Southwest Civic Sues to Block Billnan Project

The Southwest Civic Association of Clark last week filed suit in Superior Court, Elizabeth, to overturn a variance granted by the Municipal Council to Billnan Fifteen Inc. for an eight-story hotel and an eight-story office building at 1 Walnut Avenue.

Suit was filed by Mrs. Linda Fischer of 48 Lance Road in behalf of herself and the association, which she heads as president.

Defendants in the suit are the Township of Clark, Board of Adjustment, Billnan Fifteen Inc. and SGP Steel Scaffolding and Shoring Co. SGP is the owner of the property at 1 Walnut Avenue.

Mrs. Fischer in the suit said the association is composed of 700 members. The counsel for the SCA is Sanford Haberstadter, Elizabeth attorney.

The Board of Adjustment recommended to the governing body that a variance be granted to Billnan Fifteen. The recommendation came after a hearing which took several meetings. The Council then returned the recommendation to the board, asking that an additional hearing be held. The board held the hearing and then forwarded a favorable recommendation to the Council. Council voted to grant the variance.

The suit by SCA calls the Council's action arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious and states that the action is in violation of the constitutional rights of the plaintiff and other property owners.

The SCA objections to the Billnan project cited increased noise, increased traffic, and impairment of intent and purpose of the zoning ordinance, and said it would be a detriment to the health and safety of landowners, school children and residents of the neighborhood.

The plaintiff said the applicant failed to request all of the relief which was ultimately granted and did not properly notify interested persons, the zoning board acted in an illegal manner by making recommendations it had no legal right to make, findings were not legally valid to support the relief granted, and findings were not supported by evidence.

The plaintiff also said the action violated Planning Board recommendations and that no hardships were found.

Waterson Memorial Fund Contributions Are Asked

An appeal for Clark residents to contribute to the Billy Waterson Memorial Fund, established in memory of a 23-year-old township patrolman who gave his life in the performance of his duty, was made yesterday.

Police Lt. Robert Bartkus, chairman of the fund, reported that nearly $1,000 has been given to date. He pointed out that more money must be contributed, if the committee's plans are to be realized.

Lt. Bartkus said plans call for a stone monument to be erected in front of Police Headquarters on Westfield Avenue and for Patrolman William Waterson's name to be inscribed on the memorial as the first Clark policeman to die in line of duty. All money in excess of the amount needed to pay for the monument will be contributed to the Crippled Children's Fund of Elks Lodge No. 2327.

Contributions may be made by sending checks to the Billy Waterson Memorial Fund, P.O. Box 947, Clark. Money received is credited immediately to the fund's account in the First New Jersey Bank.

Patrolman Waterson, son of Police Capt. and Mrs. John Waterson, was killed on July 4 by a robbery suspect who was being chased by Patrolmen Richard Reider and Waterson from a Clark motel.

FOR HEROIC ACTS ... Plaques were presented by Mayor Thomas A. Kaczmarek in behalf of the Kaczmarek Association to four Clark residents for personal acts of heroism in rendering life saving assistance to other citizens. They are (standing): Robert Byrnes, township treasurer, Mayor Kaczmarek, Thomas Geldhauser, Walter J. Johnson, and Gerald Brophy. Seated are: Jeff Hancharik and Dominick Massarelli, association president, Mr. Johnson received his award for the rescue of Patricia Campbell from the ice of the reservoir on Jan. 10. Tom, Gerald, and Jeff were cited for their rescue of John Carr from the reservoir on Dec. 31.

Humanities Course Stresses Rights, Ecology, Fine Arts

A new approach to the teaching of humanities, emphasizing man's humanity to man, is being developed in a summer workshop in the Union County Regional High School District No. 1.

All junior class students in the four high schools, including Arthur L. Johnson in Clark, will be involved in these mini-studies during the 1971-72 school year, according to Edward Brown, workshop director. Mr. Brown also is the district's music and fine arts coordinator.

The workshop has 20 teachers representing various areas. They were working for six weeks on a program built around such topics as self concepts, human rights, ecology and fine arts, "emphasizing man's relations to an involvement with his fellow man."

Each presentation during the school year will include meetings with the group of teachers who will be actively involved in the pre-program and post-program discussions and suggested activities.

"The students in each of the schools will then carry out classroom discussion and activities in preparation for the large group presentation and follow up with meaningful small group meetings with selected community leaders and teachers," Mr. Brown said.

In addition to the teachers participating in the workshop, students from each of the high schools will be involved in planning and presenting the program series.

"This approach to the humanities in the secondary school," Mr. Brown said, "is unique and innovative. Although there are many courses in related arts and philosophy, very few contain the broad humanistic involvement that is the intent of this series of programs or allows a broad segment of the students to take an active part in relating themselves to other human beings."

Mr. Brown added, "In developing these exciting experiences, the humanities team hopes to help the student and teacher become increasingly aware of the relationships to his fellow man and enables the individual to be better able to cope with the complexities of his existence today and to develop a deeper understanding and appreciation of his own worth."

Paper's Smallpox Advice To Travelers Questioned

A story in the columns of the "New York Daily News" saying that smallpox vaccinations were no longer necessary for Americans going to Europe and other smallpox-free areas of the world was disregarded by Union County Clerk Walter G. Halpin of Fanwood.

The county clerk, receiving numerous inquiries from Union County residents, said the release by Dr. Vincent F. Guinee, director of New York City's Infectious Disease Control Bureau, was "misleading and ambiguous."

Mr. Halpin said that an advisory memorandum dated March 25, 1971, from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, reads, "The Foreign Quarantine Program of the Center for Disease Control issued the following statement concerning smallpox vaccination requirements for entry into the United States."

Father Denis Whalen gave the benediction. Joseph Vella, chairman of the group's board, said the Gran Centurions are planning to sponsor a learn-to-swim program for township youth in conjunction with the summer recreation program sponsored by the Clark Board of Education.

He said club members feel it is important to teach youngsters how to swim to avoid bathing mishaps, one of which claimed the life of a township child in 1969.

Although the United States can require evidence of smallpox vaccination from all persons entering the United States, this will only be enforced from those who within the past 14 days have been in countries reporting smallpox. Persons inquiring about immunization requirements should be informed that it is desirable and recommended that they be vaccinated prior to departure. They will be held or vaccinated at the port of entry in the United States only if they have visited a smallpox reporting country within the two weeks prior to arrival or in the unlikely event they have been exposed to smallpox on their plane or on a connecting flight."

It is of utmost importance to realize, Mr. Halpin said, that this statement represents a modification of procedures at United States ports of entry. It is not an elimination of the requirement for proof of immunization against smallpox. Retention of the requirement allows for flexibility by the Public Health Service in its effort to protect the public

Two Directors Named
Appointment of directors for the Clark Players, drama group sponsored by the Board of Education, was made by the board at Tuesday night's meeting. Mrs. Judith Cole Ringer, fall director, will receive $350 and John Musum, spring director, will be paid $425.

Institute 3 Suits To Remove Ban On Construction

Superior Court Judge Ward J. Herbert in Newark has signed an order for the Clark Municipal Council and the township's building inspector, John Doenzelmann, to show cause why the ordinance banning the issuance of permits for commercial building should not be rescinded and declared null and void.

The order was obtained Monday by Stanley Fink of the Clark law firm of Fink & Diamond, 1088 Raritan Road, acting in behalf of Stephen A. Warner, owner of property at 719 Raritan Road. During the Council's public hearing before the ordinance was adopted on July 12, Michael Diamond declared the governing body was taking an action which would deny his client the right to develop his land under a commercial zone that was law.

The order is returned to the Chancery Division of Superior Court in Newark on Friday, July 30.

The issues to be decided are why the township should not be enjoined from enforcing the moratorium on commercial building, why the building inspector should not be ordered to issue permits upon presentation of proper plans and qualifications, and why the ordinance should not be rescinded and declared null and void.

Two other suits also were instituted on Monday. The plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Barton, represented by Michael Posnock of Linden, and Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Vizzoni, represented by Alden Markson of Kenilworth. They named the township, building inspector and Planning Board as defendants. Mr. Warner already has Planning Board approval for his plans. He was planning to sell lots on Raritan Road to Stop Convenience Stores.

The Bartons planned to sell a tract at Westfield Avenue and Campbell Place to Dunkin' Donuts and two other stores. The Vizzoni family proposed to sell lots on Raritan Road to Quick Check Stores.

The Raritan Road and Westfield Avenue properties have been zoned for commercial use.

Protests against the use of the properties for commercial purposes were registered at the July 12 meeting of the Council. More than 500 persons attended the hearing on the moratorium ordinance. One petition, bearing 1,410 signatures, opposed the Raritan Road commercial development because the site is contiguous to a R-150 zone, a residential zone.

Regional School Hit by Vandalism During Weekend

Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School officials are seeking information as to the identity of the vandal or vandals who smashed and cracked 55 glass bricks on the boy's gym of the Clark school.

School officials said the vandalism apparently was done over the weekend. The foot-square bricks are part of the facing around the gym portion of the school.

Lewis F. Fredericks, assistant superintendent for business, said it would cost almost $1,400 to replace the glass.

"Vandalism of this or any other type, is hard to explain. The same tax money that is used to buy books and equipment for a quality education, must be used to repair damage of this sort. It comes out of the taxpayer's pocket," one school administrator said.

The glassed area begins about 20 feet from the ground and reaches to the roof.

Anyone with information may call the school.

2 Mini-Theaters, New Store Sought for A Mart Site on Raritan Rd., Hearing Sept. 27

Villa Contracting Co. will seek to secure a variance from the Clark Board of Adjustment for two mini-theaters each seating 350 people and a store on property now occupied by A Mart, the discount outlet of Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., located on Raritan Road.

The variance was to have been considered by the board at its regular meeting this Monday, July 26, in the council chambers of the municipal building on Westfield Avenue, but an error by the applicant in a legal notice in a daily paper will force the matter to be considered at the regular Sept. 27 meeting.

The property is Block 60, Lots 4, 63, 64, 65, 65A, and 65B. Lot 4 is owned by Villbro Investment Co., Lot 63 by August and Rita Granrath, Lots 64 and 65 by Villa Brothers, and Lots 65A and 65B by Villbro Realty Co., Ralph Iozzi, secretary of the Board of Adjustment said.

The variance will seek to enlarge the existing A & P store, to erect one store, and to convert another building now located on the site for theater use.

With the exception of the lot owned by the Granraths, all others are owned by firms controlled by the Villa family. All Villa companies listed in the application, Mr. Iozzi said, gave 1255 Westfield Ave., Clark, as their address. Paul Williams, a Westfield attorney, is representing the Villa companies.

The lots for which Mr. Williams will be seeking a variance are zoned differently. Some of the area is zoned C-1, light commercial, some C-3, heavy commercial, and some industrial.

Mr. Iozzi urged the public to attend the meeting and offer their ideas to the board, so it would have an idea about taxpayer opinion on the matter.

The Board of Adjustment has scheduled three cases for hearing at its meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

Jay A. Stemmer has applied for a variance which would permit construction of an attached garage and two rooms to a residence-office building at 990 Raritan Road. The variance is required because there would be a violation of the side yard requirements, if construction were permitted. The property is Lot 11 of Block 54.

A variance to allow erection of a one-family dwelling on Washington Street is sought by Robert Makransky. The variance is necessary because the use which constitutes a special exception. The property is Lot 32 of Block 91.

The board also will have a hearing on the application by Mary Semansky for a variance to erect an attached two-car garage at 56 Tudor Drive in violation of side-yard requirements. The property is Lot 33-A of Lot 7.

The board will not meet next month.

Appoint Director For Audio-Visual Work in Schools

Sidney Hochman, a teacher in Valley Road School, Clark, was appointed director of audio-visual education for Clark public schools by the Board of Education at its meeting on Tuesday night in the board's administration building on Schindler Road.

The board set the salary for the position at $500 a year.

Two teachers were hired for the school year starting in September. They are Miss Diane Thomas and Miss Lillian Huth. They will be paid $8,080 a year.

The name of Mrs. Beverly Scher of 197 Lexington Boulevard was added to the list of summer school teacher substitutes for this year.

Four teachers were awarded advanced study grants for next fall. The teachers, the amounts they will receive for their studies and the colleges they will attend are: Mrs. Lois Franzoso, $60, Newark State College; Mrs. MaryAnn Walsh, $278.40, Seton Hall University; Anthony Rocco, $120, NSC, and Jack Tomaszewski, $120, NSC.

Library aides for five schools were hired for the next school year at the rate of $2.80 an hour. The aides and the schools to which they have been assigned are: Mrs. Evelyn Isaac, Charles H. Brewer School; Mrs. Lillian Krumm, Abraham Clark School; Mrs. Lillian Buehler, Frank K. Hehly School; Mrs. Lucille Peters, Mildred Terrace School, and Mrs. Loretta Mercurio, Valley Road School.

The board engaged 10 cafeteria aides for the year.

Hours of Operation For Dump Listed

John F. Allaire Jr., Clark director of public works, announced yesterday that new hours have been established for dumping by township residents at the public works yard at the rear of the Municipal Building. Mr. Allaire said a fence has been erected around the yard and the schedule arranged because of abuse of the dumping privilege.

The public works yard will be open Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and from 5 to 7 p.m. and on Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., the director stated. The yard will be closed on Sundays.

The privilege of dumping garden and lawn debris at the yard is restricted to township residents, Mr. Allaire emphasized. He added that violators of the restriction will be prosecuted.

Dumpster containers are being used to carry the refuse from the yard, Mr. Allaire said. The containers, which have a capacity of 35 cubic yards, cost $75 each.

Decision to construct a fence around the public works yard and to restrict the hours came after residents and non-residents had taken advantage of the opportunity to dump debris and had discarded bags of trash and refuse in a disorderly manner.

"The dumping became uncontrollable," Mr. Allaire declared. "We had to do

Head Start Holds Parents' Program

The Rahway Community Action Organizations Head Start program's activities last week were highlighted by a parent visitation, according to Charles Brown, chairman.

The parents' schedule included classroom participation, a meeting with Head Start staff members, and a refreshment break. Sixty parents including the Superintendent of Schools, Richard M. Nash, attended.

In a discussion period with the parents, Mrs. Robert Plotkin, director, explained the program and answered questions. Parents were informed about the complete medical, dental and laboratory services offered through Head Start. The program prepares the children with all the necessary medical requirements for entering school as well as providing immediate services in these departments when necessary without cost to the parent.

Miss Helen Langs, Head Start medical director, announced that medical, laboratory and dental examinations are being made under the direction of Dr. C. T. Hill, Dr. Adam McDaniel and Bell Laboratories of Rahway. Miss Langs is being assisted by Mrs. Virginia Jackson, case aide.

Mrs. Plotkin explained that since Head Start is the first step for many children from the home and family into the outside world, the program in Rahway is geared "toward a journey into a wider world of meaningful activities for each child with an introduction first to his city."

A weekly series of story time sessions with Mrs. Jean Petersen of the Rahway Library has begun. A visit to The Rahway News-Record plant is scheduled for July 29. The 75 children will be given a tour of Rahway Hospital on Aug. 2. They also will tour the Revelers Playhouse where they will be entertained with a skit prepared by the classroom aides.

The Rahway Fire Department, Police Department and the First Aid Squad headquarters visited the children on July 9. Representatives of each department explained its function and displayed equipment on the school grounds for the children to inspect. The men participating allowed the children to handle and wear some of the equipment, giving the children a greater understanding.

Also included in the summer activities will be an outing to Merrill Park, Woodbridge, on July 30 and an "Everybody's Birthday" party on Aug. 4.

Center Conducts Tour of Rutgers For Children

Children of the J.F.K. Community Center's summer program of the Rahway Community Action Organization, headed by Charles Brown, toured Rutgers University on July 14.

One of the major objections of this program, according to Mr. Brown, is to highlight the importance of education. The trip to Rutgers University under the guidance of Larry Lockhart, project director, included a tour of the library at Douglass College, and science buildings and lecture halls at the main campus.

Mr. Lockhart, recently returned from active duty for the Army Reserve at Fort Lewis, Wash., completed his junior year at Lincoln University before entering the service. He plans to continue his education in the fall. "It is our hope that this trip to Rutgers and other of its kind will inspire more of our youth to pursue a higher education," said Mr. Lockhart.

Also working in the program as counselors are Andrew Ingram, a junior at Rutgers, and Michael Campbell, a sophomore at Livingston College of Rutgers.

"Having young men of this caliber involved with our children each day in various activities can only serve as an inspiration to the entire program," Mr. Brown commented.

Mr. Polackoff owned a liquor store for 15 years in Harrison, and worked for the past 15 years as a salesman with National Wine & Liquor, Passaic.

College's Trailer To Be Stationed In City Today

Union College's College Information Center on Wheels will make its next stops in Rahway.

The trailer-based information and counseling service will be stationed at Main and E. Cherry Streets today from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and at Veterans' Memorial Field, Central Avenue and Bryant Street, from 5:30 to 9 p.m.

The College Information Center on Wheels is sponsored by Union College under a grant from Humble Oil and Refining Company to take information on higher educational opportunities directly into Union County communities, reaching many residents who might not seek this information out through traditional channels.

The trailer contains brochures, catalogs, slides and other printed material on colleges and vocational and technical schools. A staff of trained counselors is on hand to answer questions and to help prospective students fill out applications and forms for financial aid.

The center began its first summer tour of Union County in 1968. Since that time more than 5,000 people have visited the trailer.

New Merck Warehouse to Be Largest Building in Complex

Plans to build a new warehouse facility in Linden have been announced by Merck & Co., Inc. The one-story structure will cover more area than two football fields and will be the largest single building at the company's Rahway site.

Construction will start this fall on the 112,000-square-foot warehouse, along with a 10,000-square-foot solvent storage shed and a 2,400-square-foot equipment storage shed as part of the same complex. Completion of the project, which includes the various buildings, railroad sidings, roads, and site development, is anticipated for late 1972.

The warehouse will centralize the storage of all raw materials, containers, and finished goods, as well as some in-process material. Merck presently is using 24 different warehouse and storage areas at the site for this material, along with rented storage space. A smaller warehouse and two storage sheds at the northwest end of the site will be demolished to make room for the new buildings.

Concurrently with the new construction, the company planned in cooperation with the Rahway Advisory Committee. Members are Charles Brown, director of the Rahway Community Action Organization; John Merriks, Mrs. Shirley Dozier and Wilbur Hooper, members of the Rahway Community Action Organization; Richard Byrnes, guidance counselor at Rahway High School; Nicholas Delmonaco, vice principal of Rahway High School; Mrs. Mary Ryan, and Miss Lorraine Williams, director of the summer program for RCO.

Plans to improve Pleasant Street, leading into the site from Linden. Practically all truck traffic into and out of the site will use this route to reach the new warehouse. The 400-by-280 foot main warehouse will be modern, concrete slab construction, with an interior stacking height of 25 feet to permit storage of about 9,000 pallets of material. Modern truck and rail staging areas will be provided.

The new buildings will provide more flexibility and will be easier to control and supervise than the present arrangement. Also, the new buildings will permit consolidation of the many administrative operations now required because of the present decentralized warehouse facilities, the company said.

City Playground Event Scheduled

Winners of events on the Rahway playgrounds are scheduled to compete on Tuesday evening, Aug. 3, for the city-wide championships. The event was changed to evening so more parents will have the opportunity to see the children perform.

Interested children may ask the playground directors for information about the championship events.

Public Hearings on Variances Are Opportunities for Understanding

The Clark Board of Adjustment will hear an application for a variance to put two mini-theaters and a store on Raritan Road where the A Mart is located.

The hearing on the matter will be held Sept. 27 in the council chambers of the municipal building on Westfield Avenue, so all concerned parties as well as the general public may be heard.

The pros and cons will be discussed then as they were when the Billman 15 matter was considered by that body. After the Billman 15 hearings when few objected, suddenly there arose the cry: "We weren't given the opportunity to be heard." The truth is that plenty of opportunity for discussion of the Billman 15 variance had been afforded, but few persons objected at the public hearings before the board of adjustment. In fact, at the first public hearing no one objected.

While the Billman case and the present variance application have nothing to do with each in substance, the point about a citizen's responsibility to show up at an appointed hearing and make his opinions heard pertain to both. This variance to have two mini-theaters might be a good thing, again it might not. The board must hear the case, all the facts, and then make up its mind.

Let's hope that all persons who want to be heard will make it there business to speak before the board and not to wage endless arguments thereafter that are strictly after-the-fact of a recommendation to township council by the board to either approve or deny the variance.

If persons either fail to approve or object to actions by the board at public hearings, the body could be denied facts it might not otherwise be able to obtain. Also, those seeking to have a variance approved or denied will be left no alternative but to proceed into court which is a costly and endless route and, often, affording little satisfaction.

One should feel as a citizen, with an interest to protect, that the best place to be heard on variance matters is before the board. Board members will listen to facts with which a citizen, making public statements before that body or any other for that matter, should be well-armed.

Perhaps the testimony to be offered by the parties who stayed away at hearings would have shown all present that a particular course of action was justified. Who can say how far an unsounded argument would have gone to change a particular decision.

One should also remember that if the transcript of testimony before the board is void of one side of an argument, courts are not disposed to look favorably upon a proposition whose advocates or detractors failed to appear and offer sound argument.

Welfare System Needs Emasculation

The Senate Finance Committee has just begun hearings on reforming the nation's welfare system. The cost of welfare is so staggering, and it is increasing at such an alarming rate that prompt action must be taken. No longer can we afford to let political leaders "look to the next election" by increased spending. Already welfare is cutting sharply into such important budgets as the education of our children and police protection on our streets.

Ten years ago there were 6.18 million people on welfare receiving $3.8 billion. Today there are 13.5 million on the rolls getting more than $13 billion. Even without any more "generosity" on the part of our politicians, the present program is due to double in the next four years. As fast as the Vietnam war is winding down, the cost of welfare is going up, leaving no funds for any other needs, such as curtailing the spread of drugs.

The cause of this soaring welfare rate is not an increase in poverty. The number of people living at the poverty level has decreased 50 percent in the last 12 years. We ought to be creating more jobs and less handouts.

The blame for increasing welfare costs lies with the federal government's Health, Education, and Welfare Department and with Supreme Court decisions. HEW is blackmailing states to accept more costly welfare programs. For real reform, HEW must be stripped of its power to dictate welfare programs. States need federal assistance, but they should have the power to determine how that assistance can be used in their state. In the words of Senator Strom Thurmond: "The dismal record of HEW in this field suggests that any state could devise a far more beneficial and creative system of welfare administration suitable to its own needs if given the power to do so freely."

Welfare is the least productive and by far the most corrupt federal and state program in the Republic. Unless it is emasculated, so recipients are only the truly handicapped, we can expect skyrocketing taxes for the working people and a growing pool of inferior people who have made up their minds to live off the rest of us with our government's corrupting consent.

Action on Black Funeral Home Should Be Made by City Council

Inaction by municipal council on the variance for a black funeral home being sought by James C. Jones on Elm Avenue has continued for too long.

The cancellation of last Friday's special council meeting which was called solely for the consideration of that variance is regrettable, since, no matter which way council would have voted, it leaves the feeling in many minds that the meeting was cancelled, in the presence of a quorum, for devious reasons.

In any instance, council's decision does not really constitute the last word on the case because the whole matter will undoubtedly be returned to Superior Court by the party whose cause is not upheld by a council majority. We would have wished that a council decision could have been made with dispatch, so each party could have exhausted its legal remedies swiftly, and both Mr. Jones and Elm Avenue residents would know which way things were to be.

We would like to think that all the "hot" statements made on this matter will fall before the force of reason. That citizens should look at good zoning in variances, parking problems, and community needs is obvious, but somehow in this case, too many people have abandoned the former criteria and made the case solely a racial matter.

These good criteria pertain to all variance matters. It is our hope they will be used to determine this unnecessarily touchy issue.

50-Home Project Subject of RCFC At Its Meeting

"Where's the water all going to?" asked several members of the Rahway Citizens for Flood Control Inc. when the Halbel home building project was discussed at the group's monthly meeting on Monday night in St. Mark's Hall.

The subject was introduced by the Democratic candidate for Fifth Ward Councilman John Brogan, who said he attended as an interested citizen.

Mr. Brogan presented a builder's layout or map of the proposed 50-home construction project by Halbel Inc. of Jersey City on property Halbel purchased from Mrs. Marjorie S. Seales at 1366 St. George Ave., Rahway.

Area residents have complained that present drainage culvert is already inadequate. Homeowners on Jefferson and Central Avenues fear that more water run-off into the already troublesome Robinson's Branch of the Rahway River will increase the flooding danger. The whole subject of cleaning and updating Rahway's sewer system is spotlighted by the various home building projects throughout the City of Rahway, according to a RCFC spokesman.

Although we have been surprisingly effective in halting and altering several building projects planned within the flood plain itself, we are limited to what can be done to influence flood-oriented construction in other areas, even if they are in the water shed," remarked Mrs. Stephanie Cedervall, RCFC secretary-publicist. "We must rely on the city officials' good judgment in allowing more construction during a condition of disaster-area flood emergency."

Mr. Brogan voiced his opinion about the total tax rate value of some new home construction, saying that consideration must be given to the added costs for schooling at least 2 1/2 students per family, besides other city services. Members expressed great satisfaction in learning that Dr. N. B. Cole had finally begun work in removing encroaching fill in the Robinson's Branch on his property at the rear of former Shop-Rite Supermarket on St. George Avenue at Elm Avenue. Bulldozers were at work last week uprooting trees and moving soil in specially State-specified approval of stream clearance, involving altering the channel flow and adding fill to properties across the stream that have been suffering from water overflow.

Mr. Brogan pointed out that removing present river encroachments has to be supplemented by group vigilance to prevent further river blockage and conditions that contribute to flooding.

Canoeists Advocate Exploring the Little Rivers for Adventure

New Jersey for many people means urban sprawl, the non-aesthetic vistas of swamp and industry viewed from the Turnpike and pollution of the air and water. James and Margaret Cawley, veteran canoeists, are trying to change this image in the revised edition of their book, "Exploring the Little Rivers of New Jersey," recently reissued by the Rutgers University Press. The book was first published in 1942.

"One may explore this charming countryside quietly paddling a canoe down any one of the many little rivers of the state," the authors declare. "Exploring by canoe enables one not only to savor the smell of the pines and cedars and observe the wildlife along the streams, but also to get to know the rivers in a way not possible otherwise."

In their book, the Cawleys describe their experiences a year ago reexploring 16 of the state's rivers and the historic Delaware and Raritan Canal. They found "surprisingly little change in the conditions of our streams" in the 29 years between the first and third editions of their book. A second edition was printed 10 years ago.

"In a few of our rivers there is noticeable pollution, but many of them seem still clean," the authors state. "Perhaps the current efforts to restore our environment will save our little rivers from further spoilage before it is too late."

The Cawleys (he is 78 and she is 74) have been canoeists for more than half a century. They met on a canoeing trip and were married in 1920. For their honeymoon they took a canoeing-camping trip. Their three daughters were brought up to be canoeists and the current edition of their book is dedicated to them.

"To be able to launch a canoe in a river, where conditions are sometimes truly wild in every sense of the word, where mile after mile, the stately white cedars surround the canoeist with beauty, with the fast, foam-flecked water rushing round the bend, makes such a day on a river a rare adventure," the authors write.

They describe their experiences canoeing on the rivers of South Jersey, including the Mullica, Maurice, Batsto, Wading and Great Egg Harbor streams flowing through an area covering a quarter of the state. The Cawleys also discuss their canoe trips on such northern New Jersey rivers as Paulins Kill, Musconetcong, Ramapo, Passaic and the North and South Branches of the Raritan.

Shore rivers, including Toms and Manasquan, also are covered in the book. A chapter is devoted to the Delaware and Raritan Canal.

The book is liberally illustrated with photographs and maps and contains helpful information concerning public and private camp sites along the river banks.

Letters to the Editor

People Enslaved By Communism
Some people are confused to what Communism really is. Three words that simply define it are: Central Government Control or Central Government Ownership. The Communist government owns banks, railroads, schools, automobiles, radio stations, all fields of education, and they own the people too. People are just a mere number to serve the interests of the state. They are owned by the government.

In our republican form of government, our Constitution states that we the people are the government. People control the government in our country. According to the first ten amendments of our Constitution, the federal government has no power or jurisdiction over health, welfare, damns, education, unemployment, housing and labor.

In the Communist rule, government is a provider, providing the people with all their needs. They are dependent upon the state. In our republic, the Constitution is just a protector of our God-given rights. The difference is obvious: Slavery because the people are control, and freedom because they are not. Let's all fight to keep our Constitution alive. The document which has produced the highest amount of freedom and prosperity in the history of the world. Because we Americans are and always should be "One nation under God."

JO-HANNA MILLS
Linden

HERE'S A GOOD TRIP ... In their revised book, "Exploring the Little Rivers of New Jersey," septuagenarians James and Margaret Cawley tell of the charms of paddling a canoe along the state's waterways. The veteran canoeists say there has been little change in the conditions of the streams since the book was first published in 1942.

Connor Would Prohibit Racket in Term Papers

John T. Connor Jr. of Cranford, Democratic candidate for the State Senate, has called upon Attorney-General George Kugler to take steps to prohibit "term paper mills" from operating in New Jersey.

"If allowed to continue," Mr. Connor said, "this type of operation will completely subvert those academic standards which our dedicated teachers and administrators try so hard to achieve and maintain."

Mr. Connor noted press reports that such operations have existed in New Jersey since February and that the market in term papers is booming. He added that one operation sold 10,000 papers last year.

Halpin Addresses

County Clerk Unit

On Ballot Setup

Union County Clerk Walter G. Halpin of Fanwood addressed members of the National Association of County Clerks at its annual conference in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on July 21. Mr. Halpin's talk was entitled "Preparation of the Election Ballot."

Mr. Halpin as county clerk, is responsible for preparation of the ballot for both the primary and general elections. Part of his talk covered problems involved in keeping all candidates happy as to line and column number and a chronological accounting how candidates qualify to have their names appear on the ballot.

He also criticized the archaic election laws of New Jersey and the New Jersey State Legislature for its failure to completely update the laws to be consistent with modern times. Down through the years, the existing laws have been merely amended as the need arose.

Although Union County is not affected, Mr. Halpin raised the question of why the State of New Jersey, one of the original 13 states, with a population of seven million people and one of the most highly industrialized states in the nation, still has five counties voting by paper ballot.

In discussing the committee's active role in providing opportunities for young people within the party, Mr. Dimon said that the state committee passed a resolution in April to urge the Legislature to approve the 18-year-old vote legislation. Following that, a statewide youth committee was appointed, headed by the Union County chairman, Richard G. Everyone should have the Blues when away from home.

Blue Cross if you have to be hospitalized... Blue Shield for the doctor's care... should serious illness or accident strike when you're away from home. Your Blue Cross and Blue Shield ID cards are protection against health care costs virtually anywhere. It's a fact more doctors and hospitals work with the Blues than with any other plans.

That's because we're the plans that deal directly with hospitals and doctors. Because we're totally non-profit. Because we're the only specialists in the prepaid health-care field. Because our combined operating costs are about 6 cents of every dollar we receive... and we pay out over $1 million every day.

Some 3.5 million New Jerseyans avoid doubt, confusion and red tape by carrying ID cards from the Blues. Whether they're at home or away.

County Clerk Halpin Reports Total Of 676 Passports Issued This Year

County Clerk Walter G. Halpin of Union County has revealed that his records show an increase of 676 passports processed out of his offices in Elizabeth and Westfield for the first six months of 1971 as opposed to the same period five years ago when Mr. Halpin first took office the total number of passport applications processed has increased by 100 per cent.

Mr. Halpin reported that his staff has handled 6,326 applications this year up to the end of June as compared to 5,650 for the same period in 1970. For the first six months of 1967, his office handled 3,181 applicants. At this space he predicts his office may reach the 10,000 mark exceeding last year's total output by some 2,000.

The highlight for this year's figures show that for the first time his Westfield annex office handled more applicants than at the Court House in Elizabeth. Westfield processed 3,322 as compared to 3,004 at the main office in Elizabeth.

"We've more than justified the one clerk operation in Westfield," Mr. Halpin said. "All those citizens from the Western end of Union County have been saved that long trek to the Courthouse where traffic and parking facilities are a major problem."

Mr. Halpin is the only county clerk in the state to set up such a facility removed from the county seat.

Because of the steady stream of people traveling abroad, Mr. Halpin urges that anyone planning a trip allow for at least three to four weeks for the federal government to send their passport to them and prevent the last minute frustrations in sweating out the approval of their application in time to meet their departure date.

Introducing the jet with the big difference!

Technicians check model of jet turbine used to produce electricity during peak periods.

Public Service's jets are essentially the same as those used in airliners, but are virtually pollution-free.

A Better Environment Is Our Business Too

Our jets produce electric power in minutes, hours faster than conventional steam generators.

Our jet engines produce electric energy for you with virtually no air pollution. We've got more than a hundred jet engines that are essentially the same as those which power today's modern airliners. But ours run on cleaner burning natural gas or low sulfur oil. These mighty engines can produce extra power for you when you need it most . . . and fast. They start to produce at full capacity in a matter of minutes, hours faster than conventional generators. That's why they're a big help during peak demand periods like muggy summer days. And they're virtually pollution free. At Public Service, a better environment is our business too.

5th Grader's Querie Puts Thinking Cap on Rinaldo

Quite often I receive inquiries from school children who ask my position on various matters like ecology, education and other specific subjects. Because I believe that the younger generation has a great stake in the future of our society, I answer all of these letters.

Last week, I received a letter from a fifth grader in Linden that made me pause for quite a while before I was able to answer it properly. She wrote me to ask: "Can you please tell me what a senator's job is?"

I thought I would share my reply to this fifth grader with my other constituents who see this column.

"Dear _____: I have become so used to receiving inquiries about specific subjects that your provocative and broad question forced me to stop and think for a moment.

"But basically, I think a State Senator's job primarily involves representing to the best of his ability all the people of his district. This means rich and poor; Democrats, Republicans and Independents. In my view, I am just as much the representative in Trenton of the man who worked hardest to defeat me during my last campaign, as I am of my strongest supporter. For once the polls close and a man is elected to any public office, he should become the representative of all the people, not only those who voted for him.

"When I said a State Senator must represent all the people, I mean just that. If an elected official feels a greater obligation to a group with narrow self-interests, he is betraying the public office that Grover Cleveland accurately described as a public trust.

"When, as is often the case, the interests of one group conflict with those of another, a responsible public servant must use his judgment to decide how the greater good might be served. Upon that basis, he should cast his vote.

"Although the newspaper accounts might lead you to believe otherwise, there is more to being a State Senator than casting votes or getting bills passed into law. Even though I believe I have done a good job in the legislative aspect of my job, I also like to think I have done well in the equally important role of serving my constituents. When they have a problem, people often look to their elected representatives for assistance and guidance. I do my best to help them, whether it involves directing them to the person responsible for helping them or trying to make arrangements to get them to see the person who can assist them.

"I have found that although I am a State Senator, this makes no difference to the senior citizen who writes or calls me seeking aid on a Social Security problem. It would be simple for me to wash my hands of the matter by denying jurisdiction or responsibility. But I cannot operate this way. Most often, I contact the person and tell him how and where he can obtain the advice he needs on problems of a local, county or federal nature.

"I honestly believe that if every public official looked at his job in this light, everyone concerned would be better off.

"I hope I have helped you to understand the job of State Senator, as I see it.

"Others might view it otherwise, but this is the only way in which my conscience permits me to function in this public office that I regard as a public trust."

Very truly yours,
Matthew J. Rinaldo

Summer School Pupils Find Cooking Is Fun

Students in Mrs. Joan Inghram's summer school cooking classes, sponsored by the Clark Board of Education, have been busy at work learning cooking skills and techniques. "Giving a Party" is the theme for the summer classes and all the cooking experiences relate to this idea.

Arts and Crafts Agenda Set by City Rec Dept.

Special arts and crafts programs are again taking place on 11 playgrounds operated by the Rahway Recreation Department. Each week Miss Connie Delmonaco, arts and crafts specialist for the department, visits each playground with project materials which are given to the children free of charge. In addition to the specialized programs on the playground, talented children are provided advanced lessons at the Claude H. Reed Recreation and Cultural Center.

There, children have been busy making leather watch bands, hair bars, pocket books and belts. Children are requested to go to their local playgrounds and sign up for these lessons. Children are also encouraged to attend the local playgrounds for arts and crafts lessons.

In addition, the retarded children's program, sponsored by the Rahway Recreation Department, has two trips planned for this week. Yesterday, the children went to the Staten Island Zoo and tomorrow they will attend a special performance of Pinocchio at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel. The trips have been funded by the Rahway Service League which operates the Thrift Shop on Irving Street.

There are 36 youngsters enrolled in the special program which meets at the old post office. The program is under the direction of Miss Elaine Fedaka. She is assisted by Miss Susan Rosdiger and Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien. Other trips are planned to the Great Gorge and Sterling Forest, Tuxedo, N.Y.

The Echo Lake Park Scene for Plays

The stage is set, the cast is rehearsed, and all is ready for the outdoor production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," to be presented in Echo Lake Park, Mountain-side and Westfield, on Tuesday and Wednesday, at 8:30 p.m.

The Echo Lake Park productions will take place on a lawn area near the lower pavilion in the park. The play will be performed by members of the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival of Woodbridge who are in their 11th year of presenting "Shakespeare in the Parks."

Assessing the intern program, Mr. Daichman noted, "Working for one township, under an administrator, you have to handle everything. You're involved in traffic, recreation, insurance. You have to have the ability to make a decision on your feet. You have to be a leader."

Mr. Stone has an opinion of the value of the work done by the interns for the township.

The administrator pointed that municipal government is often "a day-to-day operation just to keep your head above water."

Mr. Stone concluded, "They really help us to get on with more long-range planning. They are very good."

Charles E. Crowell Jr., 23, of 402 Hamilton St., Rahway, was given 9-12 years in state prison last Friday for atrocious assault and battery and robbery of Peter Holmes, 40, of Carteret on Aug. 16, 1970.

Mr. Crowell Jr., the son of a Councilman-at-large Charles E. Crowell, was found guilty June 15 of beating Mr. Duggan with a four-foot steel bar when the victim refused to part with his money at the Penn Central station in Rahway.

The Clark student also is making a survey of Union County municipalities concerning charges made for recreation activities. A recent audit in Cranford suggested that the township charge fees for swimming lessons, tennis and various winter recreation programs.

The two interns will attend seminars this month and next month in Trenton. Speakers from state and municipal governments will give interns from all sections of the state information. The interns also will have a chance to discuss their work.

Mr. Daichman added, "It's all new knowledge for us. We have to learn a lot about Cranford, and a lot about the projects and developments, and how they work. For example, I am working on the new flood control insurance. I am reviewing all the communications between us and the federal insurance administrator and studying all the laws in order to find out what Cranford is doing to stay on the program. As a result, I am working with the Planning Board on this."

Miss Stebbins is employed preparing a personnel file for the administrator.

In addition to his work on flood insurance, Mr. Daichman is investigating the so-called "pork barrel" book, which contains a listing of federal programs available to municipalities. He plans "to investigate parks, open spaces and parkland development."

"One program is the Legacy of Parks Program which is a 50-50 program for the opening and acquisition of domestic park land as well as enhancing existing park areas," Mr. Daichman stated. "It is much more liberal as far as what the municipality can use the money for."

The Clark student also is making a survey of Union County municipalities concerning charges made for recreation activities. A recent audit in Cranford suggested that the township charge fees for swimming lessons, tennis and various winter recreation programs.

The two interns will attend seminars this month and next month in Trenton. Speakers from state and municipal governments will give interns from all sections of the state information. The interns also will have a chance to discuss their work.

Suggests Agency to Build Senior Citizen Housing

A State Senate candidate, Christopher Dietz of Rahway, this week urged the State Democratic Convention to adopt a five-point plan to aid New Jersey's senior citizens.

Noting that more than 40,000 senior citizens in Union County live near or below the poverty level and that unemployment among the elderly has jumped almost 70 per cent since 1969, Mr. Dietz urged a mobilization of private individuals, industrial, professional, civic and charitable organizations and the establishment of a senior citizens housing authority to aid the elderly by providing low cost housing.

"This is not charity. It is reimbursement for those whose productive years provided much of what we now enjoy," Mr. Dietz stated. The Rahway Democrat pointed out that even with social security, 20 per cent of older couples have incomes under $2,100 and 60 per cent of single senior citizens have incomes under $1,600.

Taxes have increased by as much as 500 per cent in the last two decades and taxes and home maintenance consume 54 per cent of the retirement budget, he said. He urged a decrease in or, in some cases, elimination of what often amounts to confiscatory taxation for the elderly. He said that the general revision of the state's tax structure as envisioned in the call for a tax convention should include special provisions for senior citizens.

Mr. Dietz urged that the possibility of utilizing the medical talent in medical schools to provide outpatient care for the elderly be investigated. Medical bills have increased 50 to 60 per cent in the last five years. In 1969, Mr. Dietz noted, the average health bill for an elderly person was $692 — six times that of a youth and 2 1/2 times that of a person under 64.

Insight Into Operation of Municipal Government Gained During Summer by Two Student Interns

Two young municipal interns, Jeffrey Daichman of Clark and Kathryn Stebbins of Summit, are gaining practical experience in government this summer and also are assisting Cranford's administrator with long-range planning for the township.

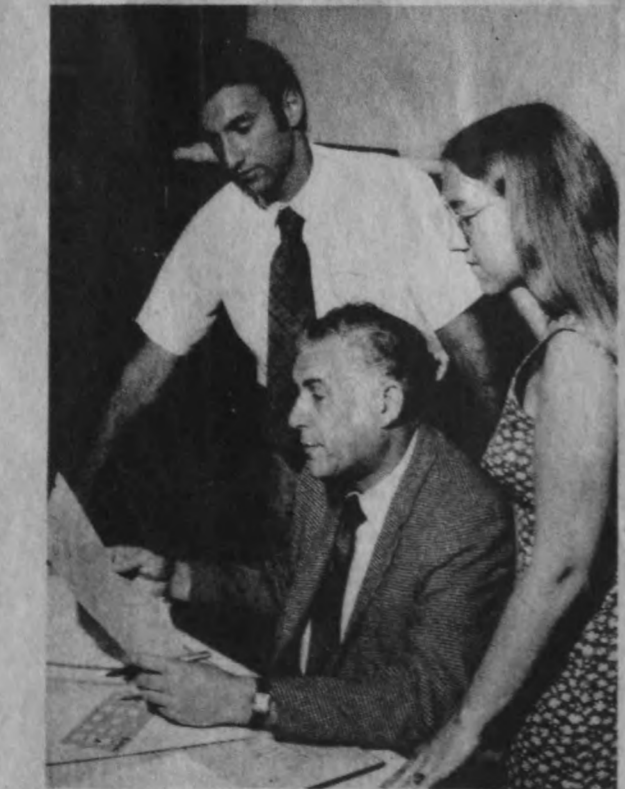

The two students are working this summer in Cranford under the direction of Sidney Stone, Cranford's administrator since last May. Mr. Stone assumed the Cranford position after several years as business administrator for the City of Rahway.

Mr. Daichman, who was graduated in 1970 from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, obtained a master's degree in political science this year from Purdue University. He will attend New York University's Law School in the fall.

Miss Stebbins is a junior at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Miss Stebbins and Mr. Daichman were accepted for the summer program after completing long application forms. Funds for the program are provided by the State Department of Community Affairs to encourage young people to go into the field of municipal government.

Miss Stebbins stated in her application that she needed a job and that she hopes to do social work. Mr. Daichman was employed in the program last summer and was assigned to the State Division of Local Finance.

SUMMER LEARNING ... Jeffrey Daichman of Clark, standing, and Miss Kathryn Stebbins of Summit confer with Sidney Stone, administrator for the Township of Cranford, Miss Stebbins and Mr. Daichman are working this summer as municipal government interns.

Working in the Cranford municipal government is a learning project for both of the interns.

"Mr. Stone has particular projects and he presents these to us," Miss Stebbins explained. "We have to research and work up these projects and then present the final results."

Mr. Daichman added, "It's all new knowledge for us. We have to learn a lot about Cranford, and a lot about the projects and developments, and how they work. For example, I am working on the new flood control insurance. I am reviewing all the communications between us and the federal insurance administrator and studying all the laws in order to find out what Cranford is doing to stay on the program. As a result, I am working with the Planning Board on this."

Miss Stebbins is employed preparing a personnel file for the administrator.

In addition to his work on flood insurance, Mr. Daichman is investigating the so-called "pork barrel" book, which contains a listing of federal programs available to municipalities. He plans "to investigate parks, open spaces and parkland development."

"One program is the Legacy of Parks Program which is a 50-50 program for the opening and acquisition of domestic park land as well as enhancing existing park areas," Mr. Daichman stated. "It is much more liberal as far as what the municipality can use the money for."

The Clark student also is making a survey of Union County municipalities concerning charges made for recreation activities. A recent audit in Cranford suggested that the township charge fees for swimming lessons, tennis and various winter recreation programs.

The two interns will attend seminars this month and next month in Trenton. Speakers from state and municipal governments will give interns from all sections of the state information. The interns also will have a chance to discuss their work.

Mickens was a star pitcher for the Allen Industries team of the Rahway Recreation Department Fast Pitch League during the 1940's. Misses Nusse and Deegan have been standouts for the Linden Arians in women's softball.

The Rahway - Thomas Jefferson High School football game to be played this fall at Williams Field, Elizabeth, will be the only meeting of the series, since starting in 1972, the Indians will resume action with the Roselle Rams.

Bob Dorans of Rahway caught a bag full of blue-claws at Dick's Station at Bayville this week.

Mrs. Florence Peragallo, director of athletics at Mother Seton Regional High School, Clark, has been appointed a consultant to the executive committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association.

Appointment of Mrs. Peragallo was made at the association's meeting last week. Mrs. Peragallo is one of 11 women who will serve as consultants to the committee on the further development of girls' interscholastic athletics.

Albert Strychowski of Clark won the club championship of Ash Brook Golf Club when he defeated Don Hofferker, one up.

Strychowski, a carpenter, trailed by three strokes with three holes left to play. He then came alive at the 25th hole to string a par and two birdies to tie after 27. He then won with a birdie on the first extra hole.

Rahway Legion to Play Springfield on Sunday

The Rahway team in the Union County American Legion Baseball League will play the Springfield Legion nine, which is in the league's second division, on Sunday at 10:30 a.m. on the Veterans Memorial Field diamond.

The Rahway team still is occupying the league cellar, having played one tie and lost one game last week.

Roselle Legion put the Rahway Post No. 5 team deeper into the cellar of the league by scoring an easy 10-0 victory. It was the third time the Roselle team has beaten the Rahway nine this season.

Rahway was held to two hits by Roselle's Fred Burke, who was making his first start in the league this season.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles written by the New Jersey Education Association to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the State's free public schools.

Nobody 100 years ago was calling public-school buildings "palatial." The more common term was "repulsive."

An 1867 State law required every New Jersey school district to provide "a suitable school building and outhouse for the accommodation of their children."

Definitions of "suitable" varied, reports the New Jersey Education Association.

"Where I a child to day, nothing but physical force would compel me to enter within these unsightly, unattractive, repulsive buildings called school houses," wrote Camden County's Superintendent of Schools F.R. Brace in 1870.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ellis A. Appar in 1870 ordered county superintendents to rate school buildings in their county as "very good," "good," "medium," "poor," or "very poor."

Mr. Appar directed the county superintendents "to report as 'very poor' those which were positively disgraceful to the neighborhoods in which they were located and as 'poor' those which, though not positively disgraceful, were considered unfit for school purposes and which need to be torn down and rebuilt," NJEA reports.

Of 1,328 school houses then in the state, 178 were rated "very poor." Only 208 were "very good." Another 62 districts were not even complying with the law. They had no school houses at all.

Mr. Appar gave this description of a school he considered "very poor." Examining the outside, we find three weather boards hanging at the end by the only remaining nail, and seven are gone entirely, probably long since used for kindling wood. Nearly all trace of the coat of paint the house once had has disappeared. We enter through a door hanging on but one hinge, and nearly ready to fall to pieces. Everything inside presents the same dilapidated, forlorn, and dingy appearance which characterizes the outside."

Some county superintendents rated schools by the condition of the furniture, which J. C. Cruickshank, superintendent in Passaic County, called "more suitable for fuel than for desks and seats to be occupied by children in their studies."

Many critics of the day complained about children sitting all day on benches without backs. This was especially hard on small pupils whose feet did not reach the floor, says NJEA.

The county superintendents annually reported the value of school houses in their jurisdictions. The lowest category was "$100 or less," the highest "$20,000 or more."

In 1871, New Jersey had 70 school buildings valued at $100 or less and only $5 worth more than $20,000, NJEA reports.

Camden County reported that one district clerk valued the local school at $50. The clerk in another Camden district put his school's value at 50 cents.

Some schools dated from the Revolution and before. Cape May County Superintendent Maurice Beesley reported that, in one district, "the scholars occupy a barn for a house, formerly the old court house, built in Revolutionary times."

From Perth Amboy, City Superintendent Henry Farmer wrote: "No building exclusively for school purposes ever having been erected, the old Court House of British structure was the only public edifice in which the instruction of the youth

HAS 1 A. M. ENCOUNTER WITH ENORMOUS BLACK BEAR

Rafting on Wild Rivers, Mountain Climbing Are Hobbies of Clark Professor Who Teaches at UC

"Tranquil" and "pastoral" are summertime words for most people. That once-a-year vacation is the signal to rest and relax. That is, unless you're Dr. Brian J. Pankuch of 70 Sweetbriar Dr., Clark, formerly of Cranford, assistant professor of chemistry at Union College.

Thoughts of vacation for the young scientist, summon up visions of churning rivers and snow capped peaks, challenges to be met and conquered.

Dr. Pankuch is an ardent outdoorsman who lists "rafting" on some of the swiftest, white-water challenges in the country as a favorite pastime. He has also scaled peaks in New Mexico, the state of Washington, and other Western states.

Among Dr. Pankuch's other interests are camping, hiking, skiing, fishing, and astronomy. He's totally involved in education and community affairs. Dr. Pankuch, a 1963 alumnus of Union College, explained his numerous interests. "A person, even if a Ph.D., shouldn't let his mind close to new ideas and experiences. It's important for us to understand each other and become involved in other persons' lives, not wrapped up in our own. As for outdoor activity, it gives me a real sense of freedom and provides one of the best educations."

The young professor took up rafting during his college days at Washington State University and the University of New Mexico. He explained that he and his companions usually use two "six-man" rafts. They keep their weight on the back of the raft, and their feet tightly secured, while their hands are kept free for paddling. He said the waves sometimes are as high as eight feet and it takes the energy of all aboard to keep afloat. Dr. Pankuch noted that rafting is usually done during springtime when the rocks are slippery and the water is very cold, or during summer when the water is warmer, but the rocks are sharper and more protruding.

Dr. Pankuch has rafted on the Loxhall River in Idaho, as well as the Salmon and Snake Rivers in Montana and Wyoming. He mentioned that Loxhall is an Indian name, which translated means "white water," or to white man and Indian alike "rough water." There were five men on the Salmon and Snake River expedition. They usually camped on sandbars and caught their food. He said the group caught a few bass, but for every game fish landed, there were hooked at least six squaw fish, a nuisance variety common to the area.

He remarked that on the Snake River outing they witnessed "some of nature's most beautiful sights." They saw golden eagle, otter, deer, and numerous birds, many of which he was able to identify but had never seen before.

Dr. Pankuch explained that his group did not go as far as treacherous Hills Canyon on the Snake. He pointed out that this is the roughest part of the river and that 40-man rafts are necessary. The young man added that he has never really been fearful on his trips, since he has always been with experienced people who react very swiftly and calmly. They had a few close calls he adds, such as twisted ankles or bruises, but nothing serious ever happened.

While rafting, they have gone swimming in wet suits. The young educator-adventurer said that, in the Loxhall River, they were able to see numerous trout, some of which they later caught. He described his thoughts at that moment as "truly feeling like a fish, caught in their world, among their plants and surroundings."

Mountain climbing is another sport which claims much of Dr. Pankuch's time. His initial encounter with that activity began not too long ago, while he was a graduate student at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque. There he joined a Class 5 mountain-climbing club and learned the basic skills of the sport.

He recalled one time when he was alone on a climbing trip in New Mexico. He was hiking through some woods, taking his time, when he heard a soft rustling in the brush. As he turned he saw twelve wild mountain sheep.

On the two occasions his group climbed Mt. Rainer, they camped at Camp Muir—a height of about 10,000 feet.

"We wear deep, spiked shoes and during the day the mountain is very slippery due to the strong sun melting the ice. At night, when the ice is thick, it's much safer."

Dr. Pankuch remembers one particularly beautiful night when he was camping alone in Yellowstone National Park. He decided to sleep outside. He awoke about 1 a.m. and couldn't fall back to sleep. As he glanced around, he saw three feet away, "the most enormous black bear." He quietly remained where he was and eventually, the bear moved on. Needless to say, he didn't get any more rest that night.

Probably the funniest incident is one that also brought the Union College professor a touch of home while he was in Washington. He had been out of New Jersey four years. Dr. Pankuch and his friends were hiking near Mt. Rainer when, whom should he meet, but Prof. Herman Bielefeld of Summit, a longtime favorite at Union College, who was visiting friends. Prof. Bielefeld recalls: "I was standing there, way out in the middle of nowhere, when I hear someone shouting 'Professor.' Professor Bielefeld. I thought it was my friends. I turned around and lo and behold, who was it, but Pankuch."

Being surrounded by the beauty and tranquility of the parks and lakes out West, Dr. Pankuch naturally feels a little displaced back in the East.

"It depresses me when I turn on my faucet and can smell chlorine in the water, when on city streets, I can smell all the gaseous fumes from autos, or when I can't fish in what looks like a beautiful lake," he said. However, the young professor does think New Jersey has some advantages.

"Now, I'm much nearer to educational and cultural centers, I can enjoy the theatre, museums, and especially, the Hayden Planetarium," he said.

ful mind could be pursued." At a time when education was not compulsory, the appearance of a school building could affect enrollment. In 1871, after Perth Amboy had opened a new $29,000 school building, Farmer reported:

"Good effects are already visible thus early in the school year, in the increased attendance and the admission of many pupils whose parents would not allow them to go to the old school because of the dismal character of the building." Gaining approval for school improvements or construction was difficult in those days. State law required that capital funds be voted only when the approval of two-thirds of the citizens attending the Annual District Meeting. Complaining about this requirement -- and about an otherwise apathetic citizenry -- Cumberland county's Superintendent A. R. Jones wrote:

"Sometimes in large districts there will not be enough to organize a meeting. One trustee stated that only four persons were out -- three trustees and one other person -- and that one of the trustees was drunk."
