MEADOWLINK STUDYING CAR-SHARING CHOICES

By Jane Chicoine

Area — New Jersey's environmentalists are hotly debating whether the state should step up its efforts to manage the region's growing traffic congestion.

A new study is being conducted in Meadowlink, a social service agency that provides a range of services to people with disabilities, to determine the feasibility of car-sharing programs in the area. The study is being conducted by Meadowlink, which is based in Meadowlink, New Jersey.

The Meadowlink study will examine the potential benefits and drawbacks of car-sharing programs in the Meadowlink area, including the cost of providing car-sharing services and the potential impact on traffic congestion. The study will also explore ways to promote car-sharing programs and encourage their use by residents.

The Meadowlink study is being conducted in partnership with the Meadowlink Foundation, a non-profit organization that supports car-sharing programs in the Meadowlink area. The foundation is providing funding and support for the study, which is expected to be completed in the coming months.

The Meadowlink study is part of a larger effort to reduce traffic congestion in the Meadowlink area. The Meadowlink Foundation and other organizations in the area are working to promote car-sharing programs as a way to reduce traffic congestion and improve public transportation options.

The Meadowlink study will provide valuable insights into the potential benefits and drawbacks of car-sharing programs in the Meadowlink area. The results of the study will be used to inform future decisions about car-sharing programs in the area, and will help to promote the use of car-sharing services as a way to reduce traffic congestion and improve public transportation options.

A messy merger - A Ford Taurus struck by Richard Ruff of Lyndhurst was struck by a Ford Escort driven by Emi Savia II of Wood-Ridge, as Savia attempted to switch lanes from her shoulder onto Route 17 South around 11:10 p.m. July 7. The Ranger overturned and appeared to hit some utility pole, which snapped and fell over on Accurate Glass, at the corner of Berry Street, Carlstadt. Profit and Savia were treated at the scene by Volunteer First Aid. The one other person, the Taurus, also of Wood-Ridge, was taken to Hackensack University Medical Center by Carlstadt Volunteer Ambulance Corps for evaluation. Route 17 South was closed into the morning hours. Police were notified to repair the broken utility pole. Bergen County Police and Carlstadt Police worked together on this incident. No charges were filed.

Many hurt in accidents over Independence Day weekend

A 19-year-old Garfield man was hurt when his Mitsubishi Montero Sport struck a parked vehicle on Central Avenue, then turned to the corner onto International Boulevard and smashed into this house. He was charged with, among other things, underage DWI.

On July 3, a 22-year-old Ridgedale woman was injured when her Mercedes-Benz struck a Rutherford ambulance on July 3 in Passaic. Witnesses told the police that the motorist was using a hand-held cell phone.

The Rutherford Ambulance van, driven by Moses Shmejd, 29, of Ridgewood, was traveling along Central Avenue when it was struck by a 2002 Subaru, driven by Angel Bernejo, 36, of North Arlington.

Rutherford Police stopped a 1987 Palomino Traveler on Route 3 West after observing it skid across several lanes. John portrait, 32, of Newfoundland, failed field sobriety tests and was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol. Smith was taken to Hackensack University Medical Center, treated and released after his face struck the pole. All four occupants were uninjured, and the vehicle was on fire.

It was determined that while it is illegal to search a cell phone while driving, "there's no law against using cell phone while driving," Frinty, 30, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital by Rutherford Ambulance Corps. As the ambulance was returning to headquarters along Van Houten Avenue in Passaic, it struck by a white Mercedes-Benz, driven by Jacquelin Gusa, 22, of Ridgedale. Policemen said the use was using a cell phone at the time of the accident, said Merli, talking from the Passaic Police report. He said no charges were filed against Gusa for using a hand-held cellular phone while on duty because a call can be taken at St. Mary's Hospital in a police ambulance, the Rutherford Ambulance van, driven by Moses Shmejd, 29, of Ridgewood, was traveling along Central Avenue when it was struck by a 2002 Subaru, driven by Angel Bernejo, 36, of North Arlington.

Stem cell research: a fitting memorial to President Reagan

President Ronald Reagan's long battle with Alzheimer's disease has made him a familiar figure to millions. But Dr. Reagan's tenure as President has also taught us that thousands of individuals and families still suffer from this cruel disease, as well as other degenerative conditions. As we share the Reagan family's sorrow, let us also hear the words of his gracious widow, Nancy Reagan, who declared her determination to do whatever it takes to save other families from this fate.

That's why we are investing $5 million to create the Stem Cell Institute at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, a joint venture between Our Lady of Mercy Medical Center, New Jersey University Community Health System, and New Jersey Health Science Park. The institute will bring together world-class scientists to identify new treatments for diseases like cancer and multiple sclerosis. If you made a gift to the Reagan Library, you have a chance to help fund this important research at the Stem Cell Institute.

I want to thank our sponsors: The Community Foundation of New Jersey, New Jersey Health Science Park, New Jersey University Community Health System, and Our Lady of Mercy Medical Center. These generosity will make a difference in the fight against Alzheimer's disease and other neurological disorders.

Let's work together to find a cure for Alzheimer's disease and other neurological disorders. Your support will help bring hope to families who are struggling to cope with this terrible disease. Thank you for your donation.

McGreevey signs law protecting New Jersey's women

AREA - Governor James E. McGreevey has signed a law that will make certain health insurance companies cover mammograms and pap smears for all women under 40 with the same generosity as for women who are over age 40.

"This is a good day for the women of New Jersey," said the governor. "Because of this new law, we can make certain that women have access to all the health care services they need."

The new law requires health insurance companies to cover mammograms and pap smears for women under age 40, just as they do for women older than age 40.

The McGreevey law provides that women under age 40 can be charged only the same amount that women over age 40 would be charged for these services.

McGreevey said the law is a "major victory" for women's health care rights.

Myth about sunscreen eye exposure

AREA - The New Jersey Poison Information and Education System (NJPIES), also known as the New Jersey Poison Control Center, incidentally receives calls regarding sunscreen use.

NJPIES encourages everyone to be aware of the potential association between sunscreen use and eye irritation. Many of these calls have been from parents who are using sunscreens around their young children.

According to Steven Marcus, MD, northern NJPIES coordinator:

"There is nothing in the medical literature to support this association. We have searched for information to suggest a possible link, but have not found anything. All sunscreens must be approved by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), be labeled, and used for their intended purpose. If you are using a sunscreen product and experience an eye irritation, contact the FDA or your pediatrician. Some companies may recommend cessation, discontinuation, or temporary or temporary visibility difficulty depending on the chemicals used in the product, the amount involved and the person." Dr. Marcus.

"Some individuals may be more sensitive to protectants than others. The potential for adverse reactions is not inherent in the products, but may vary among individuals." Dr. Marcus.

Carbon monoxide poisoning risks

AREA - As the weather becomes warmer, residents must not overlook the threat of carbon monoxide poisoning. Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas that can deprive the body of oxygen. Exposure can cause confusion and unsteadiness at low levels. At higher levels, it can cause nausea, vomiting, irregular heartbeats, impaired judgment, and death.

Carbon monoxide is not something that only happens in the winter. It can happen at any time of year. Sources of carbon monoxide in the home can be:烤火炉, charcoal grills, propane and carbon monoxide detectors used by the homeowner in the event of a crisis.

Steps to reduce exposure are simple and can be left in saving. Remember not to idle the car outside the garage, charcoal should not be used indoors or in areas with multiple ventilation systems, only if the exhaust system is in place. This is normal, but an abnormal level of carbon monoxide, some trained professional is available, check your exhaust system for leaks as it should be cleaned once a year. Also, maintain proper ventilation so that carbon monoxide will not accumulate.
