HINTON CHILDREN SENT TO THE HOME

Writ of Habeas Corpus Granted by Kimbrough Takes Them Away From Their Grandparents.

TWO ARE MATERIAL WITNESSES IN MURDER

ATTORNEY FOR FATHER WISHED TO FIND HOMES FOR THEM, BUT COURT ACTED.

MR. LEWMAN OBJECTED

He Thought They Should Be Allowed to Remain—Has No Objections to Attorney Visiting Them.

In pursuance to a writ of habeas corpus, granted by Judge Kimbrough, on application of W. L. Cundiff, counsel for John Hinton, indicted on the charge of wife-murder, Detective Kelley, of the police force, took Earl and Vina Hinton from the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter, 241 Oak street, to the Children's home late Monday afternoon. The children will be used as witnesses at the trial of their father, which has been set for Wednesday.

Attorney Cundiff represented to the court that Hinton had authorized him to take his four children and find homes for them, and he told Judge Kimbrough in whose homes he had planned to place them. Side's Attorney Lewman objected, and after hearing what both had to say on the subject, Judge Kimbrough said that he would take a middle ground by placing the two children wanted as witnesses in the Children's home, to be kept there until after the trial of their father.

Attorney Cundiff told the court that he could not see and talk with the children if they were kept away from him. He stated then where he could have convenient access to them and where they would be given good care and attention.

Mr. Lewman explained that no effort had ever been made to deprive Hinton's attorney from seeing the children in jail, he had himself more than one talk with them since the murder of their mother.

After he had been requested to find the two children and place them in the Children's Home, Detective Kelley said that on the morning after the murder, Earl, the eldest one, had taken the other three children with him to the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hinton, living on Franklin street, near Harrison street.

After Hinton and his wife had been taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Detective Kelley went to the home of the grandparents on Franklin street to make some inquiries about the four children, when he was met at the door, he says, by the grandmother, who said she had sent them to their other grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carter, 241 Oak street.

Jackson and Woodbury streets. Mrs. Hinton is asserted to have explained to the officer that they were too poor to take into their home their four grandchildren. But since what the children are likely to swear to at the trial of their father is considered to be of so much importance by both the prosecution and the defense, the Hintons are anxious for the possession of Earl and Vina, who testified before the coroner's jury that they saw the murder committed.

Detective Kelley says he felt sorry for Mrs. Carter when he went to her house for the children and found in all twelve grandchildren that she has been taking care of by washing and doing other work for her neighbors. The neighbors have assisted her, but the detective found that even with their help the old grandmother has had a hard time of it to keep so many children decently clad and fed. Yet it was a home perhaps as good as the four children of the accused murderer had ever had, and Earl and Vina cried bitterly when they turned away from it to go with the officer to the place where they are to be kept under surveillance, lest they be unduly influenced in the matter of the murder trial.

Both the children are said to have testified to the coroner's inquest that their father had assaulted their mother, which is a refutation of the theory that robbers committed the murder.

RICORD TELLS OF TARRING TEACHER

Kansas Barber Who Had Miss Chamberlain Riding on Night of Outrage Outlines His Conduct.

SUGGESTED HE ENDEAVOR TO COMPROMISE GIRL

SAYS ONE OF PARTY TOLD HIM IF HE WAS SENT TO PRISON GIRL WOULD ALSO GO.

IS TELLING HER STORY

Outraged Woman is Expected to Tell What Happened to Her on Night; Paint is Exhibited.

(By Associated Press.)

LINCOLN CENTER, Kas., Nov. 21.—Mary Chamberlain, she Shady Rest school teacher, facing Edward Ricord, her decoyer, and the three other men charged with complicity in the attack upon her, took the stand this afternoon and began the recital of her experiences on the night of the so-called "tar party."

While the spectators, who crowded every inch of space in the court room, listened breathlessly, Miss Chamberlain told with pathetic detail the story that men and women in this and adjoining counties had both dreaded and anxiously awaited.

(By Associated Press).

LINCOLN CENTER, Kas., Nov. 21.—Long lines of teams were hitched about the court house and the curbs for blocks in the business section of town before court opened today for the second session of the trial of Sherrill Clark, A. N. Simms and John Schmidt, charged with complicity in the tarring of Miss Mary Chamberlain, the young school teacher. The possibility of Miss Chamberlain telling her own story on the stand attracted visitors to court from thirty miles around.

The testimony yesterday of Edward Ricord, the principal witness against the school teacher, of Chester Anderson and Delbert Kindelsperger, has caused a hush to fall upon counsel conclaves in which the case previously had been largely discussed in the light of a joke. Grim details given in evidence have created a generally more serious view of what is now often styled the "county's disgrace."

Miss Chamberlain was at the court room early today, dressed in black.

Edward Ricord resumed his testimony today. Prosecutor McCamless said Miss Chamberlain probably would be on the stand as soon as Ricord finished his story.

Ricord told of meeting Sherrill Clark, one of the defendants, on the Sunday following the attack.

"What do you think they will do with me?" Ricord testified he asked Clark.

"If they send you to the penitentiary," the witness alleged Clark said, "Mary will go too, as I have evidence which will convict her."

A DISGUSTING SUGGESTION.

Attorney J. J. McCurdy, of the defense, took Ricord for cross-examination and the witness again told of Clark's endeavors to prejudice him that he take Miss Chamberlain driving, and detailed a plan they discussed for Ricord and the school teacher to be found in a compromising position by the "tar party."

An attempt of the defense to question Ricord regarding his previous acquaintance with Miss Chamberlain was stopped by an objection by the state.

"Has anyone told you that if you testified you had improper relations with Miss Chamberlain you would be sent to prison?" Attorney McCurdy asked on cross-examination.

Ricord was averse to answering, and asked the court if a reply was com-

OLD CORNER STONE OPENED TUESDAY

WORK OF REVEALING CONTENTS OF ANCIENT BLOCK BEGUN TUESDAY EVENING.

At 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon workmen employed in razing the old court house began the work of opening the old corner-stone which lies in the southwest corner of the building, facing on the Main street. It was expected that at least two hours would be consumed in opening the block, as the work must be done carefully to protect the contents of the stone.

There were various predictions as to what the old corner-stone contained. Some are of the opinion that a bottle of liquor is stored within and also old coins. It is more than likely that these predictions are about right, as at the time the court houses was built it was customary to place old papers and a jug of moonshine whisker in the cavity of the stone. If the stone contained a couple of the papers published at that time it is doubtless true that some of the older residents will be able to recall some of the incidents chronicled in them.

The old corner-stone is about three feet wide and four feet high and is set in the stone with the date 1870 on it. The receptacle in which it is expected the relics will be found is in the lower portion of the stone. It is not known whether the stone will be able to resist the ravages of time, but it is believed that it can be kept intact.

AN EARLY PLUNGE

GETS RAILROAD BY MAKING LOAN

Witness Before Steel Investigating Committee Tells How Rockefeller Got Control Property.

MARTZ CLAIMS HE WAS ORDERED TO PAD VALUE

MADE TO SELL STOCKS HE OWNED IN DULUTH, MESABA & NORTHERN OR LOSE JOB.

LOST IT ANYHOW IN A YEAR

Placed Value of Property to Railroad Commission at Higher Figure Than Really Worth.

(By Associated Press).

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 21.—How John D. Rockefeller secured control of the valuable Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad through a loan of $1,000,000; how the value of the railroad property is said to have been "padded" to make it appear worth more than $7,000,000, and how the road is now earning more than $200 a share in dividends, were told to the Stanley steel trust investigating committee today by Chas. H. Martz, formerly chief engineer of the road.

Mr. Martz, with some bitterness, told how he once owned 49 shares of the stock in the road, but had to sell it to the Rockefeller interests for $30 a share in order, as he claimed, to make his job "secure."

In response to questions by Chairman Stanley, Mr. Martz said that the Merritt Bros., who built the Duluth, Mesaba & Northern railroad, borrowed $1,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller in 1892 to extend their railroad into Duluth.

"I think that the loan was offered to the Merritts by Mr. Rockefeller through a man named Wetmore," said Mr. Martz.

He further testified that through this loan the road was extended to Duluth, and that the total costs of the road and docks at Duluth amounted to $7,700,000.

Soon afterward, in 1893, Mr. Martz declared that the control of the road was taken over by Mr. Rockefeller. He remained as chief engineer and when the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission brought suit against the road for a reduction of ore rates he said that he was directed by executive officers of the company in presence of Mr. Rockefeller's counsel, to make a report that the total cost of the road had been $5,000,000.

"I worked on this problem several times," said Mr. Martz, "but could not keep such a cost."

HELD JOB ONLY YEAR.

"How long after you failed to report such a cost did you hold your job?" asked Chairman Stanley.

"About a year."

The report which Mr. Martz did make at that time was submitted to the committee. D. A. Reid, counsel for the steel corporation, asked the Chairman what relation of the interstate commerce act he expected to show from this testimony. Chairman Stanley said he expected to show that abnormal rates are charged by this road and that last year it made a profit of more than $5,000,000.

Mr. Martz told the committee that he had owned 48 shares of stock in the railroad. Officers of the company borrowed 19 shares, which they said was for the purpose of raising money in New York. Soon after, Mr. Martz declared he never saw again.

"After that," said Martz, "Mr. Rockefeller sent the general manager to inform me that it was against the policy of the company for employes to own stock in the road, and asked me to sell for thirty dollars a share. I did sell it and that stock is now paying a dividend of $200 a share."

"Did you ever try to find out what became of the other 19 shares of your stock?" asked Representative Gardner.

"No," said Martz. "I was given to understand that if I did not investigate my job would be secure."

Asked in detail about the report on the railroad as finally made to the Minnesota railroad commission, Mr. Martz said the total valuation was placed at $7,982,000. In his report, he said, he had "padded" the cost considerably and had placed it at $4,382,000. The road, outside of equipment, could be reproduced for $2,500,000.

"Mr. Murray, private counsel for Mr. Rockefeller," he added, "told me that it was necessary to show a valuation of $5,099,000 for the road."

The Brooklyn Eagle says: "It looks as though Boyer's experiments were about to result in a culinary revolution that will displace pots and pans from the kitchen, prove more economical and make all food treated more savory."

JONES DEBTS WILL BE PAID BY RELATIVE

STATED FATHER-IN-LAW OF ABSENT ATTORNEY WILL COME FROM PANA AND PAY.

HE IS VERY WEALTHY

Schmitt & Leachman Take Judgment on Note Jointly Owed by Jones and His Wife.

Attorney Frank W. Jones' father-in-law, said to be the wealthiest man in Pana, Ill., has at his own request been furnished, it is asserted, with a list of the persons Jones owes and the amounts due them, with the object of coming to Danville and paying the indebtedness and the costs that have accrued.

The Pana man, whose name for the present is being kept a secret, is said to be rated at $400,000 or more. He with Mrs. Jones as his only child. He is said to have written a letter to one of Jones' friends in Danville, in which he said that the attorney would be assisted out of his present financial tangle and given a new start.

Deputy Sheriff Shepard, who let Jones owe him more than $80, has information that the Pana capitalist will be here and pay all Jones' just debts. The deputy himself says he is not worrying any over the amount that Jones owes him.

Tuesday in the circuit court, Schmitt & Leachman put into judgment a note against Jones and his wife, the whole amount being $84.25.

There is said to be not sufficient property with which to satisfy the executions that have been placed in the sheriff's hands. One attorney, who has investigated, however, says that the home occupied by the family, near Lincoln park, is owned by Mrs. Jones, who signed the notes with her husband.

Attorney Jones had not yet returned to the city Tuesday, and inquiries made at his home are said to have elicited the information from members of his family that it was not known when he would be back.

HAD TOO MANY SHOES AND ARE ARRESTED

TWO MEN IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF WESTVILLE DISPOSING OF ARTICLES CHEAPLY.

SAY THEY WERE GIFTS

Police Incredulous and Will Hold Them Until an Investigation Can be Made.

Two men were arrested early Tuesday morning on the Big Four tracks near the Little Vermilion mine, south of Westville, by Night Captain Gilman of the Westville force. They were endeavoring to sell shoes to the men at work there and the extremely low price they were asking led the authorities to believe the goods to have been stolen.

They gave the names of Robert Dance, Newman, Wis., and Rex Cutler, Boston, Mass., and stated when arrested that the shoes had been given them by a man at Paris, Ill. They had in their possession 20 pairs of shoes, a number of handkerchiefs and some other articles. They were offering the shoes for sale at $1.25 a pair and they were each wearing new shoes, although the rest of their apparel did not correspond with the shoes in any way.

The arrest was made at 7:00 o'clock and they were lodged in jail at Westville, where they will be held for 24 hours in the hope that something may be found out about them. The man giving the name of Dance is about 55 years old and the other about 24 years old. The are both rather disreputable looking characters and it is thought the goods have been stolen from some store.

LOCAL ODD FELLOWS GO TO SPRINGFIELD

LARGE NUMBER LEFT TUESDAY TO ATTEND GRAND LODGE AT CAPITAL CITY

WILL HONOR GUSTIN

F. M. Gaitin is Elected to Position of Grand Chief Patriarch of Marsh Encampment.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 21.—The grand encampments of Illinois, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, today elected the following officers: Grand patriarch, F. M. Gustin, of Danville; grand high priest, George B. Roller, of Canton; grand senior warden, J. A. Mosrer, of Eureka; grand junior warden, Norman Waltrip, of Whitehall; grand scribe, Sam J. Baker, of Olney; grand treasurer, Samuel Watson, of Champaign; grand representative, J. B. Brown, of Galesburg. The grand lodge of Odd Fellows will hold its first meeting tonight.

Since Sunday large numbers of local Odd Fellows have been leaving for Springfield to attend the seventy-fourth annual session of the Grand Lodge of Illinois, which will be in session in that city from Tuesday evening until Thursday evening. A large number of Odd Fellows from Bismarck and Hoopeston came here Tuesday and went over with the local delegation. M. R. Walker will represent Danville lodge 68 at Springfield; Chester Strehman will represent Vermillion lodge 986 and George Depke will act as representative of the Feuerbach lodge.

B. Johnson will represent the Marsh encampment. Other local men who went were J. A. Phillips, Dr. Joseph Fairhall, Dick Fox, Ira Mullen and W. W. Current.

F. M. Gustin, well-known local fireman, will be honored at this session with the election as grand chief patriarch of the Marsh encampment. Mr. Gustin is now grand high priest of the encampment and the position to which he will be elected is the next in order of succession.

It is expected that this session of Grand Lodge will be one of the largest ever held. One of the chief works will be to right an unintentional wrong done Norman Waltrip, of Whitehall, at the 1910 session. Waltrip was one of the nine candidates for the position of grand junior warden, the stepping-stone to the highest honors within the gift of the Illinois branch of Odd Fellowship. He was announced defeated and A. J. Maurer, of Eureka, was declared winner. Later a second examination of the ballots was made and it was found that on the fifth ballot, instead of losing by one vote as it was announced he had, Waltrip had really won by one vote. Rather than start a campaign to dethrone Maurer, who supposed that he had been elected, the friends of Waltrip started a campaign to elect him grand junior warden of the grand encampment unanimously. It is expected that the wishes of these friends will be carried out in an endeavor to right the wrong done Waltrip through a clerical error.

DECKEN WILL SPEAK.

At the opening session, Governor Deneen and John B. Cockrum, grand sire, will be the speakers. The cornstone of the grand lodge and the Rebecca Assembly will be very largely attended this year, if the early arrivals at Springfield of an unusually large number of delegates is any indication.

For grand warden the candidates are Charles Schroeder, Chicago; Fred Thompson, Kankakee; W. H. Pace,

A TONIC FOR THE STOMACH

Many People Who Think They Are Dyspeptics Need Only to Have Their Digestive Apparatus Toned Up.

Much of the dieting and treatment for stomach trouble is worse than the disease and often aggravates it.

Tone up the stomach to do its part and then cut down the diet to suit a small appetite. Reduced nourishment means reduced strength for the entire body, including the stomach. To restore this weak stomach to strength and health it must be supplied with plenty of nerve and blood, for every act of digestion needs healthy blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People get all the requirements of a good tonic for the stomach because they are an unequalled blood-builder. They make rich blood which they make stimulate and increase the flow of the digestive fluids, removes any irritability of the stomach, soothes and strengthens the nerves, and supplies the stomach with needed strength.

Mr. Howard S. Urban, a blacksmith, of Wrightsville, York Co., Pa., who was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, says:

"Two years ago I began to be troubled with indigestion and my stomach became so weak that I frequently had to vomit after eating. Food fell like a weight in my stomach and would ferment, causing gas to form. I was troubled with dizziness and when I stooped up suddenly after bending over I would see black specks before my eyes.

"I was under a doctor's care more or less of the time for six months but he failed to cure me. I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in a book, and concluded to try them. I got several boxes of the pills, as they were one from the first, and was completely cured."

For a more complete explanation of the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in stomach troubles, send today for a free copy of our booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should also be used in anemia, rheumatism, nervousness and sciatica because of their power to make rich, pure blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

BANKER CUMMINSG SENTENCED FRIDAY

IN MEANTIME ATTORNEYS ARE PERFECTING PLANS TO KEEP HIM FROM PRISON.

CERTIFICATE OF DOUBT

This Was Obtained When His Partner Was Sentenced and May Save Cummings for a Time.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Friday is the day set for sentencing William J. Cummings, the former Nashville promoter, who was found guilty yesterday of grand larceny, but before that time his attorneys expect to perfect plans by which he will be able, temporarily at least, to keep out of prison. The jury decided that Cummings took for his own use $144,000 deposited with the Carnegie Trust Co., which he practically controlled, as a fund to be held in trust for smaller banks.

This is the second conviction growing out of criminal suits that followed the collapse of the Carnegie Co. The first of Cummings' associates found guilty was Joseph B. Reichmann, president of the company, who was convicted of making false returns to the state banking department. Reichmann secured a certificate of reasonable doubt and is now at liberty, pending appeal. Cummings, it is expected, will attempt to get similar relief. If the certificate is denied, he will have to go to jail until the higher court settles his fate.

The third trial resulting from the Carnegie Trust Co. tangle will be that of Chas. H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, who is under indictment for bribery. It is charged that through his control of the city's deposits he forced the Northern bank to lend the Carnegie Trust Co. $130,000 to his own personal gain. The district attorney says that he will move to have the date of Hyde's trial set on Friday, when Cummings is arraigned for sentence.

POLICE ATTEMPT TO DEFINE GAMBLING

UNCERTAIN WHETHER MACHINE WHICH PAYS ONE FOR ONE IS CHANCE GAME.

What is gambling? This is the question the police department was up against Tuesday. An effort is being made to install some gum vending machines here. The machines, it is stated, pay one for one, giving down five cents worth of gum for every nickel, but occasionally paying more.

The question which is worrying the department is whether or not a machine which gives more than the customer expects can be catalogued as a gaming device and to properly place the machine it is necessary that gaming be closely defined.

PHILOSOPHY OF ALEX

Some days ago, Alex Huffman, head janitor at the court house, "gemmen of color, who lived at Dallas, Texas "befo' de wah," was leaning complacently against the door jam of the main entrance to the circuit court room, when Judge Kimbrough appointed one of the young lawyers to defend a man accused of a crime. Alex made the remark, without any reflection whatever on the ability of the young lawyer, that, as he interpreted the constitution, it meant that the judge must appoint counsel of ability. A middle-aged lawyer who happened to overhear the janitor's observation, replied with a little chuckle, "That's what I was thinking myself, Alex."

Now comes a supreme court decision, which says that it is the duty of a judge to appoint competent counsel—that is, not young, inexperienced lawyers. The decision is made in the case of Newton C. Blevins, found guilty of murder by a jury in Jackson county recently, and sentenced to be hanged.

In remanding the case for re-trial the supreme court says it is the duty of the court to appoint competent counsel that the defendant may not be oppressed and deprived of his rights. In the Blevins case the state's attorney had three assistants and the defense two young lawyers.

It seems from the decision of the supreme court that inexperienced counsel for the defense of persons charged with crimes or misdemeanors is that the attorneys must do considerable hard work and receive no compensation for it. The job is usually welcomed by the young lawyers as a means of acquiring experience. No one can refuse, for to do so would be contempt of court.

The recent decision of the supreme court in the Blevins case is a matter of considerable interest to the local lawyers, several of whom say, with Janitor Huffman—as great an admirer of the constitution as was the late former-President Grover Cleveland—"I told you so."

The Old Reliable Specialist

I Advertise when I do; I do what I advertise.

MEN who are in need of special medical attention should exercise judgment to the extent that they investigate their future happiness and success in life. Do not make a mistake in the beginning by placing your case with an irresponsible doctor, and then when he has failed in curing you imagine that all are alike. We know of this misfortune nearly every day. Consult a specialist—know you will never be the longest established, most reliable and successful; who owns his own office and sees and treats every patient personally; who is recognized by every patient he treats as THE MAN WHO CURES. If you want to be treated right, treat with him only.

Henry Ward Beecher once said: "I am glad the doctor cured my friend. I am glad that the doctor put it in the paper that he could cure him; and if any doctor is sure that he can cure disease and does not put it in the paper I am sorry. What a pity it would have been had this doctor with his wealth of science and experience, left him uncured." We will give you the same treatment and results that the Rev. Mr. Beecher's friend received. Call at once. Don't put it off another day. Consultation free. Matters Under no circumstances will I accept a case I think incurable.

The Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater, with its drums enameled in turquoise, is an ornament to any room, whether in the country or city home.

No home is quite complete without a Perfection Oil Heater. It is a necessity in the fall and spring, when it is too warm to start the regular heating apparatus, and too cool to be without heat. In the midst of winter it is often convenient as an auxiliary heater, as there are always some cold corners in a house.

The enameled heater always presents a nice appearance, as the enamel will not tarnish or burn off. It is not an "enamel paint," but it is the same as the enamel of your cooking utensils.

The Perfection is the most reliable and convenient portable heating device you can find. An automatically-locking flame spreader prevents turning the wick high enough to smoke.

ROADS DISCUSSED BY P. O. OFFICIAL

GEN. DEGRAW, HEAD OF RURAL FREE DELIVERY SYSTEM AT RICHMOND CONVENTION.

MAY ASK HIS HELP

Delegates in Favor of the Postoffice Department Spending Money for Better Roads.

(By Associated Press).

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 21.—The postoffice department's interest in highway improvement was made evident at the good roads congress today by Fourth Assistant Postmaster General P. V. DeGraw, who came representing Postmaster General Hitchcock. Mr. DeGraw is the active head of the rural free delivery system, whose carriers travel 500,000,000 miles over country roads each year.

There is a movement in the convention to ask the postoffice department to spend some of its appropriation for rural free delivery on the improvement of post roads, but officials of the department think this impossible. Rural mail carriers from the southern districts form a large delegation at the convention.

Senator Cullom's bill calling for the construction of seven national highways between Washington, D. C., Buffalo, Seattle, San Francisco, San Diego, Austin and Miami, will probably receive the unanimous endorsement of the good roads convention.

Evidences of the progress of good roads building in the south have surprised the convention. It is stated that during 1911 more than $10,000,000 was available for road building in nine southeastern Atlantic states, which represented 25 per cent of all the money spent in the United States for good roads during that year. It is estimated that the total expenditures for road building in the United States during the current year will amount to more than $140,000,000.

The convention today was turned over to the highway engineers and practical road builders for discussion and interchange of views. Harold Parker, former chairman of the Massachusetts highway committee, presided.

VAN PELT CONVICTED KILLING OF TINDALL

SENTENCE NOT YET PASSED, HOWEVER, ON SLAYER OF SECRETARY COURT OF HONOR.

(By Associated Press.)

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Nov. 21.—Chas. E. Van Pelt, who shot and killed Charles H. Tindall, national secretary of the Court of Honor, on Aug. 25 last, today was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury. Sentence was deferred.

Van Pelt had pleaded that Tindall drove him insane by repeated charges that Van Pelt's wife was short in her accounts as treasurer of the local Court of Honor. Meeting him on a street in the business center of the city, Van Pelt shot Tindall down without warning and surrendered to the police.

Witnesses for the state said that Tindall said he understood Mrs. Van Pelt was short and that he was sorry for her. Van Pelt said that after Mrs. Van Pelt resigned, Tindall would meet him in the street, make faces and jeer at him; that when he went home he would find his wife in a nervous condition, and that she had said she was losing her mind; that both of them would go insane. This continued until the morning of the shooting, when, after committing the deed, Van Pelt gave himself up to the officers.

The penalty for manslaughter is imprisonment for from two to twenty-one years.

CLAIMS RIGHT TO KILL MAN WHO RUINED GIRL

FATHER ON TRIAL AT PHILADELPHIA FOR SHOOTING MAN WHO BETRAYED DAUGHTER.

(By Associated Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 21.—Whether a father is justified in taking the life of a man who betrays his daughter and refuses to marry her, is a question that will come up in the case of Frank W. McMahon, who was placed on trial here today charged with murder of George A. Leary. McMahon is a saloonkeeper and Leary was a well-to-do dealer in real estate.

Leary was shot dead on a street corner in West Philadelphia last May. McMahon, when arrested, made a statement that Leary had betrayed his daughter and had insulted him when the subject of marriage was mentioned. At the coroner's inquest McMahon made a statement regarding his daughter's troubles, and the coroner promptly discharged him on the ground of justifiable homicide, but he was re-arrested on a warrant sworn out by Leary's relatives, charging him with murder.

McMahon's counsel refuses to disclose what the defense will be until he presents it to the jury.

SHEPARD HELPING IN CHAMPAIGN ARREST

ASSISTED SHERIFF OF THAT COUNTY IN TAKING UP ROBBER SUSPECT

IT HAPPENED AT GLOVER

Man is Said to Have Looted the Urbana Railroad Y. M. C. A. Building.

Sheriff Shepard, who has returned from a trip to Kankakee, arrived in Urbana in time to assist the sheriff of Champaign county in the arrest of a man who is said to have robbed the railroad Y. M. C. A. and lodging house.

The alleged robber hurriedly left Urbana, climbing aboard the first eastbound Big Four freight train that passed through the city, got off at a small station a few miles east, intending, it was believed, to go to Chicago by way of the C. & E. I. the crossing of which is at Glover.

The suspect was seen standing in the shelter of an interurban station as the car bearing the two sheriffs arrived. The manager of the Y. M. C. A., who had accompanied the officers, pointed out the man and a moment later the Champaign county sheriff had placed his revolver to the head of the thief and ordered him to throw up his hands, which command was instantly complied with.

While the Champaign county sheriff held the revolver close to the thief's head, the sheriff of Vermilion county thrust his hands into the man's pockets after the money that he was said to have taken from the Y. M. C. A. till.

"What kind of money was it?" inquired Sheriff Shepard, to which the other sheriff replied, "Most of it is small change."

"Well, here's a couple of handfuls of the stuff," said Sheriff Shepard, as he deposited a quantity of nickels and dimes in the hands of the Y. M. C. A. manager. Then he went back after more, and kept it up until an amount equal the money stolen is said to have been recovered. Meanwhile the man being searched, despite the circumstances against him, strenuously denied that he was guilty.

The sheriff of Champaign and the manager of the Y. M. C. A., with their prisoner and the loot returned by next car for Urbana, and then sheriff of Vermilion, happy that he had been of any service, continued his way home.

The man who is said to have committed the robbery is said to have been a tramp who was taken in, cleaned up, given decent clothes and a job at the Y. M. C. A. He was rapidly advanced until he finally became night manager.

The night that the robbery was committed some railroaders had found the place locked up and dark. Investigation by the day manager revealed the robbery. The robber had left a note to the head cook and the latter's wife, telling them that he was going to Chicago, where they would likely soon see him.

WILL MELTON LOST IN DAKOTA BLIZZARD

WITH TEN OTHERS, DANVILLE LAD WANDERED ABOUT FOR TWO DAYS.

Will Melton, a former resident of South Danville, and who is now living at Heddington, N. D., was lost in the recent blizzard there for two whole days and three nights. Melton, with ten others, composed a threshing outfit and were traveling overland with their machines, being about four hundred miles distant when the journey was started. About two hundred miles north and west of Heddington they were overtaken by the blizzard and lost their bearings. All through the night and for two days and two nights more they wandered about, finally striking the railroad, flagging a train, boarding it and abandoning their outfit for the time being. After the blizzard had subsided they returned for the outfit, loaded it on cars and shipped it home. Melton worked in the Commers Coal mine just before leaving this city two years ago.

HE MAKES DIAMONDS FROM LIGHTING GAS

A GERMAN CHEMICAL EXPERT CLAIMS HE HAS DISCOVERED THE ARTIFICIAL WAYS.

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—A new method of making diamonds has just been discovered by Dr. Werner Von Bolten, a chemical expert connected with the Siemens-Halske laboratory here.

The process is based on the decomposition of lighting gas by a mercury amalgam, whereby the carbon contained in the gas is crystallized into diamonds. As these diamonds are extremely minute, small bits of diamond dust are introduced into the apparatus, where they serve as mother crystals upon which larger diamonds are gradually built up.

The process is still in the experimental stage, and the diamonds are small, but it is hoped that Dr. Von Bolten's discovery may result in the solution of the problem of manufacturing diamonds by artificial means.

TRAINS CRASH AT CROSSING; ONE DEAD

SEVERAL OTHERS INJURED AT SYRACUSE BECAUSE ONE RAN BY SIGNALS.

IMPACT IS TERRIFIC

Locomotive is Turned Completely Over and Fireman is Buried in the Wreckage of It.

(By Associated Press.)

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 21.—One man was killed, four were seriously hurt and others were slightly injured today when a Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg passenger train out of Syracuse collided with a freight at the New York Central crossing near the iron pier.

Nicholas Snyder, freight conductor, of this city, was killed. Fireman Earl Hettler, also of Syracuse, was buried under the engine and his condition is serious. Thomas McGraw, engineer of the passenger, and William Bell, fireman of the passenger engine, also were seriously hurt.

There were two freights on the tracks. One freight went ahead and left a space for the passenger train to cross. The second freight train, or the passenger train, ran by the signals and the crash followed.

The impact was so great that one engine was overturned. The freight, consisting of fifty cars, a fast train, was loaded with live stock and merchandise. Six cars were crumpled up and many hogs were killed.

NOTES OF WIDE WORLD

At a Grosvenor square dinner party an elderly duchess had opposite to her a countess of American nationality. "You American girls," said the duchess, "have such poor complexions, haven't you? You look so pasty beside our rose-leaf English maids. What do our noblemen find so attractive in your yellow faces?" The American countess, blinded by no illusions, laughed coldly. "You see, duchess," she said, "it's not our yellow faces that attract your noblemen; it's our greenbacks."—London Opinion.

The ordinary man who receives money from you usually smiles; the tax gatherer never smiles and often scowls. Therefore, says the Matin, the French minister of finance, M. Klotz, has circularized his collectors as follows: 'Complaints have been received by the finance minister that certain functionaries or their subordinates show a lack of courtesy to taxpayers. Functionaries under his control, no matter of what standing, must always maintain an absolutely correct attitude toward taxpayers, and are to give them, whenever required, any explanations or information. Each man should also see that his immediate subordinates conform to the spirit of the circular."

By the time the Panama canal is opened the ships may sail through terraced green lawns instead of the bare yellow earth slopes now in evidence. The reason is not altogether an esthetic one, though the attraction of sailing on a big ocean liner through such a scene might well induce a few extra passengers to take the trip, just as the run up to Santos or the entrance to Rio de Janiero harbor is sufficient excuse for a voyage from Europe. It is believed that seeding the sloping sides of the canal through the cuts with a strong grass may prevent the slides now so frequent, and will reduce the wearing down by the tropical rains. An expert botanist from the Smithsonian institution has charge of an attempt to test this theory, for which purpose the agricultural department at Washington has sent down several thousand pounds of grass seed.

"Nothing detracts so much from our enjoyment at concerts and oratorio productions," says Kunst wart, "as the dress of the soloists. The dre coat, tail collar, white cravat and the ret of the 'ball' or 'opera' costume place the singer with his audience. How much better if he wore a distinctive robe of classic design." There is no suggestion as to how this "slipover" robe should be fashioned but the writer er hopes that artists will give the matter attention and submit designs. "That this concert robe shall entail additional expense is out of the question," he adds. "The judge in his robes is under less expense than he was when he sat in judgment wearing a frock costume. The concert robe should be as simple as possible, and its effectiveness will depend on graceful cut and quiet color.

The average human heart is a suction and force pump of remarkable capacity and durability. Each of its two chambers contains, on an average, 75 cubic centimetres, or 4.753 cubic inches, the total contents of 150 cubic centimeters or 9.15 cubic inches being discharged 81 times a minute, corresponding to a delivery of 12.150 cubic centimeters (12.15 liters) or 741 cubic inches per minute, 729 liters or 25.73 cubic feet an hour. Expressed in United States gallons the average human heart pumps through it each hour 192.6 gallons; each day 4,622.4 gallons; each year 1,687,176 gallons; and in the adult lifetime of a man living to the age sung by the Psalmist, 7,425,856. The pressure against which this fluid is pumped is equivalent to that of a water column 2 1-2 meters, or say 8 feet 2.42 inches high; otherwise expressed, about .242 atmospheres or 3.55 pounds avoirdupois a square inch.

Concerning newfangled words brought into fashion by a war, the most remarkable protest is Swift's of 1710, in the Tatler. He tells the war of the time responsible for "speculations, operations, preliminaries, ambassadors, palliadoes, communication, circumvallation, battalions." Nearly all of these are familiar enough now; but it must be observed that Swift was worried, not so much by the polysyllables themselves as by the fear that if war continued and the words remained in constant use people would insist upon abbreviating them. For his essay denounced such hateful abbreviations as "incog." "plenipo," (which he feared might become even "inc." and "plen.") and "mob." In some instances Swift's fears have been justified. We do things on "spec" now, and examines go in for the "law prelim."—London Chronicle.

People in Europe dislike New Zealand butter because it has a fishy taste. A chemist has recently discovered the cause. It is not due to any contact with fish, but to a certain kind of bacteria which, forms on the tegging in which the butter salt is shipped. If the salt is sterilised before use it is claimed the taste of fishiness disappears.

THOSE WHO WISH TO, CAN

The Philadelphia Hotel association is said to have joined the Commercial Travelers' league, which is organized to do away with tipping. The hotel managers are also said to be willing to pay liberally for any suggestion by which it will be possible to stop the giving or taking of tips.

Not that we care for the money, and in the full consciousness that we won't get it, but merely as an evidence of a lingering doubt as to the sincerity of the desire which would lead to such an offer, we will give the Philadelphians a simple and complete prescription of this acknowledged evil.

In the first place, they must pay their employes living wages, so they will not have to take tips to support themselves and families decently. This is fundamental, as the hungry will even steal, if they have to.

Second and last, let them announce personally, emphatically and conspicuously that any employe who takes a tip will be summarily discharged, and live up to it. If the employes are organized, any union will agree to this a decent wage scale in exchange for tips, and there you have it.

Clubs have no difficulty in cutting out tipping; most restaurants accomplish the same end by refusing their waiters the privilege of collecting for the orders they deliver, requiring all payments to be made to a cashier. Hotels can do it just as easily, if they really wish to do so.

REPUBLICANS JUBILANT

Republicans everywhere are jubilant over the returns from the elections of November 7th. The victories in New York and New Jersey were most significant and if maintained, point to a gain of two republican United States senators. Maryland elected a republican governor for the first time in many years and Rhode Island, where the tariff was the whole issue, went decisively republican. The majority of Governor Foss in Massachusetts was cut down from 35,000 to 7,000 but all the rest of the republican ticket was elected and Massachusetts will be in the republican column next year, as will all other New England states with New York and New Jersey.

The congressional elections resulted very favorably from a republican standpoint. In the first New Jersey district where H. C. Loudensalger received only 849 plurality last year, W. J. Browning received 3,000 this year. A republican was elected to succeed a democrat in the fourteenth Pennsylvania district. In the second Kansas district a democrat was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Mitchell, due to a factional fight, but the district will elect a republican next year—and the indications are that the republicans will have a good substantial majority in the next house of representatives.

POSTAL SERVICE SHOWS PROFIT

The auditor for the postoffice department, Charles A. Kram, has submitted to the postmaster general his annual report showing the financial conditions of the postoffice department for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1911.

The audited revenues were $237,879,828.60, the audited expenditures $237,648,926.68, and the surplus, after deducting all losses, $219,118.12. This is the first time since the fiscal year 1883 that the postal service has been conducted at a net profit to the government. In 24 months the condition of the postal service has resulted in changing a deficit of $17,479,779.47 for the fiscal year 1909 to a surplus of $219,118.12 for the fiscal year 1911.

During the fiscal year 1911 there were 81,906,027 domestic money orders issued, aggregating $890,084,432.52, and 4,060,418 international money orders issued, aggregating $56,681,311.55. The ratio of increase in the number of international money orders issued for payment in foreign countries was not as great by 15 per cent as it was one year ago.

In addition to the data usually furnished relative to revenues, expenditures, and appropriations, the postoffice department is, for the first time in its history, furnished with a statement of its financial condition showing the assets and liabilities at the close of the fiscal year. This statement shows that in addition to the funds in the hands of postmasters and others, more than $3,000,000 is held by the treasurer and assistant treasurers of the United States for the use of the postal service, and that more than $6,400,000 is similarly held for the use of the money order service.

LOOKING FORWARD

The tenderness, sacredness and devotion of Jewish family life are proverbial. Therefore a warning given by Rev. Dr. Rosenau to his Jewish congregation in Baltimore is distinctly startling. In his sermon last Sunday he said:

"Of ninety couples joined in marriage I have lost track, either because of their removal from the city or their non-affiliation with religious interests, and therefore account for but 272. Of these 272 couples 128 remain without issue, 144 couples have been blessed with progeny. Of these 144, 85 couples have the child, each, 51 couples two children, 5 couples three children, 3 couples four children and 1 couple six children, making in all 216 children as the result of 272 marriage ceremonies performed, or 544 persons united in wedlock, of whom I have at the present time definite knowledge.

"Every intelligent American knows that as luxurious living in this country increased the birth rate has decreased in the families of the well-to-do and prosperous. Such men as Colonel Roosevelt and Cardinal Gibbons have repeatedly called attention to the fact and pointed out the danger to the nation of this tendency. But the easy-going public has passed the matter lightly by as something that probably was not as serious as represented and could safely be left to take care of itself. And it was supposed that the immigration to rear children was confined practically to prosperous sons of native American families. But if it is also true of Americanized Jewish families there is good cause for apprehension.

"Colonel Roosevelt estimates that if the nation is to grow without the population which must some day drop away to a point where it will not exceed the emigration, the average family must have at least four children—two to take the place of the father and mother in the world and two to offset early deaths, cases of celibacy and like conditions. When all allowances are taken into consideration, it is readily perceived that the ratio is not excessive. If anyone will pass in mental review the families he knows he may be astonished by the small number of them that ever had four or more children.

"In this city the average is being kept above the danger mark at present by foreigners who yearly come to this country by hundreds of thousands. But they will not always be coming and it is a significant fact that their children, born in this country and given all its material advantages, are of no more value in replenishing the race than those whose first ancestors came over long ago.

"That Dr. Rosenau has observed in his congregation, though it may be a rare case, is something which should cause every American to pause and look into the future.

"It is not the man who whispers his words when he is reading the war news or roaring at easier time with the Chinese names than he did with the Russian generals when the Japs were walloping them.

"It is reported that the commander of the Chinese revolutionary army, who aspired to become the George Washington of his country, he may be qualified easily for membership in the Anaples club.

"Dr. Sun Yat Sen, now that he is to go into the senate, ought to change his name to one of man's size. And if he does it is to be hoped that he will not adopt any of the Chinese Christian names."

DAILY SHORT STORY

THE JEWELS OF THE DEAD

By PIERRE VALDAGNE.

When he entered his luxurious private office at the great Arudy Steel Works, Emile Benejacque found on his desk a small registered parcel marked "Personal" and a registered letter. The stamps showed both to have come from Pernambuco.

Emile Benejacque opened the letter first. It was very long, and, as he looked at the last page for the signature, he gave way to an exclamation of surprise:

"Oh, the thief! He dares!"

He read the letter.

"Sir:

It is today exactly ten years since Mme. Odette Benejacque died. You probably don't even remember it, as you married again so shortly after that terrible night which ought to stand engraved upon your mind and which dishonored me in the eyes of the world.

"The affair caused some sensation; but people knew only very little about the real tragedy, and it is time that I tell you the details.

"At that time I had apparently been your friend for years, though I really detested and despised you with all my heart. I detested everything about you; your way of thinking, your way of living, your success in life. You started your great business, you formed a trust, you bought up for a mere trifle the inventions of poor people who were starving, while they made you rich. I have known scores of men whom you ruined, while your wealth grew from day to day.

"One thing especially made me despise you—your love of ostentation, your all conquering vanity—and this would have separated me from you even if your wife had not been there.

"Your wife!

"Do you know who she was? How should you? You have been able to know? How should your coarse brain ever have been able to understand her noble qualities of mind and heart?

"You had made this loving and lovable woman, child of a poor, timid, downhearted creature who only feared you. You yourself killed the love she earnestly tried to give you.

"You used her for your own purposes. She was to spread splendor around your name by her magnificent toilettes and priceless jewels. She was to you only a living advertisement of the prosperity of your firm.

"From the very beginning you treated her with the utmost indifference. You only wanted her to be submissive and silent. You taught her to be so, but you also at last succeeded in making her hate you.

"I had the right to tell you all this, for Odette and I loved each other.

"Oh, you need not feel indignant in your quality of husband. We respected your rights, as I did not wish the woman I loved to be branded in your own eyes as a faithless wife. But, with all the fury of my dead hopes, I must cry out to you: Never has a faithful wife hated and despised the man whose name she bore, more than she did you. Day by day you revealed to her a little more of your contemptible qualities, which she refused to believe in with all her strength. How often did she not believe to have found in you a faint spark of something she might at the least respect, only to find there was nothing in you but conceit, vanity, selfishness and dishonesty. Your very smartness in business, of which you were so proud filled her with horror because of your utter unscrupulousness.

"Do not imagine that we refused ourselves the supreme happiness of belonging to one another because we cared for what the world would say. We merely wanted to preserve our self respect until the day came when nothing could keep us apart.

"It would take me two years to become independent. You know yourself that in two years I was to have had an important diplomatic post at Odette and I had decided to wait that long. When the day came I was to have claimed openly the woman I loved, who had been easy enough for her to get a divorce for statutory reasons, as you yourself are well aware, and we were to go together to Russia where the post as secretary of legation had been promised me.

"Alas, our dream was never to be realized.

"In October Odette suddenly fell ill. I was with her then. The change in her features, the almost metallic lustre of her eyes scared me. You treated her indisposition in a slighting manner that made me furious, you accused her of acting a part and, to emphasize your indifference, you went to your club.

"I shall never forget the expression of anguish and despair on Odette's eyes when she looked at me. She took my hand and said: 'I don't know what is the matter with me. It is a strange, severe illness, I feel. Let us pray that it shall not be too serious, for what would then become of us both?'

"The next day the doctor diagnosed Odette's very virulent case of typhus. You were so taken up with your business, so afraid of contagion, that you left her to the care of a nurse and a negro valet, near her room.

"I bribed the nurse and spent many hours at her bedside. Thus I saw her die with a last smile on her lips for me. I closed her eyes, kissed her cold forehead and rushed out like a madman.

"Ten years, sir, ten years! And still this memory hurts me as much today as if she had died only yesterday.

"I ran away haunted by one awful thought, that her dead body belonged to you. I would have given my life to have been permitted to bury her in some quiet, peaceful country cemetery, but she was yours and you decided to bury her in a splendid mausoleum in one of our fashionable necropoles in the centre of the noisy city.

"You did even worse.

"The day before the funeral I entered the bed chamber to look at my beloved dead for the last time.

"You had done things well. She was to have a funeral that society would long talk about. A few friends were kneeling at the side of the coffin. Two nuns were praying.

"I went up to her and looked at my beloved Odette, as beautiful as ever in death, but profaned in a way that harmonized well with your vulgar mind.

"In her ears you had put two enormous solitaries, which she had never worn. Around her throat was a necklace of priceless pearls, the necklace she hated, and her fingers were covered with diamond, emerald and ruby rings.

"All these jewels made my Odette look like some pagan idol. I could not bear the sight and went away.

"At the door a footman in black livery whispered into my ear a sentence he had learned by heart and which he had been ordered to repeat to everyone. It was the death chamber: 'In his deep sorrow, M. Benejacque has decided that all Madame Benejacque's jewels are to be buried with her, because she was so fond of them.'

"It was too much, sir, and I decided then and there to prevent your vanity from desecrating the dead any more. This was why I had been careful to make known was to be a last advertisement of your enormous wealth.

"But I who adored Odette and who would mourn her forever could not let her be buried to rest locked down with all those barbaric gems. It seemed to me an atrocious crime against the dead one to compel her to wear forever jewels which she detested, presents from a man she despised.

"No you had no right to do this. She was not to be buried thus branded, but to be put to rest in her plain white shroud.

"I bribed your valet to put a sleeping draught into the coffee given to the two nuns who were to sit up with the body.

"You were sound asleep in the night when I returned to the death chamber. The nuns, overcome with the sleeping potion, did not hear me. I was alone.

"For the last time my hands touched the dead. MY dead. It was horrible and still sweet. I freed her from you, I liberated her body from your profanation. I put an end to this atrocious advertisement of your pretended sorrow. I took the solitaires from her ears, unfastened the necklace with my hands, which did not tremble. I stripped from her cold fingers all the rings, with the exception of the one she had worn when a young girl, and I went away, convinced to have performed a sacred act.

"The next morning, when the theft was discovered, I was far away and my flight left no doubt as to who was the guilty one, so that none of your servants were suspected.

"Since then the thief has lived in another country under an assumed name. The memory of Odette still lives in his heart and will live there until his last breath.

"As for your jewels—YOUR jewels—I return them to you today, after ten years. You may give them to your second wife or sell them.

"I have the satisfaction of having saved Odette from the contact with which these gems which came from you and which, in spite of the death that set her free, prolonged the intolerable impression of your detested presence.

"He who ten years ago was GEORGES ARGUEIL."

Just by the Way

CRITICISM.

The Poet—What did you do with that piece of paper that was lying on the table?

His wife—I used it to light the fire with.

The Poet—Wretched woman! Didn't you know that paper contained a sonnet?

His Wife—I know it, dear. I read the sonnet.

CONTRARY.

Knocker—What is the meaning of that quotation, "The mind of man runneth not to the contrary?"

Bicker—It simply shows the difference between the mind of man and that of woman.

A COMMON SIGHT.

The Lady—Why didn't you speak to me on the car yesterday?

The Man—I didn't think you saw me.

The Lady—Why, I stuck out my tongue, and made all kinds of faces at you.

The Man—I thought you were adjusting your veil.

UNIVERSAL.

Jones and Smith and Brown and Green and Wilkinson and Poole,
Honest, clever chaps, and none are sentimental snobs;
Yet I have to laugh at 'em—for each one of 'em keeps
Souvenirs, like those to which a school girl turns and weeps.

Jones has got a ribbon of a faded shade of blue,
Someone wore it once when he was coxswain of the crew.

Smith, when he gets loaded, takes a package from his pocket,
Chokes, and shows you, secretly, a picture in a locket.

Brown—he's fifty, fat, and has a wife and grownup boy,—
Has a faded photograph that gives him guilty joy.

Wilkinson keeps letters, sort of quaint and picturesque,
Sealed with wax and ribbons, locked up safely in his desk.

Dobbs—say would you think that guy had ever been in love?
Once I saw him sighing o'er a dirty, long, white glove.

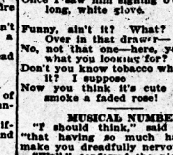
Funny, ain't it? What? Tobacco? Over in that drawer?
No, not that one—here, you lobacco, what you looking for?
Don't you know tobacco when you see it? I suppose
Now you think it's cute to try to smoke a faded rose!

MUSICAL NUMBER.

"I should think," said the poet, "that having so much hair would make you dreadfully nervous."

"Well," confessed the pianist, running his fingers through it, "it is a good deal of a shock, you know."

GETTING OUT OF IT.



Her—Sir!
Him—Huh?
Her—What do you mean by telling Miss Binks that I looked like a chrono?
Him—Why—er—I—I meant that you didn't look as if you were painted, see?

DINNER STORIES

Major John J. Dixon of the state boxing commission of New York said to a reporter, apropos of certain remedies for ticket speculating:

"These remedies promise to alleviate the evil but as well as the old landlady of the boarding house alleviated the leaking roof.

"A drummer put up for the night was under the roof. In the middle of the night, awakening from a dream that he was being drowned, he found a terrific thunder storm in progress, and the rain streaming in on him through a leak.

"'Landlady! Landlady!' he yelled. And in rose the yellow old landlady staggered upstairs and into the room with a big washtub. She plumped the washtub down on top of the drummer, and then said as she turned to depart:

"'There, now your jar all right, an' jist as soon as the tub fills up, you yell ag'in an' I'll have another empty one ready for ye.'"

A party of Manila army women were returning in an automobile from a suburban excursion when the driver unfortunately collided with another vehicle. While a policeman was taking down the names of those concerned an "English speaking" Filipino law student politely asked one of the ladies how the accident happened.

"I'm sure I don't know," she replied, "I was asleep when it occurred."

Proud of his knowledge of the Anglo-Saxon tongue, the youth said:

"Ah! Then, madame, you will be able to prove a lullaby!"

David Belasco was talking to an editor about an English musical comedy.

"It wasn't very fresh," he said. "They tell a story about it. According to this story, the manager took the librettist aside one night at Romano's and said:

"'Cut out all the old jokes—'

"'Yes?' said the librettist, turning pale.

"'Cut out all the old jokes,'" repeated the manager, 'and put in a lot of older ones. Our London public's always keen for something fresh.'"

FIGHT ON IN GRANGE FOR NEW MASTER

BOTH SIDES ENDEAVORING TO WIN MIDDLE-OF-ROAD FACTION OVER TO THEM.

(By Associated Press.)

Columbus, O., Nov. 21.—After caucusing the greater part of the night, delegates to the National Grange, meeting here, today went in secret session determined and expecting a bitter fight over the election of a new national master.

Both the regular and insurgent factions had their parts well rehearsed for this session. Both were bidding for the votes of the so-called middle-of-the-road element as their only hope of defeating their opposing faction. It was expected that in the event of threatened defeat the regulars would again urge the election of N. J. Bachelder, present national master, in the hope of swinging the middle-of-the-road faction to their side.

Both sides were reticent today upon going into the session about mentioning the names of their favorites, as they feared the opposition might swing the candidate to some minor office of their slate and prevent the furthering of their program.

A London paper recently published a long article on "Modern Dress." Writers now find it is said to be able to wear knickerbockers with more comfort than they could in the days of

ASPIRING WOMAN

BY UNCLE WALT.

Said Mary, in her Moated Grange: "The life I lead has got my goat; I surely suffer for a change, and so methinks I'll have to vote. I'm tired of holding on my knees Angora cats and dogs, I wist; I'm tired of pink and yellow teas, I'm tired of playing bridge and whist. I'm tired of reading at the clubs long papers that I got by rote; I'm tired of arguing with dubs, and so methinks I'll have to vote. My husband's life is picturesque, no trace of ennui can he know; he merely labors at his desk, and digs up wealth for me to blow. When he was but a humble clerk, and drew the slimmest sort of pay, I used to stay at home and work, and then I sang the livelong day. But when we prospered, and the dough came rolling in, I turned work down; I hired me servants, and would go do every jamboree in town. I haven't washed a dish in years, or stewed a prune, or swept a floor, and I am tired and wet with tears, and my poor heart is sad and sore. An idle woman's life is vain, her thoughts are oft too fierce to quote; my futile days give me a pain, and so methinks I'll have to vote."

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

"There was a man who lived to be one hundred years old, and the people who knew him said he knew how to forget disagreeable things. He mastered the art of saying pleasant things; he did not expect too much of his friends; he made whatever work came to him congenial; he kept his nerves well in hand and inflicted them on no one; he retained his illusions and did not believe all the world wicked and unkind. He relieved the miserable and sympathized with the sorrowful; he had a warm heart and an open hand; he always tried to do something for some one. He did not look for immediate reward from any act of kindness. He paid no attention to ingratitude in his make-up," had no ingratitude in his mike-up."

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Is it possible for anyone to learn eleven different languages? LINGO.

It is not only possible but has been done. The famous Mezzofanti could speak fluently and correctly no less than 55 languages. In fact, he learned so many that he nearly forgot his native Italian.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—Will tan shoes be worn this winter and next spring and do you advise me to get a pair? I have a tan dress. While in a theatre should you keep on your long kid gloves, or take them off, while the performance is going on? What can I give my young gentleman friend for Christmas. Please mention several things.

A BLOND XMAS SHOPPER.

You will be safe in getting tan shoes as they will be popular during the winter and spring. It is not compulsory to keep the gloves on in the theatre. If you feel more comfortable with them off, remove them. Christmas gift for a lover: A book, a permanent calendar, handkerchiefs, gloves or a muffler.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I have a son who has, for some time, been confined in an insane asylum. I am sure he is well now, but the authorities will not release him. What would you advise me to do?

DISTRACTED MOTHER.

You may be quite certain that the doctor knows far more about your son's case than you do. The authorities have no object in keeping him in the asylum if he is all right. They, no doubt, would be glad to release him and thus save the cost of caring for him, but their duty to the public prevents them from doing so. You should trust the doctor and be guided by him. He will release the boy if it can be done with safety. If there is danger, it will be better for your sake, and his own as well, that he should be kept for some time longer under responsible care.

A HOUSEHOLD MEDICINE

That stops coughs quickly and cured colds is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Mrs. Anna Fuller, 2528 Jefferson St., So. Omaha, Neb., says: "I can recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound as a sure cure for coughs and colds. It cured my daughter of a bad cold and my neighbor, Mrs. Benson, cured herself and her whole family with Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. Everyone in our neighborhood speaks highly of it."

WABASH FIREMAN'S CLOSE DEATH CALL

ORA JACOBS SCRATCHED, CUT AND BRUISED WHEN DRIVING AXLE BROKE

RUNNING VERY FAST

Train Was Near the Station of West Point When the Right Forward Driving Wheel Let Go.

(Commercial-News Special.)

ATTICA, Ind., Nov. 21.—Ora Jacobs, fireman on the east-bound plug run 50 of the Wabash railway, was badly injured and the lives of one hundred passengers were imperiled Monday night when the forward driving axle of passenger engine 570 broke as the train was rushing toward the station of West Point at a high rate of speed. The right main driver and the short section of the broken axle were thrown from beneath the engine, breaking the rods and causing the jagged ends to thresh about and tear the cab to pieces and rip the light machinery from the sides of the engine. Charles Preston, the engineer, escaped injury by almost a miracle, but the fireman was not so fortunate, being badly cut about the face and body by the splinters and glass from the cab which were driven into him with terrific force.

The train was about thirty minutes late and it was nightly after 8 o'clock that the axle broke under the engine. The train was No. 50, which runs nightly from Decatur to Lafayette, and carries a large number of shoppers out of Danville.

A switching engine was sent from Lafayette to West Point to drag the crippled engine to the passing track and then take the coaches with the passengers into Lafayette. Fireman Jacobs was placed on board No. 5, the west-bound fast mail and taken to Decatur to receive treatment in the hospital at that place.

No. 5 was delayed an hour and forty minutes by the accident. Engine 570 is one of the machines built by the Wabash railway in the company shops at Springfield in 1891 and has been an excellent piece of machinery.

KEWANEE WILL PLAY LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL

IF BOTH WIN GAMES SCHEDULED FOR THE COMING SATURDAY IT IS SAID.

Kewanee and Danville, the only two high school teams in the state which have not been defeated will clash here on December 2 if neither of the teams is beaten in games scheduled for next Saturday. In the event one of them is beaten the other stands supreme, but if it should happen that both are beaten Jacksonville, Kewanee and Danville will be tied.

The following special dispatch from Kewanee appeared in various Chicago papers Tuesday:

KEWANEE, Ill.—Urbana's team which had loomed up during the last week as a candidate for the downstate high school championship, was defeated so decisively by Rockford Saturday that no challenge will be forthcoming from the eleven in the university town of the claims of Kewanee and Danville to the initial honors. The strong Rockford team found a worthy opponent in the Urbanaites, but downed them after a good fight, and thereby cleared up all complication that might have arisen in the championship race had the result been otherwise.

The situation as regards the down-state hopes has been little changed as a result of Saturday's games, even though the two contests in which Kewanee and Danville figured were among the hardest these teams have had this year.

Should Kewanee and Danville both win the contests now before them—Kewanee with Rockford Thanksgiving day and Danville with Jacksonville—a post-season match may be arranged between them to settle the question of supremacy between the champion of the north half of the downstate section and the champion of the south half. On comparative scores and other information available the strength of the Kewanee and Danville elevens appears about equal.

GYM WON TWICE FROM BATTERY A

MONDAY NIGHT'S GAME PROVED AN EASY VICTORY FOR THE GYM TEAM.

On Monday night the indoor baseball teams representing the Danville gymnasium and Battery A met in the armory for the second contest between the two teams. The game resulted in victory for the gymnasium team by a score of 19 to 7. Battery A was defeated in the first game also. The game was full of sensational plays and showed that the indoor game may have its thrills as well as the outdoor game. Pitcher Cole, of the gymnasium team, did himself credit in one session, when, with three men on bases and only one out he kept the next two men from hitting the safe.

This will probably be the last independent game of the season between the two teams, as the indoor baseball season will be officially opened on next Wednesday night, when a double-header will be played in the armory by the four teams, who as members of the Danville Indoor Baseball league will contest for the city championship. Henceforth the teams will meet on every Wednesday night in accordance with the schedule recently published in The Commercial-News. The four teams in the league are the Imperials, Battery A, Company I and the Danville gymnasium.

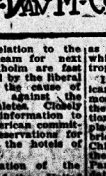
Sport Snap Shots
by Dan McCarty



That matters in relation to the American Olympic team for next year's sports in Stockholm are fast taking shape is attested by the liberal commission to further the cause of American supremacy against the world's greatest athletes. Global following this is the information to the effect that the American committee has cabled for reservations for one hundred men in the hotels of Stockholm and vicinity.

This vast aggregation of the muscle and brawn of the United States is to be assembled from over the various team over next year, and of this 50 are track athletes, as seventy men comprised the squad which corralled the points and the trophies at that time in England.

In order to further increase American athletic interests it has been almost definitely decided upon to have the scenes of the "tryouts" for positions on the team in the following places: Harvard Stadium in Cambridge, for the eastern contestants; Chicago University field for those of the middle west, and Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, for the candidates of the Pacific and Pacific northwest sections.

In the east it has been generally conceded that Harvard is pretty responsive to calls for attendance upon the holding of any athletic series of high class. With that well-defined point a sufficient guarantee that the sports will be well supported and from the fact that the contests will be held on what is the accredited fastest foot-racing ground in America, a crowd the equal of that of the famous international series of 1895 is anticipated, with the results of the events probably equaling in competitive excellence that record-breaking meeting.

Chicago and San Francisco are also keen for representation on the team, and with the host of western collegians and athletic club men to choose from it seems quite likely that there will be many athletes from those sections in competition.

Kid Kilpatrick may be the next manager of the Athletic club.

Johnny Kilbane wants $4,000 to meet Abe Attell who has accepted $7,000 to be end of the fight in Vernon, Cal., Nov. 29, for the featherweight championship.

The naval title "admiral" is derived from an Arabic phrase which means "Lord of the sea."

Jimmy Lewis, of the Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast League, believes that he is the only player who has participated in two 14-inning ball games.

In addition, he recently played in that 21-inning drawn battle between Sacramento and Los Angeles.

The total number of innings played by Lewis in these three games was 69, or nearly eight ordinary games. The average time of the three would be a contest of 22 stanzas, or five frames longer than two regulation contests.

Lewis' first appearance in an over-time battle of extreme length was in 1909, when as a member of the Frisco club, he went through a 24-inning game with Oakland. A few weeks ago he figured in the two-dozen inning affair between Sacramento and Portland. The 21-frame struggle between Los Angeles and Sacramento was the third freak contest in which he performed.

HO FOR THE RUBBER-EDGED SAFETY KNIFE! MAKES EATING A PLEASURE—BY MORRIS MILLER

BAIL JUMPER CAME BACK OWN ACCORD

WHILE DEPUTY SHERIFF TOM SHEPARD WAS IN HANNA CITY LOOKING FOR MAN.

PERRY O'NEIL RETURNED

And Gave Himself Up—Was Charged With Wife Abandonment—Had Jumped His Bail.

Perry O'Neil, arrested at Hanna City, Ill., last Saturday on the charge of jumping his $200 bond, in Danville, several hours ahead of Deputy Sheriff Tom Shepard, who had gone after him. Deputy Shepard must have passed O'Neal on the way, for they started in opposite directions at about the same time.

O'Neil made known to Sheriff Shepard, Monday afternoon, his presence in Danville, and explained how it was that he had not waited in Hanna City for the arrival of Deputy Sheriff Tom Shepard.

O'Neal said that he was in the office of Chief of Police Marshall at Hanna City when the latter obtained the telegram from Deputy Sheriff Foulder, requesting that he be held a prisoner there until the arrival of an officer from Danville.

O'Neal asked the chief of police to permit him to read the telegram, and after having made himself acquainted with its contents put it into his pocket with the remark that he was going to Danville. Taking up his suit-case, which he had carried into the office, O'Neal deliberately left that office without as much as a word of protest from him, and boarded the next train on which he could come to Danville.

It is expected that there was a warm session between Deputy Sheriff Tom Shepard and the Hanna City chief of police, when the former arrived and learned that he had only to find the prisoner gone. It was said by the sheriff's office that had the Hanna chief of police telegraphed or telephoned the sheriff's office here, the expense and time of Deputy Sheriff Tom Shepard might have been saved. It is probable that Deputy Shepard compelled the Hanna City officer to pay the expenses.

O'Neal says he came back as soon as possible after being informed that he was wanted here on the charge of deserting from his bondsmen.

TELLS A QUEER TALE.

O'Neal tells a queer tale in connection with the manner in which he became the possessor of the telegram which Sheriff Shepard sent to the Hanna City authorities. He says that when he was arrested he was locked up and then started for Danville in charge of O. A. Sellburg, a local Sher-

NO BETTER WAY TO BREAK A BAD COLD

Hondy Cures the Most Severe Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in Just a Few Hours.

The most effective and harmless way to cure the Grippe or break a severe cold, either in the head, chest, stomach or limbs, is a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

You will distinctly feel the cold breaking and all grippe symptoms gone after the first dose. It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic aching.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

Millions of three years' research we have conclusively demonstrated that quinine is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

lock Holmes. When they reached Peoria where a change of cars had to be made they strolled along the streets and gazed at the tall buildings and entered places where swing doors and large mirrows against the side wall, and drank various mixtures.

They then strolled towards the union station and entered the big waiting room. Here O'Neal says he began to tell the officer of the intense temperance leanings of the Danville sheriff which amounted almost to intolerance. He suggested that they take something to kill the smell of whiskey. It was simply another kind of booze and O'Neal says that Sellburg after rubbing it into his mustache and eyebrows was soon fast asleep. Then O'Neal says he slipped out and boarded an Illinois traction car and came to Danville alone. Part of the story is confirmed at the Peoria end by a station policeman who assisted Sellburg to look for the escaped prisoner, until after he had been informed that O'Neal had boarded an interurban car some hours before.

In the meantime O'Neal is enjoying his liberty in this city, but under orders from the sheriff's office he will be arrested as soon as seen.

MAIL POUCH FOUND WITH CONTENTS GONE

LEATHER RECEPTACLE STOLEN FROM C. & E. I. DEPOT, CUT OPEN; EVERYTHING GONE

MAIL OF MUCH VALUE

Was Taken—Post Office Authorities Are Checking Over The Lists Of Registered Mail.

A mail sack, slit open and every letter removed threfrom was found in the alley in the rear of 807 Collett street at 6 o'clock Monday night by the householder. The sack was seen lying in the alley as the man was getting in the coal supply for the night. He immediately went to the telephone and called up police headquarters. A number of officers were sent out.

There was considerable mystery about the sack and rumors were afloat during the night as the various amounts taken. The post office authoratives have wired for some of the secret service operatives and the entire police force of the city has been instructed to keep a sharp look out for the culprits.

The sack was one of a number sent from the Danville post office in the late hours of the afternoon to be sent out on a late train Monday night to Evansville and Terre Haute. There was considerable mail matter contained in the pouch.

That the thieves were desperate and did not intend to allow anything to escape them was evidenced from the fact that every letter was removed and carried off. Sometime and somewhere, if the men are not caught before Tuesday morning, a lot of opened letters will be found scattered about some favorite resting place of the thieves.

In the olden days a cordon of officers would have been thrown around "Bum Hollow" located on the C. & E. I. north of Voorhees street, but traffic has changed and there is little likelihood of any robbers being in camp there.

Although there has been numerous thefets of sacks from the stations at Danville Junction, Monday night's affair was one of the most mysterious.

The police learned Tuesday morning that the pouch had been made up at the local office on the night of Nov. 15 and was to have been dispatched on C. & E. I. train 93 on the 16th. A small paper tag, which slips into a holder on the bag, was found in the alley near where the pouch was discovered. It has been ascertained that the mail pouch left the office here, was taken in the wagon to the function and placed on a truck there. It was probably taken from the truck and rifled.

MARKETS

WHEAT DECLINES BUT CLOSE IS STEADIER

RENEWALS OF DAMAGE BY STORM IN ARGENTINA IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE LOSS.

SHORTS COVER CORN

Nearest Hardens and Close is Steady; Oats Follow Corn and Provisions are Lower.

(By Associated Press).
CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—An unexpected increase in the visible supply reported today in giving the price of wheat an upward tilt. The falling off, which amounted to 1,440,000 bushels, compared with last week, drew attention to the fact that the total is now more than 12,500,000 bushels more than at the corresponding time a year ago. The opening was 1-2c to 1-3c higher. May started at 91 1-8 to 1-4, a gain of 1-3 to 1-2c, and afterward fell back to $100 1-4c.

Denials that important damage had been done by last week's storm in Argentina lead to a further decline. The close was steady, with May at 99 1-4, a net loss of 1-2c.

Corn eased off on account of quite large deliveries of the new crop. May touched a new low mark. Trade was dull at 1-2@5-8c to 5-8c, and declined 1-3c.

Subsequently the market hardened, shorts covering and longs reinstating. The close was steady at 64 3-4@7-8c May, a gain of 1-4@1-2c.

Oats followed corn. May started the same as last night to a sixteenth off, but a net loss of 1-2c.

Provisions were lower.

Large offerings proved too much for the provision market. Initial sales were 2 1-2c lower to a like amount up, with the May deliveries at $16.62 1-2 for pork; 19.45 to 19.47 1-2 for lard, and $8.67 1-2 for ribs.

WARRANT FOR ONE IN AUSTIN DISASTER

SUPERINTENDENT OF PAPER COMPANY WILL BE ARRESTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 21.—Frederick J. Hamlin, superintendent of the Bayliss Pulp & Paper Co., the bursting of whose dam on Sept. 30 brought death and destruction to the town of Austin, was served today with a warrant charging him with manslaughter.

He was not arrested, and left Austin for Coudersport to consult his attorneys.

It is stated that similar warrants have been issued for George C. Bayliss, president of the company, and for James Bailey, watchman at the dam.

The Coroner's inquiry into the disaster will be resumed here this afternoon.

pulsory. Told that it was, Ricord said:

"Yes, Sheriff Wolford told me."

"Did you know when you started on the trip that the intention was to tar Miss Chamberlain?" asked Attorney McCurdy.

"I did not," he answered.

On re-direct examination Ricord testified that he had made two advances while Miss Chamberlain was buggy, and that Miss Chamberlain had repulsed him.

SHERIFF DENIES.

Sheriff Wolford followed Ricord on the stand. The sheriff made a general denial of Ricord's charge against him.

Details of a meeting at Sherrill Clark's Shady Rest Hall to plan the attack were recited by Watson Scranton, the next witness. He recently pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and is now awaiting sentence.

According to Scranton, Sherrill and Everett Clark, Chester Anderson, A. Simms, Jay Fitzwater and James Hoose helped plan the attack.

Sherrill Clark, John Schmidt and A. N. Simms did not participate in the attack, Scranton said, but he met them on the road "headed for the party."

Exhibit "A," a varnish cane with a corn cob stopper, said to contain paint like that with which Miss Chamberlain was tarred, was introduced in connection with the testimony of Everett Clark, a convicted member of the party. Clark said there was paint of the same kind in his mill, but he would not admit he had furnished the "tar" spread on the school teacher.

NO PERSON LUCKY ENOUGH FIND WORDS

SEARCHERS OVERLOOKED THE WORDS FOR ANOTHER TIME SATURDAY.

The words stricken from certain advertisements in the Missouri Word editor were sure enough puzzlers Saturday. No one found them and the Prize for Monday's issue could itself, two dollars being offered for that day.

Daily this contest is growing in popularity and the number of answers is on the increase. It was not believed that the throwing open of the contest to country subscribers would make so much difference. Saturday night, Sunday and Monday morning hundreds of replies came to the office.

Winners of prizes for this week will be published next Tuesday and thereafter each week the winners will be given on Tuesday. Watch the Tuesday papers. Your name may be there.

TALKS WITH OUR WOMEN READERS

By EDNA K. WOOLEY.

"I'm tired of having people lecture to us housewives about what we should and shouldn't do," remarked a middle-aged matron; and indignation vibrated on her tones.

"I'm always willing to consider advice and to follow it when it suits my case," she continued. "But when a lot of people think they have a perfect right to get up and tell me my business, when perhaps all the experience they ever had in their lives was it baked me kind of mad.

"Now this business of ordering over the telephone—

"Well, I told right and left that it's wasteful. We are pointed out as extravagant if we don't go to market ourselves every day, to select the family's eatables.

"Now I admit that where a woman hasn't much else to do than market, she can find bargains by hanging a basket and a shopping bag on her arm and going to market.

"I would advise the basket and the shopping bag, because if you wait for delivery some of the things you buy won't come as exactly fresh. Moreover, I've known it to happen that things get kind of mixed when ordered over the 'phone sets in.

"Moreover, if you're really going to be economical, you spend car fare to go downtown to the city market, if you shop around at the various stalls, where you find what you want at the best price; and that means the bag and basket are necessaries.

"But I want to tell you that carrying a full basket and a stuffed bag is no joke. It takes a strong woman and I've seen men grunt under such loads.

"The only way you can do that kind of shopping profitably is to own an automobile and load it up with your purchases. Like a good many other things, going to market is a privilege for the well-to-do.

"Now you take a woman in my circumstances.

"We just can't afford to spend the time necessary for marketing. I do my own housework. I have three children to take care of—one of them a baby. I bake and sew. I try to get in a little recreation here and there—a club afternoon, or a few hours with the church aid society, or a visit with friends. I consider these bits of recreation as necessary to my health and the well-being of our home as is to a well-provided table.

"I save time wherever possible; and one of the timesaving methods is ordering my groceries and meats over the telephone.

"Now I pay a little more and maybe I don't always get the best quality. But on the whole we fare pretty well. The grocer and butcher treat me squarely, and I've found, as a rule, that my telephone orders are filled pretty satisfactorily.

"Why shouldn't they be, when it comes to that? The grocers and butchers are anxious to keep a good customer, and they're going to deal as fairly as they know how with that end in view. They know that any sort of what isn't right is going to be sent back, and they don't want to waste time and goods any more than they can help.

"The telephone is the housewife's blessing. I order not only meats and groceries with it, but often order things I want from the downtown shops. It's really wonderful how much they know what I want and how seldom a mistake is made. I save an immense amount of time that would otherwise be wasted in the trip down town and back, and pushing about among the downtown crowds—to say nothing of the wear and tear on my strength and nerves.

"I suppose that would be called another extravagance by those 'high household experts.' But the fact is I'm saving doctors' bills and temper and illness that can be more profitably employed.

"The sensible woman, it seems to me, has something to do besides wear herself out in unnecessary trotting around in unnecessary heat.

"Once upon a time a woman wasn't really considered virtuous unless she killed herself over work next Sunday and family. That's why she was put at such a low valuation.

"Now I think we're learning to use our brains and to take advantage of the opportunities furnished to save time and labor and give us better living. To live wholesomely and interesting lives, there are still some of the has-beens who try to push us back into old conditions.

"As fast as we can afford it I am introducing all the new labor-saving devices in our home. My husband is just as enthusiastic about it as I am, and he tinkers with them just like a boy with a new toy. And my wife in the hand is worth two on the shelf, and as long as we can get along with mechanical servants instead of the kind that 'give notice,' he's 'wid me.' The telephone is one of those mechanical servants, and I use it whenever possible.

"Now, if you'll excuse me a moment I'll give my order for the dinner supplies. It's 8:30 a. m., and by 10:30 the stuff will be here. Meantime I will finish up my housework, which I would have to leave until afternoon if I went to market."

Canada's loss by fire within the last two years was $47,000,000, a per capita tax of $3.25 per annum. This is a loss far greater than that of any other country. ACCUSED MAN HURLS LIE AT PHYSICIAN

BERTRAM SPENCER BECOMES SO VIOLENT IN COURT HAS TO BE OVERPOWERED.

MAKES SERIOUS CHARGE

Claims Asylum Head Kept Him in Stinking Ward Not Fit for a Dog; Begged for Mercy.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 21.—"You lie," shouted Bertram G. Spencer, who is being tried for the murder of Miss Martha B. Blackstone, during the testimony of Dr. Alfred Elliot, medical director of the state insane asylum at Bridgewater, at the opening of the session of court today. Crying and fighting off half a dozen officers, the prisoner caused such a commotion that a recess of fifteen minutes was taken.

Dr. Elliott, who was the first witness for the defense, told of Spencer being brought to the hospital for observation and being transferred from the milder ward to the northeast ward for fear he would escape. Asked why Spencer was later returned to the milder ward, he said it was so the patient could have more exercise.

At this point the prisoner jumped up and shouted "You lie."

Turning to the jurors, the defendant yelled, "He's a liar. He kept me in that stinking, nasty ward that is not for a dog. He has murdered a number of men and burned them in the woods for the foxes to eat. I have been to him on my knees and begged for mercy and he has said has been 'we will investigate.'"

At this point in Spencer's outbreak he was overpowered and led from the court room.

MAY BE SOME ERRORS BY THE CIRCULATOR

SUBSCRIBERS WILL KINDLY OVERLOOK, AS "THERE'S A REASON."

Should any errors occur in circulation statements handed subscribers to the Commercial-News during the next few days, they should be overlooked, for, as a well-known ad says, "There's a reason." The reason is of the feminine gender, weighs slightly more than ten pounds and arrived Tuesday morning at the home of Ed. C. Hewes, 429 Walnut street. Mr. Hewes is circulation manager of The Commercial-News.

Armed with a plentiful supply of cigars, Hewes appeared at the office at noon proudly wearing a broad smile and after distributing a few of the "ropes" Ed retired to the department to pore over numerous and divers pamphlets setting forth the advantages of certain teething lotions, infants' foods, go-carts, etc.

HAL CHASE WISHES TO QUIT AS MANAGER

FIRST BASEMAN OF NEW YORK AMERICANS WILLING TO CONTINUE PLAYING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Hal Chase, manager and first baseman of the New York American baseball club, said today that if he could arrange the change satisfactorily he would resign his leadership of the Yankees, although he would continue as the club's first baseman. Chase will talk over the matter today with Frank Farrell, president of the club. Chase said:

"I have found out that a star ball player who can get a big salary is foolish to take up the responsibilities of leading a ball club. I am not crazy for the job. All I want is for Mr. Farrell to pay me what he did last year. I will step and take care of things at first base. I don't believe that the job affected my playing last season, although, perhaps, it would have played better without the responsibilities of manager. They tell me I was too soft and did not have the right temperament for a leader of a ball club. Perhaps that's right."

TO DEDICATE OLIVET CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY

SERVICES WILL BE HELD DURING EVENING—EXCELLENT PROGRAM OUT.

The new Olivet Presbyterian church, Michigan avenue and East Main street, will be dedicated next Sunday evening, an excellent program having been arranged for the occasion. Most of the Presbyterian ministers of the city will participate.

A special invitation has been extended to all workmen engaged in any capacity on the building and their families to be seated in a body in the north wing.

IS MUCH IMPROVED

Miss Grace Thrapp, living just beyond the north limits of the city, who was taken to Lakeview hospital recently in a very serious condition as the result of an attack of appendicitis, is much improved.

Mrs. O. H. Pratt, who has been seriously ill for the past few days, was operated on at St. Elizabeth's hospital Tuesday afternoon and is much better.

Mrs. Milton Lawrence, who has been seriously ill for a week past, was taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital Monday evening for treatment.

AWAIT NEXT MOVE OF INDICTED PACKERS

IF THEY DO NOT SEEK AN APPEAL FROM KOHLSAAT'S ORDER TRIAL MAY BE A SURPRISE

Government Prepared for Any Step Attorneys for the Beef Barons May Take to Stop Trial.

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 21.—With the trial of the indicted meat packers scheduled for 10 o'clock tomorrow in District Judge Carpenter's court, government lawyers were prepared to spend the final day before the real proceedings in hearing arguments for any surprise counsel for the defendants might reveal to secure further delay.

What that surprise may be in view was the belief of government counsel. A conference was held in the offices of District Attorney Wilkerson this afternoon at which plans for the hearing were discussed. Mr. Wilkerson announced that the government was ready, as it had been for weeks, to proceed with the trial when the hour for which it was set arrives.

"There is no use," he said, "in guessing what kind of a surprise the packers are planning to give us, but we will be ready to defeat further plans for delay. We anticipate that the packers will seek further delay."

Counsel for the packers and their clients held extended conferences throughout the day yesterday, and at their conclusion neither the lawyers nor the defendants would make any statement.

Neither John S. Miller or Levy Mayer, leading counsel for the packers, would give the slightest hint as to any possible action which they intended taking.

Of the moves that it was possible for them to make, opposing counsel thought it most probable that the packers' lawyers would appeal to the supreme court, through Justice Day at Canton, Ohio, after the filing of Judge Kohlsaat's order for a writ of habeas corpus. Should the writ be issued until 10 o'clock tomorrow, or would go immediately before Judge Carpenter and pray a continuance.

WILL GO HIGHER.

Attorney Levy Mayer, counsel for the packers, visited the office of District Attorney Wilkerson at noon and asked that Judge Kohlsaat's order dissolving the packers' writ of habeas corpus be entered today instead of tomorrow, as ordered.

Later the attorneys appeared before Judge Kohlsaat. The purpose of asking that the order be entered now, it was said, was to retain the packers' cases in the United States district court in a position where they would still enjoy bail before the supreme court.

The entry of the order, it was said, would be followed by an appeal to Associate Justice of the Supreme Court Day in Canton, O.

NOTHING AT CANTON

(By Associated Press).
CANTON, O., Nov. 21.—No move had been made early today by the indicted Chicago packers to get their case before Associate Justice Day, of the United States supreme court, on an appeal to prevent facing trial tomorrow before Circuit Judge George A. Carpenter, in Chicago.

There was nothing this morning to indicate that any more would be made here during the day. If attorneys for the packers left Canton waiting until the last moment to execute a coup, they are keeping their presence here secret.

TINY BUILDING TO SHOW M'NAMARA JURY

DEFENSE WILL REPRODUCE THE TIMES PLANT IN MINUTE DETAIL EVEN TO THE ALLEYS.

PRIVATE BOARD FOR THEM

Special Boarding House With Special Cooks and Waiters Arranged for the Veniremen.

(By Associated Press).
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 21.—Judge Walter Bordwell's court room will look like the drafting room of the Times building for a few days, a few weeks if present plans in the McNamara murder trial are carried out.

Instead of entering the trial by taking up the state's contention that a crime was committed in the explosion which killed 21 persons, the Times over a year ago with the loss of 21 lives, opposing counsel are planning first to establish the fact that the Los Angeles building existed at the intersection of First street and Broadway and that it was a building of a certain sort.

To this end, elevation sketches, floor maps and street diagrams and photographic models have been prepared by experts, and it is possible that days will be spent after the jury is secured in introducing, identifying and labeling these exhibits. The models are cut away so as to show the interior of the building with the linotypes, printing presses, office furniture, elevators as delectrotyping machinery, all made to scale and in place.

"Ink alley," a driveway which entered the building proper, will be shown, as will another alley north of the building. It is said the jurors may be confused in any testimony given regarding either of these points. When the part of the work in done the prosecution expects to start the presentation of its case against James B. McNamara.

An entire change was made today in arrangements for feeding jurors and veniremen in the case. A private house perched on a big hill near the hall of records was opened for their accommodation. The house by Chief Sheriff Hammel, and at the noon recess the men in the jury box marched to the foot of the hill, packed themselves into a cable car and rode up to a luncheon prepared by a special cook and served by special waiters engaged by the county authorities. Heretofore the talesmen and jurors have had their meals at a restaurant.

FOR SALE—RICH, BLACK LAND IN the new corn belt of the South in tracts of 20 acres or more. No pioneering, for we plow the land the first time for you. This land will make more corn to the acre than the best Illinois farms, besides two other crops can be raised, making three in one season without the use of fertilizer in any form. Mr. Renter, save the rent you are now paying the other fellow. Own a farm with rich, black soil and make more than double the money you are making now.

The extra profits and rent money will pay for one of our delta farms in less than five years. You would Illinois farms be worth if you could raise a crop of corn and two other crops in one season? That is what can be done on this delta farm land, which is the cheapest good land in the United States today. Yes, the healthiest and best climate in the United States. We want to prove these facts to you. TALKS WITH OUR WOMEN READERS

By EDNA K. WOOLEY.

WHY IS THE ANTI-SUFFRAGIST?

It is said that a majority of the women of California are "agin" the frage and that they are about to vote down the amendment to the state constitution whereby the men of California recently gave the right to vote to California women.

It seems rather ridiculous. The right to vote never got hurt anybody. It sure can't hurt women with level heads and an average degree of intelligence. It certainly never has and never will hurt mankind as a whole though every woman in Christendom should get out and vote whenever there is anything to vote for.

The right to vote doesn't mean that anybody is compelled to vote, at that. In fact, too many good citizens of masculine persuasion have shirked their duty in that respect, right along, and it is reasonable to presume that just as many good citizens of the other sex will find excuses for staying away from the polls.

This being a government by the people, for the people, it is only just that every intelligent citizen—and the term citizen now applies to women as well as men—should have some thing to say about the manner of governing. It is the constitutional right to vote. Nobody has authority to take that right away from the enfranchised. To say the least, it is rather arbitrary of these women anti-suffragists to attempt to say that they are going to deprive their sisters of what is theirs legally and morally. It is difficult to believe that there are many unreasonable, unjust and unkind women in that progressive state.

We have been told that woman is ever unkind to woman. Men have likewise stated that statement has been enlarged upon it wherever possible. Woman herself, it is claimed, has been the greatest hamper to her own progress. It is woman who has insisted that her own sex observe customs and conventionalities which restrict her actions, lessen her mentality and often ruin her health.

Women have condoned and helped to preserve the double standard of morality, receiving and petting those masculines notorious for their moral wanderings; they have in many cases made the woman who is in her weakness and ignorance has taken one false step. Indeed, mothers have promoted intimacies between innocent young daughters and men of known immorality; and mothers of sons have paved a way of misery for future wives by spoiling their boys in every possible way before manhood is reached.

Woman, on the average, is an individualist, fighting for herself and her own. It is this spirit that is feminine. No matter how much of a socialist she may appear to be in theory, she is at heart and in the main practice entirely an individualist, intensely jealous of every other feminine individual.

There are exceptions, of course, but the exceptions are hardly appreciated by the great mass of femininity. Each woman, in her heart, believes herself just a trifle superior to any other woman, and the ordinary woman is inclined to sniff at those broad, progressive and great-hearted women who dare to give their lives for bettering the lot of their own sex.

It may be this spirit that is antagonizing a large class of women in California. If may be simply a feminine jealousy which cannot abide the thought that ALL women will be permitted to have something to say about legislation.

If the washwoman may have as much to say about who is to be mayor or president as the woman who has the best family or the neighborhood or the church affairs—it is too much! That the woman of the slums may have as much right to cast a vote to lighten her unhappy condition as the society leader—again it is too much! Women ruled by women? Never!

But here is another possible solution of the California situation. Let us presume that the anti-suffragists are merely foolish and that they are, probably without their knowledge simply playing into the hands of the liquor element.

It is known that the California ethics voted against enfranchising the women, feeling that women's votes would mean "dry" counties.

It is known, too, that not so generally, that the chief foe of equal suffrage is the saloon keeper. He knows that every dollar spent by him will go towards getting him out of business—and he also knows that most women are good.

Isn't it possible that he is driven ways the saloon keeper and the cohorts are behaving the women into suffragettes all California and every other parts of the nation?

Surely, if women who had good homes and husbands and children and were simply taking care of her household duties could be driven to militancy by the actions of the liquor element, what will not every woman who has a spark of independence do?

TURKEYS AT $50 AND UPWARD

The turkey which will be placed before President Taft and his family is now being fattened upon mast and corn in Rhode Island.

It is a popular belief that the turkey for the president is taken from the same farm year after year and is fed for that end. The fact is that for many years the turkeys sent to the white house from Rhode Island have been birds chosen from the flocks of Rhode Island or Connecticut farmers by an expert in judging the merits of turkeys. Usually six to a dozen prime turkeys are given to the president of the United States, who gives to friends or to hospitals those which are not cooked in his kitchen. In most instances the fine turkeys given to the president, the chief justice of the United States supreme court, the speaker of the house, the members of the cabinet and others of high place at Washington are worth for breeding purposes from $50 to $75 each. The custom of giving turkeys to the president and others of eminence in public life at Washington began in the time of President John Adams, and from then up to this time only the very finest obtainable birds have been given.

The total area of the farms of northern and western New England that specialise in very fine turkeys is, as to runways for the birds, almost equivalent of the area of the state of Manhattan. Turkeys in order to thrive must have large runways where there is plenty of woodland, shrubs and great sown to crops or laying fallow, where the turkeys can find plenty of insects and certain seeds which are necessary in order to keep them in health. In recent years the average production of turkeys as compared with the eggs at Thanksgiving has been trebled from what it was when turkeys were fed with corn and refuse vegetable matter.

The modern method is to keep the birds under about the conditions which existed when turkeys were not domesticated. Nowadays the up to date turkey farmers let the birds roost in trees and pick up most of what they eat in the wood lots and fields. To this end throughout the turkey farming districts a great many nut bearing trees have been planted in recent years and parts of the farms are sown with plants which yield the kind of seeds that wild turkeys like.

The largest and finest turkey that will go to the white house this year was raised in Connecticut and is being fattened in an adjacent town in Rhode Island. A finer bird never went into the final fattening stage. Breeders of fine turkeys would gladly pay $100 for that bird.

The president of a New England railroad system is having fattened to his order 500 prime turkeys for gifts to friends. The poorest bird in the lot would fetch $15 from turkey breeders. A considerable number of bankers, brokers and merchants in New York and vicinity make a practice of buying as Thanksgiving presents for friends at home and abroad prime eastern, western or southern turkeys which bring to the farmers who raise them from $1 to $2 each more than the market's retail price for a very good turkey.

The flavor of all turkeys raised by careful farmers within five or six years is much finer than in the run-down stock of old fogy farmers. The improvement in flavor has also been accompanied by an increase in size and tenderness. This is due to the admixture of the strain from wild turkeys from Canada and the south and southwest and to the modern system of keeping the birds out of doors as much as possible and giving them opportunities for getting plenty of mast and seeds of wild and cultivated plants and pure water from brooks and streams kept clear from noxious plants and sewage.

The yearly increasing demands from rich families and from high class hotels, restaurants and clubs for prime turkeys has made tracts of land in New England suitable for turkey runways greatly increase in market value and has brought about the specialization of the raising of choice birds for breeding purposes that find markets all over North America and in a number of European countries. Whereas turkey eggs for sale to breeders used to run in price from not more than 15 cents up to 25 cents each a few years ago, today the highest grades of eggs fetch from $1 to $2 each from turkey farmers.

Turkeys from New England, New York and Pennsylvania farms were first taken to Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin forty or fifty years ago for the main purpose of being set loose in fields to consume insects that destroyed the red and white clover patches. The turkeys did that work so well and were such factors in eating billions of grasshoppers and caterpillars and other pests of the farmers that turkeys throughout the west are commonly spoken of by farmers as feathered sanitary police. In the vineyard parts of California men make good livings by going about with flocks of turkeys which they rent by the day for freeing the vineyards from insects hurtful to the vines.

In the order of turkey production the states rank as follows: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and Texas. In each of these states the turkey production for this year will go above 2,000,000 birds. Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, Massachusetts and New Hampshire produce many very fine turkeys, but the total production of New England would be insufficient to supply the markets of the zone of New York.

This city distributes the turkeys consumed by the people living in a surrounding area of 5,000 square miles. Nine-tenths of the live and dressed turkeys sent abroad from this country go from this port. A score of local turkey dealers have on their books for shipment by express steamships to Europe orders for almost 18,000 choice birds.

As prime turkeys are loaded East, West and South for the local market the number of birds estimated by the poultry trade as required for this year's Thanksgiving season will fill 197 freight cars. Fast freight lines enable the local poultry trade to land turkeys from the most remote turkey producing zones in four or five days. From middle states and New England some turkeys are now landed here in from ten to twenty-four hours.

This year's offerings of turkeys are averaging high in grade, and for that reason few cold storage turkeys will appear before the middle of the coming winter.

For foreign and domestic Christmas tables the markets for turkeys increase largely every year. Exports of prime turkeys to Europe for the Christmas season begin about the first week in December and go on until the departure of the last express passenger steamer for England, Germany and France due to arrive at the home ports not later than four days before Christmas.

Feathers from the tails and wings of turkeys fetch from 15 cents to 25 cents a pound in the millinery markets and the demand is always running even with the supply. When dyed and otherwise treated they are used for the trimming of women's hats and for other purposes.

Prime young turkey are in demand in cold storage at restaurants during nine months in the year as broilers, known in the trade as "spread eagles." The well known rhyme among cooks as to the cooking of turkeys runs this way:

A turkey boiled
Is a turkey spoiled.
A turkey roast
Is a nation's boast.
But for turkey braised
The Lord be praised.

The first cook book which treated of this art of cooking and carving the turkey was published with copper-plate engravings in 1587 by the chief cook for the Pope. He suggested that the turkey as prepared for roasting on a spit be stuffed with chestnuts and oysters. The old New England formula for stuffing turkeys is that used for many centuries in England in making stuffing for roast goose.

Cranberry sauce is a New England [illegible] eral use until a century ago. The current year's production of cranberries will be about 3,000,000 bushels. New England, New Jersey, New York, and Pennsylvania bring forth two-thirds of the crop. Under modern methods of cultivation the berry averages twice the size of the wild berry and is much more toothsome and larger than the cultivated cranberries of a few years ago.

On Cape Cod, and in New Jersey and on Long Island, bog lands suitable for cranberry culture and which but a few years ago when uncultivated were unsalable at $5 an acre are now worth, under cultivation, from $300 to $700 an acre.

For the Thanksgiving trade the prime cranberries are not picked until four to six days before, so that the berries will be firm and of exquisite flavor. All berries are thoroughly winnowed and graded, and are grown under sanitary conditions. The export demand is large, especially in parts of Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, France and Italy, where many former residents of this country are living. American roasted turkey with cranberry sauce has been regularly served to the royal family of England since Richard Vaux of Philadelphia made those delicacies known to Queen Victoria when she had not been long on the throne. The North American college, for students for the Catholic priesthood, at Rome, always has an American Thanksgiving dinner with turkeys, cranberries, celery, apples and mincemeat for pies and other goodies contributed by kinsfolk and friends at home.

No American man-o-war on a foreign station or on the seas on Thanksgiving Day is without American turkeys, cranberries, apples, mince meat and other home products that befit the day. American mining engineers and miners in Mexico and Central and South America always take care to be supplied with genuine United States roast turkeys and cranberries for Thanksgiving Day. The matter of cost is a secondary consideration.

The old custom among merchants and manufacturers of presenting a turkey to each married employee by season for the Thanksgiving dinner is carried out liberally by hundreds of mining and manufacturing companies whose main offices are in the Wall street district and whose plants are scattered through North America. One local mining concern that has works and mine in four Southwestern states and in two states of Mexico has provided 14,000 turkeys and all else for a Thanksgiving dinner for its married employees and is going to pay for a dinner at hotels, restaurants and messing halls for 12,000 of its unmarried employees for Thanksgiving Day.

It is estimated in the poultry trade that employers in New York and vicinity give between 150,000 and 175,000 turkeys to employes for Thanksgiving Day.

The first official Thanksgiving day observed on the island of Manhattan was in 1644. The occasion was the return of the soldiers who had been successful against Indians on the war path in what is now Westchester county and the adjacent parts of Connecticut. It appears from a quaint, picturesque account that wild turkeys, venison and preserved fruits and wine and spirits were served to all who attended the dinner given by the governor.

The first national Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed from this city by President George Washington in 1789. Curiously enough, the first officially proclaimed Thanksgiving Day as set forth by civil authority in New England, was appointed for what was in after years the day which was celebrated as the natal day of George Washington, February 22. The year was 1632. The original proclamation is preserved by the commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Thanksgiving Day is the only religious festival kept in this country that is appointed by civil authority. The day was chiefly kept in New England and in a few western states and territories mainly settled by New Englanders, until 1857, when Gov. Henry A. Wise of Virginia, against much protest, appointed a Thanksgiving day to occur at the time set in New England. The next year eight other southern states followed the custom.

In our colonial possessions the army, navy and civil service have populized Thanksgiving Day to such an extent that it is kept by at least 5,000,000 inhabitants in those islands, which until a dozen years ago had never heard of the festival. In Cuba the many pro-Americans in the native population make a special point of keeping Thanksgiving Day in the orthodox United States fashion as being proof of their liking for the republic that made Cuba a nation.

KILLED BY GAS

(By Associated Press.)

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. Nov. 21—James Bayaird, chauffeur for W. E. Coffin, president of the Eau Claire National bank, was found dead in the Coffin home here today, death being caused by gas from the exhaust of an automobile. A horse, two cows and five chickens in the barn were also killed by the gas. Bayaird was kneeling and leaning up against a wheel of the automobile, having been engaged in repairing it.

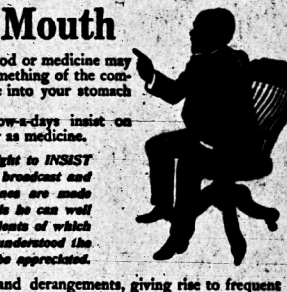
Do You Open Your Mouth



Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.

Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to INSIST upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements, giving rise to frequent headache, backache, dragging-down pain or distress and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostation, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

WARSHIPS SENT TO DOMINICAN CAPITAL

UNITED STATES WILL TAKE NO CHANCE AFTER THE MURDER OF THE PRESIDENT.

(By Associated Press).

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—To safeguard American interests and prevent a state of anarchy in Santo Domingo as a result of the assassination of President Caceres, the cabinet today decided that the big armored cruisers Washington and North Carolina of the Atlantic fleet should be dispatched with all speed to Santo Domingo City. The vessels are now engaged with the rest of the fleet in working out a search problem off the Chesapeake capes. They have been reached by wireless and will come into Hampton Roads to pick up Mr. Russell, the American minister, and convey him to the Dominican capital.
