

Prof. Reager Dies Suddenly, Funeral Service Tomorrow

RICHARD C. REAGER

Richard C. Reager, who was appointed to the newly created Franklin Township Housing Authority last week, died in his sleep yesterday morning of a heart attack at his home, 10 Franklin Blvd. He was professor of speech at Rutgers University, and was widely known as a writer and lecturer, and his book, "You Can Talk Well," has been printed in eight editions by the Rutgers University Press. He was 60. Quackenbush Funeral Home, New Brunswick, is handling the arrangements.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in the Second Reformed Church, New Brunswick. Cremation at Ewing Crematory, Ewing.

Prof. Reager, a native of Newark, Ohio, came to Rutgers in 1924. Prior to that time, he had earned his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh.

From 1917 to 1919 he was a sergeant-major in the U. S. Army and saw several months of active fighting in France. From 1919 to 1920 he became a shearer for the U. S. Steel Corp. He was assistant pas-

Fire District No. 1 Elects Tomorrow, Budget Is $4,984

Fire District No. 1, which includes the territories of the Second District and Middlebush Volunteer Fire Companies, will hold its annual election of commissioners and budget referendum tomorrow afternoon. Polls will be set up at both firehouses and the election conducted from 2 to 5 p. m.

Cooper Vickory and Robert Gaynor are unopposed for reelection to the five-man body of commissioners. A budget of $4,984 has been set up by the commissioners, and if passed by the voters, will be added to the taxes of the property holders in the district and appropriated for the use of the two fire companies.

THE FIRE DISTRICT was set up four years ago, following a referendum, and is the only one in the township, other districts rely for their support on voluntary contributions.

Alfred Lee, secretary of the commissioners, told the RECORD that the two fire companies in the district answered 76 fire calls in 1955, and held 12 organized drills. He said that the total fire damage in the district in 1955 ran to less than $400.

Musical Tent. Show Variance Action Delayed

Action on an application for a variance to permit erection and operation of a musical tent theater in Franklin Township was withheld by the Board of Adjustment last night pending the filing of a brief on the matter by Mayo and Vetter of New Brunswick, attorneys for the N. J. Music Festival Corp.

The theatrical firm is seeking permission to put up the tent and other facilities on property owned by Roy Brookes on the northwest side of Rt. 27 at Three Mile Run.

Approval of the Board is required since the property is zoned for agricultural purposes.

Voters To Get Structo Brochure

"A Plan for New School Construction," a 16-page brochure drawn up in a joint effort by the Board of Education and Lay Advisory Committee to acquaint voters with details of a $900,000 school building program, is scheduled to be mailed to township voters next week.

The school construction will be put to referendum March 1. If the voters give the program the go-ahead, Franklin probably will be the first community in the nation to utilize Structo Corporation's pre-

Hagmann, Takacs, Pattison Win, School Survey Nixed

Lyle Hagmann, Joseph Takacs and Mrs. Catherine Pattison were victorious in the Board of Education election Tuesday, which was hotly contested by those interested, but coolly received by the electorate at large. Only 20 per cent of the voters came out to express their preference.

Runners-up in the order of votes received were Walter Campbell, Mrs. Muriel Vomacka, J. Hilton Joyce and Armand A. Petrillo.

HAGMANN LED the field with 614 votes, but was top man in only three of the eight election districts. Takacs led the ticket in his home district, the fifth, and polled a total of 568 votes, running strongly in all eight districts. Mrs. Pattison, totalling 493 votes, led the ticket in her own district, the seventh.

Campbell, whose total was 484, only six votes behind Mrs. Pattison, polled the largest number of votes in any one district, 127 in his home district, the eighth. Mrs. Vomacka, whose township total was 458, lost her home district to Petrillo, who trailed the ticket with 231 votes but who polled 45 votes in the sixth district. Joyce received a total of 334 votes.

The voters approved the operating budget of $544,188.29, $12,500 for repairs and replacements and $3,500 for capital outlay, but, by a small margin, vetoed a proposal to spend $600 for a professional survey to determine the educational needs of the township.

The proposal to appropriate $32,178.75 to replace funds spent last year in preparing plans for a junior high school which was subsequently disapproved in two elections, was turned down, 428 to 305, but as this money has already been spent, it will have to be carried on.

Triumphant Trio

VICTORIOUS—Congratulations go around this triangle as the three winners in the Board of Education election jubilantly shake hands, L-R, Joseph Takacs, Mrs. William G. Pattison and Lyle Hagmann.

Fatal Fire, Zoning Violation Not Connected, Says Gaynor

"The township's case against the V & H Construction Co. for violation of the zoning ordinance has no connection with the recent fire on the property owned by the same company, which is now under investigation by the county prosecutor's office," Municipal Attorney Robert Gaynor told the RECORD yesterday.

"It is merely a coincidence that the fire occurred on the property," he added.

Last Thursday night at the Township Committee meeting a number of citizens protested the conditions on the Easton Ave. site where four children lost their lives Feb. 3, and it was apparent that there was some confusion in the minds of the speakers as to the connection between the two affairs.

HERMAN CALVO, one of the partners in the V & H Company, became upset after hearing some of the complaints and angrily stated that the County Court had ruled in their favor when Gaynor opposed their appeal after the local court had ordered the company to clear up an alleged lumber yard on Easton Avenue.

Gaynor replied to Calvo's attack by stating that the case was thrown out of court on a technicality, which is different from a clear-cut ruling.

Township Talk

It's a funny winter—while ice was still on the canal last Friday, a group of Middlebush teen-agers were swimming at "the point," a swimming hole on the Millstone River near Blackwell's Mill, not more than a couple of hundred feet away. Maybe we'll yet have a Franklin branch of the Polar Bear Club.

Let those who will, sing the praises of the new phone book—

 personally, we think it's for the birds. When we want Smith or a Vargas, we don't care anything about wading through pages and pages of Smiths or Vargas to get our man. Bring back that good old East Millstone section.

Let's keep the record straight—that tragic fire had nothing to do with the zoning violation the Calvos are in hot water for. Nobody had ever told them they were doing anything wrong as far as the house situation went and it just happened that three guys who were in hot water already had another teakettle of it poured over them. A person isn't guilty of anything till it's legally proved. So let's not condemn them until all the facts are in.

If you are one bit interested in what goes on in the township, please look in another part of this paper and glance at the municipal budget, which appears in detail in a legal ad. Then note in the news story on the School Board election, the amount of the school budget, and compare the two amounts. Then ask yourself if we come 70 per cent of the voters go out and vote in a political election and only 20 per cent will concern themselves with the school budget. A fur lined syrup pitcher is offered as a prize for the best answer. Incidentally, you'll note from comparing the figures how little the township committee has to do with determining how much local tax you pay. They have to give the School Board any amount it asks for, says you, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, determine that.

Question: Will the Old Guard Republicans find a 11' David to tackle Goliath Sierra in the primary, and after he beats the pants off that guy, whoever he turns out to be, what Democrat will be the 11' David to load up a slingshot and go for him in November? We've been asking around, but no answers yet.

The township lost one of its most distinguished citizens when Richard Reager became the victim of a heart attack yesterday. The good that Dick Reager did will live long after him, for his book, "You Can Talk Well," which has given thousands of people the tools and the confidence to do a good job, is still selling at a lively clip over at Rutgers Press.

So the cops have another souped-up pursuit car. Maybe with three of them they can catch some of the teen-agers who brag about doing 100 mph on South Middlebush Road.

Fatal Fire

 Hagemann had ruled that the V & H Company was in violation of the zoning ordinance and ordered them to remove all evidences of business from the property.

The case was appealed in County Court last September, at which time Judge Samuel Chingwalli reversed the verdict because the charge contained two parts, first that a lumber storage yard was being maintained, and second, that a used lumber business was being conducted.

The judge ruled that as only the former of the two allegations was proved, they could not be presented in the same complaint.

Cayner said that the township will take up the case again, and that it must go through Municipal Court a second time.

Investigations by police of the fire on the property showed that there had been no building permit when the house was moved to the site it stood on when it burned, and that there had never been an occupancy permit. Local police have turned over their information to County Prosecutor Leon Gerofski.

Students-Eye View of Structo-School

LIGHT AND AIRY—Architect's conception of interior plan of typical Structo-type school classroom, expected to be ready for use in Franklin Township by fall. Note, at top, prismatic glass sky-lighting which aids in even distribution of natural light throughout each classroom.

All furniture is of movable type, allowing an average of fifty percent more teaching area in each room. Plans are such that each classroom has outdoor entrance, cutting down on needless corridor and traffic space.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Lyness and daughter, Jessie, attended the Bulldog Specialty Show of the Bulldog Club of America Sunday. Three of their bulldogs won blue ribbon awards.  the books and proposed in future elections until it is eventually approved.

THE OPERATING budget included provision for two new elementary schools which have been proposed by the Board of Education and will be voted on in a special election March 1.

Mrs. Pattison, former president of Pine Grove PTA, was the only incumbent in the race. Hagemann and Tabor will fill the positions vacated by the two others and Isaac Stecher who did not seek reelection.

Patricia Tabor and Mrs. Vannarka were backed by the League for Better Schools, an organization formed last year to oppose the junior high school proposal.

A group of 60 citizens, headed by Madison Waldner of Middlebush sent out cards to the voters urging the election of Mrs. Pattison, Campbell and Joyce, as being uncommitted to any one group. Both sets of partisans can take satisfaction in a partial victory.

All candidates supported the budget, and the new members of the board have joined their colleagues in unanimous support of the school building program.

Psychologist's Role Discussed

The role of a psychologist in the modern school was discussed by Dr. Eileen Higham, psychologist for the New Brunswick and Highland Park schools, at a meeting of the Middlebush School PTA.

In her talk and the discussion period which followed, Dr. Higham stressed the need for treatment facilities, after diagnosis has been made.

To mark Founders Day, a candle-lighting ceremony, in which past presidents of the Middlebush School PTA participated was held. Mrs. Charles McClure read a history of the local PTA.

The second grade mothers, who were in charge of the social hour contributed a birthday cake for the special meeting and also the gift to the State Federation of PTAs in honor of Founders Day.
