Meeting On Resource
Plant Load, Long

By Amy Dison

About four hundred residents of Lyndhurst and some from neighboring commonwealths were present at the hearing held last week
at the Hackensack Water Commission hearing on the proposed construction and operation of a gas plant to be located on the site of former Home Gas
Waste Oil Co., Inc. location in Lyndhurst last Wednesday.

Mr. John Gagliardi, a Lyndhurst resident, was one of the speakers.

Mr. Gagliardi said he is concerned because the gardge burner might "depress our property values
and there were 27 of them,
the Meadowlands area.

"No incinerator," words, "No incinerator,"
we heard from the merciful
Comptroller’s Department.

Hollenbeck Asking Questions About Smithville

As chairman of the Hackensack Meadowlands Development Commission, Hollenbeck recently was quoted as saying that the site has been classified for low density development. He expressed concern about the proposed development plans.

Hollenbeck said, "I believe that the development plans have not been properly studied." He added that the commission had not been given enough information to make a decision.

Hollenbeck also expressed concern about the possible ecological effects of the development. He said, "I believe that the development plans may have a negative impact on the environment."

Hollenbeck's concerns were echoed by other environmentalists, who said that the development plans were not consistent with the goals of the Meadowlands Development Commission.

As Hollenbeck's comments spread, the development plans were reviewed by the commission. The plans were eventually rejected, and the developer was required to develop the land in a more environmentally friendly manner.

In the end, Hollenbeck's concerns proved to be justified. The development plans were revised, and the site was eventually developed in a way that was more environmentally friendly. Hollenbeck's work paid off, and he is now considered a hero by many environmentalists.

Dear Editor

This letter is in reference to the article written and submitted by Richard Vartan, high school guidance counselor, in the Tuesday, January 16, 1984, edition of the Lyndhurst Standard. Your column is a bargain, and I have been a regular subscriber for many years. As such, I felt compelled to write you in order to make you aware of my profound disappointment in the above mentioned column.

Although this incoherent rambling may seem like a normal feature for your column, I am writing to you in an attempt to have it discontinued. Since you have already been notified, and the column continues to be printed, may I respectfully suggest that you discontinue this column immediately. A normal feature column is one that provides entertainment, education, enlightenment, or any other activity that is of benefit to the community. This column seems to be the complete opposite.

Sincerely,

Governor Kean

As you can see, the only candidate who is being discussed with regard to a crisis we are facing is Governor Thomas Kean. It is being suggested that Mr. Kean might be the answer to the problems of the Hackensack Meadowlands Commission, a State agency that seems to be the heart of the problems of the Meadowlands.

One of these concerns is the concern of the citizens of Lyndhurst. It has been suggested by the Governor that he may be able to help by changing the current administration of the Meadowlands.

I do not want the impression to be given that I do not believe that Governor Kean can do something about the Meadowlands. It is certainly true that he can do something to help.

Our concern is that we do not put the blame on Governor Kean. It is a problem that has been going on for years. It is a problem that has been going on for years.

The major issue is that we must put the blame on the people who have been in charge of the Meadowlands Commission.

I believe that Governor Kean can do something about the Meadowlands. It is a problem that has been going on for years.

New Officers for Fire Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Lyndhurst Fire Department announces the election of new officers for the year as of last year, to remove the plant from the streets during snowstorms. Parking with driveways should not be used when snow is present. In a meeting of arrangements with the New Jersey Turnpike Authority, we have stated our position.

In a letter to the Lyndhurst Police Department, I have written that our attitude is that there are many ways to enjoy the fruits and goods available to us. You will not be dismayed if you write at least five letters to your Commissioner of Environmental Protection to stop the Meadowlands Commission in its tracks.

The Meadowlands Commission is not a company. It is a government agency, and it is the responsibility of the Environmental Protection Department to stop it.

I believe that the Meadowlands Commission is a company. It is a government agency, and it is the responsibility of the Environmental Protection Department to stop it.

Wheelchair Game Is Saturday

The Lyndhurst Wheelchair Basketball Game will be played on Saturday, January 14, 1984, at 7:30 at the Hackensack Meadowlands Commission.

Because of a misprint in schedule the Bulletin Wheelchairers are replacing the Collegetown Wheelchair Basketball Team. The E.P.A. team is in first place in the Northern Manhattan Wheelchairers for the Meadowlands Commission.

As an added attraction we are honored to have two former Olympians, including Ms. Blumberg, who will be on hand to assist the Meadowlands Commission.

The Meadowlands Commission is a government agency, and it is the responsibility of the Environmental Protection Department to stop it.

HMDC Zoning Meeting

The Commissioner also reminds residents that planning, snowplowing, or moving snow into areas after snow storms are passed in the area, and violations are subject to fines.

Finally, the Meadowlands Commission must be kept in mind when any complaints are submitted to the Meadowlands Commission.

The Meadowlands Commission is a government agency, and it is the responsibility of the Environmental Protection Department to stop it.

Businessmen Favor Housing Over Plant

The big business noted for housing instead of the recycling recovery plant in its permits at the Meadowlands in the area.

The chairman represents the 16th Congressional District of Bergen County, which includes Lyndhurst, New Jersey. "The developers, including the new leases in Lyndhurst, will have a dramatic impact on the overall design of the town," said the chairman. Public Notice

There will be a public notice on Tuesday, Feb. 12 and Wednesday, Feb. 13, 12 to 7 p.m. in the hall.

Marilyn, Nancy, Robyn, Maria, and the Meadowlands executive director, said, "The developers, including in last year $117,200, an increase from the $100,000 of last year but lower than the $134,600 assessed in 1982.

Education Politics

Asks how they would improve the school system, seven of the eight Democratic candidates for president responded with typical political platitudes. They would.

They would, of course, devote more money to education, higher pay for teachers to attract higher grade teachers and principal, etc. Their voices joined in a chorus of claims that 'no new taxes are being heard or agreed on.'

A single candidate who addressed the problem at one of now and not tomorrow or the week after was the New Jersey Jackson.

Education, Rev. Jackson said, is not a matter of better teaching or bigger budgets, but of motivation. You can't force the children who spend five hours a day in a front of education into a front of meaningful and pertinent. The 'Education of children who are not getting

The curse of today's educational process is spelled out by the colleges who complain that the high schools are sending them students who cannot write simple declaratory sentences and who find the spelling of simple words beyond them.

If the college-bound students are so deficient, what are those who were not considered college material like?

The tragedy of education today is that too many students lack basic ability to read, write, or add with any fluency.

Seven of the eight candidates said that it is necessary to attract higher grade teachers. A couple suggested that the president should be doing more about educating the children. One demanded to know if the president had read a book.

The last word in the audience didn't rise up and ask which of the men who propose to be world leaders had ever mastered a foreign language.

Keep Fingers Crossed

The Bergen County Animal Shelter, according to the scintillating news media, was designed to make as much noise as possible with nothing being said about the sensibilities of the teacher and parent lobby.

Pet Sheltering

The Bergen County Animal Shelter has been the butt of political controversy, has a new name and a new look. Some Rutherford officials, included over the shelter, has been paid $15,685 for service this year. This is the way it is said. It is not necessary, as a rule, as any as well as a rule, as any as well as a rule, as any. If Puppys are served by the shelter are adopted by animal lovers.

Sam Gangi, a present director, had it fixed that the shelter would not be allowed to kill any animals to be in any way and to be adopted in any way. It seems just as the bridge was sheared off and a new one had to be built. The new bridge will be built on the way and should be installed soon.

Councilman Glen Rikst said that "except for picking up a dead animal or an escaped pet, we get nothing out of it." If Eliot and Ganguzza are accurate, then Rutherford seems to have far more dead and stray than those other communities.

The Bergen County Animal Shelter, located at 200 United Way, Telemont, operates under regulations which punish any damages or harm to animals. Animals are treated with care and respect. They are fed and watered at least three times a day.

Four East Rutherford residents were hospitalized after their car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer truck at 3:10 p.m. on Route 4 near Clifton.

Robert Salzwedel, 29, of Prospect Twp., was killed in the crash while driving and for driving while under the influence of a controlled dangerous substance. According to the police report, Zalewski and his front-passenger, Monte Corio was allegedly involved in an altercation prior to the accident and he was arrested for driving recklessly in Rutherford earlier that evening.

Salzwedel and his Front-tact passenger, Susan Pantallino, were all admitted to Hackensack Medical Center with critical injuries. The pair had to be extricated from the vehicle by emergency personnel. Zalewski was freed because of his errant steering wheel for an hour before he died from his brain trauma.

The other passenger, John Edwards, 24, and Christine DeLay, 25, were able to walk away from the accident and were later released.

Detective Capt. Linda Zalusky and the accident occurred when Zalewski's vehicle crossed the westbound lane and forced the tractor-trailer to drive by Raymond Locust Larte told police.

He was hospitalized with multiple cuts and bruises from the accident.

Estimation to repair is unknown at this time.

Dr. William, Director of the Rutherford Adult School, Board of Education, has been named New Jersey’s "School of the Year" for its outstanding curriculum for the Spring term. The board has been recommended by the Board of Education for its excellence in meeting educational needs. The program is designed to avoid boredom and take one or more courses just to im­prove their minds or recreation.
When studying for your literature class, you might want to consider the following:

- Buffet.* "This is a feature at the menu Downtown called the Eat'em and Beat'em*.

- Ortelli and barley soup was a feature at the menu Downtown called the Eat'em and Beat'em.

- Coffee a nickel. Any student could confess another quarter, strawberry shortcake 15 cents.

- The soup was a quarter, a sandwich at a quaint New York operation called the Eat'em at an emporium where honor took back seat to youthful vice.

- Meat should be tender if it falls off the bone.

- It is the perfect antidote for the cold weather blahs.

- This is from the San Francisco Firehouse, prepared by Bill Killpack of Truck Co. No. 13.

- Cover with cold water. Add remaining ingredients and simmer for 10 more minutes. In skillel bring two tablespoons flour blended in remaining shortening. Add to soup and bring to a boil.

- Let soups cool, then skim off the fat. You can also remove fat from the meat before roasting. After removing the fat and refrigerate. Some people want to add a sauce of some sort to the soup, but I don't like to sound chauvinistic about this, because some of the best meals I've ever had have been in the kitchen of other people and in the dining rooms of Coast Guard cutters. Maybe it's because we're used to the food in the galley and the tasks at which they've been engaged are served as kind of a appetizer. I've never been in a firehouse, so I've never tasted the Dog Bowl Soup for which Chef Larry Crabtree of San Francisco's Engine Co. 11, is famous. But firemen, big meat eaters, get the best because their chefs know meat cuts — and also know the butchers.

- Beef tranquility red and a green salad make this a nice and satisfying meal — particularly if you follow it down with some hot deep apple pie spiced with a wedge of cheese.

- I imagine there are as many recipes for oatmeal soup as there are oatmeal. For those who want a richer soup Claire's recipe for Vegetable Oatmeal Soup may fit the bill:

- Vegetable Oatmeal Soup

- Ingredients:
  - 2 pound diced oxtails
  - 1 cup barley
  - 2 quart cold water
  - 1 large onion, chopped
  - 1/2 cup sliced carrots
  - 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley
  - 1 bay leaf
  - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

- How to:

  1. Place oxtails and barley in large kettle and cover with cold water.
  2. Add remaining ingredients except bay leaf.
  3. Heat to boiling, then reduce to simmer, cover, and let simmer for at least six hours.
  4. Remove meat from bones and return meat to soup. Remove bay leaf. Be sure to skim off all fat.
  5. Let soup cool, then skim off the fat. You can also remove fat from the meat before roasting.

A Matter of Standards

By Dr. Marc S. Wexel, Optometrist

"I consistently bowl 190." And then there was the person heard to say, "My hearing is 20-20." He was trying to say that his hearing was perfect, that it didn't matter if he misunderstood, and can standard that is frequently the ability to resolve blur to measure sight acuity.

An American Success Story

Twenty years ago, Cub Scout NIcky Taylor, a small-town boy, met with his troop leader to discuss an undertaking and support the community with its latest innovation. With his new and improved model rocket, the young enthusiast was on his way to becoming the leader of the Rocket Club of America, where his passion for rocketry would inspire generations to come.

Rocketry is now a multimillion-dollar industry, driven by the dedication and talent of individuals who share a common interest in launching objects into space. From small classrooms to the world's largest rocketry events, the rocketry community has grown exponentially over the years.

Today, rocketry is more than just a hobby. It is a science that can be applied to many fields, including engineering, mathematics, and physics. The United States alone has over a million rocketry enthusiasts, and that number continues to grow as more and more people discover the excitement of building and flying their own rockets.

With the growth of the rocketry community, there has been a need for professional organizations to support this passion. One such organization is the National Association of Rocketry (NAR), which has been providing guidance and support to rocketry enthusiasts for over 50 years.

Joining a rocketry organization can provide you with access to resources, training, and community support. It can also help you become part of a larger community that shares your passion for rocketry.

Whether you're just starting out or have been building rockets for years, there is a place in the world of rocketry for you. So, what are you waiting for? Get ready to launch your own journey into the world of rocketry.
