Fifty Years of Columbia High School

THE story of the fifty-year growth of Columbia High School, from one advanced class organized "to increase the efficiency of the Columbia School" to the present organization of over 1500 students, is a story of the realization of educational ideals and of rapid progress in educational thought.

In 1885 a small advanced class taught by the principal of the school was established, and three years later, in 1888, Columbia High School held its first commencement exercises, Miss Etta Kilburn becoming the first graduate. The small higher class was a regularly established part of the educational program now, and was receiving increasing interest from the people of the community.

The addition of manual training to the high school curriculum was made in 1890, and the course proved a popular one. The following year saw a regular four-year course of study adopted, and in the same year, sciences were given a place in the high school program. The prestige of the school was increased when in 1892, two Columbia graduates were accepted at Cornell on certification. A choice of three courses was now offered students: one preparing for college, one for entrance to the state Normal School, and one training students for business. The business course was augmented in 1897 by the inclusion on the program of typing, stenography, and bookkeeping.

The ever-increasing community interest in the high school, and the realization of a need for some effectual link between parents and administration, led to the formation in 1909 of the Columbia Home and School Association.

The curriculum was being constantly enlarged to suit the needs of the school, and now the interest of the students seemed to turn from purely academic matters to extra-curricular affairs. In 1912 the School Council was organized to give students a voice in school government and in solving problems which might arise.

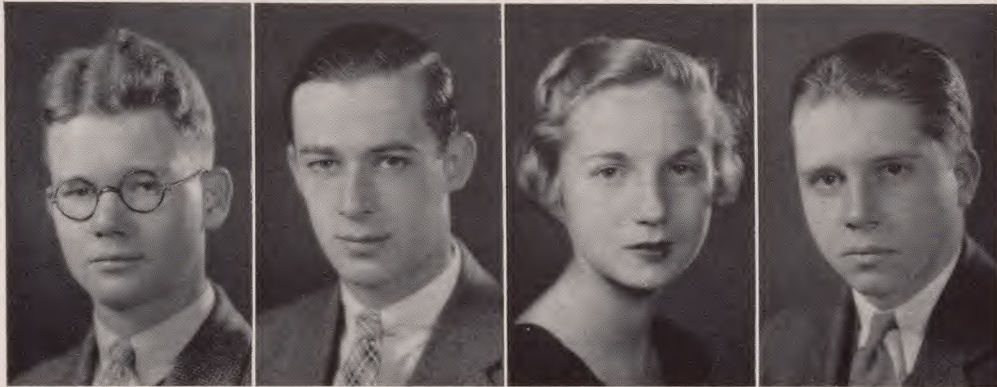

With the growth in student participation and interest in school affairs came a desire for a medium through which the school news might be brought to the entire student body and to the community. Thus in 1915, "The Columbian" was established to meet this need, "to foster school spirit, and to build student opinion."

Other extra-curricular activities made their appearance in the life of Columbia: in 1920, Parnassian was established as a debating society, and in the course of years it has assumed its present status as the honor dramatic organization of the school.

The completion of Columbia High School building in 1927 was a proud achievement of the community. The excellent facilities and modern equipment of the building mark it as one of the finest high schools of the country. The student body today numbers nearly sixteen hundred; a class of approximately five hundred will be graduated in June. Fifty years of exceptional advance in educational standards have reached their culmination this year. A celebration marking this anniversary included a dramatic depiction of the progress of the American secondary school, and the publication of a booklet commemorating the anniversary. We can now look ahead, and with educational ideals blazing the way, advance toward the ultimate in secondary education in another fifty years of progress.

SENIOR CLASS COUNCIL

Senior Class History

THREE Years ago our class as sophomores entered Columbia High School. In June as seniors we will be graduated, will leave to seek new fields, new activities. Some will begin at once to earn a living. Some will continue their education. But none will forget the three years we have spent here together. They have been three happy, eventful years, important in our lives. As the time draws near when we shall leave Columbia, we survey in retrospect the events of our stay.

In our first year here, we gave the Sophomore Dramatic Club the largest membership it has had. With Fred Gaertner as its president, the club presented several assembly plays, and our operetta, "Crocodile Island", in the spring. Several of us were admitted to Parnassian during the year.

As juniors, we became more at home in Columbia, more acquainted with its traditions and spirit. The Guild, organized last year, found many juniors among its charter members. Several boys became varsity members of the football team in the fall. Herb Rainwater, in his second year as a regular, won fame for his skill. Frank Tomlinson, Joe Pelt, Joe Murphy, and Joe Zellers, were also found in varsity competition. Paul Auerbacher bolstered up the swimming team, winning many medals also in individual meets. Bill Woodman's track prowess rose to real heights during the year. Our Junior Night circus proved a great success, and the dramatic ability of Bruce Stauderman was acclaimed throughout the school. Doris McGinity, as a junior, was chairman of the Assembly Committee, the only under-classman so honored.

"The Bishop Misbehaves" was presented in November as our annual senior play. Sally Thayer, Dean Hoskin, Harry Smith, and Bruce Stauderman starred in this comedy, a recent Broadway success. This year under the direction of Doris McGinity, the G.A.A. has the largest membership in its history. The Guild, in its second year, is having another successful season. Joel Fantl, its president, is also editor of the Mirror. Malcolm Cross is one of the best School Council presidents we have had. With Dave Lewis as chairman, the Fire Committee has greatly increased the efficiency of the fire drills.

This year, Columbia High School celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of its establishment. The Parnassian society presented "The American Way", depicting the growth of high school education, a student-written enterprise. The Guild published a booklet containing representative work of students in the school. Many seniors were active in work on these projects, which celebrated the culmination of the work of fifty years in educational fields.

We are glad to have been a part of these activities, glad we have found tangible expression of our loyalty to the school. We have learned much in our three years at Columbia besides what we have been taught in classes. We have found outlets for our self-expression in art, in dramatics, in writing; we have found a spirit of cooperation, of loyalty to standards; we have discovered the traditions and ideals of Columbia, and have tried to live up to them.

So, when we come to the parting of the ways in June, it will be with regret at leaving behind us these three years in Columbia. But the spirit of Columbia will live on in our hearts as we go abroad seeking our ends.

Senior Class Will

We of the class of nineteen thirty-six,
Forgetting many of our little tricks,
Being of sound body and doubtful mind,
Bequeath all of our assets to mankind.
As we embark on the road to success,
We gently put our childish pranks to rest.
Our greatly honored deans will sigh, no doubt,
To note this change has finally come about.
Our important gift to the junior class,
The following ones who attempt to pass,
Is a bit of luck and plenty of bluff,
Because to get you by, this is enough.
We thank Mr. Threlkeld, our shining star,
'Tis he who's made us as great as we are.
To Miss Smith, our pilot through these three years,
We hereby rise and give three lusty cheers.
Thanks, Miss Hayner, for services rendered;
We value much the advice you've tendered.
We had Junior and Senior play success
Because with Miss Tollefson we were blest.
Future seniors, we leave a cold shoulder
To make the sophomores and juniors smolder.
The end of the McGinities has come;
Butch leaves her freckles to Marge Williamson,
David Lewis, who is lofty in size,
Gives a bit to Swift Barnes to equalize.
Fish Seither leaves her great aquatic skill
To Dot Blauvelt, who can sure fill the bill.
Freddie Gaertner, the boy with slick hair comb,
Leaves this to Tom Hetzel to grace his dome.
We leave our manuscripts and pens unfilled
To those who take our places in the Guild.
To the French Club we leave our accents rare;
We feel this is enough for them to bear.
May you keep the athletic standard high,
And let our colors victorious fly.
And last, we leave the clock in the tower—
Esteemed executor of our power;
For each of us realizes so well
That school may come and go, but time will tell.

Senior Class Play

"THE wicked shall flourish like the green bay tree, but, for only a season," declaimed the Bishop. The four delightful desperadoes that provided the opposition for his lordship squirmed uneasily and muttered darkly of retaliation. However, "all's well that ends well", and a thrilling climax topped off a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

A fine cast entertained a goodly number of more than satisfied customers in "The Bishop Misbehaves". This sparkling comedy provided a most satisfactory means of showing the talent of the class of '36.

The play concerns the antics of the "Bishop of Broadminister", who has a strong liking for detective stories. He and his sister stumble upon a hold-up in a "pub" on their way home from London. The Bishop succeeds in getting the "swag" and lures the thieves to his palace. What follows is a series of traps and counter-traps, blows, and romance, ending in a most surprising manner.

Harry Smith as the "Bishop of Broadminister", Sally Thayer as his sister "Lady Emily", and Bruce Stauderman as "Red" gave outstanding performances. Their fine interpretations of difficult roles were the subjects of much praise.

Senior Squibs

BOB MARCUSSEN

Bob Marcussen.....Electrician,
Technician, and doctor.
In fact he is most everything
Columbia extra-curricular can offer.

JOE GIBBONS

All that we can say of Joe Gibbons,
Is that his name rhymes with pink ribbons.

LILLIAN SCHLINTZ

"Herman" to us appears pretty grim,
Yet after her are many hims.

PAUL AURBACHER

Now there's the guy that's at home in the water,
We may drown,
But he shouldn't oughter.

BRUCE STAUDERMAN

As Columbia's Thespian,
His name is well known,
He could have played King Kong
If he only had grown.

JACK GOERTNER

Scallions to you,
With all of my love;
For you're the guy,
That made us write this stuff.

JANE GEDNEY

A little girl with eyes of blue,
Don't laugh, boy, you'd wink too.

BETTY FERRY

While she is not her best in History,
We will stake our "rep",
That she knows the date of discovery
Of dear old Pingrey Prep.

MORT STERN

A fellow with a manly air;
Not so tall but very square.

FRED GAERTNER

He plays a "sax"----- but any friend of Chester's is a friend of mine.

PATTY MAY

Columbia's she, most athletic
For the girl can swim like a fish.
The majority calls her Patty,
But a chosen few call her "Patrish".

SAM CARRIER

His hair is red,
His eyes are blue,
His manners perfect,
He has brains too?

BOB HOYT

Under the spreading chestnut tree,
The high school bully stands.
A mighty man is he,
For he stands full five foot three.

DOUGLAS MacEVOY

He craves for the briny deep.
Our advice to you Doug, is to look before you leap.

BOB WATSON

He's a one lady-man,
And he treats her most deftly.
Guess her name if you can,
That's right, it's Jane Gedney.

"HILLY" SCHILL

When he plays on his horn
All our hearts strings are torn.
When his blowing he ceases
We all drop to our kneeses.

WALT KULZER

We love his Southern drawl,
We admire his Australian crawl;
But if of Walt we have to walk,
We must say something of that energetic
WALK.

"FISH" SEITHER

Now here's girl that's really elite.
I don't know her at all, but she's mighty neat.
Some day I would like to meet her,
They say her name is Seither.

Senior Class Prophecy

It is the evening of the presentation of the program commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Columbia High School. It is under the auspices of the fiftieth and seventy-fifth graduating classes, which have three families in common: Bruce Stauderman, Nobel Literature Prize Winner for 1943, and his son, Bruce, Junior; William O'Brien, protege and successor to Fred Astaire, and his daughter and newest dancing partner, Phyllis; and Herbert Rainwater, a business man with a fast-developing corporation, and his son, Francis.

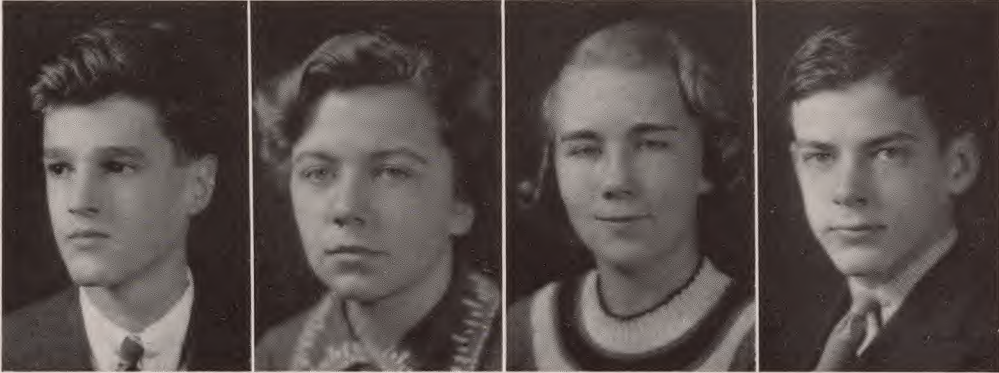

The program includes a one-act play by Stauderman, starring the great Pfautz, whose "Macbeth" is probably the best since Hampden's; dances by the O'Briens; a rendition of his famous piano solo, "Symphonic Steel," by Donald Fuller; and an account of his adventures with the foreign legion, by Philip Guilfoil; as well as selections by the student orchestra and sketches by the class of 1960. Scenery and gowns are by Adams of Hollywood, and the entire production is under the direction of William Woodman, whose masterful way of handling temperamental foreign actresses is the talk of Hollywood.

The proceeds from the program, widely publicized by Columnist Ted "Broadway Through a Periscope" May, will go to the Blind Babies' Easter Basket Fund, jointly sponsored by the noted clubwomen, Betty Kruse and Annette Doyle.

During the several intermissions, the ushers busy themselves in passing around autograph albums. For tonight the auditorium is full of celebrities. Down near the front sits Marne Snyder, whose time is divided between his world-famous cosmetic center and his hobby of posing for Arrow collar ads. Laurence Falls, directly behind the versatile Marne, has been recognized by Einstein as understanding his relativity theory and has succeeded recently in trisecting an angle with the aid of only the instruments of plane geometry. The famous actress, Alexandra Montenegro (formerly Doris McGinity), is present with her fifth husband and a Spanish accent. The former is small and bald, while the latter is cultivated and broad. Jack Pustilnik and Tom Reynolds, the victorious Davis Cup team of 1940, are there together. A whole block of seats was purchased by the Enterprise Club, whose expeditions are financed by the noted philanthropist, Richard Mouk. The whole club has chosen this night to fete the great explorer, Rear Admiral John Shea, who returned last week from his ten-year expedition to the South Pole, where he established a permanent colony to mine the enormous supplies of gold to be found there. This party includes such former swimming champions as Norma Seither and Paul Auerbacher, both winners in the Olympics of 1940. Also present are Sally Guerin and Barbara Preston, duly recorded in the New York City Blue Book, with their respective husbands.

All agree that the performances were excellent and worthy accomplishments of two such graduating classes.

Junior Night

ON Saturday Night, March 21, one of the largest casts ever assembled for any show at Columbia, presented a spectacle that rivaled any previous production in lavishness, variety, and originality.

Outstanding among the acts was the highly amusing comedy, "'Op 'O My Thumb", starring Jane Williams as the little laundress who wanted to have a beau of her own, and Edgar Morrison as the bored and slightly bewildered lover. The "Cockney Dance" that followed this play was equally amusing.

Among the other high lights of the evening were the songs of Jahn Brady and Barbara Twitchell; the comedy, "Hans Bulow's Last Puppet", starring Marjorie Van Morstein and John Groel; the waiter's dance in the cafe; and the violin solo together with the cello solo of Jack Torbert and Elise Biorn-Hansen respectively; "Buddy" Bond's solo; the dances of the soldiers, the toys, the stuffed animals, and the others of the toy shop; the interviews by Larry Crowley of the working man on his way to work; and many others, among which must be mentioned the original compositions of Sam Jackson and Roselind Dobie.

Sophomore Dramatic Club Play

GIDDAP! and "Wild Hobby Horses" galloped on to the stage January 17, 1936. Written by John Kirkpatrick and directed by Miss Alexander, the play was received with enthusiasm by an assembly composed of sophomores and juniors.

Excellent interpretations of character and careful attention to details of gestures and voice were the keynotes of the dramatic side. The various sub-climaxes, culminating in the final denouement, were well-placed and well-expressed.

The plot concerned the efforts of a selfish family to induce a father recovering from a long illness to retire and let his wife travel, his eldest son take over the business, and his youngest son become a play-boy. Far from taking a tragic course, as suggested by the plot, the situations were redolent with humorous and clever implications.

The cast handled every possible comic situation with a finesse and polish that were the subject of much favorable comment. Cynthia Yard as "Nurse Torrance"; Bob Latta as "William Carewe", the recuperating father; Dan Hinchman, as "Arthur Carewe", the lad who wanted to take over his father's business; Bob Mason, as "Donald Carewe", the playboy; Doris Reilay as "Mrs. Carewe", the travel bug; Alice Kingsley, as "Anne Martin", secretary to Mr. Carewe; and "Erna", portrayed by Ruth Eisenberg, were extremely able in handling a plot that created diverse characters and treatments.

Parnassian Society

During the year the Parnassian engaged in a wide variety of activities. A main feature was a series of talks given on the finer points of dramatic art by Miss Mildred Memory, co-sponsor of the club, including such topics as pantomime, voice, etc.

A number of comic one-act plays were presented from time to time during the year, including "The Boor", "Scoop" and "Catherine Parr". Other features of the regular club meetings were monologues by Bob Barrett and a talk on New England by John Groel.

This year's annual Parnassian play at the Christmas assembly was "Columbia Madonna". In October the group presented a comedy, "On Dartmoor", in assembly.

Parnassian's major contribution of the year was its fine presentation of "The American Way", an original pageant commemorating the three-hundredth anniversary of secondary education in the United States and the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Columbia High School. Students and teachers wrote the production and Parnassian staged it.

On April eleventh a large representation of the club attended Katherine Cornell's production of "St. Joan" for the annual theatre party.

"The American Way"

"THE American Way", a pageant depicting the growth of secondary education in America, was presented at Columbia High School on the evenings of February 7th and 8th. This production was the culmination of months of long, intense, and arduous preparation.

The English and History departments were the authors and historians. The leading dramatic society of the school, Parnassian, was entrusted with the dramatization. As a feature, Parnassian presented "Romeo Passes By" as an example of the aims and talents of the club.

The first act of the pageant was devoted to episodes and a ballet representing schools up to 1860. The Boston Latin School came first, followed by a scene in the home of a Puritan family, a meeting of Town Fathers in 1743 to listen to Benjamin Franklin expound his views on education, a young ladies' seminary of the Empire period, and finally a coeducational school of 1860.

The second act was composed of a series of episodes showing the diversified activities of a modern high school. A ballet representing the conflict between old and new ideas of teaching concluded the pageant.

ELEANOR SMART

Little Miss Smart has a cold, cold, heart.
To no man does she give a tumble;
They look at her with a terrible start,
And then begin to mumble.

TED MAY

He comes to school on rainy days,
On sunny ones away he stays,
His idiocyncracies put in a daze,
His suede shoes started a Columbia craze.

GEORGE SEEL

Georgie on skates
Does draw much laughter;
For a hockey star
He sits down more than he haster.

BARBARA NORRIS

Has a tough time with Horace,
His line puts her in a plight.
Nevertheless, according to the florist
Barbara Norris is doing alrig't.

BILL GREENE

A veteranarian is his chosen profession,
We sincerely hope he uses discretion?

SALLY GUERIN

Columbia High School's Sally Guerin,
Is a beautiful black haired lass.
It's no wonder that the lads keep starin'
Where she does chance to pass.

JEAN CASTERTON

Jean Casterton, small but pretty,
With large, brown eyes and plenty witty.
She may not be so hot in cooking,
But who dares to say she's not good-looking.

KARL MOHRBACHER

He's the well famed story cracker,
He tells them wild and he tells them
plenty;
But it's our advice—
Don't beleive more than one out of twenty.

RUBY KLINKIEWITZ

There's the lad with a name.
It rolls o'r the tongue like the waves of a lake;
They've called him that for eighteen years,
So that's how we know it is no fake.

BETTY MIERAU

A fine little Secretary, Betty Mireau,
Brilliant and cute from head to toe.
From time to time her friends have learnt
Of her many good times spent at West
Pernt.

JIMMY RUMMIG

A tiny tot just Six foot five.
Yet he's hale and hearty
And very much alive.

VIRGINIA STEVENS

We all know "steve", our tall girl friend,
She knows her way around us men.
And we are jealous, nothing but,
When we see her down at Farragut.

JANE WILLIAMS

"Accordion Jane" is what they call her,
When she hits those keys the boys all holler,
And when she stops they keep on clappin'
And she plays a song to keep them
laffin'.

DORIS JONES

Doris Jones, the female swimmer,
Let me tell you, that girl's a winner,
In front of the library she keeps 'em
guessin'
But to Miss Wilcox she says yess'm.

HARRY SMITH

Harry was our Bishop so sage;
With every girl he looks for a date;
He's the guy who wrote this page;
Editor's note: It came in late.

Varsity Football

THE 1935 football team proved one of Coach Marvel's best since the 1926 eleven. Five victories, two defeats and two ties were the result of the difficult nine-game schedule.

The first three games were easy for the Red and Black. Scotch Plains was beaten 24-0, Summit 19-0, and then a journey to Morristown netted a 20-0 victory.

Orange, undefeated, was humiliatingly swamped 26-0. Then the Cougars went to Westfield to gain their fifth straight victory over the undefeated Blue, 19-0.

Montclair and New Brunswick came to Underhill Field on successive Saturdays, and, aided by breaks, these two crack elevens won over the Gems 20-0 and 7-0 respectively.

East Orange and Columbia fought to a scoreless tie in the next game, though Columbia outplayed the Red and Blue continually and missed scoring by inches.

On Thanksgiving Day, over 10,000 turned out to watch Columbia and West Orange engage in their annual classic. This was also a scoreless tie, though the Mountaineers had the advantage throughout the fray. Columbia won the inter-Oranges championship by virtue of one victory and two tied scores.

Varsity Basketball

«A hard-working, well-coached Columbia team this year pursued an unfortunate season.

The Gem cagers were completely outclassed by Kearny, Orange, Westfield, Bloomfield, West Orange, and Summit. The games with these schools were one-sided. Conversely, three of the other games were thrillers, with Columbia losing by last minute "lucky" shots.

The two East Orange games were classic example of "lucky" victories—for the opponents. In both frays, last-minute flurries led by forward Len DeHaven topped the Cougars. The Scores were 27-25 and 23-22. The second Montclair game was a thriller, ending in a tie. Three extra periods were added in order to break the deadlock. Finally, with thirty seconds to go in the last extra period, Mike Standish of the Blue dropped in a devil-may-care shot from mid-court, winning the game for Montclair, 27-25. A jinx seemed to follow the Gems, preventing victory.

The outstanding player was Bud McMullen, diminutive, fast, accurate forward, and high scorer for the season. Roy Cromartie, Ike Conrad, Dave Lewis, Ed Jedryzek, Bill Rowley, and Bob Heald were the main players this season.

Varsity Hockey

Coach Ray Sterling's hockey team continued as state Champion this season by going through the season undefeated.

Summit, chief challenger, was beaten in a 2-0 game which it felt close enough to warrant another challenge. In the second game Columbia crushed Summit 5-0. Plainfield, Milburn, Cranford, and New Brunswick were then defeated in rapid succession. New Brunswick, the only New Jersey aggregation ever to beat Columbia, was downed 5-0 before the largest crowd of the season at the Maplewood Country Club rink. The 1935 alumni and the all-alumni were the other opponents met.

The team was so impressive that it was invited to play on the regular Sunday afternoon card at Madison Square Garden. The invitation was refused in accordance with a Board of Education ruling, but the team feels honored to be the only high school team ever to receive an invitation to play at the Garden.

Captain Malcolm Cross, high scorer, and captain-elect Dan Provost, little goalie, were mainly responsible for the fact that the Red and Black scored 45 points against the opponents' 4 points.

Varsity Swimming

Although there was but one returning letterman, sixteen having been graduated, coach Bill Baker's swimming team had the most successful season in its six-year history. Eleven victories, two losses in dual competition, second in the State Meet, and fourth in the Nationals was the season's record.

Dual meet victims were West Side, Kearny, Westfield, Thomas Jefferson (twice), Plainfield, Bloomfield, Newark Central (twice), South Side, and Paterson Central. Victories over the Gem natators were Trenton, State and National champion, and Paterson Central.

All these Red and Black victories were convincing, save the Paterson Central meet, season's thrilling finale. The score in this battle was tied three times, but Columbia won 41-34 by a last event triumph in the 200-yard relay. Earlier in the season Paterson Central met the Cougars on an offday, winning 40-35. Trenton's victory, 49-26, was aided by the double-length pool, which upset the pace of many Cougars.

In those dim and distant days,
 Girls wore bloomers, stockings, stays;
 "Birds" so softly they would knock,
 In Battle-dore and Shuttlecock,
 Indian clubs they'd gently swing,
 Soccer didn't mean a thing,
 Oh the things they didn't know
 Half a century ago!

Girls' Sports

Times and manners swiftly change,
 Clothes are different—so are games;
 Girls play basket ball and swim,
 Keep their figures slender-trim.
 All their exercise is snappier,
 Girls are huskier, healthier, happier,
 Who would ever pine and sigh
 For those days so long gone by.

. . . FOR FINE QUALITY PRINTING IS
No more essential than in school and college annuals. The story told by copy is worthless unless the printed pages provide eloquent testimony of its truthful reproduction of campus life.

Production of distinctive printing depends upon the masterful handling of such technicalities as layout, artwork, make-ready, and presswork, also the proper selection of ink, paper and binding. Consistently, good printing has been a primary reason why the Colyer organization are chosen as the printers for leading schools and colleges.
