3 Hurt in Auto Crashes

WRECKED CAR, driven by Stefan Holovach of Manville, lies at foot of embankment in East Millstone. (News Photo)

Franklin Township was plagued with highway accidents during the past week, including a four-car collision, a spectacular crash on Amwell Road which sheared a telephone pole and landed a vehicle in a ditch, and several minor collisions. In all, three persons were injured.

Two men were hospitalized with injuries suffered Thursday shortly before 8:30 p.m. in East Millstone at the Amwell Road crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad branch line.

Lt. Russell Pfeiffer reported that a car driven by John Milligan, 58, of 58 Churchill Avenue, was struck in the rear by a sedan operated by Stefan Holovach, 31, of 313 N. 6th Avenue, Manville. The Holovach car struck a telephone pole, snapping it near the top, crashed through a wooden fence and rolled down a ten-foot embankment.

Mr. Holovach and Cpl. Cleveland Taylor, 25, of Camp Kilmer, a passenger in the Milligan car, were taken to Somerset Hospital by the East Millstone Rescue Squad. Mr. Holovach who suffered head injuries, was reported in good condition yesterday. Cpl. Taylor was treated for face cuts and was transferred to the hospital in Camp Kilmer.

Lt. Pfeiffer said a summons will be issued to Mr. Holovach for careless driving.

Hits Abutment

Gus Stoffels, 67, of Belle Mead escaped injury Wednesday when his car struck an abutment on Easton Avenue near Academy Road. He told police a second car forced him off the road. The car was damaged extensively. No summons was issued.

Theodore Wielechowski, also of Belle Mead was charged with reckless driving Saturday after his car struck two parked vehicles, forcing one of the cars into another parked auto.

Mr. Wielechowski was taken to Middlesex General Hospital where he was treated for multiple cuts on the head, arms and legs, and released. The summons is returnable in Municipal Court on Jan. 10.

A car driven by Clifford Holland of Dayton, sideswiped a telephone pole early Monday on Easton Avenue causing extensive damage to the right side of the vehicle. No summons was issued.

A brand new car, with only three miles registered on its speedometer, was involved in an accident Wednesday at Easton and Bloomfield Avenues. The car, driven by William Watson, 39, of Treptow Road, collided with a car driven by Charles W. Stevens Jr., 75, of Highwood.

Mr. Stevens was issued a summons for careless driving by Lt. Pfeiffer.

MICHAEL SURMA WINS DOG ON CBS TELEVISION SHOW

Michael Surma Jr., 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Surma of Walnut Avenue, was awarded a fox terrier during an appearance on a CBS radio show with Lanny Ross and Red Buttons on Wednesday.

A 4th Grade pupil of Pine Grove Manor School, Michael won the dog for sending the "best letter on why a boy likes to own a dog."

Gerofsky Studies Seizure of Autos Of Drunken Drivers

Lauding an editorial which appeared in The News, Prosecutor Leon Gerofsky said this week he is studying the possibility of impounding automobiles used by drivers convicted of driving while under the influence of alcohol or habit forming drugs. The editorial, "You're Better Off Alive," was published Dec. 16.

"An automobile is a dangerous instrument," told the News, "and if one employs a dangerous instrument, whether it be a weapon or anything else, in an unlawful manner, why then may it not be destroyed? There is no property right in anything that is used for unlawful purposes."

Referring directly to the editorial, Mr. Gerofsky declared that "it does touch upon a subject that is not only of vital interest to me, but also within the field in which I operate as a county prosecutor."

The specific reference in the editorial was as follows: "Besides jail terms for drunken driving, perhaps we need a law that would permit impounding the auto of anyone convicted of a major traffic violation."

Mr. Gerofsky stated that Chief Justice Arthur Vanderbilt of the New Jersey Supreme Court is a "staunch advocate" of an educational program designed to reduce accidents. He added that municipal magistrates have joined that program. But, he added, education is "not enough."

"Enforcement, and strict enforcement, with strict penalties, must now be employed," the prosecutor declared.

'A Good Point'

"It is to be noted that the editorial suggests that automobiles ought to be impounded in offense involving drunken driving. Perhaps you have a good point there," he continued.

"I say a good point, for I am reminded that there is a statute on the books which permits the impounding and confiscation of property used in an unlawful enterprise. We confiscate and destroy guns; we confiscate radios, television sets and other equipment found in gambling places; we rip out telephones found in bookmaking establishments. Why not impound a car used by a man who may be convicted of operating that car while under the influence of alcohol or a habit forming drug?"

TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS WILL REOPEN MONDAY MORNING

Township pupils will return to school following the Christmas-New Year's Day vacation on Monday morning.

Cost-of-Living Bonuses Approved For 16 Employees

Cost-of-living bonuses were granted to 16 municipal employees by the Township Committee at its regular meeting Thursday night in Township Hall.

Bonuses of $150 each went to Frank Pennell, road foreman, and Voorhees Gulick, assistant road foreman. Mrs. May L. Hobbs, court clerk, received $80.

Bonuses of $50 each were authorized for Edward Stevens, George Turner, Wesley Hooper, John Kolesar, Rocco Mazza, Alfonso Mazzarelli, John B. Young, Leroy Swain and Charles W. Young, all of the Road Department; McKinley Crawford, Robert Trumper and Salvatore J. Vitale, Department of Sanitation, and Oscar Nifoussi, garbage dump maintenance supervisor.

At a special meeting called for 11 a.m. today, the Committee will set a date for re-organization.

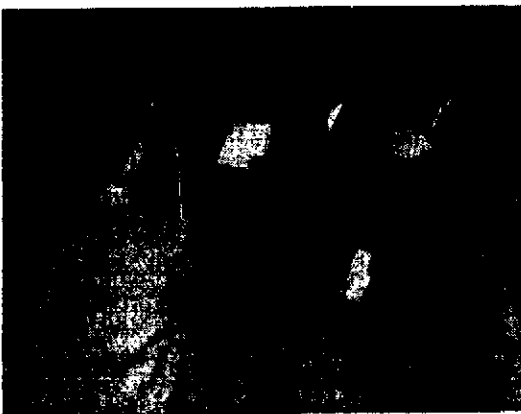

Terms of office expiring on Friday include: township attorney, township engineer and magistrate, all three-year terms.

Mrs. May L. Hobbs three-year term as overseer of the poor and welfare director, also expires Dec. 31.

Mrs. Alice Hageman's posts as treasurer and tax searcher are renewable every year, as is Joseph J. Weber's position as auditor, and Joseph P. Maher as

A FESTIVE CUP

Whether the greeting is "Bonne Annee", "Buon Principio" or "Happy New Year," it's a festive greeting — and a festive cup will add to the gay holiday mood.

Hot Spiced Cider

A hot spiced cider is a warm way to greet friends, young or old. Here is a recipe with grapefruit juice for extra zip and extra nutrition.

Use 2 quarts cider, 1 No. 2 can (2 1/4 cups) grapefruit juice, 3 cinnamon sticks, 10 whole cloves and 1/2 cup brown sugar firmly packed.

Combine cider, grapefruit juice and brown sugar in a saucepan.

Tie the spices in cheesecloth; place in saucepan with the cider mixture. Bring to boiling; simmer 10 minutes, remove spice bag, serve mixture. Bring to boiling; simmer 10 minutes, remove spice bag, serve hot. Twenty servings.

Spiced Milk Punch

Another nutritious punch that is really delicious is Spiced Milk Punch. Make it a gala drink with drifts of ice cream and whipping cream. Teenagers love it. And these good dairy products make it a perfect choice for children of all ages — from one to 101.

Use 1 quart of milk, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, pinch of salt, 2 pints vanilla ice cream, Grated orange rind for garnish, 1 cup heavy cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Pour the milk into a punch bowl, and blend in the spices. Stir in one pint of ice cream until partially melted.

Whip the heavy cream until stiff and fold in the vanilla extract.

Pile flavored whipped cream and the second pint of ice cream onto the milk mixture and garnish with grated orange rind. Serves 12.

WASHABLE WOOLENS

Many woolens today are especially treated so they wash safely. But you can't tell that by looking at or feeling them. Look for the label.

And even when a woolen garment has a label which gives washing instructions, there are many important factors to consider before you say, "I'll take it."

Examine the garment carefully to see that the styling, construction and trimmings are suitable for a garment intended for home laundering.

The styling should not be too intricate for easy pressing. All seams should be either taped or at least have extra seaming to prevent raveling. Look at the buttonholes, armholes, interfacings and hems. Will they hold up under frequent washings?

Check trimming. The less trimming and detail work the better. Any contrasting trim should be of a fabric that is equally washable as the wool — colorfast and constructed into the garment with care.

If the garment meets these requirements you can go ahead and launder it with care without danger of shrinking or felting of the wool. Most directions call for warm water and lots of mild soap suds.

If you use the washing machine, the water level should be high with a light load. Two or three minutes agitation in suds should be sufficient to remove soil. Always rinse thoroughly. Press the garment while it is slightly damp.

HOME ECONOMICS BRIEFS

Grade AA and Grade A eggs are of top quality, with thick whites and firm, high yolks. Their delicate flavor makes them especially desirable for poaching, frying and cooking in the shell, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reminds consumers.

Grade B and Grade C eggs are also good eggs, although the whites are thin and the rather flat yolks may break easily. They are good for scrambling, to use in baking, in thickening sauces and salad dressings and to combine with other foods, such as cream sauce, tomatoes, cheese or onions.

A waistline of a fitted garment should be about one-half inch below the waistline of the wearer in order to be comfortable and remain in place.

One cup of uncooked rice makes about three cups when cooked.

Allow shoes to rest and dry out between wearings in order to extend their life and appearance.

Pennsylvania usually ranks second among the states to New York in the total value of its manufactured goods.

Rutgers University
By Charles H. Connors

LOVING CARE

My maternal grandmother was a German peasant. As I look back, with my years of education and experience in scientific and practical matters pertaining to horticulture, I came more to opinion that she was a scientist at heart and, in addition, had by experience learned something that, alas, the scientist often lacks. That was the art of growing plants.

To be sure, the conditions under which she lived were not the same as ours. Most of the time, the heating of her first floor was from the kitchen range, with occasionally a fire in the Janeway stove in the "front room."

Some of her plans were in the east window, some in the south window, some even in the west window of the cooler front room.

To The Light

Each year, the same plants were on the same shelves, upper or lower, in each window. At each window were gingham curtains which were drawn across on cold nights, but drawn back in the daytime.

Always on the back of the kitchen range was simmering a pot of sauerkraut or soup. The air was moist. That was the sort of atmosphere that resulted in paintings on the window pane by Jack Frost, on cold nights.

Some of these plants she watered every day, some every two or three days. There were some, as she had learned, that would grow well with water in the saucers.

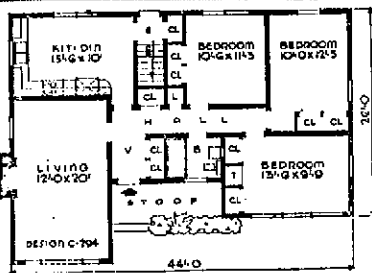

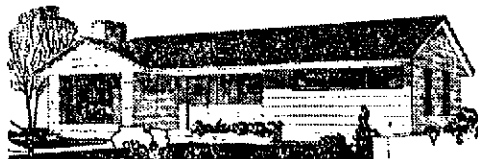

The plants, of course, would grow toward the light. As they did, she would turn them to keep them in balance.

Each day, she gave them attention. If she spied some dust on the leaves, she would take the corner of her apron, and, with loving care, wipe the dust away.

Start With Love

These memories have lingered with me nearly two generations. And as I listen to or read the questions that are asked about care of plants, questions which some would term ignorant, but which I charitably call due to lack of knowledge, I think of my grandmother.

And I should like to say to the questioners, give your plants the loving care they deserve. Study them. If they show distress, what did you do? Then undo it.

Liberty Hyde Bailey once gave this definition: Horticulture is the love of plants and the pleasure and profit in growing them.

It starts with love, not fashion or emulation of neighbors.

For those contemplating the construction of a home in 1955, Design C-294 is offered for consideration as Home of the Week.

Circulation between rooms is excellent in this plan and all rooms can be reached from the front entrance. All three bedrooms have twin wardrobe closets; the one in the front bedroom has trays built in.

Kitchen cabinets are arranged to leave a large dining space under the rear double windows. The living room has a double glazed picture window, fireplace and plentiful wall space.

Exterior finish includes shingle siding, vertical redwood siding, asphalt shingles, covered front entrance and high windows in front bedroom and bath. Floor area is 1,139 sq. ft. and cubage is 21,565 cubic feet.

Information about this week's design, and all the others shown in this series of articles, can be had without obligation. For additional data, write to the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn. Give your name, address, house design number and name of this newspaper.

The News does not participate in any way with the sale of building plans. Readers who wish to purchase such plans may do so directly from the Small House Planning Bureau.

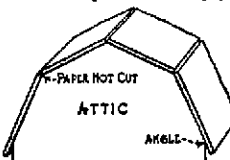

Even if you like a moist stuffing in your turkey, remember to go lightly on adding broth because stuffing takes up moisture from the turkey as it cooks.

Knit or bias seams can be kept from stretching by using tape reinforcements.

HOW TO DO IT

FITTING PLASTER BOARD

Plaster board has long been popular for walls and ceilings in both new construction and remodeling. It is easily applied, relatively inexpensive, and can take either paint or wallpaper.

American Builder magazine gives this tip to builders for reducing the number of cracks in applying plaster board where there is an inside angle to be turned: Cut the paper on the back of the board with a knife. Break the board, being careful not to break the paper on the front side. Fit the board to the angle, and nail it in place. The method often works well in finishing an attic.

Mercury Low But Voices Strong -- 200 Attend 5th Annual Carol Sing

Despite near-freezing temperatures, the Fifth Annual Carol Sing held Wednesday evening in front of the Franklin Park firehouse attracted 200 persons.

Mrs. Roy Ewers, chairman of the Community Council which sponsored the affair, was presented with a Christmas corsage by Patricia Welch, representing the Girl Scouts.

Ringling of church bells at the Six Mile Run Reformed Church signaled the opening of the program. Bruce Armstrong introduced the participants. Rev. Leonard Jones of the Six Mile Run Reformed Church gave the invocation. The benediction was offered by Rev. Joseph Wade of St. Augustine's Church.

Colin Lancaster directed group singing. Miss Elfreda Riddering sang "O, Holy Night." A male quartet composed of Stanley Zolte, Vance Dunn, Leonard Bardley and Carl Hallengren sang "Good King Wenceslas."

Also participating in the program were Service League of the Six-Mile Run Reformed Church, Christian Endeavor and Kappa Kappa Kappa Girls, also of the Reformed Church; Phillips School Parent-Teachers Association, Girl Scouts and Brownies, Ladies Auxiliary of the Franklin Park Fire Company, Youth Choir of the Reformed Church, Somerset Grange No. 7, St. Augustine's Church Choir, Franklin Park Volunteer Fire Company, and the Missionary Society and Missionary Guild of the Six Mile Run Reformed Church.

Mrs. Homer Archambault and Mrs. C. J. Schwabe Jr. accompanied the singers on a portable organ loaned by Camp Kilmer. Hot chocolate was served in the firehouse after the singing.

"Reliable Is Reasonable"

County Democratic leaders have decided to put off until after the first of the year their recommendation for a successor to the late County Court Judge Clarkson A. Cranmer.

So far, it appears as though the choice has narrowed down to three—Al Makowski of North Plainfield, Tony Kearns of Basking Ridge and Joe Halpern of Somerville. Both Makowski, who is present Democratic county chairman, and Kearns still play an active part in Somerset politics. Halpern, a former county chairman, gave up the heavy political chores two years ago.

Word leaking out of the inner circle claims that Makowski has been plugging rather hard for the appointment—but he's not the favorite selection of the county organization. Halpern can have the judge's robe, if he wants it.

But whoever may be the Democratic judge, it's more than likely it won't be too long before he's joined on the bench by a Republican colleague. The Bar Association recently went on record as favoring "in principle" Governor Meyner's proposal for two full-time judges instead of the present one part-time judge for Somerset, with one of the new jurists to be from the ranks of the GOP. Following up the Bar Association action is the report that Senator Forbes has decided to act favorably on the Governor's suggestion.

Forbes thinks, however, that before legislation is enacted to give the county two full-time judges the plan should get a lot more detailed study.

One of the liveliest Jan. 1 organization meetings is scheduled to be staged in Bridgewater Township municipal building. Taking office for the first time will be George Laigon of Bradley Gardens, who will pair with Jim Dobson to oppose what they consider an undue influence on the governing body by Mayor Art Tuttle.

When Jan. 1 rolls around Tuttle will be the ex-mayor, but there are those who think that his three supporters on the committee—Vanderveer, Byrne and Grimm—will want to retain his services as municipal attorney.

An effort will be made to thrash the matter out in caucus so that the New Year's Day meeting won't be jangled by dissenting speeches, but chances are against it. Dobson and Langon may move appointment of Stockton Fisher of Watchung. He served as attorney for the committee for the past few months during the illness of his uncle, the late Judge Cranmer.

One thing that won't be opposed by the two-man minority is the election by the committee of Vanderveer as mayor.

A change in attorneys that won't surprise anyone will be in Hillsboro. Prosecutor Leon Gerofsky, counsel for the past year, doesn't want the job again, and probably wouldn't get it if he did.

Choice of the committee, which next year will revert to a pro-3-M complexion, is said to be Dix Skillman of Belle Mead. Skillman is attorney for Hillsboro's sister township of Montgomery, which is equally mixed up in the 3-M wrangle.

Organization meeting of the board of Freeholders has been set for Monday, Jan. 3, and you can be sure there won't be any discussion there. The agenda will feature a wearing in of Director Adams for another term and a raft of appointments. Only ones that will be other than routine are members of the new Somerset County Planning Board.

Quote of Note

"Antipathy to domination or control by a foreign government, or even to interference on the part of a foreign government, is a basic policy in this nation. It was one of the compelling reasons for the making of the Constitution in replacement of the Confederation. . . ."

"This country has always unequivocally repudiated any action which has seemed to contain the element of foreign control over our governmental affairs. To declare unconstitutional a statute which would require the registration of an organization, substantially directed, dominated or controlled by a foreign government or by an organization such as the world Communist movement defined in this statute, would be to deny one of the purposes and one of the best-established policies of the government which was created by the Constitution. This is true whether or not the foreign government is coupled with a particular movement. . . ."

The activities of a world Communist movement such as that described . . . and of organizations in this country devoted to its objectives constitute a clear and present danger within the meaning of any definition of the point at which freedom of speech gives way to the requirements of government security. The basic theory of communism that all presently existing nationalist governments be superseded by a stateless world organization under a proletarian dictatorship, the domination of one world power with all its assets by the Communists, the succession of national capitulations to the forces of that group, and the declared intentions of its leaders in respect to the remainder of the world, are . . . historic facts which cannot be disputed. We cannot at the present time treat the program and policies of the world Communist movement as a dialectic debate." From the decision of the Federal Court of Appeals upholding the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1950.

Illinois achieved statehood in 1818, amid a period of rapid population growth.

CHRISTMAS POSTSCRIPT

Giving as well as receiving is a real part of our Christmas tradition. Christmas Day just passed has proved again that giving can provide even greater pleasure than receiving — delightful as it is to get just the right present. This is particularly true for parents whose pleasure is found in providing all kinds of gifts and celebrations for their children.

Most youngsters received many gifts and presents and naturally are delighted with them. But what do they know of the pleasures of giving?

Sometimes the child purchases a gift for mother under father's guidance, or for father with mother's help. Frequently, however, the gift is purchased by the parent in the child's name. This happens with many presents which are supposedly given by children.

Learn To Give

It's very true that a small child has neither the ability nor the judgment to purchase a suitable gift. But there are many ways that the youngster can begin to appreciate the joy of giving.

If your child has been chiefly on the receiving end of gift giving, start in 1955 to encourage him to give, too. This need not mean that he spend a large part of his allowance for gifts. A child can make many acceptable gifts for birthdays and other occasions throughout the year.

Then next year he might contribute some of his toys to one of the community organizations which collect cast-off toys for less fortunate children. Encourage him to get them in good shape before he gives them away. The child will enjoy doing it as long as the job is not beyond his ability.

Of Books, Plays & Sundry Things . . .

Understanding the 'Heavies'

The reaction of a great many people to modern literature, art and music is simply one of annoyance. They have the feeling that contemporary creative artists are obscure for obscurity's own sake.

These same people are usually much more generous in their attitudes toward modern efforts in what might be called the practical arts, as opposed to the fine arts. People who think time spent reading T. S. Elliot or listening to Bela Bartok is wasted are perfectly happy in a house with a flat roof and almost all glass and filled with low furniture made of all sorts of fantastic materials. The new forms which they have come to accept in their daily lives are still mysterious in literature, music or art.

Reward Awaiting

That art today needs so much interpretation probably is not a good thing. When the present period of transition is over, this may no longer be so. Be that as it may, trying to understand the modern arts is very often worth the effort. There are rewards to be found in comprehending the work addressed to you, as a man in the modern world, which cannot be found in the art of the past, no matter how great it is.

As an introduction to modern literature, Edmund Wilson's book "Axel's Castle," though published by Scribner in 1931, is still among the very best, for its language is always simple, its judgments usually sound. It is not a discussion meant for experts in the field, but for those who simply wish to understand.

The book does not guarantee that you will understand everything after you have read it. What it does supply is some clues as to how one may read the modern works that may be difficult to grasp. Wilson discusses six authors in particular, but his method of approaching these gives the reader some idea how to approach others.

Enthusiastic Approach

What's more, Wilson, though he has his doubts about the general direction modern literature is taking, is truly enthusiastic about the particular virtues of the authors he discusses. He makes one actually want to read a book that previously presented itself to the mind only as a morass of incomprehensibility — Marcel Proust's "Remembrance of Things Past," for instance, or James Joyce's "Ulysses." His exegesis of these books is neither thorough or scholarly. All the authors he discusses have been treated with greater completeness since, but never so clearly.

Wilson has been criticized for over-simplifying, but sometimes this is just what the beginner needs. When he is farther into modern literature he can worry about the complications. Besides, Wilson wrote the book nearly 25 years ago. Although much work has been done since, he has some amazing insights, such as his comment that Elliot's genius is essentially a dramatic one—and this before Elliot had written a single play.

The book contains an introductory chapter on the French symbolists of the latter half of the 19th Century and then continues with fairly detailed discussions of W. B. Yeats, Paul Valery, Elliot, Proust, Joyce and Gertrude Stein. It concludes with a general chapter on the tensions and directions of modern literature. Whether or not one agrees with Wilson's conclusions is beside the point. His book remains an effective introduction to modern literature, neither so simple that it avoids the critical problems raised by that literature, nor so complex as to be of interest only to the expert.

Freeholder Board To Form Monday

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders will reorganize at a special meeting Jan. 3 at 11 a.m. in the County Administration Building. A County Planning Board will be named at that time.

Frederick W. Hall, Superior Court Assignment Judge, Friday set the County's share of the cost of his office expenses and secretary's salary for 1935 at 20 percent. Five other counties share the expenses which he estimated at $3,650 for his secretary's annual salary, and $1,000 for office expenses. Morris County will pay the least, with a 4 percent assessment.

A petition by a group of North Plainfield residents, requesting action be taken to alleviate flood conditions on three streets because of defective storm sewers, was referred to the County engineer, Frank Hamler.

Somerset TB Rate Below State's

Final tuberculosis statistics for 1933 indicate that Somerset County case and death rates are lower than those of the state as a whole. It was reported today by Mrs. Mildred Everett, executive director of the Somerset County Tuberculosis and Health Association. The data were received from the State Department of Health, Division of Vital Statistics.

Based on a total of 13 reported deaths from tuberculosis in Somerset County, the death rate per 100,000 persons is 12.5, compared with a New Jersey death rate of 13.8. With 75 new cases of tuberculosis reported in the county in 1933, the case rate per 100,000 persons becomes 72.1, substantially lower than the New Jersey case rate of 83.8. The total of reported deaths from tuberculosis in New Jersey for 1933 was 893, a drop of 138 from the preceding year, and the number of new cases 4,186, 417 more than in 1932.

Indications are that in 1934, statistics for Somerset County will show a drop in the death rate and a rise in the case rate, Mrs. Everett stated. This year so far, with reports still incomplete, there have been only five tuberculosis deaths registered, but 94 new cases listed.

ATLANTIC CITY STARTED BOARDWALK IN 1870

The first boardwalk in Atlantic City was constructed in 1870, 18 years after the shore resort was incorporated as a municipality. The boardwalk now extends for seven miles.

The city, located on a 10-mile long sand bar, was a fishing village until 1864, when, with the coming of the railroad, its resort business flourished. With a population of over 61,000, Atlantic City features many hotels, amusement places, and a municipal auditorium seating 40,000.
