

Township Talk

LARRY MUTH isn't letting any grass grow under his feet in organizing the Heart Fund drive. Heart Sunday will be Feb. 24, and Mayor Maher is going to start it off by proclaiming the following week "Heart Fund Week" in the township, and, if he follows last year's procedure, will give the first donation.

Judge George Shamy and Alex Katchen have agreed to take over the soliciting of contributions from industry. Robert J. Kelly of Community Fire Co. is helping with the retail businesses in his locality. Larry hopes to get other friends to do the same in their respective localities. Scoutmaster James Moise is going to ask his Boy Scouts to help in distributing pre-drive literature.

BOARD OF EDUCATION members Art Westneat and Walter Campbell are going to work closely with the PTA presidents who are Mrs. Westneat, Kingston; Mrs. Vance Dunn, Franklin Park; Mrs. Howard Stevenson, East Millstone; Mrs. Joseph Horvath, Pine Grove; Mrs. L. A. Carmella, Hamilton, and Mrs. Lyle Hagmann, Middlebush. The PTA always comes through, and this will be no exception.

In Griggstown Larry has two supper rides in Mrs. Carl Hengeri (Little Mary keeps moving) and Mrs. Edwin Murrow. In East Millstone Mrs. Frank Jonas and Mrs. Frank Nagle.

That sounds like a lot of people, but it isn't enough for lots of areas still aren't covered. If you want to give Larry a hand, his phone number is VI 4-0041.

MRS. HAGMANN, as president of Middlebush PTA, sent questionnaires to all board of education candidates, to give them a chance to tell the people who came to candidates night just where they stand on the questions confronting us as we try to plan for schooling more and more children. This is a technique frequently used by Leagues of Women Voters, and should be welcomed as much by the candidate as by the voter who honestly wants to inform himself. THE MIDDLEBUSH LIBRARY has to get out of township hall pretty soon to make room for the police department. Librarian Peggy Lyon tells us that lots of people are offering their help in providing quarters. Eleanor Weisenborn has offered the use of her basement, which has a separate entrance and this would be fine, but really ought to be in a public building. You'd be surprised how many kids read how many books (we thought they were in front of the TV all the time, but it seems this isn't so).

Another cheering piece of news came our way the other day. It seems the comic book business is (Continued on Page 8)

Peacos Files Suit Against Franklin Twp.

A civil suit was brought against the Franklin Township Committee, the township Board of Adjustment and Carl Erbacher, township zoning officer, in Somerville Superior Court Monday as a result of a dispute over a zoning ordinance.

Also named defendants in the suit initiated by Michael Peacos of Cooper Mine Rd., Franklin Township, were Clifford Higgins and Edward Burkner of Laurel Ave. in the Kingston section of the township.

Peacos seeks a judgment reversing and setting aside action by the Township Committee and Board of Adjustment which resulted in Higgins obtaining a zoning variance to permit parking of trucks in an agricultural zone.

The complainant contends that a zoning ordinance adopted by the Township Committee on Sept. 1, 1955, and later amended Dec. 22, 1955, placed property in Laurel Avenue owned by Burkner in an agricultural zone.

The ordinance limited the property to farming and rural residential use, the bill says.

The complainant says that before Dec. 22, 1955, Higgins leased part of the Burkner property. After a hearing on June 14, 1956, he was denied an appeal by the Board of Adjustment for a variance to permit parking of trucks on the leased property, according to the complainant.

The application for a variance was again denied on Oct. 18, 1956, after a rehearing, but on Nov. 15, 1956, the Board of Adjustment adopted a resolution recommending to the Township Committee that the variance be granted because of hardship presented in the nature of the land provided, the complainant said.

On Dec. 27, 1956, the Township Committee adopted the resolution approving the recommendations of the Board of Adjustment to grant the variance, according to the complainant.

The plaintiff, who lives on property a mile from the Higgins property, claims action of the Board of Adjustment and Township Committee was "improper, unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious," and "not in conformity with provisions of the zoning ordinance."

The complaint also seeks to set (Continued on Page 7)

To Introduce Budget Next Thursday Night

The 1957 municipal budget will be introduced at a special meeting of the Township Committee next Thursday at 8 p. m. in the Township Hall. A date will then be set for a public hearing.

Woman Won't Betray Bomb Hoaxer's Trust: Lt. Pfeiffer

An unidentified woman told Police Lt. Russell Pfeiffer over the phone yesterday that she knew the name of the "boy" who called in the bomb scare which evacuated Pine Grove Manor School at approximately 12:15 yesterday, but that she couldn't reveal his identity and "betray the boy's confidence" in her.

The hoax was phoned in to Mrs. Molly Tanensapf of Elizabeth Ave., who takes calls for the Second District Fire Company, about 10:15 in the morning, according to police. Mrs. Tanensapf's nephew answered the phone and the caller hung up. When the phone rang again Mrs. Tanensapf picked up the receiver and "the voice of a young man" said, "Pine Grove Manor School is going to be bombed at 2:30 this afternoon," police reported.

Mrs. Tanensapf then called Mrs. Henry Brahman of Elizabeth Avenue, and Mrs. Brahman phoned Township Hall to report the bomb scare. Mrs. May Hobbs, welfare director, took the information and relayed it to Lt. Pfeiffer over the police car radio.

Brawl Lands Man In Court

A Plainfield man received a 60-day suspended sentence in Township Court Monday night for failing to give a good account of himself and not having a legitimate reason for being in the township. The charge was preferred against Alonzo Holmes as the result of a brawl at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Jackson of Wilson St. on Jan. 12. Holmes engaged in a fight with Mrs. Jackson's son, Richard. The Jacksons pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct charges and received suspended sentences in court on Jan. 14.

Holmes was also assessed $10 court costs on the offense. In traffic matters, N. Hughes, 49, of 78 Highland Ave., New Brunz- (Continued on Page 3)

Pfeiffer went to Pine Grove School and requested Dr. James Lynch, Superintendent of Schools, to close the building. Lynch contacted Kenneth Plank, vice-president of the School Board, who authorized the closing. Lt. Pfeiffer reported.

After the school had been emptied of all pupils, Lt. Pfeiffer, with the assistance of Officer Carl Erbacher, began a thorough search of the school. Approximately 1:15 while teachers were checking their own rooms, and police were searching the boiler room, Mrs. Margaret Welsh, principal of Pine Grove, received a call from a woman who said she knew something about the bomb scare.

When Mrs. Welsh turned the call over to the lieutenant, the caller told Pfeiffer that she knew about the scare but didn't "want to betray the boy's confidence" in her. She then reported that the boy said an alarm clock bomb had been set in the teacher's room. Lt. Pfeiffer said the woman was very evasive, and wouldn't give any names. (Continued on Page 2)

From The Mailbag

Dear Editor: To take Ralph Golding, Vice-President of the Hollywood Homeowners Association, and myself down to the old RCA property for which a variance was just granted as a boarding-house. After inspecting the property I feel that I have a better appreciation of the problem and must, in all fairness, modify the arguments which I made before the Township Committee last week.

As you so accurately pointed out, my argument was threefold: 1. The owners knew how the property was zoned when they bought it; 2. The problem of increasing population should impel the Township to tighten up zoning; 3. The matter had the appearance of favoritism.

It is clear to me now that both the building in question and another large building on the other side of Canal Road are so constructed that they cannot be put to use in conformance with the existing zoning. It is a question either of tearing down the buildings or of using them under a variance.

Mr. Siora assures me that he has done everything in his power to obtain the most desirable uses for his building and I have no reason to doubt his assertions. At any rate, it seems clear that whoever bought the property would have been confronted with the same problem. I would like to withdraw, therefore, my objections on the grounds that the owners knew how the property was zoned when they bought it, and on the grounds of favoritism.

This does not mean that I favor the granting of this variance. I think the Township should decide such matters on the basis of a long range plan. If a property interferes with the plan the Township should strive to do away with it as the appropriate answer, rather than perpetuate it in variance after variance. In granting this variance the Committee, in effect, determined the pattern of a whole neighborhood for some time to come. Time will tell whether this was a wise move.

I continue to feel very strongly about the need for long range planning and strict enforcement of zones in these times of swelling influx of new residents. I hope I made it clear, on Thursday, that I was speaking as a private individual and not as a representative of the Hollywood Homeowners Association. And by the way, I am not the president of that worthy association, but merely its observer at the Township Committee. Morris Cronin, of 30 Holly Street, is the president.

Sincerely yours,
Francis H. Willard

Attempt To Reopen Hummel Disorderly Case Is Futile

EDWARD HUMMEL, 20, of Hillcrest Ave., Franklin Township, who is now serving a 90-day sentence in the county jail for disorderly conduct, appeared in township court Monday night with Attorney Arthur Meredith to ask for a reopening of the case.

However, Magistrate George Shamy refused to consider the matter again when he learned that Hummel had been convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to one year in jail at Columbus, Ga., in December, 1955. Hummel had testified at the Jan. 18 Township Court hearing that he had never been convicted of a crime before, according to Judge Shamy.

Monday night the magistrate asked Hummel why he hadn't admitted this to him or to the defense attorney. Hummel said nothing. Shamy then ordered that Hummel serve the balance of his sentence. The youth had already spent two weeks in jail.

WHEN ASKING for a reopening of the case the defendant's attorney presented to the court a report made by Dr. William R. Bontelle, who said that he had examined Hummel and believed that the defendant was not the type of person given to "prowling" or being "a peeping tom."

It was shortly after this that Shamy called on Police Lt. Russell Pfeiffer to report on an investigation he had made of Hummel's past record. Apparently Hummel's attorney had not known of the youth's past conviction.

Hummel was arrested Jan. 12 near Franklin Boulevard and Blake Avenue and charged with trespassing on the private properties of several persons residing in the area and failing to give a good account of himself when apprehended. In court he pleaded guilty to the charge.

Charge Garbac Agent For Stolen Automobile Ring

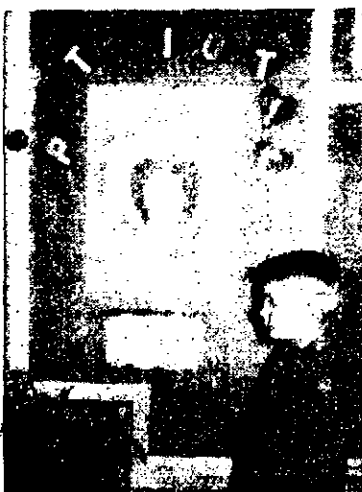

A township resident and owner of Garbac Motors in Bound Brook was arrested Saturday on charges of receiving stolen property as FBI and state police continued their investigation into what is reported as the biggest stolen car ring ever to operate in New Jersey.

Thomas Garbac, Sr., 40, of Willow Ave. was one of four men arrested over the weekend. He was arraigned before Bound Brook Magistrate J. Berkeley Leahy and released on $1,500 bail.

Described by state police as perhaps the largest independent used car dealer in Bound Brook, Garbac is accused of using his business as an outlet for stolen cars.

A township warrant charging receipt of stolen property was issued Wednesday against a South Bound Brook man, John Joseph Vizzuto. The warrant alleged that Vizzuto received a car stolen from Greenwood Lake, N. Y., and brought in to Garbac's township residence.

State Police Detective Bert Miller of the North Jersey Auto Theft Squad filed the charges and left for Brooklyn, where Vizzuto is believed to be. Detective Miller said at least one more arrest in New Jersey is expected. The gang, police said, operated primarily in New York. Eight New York City men already have been arrested. The FBI said the thieves bought wrecked cars and transferred their serial numbers and title papers to stolen cars.

GLENN FISCHER in the second grade at Pine Grove Manor School, is shown with the combination Valentine and Lincoln poster made by the students. They had the same poster in another part of the room combining Valentine's Day and Washington.

Woman Won't

Pfeiffer explained to the caller the great upset and confusion that is caused by bomb scares, attempting to make the woman reveal all she knew. But she said she would talk it over with her husband to see if he wanted her to reveal names.

She told Pfeiffer that if her husband wished her to give the information, she would call the police station that night. However, at last report this morning, the woman had not called back.

A continued search yesterday of the teacher's room and the rest of the school revealed nothing.

The second bomb scare in the township, Lt. Pfeiffer said, "I think it's an entirely different person" who phoned in concerning the Pine Grove School scare. The first scare, which occurred about three weeks ago, told of a bomb planted in Middlebush School.

Relating to the woman who reportedly knows the name of the second bomber, Lt. Pfeiffer said, "withholding information is against the law. Whoever is guilty of this can be charged with aiding and abetting. But if the information is revealed," the lieutenant continued, "the person would be considered a public-spirited citizen who is doing herself and her township a public service."

Many New Spring Style Notes for Girls, Subteens

A gentle curve guides the overall children's wear silhouette for Spring, 1957. Dresses are softer, puffed by light frothy potticoats. Princess or slightly flared straight coats are softened by curved belts and small bows and, at the neckline, by fabric bows. Suits adopt bloused jackets, rounded peg-top skirts and more pleats.

Blouses are everywhere, say fashion analysts of Women's Wear Daily. Suits and ensembles have bloused jackets; back blousing changes coats; blouses and jackets are on a drawstring; cotton knit shirts have elasticized waistbands; shirtwaist dresses show bloused backs; a blouson jacket or jerkin is a new part for a dress ensemble.

Capes for youngsters appear in herds, from tiny detachable ones which cap the shoulders of spring coats to full-length cape and dress ensembles. There are also some full-length wool capes and cape suits.

SLIM RULES SKIRT silhouettes for all but the smallest tots. Linen-waist shoatho look important for high school girls. Easter ensembles for sub-teens feature slimmer to slim skirts which will, in most cases, require elasticized under panties for proper fit. Pleated skirts, of minimum interest for several reasons, are rising back on the fashion tide.

Bulky knits widen their scope for spring, 1957—long coats and jackets, slim pants, shorts and tops. Knit collar and sleeves trim sport jackets, and cotton knit makes some of the prettiest dresses.

Back details are most significant. Empire lines, still important, are used as a detail rather than basic silhouette. On coats, Empire back details include banding, small self bow, tab, buttons and belts. Attention also is directed to bloused backs on suits, coats and dresses and huge sash bows.

Lavender tones are everywhere. Lilac, mauve, pale blue violet are seen in tweed and flannel coats and suits, Dacron and cotton print or silky cotton dresses and silk separates.

wick, was fined $25 and $5 costs for driving on the wrong side of the road and failing to keep his car in control. The charge was preferred by a township resident, Louis Weaver of Louis St.

Speeding 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on the Lincoln Highway netted Toronto Rogers Jr., 30, of Kansas a fine of $20 and $5 costs. The summons was issued by Officer Waller I. Adams.

Lowell Shumaker of Hamilton St., New Brunswick, paid $10 and $5 costs for speeding 80 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone on Amwell Rd. Officer Naaman Williams issued the summons.

A charge against Fred Welsh Jr., 20, of Amwell Rd., Middlebush, of operating an unregistered vehicle on Canal Rd. in Blackwell's Mills was dismissed by Magistrate George Shamy. Officer Roll Tjornstol issued the summons.

Shamy dismissed charges of driving heavy vehicles on Park St., a light traffic road, against Peter Voorhees, 35, of 83 N. Dover Ave. and Arthur Snyder, 34, of Hamilton St., both of New Brunswick.

The charges were dismissed when complaining Officer Williams told the judge that he had since learned there was no ordinance prohibiting the heavy vehicles.

The magistrate also dismissed a careless driving charge against Walter Kublana of Manville. Officer Charles Petrillo issued the summons.

Art Exhibition Set

An exhibition of the paintings of George Brecht and Marcelle Stolonovich will be on view at the Studio Gallery, 94 Albany St., New Brunswick, Feb. 3. The opening of the exhibition will take place Sunday, from 3 to 5 p.m. Both artists will be in attendance to discuss their works. The public is invited.

The Studio Gallery, under the direction of Vincent Pronio and Todd Butler, is open daily from 2-5 p.m. and 7-10 p.m. Saturday hours are from 9 a.m. to noon.

long season in princess lines for little girls, slim but-not-too-straight coats for sub-teens. These coats can be worn in March and appear elegantly for Easter, too. Many designers think in terms of a coat equally wearable in early fall, thus neutral tweeds and worsted flannels are favored. Monotone tweeds and the gray coat predominant and pastels further the quiet tone-on-tone feeling.

Navy blue, the perennial favorite, is slated for a good year in worsteds, flannel, tweed and checked with white. A navy coat is the ideal topping for the pale, ladylike prints and solids of little girls' dresses and for the new lilac tones.

Suits are headed for a banner year. A spring suit can begin under a warm coat in February and be equally wearable, topped by a straw hat, on a warm Easter morning. There are cape tops and bloused jackets, and back details on the favorite box suit include panels, pleats, tabs and half belts.

ENSEMBLES, A MAJOR part of the spring dress season, says Women's Wear Daily, are much more than just a dress and a duster for girls this spring. Jacket dresses—Dutch boy, blouson, caraco, wearable under coats—and dusters are joined by capes and cardigan or Chesterfield. Even sportswear has its own versions of the ensemble, a jumper with caraco or cape.

Dresses in pale colors make a graceful transition from winter to spring. Sheers and organdies look perfect for Easter, too. Sheers add a light touch to many a dress—sleeves, aprons, overskirts, yokes, pinnafores. Embroidery is large and more hand embroidery is featured. The print revival has made flowers a year-round factor.

Silk stands on its own as a dress and separates fabric and there are some dresses or skirt and blouse outfits of all silk. Poularde, tiny floral prints and gay stripes predominate. The shirtwaist dress is the favorite style and is available in a multitude of fabrics in classic or sissy styles.

Pastel blends are one sign that point to a plaid spring. Pastels in lavender and mauve, to peachypinks, to very light beige, to cream and ecru are the new rule. Madras wood blue appears in Easter dresses with white collar and cuffs.

THE JACKET IS the newest short coat idea. Although a good season for toppers is predicted, a blazer, riding jacket or slim double-breasted jacket has more style interest. And the same extra jacket combined with a skirt to make a suit in April slips over a dress on a chilly summer night.

Natural straw hats trimmed with streamers and flowers will couple with neutral tweed and flannel coats and suits in the Easter parade. And this year natural has look newer than white with Easter navy.

More-hat is the rule. Boaters and picture hats, hats that sit straight forward on the head and draw clothes steal the spotlight.

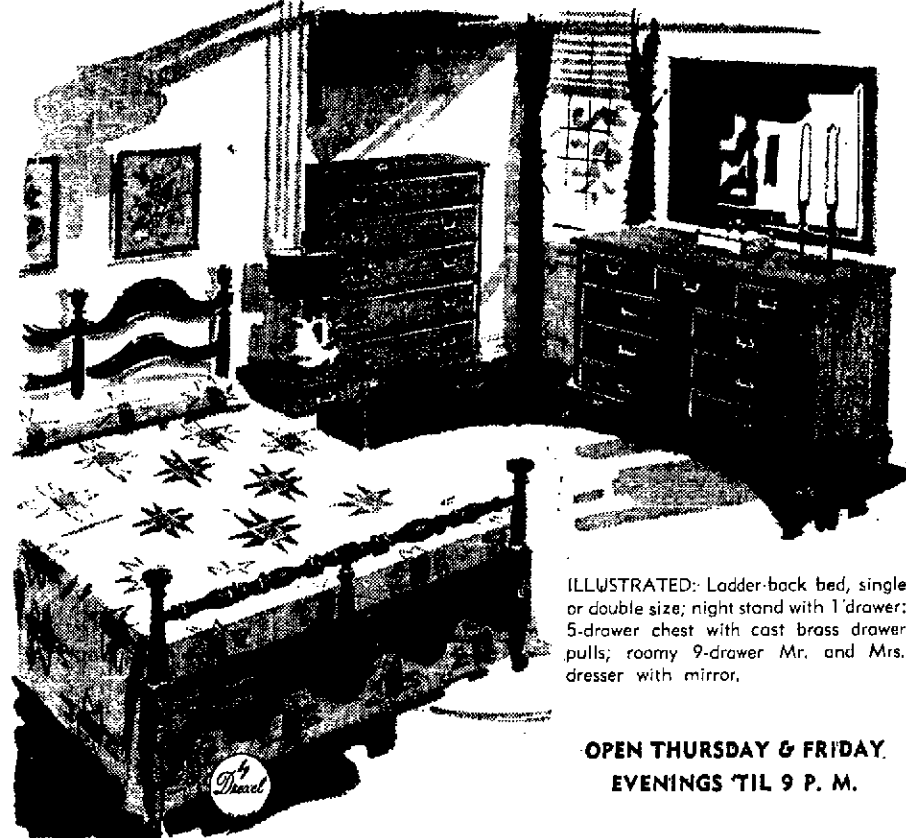

The half hat, in order to be seen among the crowd of larger styles, is trimmed lavishly. Some have billowing tulle streamers, a favorite ribbon trimming in coats, suits and dresses. Large flowers rather than many tiny flower clusters are shown this season.

Arsenal EOD Squad Bombed with Hoax Calls

Bomb scares have the 72nd Explosive Ordnance Disposal Squad assigned to Raritan Arsenal on the rural But to the scene.

Generally bombs are something we want to be the furthest away from. The eight enlisted men and one officer that comprise this unenviable group of specialists, however, erect differently.

WORKING CLOSELY with police authorities, the EOD squad—on call 24 hours a day—will travel hurriedly to any community in a five-county area to dismantle bombs.

Responding only when called upon by police officials, the army specialists have been summoned to scenes of many of the bomb discoveries cropping up today. Fortunately all bombs have proven to be inert.

Nevertheless every call to a school or public building where a bomb has been reported is approached with caution and standard operating procedures are exercised.

IN MOST CASES the police have already discovered and removed the bomb from the building before the EOD squad arrives. Then the work of the specialists begins.

The first step is to examine the bomb and carry it away to a safe area. The wiring mechanism is disconnected on the site and the bomb is brought back to Raritan Arsenal where it is dismantled. None, so far, had contained explosive powder.

In nearly all instances, hoax bombs have followed the same description. Plumbing parts, spark-plugs, flashlight batteries and electrical wiring are the basic components. One of the hoax bombs dismantled by the army experts was made of a car radiator hose, stuffed with asphalt and wrapped with black tape. A black string to give the appearance of a fuse was inserted on one end.

THE 72ND ORDNANCE Explosive Disposal Squad was transferred to Raritan Arsenal from Fort

Dix in August 1946. Its primary mission is the detection, recovery, evaluation and safe disposal of all U.S. and foreign explosive ordnance, including unexploded or delay-action bombs; artillery and rocket projectiles; guided missiles; aerial and naval mines; torpedos and depth charges; land mines and booby traps, atomic ordnance items; and all similar or related items or components.

The 72nd EOD squad at Raritan Arsenal is responsible for the area encompassing Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean, Mercer and Burlington counties. In addition to their outlined duties, the squad instructs civil defense members in explosive ordnance reconnaissance and range clearance in the five counties.

Surprisingly a tremendous amount of projectiles, mines and grenades are still around in the area. It was reported by Lt. Roger Murray Jr., commanding officer of the squad. Some of them are war souvenirs which always create a hazard. Lt. Murray stated, and mines still left over from the South Amboy explosion. Projectiles are being found frequently too in construction projects around the Morgan area where a major explosion occurred during World War I. U.S. Army BOMB disposal squads were organized during World War II. The need stemmed from the tremendous amount of bomb clearance work created by heavy air raids over Europe and the Far East. Prior to that time, bomb disposal squads were found only in foreign armies.

In the interim of World War II and the Korean conflict, U.S. Army bomb disposal training schools were organized in the States and today the Army has two active schools located in Aberdeen Proving Ground and Indian Head, both in Maryland.

Candidates for the school are all volunteers. Since it is a hazardous type of work they are entering, each man signs a waiver. The student receives six months of extensive training in ordnance. He is schooled in physics, electronics, study of tools, mechanics and many other technical subjects and covers all aspects in the specialized field of explosives, explosives handling and safety.

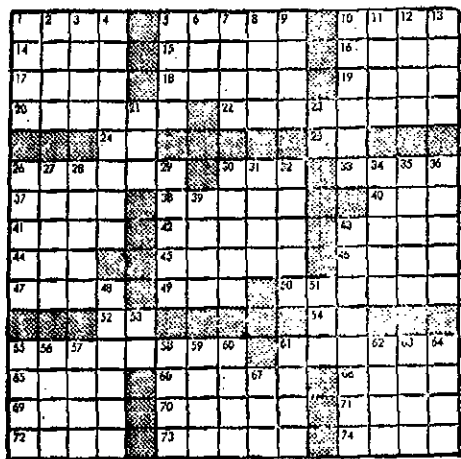

Schooling actually never ends for a bomb disposal specialist. He continues to attend day-to-day classes at the camp or station where he is assigned.

Your Garden

Here's something that many of you backyard fruit growers and prospective home orchardists have been waiting for.

It's a new leaflet about dwarf fruit trees, which of course take up much less room than do standard variety trees and so are particularly prized by home owners who have only limited space.

Dwarf apple and pear trees are now widely available. Others such as peach, plum, cherry and nectarine trees have not been produced extensively as dwarfs. But all of these except cherry are small in comparison with standard apple trees and their size can be restricted by pruning.

DO YOU KNOW that dwarfs begin to bear earlier than standard trees? And that dwarfing does not affect size or quality of fruit?

Some varieties are better for dwarfing than others. Ernest G. Christ, extension fruit specialist at Rutgers, offers this list of dwarf apples suited to New Jersey: Lodi, Yellow Transparent, Red Gravenstein, McIntosh, Cortland, Grimes Golden, Golden Delicious, Stayman, Rome. Among pears, these are preferred: Tyson, Gorham, Bartlett, Seckel, Worden Seckel, Bosc and Anjou.

SOME OF THESE varieties are mentioned also in the leaflet with reference to their cross-pollination needs. Better be sure to read this section.

You can get a copy of the leaflet by sending a card to Garden Reporter, College of Agriculture, Rutgers University.

YOUR LAST CHANCE to see and hear the Board of Education candidates will come Monday evening, Feb. 11, two days before the election, when the Kingston PTA will invite them to a special meeting. Not many people seem to be coming out this time, and of those that do, we hear a number are repeaters, or people who are follow-

$2,500 Goal Set By Heart Fund

A goal of $2,500 has been set for Somerset County's 1957 Heart Fund drive opening today. Lowell F. Johnson, Heart Fund chairman, revealed. The goal exceeds last year's collection of $1,700, by $5,300.

"We have every expectation of reaching and of surpassing this objective," affirmed Johnson.

"We believe that the public now appreciates the magnitude of the heart problem in the United States. The vast human suffering caused by the heart diseases and the loss in industrial community productivity they cause," he continued. "I am sure that the residents of Somerset County will have these facts in mind and make larger contributions to combat this menace to our community health and prosperity."

The heart diseases are the nation's No. 1 public health enemy. The Heart Fund chairman pointed out. They cause approximately 800,000 deaths in the United States each year, more than half of the nation's total from all causes. As a result, he said, more extensive research, education and community heart programs are vital if the heart problem is to be brought under control in the foreseeable future.
