READY!—All set and rarin' to go to the Bronx Zoo is one of the three busloads.

Strike Slashes Bus Service, One Per Hour

Only one bus an hour from the Millstone Bus Line, Franklin Township, will be running during the day between the hours of 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., as a result of the bus drivers strike.

The drivers went on strike at midnight Wednesday after contract negotiations failed to result in any agreement. A picket line was then set up at the firm's garage in East Millstone.

REPRESENTATIVES of the firm and the union again met with State Mediator James Gallagher in an effort to reach an agreement for a contract to replace the one which expired June 30.

The union first sought a reduction of the work week from 48 to 40 hours, with the same weekly take-home pay scale, and at the session modified its demands to call for a 45-hour week at the same pay as for the recent 48-hour week. The union also sought six holidays instead of three per year, and improved vacation schedules.

The company offered a three cents per hour raise on a two-year contract and at Wednesday's sessions advanced a plan for drivers to work on a percentage, based (Continued on page 8)

License Revoked

Hits 12 Points in One Day

Michael Cimko, 20, of Grouser Rd., East Millstone, who was fined a total of $185 for leaving the scenes of two accidents and reckless driving last week in Franklin Township court, returned to court Monday night to pay the remainder of his fines which he was unable to pay last week.

MAGISTRATE GEORGE Shamy then informed Cimko that his drivers license was to be revoked for an indeterminate period since he had collected enough points in one day under the New Jersey Point System.

The three charges against Cimko were the result of two accidents July 14 in East Millstone. The first occurred in the afternoon when Cimko ran over a bicycle parked on the bank of Canal Rd. The same night he struck a parked car on Livingston Ave.

IN OTHER TRAFFIC cases, John Bello, 19, of 158 S. Main St., Milltown, was fined $15 and $5 costs, and J. L. Chambers, 24, of 188 Delavan St., New Brunswick, paid $10 and $5 costs. Both were charged

Township-Bound Man Aboard Andrea Doria

Michael Dilorio, 20, of Vinchiaturo, Italy, who was on his way to the United States aboard the ill-fated Andrea Doria to visit his uncle, Felice Spensieri of Hamilton Rd., Franklin Township, has been reported aboard the Stockholm.

The Stockholm, which struck the Italian ship yesterday, is bringing in a major number of the survivors from the Doria, which sank.

Spensieri received word today that his nephew is aboard the Stockholm. He is in New York City awaiting the arrival of the vessel. No word has been received concerning his nephew's condition.

Township Talk

The Republicans are having a big picnic Sunday at the Ukrainian Village on Cedar Grove Rd. They report it will become an annual affair.

Food and drink free to all comers from 1 to 9 p. m., according to Chairman Charlie Petrillo. Chairman in charge of providing food is Committeeman Charlie Sicora.

They promise there'll be games, entertainment for the kids, contests, and a chance to meet all the political big shots—but no speeches. How they are going to keep all those politicians from burning into oratory remains to be seen.

There was a time when some people went into teaching if they couldn't get any other job, then got out as soon as something more lucrative came along. It's good to see that trend being reversed, and especially good to see fine young professional men who aren't afraid to change careers and enter the teaching profession.

Two such young men in the township are Bob Courtney, a former worker at J & J who started teaching last winter at Neshean, and Tom Del Casale, who is quitting his job at Penn-supreme to teaching at Pine Grove Manor School this fall. Both young men are taking courses in the Rutgers School of Education to supplement their college degrees and qualify them for permanent licenses.

Still more teachers are needed, however. It certainly doesn't do much good to have those fine new schools without personnel to man them.

Ed Blumberg is a football coach, not a baby-sitter, but it would do you good to see the way he handles not only the children taking part in the recreational program, but also the young people serving under him as recreational supervisors. He treats them as rational people and they respond as such. It's a good experience all the way round.

It seems that in recent times a good bit of censorship and withholding information from the public was not in the interest of national security—but just because somebody decided it wasn't in the public interest for the information to be made available.

Any rational person will freely admit that in wartime there is much information which cannot be disseminated without doing harm. And even in peace time, there are certain areas of information which must be restricted for national defense. But there is no such thing as withholding knowledge "in the public interest."

People can't vote intelligently on questions at issue without knowing not only the question themselves, but the background thereof. There is the other side of the (Continued on Page 8)

Much Discussed Township Park Becomes Reality

The controversial park issue in Franklin Township became a fact last night when the Township Committee passed unanimously on final reading an ordinance designating and dedicating certain lands on Hamilton St. for the first township mobile park and playground.

Christo Dejar of Franklin Park then asked, "What are we doing for the rest of the township?" He complained that the taxpayers are paying for a park in one area while other areas will have to do without.

MAYOR JAMES MAHER explained that they must start somewhere, and others will be arranged for later.

The ordinance is an outgrowth of recent public agitation over the use of part of the tract at the southwest end, for a low-cost housing development. The land had been acquired by the township over a period of twenty years, and that portion taken for the housing project has been replaced by an equal amount of land on the other side of the tract.

Two other ordinances, also were passed unanimously on final reading at the meeting. One provides for the Bound Brook Water Company to lay, remove, and repair its water pipes and waterways on certain streets in the township for a period of 25 years.

Twp. Young GOP To Hear Education Official Tonight

Young Republicans of Franklin Township will hear Richard B. Anliot of the New Jersey Department of Education, guest speaker at a meeting at the Community Firehouse, Hamilton Rd., at 8 tonight.

Anliot is presently a field representative of the state Department of Education, Division Against Discrimination.

Formerly, he served as the first executive director of the Fair Employment Practices Committee of the City of Youngstown, O., for three years. He was also the executive director of the Commission on Human Relations of the City of Paterson, the first full-time director of such a commission in the state.

His prior position was in Washington, D. C., as executive secretary of the American Council on Education's committee on discrimination in higher education.

Anliot has a master's degree in political science from Syracuse University's Maxwell Graduate School of Citizenship and Public Affairs. His undergraduate work was in sociology at Oberlin College in Ohio.

During World War II he enlisted and served in the Air Force. He is a member of the National Association of Intergroup Officials and Delta Sigma Rho, national speech honorary.

He has also been active in community group work activities, scouting and Sunday school teaching. He was chosen "The Man of the Year" by the Youngtown Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Chairman John Carlino will appoint committees and will invite the group to the annual Young Republican picnic at the Ukrainian Village, Franklin Township, July 28.

Plans to sponsor a basketball team, and a fall dance will also be discussed.

PHA Grants HA Allocation For 50-Units

The allocation of $756,450 for the Franklin Township 50-unit low cost housing project by the Public Housing Administration has cleared the project for final architectural work. The approval was announced Wednesday in Washington, according to word received from Congressman Peter Frelinghuysen Jr.

IT WAS ONLY recently that the last municipal obstruction to the housing project was removed as the Zoning Board of Adjustment granted a variance to permit the construction of multiple dwellings on a tract of six acres located between Somerset and Hamilton Sts. near Millstone Rd.

The site had previously been made available with approval of the planning board, although it had been earmarked for a municipal park.

The project will consist of 10 buildings containing 50 apartments with two, three and four bedrooms each, according to plans submitted by Boyken and Moss of New Brunswick, architects. Plans call also for adjoining playgrounds and a community building. Both will be used by all township residents. THE ARCHITECTS are scheduled to submit an alternate set of plans at the Housing Authority's meeting in August, after which the authority will be able to advertise, for bids and proceed with the project.

New Residents Organize, Elect Official Slate

A slate of officers was elected at an organizational meeting of Rutgers Heights residents held in the recreational area of the development.

Elected were William MacKenzie, president; Arthur Stern, vice president; Louis Flep, treasurer, and Mrs. Margaret Benko, recording secretary.

The meeting, attended by 60 residents, was called by Flep, who served as temporary chairman until officers were elected.

THE AIM of the group, which does not have a name yet, is to seek improvements for the residential area. An open forum was conducted at the meeting for the purpose of receiving suggestions.

The four officers were named to serve as a committee to present some of the area's problems to the mayor and township committee.

Superhighways Not Cure All -- Be Careful

Superhighways are not the accident cure-all their enthusiastic early supporters claimed they were, according to the National Safety Council, because even the best road can't overcome driver error.

However, you can avoid trouble on your vacation travels and enjoy wonderful facility of movement if you understand the danger points of superhighway driving. Here are some tips from the Council:

1. SPEED CAUSES most of the trouble—not just ordinary speed, but race track speed which the ordinary motorist seldom contends with. High speed does two things: It gives you less time to think and react in an emergency situation, and it increases the severity of an accident if one does occur. Authorities finally had to impose speed limits on the super roads, because the average driver just couldn't cope with upwards of 70 m.p.h. The limit now is 60 on many roads, and it is a recommended top speed whether there is a posted limit or not.

2. Don't get too conservative, though. Slow drivers cause trouble, too. Traffic experts agree that accidents result from what the engineers call conflicts in movement, and one way to have a conflict is to have some cars traveling a lot faster or slower than the average. So try to drive at about the same pace as traffic in general—neither passing nor being passed frequently.

3. Such differences in speed cause one of the most common types of superhighway accident—the rear-end collision in overtaking and passing. Fast drivers close the gap on trucks, buses and slower-moving cars much more quickly than they expect from their previous experience. Result: they swing out too late to clear the vehicle ahead or fail to see it in time at night.

4. ANOTHER COMMON accident location is the inter-change—the cloverleaf intersection or other means of entry and exit. These cause the speed differential that is so dangerous in fast traffic. A well-designed road should have an acceleration lane for entering cars so that they can reach the proper pace before merging with traffic.

When traffic is heavy, however, entering cars must wait for a chance to break in, and are then forced to come into the traffic stream too slowly. Cars slow down in leaving, too, especially if the driver is uncertain of his route or of the design of the interchange. It is a good idea for through traffic to stay away from the right-hand lane when approaching an interchange. Then you won't be confronted suddenly with a rapidly-breaking car leaving the road, or a slowly moving one pulling in front of you.

5. Spread makes it foolnary to follow another car closely, as proved by the multiple chain reaction crashes that have occurred on superhighways. The interval of one car length for every 10 miles of speed is not enough on an expressway. So allow plenty of room for slowing and stopping. Remember this: at 40 m.p.h. your car will go 44 feet between the time you see danger and you get your foot on the brake, then 84 additional feet to stop if your brakes are good. But at 70, it will take you 77 feet to get on the brake and 256 feet more to stop!

6. STOPPING on a superhighway is dangerous because high speed cars often are unable to stop or veer out in time. This is especially true at night when cars may be traveling too fast to stop within the distance illuminated by headlights. Don't stop on a superhighway for frivolous reasons. If mechanical or other trouble forces a stop, get completely off the highway and send someone back at least 300 feet with a flashlight or flare.

7. Much has been written about highway hypnosis. While its importance as an accident cause never has been definitely measured, the trance-like state induced by mile after mile of effortless driving, of visual concentration on the car or tail-light ahead, and of listening to the drone of the motor and the rush of wind undoubtedly dulls alertness. The alarms, dangers and minor emergencies common to driving on old roads keep the instinct of self-preservation functioning; on the superhighway this animal awareness of danger is lulled and relaxed—too much. So play the radio, converse with passengers, play license plate poker or do anything that will keep you from being mesmerized by steady, fast driving.

8. WHEN SEEKING distraction, though, don't take your eyes from the road. The speed at which traffic is moving on expressways makes quick reaction to danger imperative. So don't let lighting a cigarette, checking a map, or settling a squabble among the children take your eyes from that point several hundred feet ahead of your car where you must see danger and avoid it.

9. Bad weather makes the superhighway no better than the ordinary road. It may even be worse.

Applications Now Available For Miss Seafood Contest

Applications are now being taken for entries in the annual New Jersey State Seafood Princess contest, to be held on Saturday, Aug. 18 at Point Pleasant in connection with the resort's seventh annual Ocean County Big Sea Day celebration, reports Commissioner Joseph E. McLean of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The contest to select a reigning beauty from among the seafood princess contestants is open to any unmarried female between the ages of 17 and 25, a resident of New Jersey, and not a professional model. Contestants will be screened by a judges' committee who will base their decision on photographs submitted by the applicants.

THIS YEAR'S BEAUTY competition and Big Sea Day parade and celebration are expected to attract over 250,000 "Jerseyans" and out-of-state vacationists, according to members of the Greater Point Pleasant Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the affair, with the cooperation of the New Jersey Commercial Seafood Industry and the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The Seafood Princess contestants will be judged in ceremonies at the Point Pleasant beachfront. Winner of the contest will be crowned "New Jersey State Seafood Princess for 1956-57" by the present title-holder, lovely Joan Mehok of Elberon, N. J. The newly crowned princess will ride in a specially built float in the mammoth two-mile Big Sea Day Parade. New Jersey's Governor Robert B. Meyner will act as Grand Marshall for the parade.

APPLICATIONS may be obtained by writing to the Greater Point Pleasant Chamber of Commerce, Point Pleasant, or the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development, 520 E. State St., Trenton, N. J.

Big Sea Day is itself a throwback to the early days of the Lenni-Lenape Indians who inhabited most of New Jersey before the advent of the white man. Once each year, usually the time of the serenade moon in August, when traditionally the seas were at their highest, the Indians held an annual August encampment on the shores of Old Squan Beach.

The custom was followed by the early white settlers and became known as N. J. Farmers' Wash Day, when farmers and settlers abandoned their chores for a day of fun and relaxation at the beach.

WAVES replaced enough Navy men during World War II to man the ships of a major task force including a battleship, 2 carriers, 4 cruisers and 15 destroyers.

Don't Get Taken For A Ride, Says NJ Medical Man

Certainly nowadays politeness is not regularly overdone. In fact, if politeness were more generally practiced many of the fretful leavings and frictions of life would be eliminated.

Nevertheless, under certain circumstances it is folly to be polite — for instance, in the matter of accepting invitations to ride with inexperienced or reckless car drivers, advises one member of the N. J. Medical Society.

The automobile which was intended as a convenience to man, has come to be a juggernaut that maims and kills. In most cases not the cars but the drivers are at fault.

To ride with certain types of foolish or incompetent drivers is to risk your life. Yet sometimes we accept, because we fear that to refuse to ride with them would hurt their feelings.

With the annual national death toll for highway accidents approaching forty thousand, the time has come for forthright honesty of action and attitudes. Your choice is to state an unpleasant truth or to put your life in very real danger.

That lift you are being offered may hurt you beyond time into eternity. Don't be foolishly polite. If you don't trust both the car and the driver, refuse to let yourself be taken for a ride.

Many a man failed because he expected rounds of applause when he began to climb the ladder of success.

Salk Shots Safe All Year Round

Healthy children and pregnant women may safely be inoculated with Salk vaccine at any time during the summer months and the polio season.

In recent years, it was recommended that deferrable inoculations and operations be postponed during the polio season. That recommendation does not apply to the Salk vaccine. Within 10 days, the first Salk inoculation begins to protect from paralysis. The probability of benefit is enormously greater than the probability of risk.

The New Jersey State Department of Health recommends that inoculation of healthy eligibles be continued right on through the summer as rapidly as availability of vaccine permits. The first inoculation may be given at any time. The second should be given not less than two weeks after the first. The third should be given not less than seven months after the second.

Zoning Code Violator Gets Court Warning

Magistrate George Shamy served notice Monday night in Franklin Township court on Mrs. Ruth Warner that she must obtain a zoning permit for her home on Churchill Ave., Franklin Township, within 60 days or the building will be torn down.

Mrs. Warner was charged with using and occupying a lot on Churchill Ave., without obtaining an occupancy permit and erecting or causing to be erected a building on that lot without obtaining a zoning permit.

The first charge of using and occupying the lot was dropped since Mrs. Warner had vacated the dwelling place.

Terrill M. Breuner, New Brunswick lawyer, was Mrs. Warner's attorney. Carl A. Erbacher was the complainant.

Brooks Blvd., Manville, pleaded not guilty to charges of assault and battery. The complaint was signed by his wife, Mrs. Josephine Newcomb of Elm St., East Millstone.

Newcomb filed a counter-complaint against his wife and he was released without bail pending a hearing next week.

When Newcomb denied the charge of assault and battery Mrs. Newcomb pointed to a wound on the inside of her arm and exclaimed, "He denies that he did this!"

Magistrate Shamy reminded Mrs. Newcomb that her husband was not being tried at that time and that she would have an opportunity to testify next week in court.

NEW HOME AWAITS RUTGERS BOOKS — The 'book jam' at left, all too familiar to Rutgers library users, will be cleared up in mid-September when the State University opens its new $4,000,000 library in New Brunswick. The 53-year-old Voorhees Library reached the bursting point years ago, with the result that one-fifth of the university's collection of 509,000 volumes had to be put in storage. The multi-colored, six-story-high stacks of the new library, a section of which is shown at right, have a capacity of 1,500,000 volumes. The big moving job will get underway Monday, August 6.

Rutgers Library Begins Moving Aug. 6

Probing into the heart of Rutgers has begun and the University's life blood — its book collection — is now trickling across the Raritan River from storage buildings to the new $4,000,000 library on College Avenue here.

Major surgery, the month-long operation that will remove 400,000 volumes from cramped quarters in the 52-year-old Voorhees library on Neilson campus to the new library's six-story-high stacks, is scheduled to get underway on Monday, Aug. 6.

Donald F. Cameron, Rutgers

librarian, expects to have the huge library in operation by the time the fall terms begins at Rutgers on Sept. 17.

THE SPECIAL collection of 17,000 rare books, newspapers, manuscripts and objects of significance in New Jersey history are already in place in the New Jersey Room, the building's show-place, and in vaults below this room. And nearly all of the 100,000 volumes stored on the University Heights campus since the old library reached the bursting point have been carted across the Raritan by a team of Rutgers undergraduates.

For the big operation starting a week from Monday, three tractor-trailers will be employed on an all-day basis until the transfer of nearly a half million volumes is completed. Professor Cameron figures the job will be finished about Sept. 7.

WITH THE OPENING of the new library, it appears that Colonial Rutgers, which has rapidly outgrown four libraries, finally will have adequate space for its books and scholars.

The sprawling brick and steel building houses 30 miles of steel shelving with a capacity of 1,500,000 volumes, triple that of the present library. And there will be seating for 1,200 persons compared to the 415-seat capacity of the present library and annex.

Twp. Committee

leasing and vacating of public rights in certain portions of Pershing Ave., Central Ave., Stothoff St., Minetta Rd., Irving St. and Stuyvesant Ave.

MAYOR MAHER announced that no bids can be accepted on the township dump since there was no statement of qualifications in the advertisement which appeared in the papers. He added that it would have to be readvertised.

Mention of the garbage dump brought a flow of complaints from spectators.

Eugene Szabo of 18 Marvin Ave. said that dog packs and rats continue to have free run of the dump. He complained that the dogs keep residents awake at night.

Mayor Maher suggested that the police be called whenever this happens.

Another spectator then added that the police are called but the squad car does not show up until the next day when it is too late.

Mayor Maher promised that the dogs would be taken care of and exterminators would be called in to get rid of the rats.

The committee approved the recommendation of the Board of Adjustment that a variance be granted for the proposed 50-unit housing project in the township.

4-H Dress Revue Slated for Aug. 3

The annual county 4-H Dress Revue will be presented on Friday, Aug. 3, at 8 p. m. at the Johns Manville Research Center auditorium, Findertown.

The Dress Revue will consist of 4-H clothing projects modeled by club members. The garments will be judged for the way they are constructed by Miss Marilyn Fischer, assistant club agent in Mercer County, and Miss Joanne Burger, home agent in Hunterdon county.

The fit of the garments and suitability to the girls who wear them will also be judged. The Somerset Kiwanis Agricultural Youth Committee will present awards in each of five units of the 4-H clothing projects.

Narrators for the revue will be Miss Faith Snedeker of Kingston and Miss Melinda Young of Rocky Hill.

Other leaders assisting with the dress revue are Mrs. C. V. L. Conover and Mrs. Fred Crawford of Skillman, Miss Mary W. of RD 4, Somerville, Miss Dorothea Poita of Kingston, and Mrs. Russell Arison of Martinsville.

coin, however. Most rights and privileges which are abused are eventually lost.

For instance, the Board of Education has been criticized for holding closed committee meetings. But how they would ever get work done without doing so is hard to imagine with all the prima donnas who haunt their open meetings, and revel in the sound of their own voices.

For some reason there seems to be a year round open season on the Board of Education meeting. They run far, far into the night.

As long as they keep the public informed of what they are doing it is a good thing for them to have their committee meetings closed (1) so that if personalities have to be discussed, it will not hurt the persons involved (2) so the members can get the work done and be home in time to get a night's sleep and (3) so the ink-stained wretches of the fourth estate can have an evening at home to catch up on their washing.

Your townier is heading south Sunday—to visit Augusta (but no golf), Savannah, the Okefenokee Swamp, where Pogo hangs out, and points south, a country we haven't seen in a long, long time. If it doesn't get hot in Jersey, we'll feel awfully cheated. So long, folks—we hope you have a nice vacation too.
