An Answer To A Mother’s Letter

A distraught Lyndhurst mother wrote an incredible letter to The Leader this week.

It was an incredible letter because it indicates that young children are having promotion exercises and being made ready for all kinds of parties, that there are children who are not doing their part.

The Lyndhurst mother certainly knows what she is writing about. Indeed, it is almost impossible to believe that these children are doing as well as the mothers who would allow them to do so.

In Bergen County, New Jersey, there are children who are working hard, getting ready for the big day, and who are making the most of their education.

The Lyndhurst mother is fearful that if she does not allow her child to be part of these exercises, she will be making a mistake.

The Lyndhurst mother is determined to have her child participate in these exercises, and she is taking steps to ensure that this happens.

Surprise Party For Tony Coelho

Antoinette Coelho, No. 535
Red Cross chapter of the American Legion, held a surprise birthday party for her son, Tony Coelho, Jr., last night at his home on Raymond Avenue. His mother, Antoinette Coelho, said it was a birthday party for Tony, but it was really a surprise party for his father, R. J. Coelho, who was celebrating his 50th birthday.

The party was held in the living room of the Coelho home, and the guests included family members, friends, and business associates. The atmosphere was festive, with music playing and food being served.

Tony Coelho, Jr., was surprised when the guests arrived, and he was thrilled to see so many people come to celebrate his birthday with him. The party lasted well into the evening, with everyone enjoying each other's company.

The family and guests all had a wonderful time, and everyone agreed that it was a memorable birthday celebration. Tony Coelho, Jr., was grateful for the attention and kindness of his family and friends, and he was looking forward to many more years of fun and love with them.
Prosecutor Has Tips for School Kids in Letter

Prosecutor Guy W. Califini, who was due to make a summation to the jury in a murder case involving a 16-year-old high school student on Monday, a few hours after he had announced the solution of a second murder of another two-year-old girl in Paramus, had a number of suggestions to students of all local schools about how to avoid becoming involved with dangerous people.

One of these suggestions was to inform the Bergen County Grand Jury whenever you see any signs of criminal activity or have any information that may be of interest to the jury. The information will be confidential and will be kept in a separate file for future reference.

Multiple Sclerosis is a puzzling and rather cruel disease which attacks women and men alike, from young to old. It may be present in the person or the family in one corner of the world. The disease may progress slowly or rapidly, and there is no known cure. Both family and friends are completely normal, healthy persons who do not suffer from this condition.

Those are sure fire productions for designing, another for costume; a third for scenery; another which is an arts center where any member of the public can develop the library of Millburn. But these are set back by the lack of a central location.

But work on the project is moving swiftly. Plans are being made for the construction of a new home for the Millburn Playhouse. This will enable the theater to expand its activities and continue its growth.

The Millburn Playhouse is one of the organizers of the Millburn Art Center, which is scheduled to open in September. The center will feature exhibits of local artists and will serve as a venue for performances and events.

Meanwhile, the Millburn Playhouse continues to produce high-quality productions, attracting audiences from throughout the region. With its location in the heart of Millburn, the theater is an essential part of the community, providing entertainment and cultural enrichment for all.

Please join us for the next performance and support the Millburn Playhouse in its ongoing efforts to bring theater to the community.

Governor Addresses Turnverein Sunday, Carlstadt Organization Has 100-Year Fete

Governor Robert B. Meyner will speak Sunday afternoon at the Turnverein grounds on the 100th anniversary of the Carlstadt organization.

Meanwhile, the Leader today supplied the second half of the detailed history of the organization, one of the oldest German groups in Bergen County.

In 1912, a large gathering of friends and supporters attended the building of the Turn Hall. The dedication ceremonies were made in an elaborate manner.

The Turn Hall was dedicated on October 10, 1912. The Turners and their families were present in large numbers, and the event was marked by the presence of a band and other entertainments.

The Turnverein has carried on with great success ever since its inception. Today, it is still an active organization, and its members continue to participate in various activities such as sports, social events, and community service.

In conclusion, the Turnverein has a rich history and has been an important part of the lives of many Bergen County residents over the years. It is a testament to the enduring spirit of community and culture that has made the Turnverein such an integral part of our local history.

A Famous Trademark Back, It is the Bryant 'Pup'

Newspapers across the country are announcing this week the return of a famous animal – the Bryant 'Pup'. Bryant Manufacturing Company, pioneer maker of heating and air conditioning equipment, is holding a national contest in the company's Golden Anniversary Year to supply a name for the little Boston terrier. The 'pup', thought dead, is now very much alive.

The 'Pup' (Bryant's golden retriever) was saved from death, thanks to the efforts of Bryant dealers, and the winning entry in the contest will be chosen from among those which are submitted by the buying public.

In the early days of the 'Pup' campaign, when Bryant dealers were trying hard to create public interest in their product, they realized that a dog would make an excellent feature for advertising. The result was the famous advertising slogan was born from a dog called a Boston terrier. And this dapper, affectionate little canine began appearing in the Bryant's Evening Post in 1926.

In 1907 when Bryant introduced the first automatic heat, it was safe, simple and clean – the buying public that automatic heat was safe, simple and clean?

The Bryant pup proved it was safe. The purest white, with a lovely new color, but without work or worry. Bryant developed a new American-Standard bath that was no longer a novelty. The bath was automatic heat, and it was in the Bryant pup complete – the Bryant pup could be seen at the Saturday Evening Post in 1926.

The Bryant pup, a Boston terrier, was a symbol of dependable, convenient automatic home heating. The slogan of 'Bryant Heat – No Work, No Worry' was used for many years, and today it is still part of the company's advertising campaign.

The Bryant pup, a Boston terrier, has been a symbol of Bryant's commitment to quality and excellence since its introduction in 1926. The pup has been used in advertising campaigns for over 90 years, and it continues to be a beloved part of the company's history.

The Bryant pup is back, and the story of its rescue and re-creation is just one example of how the company has always put its customers first. Bryant Heat – No Work, No Worry – is the promise that the company has kept for generations.

Our Joyce Kilmer

A reader, commenting on our use of Alan Seeger's poem "With Death" in the Mist of Last Week, asked: "Is Joyce Kilmer's magnificent and touching poem. "With Death" no more than a Memorial Day poem?"

Indeed, in his poems, nowhere else, it should be noted, is Kilmer's love of writing in the style of a modern-day cowboy. He was the author of many poems and stories, including "The Wagon Rider," "The Wagon Road," and "The Wagoner's Song." He was also the author of "The Ballad of the Wagon Rider," "The Wagon Road," and "The Wagoner's Song."

But he learned long ago that the only way to show his love to the country in which he was born and raised was by writing and painting. He was a true American and was known as the "poet of the prairie." He is remembered for his love of the land and his love of the people who had made their homes there.

A leader in such an enterprise cannot serve by default. He has to be around in the way. Kilmer has done just that.

Without a doubt some of Lyndhurst's fine athletic reputations have grown from the back yard of Little League discipline and competition.

Made Citizens

John E. Guidetti, a number of our American citizens, contributed to the success of our American families. Under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Guidetti, the Lyndhurst Little League has grown from the beginning.

Grant helps underwrite the growth of the Lyndhurst Little League, which is now one of the foremost Little League accomplishments in New Jersey. There are few communities better or more organized in terms of Little League, and where so many players participate each year.

This is the largest Little League in the township. The town has no funds to underwrite the growth of the Lyndhurst Little League, but the town has no funds to underwrite the growth of the Lyndhurst Little League.
