Maher to Seek Water Supply For the Future

Franklin Township may put in a bid to draw 10 million gallons of water daily from the Delaware & Lackawanna Canal, The News has learned.

Mayor James G. Maher

To protect the future interests of the community, Mayor James Maher said yesterday he would ask the Township Committee to stipulate this future need in a letter to the State Water Policy & Supply Council.

The move, which is expected to be emphasized by similar requests from other communities in this region, is the result of the Elizabethtown Water Company's application to increase its daily withdrawal from the canal.

Feb. 9 Hearing For Industry, Housing Groups

Ordinances creating a six-man Housing Authority and a seven-man Industrial Development Committee will be top items on the agenda when the Township Committee holds a public hearing next Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

At last week's Committee meeting Township Attorney Robert E. Gaynor read the measure which specified that five commissioners on the authority be appointed for 5-year terms by the Committee, another to be named by the State.

The Industrial Development Committee, to prepare a program to attract clean, odorless, light industry to the Township, will have one member appointed from the Township Committee, one from the Board of Adjustment and five other members, each for a five-year term of office.

The creation of the housing authority, if completed before June 30, would mean possible Federal aid in developing low-rent housing areas. The results of a survey to be taken by the Township would determine whether the Federal Housing Authority would consent to provide funds for such

15 DRIVERS NABBED IN POLICE ROAD CHECK

Fifteen persons were nabbed in a spot check of cars on Easton Avenue Saturday between 1:30 and 4 p.m. In almost every instance violators were not in possession of either license or registration. Summonses were issued by the six officers assigned by Police Chief Edward Voorhees. The road block was set up near the former RCA transmitter.

FIRE GUTS BUNGALOW, WIDOW ESCAPES INJURY

Mrs. Julie Laneback escaped injury when a fire broke out and gutted her four-room bungalow on Louis Street Saturday morning. Mrs. Laneback, an elderly widow, tried to light her kerosene stove with a piece of paper. The lighted paper fell and the blaze ignited furnishings in her home. Her two dogs were found suffocated under her bed.

RECKLESS DRIVER FINED $20 IN MUNICIPAL COURT

John A. Devine Jr., 35, of Milltown, was charged with reckless driving and fined $20 and costs Monday night by Magistrate Vernon Hagmann.

Mr. Devine admitted to driving 50 miles per hour on Jan. 19, when his car careened into a tree on Canal Road near Zarephath. He suffered cuts and abrasions and was taken to Bound Brook Hospital by the South Bound Brook Rescue Squad. Sgt. Adolph Canavesio investigated.

Final Hearing on Bond Issue Set for Today in Trenton

Record Budget Passed by Board

The largest school budget in the history of Franklin Township—$843,331—was passed unanimously Monday night in Middlebush School at a public hearing with only nine persons present.

The cost of renovating Phillips School, $7,500, is included in the new budget and will not be included in the proposed $988,000 bond issue for the construction of two Structo Corporation schools.

The $7,500 was added to capital outlay to cover the cost of remodeling a regular classroom into a Kindergarten and provide toilet facilities for that room; the present Beginners' room will be enlarged for an assembly room for five classes, and a teacher's room will be constructed from what is now a storage area in the basement. A health room was suggested, but it was found that physical examinations could be conducted without additional ex-

The State Division of Local Government tomorrow will formally hear Franklin's plea for permission to put to public vote on March 1 a referendum calling for the expenditure of $988,000 for two new elementary schools.

The hearing, in Trenton, is slated to start at 11:30 a.m. Scheduled to represent the Board of Education, which stipulated Dr. C. Rexford Davis, Township Attorney Robert E. Gaynor and board secretary Mrs. Florence Randolph.

George G. Skillman of Belle Mead, director of the local government bureau, told The News yesterday that he had received certification of Franklin's application from the State Department of Education on, which stipulated that body's approval of the referendum. The hearing before the local government division will be the last step in clearing the legal hurdles before the referendum can be held.

"With Dispatch"

Mr. Skillman indicated that Franklin's application would be reviewed with dispatch, especially since preparations are being made for an early start on construction, the schools to be ready

Youth Council Asks $6,500 for 1956 Program

The Youth Guidance Council will ask for a $6,500 appropriation in the Township's 1956-57 budget, it was decided at a council meeting Saturday afternoon in Township Hall. The new figure is $2,500 more than last year's.

The Council plans to expand its entire program with the additional funds, boost wages of Recreation Director Michael Bodnarick, increase the Summer staff from four to 10 instructors, provide skating facilities at Pine Grove Manor, Middlebush, Franklin Park, Griggstown and East Millstone, and macadamize the Pine Grove Manor, Middlebush and Franklin Park playgrounds.

Salaries Up

The expanded program as outlined by Mrs. Catherine McClure, Council secretary, would raise Mr. Bodnarick's salary from $1,200 to $1,500, and provide an additional $100 for his traveling expenses. Two Winter assistants would receive $250 each, two others would get $150 each each. Ten Summer recreational directors would receive $36 a week for six weeks. Janitorial fees for the Winter are estimated at $300, a

3 Resign from Lay Advisory Committee To Run for Board of Education Posts

Three members of the Lay Advisory Planning Committee, Dr. Lyle E. Hagmann, Joseph Takacs and Mrs. Frank Vomacka, have resigned from the committee to seek election to the Board of Education Feb. 14, Harold B. Golden, chairman of the Lay Committee announced this week in a letter to The News.

The three are supported by the Franklin Township League for Better Schools. Other candidates for three seats on the board are Mrs. William G. Pattison, incumbent; Walter F. Campbell, Armand Petrillo and J. Hilton Joyce.

Following is the text of Mr. Golden's letter:

Editor, Franklin News
Dear Sir:

This morning I received from Dr. Lyle E. Hagmann a letter of resignation from the Lay Advisory Planning Committee, of which group I have the honor to be chairman. Dr. Hagmann feels that this step is a necessary consequence of his having become a candidate for the Franklin Township Board of Education. I have been informed that two other candidates for the Board of Education, Joseph Takacs and Mrs. Frank Vomacka, are also resigning from the Lay Advisory Committee for the same reason. I should like to take this opportunity to express my deep regret for this action, however necessary. It may seem to be. With these resignations, the Lay Advisory Committee loses three of its most active and most valuable members.

For almost a year, it has been my privilege to have worked beside them in the arduous search for a practical solution to the problem of resolving this Township's classroom headaches, not in 1956 or 1957, but this year, 1956. Toward this goal, as a member of the Lay Planning Committee, Dr. Hagmann has worked with the patient intelligence of the scientist. Without question, his knowledge of the educational problems peculiar to our Township, his balanced judgement and his wise counsel were decisively instrumental in bringing us to a final and successful conclusion.

Joe Takacs is another Lay Advisory Committee member whose advice and help were invaluable. His special field is finance, and his understanding of the fiscal side of a school system's operation has become one of our most important working tools. He is a clear-thinking, intensely practical man of action who gets things done.

Mrs. Frank Vomacka had to travel a long way from home to attend Lay Advisory Committee meetings. She lives in Kingston and most of our meetings were held at the opposite end of the Township. Nevertheless, she was there, at meeting after meeting; her presence testifying to her concern about our school system. We, who have been subjected to it, know how deep, how intense that concern is. We know also how intelligent it is, seeing beyond the immediate need for classrooms, to the need for a reappraisal of curriculum, teachers, and teaching methods.

This letter is becoming too lengthy, yet I have touched on my subject in only the sketchiest fashion. Each of these committee members was there when needed, each worked hard and long, each displayed qualities of integrity and courage without which no good work can be brought to fruition. There is so much more about each I could say, but considerations of space make that impossible. I must be content, therefore, with saying on my behalf as well as for all the rest of the Committee, "To each of you, Lyle Hagmann, Joseph Takacs, and Muriel Vomacka, Thank You! Thank you for your help! Thank you for a job well done!"

(Signed)

Sincerely yours,
Harold B. Golden
Chairman, Lay Advisory Planning Committee.

Vivian Daddio Killed by Auto

An automobile collision on Highway 18, near Albert Street, caused the death of Miss Vivian Daddio, 43, when her car was struck from behind as she was turning into a gas station Saturday.

According to East Brunswick police, Miss Daddio signaled for a left turn and was almost off the road when a car driven by Anthony Ruskuski, 33, of 388 Waldorf Street, smashed into her auto. She was taken to Middlesex Hospital by the East Brunswick Rescue Squad. She died Sunday morning.

Patrolman William Tennant investigated. Court hearing for Mr. Ruskuski is scheduled for tonight in East Brunswick.

The daughter of Mrs. Theresa Daddio of 5 Dover Avenue, the victim, was buried this morning in St. Peter's Cemetery, New Brunswick, after a Requiem Mass at 8:30 a.m. in St. Peter's Church.

Miss Daddio, who lived here for 25 years, was a member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, and graduated from the Pine Grove Manor School. Miss Daddio is survived by her mother and a sister.

Christian Endeavor Union to Climax Diamond Jubilee at Banquet Tonight

The Somerset County Christian Endeavor Union will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the Christian Endeavor movement at a diamond jubilee banquet in the Second Reformed Church, Somerville, today at 7 p.m. More than 200 young people and their adult advisors and friends are expected to be present.

The banquet program will feature an address, "Today's Challenge to Youth," by Arch J. McQuilkin of Wayne, Pa., vice-president of the International Society of Christian Endeavor. J. Spencer Hulse of Middlesex, an advisor of the Somerset County Christian Endeavor Union, will serve as toastmaster and song leader. Also on the program will be brief remarks by James R. Westerhoff of Hawthorne, president of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, and James C. Canover Jr. of Princeton, president of the Somerset County Christian Endeavor Union. Special music for the occasion will be provided by an orchestra of Christian Endeavorers under the direction of Claude E. Shappelle, music director of Somerville High School.

The committee handling arrangements for the banquet is made up of the following members of the Christian Endeavor societies of the host church: Phyllis Jewell, chairman, Lois Born, Margaret Wilcox, Bruce Docherty, Robert Schmid and Howard Lane. The dinner will be served by the R. Anna Miller League for Service of the host church.

The banquet will climax Christian Endeavor - Youth Week. Christian Endeavor societies throughout the county will be celebrating the anniversary occasion at special meetings and worship services in their own churches to commemorate the organization of the first Christian Endeavor society in the Williston Congregational Church, Portland, Maine, on Feb. 2, 1881. Christian Endeavor, the pioneer church youth organization, now is found throughout the world, with societies in some 80 countries and a membership numbering into the millions. In Somerset County this interdenominational youth organization is included in the programs of some 18 churches.

the somerset SCENE

One of the plums the Freeholders forgot to pass out Jan. 2 was quietly administered last Friday by resolution.

Fred G. Thomas Jr., known to his new friends in the County GOP as "Freddie," is now Somerset's new advisor on insurance matters. The resolution naming Freddie did not mention it, but he succeeds Conrad Schmeltz, another Somerville insurance broker who has been advising the Freeholders on their risks and things for about 10 years.

Mr. Schmeltz, they say, is the most recent veteran to move down the pike with Grover Kipsev, former county counsel, and Frank Hamler, former county engineer. They also say this is all part of the "new look" which went out of style fashion-wise in Parce several years ago, but which is just getting to Somerset.

Biographically, Freddie is typical of Somerset's new countenance. He is one of those whom State Sen. Malcolm S. Forbes and County GOP chairman Luke Gray have graduated from the ranks of Young Republicans into active duty in the County Administration Building.

Freddie came into flower last Spring when it was decided we needed more of these young men in county government, especially the dissident ones. This is all since Malcolm and Luke have begun to take more than a passing interest in Administration Building affairs.

Freddie's new job will be to suggest to the Freeholders how they should administer $13,600 a year in insurance premiums and an estimated $110,000 in surety bonds carried on trusted employes.

It is also understood that Freddie will advise the boys as to which of the several insurance companies are nice to do business with. Nowhere in the resolution is there a clause prohibiting him from writing said insurance.

As a matter of fact, Mister Freeholder Director Henry L. Fetherston is quite frank in stating that Freddie is his personal choice. Freddie no doubt will profit by the appointment.

Now there are some who might scoff at this tidbit, but it's estimated that commissions on the County's insurance business might run in the neighborhood of three or four Gs. However, it must be added that all this gravy is passed out by the insurance companies, not by the County—which may save the feelings of apprehensive taxpayers.

Another of the highlights of last Friday's Freeholder frolic was a phrase of praise passed along to the Freeholders by Mister Fetherston, also a Freeholder.

Because of Somerset's abiding interest in th's here vocational school problem, Henry droned, Somerset will be the first in New Jersey to benefit by a vocational school study to be conducted by the State.

The Freeholders for years have been thinking about vocational training for kids in th's industrial county, the director claimed. And while he was conducting his own campaign last fall, Harry himself mentioned the thought several times.

But, Harry forgot to mention, and it was probably only because the Freeholder meeting was running past its traditional 18 minutes, that vocational school talk in Somerset in recent years has been almost exclusively Democratic.

It's claimed that the Democratic palaver was largely campaign talk designed to put incumbent Freeholders on the defensive, but the GOP defense was largely the same one adopted by the ostrich or the box turtle.

After a few PTAs got interested in the problem, so did Harry and a few other Republicans. A letter from the Montgomery Township PTA one day last year did more to alert the Freeholders than all the years of Democratic campaign oratory.

Later, a few more PTAs got interested, so the story goes, and the Freeholders got interested too. There's an old truism that PTAs are getting pretty close to grass roots, so the Somerset sachems took the time to drop a query down Trenton way, forthwith.

Now we have a County Planning Board, and there's going to be a state supported study of our vocational training needs. What have the Democrats to lose but a campaign issue or two?

Charley Engelhard lost an issue too, when Malcolm Forbes came out recently with the announcement that he would protect his constituents against any further eruptions of Chimney Rock reservoir talk in Trenton.

Charley will find another issue, though, if he ever decides what he wants to run for. (Alright, so there's a preposition at the end of that sentence!)

Charley was on the receiving end of several loud cheers when he spoke before some 400 anti-Chimney Rockers in Martinsville Inn last Thursday night.

There were large steaks for the multitude, but Charley didn't give them much to chew on regarding his political future. Most of his audience were members of a group which has taken on the nebulous title, The Charles W. Engelhard Assn.

It was the Charley of old who gave 'em a Trumanesque "give 'em hell" speech. Here is some of the well advised speculation which resulted:

Charley likes Ike, but he hates Dick Nixon. Charley likes big business, but he hates monopolies. Charley doesn't want to run for Congress against Peetah Freeling-hysen, but he might want to:

a. Run aginst Nixon for veep.
b. Run agaisnt H. Alexander Smith for U.S. Senator.
c. Run against Malcolm for Governor.
d. Run against Landy for time.
One thing for sure—Charley has been bitten by the political bug.

Name 15 Trustees For County VNA

Fifteen trustees were named at the annual meeting and dinner of Somerset Valley Visiting Nurses Association recently in the Raritan Valley Inn. Dr. Pauline R. Goger of Hunterdon County Medical Center was guest speaker.

Trustees named were Mrs. Arthur L. Canfield Jr., Mrs. George W. Clarvoe, Mrs. Benjamin Larky, John M. McLachlan and Richard Norris, all of Somerville; Mrs. Hera T. Bruhn, Howard Nagle of Millstone; Mrs. Robert W. Heisler and Mrs. Edward M. Jenkins of Bridgewater Township; Miss. Margaret Eslinger, Belle Mead; Miss Elizabeth Macko, Raritan; Mrs. Walter M. Palmer, Rocky Hill; Mrs. Fred Quick, South Branch; Mrs. Ralph T. Reeve, North Branch, and Dr. Clara Renner, Blawenburg.

Miss Florence P. Burns of Somerville continues as president. Karl C. Whitehouse is new first vice-president; Mrs. William Kolloher, new second vice-president, and Allen J. Ogden, new treasurer. All are of Somerville.

VA HOME LOAN INSURANCE JUMPS 55% OVER 1954

The Veterans Administration guaranteed or insured 31,541 home loans in an aggregate amount of $373,000,000, or 55 percent above the 1954 volume, Joseph F. O'Hern, manager of the VA Regional Office in Newark has reported.

During 1955, the Newark office was asked to appraise 49,403 existing and proposed homes to be offered for sale to veterans in this state. An estimated 43 percent of the 31,541 veterans in 1955 bought newly-built homes financed under the program, he said.

The Police Need Assistance

Safety on the highways being a prominent subject in the minds of many men, Somerset's communities would do well to study the letter sent recently to the Mayor & Council of Manville by Prosecutor Leon Gerolsky.

Taking specific interest in the Manville police department's difficulties in securing convictions for drunken driving, Somerset's chief law enforcement officer suggested that the governing body provide the policemen with legal assistance to help get inebriated drivers off the road.

"To allow your police to go into court on complaints without the assistance of counsel representing them in the prosecution of such complaints," the prosecutor wrote, "is to impose an unfair burden upon them. I ask you in the interest of the administration of criminal justice that you provide your policemen with such counsel, that is to say, establish a municipal prosecutor's office to the end that they will be adequately represented in the prosecution of their complaints."

This is a significant recommendation for a municipality in Somerset, where local prosecutors practically are unknown. It is another step in the fight against irresponsible drivers who have little regard for the public's life or property. It is a recommendation which should receive the careful consideration of Manville's Mayor & Council, as well as every other community in the County.

But it is not sufficient to convict tipsy drivers. We should impound their vehicles so they can't just pay a fine and start out a few days later aiming their cars like guided missiles in a bombing fight.

And speaking of public enemies, let's not forget that February, above all months, is the month to

Have a Heart

For this is the month when the New Jersey Heart Association conducts its annual appeal for public financial support.

While drunken drivers and their ilk are top killers of the human race, this group of irresponsible individuals does not take the annual toll recorded by heart ailments and allied diseases.

Clarifying its appeal for the public's support, the New Jersey Heart Association declared that in 1954 heart and circulatory system ailments accounted for 28,357 deaths in this state, or 55.4 percent of all deaths in New Jersey during that year.

This was more of a toll than that taken by the combined horror of cancer, respiratory ailments, diabetes, motor vehicle accidents, tuberculosis and all other causes.

Of course the public pocket-book always is being hit for one good cause after another, and while the consistency of such campaigns for coins and dollars may get annoying, we should not lose sight of the powerful good that is being done to eliminate diseases and prolong life. If our dimes and dollars will help eradicate a public enemy, let's give again and again.

If there's any doubt about the efficiency of the research which is supported by the Heart Association, let us remember that public coins nourished the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, which in turn spurred Dr. Jonas Salk to concoct his anti-polio serum.

Communism

By Dr. Alexander S. Bal'ny
Rutgers Specialist in Russian Affairs and Economics

In a recent foreign policy speech, Senator Estes Kefauver indicated that we ought to make a serious effort to "liberate" the Russian people from their oppressors in the Kremlin.

Laudable as that objective might be, it assumes three totally unrealistic conditions. It assumes that (1) the present generations of Russians is aware of its own slavery, (2) that the average Russian is opposed to the criminal excesses of the Soviet rulers and their secret police and (3) that the Russian people would rally to our side in any program designed for their liberation.

On examination, these assumptions prove to be quite weak. It has been 38 years since the Bolshevik Revolution. Population-wise the Soviet Union is in its second generation.

Thought Control

Most of the Russian people have been born since the Revolution and all of them have been "educated" in Soviet schools. There is general agreement among psychologists that when any agency like the State can control the education and upbringing of its people from infancy, the end product is a controlled mind, a mind that thinks pretty much the way the State wants it to think.

In a Soviet history text, a shocking but true account is given of the collectivization of Russian agriculture. The text relates the fact that when Stalin decided to collectivize the farms in the 1920s he ordered the kulaks (the richer Russian peasants) off the land. The kulaks refused to vacate the land which they owned and which their fathers and grandfathers owned before them. After giving them an ultimatum, Stalin ordered the machine-gunning of more than 100,000 kulaks for refusing to give up their tracts.

The mystery is not that Stalin was willing to order mass liquidation. Rather, the mystery, at first, seemed to be why the Soviet government did not alter that part of the history of the post-revolutionary period.

Justifying the Means

The answer followed the account of the Soviet's agricultural history. The text explained to the students that there is an analogy between the agricultural situation and the following hypothetical situation. Suppose, the text told the students, that you were in a classroom with 29 others and that one of you developed leprosy. The 29 who did not have leprosy asked the one leper to leave the room even if he were to die of exposure. Should the leper refuse to leave the room, would not the 29 non-lepers have the moral right to eject the one leper in order to preserve the lives of the members of the class? Did not Stalin have the right to liquidate 100,000 kulaks so that 160,000,000 Russians could eat better on collective farms?

Multiply this type of lesson a thousandfold over years of "education" and it is understandable

A New Play in Princeton

In the depths of our inmost souls, most of us think ourselves quite as capable of judging drama (or any other art, for that matter) as those critics who earn a living by doing just that. It is not often, however, that we get a chance to prove our mettle in this line because by the time we get to see a play or a motion picture, our ideas of it have been so influenced by critical pronouncements that we are not able to divorce ourselves from the opinions of others. The production may or may not live up to our expectations, but the very fact that we have expectations makes a completely free judgment impossible.

At the pre-Broadway try-outs held with considerable frequency in the McCarter Theatre in Princeton we may see plays lacking in some of the spit and polish they will have acquired by the time they reach New York — if they ever do — but possessing all the charm of pristine newness. Whatever happens after the curtain rises is completely unexpected. For once, the audience really has the chance to make its own decisions.

A Profound Idea

The most recent effort to be presented in Princeton was "The Inkeepers" by Theodore Apostin, starring Geraldine Page and Darren McGavin. The play deals with a couple who have left America to run a hotel in Mexico after the husband was fired from a government job because the wife had been a communist 18 years previously. But the play is not about communism or witch-hunting. It is about refugees, and makes the point that it is more than external situations which cause a man to turn his back upon his own country, and ultimately upon life itself.

The basic idea of the play struck us as an important and profound one. However, now, without any help from anyone, sans professional critical assistance, there are a few suggestions we'd like to make. After all, a play tries out in the provinces so that by the time it hits the big town all the wrinkles will have been ironed out.

To begin with the first act is much too long. It runs for an hour and has the audience squirming long before it's over. Exposition is necessary, but not quite that much. The fault may lie in the direction. Though on the whole Jose Quintero's staging is excellent, the first act seems to have no pace. One gets the uneasy feeling that the actors are not picking up their cues quickly enough.

An Effective Play

Geraldine Page's performance as Amy McGregor is unusual and exciting, but at times her voice verges upon the unpleasant, an inexcusable fault. There is something too perfect about the heroine — she makes her husband's behavior seem too inexcusable, but Miss Page brings great warmth, humor and variety to her portrayal of this vital woman.

Something absolutely must be done with the climax of this play. At the most serious moment, the audience was forced to laugh. Amy decides to leave her husband and return to the States. She throws a slip and three perfume bottles into a suitcase and walks out. This seems a rather meagre accumulation after three years in Mexico. Of course, everyone in the audience knows that one cannot pack for a 2,000-mile journey in five minutes. As a symbolic action it does not fit in a realistic play; its presence destroys the mood the author has taken such pains to build.

But these criticisms are caviling. As a study in the exiles from reality, the play is moving and effective. Before it hits Broadway its weaknesses undoubtedly will be corrected, and then we will see whether or not the critics vindicate our humble opinion.

referee will receive $200, and trophies will cost $150.

Capital improvement costs are set at $900, and from this will be taken the cost of excavation for skating areas and putting macadam on school playgrounds.

Mrs. McClure told The News that the Council wants to have every part of the Township represented in the activities that have been planned for this year. To Make Survey

A survey of the Township's recreational needs will be conducted next month by the New Jersey Senior Recreational Representative, David C. Goodwin, who was contacted by the Council. This survey is a free service provided by the state.

Mayor of the Council are Mayor James G. Maher, Police Lt. Russell Pfeiffer, the Rev. Merle Hoogheem, the Rev. Charles H. Groce, the Rev. H. W. Heaps, Mrs. Salvatore Pappalardo, Mrs. Dean Covert, Mrs. William G. Pattison, Mrs. Grace Flako, Fred Brown, A. G. Sidar, Harold Golden, Michael Bodnarik and Walter Shirley.

by next Fall. It is Mr. Skillman's office which must determine officially the Township's ability to finance construction. The Township's normal debt limit will have to be exceeded to pay for the two new buildings, and this cannot be done without division approval.

The schools proposed for

Franklin are pre-engineered, expandable-type structures devised by Structo Corporation comprising new methods of construction at prices below those for standard-type scholastic buildings.

Originally, the Board of Education sought a referendum calling for a $1,080,000 bond issue, but last week, passed by the Lay Advisory Committee, it revised the figure downward to $988,000.

Record Budget

pense by utilizing present quarters.

Mrs. Florence Randolph, board secretary, said there will be no difficulty in getting a new oil burner for the school if $3,000 from capital outlay is combined with the $7,000 left over from last year. The lowest bid received in 1955 was less than $9,000.

The amount of money to be raised by taxation for the school budget this year will be $815,210.29, as compared with $483,707.38 last year, and $427,700.08 in 1954-55.

Dr. Davis said that if bills for state aid to education are passed by the Legislature, the increased school taxes would be somewhere between 80 and 100 points over last year. If Federal aid is provided, an equally significant cut may be had.

Hope for State Aid

However, if neither State nor Federal aid bills are passed residents will pay somewhere between a 130- and 140-point rise over last year's rate. Board of Education president C. Rexford Davis said State Sen. Wayne Dumont was firmly convinced that additional state aid would be voted by Feb. 9.

The Industrial Committee would analyze the best types of industry for the Township, recommend site areas, set up restrictions for certain industries and seek to attract suitable businesses. Members of the group would be unsalaried, but the committee would receive an appropriation from the Township Committee to finance its activities. Quarterly and annual reports would be submitted to the municipal governing body.

A request in the form of a proposed ordinance was made at last week's meeting for a change of an agriculturally zoned tract to Residential Zone A.

Hearing Requested

Ellsworth J. Sterner, Elizabeth attorney representing the land owners, Standard Construction Associates, requested a hearing before the Planning Board and the Township Committee. The proposed ordinance was submitted several months ago, when the new zoning map was adopted, to the Board of Adjustment, which said it did not come under its authority.

The property is 1½ square miles of land fronting Easton Avenue between Cedar Grove Road and Davidson Avenue, bounded on the north by New Brunswick Road.

The Committee voted to consult with the Planning Board and Mr. Sterner's clients at a future date.

Mrs. Leda E. Martin of Hamilton Street, who has appeared at two previous Committee meetings to protest against the dumping of refuse on her property, was told by Mr. Gaynor that those responsible had been notified by registered mail that their action was illegal and a violation of the Township's dumping ordinance.

Lawrence Sprattford of Key Avenue complained that sewage has been backing up into his home's bathtub and leaking through his cellar and those of his neighbors. Township Engineer William Remm, recommended that manholes be opened and cleaned, pointing out that Franklin "strictly speaking does not have a sewer commission" and that the sewers were put in under a federal housing project. He added that sewer connections from the street to the dwelling are "the responsibility of the private citizen."
