Drug Raid Hailed, Criticized
But Majority Say, “Well Done”

"It was the biggest drug raid ever to occur in New Jersey," declared Commissioner Joseph F. Breslin Jr., chairman of the New Jersey State Police Drug Task Force.

Ronald W. Coombs, who was talking about the raid that state police conducted in Lyndhurst, New Jersey, on Thursday, said he was impressed with the work of the task force.

But in a separate interview, Lt. Gov. Peter J. Russo said, "We need more." He added that the state police were not doing enough to combat drug trafficking.

The raid, which was conducted on Thursday morning, resulted in the arrest of 12 suspects and the seizure of 40 pounds of marijuana. The suspects are charged with possession of marijuana with the intent to distribute.

"This is a huge step in the right direction," Russo said. "But we need to do more. This is not a one-time thing. We need to keep the pressure on."
Congratulations on your educational achievement.
