Freeholders Want Meeting On B-D

Freeholder-director Fred O'Connor said that he has written to Becton Dickinson to schedule a meeting with Becton Dickinson officials and him to discuss the future of the company in Bergen County.

"I am writing to them asking for a meeting to discuss the situation," O'Connor said.

The company is reportedly considering moving its headquarters from Paramus to Paramus, and some freeholders are concerned about the impact of such a move on the local economy.

"If the BD people agree to a meeting, I'll invite the mayors of any towns that have sites available to come and join us. That way we can see just what BD's needs are and try to match that with available properties," O'Connor said.

"We just cannot afford to lose jobs in Bergen, and the loss of one of the oldest and most respected firms in the county would be a serious blow to us."
Freeholders Planning South Bergen Complex

As evidenced by Mr. Hurley, who is also mayor of Union City, the complex would include a school for adults who need new or updated skills. The complex would also include a swimming pool, basketball courts, and badminton courts. The complex would be the first step toward the planned Monday's meeting project.

Displaced Families Receive SS Aid

Over 13 thousand displaced Bergen and Passaic workers and their families are getting monthly payments as the social security disability payments begin its first year, according to the Social Security Administration. These payments are under the Social Security Disability Insurance program. People 24 to 31 need disability payments for 15 consecutive months; 32 or more for half the period between the time they became disabled and the age they reached 65. Persons 31 and 65 who became disabled in 1970 must have worked 20 years in jobs covered by social security. Exempted are those who have not been working long and recently enough for a disability benefit to be expected. Today, workers of any age under 65 as well as dependents of workers can have the protection of social security disability insurance, in accordance with the Social Security Act. Dependent children may be covered as well.

In Bergen County alone, there are 10000, and in the state over 100000, already receiving payments for disabilities. Payments may begin as early as 1972 to 1973.

Ours is the better way
How do I whole-wheat spaghetti with tomato sauce grab you? With spaghetti at 79 cents a pound! Well, when you eat healthily you don't eat cheap. I walked out of the Third Day, the East Rutherford health food store on Park Ave., East Rutherford, with three pounds of spaghetti, a pound of raisins and a pound of whole wheat and was lighter by over 10. And all of this because E. P. Dalton sent me an advance copy of "The Diane Lucas Book of Natural French Cooking," a delthr by Marion German and Felipe P. da Alba. I've been a Diane Lucas enthusiast for too many years. When she was a trim, fast-talking little woman prowling over the television kitchen of Ch3 in the 1950's, I never missed her program. She wielded a knife that must have been 15 inches long with a three-inch blade and assaulted carrots, potatoes, tomatoes anything with that big knife, butting in her clipped British accent as she reduced the vegetables to slivers.

I walked breathlessly for her to slip off a finger, at least at the nail. She never did. When she died four years ago she had, so far as I know, all her Angers, her lens. In the kitchen and was rewarded with a broad wink.

Now to the sauce.

The pasta, for instance. Made of whole wheat, buckwheat or rye.

With "third day" they sell an "erewhpre" brand that is made in Boston, of all places. The whole wheat is organically grown. It is stressed.

"Butler's Choice, according to the authors, who have written a number of good books on health foods for half a century, "can actually be a mark of quality in organically-grown fruit. An organic apple, for instance, will almost always have a few nicks and bruises, but if it is organic, it means that it was produced without the use of synthetic fertilizers, pesticides, fungicides, hormones, antibiotics or other chemicals." You tick that boxon, red, check-burning apple of a good life!"

"Shambles," according to Robert Bedell, one of the family that has been pushing organically grown foods for half a century, "is all a matter of taste. The organic vegetables are not only organically grown, but they are organically tended. They are not sprayed as many times per year as the non-organic ones."

Practically everything they've been doing over the years has been wrong, according to the authors. Salt, for instance. Purified water is not pure, according to them, because it is not pure. "It is not pure because it is not pure," say the authors; likewise the dirt, the grass, the bones, the garbage, the et cetera. They claim that the soil, the air, and the water are not pure. And for those who may wonder about the wander of the vegetables to the table, they say that the vegetables are not pure. "We've been doing things wrong for years," say the authors. "We've been doing things wrong for years," say the authors. "We've been doing things wrong for years," say the authors.

Federation Women Celebrating ‘Mitzvah’

BY MARSHA G. COHEN

Women of Bergen County will converge on Terrace Brook Country Club, Closter, on Thursday, September 19, to celebrate the Bar Mitzvah of the Women’s Division of Community Federation of Bergen County—a coming of age.

To formalize its Bar Mitzvah on its 150th anniversary, the federation is proud to acknowledge that this is the first Bar Mitzvah to be held in its 150 years of existence. The celebration will take place in the full rooms and full balcony of the federation headquarters.

For the Women’s Division of the Jewish Federation, it signifies a greater than ever realization of the commitment in raising the funds that they have promised to help meet the increased needs of the Jewish Federation budget, a promise which exceeds all previous Women’s Division pledges. “I know we can do it,” says Federation President Marsha Deveritt.

Over 700 women are expected to attend the 150th Annual Luncheon-Fashion Show which will feature a special “New and Trendy” show. The show will be held in the Cloister Cafe at the Terrace Brook Country Club, located in the heart of Closter, New Jersey. The event will include a silent auction and a live auction, in addition to the fashion show.

The Women’s Division of the Jewish Federation is in charge of raising $15,000 for the federation’s budget, and these funds will be used to support various community programs, including education, youth services, and adult services.

For more information or to make a reservation, please contact the Women’s Division at (201) 238-5350 or visit www.jewishfed.org.

Hollenbeck Hosts Business Seminar

Congressman Harold "Cap" Hollenbeck (R-NJ) greeted over 400 businessmen today at a Seminar he hosted at North Bergen High School. "Small Business Survival experts from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), Department of Commerce (DOC) and Internal Revenue Service (IRS) of­fered advice and information about federal economic recession."

"I was pleased to see so many young people in attendance today, I was happy to see the interest in this important discussion." Congressman from East Rutherford.

"We can work together to bring together as much in­formation as possible to help small independent businesses, who are too often squeezed hardest by the federal agency" said. "I wanted to bring together as much in­formation as possible to help small independent businesses, who are too often squeezed hardest by economic recession."

Dr. Edmund Ork's assistant director of the SBA office in Newark, disclosed advertising techniques and management concepts such as use of office space and business record keeping. IRS representatives ex­plained tax situations and jobs with SBA and DOC officials in a question-and-answer session.

"One of the important points made during the day was that Congress provides assistance to small businesses and to the same recessionary problems as big businesses. I dennied "survival techniques" because I think we can work together in New Jersey to improve our mor­tality rate instead of just waiting for the national economy to get better," said the Congressman from East Rutherford.

Stop & Shop Ground Beef melts in your mouth... not in the pan.

Stop & Shop Ground Beef is nice and meaty.
And that meatiness never varies because we take special care in preparing it.
That big bold 26%(or 20% or 14%*) on the label assures you every pound will cook out the same. How can we be sure? Simple.
Only Stop & Shop cuts and coarse chops all their ground beefs in one federally inspected meat plant.
Our own. Because too much or too little fat can spoil a good ground beef recipe, we measure and control the fat content of every batch with a special machine.
Then we vacuum pack and deliver it to your neighborhood Stop & Shop where small batches are fine ground several times each day to assure freshness.

Pick up a pound or two this week, and make big, juicy burgers that'll melt in your mouth...not in the pan. Or... if you like extra convenience, try our ready-to-grill, already shaped Stop & Shop Beef Burgers.

Whichever you choose, you can count on delicious ground beef meals.

Determination Won This Championship

In its first half century of interscholastic football Lyndhurst High School saw eleven distinct teams, nine in Group II and five in Group III. The last team played in 1935 when the school was in its third season of football. The final team to finish the season without a loss was the 1950 team which had a 6-0-1 record. The difference from the other teams was that they came up empty on all three occasions in 1948, 1950, and 1951.

The last championship trophy came in 1986 and again in 1987. The last Golden Bear title team was in 1937.

Sports

Many of the championship squads were dotted with outstanding performers but we believe the 1986 team, consisting of a large number of third-year players, was the most outstanding and rawest. Most of the team from the '59 championship squad was cobbled together by the odd couple of key seniors. Last were the speedy Billy Franchina, the hard driving Bobby Madden, the relentless Dennis LaGuardia and the quarterback, Tommy Della.

From the first game against Garfield the skinny team won and went 10-0-1. The other 26 carries were divided among seven other players.

Pagan was a determined ball player, injured during his freshman season he did not play for another seven years.

Phil Stoehrs Is Ready... Does Broadway Know It?

by Angela Coadhuren

He's an old and new kind of young man, a boy, a flapper, a girl. Though he's much of all ages, he doesn't like to be pigeonholed into any sort of category. He's witty, and he's a little bit of a joker.

His acting career started in 1962 at the age of 17 when he was cast as Charlie Brown in "You're a Good Man Charlie Brown" and "Camelot," and he's performed in plays, musicals, and films ever since. He's a noted actor, not a magician, and he'll do anything to impress his fans.

His current role is in the theater production of "Godspell," and he's appearing in several upcoming productions. He's an actor with an impressive resume that includes Broadway productions, films, and television appearances.

Now They're Studying Social Life Of Rats

Rats have been used for years in laboratory experiments to study their social life. This has led to the discovery of some surprising facts about these animals. According to psychologist Lore, rats may be more social than once thought.

In a recent study, rats were placed in pairs to observe their behavior. The results were surprising. Lore found that rats are capable of complex social interactions, and that they are able to form strong bonds with one another.

One of the most interesting findings was that rats are capable of understanding the emotions of other rats. In one experiment, rats were given the task of solving a puzzle. The rats were able to understand the emotions of their partners, and were able to provide help when necessary.

Another interesting finding was that rats are able to communicate with each other using ultrasounds. These sounds are not audible to humans, but they are important for communication among rats.

In conclusion, rats are much more social than previously thought. They are capable of complex social interactions, and are able to understand the emotions of other rats. These findings have important implications for our understanding of animal behavior.
