DRAMATIC AND SONG programs entitled "Our American Heritage of Freedom," will highlight the affair at each school.

At Pine Grove Manor School, Rev. Francis K. Donovan will give the invocation and benediction. Class presentation will be made by Frank Rotatori and Linda Gebhardt will make the welcome address.

Rev. Vernon Dehmers will give the invocation and benediction at Middlebush School. Darrel Lutz will make the address of welcome and the class presentation will be made by Mary Lou Madsen.

Given 30 Days on Assault Charge

A Bound Brook man was sentenced to 30 days in jail and assessed $5 court fees on charges of assaulting Joseph Ketrrow of St. Joseph's Place May 12, with a large flashlight. James Hobbs received the sentence on a disorderly conduct complaint by Ketrrow, following a fight in the Ketrrow home.

Counter complaints by Hobbs and members of Ketrrow's family were withdrawn prior to the hearing. Judge George Shamy advised Hobbs that the sentence would have been stiffer had not the type of complaint filed against him limited the sentence. Investigation was by Police Chief Edwin F. Voorhees.

The judge, commenting that he regretted being hard on young rudies, pointed out that duty required him to fine two of them on careless driving charges. Miss Barbara Ann Flood of Edison and Miss June Harris, 21, of Franklin Park each paid $10 and $5 costs. They were brought into court as a result of minor accidents. Patrolman Lawrence Collier and Officer J. W. Brown issued the summonses. Thomas Seder, of Middlesex, whose jeep struck a nine-year-old boy on Easton Avenue May 7, was fined $50 and $5 for reckless driving and $25 and $5 for driving an unsafe vehicle. A state motor vehicle inspector testified that the brakes of the jeep were defective.

Man Stabbed by Unknown Assailant

Joseph Sparrow, 29, of Wilson St. was picked up on Franklin Boulevard Saturday night, the victim of several stab wounds. He was taken to St. Peter's Hospital.

Police Chief Edwin F. Voorhees was called in to assist Sgt. Adolph Canavesio and Patrolman James Brown, who were on patrol at the time, in interviewing Sparrow.

The chief reported that he talked with Sparrow twice and the man said that he had spent some time at the Diamond Bar, left that establishment and while walking down the road was jumped by an unknown person.

The knife marks on his cheek, chin and puncture marks in his chest were apparently caused by the same weapon, police said.

Police checked the bar and could find no one who recalled Sparrow's having been there. They were told, however, that Sparrow had quarreled with another man the previous evening.

One of the men who found Sparrow following the alleged attack was his cousin, Irving Johnson.

Shortly after the Sparrow incident, police were called to the Diamond Bar and arrested Willie Britt of Franklin and Harvey Banor of New Brunswick. In court Monday evening, Magistrate George Shamy fined each $5 and $5 costs for disorderly conduct.

Township Talk

When Community's big "white angel" or any of the numerous red fire engines of the township roll out in answer to an alarm, you can be pretty sure that the men aboard are wearing good clothes they will ruin because they didn't take time to change. They are men who have left a job and with thereby lose money, men asked from the dinner table or a nice comfortable bed. They give their time, their strength and their skill to save somebody's home. And that isn't all. Just as in war, it takes many men behind every fighting soldier, and so behind fire-fighting there are hundreds of man hours in treating, maintenance of equipment and building, fund raising and a myriad of lesser details.

WINS MASTERS—Hilton Craig Gilbert, a teacher in Pine Grove School, was awarded the degree of Master of Arts at the Rutgers University commencement exercises Wednesday. Gilbert, who is a native of the township, now lives in Middlesex Borough. He is a World War II veteran, and is married to the former Miss Beverly Smith of Middlebush.

AT DEM CONCLAVE
Barbara Ester of Franklin Township is among six Somerset County residents attending the fifth annual Young Democrats convention in Atlantic City today and tomorrow.

So when a picture of some of our local men at the scene of a fire appeared in a daily newspaper captioned "Wrecking Crew at Work," do you wonder that some of the firemen resented it? Your townier, in covering the disastrous fire at the Finkle home last Saturday, went into the blackened, ruined shell, and saw, in what was left of the basement after the fire,

In an attempt to come to a final decision on the location of the proposed Housing Authority 50-unit project a special meeting of the Township Committee, Planning Board and Housing Authority will be held Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

The meeting will be open to the public and will follow an executive session of the Planning Board, at which that body will review the project and come to a decision on the location. After a decision is reached by the Planning Board, the Township Committee must approve or disapprove it.

The township's Housing Authority had its ups and downs this week and as the deadline date, June 30, for finalizing details draws near, there is no indication as to whether or not plans will pass the Planning Board and the Township Committee in time to build the 50-unit, low-cost housing de-

Homeless

NOTHING LEFT—Mrs. Leona Finn has to persuade the small soaking-wet dog that he hasn't got a home any more, as she stands in the door of her fire-rutted home Saturday afternoon. The Finnes are staying with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sanders on Church Hill Avenue until they can find another permanent home.

Fire Chiefs Adopt Constitution

A constitution and by-laws were adopted by the Fire Chiefs' Association Wednesday evening at their meeting in the Second District Firehouse.

The constitution defines the object of the association as the enforcement of all of the township's fire ordinance, a clearing house for inter-department cooperation in all fire problems and the improvement of methods of fire prevention and extinguishment.

THE FIRE ORDINANCE, passed by the Township Committee May 24, gives the fire chiefs the responsibility for inspecting premises for fire hazards and issuing warnings where hazardous conditions are found. The association is now drafting fire permits, inspection forms and violation blanks.

Pelham Stewart, Franklin Park fire chief and president of the Chiefs' Association, warned that the ordinance forbidding the kindling of any open fire without a permit is in effect, even though the forms for applying for a permit are not yet ready.

Stewart said that anyone desiring to kindle an outside fire for any purpose should apply to the chief of his fire district and receive a verbal or temporary permit. The ordinance does not apply to trash burners which are covered, he added.

The next meeting of the association will be held at Community Firehouse, July 10. The chiefs will meet with the mayor to make further fire control plans.

Fire Aftermath

CLEAN-UP DETAIL—The only thing still burning is the cigar. Richard Nuble, Angelo Rossi and Ray Taralms, L-R, hack through the wreckage in the cellar of the home of Joseph Finn, after it was gutted by fire Saturday afternoon. Firemen poured more than 15,000 gallons of water on the blaze, but the house was too far gone by the time firemen arrived. Community Fire Company was on the spot less than five minutes after receiving the call, closely followed by the East Franklin, Middlebush and Franklin Park departments. The fire was believed to have started with defective wiring in the bath room. Mrs. Finn's 84-year-old mother was slightly injured in being removed from the house.

Mrs. Charles H. McClure and Mrs. Hubert G. Schmidt attended the school of instruction of the Somerset County Council of the Parent-Teacher Associations Monday at Far Hills Inn.

Court Gives Man 60 Days to Meet Zone Requirement

A second zoning violator was haled into court Monday evening on complaint of Assistant Zoning Officer Carl Erbacher.

Frank Glorist of Girard Ave. was ordered by Magistrate George Shamy to remove the tenants from his house and to turn it into a one-family dwelling within 60 days, or face a fine of $25 a day thereafter, until the situation is corrected.

Glorist was accused of building a multiple-dwelling house after getting a permit for a single-family dwelling.

His lawyer told the judge that the defendant wished to plead guilty subject to the proviso that he would ask the Board of Adjustment for a variance to permit his property to remain as it was.

Judge Shamy accepted the plea of guilty but not the proviso. He was convicted of building the multiple-family dwelling in 1953, on a permit he received for a one-family dwelling in 1953.

EM First Aid Squad Handled 12 Calls in May

The East Millstone First Aid Squad responded to a total of 12 calls during May. President Thomas Hule made the report. Of these, four were to the scene of accidents, three were transportations, two were to fires and three miscellaneous. The squad's ambulance was driven 149 miles and 55 min hours were put in by members.

The squad participated in the "Slow Down and Live" campaign conducted by squads throughout the state by stationing members with the ambulance on Amwell Road near the Millstone Bus Line office.

Editor:
The answer to the critics of the township's road program which appeared in an area publication May 27, certainly was a classic one. If our founding fathers used the same logic, our country today would be the same as it was when the Pilgrims arrived.

Several years ago the excuse for poor roads and streets was the water company, now it is the trunk sewer. The next excuse will probably be underground power lines. I sometimes wonder why these utilities were not considered when the Blackwells Mills Road was paved. Could it be that someone at the Somerset County administration building had a finger in the pie?

We all realize that utilities are a necessary part of our community, but we certainly can't retard progress or inconvenience our citizens while we are waiting for these things to become a reality.

As most of us know, private utilities must post a bond when excavating roads or streets, and they must restore them to their original state without any cost to the taxpayers.

If our township officials are lax in following up to see that this is done, then they have only themselves to blame.

If the utilities are township-owned, our officials are still morally obligated to provide good roads and streets for the citizens instead of neglecting them under pretext that it would be a waste of money to improve them before the various services are provided.

After all, our township is comprised of approximately 50 square miles, and if road and street improvement is to be preceded by the various utilities, then the citizens of Franklin Township can reconcile themselves to secondary roads and streets of the poorest type, for a long time.

MICHAEL PBOCOS,

Editor:
As the United Hospital Fund solicitation drive draws to a close, I would like very much to express my sincere appreciation to the citizens of Franklin Township for their generous response to this appeal.

When the Joint Hospital Survey was first made, two years ago, to determine the health needs of the New Brunswick region, the whole area served by St. Peter's and Middlesex Hospitals was included in the study.

It was found that the hospitals were used by almost 500 persons from Franklin Township in one year, or about four per cent of the total patient load. It seemed only right that the solicitation for funds should include the area that would benefit by improved and enlarged hospital facilities.

The sum to be raised by public solicitation is $3,000,000. With the tremendous population increase in this area over the last 10 years the shortage of hospital facilities has been judged so acute that the Federal Government, under the terms of the Hospital Survey and Construction Act, will make available another $2,000,000. This makes a total of $5,000,000 to finance the construction for 100 additional beds in each hospital, as well as extensive additions to surgical, X-ray and service departments.

In the residential drive just completed, the total contributions from Franklin Township amounted to $10,850. There are many who were not approached, but with only eight volunteer solicitors it was impossible to call on everyone.

The $3,000,000 goal is not yet reached; as of last week the total stood at $2,620,000. If there is still anyone who would like to contribute to this modern medical center, please communicate with me, or with the Joint Hospital Fund office, George Street, New Brunswick.

Adequate hospital care is the most vital link in the chain of health services which you support when you contribute to the Heart Fund, the Cancer Fund, and your local Rescue Squads. Disease and disaster know no county lines; nor does generosity.

SCANNING THE NEWS

L. GEN. S. D. STURGIS, JR., Chief of the Army Engineers, warned the National Rivers and Harbors Congress recently that the country faces an average annual bill for flood damage in its main river valleys of a half-billion dollars.

"We have not provided adequate protection in any major valley, not even the Mississippi," Gen. Sturgis said. He pointed out that at the present rate of spending for flood control, it would take 25 years to complete the program required now. But the need for such a program would have grown long before that time.

"The greatest handicap in orderly water resource development is discussion and selfish conduct among various groups affected by water resource programs. To a considerable degree it was this factor which left the New England area exposed to last year's floods. Right now it is halting the Columbia River basin.

"In addition to perennial arguments over power, we now have disputes over fish and wildlife values blocking important flood control and multiple-purpose reservoirs.

"The old argument between upstream and downstream interests continue to blight developments for either group, and to leave rich and populous areas vulnerable to the death and destruction of disastrous floods," so said General Sturgis.

In the meantime the Federal Government goes on making lip-service efforts to please both sides, by spending millions of dollars annually in piece-meal stabs at flood prevention which do little good insofar as the control of river valleys are concerned. For instance a half-dozen bills have been introduced over the years to control flood waters of New England Rivers by multi-purpose dams and reservoirs, but even New England representatives in the Congress voted to kill these bills.

In the meantime, as a corollary, the Senate has passed a bill providing for payment of disaster flood damage in amounts over and above that which can be obtained from private insurance, and for reinsuring private insurance companies and further providing that in three years the States bear half the expense of this federal subsidy. An authorization of $5 billions was attached to the bill. The flood damage in New England areas in 1955 alone ran into the billions of dollars.

The ridiculous phase of this locking-the-barn-after-the-horse-is-stolen is that federal money spent for prevention of floods by the construction of multi-purpose dams and reservoirs has been attacked by power and other interests as some form of socialism, whereas it is not socialism for the government to subsidize the billions in losses after the flood occurs.

At this same Rivers and Harbors Congress, Senator Stuart Symington, of Missouri, said that in all probability, within 20 years water will be the most critical scarcity of all our national resources.

For many years now, water resource engineers have been reporting that the water level has been slowly dropping, but receding faster in the vicinity of our great cities, where they now have to go hundreds of miles away for adequate water supplies.

WIDE, WONDERFUL WORLD

By FRANKLIN J. MEINR, Editor, The American Peoples Encyclopedia

Butterfly netters beware: A Red Admiral isn't necessarily a member of the Soviet navy. The Red Admiral is a beautiful butterfly found in temperate North America, Europe, northern Africa, and Asia. It has a wing expanse of about two inches. The ground color of the wings is black, with a broad scarlet band on the upper wings and a scarlet margin on the lower wings.

Lay that pistol down! It isn't as efficient as a shotgun or rifle if you are a sportsman. Conservation officials estimate that there are approximately two million wild fowl hunters licensed each year and that wild game hunting licenses each year are sold to about 15 million Americans. An additional 10 1/2 million licenses are sold to fishermen.

When you speak of windmills, usually you are not referring to long-winded after-dinner speakers. You probably are talking about mechanical devices which, activated by wind, provide power—mostly to farms. The windmill can provide electric power through charging batteries, and can furnish direct power, such as water-pumping systems. They were used in Europe before the 12th century. And in the 20th century, the United States had 1,500,000 windmills in use.

WASHINGTON

Q—Does the Federal government still distribute free surplus property to state and local units of Government? If so what kind of property?
A—Yes, the Federal government still distributes this surplus property when available to educational and public health agencies of state and local governments and to eligible non-profit health and educational institutions. During January, February and March this year, surplus property valued at $57,723,723, was so distributed. It included such items as buildings suitable for college dormitory or faculty housing; motor vehicles, hospital, school and office furniture; hand and machine tools; motion picture projectors; laboratory equipment; and school and office supplies. Included among the property transferred was school and hospital building sites, valued at more than $3 million.

Q—Do I have to own a farm outright in order to qualify for institutional on-farm training under the Korean GI bill?
A—It is not necessary that you own the farm outright. But you must have full control of it, either by leasing the land, or having a management agreement or some other tenure arrangement.

Q—How fast is reforestation proceeding?
A—In addition to federal planting on government lands, the nation's forest industries planted about 340 million seedlings on their lands in 1955.

Q—Can you give me the actual difference between a Senator and a Congressman?
A—A United States Senator is an official of the United States Government. Insofar as his duty is concerned, he is NOT the Senator from a given state. He is supposed to legislate for all 48 states. It is for this reason that United States Senators are limited to two from each state, regardless of size or population. The official title for Congressmen is "Representative in Congress." He represents the people in his congressional district. Numbers range from one in Wyoming to 43 in New York, on a population basis.

DAILE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING

AFTER several years of small successes, L. S. Gebert and his wife, Lincoln Highway West, Irwin, Pennsylvania, had accumulated a car and a service station. They worked hard day and night, his wife looking after the business while he drove a truck. They were just getting on top when along came a friend with a promotional scheme—a get rich quick idea. Everything went along fine for awhile, and then came the crash. Their dreams were shattered, and the bank took over. They lived awhile on their credit, but couldn't seem to pull through. One fortunate day "L.P." got a toothache. He went to a dentist, told his troubles and said he had no money. The dentist fixed his tooth and gave him the address of a friend that might have a job. But this didn't work out since he had an old worn out car with tires as thin as paper. But his wife encouraged him, and finally through sheer persistence, backed by his wife's optimism, his luck turned.

What does he give credit for the success he has achieved? Those two things: his wife's encouragement and his own persistence.

Says Salk Shots Safe During Polio Season

TRENTON — New Jersey's Number One public health official reminded parents today that their children may safely be inoculated with Salk vaccine at any time during the summer months and the so-called polio season. Further, he urged that the children receive the protection in accordance with the recommended time schedule of inoculations.

The official is Dr. Daniel Bergsma, state commissioner of health, who is also a parent. Moreover, he is a member of the National Advisory Committee on Poliomyelitis Vaccine.

MANY PARENTS and some physicians have been of the opinion that all inoculations should be deferred during the polio season. This is a position for which there has been support in previous years. It doesn't apply to Salk vaccine, Dr. Bergsma says in essence.

He discusses this in a question and answer article which appears in the June issue of Public Health News, monthly publication of the New Jersey State Department of Health.

The material was originally prepared at the request of Mrs. Isaac C. Dilkes, State Health Chairman of the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers.

THE QUESTIONS asked of Dr. Bergsma and his answers included the following:

Question: "Should inoculations of Salk vaccine continue during the summer months and the polio season?"

Dr. Bergsma: "Yes. The only circumstance which would suggest withholding the first inoculation, temporarily, would be if an eligible person were known to have been directly exposed to a person who just came down with polio, particularly a member of the same household."

Question: "We have heard a good deal in recent years that inoculations and surgery, if deferrable, should not be done during the polio season. Is the Salk vaccine in a different category?"

Dr. Bergsma: "Yes. The Salk vaccine should be considered in an entirely different light. Until a protective vaccine was available, there were in recent years recommendations against unnecessary inoculations and operations during the polio season. They may dispose toward paralysis if a child is incubating polio, unknown to physician or parent, at the time of the inoculation or surgery. This is a so-called provocative effect. The Salk vaccine exerts no measurable provocative effect."

Furthermore, in ten days, the vaccine stimulates the development of protective substances which will protect even from other provocative effects. A single inoculation will also protect about 70 per cent of those injected against polio-paralysis in the months ahead. When using Salk vaccine, the probability of benefit is enormously greater than the probability of risk.

"I STRONGLY recommend that first shots be given to eligibles (persons under 15 years of age and pregnant women) as soon as possible, including during the summer months, hot weather and all, and that subsequent injections be given according to schedule as promptly as vaccine becomes available."

The recommended schedule is for the second shot to be given not less than two weeks after the first and the third to be given seven months after the second.

Dr. Bergsma also said that parents may benefit indirectly when their children are inoculated against polio.

"There is good reason to believe that poliomyelitis is spread primarily among children and that parents get it from their children. If the children are protected against poliomyelitis, their parents are indirectly protected to a significant degree, although they have not themselves been vaccinated."

Township Talk

floor had fallen into N. Community's clean-up squad, poking through the smoking rubble to be sure nothing was there which would flare up again.

Under the heavy raincoats they were wearing white shirts and Sunday best pants—the boys had been all dressed up to go out when the alarm sounded.

And the next morning when we went by the firehouse to get a look at Chief Taylor's report, there they were cleaning up the rolling stock.

Wrecking crew, indeed! There'd be some shoddy nuff wrecks around here sometimes if it weren't for our fire ladders.

Last week, when the township committee were answering questions about a variety of things at the community meeting in the Polka Club, the talk got on to tax assessments and rates.

Committeeman Russell Laird commented that it was much the same whether the assessment was low and the rate high, or the other way round—the same amount of money had to be paid in by the same people.

But it isn't quite that way. Every veteran gets $500 taken off his assessment. So if you are a veteran and have a house worth $10,000 and it is assessed for $2,000, you only pay taxes on $1,500, so you get a cut of 25 per cent in your taxes.

On the other hand, if your house is assessed at its full value, you'll be paying taxes on $9,500, getting a tax cut of only 5 per cent. So it's very much to the advantage of veterans and the disadvantage of everybody else to have the low assessments.

Night life in the township has been fierce this past week. It began on Monday when court lasted till midnight. Then Tuesday the Housing Authority's hearing ran far into the night, and Wednesday the Planning Board was more of the same. It is to be hoped the township officials and a few other people caught up on sleep Thursday, because next week looks like more of the same.

Mrs. May Hobbs, welfare director and court clerk, is a very gracious lady, and nobody can treat you nicer when you're on the beam, but she got pretty riled at some of our young bucks in court Monday night.

As clerk, she was holding the fort while Judge Shamy took a short recess to confer with a couple of lawyers. Several young men in the back of the room had been wisecracking and laughing throughout the evening and Mrs. Hobbs told them a few things about respecting the dignity of the court in no uncertain terms.

Incidentally, Mrs. Hobbs is collecting clothes for the Finnle family, who lost their home and all their possessions when their home burned. There is a girl 12, a boy 13, a boy 15, one man and three women. The boy also lost his bike, in case anyone has an outgrown one he wishes to put to good use.

Making Shorts and Slacks? Check You — Then Check Fit

If you're thinking about making some slacks or shorts for yourself, Miss Florence Gessler, extension clothing specialist of Rutgers University, suggests you ask yourself two questions before you start. First, "Do I have the figure for them?" and second, "Do I have the time and skill to make them fit just right?"

"If your hips measure rather large in relation to your other body measurements wear attractive, well-designed skirts instead of pants," Miss Gessler advises.

"Assuming your hips are slim enough and you have the time and skill for careful tailoring, you have a wide choice of available commercial patterns for such garments. Perhaps you'd like Bermuda shorts or the tapered ankle-length 'fancy pants.'"

"In any case, buy your pattern according to your hip measurement. You can always adjust the waistline in cutting and fitting."

"After buying the pattern check the measurements of the various pattern pieces against your hip, crotch length, waist, thigh and leg length measurements."

"Frequently adjustments are required in the length of the crotch and the length of the legs, particularly in slacks. You can avoid bagginess in the seat area if you shorten the crotch to fit your measurement. When additional length is needed to avoid snugness in the crotch, this also can be taken care of by lengthening the pattern piece before cutting into your fabric."

"After you have made any pattern alterations that are necessary to compare with your body measurement, pin the pattern pieces together and try on before cutting."

"When you have cut out your pattern, assemble each unit as indicated in the pattern instructions and baste together. Be certain to try on for fit, right side out. Check the fitting through the hip and thigh areas by sitting to find whether there is sufficient ease. View your silhouette in front of a mirror from front, back and side to see that the garment does not have a drawn look. Make any fitting alterations that are necessary and then proceed to stitch the garment together permanently following instructions for assembling seams, waistband, bottom hems and placket that are indicated in the pattern instructions."

Council Names NB Teacher To Rec Post

Edward C. Blumberg was appointed recreation director for Franklin Township at a meeting of the Youth Guidance Council Tuesday evening at township hall. Blumberg succeeds Michael Bodnarik who has held the position for a number of years and who recently resigned because of the pressure of his duties as a teacher in the local school system.

Blumberg, who is head football coach at New Brunswick High School, will be paid $750 from July 1 to December 31 for the part-time job of directing the recreational activities in the township.

THE COUNCIL considered five applications for the position and chose Blumberg on the basis of his qualifications and experience and because of the complete plans for a recreation program which he submitted to the council at the time of his interview. Mrs. Salvatore Pappalardo, secretary of the council, told the RECORD.

Blumberg, who is 40, is a graduate of Rutgers University. He holds a bachelor's and master's degree. He is a veteran of World War II, with service in the ETO and Asiatic theaters. He has been a teacher of physical education in New Brunswick High School since 1936. He lives at 244 New York Ave., New Brunswick.

Protests Against

THE AUTHORITY held a public hearing Tuesday evening attended by 30 people, about two-thirds of whom live in the township.

A small but vociferous group of persons, most of whom reside near the opposite end of the 20-acre tract from which the authority has asked to take 4.7 acres for the housing development, violently protested the use of the land. The 20-acre tract has been acquired by the township over a period of years for a park site.

AT THE HEARING, John Carlano, a member of the authority, told objectors that members of the Township Committee had agreed to replace the acreage taken up by the development with an equal amount of land on the other end of the tract, north of Millstone Road between Hamilton and Somerset Streets.

Richard Anlist of Franklin Hills, who said he was a new resident of the township and had formerly been a housing consultant in Youngstown, Ohio, was one of the few persons speaking for the Housing Authority. He said that experience had shown that land values in neighboring areas are helped by such low-cost housing developments.

On Wednesday evening, the authority presented maps and plans to the Planning Board. The same group of people were present at the meeting and gave about the same arguments on both sides.

L. W. Kimball, a former member of the Planning Board and a resident of the area, questioned the use of land set aside for a park, but expressed himself as satisfied when told that the Township Committee would give other land to the park site to compensate for that taken.

Speakers from the floor had to be repeatedly reminded that the Planning Board concerned itself solely with the location of the site and with no other aspect of the rightness or wrongness of the housing development.

After about two hours of wrangling, the Planning Board decided that more consideration by the members was needed and withheld its decision.
