Code to Set Fees For Salesmen and Pinball Machines

Franklin officials are preparing an ordinance for possible introduction tonight setting license fees for salesmen and peddlers and operational fees for pinball and other coin-operated machines.

Mayor James Maher said yesterday he was unable to say positively that the measure would be brought up tonight, but if not it will be introduced at the March 8 session.

"The ordinance will replace an antiquated one which has been on the books for a number of years," he stated. He said it would provide additional protection for home owners and also would assure the township of additional revenues.

Democrats Form New Organization

A new men's Democratic Club of Franklin Township was organized last Friday in Fairlawn Inn. The new group assumed the charter of a club which ceased to function during World War II.

Dante Pillon of Como Drive, Middlebush, was elected president. Other officers are: vice-president, Charles McCloskey, 9 Cooper Avenue; secretary, Joseph Tagliarini, RD 3, New Brunswick; treasurer, Francis Buckley of South Middlebush Road.

Frank Politano of Manville, twice the Democratic candidate for Freeholder in Somerset County, will speak at the next meeting of the club to be held Tuesday in the Garden Spot.

The club is scheduled to meet regularly the fourth Tuesday of each month.

EATON TO SUPERVISE NEWS COVERAGE HERE

Charles Eaton of Watchung this week was named to direct news coverage for The Franklin News and the South Somerset News by Edward Nash, publisher of Nash Newspapers.

Mr. Eaton, who resigned recently from the Newark News, will direct news coverage for the two papers from The Franklin News office, Railroad Square, Middlebush, Viking 4-7000.

Dedication Held For Sunday School

George A. Hough's dream of an expensive, well-equipped Sunday School addition was realized Friday night when the congregation of the Kingston Presbyterian Church inspected a new $50,000 addition following dedication ceremonies in the new assembly room.

A plaque honoring Mr. Hough, a Princeton Township resident and church elder, hangs prominently in the long corridor leading to the addition. It was Mr. Hough's $25,000 gift, matched by other church members, which made construction of the addition possible.

Singing "Christ Is Made the Sure Foundation," 125 church members walked from the church, through the corridor, to the large assembly room where the keys to the new addition were delivered to the trustees.

Malcolm Rozel, representing the contracting firm of L. C. Bowers and Sons, presented the keys to David Hume, vice-president of the trustees.

Principal address was made by Dr. D. Campbell Wyckoff, professor of Christian Education at the Princeton Theological Seminary, who spoke on "Why the Church Must Teach"

Tent Show Bid Due for Review By Zoning Board

Decision on an application to permit a musical tent show to stage productions this Summer on an 18 1/2-acre tract in Route 27 was reserved Thursday night by the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

The board withheld its opinion of the proposal pending a review of a brief to be filed with it by Benjamin Weiner of New Brunswick. The firm plans to bring stage productions here similar to those presented in Neptune and Lambertville.

About 15 residents of the area appeared at the meeting to protest a variance in favor of the music company. They claimed the shows would create a nuisance in that they would be noisy, have bright lights and possibly cause traffic jams on Route 27.

Musicarnival has contracted with Mr. & Mrs. Roy Brooks of Route 27 to lease the property. The corporation, which made application for a variance on hard-ship grounds, plans to present musical shows by professionals in a tent that would seat approximately 1,800 persons.

School B'd Pays For Brochure Mail

The Board of Education on Monday night authorized payment of $97.50 for 2,250 three-cent stamps and $60 for envelopes used by the Lay Advisory Committee to mail copies of the "New Schools" booklet to every registered voter in the Township.

Teacher's Committee chairman Arthur Westneat, although he voted to approve the appropriation, noted that the expenditure was not authorized by the board as a whole.

He said that he would support the payment this time, but thought it best if the committee appeared before the whole board to get permission in the future.

FRATERNITY AT RUTGERS INITIATES TOWNSHIP MAN

Douglas W. Nabholz of Middlebush, a freshman at Rutgers University, was initiated into Delta Upsilon Fraternity last week during the college's seventh annual Greek Week.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner and John Stelgman, new head football coach at Rutgers, were guest speakers at a Greek Week banquet Sunday which climaxed the initiation period, more than 400 students were received into the fraternity.

Leonard Bardsley

Leonard Bardsley of Elizabeth Avenue was elected president of the Franklin Township Board of Education Monday night following the resignation from the board of Dr. C. Rexford Davis.

The resignation of Dr. Davis, a members of the board eight years and president for seven, had been expected for some time. Recently he indicated he would quit because of the burden of other duties.

Reasons Given

In a letter addressed to Mrs. Florence F. Randolph, secretary-business manager of the board, Dr. Davis gave the following reasons for resigning:

"For some time past I have been unable to do full justice either to my work at Rutgers University or to my duties on the Board of Education. I must therefore resign one or the other. I choose my job, which I need.

"The strain of trying to do the impossible by working at both jobs has brought me, at my age, to the point of complete physical exhaustion, so that I have been well advised to resign from the board if I hope to escape a serious physical breakdown. I believe I should not run the risk.

"I believe that no person should serve continuously as president of any Board of Education. I further believe that for most people two terms is enough.

"I wish to express to the members of the board and to the people of the Township of Franklin my gratitude for the opportunity to serve, as well as I was

Services Held For Prof. Reager

Funeral services for Richard C. Reager, 60, of 10 Franklin Boulevard, were held Saturday morning in the Second Reformed Church, New Brunswick. Burial was in Ewing Township Cemetery, Ewing Township. He died after a heart attack last Thursday morning in his home.

An expert on speech and sales, Mr. Reager had been associated with Rutgers University since 1924 as professor of speech. He was the author of many books and articles on the subject, the most recent of which, "You Can Talk Well," was published by Rutgers University Press and

Parks Commission for Somerset Being Considered by Freeholders

Somerset officials are considering establishing a County Parks Commission. It was revealed Friday at a meeting of the Board of Freeholders.

County Counsel Robert Thompson is making a study of the legal aspects of such a commission and will present his findings at a conference between representatives of the County Planning Board and the Somerville Junior Chamber of Commerce, he said.

He made the announcement in answer to a question by Frank Torpey, vice-president of the Junior Chamber, who asked the Freeholders what action is being taken on a request by his group last October for a county parks study.

William E. Roach, director of the County Planning Board, told Mr. Torpey that a plan of action should be made before a commission is formed, and Freeholder Robert L. Adams, who also is on the Planning Board, asked him to relatively new body. Mr. Adams also said he believed a referendum is necessary before a commission can be established.

Coincidentally, the Freeholders received at the same meeting a letter from Bradley Gardens PTA asking them to consider including in any county parks system that area south of Old York Road which was flooded last year.

Lights Wanted

Two requests for traffic lights were referred to County Engineer Donald Stires.

One, a letter from Paul R. Hawkins of Old Amwell Road, Neshanic, requested a light at the junction of Amwell Road and Route 206, where Hillsborough School is located, for the protection of the school children.

Mr. Hawkins also praised the County road department's work, writing in part, "Thanks for the white lines on the roads. In fog they have been lifesavers. Thanks

Architect, Structo Representative To Answer Queries on New Schools

The Franklin Board of Education's efforts to get support at the polls for two Structo schools will reach a climax Monday night at a public meeting in Middlebush school.

A referendum on a $995,000 construction program is scheduled for March 1.

Board of Education president Leonard Bardsley said representatives of the architectural firm of Micklewright & Mountford, along with a company official from Structo, would be present at the meeting to answer questions. He said he expected all board members and a representative of the Citizens Lay Advisory Committee also to sit in on the meeting.

The Lay Advisory Committee already has explained the program at one public meeting and expects to go over it again tonight.

Tuesday night Harold Golden, chairman of the Planning Committee of the lay group, spoke 10 minutes at a meeting of the Pine Grove Manor school PTA.

His talk, which was abbreviated by the association in order to complete a Founders' Night social program, pointed up the difference between Structo construction and that of other pre-engineered buildings of the same type.

Mr. Golden stated that although common steel curtain walls would be used in the construction, Structo has adopted an innovation which allows for some shifting of the walls. This, he said, will prevent cracking and chipping, a problem with a rigid, welded building.

The Structo walls, he said, will "float" in a sort of rubber seal which will be applied completely around the four edges.

Mr. Golden was introduced by Mr. Bardsley, who urged every voter to back the program.

Another "new schools" program will be conducted by the Lay Advisory Committee tonight at 8:30 in Phillips School.

In the Mail

On The Referendum

Editor, The News:

It has been very gratifying to observe over the past several months the work being done by the Planning Committee of the Lay Advisory group, the Lay Advisory group as a whole, and the Board of Education, in an effort to solve the critical need for elementary schools in Franklin Township. Many, many hours have been spent on the proposed plan which will be submitted to the voters on March 1 by these groups for which we would like to express our sincerest thanks.

The Franklin Township League for Better Schools voted unanimously at its last meeting to wholeheartedly support this plan. The construction of the 21-room school in the Elizabeth Avenue section will relieve not only the overcrowded conditions in the Pine Grove Manor School but also some of the overcrowding in the Middlebush School. In addition, the construction of this school will provide two additional Kindergarten rooms which are sorely needed.

The 10-room school in the Franklin Park area will not relieve the double sessions, but more important in this area (Franklin Park-Griggstown-Kingston) it will enable the curriculum to be strengthened. Currently neither the Phillips School nor the Kingston School have auditorium or gymnasium facilities. It is intended that this new school will be utilized for Grades 5-8-7-8, which should improve the educational program greatly.

For purposes of brevity, it is impossible to cover the entire plan in this letter. Brochures have been mailed to all registered voters by the Board of Education. Please take the time to read it. In addition, a public meeting is scheduled for Feb. 27 in Middlebush School to answer any questions which still remain unanswered.

We would strongly urge each and every registered voter to support this plan. It is a good one. It is the foundation which our school system needs. It is the beginning of a program which we hope will continue until such time as our entire building program is complete.

We are now on the right track. Let's stay there. Vote "Yes". We need elementary schools.

school board election, but because the writer makes several pertinent observations that transcend a particular election it is printed below.]

Editor, The News:

Yesterday, in the mail, I received a card calling my attention to three candidates whom the signer indicated were the choice of 60 citizens of the Township, names unknown to me since they were naturally not included on the card.

What is strikingly clear is the fact that this group of independent citizens who state that their candidates, if elected, will insure a free Board of Education, by implication at least, accuses the other candidates of prior commitments. I hope that such a phrase was used carelessly, otherwise the people who used it on this card are indeed appealing to the kind of emotional thinking that can defeat even the noblest purpose.

We have to lay personalities aside if we are to recognize the right of every man to compete with others for what he believes to be right. That goes for every man. His actions will speak for him. A man's integrity is violated only by what he himself does, not by anything done to him.

If any group of citizens can show that a candidate for the school board is anything but sincere, is it not the duty of such persons to make known any pertinent facts to the taxpayers well in advance of election day, and in time for those who are subjected to unfavorable criticism to have an opportunity to be heard?

In an effort to unite the thinking people of the Township, may I recommend two excellent books, "Public School Administration," by Ellwood Cubberly, and "School Boards in Action," published by the American Association of School Administrators. These two books point out the responsibilities of a school board as a unit of State government, and define clearly the supervisory and administrative duties of the superintendent of schools. (Both volumes are available at Rutgers' Library and could no doubt be secured through public libraries, as well.)

Until we understand the distinction between the duties of the executive administrator and the controls of policy determined by the school board as a whole we are not in a position to fully appreciate or measure the progress we are making in our own local school system.

In closing, may I urge the many people interested in our schools to try to find some common denominator to understanding each other. There must be a way for all kinds of people, old and young, rich and poor, learned and less learned, to reach a point of understanding and trust from which they can proceed to learn, together, what is wisest and what is best for the greatest number. In just such a fashion a century ago, our public schools were first organized. Is it possible that we are less able to advance our own cause today?

Somerset's Democratic Executive Committee, the Republicans will be happy to learn, is far from being a united, harmonious group of political directors. There is dissatisfaction in some party quarters about Art Meredith, the dissidents claiming he is not providing the kind of leadership the party requires. Several members of this key group may contest Meredith's chairmanship in April, and they are trying to convince Frank Politano that he should stand for the key post.

Indication of the committee's lack of direction, Democrats tell us, was apparent again at the committee's meeting last week. Word had come to the committee from Motor Vehicle Boss Fred Gassert that under the new licensing-by-mail program, Somerset would have to lose two of its motor vehicle agencies, and the committee's views on the matter would be expected since this is a patronage proposition.

Instead of taking a stand, the committee left the decision to Gassert. As a result, one of those to lose his MV agency is Politano, who is merely the best slugging in the Democratic lineup at the moment.

Another irritating factor for some Democrats at the county policy-making level is Charley Engelhard's influence over the organization though he is not present physically. These irritated Democrats are deeply annoyed by the antics of some colleagues who exhibit the feeling that money bags are the only answer to Republican domination of Somerset's political show.

Democrats also are finding themselves highly susceptible to a new malady these days. Don't look for the bug in your dictionary, because its a new disease that hasn't made the word books yet. It's called "the-its."

Just as around the rest of the nation, this new disease is taking its toll in Somerset's arena of Democracy, and the inflammation is made even more irritating by infiltrations of bacillus Freid-hyusense.

Because even the most optimistic Democrats are conceding slaughter to an Eisenhower-Freid-hyusens entry in November, Democrats are considering seriously the strategy of saving their most formidable candidates for some other campaign.

Freeholder battle lines already are drawn for April's GOP fight between incumbent C. I. Van Cleet and Mayor Dan Conroy of Bound Brook. But what about the Democrats?

Dave Shay of North Plainfield is being groomed for the Dem's first team, but he might be scratching one of those like bites.

One of the plainer facts of life confronting the Democrats is that Dave is just about the best the organization has to offer at the moment. At age 38, he came within 115 votes of besting Harold McCusker last November for the mayor's seat in North Plainfield. The white-thatched gent, a polio victim who doesn't let his ailment stop him, campaigned in a wheel chair and carried districts in the Republican east county empire like few Democrats ever have done. If Politano had been able to swing this sector two years ago it would be a Freeholder today.

Many Republicans have itchy souls these Springish afternoons. They've been scratching quizzically since Dryden Kuser got back to Somerset.

After a 15-year residence in Nevada, Somerset's former Republican state senator recently returned to Bernardville to set himself up in a fancy seafood business. The skeptics, of course, "sell something fishy in stories that he'll stay away from politics. Those who recall Somerset in the 30s will remember Kuser as a colorful gent, both politically and socially, and those with such memories just can't picture him as a fishmonger, even of fancy rabs.

One of his best friends in those old days was Freeholder Bob Adams. After Kuser left for the cactus country, Robert acquired, or assumed, the designation of "Mr. Republican" in Somerset. But since Senator Malcolm Forbes now sits on the county party's throne, Adams has become the No. 1 Malcolmment.

We don't think we'll be out on a long limb if we predict that Dryden will drop in at a meeting one of these days soon and introduce himself to the new crop of Republicans holding forth hereabouts.

No Drinking For 90 Days

A 22-year old Franklin youth, with a long record of drunk and disorderly arrests, was sent to County Jail for 90 days by Magistrate Vernon D. Haggmann in Municipal Court last week.

Thomas Styles of Oak Street was arrested by Lt. Russell Pfeiffer Feb. 9 on the complaint of his sister, Miss Eunice Styles, who charged that "beatings" occurred every weekend after her brother became drunk.

John D. Simpkins, 21, of New Brunswick paid $20 fine and $5 costs for careless driving in the lone traffic case before the court.

Eight drivers received suspended sentences recently from Magistrate Haggmann for failing to have license or registration or because of overdue inspection. They received summonses during a traffic check conducted recently.

Karpo Abramjam of New Brunswick was fined $5 and costs for being three months overdue in inspection of his dump truck. William Gnatenko of New Brunswick paid a $12 fine and costs for going 50 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone. Thomas Mims also of New Brunswick, was fined $1 for "angle parking."

A $12 fine was levied on Armistead Robinson for speeding. Evelyn M. O'Neill of Nixon was fined $2 for not having registration in her possession, and Gary Sapiro of Highland Park paid $5 and costs for driving with one headlight, no tail lights and no inspection sticker. Magistrate Haggmann fined Charles Lyon of Franklin Parkway $10 and costs for improper passing, and he assessed Lucia Shepherd $10 and costs for following another car too closely.

Charges were dismissed against Joseph Torio of Metuchen whose 1955 Cadillac struck a tree on Hamilton Road when the steering mechanism locked.

Those receiving suspended sentences were Everett Jennings, John Martin, Katherine Blacotto, Mrs. Dorothy Vanderveer, Shirley Blumberg, Charles Amato and Russell Harris, all of New Brunswick; and Jack Glazer of Linden.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT FINES PAID BY TWO

Frederick Rieck, Franklin Park Grill proprietor, was fined $15 and charged $10 court costs on two counts of disorderly conduct, and Joseph Bushel of New Brunswick was fined $95 and $10 costs on the same charges Saturday morning by Magistrate Adele Watson in South Brunswick Township Municipal Court.

The two men were arrested by State Police from Princeton Barracks Feb. 7 for creating a disturbance in The Embers.

Adlai Supporters To Reorganize

Dr. Morgan Upton, Somerset County chairman of the old Stevenson-for-President Committee, announced today that the organization will be reorganized tonight at 8 p.m. in Somerville Inn.

In addition to heading the county unit in 1952, Dr. Upton was on the state executive committee. He is chairman of the psychology department of Rutgers University.

Mrs. Frank Robert of Basking Ridge is a member of the state organizing committee now being formed for the Stevenson group. George Kennan is state chairman.

The Stevenson backers are not connected with the regular Democratic organization, which does not officially endorse any candidate until after the primary.

Your GARDEN This Week

By CHARLES H. CONNORS
Rutgers University

START CHRYSANTHEMUMS

Chrysanthemums are among the chief flowers grown in gardens, mainly for the Autumn effect. It is not too early to be looking up new varieties to replace some of the old ones in your garden or those that have failed.

It is best to buy plants from a specialist, and good results can be obtained from rooted cuttings, which in most cases are better than plants that have grown in pots until they are hard and slow to start up.

A specialist has the facilities to keep plants free of disease. During the past few years, a virus disease of chrysanthemums has been spread generally throughout gardens. This particular disease, known as stunt, is difficult to diagnose in its early stages, and it cannot be controlled by spraying or feeding.

Look for Stunt

For example, I saw last year a dozen plants of a certain variety, one of which was a little shorter than the others, bloomed a little earlier and the flowers were just a little paler. I recommended the destruction of this plant as one possibly infected with the stunt disease. Older diseased plants that are left in the ground gradually deteriorate.

The specialist uses an interesting method to be as sure as possible that plants are free of the disease. This is known as indexing. Healthy plants of a variety which is very susceptible to the disease are grown in great numbers in pots. At the proper time, shoots from every clump of every variety that is to be propagated are grafted on plants of the susceptible variety. In a matter of days, if the clump is diseased, the index plant shows it and the particular clump from which the graft came is discarded.

This is one example of how the specialist tries to help you. When you buy cuttings of plants of chrysanthemums, ask for assurance that they have been indexed.

Strictly Fresh

WOMEN on Chicago's election board were ordered recently to leave their girdles at home on certain days. Officials wanted to run lie detector tests in connection with investigation of a scandal. Said girdles cut down rate of breathing, an important indication read by the machine. Without girdles, who needs a lie detector to chart the gals' true outlines?

Every year's leap year when the gal's determined and the fellow's naive enough to think that he does the chasing.

Fellow across the desk from us says that the only thing he wants to plant this spring is the satisman who sold him the shrubs he planted last spring.

The character who originated the phrase, "as easy as taking candy from a baby," never tried to pull the taffy over our infant's eyes.

A wet dishrag is as spruce as a general's parade uniform if compared to the mixed salads served in many restaurants.

'Fish - Up' Lenten Treats With Tuna Dishes

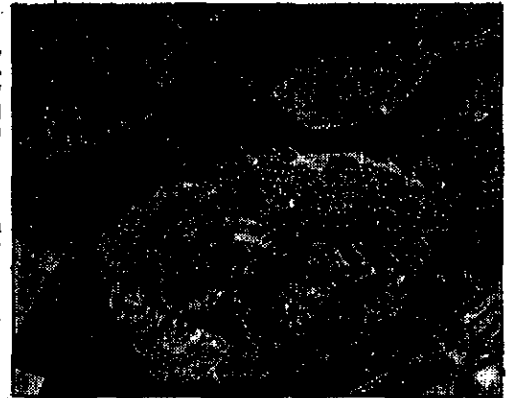

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

CANNED tuna has many interesting uses. In our house, we like it just "as is," served on a platter garnished with lettuce and lemon slices.

It is delicious, also, in a casserole with olives. Simply combine a can of condensed mushroom soup and one of condensed celery soup in a casserole and add a quarter of a can of milk to two cans of soup. Then add tuna, drained of oil. Also add lemon juice to taste and a small jar of small, pimento-stuffed olives (drained). Bake in moderate oven (325 degrees F.) about 30 minutes. Serve with rice.

Spaghetti With Tuna Sauce (4-6 servings)

Three tablespoons fat, 1 small clove garlic, minced, 1/4 cup finely diced onion, 1/2 cup finely diced celery, two 8-ounce cans tomato sauce, 1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet, 1/2 cup water, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon oregano, 2 cups sliced carrots, 1 pound spaghetti, cooked; 1/2 cup silvered green pepper, 7-ounce can tuna fish, 1 tablespoon minced parsley. Melt fat in saucepan. Add garlic, onion and celery. Cook over moderate heat for 5 minutes. stirring frequently. Add contents of cans of tomato sauce, kitchen bouquet, water, salt, pepper, sugar, oregano and carrots (sliced diagonally, about 1/4-inch thick). Bring to boil.

Lower heat and let simmer until of the desired consistency, about 15 to 20 minutes longer. Meanwhile, cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until barely tender (about 10 to 12 minutes). When sauce is of the desired thickness, add green pepper, parsley and tuna, which has been drained and coarsely flaked, and let simmer about 5 minutes longer.

Drain spaghetti, arrange on serving platter. Top with spaghetti sauce. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese.

Bird Population Drops in State

Waterfowl population in New Jersey should be 278,845 this year, according to a Winter inventory recently completed by the State Department of Conservation & Economic Development. This represents a decrease of 105,225 birds since a similar survey was taken in 1954.

However, it does not necessarily mean that the population of the entire flyway has decreased because it is reasonable to expect the presence of ice and freezing temperatures caused many birds to fly southward that otherwise would have wintered here. When Federal authorities have coordinated the returns from all States comprising the flyway, the combined total will show the status of waterfowl in the entire flyway as compared to that of previous years. Cold temperatures and the presence of heavy ice caused New Jersey to experience a fair waterfowl season rather than one that could have been good or excellent.

Who Says We Want Better Schools?

With all the noise around the nation about the lack of classroom space, and with the huge appropriations allocated on municipal levels for educational systems, we are amazed constantly at the frightening negligence displayed by the voting public when confronted with school board elections.

The election statistics are enough to make one wonder if the public is as really interested in its schools as sincere, hard working spokesmen for better schools would want us believe. When the voting figures are analyzed the results indicate that, while there may be improvement of voting trends in some areas, there is still sufficient sluggishness in the public to classify most of our voters as second class citizens, persons endowed with a great privilege of freedom but who fail to avail themselves of the franchise.

An analysis of last week's school election results compiled by our three newspapers, The Franklin News, The Manville News, and the South Somerset News, provides shocking support for those who constantly maintain that the public doesn't give a darn about who runs its government or how its affairs are conducted, and that only emotional personality appeals will draw crowds to the polling booths.

Here are the mathematical deductions compiled by The News staff:

In Branchburg, Franklin, Hillsborough, Manville and Montgomery—five of Somerset County's 21 municipalities—there were 14,690 persons eligible to vote last week. But how many went to the polls to vote for school board candidates and public questions dealing with public funds running into the millions of dollars? Only 3,100—or 21.1 percent of the total registered voters.

Reducing these total figures to specific municipalities, the recapitulation reveals the following:

1. Branchburg had 1,290 voters, but only 154 voted in last week's election; 88.1 percent of the voter population failing to mark a ballot.

2. Franklin Township had 5,736 registered voters, but only 1,137 went to the polls; 80.2 percent of the voters stayed home.

3. Hillsborough, with a registration of 2,269, recorded 263 voters on Election Day; this showed that 88.4 percent failed to utilize the franchise.

4. Manville's registry books contained 4,019 names before the polls opened, but only 1,102 voted; 72.8 percent of the eligibles stayed away.

5. Montgomery with a registration of 1,370 drew 444 persons to the polls, giving this community a stay-at-home percentage of 87.6.

In this 5-community zone 78.9 percent of eligible voters failed to cast ballots last week, and this means that a very thin minority of the public provided the machinery for free government.

The picture outlined by these figures is not a very bright one.

An artificial heart-lung combination, fashioned of plastic, kept a dog alive for 27 minutes during a heart operation by a team of surgeons at Louisiana State University's medical school. Unique aspect of the story is cost of the device—about two dollars. It points the way to possible manufacture of inexpensive mass-production units for use by doctors and hospitals.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York is the largest church in the U. S. and the third largest in the world. It is preceded only by St. Peter's in Rome and the Cathedral of Seville in Spain.

Communism

By Dr. Alexander S. Balinsky

Rutgers Specialist in Russian Affairs and Economics

Not an issue of Pravda has gone to press during the past few weeks without a mournful mention of the growing crime wave in the Soviet Union.

The Russians have a word for it. They call it "hooliganism". Interesting thing about this rise in hooliganism in Russia is that it is being committed, in the main, by the new Soviet aristocracy. A significant portion of the crime wave now sweeping the "workers paradise" is caused by the sons and daughters of the economically well-to-do.

In this "classless" Soviet society there is a small class of bureaucrats, managers, intellectuals and artists, who have been able to accumulate fortunes of no mean amounts. While the average skilled factory worker in the USSR earns only about 3,000 rubles a year, it is possible for the privileged few to earn as much as 50,000 rubles a year. In exceptional cases where income is derived from royalties, prizes and special awards, the sum could even reach 150,000 rubles.

Low Taxes, Too

Contrary to the best Marxist principles, inheritance is not only permitted under current Soviet law but is encouraged by a ridiculously low schedule of estate and inheritance taxes. Paradoxical as it may seem, it is possible to accumulate and pass on to one's children a larger sum of money—tax free—in the land of socialism than it is here in the United States.

The social consequences of this are related to the problem of crime in the USSR since the spectacular crimes—the planned robberies, the murders, the drunken assaults—are in the hands of the children of well-to-do Soviet citizens.

No Remedy Today

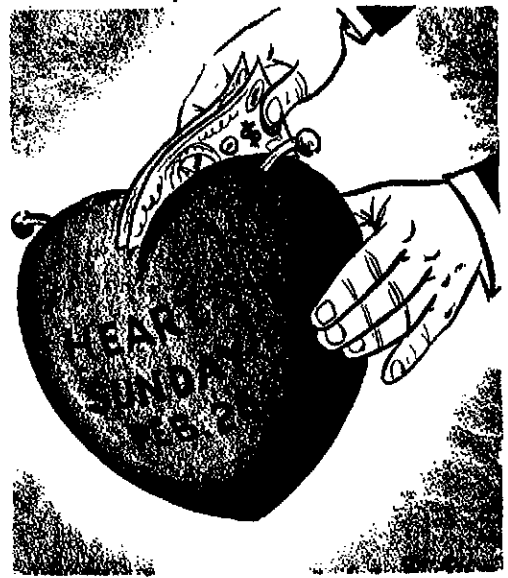

This growing hooliganism in Russia is doing something to Marxist theory, which contends crime is bred by two circumstances: poverty and avarice. According to Marxists, capitalism must inevitably breed crime. The poor commit crime because of their desperate poverty. They steal bread because they are hungry. All others commit crime under the pressures of capitalist competition.

The solution to crime, so the Marxists believe, is to do away with capitalism and give man a better environment free of corruption and competition.

Well, the Russian Revolution certainly changed the environment in Russia. The Russian "man" no longer suffers the pressures of capitalist competition. The socialist environment has had 39 years in which to work upon the nature of man. With all of that, crime is increasing, not decreasing under socialism.

I don't know what remedy to suggest to the Soviets for reducing their rate of crime. I would suggest however that, for the time being at least, they had better change their theory to fit the facts.

Of Books, Plays & Sundry Things...

Men Are People, but Women...

The women's magazines inspire a whole series of speculations on the status of the female sex. Women's magazines stand by themselves. There is really no comparison in terms of numbers of different publications or total circulation between the so-called men's magazines, such as "Esquire" and "True" and the vast army of publications represented, in the upper echelons, by "The Ladies Home Journal," "Good Housekeeping," "The Woman's Home Companion" and "McCall's." To these we might add the very specialized group of fashion magazines, such as "Vogue" and "Harper's Bazaar."

The point is this. There is a large segment of the publishing world devoted to satisfying women as women, and only an infinitesimal group devoted to satisfying men as men. It starts with the teen-agers. Where is the magazine for boys comparable to that publication which is probably the magazine world's most fantastic success story in the last decade, "Seventeen"?

It is true, of course, that there are a great many publications read chiefly by men. These include "Popular Mechanics," "Sport," "Chemical Week," and so on, ad infinitum. These magazines are addressed, however, to men as do-it-yourself fans, or to men as sport fans, or to men as chemists. They could be read with equal interest by women do-it-yourself fans, or women chemists, and there are at least a few women in each category. These magazines are not aimed at men because they are males.

Another Pressure Group

The assumption made by the publishing world which stands behind the phenomenon of the woman's magazine can be assumed to be an assumption of the entire population. It is that men are people but that women are women. Women are a special interest group—the biggest in the world. Although they constitute about half of the total community, they are thought of as the teachers or the farmers or the veterans—a kind of huge and powerful minority whose special interests are often different from and sometimes contrary to those of the rest of the population.

Why does this curious situation exist? Why does the total population (including the women) look upon one half of itself as a sort of super pressure group?

Part of the answer lies in the fact that people can most easily be approached through their occupations and interests. Publications aimed at men, as we have said, approach them as doctors or swimmers, or what have you. It would never occur to anyone except an insurance company to approach a man through his role as husband, but "Good Housekeeping," "McCall's" et al approach a woman through her role as wife. The attitude seems to be that being a husband is a personal matter, while being a wife is a job. If a wife has a career, she has two jobs. She still must run the house, cook, and mother the children. She always can be thought of, analyzed, discussed and sold to in her role, through her job, as wife.

The Difference

This state of affairs would seem to contradict the modern trend toward the so-called emancipation of women, but actually it goes right along with it. The women's magazines did not come into being until the middle of the 19th Century when women were first conclusively recognized as important beings. They served—and serve—the purpose of elevating womanly concerns to the level of male concerns—to the level of science and philosophy.

The women's magazines do not imply that women are less than men. They do imply that women are different than men. No matter what else she is, a woman is a woman and will be forced, by biology and almost universal social forces, to play certain roles in common with all other members of her sex, as man is not. Thus the special status of women, even in our modern world.

Besides, women like it that way.

Sunday's Target: $15,000

Heart disease, the biggest killer in Somerset County last year will be the target of campaign funds collected in door-to-door drives throughout the nation this Sunday.

Volunteers from the Heart Association will try to call at every home in Somerset to discuss "Heart Sunday," according to Frank J. Polistone of Manville, general chairman for the county drive. Somerset's goal is $15,000.

Mrs. Raymond Welch of Brooks Boulevard is chairman for the Manville campaign. Anthony Pappas of New Brunswick 2, 2, will direct Heart Sunday in Franklin Township, with the aid of Miss Jessie Lyman in Middleburg. Mrs. James Janssen in West New Brunswick, Mrs. Barbara Essex in Franklin Park and Mrs. Peggy Upton.

South Somerset chairman are J. Harvey Robinson, of Skillman and Montgomery. Mrs. Charles E. Morgan of North Branch for Scotchburg, and Joseph Mazzaro and Phillip Row for Ellipterobach.

"The Heart Fund helps medical research," Mr. Polistone said in urging the public to support the campaign. "It is this research that will help cut down the ravages of heart disease. For this reason we can all regard our contributions to the Heart Fund as our investments in future protection for ourselves, our children and for all of mankind," he said.

Nosed to succeed George Spiro as vice-president was John Kelly of Lake Avenue, a veteran of five years on the board. He defeated Mrs. Catherine Pattison, 4-3, to win the seat. Mr. Kelly served in the same capacity two years ago. He has been chairman of the Building & Grounds Committee since his election to the board. An executive of American Cynamid Co., Mr. Kelly, 43, is married and has two sons and a daughter.

Mr. Spiro was one of two members of the 1965 board who did not seek re-election.

In Closed Session

Following the reorganization meeting the board dismissed the public and went into executive session to discuss appointment of a successor to Dr. Davis. Mr. Bardsley said no announcement of the appointment will be made until the next meeting of the board. A special session is scheduled for March 1.

It is believed that William F. Campbell, chairman of the Lay Advisory Committee, who ran fourth in the last school election, is favored by a majority of members.

Dr. Lyle Hagman and Joseph Tobias, new members, and Mrs. Catherine Pattison, an incumbent, were sworn in for three-year terms Monday night. Mrs. Pattison was appointed to the board last year to fill an unexpired term.

Gaynor, Vickers Re-elected Fire Commissioners

Township Attorney Robert E. Gaynor of Front Street, Middlebush, and Cooper Vickers of Amwell Road were re-elected fire commissioners in Fire District No. 1 last Saturday without opposition. Each received 35 votes.

Approved at the same time was the district's budget calling for an expenditure of $4,984 for 1956, an increase of over $601 over 1955. Thirty-four votes were cast in favor of the measure and none against it. The new budget provides $2,377 to operate the Middlebush Volunteer Fire Company and $2,057 for the 2nd District Volunteer Company. The balance, $550, is for administrative costs.

too, for the unflinching efforts of the same road department in its tireless care of icy roads. But for them many more accidents would have occurred."

The second request, from the Bernards Township Committee, asked for two lights at the intersection of Mt. Airy Road and Lyons Road, and at North Maple Avenue-Childs Road and Route 202, reported to be the scenes of several accidents.

Detailed identification of a section of Bunker Hill Road which Franklin Township Committee has asked the County to take off its hands have been received and will be studied this week, Mr. Stires reported.

The Freeholders recommended that a 1½-mile section of Mountain Avenue Road in Warren Township be included in the Federal and secondary road system.

Complaints about a sign at Nick's Garage on Millstone Road were brought to the Freeholders' attention by Seymour Weinblatt, a Manville attorney, who wrote that he was given to understand that the sign extends over a county road and presents a night-time driving hazard. His letter was referred to the county counsel.

The Freeholders appropriated $70,000 for aid to hospitals, $62,230 to Somerset Hospital and $7,670 to Bound Brook Hospital. Last year the hospitals received $53,498.60 and $7,501.40, respectively.

Contracts to furnish one automobile each to the sheriff's office and the county prosecutor's office were awarded to Somerville Auto Sales, which bid $2106 and $2063.12.

The board denied the Somerset Camera Club permission to use county buildings for regular meetings.

Manville, New Jersey

Dear Ed,

It is with considerable pleasure that I write this brief note to tell you about the Manville Value Days held January 26, 27, and 28.

I am sure you will be happy to know that on Friday, January 27, we did 40% more business than on any other January day in our nine years of business in Manville.

What should make this all the more pleasing to you and your staff is that we used no other advertising medium except The Manville News to tell the public about our merchandise and the exceptionally low prices. Within a few hours after your issue of January 26 was circulated we noticed the increased activity in our store, and the next day we really had the crowd.

The News certainly has community readership, which is why Zell's uses your advertising columns every week of the year.

Cordially yours,

Ed Zell
