

Township Talk

Good news! The township hall is going to be air-conditioned. Thus will be removed one of this column's favorite beefs, but we'll feel amply compensated, when, as the arguments on meeting nights get hotter and hotter, the physical atmosphere will get cooler and cooler. Air-conditioning has long been needed, not just for the occasional evening visitors, but for the municipal employees who have to keep the wheels of government turning through the dog days.

The Boy Scouts of Franklin Park are seeking to buy a used canoe in good condition. However, if anyone has an old one no longer needed, they wouldn't be averse to accepting it as a gift, and you shouldn't put it to better use.

One of our first subscribers 21 years ago, Bill Phillips of Middlebush, just celebrated his 76th birthday. We congratulate him, and look forward to having him as a subscriber for at least another 21 years.

Mrs. Elizabeth Niebyl, executive secretary of the Housing Authority, is setting up an office in the basement of the township hall. Wonder how many more offices they are going to try to squeeze into a building which was adequate when the township had a population of 5,000 and Franklin was a sleepy little rural community?

Something will have to be done soon about space around the municipal building. One thing they could do would be to put the road department out on some country road and adapt that space for offices or better still an auditorium. Certainly the police can't operate much longer in that cubbyhole.

This Structo thing gets weirder and weirder. As one board member commented anonymously after the meeting last week, "Mr. Deagan was sorry last week, Mr. Anderson is sorry this week, and doubtless somebody was sorry the night he bid was made, but that doesn't get us schools."

Anderson thought it rather ridiculous that basketball equipment was wanted in an elementary school and said that less than one-quarter of one percent of the elementary schools had it. Well, our schools should have it.

There is no public building in the second district, except the firehouse, and the people in that area have waited long enough for their school. It should be a well-equipped.

Plan 6-Week Rec Program, Slate Registration July 5-6

A six-week summer playground program, sponsored by the Franklin Township Youth Guidance Council, was announced today by Edward C. Blumberg, newly appointed recreation director.

Blumberg, physical and health education teacher and head football coach at New Brunswick High School, succeeds Michael Bodnarik, who resigned.

REGISTRATION for boys and girls will be held Thursday and Friday, July 5 and 6, at the Township play areas. Play areas and instructors in charge are: Pine Grove, Walter Shirley and Miss Elizabeth Barbey; Middlebush, Miss Eileen Peterson and James Takacs; Franklin Park, Mrs. Vance Dunn; District 2 (South Bound Brook), Donald Randolph; Kingston, N. J. Rieur.

The play areas will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Miss Doreen Lonczak, arts and crafts instructor, will rotate among the play areas to give instructions in arts and crafts.

Special weekly events will include boys and girls softball competition, girls volleyball teams, hopscotch contests for girls, a kite competition for boys, a vehicle show, arts and crafts, checkers, dominos, parchesi, doll show, pet show and a township track and field meet.

A township-wide field day will mark the end of the summer program with competitions to determine champs in all activities.

TRIPS ARE planned to a big league baseball game in New York, the Bronx Zoo, Walker-Gordon Farm, and if there is enough interest, to the Little Folks Playhouse.

If enough boys are interested a senior baseball league will be conducted on an informal basis for boys from 15 to 18 years. Anyone interested is asked to contact Walter Shirley at Pine Grove or Mr. Blumberg.

Reid Will Meet Taxpayers Tues. At Township Hall

Tax Assessor Stephen C. Reid will meet with taxpayers who have any questions about their assessments at Township Hall from 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday.

At two public meetings, Reid's presence has been demanded by disgruntled home owners. Two weeks ago when a group met with members of the Township Committee at the Polka Club, persons with questions about their taxes were told to come to the next Township Committee meeting, where they would question Reid, but Reid was absent from the meeting.

Mayor James G. Maher promised the people he would arrange a special meeting with Reid, and the Tuesday evening hours are the result of this arrangement.

It was not indicated in the announcement whether Reid would discuss the matter to the group as a whole, or take up individual complaints.

However, it was indicated that any property owner desiring to discuss a tax problem would be able to do so.

Bd. Gives Structo 3 Weeks to Ready Plans for Schools

A three-week deadline was given Structo Schools at a special meeting of the Board of Education after an official of the firm said the schools can be ready by fall and be built within the bond issue budget, if Structo gets cooperation.

E. Ross Anderson, senior partner of Anderson-Nichols, requested the three weeks to re-examine the project and the bids rejected by the school board June 11.

He said that it would only take 80 to 100 days for Structo to construct the schools after a contract between the board and Structo is signed.

WITH COOPERATION, the two schools would be ready by the end of September, he added.

The board turned back all bids because the total of the low bids was about $425,000 higher than the $998,000 bond issue.

Albert Mickelwright was told by the board to investigate the cost of standard construction. He said he would at no extra cost to the board, but pointed out that standard-type construction could not be ready before September, 1957. Structo is also investigating into costs of its construction, at no extra cost to the board.

THE THREE-WEEK period for re-examination of the problem was suggested by Lay Advisory Committee members Francis Sheer, Andrew Zvoloski and Louis Loeb.

Anderson said he felt that would be sufficient time. He also promised that he would head up the investigation and took a large share of the blame for the wide difference in estimates and actual bids.

"I want to make this up to the board even if we take some losses on the job," Anderson said.

STRUCTO HAS offered the board an alternate proposal calling for a smaller all-purpose room.

Should the board accept the alternate proposal, (Continued on Page 8)

Co. Library Bookmobile To Visit Twp. Tuesday

The Somerset County Library's bookmobile will be stationed at Runyon Ave. and Franklin Blvd. Tuesday afternoon from 1:15 to 2:15. It will come to the area every two weeks until Labor Day. The bookmobile carries 1,000 volumes, and persons who wish to borrow a book not carried may order it in advance.

The branch library at the Township Hall, Middlebush, is also served by the bookmobile, and is open each Tuesday from 2 to 4 p. m. There is also a branch of the library in Griggstown.

Board Denies Two Variances

Zoning variances were denied to two applicants and a third application held for further study by the Board of Adjustment, last week. Two other applicants who had advertised hearings failed to show up.

FRANK GLORISI Girard Ave., who was building in Municipal Court of building a two-family house when he had received a permit for a one-family dwelling, was denied a variance which would have made his building legal.

BB Trust Co. Plans Branch Office Here

Franklin Township will get the long-awaited bank, which local business men tried to establish themselves last year.

The Bound Brook Trust Company announced yesterday that state approval had been given for a branch bank in Franklin, to be located on Hamilton Road and Baier Avenue, across from Community Firehouse.

OPENING OF the new bank is scheduled for next January.

The new branch bank will have drive-in teller service and off-street parking facilities, according to Ferd Collins, president of the Bound Brook bank.

"We hope to be able to open our new branch," Collins said, "in time to coincide with the bank's golden anniversary."

Township officials have expressed the belief that a bank in the township will stimulate business in the area and keep pace with the township's home-building boom, as well as provide convenient banking facilities for personal banking.

Resident Fined $350 on Three Zoning Counts

Attilio Lattanzio of Irvington Ave. was fined $350 by Magistrate George Shamy in Municipal Court Monday for three zoning violations.

On condition that the violations be cleared up within 60 days, the magistrate suspended $300 of the fine.

LATTANZIO PLEADED guilty to occupying a building without an occupancy permit, maintaining a lumber yard and building material storage yard in a residential area and operating a lumber and building material supply business in a residential zone.

Architects Plan Modern Design

Submit Sketches of Proposed HA Project

Donald Moss of the architect firm of Boyken & Moss, New Brunswick, submitted sketches of a modern contemporary designed building with a "panel system" of construction to the Housing Authority Tuesday night.

MOSS' SKETCHES of the proposed housing project, to be located between Somerset and Hamilton Sts. north of Millstone Rd., call for "an integrating panel system with masonry piers," casement windows and a flat roof. He also said that he hopes to introduce color in the panels.

Overall cost of the project has been set at $750,000. Moss explained that his construction plan would "use standard materials in a new way."

After the architect's explanations the authority went on record as favoring the "direction" in which they were going as to design and general approach.

The next step is to submit the development program, including the architect's ideas, to the Public Housing Administration for approval.

If the PHA gives its approval, it will provide funds for actual construction.

Mrs. Elizabeth Niebyl, temporary executive director of the Housing Authority, said the development program would be in PHA hands by June 30.

IT IS HOPED that this will give sufficient time for approval by the PHA before the current fiscal year expires on July 31.

On the recommendation of the architect, the authority last night approved Raymond P. Wilson of New Brunswick as civil engineer for the upcoming housing project.

The firm of Vogelbach and Baumann, Jersey City, was approved for mechanical and electrical engineering services, and Michael Burris of Engelwood was named the landscape architect.

Three appraisers were approved, one of whom will be selected to appraise the housing project site. They are Joseph Connor of New Brunswick, Mrs. Elizabeth Katz of Middlebush and Nicholas Friday of New Brunswick.

It was disclosed that David S. Davies, field representative for New Jersey of the Urban Renewal Administration, would appear at the authority's July 10 meeting to give information on a proposed slum clearance program for the township.

ped one, with a big enough auditorium for basketball games, dances, PTA affairs, graduation exercises and anything else needed.

Of course, what nobody dared say at last Tuesday evening's meeting of the board, the Strouto people, the Lay Advisory Committee and assorted interested citizens, was that what we need are some junior high facilities as well as elementary schools because we have the first two years of junior high, the seventh and eighth grades, to provide for in our elementary schools.

But such a head of steam got built up on the subject last year that nobody wants to open up old wounds.

It was good to see a number of new people at the meeting. These all seemed to be young people who now have, or will be having children in the schools, and it is fitting that they should begin to take some of the responsibility for the decisions which will affect them as citizens of the township.

School's out, and so are the kids. So what are we going to do with them?

Lots of middle-aged men, who should know better, like to reminisce on the good old days, when they stole watermelons from Farmer Brown's field, swam in forbidden places, and spent the vacation doing things for which they would now be picked up a juvenile delinquents.

There is very little around a modern home to keep a child occupied. No wood to bring in, no need to carry water, no much garden to weed, a power mower that finishes off the lawn in minutes, and so on.

And in many families, mom is away working to help keep up the payments on the house, the car, the TV, the freezer, and all the other appliances people have been persuaded to buy on time. So what do we do with the kids?

People have grown to depend on the school not only for education but for custodial care. Wouldn't surprise us a bit to see sometime soon a demand begin to build up for the schools to go on the year round.

But right now, we have a three month vacation period, and we have the kids. There are more and more of them all the time, for as the population increases the percentage of school-age children increases with young families buying homes in ever expanding developments.

The Youth Guidance Council, which slumbered peacefully for a long time, finally came to life last summer. They stepped up recreation activities last summer and during the ensuing winter season. Now they have hired a pro, and a good one, Ed Blumberg, to carry out a recreational program.

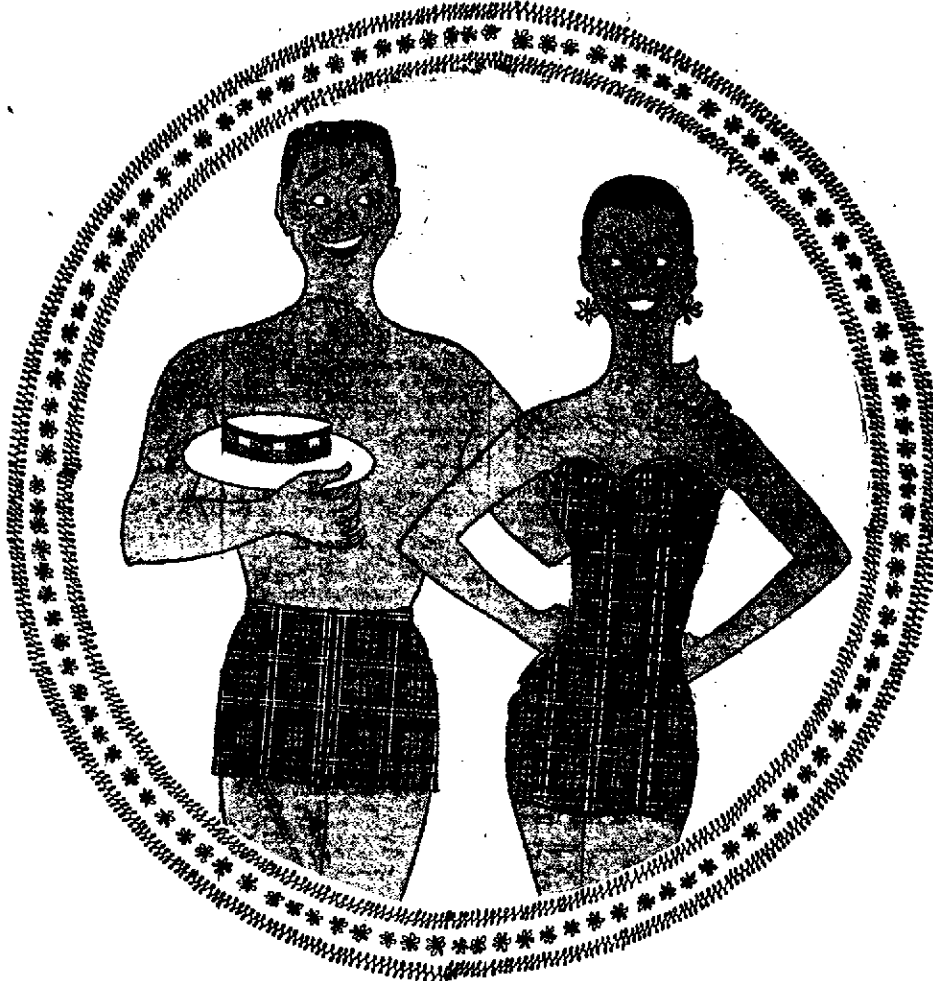

Ed's plans are outlined elsewhere in the RECORD. Any local kid who is going to be around for the summer will find something in the program which will meet his needs and start him back to school in the fall with an improved physique, a better adjustment toward his fellows, and the memory of a happy summer.

And what we specially like about the recreation program is, it isn't all for the boys, either. Just because girls have a tendency to stay out of trouble when they are bored, people sort of forget that they don't necessarily care to stay in the house and play with their dolls, help mother with the cooking, or sit under a tree and read Elsie Dinsmore all summer.

Ed has some activities lined up for the girls, and it's to be hoped they'll be out in force to take advantage of them.

'Tranquilizers' in Wide Use

Over 35,000,000 prescriptions will be written this year for tranquilizing drugs, the latest weapon of the drug manufacturing industry against mental illness, the nation's No. 1 health problem.

Although so widely talked about that they are figuring in radio and television jokes and although they have been subjected to indiscriminate use, such incidents can not overshadow the real contributions of this valuable group of therapeutic agents to the nation's health, according to Health, News Institute, the information agency for the health field.

IN THE HANDS of physicians, these new products of pharmaceutical research are finding an increasing number of medical uses as a therapy for the over-tired housewife and the tension-ridden business man who might otherwise become a candidate to fill a bed in a mental institution. In fact, a New York pharmaceutical market research firm reports that 3 of the 10 compounds prescribed most frequently by physicians in 1955 were tranquilizers.

Virtually unknown in the United States two years ago, the tranquilizers have had wide use in mental hospitals. They have enabled many hospital patients to benefit from psychotherapy for the first time.

With the original tranquilizers making their chemical breakthrough on mental illness, research laboratories of many pharmaceutical companies turned their attention to the search for compounds which would widen the front.

A GOOD description of the effect of the tranquilizers is recorded in a paper on promazine by Dr. J. F. Fizekas and his associates at the District of Columbia Hospital in the Medical Annals of the District of Columbia. One psychotic patient receiving the drug stated that her hallucinations had by no means disappeared, but that she was no longer alarmed by them.

"The devil still talks to me," she said, "but I don't bother to holler back at him."

Milder tranquilizers, for use by doctors in treating those of the eight to 12 million Americans who need psychiatric care or relief from anxiety but do not require hospitalization, have also been developed. It is these that are appealing to housewives and business men, not to mention actors and others under stress.

Chief among them is meprobamate, marketed as Miltown by Wallace Laboratories, New Brunswick, and as Equanil by Wyeth Laboratories. Related to a drug used since the end of World War II as a muscle relaxant in rheumatic and neurologic disorders meprobamate is useful for anxious, tense patients.

MOST DOCTORS agree that the tranquilizing agents are not a "cure" for mental illness and that their real value lies in making mental patients more amenable to psychotherapy. However, this does not detract from their value as an opening wedge in the fight against mental disease.

Complications have occurred with some of the drugs, although there appears to be a wide margin of safety. They should be taken only by patients under a physician's care. By federal law the drugs can be purchased from a registered pharmacist only on the prescription of a physician.

"I REMEMBER"
 BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Paul Morgan, Los Angeles, Calif.: Almost fifty years ago I was a young boy down on the farm. Part of my daily chores was to chop and saw wood each day (enough for the following day). I had my choice, could do it before or after school — most always did it after school. A kid with a sharp ax could chop a lot of wood.

During a snow I had to shovel a path to the chicken house, pig pen, corn crib and the little lonely vine covered house.

I would get all slicked up for school, with a school bag over my shoulder and shoe box filled with real good food and an apple or pear. Only rich kids ate oranges (now, here in California, with oranges plentiful, I never see kids eating one) — there were other chores, like gathering and cleaning eggs and taking them to the country store to exchange for groceries from a list that Mom had made. Every few weeks the chicken house had to be cleaned and white-washed... Saturdays you were handed a black stick of stove polish and rags to polish and clean the kitchen stove... when finished you were as black as the Gold Dust Twins.

Kids did not have much time to play but did enjoy going fishing or hunting every time they were free from the many, many chores around a farm... but in the evening by the fireplace there was plenty of fun playing checkers, dominoes, Old Maid, etc.

Then with a candle in a holder in one hand and a hot brick wrapped in a newspaper off you went to bed to dream of tomorrow.

EASY DOES IT
BY... HELEN HALE

IT'S easy to have a picnic if you keep things in an almost ready state while the season is on. You can have a hamper all packed, for example, with paper or plastic plates, napkins, cups, plastic cutlery, salt and pepper shakers and a plastic tablecloth.

If your picnics come on weekends, then make up spreads for sandwiches a day or two before

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE
Tutti-Frutti Punch
(Serves 16 punch cups)
2 pints lemon sherbet
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup pineapple juice
1 6-ounce can frozen orange juice
2 tablespoons maraschino cherry juice
3 cups chilled ginger ale

Pack sherbet into one quart ring mold and freeze. Combine lemon, pineapple, and orange juice which has been diluted with water according to can directions. Add maraschino cherry juice and mix well; chill. To serve, pour juices into punch bowl, add ginger ale and unmold sherbet ring into bowl by pressing hot cloths on it. Garnish, if desired, with fresh berries and mint sprigs.

and keep them refrigerated in covered jars.

Bowls of vegetable relishes can be made in advance of the picnic day. What about chilling some carrot strips and celery? Keep tomatoes and cucumbers cleaned and chilling in the hydrator. Then you need only pack these in plastic bags before going.

If you have freezing facilities, make hamburger patties or keep wieners and buns frozen so they're ready to go on the picnic, thus saving you last minute shopping.

Wanted---A Sure Way to Beat the Heat!

When, on a June day with the temperature soaring into record breaking figures, the staff of the RECORD--attempted to conduct a random survey on how their they were greeted with mixed emotions, were meeting the heat, fions.

The first voice on the other end of the line sounded as if she had just discovered a miraculous brew! She had just been called in from cutting the grass and was most eager to volunteer any information.

Her advice was to try to forget the thermometer reading. If this prove dispossible, however, she realistically suggested a trip to the shore or mountains as the only alternatives.

After this pleasant conversation, we tackled with zest the list of names and phone numbers chosen at random from the phone book.

Actual disappointment followed when two numbers rang and rang and we were forced to hang up without an answer.

The next person sounded as if she had just been pulled from an air-conditioned room, down three flights of stairs, to answer the phone, and didn't care who knew it. After trying to introduce friendly conversation into the frigid silence, we continued undaunted down the list.

A. It seemed as if the local population had either packed up and moved to cooler climates, or were suffering so badly from the sun that they completely disregarded the ringing of the phone. Or if anyone was taking cover under a blanket of tepid water in the bathtub, curiosity failed to make him answer its insistent clamor.

The majority of the summer sufferers inspired our sympathy. However, it was found that suspicion still lurks in the minds of some of our neighbors. A few refused to divulge whether or not the June heat bothered them.

Those with air-conditioning really praised its wonders although a few mentioned the discomfort of leaving an air-conditioned room. Iced tea had its advocates; beer and television also proved popular.

Alack, we discovered no new, sure or unusual heat-beaters. If you have one, let us know. We'll be glad to share your discovery with our readers.

Our results just showed that Mark Twain was right when he said, "Everyone complains about the weather but nobody does anything about it." He must have made a similar survey.

Is Religion Free in USSR? Pastor Weighs Glowing Russian Report

(Ed. Note: The following report was written by the Rev. Alex Leonovich, pastor of the Russian Baptist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Leonovich, Sedor Babch, Andrew Kulichick and Miss Nadine Kurlichick represented the local church at a farewell service for members of the executive committee of the Russian Evangelical Baptist Union of Soviet Russia in New York City Monday. Special delegates from Russian Baptist Churches in five states attended.)

By The Rev. Alex Leonovich
After a short season of prayer, Rev. Ilya Ivanov, treasurer of the Baptist movement in Russia, gave words of greeting from the Christians in Soviet Union.

He said, "We had heard that there are many Christians in America, but we were wondering if that were so. Now we are satisfied in having seen for ourselves that it is so."

He said that he had been a Christian for 20 years, and concluded saying, "We are all called to peace, in the Lord and as nations."

Rev. Nikolai Levandants, vice-president of the Union, reported that there are 10,000 to 12,000 converts yearly, baptised and admitted into the local churches which are enjoying a growth never seen before.

"We had hardships," he said different from what we have seen amongst our American brethren. However, the Lord has helped us and saw us through."

REV. JACOB ZHIDKO, president of the Baptist movement in Russia said, "We have full freedom now to carry on the Lord's work not only in the churches, but in cottage meetings."

It was interesting for the writer of this report to note the emphasis placed on the word "now" and the attention to permission for "Cottage Meetings".

He further stated that, due to the present economy, it is not possible to build churches or Bible Schools but they hope in the near future these things too can be done.

The executive Secretary of the Baptist movement in Russia is Rev. Alexander Karev. He reported that there are more than 520,000 registered members in the Russian Baptist Union in Soviet Russia.

"But there are so many churches and groups of two and three hundred members, not to speak of smaller groups of believers, who are located deep in the interior of Russia with whom, because of the vast distances, we haven't any contact and actually do not even know of their existence. If all these members would be made known to us, we would be amazed and you would be surprised no end," he said.

He added that there is a real desire among the people in Russia to hear about God. Churches are so over-crowded that there is "no place for even an apple to fall."

DURING THE QUESTION period from the floor, a question was raised, "Are there Sunday-Schools in the churches of Russia." In spite of all the liberties spoken of, and seemingly enjoyed by the people and churches of Russia, the writer of this report was surprised to learn that there are no Sunday Schools or any Gospel work amongst the children, except where parents teach their own children or ask the minister to do so individually.

Four young men, from the Russian Baptist movement of that country will go to Great Britain next year to study at Spurgeon's College, a Divinity School, preparing themselves for the ministry.

The writer feels that the members of the Executive Committee of the Russian Baptist Movement of Soviet Russia are genuine Christians, who under the circumstances have not been able to speak freely of everything that was upon their heart. The people whom they represent are those who have suffered much for their faith in God.

Board Denies

was discussed and a member of the Board introduced his original building permit in evidence.

FRANK HIGGINS was denied a variance to keep trucks on the Berger Farm in the Kingston area. Michael Peacos and Dan Fernandez appeared to protest the granting of the variance and charged that Higgins has been keeping, servicing and repairing 12 Diesel trucks on the property in question, which is in an agricultural zone.

Peacos said that the Kingston Improvement Association objected to the variance and that the Association's representative had intended to appear and protest but had been delayed.

W. W. FORBES pointed out that any citizen has a right to complain about specific violations, to which Peacos responded, "If we sign a complaint and go to court every time there's a violation, we'd be bankrupt. We are entitled to protection and if a condition is known to the police and the zoning officer, it should be corrected."

Forbes told him that the Board of Adjustment was not an enforcement body and that the only way to keep down violations was for interested citizens to be constantly vigilant.

Dr. Morgan Upton's application to erect a tool house on his property six feet from the property line on DeBow Street was taken under advisement and members of the Board will inspect the premises.

ternate Structo proposal. It would have the 10-room school in Franklin Park and two 11-room units, each with its own all-purpose room and kitchen facilities on the Elizabeth Avenue site.

Anderson said there was more to the $425,000 over-bidding than the changes from basic Structo design.

"SOME INFLUENCES were at work (that made the bids very unrealistic. The differences would be funny if they were not so tragic," he said.

"I don't know what the reasons were. But I will find out during the next three weeks," he added. Kenneth Fink, board member who conducted the first part of the meeting, said the work on Kingston School was going ahead despite the holdup on the two new schools.

Reformed Church Opens Vacation School Monday

"Abraham: Father of the Faithful" will be the sermon topic Sunday of the Rev. Vernon Dethmers, pastor of the Middlebush Reformed Church at the 9:30 a.m. service. Infant Baptism will be administered. The Choir will sing, "Immortal, Invisible" by Thilman, under the direction of Mrs. K. Veghte.

Ushers will be William American and Samuel Pillsbury.
