RED CROSS SEALS

The joyous Christmas time is coming!

Our stores show the first signs of this by the display of the red cross Christmas seal placards.

"Peace on Earth and Good Will to men" was the message about 2000 years ago and this is today the sincere wish of our nation. Almost half the world is at war today and we in this country are happy that we can live in peace.

But did it ever occur to you that the great White Plague was taking more lives than this horrible war in Europe

We have helped the stricken nation on the other side of the Atlantic and we might to be just as willing to help our stricken fellow-men in this country.

The money which is collected through the sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seals is used to fight tuberculosis.

The National Anti-Tuberculosis Association has given us the right to sell these seals in our city.

85 per cent of the proceeds of these sales remain in Rahway and is used by our Visiting Nurses to fight tuberculosis cases.

Almost every inhabitant is today familiar with the good work our nurses are doing and therefore hope for a large sale of these seals.

We ask the co-operation of all our citizens in this good work.

The Visiting Nurse Committee.

Mushroom Sauce.—Put the butter into saucepan; when melted add the flour, mix well, add the cold milk slowly, then the mushrooms and add to the sauce. Boil slowly five minutes and add the salt, pepper and catsup. If preferred mushrooms are used another than in one tablespoonful butter before cooking to the sauce.

Stuffed With Eggs.

Stuffed Peppers au Gratin.—Take five hard-boiled eggs and cut into small pieces. Make a thick and highly seasoned white sauce and stir the eggs into this. ## WATER BOARD MONTHLY MEET

Extension of Mains Asked for On New Development—Water Standard High

SUPT. KIRSTEIN'S REPORT

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Water Commissioners was held Wednesday evening.

A communication from the Klein Realty Company asking for the extension of the water main about 1500 feet in Westwood avenue between Jefferson avenue and Terrill Road, in consideration of the fact that the company intends to erect a number of houses in this section was tabled. After consideration the matter was referred to Commissioner Jonsson, who will take it up with the Realty Company's officers in New York City.

The report of Superintendent Kirstein showed that fourteen permits to tap the mains and attach connections were issued during the month; that 584 feet of two inch pipe had been laid in Meadow avenue and Bryant street; a break had been repaired in West Milton venue near the intersection of Milton avenue and Bryant street hydrants blown off and put in excellent condition; and that a permanent line of pipe across the bridge in St. George avenue had been completed.

The following from the report of Secretary Hart will show the sanitary supervision and operation of the water plant was read: The average removal of bacteria amounted to 99.4 while the minimum reduction for a single day was 99.1 per cent. The slight odor and discoloration of the water during the past month was due to leaves and vegetable matter found in the stream in the source of supply. The improvement under way at the water plant would likely eliminate this detriment in time to come.

It was voted to pay $1,500 in interest on the $1,000,000 issue to the Bankers Trust Company, New York. The aggregated amount of $1,662.40 in bills payable were ordered paid. The amount of $7,145.57 was reported as balance on hand. The finance committee reported receipts amounting to $14,202.16 since the first of the year.

Superintendent Kirstein was authorized to attend the meeting of American Waterworks Association held in New York yesterday.

It was decided to have the reorganization meeting for the year 1915 on Thursday evening December 31.

TROLLEY COLLIDES WITH BIG TRUCK

Serious injury and perhaps loss of life was narrowly averted Wednesday afternoon at the junction of Milton avenue and Main street when a westbound trolley car collided with a wagon owned by Harry C. Coulter, a carman of this city. Quick wit on the part of the motorman of the car and the driver of the wagon accounts for favorable outcome of the collision. No one was hurt but the wagon and horse escaped injury.

The wagon was going south in Main street bound for the freight station of the Pennsylvania railroad and the car was coming up Main street. At the corner they came together, the wagon being thrown to one side. The motorman of the car put on the brakes in time to avoid hitting the wagon squarely. The accident seemed to be entirely accidental and not the result of carelessness on the part of the motorman.

BOOM SIMMONS FOR MAYORALTY

Optimism regarding the victory of the G. O. P. at the next election and the firing of the dred-gun boosting Harvey Simmons as Republican candidate for mayor of this city featured the meeting of the Republican Club held last evening in the Robert's building. The formal move that Mr. Simmons be boomed for his office was suggested by W. H. Wright.

Mr. Simmons is a staunch Republican and as president of the Republican Club has shown much interest in public affairs. He is popular among the citizens and his possible nomination for the office of mayor is favorably received on all sides.

HEALTH BOARD HEARS DEMAND FOR MORE SEWERS

Dr. W. E. Cladek and Dr. F. W. Hall were named as the committee.

It is to be held in the auditorium. All members and friends of the Trade Board are invited to be present. Tickets may be obtained upon payment of one dollar. Judging from the number of requests for tickets that have been made it looks as if the seating capacity will be taxed to the limit. The affair will be informal and there will be good speaking, fine music and plenty of good fellowship. The committee in charge of the affair will be greatly pleased if those who anticipate attending will apply for tickets as soon as possible. Those desiring seats are requested to communicate with Henry W. Cleary, chairman. Wheelmen's L. Rahway. Tickets will be mailed to applicants on receipt of money. ## INCENDIARISM ATTEMPTED

Third Effort to Set Fire to Houseman Building Fails From Timely Discovery

INVESTIGATING CLUES

Another attempt to set fire to the Houseman and McMahon building at Irving and Coach streets was frustrated early evening by Special Officer William Cornelius. The attempt was made about nine o'clock at the northeastern side of the building about ten feet from Coach street. Waste saturated with oil was placed in a large hole in the building and the flames were just gaining headway when Cornelius, who happened to be passing at the time, noticed the light and after finding out what it was went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hand in Coach street and got a pail of water and extinguished the flames. While officer Cornelius was getting the water John Schaefer, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schaefer of 39 Main street accompanied by Mr. Schaefer came out of the office of Dr. Young and called the attention of his father to the blaze in the building. Mr. Scha

LITTLE BOY WEAK AND SICKLY

Mother Tells How Her Little Son was Made a Strong, Healthy Boy by Vinol After a Severe Sickness.

New York City.—"Many days I gave my little boy, then seven years old was very ill with gastritis, then he developed bronchitis from the other children, pneumonia soon followed and there seemed no hope of saving the little sufferer, my mother at the case, and he recovered, but was left in very weak and delicate condition. The doctor prescribed cod liver oil, but the little stomach revolted at it like a drum, and the doctor said there was no cure for him. I decided to try Vinol, as I had used it myself with splendid results, and it seemed to agree with him. That blotted condition soon disappeared, and now he is a robust, healthy boy, thanks to Vinol"—Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, 1095 Park avenue, New York City.

In all cases where the healing curative Tissue building influence of cod liver oil—the strength-creating, blood-making properties of iodic iron are needed, Vinol gives immediate benefit, for it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach, because it contains no oil or grease, and taste delicious. A. F. Kirstein, Druggist, Rahway, N. J.

NOTE—You can get Vinol at the leading drug store in every town where this paper circulates.

THRIFTY HOTEL GUESTS.

The Mania For Stealing Little Souvenirs of Their Visits.

We often hear complaints from tourists about inattention and lack of courtesy on the part of those whose duty it is to cater to the traveling public. But there is another side to the story. For instance, the custodians of places of historic or scenic interest frequently visited by travelers are obliged to maintain constant watch against the vandalism of souvenir hunters.

What satisfaction can be found in mutilating and demolishing things of interest and value to people is inexplicable to impoverishing from well known hotels such property as knives, forks, pepper and salt shakers, napkins, towels and bath mats! The manager of a prominent hotel in New York even reports the disappearance of pillows from the bedrooms.

The value of this stolen property yearly amounts to a very large sum. It has been the underlying cause for the appearance of such items as the following on menus: "Chicken en casserole in individual souvenir," or "Souvenir cocktail," in which the appetizer is served in a container bearing the house name and which container is given to the patron.

There are numerous little souvenirs, such as silver-plated forks, teaspoons, etc., for sale by various hotels and society societies.

Not all things that disappear from hotels are taken by dishonest guests. The manager of one of the most fashionable hotels in New York has concluded that linen is not always purloined, but is taken away unconsciously as a souvenir for sleep and other articles when packing, and hence, unconsciously tucks the duffles in their cases after using them, and these are dropped at the next hotel visited.

This wholesale purloining of hotel articles has led to the formation of a linen exchange. Many of the leading manufacturers have agreed upon a plan of the foreign linen in their hotels, and at regular intervals this material is sent to the rightful owners, who then return linens not belonging to them.—Leslie's.

Economy vs. Health.

"My tobacconist tells me that if I will stick my cigars in my vest pocket instead of my vest pocket he will give me the big end—I'll lose fewer cigars."

"Yes, sir, he says that that stick 'em in your vest pocket so that they don't show at all."—Boston Transcript.

Love all, trust a few, do wrong to none.—Shakespeare.

A MILITARY DANDY.

Russky's Daintiness Under Fire the Start of His Rise to Fame.

General Hindenburg, who commanded the Russian army that overran Galicia and became in consequence the hero of the day in Russia, was conspicuous as a young lieutenant for his daintiness and elegance of his dress.

In the Turko-Russian war of 1877 Russky, then a young lieutenant, served as aid-de-camp on the staff of one of the Russian generals. In the heat of the battle of Plevna he was ordered to take a dispatch to the commander in chief, the famous Skobelev. He found Skobelev standing in a rather exposed position, surrounded by his staff.

As young Russky delivered his dispatch a shell from a Turkish battery struck the ground near by and, exploding, flung a shower of dust and dirt over the party. Most of the officers involuntarily ducked their heads, but young Russky stood firm and erect. Then, as calmly as if he were in a ballroom, he stooped from his pack and spotless white handkerchief and flicked the dust from his immaculate uniform.

A smile of derision passed over the faces of the staff officers, but Skobelev looked at the young lieutenant with sudden interest and asked his name. "You will remember with me as a man who does not hide his light under a bushel young officer. "I am in need of such men as you."

Years after, when Russky's service had proved the correctness of General Skobelev's estimate of his intelligence, the general told the incident of the brush and said to the captain:

"Was it wrong for him such a quick regard for his appearance before his fellow men that no danger can make him unconcerned about the figure he cuts?" continued Skobelev. "He makes a dependable leader of men. He will suffer death rather than permit any regard for his personal safety to impair the impression of inferiority that he is so anxious to make upon his fellow men. Even though he be a coward at heart he will always play the part of a brave man in his desire to have men consider him possessed of superior qualities.

"In Russky I am doubly fortunate," concluded the veteran general. "For Russky is both a dandy and a brave man."—Youth's Companion.

The Woman of 2000 B. C.

Two combs, painted and perfumed 4,000 years ago is shown by a complete vanity box, cast in 2000 B. C., in the University of Pennsylvania museum. It is a gift of the Egyptian School of Archaeology in Egypt.

The box, which is of delicately carved ivory, contains receptacles for paints and powders. There is also a glass container, probably used for perfumes. The box is opened by pressing a concealed spring. Under the lid is a piece of highly polished stone, which served as a mirror.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Prussian Guards.

Frederick the Great originated the Prussian guards. His ambition was to form a royal bodyguard of giants, and every country was ransacked by his agents to supply recruits. The most extravagant sums were offered to men of exceptional inches, and it is said an Irishman more than seven feet high, who was picked up by the Prussian ambassador in London, received a bounty of £1,200.—London Mail.

Russia Not Interest.

"My dear, you ought to pass up frivolous things and take an interest in deep subjects. Take history, for instance. Here is an interesting item. Gerter, the Czar, put up a bet for the Swiss to salute."

"Why, what's little interested in Switzerland, I'm sure, I'm sure I don't know."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Purifying the Air.

A pitcher of cool water placed on the table of an occupied room will absorb all the gases with which the room is vitiated by the presence of persons sitting or sleeping in it. In a few hours this pitcher of pure water will make the air of the room purer, while the water itself will become totally unfit for use.

Wood Engravings.

The better wood engravings are made almost exclusively of boxwood, and the large blocks are made of small pieces glued together. The engraving is done across the end of the grain. Japanese wood prints, on the other hand, are made on lengthwise sections of cherry wood parallel to the grain.—Argonaut.

Had to Touch It.

"Why did you place your finger on this lady's cheek?"

"You know how it is, judge. Fresh point exercises a fatal attraction for nails."

The judge discharged him.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Horses Are Most Nervous Animal.

Remember that the horse is the most nervous of all animals, and that little things annoy and irritate him. He will be contented or miserable according as you treat him.—Farm and Fireside.

SELECTION OF ALL-COUNTY SCHOLASTIC FOOTBALL ELEVEN

Rahway Well Represented, Although Other Schools Gave Fight

RED AND BLACK ENTIRE BACKFIELD CHOSEN

The Record's All-County football team which we believe is about the best that could possibly be moulded together is appended. The majority of the team, of course, is composed of players of Rahway High. Many think, and we with them, that the regular Rahway High School team would be able to defeat any team composed of Union County football players. But Rahway, like any team, has positions in the line that can be strengthened, and the men who can guard and tackle goalline.

The backfield quarterback of a team is the brain of the team, and this position falls on the team for his work against other teams. Kelly, Rahway, quarterback, is our opinion, "Pie" Hessell, of the local team, is the best scholastic quarter in the state, and this is saying something. Mr. Peacock to take the quarter job away from him. Peacock is a book full of energy and possesses a good head. He is a great asset to a running with the ball. In this particular department he has a slight edge on Hessell, but the latter is certainly in direct racing the player makes him the first choice. There are more men available for the quarterback position than for any other. George Moore, Pingry, quarterback, has displayed considerable ability all season and his work was the crowning feature of Pingry's victory over Battin. Another Elizabeth man who deserves mention is Mark Ibaler, quarter-back on the Battin team. It was the playing of this young man that made it possible for Battin to hold Rahway to such a low score, so that game he practically constituted of the Battin attack. Since then, however, he has suffered a slump and his playing has been below form. It would be an injustice to Peacock to leave him off the All-County team, but place he has often played a tackle position, we place him as McWeeney's running mate.

The Ends

We do not think it possible to improve on the combination of Van Manilo and "Steve" Terrill for the ends. Both of these men are light and are very fast, besides possessing the faculty of knowing just where the positions could be played. Backs on opposing teams very seldom sifted through or long runs around the Rahway flanks. It was the great work of Mantlo and Terrill that prevent this.

The Guards

Another Hainsfurd man forced to stand with lockers of the Hessell position. Many may wonder at this as Dubow has played a good game all season but it would be foolish to take a man with the ability of Heren off the team. Heren proved a real tartar in the Rahway game and he helped a great deal in making the game the close contest it was. We could write a column on the good points Luken's performance but we prefer to continue with the work. It is unnecessary.

Center.

Eddie Durand should be the unanimous choice of everyone for center. Durand is about somewhat of a rival of Neal Orange to a standstill and no other center in the county showed quite his ability.

The Backs

The backfield of the local school could not be improved on in any other state. Hessell, Rossell at quarter, Brooks and A. Armstrong at the halfbacks and E. Armstrong at full. The boys all are combination that towers head and shoulders above all other schools in the state.

As the team looks on paper:

Durand, Rahway, center.
Lukens, Rahway, right guard.
Schweitzer, Rahway, right tackle.
Terrill, Rahway, right end.
Rossell, (Capt.) Rahway, quarterback.
A. Armstrong, Rahway, left halfback.
E. Armstrong, Rahway, fullback.

Second Team

Moore, Rahway center.
MacWhinney, Rahway, right guard.
Meranski, Westfield, right tackle.
J. Brisk, Rahway, right end.
Moore, Pingry, quarterback.
Greene, Plainfield, left halfback.
Donahue, Battin, right halfback.
Woodruff, Battin, fullback.

RAHWAY "BIRDS" LOSE THREE STRAIGHT

Rahway Eagle pin knights, rolling Somerville Eagles at that place last night, encountered a snag and dropped three in a row to the homesters. The losing of the locals was below average and very erratic. "Jake" Hepcke accounted for the largest Rahway total when he hit the maples for a 201 count in the first game. Some big scores were hung up by the Somerville. Schaub rolled 216 in the first game and 224 in the second. McCarthy accounted for 197, 214, and 203. Fallon collected 224 in the last game. The scores:

This organization is one of the oldest social clubs in Rahway and has had much success in its athletic efforts.

BRACHER AWARDED COVETED "R"

At a banquet of the Rutgers football team on Saturday evening, Howard L. Bracher, of Spring Valley, N. Y., was elected captain of the team for next season. Talman has played for the last three years, and has distinguished himself in almost every game. This season he played halfback, and was a big factor in the success of the Rutgers team. He is one of the best punters in collegiate ranks, and has several times been mentioned for a place on the All-American team. Six Rutgers men will be awarded their varsity letter at the next meeting of the Board of Managers. The players who will be given their "R" are Captain Toohey, Ralph Seiler, of Elizabeth, Elmer Bracher, of Rahway, John Williams, of Newark, Raymond Martin, of Bloomfield; Robert Nash, of Bernardsville; Howard Mason, of Round Brook; Clifford Miller, of Trenton; Francis Scarr, of Hackensack Heights; Howard Talman, of Spring Valley; William Rainold, of Jersey City—Ralph Wilig of New Brunswick, Warner McCloskey, of Point Pleasant and Harry Rockefeller of Asbury Park. Rutgers will loose Twine, Toohey and McCloskey by graduation, but it is probable that capable men will be able to fill their places. According to present indications, George Foster Sanford will again have charge of the team next season.

TO START TWO-MAN BOWLING TOURNEY AT NATIONAL

It is planned to roll a two-man tourney at the National alleys as soon as fifteen teams can be drawn. At present five teams are entered. The first A, as it is simply a case of many of prize will be $10 the second $7.50, third $5 and fourth $3. High average prize, $3; individual high score, $2 and mon-

SPORT NOTES AND COMMENT

BY E. L. K.

Our selection of an All Co team which appears in another column, we believe, is about as strong an eleven as could be gotten together in Union County. Rahway, of course, predominates on the team, not because of any favoritism, but because they are positively the best men in the county in their respective positions. Other men are chosen from Westfield, Plainfield, Battin and the Chatham High. Of the men who made the strongest bid for a place on the team were mostly quarterbacks. Peacock, of Plainfield, Moore, of Pingry and Markthaler of Battin are all good men, but in our opinion, good as these men are, Captain Tom Rossell, of Rahway, rates head and shoulders above them all. Besides proving an exceptionally good quarterback, Rossell has demonstrated that he is a capable leader of men. We will be proud to have our team headed by such a fine sportsman as Tom Rossell.

Kelly, Rahway, quarterback, is a close second to Rossell. Kelly is a fine quarterback, but he is a trifle too light. He will be a great player next year, however, when he has filled out a little more. Kelly is a good leader of men and he knows how to handle a team. He will be a great player next year.

Hessell, of Rahway, is a good quarterback, but he is a trifle too slow. He is a good leader of men and he knows how to handle a team. He will be a great player next year.

Markthaler, of Battin, is a good quarterback, but he is a trifle too slow. He is a good leader of men and he knows how to handle a team. He will be a great player next year.

"DON'T DO THAT"

How many times have you heard a father or a mother command a boy in the words quoted above? How often our fathers and mothers prohibited us from doing this and that! And right away the desire to do the prohibited thing grew stronger than ever. It's human nature. We don't change much in this respect even when we grow older. That, perhaps, is why it is so hard to completely enforce certain laws against habits, such as cigarette smoking or the use of liquor. Shortly after the anti-cigarette law was passed in Indiana many persons began smoking cigarettes just because the state's command "don't do that" put a certain piquancy to the satisfaction of smoking. And everyone has heard of the persons who, when liquor is easily obtainable, never really feel they need a drink, but who, the moment they come into dry territory, become seized with a parching thirst. But parents are learning, so are governments and lawmaking bodies. The world moves and the part that is moving fastest is the rural district. The young man on the farm is being given his chance. The Federal government—Old Uncle Sam, himself—is looking out for the farmer boys and girls and paying big salaries to experts and specialists who know how to make country life interesting as well as profitable. Nowadays the farmer boy seldom hears the command "Don't do that." He is told to Do and shown how to do it. His education is being turned into a game which he plays with almost the same ardor as he used to play hookey in the old don't-do-that days. In the last generation a boy who might want to build a bird-house, for instance, would be hidden to exercise his budding architectural genius in constructing the woodpile. Now the federal government encourages him to build bird-houses and will show him how. The Department of Agriculture's farmer's bulletin 609 is entitled "Bird Houses and How to Build Them." It is as fascinating as any of the how-to-do-things articles we used to read in Golden Days. The Boy's Own Book, St. Nicholas or Harper's Young People when we were youngsters. Send for it—or better yet—let your boy send for it—it's free—and let him build bird houses this winter. The importance of birds as insect destroyers is immense. And there is a decided movement to make neighbors of them. Many birds, if furnished with a safe retreat, will move than pay their rent to their landlords.

THE NEW WET AND DRY LINE-UP

As a result of the November elections there are now fourteen states in the dry column. They are Arizona, Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington and West Virginia.

There remain 15 states in which half of the population live in so-called no-license territory. They are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas and Vermont.

There remain eleven states in which 25 per cent of the population lives in no-license territory. They are California, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Ohio, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming. At different times in the past 33 states have adopted the policy of prohibition. All but nine for one reason or another, abandoned it for local option or control by license.

California and Ohio, out of the six states in which statewide prohibition amendments were voted on this fall, elected to remain in the wet column. In Ohio the new amendment to the constitution practically places the state in the wet column forever, as it provides that no new liquor legislation shall be introduced into the legislature. The present laws, however, are very strict and are carried out to the letter. The new amendment does not prohibit the holding of wet and dry elections in communities, under the laws that are at present in force.

The states that have voted dry during the year 1914 are Arizona, Colorado, Oregon, Washington and Virginia.

HOW CITIES ARE MADE

A station is a point on any railroad where there is a cinder platform on one side of the track and an elevator on the other. The inhabitant of station operates the platform twice a day and the elevator three months in the year. The remainder of the time he spends in an effort to make a living for his family. It requires only two generations and continued good crops to attract a general store newspaper and a cemetery. The opera house, church, school and politician follow in their order, after which the station has only to await the next census enumeration to get on the map in lower case letters and be referred to in the marginal index as a village. The village stage in municipal life is that era in which the post office box numbers do not run higher than 375, and while the residents point out a telephone pole with more than one cross-arm as evidence of their right to recognition in the commercial world. Another twenty years, void of cyclones and conflagrations, generally develops such a feeling of unrest that something more than matrimonial ties is needed to hold the population together and keep the municipal metamorphosis bended in the right direction. The village board then meets and orders a city charter and the destiny of City is placed in the hands of its first mayor. The mayor, either stays a village—a mere village kind and lifts the town forever, or he, forthwith, an annual champion, encourages Sunday sports, harmless amusements and even permits a benefit Sunday baseball to keep the young fellows interested in their new city and then he sits back and sees the town grow faster than a politician's appetite for power.

THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE

Our prize delinquent subscribers entered into town the other day and, all unsuspecting, we lured him up to Doc——'s office and tipped the doc to give him the Twilight Sleep treatment. And say, the doc is some treater! He had the d. e. in the twilight zone so quickly as you could break your wrist with the crank on a Ford. In two minutes we separated the patient from the money he had been owing us since the time when Hoists had only one pickle. When he came to he was holding a receipt in full in his hand. Then we told him. He was tickled to death. He said that heretofore he simply couldn't bring himself to pay up, because he dreaded the pain. We turned over all the room. To the doc and told him to invest it in more chloroform. We are going into this business right!

AN APPEAL

The city nurse finds many cases of want of proper clothing in Rahway. There is particularly great need of underclothing for boys and girls from six to fourteen years of age, as well as stockings and shoes of same sizes.

Those who have half-worn garments which they are willing to give are asked to leave them at any time during the day at the nurse's office over Joan Van Beuren's stationery store, Irving street.

Contributors may be sure that their contributions will be distributed with discrimination, according to the real needs of the recipients and that misery or perhaps many children will be alleviated.

If it is impossible for the donors to leave their contributions at the Nurse's office, arrangement will be made for their collection. In that case telephone 156-J.

POULTRY SHOW ATTRACTS MANY

The Union Co. Poultry and Agricultural exhibition opened in the Armory, Elizabeth, Wednesday and contains a much greater variety of exhibits than ever before, there being nearly a thousand chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys pigeons and rabbits, as well as nearly as many specimens of corn, apples and vegetables, representing the finest produced by the farmers and poultry raisers of Union County this year. The great improvement over the quality exhibited in past years gives those in charge much satisfaction as it shows that their efforts to encourage better poultry and more scientific farming methods have produced good results.

Every arrangement possible for the convenience and comfort of the exhibitors and public has been made by those in charge.

The Equal Suffrage League and the anti-Suffrage League both have handsomely decorated spaces where advocates of their causes are in attendance continually. The Kings Daughters and the Society for the Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis are both represented and will appeal to the public to assist their cause.

An attractive side show is the man that crossed the Continent and lived in the cellar. The owner claims that she will do everything except talk, and she is a thoroughly trained vaudeville actress. It is well worth the small admission fee, for her especially when considering that the money so collected will be given to charity.

Another novel exhibit is a number of electric incubators in operation.

The exhibition will be opened to the public from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. the remainder of this week.

TRAVEL FESTIVAL COMING

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival which comes to the Empire in the near future is enjoyed as much by men and women who have been on the long trails leading to the great scenes in the wide wide world as it is by stay-at-homes. Those who have traveled most enjoy Mr. Howe's reproductions because of their absolute fidelity. Indeed the extraordinary merits of this exhibition are now so firmly established that it seems needless to urge anyone to attend.

The new program has its intense moments such as are imparted by a ride on a runaway train which in itself is exciting enough but the thrills are intensified and made more thrilling by means of those realistic "effects" which always astonish Howe's ever others. Then also there are some spectacular moments experienced during a trip down into the crater of Vesuvius—to the very edge of the red and boiling lava! Some of the mysteries of Nature's laboratory are revealed in a series showing the growth of plants and the development of flowers from bud to blossom. The manifestations of science and chemistry are shown in a film that travel experience are provided in depicting the electrolysis of metals, by a trip to Venice during which Howe travelers will glide up and down the canals and see the quaint city under the wizardry of superb color effects at sunset and by moonlight. A railroad ride through Greece and studies in the colors of nature and entirely new animated cartoons are some of the other features.

Take a Trip to Wonderful Toy Town!

Fall in line for joyous time in Toytown tomorrow. Everybody must see this merry place at least once. Here there is an excitement that thrills grown-ups as well as tiny tots. There are so many wonderful things to see, so much to wish for, that you will wish that you had never grown up. You can watch speedy electrical trains in operation for hours at a time. The hundreds of toys that do almost human stunts will take you back to the days of long ago when you hung up your Christmas stocking. And the dolls! Who would attempt to count them all? Blondes, brunettes, baby dolls, mamma dolls, dolls that walk and dolls that talk. And there are real apartment houses for dolls, with electric elevators, bathrooms, electric lights and other "modern improvements." Certainly there is no other place on earth like the Bamberger Toytown. The toys and dolls were purchased abroad this year much earlier than usual, and arrived safe and sound before the war made importing difficult. There is nothing missing that a child could want. But we urge you to DO YOUR TOY SHOPPING EARLY—the demand is greater than ever before.

NEW YORK CITY, they said, was deserted—and that accounted, of course, for the sounds carrying so far in the tranquil spring air. The breeze was south by southeast, the hour was midnight; the theme was a bit of feminine gossip by wireless—mythology. Three hundred and sixty-five feet above the heated asphalt the lightning spinnidle deity on Manhattan pointed her vacillating arrow straight for the time in this direction of her exalted sister on Liberty Island. The lights of the great gardens were out; the benches in the squares were filled with sleepers in postures so various that huddle-theirs-like nothing figures in Dore's illustrations of the inferno would have astonished Dante's dominies. The statue of Diana on the tower of the garden in roof garden under me. You'll hear that 'ta, ta, ta' at the Cafe McCann now, along with your Bohemian crowd there have become tired of 'quinoa' since O'Hafferty, the beadwaiter, punched three of them for calling him it. Oh, no; the town's strickly off the bum these nights. Everybody's away. Saw a downtown merchant on a roof garden this evening with his stenographer. Show was on, and he went to sleep. A waiter, hitting on a dime tip to see if it was good narrowed him up. He looks around and sees his little pothooks perpetrating "Hum" says he. "Will you take a letter?" kind o' hint to her. Mommyward. "Sure, in a minute," says she, "if you'll make it an X."

Quant was the best thing happened on the roof. So you see how dull it is. 'Ta, ta, ta!'

"I'm fine ye have it up there in society, Miss Diana. Ye have the cat show and the horse show and the military tournaments where the privates look grand as generals and the generals look grand as doorwalkers. And ye have the Sportsman's show, where the girl that measures 36, 19, 36, cooks breakfast food in a birch bark wigwam on the banks of the Grand canal of Venice conducted by one of the Vanderbilts. Bernard McFadden and his fat-reducing twin are there. And ye have the French ball, where the original Colleen and the Robert Emmet manufactured society dance the Hielan' fling one with another. And ye have the grand O'Flynn ball, which is the most beautiful pageant in the world, where the French students vie with the Irish in the wearing of the colcowan. Ye have the best job for a statue in the whole town, Miss Diana.

"Its weary work," sighed the lady and she continued: "'Ta, ta' is the school of liberty in New York city. Sometimes when I take a peep down at Ellis Island and see the crowd of immigrants put opposed to light up the taught I'd fain to blow out the gas kind let the current write out their naturalization papers.

"Say, it's a shame, ain't it, to give you the worst end of it?" came the sympathetic antiphony of the bronze statue. "Say, I must be awfully lonesome down there with so much water around you. I don't see how you ever keep your hair in curl. And that Mother Hubbard you are wearing went out years ago. I think the sculptor for guys ought to be held for damages for putting iron or marble clothes on a lady. That's where Mr. St. Gaudens was wise. I'm always a little ahead of the styles, but they're coming up my pretty fast. Excuse my back a moment—I caught a puff of wind from the north. Shouldn't wonder if things had loosened up in Esopus. There, you! It's in the west. What were you saying, Mrs. Liberty?"

"A line that I've had with ye, Miss Diana, ma'am, but I was one of them European steamers a-sailin' up the Narrows—still I must be attendin' to me duties. 'Ta, ta, ta' is the job we crowd aloft the torch of liberty to welcome the immigrants. 'Ta, ta, ta' is the many shows by its weather-beaten ways its innocence by the flutting of gold that it has acquired, its devotion to style by its single graceful flying scarf, its candor and artlessness by its habit of ever drawing its long bow, its nonpolitianism by its posture of swift flight to catch a Hartford hackman compelled poised with its arrow pointed across the upper bay. Had that arrow sped truly and horizontally it would have passed fifty feet above the head of the heroic hackman whose duty it is to give a hearty welcome to the oppressed of other lands.

"Outward the truly saved, and the furrows between steamship lines begins to cut steerage rates. The translators too have put an extra burden upon her. "Liberty Lighting the World" has horrified Christmas but would have had no more responsible office except for the size of it, than that of an electrician or a Standard Oil magnate. But to "enlighten" the world (as our learned civic guardians "Rightsed" it) requires other qualities—and no poor Liberty, instead of having a sinecure as a very important man, is converted into a Chautauqua schoolma'am, with the ocean for her field instead of the school. Chase has—With a tireless torch and an weary head must she dispel the shadows of the world and teach it its A B C's.

"Ah, there, Mrs. Liberty!" called a clear, rollicking soprano voice through the still midnight air.

"'Tis that you, Miss Diana? Excuse my not turning my head. I'm not as chirky and whirky-whirky as some. And 'tis so heavy I am I can hardly talk on account of the peanut hulls left on the stairs in the throat by that last boatload of tourists from Marietta, O. 'Tis after being a fine evening, miss."

"If you don't mind my asking," came the bell-like tones of the golden statue, "I'd like to know where you got that chy hail lounge. I didn't know that Liberty was necessarily Irish."

"If ye studied the history of art in its foreign complications ye'd not need to ask," replied the offshore statue. "If ye wasn't so light headed and giddy ye'd know that I was made by a dago—and presented to the American people on behalf of the French government for the purpose of welcoming Irish immigrants into the Dutch city of New York. 'Tis that I've been doing night and day since I was erected. Ye must know, Miss Diana, that 'ta, ta' is a state the same as with people—the not their makers nor the purposes for which they were created that influence the operation of their tongues at all, 'tis the associations with which they become associated. I'm talking ye."

"You're dead right," agreed Diana. "I notice it on myself. If any of the old guys from Olympus were to come along and hand me any hot air in the ancient Greek I couldn't tell it from a conversation between a Coney Island car conductor and a five-cent fare."

"I'm right glad ye've made up your mind to be sociable, Miss Diana," said Mrs. Liberty. "'Tis a lonesome life I have down here. Is there anything going up in the city, Miss Diana, dear?"

"Oh, 'ta, 'ta, 'ta—no," said Diana. "Notice that 'ta, ta, ta,' Aunt Liberty? See that from 'Paris by Night' on the watch on the island of Manhattan since I've been up here. That's a pretty sick looking bunch of liberty chasers they dump down at your end of it, but they don't all stay that way. Every little while up here I see guys signing checks and voting the right ticket and encouraging the arts and taking a bath every morning. Don't was shoved ashore by a dock laborer born in the United States, who never earned over $40 a month. Don't run down your job, Aunt Liberty; you're all right, all right."

"Say, it's a shame, ain't it, to give you the worst end of it?"

On the Fly.

"Did you interview your husband?" "I did, my husband yesterday."

"Mrs. Moth—So I noticed while glancing over the paper." "Yes."

POLICE NEWS

Fannie Bennet, of Lafayette street, was arraigned before Justice Lambert, Wednesday morning for intoxication. The charge was "found asleep and drunk at E. Milton avenue and Montgomery street, and was arrested by officer Gerlack." After a severe reprimand by the judge sentence was suspended.

In Tuesday's issue of the Record it was stated that Mary Lakas, of 110 Hamilton street, was severely reprimanded by Justice Lambert as the result of a charge against her for breach of peace. This was an error and is regretted. The affair was the result of some trouble among children of neighbors and Mrs. Lakas was simply summoned to court in connection therewith.

THAT TAX ON TALK

As for the tax on telephone messages Mr. F. W. Warnke, District Commercial Manager of the New York Telephone Company, who was in town morning, told how the New York Telephone Company had prepared to collect the tax as directed by the Government.

The preparations for the collection of 15 cents of our tax on all messages of 15 cents or over has been a big job for the Telephone Company," said Mr. Warnke. "A special piece of mechanism had to be devised and placed in all sorts and sizes of boxes, in main changing every coin box telephone in the system, a tremendous job in itself. Now that a 15 cent is to be inserted, all calls charged by the company for quarter slot in the coin box by the person who sends the message. By means of a mechanical device, the tax payment will fall into a separate compartment in the coin box.

"Special preparations for billing regular subscribers correctly for the tax imposed on their messages of 15 cents and over also had to be made. New collections routines had to be prepared and new systems of accounting worked out. The Telephone Company has advised all telephone users of the new law and the methods put into effect for collecting the tax. Notices giving full directions have been placed on all public telephones and all subscribers have been advised by means of a circular enclosed with their monthly bills. This circular explains the method of making the charge for the tax and gives a digest of the law relating to it.

"The law applies not only to all messages on which the rate is 15 cents or more per message, but also to all messages on which the total charge, including overtime, amounts to 15 cents or more. Thus, while a 10 cent call at the rate of 5 cents bears no tax, should the conversation be prolonged over a period which would make the aggregate charge 15 cents or more, the tax of 1 cent is imposed.

"All telephone bills rendered during the life of this law will include a full service statement that will show those messages on which the tax is to be levied, together with the amount of such tax.

"The law directs that this tax shall be collected from the person paying for such messages or conversation and places the responsibility for collection upon the Telephone Company."

BRAVERY IN BATTLE.

After the Fighting Was Begun the Officers Gave Few Orders.

An officer in our regular army who saw fighting in the Spanish war pointed out the other day that most persons had a very wrong conception of how soldiers fight in modern battles.

"After a regiment has wheeled into position to attack the foe and the actual fighting has begun," he said, "the officers really have little to do with the proceedings. There is so much noise for one thing, that commands cannot be heard, and for this reason whistles, in many articles, have been substituted for bugles, because their shrill blast carries better than the heavier notes of the brass. Beyond giving the signal for the charge the officers can do little. The men, once they see the line of the enemy in front of them, know what is expected of them and carry out their work with surprisingly few orders.

"Seventh Ohio in times of peace have taught the troops how to act together, and it is amazing to see how quickly the men adapt themselves to the conditions of actual battle. It is the corporals and sergeants who are in the line with the men who are the real steadying influence in a fight. They know the characteristics of the individual privates in a way that the commissioned officers can never know them and are prepared to give a calming word to this or that one when the emergency arises.

"In my own experience I have blown a private who had served three enlistments to take charge of a company in a charge, and the officers and noncoms were very glad to have it in him. After the scrap was over he became a private once more, but while that row was on, so far as actual influence with the men was concerned, he was of a great deal more importance than his captain. The way that man could wriggle into cover was a revelation, and he went through three campaigns without a scratch. His example in the regiment was a big asset.

"Bravery in battle, according to my experience, is very much a matter of temperament. Some men are carried along by a sort of ecstasy, others hold themselves to the work by sheer force of will, while others—and these are the best—go through a fight with a sort of grim interest as if it was a highly exciting game, somewhat dangerous sport they were engaged in, like polo or football."—New York Times.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING.

It Is a Great Tonic After a Life of Physical Inactivity.

In several respects mountain climbing is a peculiarly wholesome form of athletic sport for the large number of persons whose occupations are sedentary. The indoor life which these persons necessarily lead and the protection from even the slightest rigors of climate which their mode of housing and places of work afford them are more than likely to render them oversensitive to the extremes of weather. It is for precisely such unexposed persons that an occasional trip to the highlands and an Alpine excursion has some refreshing recuperation and stimulus in store, according to physicians.

The heart is called on to exert itself to a degree which, to an otherwise healthy subject, will be followed only by the invigoration characteristic of most exercise. The advantage is not confined to a single organ, for the respiratory mechanism, the entire circulation of the body as well as the cardiac and circulatory apparatus, and the general metabolic processes alike benefit in ways not readily definable in scientific terms. In addition to an indefinable feeling of well being considerable skill is required in certain of the performances of mountain climbing or other feats of alpine sport. The combination has shown its wholesome and invigorating influence on many an individual suffering from the "fag" or a life of physical inactivity.—Journal of the American Medical Association.

Didn't Startle Rossetti.

Among authors there are some who take but the slightest interest in social or political questions. So far as public questions are concerned they are hardly better informed than Dante Gabriel Rossetti. During the French revolution one of his friends burst into Rossetti's studio with the incredible news, "Louis-Philippe has landed in Dunkirk!" "Has he?" was Rossetti's calmly. "What was he come for?"

Gauges.

"I was looking at some new style twenty dollar hats today," said his wife, "and I brought the one home to see what you think of it."

"Pretty," said her husband.

"That's what I thought. This is a cheap five dollar hat. Let me have $15."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Eyes of a Fly.

Naturalists state that the common blowbottle fly possesses between 4,000 and 5,000 little eyes when viewed under a good microscope, although to the naked eye it appears to have only two. They are six sided and formed together like the cells in a honeycomb.

Up and Down.

"What does it mean when the polls were up the crossing notes up in bank percentagetty?"

"It means that he pass up two down."—Baltimore American.

His Patience.

"If father spends three hours at golf on Sunday and doesn't kill or maim a few of the members, he immediately has of the most bragging about his patience."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE NOTES

(Contributed)

"To invent a telling phrase is not a small achievement. To make a paragraph that no one will forget and that carries an important declaration is a real triumph of intelligence." This Dr. Anna Howard Shaw accomplished who said to the National American Suffrage Association in session at Nashville, Tenn., the other day: "Men say the voice of the people is the voice of God, but they refuse to permit the soprano to be raised along with the bass. The great difficulty with this movement is that we have been listening to one big bass."—The Christian Advocate.

ANDREW MACK AT THE EMPIRE

An attraction of unusual interest to Rahwayans will be seen at the Empire Tuesday. Andrew Mack, the celebrated Irish comedian, who has achieved international fame on the American stage, was born in this city and lived his early boyhood days here. For years his name has been sufficient to attract capacity audiences in theatres where he has appeared, but with the increasing popularity of photo drama he finally consented to appear in one of his greatest dramatic successes "The Ragged Earl" a beautiful comedy drama of Irish life in five parts. A superb cast of favorites were engaged in making this production, and the settings both artistic and natural are a feast for the eye. This is the second of the Alco features.

Tonight the eighteenth episode of the "Perils of Pauline" will headline a big seven reel program of first run photo plays. This episode the most sensational and thrilling yet released of this popular serial takes place on a submarine and one of many thrills is when the delightful heroine herself, Pauline, is placed in a torpedo tube and shot to the surface of the water.

To-morrow a vaudeville bill of high class acts and a program of feature first run photo plays will hold the boards at the Empire. A program of surprises is what the management announces for the Saturday show this week. Following the matinee performance a skating contest will be conducted for the children with valuable prizes for the winners.

The thirteenth episode of the "Trey O' Hearts" and the second of the Terrace O'Rourke series with J. Warren Keerigan entitled "The Empire if Plunder" will share headline honors on Monday in addition to three other feature photo plays.

A FEW SUGGESTIONS FOR MAILING CHRISTMAS PARCLES AND CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR CARDS

The establishment of the parcel post has greatly increased the use of the mails as a means of distributing Christmas gifts. In view of the reduced rates of postage and the increased weight limit the amount of mail during the approaching holiday season will exceed all previous records. In order that the vast amount of mail be handled promptly and satisfactorily, it is necessary to have the co-operation of the public to the fullest extent. Following are a few simple "suggestions from Postmaster Geo. L. Kirkpatrick regarding the mailing of parcels and etc.:

Address parcels plainly. Have name and address of sender on the parcel. Pack articles carefully wrap them securely using stout twine or other strong material. Packages should be marked "Perishable" or "Fragile" when containing such articles. Do not seal parcels to be sent by parcel post, as sealed parcels are subject to first class, or letter rates. Valuable parcels should be insured. The rates are five cents for insurance of $25.00 and ten cents for insurance of $50.00. Do not enclose a letter in a parcel to be sent parcel post, as it will subject same to letter rates. The words "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" may be included. Souvenir post cards with tinsel are not permitted loosely in the mails, and must be inclosed within a sealed envelope. Hundreds of these cards are held yearly on account of not being properly "mailed." The Post Office Department has issued a pamphlet which gives full information as to rates of postage, weights and etc. which may be had free of charge by applying at the local office. Lastly, mail parcels early, they may be marked "Do not open until Christmas."

SPECIAL POLICE NOTICE

In accordance to instructions received by the Police Department from State Commissioner Job H. Lippincott, the law concerning lights on all vehicles upon public streets will be strictly enforced. Owing to the fact that the nights are longer at this time of the year, owners of vehicles will be obliged to light the lights on the vehicles sooner than was previously published. The law taken from the book regarding regulations of lights is part reads as follows:

"That all lights shall be lighted thirty (30) minutes after sunset and thirty (30) minutes before sunrise."

This of course, means that lights must be on the vehicles used during the interval between sunset and sunrise. The law further states that when for reasons it impossible to see a distance of at least 200 feet in the direction towards which such vehicle is proceeding, a light must also be used. Violation of the above law is amenable to a fine of five dollars, for each offence.

This also applies to bicycles, motor vehicles and horse drawn vehicles, upon any public street. In addition to this bicycle riders must carry warning bells. It found without such the offender is subject to a fine of five dollars.

DAVID H. RAMSEY,
Chief of Police.

TAX-ON INSURANCE POLICIES

All fire insurance policies and endorsements bearing extra premium must have attached to same Revenue stamps to the value of one half of one per cent on each dollar of the premium. The companies have notified their various agents that in no event must they charge the stamps to the company as they are expected to collect the value of same from the policy holders and the Insurance Commissioner of New Jersey has ruled it would be unlawful for an Agent of an Insurance company to pay out of his own personal funds the cost of the stamps required as it would be contrary to the anti rebate act of this state, so it makes it compulsory for the agent to collect the tax from the insured.

ELKS MEMORIAL IS IMPRESSIVE

Empire Theatre Filled Sunday Afternoon by Members and Friends—Fine Program

DR. W. STUCHELL SPEAKS

Impressive memorial services were held Sunday afternoon in the Empire theatre by Rahway Lodge 1076 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The eulogy was by Dr. Wm. Torrence Stuchell, and in his usual eloquent way, he told of the great brotherhood of the Elks and congratulated them on their large numbers and the great work accomplished by them. In reference to the departed ones he said although they are gone they are still with their companions here. Quoting from the ritual he said "This is an evening of consecration and resolution." He said that it was an evening of consecration to the Lord for the blessings of the past year, and it was an evening of resolutions because the members should resolve to still remain banded together in the great brotherhood of Elkdom." Mr. Stuchell referred to the great charitable work of the B. P. O. E. and told of the many boys who are cared for by the various orders in this country. The speaker referred to the Elks fraternity as being one of the largest and strongest in this country.

The services were attended by a large number, notwithstanding the inclement weather. At 3 o'clock members of the lodge marched into the theatre in a body. On the platform were seated the officers of the lodge and the speaker of the evening—Dr. Stuchell. The services were conducted by Exalted Ruler Howard Pendleton. ## BIG STORM DOES LITTLE DAMAGE HERE

This city like other municipalities in the path of the great storm that has been sweeping the Atlantic seaboard the past three days escaped serious damage. The Rahway river yesterday at high tide was swamping of the broad Meeksville. The lowlands adjacent to the stream were flooded higher than has been seen for many years, and cellars in the vicinity of the river were filled with water.

Trolley service was affected in this city owing to trouble near Woodbridge meadows and other low points along the lines. Several trees were blown down in different parts of the city.

IS THE MODERN CITY HEATHEN?

Of course Rahway is not heathen; and some may even think that it is not modern either but let every one interested in this city hear the speaker for the Civic Club on Wednesday afternoon December 9, in the high school auditorium. Rev. Percival H. Barker is the popular pastor of Christ Reformed Church, Newark, and has had a remarkable success along the lines of social and civic betterment. His Church is a large one, but every seat is taken. He strikes home! He may possibly hit Rahway! Every one is invited to hear what he has to say. The meeting will begin at 3.30 o'clock.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the High School Alumni Association held Saturday evening at the home of Miss Helen White, 17 Maple Terrace, it was decided to hold a session of the organization at the High School on Wednesday evening, December 23. It was further decided to have an entertainment after the conclusion of the business meeting. Details of which will be published later. On January 8th the Rutgers College Glee and Mandolin clubs will give a concert for the Alumni.

ORDERED TO JOIN HIS REGIMENT

LINCOLN H. & L. CO'S. MODERN BUILDING

Handsome Structure Nearing Completion Erected by the Company on Lower Main Street

That members of the Lincoln Fire Hose Association are a most progressive body of men is proven by the fact that they have not only bought their new apparatus and horses and other things in connection with the company, but they have also erected a handsome up-to-date fire house. The building, although not as yet complete is finished, according to the plans of the architects, Hoagland and Sons, of Elizabeth, the structure is about the most attractive and up-to-date building of the kind in this section, and is well worthy mention for the excellence of their work.

The new building is situated in Main street next to Leonard's pottery and will be completed within a few weeks. The official opening will take place on New Year's day, when city officials and members of both the old and new Common Councils will be entertained together with many guests.

Constructed of hollow tile with facing from side and fitted in the interior with oak floors, and equipped with large area as well as an attractive appearance, the building is an asset to the city and the members of the company are to be congratulated on the success of their endeavors. The building contains all modern improvements; stalls for the horses, a large meeting room, bed rooms and other facilities that go to make a complete building for the purposes intended.

The building was planned by Oakley and Sons of Elizabeth; the carpentry in charge of David Voorhies, Geo. Edmunds is attending to the masonry and Fred Hudsman is looking after the plumbing. All departments of the work have been well cared for and those directly connected with the building of the house deserve praiseworthy mention for the excellence of their work.

The money realized from the various carnivals the company has conducted, is paying for the building. This fact is one special compared, because it demonstrates that the Lincoln Firemen Association have put their earnings to a praiseworthy purpose. The company has financed its accomplishments all the way through without assistance. The company was incorporated in 1902 and although not a large organization numerically, the members are second to none in efficiency in their work.

The officers of the company are: President Edward Leonard; secretary, Charles Moore and John Stephens, treasurer.

HORSE KILLED BY P.R.R. TRAIN

Driver of School Stage Has Narrow Escape at Lessville Avenue Crossing Yesterday

ONE HORSE UNHURT

One horse was killed and the driver Charles Petersen, of the old Hence Hilter Farm, Locust Grove, narrowly escaped death, yesterday morning about nine o'clock at the crossing on the Long Branch division of the Pennsylvania railroad at Lessville avenue, when struck by a fast train. One horse was killed instantly. The other escaped injury, as did also the wagon to which they were attached.

Petersen who conveys the pupils to school at Demarest on Hillside, had just left the school and was on his way to Rahway. Intending to have his horses shod at E. A. Harned's blacksmith shop. On approaching the crossing he did not notice the fast approaching train. Just as his horses stepped upon the crossing one of the animals was struck with great force and killed instantly. The other horse was not harmed. The impact was of sufficient force to turn the wagon completely around.

LOCAL WINNERS AT COUNTY EXHIBIT

At the Agricultural and Poultry Exhibition held in Elizabeth, Hilton Marshon of the city received first prize for the best display of silver ribbon corn; first honors on the English warrior squash; second prize on onions and the Hubbard squash. The lucky prize winner is to be highly congratulated on his success as it was said by some of the judges that the display of fruits and vegetables this year far exceeded those of previous years.

Another prize winner, this city is Charles S. Thomas, who won third prize for Buff Orpington pen; first prize for Buff Orpington cockerel and first prize for Barred Plymouth Rock cockerel.

The following is taken from the Youth's Companion:" In the past ten years the number of students taking the full four years course in American Agricultural colleges has increased from about 2,500 to 12,500, and the number taking short or special courses has doubled. Ten years ago very few secondary schools gave instructions in agriculture; now more than two thousand give it. Agricultural extension work carried on by farmer's institutes has also increased greatly. Evidently the business of farming is looking up."

CHARGED WITH LARCENY

Thomas O. Reddan, of 29 Walker street Summit, was arraigned before Justice Lambert Saturday on the charge of grand larceny. The complaint was made by Paul Bak and E. W. Cassady, boarders at No. 8 Pilsner street. Reddan accused the pair of stealing a watch from him, while Cassady said the accused had stolen money from him. ## NO TRACE FOUND CLADEK'S BAGGAGE

Mr. J. D. Stackhouse, station agent at the P. R. R. depot of this city, has received a letter from F. J. McWade, General Baggage Agent in which the sender states that the P. R. R. is unable to find a single trace of any parcels or baggage belonging to George E. Cladek who has been missing since the night of November 17. A circular containing a statement of Mr. Cladek's possessions, which he is supposed to have taken with him, has been placed in nearly all the depots along the P. R. R. and a description of the missing man is also placed on many bulletin boards.

The police department, although not having given up the hunt have found no clues. Relatives are helpless until something turns up which gives direction as to his whereabouts. Mrs. Cladek, in an interview yesterday morning, stated she she is waiting for news regarding her husband's location, but she has nothing to guide her in anticipation of his return. She still fears Mr. Cladek has met with foul play and wishes to deny all reports that demand infidelity or business troubles have caused his mysterious disappearance.

The letter received from Mr. Stackouse reads as follows:

Philadelphia, Pa.
Dec. 4, 1914.

Mr. J. D. Stackhouse,
Agent, Rahway, N. J.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your favor of November 21, relative to baggage belonging to Mr. G. B. Cladek, I regret to advise that we have been unable to locate this baggage in any of our parcel rooms.

Very truly yours,
F. J. McWADE,
General Baggage Agent
