

Tax Queries Raised By $1,000,000 Land Sale

The Township Committee concluded its business in about 45 minutes last night and the remainder of the three-hour session was taken up by questions and complaints from the 42 residents who attended the meeting.

Chief among the subjects of discussion was that of tax assessments on vacant land. The reputed sale of a tract of about 800 acres for a million dollars caused residents to inquire as to how the land was assessed for taxes.

TAX ASSESSOR Stephen C. Reid, who attended the meeting, challenged the questioners to tell him exactly what blocks and lots were sold, and the price, before he could be expected to tell them what the taxes on the land amounted to. He explained that the use to which land is put changes its value, and that he had received no transfer notice on which to take action.

Carl Dockertorch argued that the RCA property, which had been sold for more than $1,000 an acre, was assessed at $13 to $35 an acre, and that this was not fair to the home owner.

"There is something cockeyed about the assessment methods," he said. "The owners are sitting on a gold mine, and they should pay adequate taxes on their property."

HERMAN CALVO took up the cudgels for the landowners, and said that he knew that the owner of one of the large tracts which

No Fireworks, Chief Warns

Police Chief Ed Voorhees warned residents today that federal and state laws govern the use of fireworks in this area and that residents are not permitted to set off fireworks.

The chief pointed out that a state law provides a $100 fine, three months in jail, or both, for selling, transporting or possessing fireworks. And he stated that a federal law provides a $1,000 fine, a year in prison, or both for transporting fireworks to states where they are illegal.

Chief Voorhees said that he has no choice but to enforce these laws and to instruct township police on duty July 4th to see that the statutes are rigidly adhered to.

Prizes Slated For Paraders

The annual children's Fourth of July parade will be held in Middleburgh at 11 a. m. The parade's course is short enough for the smallest child, starting at the school, going around the front street, Railroad Avenue, the back street, and to the church grounds, where refreshments will be served and each child in the parade will receive a prize.

PRIZES OF silver dollars are traditionally awarded for the best costumes in a number of categories and for the best decorated bicycles and floats.

Robert Gaynor is chairman of arrangements, sponsored by the Men's Club of Middleburgh Church. Madison Weidner headed the committee which raised funds to finance the day's activities, which will include a ball game at the school grounds in the afternoon.

Township Talk

Frank Vomacha says that, although he did intend to attend the meeting of the Board of Adjustment on June 11, he did not, as reported, intend to make an official protest on Frank Higgin's application to keep trucks on the Berger farm.

The matter was mentioned, but not officially disapproved, at the meeting of the Kingsport Improvement Association. Frank attends township meetings, representing the association, but merely as an observer.

This is a good time to remind you that the RECORD is always glad to correct any errors of fact. If you think we are wrong, please let us know. And in matters of opinion expressed in this column, if you don't agree, we may still stand our ground, but we'd like to hear how you feel about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dolchy Sr. allowed the Ralph Sellers to clear up the two lots they own on Smith Road for a ball field, much to the enjoyment of the people at the Middleburgh Church Married Couples Fellowship picnic held there last Saturday. Everybody concerned appreciated their generosity.

Police Chief Ed Voorhees has warned the township that he is going to enforce the fireworks law. That is a subject of great concern to this reporter. One of the most gruesome memories of youth is that of having to sit in a car stalled in traffic near a burning building and watch the five bodies of schoolmates, who died in a fireworks tragedy, carried out to the ambulance. And then there was the wonderful teacher in college, a charming and brilliant woman who should also have been beautiful, but whose face was just one big scar, the result of a firecracker exploding in her face when she was a child.

The do-it-yourself lad should not extend to setting off fireworks. If

Million Dollar Land Deal May Mean New Homes Here

HA Submits Plans for 50 Units to PHA

The Housing Authority met the June 30 deadline last night and sent in its plans for a low-cost housing installation in the township to the Public Housing Authority.

Specifications submitted call for a series of two-story buildings containing 50 family units. There will be six apartments with one bedroom, 20 with two bedrooms, eight with three bedrooms and six with four bedrooms.

This proposition was arrived at as a result of a survey of the area made by Rutgers University students under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Nelby, temporary executive secretary of the Authority.

THE BUILDINGS will be of masonry construction with a flat roof and will be designed along modern lines. A community building of 1,000 square feet will be included, which can be used as a meeting hall.

The sum of $720,420 was given as total cost for the project. Of this, $541,800 will be spent for actual construction and equipping of the dwellings, which will cost an average of $13,410 per unit, or $2,167 per room.

The Authority spent $18,028 for the site, of which $15,000 was for land, the remainder being for costs such as surveying, fees, etc. The amount of land purchased was 4.82 acres including one half acre from

A land deal, involving the purchase of more than 735 acres in the township at a cost reported to be in excess of one million dollars, was completed this week.

Three properties are reported to be involved in the transaction: the Appleman tract, approximately 570 acres; the Rubin farm, about 85 acres; and the Romano property, about 70 acres.

The transactions involve land covering more than two miles from Easton Ave. to Hamilton St. along Leupp Lane.

The property is situated in a Residence A and agricultural zone. One of the real estate agents involved in the transaction, Aaron Jelin of Edward J. Sneider Co. of New Brunswick, stated that he believed the property is intended for development. He added that he did not believe the homes would be of the "small, cheap type."

JELIN SAID he could not give the name of the purchaser but indications pointed to wealthy Creek business interests involved in the purchase.

If the land is developed, it would be necessary to install water and sewerage lines before building.

Denker Named A'sst. Provost At Rutgers U.

Dr. David D. Denker of New Brunswick Rd., Franklin Township, has been appointed assistant provost of Rutgers University President Dr. Lewis Webster Jones announced this week.

Denker, who holds a BA and PhD. from Yale University, came to Rutgers from Yale, where he taught history and for three years directed a summer program of American Studies for Foreign Students.

At Yale, Dr. Denker was cited for exceptional distinction in history and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Gatlings Arrested in Phila. Hotel on Check Charges

South River's uranium prospectors, the Gatling brothers, Vernon and Alvin, of Blissetts Place, have been apprehended by Philadelphia police at the request of Middlesex County Chief of Detectives J. Stephen Drossick.

The boys had been indicted in May for passing two bad checks to an employee in their uranium prospecting office in New Brunswick.

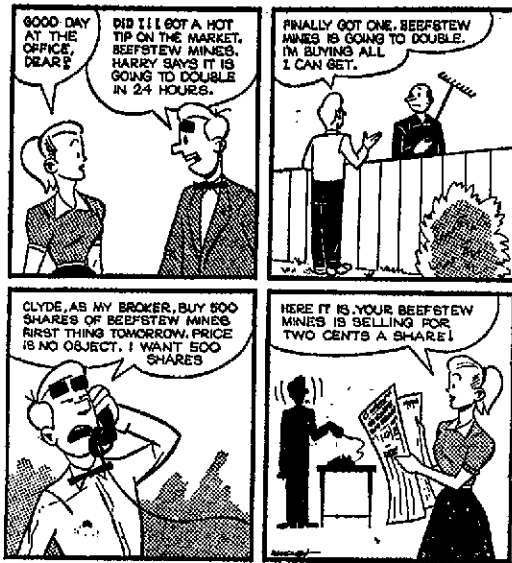

They had been given until Friday to appear before county authorities on a warrant issued by County Judge Klemmer Kakeissen. When they failed to appear, Kakeissen directed Assistant Prosecutor C. John Stroumstos to have the men arrested and jailed without delay. It was known that they were living at the Flamingo Hotel in Philadelphia.

The Gatlings refused to waive extradition and proceedings have been started to extradite them to New Jersey for court action in Middlesex.

Sharleen Kerr of Somerville, who was employed at the Gatlings' office at 115 Albany St., New Brunswick, charged that the brothers paid her with checks for $13.71 and $10.48, both of which were worthless.

Middlesex Trails 1955 Road Toll

Middlesex County, with 33 fatalities below the deadly pace it set during the same period in 1955. The figure, which included all highway deaths through Sunday, put the county in a tie for fifth place with Burlington County in road deaths for 1955. There were 348 in the state, five more than during the comparable period last year.

Check Backyard Danger Spots

Is a danger lurking in your backyard? Home gardeners beware. There are more accident traps in your garden spot than meet the eye. Don't leave long-handled tools, such as hoes and rakes, laying on the ground. Upraised rake pronges can puncture feet. Flying handles can knock you cold. Paint tool handles a color such as orange or bright yellow to make them clearly visible. They should be put away promptly.

BE CERTAIN you have storage space for tools. Tools, particularly those with sharp edges, should be kept out of children's reach. Hand tools and long-handled tools should be hung on a wall storage board.

Wear heavy gloves when planting, handling or pruning thorny bushes such as roses or barberries. Some 17,000 people get hurt annually while pruning. Follow safe ladder practice when working and use your pruning tool correctly.

Garden sprays and insecticides should be kept locked up when not in use. If you do not have a locker, they should, at least, be out of the reach of children.

Read the directions on each product carefully with special attention to the precautions listed. Never swallow or inhale any spray or insecticide. It is designed to kill.

Let your lazy tendencies rule you this summer, suggests the Institute for Safer Living. You'll be far less vulnerable to accidents and injury if you don't overdo. Don't let the heat knock you cold. Wait for a cool evening or a cloudy day to tackle the heavy jobs. Laziness can save lives.

GARDENING AND LAWN mowing are chores which often lead to sunstroke and heat exhaustion. It is important to be able to recognize the symptoms of heat exhaustion and sunstroke because wrong treatment in either case may be tragic.

Sunstroke makes the skin dry and hot, turns the face red, causes a high fever. This is accompanied by a throbbing headache, dizziness and hard breathing. Cool the person's body with cold water or cloths. His head should be raised. Give him cold water, never ice, to drink.

Heat exhaustion is the result of loss of salt through excessive sweating. The skin is cold, the face pale and purplish in color. Chills may be accompanied by cramps. Keep head low. Keep person warm. Give stimulant such as hot coffee.

MORE AMERICANS are involved in accidents while seeking relaxation or working in and about the home than are hurt while engaged in their everyday jobs. That is reported by the Institute for Safer Living. One out of every five home accidents this summer will be in the yard.

This accident rate can be cut if home gardeners start now to banish the injury traps that lurk in the yard.

CD Volunteers Unsung Heros

Second in a Series
By Leonard Drayfus
Chairman Governor's Civil Defense Advisory Committee.

Civil Defense in New Jersey saves our taxpayers more than $20 million a year. This is a startling statement, but it is true!

New Jersey has 268,000 Civil Defense volunteers, more than 41,000 auxiliary firemen, just to mention two categories.

These people are patriotic citizens who do not get a dime for their services. They turn out for duty whenever they are asked. You will see them directing traffic in our communities any week-end. They worked around the clock when we had hurricane and flood conditions. The smallest estimate we can make of the value of their services is $25 million a year, and this is figuring an average of only a half-a-day service each week.

These citizens, who are enrolled as Civil Defense volunteers, are really, unsung heroes. I'm sure every one of them would rather go fishing or play golf or do something else than perform the highly necessary jobs they are given in their communities. Their service to their neighbor is the very essence of good citizenship and they provide a background force of a quarter of a million people trained, if there is an emergency, to jump right into action.

Go to the Civil Defense chairman in your community and offer your services. I think you will be surprised what a good feeling it will give you.

If you're sure the other fellow is right it is a good plan to follow in his footsteps.

Today is when we build a lot of tomorrows out of yesterdays.

Drowning Is No. 2 Accidental Killer; List Safety Rules for Swimmers

The number two accidental killer of young adults is on the march again. Drowning will be the cause of 1,200 deaths among the 15 to 24 year old age group this year, predicts the Institute for Safer Living.

Drownings, among this group, are exceeded only by auto fatalities in shocking frequency. June, July and August are ten months when well over half of all drownings occur, most of them through the most healthful of all sports—swimming.

The Institute has found that because the young adult is likely to become over confident and feel superior to the observance of simple safety rules in swimming, he is tempted to take chances. Adventure, at this age, is more thrilling than security. 15 to 24 year olds are subject to special dangers.

- HERE ARE WATER safety rules prepared by the Institute for Safer Living especially for young adults.
1. Avoid the temptation of being scolded in the water. "Stunts" and "showing off" may rate cheers from the crowd, but watch out for making accident news as a tragic aftermath.
 2. The "buddy system" may sound like "kid stuff," but it has real merit for older persons as well. If each swimmer selects a friend who is a good swimmer to watch and be watched by, there's far less chance of either swimmer getting into trouble.
 3. Diving takes real skill—and caution. Find out first whether the water is deep enough, whether hidden rocks, submerged crags, stumps and sand bars are lurking beneath the surface to produce a hazardous diving area.
 4. Even if you are not diving, explore depths with caution. Currents may wash away at river and ocean floors, changing depths rapidly enough to make even an often frequented spot a place full of surprises. If you urisk the unknown in water, you are inviting danger.
 5. Abide by the often quoted rule: after eating, wait at least one hour before going into the water.
 6. Avoid swimming alone. Night dips are dangerous, despite the moonlight splendor of the hour, even when you're in a group.
 7. Watch beaches where waves break with such force as to cause underflows or currents. They may drag a swimmer under and away from shore. If you don't know about the local undertows ask a native.

8. Don't overdo yourself. When you swim out from shore remember you've got to swim back. Exhaustion is the prime danger in the water.
9. Never pretend you're in trouble in the water. You may cry "wolf" once too often and find no one heeds your real cries for help.

ONE LAST WORD of advice to beach devotees: don't try to get that summer tan all in one session under the sun! Experts at the Institute for Safer Living point out that crippling skin burns and, occasionally, death can result. Cover exposed skin areas with a generous amount of anti-burn ointment squeezed from a handy metal tube and repeat the dose after each swim. Always cover up at the first sign of pinkness.

Your Garden

By Charles H. Connors
Rutgers University

One day last winter I watched a neighbor go about a garden task that involved both horticulture and design.

People are prone to put too many features in their front lawns. It is an abomination, I feel, to use a tall fence in a city or suburban property.

IN THE CASE under discussion which is in a city environment, well-lighted by streetlamps, the property owner had put in a light standard with lamp on top. He did not stop to consider the real landscape value of the object, which would be suitable under rural or semi-rural suburban conditions.

Having put in his light standard, he planted a vigorous growing climbing rose, one that when established and nurtured may produce four to six shoots every year that will be 10 to 12 feet long, against a lamp post 7 or 8 feet tall. These high school boys planning to participate in the 1956 upland hunting season were urged today to secure the required certificate showing they have completed a course in gun safety and then purchase a hunting license at their convenience.

The State Division of Fish and Game, Department of Conservation and Economic Development, is making every effort to get the early cooperation of future hunters in order to avoid confusion shortly before the season opens.

The State law requires that an applicant for a 1956 license to hunt, who is above the age of 14 and below the age of 21, must produce a 1955 hunting license before an issuing agent, or a certificate stating he has satisfactorily completed a course in gun safety.

Game Warden Walter Robinson, in charge of the Hunter Safety Course, has completed a number of meetings throughout the State attended by Hunter Safety Instructors in an effort to get the instructions underway as early as possible. These district meetings were held in Milltown, Lakehurst, Millville, Morris Plains. A similar meeting is being arranged for instructors in Essex, Hudson, Bergen and Union Counties.

Purposes of the meeting are to further acquaint the Hunter Safety instructors with the State's safety program in handling guns; coordinate various county groups; properly explain the insurance coverage which the State has provided, and inform the instructors of the role to be practiced by the State Fish and Game Wardens in the individual counties.

The Division of Fish and Game has also arranged to place adequate signs on school buses and on school bulletin boards throughout the State informing high school youth of the law requiring a course in gun safety before hunting is allowed. The signs read:

Strong new shoots produce the best bloom.

As I watched this new gardener he was pruning off most of the desirable flowering wood, leaving only the old canes and cutting back the old flower stems. It is true that by this process he will have some bloom this year, but if the method of pruning is continued the plant will be gradually weakened and may eventually die.

In this particular situation, if a rose is desirable, one of the so-called dooryard roses, of which Beas Lovett is an example, might prove more suitable. Probably some other type of vine would be better.

Pillar roses have a use in the garden, perhaps on an old tree trunk, on a utility pole where they will not be a nuisance or on posts set for the purpose, in a place where an accent may be needed.

The best rose for the purpose is the Rambler type, with clusters of rather small roses. When the plant has become established, sometimes even after the first year, pruning is very simple.

THE MOST floriferous wood is the long, new canes, formed the year before. As soon as the last flowers have faded, cut almost to the ground all the canes that have bloomed, leaving, of course, new canes that may have started. As the new canes develop at the base, tie them up.

It takes about five quarts of milk to make one pound of American cheese. Five ounces of American cheese provide as much calcium and protein as one quart of milk, or near half the amount of protein needed each day by the average person. Besides being rich in calcium and phosphorus, protein and fat, it contains the milk vitamins as well.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From William Sommersville, Parsons, W. Va.: I remember when I was a boy I used to go to the country store with my mother and buy Arbuckle's Coffee for 10c per pound and granulated sugar for 3c and the best of slab bacon for 5c per pound. These kitchen necessities were usually exchanged for chickens, eggs and butter and very little money was used.

The wages at the time were 60c per day of ten hours or more. The winters were longer and very severe with deep snows and large drifts which took up into the spring months to melt away. Sometimes in early May.

I also remember the old up and down saw mill located on a small creek near my father's farm which was run by water power, the oven at that time it was obsolete and not in use.

The grist mill was also very common at that time. They were run by water power supplied by a dam built in the main creek. I used to carry many a grist of corn to the mill on my back when the horse had other work to do in the field.

The most used firearms at that time was the muzzle loading rifle, a few muzzle loading shotguns were in use. The principal way of preserving many kinds of fruits was by drying on a roof in the sun or stringing on the strings and hanging them behind the stoves to dry. When dry, they were usually placed in empty flour bags and hung up on nails for winter use.

PUBLIC SERVICE

You think its just not Fourth of July without fireworks, there are several places in the vicinity where there will be public displays including Milltown and Princeton.

Let's get it straight about how taxes are arrived at. You the taxpayer either did or did not vote in the school election. If you didn't, you have no cause to holler. If you did, you voted in a school budget which accounts for 70 per cent of your taxes.

The remainder is township running expenses, thoroughly aired at a public hearing, plus a small amount for county and library tax over which the township has no control.

While we do feel that there should be higher assessments, and a lower rate, and while the assessor himself admits there may be some inequities, the money has to be raised, and we all have to pay a share. And you do have not only the right, but the duty, to bring any inequities you know about and can prove to the attention of the county tax board.

Leave us prayerfully hope that the million dollars worth of land in the township which was bought by prison or persons unknown this week will not fill up with houses too fast. People have to live somewhere, but the growing pains of any municipality are in direct proportion to the rate of growth.

Residents Air

owns not paying taxes if supplied with information.

WILLIAM UMBEHAUER of 251 Park St. asked the assessor if he could use help in his job. Reid replied that he could use "plenty of help."

Asked whether he could re-assess homes in the newer developments during the next year, Reid said that would be physically impossible if he had to do the job alone. Although he did not condemn a proposal to have an outside appraisal firm come into the township for a complete re-assessment job, Reid said that the project would take several men seven to eight months to carry out the task.

Speaking on the suggested reappraisal, Reid said he had not had time to study the suggestion and was not ready to speak for or against it.

AFTER FACING a minor bombardment of complaints that his assessments were unfair, Reid replied that he could only assume that in the past 14 years he had been doing his job fairly.

"I have only had about 70 appeals made during the time I've been in office," he said.

A Franklin Hills resident claimed he knew of $20,000 homes on full acre lots that were assessed at only $2,000, while he owned a $13,500 dwelling on a half-acre lot assessed at a higher amount.

Reid said this did seem unfair. He said he would investigate if provided with necessary information. At the same time he suggested that the man incorporate this information in any appeal he makes to the county board.

Reid told one man that he should make a complaint to Mayor James G. Misler or other members of the Township Committee, an alleged misleading information provided by developers on taxes.

SEVERAL PERSONS objected when Reid said he assessed meadow property at between $15 and $35 an acre. Reid told them that this is a just amount as long as the land can not be used for other purposes.

He said he can not look into the future and assess the property for a higher amount on the assumption it might be sold to a developer.

He said he would investigate statements by several persons that some farmers in the northwestern section of the municipality were demanding $4,000 an acre as the sale price for their land.

Reid indicated the assessments would be raised if he learns this to be true.

Land Sale Raises

figured in the recent "million dollar" sale bought the land in 1945 and received no income from it but $20 a year for grazing rights. "The farmers paid taxes for years," he said, "without getting anything at all."

THE BOUND BROOK Water Company will be permitted to lay mains in the Elizabeth Ave. section of the township if an ordinance introduced by the township committee last night is passed. The ordinance, which allows the water company to cover a smaller area than the one proposed and defeated several weeks ago, will come up for public hearing July 26.

If passed it will provide water for new housing developments contemplated in the area and for the Elizabeth Ave. School planned by the Board of Education.

The committee introduced ordinances to permit the varoling of streets, most of which were "paper streets," or streets indicated on the map but not actually built. One ordinance listed streets in the section where the Elizabeth Ave. School will be built, and the other released land in the tract between Hamilton St. and Lincoln Highway north of Millstone Road which will be used for the Housing Authority and the township park.

ANOTHER ORDINANCE introduced will reduce the setback distance of garages from eight feet to three feet at the back or side of a class A building lot.

A letter was received from the State Highway Department approving the transfer of unexpended highway formula funds from the Blackwell's Mill Road to be used for the improvement of DeMott Road.

The committee approved liquor license applications for 13 plenary retail dealers, four retail distributors and two clubs. These were listed in legal advertisements in last week's RECORD.

Commission Lists Plans To Attract Industry to Twp.

The Industrial Development Commission plans to issue a brochure setting forth the advantages of Franklin as a home for clean, quiet manufacturing plants, according to Robert Smock, public relations chairman.

"WE WANT to be careful to attract the right kind of industry," Smock told the RECORD, "the kind of plants that will be good neighbors."

Members of the commission, appointed by the township committee last January, are Alex Katchen, W. W. Forbes, Milton Stoll, secretary; Edmund Jenkins, Carl Meier and Smock. They have been meeting regularly the third Wednesday of each month, selling up plans not only to attract industry, but to be ready with information and recommendations for controlling industrial expansion so that it will fit in with the residential growth of the township.

The Romano property is on the westerly side of Leupp Lane and adjoins the Rubin farm, which lies on both sides of the lane and has approximately 700 feet of frontage on Hamilton St.
