of the work under the present form of government, stating that the city officials are devoting ninety-five per cent of their personal effort to city affairs, but even with this the city is growing too fast for them to handle it efficiently and it behooves the Common Council to "step on it" to keep abreast of the times. He told the bankers the City Charter of 1859 was antiquated and it should be revised so that it would become operative. He said he did not favor any particular form of government but just that which would bring the desired results

He said the city government was a banking proposition, for it represented the best citizens, and primarily those who were interested in the advancement of the city. "Just picture what we are up against on the eve of a Primary Election," Mayor Fyffe said. "We seek some of our best citizens to stand up for public office, but not one of you men would serve although practically all of you have been asked to do so at one time or another. We all confess to be public spirited citizens, ready to do everything possible for our city and take pride in thinking this but if the job does not have a financial return it is hard to get people to take it.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN TRUCK STRIKES POLE

Two hours after the truck he was driving struck a pole in the Lincoln Highway, near Iselin, Gus. Albertini 26 years old, of 1219 South Marshall streetd, Philadelphia, died at the Rahway Hospital from injuries received in the crash. Picked up by truck drivers at 4:40 o'clock this morning, the injured man was rushed to the Rahway Hospital where he died at 6:45 o'clock this morning from a fractured skull, lacerations of the face and body and in all probability internal injuries.

Albertini was driving a three-quarter ton truck for John Sceera Company, of Philadelphia, and was on his way to Philadelphia after delivering a load of mushrooms to the New York market, acording to the report of Motorcycle Patrolman Jardot. It is believed he went asleep and his truck swerved from the road. It hit the pole with such force that the body was knocked from the chassis. A Bond bread truck proceeding close behind the truck ran into the body of the truck lying across the highway This was followed by a truck driven by Thomas B. Prior, of 224 East Front street, Trenton. Horace N. Dougherty of 127 Myrtle avenue, West Grove another mushroom truck driver took Albertini to the hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness

NEW FIRE SIGNAL IN OPERATION YESTERDAY

Following frequent tests from boxes in various parts of the city yesterday, the new fire signal siden went into operation last night and sounded for the 9 o'clock taps. From now on the shrill siren will sound all box alarms and will be much easier to hear than the whistle at the Rahway waterworks which formerly summoned the call men and announced to the public where the fire was located.

The siren was erected by the Gamewell Company, assisted by Assistant Fire Chief Mohr, on top of the hose tower at the old fire headquarters on Main street, next to the police station. The signal was located here instead of at the Seminary avenue fire headquarters because it was believed to be more centrally located and could be heard more distinctly from this point. The siren which was erected at a cost of $3,400, is a big improvement over the former whistle, which because the water plant was in a hollow and at the extreme end of the town, was seldom heard all over the city.

Fire Chief Mohr yesterday tested the siren from Station No. 53, Grand and Lennington streets; Station No. 32 Grand street and St. George avenue, and Station 34, Church street and W. Scott avenue.

Former Judge Dey Speaks On Juvenile Delinquency

In Stirring Address Before Franklin School P. T. A. Last Night, Says Early Home and School Training Could Curb Crime

The root of evil in the present crime wave is due to the lack of proper early home and school training. Former Police Judge Orlando H. Dey told the members of the Franklin School Parent-Teacher Association at their meeting last night. Speaking on the subject of "Juvenile Delinquency" Mr. Dey likened crime to a disease and if the child was corrected by his parents in early childhood and brought in good influence through various institutions like the Y. M. C. A., church community work, Boy Scouts and similar welfare organizations, he would not continue his criminal tendencies.

In tracing the development of crime like a disease, Judge Dey said if the child was taught good habits while he was in the pliable, habit forming stage, which comes under the influence of the home and school, the mild attack of waywardness could be easily corrected. He said first came the child's spontaneous wish to play hookey, be an annoyance in his class and refuse discipline, which is generally common in all children. Then comes the deliberate and meditative method of forging parents' name on excuses, petty thievry of pen-knives, books, etc. then stealing from the society at large which brings the youth in the Police Court. But even these stages can be cured, the speaker stated.

From Police Court the youth goes to the Juvenile Court, Probation Office, State Home for Boys, Reformatory, County Jail, State Prison and sometimes the electric chair. He said even when the youth gets to Jamesburg and the Reformatory he can sometimes be corrected but after these steps fail he is generally a marked criminal. He said that practically all of the vicious crimes today are done by men between the ages of 18 and 26, which shows that they are just a little older than the juvenile period of sixteen years. This shows how fast the disease of crime develops, Judge Dey said.

He said students of juvenile criminology realize that if the home influence can be brought to the youth he can generally become corrected. This is why the State Home has pretty grounds, similar to a college campus, Judge Dey pointed out. The boys there are put in separate cottages with a father and mother looking after them. There is no suggestion of restraint or confinement, the object being to divorce the thought that the boys are in any jail. Ninety per cent of the cases at Jamesburg are the result of "Broken Home," the speaker said. There they get a chance to get a proper start, with physchlogical tests denotes what occupation the boys are best fitted for and physical examinations to help the weak. Everything for correction and not punishment. The Reformatory has more of the prison idea, Judge Dey said, but it is also a corrective institution. After this period there is little cure and the means is punishment rather than correction.

He said that each child must be

Honored by Reappointment

FRANK W. KIDD

F. W. KIDD RENAMED TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

Mayor Fyffe Reappoints Him For Five Years

Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe announced last night the reappointment of Frank W. Kidd, of St. George avenue, a member of the Board of Education for a term of five years, beginning on February 1, next, when Mr. Kidd's first term ends. The renaming of Mr. Kidd, who is a Republican, was not generally expected, although those close to the City Executive felt assured that Mayor Fyffe had recognized the school commissioner's untiring work on the school board and that he would again be honored by the appointment.

Mr. Kidd was appointed to the board on February 1, 1922, by Mayor James B. Furber, when Commission Government was in vogue here. Since that time he has been one of the board's most active members. The certificate of appointment signed by Mayor Fyffe last night, reads:

"Greetings: Thomas A. Fyffe, Mayor of the City of Rahway, County of Union, State of New Jersey, reposing special trust and confidence in your integrity, prudence and ability has this Thirteenth Day of January 1927 appointed you to be a member of the Board of Education, and perform according to law, all such matters and things as to the said office doth belong, or appertain to be done. To have and to hold same for five years, beginning the First Day of February, 1927."

It is not known whether or not Mr Kidd will accept the appointment as he has been on a business trip to Utica, N. Y., all this week and will not arrive home until late Saturday. However, the Mayor informed Mrs. Kidd of her husband's reappointment last night, and it is expected that she will convey the message to him. It is believed that he will accept the reappointment because of his vital interest in educational enterprises.

Mr. Kidd is one of the most active men in public life in Rahway, for, besides carrying on an extensive brokerage business in New York, he is president of the Board of Directors of the Rahway Y. M. C. A., president of the Board of Directors of the Rahway Hospital; chairman of the Board of Trustees of the First Baptist Church; a member of the Board of Adjustment, and a member of the City Plan Commission.

LEGION WANTS FLOOD LIGHTS AT MEMORIAL

A resolution asking Common Council to erect flood lights around the new War Memorial Monument at Pierpont street and St. George avenue, in order to illuminate it in the same manner as the Soldiers' and Firemen's monuments, was passed by the members of Rahway Post, No. 5, American Legion at their meeting last night. Plans were also made to revive the old rifle team and Chris Saal was named chairman of a committee to arrange for matches. National Guard teams in this vicinity and matched with the Elizabeth police and possibly the Rahway police are expected to be made

The committees in charge of the Legion dance to be held at the Franklin School on Friday night, January 28, have practically completed all their plans and the affair promises to be a brilliant one. The second of a series of five card parties to be held on Thursday, February 3, is being planned for. A delegation from the local post will attend the county Legion meeting at Summit on January 24, and another delegation is planning to attend the dinner and reception to be given at Columbia Park, North Bergen, on February 8, in honor of National Commander "High-Powered" Savage, of Chicago. An initiation and reception will feature next week's meeting of the Legion.

ARCHITECT EXHIBIT OPENS

Seymour Williams, of this city, is a member of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and the New Jersey Society of Architects which will hold an intensely interesting architectural exhibit at the Newark Museum beginning, Monday, January 17 and continuing until January 29. Today the exhibit will be open to the press and tomorrow the societies will hold a reception, which Mr. Williams will attend. The hours of the exhibit are from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily, except Tuesday and Thursday, 11 a. m. to 6 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Sundays from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m.

KIWANIS CLUB SUBMITS REPORT ON COMMUNITY CHEST SURVEY

TWO NEW FACTORIES MAY BE BUILT HERE

Fyffe Interviewed Representatives Here Yesterday

That Rahway is fast becoming one of the largest industrial centers within close proximity of New York City is seen in the announcement last night that Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe yesterday held conferences with representatives of two large industries who want to locate their factories in Rahway. One concern, dealers in lumber and building materials, are looking for a site about one acre in size, on which to erect a plant; while the other representative, also of a building material concern, said he wanted a site on which to erect a factory, having about 250,000 square feet of floor space. Mayor Fyffe said he could not divulge the names of these concerns as yet but believed that negotiations will be closed shortly to have one or both of them build here.

That Rahway is favorably looked upon as a city where industries would flourish, is shown by another announcement made by Mayor Fyffe stating that at the request of the "Building Age and National Builder," a builders' magazine of national repute, he has sent them a list of all the builders in the City of Rahway.

The announcement of the two firms making plans to build here, and the coming of the Parsons Ammonia Company, Inc., with a new three-story building, to contain about 250,000 square feet of floor space, made of artistic face brick, shows that Rahway within the next year will not only be in the midst of a housing boom but an industrial one as well.

LOUIS HEROLD DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Living practically all his life within a few blocks of his birthplace, Louis Herold, of 102 Main street, an invalid for the past six years, died at his home Wednesday. He was 61 years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from St. Mark's Church at 10 o'clock, Rev. John B. Scheyer officiating. Interment will be in the Rosehill Cemetery, Linden.

The deceased suffered a paralytic stroke, followed by chronic Bright's disease, which kept him confined to the house most of the time for the six years, during which time his wife was his constant attendant.

Mr. Herold was a native of Rahway, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alois Herold, who conducted a cigar manufacturing business at 5 Cherry street for many years. For twenty-four years he lived at 71 Cherry street, also near his birthplace.

Mr. Herold was a veteran railroader, having been connected with the Pennsylvania Railroad for forty years, making his first run with William H. Merritt, retired, of 70 Seminary avenue At the time he was stricken the deceased was a trainman. During the administration of Grover Cleveland he was frequently assigned to the President's special train and had served in that capacity since his administration

Questionnaire on Chest in Plainfield and Bound Brook Reveals Many Facts

FAVOR PLAN TO ELIMINATE DRIVES

One of the most comprehensive reports made on a proposed civic project for this city in many years was submitted by President Paris R. Forman at the Kiwanis Club meeting on Wednesday, when he read the report of the special committee appointed by the club to look up preliminary information pertaining to a Community Chest for the City of Rahway. The committee spent several weeks looking up data on the Chest plan, and after compiling a questionnaire containing thirty-nine questions, spent a day in Bound Brook and Plainfield having these questions answered. The report is printed in full below.

In both communities they favored the Chest plan and said it would be a step backward to give it up. Both places said the Chest eliminates all drives except where a new building for a hospital or some other welfare cause was needed. A detailed account of what agencies were aided by the cause, the average amount given per person according to their income, how the money was raised and distributed made the report a most interesting one. The committee was headed by Mr. Forman, and consisted of former President Harry Simmons, as ex-officio member, James M. Pettit and M. F. Quinn.

The members of the Kiwanis Club voted to accept the report with thanks and went on record as favoring any plan which will tend to eliminate the overlapping of charities and which will relieve the labor of procuring money for these organizations and distribute the money more evenly among them. The discussion disclosed that if the Community Chest would do these things the club would favor a Chest for this city, but believed the various plans should first be studied at an open forum like the Town Circle in order that the best plan might be adopted.

The Kiwanis report should be a material aid in the discussion to be held at the Town Circle on Thursday, January 27, for it will answer many questions which are sure to arise at that time. With the Kiwanis report and a similar report of a survey made by the Rotary Club together with the discussion by the members of the Rahway Business and Professional Woman's Club and data furnished by individual citizens, the Community Chest question should be discussed so thoroughly that a preliminary vote on whether or not such a plan would work here should be arrived at. The Community Chest plan is the first and most important question to come before the Circle at its quarterly meeting this month.

At the business session of the Kiwanis meeting, Roscoe Conklin reported on the District Trustees' meeting held at Camden last week. An invitation was also received from the Elizabeth Kiwanis Club asking the Rahway Club to attend their meeting at 12:15 o'clock next Thursday noon, for International President Alexander will speak at that time. Next week is Kiwanis International Week. The attendance prize, donated by Jan. Van Herwerden, was won by Supt. of Schools William F. Little. At next week's meeting a speaker has been secured to talk on Income Tax returns.

The Community Chest Report

The full report of committee appointed by the Kiwanis Club to look up preliminary information pertaining to a Community Chest for the City of Rahway, follows:

The committee is indebted to Rev. Wagner, of Bound Brook, and Miss Pierson, of Plainfield, for the information in this report, obtained December 16, 1926.

This report in the major part is made up of questions prepared by the committee before calling at Bound

YOUTH HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Sergeant Thompson's Son Falls In Jackson Pond

James Thompson, 17 years old, son of Detective Sergeant and Mrs. James Thompson, of 14 Westfield avenue had a narow escape from drowning Wednesday night when he fell into the channel in Jackson's Pond, which is west of St. George avenue and which will be included in the Union County Park Commission development along the Rahway River. Young Thompson was skating with four or five friends near the dam on the pond and decided to strike out for himself and take a longer skate, when the mishap occured.

He was skating along in the inky darkness, near the center of the pond which is bordered by heavy trees, and failed to see the thin ice in the darkness. Although he fell into the most treacherous spot in the pond, he did not become alarmed, but swam in his heavy clothes through the thin ice until he got a hold of the edge of the thick ice. He then cried for help three or four times, but as his form could not be seen by the skaters they could not locate where the sound was coming from. However, the shouts for help were heard by Herman Graves, who lives near the pond. He ran onto the ice and pulled Thompson from the water.

The police official's son was blue from exposure when he arrived home, even his head and face being discolored from the icy water. He is still confined to his home but no medical attention was necessary although he is suffering slightly from exposure

It was also learned today that a woman fell and fractured her wrist while skating on Milton Lake, Wednesday night, but this report could not be verified.

Mrs. W. P. Hills, of 27 Maple terrace, left Tuesday for Atlantic City to visit her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Minshull of that city.

Pacificism Greatest Evil in Country Today, Regent Says

State Regent Urges D. A. R. to Foster Strong American Ideals Among Children; Rahway to Provide Two Chairs in D. A. R. Hall

One of the greatest evils in this country today is pacificism, declared State Regent Mrs. William A. Becker, in an address before the Rebecca Cornell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. J. Vail, 148 Commerce street. The speaker vigorously ombat all pacifist propaganda and foster strong American ideals among the children. She also urged opposition to the Stitzer-Parker maternity extension bill. She told of the strength of the organization, which numbers 160,000 members and is adding 1,000 a month.

The speaker also told of the efforts to collect and preserve pictures and records of old churches for the State and national headquarters. She told of work being done in the naturalization courts, where each new citizen is presented a copy of the Constitution of the United States, American flag and copy of the "Star Spangled Banner." Relief work being done among the mountaineers and among the immigrants on Ellis Island was described and its importance emphasized.

Mrs. W. A. Ransom, regent of Rebecca Cornel Chapter, was named representative to the National D. A. R. Conference at Washington, January 18. The delegates are: Mrs. George E. Gallaway, Mrs. J. J. Vail, Mrs. W. W. Jackson, Mrs. Walter B. Crowell, Mrs. Frank W. Henson, Mrs. Arthur L. Perry and Mrs. Thomas J. Baker.

It was voted to purchase a chair in Constitutional Hall, new million dollar structure being erected in Washington by the D. A. R. This will make two chairs from Rahway, one provided by the late founder, Mrs. F. W. Langtroth, who organized Rebecca Cornell Chapter, which bears the name of her grandmother. New Jersey was reported by State Regent Becker to already have seventy-nine chairs at the hall

A committee headed by Mrs. Gallaway, will send a box of sewing materials to Ellis Island to aid the immigrants. The next meeting of the chapter will be held on February 14, at the home of Mrs. John O. Marsh, on Pierpont street. Rev. H. A. L. Sadtler, rector of St. Paul's Church, will give a patriotic address.

Those present were: Regent Mrs William A. Ransom, Secretary Mrs. A. L. Perry, Mrs. J. B. Cleaver, Mrs. R. W. Elliott, Mrs. William F. Little Mrs. Adolph Ulbrich, Mrs. C. A. C. Johnson, Jr., Mrs. J. F. Wraight, Mrs. George E. Gallaway, Mrs. George Menschnig Miss Ruth Stillman, Miss Caroline Mandeville, Miss Julia Mershon, Mrs. Thomas J. Baker, Mrs. F. W. Henson, Mrs. W. W. Jackson, Mrs. Walter Orvis, Mrs. Earl R. Silvers, Mrs. Walter B. Crowell and Mrs. W. H. Wright. Guests were Mrs. Guy M Howard and Mrs. John J. Hoffman.

Missionary Societies at Trinity Church Meet

The Young Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Trinity Methodist Church had the members of the senior Woman's Foreign Missionary Society as guests at a luncheon served at the church on Wednesday. Mrs. A. T. Atkinson, president of the young people's society gave an address of welcome, to which Mrs. Fannie DeRie, head of the woman's society, gave a fitting response.

The committee in charge consisted of Miss Sarah Laing, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Williams, Mrs. John C. Cornell, Mrs. Richard Corson, Mrs. J. F. Wraight, while Mrs. Walter S. Garong was in charge of the dining room, assisted by Miss Helen Rossell, Mrs. Frank Chase, Mrs. O. H. Dey, Mrs. W. J. Brunning, Mrs. A. V. Carkhuff, Mrs. Earl Lawson.

Fifty-five members of the women's gym class of the "Y" enjoyed their monthly luncheon Tuesday afternoon. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. C. D. Eldredge, chairman; Mrs. Oscar B. Garthwaite, Sr., Mrs. Adolph Ulbrich, Mrs. Sneath, Mrs. Guy M Howard and Mrs. Russell S. Hoff.

KIWANIS COMMITTEE REPORTS ON COMMUNITY CHEST PLAN

Brook and Plainfield—and the answers to these questions designate whether the information was secured from Round Brook or Plainfield, and where the designation is "Both" it means substantially the same information was received from both—please:

1. Are you glad you have a Community Chest? Both: Yes.

2. Would it be a step backward in your opinion to give it up? Both: By all means.

3. How long have you had a Community Chest? B. B.: Three years. Pfld.: Ten years.

4. What is the population of your city? B. B.: 10,000. Pfld.: 40,000.

5. What proportion of your population give to the Chest? B. B.: 1,500—about one out of every five. Pfld: 8,500—about one out of every five.

6. Do you have a drive annually for your contributions B. B.: Yes First year received $13,000.00; second year received $16,300.00; third year received $15,600.00. Contributors must have personal call annually.

Pfld.: Yes. 1924, $125,300.00; 1925, $135,303.60; 1926, $136,590.00. 1927 drive just completed $140,000. House to house canvass and special committee for industries.

7. How is it determined who should be helped through the Chest?

B. B.: Anything that is for the good of the community; non-sectarian, non-political, drawn no line for color, race or creed. It is for Welfare and Character Building organizations. The Near East not included because it is taken care of by the churches.

Pfld.: All agencies that are worthy and for the benefit of the community.

8. How is it determined what amount each agency receives from the Chest?

B. B.: Request each agency to submit the last three years' expenses and income before determining how much assistance they require from the Chest, strike an average of the three years. Each agency then submits a budget showing how much they require for the coming year.

Pfld.: Practically the same as B. B. but suggests that investigation be made as to the accuracy of budgets.

9. Can the contributors designate to what particular work their money should be applied?

B. B.: Possibly a good-talking point but we should try not to segregate it but simply donate to the Chest Fund.

Pfld.: Not in Plainfield but understand 75% of the Community Chests in the country do designate but are gradually doing away with it.

10. If they do not designate is the money received in the Community Chest divided in some-per-cent basis among the various agencies-to-be-assisted?

B. B.: If the full amount of the budget is not received it would have to be divided on a per cent basis.

Pfld.: We pay out whatever the budget stipulates. If we are short we borrow the necessary amount and endeavor to make up the deficit the following year.

11. Is the money paid in monthly; bi-monthly; quarterly.

12. Is the money paid out of the Chest monthly? Both: Yes.

13. What agencies do you include in your Chest?

14. What amount is held as reserve for contingencies? B. B.: No definite answer. Pfld.: $5,000 for shrinkage, etc.

15. How is money paid out for special calamity requirements?

B. B.: Out of Emergency Funds provided for such cause.

Pfld.: Out of Emergency Funds if available; if not a special drive is permitted.

16. Is it advisable to request each agency receiving aid from the Chest how the money has been used, and to render an annual report stating just what the results obtained were, and this report published so the people can see how their money is being used?

B. B.: Insist upon an annual financial calamity requirements? Sometime they make their request for the ensuing year. And make sure the work is actually done in the community. Pfld.: Yes.

17. Does the Community Chest take care of anything that is now done by the City, such as, Visiting Nurse, Care for the Poor, Care for the Aged, etc.?

B. B.: Yes. Welfare Workers do this but not under the jurisdiction of the City. Pfld.: Visiting Nurses take care of this.

18. Do all business houses, factories and plants as well as all citizens contribute? Both: Yes.

19. Are all drives eliminated?

B. B.: Yes. Each one in the Chest makes promise not to have any drive unless for a new building. There will be drives for anyone not in the Chest. Pfld.: Yes.

20. Are all tag days eliminated? Both: Yes.

21. Are all solicitations for sale of tickets and advertising on programs eliminated? Both: Yes, if the agency is included in the Chest.

22. Is the sale of poppies eliminated?

B. B.: Yes. They had a little trouble with the American Legion selling poppies although they were in the Chest. The next year they were elim-

Thoughts in an Old Churchyard

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

So many years they have been sleeping,
So many years they have been keeping
Their tryst with death; and now, I wonder,
Of all the hearts that lie hereunder,
How many new are wept for, sighed for,
Yes, even some by some they died for?

What matter? What has ever mattered?
Those roses fade, their petals scattered,
But, oh, how fair they made the summer!
What matters now if not a comer
Shall speak their names, aye, names remember?
Who talks of roses in December?

This matters, this, and this thing only!
In their own season hearts were lonely
And needed help and needed roses,
And then it is the heart uncloses.
Though winter now lies all about them,
Some summer could not do without them.

In their own time, in their own season,
They lived, they died, for some good reason.
They lived, they loved, they did their duty,
And filled one summer full of beauty;
And though their petals now are scattered,

What matter? What has ever mattered?

This matters, this: the time we live in,
Our time to love in, pray in, give in.
Whatever years may follow after,
If our own years we filled with laughter,
Served well the world while in our keeping
What matters more when men lie sleeping?

Stockholders Meet at Newark on January 31

A meeting of the stockholders of Public Electric and Gas Company will be held in Newark on January 31, for the purpose of acting on an amendment proposed by the Company's Board of Directors, which would increase the number of authorized shares of 8% Cumulative Preferred Stock 1928 series from 500,000 to 1,000,000 and eliminate 400,000 shares of 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock now authorized.

If the amendment is adopted the capital stock of the company will consist of 25,000,000 shares of Common Stock, on par value; 200,000 shares of 7% Cumulative Preferred Stock; 100,000 shares of 6½% Cumulative Preferred Stock, and 1,000,000 shares of 8% Cumulative Preferred Stock, 1928 series.

The increase is proposed as part of the plan already announced for consolidating with Public Service Electric and Gas Company, nine companies now operated by it under long term leases.

Caves of Elephanta

Not far from Bombay, India, are the famous caves of Elephanta. Elephanta is an island long held as a sacred place by orientals. The name was given by the Portuguese from a colossal sculpture of an elephant. A series of subterranean temples are hewn right out of the solid rock. Columns of the natural rock are left standing to support the roof, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

the extent of having 350 a year to your Councilmen, etc., and you would have dozens of candidates flocking for the positions. Take for example the Commission form of government with which you are all familiar, there were three jobs open and forty persons seeking them. These candidates did not have to be asked to serve, but they filed their own petitions.

"We have during the last two years given good constructive legislation in this city, and everything I said in the fall of 1924 when I fought election for the first time, has become a reality. In this way, room I said if I can give the city a potable water supply I will feel that I would have accomplished a wonderful undertaking in two years in the office to come, if I was elected. This has been done and next month the plant will be in operation. I have kept my promise. We did spend approximately $170,000, fought off an injunction but even now people are squealing because we are spending too much money." the Mayor stated. "We feel, however, that this money is well spent, even if there is a little jump in the tax rate. If we are going to have improvements, to attract strangers, to our city we have got to spend money. This is good business as all you men know, and the investment will be returned to the best citizens by the increased population bound to come with the electrification of the railroad. We must be prepared to do business."

The City Executive then related how 410 new lights had been erected without solicitation. That how in 1915 when he was running for Mayor for the first time canvassed Grand street personally in an effort to get the street paved but failed. However six years later this became a reality. "I tell you, gentlemen," he said, "some events either Milton, Rim of Scotland, will be paved this year if I have the proper support." He then told of the crowded condition of the schools, the necessitating part time in portable buildings which should be condemned by the health authorities, but which will soon be unnecessary with the building of the new Grover Cleveland School.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens' National Bank held Tuesday afternoon former Councilman Russell S. Hoff was the only new director chosen, he being named to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Postmaster Peter Tillman. The other directors elected were: County Register Edward Bauer, William Bliss, Dr. E. J. Carlin, Frederic Cortell, Bernard Engelman, Paris R. Forman, Mayor Thos. A. Fyffe, Deputy County Register W. L. B. Helmstadter, William C. Hobitsell, Benjamin L. Murray, James M. Pettit, Frank A. Sandmann, John R. Baumann, Postmaster Harry Simmons and Charles J. Stamler. The directors elected officers Wednesday afternoon, as follows: President, Paris R. Forman; vice-presidents, Jas. M. Pettit, Benjamin L. Murray; cashier, A. J. Chaplin.

PREPARE FOR OPENING OF NEW WATER PLANT

Mr. Ludlow Named Supervisor of Water Plant

Preparations for opening the new filtral water plant on April 1 were taken Wednesday night by the Board of Water Commissioners. C. W. Ludlow, superintendent of the local water plant, was named supervisor of the new plant. His salary was put at $3,000 a year. Mr. Ludlow has made supervisor for two years at $500 per year. This will be in addition to his present duties as superintendent and secretary of the board. In reporting on the plant, which cost $1,000,000, although buildings and fixtures of the old plant were being used, by the end of twenty years of effort by the city to obtain a satisfactory water supply. The municipal supply is taken from the Rahway river flowing to the location of parks and ponds on the river banks above the Lake, a highly efficient plant is used to produce satisfactory water. It is understood that Walter Gage, will be the chief engineer.

Work done in connection with the building of the water plant since the previous meeting of the board was reported by Hazen & Whipple, amounting to amount to $7,130.15 by the Construction Company, of Newark, and $2,033.04 by Arthur J. Murphy, of this city, for the installation of a chlorination plant. Resolutions provided for the payment of these bills were passed. The bills, in all, in these resolutions, amounted to $9,211.

Another important decision of the board was to compel the installation of new internals for house service connections where they are not now laid. This decision was made as the result of leaks that developed in some sections from the following the laying of new streets and new permanent pavements, necessitating up of the latter to be laid by the new order.

A report of the Hartford-Steam Inspection & Insurance Company was received.

Members of the board present were: Robert R. K. Miller, Commissioner; Holliday Cole, Chairman; George Schaefer, also Superintendent C. W. Ludlow.

Requiem Mass Held For Mrs. P. J. McCartney

A solemn mass of requiem was offered for Mrs. Patrick J. McCartney at St. Mary's Church Tuesday morning. The Monsignor Mesnet officiated at St. Mary's of the Lake Church. Mr. Kane, deacon, and Rev. M. J. Dougherty, sub-deacon. The choir from Seton Hall College, of which the deceased's daughter, Miss Hilda McCartney, is a member, sang the requiem, Mr. Bittam, the soloist. Sister Beatrice also of the Lakewood college organist. The interment was in the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, East Orange. The deceased received many floral tributes and the elaborate funeral service was one of the largest held here in many months.

Mrs. McCartney died at her home, 1 Cherry street, last Friday, after suffering from failing health during the past year. She took a deep interest in charitable enterprises and was a great help in time of sorrow and distress. She was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Elks and the Catholic Benevolent Association. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Miss Hilda McCartney.

TAMED BULL SNAKE THAT BECAME PET

How Kindness Made Wild Creature Harmless.

An old adobe wall inclosed the kitchen garden at the Los Flores ranch-house in southern California. No one remembered when it was built and no one remembered when part of it had fallen into decay. The owner of the ranch decided to rebuild the broken sections and delegated half a dozen of his men to do the work.

While they were removing a pile of crumbling earth, they disturbed a fat young chestnut-brown bull snake about three feet in length. Most of the men wanted to kill the snake, but Jose, a Mexican youth who rode the line fences daily, prevailed upon them to spare the young snake and his cavern home.

Time passed, the snake was frequently seen around the barn and outbuildings where he hunted rats and mice. Jose called him "Hank" and implored the other men to treat him with respect.

At first Hank was shy. He would hurry out of sight and coil under the nearest cover at the sound of an approaching footstep. By the middle of summer he seemed to understand that he had a perfect right to enjoy all the privileges of other pets. For hours at a time he would bask in the sun on the top step of the south porch at the ranch-house and another favored spot was the one step at the bunk-house where Jose slept.

During the winter he lived more secluded in his adobe cavern, rarely appearing on dump, cloudy days. Then it was that Jose began cultivating a closer acquaintance. With bits of meat and lumps of sugar he would sit near Hank's front door and strum on his ukulele. After a few minutes, the dark head of the snake would appear, his little beady eyes taking on a soft expression and his mouth open in expectation.

Jose always gave him two lumps of sugar, then the meat and finished with two more lumps of sweet. After he had swallowed the titbits he would crawl close to the side of the young man and listen to the soft drowsy sounds coming from the stringed instrument. To some of the tunes he would keep time by swaying motion of his smooth head.

When the bills began wearing their coats of green, Hank was so tame that Jose carried him around the ranch on the trips of fence inspection. If a broken wire or a weak staple needed fixing, Jose would place Hank on the ground near by, attend to the mending job, pick the snake up, mount his pony and go on his way.

Whenever Jose would find a golden hole on the trip he would stop and start Hank down it. Sometimes he would see an acre of his pet for two or three days, then Hank would greet him from the adobe cavern.

Jose rode i.e. boundary for five years after the discovery of the snake and, barring the first 12 months, Hank was nearly always his companion. In four years he grew from a slender young string into a handsome big black bull snake seven feet long and about three inches in diameter.

The ranch changed owners. Jose took a position some miles distant. The wife of his new employer objected to the presence of the snake pet. Almost tearfully Jose visited the adobe cavern, gave Hank a farewell supper, and played all their old favorite tunes.

Three weeks after Jose's departure from Los Flores, Hank was found curled up on the step of the bunk-house, dead. Those who knew of the strange friendship declared that the bull snake died of a "broken heart."—D. C. Rendorf in Our Dumb Animals.

Luck at Any Price.

Traffic at the intersection of Washington and Alabama streets came to a sudden standstill. A moment later scores of sixes from machines charging away for nearly a block in each direction shrieked their impatience while motorists leaning out of their cars craned their necks to see what it was all about. A "forver" had come to a dead stop on the tracks a few feet from a street car guard!

Out of the front seat of the small car climbed the driver. He bent over between the machine and the street car and picked up a horseshoe. In a great state of jubilation he waved it over his head, got back into his car, started "the engine again" and moved on.—Indianapolis News.

California, Here I Come

California has been willing mostly to wear the name of having the "biggest" trees in the world, the largest university in the United States, the tallest hars and no end of other superlatives which it was impossible to dodge, but it seems like piling it on to claim the largest state prison population in the world. Warden Frank Smith of San Quentin prison, says so. He isn't exactly bragging about it, but explaining why $465,000 is being spent for remodeling and expansion.

The Other Writer

Harold Bell Wright can pun rather bitterly. Invited to a hot weather Bohemian party, he was informed that among the guests would be Mr. Blank, a lightnove novelist whose score of Mr. Wright is well known, but whose books fall to sell.

"You know Mr. Blank, don't you?" asked the hostess.

"Ah, yes," murmured Mr. Wright. "The young ineffectual, you mean?"—The New Yorker.

Lip sticks are favored; after this, Pearl's best remarks 'Ha Ha!'

'Well, stick you've asked me for a kiss. All right. What flavor, please?'

Following the Crowd

"What is your favorite poem?"

"The Blue," answered Senator Sorghum.

"Have you read it all?"

"No. But I believe in following the crowd. And no other poem appears to stand so well in the opinion of highly respected people, writhe or other wise."—Washington Star.

Three Rahway Men On January Term Grand Jury

Three Rahwayans have been selected to serve on the January Term, of the Union County Grand Jury. They are—Postmaster Harry Stimmel, of 88 Elm avenue; J. Edward Tompkins, secretary, of 124 Bryant street, and Walter C. Clark, retired, of 128 Milton avenue. The inquest was charged on Tuesday by County Judge Stelz Justice Kalisch, who is serving as assignment judge for Middlesex County. Mayor John P. Kenah, of Elizabeth, is foreman of the Grand Jury.

Alleged primary and election irregularities in Plainfield and ten county charging manslaughter arising from auto accidents are expected to be the attention of the Grand Jury by Judge Stein. Certain persons have been alleged to have voted in the recent primary and general elections in Plainfield, who lost their residence in that city, the complaint, made by Prosecutor David Shaws. Judge Stein said it is the duty of the Grand Jury to indict if sufficient evidence is presented to indicate that a crime was committed.

RAMBLERS DRAW LARGE CROWDS

The Rambler A. C. whose prowess on the baseball diamond is known to every sport lover in Rahway, is preparing for the 1927 baseball campaign and in order to raise funds for the maintenance of the nine next summer plans to hold a public card party on February 4—a meeting of the members this week preliminary plans for the coming season were mapped and three new players added to their roster. President Lawrence Hack had charge of the meeting.

...38. What do you think of sending out bills monthly? Both: Too much work and increased cost of mailing, etc.

...39. Have you a set of By-Laws? If so could we have a copy? B. R.: Yes. Pftd.: A Model Community Chest Constitution. Pftd.: Copy of Constitution and By-Laws attached.

We were advised by Rev. Wagner and Miss Pierson to get in touch with either Mr. Allan T. Burns or Mr. Fierce Williams, American Ass'n of Community Organization, 215 4th Avenue, New York City.

This organization is established for the purpose of assisting Community Chest organizations and if we start a Chest we are strongly advised to join this association, which will cost us $25 per year, the advice and help they give is estimated to be far in excess of the amount required to join the organization.

We realize this report is purely preliminary; to go deeper into the matter a thorough study should be made of the copies of the Constitutions of these Chests and an interview arranged for with either Mr. Burns or Mr. Williams as mentioned above.

Respectfully submitted,

Shells First Megaphones

Primitive men in Europe blew conch shells as improvised megaphones in signaling to and directing their armies, just as do cheer leaders at football games today. Alexander the Great furnished his army plentifully with megaphones and communicated with his far-away regiments by floating objects on rivers.

Public Service Now Has 55,253 Stockholders

Due in large part to the acquisition of preferred stock of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey through the popular ownership policy, the number of shareholders listed on the company's records December 31 last was 55,253. These held a total of 4,169,194 shares with an additional 9,739 subscriptions to 20,597 shares upon which payments were incomplete. This is an increase of 5,111 share holders since Dec. 31, 1925. In 1921 the year the popular ownership campaign were started, the number of shareholders listed was less than 2,000.

The total stockholdings listed on the books of the corporation December 31, 1926, were 67,362 and of these some 26,000 are in the names of women, and an additional 3,000 are for joint accounts in which women are named.

RAHWAY H. S. MAKES GREAT STAND AGAINST NEW BRUNSWICK; PLAYS SUMMIT

Rahway Plays Brilliantly Against New Brunswick

Local High School Displays Irick Offensive Plays Which Troubles Crack Opponents, Score 30-10; Rahway to Play Summit

The 1927 Rahway High School basketball team will play its first home game of the season on the Franklin School court at 8 o'clock tonight when they meet the Summit High School quintet, in the preliminary attraction to the second teams of both schools will clash. Tonight's game will be the fifth played by the Scarlet and Black five which boasts but one veteran, Captain Dura, from last season's squad. Despite this fact, the Rahwayans have already played two of the best Class A court teams in the State and have made an unusually fine showing against both Trenton and New Brunswick. The local team has lost to Trenton, Roselle Park and New Brunswick, narrowly defeated the fast Metuchen High School team.

How rapidly Coach Walter's squad is developing is shown in a resume of the season thus far. The Rahway coach quietly took his team to Trenton on December 24, and stacked them up against a quintet who claim they cannot be denied the State high school basketball title. Dura was the only Rahway player who had ever played in a varsity game before, but the boys were only defeated 26 to 13. In the second game they downed Metuchen 25 to 11, but lost the third contest by two points to their annual rival, Roselle Park, the score being 21 to 19. On Tuesday they journeyed to New Brunswick to meet the crack quintet of that city and by spectacular playing, lost only by a score of 30 to 10. New Brunswick and Trenton are about on a par and are easily the outstanding contenders for State honors.

Tonight's game will be the third for Summit who have yet to win this season. Madison downing them 31 to 20 on Madison Tuesday. Summit's prospects for a successful season are not regarded as bright there and predictions are rife there that the team will not win more than three or four games. Rahway should defeat them by at least twenty points, is the prediction made by Rahway sport authorities.

Rahway surprised the New Brunswick team by their excellent showing for the local team played fundamentally sound basketball but were easily outclassed in speed, weight and experience by Coach Redshaw's team, the squad of which boasts of twelve men who are equal in ability. Kreiger, the New Brunswick center, towers six feet five inches in his stocking feet and is the pivot around which the team works. The Scarlet and Black threw an unexpected scare into their hosts, ranks when they held the lead at the end of the first period by a score of 3 and 1. However, the New Brunswickers were superior and held Rahway to two points, three field goals being made in the first half and but one long goal in the two concluding quarters.

Rahway presented a fast offensive which proved troublesome during the first quarter, but which was finally solved by their opponents in the later periods of the game. Were it not for the fact that the local team were for the most part poor shots, they might have scored many more points than they did get, as their trick offensive plays often carried them into the court into scoring position. Here a shot would be missed and the opportunity to score ended.

The starting team that Coach Redshaw placed on the floor hit a snag in the Rahway defense and was unable to score more than three points, while two field losses gave Rahway five points and the lead at the end of the period. In the following eight minutes, however, with the first variety New Brunswick five in action, eleven points were scored. The third period saw a showed little scoring, but in the final quarter New Brunswick caroused twelve points, while Rahway's lone marker came from a field goal by William, substitute guard.

The game was not thirty seconds old before Swierk sank a neat attempt from mid court for the initial score of the game. Shortly after Dura had a chance to count from the fifteen foot line but missed the mark. Following another try from the center of the floor which missed its mark, Meissner followed up the try and scored from underneath the basket. Costa was given his chance from the foul line and made good. Meissner into a splendid player then he learns the passing game. New Brunswick's shooting was excellent and they made seven seventy-five per cent of their shot while Rahway made only twenty per cent. At no time did the Rahway team break or play ragged ball in spite of their being outclassed.

Now that Muddell has come through Coach Walter has strong forwards. Dura, R. Drake, Muddell and Williams who entered the game in the last quarter played fine ball. The center position is where Rahway is weakest in reserves, Orton and Landenberger are developing, but have not yet reached the place where they can hold up their end in team play.

First Presbyterian Court Teams Play Three Contests

Men's Team Trims Roselle Wesley Five, 54-24, But Lose Return Game With Metuchen Quintet, 45-38

The basketball teams of the First Presbyterian Church engaged in three basketball games this week, a double header taking place Tuesday night on the community house court, one between the men's team and another between two girls' teams of the church, while on Wednesday night the men's team played in Metuchen. The men's team easily defeated the Wesley Methodist basketeers of Roselle, by a score of 54 to 24, but lost at Metuchen on the following night when the Alpha Gamma Phi team won 45 to 38. In the girls' game, the Triangles defeated the Aces, 32 to 26.

Spectacular and frequent goals by Scaff, Graves and Meier, gave the First Church five a commanding lead over the Roselle team, while Borden and Hall played such an effective guarding game that their opponents scored by twelve field goals, compared with twenty-seven by their teammates. Dixon and the Barrett brothers played well for the Wesley Church team.

In the girls' game all of the shooting was left to the forwards and the court so put heart in the Rahway team during the disastrous first half.

Concentration In Religious Effort

It hasn't been such a great while ago that an effort was made in Rahway to concentrate in a religious way by consolidation of two leading churches of the community. The attempt was a failure, though strenuous efforts were made from certain quarters to successfully carry through. Community life is smaller—communities are closely interwoven with the churches that entirely aside from their spiritual importance—their prosperity and vigor are of paramount importance—a division of strength is weakening in any line, whether it be political, religious or how, and no less effective for community benefit is a superabundance of churches.

Rahway, in the past few years, has grown perceptibly in numbers of its citizens, though this can hardly be said of its churches, as with the exception of possibly one colored church and one or two of the foreign language churches, there has been no increase for a period covering nearly thirty years. Yet in the face of this, it doesn't require attendance at many Sunday services among the various denominational headquarters, with the exception of possibly one church, to convince that there is still plenty of room for material increase of worshipers. Such a viewpoint may be incomprehensible to those who view spiritual things through a thick veil of creed and ritual. To a newspaper of general circulation, whose function and concern are with community life, rather than spiritual things, a speech made by Rev. Malcolm Dana, at Philadelphia, very recently, seems remarkably significant. He said in part:

"Smaller towns are usually oversupplied with churches. Eight out of ten communities which I visit, have too many churches, each engaged in a fierce and usually selfish struggle for existence. The struggle is generally at the expense of the community—rather than for its betterment. Churches are envious of each other's successes rather than glad over them, and religion is divisive rather than a unifying force—supporting too many churches is too heavy a tax upon the faithful, making religion a burden rather than a joy.

"Business interests have discovered the fallacy of the old dogma that 'competition is the life of trade.' Religion certainly should see that competition can never be the life of the Christian enterprise. Competition is essentially selfconsidered and selfish.

"Those nearest the smaller town church situation increasingly see and confess to the utter folly of perpetuating mediocre work on the part of churches and a wicked waste of sacred monies through duplication of effort and religious competition. But this fact remains that those who have directly to do with these churches have not yet cut themselves of a subtle fear that somehow they will be demoted if they report a loss of churches in their districts.

"The top 'over-head,' if we may so call it, has issued drastic pronouncements against church duplications, religious competition and the perpetuating of either through the giving of missionary monies. But have they yet made it known to those who are influenced by their sanctions that the test of a good superintendency or of a good presiding eldership is the practice of a consuming passion for giving up churches anywhere and everywhere that this can be done for the glory of God and the welfare of His kingdom? The fact that there have only been 577 union churches formed in the total town and country area of the northern and western states during the last thirty-four years, does not look as though we were yet committed in our practice to the measure of our preaching."

More Gas for the Thirsty

One more gas filling station to the already long list in this city is about to dot the horizon. The latest bid for public patronage is to be located on St. George avenue, in the Milton section, and the owners claim it will be a credit to the locality. Just how many of these stations Rahway has, we unable to guess, but it's a safe bet that there is sufficient to prevent a drought if you're the price to replenish.

Superintendent Foley, of State Weights and Measures Department, recommends in his annual report that repetitions be placed upon the number of gasoline pumps or filling stations, in New Jersey, of which he estimates that there are now 25,000. In some sections of the State the increase in the number of gasoline pumps has been as high as fifty per cent, due to the competition among the oil companies for business. This necessarily makes additional work for the inspectors of the department.

Some of these filling stations have so little trade that their pumps are not kept in order, and as a result patrons are not always getting what they pay for. It might be thought that the evil would soon work its own cure, as in a place where there are too many drug stores, groceries, produce dealers, butchers and other tradesmen to supply local demands. The law of supply and demand should soon solve the problem, but the Legislature may hasten the solution by restricting the number of permits.

There is another than the economical point of view. The filling stations are being placed at the most prominent points, often obstructing the streets and highways and marked by signs and advertisements that mislead automobilists and obstruct the view. It will be admitted that a filling station near at hand is very convenient in time of need, but there is no necessity for one at every second corner in a city, or within a mile or two of each other in the country.

While no definite recommendation is made by Superintendent Foley, the combined experience and wisdom of the legislators may suggest one that will afford a solution of the evil.

The French now say the British owe them billions for the care of war prisoners back in 1805. Now the British will countrer reply by sending in a bill for the board and lodging of William the Conqueror and his soldiers, due since 1066.

A candidate for office, who had been dead two years, received over 5,000 votes in the recent election in Essex County, Mass. This would have been a tough case for the Senate to investigate had he been elected.

An air service expert says that flying is safer than standing behind the business end of a mule. But that statement if true doesn't prove that aviation is particularly healthful.

Official and Unofficial Meddlers

The appeal of the President of the United States for the loyal support of the press and the people in exposing the purposes of official and unofficial meddlers in matters for which the President and State Department bear undivided responsibility—that is, meddlers both in and out of public office—should meet with universal response.

This nation has made it a policy to give free rein to the administration to handle such situations as have arisen in Central America. It must be presumed that the administration has far more reliable information than has the public, and that it has in mind only the protection of American rights and just interests.

Since propaganda agencies designed to handicap and embarrass the government of the United States, have reached the point where their meddling materially interferes with our successful handling of a foreign policy, it is time for the American people to protest. The President says that time has arrived.

Just now there is in Mexico a group of unofficial meddlers, the purpose of their presence is "to study conditions in Mexico, make a survey and report to the American people." It is pretty generally conceded what their report will be. Rahway is particularly interested in Mexican affairs of today, because of the fact that several of our citizens are at present nationals in that country. Reports emanating from this disturbed commonwealth are eagerly scanned, and minutely dissected by local relatives and friends of Americans in President Calles' territory.

It would appear, from glancing over the list of "unofficial" meddlers now in Mexico "to survey conditions and report to the American people," that the "unofficial" editors, ministers and lawyers were not overlooked in selecting "meddlers." The presence of this group in Mexico recalls sometime ago a similar, self-constituted commission made a study of conditions in Soviet Russia. After a few weeks spent it came home with the demand that the United States formally recognize the Soviet government. Such commissions represent no opinion but their own. They seldom stay long enough in the country they set out to investigate to be able to speak authoritatively on it. They multiply ignorance by publishing the results of inadequate research. They raise false hopes at home or abroad, as the political science faculty of Columbia University has recently done in connection with war debt settlements. As long as other countries permit themselves to be visited and investigated by such commissions they have only themselves to blame if the American people are misinformed with respect to them. There is no law in this country under which the public can be protected from such propaganda.

State Legislature In Session

With the opening of the 1927 Legislature on Tuesday, the Republican majority is confronted with seasonal opportunities and responsibilities. Issues of surpassing importance are in the offing. One of the important things hanging in the balance is the matter of direct primary, for example. Enlightened leadership here can render highly constructive service if it will. No one questions the wisdom of retaining the best features of the present system. The force of popular opinion in the nominating process is not to be denied. Intelligent modification may, however, be desirable to further this verdict.

In regard to the much-maligned Blue Laws, courageous guidance likewise can make itself felt. What is needed is a frank recognition of modern conditions and a consequent adaptation of statute to life as it is lived. Group interests and petty prejudices must be shunted aside. Men worthy of being the people's representatives will face the music with fear or favor to none.

Millions upon millions will be involved in the programs offered for the solution of the state's highway and water problems. These are of the utmost concern, financially and otherwise, to the general public. Both of them have been given much thought and recommendations have been made that should be of material assistance in reaching sound conclusions.

Similarly, steps for combating crimes have been under consideration for practically a whole year, and the findings here, as well as the experiences gained in other states, particularly New York, should aid in the passage of measures that will overcome the existing situation.

Other far-reaching measures anent highway construction, prohibition, constitutional amendment and what not—will contribute to the significance of the session. Many of these questions are highly controversial. Many of them involve perplexing side issues. But on most of them the reaction of the people will be soon ascertained. Partisan incompetence will be evident in the absence of fruitful results.

Should Think Twice Before Acting

American Legion officials are dispensing sound sense when they advise and urge the ex-service men of Rahway to hold their adjusted compensation certificates rather than to use them as a basis for immediate loans. Threatened suffering or financial embarrassment might justify another course, but all things considered, the recommended plan is much preferable.

Contrary to belief in some quarters, the certificates were not originally issued as cash bonuses. In fact, the whole adjusted compensation idea was designed to encourage thrift with a view to eventual need. Thus, the holder of a certificate has what is virtually an endowment insurance policy with a cashin value at the end of twenty years.

Unless need exists, therefore, the veteran who refuges to be lured by a possibility of obtaining a loan at once is showing wisdom in the handling of his private financial affairs. And, likewise, banking institutions which insist on being shown evidence of actual need are really extending a helping hand. It's a case of hold on and get more.

The Press As a Teacher

Joseph Collins—The Doctor looks at Love and Life," says that in his century with the schools and colleges of this country, he is convinced that they do not teach their pupils how to think, how to concentrate, how to coordinate. They are dealt out to the students like groceries and dry goods to customers, but, unlike such purchasers, students do not know what to do with them when they get them. The two institutions that have the greatest opportunity to contribute to adult education are newspapers and libraries.

Any dealer in ideas who for years will read intently and industriously a good newspaper, and follow the leads that its news and editorial content suggest will be better educated than the majority of college graduates, and his education will stand him in better stead materially and ideally. He will have an insight of government, science, medicine and literature, and a grasp of the essentials of citizenship. If he satisfies the appetite which such reading develops, by different direction to authoritative books, he will be conspicuous among his fellows for information and erudition, and he will have laid the foundation upon which to erect any technical knowledge that he must have to earn a livelihood or to appease his research urge.

An elephant—says the Dearborn Independent—will doze, sleep, more than five hours a day. And now it the Independent will dig up some figures about the mule, we may get a line on the next political campaign.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

King George says he got lost in the fog the other morning in London and got home late for dinner. But we doubt whether he really put over an excuse like that on the queen.

Rahwacks

(Written By Shields.)

Now Rahway, or at least some Rahwayans are flirting with the City Manager form of government. This week sees the latest local political rainbow given quite an impetus by the indorsement of several organizations as well as numbers of individuals. It is said humans are always seeking some new novelty—Rahway folks are no exception to the rule, and why should they not, for are not they human?

To His Honor, Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe, belongs the credit for starting a public pan to this new political motor, for it had its birth at the presentation of the Mayor's annual message to the City Council. But whether in putting a good many of the citizens of Rahway, as well as Fyffe's critics, who may not belong to the inner circle of his intimate coterie that why and just how His Honor came to "spring" this idea of government at this particular time. He states that our city—a $25,000,000 corporation—needs strictly business methods in conducting its affairs. To this we all agree, but that does not cost Rahway a cent. The executive was not cognizant of this means ago. His most certainly must have been aware of such requirements earlier in his official career; yet he took no cognizance of it, failed to peep even a suggestion.

From the Mayor's declaration we are to infer that the past administration has fallen down in its efforts to successfully function, as is he apprehensive lest the present Council is inadequate to meet the demands of the future? To quote Mr. Fyffe in his message, we have:

"It may be that a city manager is needed. * * * There are hundreds of properties in Rahway is about $18,000,000. This amount of the value of schools, water plant, other City property and we make a total valuation of, say, $25,000,000.

"Is this not the business of the corporation—or indeed—of 7,110—as large, as conducted without Competent Salaried Officers?

"The City Manager Plan does not do away with the Democratic theory of Government, nor lessen the Democratic operation of same, but rather emphasizes the theory and makes more practical its operation.

"Considering our needs and knowing the success of the City Manager Plan in so many cities, varying in size from 5,000 to over 750,000 in population, does it not behove us to investigate any plan which would better our conditions? * * *

"Just what the inspiration that influenced the Mayor, deponent knows not, but leaves it to His Honor to put it where it belongs. Nevertheless the virtues and benefits to be derived by the city and its inhabitants from the Plan of government, would seem to be of importance there would be no harm in at least investigating most thoroughly to discover its feasibility, pro and contra for municipal life.

"Far be it from us to evoke a Bolshevism in the administration of civic government, but, as some conservative opponents claim, it should, it may remedy some existing shortcomings that obliterate entirely the handicaps of the present form of municipal political control, never. Just as long as city business is made the pawn of politicians who are on-a-par with financial fruits of their political prowess, just so long will it suffer as a community. All the city managers or commission forms under the canopy of the heavens will not prevail. Avaricioousness in the human has been in evidence ever since the garden of Eden was completed for personal advantage, and this octopus of financial restriction can only be crushed by the heel of patriotism and integrity in those who by the hand of fate and application of their talents are placed on high places in power.

* * *

It might be of especial interest to the ladies of Rahway, particularly those who are endeavoring to form a great their entire encouragement that the United States Government announces the discovery in China of a giant straw. Not the straw, as we know it, the stalking of which will infallibly reduce the size, of the wearer, but a giant straw of like proportions, and at the same time produce on the straw a complexion unparalleled in beauty. The straw is made of and pearls and cream and other such ingredients as are well known. The straw will grow and flourish in this country, and is both rich to be produced. They all the beauty parlors and avoidpoles reformers and complexion manufacturers will be put out of business, and we shall all be very, very beautiful, with the strawberry as our national emblem.

* * *

While some of Rahway's birth can not decipher are surrounding their cooper of liberation from the delights of motherhood it might be well to name long enough to let the following incident, happening at Cincinnati, Ohio, percolate. Mrs. Viola Gather mother of seventeen children recently filed a petition for divorce "because my husband feels that no more children are necessary.—Seven of Mrs. Gathers children are living. Nothing is said whether or not a big one adorned the fireside hearth, but it might be taken for granted that there was none.

* * *

I am going to take the liberty of suggesting to the City Council, Street Department Committee or the Mayor of Rahway that he erect a sign at the corner of Parrel place and Irving street, to be visible to pedestrians traveling west on Parrel place, containing the following: "To save accidents to the aged, infirm and depressed, people are advised to close their eyes till midway of block is passed." I might add that stray canines and hungry members of the feathered family are thoroughly happy over the present condition as found in this locality. But patience has long since ceased to be a virtue, and some specific prescription might be prescribed in man-sized doses.

* * *

Dr. Stanley J. Krebs, of New York, during a "dealer day program" on auto show week, held at the Hotel Commodore on Monday, spoke on "Worry in the First Stage of Insanity."

The cause, cause and effect of worry and fear are met by Dr. Krebs with the statement that analysis that is the cause they affect muscles, minds and morals, stunting hope and success. In the cause he finds tissues, tears and lost, and in the cure he finds physical intellectual, ethical and spiritual methods.

This is all very illuminating but the good doctor fails to attribute any of the real and artificial disorders to permission into consumption of the fumes of refined crude oil, which furnishes the motive power for our upwheeled machines. Too much automotive is indisputably a curse, but the only case in many instances is the hospital route to the cemetery.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

DEAD MEN'S CLOTHES

"THE clothes of the dead never wear long," is a common saying in all parts of the United States. It means, of course, when the clothes are worn by its living. The superstition is entirely one of sympathetic magic—the first principle in philosophy of our primitive ancestors. A man's clothing was supposed to become linked with his personality in a lesser degree only than his hair and his nails and his shadow portrait of that individuality. The clothes absorbed a part of the man's "spirit" and the man became enfeebled, and the man became established such a sympathetic relationship that what was done to the clothes reflected on the man and what happened to the man necessarily reacted on his clothes. It will easily be seen then why "the clothes of the dead never wear long."

The superstition is sympathetic magic in its simplest form, without any "write," and bears every evidence of great antiquity. This belief in a close inter-relationship between a man and his clothes is found today among the tribes living in a primitive state in many parts of the world. Some South African sorcerers are supposed to destroy their victims by getting possession of something that they have worn," says Clodd, and adding certain medicines, which they mix secretly and duly, when the dries up the victim dies. The belief is so widespread among some savage tribes that even the water in which clothes have been washed is carefully thrown away lest the sorcerers should get hold of it and "work black magic" against the owner of the clothes.

Glass Fallacy

Most people believe that a thick tumbler stands best better than a thin one. Experience, however, disconvinces this belief, since it has been proved that glass is a very poor conductor of heat. A thin glass hot water is poured into a thick glass tumbler, the inner surface of the glass are soon at a much higher temperature than the outer layers. This high temperature causes the glass to explode, and the outer layers are then burst by the expansion of the inner ones.

The Wrong Spot

Asker—What happened to that valet of yours?

Teller—I fired him for removing a spot from one of my suits.

Asker—But isn't he supposed to do that?

Teller—Yes, but this was a 10-spot.—Pathfinder.

Poor Boy

A man happened to ask the name of a young woman he saw at a concert.

"She is Miss Hobbs; she teaches Math Jonks," he was told.

Thinking for a moment, then he remarked, "What a strange name for a child!"

Callers

"How about hunting? Is he popular?"

"Yes, everybody goes to see him the first of the month."

Age of Wonders

Jack—Do you know who that sweet kid is that I've been dancing with all night—the one with the bonbon bob?

Jill—Oh, yeah! that's Mum.

High-salaried advertising men are employed who know merchandise and can write intelligently about it, and artists are employed to sketch illustrations of their merchandise.

This, of course, is prohibitive to the merchant in the smaller store.

However, he can secure illustrations from the Record's advertising services furnished free, and he can also secure aid in preparing advertising copy.

Illustrations in advertising are sold to be half of it. Pictures tell the story and play a great part in the modern advertising of today.

Pictures can catch the attention of the reader, and attention is what the advertiser wants. A clever without advertisement waves in to carry out the story, does the rest. If one is observing, he can see an idea back of every advertisement.

Advertising has advanced in the past ten years and also has merchandising advanced to a high degree of perfection.

To keep up with the times a shop chant must keep on his toes, keep alert for the new ideas and ways of disposing of merchandise. His is not a business where he can sit back and swap yarns, but one which requires much thought and study.

HE MUST KEEP ADVISED ON NEW STYLES, NEW MERCHANDISE AND NEW IDEAS FOR ADVERTISING.

THE FIELD FLOWERS

"IT'S no more than our due," said the golden yellow Butter.

"No more than our due," agreed the Eggs.

And then they recited this piece together, while the other vegetables and things to eat in the icebox listened.

It's so, more than our due.
Oh, this is true.
So we tell it to you.
It's no more than our due!

They're named flowers after us.
Yet we don't make a fuss.
No, we don't make a fuss,
Yet they're named after us!

"Well," said the Milk in the milk bottle, "there is Milkweed. That's named after me."

"And me—enough is myself," said an Onion.

"Yes," said the Butter, "and you are so much in yourself that you make people cry."

"Well," said the Eggs, "you are so much in yourself that you make people cry."

"Yes," said the Onion, "I merely make their eyes water."

"Well," said the String Beans in the icebox to the Butter and Eggs, "you both are best anyway as much as you do.

"And besides that, you are not named after flowers but after weeds.

"Not such popular weeds either.

"Why, I remember when I was growing upon a vine that they talked about me over the way the Butter-and-Egg weed would crowd themselves into the fields.

"They did not like them at all."

"We're Proud and Pleased, Too," Said the Eggs.

"Oh, well," said the Butter in the icebox, "there are always some who won't like you. One cannot be expected to be liked by everyone."

"True," agreed the Eggs.

"And even if Butter and Eggs are weeds," the Butter in the icebox continued, "they are flowers, too. Yes, they're beautiful yellow flowers.

"They have long and interesting looking pistils or stalks at the base of each flower, something like a spur.

"And they are of darker yellow inside than they are outside.

"They're just as gay and pretty as they can be and they're not boastful about where they go. They're not snobbish. They're pleasant and friendly."

"Well said, Butter," the Eggs remarked.

"I agree that they aren't fussy about where they go," the String Beans said, "and that they even are whether they're wanted or not.

"They're no pride, no pride at all," said the Butter, "is not to be desired so much as a pleasant and friendly nature.

"I would rather be around a pleasant person than a proud one, even if I am Butter, and even if I'm easy to melt on and make me do almost anything."

"A point well taken, Butter," said the Eggs.

"And, too," the Butter continued, "I am proud to have such gay, bright, pleasant yellow flowers named after me. I don't care if they're weeds.

"They brighten up the whole country all throughout the summer. Yes, I'm proud and pleased that they're named after me, and my friends the Eggs."

"We're proud and pleased, too," said the Eggs.

"Then," said the Butter, "I don't think it really matters so much what you think, String Beans. I don't mean to be rude when I say that.

"It merely means that as long as we're pleased that is all that is necessary.

"You haven't been chosen as the food or the vegetable or whatever you wish to be called after which some flower or weed has been named.

"At least if any has been named after you I don't know of it."

"Well, neither do I," admitted the String Bean, "and what, you say is really so."

"Yes," the Butter continued, "we're pleased. We think it is nice that when they were naming such bright yellow flowers they thought of us—the Butter and Eggs.

"We're enormously pleased because of that."

"We're enormously pleased," the Eggs said.

CHANNEL SWIMMERS MAKING GOOD TIME

One Contestant Swam Two Miles Wednesday Night

Fog, rough water or the cold falls to halt the dozen men making the English Channel swim in the Rahway Y. M. C. A. pool, and the race for the first merman to finish the thirteen mile swim which is slated to end on Washington's Birthday, February 22. Two awards have been offered, one for the first man to complete the swim and the second for the swimmer who traverses the distance in the shortest time. The swim consists of 1,144 lengths-of-the-pool-or-32,880-yards. The swimmer must make four lengths of the pool without stopping to have his distance count.

The distance between the first eight swimmers is not great and Physical Director Allan Pollock stated today that there is still time left for pupils to enter the race. He said that Wednesday night, Herbert Hultgren swam two miles without stopping. He also stated that in a similar contest in the Central Y. M. C. A. in Brooklyn, Winston Waddell, a 52-year old plumber, made the twenty-one miles without swimming periods and made the distance in eleven hours and forty-seven minutes. He lost nine pounds in the swim. The winner of the Brooklyn contest was Howard Hanson who made the twenty-one miles in ten hours and five minutes.

The leading swimmers in the local race follow: Vincent Orr, six and one-third miles; Harry Bilzer, five and one-quarter miles; L. B. Tamboer, four and three-quarter miles; Herbert Hultgren, four miles; P. R. Smith three and three-quarter miles; William Howell, one and one-half miles; Roy Smith, one mile.

The weekly athletic contests which started last Thursday night with eighty-two entries is attracting more athletes each Thursday night and preparations are now being made for three standing broad jumps next Thursday night. Last night several men entered ran the hundred yard dash, the first event in the contest. There is a tie for this event with Victor Chaillet and Walter Mullrooney having the best time of 12 2/5 seconds, excellent time for the small circular track in the "Y" gym.

STAR LINDEN ATHLETE ENTERS RAHWAY H. S.

For the second time during the past year, crack athletes from the Linden High School have matriculated in the Rahway High School. Last spring Alexander Kalla, captain of the 1925 football team came here to finish his schooling and was the outstanding member of the local school's football squad last fall. On Tuesday Somers Osmun transferred to Rahway High School and is now attending classes here. Both he and Kalla continue to make their home in Linden. Osmun is a member of the senior class.

Osmun's transfer to Rahway High School was a severe blow to Linden's baseball prospects, as the diminutive athlete was a star outfielder. He was also a letterman with the basketball squad last season, and would have been a valuable addition to this year's court team.

Osmun also played with the powerful Linden football eleven, displaying a fine game at end all season, and being awarded second team honors in the All-County selections.

According to the ruling of the Union County Class "B" High School Athletic Association, Osmun will not be eligible for Rahway's athletic teams until ninety days have elapsed since he transferred from Linden High School, permitting him to play baseball with the Red and Black.

COURT LEAGUE LEADERS CLASH TOMORROW NIGHT

The games in the City Basketball league will furnish any unusual attraction on the Y. M. C. A. court tomorrow night for the Rahway A. A. and the Collegiates will clash, neither of whom have yet been defeated in the league and are tied for first place. The A. A. and Collegiates have both registered victories over the Triangles and Ramblers by approximately the same scores, so this contest, the second of the evening should be replete with thrills. If the first game the Ramblers and Triangles will meet and as the Rambler quintet is improving steadily under the guidance of Captain Nick Coppola and Manager Andy Barnes, they should be on a par with the fast going triangles tomorrow night.

Both the Rahway A. A. and the Collegiates will have their best possible lineups on the floor. "Duck" Corey, former referee for the Rahway A. A. games on the Franklin School court, will appear in the Collegiate lineup, while Jake Cloe and Coach Walter of the Rahway High School will play on the A. A. in their first league match. Coach Carl Andelinger of the Collegiates and Manager Hrabowck of the A. A. are both predicting victories for their teams. The first game will begin at 8 o'clock and the admission charge for the two games will be twenty-five cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Honored On 40th Anniversary

The fortieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rubin, of 157 West Grand street, was delightfully honored last Sunday night when a large number of relatives and friends made merry at the Rubin home. Music, dancing, cards and games made the evening an enjoyable one. Prizes in the card games were won by Mrs. Joseph Duckat, Mrs. Moe Davis, the Misses Frances and Valerie Chilk, Mrs. Harry Levine.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Chilk, the Misses Frances and Valerie Chilk, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Duckat, the Misses Rose and Shirley Duckat, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rabin, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Max Rubin, Gladys, Lionel and Charlotte Rubin, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Levine, Mr. and Mrs. Moe Davis, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rubin, of this city.

Lutheran Ladies' Aid Hold Large Card Party

Mrs. Karl Kropper, wife of Rev. Kropper, pastor of the Zion Lutheran Church, entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of the church Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emil Hamill, 50 Westfield avenue. The affair was largely attended.

Prizes were won as follows: Pinochle—Mrs. Valentine Teschner, Mrs. Jo L. McVoy, Mrs. Charles Smith, Mrs. J. C. Pickens, Mrs. Emil Hamill, Mrs. Thomas Urnstich, Mrs. Anna Pachman—Mrs. Fred Schupp, Miss Margaret Prepiak, Miss Henrietta Hamill, Mrs. C. Schmidt.

Another card party will be held by the Ladies' Aid Society at the home of Mrs. H. I. Beebe, 38 Charlotte place, Tuesday, January 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bennekamper and family have moved from Main street to 52 New Brunswick avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Woodruff, of 68 Bryant street, entertained Mr. Woodruff's brother, Mr. Graham C. Woodruff, and family, of Bronxville, on Sunday.

William Dimbach, of 67 Jaques avenue, leaves in a few days for an extended stay at Miamisburg, O.

United States Patent Office Needs Examiners

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—The United States Civil Service Commission states that the supply of eligibles for positions of junior examiners in the United States Patent Office is not equal to the demand and that it will receive applications for these positions until January 25.

The duties of appointees will be to perform elementary scientific or technical work in the examination of applications for patents.

Students who have completed two years of a technical or scientific course in college and whose fund of general knowledge in the scientific, technical and industrial fields is normally broad, should be able to pass the examination.

Two universities in Washington offer night courses leading to degrees in engineering and other technical lines, when he failed to appear.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., or from the secretary of the United States civil service board at the post office or customhouse in any city.

THREE CASES IN POLICE COURT

Three automobile cases came before Judge James E. Kearney, Jr., in Police Court Tuesday morning. The complaint against William Mansfield, 29 years old, of 1135 East Montgomery street, Philadelphia, charged with reckless driving following an accident at St. George and Central avenues, on December 11, was withdrawn, while a similar charge against Vincent Usso, 18, of 188 South 14th street, Newark, on December 14, was dismissed. Nat Gordon, 42, of 246 135th street, Rockaway Park, L. I., charged with reckless driving in St. George avenue on January 5, forfeited his $10 bail when he failed to appear.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP FOR RUTGERS

President John M. Thomas announced this week the establishment of a special scholarship in the College of Agriculture of Rutgers University by Claude W. Kiock, of Rutherford, as a memorial to his son, Allen Meredith Kiock, who died March 12, 1925, while a student at the State University.

EXTENSION DIVISION GROWING

More than three students are enrolled in the various courses offered by the Industrial Extension Division of Rutgers University, according to Professor N. C. Miller. The Division, established eighteen months ago, has established a record in university extension work by its remarkable growth.

HURT BY PIPE

Vincent Mansasro, 58 years old, of 87 New street, Woodbridge, is a patient at the Rahway Hospital suffering from a possible fracture of the foot as the result of the wind blowing the pipe against him as he was working Tuesday morning on a building in Roosevelt avenue, Carteret. Dr. Mesnigre treated him. Mansasro is a pipefitter.

SLIPPED OFF ELEVATION

Herbert R. Douglas, 48 years old, of 125 Summer avenue, Jersey City, had his left arm badly crushed and received a laceration on the forehead he slipped and fell from the elevation of the P. R. R. at Hazelwood avenue. He was taken to the Rahway Hospital and attended by Dr. J. M. Randolph. He is a patient at the hospital.

JERSEY BOY RUTGERS CAPTAIN

Herbert E. (Whitey) Lorentz, of Wood Ridge, N. J., has been elected captain of the Rutgers football team of 1927. Lorentz, who is a graduate of Lincoln High School, has been star end on the team for the past two years. He is a member of the junior class and prominent in the college Y. M. C. A.

RUTGERS PROFESSOR HONORED

Two signal honors have come to New Jersey during the past week through the appointment of Rutgers University professors to important posts. Dr. J. G. Lipman, Dean of the College of Agriculture, has been elected a corresponding member of the Czecho-slovak Academy of Agriculture; and Professor N. C. Miller, Director of the Industrial Extension Division, has been made a member of the editorial board of the "Industrial Psychology Monthly," internationally known magazine published at Hoboken, N. Y.

RAHWAY A.A. LOSES TO FORD BY LONE GOAL

Last Minute Basket Beats Them By 35-33 Score

In a thrilling contest with the Fords Firemen, Tuesday night, the Rahway A. A. were nosed out by a single basket which was tossed through the threads by Handerhan just as the final whistle was sounded by Referee Brown. The Fords team was composed of members of the Perth Amboy Big Five and proved an equal match for the local team. The game was played at Fords and the final score was 35 to 33.

Practically every member of the two quintets featured in the scoring and the score was see-sawed back and forth through the entire contest and at no time did more than two points separate the teams. Although handicapped by playing professional rules, the Rahway team led at half time 20 to 19. Although the members of both combinations shot well from the floor, they failed to tally regularly from the foul mark for Rahway counted but seven free throws out of nineteen attempts, while Fords made nine out of twenty-one.

Chaillet, Henderson and Smith led the attack for Rahway, with Orr dropping in four foul goals as well as a pair of double-deckers. Hanson and Glochu scored twenty-two of the Fords team's points, while Handerhan scored seven of the remaining thirteen.

Next Wednesday night Rahway will probably travel to Boonton and there paly the Elites. Final arrangements have not as yet been made but will be announced in these columns.

MEXICAN DISPUTE IS ECONOMIC QUESTION

Dr. Stewart Tells Audience In Lecture Last Night at First Church

SAYS WAR GREAT MORAL ISSUE

"The strained relations between United States and Mexico in the Nicaragua dispute is an economic question and is only another indication of the truth of the statement that every nation is in the race for oil-bearing lands," Dr. Alexander Stewart declared in a forceful address in the Squier Community House of the First Presbyterian Church, last night, when he spoke on the "Spirit of Peace." He urged the United States to be the first nation to stand out in the world as an advocate of the teaching of Christ, "The Prince of Peace."

Dr. Stewart, who is a leading Methodist minister and first secretary of the Fellowship of Youth for Peace, lives at Clinton, Mass., and gave the first of a series of four lectures to be given under the auspices of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. He was expected to talk on the subject "The Challenge of Youth," but for some reason changed to the subject of peace which he said was more close to his heart.

"The question of peace and war is the greatest moral and spiritual issue before the world today," the forceful speaker declared. "War is the chief collective sin in the world. Its abolition is what we fought for in the World War which was to be a war to end war and make the world safe for Democracy. We cannot afford to have another war for with the modern warfare being devised, if man won't end war, war will end man."

Dr. Stewart then related some of the most startling figures pertaining to the late war which have ever been announced, it is believed, for he said ten million were killed, three million are missing, fifteen million civilians were killed, twenty-five million maimed or broken in body, nine million war orphans, five million widows and ten million refugees. He gave striking examples of these astounding figures which made his audiance gasp. He said the number of persons killed in the war averaged 16,585 per day for the four years the conflict lasted. The war cost thirty million in lives and 400 billion dollars in property loss. His examples of which this money would buy was startling.

"The methods of warfare are being steadily improved," Dr. Stewart said, "and with germ and gas warfare, there will be little distinction made betwen soldiers and civilians, women and children, and with deadly bombs bursting from automatically controlled air planes, hundreds of thousands will die, where in the past war only fifty or a hundred perished at one time. Such horrors make another war impossible," the speaker continued. "Gas has been lately devised which is 1,000 times more dangerous than any used in the late war. We are just beginning to realize that war now has an incalculable power of destruction. We can destroy more in one hour with the present methods of warfare than we can build in a century. The next war will be the last war because it will get rid of all of us," Dr. Stewart exclaimed.

"In order for a nation to get its citizens to enter a war they must get some great moral issue before them to make the people fight. It has been said the seed of war is commercial and industrial. And the five causes of war are as follows: Economic imperialism, militarism, entangling alliances, secret diplomacy and fear. These can be reduced to one—economic imperialism," the speaker said. "Every nation is in a race for oil-bearing lands, and the question of oil is what unquestionably started the trouble in Mexico.

Oil Great Issue

"Between 1860 and 1900 the chief use of petrolium was for lubricating and heating, while today it is used for power, for the invention of the internal combustion engine has revolutionized society. Oil is now a more sought object than gold. It has even entered politics. There has already been one oil war," Dr. Stewart told his awe-stricken audience. "This was in 1921 between the Greeks and the Turks but it was in reality a war between England and France, in their quest to get some valuable oil resources. England supplied the Greeks with ships and supplies while France assisted the Turks. It was a fight be-

EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT SUBJECT OF SERMON

Rev. Law Cites Inconsistencies Of Prohibition Law

The inconsistencies developing from the Eighteenth Amendment were cited by Rev. George A. Law, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in a stirring sermon commemorating the seventh anniversary of the Prohibition Amendment, Sunday night. Rev. Mr. Law, who will enjoy another year as pastor of the local church due to his wonderful record as pastor, termed it the most "popular unpopular" amendment to the United States Constitution.

He said it established the record of receiving all except two States' votes on ratification of the amendment, and thereby was the most popular, yet with a large number of people it is the most unpopular of all amendments.

Inconsistency of press statements were rapped by Rev. Mr. Law. One paper said: "You can get liquor anywhere," but the same paper also said, "Doctors are saying that patients are dying for want of liquor." Prohibition tyranny is depriving the poor man of liquor, was one statement while the same organ said: "There is more drunkenness now than under license."

In citing the gains and losses brought about by the Eighteenth Amendment, Rev. Mr. Law put the loss of the saloon on one side and on the other the gain in grocery stores and other places of business, fewer arrests for drunkenness and fewer intoxicated people seen on the streets. He portrayed prohibition as one of the chief causes of prosperity in this country, showing that in 1913 wages amounted to nineteen and a half billions, while in 1925 this amount was doubled. In England $1,550,000,000 is spent annually for drink. If this amount was saved the country could pay its war indebtedness in five years.

Rev. Mr. Law emphasized the fact that no State referendum could change the Federal law. In place of the customary scripture reading Miss Marjorie Chase gave an appropriate reading. Music was provided by the senior choir.

S. P. C. A. MEETING FRIDAY

A regular meeting of Rahway Branch S. P. C. A. will be held at the residence of Miss M. H. Macann, 34 Irving street, Friday evening, January 21, at 8 o'clock. Bring a friend.

MRS. CAROLINE HALLIDAY AGED RAHWAY CITIZEN DIES IN 93rd YEAR

Oldest Of Five Generations and Descendant Of Noted American Lineage

Mrs. Caroline Oliver Halliday, one of Rahway's oldest citizens, died at her home, 21 Whittier street, yesterday morning, three weeks after she had taken a notable part in a family reunion held at her home in which four brothers and sisters, whose ages averaged eighty-eight years, attended her ninety-third birthday anniversary. Mrs. Halliday suffered no sudden illness, but her death was attributed to the general weakness due to her advanced years.

Mrs. Halliday will be buried from her late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. Chester M. Davis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating, assisted by Rev. Loyal Y. Graham, Jr., former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church previous to the term of Rev. Davis. Rev. Graham is pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Newark. Interment will be in the family plot in the Rahway Cemetery.

Until Mrs. Halliday's death, the family was represented by five generations. The oldest survivors to the deceased are: Miss Margaret Oliver, a sister, now 92 years old, who resides at 21 Whittier street; James S. Oliver 88 years old, of Metuchen, and Clarence A. Oliver, of Elizabeth, 78 years old. The five generations of the Halliday family were together during the past summer at the Halliday home, including Mrs. Caroline Halliday and her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Russ, of the Whittier street address; Mrs. A. C. Westervelt, Mrs. David Harsh and little Miss Jane Harsh, the latter three of Memphis, Tenn., who also survive.

Four children of Mrs. Halliday are now living, including Mrs. G. Fay Downing, of Newport, R. I.; Franklin H. Halliday, of 21 Whittier street; Walter D. W. Halliday, of 611 Newark avenue, Elizabeth, and Mrs. Agnes Russ, of 21 Whittier street. There are three grandchildren living, including Mrs. A. C. Westervelt, of Memphis, Tenn.; Lawrence F. Halliday, of 611 Newark avenue, Elizabeth, and Miss Hildegarde H. Halliday, who is now in Mexico. Mrs. David Harsh, of Memphis, is the only great grandchild, while her two children, Jane and George, are great great grandchildren.

Mrs. Halliday was the oldest living member of the First Presbyterian Church, both in age and in time of membership. For seventy-seven years she had been connected with the historic First Church. Her sister, Miss Margaret Oliver, has been a member nearly seventy-five years. Until three years ago Mrs. Halliday attended the church services regularly every Sunday and although unable to get about with her former alacrity she still took a deep interest in the church and its work and listened eagerly each day that services were held for the familiar peal of the church bell and went through in spirit the service of the day although unable to attend.

Mrs. Caroline Halliday was born December 26, 1833, in Union street, within a block of where she lived at the time of her death. Mrs. Halliday's lineage on the paternal side could be traced back to 1544, while on the maternal side a complete record is held as far back as 1600.

She was a direct descendant of the Kip family, whose name is closely interwoven with the early history of New York, Kip's Bay having been named for them and the family owned extensive property at what is now Thirty-second street and Third avenue. Records show that Samuel Kip, great grandfather of Mrs. Halliday was such a prominent figure in the lifeof the early colonial days that King George of England, offered a reward of 500 pounds sterling for him dead or alive.

WOMAN FATALLY BURNED WHEN DRESS IGNITES

Husband Burned Trying To Extinguish Flames

Mrs. Kate Kern, 43 years old, of 19 Sherman street, died in the Rahway Hospital Sunday night from burns suffered Sunday morning when the back of her dress caught fire from a small pot stove in the bedroom of her home, as she stooped over the bed to tuck in some covers. With her clothes in flames she ran to the front door screaming, in order to attract attention of her husband who was outside shoveling snow at the time. As she opened the door the wind fanned the flames and by the time her husband reached her she was a human torch.

Her husband, John, tried to tear off his wife's clothes but finally grabbed up a blanket and some rugs and frantically wrapped them about her. In doing so he burned his hands and arms so severely that he had to be taken to the hospital along with his wife for treatment. Mrs. Kern was blistered from her neck to her feet, while both of Mr. Kern's hands and wrists were scorched. Both were treated by Dr. John M. Randolph. The accident occurred about 8:30 a. m., and Mrs. Kern succumbed fourteen hours later.

Mr. and Mrs. Kern moved to this city three years ago. Previous to that she had lived in New York for about twenty years. Mrs. Kern was a native of Ireland. There were no children in the family. Besides her husband the deceased leaves two brothers, Jeremiah and David Ryan, of New York, and is also survived by her mother and a sister, living in Ireland.

The funeral of Mrs. Kerns will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Church with Rev. M. J. Boylan officiating. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

MRS. EVANS SUCCUMBS TO SEVERE INJURIES RECEIVED IN ACCIDENT

Lived Two Weeks After Auto Had Knocked Her Down; Driver To Be Held

As the result of injuries suffered on the evening of January 4, when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile in St. George avenue, near Ross street, Mrs. Helen Evans, 52 years old, wife of John Evans, of Terrill road, Clark Township, died yesterday morning at the Rahway Hospital. Although Mrs. Evans was thought to be fatally injured at the time, she rallied greatly following an operation, but due to the seriousness of her injuries it was known that there was little hope of her recovery.

Joseph Pastore, of 286 Lyons avenue, Newark, driver of the machine which struck Mrs. Evans, will be charged with manslaughter, on an investigation made by Detective Sergeant James Thompson. Immediately after Mrs. Evans' death Sergeant Thompson notified Prosecutor Abe J. David, and he ordered County Physician C. A. Brokaw to perform at antopsy at Pettit's Morgue, 87 Irving street. This was done yesterday afternoon and showed a fractured pelvis perinitis and rupture of the blatter.

Pastore at the time of the accident was driving a wrecker which was towing another machine. Mrs. Evans was crossing the highway to get to her automobile which was standing on the opposite side of the highway and in which was sitting her son, Evan, 13 years old, awaiting the return of his mother. Motorcycle Patrolman C. J Crowley was just returning after chasing a machine with 1926 license tags on it when the accident occurred. He assisted in removing Mrs. Evans to the hospital. He also took Pastore to police headquarters where the driver gave a statement in which he said that Mrs. Evans stepped off the curb in front of his machine so suddenly that he did not have time to stop his machine or avoid striking her. The signed statement was taken by Sergeant Thompson.

Slight hope was held for Mrs. Evans' recovery at the time as she received a fractured pelvis, ruptured bladder and a three-inch laceration on the head. An operation was immediately performed at the hospital by Dr. Edgar Ill, of Newark, the well-known specialist, in an effort to save her life, and this enabled Mrs. Evans to live nearly two weeks since the accident.

Riding with Pastore at the time of the accident were James T. Johnston, of 119 Bigelow street, and John Ontell of 105 Aldene street, Newark.

The deceased leaves a husband, John Evans, two sons, James and Evan Evans. They formerly lived at 20 Union street, this city, prior to moving to Terrill road. They came to this city from Wales about a year and a half ago. Mrs. Evans recently united with the First Baptist Church. She was highly respected. Contractor Thomas R. Evans, head of the Evans Construction Company, is a cousin of the deceased.

Fatal injuries received by Mrs Evans made the third serious mishap in the Evans family in a year. Early in July, John Evans, husband of the deceased, had one arm shattered by a bullet from the gun of one of the eleven bandits who raided the plant of Merck & Co. He has been unable to use the arm since. James Evans, the elder son, was badly cut on one hand and arm nearly a year ago by a saw.

Mrs. Evans will be buried from her late home tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. Wilbour E. Saunders pastor of the First Baptist Church officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in the Rahway Cemetery.

FOOD SALE ON FRIDAY

Circle No. 5 of the Ladies' Sewing Society of the Second Presbyterian Church will hold a food sale at the home of Mrs. Perham Smith, 124 Commerce street, on Friday afternoon from 2 to 4:30 p. m.

DITMARS BODY MAY BE BURIED IN FRANCE

Grave of Rahway War Hero Found in Isolated Spot, Parents Are Informed

MISSING SINCE SEPTEMBER 16, 1918

While no decision has as yet been made as to what disposition will be made of the body of Private George K. Ditmars, whose grave has been reported found in France, it is expected that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Ditmars, of 60 Jaques avenue, will listen to the dictates of their friends and consent to have the body permanently buried in France along with the thousands of other "Dough Boys" who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War. The family received word from the Quartermaster General's Office, U. S. War Department that the grave had been found.

The communication stated that the grave of their son, George K. Ditmars, killed in action during the St. Mihiel drive, has been definitely located in an isolated spot and positive indentification made. Private Ditmars was killed on September 16, 1918, and his parents were so informed, but his body could never be located, but the persistent efforts of the U. S. officials finally led to its discovery in an isolated grave. Ditmars was a member of Company F, Sixty-first Infantry, Fifth Division.

Mulvey-Ditmars Post, No. 681, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of this city, received a part of its name from Private Ditmars, the second Rahway boy to faill in action in the World War. Corporal John J. Mulvey was the first to fall, making the supreme sacrifice July 15, 1918, at Chateau Thierry. Mrs. W. E. Ditmars, mother of Private Ditmars has been president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to Mulvey-Ditmars Post since it was organized.

Letter from Washington

The official notification of the finding of Private Ditmars' body was receiver from Col. F. H. Hope, assistant in the Quartermaster Corps. The letter in full follows:

"The Quartermaster General is pleased to inform you that the investigation in the case of your son, the late Private George K. Ditmars, Company F, Sixty-first Infantry, has proved successful. His body has recently been secured from an isolated grave Commune of Preny, Meurtheet-Moselle, France, and is now in the mortuary in the St. Mihiel American cemetery, Thiancourt, Meurtheet-Moselle, France, pending receipt of disposition advice from this office.

"Your son's etwo identification tags, bearing his name, rank, serial number and organization, were found on his body. Also there was found a fountain pen, which will be transmitted to you by the General Accounting Office, Claims Section, Washington, D. C., in the near future.

"There is on file a request made by you to the effect that you desired the body returned to this country for private interment. As sometime has elapsed since you expressed your wishes, this letter is to inquire whether you still desire this action taken or that the body be permanently buried overseas with other heroes of the World War.

"Our permanent cemeteries in Europe are being beautified with trees, shrubs and lawns, and will be perpetually cared for by American caretakers who were comrades of the men sleeping there. White stone crosses bearing the soldier's name, rank, organization, State and date of death will mark each grave.

"It is not the policy of the department to attempt to influence relatives as to the disposition of their soldier dead, but to endeavor to carry out their wishes so far as is humanly possible. On the other hand the government is honored when relatives entrust the remains of their dead to its care, and intends to administer that trust in a manner befitting the service the soldier rendered his country and humanity. If agreeable to you this office will be glad to receive your permission to leave the body permanently buried overseas."

Popular Athlete

Word of the death of Private Ditmars reached his parents on Saturday, October 5, 1918, after his mother had returned to her home at 7 Race street, this city, after caring for refugees from the Morgan disaster at South Amboy, at the Milton Chapel. The message was from Adjutant General Harris and read: "Deeply regret to inform you that Private George K. Ditmars, Infantry, is officially reported as killed in action on September 16."

Private Ditmars was a member of Company F, Sixty-first Infantry, and had seen six months of service on the firing line before he was killed. He arrived at Camp Dix on December 17, 1917, and sailed overseas on April 15, arriving in France on May 2.

Previous to his entrance in the war, he was a noted athlete, being a member of the Rambler A. C. He was a native of this city and a member of the Church of the Holy Comforter and active in the work at the Milton Chapel. He was employed at Merck & Company. He was 23 years old when he enlisted.

LOCAL VETS WANT PARK NAMED MULVEY-DITMARS

Send Letter to Park Commission; Legion Post Objects

A letter from the Mulvey-Ditmars Post, No. 685, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of this city, was received by the Union County Park Commission at their meeting at Elizabeth, Friday afternoon. In the communication it was stated that at a recent meeting of the post, the members went on record as favoring the name of Mulvey-Ditmars, the names of the first two Rahway men to fall in the World War, for the new park being made along the Rahway River in this city, by the Union County Park Commission.

Following the reading of the communication, the commissioners decided that as this park is a part of the Rahway River Parkway development, the commission does not plan to give it a separate title. The letter was filed with the recommendation that the name be considered if it should be thought advisable to designate that section as another unit.

Objection to naming the new Union County Park development in this city the Mulvey-Ditmars Memorial Park was made Thursday night at a meeting of Rahway Post American Legion. Commander Alfred A. Giroud said all the 500 men from Rahway who served in the war should be remembered instead of two.

The objection may result in the Legion forwarding a protest to the Park Commission. The park, which will not be completed until next summer, comprises sixty acres on Lincoln Highway on the north branch of the Rahway river.

At the Park Commission meeting Friday afternoon ten options on land were accepted, adding thirty-eight acres to the park territory. Twelve of these acres are in the Rahway river parkway; sixteen in Galloping Hill section and ten in Watchung Reservation.

SILVER TEA THURSDAY

The Cheerful Workers of the First Presbyterian Church at their meeting Wednesday made plans to hold a silver tea next Thursday at the community house. The entertainment committee consists of Mrs. Samuel Tooker, Mrs. Alice Bostwick, Mrs. A. J. Miller. The workers will hold a luncheon next month, the date to be announced.

Rev. Law Honored at M. E. Church Conference Here

First Methodist Pastor Asked to Remain for Seventh Year; Given Salary Increase; Parsonage Mortgage Paid Off

For the seventh year, Rev. George A. Law was unaminously asked to remain as pastor of the First Methodist Church here, at the fourth quarterly conference held at the church, Friday night. District Superintendent Rev. James H. MacDonald, of Hill side, who had charge of the meeting, will submit the request of the church at the annual conference of the Newark District, in March. The congregation also voted to give Rev. Law a $100 increase in salary as they have done during every one of the six years he has been pastor of the church.

In accepting the request of the congregation, Rev. MacDonald lauded the work of Rev. Mr. Law was doing in this city, and stated that although the local pastor's work was not spectacular, he accomplished much in his quiet unassuming way and that the church has shown a steady, forward growth in every department. He has built up a strong church organization here, Rev. MacDonald said.

Perhaps the most interesting report made at the conference was the announcement that the church has raised enough money during the year to pay off the mortgage on the parsonage, and that a mortgage-burning ceremony would be held, Sunday night, January 30. Rev. MacDonald will take a prominent part in this ceremony. When Rev. Mr. Law became pastor of the church the parsonage had just been built, but not paid for so practically the entire cost has been during his pastorate. The church is entirely free from indebtedness, and there is only a small amount to be paid on the new pipe organ, which is carried by the Epworth League. During his pastorate between $11,000 and $12,000 has been raised for improvements, besides the regular running expenses of the church.

Rev. Mr. Law's pastoral work is shown in the fact that seventy-five members have been received by the church during the past six years, the enrollment in the Sunday School has doubled, and two large choirs have been organized instead of a quartet. The numerous societies in the church show active and flourishing memberships and the First Methodist congregation has been a happy and prosperous family under Rev. Mr. Law's guidance.

During the past year Rev. Mr. Law has not only served the church here, but has preached regularly at the Car-

Advantages of Community Chest Cited in Interviews

Progressive and Beneficial Method for Carrying Out City Welfare Work, Statements From Various American Cities Show

In an effort to get as many facts as possible on the Community Chest plan before the public before the Town Circle meeting at the Rahway High School on Thursday night, January 27 a few statements taken from various sections of the United States in communities where the chest is in operation, are printed below.

In view of these extracts, it seems to be the most progressive and beneficial method yet devised for the satisfactory carrying out of city welfare work, leading as it must to the legitimate and altogether bigger conclusion that a city should ultimately maintain its own welfare, using every preventative measure within its power in order not to be dependent upon charities, was the way one member of the Town Circle summarized the following statements.

Advantages of Chest

Some statements from various parts of the United States citing the advantages of the Community Chest Plan are published below:

Statement by Professor James C. Tracy, of New Haven, Conn.:

1. One single well organized campaign greatly decreases the cost of collecting money for various philanthropical agencies. Total plan costs about 10% to 20% of the money raised by each agency.

2. Affords great relief to volunteers who collect the money. Then day of hard work usually relieves them for the rest of the year.

3. Gives the management and powers of the various agencies included in the chest a chance to do their work without thought of raising their own funds.

4. A community chest improves the business conduct of the agencies. When the chest was first started in New Haven it was necessary for the Budget Committee of the chest, in a few instances at least, to assist making out a business-like budget. The agency is required to make out a budget to which it must adhere.

5. If the chest aids in eliminating duplication it also promotes co-operation in philanthropic work.

6. It focuses the attention of the community on the work its agencies are doing, thereby bringing about a more intelligent interest.

7. It increases the number of contributors. Under the old system in New Haven approximately 6,000 peo-
