The committee in charge of the affair, named at Friday night's meeting were John Herman, Ralph Kendall, August Moschberger, August Dreyer, Homer Ketcham, and Frank Bader.

Commodore Leonard Christensen, who was in charge of the meeting, stated that one of the two rowboats recently stolen from the club, had been recovered. It was valued at $150.

YOU, YOUR CAR AND THE MOTOR LAWS

By Harold G. Hoffman, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

[Editor's Note: This series of articles by the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles is presented by the Record as its part in the campaign of education to familiarize motorists with the laws which regulate their conduct on the road.]

XVIII. NEW TESTS COMING

What are we going to do about the steadily rising number of automobile fatalities?

We can do much by education. I feel that such articles as these are helpful in a measure in emphasizing the importance of general observance of traffic laws. The safety councils and motorists' organizations are making substantial contributions to the campaign for highway safety by similar propaganda.

But I am convinced that educational efforts alone are vain. Of themselves they can merely check the rapidity of the increase in fatalities and serious injuries, they cannot turn the tide toward recession.

Something more is needed, and that something undoubtedly will prove to be rigid, searching mental and physical tests, administered by properly qualified physicians and psychiatrists. It sounds drastic, perhaps formidable, but strong measures must eventually be taken if the destructive qualities of the automobile are not to outweigh its social and economic benefit.

New Jersey has been in the forefront of motor vehicle license legislation. Its enforcement of the provisions of the driver's license law has been for many years as efficient as is humanly possible. But I am not satisfied that it has not become inadequate in some respects. The problem is one to which I am giving much study, as are motor vehicle administrators throughout the country.

Under the present method of conducting examinations, there is no way of determining whether a person who applies for a license to drive, apparently in the best of mental and physical health, may be suffering from some latent disability which would make it unsafe for him to operate a motor vehicle on the highways.

The application for a license which every person must sign before the certificate is issued, contains this question: "Have you any mental or physical disability of which you are aware?" If the question is answered in the affirmative, an examination or a certificate by or from a physician may be required before the license is issued. If, however, the question is answered negatively, and there are no obvious defects, there is now no machinery by which the department can inquire into the mental fitness of the applicant.

If we are to decrease our accidents, we must have increased intelligence behind the wheel. How to determine driving intelligence is a problem which has created two lines of thought. One would pick out the unfit driver through tests of such factors as reaction time, mental lag and emotional stability. The other is concerned with character, with qualifications for what might be called highway citizenship.

Speed of reaction, such as is determined by tests developed by the Bureau of Standards at Washington, where the applicant's ability to lift his foot from the accelerator and step on the brake pedal at the sound of a pistol shot is used as a guage of his mental speed, is not entirely trustworthy, since rapidity in reaction and decision is desirable only if the reaction and decision are proper. The man who is a fast thinker may reach the wrong conclusion through inadequate consideration of all the factors in a situation. An accident may result as easily as if he thought too slowly to act in time. For instance, fast thinking may lead a driver to stop short to avoid a collision with a car ahead, but the step may involve a crash with a car behind. Had the fast thinking resulted in a proper decision, the driver would have noted an alternative and swerved right or left, thus avoiding a head-on or a rear-end collision.

Psychology may offer the solution to the problem of increasing the general intelligence level of motorists, in developing questions to be put to the applicant which will reveal the extent of his character and judgment.

Something will be done, and in the not far distant future. Whatever is done, I feel, it must be directed toward weeding out the temperamentally unfit, the mental incompetent, and the driver whose character is so warped that he is incapable of recognizing the rights of others.

Relief from Curse of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Store—Kirstein's Pharmacy.—Adv.

COUNCIL VOTES TO REPEAL ORDINANCE ON STREET PAVING

Action to Pave Bryant Street at a cost of $25,000 Is Rescinded; To Consider New Ordinance At Next Meeting

CITY BONDS RECEIVE ATTENTION

An ordinance repealing the ordinance for the paving of Bryant street, from West Hazelwood to West Milton avenue, at an estimated cost of $25,000 passed on October 8, was introduced and passed on first reading at the meeting of the Common Council, Wednesday night, as predictd in Tuesday's Record. This ordinance will come up for final adoption at the next meeting on November 12. In order to avoid confusion, a new ordinance for the paving project was not brought before the Council at the meeting but will likely come up after the original one is rescinded on final reading.

At the meeting City Clerk John J. Hoffman read a notice he had received Wednesday noon, from Attorney William V. Herer informing the Council that five property owners on Bryant street had made application for a writ of certiorari and that Supreme Court Justice Clarence E. Case had moved that the City of Rahway must show cause at a hearing at Elizabeth, on Saturday morning, November 1, why a writ should not be granted for a review of the original ordinance. The matter was referred to City Attorney David Armstrong. It is not known how the court will act on the measure now that the Council has rescinded the ordinance.

Councilman Samuel D. Love, in introducing the ordinance to repeal the original act, stated that there has been a general misunderstanding on the matter as many citizens on the street believed that if Bryant street is paved next year before the internal sewer system is completed it will be necessary to reopen the street for the placing of a storm sewer in it. He pointed out that if this was the case it would affect all of the streets aleady permanently paved, and that this would not be necessary as the sewers would be placed under the sidewalks. Love further stated that the ordinance was being repealed because the property owners were desirous of saving the trees along the curbs and wanted a 34-foot wide pavement instead of a 36-foot street as called for in the original ordinance.

The repeal ordinance was unanimously adopted on first reading without discussion by the Council or any comments from the large gathering of Bryant street citizens in the Council Chamber.

As promised the Jaques avenue taxpayers at the public hearing last week, the Council passed on first reading an ordinance changing the portion of Jaques avenue in the Residence C Zone to the Residence B. Zone.

Man Loses Suit Following Wife's Death

Joseph Kappel's Wife's Death Due to Negligence, Judge Says

A verdict of no cause for action was returned by a jury before Judge Stein in Common Pleas Court in Elizabeth, Wednesday afternoon, in the suit of Joseph Kappel, of Linden avenue, this city, for $50,000 damages against the Public Service Co-ordinated Transport for the death of his wife, Mrs. Amelia Kappel, in this city, on April 1, 1926.

The plaintiff alleged that a trolley car got out of control of the operator and struck Mrs. Kappel as she was crossing West Grand street, at Oliver street. She died of her injuries. In addition to her husband, the deceased is survived by a son, Joseph, Jr., seven.

The defendant averred that Mrs. Kappel did not observe proper caution in crossing the street, and that her death was due to negligence.

Former Police Judge Orlando H. Dey, of this city, appeared for the plaintiff, while Henry H. Fryling, of Elizabeth, for the defendant.

Independent Candidate Attacks G.O.P. Nominee

The following talk was made by Arthur F. Love, Independent councilmanic candidate, before members of the North Side Taxpayers' Association Wednesday night: "Your honorable Councilman Chas. Schaefer has the nerve, according to newspaper accounts to tell you intelligent people what he did to relieve the Second Ward of dangerous conditions caused by the pollution of a brook flowing between Allen and Price streets. From the amount of action given this matter by Schaefer was absolutely nothing as he never appeared on the scene to my knowledge as I appeared on the committee with Fire Chief Ritzman and Health Officer Williams which the Rawlin Club sent out to see what could be done about this matter, which was considered a serious fire hazard and health menace.

"A few weeks after the citizens investigation their theory of it being a fire hazard was vindicated when this same brook polluted with oil by a Linden factory broke out in fire. Causing the residents of this section a most unpleasant day and a half as it smouldered that long and left in its wake a heavy black cloud of smoke which hung over this section of the Second Ward and made a very nasty condition. When we appealed to the citizens' Common Council of Rahway about this matter Councilman Schaefer seemed to be the least interested member of the Council although it was in his own ward. This same condition still exists although I personally and the Rawlin Community Club appealed to your present Common Council and the City Attorney for him to get an injunction against this Linden factory polluting this brook with oil. Now when it comes near election Mr. Schaefer comes out and says what he has done to stop this condition and I tell you nothing at all. He is trying to pull the wool over the eyes of the people in this ward with the help of the entire Republican machine. At the present time the Republican party is trying harder to elect Councilman Schaefer than they are their mayoralty candidate.

"The reason for this is the bosses of the Republican machine know thta he has been a very weak representative for the Second Ward but a very obedient member of the Republican party. If you people doubt the truth of this statement at your leisure and you happen to be in the vicinity of Allen and Price streets take a look at this brook and the evidence generally shows up the true side of the case. This man who is looking for re-election has turned his back on the people of this ward many times on matters of great importance to your home, property and pocket-book so he might abide by the dictates of the machine of which he is a small cog. I ask you honest voters to consider these true facts before election day and then to vote as you find them."

Merits of Bond Issue Told at Kiwanis Meet

Vice President of State Real Estate Board Talks On New Jersey Problems at Wednesday Luncheon; Many to Meeting

"The $100,000,000 Bond Plan which comes before the voters for approval on November 4 is the first visible form of tax relief ever brought before the voters of New Jersey," J. Kingsley Powell, of Metuchen, vice-president of the New Jersey Real Estate Board and prominent Metuchen realtor operator, told the Rahway Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon meeting, at the River View Tea Room, Wednesday noon.

The speaker pointed out that real estate in New Jersey represents 30 percent of the wealth in the State, but that 90 percent of the taxes have been on real estate. With the constantly increasing tax burden on property, the taxpayers in New Jersey and the New Jersey League of Municipalities have protested to the Legislature that the State cannot continue to raise revenues through a further taxing of real estate. For this reason the legislators have brought forth the plan of issuing bonds to raise additional revnue for the three problems which the State must meet. Through such a bond issue the State will be able to return to the municipalities some of the revenue which the State has been taking from the municipalities. Mr. Powell pointed out that real estate taxation should pay for local improvements and not be taken by the State for State improvements. The bond issue would reduce the tax rate more than 12 points in this city, Mr. Powell said.

Expect Boy Scout Campaign To Go Over Quota Tonight

More Than $1,288 of $1,500 Already Subscribed; Final Meeting of Campaign Committee To Be Held Tonight

LOCAL MEN AT COUNTY LUNCHEON

Rahway's quota in the campaign for operating expenses of the Union County Boy Scout Council, $1,500, is expected to be reached at the final round-up meeting of the local committee to be held tonight in the rooms of the Board of Directors of the National Pneumatic Company.

A total of $1,288 of the entire quota, was reported this noon by Abe Weitz, treasurer of the campaign committee.

Enthusiasm to put the drive over is an "investment in manhood" for each contributor, is the password among both givers and receivers. Scouts themselves are aiding in every way possible that will enable this city to line up with the group of towns and cities included in the Union County drive.

Merchants of the city are also aiding in the work by trimming windows appropriately with Boy Scout equipment and scenes familiar to the Scout, Treasurer Weitz commented today.

John R. Baumann and Mr. Weitz attended the county luncheon in Elizabeth yesterday noon, at which time a report of the progress of all the various committees were given.

Those who have contributed to the campaign since the last issue of the Record are as follows: J. F. McCoy, F. H. Plum, N. Russo, W. H. Randolph, Rahway Firemen's Mutual Benefit Association, Walton B. Selover, K. Simmen, William Wnenk, F. Denton, Fire Chief Walter H. Ritzman, Chauncey Reed, Police Chief George McIntyre, Jr., T. H. ## PLAN REPUBLICAN RALLY MONDAY

Automobile Parade Before Meeting to Be Held in Central Eall

An automobile parade through the downtown streets, special speakers and refreshments will feature the big Republican rally planned for Monday night in Central Hall, Waite avenue, it was announced at the meeting of the Second Ward Republican Club held Tuesday night in Republican headquarters, Irving street and Elizabeth avenue. The parade will form at 7:30 p. m. at Scott and Elizabeth avenues.

In his talk before the group Tuesday night, Councilman Charles Schaefer, candidate for re-election, who presided, stressed action which had been taken during the present administration to abolish objectionable conditions in the Second Ward. He explained the work that has been done by Health Officer Fred M. Williams and Councilman William H. Armstrong in caring for the condition caused by the refuse from the Newark Steel Barrel Works, which has previously run into a brook in the Second Ward. He said lagoons had been constructed by the company to catch the oil and that the company is now petitioning the Linden Council to install a sewer that will carry the waste away.

Mayor Gives Address

Many different subjects of achievement were touched upon by Mayor Adolph Ulbrich, who also stressed the qualifications of Alfred C. Brooks, candidate for Mayor. Among those things mentioned were the following: the caliber of the Republican candidates demands the election of each of them; sewer and traffic matters have been taken before State boards for further protection; work of the Board of Assessors in clearing up assessments standing from previous administrations; the work done by the citizens' committee on the trunk sewer, and that the Republican administration has proven itself efficient.

After speaking of the qualifications of the Republican candidates, Candidate Brooks told of some of his connections with this city that have given him an opportunity to know some of the needs of the community. Councilman Ross O. Fowler, candidate for councilman-at-large, told of demands made by the general growth of the city on the officials who serve the community, and explained how solid the credit of the city is when there were 16 bidders for a recent bond issue and that the State Sinking Fund Commission had bought some of the bonds. He also told of the efforts being made at the City Hall to safely keep all official records, and that there are many miles of paved streets here and that there are three new school buildings.

Many Others Speak

Others who spoke, and who explained what in their opinion, was improvements in the city that could be credited to the Republican party, were: George M. Engel, Councilman Samuel D. Love, chairman of the police committee; Candidate Charles E. Reed, Fifth Ward, and Nelson A. Brower, First Ward; Police Justice Fayette N. Talley, John B. Thompson, candidate for Council from Fourth Ward, Freeholder S. C. Terrill, George E. Little, Overseer of the Poor Floyd E. Mason and Charles T. Drake.

GAS VICTIM TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Lewis Knapp Found Dead in His Home; Three Gas Jets Open

Funeral services for Lewis Knapp, 62, who was found dead in the kitchen of his home, 42 Broadway, Wednesday morning, apparently as a result of inhaling illuminating gas, will be held from his home tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. Burial will be made in Rose Hill Cemetery, Linden. Daniel Schweltzer and Benjamin, Carl and Ernest Noennich will be pallbearers.

Apparently overcome by illuminating gas, Mr. Knapp was found dead in his home, 42 Broadway, at 8:20 a. m. yesterday, by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Freda Knapp. Efforts made by members of the police and fire departments and by Dr. George E. Gallaway proved of no avail.

Shortly before 8:20 Mrs. Knapp was awakened by the odor of gas, and awakened her husband, who went to kitchen of the home where he found his father slumped over in a chair and three jets on the gas stove wide open. He called the police headquarters, from where Lieutenant G. Fred Clos was dispatched to the scene. Police also called fire headquarters from where Chief Walter H. Ritzman, Assistant Chief Harry Cooper and Fireman Harold Schweitzer and Herbert Benson left for the Knapp home. When Dr. Galla-way arrived he pronounced Mr. Knapp dead from the effects of illuminating gas.

It is believed that Mr. Knapp arose about 6 a. m. and went to the kitchen where he prepared and ate his breakfast. He afterward sat near the stove, and cut an apple in quarters and ate one part of it. He had not worked for some time because of poor health, although he was formerly employed as a millman for the old Royal Motor Coach Company, St. George avenue. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of James M. Pettit where it was viewed by County Physician C. A. Brokaw.

Mr. Knapp was a native of Addison, N. Y., and had been a resident of Rahway for 24 years. His wife died a few years ago. In addition to his son George Knapp, with whom he lived, he is survived by a step-son, Harry Lewis, Elkland, Pa.

CHIMNEY CAUSES FIRE

A defective chimney caused a small fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oppe, 10 Campbell street, shortly after 9 o'clock last night. Soot in the chimney ignited while Mr. Oppe was burning some papers. A telephone call brought out Engine Company No. 1 at 9:06 p. m. and the blaze was extinguished with chemicals. The loss was trifling.

CHARGES OF LAXITY IN SEWER PROJECT REFUTED BY QUINN

Information on Pumping Stations and Trunk Sewer is Given By Chairman of Citizens Committee

SAYS EXISTING RUMORS INCORRECT

Thorough acquaintance of the citizens and taxpayers of the City of Rahway with the situation regarding the necessity of pumping stations in connection with Rahway's sewer system, is necessary if the people are to be intelligently versed on the matters of municipal improvemnt at the present time, John J. Quinn, chairman of the citizens' committee investigating the Rahway Valley Joint Trunk Sewer, said today.

"Reports are being circulated that the necessity for the use of pumping stations in connection with the revamping of the city's sewer system is caused by laxity or short-sightedness on the part of the Republican administration," Mr. Quinn explained. "It is felt that the people should be made acquainted with the facts.

"It has been known for some years that a portion of the city's sewers to discharge into it by at a grade lower than that contemplated for the trunk sewer and that pumping would have to be resorted to for that portion. There is nothing new about this fact. This was a condition that had to be met and was the fault of no one connected with the city government.

"It has been stated that the trunk sewer should have been laid to a grade five feet lower than constructed in order to allow the city sewers ot discharge into it by gravity and thus eliminate the necessity for pumping. A little thought given to this will disclose the fact that that would have been impracticable. To lay the trunk sewer through the city at a grade of five feet lower than constructed would have greatly increased the cost and would have necessitated the pumping of the entire output of the trunk sewer at the disposal plant.

Flow Is By Gravity

"The sewage in the trunk sewer as now laid flows by gravity to and through the proposed disposal plant and the effluent after proper treatment and chlorination is discharged by gravity into the Rahway River. In order that this could be accomplished the grade of the trunk sewer at the disposal plant had to be established with respect to the low water level of the river and it is obvious that if the sewer were constructed at a grade five feet lower the effluent would have to be raised by the use of huge pumps in order to discharge it into the river. As the pumping would be a continuous operation, twenty-four hours every day, two or more complete pumping units would be required owing to the possibility of an occasional breakdown in one. The primary power for the pumps would probably be electricity with auxiliary power supplied by either gasoline or Diesel motors to carry the load during temporary suspensions of electric power.

"The cost of installing and maintaining the requisite number of pumps and motors to take care of the volume of sewage discharged from a six-foot pipe would have been absolutely prohibitive. The services of trained engineers would have been required twenty-four hours a day and the operating cost would have been vastly increased.

"These conditions were fully realized when the sewer was designed and its grade was kept down to the minimum at the disposal plant and through the entire city so that all the advantages of gravity could be fully utilized.

Junior Red Cross Roll Call In Schools

The roll call of the Junior Red Cross in Rahway is now going on under the leadership of Miss M. Ada Farrell, who has carried it to the triumphant conclusion of 100 percent enrollment of the schoolchildren every year for several years past.

A minimum contribution from each schoolroom provided enrollment for all its pupils and the room receives a subscription to the Junior Red Cross publication which informs the students of the work done by their organization all over the world.

By means of a bureau in Paris which translates letters into the various languages, the children are enabled to correspond with the Junior Red Cross members of different nations. The exchange of ideas is instructive to both.

The League of Red Cross Societies which was founded by the late Henry P. Davidson, has as one of its great aims the development of the Junior Red Cross among the children of all lands and under its banner child health centers and clinics are being set up in Europe, Asiatic countries and in Latin America. The work is maintained, however, by the contributions of the people of the country itself, as the Junior Red Cross of each nation is an entirely distinct and separate organization.

PAULINE STEVENS WED TO J.B. DURY

Local Girl Bride of Elizabeth Man at St. Mary's Church

The wedding of Miss Pauline Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Stevens, 74 Commerce street, to Joseph B. Dury, son of Mrs. Albert Erxleben, 563 Elizabeth avenue, Elizabeth, was held Wednesday afternoon, 3 o'clock, at St. Mary's Church. Rev. M. J. Boylan, curate of the church, officiated. Sister Adalbert played the accompanying music.

The bride wore a panne satin, with tulle veil, cap effect, caught with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude Sullivan, 22 Commerce street, an intimate friend of the bride. Miss Sullivan wore cerise georgette, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. John J. Stevens, a brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception for those who attended the wedding was held at the River View Tea Room immediately following the ceremony. Guests were present from Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, Jersey City, Scotch Plains, New York and this city.

The newly married couple left on a honeymoon trip to the South, and will reside at the Hamilton Apartments, East Jersey street, Elizabeth, on their return.

"Spanish Moon" Scores In First Perfarmance

Comely Women, Capable Actors and Song and Dance Hits Make Theme of Comedy a Success Last Night

BY ETHEL COOK

Clever lines and attentive music vied with an unappreciative audience last nigh tin Roosevelt school to make the first night performence last night in Roosevelt School production, "Spanish Moon," a success. The play will be repeated tonight.

Comely girls and capable boys displayed ardent coaching to combine with a workable plot to make the second annual play given under the auspices of the Woman's Club worthy of attention. Though the players in the show were slow in getting started, it wa snot long before both players and audience fell into step, and ended the performance with interest.

After a rather slow procession of opening numbers, action was started with Robert Cornell's solo, "Isn't Love a Funny Proposition." From then on the interest was sustained almost continually until the closing curtain.

The offices of the Apex Advertising Agency, New York City, formed the scene of the first of the two acts. Here two young men, played by Roy Potts and Edward Perrine, endeavoring with all the enthusiasm of the young business man, to attain success in their chosen profession of advertising.

A wondering audience finds the former engaged to an attentive young woman, Helen Emple-Meinzer, who after a while, returns the engagement ring because, Mr.

SCIENCE SEEKS FIRST AMERICAN

Dead Alaskan Villages to Be Explored by the Hrdlicka Party.

Washington.—Locked among the frozen stretches of Alaska are deep secrets concerning the origin of man on this continent. With Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, curator of anthropology of the National museum, at its head, an expedition has set out from the Smithsonian institution for Alaska, to seek clews to the perplexing problem: "Whence did the first Americans come?"

Many centuries before Columbus was born this hemisphere was populated. The Indians were scattered over both continents of the western world and the outlying habitable islands.

There were then, and are now, in Alaska and all along the coast of northern Canada, short pudgy folk whom we have come to know as Eskimos. At the tip of South America there were savages of giant stature. In the Mississippi valley there lived other tribes, who existed by farming and who established their villages on enormous mounds and their temples on still greater mounds shaped like serpents. Along the Potomac and other eastern rivers there were skilled hunters who grew corn and beans, and on the Florida coast were others who subsisted largely on fish and oysters and left behind them great piles of empty shells. In Mexico, Central America, Ecuador and Peru there were highly developed civilizations; large cities built of stone and populations whose acquaintance with the fine arts rivaled that of ancient Greece.

Racial Kinship Seen.

Doctor Hrdlicka believes that all of these peoples were descendants of early immigrants from Asia, that they all were probably of the same yellow-brown racial stock, though of different tribes and even of different nations. The same stock is held to be widely distributed in some sections of China, Tibet, Japan and Siberia to this day. Its representatives may have "dribbled" slowly into America from Asia and made their way to inland sections and to the jungles of what is now South America.

Many scientists agree that in Asia there are many types resembling American Indians. Not all of these scientists, however, are ready to agree with Doctor Hrdlicka that this fact points to the conclusion that the origin of man on this continent may be explained by Asiatic migration.

With the aid of human remains, pottery fragments, weapons and relics of early settlements Doctor Hrdlicka hopes to obtain conclusive evidence to support the theory. If the first Americans came here via the Bering sea, he thinks they must have left traces of that movement.

"Dead" Villages on Yukon.

Along the Yukon's picturesque shores the Eskimos and Indians have lived for uncounted generations—the former in the lower valley, the latter in the upper. The first immigrants from Asia are thought to have placed their habitations in the same region. Along the stream down to the flats at its mouth there are traces of numerous "dead" villages. Found on and in the banks of the river, they show remains of pit dwellings and yield stone implements, bones of animals, fragments of crude pottery, and now and then articles regarded by Doctor Hrdlicka as of Asiatic derivation. Human skeletons have also been found.

Just how long the Yukon basin has been inhabited may be revealed by excavation.

Nearly all the traces of human habitation found so far have been on the lower level of the Yukon. The flats are constantly being cut away in some parts and built up in others, by action of the river. It is almost impossible to know where the banks were several thousand years ago.

An added difficulty confronting the scientists is the problem of excavation. Two or three feet below the surface the ground is frozen to unknown depths. Special apparatus to melt the ground must be applied, a slow and tedious process.

But no matter how painstaking the task, it will be eminently worth while if these "dead" sites reveal the relics for which science is eagerly searching. Skeletal remains particularly will be valued for the light they may throw on the origin of man in America. The Asiatic differs from the European not only in outward appearance but in the shape of his skull, his facial angles, and the formation of hips and legs. Obviously, then, if the bones found in these early graves in Alaska conform to Asiatic measurements, they will be proof of the Asiatic origin.

Scouts Bridge Theory.

The existence of a so-called "land-bridge" between Alaska and Asia in ancient times is argued by some scientists as an explanation of how man first arrived in America from Asia. Doctor Hrdlicka scouts the theory. A land-bridge, he says, was wholly unnecessary. Primitive boats made of skins of animals, such as are still used by some Alaskan natives, would have been, he says, sufficient to cross the Bering sea.

"The crossing from Asia to America by the early immigrants was easy, natural and inevitable," Doctor Hrdlicka explains. "Less than 40 miles separate the two continents at Bering strait. But the Asiatics undoubtedly had boats, and there was nothing to prevent them from crossing Bering sea by way of St. Lawrence island.

"Much farther to the south was the long chain of the Aleutian islands, which reaches to within 400 miles of the Kamchatkan shore, even that distance being cut in half by the Commander islands."

But if it was so easy to get from Asia to America, why was it not equally easy to get from America to Asia? Why can it not be argued that the similarity of Indians and some Asiatics may be explained by American migration to Asia? The answer is simple. Human remains tens of thousands of years old have been found in Asia. No eager American scientist has ever found any remains more than several thousand years old at the most on this continent.

Herbert Hoover Club Answers Accusaions

Editor, Record:

An article appeared in the "Rahway News" under date of October 23 criticizing the present administration for employing outside help in the city's Engineering Department during the past three years.

The statements made in that article are utterly inaccurate and misleading and the entire article is so worded as to create a false impression upon the minds of those not familiar with the facts.

The budgets appropriations of 1927 for the Engineering Department was $6,500, representing the salaries of the City Engineer and his assistant and for supplies and expenses of the office. This amount was increased to $8,400 in 1928 to permit the employment of a rodman and to grant an increase in salary to the engineer's assistant and also to provide more for supplies and expenses, the previous amount having been found to be inadequate. This appropriation remained the same in 1929 and was increased $200 in 1930 to again grant an increase to the assistant.

The employment of outside help when the volume of work justified it was not only done during the past three years but also in 1926 and 1927, when the Democratic party was in power. They also fuly realized that the engineering force of the city was entirely too small to take care of all the work that was required to be done. The services of both Mr. Price and Mr. Marsh, our only two local surveyors, have been engaged when needed.

If the engineering work required were evenly distributed over the entire year the department could probably take care of it, but when, as is usually the case, a number of ordinances are adopted at nearly the same time for street pavings, curbs, sidewalks and sewers, all requiring surveys and office work and also the preparation of plans, specifications, contracts and advertisements, when the work is done by contract, all of which is in addition to the regular routine work of the office, it is not humanly possible for the limited engineering force to perform all of this work in the length of time allowed.

The engineering force of this city has fewer in its employ by far than any other town or city in the county: Linden, Cranford and Westfield employing from twice to more than three times the number of employees than Rahway does. It is far more economical to employ outside help when needed than to employ a sufficient number of trained assistants by the year.

The statement or implication that this added expense is one of the causes for over-expending the budget is contrary to the facts. These amounts have always been charged against the improvement or ordinance authorizing the work and is entirely apart from and in no way affects the budget appropriation. The appropriation for the Engineering Department has not been over-expended but rather has shown a balance to its credit at the end of the year.

It has been stressed in the "News" article that Mr. Price is a business partner of the present City Engineer. That is true so far as private engineering practice is concerned but any services rendered by Mr. Price to the city have been performed by him as an individual. The firm of Bush & Price has never received one cent from the city for such services.

It was stated in the "News" article that in 1928 Mr. Price received $5,000 from the city. As a matter of fact he received but one-third of that amount, less than that received by him for similar services in 1927 when the Democratic party was in power, and the other statements are similarly exaggerated.

We wish to state that not one cent has been spent for outside help in the Engineering Department that was not economically necessary or fully justified.

If statements are to be made let us have the true facts and not such fabrications of misleading statements that the above mentioned article contained.

LOEW'S THEATRE, NEWARK

Reginald Denny and Fifi Dorsay head what is considered a dazzling cast in "Those Three French Girls," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's newest farce of life in the gay French capital, which opens its week's run at Loew's State Theatre in Newark, Saturday.

The plot of this talkie farce concocted by Dale Van Every is reported to contain a laugh in every reel and a howl in every line of its dialogue, which was written by P. G. Wodehouse, internationally known humorist.

The action centers about the fun-loving nephew of a British Earl, played by Denny, who goes to Paris for a good time and finds it in the company of two American ex-doughboys and three charming mademoiselles. Complications occur when the nephew brings the girls to his uncle's home in the attempt to interest his rich relative in backing a modiste's shop. All would have gone well had not the uncle fallen in love with the very girl whom the nephew had picked out for himself. But all the difficultires are ironed out in the end in a manner considered rollicking.

Cliff Edwards and Edward Brophy are reported to be nothing less than "a scream" as the two ex-doughboys who want to see what Paris is like without M. P.'s. George Grossmith and Peter Gawthorne are said to be equally funny as the befuddled Earl and his cockney butler, respectively, while the remaining members of the girl trio Yola D'Avril and Sanira Ravel—add their drolleries to the lot.

Metrotone News, a comedy film and several other short subjects provide the rest of the entertainment which is entirely on the screen.

BROAD ST. THEATRE, NEWARK

Seldom are there three such experts in the art of comedy found in one company as Grace George, the star, and the two featured London actors, A. E. Matthews and Lawrence Grossmith, coming in "The First Mrs. Fraser" to the Broad Street Theatre next Monday, October 27. The production comes direct from a run of 353 performances at the Playhouse, New York.

That distinguished English playwright, St. John Ervine, is the author, well known to American theatre-goers by his serious dramas "John Ferguson" and "Jane Clegg." With "The First Mrs. Fraser," he has taken his place in the front rank of writers of comedy.

The plot of "The First Mrs. Fraser" is an intriguing counter-play of purposes, revealing the very hearts of the individuals involved, while making those comedy situations which gain merriment by their unexpectedness. Charming Janet Fraser has permitted her headstrong husband, James, to divorce her some five years ago. Philip Logan is an ardent suitor for Janet's affections. Elsie, the second Mrs. Fraser, now desires a divorce from James in order to marry Lord Larue. She is also entangled with Mario, a night club dancer. Alice and Mabel, and the two youths, Ninian and Murdo, are also involved in the gay proceedings.

In the title role Miss George has one of the most witty and winsome characterizations of her career. Mr. Matthews and Mrs. Grossmith as James and Philip, make up the deft comedy triumvirate, which is further augmented by Phyllis Elgar as Elsie, Ruth Benston Blian, Charles Campbell, May Marshall, Lowell Gilmore. Livingston Platt designed the stage setting, and the production was directed by Miss George.

One of the outstanding facts of United States history is that whenever war has come upon us, the American people have been quick to realize the vital importance of a navy in our scheme of defense, Mr. Grebenstein said.

QUINN DISCUSSES PUMPING STATION

Rumors of Cost Incorrect

"The pumping of that portion of the city's sewage which will require it will not prove to be as costly as rumored. The 'Pumping Stations,' so called, will in reality probably be pumping manholes, installed underground, and entirely automatic in operation and necessitating only occasional inspection. No building or full time operator will be required. It is expected that the necessary occasional inspection will be made by an operator from the disposal plant and the maintenance cost thus kept to a minimum."

After discussing the pumping stations fully, Chairman Quinn explained Raway's position in relation to the other municipalities connected with the construction of the trunk sewer.

"It is needless to go into and discussion as to the absolute necessity for some means of disposing of the city's sewage," he continued. "In the old days when the population was not so large the Rahway River was the logical point of disposal and the relatively small amount of sewage deposited therein was sufficiently diluted to cause no serious pollution. The Town of Cranford then constructed a sewer to carry its sewage into the river together with Garwood. Westfield followed by discharging the effluent of its disposal beds into the Robinson Branch. Roselle Park, Kenilworth, Springfield, Clark and Woodbridge all realized that they would have to provide sewerage facilities for their respective territories and the Rahway River offered the only solution to their problems.

Health Board Makes Order

"The State Board of Health had ordered the City of Rahway to cease polluting the river and the only possible solution was for these municipalities to unite and jointly solve their several problems and at the same time clear the Rahway River. It has been stated that it would have been more advantageous to Rahway to construct a disposal plant of its own and let the other municipalities find relief as best they could. A little thought given to this and familiarity with the topography of the adjoining country will disclose the fact that this procedure would not only have been uneconomical but would probably result in a more serious menace to the city than any we have ever been called upon to meet. If Rahway had constructed its own sewage disposal plant the municipalities further up the river would have been compelled to do likewise and probably discharge the effluent from their disposal plants into the river at points above our water intake.

"It was therefore both wise and economical for the City of Rahway to join with the other communities in the project," Chairman Quinn continued.

"A new source of pure drinking water would eventually cost the taxpayers of this city approximately $5,000,000," he continued, "whereas to clean the river, by merely entering the trunk sewer system, has cost the city $383,000 up to the present time. The elimination of all pollution from our water supply is of paramount importance, and the construction of the trunk sewer removes forever the possibility of future pollution by sewage from neighboring municipalities.

Project Given Thought

"Our participation in the Trunk Sewer project was not the result of snap judgment as some would have the citizens believe, but was the result of thought and study extending over a period of many years and competent technical advice given to the city. The city's representive, C. G. Saal, at the meetings of the Rahway Valley Joint Meeting has always had the city's interests in mind and has continually fought and is now fighting for such measures and methods of construction as will most benefit this city and his efforts are meeting with success.

"While as a citizen and taxpayer of this city, recognize the definite needs of having such a trunk sewer to serve this community, I cannot understand why Rahway approved the plans and specifications as submitted by Clyde Potts, engineer for the trunk sewer, in 1927 without first taking into consideration the matter of including pumping stations for Rahway as part of the construction cost, because the pumping stations in Rahway make it unnecessary to build and maintain a tremendous pumping equipment at the disposal plant.

"And, too, I cannot understand why Rahway was advised to enter into a contract such as the trunk sewer project without having it specified that the pumping stations necessary to lift the Rahway sewage into the trunk sewer should be built and maintained at the expense of all the municipalities benefited by the sewer," Chairman Quinn concluded.

"SPANISH MOON" SCORES SUCCESS

Potts, like all typical American business men, was too mindful of business, and too little interested in romance, the quality in life which his sweetheart sought.

Plot becomes more entwined when it is found that the young woman has acquired an English poet, played by Harry Davis. Arrogant comedy and clever lines are then forthcoming, when the poet follows the American girls trail for days to recite poetry. More comedy is supplied by the gum-chewing secretary, Caroline Griggs the office boy, Robert Cornell, and the janitor, John Barger.

Since Claire, the fiancee, will have no more of Mr. Potts, the two partners in the advertising firm decide, after long and ponderous thought, to leave for Spain, there to obtain contracts that seem obtainable.

First, it is decided, that they must find a stenographer who will acompany them to the southern European country. A call to the employment agency, brings three applicants, the young ambitious girl, the Irish woman and the "lady of the blighted romance." Each, in her own characterization, are excellent. These parts are taken by Etta Van Pelt, Octavia Ainsworth and Elizabeth Helms, respectively. After much discussion the two young men decide to take their own secretary with them on the trip. The act ends with an ensemble number, "The Land of the Hot Tamale."

A colorful setting in the courtyard of a Spanish Inn opens the last act. Attractive Spanish maids and romantic Spanish men are seen being entertained by a troubador and his guitar. As the Trobador, Dorsey Forrest was one of the features of the act, as were Harriet Russ and Ernest Duffy, shown portraying the typical Spanish tango. Rosamond Alloth, as a jilted senorita, showed an appreciable vocal ability in a peppy solo, "I Wish I Knew If Love Loved Me." As the innkeeper, Irving Engelman also gave a pleasing performance.

To obtain the desired effect, one of the young business men Mr. Potts, as Austin, is found making use or his American ingenuity, and disguised as a flip pant Spanish senior. Amusement is paramount when Claire happens into the inn while on a vacation tour of Spain, and is completely attracted by the American-Spaniard by his romantic singing. Their duet, "Spanish Moon," the theme song of the play, was worthy of its part.

A charming touch was added by the numbers given by choruses, from the stately group of Spanish women, to the group of boys who parodied spring dance.

The Harmony Club Orchestra accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Duffy supplied the accompaniments and incidental music. Between the acts solos were sung by a mixed quartet composed of John J. Hoffman, Chalmers Reed, A. V. Carkhuff and C. S. Woodruff, accompanied by Mrs. John J. Hoffman.

The play was a John B. Rogers Production directed by John W. Judd, for the benefit of the Woman's Club student loan fund for Rahway girls, who have ability but in need of financial assistance.

Although "Spanish Moon" is the usual musical comedy with the usual flimsy plot, it has its own individuality and the varied assortment of local talent under Mr. Judd's direction make it "one of those things that you shouldn't miss."

RAHWAY TO MEET STRONG FOE IN ROSELLE TOMORROW; ELKS DEFEAT NEWARK PINMEN

Scarlet and Black Ready For Roselle Aerial Attack

Rahway Also Expected to Use Forward Pass as Chief Offensive Weapon; Team Revamped for Game

The Rahway High School grid machine will travel to Roselle tomorrow prepared for a hard battle. The Roselle game has taken on a more important aspect since last Saturday when Roselle tied the powerful Westfield eleven. Roselle, until this contest, had not shown much power and it was taken for granted that they would be a "set-up" for the Scarlet and Black. But Rahway has exhibited in their last two games that they are easy prey to forward passes, and as it is a foregone conclusion Roselle's offense will consist of an aerial attack, the Singermen will have to show real football tomorrow on the twin-borough field.

Coaches Singer and Brooks have spent most of the past week in perfecting a defense against forward passes. They have executed this defense with great success against the Scarlet and Black Reserves using the Roselle formations. These workouts should be sufficient to ward off the type of attack the local high will meet tomorrow.

The Rahway eleven will in all probability flash a strong passing attack of their own. The coaches have drilled Pelote, who will start at end tomorrow, over in a corner of the gridiron spearing passes, as the Roselle gridders will undoubtedly have Machon so well covered that he will be unable to get his hands on any passes thrown him unless he is given perfect interference and support from the line.

Two Regulars Out

Rahway will oppose Roselle with two of its best players on the sidelines due to injuries in the Linden tussle. Johnny Jost had a rib cracked in the game, while Roarke has a cut lip which will keep him out of the game. Because Coach Singer needs speed in his team, Michaels, 230 pound tackle will also be on the sidelines tomorrow afternoon. Fowler, who played one of the wings against Linden has been shifted to the backfield. Although Schalestock is not named in the starting lineup it is expected he will play a goodly portion of the game tomorrow.

With Rahway still one of the few undefeated elevens in the county and a goal line still to be crossed, the team will enter tomorrow's contest much the favorite. Roselle has won but two of their four contests, Scotch Plains dumping them 13 to 6, while Woodbridge eked out a 7 to 6 victory over them. They downed Metuchen 14 to 0, while the Westfield game was a 6 to 6 tie. The Roselle showings against Woodbridge and Westfield, however, were so impressive that the Scarlet and Black must display real form tomorrow to gain the victory which their supporters are confident will be forthcoming.

Rahway's usual throng of rooters will accompany the team to Roselle tomorrow. Special buses carrying the squad and students will leave in front of the field house at 2 o'clock.

How Rahway and Roselle Should Lineup Tomorrow

Anyway It's Safest

"Whenever I attempt to reason with my wife," complains an argumentative husband to the Columbia Record, "she simply won't listen and I never get anywhere. Please advise me what you'd do." "I wouldn't!" admitted the wise old editor. "The best way, however, to debate with one's wife, is to go out behind the garage and smoke your pipe."

RAMBLERS OPPOSE CAPETOWN A. C.

Irvington Eleven Expected To Furnish Strong Opposition

Coach Ray Drake and his Rambler A. C. football team are all set for a tough customer at the Union County Park, Sunday afternoon, when they meet the fast-stepping Capetown A. C., of Irvington.

Last Sunday the Ramblers lost their first game in two seasons. This was due, partially to a weak spot in the line and lack of an effective attack. During the past week, however, these faults have been remedied and the local aggregation expect to have a well-trained team on the field Sunday.

The Capetowners incidentally, have nearly as good a record as the Ramblers. Last Sunday they defeated the fast Plainfield Cedarbrooks, one of the best semi-pro teams in the county, 7 to 6.

During the past week three scrimmage practices have been held and the Ramblers seem to be steadily improving. They were handicapped earlier in the year because of the early darkness and lack of light to practice by. The Union County Park Commission has installed flood lights which has greatly aided the local eleven.

Dorsey Forrest, star quarterback of the Rahway High School team four years ago, has joined the Rambler ranks and will be an asset to the team inasmuch as he can relieve Coppola or any other backfield man.

With the exception of the new acquisition the Ramblers report that they will have the same starting lineup this week as they had last Sunday. Coppola, Collins, Godfrey and Bradley will be in the backfield, with Muddell and Bartz ends; Albisser and Ryan tackles; Glafrida and Haut guards and Housman center.

Firemen Pinners Lose To Elizabeth Team

The bowling team of the Rahway Fire Department received a two to one defeat from the Elizabeth Fire Department's team at the Rahway Recreation Alleys, Coach and Main streets, in a Union County League match, Tuesday afternoon. Elizabeth won the first and third games with Rahway winning the second. The teams were evenly matched in the first two games, but the Elizabeth Department team were somewhat familiar with the lanes when the third tilt came into view and they outscored the local team by nearly 100 pins.

Neafsey, lead-off man for the visitotrs, pinned the highest score of the match in the last game with a 216. Fay of the same team was runner-up with 206. None of the local players were able to hit the double century mark, although several of them were well over 170.

Backfield Big Guns

By Hardin Burnley

AMONG the brightest spots on tomorrow's football map shine the Pitt-Notre Dame game to be played at Pittsburgh and the Dartmouth-Harvard annual at Cambridge. A year ago, the former attraction would have been the season's greatest because, east of the Mississippi at least, the Panthers and Rockne's machine were supposed to be "the best in the country." And they are again great outfits.

While Notre Dame is a decided choice to win, an upset may result if Pitt's front wall finds its full strength tomorrow and Captain Eddie Baker's twisting boots out-distance Rockne's kickers while the Panther laterals click on the offense. Regardless of the game's result, Baker is likely to be Pitt's big star, Saturday. He's sure to be a heavy gun, but Notre Dame would seem to have too much artillery for the Panthers in Mullins, Savoldi, Carideo, Brill & Co.

Just as Rockne's machine looms at Pittsburgh, so does Horween's at Cambridge where, it would seem, only the inspiration of genius or desperation can stave off a defeat for Dartmouth, which will face what experts call "the best Harvard team since the war."

Marvelous Al Masters graduated from Dartmouth last June together with a half dozen other able notables of the 1929 Big Green team. This season "Shep" Wolff is again a backfield star, adept at running the ball, passing and kicking. Whispers have it that Dartmouth has two other brilliants groomed for this Harvard game. They will be needed, and a remarkable defense as well, when Barry Wood, Devens, Mays et al launch some of their celebrated lateral and long distance pass offensives.

Wolff, of course, has several topnotch teammates, notably Bill McCall, a dandy ball carrier who has been handicapped by injuries, and an ingenious quarterback in the veteran Morton. Dartmouth may also spring a dark horse in its speedy sophomore, Eddie Toothaker, a back who can drill his way through a broken field as though he were an army dentist in a hurry. You can't forget that name—Toothaker. "Doc" Horween better get the forceps ready!

Frame and Farmer Meet Sunday at Woodbridge

Daring Drivers to Compete for Speedway Honors in Race Postponed Two Weeks Ago Due to Crash

Automobile racing interest will swerve back to the Woodbridge Board Speedway Sunday afternoon, when the first of two meets, spaced a week apart, will be staged as the climax to the Eastern racing season before the drivers start their annual fall westward trek to compete on the Pacific Coast.

Thrills galore are promised, as events of the last few weeks have tended to fire existing rivalries to a heated pitch. Still other rivalries have cropped up to lend still more promise to the coming races.

The rent in the upper guard rail, opened by Jack Hannan of Norristown, Pa., when his car hit it two weeks ago during the time trials, has been repaired and the track itself is in excellent condition. It will be recalled, that the hole in the rail necessitated calling off of the remaining races at the track two weeks ago.

Only those drivers who were entered to compete at that time will be permitted to show Sunday, as the entries were closed before that meet and must be carried over until the events are staged. For that reason, the time made by the cars in the trials will be credited to them.

A special concession on the part of the drivers entered will permit Frank Farmer, daring Philadelphian, to compete. Farmer was put out of the time trials in the first running, when his car slapped the upper guard rail, plunged down the track and rolled over twice. This mishap put the Philadelphian out of the running.

At a meeting of the drivers, held after the races were halted, Fred Frame, Farmer's biggest rival, took the initiative and proposed that Farmer be permitted another chance to qualify when the events were re-run. The drivers accepted Frame's sporting proposal and unanimously voted Farmer the right to try again.

The mild-mannered Farmer will, incidentally, be the cynosure of all eyes Sunday, for within the past six weeks he has shoved himself away up into the front ranks of the speed kings of the country by dint of his sensational performances, reckless chances and narrow escapes from severe injury or worse—death.

Pitted against Farmer will be his arch rival, Fred Frame. Intense rivalry exists between the pair and, even if they were the only drivers to compete, a torrid battle could be expected. However, there are many other topflight "gas-jockeys" entered. The popular Schurch is one of them. Others who will compete are Bill Winn, Rick Decker, Russel Snowberger and Gordon Condon.

The program will consist of the feature twenty-five mile event, with its usual preliminaries, a ten-mile consolation, three five-mile qualifying heats and the time trials.

RUTGERS EXPECTS EASY CONTEST

New Brunswick Eleven to Face U. of Deleware on Home Field Tomorrow

New Brunswick, Oct. 24.—Fresh from victory over Johns Hopkins by the unexpectedly wide margin of 33 to 0, the Rutgers eleven will face the University of Delaware's football team here tomorrow in what should be an easy triumph for the Scarlet. Employing a revised lineup which found six sophomores answering the opening whistle, Rutgers played its best football of the season against the Blue Jays.

Practically the same group is expected to start against the Delaware aggregation. Jerry Cronin, former star defensive halfback, was highly satisfactory in his initial test at right end and will remain there against the Blue Chicks. Irv Resnick, one of the second year men, will hold down the other wing berth. Nick Prisco, former Leonia High and St. Peter's Prep star, will have one of the halfback assignments and his running mate will probably be Archie Dunlop, another sophomore who played for Irvington High.

With the introduction of the sophomore players and the promotion of Red Waldron, second string back, to the signal calling position, the Scarlet has sacrificed weight for speed in both the forward wall and backfield. The added snap of the Rutgers eleven seems to have more than compensated for the loss of sheer power.

The Delaware game is considered more or less as a tuneup for next week's battle with Holy Cross, the first of a string of four major rivals to be met on consecutive Saturdays. Following the Holy Cross contest, Rutgers will meet Lafayette, Lehigh and New York University.

One of the best matches in the City Bowling League to date was rolled last night at the Y. M. C. A. alleys. The Rahwacks defeated the Mohawks, two games out of three. The first game ended with each team having a total of 861 pins, and an extra frame was required for a roll-off. In the roll-off the Rahwacks came through with a 96 for the frame while the Mohawks had an 88. This frame also came near being a tie but a bad split kept Madden, Mohawk anchor man, from getting a strike or a space, either one would have brough victory to his team.

In the second game the Rahwacks won by a fairly large margin. The final game was taken by the Mohawks 854-770. Dietz of the losers was the high scorer of the evening with a 211. Russo, Madden, Herold also hit above 200.

Wednesday evening the Centrals showed some of their last year's championship form and defeated the Business Men No. 2, two out of three games. Some of the best bowling in the league to date was registered in this match. Hone hit 229, while Bartell hit 201 and 214. Redman, another team-mate, pinned 203.

The Business Men No. 1, however defeated the Robins in the first and third games but lost the second one. In the first game of this match a new high score for team play was reached with a total of 1015. This was made possible because Marty Cassio, Wooster, Durmer and J. Cassio all hit 200, while Smith, the anchor man came through in a flashy finish for a 169.

The Rahway pinners won the first and last games but lost the second. In the first, only 11 points separated the two teams, while in the third game Rahway won by 17 pins. The second game, however, was taken by the visitors with little effort and Rahway could not come within 44 points of them.

Koehler starred for Rahway with a 235 in the third game. Keppler and Cassio also hit above 200. Graef was high scorer for Newark with 214. He also had a 202 in the first game. Several of his team-mates hit above 200.

Newark Pro Eleven To Meet Stapleton

Football fans of this section will find a great game at the Newark Velodrome this Sunday afternoon when the Greater Newark pro eleven clashes with the Stapleton A. C. from Staten Island. These two teams have fought it out twice before this season, Stapleton winning the first game and luckily tieing the second. The third and last game of the season promises to be the most bitterly fought battle staged in pro football ranks this season.

The two teams are very evenly matched. Stapleton having Ken Strong, Doug. Wyckoff, Gerald Snyder, Bob Follet, Sam Stein and a host of other giants. Newark has George Bogue, a new back from Stanford University, who is the white haired boy of the club just now, Frank Kirkleski, the former Lafayette flash, Ken Hauser, one of the best defensive linemen in the National League today, Hersh Martin, the Missouri flash, Nick Borelli, former Muhlenberg speedster, Red Martin of Notre Dame and others in their backfield and such luminaries as Ted Mitchell, Bill Feaster, Sam Careno, Andy Salata, Johnnie Tomaini, Tom Leary, Jim Mooney and Bud Ellor on the line.

The summary of good breeding may be reduced to this rule: Behave to all others as you would they should behave to you.—Fielding.

Rotary Club Receives Letter from Australia

A letter from the president of the Rotary Club of Bendigo, Australia, in which world peace was emphasized, and a talk by Edward Koos, secretary and treasurer of the Direct Saving Company, in which he gave reasons why his firm located in this city, featured the meeting of the Rahway Rotary Club at the meeting Wednesday noon.

The letter from the Australian club was sent in an effort to encourage inter-club correspondence, it explained, and referred to a useful service being rendered by the club in forming and fostering "young farmers' clubs." The writer explained that Bendigo is an inland city 100 miles from the ocean with a population of 35,000 persons.

Emil L. Mosier, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was guest of Robert A. Coan, and Robert Wilson, member of the Westfield Club, was also a guest.

Announcement was made by President Frederick L. Mintel that Charles O'Malley had been appointed to head the Rahway delegation at the inter-city meeting to be held Tuesday night, November 18, at the Alexander Hamilton Hotel, Paterson. Harry J. Nimzik was congratulated on his birthday by the Rev. H. A. L. Sadtler, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and vice-president of the club. Mr. Nimzik celebrated his birthday yesterday. Mr. Coan led the singing, accompanied by Mrs. Earl H. Walter.

WOMAN'S LICENSE REVOKED

Miss Elizabeth McCoy, of 46 Monroe street, this city, was among the 77 persons to have their drivers' licenses revoked yesterday by State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Harold G. Hoffman. The license was revoked, according to Hoffman, for failure to appear in answer to a summons.

Church Groups Work for Good in City

Many Hear New York Dean Talk

A Layman Looks At Religion

By

Arnold Latemar

Religious groups in all denominations in all parts of the world are today looking at some form of Religious Education as a means of curbing what is slightingly called "the recklessness of youth."

If youth today is more careless and reckless, forward with their necking parties and moonshine flasks, it is because we of our generation made them so. We are to blame, not they. It is our responsibility that they be shown the right way; not their obligations to circumnavigate the realm of experience and choose for themselves a path to travel.

It is we of our generation that they see attending church Sunday morning—and playing poker the same night. It is we who are involved in divorce proceedings, and it is from our lips that they hear tales of married men and other men's wives.

We criticize youth, and in so doing judge our own actions. When we were of their age and experience, we acted as they do now; but hid, or tried to hide, those same actions from the world. They can at least be proud that they are not ashamed of what they do.

Cigarettes, "blind pigs" and "moonlight rides," are all in the same category to our youth. But is it they that need the Religious Education, or ourselves?

SPIRITUAL FARMING

BY

The Rev. John W. P. Collier

Pastor of Ebenezer A. M. E. Church

Every person has some knowledge of plant life, and is directly or indirectly concerned in the success that comes to the planters. Many people here among us use every available foot of land in their possession in an effort to grow vegetables or flowers. Each planter expects a yield that is satisfying both in quality and quantity, and that is as it should be. Our Lord taught a very important lesson on farming to a gathering whom he addressed one day by the seaside. He told, in this parable, of the seed that fell by the wayside, and in stony places, and the seed that fell among thorns and also the seed that fell in good ground, with their attending results.

Our Father is now conducting a spiritual farm in you and me. His objective is the redemption of man from the curse of the broken law. God's word has been planted in our lives. Is that word growing in us? Christianity suffers greatly when the planted word fails grow properly. Of the four instances that we have here concerning the seed I believe the Church is hindered most by the seed among thorns. The word sown in a life will always result in salvation provided that it is sown under favorable conditions, and properly nourished. What is going on in our lives? Are we giving a fair chance to the word sown in our lives? Our Savior wanted every man to benefit by his life, death and resurrection and to that end selected a band of the best men of his day, and, while yet bearing the marks of his crucifixion, he told them to go into all the world and make disciples of all nations. The apostles and their successors worked well, and have brought to us the Church with kindred organizations. The Church is directing this spiritual farm. We are the Church. The seed sown among thorns failed because the cares of this world and the deceitfulness of riches and lust of other things entering in choke the word and it becometh unfruitful. These interfering elements are yet with us, and if allowed to remain will produce drought.

Satan and his forces are constantly at work to make useless every effort that is put forth to advance the Master's kingdom. God created man in his own image, but sin robbed him and destroyed that divine image. Jesus came to seek and to save that which was lost. We have the Holy Spirit and present-day disciples working with Jesus on this redemption program. Are we followers of Christ? He said, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me." If we will deny ourselves the deceptive pleasure of remaining away from Church during divine worship, and if we shall accept our cross and bear it without complaining our city will be made better, our Churches will be overrun, regard for law and order will be increased.

We should be glad that we are permitted to be workers with God in restoring to ourselves to the beauty and holiness that man once possessed. We should not stop at our own conversion, but should do all that we can to lead others to Jesus.

Let us commune with God daily, and may his word be sown in the good ground of our hearts, and may we yield fruit, some thirty, some sixty and some one hundred fold.

Hark! the vice of Jesus crying
"Who will go and work today?
Fields are white, and harvest waiting;
Who will bear the sheaves away?"
Loud and strong the Master calleth,
Rich reward he offers thee;
Who will answer, gladly saying,
"Here am I; send me, send me!"

Invents New Devices to Trap Canny Thieves

London.—Walter Hymans is a merry little man, an inventor, and dislikes a thief.

So he decided to do something about it. He invented a device which cries "wow" when a culprit tries to steal a motor car, and he insists the scheme is foolproof.

Then he turned his attention to the "smash and grab" thief who breaks a store window, grabs loot and flees. His latest invention flashes a "police" notice into the street, creates a din and does everything but fingerprint the bandit.

Saving Mothers and Babies Important Red Cross Task

Saving mothers' lives and better babies were important features during the past year of the Public Health Nursing Service of the American Red Cross. About four-fifths of the 794 nurses in the Red Cross work made more than 100,000 prenatal and maternity visits, in addition to assisting doctors in the examination of 1,309,409 school children.

Statistics reveal that the lives of two out of three American women who die in maternity cases could be saved if they received proper medical and nursing care. As more than 15,000 women die in the United States each year from various diseases of the maternal state, this means that more than 10,000 of these deaths are preventable.

Most Traveled Man Is Champion Commuter

Bement, Ill.—James H. Keeler can truthfully boast that he is the "most traveled man in Bement" and yet he hasn't been more than 20 miles from home in all his life. In the 21 years that Keeler has been a station agent here he traveled 250,000 miles, or an equivalent of ten round-the-world trips, in going from his recent home at Sangamon to work here and returning six days a week. Owing to a recent change in train schedules Keeler had to abandon his "traveling" and has taken up his residence here.

Avoid Effusiveness

As its contribution to the nation wide safety campaigns of other organizations, the Red Cross will aid through the emergency stations. ### To Quench Oil Blaze

Never throw water on blazing oil. It will only spread the flames. Earth, flour or sand will extinguish the fire, but if these are not at hand a thick rug or curtain should be thrown on the burning oil.

KIWANIS CLUB HEARS TALK ON BOND ISSUE

Until the last ten or twelve years New Jersey had a "Pay as you go policy" the speaker stated in briefly telling of the financial policy of the State. He pointed out that until the bond issue was launched for the Solders' Bonus following the World War, New Jersey had never raised large revenue through bonds. He stated that since that time the first highway program in 1922 was financed through bonds, followed by the bridge and tunnel bond issue and the last highway issue in 1927.

Mr. Powell told of the great increase in the highway construction in the State due to its "door-mat condition," or through traffic between New York and Philadelphia, Philadelphia and Atlantic City, etc. The Larson Act in 1927 called for the construction of 1,600 miles of highways, but this mileage has been increased to 1,800 miles of which 1,100 have already been built. Traffic in New Jersey has increased 600 percent since the first highway program in 1922, and in order to cope with the request for State aid by county and municipal governments it is necessary for New Jersey to complete its 1927 road program. This will cost $66,000,000.

Besides the highway problem, New Jersey has three other projects which have to be financed, the speaker stated. One is the need for additional buildings for the Department of Institutions and Agencies and for the State Water Commission in securing adequate water sheds to give the State a sufficient water supply. Of the $100,000,000 bond plan, $10,000,000 will be for institutions and $7,000,000 for water supply. The remaining $18,000,000 will be to eliminate grade crossings in the State, the railroads to expend an equal amount on this project.

The speaker strongly urged the Kiwanians to study the bond issue as a means of tax relief as "The $100,000,000 Bond Plan means the elimination of the annual one-half mill tax on local property and refund to municipalities of $5,000,000 of the gas tax for traffic control and street improvement. In all, it is a 12.65 point saving in tax rate," he declared. "It means the entire highway expense will be on the 800,000 automobile users rather than the 400,000 property owners," he continued.

Mr. Powell was introduced by Chalmers Reed, chairman of the program committee. Mr. Reed announced the programs for the next month. Next week P. R. Forman, a member of the club will speak on his recent trip to South America, while a "Pep Day" in connection with the play which the club is sponsoring and which will be held on November 7. Rev. H. A. L. Sadtler, rector of St. Paul's Church, will give an address on his tour through the Holy Land, on November 12, while the speaker at the meeting on November 19 will be Thornton B. Pinfield. His subject will be "Climbing Mount Blanc."

Abe Weitz addressed the club relative to the Boy Scout drive and urged the members to give it their best support in order that Rahway might raise its quota of $1,500.

Dr. David Engelman presided at Wednesday's meeting, with F. J. Gibbons, secretary pro tem.

SEVEN WIVES ARE RIGHT NUMBER IN THESE TRIBES

Mexican Indians, Primitive in Extreme, Pay Little Heed to Faraway Government.

Mexico City.—The Huichole and Cora Indians in the state of Nayarit see no reason why an authority far away which has never done a thing for them, such as the federal government of Mexico, should now tell them what to do, after sending its agents in May to count them.

It seems that some of the census takers discovered that all Indians whom the circumstances favored had more than one wife. Instead of overlooking this, the officious persons reported it, and now the Huicholes and Coras are in water that is likely to get hot.

Though among the most primitive Indians ever found in Mexico, if not in the western hemisphere, the Huicholes and their kin tribe know that the week has seven days. This they have brought into some relation with matrimony, in consequence of which it is considered the proper thing to have seven wives.

On Sundays father and his harem will come down from the sierra and attend church in Jesus Maria, which is the center of their district.

In addition to minding the Catholic priest who functions in Jesus Maria in a church of the same name, the Huicholes and Coras obey even better their tribal priests who also have their seat in the settlement.

In their villages in the mountains these natives do without clothing altogether, but the fashions of Jesus Maria oblige them to affect a little garb when coming to town. Both men and women will wear a hat that looks like last year's crow's nest, with some rather unwashed cotton goods to complete the set. The men usually leave their legs uncovered, trousers having a hampering effect upon motion, they say.

Senor Porfirio Aguirre, an archeologist connected with the National museum, is now fitting out an expedition that is intended to bring to the world the first authentic account of Huichole and Cora life. The two tribes speak a language of their own and know no Spanish.

Vindictive Word

The German word "straff" literally means "to punish." During the World war this was Anglicized into "strafe," and meant to punish or damage as by gunfire.

English Schools Will Use "Talkies" in Class

London.—Lord Gorrell, in the course of an address at the London School of Economics, revealed that a number of English schools will soon, with the approval of the members of the Royal Society of Teachers, introduce "talkies" into the classroom for illustrated lectures.

Lord Gorrell claims that by this method highly accomplished teachers will be able to address classes in hundreds of schools at the same time. The teacher's post will then be similar to that of an operator in a movie house.

Helpful Advice to Girls

By NANCY LEE

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am confronted by a strange problem. Not long ago I had a sickness lasting two months. Before this sickness, during it and for a short time afterward I had an admirable boy friend. But I can realize that he is gradually drifting. And I haven't done anything I shouldn't have to my knowledge.

Not long ago I had a party. He came and during the evening he gave me his frat pin to wear. I wore it for a time. After his actions induced me to think he cared for me no longer I gave it back to him. Did I do wrong?

He does such annoying things, such as talking to other girls and leaving me in a crowd by myself after he has been talking to me. Am I jealous? Do you think his friendship worth while?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: If the young man is tired of the friendship it would be only proper and dignified on your part to take the initiative and cease it. You did perfectly right in returning the frat pin. The young man is evidently not a stickler for etiquette. You are not jealous. You simply demand that your escort should show a minimum of breeding and good manners. If he is devoid of these attributes then he is not worth the friendship of a refined woman.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am a girl in my late teens. I love a boy, three months my senior. This boy cared a great deal for me until a jealous girl friend took him away. Whenever he sees me he says "Hello!" But I want him to talk more than that, for I still love him. Please tell me how I can win him back again.

BLUE EYES.

BLUE EYES: Why wish back a person who is so fickle? And remember it is impossible to "take away" a person who does not wish to be taken and who has decided views on the subject. Rather devote your thoughts to making other friends and keep the banner of pride flying.

DEAR NANCY LEE:

I am going to the same school with a boy whom I like very much, and I think he cares for me. I am leaving soon and I would like to know if it would be proper to ask this boy to write to me? Thanking you sincerely in advance I am,

ANXIOUSLY WAITING.

ANXIOUSLY WAITING: If the boy really does care for you and wishes to cement the friendship then he will surely ask permission to write or see you. If you ask the boy to write to you, he will most likely say "yes" whether he means to do so or not.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Pinky and Clover

Pinky and Clover were rabbits. Clover loved to hear her name.

She loved to be called by it very often, and she liked it best of all when her name was made very real by getting a lot of clover to eat.

Pinky was so named because of his very bright pink eyes. They were really beautiful pink eyes.

Clover had pink eyes, too, but they were not so bright. They were a little bit paler in shade than Pinky's eyes.

Pinky thought they were very fairly named, for, of course, Clover should have the better name of the two, because Clover was Mrs. Rabbit and it was polite and nice to give the lady the nicer name.

Both the rabbits were white without a touch of black. They were very, very fond of each other. They were very tame and fond of children and they were extremely fond of all the nice green things they were given to eat.

Now the children who owned these rabbits didn't know that daddy rabbits were all right when the children were big but when they were small they weren't so nice, and were very apt to kill or eat their children.

The daddies didn't care for the children when they were only little bits of fluff.

They didn't see that they would grow up into nice rabbits later on.

So these two rabbits, Pinky and Clover, were not separated, and Clover, somehow, wasn't as afraid of Pinky as sometimes a mother rabbit is.

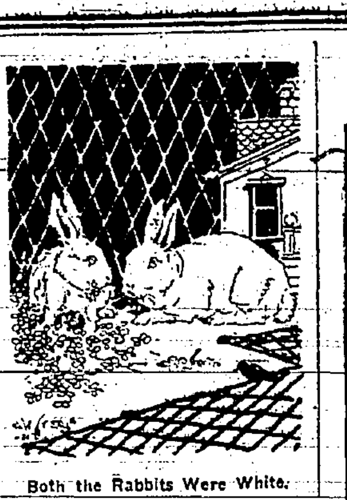
That is, a mother rabbit is never afraid of a daddy rabbit for herself, for she knows he will never hurt her, but she is afraid for her little ones.

So when she knows that the little ones are soon to come she hides away from the daddy rabbit.

Clover wasn't at all nervous. She saw that the children didn't know that they should be separated.

And she somehow thought Pinky would act very nicely about the little ones.

She made a tiny hole in the ground and soon there came seven of the sweetest, most cunning little bits of white fluff you ever did see!



Both the Rabbits Were White.

She had quite a hard time naming so many little babies but at last she named them and these were the names she decided upon.

Her eldest son was named Bun. Her eldest daughter was named Bunny.

Her second son was named Pink after his dad, and the second daughter Cloverine after herself.

The third son was named Spot because of a little black spot which he had on his nose, and the third daughter was named Rabbity, while the fourth son was named Baby Bun.

And do you know that Pinky never touched one of those children so as to hurt them? He didn't kill them, he didn't bite them.

Instead he watched Mother Rabbit taking care of them, he saw her giving them their meals.

He watched her as she taught them the lessons all rabbits must know.

And he saw the children kissed and fondled by their mother, and he felt how much he loved them too.

Oh, yes, Clover and Pinky wiggled their noses, sniffed the delicious air and said what a nice world it was.

History Repeats Itself in the Modern Mode

Says Marie Marot

Pleats and Ruffles Contribute to the Interpretation of Past Periods of Fashion Glory

THE historical value of this era of fashions is everywhere evident. More and more designers are inclined to succumb to the influence of past periods of feminine costuming, and although history is repeating itself in the mode today there is no doubt that a new chapter is being added to style archives. Themes distinctly Grecian, Empire, Renaissance, old-regime Russian and mid-Victorian all receive modern interpretation that is superbly satisfying.

Although this trend is apparent even in our more tailored daytime garments it is marked particularly in the intimate wardrobe where tea gowns and pajama costumes are indeed regal affairs—and in the evening mode. A recent innovation which offers a vivid example of this factor is the sheath-like silhouette which is making its appearance in formal evening gowns. Revealing the shapely contours of the body, the sheath is decidedly slenderizing and often reaches a point below the knees where fulness is introduced in a wide flounce extending to the floor. This silhouette tends to lend height to the stature and attains interest on that score.

Pleats are used extensively and are an excellent device for achieving the gradually flared skirt that is of current importance. They appear in "fan pleats," "umbrella pleats," "godet pleats," or "sunburst pleats" inserted in panels and flounces to graceful effect. Then there is the "fluttery" silhouette which serves to introduce a quality of naivete to the gown of rather sophisticated conception. Here there may be a tight bodice with several tiny ruffles set on in the old-fashioned off-the-shoulder manner and a long skirt which gradually attains width, completely covered with innumerable rows of tiny ruffles. Again wider ruffles may be set on in spiral design on the intrinsically slender foundation, and perhaps a soft ruffle marking the decolletage.

Particularly charming is the gown we are showing here today which remarks simple elegance in white satin and insets embroidered in tiny pearls. And to show you one way in which pleats are used effectively we have sketched this model of pale blue georgette with the peplum and part of the skirt developed completely of pleats.

AND HOW THEY EAT!

A few of 2,000,000 yearly lunches going the way of all food as healthy appetites settle down to business in a typical New Jersey telephone cafeteria.

Two million meals a year, 100 people to buy the food, cook and serve it, and 6,000 women to eat it—that, in brief, is the "eats" story of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company's commissary department, which caters to the appetites of its women employees in telephone buildings throughout the State.

Those two million meals include 561,000 cups of tea, 137,000 bottles of milk, 336,000 sandwiches, 101,000 salads, 477,000 slices of butter, 262,000 pieces of pie, 314,000 pieces of cake, and 374,000 servings of ice cream. Cod liver oil is the only "food" rich in vitamines not included in the menus, and the dietitians say they will serve it gladly if there is a real demand for it. Meals are served to employees at cost and regular inspections are made to see that food and cooking are always up to a high standard, and that service is courteous and prompt.

KNOW YOUR CHILD

WHEN TO PAY A CHILD

Until a child is 14 or 15 years old it is probably best that he should not earn money regularly. He needs first to become familiar with money as a purchasing power, and to develop a sense of values through familiarity with many values. But, since it is only through earning money that he can gain any realization of the effort involved in obtaining it and an understanding of the human cost of the things he uses every day, he should be allowed to earn extra amounts when opportunity offers.

There are a few things which should be kept in mind when paying a child for his services. First, he should not be paid excessively. Overpaying the child gives him a false notion of the amount of effort necessary to meet requirements, and an exaggerated notion of the value of his service.

Second, he should not be paid for anything he does. The child should realize he has certain obligations, as a member of the family group, for which he cannot be paid. Those things may be paid for which occur occasionally, and for which possibly an outsider would have to be paid.

Third, when done for pay, the doing of the job becomes optional. Some parents complain that even though they offer to pay, the child refuses to do the work. This is the privilege of all free laborers. If the thing must be done in any case, then it would be better not to offer to pay for it. If, however, the child undertakes a job for money, he should not be paid unless it is completed. It might be advisable to set a time limit for its completion with an agreement that delay means partial pay; failure to finish, no pay.

Fourth, he should be paid only for those things that have commercial value. Being paid for an act of self-denial, or having a tooth pulled gives the child a wrong conception of financial affairs. The natural reward for being good is not financial remuneration but social approval. The good opinion of family and friends is often, and should be, of more value to a child than money.

GARDEN SCIENCE

WINTER BLOOMING BULBS
By A. C. McLean
N. J. Agr'l Extension Service

The coming of cooler weather should remind gardeners that now is the time to plan for winter bloom in the home. Bulbs are the most satisfactory plants for this purpose, and among them the hyacinths and narcissus are particularly effective. Bulbs of these plants should now be potted and put away in a cool, dark place to root. Thorough rooting is essential to the successful growing of these bulbs in winter.

Do not expose to sunlight and warm temperatures until the pots in which they are being grown are full of roots. The amount of root growth can be determined by looking through the hole in the bottom of the pot or by gently knocking them out of the pot.

If there is no suitable inside storage for these bulbs, bury them outdoors in soil to a depth of one foot a foot's covering of straw or leaves.

These bulbs also can be planted in pebbles in water, or in hyacinth glasses. When planted in water, keep in a cool dark place until the roots practically fill the container.

While hyacinths and narcissus are the most satisfactory house bulbs, tulips may also be grown in accordance with the foregoing directions.

WHAT WELL-DRESSED 'CENTRAL' WORE IN 1886

Bone-ribbed coats, bustles, wrist-length sleeves, and dresses that were really long, and none of your skimpy things up around the knee, were "de rigueur" for women's wear at a telephone switchboard of 1886. This photograph shows the difficulties that those early "hello girls" labored under. In cumbersome clothing and at a switchboard that, while the best of its day, contrasts unfavorably with 1930 ideas and methods in telephone central office operation.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—Purchase of the Martin-Parry Body Corp. Indianapolis plant by the Chevrolet Motor Company, for production of certain types of commercial bodies used by Chevrolet, was announced here today by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

While the plant operated this year on curtailed schedules, the Chevrolet organization expects to put it into immediate full-time operation.

Included in the purchase are forty acres of land, 500,000 square feet of factory space, an additional 150,000 square feet of lumber storage space under roof, railway right-of-way, as well as 21 branches operated in various parts of the country.

J. A. Jamieson, now Comptroller of Chevrolet, will go to Indianapolis as general manager of the new development, to be known as the Chevrolet Commercial Body division of the Chevrolet Motor Company, while the remainder of the personnel in the organization will be taken over intact. Employment at capacity will total 600 men.

Despite the sale of its main production unit, the Martin-Parry Corporation will maintain its identity and continue to operate at York, Pa., and South Kearny, N. J., it was stated.

The plant purchase agreement takes effect October 15, and immediately thereafter Chevrolet will begin active operations, Mr. Knudsen said. The branches will be taken over November 1, and provisions are already being made to extend the number to more than 50 to assure adequate national facilities for exhibiting and distributing the new products of the company.

MANY DEMAND CHRYSLER

Detroit, Mich., October 18.—Demand on the part of the public for prompt delivery of the new line of Chrysler Imperial Eights has been so great since the announcement in July that production schedules have been increased 100 percent over the original estimate.

The demand for the Imperial Eight, finest product to bear the Chrysler name, is in line with reports of improvements in conditions generally throughout the country, officials of the corporation point out. Orders for the Imperial line are coming in from all parts of the country signifying that the shortage is not confined to any one section, they say.

Production lines on the Imperial Eight are working night and day, Sundays and holidays to take care of the increased demand for every model. Despite this increase in manufacturing schedule a sizeable bank of orders will be carried over into November, officials further state.

A Hallowe'en Parade for Rahway

Pleasant memories of the old-time Hallowe'en celebrations in Rahway, with a monster parade featuring the night's festivities, must have been recalled by the more mature residents of the city as they read the letter in Tuesday's RECORD in which a 56-year-old Rahway woman pleaded for a "good old-fashioned Hallowe'en in the good old-fashioned way." She recalled with delight the event fourteen years ago when the volunteer firemen sponsored such a parade and gave gold pieces to the wearers of the funniest, prettiest and most original costumes. She urged the merchants to get together and put on such a parade this year and said that "If they do I'll even dress myself up and parade up Cherry street."

Such a parade will be held in Woodbridge next Friday evening where the Lions Club of that city is making arrangements for the event. They have secured three bands for the procession and scores of organizations have already announced that they will be represented in the spectacular event both by marching units and floats. The affair is creating widespread interest with entries received from women's clubs, fraternal organizations, boys' and girls' societies, fire companies, national groups, as well as the American Legion. The Legion will take a prominent part in the parade and have stated they will have a large turnout together with a band and will supervise the marching arrangements. The Woodbridge police will handle the traffic situation along the line of march.

The Woodbridge parade, besides many marching units and bands, will be made more brilliant by floats and decorated automobiles. The parade will not be devoid of noisemaking as the Lions Club has purchased 1,300 noise devices for distribution among the parade participants who have been urged to bring additional horns, clappers, etc. To add to the general gayety of the evening, merchants and home owners along the line of march will be requested to keep their lights burning during the time of the parade. A special feature will be some singing by the Jersey City police quartet.

In her letter to this newspaper, the Rahway woman pointed out that such a parade here would boost shopping in Rahway. She said: "You can always hear the business people of Rahway saying shop in Rahway and boost it. That's well and good, but why not keep the people in Rahway then and treat them right. Don't let them go to Elizabeth this Hallowe'en and see the fun; let's have it here instead. Why didn't the business men get together and slip in a few cents and get about $25 and give it in prizes to the funniest dressed, prettiest dressed, most original, etc. But give it to them in money and see all the people that turn out, and we'll have an old-fashioned Hallowe'en."

The merchants in Woodbridge have contributed cash and other prizes to the fund for the parade in that city. Just such a celebration could be held in Rahway and would provide the merriment needed for Hallowe'en without the rowdiness which prevails when impromptu gatherings roam about the streets.

With the Y. M. C. A. and many lodges and smaller groups already planning Hallowe'en parties, it is doubtful if a Hallowe'en parade, fitting for this city, can be organized at this late date. However such an event could easily be forthcoming if Rahway had a Chamber of Commerce or some other organized group which was able to quickly mobilize the various forces together in this city for a common cause. Although this year might be out of the question, it is not too early for one of the service clubs, Y. M. C. A., Elks or some other lodge or the merchants themselves to think the matter over and conduct a real old-fashioned Hallowe'en parade in Rahway next October 31.

Thirteen Superstition

Are you superstitious? Do you knock wood? Maybe not. But probably so.

Rare is the human absolutely free from the secret wear of dark and sinister influences.

Take the number thirteen. How many will refuse to sit at a table of thirteen persons? What of the buildings in New York that have no thirteenth floor! And try to find a Room 13 in your favorite hospital!

Nor is royalty exempt from the fear of this magic number.

Only recently did Princess Margaret Rose, daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York escape the "13" peril. She was born August 21. Had her birth been recorded at once her name would have No. 13 on the register.

Did her parents laugh? Not at all. They waited 42 days, until another child had been born in the district, a child who was given the fateful 13, while Princess Margaret Rose was set down as No. 14.

Perhaps it was silly. Why anyone should fear the number 13 any more than the number 15 or 26 we don't know. But they do. And this incident merely proves that the folks in high places are no more immune from that fear than those who live in less enlightened society.

How a Newspaper Is Run

It doesn't take money to run a newspaper; it can be run without money. It is a charitable institution, a begging corcern, a highway robber.

The newspaper is a child of the air, a creature of dream. It can go on and on and on, when any other concern would be in the hands of a receiver and wound up with cobwebs in the window.

It takes gall to run a newspaper.

It takes a scintillation, acrobatic imagination, and half-dozen white shirts and a railroad pass to run a newspaper.

But money—Heaven to Betsy and six hands round—who ever needed money in conducting a newspaper?

Kind words are the medium of exchange that do the business for the editor—kind words and church social tickets. When you see an editor with money watch him. He'll be paying bills and disgracing the profession. Never give money to an editor. Make him trade it out. He likes to swap.

Then when you die after standing around for years and sneered at the editor and his little Jim Crow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three extra copies by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the generous and touching notice about you, forewarn her to neglect to send fifteen cents to the editor.

Money is a corrupting thing. The editor knows it and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank the printers and they can thank their grocers. Take your job printing to a job office and then come and ask for half rates on church notices. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He will take care of all the editors. Don't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the State to act as a doormat for the community. He'll get the paper out somehow, and stand up for you when you run for office, and lie about your daughter's wedding, and blow about your sons when they get a $4 per week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from your grasping body, and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. He'll get along. The Lord alone knows how—but the editor will get there somehow.—Exchange.

One Good Turn Deserves Another

The present week is witnessing a campaign for the raising of funds to push forward the work of the Boy Scout movement throughout Union County. The Rahway units of this mighty army of youngsters are being remembered by citizens and business men who are alive to the value of scouting to the rising generation.

At the State capital the Scouts have under consideration a city-wide campaign to encourage buying in their home city. It is proposed that 1,000 of them endeavor to familiarize local residents with the merits of Trenton stores and foster local purchasing in the interest of local welfare.

Would this not be a timely project to be undertaken in this city in conjunction with the drive being made to raise funds for our local Scouts? It is unnecessary to state that profound knowledge of economics is not needed for one to be aware of the fact that increased patronage given Rahway mercantile establishments would mean increased prosperity for the community at large.

If this idea could be put into effect it would be a beautiful exemplification of one good turn, deserves another. And as the local business men cheerfully contribute to the support of our local scouts, they in turn would feel that their appreciation of that help was practically shown by their interest in the welfare of the city's mercantile establishments.

For instance, the Boy Scouts of this city might well adopt a slogan to the effect that "We prefer a Christmas present bought in Rahway." This undoubtedly would induce many a thoughtless adult to give local business interests a seasonal lift and do something definite to enhance the city's commercial advancement.

Fire In Homes

An authority points out that about ten percent of America's half-billion dollar annual fire loss represents damage done to homes. Approximately $50,000,000 of domestic property is destroyed each year.

Most of this waste can be laid to carelessness, neglect, or false economy in the matter of home construction. Practically all home fires are preventable. Defective flues and electric wiring, lack of fire stops and the like are the causes of a terrible amount of suffering, and a gigantic waste.

The only solution to the problem is knowledge and unceasing vigilance on the part of home owners. Flues should be periodically cleaned; wiring should be inspected and when necessary replaced; attention should be given to heating plants; care should be taken in disposing of waste of all kinds. These are little things that can be accomplished at small expense in either time or money. Yet they may be the means of preventing a great conflagration.

It should be remembered that fire is every citizen's problem. Whether or not our own property is damaged, we pay for every fire in the community, large or small. Fire loss is reflected in business conditions, in employment, in taxes for fire departments, in home building and industrial development. Not to take the steps that prevent fire is to be guilty of criminal neglect.

Question of Degree

"Modernization" of the State blue laws is the announced aim of the New Jersey Lord's Day Alliance. To this end a bill will be presented at the next regular session of the Legislature.

One wonders what the Alliance has in mind. Almost every thinking person favors adapting the laws to modern conditions. But serious difference of opinions might easily arise as to the extent of the adaptation.

If the Lord's Day Alliance merely proposes arbitrarily to permit some activities and ban others, its "modernization" plan will scarcely gain widespread endorsement.

To permit Sunday golf, for instance, and to proscribe Sunday movies would be as unpopular and absurd as it is inconsistent.

Approached from a broad-minded standpoint, with due regard for the normal inclinations of normal men, the problem could be easily solved to the complete satisfaction of everyone.

Were terrible liars.

I phoned to a broker
To buy J. I. Case.
And now I am groaning
All over the place.

I went in a huddle
And bought Chesapeake—
And when I recall it
I grow very weak.

I switched to the coppers
And bought Kennecott;
And now it appears I
Was put on the spot.

"Buy Gen'ral Electric,"
A friend of mine said;
I got it at sixty—
Oh, is my face red?

"The food stocks won't suffer,"
Another guy wrote;
I bought Standard Brands and
Went down with the boat.

"The movies are bargains,"
I heard a man say;
I bought me some Warners
And now I am gray.

"The Chain stores for profits,"
A friend told the wife;
I bought for the pull and
I'll have 'em for life.

"The motors are cheap," so
An expert decreed;
But since I bought mine they
Are cheaper indeed.

"Go pick up some railroads,"
A broker friend cried;
I bought New York Central—
And went for a ride.

"Buy 'Can'; it's a leader,"
I heard in the crash;
I got some, but now it's
Prefixed by an "ash."

Oh, oils, steels and motors!
Oh, foods and the rails!
Oh, rubbers, tobaccos!—
You fill me with wails.

Oh, Atchison, Briggs, Bush!
Oh, Pneumatic Tool!
Oh, Crex, Erie, Grigsby!
I've been such a fool!

Oh, Kresge, Johns-Manville!
Oh, Penick & Ford!
Oh, Radio, Servel!
Oh, Carbide, Oh, Lord!

Editor's Letter Box

Editor Record:

Sir:—A tax on gasoline is a tax on milk and all household supplies because they are now so largely carried by trucks, and the gas tax is added to the cost of them. For that reason a tax on gasoline increases the cost of living for everybody.

If the tax on gasoline is increased by voting next month for the $100,000,000 State Bond issue, it will begin to restrict the use of motors and reduce the building of them. There are tens of thousands of people in New Jersey employed in making motor parts and accessories. Why throw them out of work by increasing the tax on gasoline? Are there not enough people out of work already?

Horses are fed oats to make them go. Motors are fed gasoline to make them go. In the old days of horse-drawn vehicles if anybody had advocated a tax on oats, or a tax on horse shoes because horses used the roads he would have been laughed at. But that is just what is being done in taxing gasoline.

The idea of a gasoline tax to pay for roads has been pushed to the front with much energy by land speculators to avoid paying toward the cost of the roads a part of the increased land value which the roads create.

The gasoline tax is advocated also by some legislators out with spy glasses looking for "new sources of revenue" who give no thought to the harmful effect of such taxes on the cost of living.

Advanced English?

The Board of Education is now in doubt,
As to how the "Advanced English" class will turn out.
I'll explain to them what we'll be doing, in rhyme,
I'll make it short so I won't waste their time.
First, we'll increase our vocabulary,
Each personal list most likely will vary.
We'll read the books that will give us some knowledge,
We'll learn to converse without going to college.
We'll learn the fundamentals of public speaking
And the quickest and best way to practice thinking.
To speak before an audience we'll all have a chance,
The "Board" will soon see we know how to advance.
The parts of speech, punctuation, and such,
Are the things that we know, but that's not saying much.
We'll bring in our problem and we'll find that it's true
That our own personal query may help quite a few.
We'll attend classes regularly for we know it will pay,
Each will co-operate with Mr Holloway,
At the end of the year, when the school term is complete
We'll be more intelligent, more learned, and discreet.
Then when we are successful along life's schedule
The credit will be due to Rahway's Evening Vocational School.
In days to come we won't have to repent
Because our educational hours will be well spent.

CRITICISM OF BOND ISSUE IS ANSWERED

Popular Approval of Plan at November Election Is Indicated.

NEWARK, Oct. 21.—The leading advocates of the proposed $100,000,000 State Bond issue, on which the voters will pass judgment at the November election, have satisfactorily answered every objection that has been urged against the plan. In addition to this, as the full scope of the plan becomes more widely understood, objections to it are being smothered under a wave of popular approval.

A common criticism of the plan is that the total interest on the bond issue for 35 years will be almost as much as the principal sum. Whether that be so or not, no borrowing would be justified in the conduct of ordinary business unless the borrower saw an opportunity to realize a saving in cost by paying cash or by taking advantage of the element of time.

In the case of the bond issue both of these factors predominate and the accumulated interest on the tax saved under the plan over the same period of time is nearly four times the principal of any interest paid out. Certainly, the improvements involved will earn vast dividends for the New Jersey public through decreased operating costs, relief from traffic congestion and hazards, saving of lives at grade crossings, preventing social miseries in the State institutions and safeguarding health through wholesome water supplies.

Opponents of the plan also state that it contains no provision for budgeting the manner in which the bond money shall be spent. They do not stop to explain, however, that $93,000,000 of the proposed issue covers improvements which are already authorized and will have to be paid for out of current funds if the bonding plan does not carry. Further, Chapter 227 of the laws of 1930 provides that the institutions department cannot spend bond monies except when appropriated by the legislature; details of the highway improvements have been explained many times to the legislature, to the Governor, to the Abell Commission and to the public; grade crossings will be financed either from current funds or by the bond issue, at the rate of $2,000,000 a year with the same amount provided by the railroads, thus making budgeting immaterial in this item, and the Water Policy Commission can provide for no expenditures except with the complete check of the State House Commission.

It is also complained that there will be a diversion of gas tax monies to other than highway purposes when, as a matter of fact, no such diversion is contemplated. Real estate owners of New Jersey are now paying a direct tax amounting to $6,500,000 a year for State highway development and support. This is under the one-mill property tax, which cannot be repealed inasmuch as it is the main support for outstanding bonds. But under the proposed plan, $5,000,000 a year will be returned to the municipalities for street paving and traffic control, as a partial offset for the one-mill tax, and the difference of $1,500,000 will be more than sufficient to pay the carrying charges on the water supply and institutional bonds. Real estate owners will have to continue to pay the one-mill tax, but they will get most of it back from monies collected through a one-cent increase in a tax on gasoline which is a condition of the bonding plan.

The item of $5,000,000 refund to municipalities will be based upon the local ratables so that the same ratio of refund to original contribution will prevail throughout the State.

The objection is also heard that gasoline may not be used as a motor fuel during the entire life of the bonds, which would cause the bond burden to fall back upon real estate. Proponents of the plan reply to this by saying that such a contingency is not likely to occur overnight and that no matter what change may come in fuel, any one of a dozen forms of taxation could be devised to raise the necessary revenues from the owners of automobiles.

Various other objections to the plan have been advanced, but most of them are of a trifling nature and deserve no serious attention. Much of the criticism appears to be based upon the assumption that the bond issue proposal is a new money plan when, in fact, it is a plan to refinance a part of the State's revenues and to adjust inequalities in taxation. All but $7,000,000 of the total issue will go to defray the cost of improvements that the people will have to pay for directly in not more than ten years if the plan does not carry.

The plan proposes to lighten the burden of the local taxpayers and to make the users of the roads foot the bill; and it is noteworthy that considerable of the objection to the plan comes from automobile owners who pay no property taxes.

Clocks Stop When This Woman Gets Near Them

London.—A woman whose face or person actually stops clocks is now living in London, persons who know her insist.

Her mere presence in a room, they aver, causes timepieces to cease functioning on the spot. She never has to punch a time-clock when she arrives at work because, her employers say, they can tell the minute she steps into a room. The clock, they insist, stops of itself that very moment.

The possessor of this strange power over the hands of timepieces is a charwoman in a London suburb.

Doctors, commenting on the phenomenon, said that the skin of certain persons often contains chemical properties which may react on various metals and elements and that the charwoman's skin may set up a reaction strong enough to affect the delicate mechanism of a clock or watch.

New Victor Supreme In Tonal Beauty

The new 1931 Victor Five Circuit, Screen-Grid, Micro-Synchronous Radio, is a perfect radio in reproducing tone, even surpassing all the previous high standards of tone reception of Victor Radios, in the opinion of James McCollum at whose furniture store at 129 Irving street the new instruments are now being shown.

"The tone of the new Victor is the duplication of the personal performance," Mr. McCollum said. "The tone is completely free from mechanical 'shadows' and never is distorted. Perfectly natural, the tone in the new Victor brings to the listener music as it actually sounds—music as it should be brought to the listener.

"From the top to the bottom of the musical scale the tone comes in clear and luminous and as smooth and gently flowing as a placid river. Bass notes that not even a Victor instrument could reproduce before are brought to the listener with deep and full sonority. At the other end of the scale a luminous tone pours forth."

Not only in its marvelously perfect tone quality, Mr. McCollum said the new Victor is "the greatest achievement in the modern science of radio." He added that his advance tests of instrument made him feel "the Victor Radio is the new radio of the new broadcasting age, and its performance was thrilling."

BRYANT ST. ORDINANCE REPEALED BY COUNCIL

Report On Robinson Branch

Councilman William H. Armstrong, chairman of the street committee, reported that the work of cleaning and dredging the Robinson Branch of the Rahway River would be completed today and invited Councilmen Ross O. Fowler and A. C. Feakes, the other members of the special committee appointed at the request of Mayor Adolph Ulbrich to clean the stream, to make an official investigation of the work and welcomed any criticism they might have on work. No date was set for this tour.

Work on cleansing the river has been going on for the past month Councilman Armstrong stated, and that instead of placing one temporary dam in the river as he originally reported, said that four such dams have been necessary—in order to raise the depth of the water. He stated that the dams have raised the water 24 inches at the intersection of the branch and main portion of the river near the Wheatena Park, 20 inches back of Riverside Park and 18 inches behind the United Auto Body Company building.

It took the workmen nine days to remove an island 15 feet wide and 30 inches high which was obstructing the stream under the Church street bridge, he reported. He said this cost $45 per day or $405 for this work. As the Board of Freeholders promised to pay the cost of cleaning under all bridges, Councilman Armstrong said he had presented a bill for $406 for the work but that the Freeholders had investigated and only offered to pay the city $50 for the work. He said the city had to remove 300 yards of dirt from under the bridge.

"The dams will eliminate further trouble of dirt blocking up the movement of the river, he further reported, an that they were necessary in order to deepen the water to kill the smell of raw sewage entering the stream. He stated that the water was much clearer now and many commendatory remarks had been received from Fifth Ward residents since the river has been cleared.

Councilman Feakes stated that he had followed the work very carefully but found that the county has not cleaned under the Irving street bridge and that the condition at that point is the same as it was before the dredging began. He also stated that many tin cans had been taken out of the river and thrown on the banks between the Irving street bridge and the Wheatena Park and that children were throwing these back into the stream.

Councilman Armstrong replied that Health Officer Fred M. Williams had placed signs along the river making it a misdemeanor to clog the stream and he believed this would eliminate the trouble. As to the sewage entering the stream, Councilman Armstrong stated that many of the residents on Central avenue down were dumping raw sewage into the Robinson Branch and the citizens should be compelled by the Council to take their sewage out of the river, especially those living on Church street, and put it in the sewers which were built to relieve this condition. The Council did not act on Councilman Armstrong's report pending the completion of the work.

City Bonds Discussed

During the reading and adoption of resolutions authorizing the City Treasurer to draw warrants for the payment of interest on various city bonds, one was introduced for the payment of $570 to the Sinking Fund Commission of the State of New Jersey for interest on the 1929 Rahway Valley Trunk Sewer Bonds held by them. Councilman Feakes asked, "What rate of interest is the city paying on these bonds?" directing his question to Councilman Love who was presenting the resolutions in the absence of Councilman Ross O. Fowler, chairman of the finance committee. Love stated he could not answer the question and referred the question to Councilman Edmund Jennings, a member of the finance committee. Jennings was unable to answer the question and referred Feakes back to Love. The latter called City Treasured Robert C. Lawrence, who stated that the city was receiving 4.5 percent.

Following a recess to make several corrections in the resolutions, Councilman C. G. Saal asked, "Is the money received from the sale of sewer bonds deposited in local banks and are we receiving interest on this money?"

City Treasurer Lawrence then explained that the money was in Rahway banks and was receiving 2.5 percent interest the same as checking accounts, as it was subject to call for payments to the Joint Meeting. He stated that the paper of the City of Rahway was in unusually fine shape and that when the three-quarter of a million bond issue was launched on September 21, 1929, 16 bidders competed for the bonds, including several State bodies and that the city received a $6,000 premium for them. He stated that $383,500 of the bonds were for the Rahway Valley Trunk Sewer, $235,000 for general improvements, and $100,000 for water development. "Most of the city bonds are registered for both principal and interest and the city now has more registered bonds than at any time in its history." Treasurer Lawrence stated in explaining the fine condition of Rahway's municipal bonds.

A report on the employment bureau opened by Overseer of the Poor Floyd E. Mason, showed that applications had been received from 58 men and 18 women and that 9 men and 4 women had been given employment. Twenty-nine of the male applications were for common laborers. In speaking of unemployment in Rahway, Mr. Mason said: "The unemployment in Rahway, judging from the figures presented, is not as great as in some of the other cities, as even in the most prosperous times there are always a number of men who are temporarily out of work." In commenting on Mason's report Councilman Armstrong stated that the Overseer of the Poor deserves a great deal of credit for his effort to "help the under dog."

Two Constables Named

Councilman Charles Schaefer introduced the name of Louis Chaiten for constable for a term of three years, while a similar resolution was presented by Councilman Jennings for John Van Allen. Both resolutions were adopted.

City Engineer C. S. Bush reported on the cost of the sidewalk improvement on Jefferson avenue, from Nicholas place to Elm avenue, and stated that the work cost $177.30. This was accepted and a resolution adopted authorizing the Board of Assessors to levy assessments on the improvement.

CHANGES ARE SEEN IN TRANSPORTATION OF N. J. FARM PRODUCTS

Shipment of Produce is Estimated With Count Of Trucks Taken Recently on Roads Near This City

That modern roads have made a revolutionary change in the transportation of farm produce from South Jersey to the metropolitan markets is indicated by traffic counts announced today by the State Highway Commission, at Trenton.

A huge caravan of trucks was listed daily in runs from the remotest part of the State and this fact is noted to show that the building of a hard-surfaced artery, by permitting a rapid increase in commerce, is of more than local importance.

To obtain the record, checkers were stationed in Rahway on Route 27, near its junction with Route 4, and on Route 25, near the "clover leaf." In fice days, from August 1 to 5, more than 3,500 produce trucks were counted en route to the Newark and New York markets. The largest proportion comprised machines from Atlantic and Cumberland counties, but there was also a good representation from the States of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and even Virginia. All hours of the day and night added to the total. From midnight to 1 o'clock August 5 the total of the produce machines on both roads was 64, or better than one per minute. The heaviest hour was from 8 to 9 o'clock in the evening when Route 27 carried 57 trucks and Route 25, the super-roadway, 88.

Heavy Growth in Traffic

Other classes of traffic were also counted by the State Highway Commission on the August 1 to 5 period at the Rahway stations and the combined volume for Routes 25 and 27 was composed of 255,440 vehicles or a daily average of 51,088. The startling increase was made more apparent when contrasted with July 4, eight years ago, which gave a new high holiday mark. The record for Route 27 in Rahway at that time was 16,117 vehicles.

The summary of traffic on the Lincoln Highway, State Route 27 and the Express Highway, Route 25, at Rahway this year was as follows:

| | Route 27 Vehicles | Route 25 Vehicles |
|---|---|---|
| Friday, Aug. 1 ...... | 25,803 | 16,738 |
| Saturday, Aug. 2 .... | 32,914 | 20,987 |
| Sunday, Aug. 3 .... | 36,168 | 29,091 |
| Monday, Aug. 4 ... | 30,808 | 21,644 |
| Tuesday, Aug. 5 ... | 24,504 | 16,023 |

SPEAKS AT REPUBLICAN RALLY

RED CROSS ACTIVE IN HOME SERVICE

Many Fine Results Shown In Home Service Work By Local Chapter

The unremitting efforts of Mrs. A. D. Brearley as head of the Home Service Department of the Rahway Chapter of the American Red Cross have made that work productive of excellent results. Some of the recent incidents of its work illustrate its diversity and are interesting to the citizens of Rahway who support the Red Cross.

Within the last few weeks the Home Service has assisted two stranded ex-soldiers to get back to their homes. This sort of work is done in co-operation with the American Legion post officers.

A request recently came from a government agency to investigate the conditions under which the child of a dead soldier was living—if its home under a steep-father was what it should be and if the father's compensation money was being used for the child's benefit. Incidentally, it might be said that the home was excellent and the father's insurance was being put in the bank in the child's name—the stepfather was willing and glad to support her.

A veteran has been assisted by the payment of his rent until such time as he can pay back the loan which he hopes and expects to do.

The Home Service has been called upon to investigate a case of an alien whose wife wishes to return to this country but whom the husband refuses to support.

FASHION SHOW TO BE FINE AFFAIR

Local Girls in Antique Dress to Vie With Mannequins in Late Models

Attractive girls wearing the costumes of their grandmothers' girlhood days will appear side by side with professional mannequins garbed in recent importations from Paris at the Fashion Show for the benefit of the Rahway Girl Scouts which is to be held next Wednesday afternoon, November 5, at Roosevelt School.

Miss Margaret Cone, Miss Mary Louise Ackley, Miss Betty Hull and Miss Margaret Martin are the girls who will wear genuinely old gowns of four or five decades ago.

Miss Weiss, style expert from Louis Bamberger & Company who is in charge of the show will present four different groups—sports dresses, street dresses, formal and informal evening gowns. Accompanying the modern sports models will be a girl in a sports frock of the day when croquet was looked upon as a somewhat rough sport for a young lady; with the street dresses will appear an example of a lady's public attire in the time when even her ankles were news, and with the appropriate groups will be teh evening frocks of girls who practiced swooning as a graceful female accomplishment.

In addition to these Miss Mary Louise Ackley will illustrate the male costume of frilled shirt, strapped trousers, tail-coat and high stock in which beaux stepped out a half-century ago.

Major Oltarsh Given $45,800 Jury Verdict

Designer of Rahway Theatre Wins Suit from Bratter & Pollack

A verdict of $45,000.00 was awarded Major David M. Oltarsh, brother-in-law of Bernard Engelman, designer of the Rahway Theatre, by a jury in the United States Supreme Court last week against Bratter & Pollack, former owners of the local playhouse.

During the four day trial the plaintiff testified that in February, 1928, he had a verbal contract and written instructions to plan and build a theatre at Greenwich, Conn., for Bratter & Pollack. He stated that the defendants had engaged him to purchase the land, plan the theatre and obtain the necessary loan from S. W. Strauss & Co. Major Oltarsh testified that after he had obtained the promise of S. W. Strauss & Co. for the loan and had procured the land, Bratter & Pollack went into an agreement with the owners of the land in Greenwich, Conn., themselves and left him out of the picture. As a result of this testimony of Major Oltarsh, the jury returned a verdict of $40,000, plus interest, which totaled $5,800.

Major Oltarsh designed and built the Rahway Theatre several years ago together with Mr. Engelman, and they leased the theatre to Bratter & Pollack. The Radio-Keith-Orpheum circuit recently purchased this lease from Bratter & Pollack.

P. S. Five Cent Fare Effective on Sunday

Changes of Fare Boxes Now Being Made

The task of changing over the fare registers on some 900 Public Service trolley cars and 1,300 buses to receive nickels and dimes when the five cent fare goes into effect, is now under way. Day and night a force of mechanics are working removing the present token and dime mechanism and replacing it with the equipment used before the token plan was put into effect last January.

The fare-box change-over, and consequent return of the five-cent fare, will be speeded up by the temporary use of some 1,400 old style fare boxes which were a familiar sight on Public Service trolley cars some years ago. The old-style boxes, which will take either tokens, nickles or dimes, can be used while the change is under way without the necessity of taking any cars or buses out of service.

Efforts are being made to complete the change-over of boxes so the five-cent fare may become operative on November 2.

NEED OF VOTING IS EXPRESSED BY ASSEMBLY DEAN

Thomas M. Muir Speaks to Large Gathering at Republican Rally; City Planning Advocated

OTHERS GIVE TALKS

Making a strenuous plea to all voters to exercise their franchise next Tuesday, Thomas M. Muir, Plainfield, member of the Assembly from Union County, and recognized as the Dean of that body, spoke of the voters as holding an obligation both to himself and to the community, when he addressed a large gathering of persons at a Republican rally held last night in Central Hall, Waite avenue.

"The unscrupulous office holder flourishes only when the electorate, as a whole is disinterested," the Dean of the Lower House exclaimed while appealing to the party integrity of those gathered at the meeting, which was one of the largest yet assembled here during the present campaign.

In referring to the candidates for election in this city, Assemblyman Muir spoke of experience in both public and private life as one of the most important qualifications of which any man can boast who is running for public office. He spoke of previous experience in city, county and state legislative bodies which has been given by men of this city and referred to the last year in which Assemblyman C. A. Ward, of this city, has obtained experience that will aid him in further work in the Assembly. He also referred to the experience of other men on the Republican ticket here, and spoke of the qualifications of Dwight W. Horrow, Republican candidate for the United States Senate.

William T. Reilley, Plainfield, president of the Queen City Social Association, accompanied Assemblymen Muir and Ward to this city from Linden, where they had addressed a Republican meeting.

One of the most striking statements made by any of the local candidates who talked last night.

G.O.P. Victory is Predicted for City

Opinions of a Republican victory in the coming elections were expressed by candidates and party leaders at the meeting of the Herbert Hoover Republican Club held Friday night in the party headquarters. This was the last regular meeting before election.

One of the forceful talks of the meeting was given by Freeholder Alfred C. Brooks, Republican candidate for election as mayor. Declaring that Republican support had gained in every ward, he expressed the opinion that the entire slate will be swept into office with a clear victory. He spoke of the qualifications of the candidates and reasons why they would be able to fill their respective office to the best advantage of the citizens of the city.

Disadvantages of changing administrations were pointed out by Mayor Adolph Ulbrich and Freeholder S. C. Terrill. Both also outlined some of the accomplishments of the present regime.

Following an opinion expressed by Miss Grace Jackson that city expenditures should be made public at regular intervals, Councilman Ross O. Fowler, candidate for councilman-at-large, explained in detail how a budget is drawn up and how city monies are raised and expended. Charles E. Reed, councilmanic candidate from the Fifth Ward, assured the members that should he be elected he would make every effort to have the expenditures published at regular intervals.

Others who spoke were Assemblyman C. A. Ward, Judge Erwin Ulrich, Union, and Overseer of the Poor Floyd E. Mason. A letter of thanks was received from the family of the late Joseph Jardot, in which thanks were expressed for sympathy sent by the club. Refreshments were served by Mrs. William H. The man was extradited following the filing of a detainer for him while serving a term in the New York jail. Jeffrey, who was one of the prisoners transferred from the State prison to the reformatory, to which he was committed on a charge of carnal abuse, escaped from the reformatory with two other prisoners who overpowered a guard, took his keys, and went out the front door to liberty.

COMMERCIALIZATION OF STUDENTS' TIME IS NOW PROHIBITED

Action Taken at Meeting of Board of Education; Other Legislation

CHANGE PERSONNEL

Action to prohibit commercialization of the time of pupils and teachers in the public schools of this city by outside companies, was one of the important matters of school legislation which came before the Board of Education at a special meeting held last night.

A resolution which prohibits companies from coming into the school and presenting entertainment for commercial benefit of the respective companies, was passed by the board. It was explained today by Guy M. Howard, secretary of the board, that in the past companies have been permitted to come to this city and present various types of entertainment during school hours for which the children were requested to pay a small sum. In addition the companies sometimes requested the board to pay a sum of money, it was pointed out. This action will not prohibit entertainments which, in the opinion of the members of the Board of Education, are educational in nature, such as the concert being presented here today under the auspices of the Concert League.

School Closes One Day

As many teachers in the city expect to attend the state teachers' convention in Atlantic City, Saturday, Sunday and Monday, November 8, 9 and 10, schools of the city will be closed November 10, according to action of the board last night. Teachers of the city who do not attend the convention will be required to use the day in visiting other schools in order to study new methods of teaching. One such day is set aside each year.

Girl Scout Week is Being Observed Here

Local Girls Have Three-Fold Aim For Week's Activities

A three-fold purpose, that of striving to give more service in home and community, to show more friendliness, and to follow the teaching of the Scout Work, is the theme of Girl Scout week now being observed by Girl Scouts over the entire country. It is the aim of the week that girls will come together for both work and play in the "Spirit of Scouting."

The outstanding service being performed by the Girl Scouts this year is that of sewing, the results of which are being given to the Needlework Guild of America. Each troop in this city is striving to complete 22 garments as the year's project.

Friendly spirit is being shown at parties being given by the various troops. Older members of Pine Cone Troop, No. 1, have been hostesses to the younger members. Monday night in headquarters, the senior Troop, Blue Bird, No. 2, combined service and fun by having a supper party followed by sewing and dancing.

This year the girls are having unusual fun by showing the picture, "The Girl Scout Trail," which will be shown at the Rahway Theater Friday and Saturday of this week. Each scout will attend a church service next Sunday in uniform.

PLAN FOR ABATING DEPRESSION IN CITY IS GIVEN IN LETTER

R. A. Coan Expresses Opinion of a Solution for Present Unemployment Situation; Idea Is Explained

"The need of the present unemployment situations is work, not charity," acording to R. A. Coan, 54 Jaques avenue, who has written the Record giving his opinion of a solution. The letter is written, Mr. Coan explains, with the hope that it may aid in lessening the present unemployment situation here.

Mr. Coan's idea is theory, he admits, but he also makes concrete suggestions for a plan that would carry his idea into effect, he believes.

The complete text of Mr. Coan's letter is as follows:

October 27, 1930.

Editor, The Record:

The present and prospective unemployment situation and the approaching winter when thought of together, must cause grave concern to all those who take any interest in the welfare of their fellow-men.

It is true that the situation is not, at present as serious here as in some cities but something ought to be done, it seems to me, before actual suffering occurs.

I would like to propose the following measures for your consideration and that of your readers.

First, that a committee be appointed to consist, let us say, of the Mayor, the President of the Common Council, the city attorney, the city engineer, the overseer of the poor, a banker like Jan van Herwerden, and a business man like Paris R. Forman. Give them all necessary authority to handle the situation.

Second, obtain the funds needed in two ways. First, by a voluntary contribution of a small but definite percentage of salaries of those holding permanent positions. For example, 1% per month of salaries ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 per year; 2% of salaries ranging from $2,000 to $3,000; and 3% of all salaries beyond that amount. In this connection may I suggest that those drawing salaries from the city such as school teachers, policemen and firemen, lead the way. The individual sacrifice
