'Council' Affair

YOUTHFUL OFFICIALS—Borough Councilman and Highland Park High School English teacher Ward Ehrenfeld joins two members of the Highland Park youth week governing body, "Councilman" Robert Zimmerman and "Mayor" Benjamin Stanton Jr., for lunch. Both boys live in Middlebush. A third Middlebush youth, Clayton Farnham, not shown, served as a councilman during youth week. The luncheon was given by the combined service clubs of New Brunswick at the Roger Smith Hotel.

Minor Subdivision May Pave Way for Rt. 27 Development

A development will probably be built on a portion of the Brookes farm in Route 27 as a result of a minor subdivision granted Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brookes at the Planning Board meeting Wednesday night.

The Brookes received the subdivision which will permit them to sell 66 acres of their 96 acre farm. The 66 acre parcel has a frontage of 800 feet on Route 27. Brookes indicated that he plans to sell the tract to a developer.

THEODORE FIRSING of Old Stage Rd. was granted a subdivision for a plot with 250-foot frontage on Old Stage Rd. and was assured by the engineer, George Curdy, that the road is 66 feet in width.

Firsing told the board that some of his neighbors had said the roadway was 33 feet wide.

The board granted temporary approval to Edward F. Samojednik of Dunellen, pending action by the Board of Adjustment, on one of five of his lots which cover approximately 3.5 acres. The lot in question on Easton Ave. and Walnut St. does not conform to lot size regulations.

THE BOARD ADOPTED a resolution, which will be sent to the Somerset County Planning Board, approving and supporting the county group's layout of the proposed criss-cross highway.

Study by the board's engineers will be required before further action is taken on an application by E. Raymond Appley of 131 DeVoie Ave., Spotswood, to subdivide three acres in a tract off Howard Ave. on a private right-of-way.

Twp. Crash Injures Driver

A New Brunswick man, seriously injured when his car went out of control Sunday morning in Easton Avenue near Chetnor Lodge knocking down 10 posts of a guard rail, is reported in "good" condition at St. Peter's Hospital.

The man, Clevan Carter, 30, was driving on a "red license" at the time of the accident. He will be charged with reckless driving, according to Chief Ed Voorhees, who said the car was "apparently driving at a terrific rate of speed" toward South Bound Brook.

Carter was treated for a deep laceration of the left leg and contusions and possible fractures of the chest and ribs.

His two passengers in the car, Thomas Dirksen, 33, of 2 Clifton St., Franklin Township, and George Gilechrist, 31, of Edison Township, were treated in Middlesex Hospital for cuts and bruises. They left the hospital without being released.

The police chief reported that the car was spun around by the guard rail cables and hurled backward about 75 feet. The three men were thrown from the car, which was badly damaged.

Officer William Rihar and police from South Bound Brook assisted Chief Voorhees, The East Millstone and South Bound Brook Rescue Squads responded.

Township Talk

Through the good offices of our John Kelly, the Somerset County Guidance Center's board of trustees were guests of American Cyanamid Co. Wednesday evening. After being served a sumptuous turkey dinner in the cafeteria, the group had its annual meeting in the Cyanamid auditorium.

John, who has served on the board since its beginning three years ago, was among those re-elected. Another member from Franklin is Dr. Sampson G. Smith, county superintendent of schools.

But Franklin still doesn't have as many people active in the mental health program as many other municipalities in the county (only three on a board of 45). It's too bad more local people don't take an active interest in one of the newest, most important and up-and-coming welfare activities in the county.

Twenty children and four adults from Franklin were patients at the mental hygiene clinic in Somerville during the past year.

Carl Erbacher, who was appointed by the Township Committee at its last meeting to serve as assistant zoning officer, started on his duties May 1. He will devote most of his time in investigating violations. He will keep his post as a part-time policeman too, doubling in brass in that capacity when needed.

One complaint township officials got last week was from an irate citizen who phoned township hall to report that somebody's rooster was waking him up. Seems that the poor dumb rooster didn't know about our switching over to daylight saving time, and was still doing his crowing on good old Eastern Standard.

A certain Middlesex County fund-raising drive, which in our book has no right to collect in Somerset in the first place, is being not one, not two, but THREE free dinners to the people who round up the people who round up

Slate Twp. Salk Clinic Next Week

Salk polio vaccine will be administered in the township on the following schedule:

Thursday, May 10—9 to 11 a.m. in the Pine Grove School, for the Pine Grove School-Hamilton School area children.

Tuesday, May 15—9 to 11 a.m. in the Franklin Park Firehouse, for the Phillips School-Kingston School area children.

Thursday, May 17—9 to 11 a.m. in the Middlebush School, for the East Millstone-Middlebush School area children.

Dr. Samuel Sklar, school physician, will be in charge of the clinics at which the vaccine will be given. He will be assisted by Dr. Harold Wender of South Bound Brook and one other doctor.

Zoning Violator Gets 90-Days To Change House or Pay Fine

Magistrate George J. Shamy gave a Brooklyn, N. Y., man 90 days in which to correct a zoning violation on property he owns in the township, before further action is taken.

The magistrate gave the ultimatum to Andrew Minutello on a house he owns on Weston Road in Municipal Court Monday night.

Minutello was charged by Zoning Officer Joseph Maher with adding rooms to the house on two separate occasions without obtaining a building or occupancy permit.

Blaher told the magistrate that by the addition of the rooms, Minutello converted the structure from a one-family to a three-family dwelling.

The property is located in an agricultural zone, which confines construction to one-family units.

Judge Shamy said that if the additions are not removed within 90 days, Minutello will be subject to daily fines.

Judge Hagmann to Speak At Radio Club Tonight

Judge Vernon Heman will be guest speaker at the Raritan Valley Radio Club meeting tonight at the group's clubhouse, Wilson Rd. He will discuss the electronic theory of vacuum tubes.

Judge Hagmann, who recently retired as a physics teacher from New Brunswick High School, is on leave of absence from his position as magistrate of Franklin Township.

The Radio Club, organized in 1928, is composed of men and boys of all ages, most of whom hold federal licenses as radio operators.

Board OKs School Plans, To Receive Bids On May 28

Sample

POSSIBILITY—Board of Education President Leonard Bardsley and Superintendent of Schools James M. Lynch inspect sample of new type teacher's desk being considered by the board for Pine Grove Manor School.

Bids on the two Structo schools planned for erection in the township will be received by the Board of Education May 28. The date was set at a special meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Mickelwright and Mountford of Trenton, architects for the project, presented plans and specifications which the board approved. The firm was authorized to advertise for bids.

Albert Mickelwright, a member of the architectural firm, told the board that he did not believe the two schools, one on Elizabeth Avenue and the other in Franklin Park, could be ready for occupancy by Oct. 15, as previously announced. He set the date at Oct. 28, if contracts are awarded May 28.

THE ARCHITECT said the delay was caused partially because his firm did not receive reports from the board's engineer, Raymond Wilson, on time.

If Structo fails to finish on time "they might as well pack up and go back to Boston and stay," the architect pointed out. He believes the Structo Schools Corp. of Boston will be the only bidder on the construction portion of the job.

According to Mickelwright, Structo has promised to have the schools open in mid-October and if the company goes back on its word, it would have a difficult time doing any further work in New Jersey.

Dedicate Meet To Fire Victim

The annual report of the Somerset County Tuberculosis and Health Association was dedicated to the late Barry Mack, son of Mrs. Minnie Mack of Franklin Township.

The five-year-old Barry died in a fire which gutted his house and also claimed the lives of three other children in his family. Barry was under home care for tuberculosis.

The dedication, which is accompanied by a picture of the child, states:

The architect also pointed out to Board Members Kenneth Fluk and Arthur S. Westcott Jr. that the penalty clauses, that is fines that will be levied by the board against the company if work is not completed on time, lack "teeth."

HE SAID THE BOARD could only expect to collect the amount of money it had to expend for such items as teachers' pay and transportation if the schools were not opened on time. The penalty clause provides that the successful bidder must pay between $50 and $200 a day over the deadline.

"Little Barry Mack was winning his fight against tuberculosis when a tragic fire in his home snuffed out his life at the age of five . . .

At the dinner meeting of the association Tuesday night at Far Hills Inn, Clifford A. Naele of Franklin was re-elected to the board of directors. All other officers were also re-elected. Dr. Sampson G. Smith of Middlebush was a member of the nominating committee.

The specifications, among other things, will bar labor disputes and delays by sub-contractors as excuses for not meeting deadlines by contractors.

Another specification binds the contractor to a 10-year guarantee on component parts from the date the schools are accepted by the board. Damage from vandalism and acts of God will not be included in the contract.

Teachers Discuss Role of Pupils

How teacher-pupil planning operates in learning situations was the subject of a film strip shown by Dr. J. M. Lynch at a meeting of teachers and principals in the Middlebush School, Monday afternoon. The film strip, produced by the Wayne University School of Education, served as a starting point for a discussion of the values of this method of instruction, its limitations, and various ways of applying it to specific teaching situations.

Points considered were: motivation of pupil thinking, use of reference books, acquisition of new interests, attention to individual needs, development of good speaking and listening habits, and practice in group evaluation of individual suggestions.

You Ain't Seen Nothing Yet!

Do you think things are massed up out there on the highway? Well, just wait another 10 years!

The National Safety Council has taken a peep into the future and come up with these disconcerting figures:

By 1966, an endless swarm of 82,000,000 motor vehicles will jam the streets and highways—20,000,000 more than are on the road now.

THEY WILL be piloted at various times by 80,000,000 drivers. They will travel approximately 825 billion miles a year.

The traffic toll that year will be around 63,000 — unless some genius manages to pull down the prevailing death rate by getting to those 80,000,000 drivers with a safety sales talk that is more convincing than anything thought up so far. . . . .

FACED WITH this foreboding future, the council announced specific traffic safety programs designed not only to hold down the traffic toll, but to expedite the flow of traffic. Safety authorities agree the two problems are inseparably interwoven.

The council emphasized that while it accepts its responsibility it cannot do the job alone, and that the help of every person who drives, rides or walks is essential.

Here is the council's plan for cutting the toll and congestion of future traffic—based on proven techniques of engineering, education and enforcement:

1. CONVINCE the public that the only real answer to the traffic problem is for every individual not only to drive and walk sensibly and safely himself, but to join actively in an organized community and national effort to see that others do the same. If this means rougher, tougher traffic law enforcement—as it will in many places—demand, support and accept it!

2. Give every community the facts on how its traffic safety program stacks up against recognized standards — and help it bring itself up to or above par. The Council provides the way to do this through its Annual Inventory of Traffic Safety Activities, now being used by 46 states and by 1,140 cities.

3. Build as many miles of safe, modern accident-resistant highways as possible—and as fast as possible. The way they are financed, says the council, isn't half as important as the fact that unless they're built, this country will have outsmarted itself trafficwise.

4. Along with building new and better and safer roads, use every modern technique of traffic engineering and law enforcement to make existing highways as fool-proof and safe as possible.

5. CUT THROUGH red tape apathy and legislative inertia to obtain uniform vehicle laws and do what common sense tells the nation it should have done long ago—give the driver a set of simple, understandable traffic rules and laws that he can follow from coast to coast—and that he can be sure will be enforced.

6. Make driver education — in class and behind the wheel — a required course for every student of driving age in every high school.

7. Make it so tough to get a driver's license that only a person who is physically, mentally and emotionally qualified to drive in modern traffic can get one.

8. Take the license away from any driver as soon as he demonstrates inability to drive as a decent, sensible citizen should drive.

9. Back traffic courts to the limit in showing errant drivers and walkers that it just isn't smart or healthy to behave selfishly or dangerously in traffic.

10. Encourage constant improvement in automobile design to make it easier and easier to drive safely.

THE TRAFFIC situation, the council emphasized, can be improved in direct ratio to public acceptance of those 10 objectives. But it will require organized effort, dedicated leadership by influential persons in public and private capacity, and a willingness to work and pay for safety and better traffic facilities. The council pointed

Your Garden

BY CHARLES CONNORS
 Rutgers University

Evergreens in foundation plantings are pruned to best advantage just before growth starts in spring. This refers particularly to the narrow-leaved evergreens that belong chiefly to the pine family.

It is a temptation to shear these into formal, monument-like specimens. Nurserymen use a hedge shears for speed and to develop compact specimens. In the home grounds, a little more care and time should be used to make a planting that will blend together. The pruning shear is a good tool to use. Unfortunately, many plants sold and used for foundation plantings are forest trees and if not restrained will soon outgrow their situation.

SPRUCES soon get big. They have individual leaves that stick out that safely, like everything else worthwhile, costs money, time and effort.

And what will happen by 1966 if Americans team up in a real and continuing traffic improvement program?

"You'll get where you're going a lot easier and sooner," promised the council. "And what's more, the traffic toll will come down by itself!"

out around the twigs, and have formed buds along the stem of last year's growth. If you cut each or most of the twigs back about one-third to one-half, you will make the plant more dense and restrain it.

Next in popularity are those with somewhat fernlike foliage. These, in general, belong to two genera. Thuja, which are the arborvitae, can be cut back into old wood and will still develop shoots from dormant buds. Chamaecyparis, which includes most of those called Ratisnosporas, seldom regenerates from old wood, so will not respond to severe pruning.

The safest plan with both is to prune off about half of the growth that was made last year. By using shears you can maintain the natural contour of the plants.

TAXUS or yew has single needles or leaves in a flat arrangement. Cut back halfway any shoots that grew late last summer. Any branches that spoil the symmetry of the plant can be cut back severely. Taxus will grow well from old wood. The same is true of hemlock.

After the buds start, you can determine the extent of winter injury to boxwood and prune accordingly, trying to keep the natural contour of the plant which is such a large part of its beauty. This plant will produce new growth on very old wood.

Wool Blanket Can Be Soft Again

A woolen blanket made harsh by a previous laundering is not beyond repair. Much of its original softness can be restored. And, even though it may sound fantastic, four to six inches in length has been added to a shrunken blanket.

Mrs. Doris Anderson, extension home management specialist of Rutgers University, says reconditioning a shrunken blanket is not an easy job, but it's worth the manual labor it takes if the blanket is one you have liked and want to continue to use.

"WHEN TIME comes for the spring laundering, the first step is to use the soak or relaxation method for washing," Mrs. Anderson says. "To keep the wool fibers from locking together, don't rub or use the action of a washing machine. Just soak the blanket 15 to 20 minutes in warm water in which a mild soap or syndet has been dissolved. After the soiled water is removed, soak again four to five minutes in two lukewarm rinse waters. During each soaking turn two or three times by hand.

"To extract water from the blanket, turn the machine to 'spin' if the blanket is in an automatic washer. If you use a non-automatic machine, release wringer tension, fold blanket and put through the wringer.

"The next step is to stretch the shrunken blanket and relax the felted fibers. This takes two persons pulling vigorously but evenly at each end. Repeat several times during the drying period.

"AFTER EACH stretching brush the blanket on both sides with a steel bristled brush. This is a tedious, hard job and when possible is best done on a flat surface. It can be done on a line, however. As you brush, the nap begins to come up and felting is lessened. Keep at it and you'll note the blanket actually gets a bit longer as well as fluffier each time.

"Between the treatments, hasten the drying by hanging over one or two lines. As you change the position of the blanket, check on the evenness of the stretching. You may need an extra pull here and there."

When completely dry, brush again. This will add still more fluffy softness. Finally touch up the binding with a warm iron and your blanket will be ready for the bed again or for summer storage. The New Jersey University specialist promises.

a good citizen. Thrust upon his own resources at an early age, he worked hard asking no favors but generous in bestowing them.

He loved his hard-earned home, delighted in the culture of his flowers. When called on by his neighbors to lend a hand, he was genuinely interested in their work rather than in his compensation, often working for a sum far less than the payment in use currently. Much of his savings went for the care of his wife who died Mar. 21, 1955. Since then he had lived alone and finally died alone last Saturday.

Mr. Dunham was held in respect and affectionate esteem by all who knew him. His example of independence, hard work and helpfulness could well be followed by us all.

IS YOUR TV ANTENNA SAFE?

If your television antenna is near power lines it is a source of real danger! TV antennas are metal — a conductor of electricity. If your antenna touches a power line, electricity can be carried into your home through the lead-in wire right to your TV set. This may result in a fire or personal injury.

IMPORTANT TV SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

- 1. Place your antenna mast so that if it should swing or fall no part of it will come closer than six feet to an electric power line.
2. Make sure that the structure to which the mast is fastened is strong enough to carry the added weight — allowing for wind, ice and vibration.
3. Anchor the TV mast securely using rust-resistant fittings.
4. Strengthen antennas more than ten feet high with at least three equally-spaced guy wires made of rust-resistant cable. Add a set of guy wires for every ten feet on taller masts.
5. Have antenna checked periodically.

the money.

Makes you have all the more respect for the Somerset Cancer Society, which has a kick-off dinner for the campaign, but lets the workers pay for their own meal.

The Cancer Society is organized along county lines, and the money you contribute to the Somerset County Chapter is either used right here in the county, or it goes on Somerset's share of the research that some day soon is going to put cancer on the list of "old unhappy far-off things."

And to get back to this business of contributing to out-of-the-county organizations it's all right for those who want to do it, but those outfits don't know where Mile Run is when they are collecting. It's only when someone goes to them for help that they know just where the county line is.

There are so many needs to be met in our own community, such as the two wonderful first aid squads, the TB Association which gives free x-rays every year, the Heart Fund, the Cancer Society.

Lots of people in Franklin don't even know that they live in Somerset County, what with the mailing address and the telephone book set up ignoring the fact.

But, brother, that's where you vote, pay your taxes and get your police protection, and if you ever get in a tough spot, the chances are it will take someone in this township or this county to get you out of it.

The building committee of the Middlebush Church is still working on the problem of an addition to the church building for a Sunday school.

The committee is now studying a beautiful set of plans drawn by Ralph Thomson as a tentative measure. The plans would put the addition between the church and the township hall, with the entrance on the side farthest from the street so people could drive up to it and park in the yard facing Front St.

Sounds like a good idea, and Ralph's drawings, which we saw this week, would do credit to a professional architect.

this specification.

It was pointed out by Joseph Takacs, board member, that the Franklin Park school will include shower facilities. Some concern was expressed when it was reported that shower facilities were not included.

VOTERS GAVE approval for the two schools, to cost $396,000, at an election Mar. 7. The Elizabeth Avenue school will have 21 rooms and the Franklin Park building, 10 classrooms.

Board committees were called upon to begin plans for the housing of pupils until the opening of the two new schools by Board President Leonard Bardsley, Dr. James M. Lynch, superintendent of schools, has been working on the problem and is expected to report to the board at a later date.

The board voted an extra $200 for the purchase of lots at the Elizabeth Avenue site.

On the suggestion of Mrs. William Palisano, board member, a resolution was adopted which will allow Girl Scout and Brownie troops to plant a tree on the Pine Grove Manor school grounds.

Middlebush School News

The seventh grade of Middlebush School took a trip to Trenton Friday. The class left school about 9 a. m. and returned at 5:30 p. m., accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. J. E. McConnell, and four parents, Mrs. Eugene Howe, Mrs. Clark Anderson, Mrs. Robert Van Liew and Mrs. Salvatore Liccardi.

They visited the State House where a state trooper explained about the Assembly and the State Jersey State seal and showed them the governor's office.

The class went to the State Museum where they saw exhibits of prehistoric animals, and birds and beasts of New Jersey in their natural habitats. They also saw a film on early Indian life. There was a demonstration of pottery making.

At the old barracks they saw where both the Heaman and American soldiers were stationed before and after the Battle of Trenton.

Proceeding along the Delaware River, the class saw where Washington crossed the Delaware. Gail Dolchy.

Sixth, seventh and eighth graders wrote the following poems:

The horse has almost been replaced
By the invention of the car;
And even in the race of speed
The auto wins by far.

But the horse can get to places
The automobile can't reach.
That the auto has taken the place
Of the horse
Is just a figure of speech.
Bruce Hagmann.

Life Of a Leaf Tree
The tree you see budding
Is nature's way of telling you it's spring.
The buds turn to leaves one day.
To shade the earth through hot summer days.
And in the fall, the leaves decay
And leave the tree to rest away.
Barbara Grouser.

Spring Has Come
As winter snows melt
Babbling brooks run:
Birds are flying north
To live in the sun.

The crocuses are blooming
Near the brook's edge.
White robin builds his nest overhead.

The crocuses are fading.
Robin's nest is done.
Next will come the baby birds
To sing in the sun.

Richard Osworth.

The Owl
The midday sky, no doubt,
tempted owls for the time
For owls to be fly'n about.

The quiet dark of night
Is more much needed
To the observing light.

When everything is dark,
You'll see up in the sky
A sailing, ghostly mark.

O' what could be this thing
None other than the owl,
Silently on the wing.

Jeanie Howe.

God is Everywhere
God watches over one and all,
He sees the tiny sparrow fall,
He guides every ship at night
And watches over planes in flight.
At our side He will always be,
The rest is up to you and me.
Bonnie Yingling.

April Robins
April robins are as bright as the sun.
Come little robin and join the fun.
Sun, wind, and rain make flowers bloom.
Come little robin and sing us a tune.

Crocus and daffodils standing so straight,
Forsythia and magnolia framing the gate.
Robins will play and be gay,
Singing a song of April.
Louise Fedelchak.

A New Day
The stars are shining,
The sky is clear,
The earth is reclining
And is full of cheer.
The flowers are all tucked away
Getting ready for another day.
The sun awakens with a sigh
And earth to this doth reply.
The clouds appear up so high,
The birds are winging toward the sky:
Everyone is happy to see the sun
Because a new day has just begun.
Danny LaRue.

Threshold To Space
When I am working, I sometimes wonder
What it is like, where there is no air,
A place to go, I hardly dare.
Deep in space, from earth asunder
One of these days, I shall blunder
Into space, its beauty so fair
Far from earth and sun, a fabulous pair:
I shall see them, but my mind will wander
To a distant place, with magic endured;
For I shall fly there to be alone
Where I can cherish my solitude
With the single right to call it,
my own,
And this place I go, in my dreams
revealed,
In my mind, its beauty, forever
sealed.
Peter Upton.

Subdivision

An application to subdivide two lots in a 17-acre tract off Gates Road will also be studied by the engineer and the board's counsel, Robert E. Gaynor. John McKeon of Gates Rd. made the application.

Three other applications referred either to the engineer or the board's subdivision committee were presented by Vincent Eglewski of Canal Rd., who seeks to have 5.7 acres of 29.5 acres subdivided; Stephen C. Reid of Amwell Rd., who asks for permission to subdivide 3.8 acres at his farm; Sebastian Elizon of Sanders Ave., who seeks to convey a 200 by 400 foot lot to H. L. Schindler of Bound Brook, seeking approval of a map of Lakeview Park.

Approvals were given the following: Thomas F. Bohan of Rocky Hill, permission to subdivide three 80-foot lots off Elm Place into two 120-foot lots.

Adam Lattanzio of Marvin Ave., permission to re-subdivide two lots he purchased which were on the same deed and bounded by Beverly, Castleton and Grandview Aves.

Elis Janho of Cedar Grove Rd., permission to subdivide one lot of 100 by 200 feet off Cedar Grove Road.
