Town votes GOP across ballot

Bagger bests Pepper in their home ward and Assembly district

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Two-thirds of Westfield's 17,728 registered voters headed to the polls Tuesday and supported Republicans across the board.

Voters in all four districts chose Republican Christie Whitman for governor, bringing her town total to 6,965, nearly 2,000 votes more than Jim Florio. This helped bring her ahead in the county as she secured only about 4,000 votes over the incumbent governor in Union in unofficial results.

This year's 21st District Assembly race featured two of Westfield's own, Republican incumbent Richard Bagger and Democrat challenger Susan Pepper, president of the Westfield School Board. In the second ward, home to both Mr. Bagger and Ms. Pepper, voters chose Mr. Bagger with 1,920 votes over Ms. Pepper's 1,145.

This sentiment was reflected in both the town and district totals, where Mr. Bagger led by nearly 18,000 votes. Mr. Bagger and fellow Republican Alan Augustine both won their second term for Assembly in Westfield and throughout the district wide.

"I am delighted," Mr. Bagger added, "and I look forward to continuing to work on the Appropriations Committee to restore fiscal responsibility in New Jersey."

"Clearly it is a big Republican win in a big Republican town," Ms. Pepper said, "but as a first venture, I feel I did OK."

In other area races, Republican Donald DiFrancesco held tight to his seat on the State Senate by gaining almost double the votes of his opponent, Eli Hoffman.

For the Union County Freeholders, Westfielders chose Republicans Linda DiGiovanni, Linda-Lee Kelly and Harry Pappas. However, the county disagreed on Mr. Pappas and in a close race gave the final seat to Democrat Linda Stender.

Westfield voters showed strong support for recall of elected officials in the lone public question on the ballot. All four wards voted in favor, totalling 5,509 yes votes to 2,077 opposed. Westfielders were in tune with the rest of the state who approved recall by nearly 3 to 1.

In the uncontested local races, Westfield Councilmen each won another two-year term. First Ward Republican Norman Greco garnered 2,141 votes, Second Ward Republican Margaret Sur came in with 1,918 votes, Third Ward Republican Kenneth MacRitchie secured 1,937 votes, and Fourth Ward Democrat James Hely drew 1,687.

Town aims to dog kennel contractor over stray felines

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

The Westfield Board of Health has decided to take action against Garden State Kennels in response to a situation regarding stray cats.

Summit Street resident Myron Gadol made the board aware of a recurring problem with stray cats in his neighborhood. Mr. Gadol and his neighbors have seen families of strays over the years, wandering through their yards or dead in nearby bushes.

"My concern is that this may present a danger to the community, especially with young children," Mr. Gadol said.

'My concern is that this may present a danger to the community, especially with young children'
—Myron Gadol
Resident

Westfield contracts animal control services from Garden State Kennels. However, the contract terms and service responsibilities are not clear. "Unfortunately, this is the one area in our contract that is vague, as far as picking up stray cats," Westfield Health Official Robert Sherr said.

Both Mr. Gadol and Mr. Sherr contacted Garden State Kennels to ask them to come and pick up the cats. Mr. Gadol was told that they would come pick up the cats if he trapped them himself, and he would have to pay $25 for the trap.

Mr. Sherr explained that the town's interpretation of the contract is not the same as Garden State Kennels. About a month ago Town Attorney Charles Brandt sent a letter to Peter H. Pelissier, owner/president of Garden State Kennels. He has yet to hear any response.

In the meantime, the Board of Health is revising the terms of animal control services which is currently up for bid again. Garden State Kennel's contract ends Dec. 31.

But in addition to the money, all board members felt that residents shouldn't have to handle the animals themselves. "It's not something that we encourage," Mr. Sherr said. "It's a safety issue having the general public in contact with animals that may be rabid."

In closer look at the contract with Garden State Kennels, it is not clear whether Garden State professionals are responsible for picking up the strays themselves. At one point the contract requires the "pick up and disposal of all animals trapped by residents at no charge." But later it calls for "random patrol for stray animals throughout the city, when in the town for a call, or when requested by the health officer or police department."

The Board of Health decided that Garden State Kennels is in breach of contract. They agreed to invite Mr. Pelissier to the next Board of Health meeting Dec. 6, and to withhold payment to Garden State Kennels unless they see some changes.

Clark resident Nancy Larrimore also attended the meeting to offer assistance. Ms. Larrimore is a certified animal control specialist in the state and takes in strays herself, providing them with medical and personal care, and placing them for adoption.

Taxpayers reimburse VIPs, but not teachers for confab

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

Many Westfield teachers are heading south for the 104th annual NJEA convention in Atlantic City today and tomorrow, just as school board members headed down for the NJSBA convention last weekend.

Assistant superintendent for business, Robert Rader, said that four out of the nine Westfield school board members attended the NJSBA convention last week. He also said that the NJSBA convention is very similar to the teachers' convention.

"It's a three-day conference with a large vendor area and many workshops," Dr. Rader said. "It's really a very good conference, very educational."

WEA President Michael Seiler said attendance is expected to be high at the teachers' NJEA convention. "The majority of teachers get down there; last year it was very well-attended" he said. "It's there to use as a service. The conference is like a large seminar, a gathering to exchange ideas."

But despite these similarities, the district treats the two conventions differently. Dr. Rader explained that the district pays for "appropriate expenses" for the School Board Association convention. These expenses include lodging, meals, and travel.

In contrast, the district will not pay for any expenses towards the teachers' convention.

"We do not consider the NJEA convention as an instructional conference," Dr. Rader said.

Although the district does not consider the teachers' convention to be professional development, Mr. Seiler attested that the convention does produce a lot of new information for Westfield teachers. But he still does not expect the district to pay for it.

"Anything you buy for the kids comes out of your own pockets, the Board of Education doesn't reimburse" Mr. Seiler said. "Nor should they. They have a budget in place and they supply us well with what we need."

Mr. Seiler said that it is a benefit to have today and tomorrow off to be able to attend, believing it to be the only feasible way to get 140,000 teachers across the state free for two solid days.

But Mr. Seiler believes that even though the convention is very important, the timing for it should be reconsidered. He feels that the Westfield school calendar already gives too much time off in the beginning of the year.

Students have enjoyed this four-day weekend for years, a break in the school year with no responsibilities. And as these are not official school days, teachers too have no responsibilities. They are not required to attend or to spend the days professionally.

Hit and run clues still sought

The Union County Crime Stoppers Program has posted a reward for up to $5,000 for information that will lead to the arrest and indictment of the individual responsible for the fatal hit and run accident that took place on Central Avenue on Oct. 16.

The father of the victim, Steven Kopelchak, is also offering an additional $1,000 to this reward. Anyone with any information should call 654-TIPS.

It's curtains for X-rated video protest demonstration

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

A continuing dispute regarding an adult film room at Video Video enraged one former customer to the point of planning a staged protest.

But now, after weeks of appeals to the store owner, the protest originally slated for Nov. 20 has been canceled.

The separate adult film room in the Westfield video store does not have a door restricting it, and concern has centered on children's ability to see into the room.

"We have laws about X-rated establishments not being close to schools for a reason," Teri Gerson said, "a curtain is not good enough. There's nothing to stop the children from having their first sexual experience from being a demeaning one."

Ms. Gerson, a resident, first appealed to store owner Harold Rosenbaum for a door but was not accommodated. Mr. Rosenbaum simply feels there is no problem.

"I think that the way we handle it is fine," Mr. Rosenbaum said. "We understand that we're in a community that's very sensitive to these issues. I think we handle it in a very prudent manner."

Despite the opinion of several Video Video customers, Mr. Rosenbaum contends that he has always had a curtain which is always down. "There is a full length, 10-foot-tall, curtain there," he said. "I don't know how much more restriction one can have."

As a result of his refusal to put in a door, Ms. Gerson planned a staged protest Nov. 20 in front of the store. Protesters were to cut up their video shop membership cards. The Westfield Board of Realtors and Holy Trinity School have posted information about the video room and some members and staff planned to attend the protest.

But after weeks of appeal and even consideration of a town ordinance, Ms. Gerson decided to cancel her protest. "I've been reconsidering the situation," she said. "I think that the curtain will be all right."

Man, 21, is charged with possession of marijuana

Police log

Westfield police arrested Park Street resident Martin Whelan, 21, for possession of marijuana last Thursday.

Mr. Whelan was a passenger in a vehicle that police pulled over at the intersection of Central Avenue and Park Street for alleged careless driving. When the officer approached the vehicle, he saw a cigarette in the car's ashtray which he suspected to be marijuana, according to the police report.

Mr. Whelan admitted that the cigarette belonged to him, police said. Police searched him and allegedly found two plastic bags with marijuana in them and a pipe.

Mr. Whelan was arrested and charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance, marijuana under 50 grams, and possession of drug paraphernalia. He was later released on his own recognizance.

ASSAULT

A North Plainfield resident reported simple assault Oct. 30 on South Avenue. The victim said that she was walking down the street when she was bumped in the chest and knocked over by another pedestrian. She fell to the ground and hit her head on the curb, according to the police report.

BURGLARY

On Oct. 26, a Mountain Avenue resident reported his house burglarized. Entry was said to be made by breaking the front window with a brick which was found on the front porch. Unknown suspects entered the living room and the upstairs bedroom before leaving through the front door, which was found open and unlocked. The resident reported a stereo system, VCR, and TV missing, valued at $1,056.

World. Mary Todd Lincoln will be portrayed by Mary Campo. Campo has been in productions of Oliver and Music Man.

Guests of members are welcome. The recreation department will host a tea following the meeting.

Fire department plagued with several leaf fires

The Westfield Fire Department was busy this past week responding to local leaf fires. Fire Captain John Duelks said that "at this time of year it's just about expected."

Capt. Duelks said that the fires most commonly start from children playing with matches and adults parking their cars over the leaves that are piled in the street.

He said that people need to be careful because the hot muffler system while cause the leaves to catch fire and subsequently the car can catch fire.

The fire department responded to the following leaf and car fires last week.:

Leaf Fires

Oct. 26- 700 block of Boulevard.

Oct. 26- 200 block of Dudley Avenue.

Oct. 27- 400 block of Lenox Avenue.

Members of the committee planning Veterans Day ceremonies and plaque dedication for World War II dead and veterans from Westfield are Allen Malcolm, Betty Py Davidson, Owen McWilliams and Gurson Berse.,

Veterans Day ceremony will honor World War II dead, vets

Westfield's World War II servicemen — 84 who were killed and 2,400 men and women who served — will be honored at a dedication ceremony 9:30 a.m. Veteran's Day, Thursday, Nov. 11 in the Community Room of the Town Hall on East Broad Street.

The volunteer committee has worked for more than two years planning this tribute.

The ceremony will include a dedication of a large bronze plaque, naming those who were killed and those who served, which has been placed on the front of the town hall to the right of the community room door, formerly the children's library.

Dr. Jack Coopers of Pennington, a retired Navy chaplain who served in the South Pacific for three years during World War II, will give the invocation and benediction. Mr. McWilliams will lead the flag salute.

Mrs. Davidson will describe the history of the project and then introduce William Lowe, president of the WHS Class of 1939; Lewis S. Howarth, 1939 class member and treasurer; and George Brownell and William Meglaughlin, president and vice president of the Westfield Historical Society.

Mr. Lowe will present the plaque to Mayor Garland Boothe Jr., who will accept it for the town of Westfield. All townspeople and veterans' families are invited to the ceremony.

The initial donation for the memorial plaque came from the Westfield High School Class of 1939 from their 50th Reunion. Seven members of the class were killed in World War II. Other donations have come from townspeople, relatives and friends of those servicemen to be honored, and the Westfield Foundation.

The volunteer committee made this announcement to all who responded with contributions to the memorial plaque: "With gratitude to our townspeople, relatives of our servicemen, the Westfield Foundation, and funds from the WHS Class of '39 reunion, we have met our goal for the plaque to honor World War II servicemen. There are still funds for the Westfield Historical Society to use to refurbish the town notebooks compiled by the Veteran's Service Committee of 1945-1947 on more than 2,000 men and women in service during World War II."

Admissions, calendar up for discussion

By NICOLE A. GAVINO
THE RECORD

The Westfield school board will meet Tuesday to discuss a calendar policy and a policy revision concerning the cutoff date for admitting youngsters to kindergarten.

"The calendar policy was developed at the direction of the Board of Education to bring stability and consistency to the school calendar," School Superintendent Mark C. Smith said.

The calendar policy proposal would establish standards, identifying holidays, vacations and the opening and closing of school. Robert Rader, assistant superintendent for business said the development of last year's calendar was too controversial and the board feels that it needs to establish some kind of regularity, so people can know what to expect.

The Board of Education will also discuss the current policy regarding the kindergarten admission cutoff date, which requires that a child must be the age of five before Oct. 1. The policy now has a provision for the evaluation of children who do not meet this requirement.

Dr. Smith said that this provision has been costly in terms of both time and money. He noted that "an insignificant number of children were recommended for early admission based on the evaluation by professional staff members."

The board will discuss eliminating the evaluation provision completely at the special meeting. Both this change and the calendar policy will be on the agenda for discussion purposes only.

In addition, the board will act on the superintendent's recommendation for Salvatore J. DeSimone to become the new principal of Tamaques Elementary School.

The Tuesday meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Administration Building, 302 Elm St. and is open to the public, with time allotted for public questions, comments and suggestions.

Day's end

KERRIE HAGY/THE RECORD

Students are shepherded onto waiting school bus at Tamaques School last week. District policy is to bus only those youngsters living more than two miles from the school to which they are assigned.

Holy Trinity seniors planning dessert, social hour Monday

The Senior Social Club of Holy Trinity will meet for dessert and a social hour 1:30 p.m. Monday in the school cafeteria.

A bus trip to the Christmas program at Radio City Music has been planned for Nov. 30.

The annual Christmas catered lunch will be held Monday, Dec. 13 in the cafeteria.

In January, the club will meet the first Monday, Jan. 3, instead of the second Monday of the month. At that meeting, the group will be entertained by the Harmonica Club of the Union Recreation Center.

If you have not joined the club, come to the November meeting to learn about future activities, or plan to attend the Dec. 13 Christmas luncheon. For reservations, call Rose White at 272-4008 or Rose DiGiralamo at 232-1138.

Commentary

Un-conventional

Last week it was the school board's turn and this week it's the teachers' convention

Public schools across the state are closed two days at the end of this week, because the New Jersey Education Association's annual convention is running in Atlantic City.

Not all district teachers will attend, or feel they have to attend, or that the principal back at school on Monday will demand an accounting of how the two days were spent. In some districts, the official view is that the two days of the NJEA's convention each year are non-days. There is no compensation or particular incentive for teachers to attend, no matter how fetching some of the NJEA programs or convention exhibitors' wares and services might be.

The incentive and compensation picture is quite different, however, for the members of the local school board and some school district administrators who attended last week's annual convention of the N.J. School Boards Association (NJSBA), also in Atlantic City.

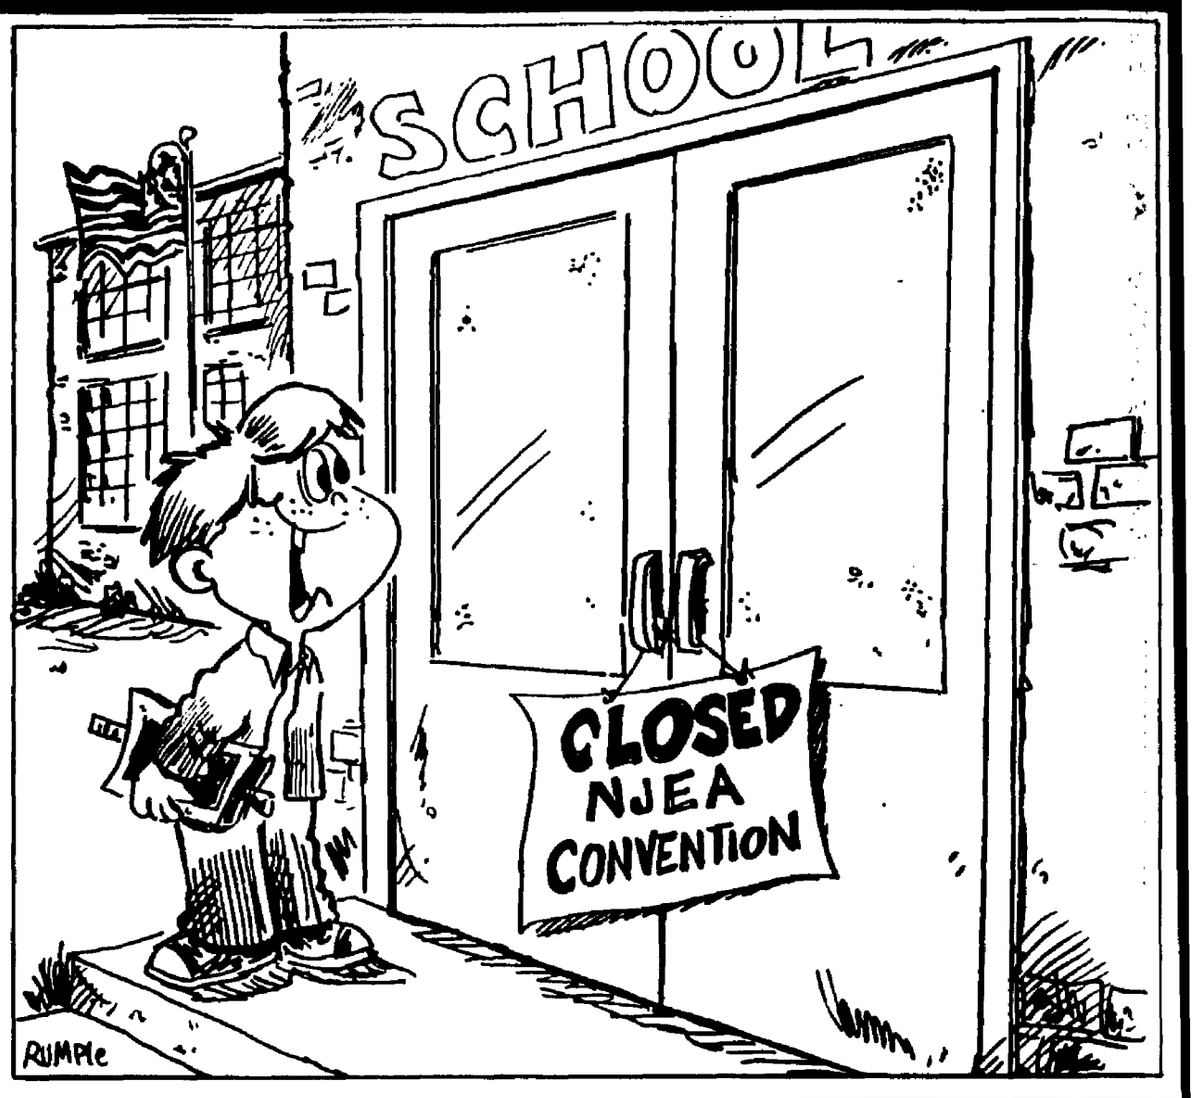
Policies vary district to district, of course, but top spokesmen for both the NJEA and the NJSBA told Forbes Newspapers late last week that, yes, teachers go to their convention without any incentive or compensation, and, yes, most school districts have some sort of budgeted program to compensate and encourage board and administrative personnel to travel to improve their management skills.

No taxpayer wants to cover travel, registration and/or lodging expenses for scores of teachers heading for their yearly convention. Sheer numbers of teachers make such a thought financially repugnant.

But the fact that one side is compensated for traveling to improve itself, while the other isn't carries a connotation of imbalance or bias.

If there is new and useful information to be gleaned at these conventions that will help the teacher and pupil in the classroom, then compensation seems a wise investment of taxpayers' dollars — for teachers and administrators.

A balanced school board policy might require written "great idea for us" reports from those attending as a condition of partial convention reimbursement. The reports would be distributed throughout the schools' rank and file and management. Naturally, the budget would limit expenditure for this aspect of educating the town youth, but at least there would be some compensation for attending and spreading good ideas upon return.



Traveler sees lessons in London that could apply here

By STEPHEN SCHOEMAN, PH.D.
Scotch Plains

I just returned from a wonderful vacation in London, England, and must share with you my experiences and observations in the hope that my letter may lead to a change of attitude here in our community. I do not suggest any truth in the line of George Colman Jr. that "all the streets are paved with gold" in London. There are homeless people sleeping on the sidewalks. There are many unemployed. Perhaps Benjamin Disraeli, the British prime minister, overstated it a bit when he said, "London is a modern Babylon." I leave aside only in this letter political issues which Britain must fully and finally address concerning Northern Ireland and other vitally important problems at home and abroad. Still, I take my hat off to London.

London is spectacular. Other cities may be more populous or older or more historic (and that is going some!) or geographically larger or economically richer but no city is greater than London. The people are extraordinarily friendly and polite, invariably so! Shopkeepers do not hesitate to show you their merchandise and to take a real interest in you and a pride in their work. The Theater District is safe, charming, and intimate. Indeed, by and large the whole city is safe, charming, and intimate. The glorious National Gallery, Tate Museum, National Portrait Gallery and British Museum are free. For all the bustle of business and tourists and traffic there is a quiet about the city. Preservation of history in a modern city is taken seriously. Its great urban spaces work.

London is clean. I saw workers steam cleaning Trafalgar Square early each morning. There is no graffiti anywhere. The London Tubes or subways and the railroad stations and the trains and the buses and the bus stations and the parks and the streets and the public rest facilities are spotless. No dirt! No paper! The ancient buildings are clean of their centuries of grime and are sparkling.

London is safe. I walked past the government buildings of Whitehall and 10 Downing Street where the prime minister lives. I walked around wonderful and almost exotic Big Ben, the magnificent Gothic Houses of Parliament, and thrillingly historic Westminster Abbey. I walked across great Westminster Bridge over the nearly unpolluted Thames River and along the elegant Embankment. I did this at midnight without fear though the streets were deserted. There is also something very reassuring about a London bobby. London bobbies carry no guns. They dress almost as if they were in business suits.

London parks are glorious grand creations. Imagine parks where the grass is cut like the grass of a putting green! Where there are no radios! Where people sit quietly in their Sunday best to listen to a wonderful band concert! And pay 60 pence to rent lawn chairs for four hours! Where green royal park containers which look like mailboxes are marked "Dog Waste!" Where the most glorious and intricate displays of flowers are left undisturbed by the appreciative public! Where the cafeteria in elegant Regents Park is the rival of many a fine restaurant and at considerably lower prices!

London has a refined beauty. Elegant terraces and squares. Majestic Pall Mall. Marble Arch. Regent Street. Buckingham Palace. The Thames. Ancient and modern buildings living comfortably together. A skyline though spiked with new skyscrapers is much the same skyline Sir Christopher Wren knew upon completion of his magnificent St. Paul's Cathedral. And there is hardly a street or a street turning which does not provide something of unexpected interest or some special perspective.

Yes, London does have its Times Square. But Piccadilly Circus is fun and safe. It its bantering and playful. Public transportation is wonderful. It is fast and efficient. The British trains are efficient and fast. You can even hear clearly the train announcements. The trains and stations are all at street level so there is no need for older people or people with heart conditions to risk their lives climbing or descending steps. The subways are quiet. They have escalators and elevators and they work. So going from train to subway is easy. Getting to the airports is simple and cheap because of direct subway service. There are ticket takers at every subway stop to direct traffic and to provide assistance. The two decker red London buses are delightful. There is a ticket taker as well as the bus driver. Victoria Bus Terminal is a joy. It is modern and safe and welcoming.

And London taxis! They are roomy and clean and in good working order. Want to get from any place in London to any other place? No problem. The taxi drivers know every street by heart. They have to because it takes years to prepare for "The Knowledge" which is the licensing examination for London taxi drivers.

London despite an awful and prolonged economic recession is festive. Flags and banners flying. The changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace and at Horse Guards. The elegant fountains in Trafalgar Square. The glorious flower beds. The brightly attired Yeomen of the Guard at the Tower of London.

Most everyone smiles. Most everyone says hello. Most everyone says thank you. Most everyone says excuse me if they happen to bump into you. People seems to take pride in themselves and in their city. They dress not as if they just got out of bed but as if they were on a Sunday outing. No one throws paper. Everything is orderly. People really do queue for the bus. No shoving. No shouting. Patience.

Londoners do not take themselves too seriously. Go to Speaker's Corner in Hyde Park. A more wonderful mixture of seriousness (but not too serious) and frivolity and playfulness. Heckling, if you want to call it that, in its most irreverent yet strangely respectful form. Or go to Covent Garden which was the old flower market of My Fair Lady fame and see and hear and feel all the conviviality. Jugglers. Magicians. Musicians. Opera singers. Folk singers. Friendly crowds just enjoying themselves. Even the names. Who ever called a subway station Elephant and Castle or named a museum for the Empress of India and her husband the Victoria and Albert Museum or named two churches nearby each other St. Bartholomew The Great and St. Bartholomew The Less or called law firm offices temples or squares circuses! Or named pubs Hoop and Grapes, Lamb and Flag, Plume of Feathers, Old Spotted Horse, and Bull and Bush! And The Mall is not a reference to a shopping mall but to the royal processional way, paved red, of course, down which British monarchs travel on their way to their coronation or to the Opening of Parliament.

And the pubs! They are not invitations to tearing the place apart. They are places to eat delicious food, play a game of darts, or just enjoy good company over a favorite brew. There is the magic of English brewed tea served in a teapot on English China. The delicately and pridefully prepared sandwiches. The clotted Cornish cream with fresh sweet English strawberries. Scones and some delightful jam. And the Cornish pasties. And for dinner try English roast beef cooked to perfection, sliced to perfection, and served with a haunting horseradish and that most mysterious of named specialties Yorkshire Pudding which is not a pudding at all but a type of bread. And who says English cooking is not great!

It has been said that "London is a little bit of alright." It is more than just a little bit of alright. It is just right. It restores my confidence in public manners and in civility. Britannia may not rule the waves. It may have lost the greatest empire in world history. Times may be economically difficult. Yet in a very different sense Britannia still has something important to teach us. Greatness does not lie in military power nor in economic might nor in political influence. Greatness for a nation and a people lies in the very things of which London may be most proud.

The United States is one of the greatest and most wonderful countries in the world. We have so very much of which to be extremely proud. We are privileged each and every day to live in this great land of liberty and freedom which gives such deep recognition to the pursuit of happiness which Thomas Jefferson made an inalienable right in the Declaration of Independence. Still, we can learn. Thomas Jefferson, who lived in Paris as the American ambassador, said that when people travel "they gather knowledge which they may apply usefully for their country." Mark Twain in The Innocents Abroad wrote that travel is a broadening experience which "cannot be acquired by vegetating in one little corner of the earth all one's life."

I am not saying -- to paraphrase that old World War I song — "how are you going to keep them down on the farm after they have seen London." I am not trying to tear down our fantastic country. I am saying that we can learn from London just as Londoners can learn from us. We can each take the best which the other has to offer. And London has a lot to offer us on how to live a more patient and civilized and civil life.

Letters to the editor

A thousand thank yous to council

To The Record:

I would like to express thanks to the Westfield Town Council for their allocation of $1,000 to the New Jersey Coalition Against Aircraft Noise (NJCAAN) for activities to reduce air noise in Westfield and over the State of New Jersey.

At the Oct. 20 meeting, I was joined by Patrick Russell, Attorney for NJCAAN, in updating the Council on recent events, a highlight of which is the creation of a new air route design which utilizes waterway and ocean airspace to dramatically reduce air noise over Westfield and other parts of New Jersey. The NJCAAN plan was developed by two retired FAA employees, who, while active with the FAA, bore key projects management and design responsibilities with respect to the current Expanded East Coast Plan (EECP) routes.

With the recent council action, Westfield joins the Federal Government, State of New Jersey, and the Port Authority in helping to fund actions to get revisions to the current poor EECP air route structure. Special thanks are due to Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe and other council members for their extended support and encouragement in these long efforts to solve our aviation noise problem.

Uncoordinated governments a peril

By DAVID F. MOORE
N.J. CONSERVATION FOUNDATION

Imagine a manufacturer trying to build traditional widgits without workers, but 2,000 supervisors who do not communicate. That's how the state we're in has operated in terms of land use.

In recent years, the legislature has proposed many bills attempting to regionalize government in order to increase efficiency and lower the cost of governing.

The latest is a proposal to create a regional land-use review system to protect the environmental health of the Great Swamp National Wildlife Refuge.

We have succeeded in acquiring critical lands and setting them aside as wildlife refuges, parks and the like, but we have done precious little to protect those public assets from environmental insults by their neighbors.

In the case of the Great Swamp of Morris County, almost 8,000 acres is under federal, county or other protective ownership within a 10,000-acre wetland complex.

But the surrounding drainage area that sends it water lacks intergovernmental cooperation to assure future ecological viability of the refuge. Anything deleterious, be it sewage or fallout from automobiles deposited on the slopes of the watershed, eventually washes its way down into the wetland.

As is obvious to most New Jerseyans, our 567 municipalities cannot cope with the need to protect the environment, which crosses such political boundaries. Developers dislike the system, as do those concerned with protecting natural resources. We are not governing by coordinated plan, but by development permit-by-permit in much of the state.

Regional supervision structures to coordinate municipal planning have been adopted here and there, but more are required.

The concept took form in the 60s when the Hackensack Meadowlands Development Commision was established to control planning and land use in parts of 14 towns in Bergen and Hudson counties. While I and many others fear that the agency overemphasizes the development side of the coin, at least it regionally coordinates controls for infrastructure and land use.

To prevent loss of the recreation business and the natural resources of the shore by expected energy development businesses, Coastal Area Facility Review Act was passed in 1973. Later, a measure to protect the watershed of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, the state's longest park, was put into effect.

The Pinelands Protection Act was adopted in 1979 to protect, preserve and enhance the natural resources of over a million acres of southern New Jersey land and water. That law called for creation of a regional development plan to be supervised by a state commission.

The Pinelands law is the most advanced regional land-use control program in the country, and is working quite well. Places that can effectively hold more development are being developed, and environmentally critical areas are not.

In 1986, State Planning Act was passed, recognizing that if we are to survive economically, governments at all levels of authority must speak to each other and agree on a common land-use course. State Planning Commission has adopted a plan which is now being put into action. The plan encourages formation of regional resource management areas, such as the Highlands, the Delaware Bayshore and the Great Swamp Basin.

It is clear to me that special management arrangements must be made to assure the future well-being of the state's economy and special places.

We need to both regionalize and simplify government to do that. A good start has been made; now we have to finish the job. Having thousands of decision-makers all going in different directions makes no sense at all.

Apple bee at museum this Sunday

The Miller-Cory House Museum at 614 Mountain Ave, Westfield, will feature an old-fashioned apple bee on Sunday, November 7, from 2 to 5 p.m.

An apple bee was a time for neighboring farm families to share in the task of harvesting their apple crop and socializing at the same time. Volunteer Thomas Sherry will demonstrate cider making with a hand-worked cider press.

Volunteer Eileen O'Shea will demonstrate theorem painting which is a form of stenciling and used in colonial times for decorating walls. For the children, there will be an apple printing conducted by volunteer Pat D'Angelo. Visitors may also take a tour with costumed docents through the 18th century farmhouse.

Members of the cooking committee will offer visitors a chance to see colonial open-hearth cooking and will also be providing treats to visitors prepared from our apple cook books which will be available for sale in our gift shop.

For further information about the museum and its programs, please call the office at 232-1776.

Overlook CPR course begins Monday night

Overlook Hospital, 99 Beauvoir Ave., Summit, is offering a three-session Basic Cardiac Life Support Course (CPR), open to anyone over the age of 14, 7-10 p.m. Nov. 8, 10 and 12 or Nov. 17, 18 and 22. Participants will learn one- and two-man CPR and obstructed airway techniques for both adults and children. Class size is limited. The fee is $60 for the general public and $40 for members of a rescue squad, police or fire department.

A three-hour CPR course will also be held 7-10 p.m. Nov. 4. This class is open to the public, and anyone over the age of 14 is encouraged to attend this class to learn the life-saving technique of CPR.

Those individuals who attend the course will receive a review booklet and a course completion card. The class is limited to the first 25 registrants. The fee is $20.

In addition to the above classes, Overlook will offer a two-session "Little Heart Saver" (infant and child resuscitation) course. The course is especially helpful for parents, babysitters and child-care professionals and is approved by the American Academy of Pediatrics. The course will be held 7-10 p.m. Nov. 9 and 11. The fee is $30.

All of the above classes are also offered to groups or businesses and can be held at Overlook Hospital or local sites, depending on the needs of the group or business. To register or for more information, call 522-2365.

Sunday appeal

A blood donor drive will be held Sunday 8 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at St. Helen's Church in Westfield. Donors must be 18 or older and take a signed form of identification to the event. Seventeen-year-olds may donate by using a permission form available through North Jersey Blood Center, 1-800-433-6522, ext. 140.

'This is my Body' is layman's sermon theme

Church member Louis Ruprecht of Oldwick, a former Fanwood resident, will preach at the 10:30 a.m. communion service at the First Baptist Church of Westfield, 170 Elm St. His topic will be "This is My Body."

Mr. Ruprecht is one among many members of the congregation who are performing pastoral roles while senior minister Dr. Robert L. Harvey is on a study sabbatical at Harvard Divinity School.

When asked how he felt when invited to teach, Mr. Ruprecht said he felt unworthy. "Notwithstanding the reservations, I still enjoy the opportunity to preach and I'm thankful for the very forgiving congregation at the First Baptist Church of Westfield," he said.

A graduate of Colgate University and Rutgers School of Law, Mr. Ruprecht completed the M.Div. program at New Brunswick Theological Seminary and served as adjunct professor at Seton Hall Law School from 1972. He is currently a trial attorney and senior partner at Ruprecht & Hart in Millburn.

'Composing Life' series opens Tuesday at UCC

"Composing a Life," a series of presentations by individuals who have had unique personal experiences resulting in positive turns in their lives, will open Tuesday, on the Plainfield campus of Union County College.

The series is one of 40 events scheduled throughout the current academic year to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the college's founding.

Prof. James Brophy, who teaches respiratory therapy at UCC, will be the first guest speaker 3 p.m. Nov. 9 in Room 310 in the lecture hall. The public is welcome to attend this free program.

"From Romania with Love" will be the topic of Prof. Brophy's presentation, which will deal with the trials, heartaches, and triumphs he and his wife, Alice, experienced during the 1990-91 adoption of his daughter, Krystyna, amid the post-Ceaucescu politics of Romania.

Reform rabbi will speak at Emanu-El

Rabbi Robert Samuels, one of the leaders of Reform Judaism in Israel, will speak at Temple Emanu-El, 756 E. Broad St., Friday, Nov. 12. The subject will be "After the Handshake, Can Jews and Arabs Live Together as Equals?" The Sabbath Service begins 8:15 p.m. The public is invited.

Rabbi Samuels is the headmaster of the Leo Baeck Education Center in Haifa, Israel. Leo Baeck provides enough educational and extra-curricular programs for Israeli students, kindergarten-grade 12, including hundreds of Russian and Ethiopian immigrants. The center has pioneered in progressive religious services which attract hundreds of families.

Drive Clean

Of all your daily activities, driving a car is probably the single most polluting thing you do. Motor vehicle emissions in many urban areas are the greatest contributor to ground level ozone, a major component of smog. Ground-level ozone causes respiratory problems and can lead to permanent lung damage. It is the most serious air pollution problem in the region.

Motor vehicles also emit a number of air toxics, which can cause serious health problems, including cancer. Car emissions also contribute to acid rain and global warming.

Let's Clear the AIR

You can help clear the air by changing your driving habits.

■ Carpool, vanpool, use public transportation. This not only reduces pollution, but cuts down on fuel expenses, wear and tear on your car and the stress of driving in rush hour traffic.

■ Combine errands into one trip. A substantial amount of pollution is released during the "cold-start" phase, the first few minutes it takes to warm up your car.

■ Avoid drive-up windows, stop-and-go traffic and excessive idling. Idling your engine for longer than a minute is worse for air quality than starting up the car again.

■ Moderate, steady speeds are better for air quality because they save fuel.

■ When possible, bicycle or walk instead of driving.

The savings in terms of air quality add up. One person using mass transit for a year instead of driving to work prevents an average of 9.1 pounds of hydrocarbons, 62.5 pounds of carbon monoxide and 4.9 pounds of nitrogen oxides from being discharged into the air. By ridesharing every day, you can also save up to $3,000 a year on gas, insurance, parking fees and wear and tear on your car.

THE CHRONICLE

They may call this Westfield landmark "The Little Shop On The Corner," but it is far from insignificant.

The "Little Shop," as it is called, was founded in 1881 as the Newark Exchange For Woman's Work. Although it has moved several times, originally it stood on the corner of Central and Lennox, at the juncture of North Avenue. Hence the name, "Little Shop On The Corner." But many do not know that this crafters consignment shop funds the Westfield Day Care Center, where families can send their children based on a sliding scale. The day care facility celebrated its 25th aniversary this year, thanks to help from the little shop.

Camilla Quinn, a member of the Westfield Day Care Center Auxiliary, said the purpose of taking over the little shop back in 1981 was to defray the costs of running the day care facility, and keep the shop supplied with enough volunteers. It more than met this challenge, since today the organization boasts there are 75 volunteers manning the shop, and has become a fund raising arm for the day care service.

From 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and Thursday until 9 p.m., customers can stroll through the shop and see a variety of unique hand made items, including a bounty of infant and children's items. Crafters have supplied the store with a wide selection of hand knitted sweaters for infants, toddlers and pre-schoolers. For those who wish to give an old fashioned gift, a wooden stick horse for $25 is available.

Most unusual in the children's section, is the solid wood Noah's Ark, complete with animals for $45. In addition, there are bibs, a host of dolls and children's books to select from.

If you are searching for the perfect wreath, a visit to the Little Shop is in order. Every size, shape and color line the walls, offering a generous selection, and modest price range.

Bicentennial shop opens soon

Gift, calendars on November preview schedule of events

Westfield's year-long birthday celebration may not begin officially until January, but Mayor Garland C. "Bud" Boothe's Bicentennial Commission has announced some important dates for November.

The commission, which has been meeting since January under the leadership of Linda Maggio, met with the mayor recently and reviewed these upcoming events.

Nov. 17 — Official opening of the Bicentennial Shop, under the direction of Joan Hogan and a committee of volunteers. The shop will offer a variety of items, including note paper and pens, aprons, coasters, glassware, carafes, coffee mugs, sweatshirts, pitchers, key chains and Julian Rockmore prints of "Old Westfield."

These items will be for sale at Periwinkle's Gift Shop, 33 Elm St., and the United Fund Office, 301 North Ave., and several items at Sealfons, 233 E. Broad St. All proceeds from the shop's sale will help defray costs of Bicentennial events (such as a large fireworks display on the Fourth of July). Excess proceeds will be given to the Westfield Historical Society for renovations of the Reeves House on Mountain Avenue when it becomes available as a permanent site for a town museum.

"Right now we have some wonderful posters for sale ($10 rolled up and $20 framed) depicting Westfield landmarks," Mrs. Hogan said.

The posters are available at Periwinkles, the United Fund Office and the Main Street Office on Broad Street.

Nov. 22 — A limited edition of Bicentennial calendars will be published.

"These handsome calendars provide not only important community and Bicentennial events, but they could also become collector's items," said Barbara Lewis and Lucy Banta, who put the calendar together. The 500 calendars are being offered on a first come, first served basis at $8 each.

Nov. 20 — Ticket promotion begins for the Bicentennial's first official event: a grand costume ball Jan. 22 in Temple Emanu-El. Eva Wiley and Bebbins Yudes, who head the ball committee, will accompany Sam McCaulley, Westfield's official "town crier" on a poster-posting trip through town. The poster will advertise the sale of 1,000 grand ball tickets, to be offered on a first-come, first-served basis beginning Dec. 1 at Periwinkle's Golden Egg Shop, Rorden and United Fund Office.

"We look for a large turnout of citizens for our Bicentennial events," Mayor Boothe said. "Volunteers on the Bicentennial Commission are planning a number of exciting events and opportunities for citizen involvement, ranging from purchasing posters and other memorabilia to attending functions planned for 1994."

For more information about the Bicentennial, or to volunteer to help with the celebration, call Mrs. Maggio at 233-2113.

Linda Maggio, chairperson of the town's bicentennial commission, plaque donor Warren Victor and Mayor Garland "Bud" Booth pose at dedication of plaque honoring the Lenni Lenape, and the start of Westfield's upcoming bicentennial year.

Plaque salutes Lenni Lenapes

Warren Victor donates symbol for Tamaques Park site

In commemoration of the Lenni Lenape Indian tribe, who once inhabited Tamaques Park, and Westfield's upcoming bicentennial, lifelong Westfield resident Warren H. Victor has dedicated a plaque.

At the dedication recently were Mayor Garland "Bud" Boothe; Linda Maggio, chairperson of the Westfield Bicentennial Commission; Warren Victor; and guests. The plaque, erected on a specially selected small boulder and surrounded by a ring of flowers, is located between the lake and entrance bridge to the picnic area of Tamaques Park.

"I gratefully remember the multitude of wonderful events this beautiful park continually makes possible," Mr. Victor said. "There is always a special thrill to walk the trails and know that the proud Lenni Lenape lived here."

Mayor Booth said, "This plaque is typical of the dedicatory nature taken by Westfield residents who are very proud of their town and its activities. The gift that Mr. Victor has so generously given us recognizes and fits in with our bicentennial celebration."

Linda Maggio said the bicentennial commission was delighted with Mr. Victor's efforts.

"We are proud to announce this event as the 'kick-off' for our town's bicentennial celebration," she said.

For more information, call 233-2113.

Library sets registration dates for pre-school programs

The Westfield Memorial Library has announced November registration dates for Preschool Story Time and Magic Carpet Story Time.

Story Time for 3-year-olds begins Nov. 8. The sessions will meet 10:30-11 a.m. Thursdays, Nov. 18-Dec. 16 (except Nov. 25) or 1:30-2 p.m. Mondays, Nov. 15-Dec. 13.

A Ladies Night Out at the Movies will be held Thursday, Nov. 18. The ladies will meet and decide on a move that evening. After the movie, they will stop for coffee and dessert in Westfield. Call Kathy McDermott for more information.

A game night for couples will be held 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20 at the home of Grace Smith, 416 N. Chestnut St. There is no charge for the event, but those attending must RSVP no later than Nov. 15. Call Laurie at 233-9705.

The purpose of the Newcomers Club is to welcome those new to the area and help them meet with other newcomers. For more information, write to the Newcomers Club of Westfield, P.O. Box 612, Westfield, NJ 07090, or call Casey at 654-4837.

Axelrod will discuss spies of Civil War

Alan Axelrod, author and historian, will be the guest speaker 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 14 in the Program Room of the Westfield Memorial Library. His topic will be "Abe Lincoln's Reluctant Agent and Jeff Davis' Rebel Rose: The First Two Spies of the Civil War." The program is sponsored by the Friends of the Library and sets the stage for the town's bicentennial year. Admission is free.

Dr. Axelrod's colorful presentation of Civil War espionage will focus on two personalities covered in his 1992 book, The War Between the Spies: A History of Espionage During the American Civil War. In a review of this book, the Library Journal noted that "Axelrod's writing is clear and skillful and the stories are fascinating."

Dr. Axelrod is also the author of Art of the Golden West, which received Booklist Editors' Choice for 1990 and the National Cowboy Hall of Fame's Western Heritage Award.

His Songs of the Wild West, published by the Metropolitan Museum of Art in 1991, is in the children's collection of the local library. Recently published, A Chronicle of the Indian Wars: From Colonial Times to Wounded Knees, highlights significant people and events in native-white relations.

The editor and/or coauthor of several other history books, Dr. Axelrod also has served as script and historical consultant to Warner Brothers for "The Wild West," a television documentary series. His articles appear in journals and reference sources.

Dr. Axelrod is vice president of Zenda Inc., a book-packaging and video production firm that is also involved in research and exhibit development for cultural Institutions. A graduate of Northeastern Illinois University, he received his Ph.D. in American literature and culture from the University of Iowa. For several years, Axelrod served as associate editor with the Henry Francis dupont Winterthur Museum in New Castle County, Dela. He is now living in Westfield with his wife, Anita, and their son, Ian, 6.

The Friends of the Library invites community residents community to share in this event. Dr. Axelrod's books will be on display and at least one of his latest books, The War Between the Spies, will be available for purchase.

Harboring fear of becoming crime victim makes me a victim

By CHERYL HEHL
THE CHRONICLE

Shenanigans
By Cheryl Hehl

There was a time when I didn't look over my shoulder when I walked to my car, or wonder if a noise I heard in the middle of the night was a window opening. I do now.

Rape, murder, carjackings and robbery are a part of the newspaper business. And while the average person may cringe reading about a murder, reporters don't. The apprehension I feel about crime has nothing to do with my career. It has to do with fear. A fear that never was there before, but is now. And it is taking more victims these days than crime itself.

Thank God for our local police; they do their very best to keep our streets safe. If I could, I'd thank each and every one for putting their lives on the line for the rest of us. Still, the police can't be everywhere. They can't be on every street, every minute of every day. Somehow, though, the criminals can. And whether I become a victim of crime or not, the fear that I could is always there.

Last week that fear I keep buried somewhere in my gut was wrenched from its hiding place by several incidents that happened in the town in which I live; a town that is a hop, skip and a jump from yours. It could even be your town where a woman was "bound and stabbed repeatedly," until she died. Another was raped, and still another almost a victim of a carjacking, had she not known how to drive like a demolition derby expert.

Perhaps it was these and other incidents in the tri-state area that made me more apprehensive than normal. But when I turned the corner onto my street last week and saw two police cars in front of my house, fright welled up in my throat and my heart began to pound.

Things like robbery, a shooting, or something much worse raced though my mind. In the 60 seconds or so it took me to get to the front of my house, the happiest four years of my life seemingly flashed before my eyes. My beloved and I courting, the first fish he helped me land, the day he dragged that huge Christmas tree to my apartment, the day we married and the last two years that taught me love truly is a many splendored thing.

Heart pounding, I rolled down the window and stammered to one of the serious looking officers, "This is my house." It was really more of a question than a statement. A plea that asked if everything was all right and if life was going to continue as it had for another minute, hour or day.

The officer stared at me for what seemed like forever before he told me "Not to worry," that everything was "under control." But it didn't seem normal to have two police cars with flashing lights in front of my house, or a strange man spread eagled against a car getting frisked. It didn't seem that everything was "under control" at all.

I pulled my car in the driveway, turned the engine off and began to cry. Great gulping sobs that would not stop. My neighbor tried to console me, as did my husband, but it was no use. All the fear, anxiety, and the emotions I had been keeping beneath the surface the last few months erupted. What was happening to our world? Were things so bad that crime was creeping onto my street, the one where beautiful huge trees turning orange and gold formed a canopy over the roadway and recyclables were put out at the curb every Friday morning? Where kids played, mothers walked babies and people barbecued?

Even after I found out that the perpetrator had tried to push his way into my neighbor's house and not mine, and that the police had arrived in less than two minutes, I still was upset. Because I know that no matter how hard our police departments work, criminals are just as dedicated, only more so. And there are more of them. And even though they may never rob my house, or kill me or anyone in my family, just the fact that they are out there is enough for me. And that, my friends, makes me a victim. How about you?

Robin Lepore, James White wed in Providence ceremony

ROBIN WHITE

Robin Michelle Lepore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony Lepore of Westfield, was married Oct. 2, 1993 to James Douglas White, son of Mrs. Ora White of Portsmouth, Ohio, and the late Dr. Samuel Ray White.

The ceremony was held at the First Union Presbyterian Church in Providence, R.I., with the Rev. Thomas Ahlburn officiating.

The bride wore a wedding gown bought by her grandfather in 1936 in New York for her grandmother. It was a form-fitting antique white satin gown with intricate beaded leaves and a five-petal flower in white and taupe beads at the collar. The wired empress collar stood above the beading and the cathedral train had a satin ruffle border.

A 1930s headpiece was found in a vintage boutique in Atlanta. The tiara had small beading in white and dark taupe with a five-petal flower at the top to correspond with the neckline. A circular veil, trimmed in antique white ribbon was attached to the top of the flower to create an Egyptian effect when the blusher was down. A cathedral-length veil was worn for the ceremony.

The bride wore silk-button strapped shoes embroidered with taupe flowers on the front of the shoes and carried a satin muff with hand-rolled silk flowers on the front and cascading ribbons. The muff, restoration of the gown and veils were by Cornelia Powell in Atlanta, Ga.

The bride pledged her vows wearing her great-grandmother's platinum wedding band, which complimented her emerald-cut 3.2 carat diamond in a Tiffany platinum setting.

Ronda Babich was matron of honor. She wore an antique gold silk organza tea-length gown with shawl collar and sheer quarter-length sleeves.

Robert Bleiberg was best man. Ushers were Greg Lepore, Max White and Joel Bass.

A reception was held at the Omni Biltmore Hotel in Providence.

The photography and videography were by Gaspar Photography. John Gaspar took baby pictures of the bride 30 years ago and her formal wedding portrait, taken in advance, was displayed at the reception.

The reception began with a cocktail hour, open bar, hors d'oeuvres and a caviar table. A pianist played during the cocktail hour, followed by the Moonlighters, a 15-piece orchestra, during the reception.

White-gloved waiters served the guests. The color motif included black chair covers with white ties, white table cloths and black napkins. Printed menus were at each place setting. Favors for the guests were one-ounce silver bars engraved with the couple's names, and on each table was a white satin pouch containing a disposable camera for guests to take pictures which will be developed by the bride and groom and sent to guests with thank-you notes.

The 5-foot-4-inch centerpieces were created by the bride and floral designer Gale Potter of the Flower Shed. They feature the couple's favorite exotic flower, bird of paradise.

The cake was designed by the bride and culinary creator Lynn Casey of Cranston, R.I. The cake was glazed in antique white frosting with individual candied leaves veined in gold surrounding the top and bottom tiers. The top of the cake was an open box with candied calla lilies whose centers were dusted with gold for the bride to keep. The dessert, flown in from California, was a white chocolate calla lily filled with mousse and each plate was garnished with two candied leaves from the cake. The middle tiers and antique white shimmer tulle surrounding the cake were graced with sparingly placed candied leaves and small calla lilies.

The bride is a graduate of Florida State University and Woodrow Wilson College of Law. She is employed at the Keenan Ashman Firm in Atlanta, Ga.

The bridegroom graduated from the University of West Virginia of West Virginia and John Marshall Law School. He is in private practice.

The couple are visiting Venice, Portofino, the Amalfi Coast and Capri in Italy for two weeks.

They will live in Marietta, Ga.

TRACEY and DONALD DRYDEN

Tracey Simons, Don Dryden marry in Lake Forest ritual

Tracey Ann Simons, daughter of Mrs. Dante Bonardi of Westfield and Mr. Kent Simons of New York City, was married June 12, 1993 to Donald Thayer Dryden, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Ruth Dryden.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Robertson at the Deer Path Inn in Lake Forest, Ill.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a Laura Ashley cotton sateen white print gown, and a garland of pink roses and white lace in her hair. She carried a bouquet of roses, statice, sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Kim Simons of Glen Ridge and Amy Simons of Tacoma, Wash. The bridegroom's niece, Meghan Grunewald, served as flower girl.

The bridegroom was attended by his brothers, John Lee Dryden of Adelaide, Australia, and Mark Dryden of Columbus, Ohio. The bride's brothers, Kevin Simons of Morristown and David Simons of Kansas City, Mo., served as ushers.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Westfield High School. She holds a bachelor's degree from Beloit College as well as a master's degree in arts and a master's degree in education from the University of Illinois. She is currently teaching in Michigan.

Her father is president of the Guardian Mutual Fund in New York City and her mother is a director for the Prudential Insurance Company in Newark.

The bridegroom holds a bachelor's degree from Oberlin College and master's degrees from the University of Illinois and the University of Chicago. He is a research assistant at Michigan State University where he is currently earning his doctorate.

The couple took a wedding trip to Canada. They are living in Grand Ledge, Mich.

Ms. Guglielmi plans May '94 marriage

Patricia Marie Guglielmi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Guglielmi of Westfield, has become engaged to Richard Stephen Agosto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Agosto of West Orange.

The future bride graduated from Westfield High School and is employed by Tarnow International in Springfield.

Her fiance graduated from Columbia High School in Maplewood and attended Lincoln Tech, Public Service Electric & Gas Training School. He is employed by PSE&G in Jersey City.

A May 1994 wedding is planned.

JEAN and JEFFREY FOX

Jean Harris, Jeffrey A. Fox wed in outdoor Scanticon rite

Jean Elisabeth Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Harris of Westfield, was married May 30, 1993, to Jeffrey Adam Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fox of Norwood, Mass.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents during an outdoor ceremony officiated by the Rev. Richard Plant and Rabbi Alfred Landsberg at the Scanticon-Princeton Hotel.

She wore a gown of silk shantung with an open neck, short puffed sleeves, fitted bodice and chapel train. Her gown was appliqued with lace, sequins and seed pearls and she wore a fingertip illusion veil with a headpiece of lace flowers with sequins and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and pink lilies.

Gayle Strommen of Richmond, Va., was the matron of honor. She wore a tea-length pink cotton damask dress with open neckline short sleeves and fitted bodice and carried a mixed bouquet.

Attired the same as the matron of honor were bridesmaids Linda Borghesani of Acton, Mass., and Dana Mischel of Los Angeles, Calif.

Best men were James Clark of Sommerville, Mass., and Richard Sullivan of Norwood, Mass. Ushers were the bridegroom's brothers, Evan Fox of Newton, Mass., and Jonathan Fox of Norwood, Mass., and the bride's brother, Richard Harris of Westfield.

The bridegroom's brother, Jonathan Fox, played a marimba solo.

A reception at the hotel followed the ceremony.

The bride graduated from Westfield High School in 1984 and from Tufts University in 1988 with a bachelor's degree in human factors engineering. She earned her master's degree in industrial and systems engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute in 1992 and is currently enrolled in a doctoral program at George Mason University in Fairfax, Va.

The bridegroom graduated from Norwood High School in 1983 and earned his bachelor's degree in industrial engineering in 1987 from the University of Massachusetts. He received his master's degree in industrial and systems engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and works at Pacific Northwest Laboratories in Washington D.C.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Cranbury Inn in Cranbury.

The couple took a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands. They are living in Falls Church, Va.

Better Days

WHY DOES INTIMACY FEEL SO DANGEROUS

All people have experienced the upset of interpersonal rejection from loved ones. Hopefully, those moments are few and far between and are balanced with prolonged periods of nurturing love and acceptance.

Too often, though, people grow up in environments where getting close to others feels dangerous. Whether from physical, verbal and/or emotional abuse, or from being raised in a family where others are also fearful of intimacy, many people enter adulthood with a deep-seated sense that closeness is full of pain.

People who grow up in families with intimacy problems tend to continue to associate with others who have similar problems thus tending to perpetuate a dysfunctional interpersonal style for generations.

Finding a cure may mean revisiting some old childhood pains and losses and finding greater acceptance and expression of the emotions connected with past relationships. Only by being willing to risk again, can an individual truly enjoy increased intimacy with loved ones.

Presented as a community service by Barbara T. Fishbein, ACSW, BCD Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist.

SIDELINES

PAL girls hoops

Tryouts for the Westfield Police Athletic League's girls' basketball team will be held Monday and again Thursday, Nov. 11, from 5-7 p.m. at the Roosevelt Intermediate School gym. The team is designed for intermediate-advanced players wishing to compete in a Tri-County League. For further information call Jim McKeon at 789-3381.

Lacrosse clinic

The Westfield Recreation Commission has sponsored a free lacrosse clinic for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys. The clinic will run from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. for the next three Saturdays (Nov. 6, 13 and 20) at the Edison Intermediate School field. The rain date is Sunday. For further information call either the Recreation Department at 789-4080 or Ed Joffe at 232-8705 (after 7 p.m.).

Card show

New Jersey's premier monthy stamp, coin and baseball card show, now in its 20th year, will be held Sunday at the Howard Johnson Motor Inn on 70 Central Ave. in Clark. The show will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. Admission and parking is free. For more information, call 247-1093.

Super Bowl raffle

The Westfield Booster Club is giving sports fans the opportunity to attend Super Bowl XXVIII while supporting athletics at the high school. A raffle is being conducted to benefit its scholarship fund and help pay for athletic projects at WHS. Each ticket is $10 and the grand prize includes two tickets two Super Bowl XXVIII, a round trip airplane ticket to Atlanta, Ga., hotel accommodations, car rental and limousine service to and from Newark Airport. In order to buy tickets, contact either Jerry Infantino (654-3120) or Mel Coren (654-5848).

The Hot Spot

Located on the corner of Clarkson Ave. and Garden St. in Elizabeth, Williams Field will get plenty of use from Westfield teams this weekend. First, the football team visits the mighty Minutemen Friday at 7 p.m. Then in what has become somewhat of a tradition, the Union County boys' and girls' soccer championships will take place at the same site Saturday. The Lady Devils square off against Union Catholic at 5:30 p.m. and the boys' team will face Scotch Plains-Fanwood a half hour after the conclusion of the girls' match.

Gridiron wash out

Despite comparable statistics, Summit reigns over Westfield, 35-12, on Gary Kehler Day

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Saturday's renewal of the Summit-Westfield football rivalry supplied more credibility to the argument that statistics are essentially meaningless.

Without knowing the final score it would be difficult to pick a winner when examining the final numbers. However, Summit held a considerable advantage where it counted most — on the scoreboard.

The visiting Hilltoppers (6-0) kept their season-long winning streak intact at the expense of the Blue Devils (2-3-1), winning a 35-12 verdict in the midst of a chilly, wind-swept rain on Gary Kehler Stadium Dedication Day.

ROBERT YOUNG/THE RECORD
Alvin Moore replaced tailback Erwyn Lyght when he sustained a sprained ankle Saturday against Summit.

Summit's sophisticated single-wing offense wore down Westfield's undersized defense and played opportunistic football by scoring a pair of touchdowns off Blue Devil turnovers.

Utilizing the speed and elusiveness of tailback Torrie Fogg, the straight-ahead power of fullback Ian Paxson and the multi-dimensional talents of quarterback Jamie Allen, Summit scored on four of its first five possessions to force Westfield into a come-from-behind posture.

The Hilltoppers kept the Westfield defense guessing by combining inside and outside rushing plays with an effective intermediate-range passing game. Summit's single-wing offense created plenty of confusion by disguising the ball carrier.

"Their offense is unique and presents problems at the point of attack," said defensive coordinator Ron Barner. "But, that wasn't the problem. They controlled the line of scrimmage. We didn't get off of our blocks well and our inability to tackle well and consistently hurt us."

"The game comes down to blocking and tackling," said head coach Ed Tranchina. "They did it and we didn't."

Summit received the opening kickoff and traveled 56 yards in four plays. Allen's 25-yard pass to wide open split end Randal Welsh opened the scoring just 1:37 into the game.

Following a fumble on its subsequent possession, the Hilltoppers pieced together an 11-play, 73-yard scoring march by deftly mixing the tailback counter and the fullback dive. Allen's 1-yard touchdown run around the right side capped the drive.

"Their counter ate up a lot of yardage," said defensive end Ron Nobile, a senior tri-captain. "Our two tackles weren't getting as much penetration as we'd like. That shielded the linebackers and they couldn't find a clean hole to fill. By the time they got to the ball their backs already had a 10-yard cushion."

For a while, the Blue Devils' offense matched their adversaries score for score. The hosts started the game exactly as they did the week before, shredding the defense on eight consecutive running plays and scoring six points the first time they touched the ball.

Tailback Erwyn Lyght gained all but four of the 62 yards on the drive and took it over from the 1-yard line midway through the first quarter to cut the deficit to 7-6.

Lyght exploded off right tackle for a 49-yard gain late in the first quarter to ignite another Westfield scoring march, which ended with a 9-yard pass reception by tight end Mike Mitchell, who hauled in Stephen Cheek's screen pass over the middle.

Unfortunately, Lyght's breathtaking dash would be his last of the day. At the end of the run the Westfield assured itself of a rematch against rival Scotch Plains-Fanwood Monday when it dominated Governor Livingston 4-1 at Tamaques Park in the semifinals of the Union County Tournament.

The Blue Devils (12-2-2), who outshot the Highlanders 18-5, controlled the midfield as Jim Corcoran, Mike Wheeler, Keith Zadourian and Dave Villalobos dominated play.

Corcoran scored two goals, one at 22:46 of the first half on a header of Chris Partelow's throw-in. Fourteen minutes after halftime the senior faked out a defender one-on-one, then beat the GL keeper before walking the ball into an empty net. Jim Pipher ended the scoring with an unassisted marker and assisted on Villalobos' first half goal.

While everyone surrounding the Blue Devils is keying in on Saturday's showdown against the Raiders, head coach George Kapner will do everything in his power to keep his team from thinking about the game until the conclusion of this afternoon's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 first round match.

"I told them they have to focus on Thursday or else it'll be like last year and that feeling stinks," said Kapner. "In last year's county finals we didn't show up until the second half because we were emotionally distraught about losing to Montclair in the states the day before. We honestly have to think about taking one game at a time because things can take on a whole new meaning after one match."

Last Thursday's heralded meeting between Westfield and Scotch Plains at Shimme Wexler Field lived up to all the pre-game hype and pleased fans of physical soccer.

The intensity displayed during the 100-minute marathon, which saw almost as many yellow cards as shots on net, completely drained each side mentally and physically, as players literally collapsed after the final whistle. In spite of tremendous efforts by both teams, neither side could put the ball in

Torok hopes to bring stability to position of girls' swim coach

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Over the past four years the position of girls' swimming coach at Westfield High School has subscribed to a revolving door policy.

While none of the departures were forced, having four different coaches in four years has made the post quite unstable.

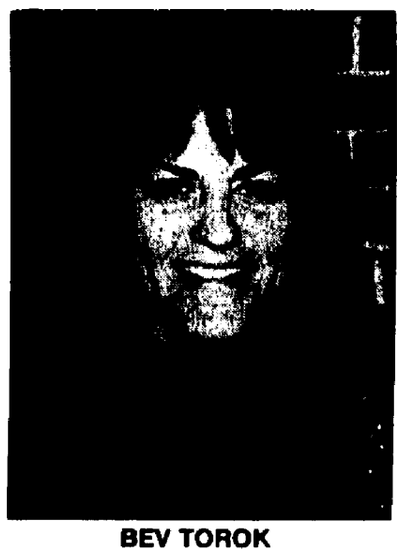
If Bev Torok has her way, this phenomenon will cease. Torok, who was officially approved by the Board of Education last month to take over the head coaching vacancy, will be Stacey Hegna's successor.

Since the school year began Torok has been teaching three physical education classes at Westfield High School and another at Edison Intermediate School.

For the past two years she was the aquatic director at Camp New Horizons in New Brunswick. From 1988 to '91 she was an instructor at Madison Central High School in Old Bridge, where she guided the co-ed swimming team. After graduating from RU in 1982, Torok taught for three years at Immaculate Conception Elementary School in Spotswood.

"She's a great asset to our school," said athletic director Ed Tranchina. "We wanted stability in that position because we haven't had it. Now, we have someone here who teaches full-time at the school. She has a great record as a physical education teacher and a good swimming background. We're lucky to have her here."

In addition to her swimming credentials, Torok has been coaching the freshmen field hockey team, which is currently 2-2-3. She also brings some fine softball qualifications to the table. Torok accepted a softball scholarship at Rutgers and was an assistant coach at Monmouth College.



BEV TOROK

In less than a month, though, the emphasis will be placed on swimming. Blessed with a proven core of returning performers from last year's 8-2-1 squad which won the Union County title and reached the semifinals of the sectional playoffs, Torok rightfully enters the upcoming season with lofty goals.

Lexi Tourtellotte scored her 12th, 13th and 14th goals of the season while Abby Bomba and Antonia Loffredo etched their names on the scoresheet in Westfield's 5-0 victory over Summit in Monday's Union County Tournament semifinals at Roosevelt School.

The triumph over the Hilltoppers (10-4-1) propels the Lady Devils into the county finals, where they'll have to beat familiar rival Union Catholic to claim their 13th consecutive county crown.

"We can't psyche ourselves out because you can mess yourself up mentally, You just treat it as another game and go out and play soccer," said sweeper Christie McGovern. "I still think we can get better. We haven't been tested to our limits yet. Union Catholic has fast forwards, so we'll have to mark them out of the game. I think our 4-4-2 system messes them up a little."

"We've got to control the tempo against them," said head coach Pete Giordano. "We can't get into a kick-and-run game. Union Catholic's got good skills, a couple of forwards who can score and they have a good goalie. We've got to exploit their weaknesses and contain their forwards."

There was no containing Tourtellotte Monday afternoon, as she notched a natural hat trick and added an assist on Loffredo's goal. The junior scored a pair of first half goals with assists from Suzy Folger and Brooke Wiley.

Tourtellotte's third goal 2:51 after halftime was set up by Melissa Long. Freshman Amy Williams made four saves and Alexia Burnett made one to secure Westfield's sith consecutive shutout.

If it wasn't for the heroics of right halfback Kerry Humphreys, last Thursday's showdown against surging Scotch Plains-Fanwood might have duplicated the final score in the boys' game.

With exactly 6:56 remaining in regulation time, Humphreys notched her first goal of the season by booting in a loose ball from close range to supply the game's

Foursome makes sure Westfield's defense never rests on soccer field

By KIP KUDUK
THE RECORD

Head coach Pete Giordano went through a long, involved search before finally settling upon a starting goal keeper for his varsity soccer team.

Conversely, it did not take nearly as long to find replacements for his defense corps, which lost three of four regulars from last season's 20-4 squad.

Lo and behold, this year's crew of defenders is actually surpassing the considerable achievements posted by their predecessors.

In 1992, Westfield surrendered 13 goals, yielding an average of 0.54 goals per game. Through 15 games this season the Blue Devils have relinquished only four goals, an average of 0.27 a match.

Furthermore, the team has been extremely stingy in giving up quality scoring chances. Westfield keepers have made 37 saves and opponents are averaging just 2.7 shots on goal per game.

Due to Giordano's emphasis on team defense, the credit must be spread evenly throughout the entire team, from forwards Emily Dexter, Suzy Folger, Susan McCloy, Kristen Zadourian and Holly Talbott to midfielders Nancy Schultz, Abby Bomba, Jessica Czar, Lexi Tourtellotte, Antonia Loffredo, Brooke Wiley, Gretchen Mansfield, Kerry Humphreys, Sydney Barrow and Stephanie Duris.

"We've given up less shots and it all starts with the team," said the third-year coach. "If the strikers give up the ball, then they have to get it back. If it gets past them, then the midfielders have to get it. If the ball starts 120 yards down the field and comes to [keeper] Amy Williams, somebody's got to stop it. You can't give free passes up the field.

"It's a simple game if you do it right. If you do your job and know other people's jobs, it's a piece of cake."

Still, fullbacks Laura Todd, Melissa Long, stopper Kelly Norton and sweeper Christie McGovern stand in front of Williams as the last line of defense. Giordano has enough confidence in this foursome that he utilizes a man-to-man marking scheme, relying upon each player to stick to her defensive assignment.

It all starts with the sweeper. McGovern has picked up the slack left by all-stater Michelle Mollard, who graduated two years ago. According to Giordano, and almost every other coach, the sweeper is the most important player on the field.

"She's like a quarterback in football," he said. "She leads and reads the plays. She knows when to push up and hold and when to go to the ball. She's got to read the field and know what's going on."

Not only has McGovern covered whoever has slipped through the cracks, but she has also contributed to the attack with some long clearing kicks.

The play was set up by Bomba's corner kick, which resulted in three shots — one of which ricocheted off the post. Eventually, a rebound was directed by Tourtellotte to Humphreys, who made no mistake.

Ruggiero's late scratch doesn't bother harriers

Despite having it's No. 2 runner scratched minutes before the race, the boys' cross-country team brought home the gold in last Saturday's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 meet at a soggy and cool Warinanco Park.

Westfield completed the race with 29 points. East Side (40 points) and Union (98 points) earned second and third place honors.

Freshman Matt Elmuccio won the race in 17:00, 16 seconds ahead of the Union's Chris Geck.

During the first half mile, Westfield runners dominated the top five positions. Soon after, Union and East Side forced their way through the tight pack. By the one-mile mark, while most of the Devils were fighting for the top spots, Elmuccio was well ahead of everyone else and maintained the lead for the remainder of the race.

"East Side ran well and improved a lot last week, but the kids stepped up their performance. We had a nice pack and that helped a lot," said head coach John Martin.

Westfield had three other top ten finishers, who trailed Elmuccio by less than a minute — Don Cambria, (third, 17:20), Ted Kilcommons (fifth, 17:30) and Geoff North (eighth, 17:38).

"We had a good chance of winning. We knew East Side was going to be tough, but once the race started I knew it would work out. Westfield had good times in bad conditions," said Kilcommons.

Senior Andy Ruggiero was unable to run due to tendonitis, but should be returning shortly. Jim Nicoll replaced Ruggiero and completed the race in 18:08, good enough for 22nd place.

Next Saturday, Westfield needs to be among the top three teams in the Group IV Championships to earn its first berth in the Meet of Champions since 1985. The top 10 individuals will also qualify for the season-ending race on Nov. 20.

"We have our best chance in a while to qualify for the Meet of Champions," said Martin. "We need everyone to be healthy and we need Matt Elmuccio to be in the top 10. This isn't out of reach. It's not a pipe dream."

Gymnasts placed third in UCT, eye sectionals

At the conclusion of Friday's Union County Tournament at Scotch Plains-Fanwood High School, the team from Elizabeth was announced as the winner of the third place trophy.

After the mathematics was double checked a day later it was discovered that Westfield had actually finished third. In some respects, this snafu summed up a somewhat disappointing day for the Lady Devils, who finished behind four-time county champion Scotch Plains and runner-up Johnson Regional.

"The girls tried hard to do their best, but it didn't work out as planned," said head coach Ellen Kovac. "We had a devastating bar event, but the girls rallied after that and salvaged the meet by doing very nicely on the beam and floor.

"It was a sobering experience. They weren't happy with how they did. Chances are they'll work more conscientiously to make sure they look better in the sectionals."

Jill Smith was the only Westfield gymnast to finish in the top five in any event. The junior was fourth on balance beam (8.85) and fifth on vault (8.55).

The Lady Devils (9-3) closed out their dual meet season by winning their sixth consecutive meet Monday against Kearny 94.6-70.8. Dana Fizzell enjoyed an outstanding meet, winning the vault (8.3) while placing second in bars (7.7) and beam (7.9). It was the first time all season the senior competed in bars.

Dana Fahey won the bar (7.8) competition and Brandi Kovac placed second in vault (8.15). Megan Clarke was second in floor (8.0 and third in vault (8.15) and bars (7.65). Lauren Rosenblatt scored 7.6 on her floor routine, putting her in third place.

Sophomore Justine Moncrief finished fourth in bars (5.5) and floor (6.9), while senior Kerry Capone was third on beam (6.45) and fourth on vault (7.35).

Tomorrow at noon Westfield will compete in the North Jersey Section 2 meet at Cranford High School. The top team in all four sections will join the squads posting the six highest scores in the state tournament. The top five individuals in each event also earn a berth in the state finals.

By IVY CHARMATZ
THE RECORD

Competing against some of the fastest teams from the area without Sharon Gambino, Westfield still managed to claim second place at Saturday's North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 meet at Warinanco Park in Elizabeth.

Gambino had been feeling ill in the days leading up to the meet and felt she would be unable to participate.

The Lady Devils (11-1) accumulated 61 points, 22 points behind first-place Columbia. Livingston, with 71 points, was awarded the bronze.

"The final outcome does not tell the story of this team's competitive effort. At the line there were moments of self doubt, but once the race began there was no doubt that Westfield came to run. The effort of the front four was one of the strongest ever presented by a Westfield team," said head coach Tom Hornish.

Kellie Goncalves was the first Westfield harrier to cross the finish line, placing second overall with a time of 21:42. Close behind were Karen McGuire (21:48), Xanda Martins (21:52) and Catherine Engell (22:48), who finished fifth, sixth and 14th, respectively.

"We didn't expect to do as well as we did," said Goncalves. "Our expectations weren't high, but I think we're better than we think we are."

Lisa Citrin, who was clocked in 24:02, was stricken with iliotibial band syndrome upon completing the race. The condition, which is an inflamation of the tendons, will sideline the junior for the rest of the season.

"At the start everyone was feeling a little nervous. Our goal was just to finish in the top five and qualify for the Group IVs. But, at the half mile it was already obvious that we were a force to reckon with," said Engell. "I am very happy with our second place finish and I hope we end the season on a good note."

Following yesterday's Union County Championships, which occurred after press time, the Lady Devils will participate in Group IV finals Nov. 13 in Holmdel.

Netsters top EB to end season on high note

Last Thursday, the girls' tennis team eliminated some of the ill feelings which lingered from the previous week's loss in the North Jersey Section 2, Group 4 finals by defeating a strong team from East Brunswick.

This time, the doubles teams led Westfield to victory over the reigning Middlesex County champs.

Gloria Ko and Lauren Kazanoff won at first singles 6-3, 7-6 (7-3), while the second doubles tandem of Jessica St. Clair and Sarah Tirone were impressive in their 6-2, 6-3 triumph. Sophomore Heather Post lost only one game in recording a straight-set victory.

Senior right inner Alison Konet turns the ball upfield during Westfield's 2-0 victory over South Plainfield Friday. The Lady Devils will host the first round game at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the North Jersey Section 1-2, Group 4 tournament.

"We were happy to beat East Brunswick because we knew they had a good team," said Wildstein.

On Monday, Westfield (17-2) posted its 11th shutout of the season over Plainfield in a match abbreviated by cold, windy conditions. Each match was decided by a pro-set format in which the first player to win eight games was declared the winner.

Winners in singles action included Tirone (8-4) and juniors Sarah Gordon (8-0) and Sonia Ko (default). Seniors Lindsay Napor and Ellen Rudofsky won at first doubles 8-2, while freshmen Michelle Kashlak and Lauren Rudofsky won their second varsity match 8-0.

Playing at first and second singles, Shari Gersch and Marcy Beller picked up victories over opponents from Linden and Irvington. Audra Majocha chalked up a victory over Irvington, as did the doubles pairings of Karen Aliche-Efrat Magdielli and Tiffany Aliche-Julie Catanzaro.

Despite the disappointments of two weeks ago, everyone on the Blue Devils is pleased with the progress the team made this fall.

"All in all, we did significantly better than teams did in past years," said Wildstein. "We took second in the county tournament, which is an improvement. We went further in the states and we came close to winning our section, but we didn't turn the corner. We came pretty close to having a fabulous season."

"The good times outweighed the bad times and even in our greatest losses we held together as a team and that's what's most important," said St. Clair. "Our level of play went up several notches and we had a lot more ambition than we've had in the past."

The Blue Devils, which completed the month of October with a 7-1-2 record, await their first round match in the North Jersey Sections 1-2, Group 4 Tournament. Westfield was seeded second and will play the winner of the Vernon-Montclair match.

On Oct. 2, the Blue Devils played to a 3-3 tie against Montclair. Last season, Westfield topped the Vikings 2-1 to win the sectional title. Head coach Maggie McFadden has no preference as to which team she'd rather face.

"As long as we play our game we should be able to beat almost anyone," said McFadden, whose teams have gone 17-3-5 over the past two Octobers. "The fact that Vernon beat [previously undefeated] Cranford might help us focus more and get us more motivated. But, I thought we outplayed Montclair and we only tied them, so we could use that as a motivating factor. But, I really don't think our opponent matters."

Foursome

At right fullback, Long has also been known to ignite the offense. After sitting out much of last year with a knee injury, the senior puts her deceiving speed and strong foot to work by advancing the ball forward and sometimes joining the attack.

Todd, a junior left fullback, assumes a more defensive posture. The third-year varsity letter winner is responsible for guarding the opponent's right wing, typically one of the most dangerous forwards.

Playing between Todd and Long is Norton. In her initial varsity season the aggressive junior marks the opposing striker, who is usually the leading scorer.

"We're playing well together," said McGovern. "We weren't sure about our goalie at the start of the year, but Amy has proven herself in every way. Laura worked really hard over the summer and she's one of the reasons we're so strong and I've been playing with Melissa since we were 11 years old."

With a freshman goalie playing 80 minutes a game, most teams would take a more defensive approach in order to eliminate too many scoring opportunities. But, because of Williams' outstanding performance and the dependability of the defense, Westfield's main objective is scoring.

"There isn't much difference between this year's approach and last year's," said Giordano.

she said. "We have a talented, experienced team. There's no reason not to go to the top."

Torok characterizes herself as a disciplinarian and someone who will stand by her rules. She says she wants to be a strong role model for her team and will invite any individuals to speak with her about any problems they may be confronted with.

"My philosophy is to build a strong team physically and mentally and use these things to have the whole group work toward our goals," she said. "Although swimming's an individual sport, I'll stress teamwork."

This is a challenge for any scholastic team which competes at a high level, since many of its top swimmers also compete for their YMCA or club teams and are usually training to attain their peak performance one or two months after the high school season ends.

the back of the net in the double-overtime thriller.

"The kids either gave it all they had, I conditioned them too much or they had too much Taco Bell before the game," dead panned Kapner. "But, it was one hell of a high school soccer match."

In the end, the Raiders (14-2-1) were fortunate to avoid losing two consecutive games for the first time in five years. The hosts, who had lost to Kearny 2-0 in its previous game, came out and controlled play for the first 15 minutes of the match. But, the Blue Devils settled down and the rest of regulation time was evenly played.

Westfield enjoyed a decisive territorial advantage in overtime, but, as has been the case for most of the year, it had difficulty shooting accurately. Jim Corcoran missed wide from just inside the box on a good scoring chance seven minutes into the first extra session.

With eight minutes remaining in the second overtime, Corcoran had another glorious opportunity on a penalty kick. But, the senior's low shot to the right side grazed the outside of the post and rolled harmlessly out of bounds.

With less than a minute to go the Blue Devils had two more great scoring chances. The first was a Corcoran header which was deftly gobbled up by Scotch Plains keeper Lee Fecchione. The second was set up by Dave Schaller's fantastic run down the right sideline.

Schaller managed to ward off two defenders and control the ball in bounds for approximately 30 yards before chipping a long centering pass to Pipher. For a moment, Pipher had beaten the goalie, but he couldn't settle the bouncing ball, which allowed the keeper time to retreat to his net and smother the loose ball.

For the game, the Raiders outshot Westfield 16-9, but only sent six shots on goal to the Blue Devils' four.

The physical nature of the match was so alarming, it almost resembled a football game. Plenty of pushing and shoving and hard fouls plagued the match throughout, making the referee's job difficult.

junior sustained a sprained right ankle. Lyght reentered the game on Westfield's next offensive series, but removed himself from action after a couple of plays and did not return.

"After he was gone we didn't have that spark because you know any minute he's in there he can do something incredible," said Nobile.

Despite being limited to less than one half of football, Lyght managed to eclipse the 100-yard mark for the fourth time this season. The 6-foot, 180-pound tailback, who is expected to play tomorrow night, gained 102 yards on only 11 carries.

Stripped of its only genuine breakaway threat, the Blue Devils' running game sputtered and the offense did not score again. However, Westfield's passing game continued to make positive strides, as Cheek completed a season-high seven passes for 83 yards and a touchdown.

On the negative side, the Blue Devils' offense simply turned the ball over too many times. With two minutes remaining in the first quarter, Allen scooped up a fumble and ran into the end zone untouched and unchallenged from 28 yards out to give Summit a 14-6 lead.

An interception by Summit linebacker Daniel Nelson deep in Westfield territory six minutes before halftime set up the back breaking touchdown which supplied the Hilltoppers with a 28-12 halftime cushion.

The Blue Devils fumbled the ball away on each of their first two possessions in the third quarter, killing any comeback hopes.

FOOTBALL

Westfield at Elizabeth

Date: Fri., Nov. 5
Time: 7 p.m.
Location: Williams Field, on corner of Clarkson Ave. and Garden St. in Elizabeth.

The Blue Devils (2-3-1)

Last Saturday's 35-12 loss to Summit underscored Westfield's defensive problems, which stem from a lack of size. Unfortunately, the task becomes more difficult, as future matchups will put Westfield's front-four at an even greater physical disadvantage.

Offensively, the big question mark is the status of TB Erwyn Lyght's right ankle. The junior sustained a sprain near the end of an electrifying 49-yard run late in the first quarter against Summit. Lyght still eclipsed the 100-yard mark for the fourth time in six games, gaining 102 yards on only 11 attempts. Lyght (100 carries for 652 yards, 6 TDs) needs to average exactly 116 yards in each of his next three games to break the 1,000-yard barrier. QB Stephen Cheek, who threw for a season-high 83 yards and tossed his first varsity touchdown pass last week, has continued to progress. Cheek will be looking for FB John Mask and TE Mike Mitchell on intermediate to short-range passes. Of course, in order for the offense to click, the line of C Marc Phillips, Gs Ron Nobile, Matt Palumbo and Ts Andrew Toth and Steve Monninger must do its job.

The Minutemen (5-1)

Elizabeth overcame a sluggish first half and an ankle injury to starting QB Al Hawkins in handing Rahway its first defeat of the season, 22-0. Hawkins, a sophomore, left the game in the third period and his status is questionable for tomorrow. His replacement, Quinton Spotswood, heaved a 43-yard touchdown pass to senior WR Sammy Williams on his first snap from center. Williams and seniors Ruben Pires and Laquan Brown possess plenty of speed at the wide receiver position. Brown is also an outstanding cornerback and his third quarter interception last Friday helped set up RB Kareem Bowser's 31-yard TD run. The Minutemen's stingy defense recorded five interceptions and limited Rahway to a total of 72 yards. MLB Frank Chmiel anchors a big, physical defense, which also features LB Gerald Alfonso, Collins and NG Wiley Noal.

How Can The "Tire Specialist" at STS Reduce Stress?

Tires have become high tech like so many items we purchase in our daily lives. With the myriad of sizes, types and speed ratings available, tire buyers need help. Improper tire application can adversely affect the driveability of your vehicle. Specifically, safety related functions such as steering, cornering and braking can be altered. To maximize your vehicle's performance, and satisfy your safety concerns, STS has the "Tire Specialist".

At each STS location, you'll see a person dressed in a bright red shirt with script lettering identifying him/her as our "Tire Specialist." Learning to listen carefully to your wants and needs is only part of the extensive "Tire Specialist" Training Program at STS. We'll ask about your driving habits, how satisfied you were with your last set of tires, and whether you have any specific brand preference. Then we'll thoroughly explain your options, focusing on the benefits of each tire available for your vehicle, based on the information you have provided, and our "Tire Specialist's" expertise. Your selection will come from the finest names in the industry; Pirelli, Michelin, Firestone, BF Goodrich, Bridgestone, and the STS "Signature Series" of top quality products backed by STS.

STS "VALUE PACKAGE"

Protecting your tire investment makes good sense. When you purchase the STS "Value Package", you'll gain peace of mind; here's how:

- Computerized Wheel Balancing

We'll high speed balance your tires for a smooth, comfortable ride.

- Tubeless Valve Assembly

We'll install a new tubeless air valve to maintain proper air pressure, and help your tires avoid running overheated due to air pressure loss.

- Tire Protection Policy

Should your tire fail during the first half of treadwear due to a non-repairable puncture or manufacturer's defect, we'll replace it at no charge.

- Free Tire Rotation

We'll rotate your tires, at no charge, in the method prescribed by your car manufacturer's warranty book, to maximize tire tread life.

- Free Tire Disposal

STS is environmentally conscious. We'll dispose of your worn tires in the manner required by local, state and federal authorities to keep our environment safe.

HOW ABOUT A TIRE FOR $5.95?

Recently, in Florida's Orlando Sentinel newspaper, a tire dealer offered size 145R10 Michelin ZX tires for $5.95. Sound great? Not unless you're driving a 1958 Austin Mini-Cooper. At STS, we advertise sizes that fit the most popular vehicles on the road. We won't insult your intelligence with obvious bate and switch tactics.

42,000 AND COUNTING

Last month we serviced the needs of over 42,000 customers. That number has grown steadily for over thirty five years. Why? Because people want to go where they're recognized, are appreciated, and are satisfied. STS meets that criteria and more. If you haven't experienced the difference that employee-ownership makes, try us. You'll agree with the thousands who want to come back again;

ROBERT YOUNG/THE RECORD

Quarterback Bobby Baykowski breaks into the open field during a recent Police Athletic Football League game. Baykowski scored the game's only points for the Blue Devils' A team Sunday against Chatham when he picked up a fumble and scored from 13 yards out.

YOUTH SPORTS

P.A.L. FOOTBALL

Westfield met Chatham on a cold, rainy Halloween afternoon and earned three hard-fought victories in the muck and mire at Edison Intermediate School Field. The A and C teams played their finest games of the season in evening their records while the B team continued its remarkable string of shutout victories.

Westfield C 20, Chatham C 0

Mike Mroz swept around left end on the third play of the game and raced 65 yards for a touchdown to set the tone for the C team's triumph over Chatham. The offensive line moved the Patriots off the ball with authority and Mroz sprang loose on another touchdown jaunt on the Devils' second possession, traveling 40 yards on fourth down. Jacob DuPont and Glenn Hurley plunged over for the extra points, giving Westfield a quick 14-0 lead. Westfield's performance was all the more impressive on cold, muddy tundra.

Chatham started to mount a drive when the teams changed ends for the second quarter, but aggressive defensive play by linemen Jim Mitchell, Terence Jenkins and Robert Stohr bottled up the Patriots. Then, Tony Constantino's quarterback sack forced a Chatam punt.

On a first-and-10 from Chatham's 25-yard line, Mroz's rush up the middle and a penalty moved the ball to the 9. Quarterback David King was forced out of bounds at the 3 after gaining six yards on a keeper. Then, he tossed a nifty little swing pass to Hurley, who took it in for the score. DuPont snuffed out another Chatham threat with a fumble recovery as the half ended.

Ahead by three touchdowns, the Devils played their reserves in the second half and held off a determined effort by Chatham. Joe Martucci, Ben Kokel, Chris Freisen, Kirt Giresi, Pat Daly, Mike Tullo, Jon Roina, Jeremy Owens, Sean Faust, Matt Nackson and Matt Morrison — who haven't had their names in the paper yet — all earned honors for spirited play.

Westfield A 6, Chatham A 0

Quarterback Bobby Baykowski scored the game's only points on a busted play in the third quarter. Scooping up a Blue Devil fumble on the Chatham 13, the sure-handed Baykowski churned around left end as Patriot defenders swarmed the site of the fumble. Even though Matt Hughes' conversion try was blocked, the outcome had already seemed certain to favor whichever team could make one big play on this cold, drizzly afternoon. Baykowski's serendipitous recovery from disaster sealed the outcome.

While Baykowski scored the points, Westfield's secret weapon was Greg Montgomery. Ordinarily a tight end on offense, Montgomery carried the ball on quick hitters up the middle that were key to Westfield's ball control offense. He also made a lunging grab of a Baykowski pass in the third quarter to keep a Westfield drive alive. Jason Osborne also contributed significantly on well-timed reverses that earned first-down yardage. He also pinned Chatham on its 1 on a fourth quarter punt.

On defense, Greg Gorski made the big plays, with an interception and a fumble recovery, both returned for substantial yardage. Dan Norton, who made an exuberant block of a first quarter Chatham punt, and Sam Edge, with a mud-eating sack of the Patriot quarterback, were two of several Devils whose faces were blue not from the cold but Halloween makeup. Two Jasons, Krieger and Lonseth also put the scare on Chatham.

Westfield B 21, Chatham B 0

Bone-jarring Westfield blocks and solid tackles in the damp chill kept Chatham off balance in the B game. Todd Dowling, Ragnar Gearhart and Chris Giacone scored for Westfield, with Jim Korn converting all three extra point attempts.

The play of the day was Gearhart's 10-yard reception from Brandon Doerr on an out pattern in the second period. Kevin McCormack's precise hit on a would-be tackler sprang for an additional 20 yards and a touchdown. Dowling went straight up the middle for 15 yards on a first quarter score and Giacone plunged in from a yard out for a fourth quarter TD. Mike Stotler, at running back, was a big gainer for Westfield.

The Devils' defense held Chatham to just 15 total yards of offense. Lamont Turner, Doerr, and Dowling stuck it to Chatham's runners. Brian Russo, Dan Wanal and Greg Freisen earned accolades for their fine all-round effort.

SOCCER

Division V
Westfield United 7, Hillside 0

The Westfield United put Hillside through a scary afternoon on a cold, wet Halloween. United had a shaky start this season, but since early October has returned to its powerhouse form. Hillside was no match for United, as Westfield took the opening kickoff and halfback Tim Mansfield placed a beautiful pass to David Dantoriello, a powerful striker, who found the streaking scoring machine, Gerritt III in the box and III made it 1-0 within 30 seconds of the start.

Soon after, United's tough fullback Anthony Tomasso carried a ball into the offensive end and sent it wide to halfback Tim Mansfield, who was ready for another scoring set up. He blasted a low pass across the box to Diego Vargas, who cooly knocked home a score. Late in the half Untied turned on the scoring power and lit up the scoreboard. Griffin Maloney nailed a beautiful shot from a difficult angle off a rebound. In the next charge Maloney found that III in the middle and III blasted another one in. Sweeper Duffy Lau ended the half by converting a penalty kick for a 5-0 lead.

Lau started off the second half as he skillfully broke away for a score. Tommy Wade closed out the scoring with a left-footed blast from 15 yards out. Westfield spent the rest of the game working on its passing.

Westfield United 1
Livingston Leprechauns 0

The United continued its winning ways with an exciting 1-0 victory over a strong Livingston team on Oct. 24 in Westfield. Livingston had beaten Westfield in the season opener and the United came out with a fierce attack and revenge on their mind.

Early in the game Westfield's front line of David Santoriello, Gerritt III and Josh Ludmer kept the offensive pressure up, but could not score. With Livingston's tough midfielders beginning to mount charges in the second half, United's formidable midfield of Dan McAnally, Andrew Odachowski, Condi Thiam, Mike Nahaczewski and Dan Caprario played aggressively. Then, Caprario stepped up and dribbled a ball wide to the corner, where he rifled across to the left corner of the box. III, who has a nose for the goal, trapped it and cracked in a low winner for the final margin of victory.

United's powerful defense of Rob Larsen, Sal Fazio, Tommy Wade, Anthony Tomasso, Adam Yoffie and Duffy Lau shut down the high scoring Livingston offense. Tim Mansfield, Mr. Reliable in goal, handled all that Livingston had to offer and recorded another shutout.

Division IV Boys
Westfield Warriors 3
Flemington Sting 1

The Warriors stuck it to the Flemington Sting on a wet and windy Houlihan Field Oct. 30. Strikers Nick Geissler, Kyle Vantosky and Xander Rothchild moved the ball patiently up the field throughout the game with short controlled passes which spread out the Sting defense. A perfect back pass from Rothchild to halfback Conner Mulvee at the 10 minute mark produced the first goal when Mulvee's shot found the back of the net.

The entire offensive unit of the Warriors was buzzing with back passes and overlap plays while in Sting territory. Center halfback Brad Giffin pierced the Sting defense for the second goal with a fine drive shot that deflected off the goalie's hand into the net. Center striker Adam Walker and Greg Odachowski assisted on the goal.

Striker Cam Anthony scored the final goal for the Warriors when he punched in a loose ball five yards out. Brandon Kapo played the entire game in goal and came through with saves when challenged.

In-Town League - Division V
Cougars 4, Lions 2

The Cougars capitalized on two quick goals by Suzi Goldenker and registered a 4-2 victory Saturday. The Cougars' stopper lofted a pass from Alexandra Maus over the Lions' defenders that sailed deep into the net for her first score at the three minute mark. Goldenker struck again moments later as she trapped a goal kick and drove it in for a 2-0 lead.

The Lions countered with several strikes, but Cougar defenders Eileen Gessner, Bethany Goldman, Hannah Israelow, and Shannon Kunath managed to keep them at bay until Alexandra Brill scored on a goal kick to put the Lions on the board. The Cougars retaliated quickly, as striker Beth Mokrauer slipped through the Lions midfielders and dished to Cristina Velazzco, who's score gave the Cougars a 3-1 halftime advantage.

The Cougars kept up the pace in the second half with Jessica O'Neill, Tara Schoenmann, and Kimberly Jacob applying the pressure, while halfbacks Nicole Infantino and Stephanie Breakstone kept the ball in the Lions half. The score remained the same, however, until the Lions' Rachel Feldman burst through the defense and hammered a shot in full stride that found the near corner to cut the margin to 3-2.

With time running short Cougars' sweeper Sara Mattes cleared the ball upfield to stopper Nicole Herttua, who found Erin Biggio with a crisp pass that Biggio carried to the 12-yard line and slammed into the goal for the game's final score.

FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Toyota's new Supra Turbo is like a high school kid's older brother who is a college football star. Stealing the limelight from the rest of the family comes naturally. The superb handling, blinding acceleration and restyled shape of Toyota's sports car flagship excites most and is disliked by few. All the road tests I've seen center around the Turbo model with the large aerodynamic foil perched on the tail and a cost of over $40,000. But the real-world Supra has no turbo, less power and is much more practical. I drove it for a week and found it a winner.

EXTERIOR

The completely restyled Supra shares only the basic engine with its ancestors. Two glaring exposed headlight lenses house triple laser beam-like lamps (low, high and fog beams) and border on being menacing. According to the Toyota people, the lighting system is capable of illuminating more asphalt than any other car on the market. A large intake below (sans grillwork), is flanked by outboard openings which house the turn signal lights. A sloping hood line continues across a top that is so small, it looks slightly out of proportion. Huge rear haunches pinch back smoothly into a narrow tail which houses eight round tail lamps. Non-turbo models don't receive the massive spoiler, which Toyota claims provides 66 pounds of downforce at 90 mph. In fact, a national auto magazine reports that many non-Turbo buyers are having the wing installed to make theirs look like the 320-horsepower Supra.

INTERIOR

Three big gauges, an 8,000-rpm tachometer, 180-mph speedometer and coolant temperature/fuel gauge are easy to read and bright, but the lack of an oil pressure indicator is uncharacteristic of a sports car. The center console is canted toward the driver and has a wraparound design. Front bucket seats hold both the driver and front passenger well, and cloth seating surfaces up front are offset by vinyl panels in the rear seats. We tried to squeeze two passengers in the rear of the Supra to no avail. Our test model came with the optional CD player ($760) with seven speakers and included a sub-woofer for rich, booming bass. Standard equipment on the non-turbo model included a power driver's seat, cruise control, tilt steering column, automatic air conditioning, heated, power mirrors, power windows and door locks, anti-theft system, digital clock and rear window defogger.

ENGINEERING

If sports cars are supposed to produce an adrenaline rush after sliding into the cockpit, the Supra fits the mold. Few cars on the road today elicit double-takes from passers-by like the new Supra. People asked me several times if the car was a Ferrari or a Porsche, and after seven years of the previous body style, the fact that it was a Supra astounded many. A fat, leather-wrapped wheel is connected to very precise, rack-and-pinion steering which offers a variable-assist function. Low body roll and virtually no tire scrub during hard cornering made this car a pleasure to toss around twisting mountain roads.

HANDLING

Like every pre-1994 Supra, a classic in-line six-cylinder engine is used, now redesigned with twin camshafts and four valves per cylinder. A smooth 220 horses gives the normally-aspirated (non-turbo) motor plenty of passing power, while 210 foot-pounds of torque offers good low-end punch. Coupled to this is a smooth shifting five-speed manual transmission. Suspension is independent at all four wheels and brakes are huge discs: 12.7" in front and 12.8" at rear. Goodyear Eagle GS-C tires, sized 225/50ZR16 up front, and 245/50ZR16 mounted aft provide tenacious grip, and provide super appearance. Five-spoke aluminum alloy wheels are standard. The best description of piloting the new Supra would be that of a smooth, firm and confident driving experience, and a slight cockiness knowing that there aren't many of these vehicles around.

SAFETY

A standard four-wheel anti-lock braking system (ABS) and both driver and front passenger airbags round out safety features.

CONCLUSIONS

For years the Supra has been known as a performance-oriented passenger car. The new Supra is all sports car, with the non-Turbo's performance matching that of previous models' Turbo offering.

Quad-4's head gaskets may fail

By BOB HAGIN
FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Automotive Q&A

Q I have a 1989 Oldsmobile Calais coupe with the 2.3-liter Quad-4 four-cylinder engine. I like the performance very much although the engine seems a little rough at idle. The former owner was very honest with me and told me he had an overheating problem with the car and had to have the engine worked on. He said he had the head gasket replaced at 25,000 miles because of engine overheating. The car has 50,000 miles now and I wonder if I am going to have the same problem. Is there something wrong with the design of the engine that will cause this problem?

A Originally the Quad 4 engine was a kind of "breakthrough" unit for General Motors in that it has four valves per cylinder, very high-tech for an American manufacturer in '89. It was indeed a bit rough on idle then and still is. I recently had a new Chevrolet Beretta for a week that had the same engine. There's nothing wrong with the design but the original head gaskets presented a problem in that they were glued to the iron engine block and as well as the aluminum cylinder head and when these two parts would "flex" as the engine heated up, the head gasket couldn't take the strain and was pulled apart. Then the coolant would leak into the cylinders and the car would overheat. I'm told that the factories that used these engines from 1989 to 1991 have extended the original warranties from 3 years/50,000 miles to 6 years/60,000 miles and will even reimburse owners who had to pay to have the job done.

Q I recently found a 1975 Jensen Interceptor in a used car lot. It is very tacky but it appears to be all there. I had heard of these cars but I'd never seen one. It runs — but just barely — and has what appears to be a Chrysler engine in it. The salesman claims this car came with that engine although it was made in England. Is it worth restoration as a collectible car?

A For a decade or so, the use of big American V8 powerplants and running gear was popular with European and British specialty car builders. It was a way to put reliable high performance into a low production Grand Touring car without having to build the engine in-house. The Interceptor was easily a match for the contemporary Jaguar, for instance. The car is interesting, for sure, but a collector could wind up putting a whole lot more money into a car like that than the car is worth when the job is done. It's a lot like building a street rod: it's a labor of love, not one of profit.

Automotive Q&A

Q In my possession is a 74-year old manual on servicing electrical systems of automobiles manufactured from 1912 to 1920 called Service Manual of Starting Lighting Ignition, published in San Francisco by Service Engineering Company in 1919. It contains wiring diagrams of all the leading cars of the day and has 617 pages. It's in very good condition. I think this book may be of value to fans of ancient automobiles. How can I contact them and what might this volume be worth?

A It seems that anything involving old cars has some value today. There are a couple of ways you can find a buyer for your vintage publication. The easiest way is to go through the current issue of Hemming's Vintage Auto Almanac and pick out the auto literature dealers that you think might be interested in your book. There are more than 90 listed but some specialize in Corvette reprints or Mercedes manuals or whatever, so you can ignore them. Send the others a photostat of the first page or index of what you have and see how they respond. You can usually find a copy of the Almanac in the public library or at any major bookstore. Or, attend any of the myriad auto swap meets around the state and find a buyer by talking to other literature dealers. This is a hard way to go unless you're a dyed-in-the-wool enthusiast yourself.

Q I own an '87 Oldsmobile 98 Regency which has 75,000 miles. Recently I was driving in hot weather when I began to brake and found the pedal came within a quarter-inch of the floor. I drove on slowly and 10 miles later the brakes were normal again. I took the car to my local Olds dealer and the shop replaced badly rusted rear brake drums, shoes and hardware. I'm afraid this didn't rectify the problem.

A When there's a brake problem that involves a pedal suddenly sinking to the floor, I'm suspicious of the hydraulic system in general and the brake master cylinder in particular. Most modern cars have a power booster system that lowers brake pedal pressure needed to stop the vehicle. To test the booster, start the engine while holding a slight pressure on the pedal. The pedal should sink just a bit - an inch or so. If that pressure causes the pedal to sink to the floor, it indicates an internal leak in the brake master cylinder. I think your problem's in the master cylinder. I'm surprised your mechanic didn't dig into the entire hydraulic system.

Crossroads Theatre celebrates 15 years of bringing African-American theater to New Jersey, America and the world

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Writer

"I'm very excited that we've reached the level we've reached by our 15th year," said Ricardo Kahn, co-founder and artistic director of New Brunswick's Crossroads Theatre Company, arguably the most significant and influential African-American theater in the country. "I don't want to see our reaching 15 years as the institutionalization of an idea. I want to celebrate what we've come to mean to the communities of New Brunswick, of New Jersey, of the African-American theater, and of the entire American theatre scene."

Co-founded in 1978 by Kahn and L. Kenneth Richardson, graduates of Rutgers University's Mason Gross School of the Arts, the company began with a grant from the Middlesex County comprehensive Employment and Training Act as well as support from the George Street Playhouse.

By 1980, Crossroads had become an independent, organization fueled by a creative passion which has raised the theater to national prominence.

"Reaching this point truly represents the achievement of a dream," Kahn continued. "To have a dream like this during such challenging times and to make it through to a new era is really a testament to the collective dream we all had."

Though Crossroads began in a century-old New Brunswick garment factory building, the theater today resides in a $4 million, 264-seat facility, part of the New Brunswick Cultural Center on Livingston Avenue, which begins at the center of the revitalized George Street. The mission of Crossroads, despite its incredible success, has remained the same since its inception: to provide a professional environment for African-American artists to create work, to present "honest" and "positive" portrayals of African-American life and culture, and to educate and promote public interest in African-American theatre to people of all backgrounds.

During its first decade and a half, Crossroads has acted as a proving ground for major theatrical talent like playwright and director George C. Wolfe. Wolfe's The Colored Museum and Spunk have premiered at Crossroads and moved from there to successful, critically-praised productions in New York as well as other theaters across the country. Today, Wolfe is the artistic head of New York's Joseph Papp Public Theatre as well as a recent Tony Award-Winner for his direction of Broadway's current Angels in America. Proven talent has also been invited by Crossroads to develop and present new projects. Legendary actress Ruby Dee, for example, last season opened her "Books with Legs" series of stage adaptations of contemporary novels by writing and performing in The Disappearance, adapted from the novel by Rosa Guy.

Recently, Crossroads reached a new pinnacle and realized one of its most important goals by sharing one of its productions not only with several other presenters in this country, but internationally as well.

Sheila's Day, a work developed at Crossroads by South African playwright Duma Ndlovu and director Mbongeni Ngema, concerns the parallel struggles and spiritual triumphs of black women in both South Africa and the United States.

The work, enthusiastically received by audiences and critics alike, premiered at Crossroads in 1989 and has since played in New York, Toronto, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Washington D.C. and – most impressively – in Grahamstown, South Africa at the famous Standard Bank National Arts Festival.

"The South African engagement of Sheila's Day is the only time I am aware of, that a theatrical co-production – a collaboration between American and South African theatre artists – has been presented in South Africa," said playwright Duma Ndlovu.

"We're forging new territory with the Sheila's Day tour," added Kenneth Johnson, Crossroads associate producer. "One day, preparing to open the play, one of the South African actresses in the show told us that her grandmother used to tell her stories about how young children were taken away to be sold into slavery. She felt at that moment, working on Sheila's Day, that she had 'found' those children. At that moment, for me, there was a great realization that, in fact, we weren't dealing with two separate cultures, but that we were dealing with one.

"For a moment, I really understood what it meant to be an African-American. We have been cut off from our history and are, in a sense, journeying back to reconnect ourselves."

"From the start [of Sheila's Day] we all had the need from both sides of the ocean to reach toward each other," added Kahn. "This is why the two-continent nature of the play's touring has been so important to us, because it's been about cultural reconnection. Finally, we were able to go beyond the stage and take us all home."

The Crossroads Theatre Company was founded 15 years ago in a century-old garment factory building. Today, this integral part of the New Brunswick Cultural Center resides in this modern, $4 million downtown facility.

Dennis Green plays Bob, a reluctant suitor, and Kim Sykes is his loving girlfriend Marie, in the modern romantic comedy Telltale Hearts opening Tuesday at Crossroads Theatre in New Brunswick.

'Telltale Hearts' eschews history for comic romance

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Theater Critic

Currently in the midst of its 15th season, Crossroads is exploring the meaning and importance of "home" with its selection of works. Pearl Cleage's Flyin' West, which opened the season, dramatized the lives of black women who left the south to seek freedom and independence in the turn-of-the-century American west. Next up is Telltale Hearts, a contemporary romantic comedy by Joe Barnes.

Originally presented in 1990 by the Frederick Douglass Creative Arts Center in New York, Barnes' play explores the fears, fantasies, and foibles of eight successful, single black professionals looking for companionship, intimacy, and love in New York City. The characters which populate Telltale Hearts are composites the playwight has created from people he has actually met or overheard during the course of his professional and social life.

"After a while, I had all these bits and pieces of stories," Barnes explained, "And as I worked with the material, the characters and the storyline began to emerge."

Barnes, who has recently crossed over into what he called "the comfortable 40s," was particularly intrigued in exploring the singles scenes for thirtysomethings who face the difficulties of seeking commitment in a contemporary era of careerism, feminism, and AIDS.

"Young, black professionals make up a particular segment of the black population and they need their stories told," Barnes said. "So many black plays are historical, they take place in other times. So many look at what would be considered the lower class and at struggle and daily survival. The characters in Telltale Hearts have done well, but they have struggles of a different kind."

"The characters in this play struggle with some universal questions," Barnes continued. "How do you get close to someone? How do you say to someone, 'I want to be with you, but I want to be myself at the same time?' There are also other issues, like the shortage of black men in relation to black women. There are also issues of racism which have compounded the problem of men and women getting together."

The Telltale Hearts cast includes Crossroads veterans Dennis Green, Eugene Lee, and Jack Landron. Reprising their roles from the New York production are Kim Sykes, Count Stovall, and Petronia Paley. Rounding out the ensemble are Amelia Marshall and popular film and television performer Pam Grier.

Following Telltale Hearts, which opens Tuesday and runs through Dec. 19, the Crossroads mainstage season will continue with And the World Laughs With You, a moving drama by emerging playwright Karimah about a 10-year-old who tries to rescue his mother from drug addiction, and later with a revival of Samm-Art Williams' Home. Concluding the season will be the theater's annual Genesis Festival, a program of staged readings and special events.

"I'd like to see Crossroads develop wider markets for the work created here, markets in places like Los Angeles, New York, Atlanta, Washington, D.C., London and South Africa, places we've already been," Kahn said. "I'm hoping we can reach more households, too, by becoming involved in television, which is something we're looking into already. I want to see us continue to get better and better at our work, to continue to foster high artistic standards and reach as many people as possible."

TELLTALE HEARTS Nov. 9-Dec. 19 at Crossroads Theatre, 7 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick. Tickets $26-20. (908) 249-5560.

MOVIES

Traumatic, dramatic

'Fearless' may be too honest a film for its own good

By JEFFREY COHEN
WeekendPlus Film Critic

A movie like Fearless raises a number of questions, but the central one must be: if something is gritty, unpleasant, depressing and long, does that by definition make it artistically courageous?

Fearless concerns itself with Max Klein (Jeff Bridges), a San Francisco architect who survives the horrific crash of a commuter plane in a corn field. Although he has always been afraid to fly, Max discovers that coming this close to death has extinguished his fear; he is now capable of placing himself in danger, confident that nothing can happen to him because "I've already died."

Rosie Perez and Jeff Bridges share an unusual bond as survivors of a plane crash in the new movie Fearless.

Unfortunately, this transformation has made Max distant and sometimes cruel to his wife (Isabella Rossellini, making perhaps the least likely Laura Klein imaginable) and son. He walks through life seemingly without emotion entirely, until an airline-hired therapist (John Turturro) introduces Max to Carla (Rosie Perez), another crash survivor who won't leave her bedroom because she's grieving for the toddler son she lost in the crash.

With Carla, Max finds a purpose that he mistakes for love. He tries to save her by convincing her that it's all pointless, and eventually, by crashing into a brick wall in the last Volvo sold in America without an airbag.

Fearless hinges on Bridges' portrayal of Max, and it is indeed brave and masterly. He does not give in to the movie star urge to make his character more likeable. Even though Max rescues a number of people from the burning plane, he clearly has done it less from a sense of concern for humanity and more because he's trying to deny his own fear. Bridges is uncompromising, and his Max becomes somewhat maddening in his refusal to communicate with non-survivors. It's hard to imagine another actor playing Max at all convincingly.

The supporting cast is equally good, as Perez makes a play to be given better roles with her complex Carla, Rossellini makes a movie without taking her clothes off and Turturro, for once, plays the most normal person in the movie. Tom Hulce, who should work more often, plays a scheming lawyer trying to milk the airline for damages, representing Max, his late partner's wife and Carla. Hulce is the only breath of comedy in Fearless, and hes not in it very much.

Unfortunately, even a fabulous star performance and a great supporting cast are ultimately not enough to justify the emotional punishment an audience goes through in watching Fearless. From the unspeakable anguish of Carla, certain that she in some way caused her baby's death, to a smal boy Max rescues who develops an unhealthy attachment to him, the shadow of death is never far from this film. And at close to 2½ hours, that's a long time to spend in such grim company.

Director Peter Weir (The Year of Living Dangerously, Witness) is as uncomprimising as Bridges in the structure of the film, and perhaps all that lack of comprimise is just too much for something considered a popular entertainment. Yes, it's entirely possible that people who survive a horrible catastrophe would bear enormous emotional scars. The therapist keeps talking about "post-traumatic stress disorder" and that pretty much sums up the movie in a nutshell. After viewing Fearless, some audience members may feel like they have exactly that condition.

Fearless certainly has a number of things to recommend it. You may never want to board a plane again after seeing the crash scenes, which are technically perfect. And the characters are all completely believable, with the possible exception of Carla's husband, who seems utterly unconcerned with his own son's death, other than to see how much money he can squeeze out of it.

But that question remains: just because something isn't the traditional upbeat Hollywood funfest, is it great art? Well, no. Fearless is the antithesis of something like Jurassic Park, as it does attempt to present real characters exploring real emotions and big questions like life, death and the existence of a supreme being. That doesn't make it great art.

But at least it tries.

Video rewind

'Born Yesterday'

On first glance, you'd think a remake of Born Yesterday (Touchstone) would be the perfect career move for Melanie Griffith. After all, if you've already embarrassed yourself as a tough cop in A Stranger Among Us and a spunky romantic heroine in Shining Through, why not turn your vices into a virtue and become the next Judy Holliday? Well, because she can't. Griffith, even with support from the perfect-except-for-his-taste-in-roles John Goodman and husband Don Johnson, can't carry a rewrite script that tries to satirize 1993 Washington and can't hold a candle to Dave. This "comedy" has maybe three chuckles.

'My New Gun'

My New Gun (Columbia TriStar) is one of those "it's-so-independent-it-doesn't-have-to-make-sense" movies where a woman (Diane Lane) has a swine husband (Stephen Collins) who insists on buying her a handgun even if she doesn't want it. And for reasons only the writer/director understands, she's attracted to the burnout moron who lives next door. Blah, blah, blah.

REVIVALS

LA VIE DE BOHEME (1992; French, subtitled)

☆Black-and-white series of composed "tableaux" revealing small details in the life of luckless Parisian bohemians. Based on the 19th century novel by Francois Mauriac's novel, which inspired the Puccini opera. Friday, Nov. 5, 7 p.m., at Milledoler Hall Room 100, College Avenue campus, Rutgers College, New Brunswick. Part of "Potpourri" festival sponsored by Rutgers Film Co-op and N.J. Media Art Center. Admission $3; $2 Rutgers Film Co-op members. (908) 932-8482.

LIKE WATER FOR CHOCOLATE (1993; Spanish, subtitled)/ JUST ANOTHER GIRL ON THE IRT (1993)

☆A double feature of recent films rarely shown outside of Manhattan or "art houses." Like Water, though, managed to be one of the highest-grossing foreign films in several years, thanks to a great deal of positive word-of-mouth that kept it going throughout much of the spring and summer. The title refers to a Mexican phrase describing the kind of passion that in this case reflects the story of Tita, a spirited woman who with the power to magically tmsmit her feelings and passions into everything she cooks

Just Another Girl is the story of a smart and sexy 17-year-old African-American girl "trapped" in urban America. Director Leslie Harris was awarded the Sundance Film Festival's Best New Filmmaker prize for her efforts. Sunday, Nov. 7, 7 p.m. at the State Theatre, 19 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick. ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Do-it-yourself projects are favored now. There is information this week regarding a career concern. Guard against domestic friction in the latter part of the week. Meet partners halfway. The weekend favors romantic and pleasure interests.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Others may keep you waiting now. You could become upset about a business concern early in the week. Couples are in sync. You are more communicative and self-expressive than usual. The weekend accents family interests.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You will need some care in financial dealings this week. Scrutinize business propositions carefully, and avoid wasteful spending. Talks with family members are productive. A familiar haunt suits you best this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Give close ties enough freedom this week to do their own thing. You express yourself well now. A family matter could upset you in the latter part of the week. An eye for beauty is your guide when shopping.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Interruptions are likely to limit your progress at work. A romantic flirtation may be no more than that. You will get many things done if left alone. Money talks are private and productive. This weekend, you will do something to spruce up your appearance.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You could easily misinterpret another's intentions where romance is concerned. Keep your feet on the ground. You will have a stimulating exchange of ideas with a friend. Over the weekend, you will want to spend some time along with a loved one.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Although you are enthusiastic, it is still best not to bring things to a head where business interests are concerned. Work quietly from behind the scenes. You will have private talks related to that business matter. A friend is not much fun at all now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) The signals others give out this week are likely to be confusing. You will have to read between the lines. Travelers may require extra time to reach their destinations. Your personality now is an asset in career dealings.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You will make progress now with a career concern. Be wary of those who would take advantage in financial dealings. Happy news comes from a distance. A friend seems a bit depressed now. Judgment may be off when shopping this weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You may be intent now on doing your own thing, but success will come this week through cooperative efforts. Don't force issues in business. Rapport between partners is greatly enhanced now. Accent togetherness this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Despite interruptions, you will bring a project to a successful conclusion this week. There will be moments that will try your patience. Later in the week, you will be catching up on some work left over from the office last week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Financial risk taking is not favored this week. A friend may do something to disappoint you. Couples make important decisions together about a child's best interests. Social life has business ramifications this week.

Dance-a-thon in Highland Park

The Red Peonies Performance Project will sponsor a Dance-a-thon Saturday at the Reformed Church of Highland Park.

A live DJ will provide the music during the benefit event, proceeds of which will aid the Red Peonies, a group dedicated to promoting dance throughout the state. The group also sponsors the Janetti-Haver Dance School in Highland Park, and stages an annual performance at the George Street Playhouse.

The dance-a-thon is open to all ages. Tickets are $10, or get $10 in pledges and come free.

For more information, call (908) 647-2783.

Former hostage to speak

Former Middle East hostage Terry Anderson will share his experiences of almost seven years in captivity Tuesday, 8 p.m., at Morris County College in Randolph.

Admission to the lecture, titled "Home at Last," is $7.

For more information, call (201) 328-5225.

RALPH LITWIN

'Eclectibilly' comes to Summit

Musician Ralph Litwin, aka "the Hillbilly Pavarotti," is well-known to Central Jersey audiences, and a large crowd is expected for his performance Saturday at the Common Ground Coffeehouse in Summit.

Accompanying himself on guitar, banjo and harmonica, the effervescent Litwin, who describes his "eclectibilly" sound as "eclectic musical tastes served country style, serves up a blend of both contemporary and traditional tunes, drawing from bluegrass, ragtime, Dixieland, folk, blues, jugband, and even calypso music from the '50s, '60s and '70s. Adding to the presentation is his sense of humor, which frequently reveals itself during his unusual song introductions.

The titles of several songs are an indication of his "eclectic" leanings — "Merle Haggard Was Eatin' Tofus," and "I'd Rather Say Goodbye to You Than Give Up an Indoor Toilet."

But he's also a serious and accomplished musician, having won two New Jersey state banjo competitions. And a review of his first album, Makes My Heart Feel Happy, in the industry trade magazine Cashbox compared his style to Jimmy Buffett and Jerry Jeff Walker.

RALPH LITWIN Saturday, Nov. 6, 8:30 p.m., at the Common Ground Coffeehouse, 50 Maple St., Summit. (908) 273-2131.

STAGE

'Sheer Boredom' can't be judged by its cover

By MICHAEL P. SCASSERRA
WeekendPlus Editor

Sheer Boredom, currently making its world premiere at New Brunswick's George Street Playhouse, is a difficult work to define. Written by John Viscardi, the play is nothing if not unconventional.

Set in the austere, marble lobby of a posh urban apartment building, Sheer Boredom involves three doormen who, faced with the challenge of filling the painfully uneventful hours spent at their job, question nothing less than the meaning of their lives. Viscardils comedy, which at times plays like a surreal, existential theatrical exercise and at other times like an only moderately successful sketch comedy revue, is a peculiar hybrid of Ingmar Bergman and Saturday Night Live. Though the play misses more marks than it hits, Viscardils strange vision does by its conclusion remain curiously nestled in the mind.

Donny (Matthew Arkin), the youngest member of the trio, has been working as a doorman for ten months. Overcome with boredom which turns his spirit to mush and puts his nerves on edge, Donny is plagued by a strange malady: if he fails to stimulate himself mentally or physically, he is haunted by the incessant, steady ticking of an unseen clock. Mike (Joel Rooks,) one of his co-workers who has spent his entire adult life working as a doorman, helps his protege by sharing one of the secrets of life he as learned.

Joel Rooks and Matthew Arkin play two of the three philosophical doormen in Sheer Boredom.

To stop the ticking, he says, Donny must remain in continual motion, like a shark. Adding to Donny's tension is co-worker Angel (Harsh Nayyar,) a Zen-like middle-easterner who peacefully exists in a solitary space, removed from those around him.

"Did you see that Knicks game last night?" Donny asks Angel.

"Why?" is Angel's only response.

Working the night shift with Angel, says Donny at one point, is like "getting sucked into a black hole and coming out blind."

The first act of Sheer Boredom is comprised of a series of scenes designed to juxtapose the overwhelming nothingness of the characters' work lives with a series of comic situations including a repeated suicide threat telephoned to the lobby from an unusual women who resides in the building's most luxurious apartment. By the second act, the woman has jumped from her apartment window, leaving behind cryptic clues which Mike convinces Donny can be decoded to determine how the woman acquired her wealth.

The center of the second act thus becomes an extended comic routine in which Donny and Mike attempt to unravel the women's secret to success. Despite Herculean efforts by the cast to make this sequence amusing, the routine quickly outstays its welcome.

Sheer Boredom is a mixed bag of physical humor, mildly clever word play and existential commentary. Viscardi's work is best when he deals with the last of these elements. one of the most inspired sequences in the play comes when Mike explains to Donny how he has actually learned to

Community theater previews

Philathalians open 62nd season Friday with 'The Runner Stumbles'

One of Central Jersey's oldest theatrical traditions -- the Philathalians of Fanwood — open their 62nd season Friday with their production of the courtroom drama The Runner Stumbles.

The Philathalians, which began as a Depressian-era community theater club, stage their performances at the Carriage House in Fanwood, and help to promote the arts in the area in a number of ways, including awarding a yearly scholarship to a deserving high school student. A portion of the proceeds from ticket sales goes to the scholarship fund.

Their three-show season will also include the family comedy Breaking Legs, pending release from a successful Broadway run and national tour, which is scheduled to open on Feb. 11, 1994. Breaking Legs, a comic tale of "pride, temper, jealosy and conspiracy," takes the audience to a restaurant in Brooklyn, where they meet a nice Italian family that owns it and an assortment of their "associates." The show will be directed by Gordon Wiener, who directed last year's production of I Never Sang for My Father..

The season will close with a production of Veronica's Room, a thriller by Rosemary's Baby author Ira Levin. Veronica's Room follows a young college student on vacation who is persuaded to impersonate the long-dead sister of a woman who is convinced the girl is still alive. Debie Dreyer is scheduled to direct.

The Runner Stumbles, set at the turn of the century, is a tale of repressed passion, as a priest is implicated in the mysterious death of a young nun at a remote parish in Michigan.

The production stars John Correll of Winfield Park, Barbara Guidi of Scotch Plains and Kathy Mattingly of Piscataway. The supporting cast includes Larry Aleshire and Marina Aleshire of Piscataway, Pat Carpenter of Carteret, Gloria Ieitano of Elizabeth and Steve Ryan and Drew Willard of Plainfield.

Veteran Philathalians Andrew Gordanier and Ken Webb share the direction chores.

Performances of The Runner Stumbles are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights, 8:30 p.m., through Nov. 20. A special Sunday matineee is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on Nov. 14.

Tickets are $7, with a $1 discount for seniors. A season subscription, however, is available for only $17.

THE RUNNER STUMBLES Nov. 5-20 at the Carriage House, Watson Road, Fanwood. Tickets $7, $6 seniors. (908) 322-8686.

Don Aaronson, Peggy McGrath, Joe Giglio, Bobbe Philip and Michael Sylvester star in Other People's Money at the Circle Playhouse in Piscataway.

Circle Players take on 'Other Peoples Money'

On the big screen, Oliver Stone's Wall Street is the definitive study of 1980s Wall Street raiders like Ivan Boesky and Michael Milken.

On the Broadway stage, it was Other People's Money, which opens Saturday at the Circle Playhouse in Piscataway.

Joe Giglio of Somerset will star as "Larry the Liquidator" Garfinkle, while Peggy McGrath will play Kate Sullivan, an attorney hired to fend off Garfinkle's hostile takeover of a family business.

The production continues with Friday and Saturday performances at 8:30 p.m., with one Sunday matinee scheduled for 2 p.m. Nov. 14.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY through Nov. 27 at the Circle Playhouse, 416 Victoria Ave., Piscataway. Tickets $10 (Fri.-Sat.), $8 or 2/$15 Sunday. (908) 968-7555.

SVP goes 'Out of Order'

The Somerset Valley Players wrap up their 26th season with a production of the comedy Out of Order, which opens Friday.

Out of Order, which was selected as London's "Comedy of the Year" in 1991, tells the story of a philandering member of Parliment, his harried private secretary and a supposed corpse.

Keith Howells of Hightstown stars as the secretary, George Pigden, while Wayne Coughlin of Asbury stars as Parliment's Richard Willey.

Featured roles will be filled by Norman Hill of Somerset, Rob Capici of Raritan, Ellie Morris of Flemington, Linda Neri of Neshanic, John Boucher of Somerset and Cynthia Keller of Somerville. The corpse will be played by Norman Hill of Somerset

Performances continue through Nov. 28 on Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m.

OUT OF ORDER Nov. 5-28 at the Somerset Valley Playhouse, Amwell Road (Route 514), Hillsborough. Tickets 2/$15 (Fridays and Sundays); $11 (Saturdays). (908) 369-7469.

Stacy Bain and Keith Howells ham it up in the Somerset Valley Players production of the comedy Out of Order.

'Sheer Boredom'

sleep while going through the daily routine of his life. What sinks much of the play, though, is the often forced nature of the humor and the tonal problems which periodically subvert the play's messages. At one point, for example, Mike goes into a monologue in which he expresses the disappointment he feels in spending his life as a blue-collar worker. The monologue, though moving, seems to have been pulled from an entirely different text.

Though director Tom Bullard has assembled a game trio to inhabit the strange space of Sheer Boredom, the actors often are fighting a losing game. To pull every laugh possible from Viscardi's text would likely take the inspired lunacy of a Robin Williams. The playwright should trust the more serious side of his work and discard some of the more easily digested jokes.

During the developmental process of Sheer Boredom, Viscardi wrote the play as a 10-minute work. Not surprisingly, then, his inventiveness works best in relatively short segments, but his attempts to create a full evening of sustained theatrical inventiveness ultimately fall flat. The intermission in this production seems strangely out of place, further evidence that within the two-act failure of Sheer Boredom there likely lurks a one-act success. Perhaps the playwright should rework Sheer Boredom into a single act, whatever its length, rather than conform to the two-act convention so many narrow thinkers consider a prerequisite for a "full evening of theater."

What Viscardi does demonstrate in this, his first full-length play, is a unique theatrical voice and a formal daring one hopes he continues to explore and refine. Possibly, Sheer Boredom will be remembered as the flawed but strangely intriguing first effort by an innovative, risk-taking writer whose best work has yet to come.

SHEER BOREDOM through Nov. 14 at the George Street Playhouse, 9 Livingston Ave., New Brunswick. Tickets $30-20. (908) 246-7717.

MUSIC

Early 'Winter Solstice' coming to Princeton

Windham Hill artists to pool their talents at McCarter Theatre concert

By WILLIAM WESTHOVEN
WeekendPlus Editor

Windham Hill Record's popular "Winter Solstice" recordings, which feature "unplugged" musicians playing together and on their own in their natural acoustic setting, will come alive Monday at Princeton's McCarter Theater.

The concert will feature Windham Hill artists Nightnoise, Alex De Grassi and Liz Story, who will perform songs from their recent albums before joining forces to, hopefully, synergize some musical magic.

Representing the entourage to WeekendPlus was the new kid on the block, fiddler Johnny Cunningham, who joined Nightnoise less than a year ago. Cunningham, who cut his musical teeth with the legendary Celtic folk band Silly Wizard, claims his Scottish roots have lent a new perspective to his Irish band mates, who cut four albums of Celtic, jazz, classical and pop-influenced music before his arrival. So too, has an increased emphasis on vocals, which are more in evidence on their new album, Shadow of Time, than on previous efforts.

"Windham Hill is known more as an instrumental label, and they want to get away from that, so they asked us if we could do more vocally," said Cunningham. "And it makes sense, with two great vocalists in the band.

The singers are Triona Ni Dhomhnaill and Michael O Domhnaill, who each play a variety of instruments, but combine for some unusual harmonies on "Fionnghuala (Mouth Music)."

As for Cunningham, he's just happy to be working, which is the reason he came to the states in the first place.

"I came to America because America is a fiddle player's dream," he said. "There's so much you can do — I've played in country bands, rock bands, jazz bands," he said, adding he joined Hall and Oates for an all-acoustic tour in 1992.

Guitarist Alex De Grassi and pianist Liz Story, however, will stick to their instruments. De Grassi, oddly enough, is that rare guitar hero who is largely self-taught, even though he's the son of a classical pianist and the grandson of a concert violinist. No matter — his experimental style and merging of folk, jazz, classical and world music is the kind of stuff that keeps his picture in guitar magazines month after month.

Story is another, er, story — recording and touring with acoustic bassist Joel DiBartolo (formerly of The Tonight Show band), her music comes closest to the "New Age" tag that has labeled so many recent acoustic artists. It's an unfair label, because her improvisational style almost defies categorization, and a piano/acoustic bass duo is nothing if not unusual. Their latest recorded effort, My Foolish Heart, finds the pair exploring a variety of vintage standards like Duke Ellington's "In a Sentimental Mood," along with melodies by Gershwin and Weill and Rodgers and Hart.

But fans of Nightnoise, DeGrassi and Story are probably looking forward to the second half of the show, which will features the artists playing together. "Since I've joined the band," said Cunningham. "We've toured with Liz and Joel, but we haven't played with them, which I'm looking forward too."

The 33-city tour begins Saturday in Maryland and the Windham Hill gang will have just two shows under its belt before arriving in Princeton, which should make for some interesting jams, since the individual acts haven't really had a chance to rehearse together.

"I'm sure they'll be some space to improvise," said Cunningham, his voice echoing both anticipation and anxiety.

WINDHAM HILL WINTER SOLSTICE TOUR Monday, Nov. 8, 8 p.m., at McCarter Theatre, 91 University Place, Princeton. Tickets $25-20. (609) 683-8000.

Laser-music show coming to RVCC

Spend a musical "night under the stars" indoors Saturday at the Raritan Valley Community College Planetarium.

No, the roof hasn't caved in — it's just that musician Dennis Andrew of Metuchen is joining forces with the planetarium staff to present an evening of music, laser choreography and visual effects.

Andrew, a self-taught musician who enjoyed success with the influential underground band Liquid Liquid in the early 1980s, is a busy performer who has been seen at a variety of local venues, including the Villagers Theatre in Franklin and the Watchung Arts Center.

The 90-minute set will include a variety of his original compositions, with laser and other high-tech visual images completing the unusual multi-media presentation.

Tickets for the show are only $5, and can be reserved by calling (908) 231-8805. Reservations are recommended due to limited seating.

DINING

A novel dining idea

The good word on Hemingway's is more than fiction

By MICKI PULSINELLI
Culinary Correspondent

The Bridgewater Manor is big. I mean, very big -- 37,000 square feet, if I remember correctly.

But tucked away in a corner, all by itself, is a small pub restaurant named Hemingway's.

This attractive lounge has a small bar and approximately 20 tables. The bar is on one wall and a large working fireplace on the other. The walls are covered with a dark green and navy striped wallpaper. There are also brass lamps on the walls and recessed lights in the ceiling.

DIANE MATFLERD/WEEKENDPLUS

Hemingway's has turned a little corner of the huge Bridgewater Manor into one of the more popular new restaurants in the area.

The tables are wood with a black trim. The setting consist of a brass candle holder, green cloth placemats and paper napkins. The comfortable captain chairs come with rollers.

I've been told that Hemingways is a gathering place for young professionals after work. When my husband and I arrived there a little after 8 p.m. one Friday night, that crowd had gone and in its place were couples of all ages, and parties of three, four or more.

Although the bar is in the same room, I hardly noticed. There was no loud chatter -- at least I didn't hear any.

Hemingways menu is eclectic. There are American, Italian, Mexican and cajun-style dishes to choose from. Appetizers consist of standards such as shrimp cocktail or nachos ($6.95 each), and non-standard items like toasted ravioli or pan fried dumplings served with a ginger sauce ($4.50 and $5.95).

Almost everyone serves pasta today. Hemingway's is no exception. They offer six choices ($9.85-$12.95), from angel hair with shrimp to the ravioli of the day.

Entrees, 14 in all ($9.50-$16.95), include pork, vegetarian, chicken, beef, eggplant, and seafood. Some of the more imaginative fare includes Havana pork tenderloin served with a spiced applejack sauce ($12.95), and chicken pepperoni Monterey (breaded chicken breast topped with slices of pepperoni, four-cheese mixture and a Monterey Jack sauce) for $12.95.

Standard fare includes grilled fish of the day (priced accordingly), homemade Maryland crab cake ($13.95) and a 16-ounce N.Y. sizzling strip steak ($16.95). All entrees are served with a garden salad, fries or rice, and baked rolls.

My husband started with the jalapeno peppers ($4.50). These are peppers stuffed with cheddar cheese, breaded and fried and served with a marinara sauce. They were spicy hot and delicious.

I ordered the steamers ($5.95). These were a dozen delectable littlenecks, served on a bed of lettuce, with a broth for dipping.

My husband couldn't make up his mind on what to order. He thought about steak, but remembered ordering that the last time we were out. His next selection was the chicken Monterey, but he changed his mind at the last minute. Finally, he settled on a pasta dish, the penne with chicken sauteed with roasted peppers and broccoli in a bleu cheese sauce ($11.95).

This was served with lots of pasta, chicken, peppers and broccoli. The cheese sauce was pink, light and tasty.

My entree was the scampied sole ($13.50). This consisted of filet of flounder stuffed with a shrimp and spinach mixture and sauteed in a lemon garlic butter. This was served over a bed of rice and garnished with cantaloupe and tomatoes.

For dessert my husband had the amaretto raspberry cheese cake -- and I watched. We both ordered coffee. They serve their coffee in large mugs, the way I like it.

As we were getting ready to leave I glanced around the room and noticed something. It seemed to me that Hemingway's had the same amount of people seated then as when we first arrived. There seemed to be a steady flow of customers.

I would guess that Hemingway's had a loyal following. And rightfully so. They are capably managed by Jim Kaptain, and they serve good food at the right prices.

HEMINGWAY'S at the Bridgewater Manor, Route 202-206, Bridgewater. (908) 658-3000.

With the holiday season rapidly approaching, now is the time to plan your holiday parties at our Crystal Ballroom. We are ready to cater to your every need...from a small cocktail reception or an elegant sit-down dinner to our most extensive deluxe dinner buffet. We have just the right banquet room for your affair, which is appropriately decorated for the holiday season. We can also accomodate your families and associates for company meetings, showers, christenings, etc. in our downstairs hall.

Please contact the banquet chariperson at 756-8410, Monday, Wednesday or Thursday between 7:00 and 9:30 pm. Or you can call our public bar 668-9442 and we will be sure to get back to you.

We look forward to assisting you in planning your affair whether your company is having an annual dinner dance, retirement dinner, or Christmas and holiday parties.

Sincerely yours,

Leon Mielnikiewicz
President

Wine with Reason

Marilyn Cormack

Why are we so enamoured with vintage Champagne? I was teaching a sparkling wine class, and many questions came up about "what years were good?" for Champagne.

Now, first of all, I'm talking specifically about French Champagne from Champagne. Very few people know that these wines are all blended from current vintages and barrels of previous vintages. Champagne winemakers utilize their talents as master blenders so that each year, if you buy a Mumm's Brut, the taste you love and the quality you expect remain consistent. A wine master in Champagne believes very firmly that his house blend is some of his best work.

Every once in a while, Champagne will have weather so incredible that the grapes are equally so. Someone declares a vintage. This means that for the vintage bottling, only the current year's grape can be used. There may not be back year blending. You have only this year's quality and style of fruit to work with. Pretty limiting for someone used to working with 60 different batches! And what's worse, here they are making Champagne from this great harvest, and because they will use so much for special bottlings, there may not be enough left to help round out later years.

Vintage Champagnes are always more expensive than a house's standard bottling, but it's interesting to note that most houses are happy to be evaluated by their regular stuff.

Vintages are delicate, wonderful surprises that age beautifully and make special occasions more special. But, try a vintage Brut next to a non-vintage Brut, and you may find it fuller, more complex and easier on the pocketbook.

P.S. To know if it is a vintage bottle, it must say "Vintage 1982" on the label. If it does not say "Vintage" next to the date, the year may be the house's inception or the bottling date of the wine.

Enjoy!

ATTRACTIVE, WARM, PETITE FEMALE–
I am a very sweet, widowed, Jewish female in my sixties. I am intelligent and a lot of fun to be with! Communication is very important to me. My interests are theater, traveling, and enjoying each others company (and misery). I would like to meet a single Widower male, Jewish, 60-73, who is physically and mentally healthy, sincere, and has a great sense of humor. I live in Hudson County. Please reply ext. 3618.
THIS ADVERTISER HAS ALSO CHOSEN TO RECEIVE MAIL. PLEASE SEND LETTER AND PHOTO TO: INTRODUCTIONS BOX 3618, FORBES NEWSPAPERS, PO BOX 699, SOMERVILLE, NJ 08876.

ITALIAN AMERICAN WIDOW
I would love to meet Mr. Right. (Age: 60-early 70's.) If you love to socialize, go out to dinner, visit the shore, go on long walks and generally KEEP BUSY- I would LOVE to meet you! Please reply ext. 4165.
THIS ADVERTISER PREFERS TO RECEIVE MAIL. PLEASE SEND LETTER AND PHOTO TO: INTRODUCTIONS BOX 4165, FORBES NEWSPAPERS, PO BOX 699, SOMERVILLE, NJ 08876.

LINEAR DIVORCED WHITE FEMALE
Late 50's, active, employed, seeking single divorced white female (linear only) in Metuchen or Edison, but not confined to that area. Interested in fitness exercising, crafts, flea marketing, day excursions, movies, local theater and general socializing. Please call Ext. 4300.

SENIOR WHITE MALE–
Looking to talk over aging sex, good living and for friendship or more- with an affectionate, well-educated, older female. Please reply ext. 4298.

SINGLE WHITE WIDOWED FEMALE–
70, interested in SWM, 65-70, who likes slow dancing, bus trips, picnics, movies, etc. Ext. 4340.

HANDSOME SINGLE WHITE MALE
35, 5', 6", brown hair, blue eyes, physically fit, great smile & personality, looking for cute SWF who is fun & open-minded for exciting relationship. Please call Extension 4310.

HI, SWM–
Compassionate, romantic, sincere, loyal, gentle, loving, touching (both physical and emotional), attentive, humorous and thoughtful. Those are the things I hold dearest. I can best describe myself as the road less traveled or off the beaten path. I enjoy seeing someone happy, boardwalk in the spring, fall, and winter, amusement parks, long drives to who cares where, fall when the leaves turn, sunsets, and sunrises. All these things I'd love to share. Looking for someone who can be crazy spontaneous as I can to. Me, I'm 46, 5'9, 225 lbs, fairly solid. People say I'm nice looking, my parents say I'm great. You, anywhere from 25-45, attractive, slim to a little over medium build, and crazy or want to aspire to it. Let's talk. Call ext. 4613.

I WANT A MAN IN MY LIFE–
This 4-year DWF, 49, Irish/German, non-smoker/light social drinker (seeking same), misses a special man in my life. I am pretty, Irish, 5'5" medium build, auburn hair, blue eyed, financially secure, college educ. legal secretary, classical music lover, who will make time daily for us. My likes are many--give me an enjoyable man with whom to do them. We will laugh, enjoy life, travel, you will be needed. You're unmarried, 5'9" to 6'1", are late 40's to 50's, coll. educ., seeking a 1 on 1 relationship, active. Bonuses: German, bearded, Gemini, work in law or business. Turn-offs: sexual gorillas, egocentric men. Please reply ext. 4477.
THIS ADVERTISER HAS ALSO CHOSEN TO RECEIVE MAIL. PLEASE SEND LETTER AND PHOTO TO: INTRODUCTIONS BOX 4477, FORBES NEWSPAPERS, PO BOX 699, SOMERVILLE, NJ 08876.

HOT OUTGOING SWF– 25 yrs., 5'14", 115 lbs. looking for SWM, smoker is O.K., no drunks, fatsoes, dead beats allowed. You must be interested in dancing, skiing, animals, being sensuous. Jealous people playing games need not apply. Please call Ext. 4579.

MAGIC MAN
This 52 year old- attractive, separated but available, JWM is a self-employed professional in search of a petite, sexy lady who is MUCH younger than I am for a long term relationship. I am a non-smoker, very light social drinker, with multiple interests ranging from modern novels to fast cars to Vegas. I raised two girls who are married and have their own lives. I miss having youngsters (not adult children) around the house, so if you have kids, thats a plus. Hopefully, you are a woman who can make decisions, understands the pressures of business, is impulsive, tender, has a good sense of humor, can even laugh at herself, and is willing to do something at the drop of a hat. And hopefully, you are a woman who needs both to give and receive lots of affection. If you can be introspective and thoughtful, if you like to roughhouse one minute and cuddle the next, if you aren't afraid of meaningful emotion or commitment, and if you are willing to try to work out your hangups (we all have them), give me a call. Please respond to ext. 4471

NEW TO SOMERSET COUNTY
44, divorced white female, healthcare professional, busy working on my degree at a weekend college, finally has the summer off. Haven't had a chance to make new friends. I'd like to get back to what I enjoy, natural living, outdoors activities like biking, hiking, long walks, rides in the country and exploring, all types of music from Reggae to Blue Grass, getting into shape, but most importantly good and funny conversations and friendship. I have an adventurous nature and I'm open to learning, sharing and having fun and taking risks (I just returned from a white water rafting trip in WV with my kids. What a blast although I was a little scared). I appreciate the absurdities that life can offer and can laugh at myself.(why else would I write this personal). I'd love to meet a patient man with similar interests who wants to explore (the Bridges of Madison County) with me this summer. Please respond to ext. 4479.

K. Hovnanian's newest homes are a shore bet

Community offers lakefront luxury

The Route 22 sign in Hunterdon County reads "New York 46 miles," but the forested hills, blue lakes and quaint villages speak of history, recreation and the slower-paced lifestyle of New Jersey's horse country.

Amid the natural splendor of Readington Township, where the Festival of Ballooning was held recently, K. Hovnanian will be building Lake Cushetunk Woods.

NEW HOMES

Set on a forested site sloping gently around a 40-acre lake near Whitehouse Station, this special "resort style" community will feature a variety of three- and four-bedroom single-family detached value-priced homes offering Lifestyle Choices options. Only by sharing the savings from its acquisition of the prime land at favorable terms can the company offer such values.

"We've had hundreds of calls even before we can sell homes here, which we expect will be early in the new year," said Ara Hovnanian, president of K. Hovnanian. "To respond to this interest, beginning this fall our sales office all be open by appointment. If visitors wish to select a home of their choice, we'll reserve that home on a priority basis until we can proceed further.

"We expect first Lake Cushetunk Woods move-ins late this coming summer, and the short delay will give growing families and those coming from older houses time to sell their present homes," said Mr. Hovnanian. "Readington Township features a top-rated school system, and the summertime is perhaps the best time for families to move."

"Certainly, today's incredible interest rates put home ownership within the reach of many families," he said.

Mr. Hovnanian noted that Lake Cushetunk Woods is designed with the ambiance of a resort community. Residents will be able to fish in the lake, walk in a natural setting which wanders along the waterfront and up into the hills, swim and play tennis in private on-site recreational facilities, and use meeting and game rooms in the community clubhouse.

"The site is perfect for recreation," Mr. Hovnanian said. "For many years it was a summer camp, with its meadows, lakefront and forests echoing to the sounds of happy children."

From their porches and decks, and through their windows, Lake Cushetunk Woods residents will share their land with the Indian trails and campfires of yesteryear.

But a few miles away they can catch a New Jersey Transit train for the glide to PATH or into Manhattan. Bridgewater Commons and its sister shopping malls, restaurants and entertainment centers surround Readington. Resi-

Hovnanian's newest development will feature quality homes like this one currently on display at another project.

HMFA helps minority homebuyers achieve dream

Since 1990, 25 percent of all loans have gone to minorities

TRENTON – The New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency (HMFA) has reported that since 1990 minority applicants have received more than 25 percent of all loans under the state's mortgage programs.

Christiana Foglio, executive director for the HMFA, said that financial institutions which participate in the state's mortgage programs have provided loans to 1,474 minority families and individuals since 1990. That figure represents slightly more than 25 percent of the HMFA's total mortgages of 5,847. The HMFA is the state's largest non-profit provider of below-market interest rate mortgages to residents in the state.

More than banks, mortgage companies and savings and loan institutions participate in the programs, which are funded by the sale of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds.

"The State's mortgage programs have proven successful with minority populations due in part to the active involvement of the lending community in New Jersey and our efforts at the state level to regularly disseminate program information to communities in the state," Ms. Foglio said.

She points out that many of the HMFA's participating lenders offer the state's mortgage programs as one tool for reinvesting in the communities they serve.

"The agency's programs are also very appealing to first-time home buyers due to our ability to offer a below-market interest rate through the sale of tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds," she said.

Finance agencies across the nation have been without their bonding authority since June 1992, when a federal regulation granting them that authority expired. When President Bill Clinton signed the federal budget bill, the agencies also received a permanent extension of that regulation.

Information on New Jersey's mortgage programs is available by contacting the HMFA's toll-free Consumer Information Line, 800-NJ-HOUSE, Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

The New Jersey Housing and Mortgage Finance Agency (HMFA) is a state bonding agency which sells tax-exempt and taxable securities to provide low-interest financing for single-family mortgages and multi-family housing developments. More than 50,000 families and individuals have received mortgages under the state's mortgage programs, and more than 100,000 live in multi-family housing produced with HMFA financing.

NJAWBO names Jean Burgdorff honorary member in Union

The National Association of Women Business Owners (NJAWBO) named Jean Burgdorff, chairwoman of Burgdorff Realtors, as an honorary member at a meeting held Oct. 13 in the Westwood, Garwood.

Ms. Burgdorff co-founded Burgdorff Realtors and was president of the company for 23 years. A national industry figure, and a well-known community leader, she has demonstrated support of woemn in business through employment and promotion, advisement, public speaking, and sponsorships. In the past year, she has addressed the Union, Middlesex and Somerset counties chapters of NJAWBO.

Brenda Rhodes, former president of the Union County chapter of NJAWBO, presented the award to Ms. Burgdorff.

"Jean does so much to promote women in business, and always makes herself available to NJAWBO," said current president Marilyn Culverhouse. "She knows our problems and has helped many of us. She leaves us feeling energized. After listening to her speak, we go out saying 'I can do it!' "

"During the 35 years of my business life, I have seen women business owners multiply and increase their effectiveness dramatically," Ms. Burgdorff said.

Ms. Burgdorff has received many honors, including recognition from former Gov. Thomas Kean for achievements as a business owner and woman. She was named business leader of the year for real estate by New Jersey Monthly in 1991; employer of the year by the Yardley Makefield Business and Professional Women's Association; and outstanding woman by the Summit YWCA's 70th Anniversary Committee.

Brenda Rhodes, former president of the Union County chapter of the NJAWBO, presents Jean Burgdorff with a certificate of honorary membership, while current chapter president Marilyn Culverhouse looks on.

WE'RE DOING THINGS RIGHT!

Marilyn Kelly, Manager

"Our Westfield office is the top office in Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors and has been the top office among Coldwell Banker Schlott's metropolitan area offices for seven consecutive years. The broad geographic reach of the Forbes Newspapers is particularly valuable to us, as it brings buyers from Hunterdon, Middlesex, Somerset and Morris Counties, as well as from right here in Union County. It is one of the things that helps to make our office so successful."

HOW honors builders

The Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Corporation of New Jersey recently announced its third annual Building Excellence Awards competition.

The awards program recognizes homebuilders' and remodelers' commitment to quality construction and customer service, and their overall contributions to New Jersey's quality of life through well-built and well-protected new and remodeled homes.

"Through the Building Excellence Awards Program we are able to focus industry and public attention on the outstanding achievements of New Jersey's homebuilders and remodelers," said Mary Caporaso, president of New Jersey HOW.

This year's awards competition among HOW program members features categories for remodelers, for homebuilders constructing less than $5 million in annual sales, and for homebuilders constructing more than $5 million in annual sales volume. There are also expanded criteria dealing with construction techniques and practices.

More specifically, this year's selection criteria include the following: the builder's/remodeler's track record in the HOW Program; construction site selection; foundation/structural designs; quality control/assurance systems; overall construction quality; customer service systems; industry involvement; external/business references; and construction management.

An independent panel of judges will determine the winners of these prestigious awards. Presentation of the Building Excellence Awards will take place in March 1994, in conjunction with the New Jersey Builders Association's Sales and Marketing Awards Banquet. The Banquet will be held during the annual Atlantic Builders Conference, in Atlantic City.

Bressman named Realtor of Year

SHERRILL BRESSMAN

Sherrill Bressman of Prudential Winhold Realty in Metuchen has been named the 1993 Realtor Associate of the year by the Middlesex County Board of Realtors.

It is the second time Ms. Bressman has earned the honor. She was selected from more than 2,300 associates in Middlesex County.

A resident of Edison for 26 years, she has been a realtor-associate since 1976. This year, she served on five industry-related committees, including the Million Dollar Award Committee at the local and state levels. She served as chairwoman of the State Sales Associate Committee, and as a member of the New Jersey Association of Realtors Executive Committee.

In 1991, she addressed a regional Prudential conference, and was featured panelist at the Prudential National Convention in San Francisco.

She has served on numerous industry-related committees throughout her career, including the door prizes, education, education foundation, installation dinner/dance, grievance, and program committees.

Ms. Bressman was named Middlesex County Realtor of the Year in 1990. In 1992-'93, she was a voting member of the NJAR's board of directors. She served as vice chairwoman of the NJAR's sales associate committee in 1992.

Hovnanian's newest homes are a shore bet

dents will find an easy commute to area corporate centers along Routes 22 and 202, I-287 and I-78. Readington enjoys a strong local economy with major Merck and Ethicon offices.

Adding to the surroundings, K. Hovnanian has designed traditional, family-responsive homes for community residents. The designs can include sun rooms, fireplaces, suites that can double as home offices, and energy control systems that can allow substantial savings on monthly utility bills. These are homes brightened by many large windows. They feature soaring vertical spaces with two-level rooms and interior balconies. The designs link the inside with the outside, offer luxurious and private master suites, and facilitate entertaining and monitoring children's playing.

"Because you view your new home as a longer term investment, we've found ways to add significant options that will allow you to more closely match your home to your lifestyle," Mr. Hovnanian said. Depending upon the home you select, the company's Lifestyle Choices program may allow you to choose a fourth bedroom, a family room or major family room extension, a basement or other significant options. All Lake Cushetunk Woods homes feature air conditioning and a 10-year homeowner's warranty. Buyers can personalize their homes often without additional cost.

The information office, located at 27 Highway 22 Eastbound in Whitehouse, should be open by mid-November. Prospective homebuyers can visit or phone to set an appointment. To reach the office, take I-287 North or South to Route 22 West. Proceed approximately 10 miles, until you pass on the right a sign marking Merck Pharmaceutical offices, followed by a golf driving range. Then take the first turn onto Route 22 East and look for signs close by Hoffman's Restaurant. To arrange an appointment, call 231-8768.

Ranch is a seasoned home

KERRIE HAGY/FORBES NEWSPAPERS

Hardwood floors and a bright window accent the dining room of 5 Clinton Place, Cranford.

Built in 1966, fine home has only had two owners

CRANFORD – Nestled in a cul-de-sac within an entirely residential area, this custom ranch at 5 Clinton Place boasts comfortable style and convenient location.

The home lists for $310,000 through Kiamie Agency, Cranford. Perched on a well-landscaped 80-by-125-foot lot, the home was built in 1966 by the first owner. The present owner purchased the house seven years later.

The exterior boasts vinyl siding, brick and a two-car attached garage. The home is conveniently located within walking distance of New York transportation, downtown shopping, churches and schools.

A new roof was installed in September, and the two-zone gas hot water baseboard heating system was installed about seven years ago with a new hot water heater. The rear yard is fenced, and a sunny 17-by-14-foot deck opens off the kitchen.

On the main level of the home the living room is a comfortable 15-by-19 feet, and features a picture window.

COVER HOME

The formal dining room is 12-by-15. The 11-by-15 kitchen also has a picture window.

A laundry room is 10-by-6. The master bedroom, with a private full bath, is 17-by-14 feet. Two additional bedrooms are 12-by-14, and 12-by-13. There is also another full bath.

A sprawling 18-by-50-foot recreation room dominates the lower level, and a 17-by-19 bar area is sure to be a favorite spot. There is also a utility room and a storage room on the basement level.

For more information, or to visit the home, call Don Curry at 276-2400.

English countryside set in Tewksbury

TEWKSBURY TWP. — The grace and grandeur of the English countryside can be found nestled at 45 Philhower Road on 3 acres of well-landscaped ground.

HOUSE TOUR

Listing for $995,000 through Coldwell Banker Schlott, the home boasts numerous attractive details, including two fireplaces and an English garden.

The 3-year-old English manor features a full, unfinished basement, four bedrooms, five baths, and a three-car garage. The exterior is stucco and wood, with a composition roof.

On the first floor, the living room is a grand 28-by-19. An even more spacious 24-by-47 foot conservatory is adjacent to the living room. Ample room sizes continue with the library, 18-by-23 feet of recreational space. The formal dining room is 19-by-19, and the kitchen is 14-by-19 with a refrigerator and dishwasher. A family/recreation room is 23-by-16. There is also a laundry and a full bath.

The master bedroom, at 19-by-19, dominates the second story. The master suite features a 12-by-19 foot sitting room with a fireplace.

Three additional bedrooms are 24-by-16, 16-by-12, and 16-by-12. There are also four baths.

Amenities include a security system, washer, dryer, a whirlpool, pantry area, attic, porch, and oak floors.

Vision Mortgage, with offices in North Brunswick and Toms River, has hired several new employees to support the company's growth and maintain its commitment to customer service.

Connie A. La Shells of Howell was appointed assistant controller in the North Brunswick headquarters. Stuart Levy, a Voorhees resident, was named head of the company's new King of Prussia, Pa. office. Kimberly Pascal of Somers Point has been hired as a financial consultant covering Atlantic County territory.

William O. Keleher Jr., president of The Prudential New Jersey Realty in East Brunswick, recently joined more than 50 Prudential executives from across the country in Atlanta to discuss residential real estate trends, and to project the real estate outlook for the remainder of the year.

Topics included changing consumer attitudes and real estate in second home markets. The executives represented more than 1,000 offices and 29,000 agents in Prudential real estate network.

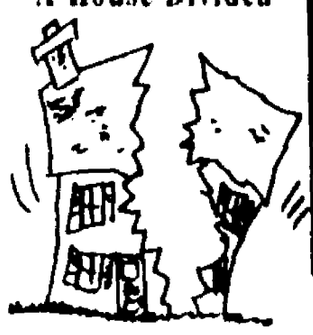
"A House Divided"



Bill Decker

The fellow with the beard, pictured on the left, once said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." As you may have guessed he wasn't talking about Real Estate or faulty architecture.

The bearded fellow pictured at the right, a professional Realtor for 17 years, says a properly "divided" home may be a good thing. If those divisions give you enough room to live comfortably - fine, if not-now may be the time to move-up! Call Bill Decker today for professional guidance and a free market analysis on your home. It may be worth the call- Honest!
