Congress primary petition filed by Freund

Edward Freund of 141 Chestnut St., Roselle Park, has filed a petition for Congressman in the Democratic Primary in the 12th Congressional District. He is an outspoken supporter of Gov. George C. Wallace. He ran unsuccessfully 2 years ago as the American Party candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Freund said: "I am for capital punishment, and an end to a permissive court system that has the criminals back on the street before the victim has recovered. If elected, I will vote to put an end to busing for racial purposes, deficit spending and giveaway programs that are driving our taxpayers into bankruptcy. If the housewife must live within a budget then so should government."

Ray honored by Rotary

Charles M. Ray, former publisher of the Cranford Citizen and Chronicle, has been honored by Rotary International by being named a Paul A. Harris fellow.

The award was presented last Thursday by F.S. (Matty) Mathewson, past district governor of Rotary. Ray, who plans to move to Florida, holds Cranford Rotary Club attendance record.

Ray received a gold medallion, a lapel button signifying the fellowship and a certificate of the award. The award cited Ray's "devotion to Rotary and his ideals and the honor of his club."

The former publisher holds the record for the longest continuous attendance at Cranford Rotary's weekly meetings—39 years. He was president of the local club in 1957-58.

Ray and his wife, Florence, who was a guest at the testimonial dinner, have purchased a home in Melbourne Beach, Fla., and plan to move there in July.

Ray was extolled at the luncheon for his contributions to the club, local community and to journalism.

Lloyd Burns, executive secretary of the N.J. Press Association, cited Ray's work in establishing the freedom-of-information committee of the NJPA, which laid the groundwork for legislation providing for open meetings of public bodies and access to public records.

Burns noted that Ray was also instrumental in building the N.J.A. scholarship fund and that he is an honorary life member of the organization. Ray is a former president of the NJPA.

Rev. Dr. Robert Longaker, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church who was master of ceremonies at the luncheon, cited Ray's "mastery in every area of activity this club had."

Former Cranford Mayor Frederick P. Anderson said that Ray made the Citizen and Chronicle "truly the voice of Cranford." He said without such a newspaper the township business center "would be merely a marketplace, nothing more."

Ray, who described the local unit as "the finest club in the district," said his association with Rotary will not end with his moving and he will continue his membership here.

Ray, whose home is at 15 Dartmouth Road, became a reporter for the Citizen and Chronicle in 1952. He later became a partner in the publishing concern and was sole owner from 1952 until selling the paper to Mrs. Wallace A. Sorague in 1971.

The former publisher is chairman of the board of Capital Saving & Loan Association.

Committee hears complaints of CBBL

The Township Committee Tuesday night adopted an ordinance authorizing additional parking facilities at the Memorial field swim pool and recreation complex amid complaints by the Cranford-Boys' Baseball League of delay in clearing the parking area.

John Sodomora, president of the CBBL, said the league had been told the job would be done by the opening of the Little League season, but the dirt pile is still obstructing the area. Township Engineer Gregory Sigro said wet weather had interfered with removing the dirt.

The committee adopted an ordinance authorizing purchase of 118,000 equipment for the Public Works Department. In addition to replacing worn and obsolete equipment, it provides for acquisition of truck with aerial bucket for shade tree operations, a vacuum sewer cleaner, shredder and dump and pickup trucks.

Also approved was the authorization of $73,000 in bond anticipation notes for the public swimming pool. These will refinance notes already outstanding on the $1,144,000 project.

The committee rejected the long bid of Capasso Bros. of Ridgewood of $39,900 for annual township cleanup service. Only $30,000 was budgeted for the project, and new bids will be asked for submission at the May 14 meeting.

A contract for towing disabled vehicles was awarded to H. Benner Inc., 806 South Ave. East. A contract for supplying police uniforms was awarded to Cobblers, Inc. of 38 William St., Newark, the only bidder.

at Sherman and Cleveland as "planned obsolescence," contending "normal maintenance patterns" were not current state standards.

In answer to Kervick's question, Vici said he was not an electrical contractor and does not know what the state requirements specify for school lighting. Vici also admitted he does not have papers on file with the State Board of Education for school construction work.

The charge of "planned obsolescence" was denied by Thomas White Jr., board president of the school district, Tuesday morning. White asserted that maintenance efforts are now under way to replace worn and obsolete equipment on file with the State Board of Education for school construction work.

The charge of "planned obsolescence" was denied by Thomas White Jr., board president of the school district, Tuesday morning. White asserted that maintenance efforts are now under way to replace worn and obsolete equipment on file with the State Board of Education for school construction work.

Dr. William West, county superintendent of schools, testified that facilities such as the basement lavatories and third floor auditorium in Cleveland School do not meet current state standards.

Other testimony on Tuesday concerned the wording of the 1970 bond issue for the purchase of equipment at Cranford High School and the 1973 referendum calling for additions to Bloomingdale and Walnut schools.

Kucharski argued that the latter issue, which voters defeated, was actually a two-part proposal in that it also provided for the closing of Sherman and Cleveland schools.

The CAUSE group has charged the board misled the public in the 1972 referendum by implying the two schools would be retained if voters rejected the bond issue.

Seeking to prevent home foreclosures

An important step in a home owner counseling program designed to help prevent foreclosures on homes owned by low and moderate-income families has been announced by the New Jersey Association of Realtors.

Sidney H. Korse of Jersey City, president, announced efforts are now under way to develop an educational program in cooperation with Rutgers University Extension Division. The project thus far involves a limited number of HUD-approved voluntary and municipal agencies providing services in Paterson, Plainfield, and Somerset.

Korse said: "Through the efforts of N.J.A.R.'s Trust Force, a selected number of employees of these voluntary agencies have been enrolled in a 13-week real estate course at Rutgers. Upon completion of the program of study, this improved the employee's ability to help counsel families who are in danger of losing their homes to foreclosures."

College group to prepare Methodist Church service

The Family Life Committee of the Cranford United Methodist Church invited five members of the Deputation Club from Junia College in Huntingdon, Pa., to spend this week with church members. The students will conduct workshops to plan Sunday's worship service.

Originally formed to go out from the college as public "deputies," the Deputation Club now has a religious purpose under the direction of the college chaplain, Rev. Andrew Arroy.

The theme for the 10 a.m. Sunday service will be "Building the Whole Family"—a theme developed by exploring what makes a Christian family.

The development of the theme into a worship service will take place Saturday at 4 p.m. with workshops involving younger members of families.

At 5:30 p.m. there will be a covered dish supper followed by an evening of "fun and fellowship" workshops designed primarily for the young people.

Members of the group will be invited to attend the workshops and supper.

Deputation Club members, who will arrive in Cranford Saturday afternoon as workshop leaders, are Glenn Mitchell, Kim Springer, Sue Lowry, Sam Sirianni and Holly Hennis. The students will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Heeden, Mr. and Mrs. Harold V.A. Wait Jr., and Mrs. Kenneth M. Kaiser.

The first portion of the program will offer works by Jean Langlais, Peter Lutkin, and Tchaikovsky.

The featured work for the evening will be Anton Bruckner's "Te Deum Laudamus" with orchestra, conducted by the Junia College Westminister Choir College of Princeton, Jane Bedford, alto, and Donald Caldwell, tenor.

Tickets will be on sale at the door for $2.50.

School issue may get second vote

GARWOOD—Following defeat of the Board of Education's $15 million bond issue Tuesday, Board President Richard Polidoro said he feels the proposal should be re-submitted to voters.

"Because of the situation we're in, I don't think there's anything else we can do but feel that we should re-submit the same proposal. Sooner or later the public will have to support this program," Polidoro said.

The issue lost by 133 votes as 68 residents opposed the plan and 542 supported it. In a heavy turnout for a school election, ballots were cast by 1,227 citizens out of 2,883 registered voters, or 43 per cent.

The proposal called for the construction of a two-story school and a $15 million bond issue to fund the school and other projects.

Some residents objected to the proposed school and other projects, claiming the space was not needed since an enrollment forecast predicted a decrease in the pupil population in ten years.

Facilities in the new school would include a library, a computer lab, a science and art room with sinks and five regular classrooms.

Lincoln and Washington schools were to undergo major rehabilitation work and Franklin School minor renovation. Plans had included an expanded school library that also would serve as a storage room and office.

Of the $15 million, $530,000 was earmarked for renovation work at the three schools and the remainder would be used for new construction.

According to Mrs. Naomi Lawrence, chairman of the board's building committee, the tax increase would have averaged about 75¢ in 1975 and 80¢ in 1976.

Other critics charged that the school would be a burden on the town, home economics and buildings and the remainder would be used for new construction.

Ex-chief to receive benefits

KENILWORTH—Retired Kenilworth Police Chief Edward Stupak was granted extended health benefits by the Borough Council Tuesday night with Councilman Charles Scheuermann casting the sole dissenting vote.

Stupak, who retired in 1971 after 42 years of service in the borough, said he didn't understand Scheuermann's opposition to the measure, especially in light of the state and local government seeking for more benefits for older citizens.

Scheuermann replied, "I am not opposed to granting health benefits and it is no reflection on your reputation. I just believe the granting of such benefits would be a violation of the contract we have with the Policemen's Benevolent Association."

Mayor William E. Conrad Jr. explained that the Borough's contract with the association, signed last December, says that health benefits cannot be given to anyone who retired before the signing of the contract.

He added, "Mr. Scheuermann, as police commissioner, felt it would not be proper for him to vote for something which is contrary to the contract. The other members of council probably felt the granting of these benefits is not contrary to the contract."

Unanimously adopted by the council was an ordinance providing that all borough employees who retire after the ordinance is finalized with 25 years or more of continuous service will be eligible for health benefits coverage.

Scheuermann explained he was not opposed to health benefits per se pointing to his affirmative vote on the second ordinance.

He said he was only opposed to what he considered a violation of the contract in the Parish plans dance on silver anniversary

KENILWORTH—St. Theresa's Church will celebrate its 25th anniversary at a dinner-dance May 11 in the school auditorium.

Kenilworth was declared a mission of St. Michael's Church in Cranford in 1936, and became a parish in 1942.

October, 1936, was the date of the community's first mass.

Much to be considered in purchasing new rug

If you are one of many people thinking about buying a new rug or carpet for the home, there are many angles to be considered. Color will be one of the major decisions you will make in choosing your new rug. Think through the colors that you enjoy living with. Don't be concerned about what color "is" for this season. Your carpeting will last many years and it should be pleasing to you and your family.

Consider the furnishings and colors already in the room. Your rug or carpet should blend with these. Also, look at wood or brick tones if you are a floor covering. If you are an upholsterer and if you are soft and quiet in coloring, your rug should consider a bright, bold color for contrast. If there is a rug with a sculptured pattern or a tufted wood, a good choice for an entryway. Deciding on a large rug area rug (or wall-to-wall carpeting) can be very confusing for the homeowner. A rug that fits the room dimensions exactly but is not tucked down is called a "float rug." A room-size rug has a

Union College tuition same

Tuition for the 1974-75 academic year at Union College, Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield, and Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, will not be increased, it was announced today by Dr. Kenneth C. Mackay, executive director of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education.

Under contract with the agency, Union College and Union County Technical Institute are providing public higher education services in lieu of a county college. Union College, which has its main campus in Cranford and Urban Educational Centers in Elizabeth and Plainfield, serves as the academic arm of Union County's Community College System, and acquires oriented programs. Tuition at both institutions is $500 for a full-time student who is a resident of Union County; $700 for other New Jersey residents, and $1,400 for out-of-state residents. The tuition for part-time students is $14 a credit hour per semester for Union County residents; $30 for other New Jersey residents; and $40 for out-of-state residents.

"We are grateful to the Union County Board of Freeholders for providing sufficient financial assistance so tuition rates could remain at the current level," Dr. Mackay said. "In these days of inflation, a low tuition rate means many more of our residents can benefit from the opportunities for higher educational services at the two institutions we are utilizing."

First Aid Squad appeal
 Cranford First Aid Squad announces the opening of its annual appeal to residents for funds to carry out its work.
 The squad's activities have increased since the year of its inception in November of 1953. The squad has more than 60 members assisting in each week of rotary meetings, each week of emergency aid, each week of transportation to and from hospitals, nursing homes and rehabilitation centers. An extended service is maintained 24 hours a day through a communication system of phone-activated by the Police Department.
 Members are divided into squads known as A, B, C and D. Squad A is on duty from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Squad B is on duty from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Squad C is on duty from 1 a.m. to 4 a.m. Squad D is on duty from 4 a.m. to 7 p.m.
 Other courses are held from time to time by the various hospitals, and seminars are provided by the area counties, which the squad maintains membership.
 President Francis Young and Fund Drive Chairman Edward Rouvet today expressed the hope that residents will respond as they have in the past and perhaps exceed total contributions of previous years.
 "Five dollars does not go far in supplying the family needs of today, but a donation of this amount by every household in Cranford would go a long way toward advancing the equipment and modernization so badly needed to keep up with the advancing medical aids of today's modern age," stated Young.

Segal and White scheduled to testify at final session of CAUSE hearing
 By Carol Ann Bunck
 Superintendent of Schools Dr. Joshua Segal, Board of Education President Thomas White Jr., and Elementary Supervisor Alan Schwartz will be called to testify today at the final hearing in the CAUSE suit against the Cranford school board, according to court attorney James Kerwick.
 Kerwick said Segal will be asked to describe the educational program for sixth graders next year and to confirm enrollment data given in testimony by Assistant Superintendent Anthony J. Terregino.
 Schwartz is to be questioned on the transfer of sixth graders in September to the junior high schools and White will be asked to relate the board's estimate of savings accruing from the operation of six elementary schools instead of eight. Kerwick said CAUSE (Citizens Association Urging Sound Education) is seeking to prevent the board from closing Sherman and Cleveland schools in June. The group charges the board misled the public by publishing inflated enrollment figures for the two school buildings and acted in bad faith and in violation of its discretionary authority in voting to close the schools and change the grade pattern.
 Hearings Extended
 Hearings were held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week at the county administration building in Westfield before Judge Joseph J. Pappalardo.
 The judge said that since the referendum had a bad chance of passage, we ought to have a fact-packed hearing. I found it fit the elementary children in six buildings in Westfield before Judge Joseph J. Pappalardo.
