

The Cranford Citizen.

VOL. II. NO. 17.

CRANFORD, N. J., SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 1899

THREE CENTS.

Elizabeth Steam Stone Works

Best equipped Marble, Granite and Bluestone-yard in the State.

Monuments and Headstones,

Cemetery Work of every description.

Best material and workmanship

Prices to suit everyone. Get my designs and prices before ordering your memorials. New sidewalks laid, from 9c. per ft. up. Blue stone for all purposes.

N. E. Whipple, 881-901 E. Grand St., Elizabeth, N. J. Telephone L. BRADLEY, Agt.

AMOS CLARK, PRESIDENT. L. F. HERSH, VICE PRES'T. E. A. FAULKS, CASHIER

'THE CITIZEN'S BANK,

211 BROAD ST.,
ELIZABETH, N. J.

Does a General Banking Business and Sells Letters of Credit Available in All Parts of the World.

Boxes in Safe Deposit Vaults for Rent.

CAPITAL $100,000 SURPLUS and PROFITS $19,000

DIRECTORS:

John Davidson, H. T. Fotta, Chas. L. Vaughn, Michael Byrne,
Edw. B. Axtell, John McCandless, Wm. McCallister, J. E. Beecher,
Wm. A. Clark, G. H. Langdon, John N. Burgher, H. Hayward Johnson,
G. H. Herring, Amos Clark, Louis F. Hersh, A. S. Campbell,
George H. Franks, F. C. Marsh, Alex. Kerr.

Discount day, Thursday. Accounts Solicited.

Cranford. Westfield.

...LIGHT...

A clean light, a pure light, an ornamental light and an up-to-date is furnished by

Suburban Electric Company

For very reasonable rates they give electricity for heat and power. Come and see their station. It will cost you nothing. If it matters over and you may save money.

Telephone: Station and Offices:

Long Distance, 84 B. 77 Murray Street,
Elizabeth 264. Elizabeth, New Jersey.

Roselle. Lyons Farm.

Hose.

We will sell 50 ft. Advance Hose. Reel with Nozzle and Washers, all complete, guaranteed to stand High pressure for $5.50

This is not quality advertised by department stores.

We also carry a full line of Hose, all sizes, and Mechanical Rubber Goods, Water Bags, Mackintoshes, etc.

EXGELSIOR RUBBER MANUFACTURING COMPANY, 29 Vesey street, NEW YORK CITY.

The Great Spring Housecleaning—Lace-curtains and many other things which were constantly in use during the winter need cleaning. We would like to call the attention of the house at this occasion to our establishment. New improvements to facilitate the work were added recently to our present ones, which enable us to make the most satisfactory work.

American Steam Laundry.

16 and 17 West Jersey Street, Elizabeth.

Union Water Company

Incorporated 1870. Organized 1891.

The Union Water Company supplies the inhabitants of the villages of Fanwood, Westfield, Cranford and Roselle with water for domestic use.

"The Purest and Sweetest that Nature can Yield."

In June, 1906 the water supplied by the Company was analyzed by Allen Hazen, Esq., a leading hydraulic expert of Boston, and pronounced by him to be "water of great organic purity," and in a letter to one of the Company's patrons he adds "You are to be congratulated upon having so good a supply, and you need have no anxiety whatever as to its wholesomeness."

The interest of the Company is identified with the village in which its plant is located, and it is the policy of the management to do its full share to promote their growth and prosperity.

The Company Refers to all its Patrons.

A representative of the Company will be pleased to call on parties who do not at present use water from its mains, and explain rates, terms, method of service, etc.

Union Water Company.

At 68 Broad Street, Elizabeth.

CRANFORD FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Location of Alarm Boxes and the Fire Co. Keys.

- 10—Fire House, North avenue. Keys with George Beach, Wm. Kleinholder, depot agt.
- 143—Hampton and Eastman streets. Keys with Mrs. F. K. Bates, N. R. Foster, R. Plume.
- 157—Miller and North avenues. Keys with Alfred McAlister, H. E. Atwater, C. M. Blauvelt.
- 225—Orange and Springfield Aves. Keys at H. E. Clement, J. Loewmann, W. U. Hewley.
- 28—Union and Livingston avenues. Keys with J. W. Ferguson, E. K. Adams, J. C. Hunt.
- 37—Central and Lincoln avenues. Keys with Bernard Doyle, Philip Johnston, C. Lyon.
- 418—Lincoln and Walnut Aves. T. A. Crane, C. L. Rice, W. T. Craft.
- 46—Union and Lincoln avenues. Keys with D. A. Everett, Joseph Allen, Mrs. B. J. Cox.

CRANFORD POST OFFICE.

When to Drop in Four Letters if You Wish Them to Go by Next Mail.

BOUND EAST.		BOUND WEST.
Close.	Leave.	Close.	Leave.
8.00	8.15 a. m.	7.45	7.59 a. m.
8.30	8.45 p. m.	8.15	8.47 p. m.
8.00	8.15 p. m.

MAILS ARRIVE.

From points east—8.45, 7.59, a. m.; 2.55, 6.47 p. m.

From points west—8.15 a. m., 8.15, 8.11.

The Cranford Library—Opera House, Room 4. Open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock. One year's subscription $3.00. Weekly subscription 10c.

Everyone is cordially welcome to come and inspect the books.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

Methodist—Located on Walnut avenue. Preaching service each Sunday at 10.30 a. m. and 7.45 p. m. Sunday school 12 m. Epworth League services each Sunday 6.30 p. m. Prayer meeting, Fridays, 7.45 p. m. Epworth League meets each Wednesday 8.00 p. m. Junior League meets each Friday 2.30 p. m. Ladies aid society meets first Thursday each month. Missionary society meets second Thursday each month.

Presbyterian—Located on Union avenue. Public worship each Sunday at 11 a. m., and 8 p. m. Sunday school at 9.30 a. m. Y. P. S. C. E. Chapel, Sunday 7 p. m. Junior Endeavor, chapel, Monday at 3 p. m. Gospel service, chapel, Friday 8 p. m. Special Bible class for young women, Church Study, 10.30 a. m., Wednesday. Oakwood Chapel—Sunday services at 10.30 a. m., 8 p. m. Y. P. S. C. E., Thursday 8 p. m.

Christian Science—Services held at rooms occupied by the Royal Arcanum in the Opera House Block. Services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school after the services. Reading Room at the residence of Joseph B. Bee on Mill street, open week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Christian Science literature may be obtained at the Reading Room. Testimonial meeting at the Reading Room each Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

Episcopal—Located North avenue, east of river. Sunday services at 11 a. m., and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school 9.30 a. m. Friday, Prayers 5 p. m. Vestry meets first Thursday in each month at 8 p. m. Parish circles, first Wednesday in each month. St. Agnes' Guild, first Tuesday in each month.

First Baptist Church, located on High street—Preaching service each Lord's Day, at 11 A.M. and 8 P.M. Sunday school, 3 P.M. Tuesday evening prayer meeting, Thursday evening, Christian Endeavor Society meeting, 8 P.M. The first Monday of each month, trustees meeting, 8 P.M. The third Monday of each month, deacons and pastor's meeting, 8 P.M. On the fourth Monday of each month, general Church meeting, 8 P.M. On the first Lord's day of each month, the Lord's Supper will be served, 8.45 P.M.

WILLIAM N. GRAY,

Undertaker and Embalmer.

FOLDING CHAIRS TO RENT.

Cranford, N. J.

WELCOME TO DEWEY.

Fleets in the Mediterranean Making Great Preparations.

WILL BE A TRIUMPHAL JOURNEY.

International Greeting Will Be Fatal Compared to That He Will Receive at Home—Reception at New York—Great Land Parade. A Lasting Testimonial.

The home coming of Admiral Dewey to New York will be made to the music of gun salutes that will ring almost around the world. To reach the Bosphorus Dewey will pass the warships of many nations and will receive an international salute from British, French, Russian, German and Italian guns. British ships and British forts will sound forth the loudest welcome by reason of their numerical superiority, but all will burn their best powder in Dewey's honor.

When the Suez canal is passed and the Mediterranean reached, the ovation that has gone before will be mild in comparison, for the flagship Olympia will steam past the French naval ports in Algiers, where the flower of the French navy is gathered ready to show our admiral some stretches of enthusiasm that may prepare him for what he will get when he comes in sight of Sandy Hook. At Malta and Gibraltar the ships of the greatest fleet the world has ever seen will be in readiness to pay homage to the man who is the winner of the greatest sea battle since the time of Nelson. The British naval authorities appear to be so anxious to welcome Dewey as the Americans are, for special orders have been given for a splendid fleet to assemble in the Mediterranean for the purpose of paying a tribute to the bravery of our admiral.

Everyone is cordially welcome to come and inspect the books.

The officers and men of the British navy have been loud and sincere in their praise of Dewey, and he will find the warmth of his welcome at Gibraltar and Malta only exceeded by that he will receive when he steams into the vicinity of the Olympia up the bay to New York harbor.

The Olympia will fire her last gun in answer to a foreign salute as she passes through the strait of Gibraltar, for after that the passage will be direct to the country that is proud to call Dewey one of her leading sons. If the bunker capacity of the Olympia is sufficient to carry her across the Atlantic without coaling, she will come direct as fast as her condition will permit. If it is found necessary, she will stop at the Azores for coal. It is left largely to the discretion of the admiral, should he not have had a sort of the homage of the world he is at liberty to steam to any port he pleases on his return. But Dewey is a modest hero, and the chances are that he will come direct home as fast as steam can carry him after leaving the Mediterranean behind. And then what a splendid welcome will await him!

The most prominent factor in the ovation will be noise. In the roar of the cannon and the blowing of thousands of steam whistles America's voice will speak the first welcome home to Dewey. By order of the navy department the entire North Atlantic squadron will act as the escort of the Olympia. As the procession of ships reaches the lower bay a great fleet of merchant ships, excursion steamers and yachts will be in waiting, ready to fall in line after each has made all the atmospheric disturbance that it can in honor of the admiral. The guns of the forts and the land batteries will each furnish their quota of noise, so that the air will be shaken by the thunderous tones of the greeting to Dewey.

Up the North river, between cities that will be brilliant with flags and bunting and with the eyes of millions of people turned upon her, the Olympia will be escorted to the tomb of General Grant on the Hudson, that other hero of the Union who himself once made a triumphant progress around the world. At the spot selected for the stoppage, opposite the tomb of Grant, the warships will fire a salute in honor of the memory of the dead general. The vessels will then go to their anchorage. That night a great light will illuminate the sky. New York will be en fête. The illuminations are to be splendid. Nothing that money can provide or the exercise of patriotic brains devise has been left out of the programme. Searchlights will turn night into day. Green, red, yellow, purple and blue fire will burn in the streets, rockets will shoot skyward, giant crackers explode, set pieces (whose subjects will be based on the victory at Manila) blaze and sizzle and sparkle, bonfire crack and burn in places where city ordinances have heretofore forbidden any such outward and visible sign of an inward enthusiasm on the part of the younger citizens, and the whole glorious heavens will reflect the feelings of the patriotic people, who know how to give a royal

WELCOME TO DEWEY.

On the second day after the home coming of Dewey it is planned to have a great land parade of soldiers, sailors and marines in which the national guard will participate. At night the city will be more to blaze with light. If by that time Admiral Dewey has not had sufficient continuation of the fact that, while he has been in the Philippines his name has been constantly on every tongue that his fame has gone to the furthest reaches of the continent and that the American people have been waiting, with scant attempt at control, all the year to the cannon, wave flags and cheer him to the echo he will be the only man within a radius of several miles of New York city who lacks that knowledge. Father Kulcekerbocker has shown the other patriot saints of the United States occasionally his idea of a great justification, but this time he is going to outdo himself and establish a record for patriotic receptions that it will be a hard matter to duplicate. It will be many days after the return of Dewey before New York will fully recover its wonted calm.

One severe tax put upon Dewey will be the tax upon his digestive organs, for were he to be present at all the banquets that are being prepared in his honor he would be the guest of some one or other of the political, business and social organizations of New York for at least six months after he lands from the Olympia. The most important dinner to which he is invited is known as the $100 dinner for the reason that it is to be of a similar nature to the banquets of ancient times in the matter of costliness, the expense of the dinner being $100 a plate. The first reception to the admiral will be given at the Hotel Waldorf.

Of the practical expressions of gratitude to Dewey there are to be so many that it is impossible to give them all. Every organization anxious to present him with a sword, a loving cup or some solid token of esteem and thankfulness, concrete tokens of gratitude are being got in readiness for presentation to Dewey, and it is probable that he will be kept busy receiving presents and thanking the donors for some long time to come.

The welcome at New York harbor will be national in character, for the mayors of all the large cities in the country will be there to greet the returning hero as well as leading men of affairs and prominent statesmen of America. The city will be thronged with people from all parts of the continent, for the railroads are going to run excursion trains to New York, and there will be an opportunity for every one of moderate means to participate in the magnificent welcome to Dewey.

One of the novel methods adopted of perpetuating the name of Dewey will be the erection of an educational building at Northfield, Vt. The building will consist of a central hall and two wings. The hall is octagonal in plan and rises above the flat roofs of the two wings in a clerestory supporting a low circular dome. Projecting from the central hall between the two wings which converge toward the front is the entrance portico, with two Ionic columns "in antis," carrying a narrow pediment. Above the entrance door is a trophy emblematic of the navy. On either side are tablets for appropriate inscriptions. In style the building is a modern adaptation of the classic, the detail being Greek. In the center of the reception hall, in front of the staircase and in view from the entrance, the wings and the gallery, will be placed a statue of Admiral Dewey, for whom the building is named and in commemoration of whose achievements it is to be erected by his alma mater by volunteer contributions from his fellow countrymen.

All around the neighborhood of this Dewey building the ground is sacred soil to our admiral, for it was here that he spent the early years of his life. Beautifully situated on a plateau, overlooking the town of Northfield, which is the geographical center of the state of Vermont, is a famous institution of learning which has properly enough been styled "the nursery of heroes." It is old Norwich university, and in its classic halls Admiral Dewey received the foundation of his education. He entered the university in 1851, when he was 14 years of age, and remained there until 1854, when, having received his appointment as a cadet to the United States Naval academy, he entered that institution. No other institution in the country besides the National Military academy at West Point counts among its alumni so many distinguished fighters as Norwich university.

When Dewey has given time for the exuberant joy of the initial welcome home to wear itself out a little, he will in all probability seek rest and quiet among the peaceful hills of his native Vermont. It is a question, however, whether he will be allowed to rest there, for the Vermonters are not going to be outdone in expressing admiration for Dewey. Active preparations are in progress for making the mountains ring with applause for the greatest sea fighter of the age. It is not at all likely that Dewey will ever be allowed to retire from the public notice for long at a time. If he is returning to America with the intention of seeking modest retirement, he underdates the enthusiastic regard of Americans for that

WELCOME TO DEWEY.

On the second day after the home coming of Dewey it is planned to have a great land parade of soldiers, sailors and marines in which the national guard will participate. At night the city will be more to blaze with light. If by that time Admiral Dewey has not had sufficient continuation of the fact that, while he has been in the Philippines his name has been constantly on every tongue that his fame has gone to the furthest reaches of the continent and that the American people have been waiting, with scant attempt at control, all the year to the cannon, wave flags and cheer him to the echo he will be the only man within a radius of several miles of New York city who lacks that knowledge. Father Kulcekerbocker has shown the other patriot saints of the United States occasionally his idea of a great justification, but this time he is going to outdo himself and establish a record for patriotic receptions that it will be a hard matter to duplicate. It will be many days after the return of Dewey before New York will fully recover its wonted calm.

One severe tax put upon Dewey will be the tax upon his digestive organs, for were he to be present at all the banquets that are being prepared in his honor he would be the guest of some one or other of the political, business and social organizations of New York for at least six months after he lands from the Olympia. The most important dinner to which he is invited is known as the $100 dinner for the reason that it is to be of a similar nature to the banquets of ancient times in the matter of costliness, the expense of the dinner being $100 a plate. The first reception to the admiral will be given at the Hotel Waldorf.

WELCOME TO DEWEY.

On the second day after the home coming of Dewey it is planned to have a great land parade of soldiers, sailors and marines in which the national guard will participate. At night the city will be more to blaze with light. If by that time Admiral Dewey has not had sufficient continuation of the fact that, while he has been in the Philippines his name has been constantly on every tongue that his fame has gone to the furthest reaches of the continent and that the American people have been waiting, with scant attempt at control, all the year to the cannon, wave flags and cheer him to the echo he will be the only man within a radius of several miles of New York city who lacks that knowledge. Father Kulcekerbocker has shown the other patriot saints of the United States occasionally his idea of a great justification, but this time he is going to outdo himself and establish a record for patriotic receptions that it will be a hard matter to duplicate. It will be many days after the return of Dewey before New York will fully recover its wonted calm.

WILL BE A TRIUMPHAL JOURNEY.

International Greeting Will Be Fatal Compared to That He Will Receive at Home—Reception at New York—Great Land Parade. A Lasting Testimonial.

The home coming of Admiral Dewey to New York will be made to the music of gun salutes that will ring almost around the world. To reach the Bosphorus Dewey will pass the warships of many nations and will receive an international salute from British, French, Russian, German and Italian guns. British ships and British forts will sound forth the loudest welcome by reason of their numerical superiority, but all will burn their best powder in Dewey's honor.

When the Suez canal is passed and the Mediterranean reached, the ovation that has gone before will be mild in comparison, for the flagship Olympia will steam past the French naval ports in Algiers, where the flower of the French navy is gathered ready to show our admiral some stretches of enthusiasm that may prepare him for what he will get when he comes in sight of Sandy Hook. At Malta and Gibraltar the ships of the greatest fleet the world has ever seen will be in readiness to pay homage to the man who is the winner of the greatest sea battle since the time of Nelson. The British naval authorities appear to be so anxious to welcome Dewey as the Americans are, for special orders have been given for a splendid fleet to assemble in the Mediterranean for the purpose of paying a tribute to the bravery of our admiral.

Everyone is cordially welcome to come and inspect the books.

The officers and men of the British navy have been loud and sincere in their praise of Dewey, and he will find the warmth of his welcome at Gibraltar and Malta only exceeded by that he will receive when he steams into the vicinity of the Olympia up the bay to New York harbor.

The Olympia will fire her last gun in answer to a foreign salute as she passes through the strait of Gibraltar, for after that the passage will be direct to the country that is proud to call Dewey one of her leading sons. If the bunker capacity of the Olympia is sufficient to carry her across the Atlantic without coaling, she will come direct as fast as her condition will permit. If it is found necessary, she will stop at the Azores for coal. It is left largely to the discretion of the admiral, should he not have had a sort of the homage of the world he is at liberty to steam to any port he pleases on his return. But Dewey is a modest hero, and the chances are that he will come direct home as fast as steam can carry him after leaving the Mediterranean behind. And then what a splendid welcome will await him!

The most prominent factor in the ovation will be noise. In the roar of the cannon and the blowing of thousands of steam whistles America's voice will speak the first welcome home to Dewey. By order of the navy department the entire North Atlantic squadron will act as the escort of the Olympia. As the procession of ships reaches the lower bay a great fleet of merchant ships, excursion steamers and yachts will be in waiting, ready to fall in line after each has made all the atmospheric disturbance that it can in honor of the admiral. The guns of the forts and the land batteries will each furnish their quota of noise, so that the air will be shaken by the thunderous tones of the greeting to Dewey.

Up the North river, between cities that will be brilliant with flags and bunting and with the eyes of millions of people turned upon her, the Olympia will be escorted to the tomb of General Grant on the Hudson, that other hero of the Union who himself once made a triumphant progress around the world. At the spot selected for the stoppage, opposite the tomb of Grant, the warships will fire a salute in honor of the memory of the dead general. The vessels will then go to their anchorage. That night a great light will illuminate the sky. New York will be en fête. The illuminations are to be splendid. Nothing that money can provide or the exercise of patriotic brains devise has been left out of the programme. Searchlights will turn night into day. Green, red, yellow, purple and blue fire will burn in the streets, rockets will shoot skyward, giant crackers explode, set pieces (whose subjects will be based on the victory at Manila) blaze and sizzle and sparkle, bonfire crack and burn in places where city ordinances have heretofore forbidden any such outward and visible sign of an inward enthusiasm on the part of the younger citizens, and the whole glorious heavens will reflect the feelings of the patriotic people, who know how to give a royal

WELCOME TO DEWEY.

On the second day after the home coming of Dewey it is planned to have a great land parade of soldiers, sailors and marines in which the national guard will participate. At night the city will be more to blaze with light. If by that time Admiral Dewey has not had sufficient continuation of the fact that, while he has been in the Philippines his name has been constantly on every tongue that his fame has gone to the furthest reaches of the continent and that the American people have been waiting, with scant attempt at control, all the year to the cannon, wave flags and cheer him to the echo he will be the only man within a radius of several miles of New York city who lacks that knowledge. Father Kulcekerbocker has shown the other patriot saints of the United States occasionally his idea of a great justification, but this time he is going to outdo himself and establish a record for patriotic receptions that it will be a hard matter to duplicate. It will be many days after the return of Dewey before New York will fully recover its wonted calm.

WILL BE A TRIUMPHAL JOURNEY.

International Greeting Will Be Fatal Compared to That He Will Receive at Home—Reception at New York—Great Land Parade. A Lasting Testimonial.

The home coming of Admiral Dewey to New York will be made to the music of gun salutes that will ring almost around the world. To reach the Bosphorus Dewey will pass the warships of many nations and will receive an international salute from British, French, Russian, German and Italian guns. British ships and British forts will sound forth the loudest welcome by reason of their numerical superiority, but all will burn their best powder in Dewey's honor.

When the Suez canal is passed and the Mediterranean reached, the ovation that has gone before will be mild in comparison, for the flagship Olympia will steam past the French naval ports in Algiers, where the flower of the French navy is gathered ready to show our admiral some stretches of enthusiasm that may prepare him for what he will get when he comes in sight of Sandy Hook. At Malta and Gibraltar the ships of the greatest fleet the world has ever seen will be in readiness to pay homage to the man who is the winner of the greatest sea battle since the time of Nelson. The British naval authorities appear to be so anxious to welcome Dewey as the Americans are, for special orders have been given for a splendid fleet to assemble in the Mediterranean for the purpose of paying a tribute to the bravery of our admiral.

Everyone is cordially welcome to come and inspect the books.

The officers and men of the British navy have been loud and sincere in their praise of Dewey, and he will find the warmth of his welcome at Gibraltar and Malta only exceeded by that he will receive when he steams into the vicinity of the Olympia up the bay to New York harbor.

The Olympia will fire her last gun in answer to a foreign salute as she passes through the strait of Gibraltar, for after that the passage will be direct to the country that is proud to call Dewey one of her leading sons. If the bunker capacity of the Olympia is sufficient to carry her across the Atlantic without coaling, she will come direct as fast as her condition will permit. If it is found necessary, she will stop at the Azores for coal. It is left largely to the discretion of the admiral, should he not have had a sort of the homage of the world he is at liberty to steam to any port he pleases on his return. But Dewey is a modest hero, and the chances are that he will come direct home as fast as steam can carry him after leaving the Mediterranean behind. And then what a splendid welcome will await him!

The most prominent factor in the ovation will be noise. In the roar of the cannon and the blowing of thousands of steam whistles America's voice will speak the first welcome home to Dewey. By order of the navy department the entire North Atlantic squadron will act as the escort of the Olympia. As the procession of ships reaches the lower bay a great fleet of merchant ships, excursion steamers and yachts will be in waiting, ready to fall in line after each has made all the atmospheric disturbance that it can in honor of the admiral. The guns of the forts and the land batteries will each furnish their quota of noise, so that the air will be shaken by the thunderous tones of the greeting to Dewey.

Up the North river, between cities that will be brilliant with flags and bunting and with the eyes of millions of people turned upon her, the Olympia will be escorted to the tomb of General Grant on the Hudson, that other hero of the Union who himself once made a triumphant progress around the world. At the spot selected for the stoppage, opposite the tomb of Grant, the warships will fire a salute in honor of the memory of the dead general. The vessels will then go to their anchorage. That night a great light will illuminate the sky. New York will be en fête. The illuminations are to be splendid. Nothing that money can provide or the exercise of patriotic brains devise has been left out of the programme. Searchlights will turn night into day. Green, red, yellow, purple and blue fire will burn in the streets, rockets will shoot skyward, giant crackers explode, set pieces (whose subjects will be based on the victory at Manila) blaze and sizzle and sparkle, bonfire crack and burn in places where city ordinances have heretofore forbidden any such outward and visible sign of an inward enthusiasm on the part of the younger citizens, and the whole glorious heavens will reflect the feelings of the patriotic people, who know how to give a royal