FOREWORD

1 These are days of rapid change. Within this last year of our high school career we have seen our school reorganized from its traditional peace-time pattern for a more direct contribution to the war effort. Our school has, wisely, retained the liberal arts course, with a view to the post-war world; but it has at the same time rallied its curriculum, methods and facilities to the immediate task of winning the war.

2 In a sense this 1943 Mirror reflects these changes. The very fact that we have our Mirror, and that it pictures our whole school as it exists, is indicative of our respect for our traditions. But the fact that the format has been considerably altered, and the theme emphasis has been placed on patriotic war-time motives, turns our Mirror to the exigencies of the times in which we live and work.

3 Notable among the changes in our school are these:

- 4
1. The revised schedule with longer periods and with the later opening of school
 2. The valuable war-time courses and the accelerated program
 3. The new clubs, pertaining to subjects emphasized by the war
 4. The introduction of the High School Victory Corps and its special branches
 5. The new maturity, activities and acceptance of responsibility by the students

3 Thus, we feel it timely and fitting that our 1943 Mirror, coming out in this momentous period of our school and national history, should utilize the Victory Corps insignia and colors as its theme symbol.

DEDICATION

Today the United States is at war, and we can see evidences of the struggle all about us. The publishing of the 1943 Mirror, as well as all the other traditional activities we students enjoy at Columbia High School, is being carried out as always, but carried out in an entirely new light. We see these things that we, and those who came before us, have done each year, done once again; but they are now enveloped in the bright hue of patriotic fervor. This is as it should be. No organization founded so completely on the fundamentals of democracy, and extolling above all other things the principle that man has a right to be free, can go on in its narrow peace-time channel when the very privilege that sponsors it is threatened.

Americans have answered the call to arms with their whole heart, knowing that their very lives are threatened; and with this response youth too has come into its share of responsibility and has attacked its job with vigor. We are now an integral part of this war and are fighting with just as keen an enthusiasm as those older and more experienced than we. We are aware of our responsibilities, not only in the fighting of the war, but in the shaping of the post-war world which shall be more ours than any one's. All of us, young and old, must keep adding to the fight so that the good cause may succeed.

Much can be learned from considering the relationships the war has established between individuals, groups, and even nations. Many of the emotions and fundamental principles which lay comfortably dormant during peace-time have sprung to the fore and are part of this present struggle. Cooperation is one element which we, with all good Yankee humor, have watched spring up from the ranks of all men. Coupled with this is friendship, and, inevitably, a feeling of good will among men which extends even to nations. Courage has shown itself a true part of the American people, for we have learned to laugh through our tears. An old adage on which, in one way or another, everything American is founded, expresses the force which has brought the inherent virtues in us out in the open, and that is the saying that "Right will conquer in the end."

It has been, then, this knowledge of our ultimate success that leads us on—the clear, unboasting knowledge of people who know that everything decent in the world would die if they should fail. A happy end must and will be reached, for we fight with the very freedom we seek to protect.

In view of the fact that there is one word, one hope, one dream, and one bit of true knowledge deep in the hearts of every American, we think it fitting to dedicate this, our 1943 Mirror, to Victory for all freedom-loving people.

THE WAR BOND AND STAMP DRIVE

On April 22, 1943, Columbia High School sat back and took a deep breath after accomplishing one of the biggest things in her history. This was the War Bond and Stamp Drive, sponsored by the Victory Corps in conjunction with the nationwide drive in April to raise thirteen billion dollars for Uncle Sam's war effort. Columbia proved herself ready and capable of doing even more than her prescribed part for this great cause. For the four days of the drive in the school, the halls were filled before and after school with excited purchasers, and competition between the classes gave the drive a great boost. Mr. Gray, representing the faculty, and Sam Jonez, chairman of the Victory Corps, aided by Frank Hannock, chairman of the General Division of the Victory Corps, managed the campaign. The class competition ended with seniors in first place, juniors in second place, and sophomores in last place. For the final figures, see the next page and be proud.

SENIOR HISTORY

We, the class of '43, about to graduate from Columbia High School, are acutely aware of the problems facing us in the world today. Never before in the history of the school has so much responsibility been placed upon the shoulders of its youth. We must fight to preserve the life we have known for almost two decades; and later, in peace-time, we must re-establish and improve this daily pattern.

Three years in Columbia has shaped our ideals and standards. Here has begun the preparation for our future work and living. With the hope of aiding or benefiting Columbia and of preserving her traditions, we have strived towards a goal of perfect student activity and government. What we, as potential citizens, will be able to accomplish later is partially indicated by those things which we have done in our school.

To examine the life of a class during three high school years is an extensive undertaking; but certain situations, changes, and persons stand out as meriting places in the class history.

Upon entering Columbia in 1940, we found that the Columbian had been discontinued. Through the efforts of the sophomore class officers—Cal Carver, Herb Piken, and Dick Yorkey—and through sophomore support and assistance, the Columbian resumed publication. For three years everyone has enjoyed his school paper, read its many features with enthusiasm, and given it whole-hearted support.

Our first presentation to the school as sophomores was an unusual play, "Perchance to Dream," given by the Sophomore Dramatic Club. Those who appeared in the play were Jean Ann Stirling, Dick Yorkey, Don Davis, Rex Slauson, Don Pollack, Jackie Dorrance, Tom Seedorf, Joan Doyle, Jean Witman, Bob Hoffman, Lois Salzer, Peg Adams, and

In junior year one of our class was elected president of the Parnassian Society, and this year again received this distinction. Phil Lindeman is the first Thespian in the society's history ever to achieve this honor. He also had the lead in Parnassian's Christmas play, "The Doctor of Lonesome Folk."

To continue with dramatics, we come to Junior Night. In an attempt to escape from the realities of war and yet to bring the war itself home to the people, the class of '43 offered "On the Beam" to an exceedingly receptive audience. The Pre-Junior Night Committee members—Alice Roscoe, Virginia Hirsh, Ruth Jacoby, Roberta Paine, Nancy Curtis, Shirley Reeser, Amy Nelson, Walter Benn, Rex Slauson, Jane Watkins, Lucille Lomax, Alan Meltzer, and Bertram Cohn—worked incessantly to bring forth a presentation dealing with fantasy, big business, petty theft, quiz programs, dances, songs, a large sum of money, a small friendly man, and lastly, a repenting thief transformed into a proud soldier. Included in the cast were Don Davis, the business man; Dick Yorkey, the reformed gangster; and Don Hertzberg, the money-winning little old man. Hit of the show was the Sadie Hawkin's Day Dance, exploiting the principles of November seventh in Dogpatch. Virginia Lueddeke and Walter Crouch danced Daisy Mae and 'Lil Abner, while Ruth Sly and Jim Fitzsimmons were respectively a pipe-smoking grandmammy and a rambunctious grandpappy.

Eugene O'Neil's "Ah, Wilderness" was chosen for our Senior Play. Phil Lindeman played Richard, an adolescent with the growing pains and rude awakenings common to young men of pre-college age. Bob Hoffman portrayed Richard's erring Uncle Sid, in love for sixteen years with Lilly Miller, Jeanne Grant. Ruth Jacoby played the mother of Richard and Sid's sister. Don Davis was the understanding father facing the many unusual problems of a man with an adolescent son. The remainder of the Miller household becomes complete with Dick Yorkey, Barbara Houseman, Todd Grant, and Julie Menzie. Trudy Tuzik, Dick Stryker, and John Horton were the forces of good and evil which complicated the lives of the Millers.

During the first semester of the year, Senior Play is the most important indoor event; but outside, football reigns supreme. This year Columbia's football team won eight out of nine games. Of this record we are justly proud because every player to make the first team was from our senior class. The three boys from this school to be chosen for all-state were Bob Weir, left end; Captain Henry Pryor, left halfback, letter-man for three years; and Ed Polnick, right tackle. Bobby Weir was unanimously elected to the first all-state team. Harry Zuzzero and Tommy Williams received well-deserved honorable mention. Incidentally, it is important to note that Tommy is one of the few boys ever in Columbia capable of being both a good president of Student Council and a fine football player.

To arouse a fighting football spirit in the school itself, Dick Novak's Pep Committee successfully planned and carried out Pep Assemblies on the Friday afternoons before home games. The all-too-few gatherings proved very enjoyable, exciting, noisy, and hilarious. We hope they will be the predecessors of a Pep-Rally tradition in Columbia.

Changing from one popular part of school life to another, we approach the field of music. Those who attended the Glee Club and Orchestra concerts for the last two years must remember Cal Seib and his violin solos. He is unquestionably the finest violinist ever to graduate from Columbia. Wally Oleson, Bob McCain, and Al Long also represent '43 in the musical world, as members of a rather well-known suburban orchestra. The band we seniors will never forget is the three piece ensemble of Bob, Wally, and Dick Stoecker, which has accompanied so many assembly programs; nor will we soon forget Dick Yorkey's songs, or Alice Roscoe's and Bobby Lehman's inspiring poems.

By this time everyone will have discerned something unusual about the Mirror. The staffs of Caroline Johnson, editor, Ruth Jacoby, associate editor, and Fred Mitchell, business manager, were responsible for the many changes appearing this year. They have devoted more pages to the individual student pictures and have tried to offer greater space for the most interesting sections of the yearbook. Some of the authors of these sections were Alice Roscoe, Class Prophet; Nancy MacKinnon, Class Will; Ann McBride, Dramatics; David Marder and Joan Doyle, Sports; and Shirley Reeser, Class Historian. We would like to express our gratitude to the many students who worked in Helen Lynch's Eligibility Committee to gather data for the Mirror.

To train the nation's youth and fit them for defending their country has been the problem of education since December Seventh, 1941. Now the most universal change to come over education, with the exception of the inauguration of secondary schools, is the new Victory Corps, effective in Columbia since January. This class is the first to have the advantage of preliminary training in Pre-Flight Aeronautics, Radio, Theory of Machines, and many other courses. Seniors of '43 have not only spent a year and a half in school under wartime conditions, but we have helped to organize this revolutionary innovation which is destined to give inestimable aid to our country's cause.

This year has brought the school something new besides the Victory Corps. The old schedule of assembly programs has been altered beyond recognition. Now each presentation is given twice during the day set aside for assembly, and that day is interchangeable with any of the other four when it is deemed necessary. Therefore we often have Wednesday before and after school but Friday while we are in school. This plan eliminates controversy over the qualities of programs seen by different sections, one of the outstanding but unimportant difficulties existing in former years.

For several years the School Council has promised an open meeting to enable students to see how plans such as those for the assemblies are made. This year one of the very few open councils was held in the auditorium. Students came to the meeting and watched the order of business, though for obvious reasons were requested not to take part in the discussion. In the homerooms council meetings are more thoroughly discussed. At the insistence of the council officers and the faculty, Monday pre-council and Wednesday post-council meetings are scheduled on the bulletin for every homeroom. These have more closely united the homeroom and the student council. Another improvement appearing this year has been the practice of holding no other meetings on days set aside for school council. In this way the greatest problem of the more active students who are members of committees, clubs, and the council has been solved and the work accomplished is of a finer calibre and vastly more useful.

The school year draws to a close and we find that as we approach graduation more and more of the boys are making plans to enter the services immediately after June 24. Many may leave school before this date to enlist in the Army, Navy, Marines, or Air Corps. All those who are going to enter the service take with them the praises and prayers of their classmates and the school.

Until the day when people need no longer fear war, this graduating class of '43 leaves these wishes for all Columbianites. May you enjoy your three short years here as much as we have; may the future keep you safe; and may all members of Columbia High School—alumni, seniors, underclassmen, and faculty—never forget:

REMEMBER

Some are fat, some are thin; summer is the time to swim.

Such is the poetical expression of the thoughts nearest our hearts as we view the joyful prospect of long sunny days on the beach, with the tar and oil and coast guard in our hair, the formerly supreme sand walking off with mere honorable mention. Remember the days when the most frightful experience imaginable was to come in close contact with a crew of sand throwing little boys? When the idea of stepping in a well hidden but effective glob of tar, which brought us misery from which amputation would be a welcome relief, inspired screams of wild laughter? When the thought of being smacked in the face by a dead, oil soaked, giant horseshoe crab was too ridiculous even to consider? When the life guard was tall and exciting?

Say, maybe we'll actually begin to enjoy farm work after a few weeks.

SENIOR PLAY

A typical middle class family in a small New England town in 1906 was the background of "Ah Wilderness," this year's senior play. The Millers were an average family, except for Dick, who was seventeen and in love, and who had picked up some revolutionary ideas from the books he had read. Muriel McComber's father found some of the love letters Dick had written to her, and, displeased, forced his daughter to break off relations. Hurt and angry, Dick went off on a drunken spree which shocked and amazed his family. Eventually Dick and Muriel were reconciled, and Dick came down to earth again. Humor and freshness made the play as much fun to act as to see; and that it was fun to see was evidenced by the enthusiastic response of the audience.

SENIOR WILL

We, the members of the 1943 Senior Class of Columbia High School, being mentally sound, despite the slurs our teachers have been casting around; and as physically sound as can be expected after our vigorous work out in gym class, do will and bequeath to our youthful successors the following—our best loved possessions:

ITEM 1: I, Phil Lindeman, leave my ability as an orator, actor, linguist, and artist in various other fields to all the junior boys, with the fond hope that from their midst will arise enough capable people to carry on those traditions which I have ably upheld for three years.

ITEM 2: I, Jean Lukins, leave my extensive knowledge and appreciation of the scenery along the New York, New Haven, and Hartford Railroad to Marilyn Aronson.

ITEM 4: I, Dick Yorkey, leave Columbia High School with the assurance that there won't be another like me—in this generation, anyhow.

ITEM 5: We, the boys of the senior class, leave our grateful thanks to Janice Bodenhoff for looking like a Jon Whitcomb drawing, thus alleviating the despair that comes with the realization that since his entrance into the navy, great art has and will continue to suffer.

ITEM 6: We, Ruth Day and Drue Whitney, leave all the memories that come automatically with being the college boys' dream girl to Betty Jane Fountain and Patty Gilbertson.

pected of them, our advice is "grin and wear it."

To Mr. Marvel, vitamin pills to build him up after the despair which he must feel when he realizes that practically his whole team is graduating. At the end of last year we all felt the same way, but the "motley crew" did all right in spite of it.

To the young and unsophisticated incoming sophomores we have a little book entitled How to Tell the Teachers, a pamphlet compiled by us after three years of arduous study. It will be noticed that this book is not what to tell the teachers, but how. It contains specific information as to which teachers can be bluffed, which are easy and which are hard to please. It tells who your favorite authors must be to stand well with each English teacher; which history teacher is especially fond of Napoleon, and what questions to ask to make various teachers forget the lesson and be interesting. This information is in-

SENIOR PROPHECY

I had a dream the other night . . . It was 1955, and the lights were on again all over the world. Forgotten in attic closets, put away with the year-before-last's summer dresses and outgrown snow suits, battered uniforms were collecting dust; and all over the country people who'd learned how to take it kept their chins up, and went forward, because now they had something to give. Everything was different. Peace was the new order.

The United States Navy, unmolested, sailed the seven seas. In the Pacific, Admiral Roland Spiotta was in charge of keeping the Japs in Japan; and the sailors of the Atlantic fleet, under the able guidance of Admiral Tom Sedorff, another seasoned navy man who'd really worked hard for those stripes, once again had a chance to see the world, and kept the Atlantic pacific. Our foreign relations were running smoothly under the expert touch of Rex Slauson, head of the diplomatic service. Even Argentina wasn't beefing any more. Rex had really had a stroke of genius when he sent the popular artist Cici de Lara down to South America to promote the good neighbor policy. United States representative Jane Rice was down there, too—sending back voluminous reports on the economic and political situation all written in Spanish!

Things in Washington were normal again. The out-of-towners had given the park benches back to the down-and-outers; almost forgotten was the time when all the money in the world couldn't rent the dingiest room with the hardest of army cots. Over in the Senate, the honorable John Horton was steaming relentlessly into his third week of filibuster—a feat which held the country astounded. That is, all except those who happened to remember his budding genius along these lines back in 201, every seventh period. In the House, representative Earl Schumacker was winding up one of his fiery Ciceronian orations with the usual smashing finale that had made him famous. "... and death to the democrats!"; while distinguished representative Robert Vogel twisted and turned and chafed with impatience. He hadn't been able to get a word in edgewise for two whole hours! Yes, business went on as usual, and the most popular man in town was "Honest Dick" Novak, the president's personally appointed secretary in charge of doling out free gas and tires to the needy.

In this 1955 I saw, planes were a means of making money, not of blowing it up. Fred Ruoff, president of American Airlines, was supporting the government with his income tax, practically single-handed. Kids begged their parents for a little monoplane for their birthday,

And Betty wasn't the only woman right up there beating the men at their own game. Also in the field of aviation, Margaret Kahrer had made quite a name for herself as the designer of the new ten-ton flipping barn—the fastest thing for sky-minded cattle, guaranteed to keep them all up in the air about nothing. Then there were tennis champ Betty Rosenquest and golfer Pat Foley in there mopping up the males; and Louise Threlkeld, one of the finest of surgeons; Lois Crehan, managing editor of the Times, and correspondent Ella Barthelow, of her staff, who'd beaten many a male reporter to a coveted by-line; not to mention competent business woman Jane Watkins, chief executive in one of the country's largest firms, and sports woman

Yes, everything was different; but then, dreams are funny things. You never know what's going to happen next. I saw three women busily uprooting an ancient sign. They seemed to be replacing it with a new one. I got a close up—Lucy, Florence and Mickey Magliaro! At their feet lay the battered sign they'd been working on—"Entering South Orange," it said; and beside them stood a shining new one—"Welcome to Magliaroville"! I guess I'd always wondered when their happy clan would get a majority of the population, and be able to take over.

The next thing I knew, I was in New York City, being pushed and jostled by the milling crowd. Once again pink and green fish swam gaily across the huge Wrigley sign, and "Wilson, that's all" was once more pouring from that magic bottle that is forever full. On my left, I noticed the famed haberdashery establishment of R. Yaspán, Inc., supplies of shirts to Wall Street financiers. They'd recently performed a much talked of feat in keeping wealthy speculator Richard Spain from losing his. In the distance I could see the old Empire State Building dwarfed by the newly constructed Television center, which had been engineered by a group of the foremost men in their profession, Dick Woolley, Don Sanderson, Jim Rose.

I walked on down the street, past newstands plastered with pictures of cover girl Marilyn Mosca, and cartoons by Yorkey. Nine out of every ten men I passed had on the good old blue serge uniform of first class civilians. The rest sported the newest ankle-length zoot coats with the bolder shoulder—guaranteed six feet across. On all sides, theaters brilliantly proclaimed their attractions to be, among others, the new romantic sensation, Phil Lindeman, playing in the latest Broadway hit by the famous team Jacoby and Kaplan; a ballet featuring talented Danseuse Mlle. Virginia Hirsch; a super production of the famous operatic work, "La Ravioli," starring Jacquelyn Mills and Robert Lawrence. An immense sign across the street seemed to be attracting a "standing room only" line, which extended around the block. I wandered over to see what it said, to be met with the following intriguing announcement: "Cal Sieb, the most Revolutionary Performer of All Time! From Concert Violin to Piano Boogie in One Show—for One Price!"

As I was waiting at a corner for the light to change, a white streak roared past me, with much grinding of gears, rattling of fenders,

I'm not quite sure—I was too busy getting my toes out of the way to be certain—but it looked like Bobbie Rutkin, in her remodeled jeep, a relic of the Battle of Midway (the jeep, not Barbara), with the little man who wasn't there hanging onto the back bumper, giving it a fresh coat of white paint.

I passed the new City Hospital designed by the sought-after architect, David Dann, where men in white Clint Weiman, Charlie Bippart, and Evan Baker were deep in consultation—something about nurses Helen Browne, Bobbie Harris, Sophie Santine, and Helen Lynch, no doubt—or maybe those cute numbers in the diet kitchen and laboratory—Joan Schweickart and Pat Smith, respectively.

Then, strangely, the hospital and the busy city streets faded from sight, and I found myself in a smoke-filled room, being pushed and jostled by a crowd of shouting people in evening dress. No, not a

In another corner Jack Stewart, Donny Culet, and Dick Willis were being taken over the hurdles in a fast game of Black Jack by Don Pollack, who was having his usual remarkable run of "beginner's luck"; while dignified business men Bob Roellke, Fred Kuhlke, Ray Curley, and Davie Ferguson showed an enthusiastic audience just how they netted that winning basket, 'way back in '42. Hanging by their shirt-tails from various chandeliers around the room, and startlingly popping out from behind the sofas and from inside the fireplace, were numerous little men with huge flash cameras, happily snapping candid of the celebrities. Among them I recognized shutterbugs Henry Wright, Ed Tallou and Al Mossheim. On the other side, skiers Austin Smithers, Don Davis, and Alan Imhoff were comparing notes on Christie turns and the new 5,000 foot jump up at Placid, and recalling the "good old days" when "Doc" and the Express from Troop 2 threw "real" parties.

Next, I remember making my way dazedly to one end of the room to find out why it was jumping around so, and giving out with such solid strains that the windows rattled, and the man upstairs pounded on the floor with his aspirin bottle. I came upon the country's leading jump band, consisting of old timers T. and J. Dorsey, Glenn Miller, and Harry James, who were trying for a comeback on the trombone, sax, trombone, and trumpet, respectively, which they had made famous, and many other recognized solid senders. There were that jumpin' pianist, Wally Olesen; and Ted Lang, beating it out on the drums with his indispensable men-in-charge-of-laughing-at-jokes, Wendy

I caught a glimpse of the tough football coach, Bob Weir, whose boys had just come through their second undefeated season; and I heard Jeanne Grant and Judy Hackman, buyers for the city's largest rival department stores, engaged in a lively discussion about the latest Parisian dinner shorts.

Just before the party left me, I remember noticing the ultra-modern decor of the room, planned by the well-known interior decorator, Bette Avery; and I seem to recall that the transparent walls were embellished by fine Donald Meeker originals.

from the congenial group, and plumped down in a schoolroom . . . a kindergarten, no less. A kindergarten overflowing with energetic teachers, and enhanced by one bawling baby. Busy trying out their latest educational methods on the lone lad, were Sue Carr, Norma Brown, Drue Whitney, Lois Johnson, Connie Merrill, and Emma Gilbert. The bewildered boy just sat there, sucking his thumb, eyes welling tears, and staring at the ceiling, until all of a sudden in rushed his mamma, who scooped him up and banged out of the room. I can't say for certain, but she looked a lot like Gray Conklin. Anyhow, the classroom was left to the teachers—which is all as it should be. Even dreams have a queer sort of logic, sometimes.

Yes, everyone was happy here in 1955. All the people had tires—tires with treads an inch deep—on their super-streamlined cars; and gas enough to fly to work every day. They were warm in winter, and refrigerated in summer, and had all the chewing gum and compressed sugar and coffee tablets they could possibly want. The time when the War Bonds would be paid off was in sight, and a permanent prosperity was rounding the corner. There was peace on earth, and plenty for all.

Somehow, I didn't want to wake up. I sort of liked that dream.

BY WAY OF EXPLANATION . . .

Many seniors who were requested to fill in only six of their school activities at Columbia wondered and were often quite indignant about the fact that they were thus limited as to the number of activities they could list. We of the Mirror Staff wish to explain that it was merely the lack of space which made it necessary to set this limit, certainly not any selfish interest of our own. For you who fret, we have this reminder: if what you did in Columbia was in any way out of the ordinary, it will be remembered whether or not it is printed in black and white. We do believe that credit should be given where it is due, but we want you, Columbia, to understand what made the restriction necessary.

SOMETHING TO BE PROUD OF

The following letter was addressed to Mr. Threlkeld by the Principal of Montclair High School, following the Columbia-Montclair football game:

Dear Sir:

As one who appreciates good sports I want you to know what was said this A.M. to me by Don Fardelman, a player in yesterday's game.

He said: "Mr. Ross, we don't mind losing to a gang like that."

I asked him just what he meant.

He said: "They were swell boys. Every single one of them. Their game was clean from start to finish."

Sincerely,

F. R. W. Ross.

TO THE TUNE OF ALEVEVO

(The Scholastic Ideal takes over the field of sports and approaches our cheers with a view toward revision for greater literary clarity.)

Vociferate, vociferate,
Vociferate substantially.
And when we vociferate, boy do we vociferate;
And this is what we expostulate:
Alevevo, vivo, vestibule,
Approach seven, approach eleven,
Approach a dilapidated hovel community.
Who can topple Columbia's immunity?
Not a soul, not a soul, quite so;
Not a soul, not a soul, quite so.
When you are vertical, you are vertical;
When you are horizontal, you are horizontal.
When you are combatting Columbia
You are inverted.
Strike them in the cranium;
Strike them in the pedal extremities;
Columbia High School is invincible.

FINIS

We have laid to rest our pencils, paid the fines on all our books;
We have said goodbye to tardy bells and professorial looks.
Yes, we're leaving, but we'll remember those good ole' themes we had to write,
And the Tuesdays that were Fridays, yet somehow seemed to end all right.
"Ah, Wilderness" and "On the Beam"—how could we forget
The two most super productions to hit the old place yet!
Aching muscles—halt, one, two!—gym every single day,
War bonds, scrapdrives, book campaigns—we showed them the way.
Each night one less subject that we didn't have to do—
This Victory Corps' a wonderful thing—it changed our schedules, too.
Yes, we've laid aside our pencils, and we're going on our way;
But we'll remember Columbia High School as it is today.
We are facing toward the future, and we know not what's in store;
But we have our faith to guide us, and our cry, "Excelsior"!

THE VICTORY CORPS

The High School Victory Corps was suggested by the Office of Education in Washington, D. C., as a means through which the pupils in all the high schools of the land may identify themselves with the war effort. Each school is completely free to work out its own program, and here at Columbia the Victory Corps is administered by a Victory Corps Committee composed of the Principal, the teacher sponsors of the six divisions of the Victory Corps, and seven pupils. Sophomores can qualify for general membership only, but juniors and seniors may qualify for one of the five special service divisions, after they have first fulfilled the requirements for the general membership. The Victory Corps started here at Columbia with 343 charter members; 140 in the General Division, 40 in the Sea Service Division; 28 in the Land Service Division; 31 in the Air Service Division; 4 in the Production Service Division; and 100 in the Community Service Division.

OBSERVATIONS OF JOE JUNIOR

Whatever you say about the seniors, you have to admit that they are a class. However, even this is debatable. For your general edification, we will now offer some 400 odd, very odd, words concerning the exact status of the hapless seniors, and sundry other fascinating topics. If they do nothing else, you can rest assured the words will fill up space—and that's what we're paid for.

Here is a temporary listing of the several senior categories:

1. Indifferent class
2. Porifera class (Stop chuckling, Mr. Chase!)
3. "Have you got six cents for an ice cream sandwich?" class
4. Seniors who are too lazy to fill up the Mirror by themselves and ask us to contribute class
5. Lovers' class

That should polish off the seniors to a nice, pleasant glow. On the other foot (our hand is a little dirty), we have a highly intelligent specimen, labeled "Joe Junior." Examined carefully under a hand lens, he may be observed to have the usual complement of two arms, two legs, three eyes, and four chins. The poor creature apparently can utter nothing but TIME AND A HALF, which he does, over and over again. Joseph has evidently placed five kingfishes on the nose of a nag whose motto is "Haste makes waste." Personally, we thought all race horses were named Man O' War, not TIME AND A HALF. But then you never can tell what these juniors will think of next. And you certainly couldn't on March 19 and 20.

Joseph (Q for queer) Junior had a nice restful year. He lolled through a relaxing accelerated course, eating his lunch with one hand and waving at Margie with the other. "Yup," Joe was quoted one day as he bit emphatically into a sardine sandwich. The sardine seemed to resent this, however. "I had a right smart year. Nothing like taking five majors to invigorate the senses. And that new, peaceful gym course—why, I'm getting muscles all over."

Let us dab Joseph gently and replace him in the test tube marked "Specimens—Hot Division."

Tell 'em that poem you wrote:

*Oh, this was quite a year to watch,
With many a chuckle and even a laugh;
The Junior Class did tickle my rib,
With a six-foot pole—and TIME AND A HALF.*

But don't take our word for it; we're nobody. You'd like to hear what an authority has to say on the subject, wouldn't you? Here he is now. Quasi Modo, the little fellow who rings the Tower Bell every hour on the hour—with his head. Step right up, Quasi.

TIME-AND-A-HALF

This year's Junior Night was a timely and entertaining production aptly titled, Time-And-A-Half. It was a super colossal story about Hollywood at war.

When the producer, J. B. Stulossal, decides to produce a great United Nations epic, Super Screen Pictures send a beautiful but dumb star to work in a defense plant so that she can win some publicity. However, the goofy Geraldine gets in the works and the situation gets very involved. As a recompense, Super Screen invites the head foreman, the only man in the place, and a handsome brute at that, to come to Hollywood to be in the movies. Larry goes, but he finds the Hollywood producer unsympathetic and uninterested in his ideas. So he and his friends take matters into their own hands and produce their own show. It is a tremendous success and the play ends with everyone happily paired off.

We will all remember Time-And-A-Half for its varied assortment of catchy tunes and colorful dances. The fantastic impish ways of the Gremlins were very amusing and those Hollywood secretaries—what glamour! What personality! The Russian and Spanish routines were vivid and effective, and those defense workers were plenty peppy, too.

Chekov's hilarious one-act play, The Proposal, was another outstanding feature of Junior Night; while the antics of the comedy team, Haven and Wright, were corny but laughable.

All in all, Junior Night was a stupendous success. It was ably directed by Mr. Wood; and the dances were staged by Miss Zahn, Miss Isenberg and Mrs. Walck. The team-work of the whole cast, as well as of the committees working with it, was splendid. So we say a bouquet of war stamps to you, Class of '44.

ART SERVICE CLUB

The Art Service Club was created for the purpose of having in the school a group of art students who would be on hand at all times to be of service to various organizations and committees whose activities require art work. The club makes posters for various campaigns, and helps in the designing and painting of scenery for school plays. The club has no scheduled meetings, but functions whenever needed. It is sponsored by Miss Marian Wheeler.

CAMERA CLUB

The purpose of the Camera Club is to increase the proficiency of its beginners and advanced members in various phases of photography. Practical demonstrations, a "Picture-of-the-Month" contest, dark room work, June exhibits, and criticism of results comprise the main activities. The club is sponsored by Mr. Parsons, and the officers are as follows: president, Al Sachs; vice-president, Louise Gross; secretary, Jane Mayer; treasurer, David Lewit.

CAMOUFLAGE CLUB

Members of the Camouflage Club are interested in learning and using the techniques of camouflage. To develop their skills some members built model rooms to black out, and worked with problems relating to military camouflage, so important in modern warfare. The club is sponsored by Miss Marian Wheeler, and following are its officers: president, Jim Crate; vice-president, Katherine Kiernan; secretary, Pat Carwell; treasurer, Norman Merz.

CHILD CARE CLUB

The Child Care Club is designed to give the high school girl a background of information regarding the normal development and everyday care of children. Such understanding enables girls to assume responsibilities and to assist at care centers with children whose mothers are engaged in war work. Members gain practical experience and observation by visiting children at their playgrounds and kindergarten activities. A movie, entitled "Care and Feeding of Children," was of great value. The club is sponsored by Miss Helen Snyder.

CLOTHING CLINIC

Especially valuable during wartime, the Clothing Clinic, sponsored by Mrs. Paul, is designed for girls who wish to learn how to plan, cut out, and make new garments or raincoats from old clothing.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club is open to all students taking commercial subjects and aims to promote an organized interest in commercial activities and to furnish a means of gaining contact with business organizations and personnel. Throughout the year several parties have been held to encourage social contact among the members. In January representatives of the International Business Machines Corporation demonstrated the electromatic typewriter and tabulating key punch. In addition they showed helpful movies. On another occasion the club made a New York trip to visit the Gregg Publishing Company. Besides this, vocational guidance is often discussed during the meetings.

Berenice Kirchner, program chairman, has arranged a typewriting contest to be held in the spring. Other club officers include Carol Minnerly, president; Edith Edgecomb, vice-president; Dot Milbauer, secretary; and Irene Le Compte, treasurer. Mrs. Conover and Miss Johnson are the faculty advisers.

FIRST AID CLUB

The First Aid Club is composed of pupils who wish to learn fundamentals and desire an opportunity to review and apply the principles of First Aid care.

The aims of the club are to provide instruction, to afford an opportunity to review the basic material, and to serve as a nucleus for First Aid squads for air raid protection.

Following organization of the club, thirty pupils indicated their desire to take the Standard Course of the American Red Cross. Credit and certificates were given to all who satisfactorily completed the work. Members of the First Aid squads met twice a month to review and dispose of practice cases. Candidates took a First Aid Civil Service examination and were appointed to squads on the basis of results. Additions were made upon application of pupils who were able to satisfy the requirements of the examination or who completed the Red Cross course.

FOOD CLINIC

The Food Clinic, sponsored by Miss Snyder, is a club which meets monthly for the purpose of instruction in the elements of nutrition and the discussion of wartime food problems. Various sub-divisions, dealing with the use of substitutes for scarce foods, best methods of cooking foods, and food contents, are incorporated in these meetings. Officers have not yet been elected, but a temporary chairman has been named. The Food Clinic is an aid to the wartime program, and membership is acceptable for credit in the Victory Corps.

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club has for its aim the promotion of interest in the French language and in all aspects of French life. The club, under the leadership of President Rex Slauson, and faculty sponsors, Miss Carrigan and Miss Freeman, has tried during this year to lay particular stress upon the part which France is playing in World War II. With this intention in mind an interesting meeting was held at which a talk about General De Gaulle was given by Major Benedictus, a member of the Fighting French Air Corps. Another meeting was devoted to the discussion of French activities in North Africa. Other events of this year included a trip to a French movie in New York, with luncheon in a French restaurant; a social meeting in which the members talked with one another in French about various subjects which interested them; and an excellent presentation of a medieval French farce by several members of the club. The other officers of the club are Jane Watkins, vice-president; Alice Schwab, secretary; Bennet Murdock, treasurer; Margot Trimble, program chairman; and Bob Stansberry, publicity manager.

COLUMBIA CLUBS

INDUSTRIAL ARTS AND COMMUNITY SERVICE CLUB

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Spear, this club has engaged in the building of many projects for the Red Cross. Such articles as writing boards, lap boards, and smoking stands were sent to the Red Cross for use in hospitals where wounded soldiers were quartered. This is a service group and carries credit toward Victory Corps membership for both boys and girls who like this type of activity.

LATIN CLUB

Better known as the Forum Romanum, this club has encouraged those interested in ancient civilization and culture. Under the new organization of the club, the leaders are known and referred to as follows: Imperator, Larry Lasser; Legatus, Dot Pritchett; Censors Primus and Secundus, Carol Kasen and Jim Mauha; and Proconsuls, Elnora Benton and George Vogel. Insignias designating officers were awarded, and programs have included elections in the manner of the Ancient Republic, a musical presentation, and a marriage ritual showing actual customs of the Romans. The club is sponsored by Miss Sanders, Miss Leech, and Mr. White.

LYCEUM CLUB

The Lyceum Club showed considerable progress this year under the leadership of the president, Bennet Murdock, and the faculty adviser, Mr. Henry Adams. The Lyceum was founded three years ago for the purpose of getting together in informal meetings those students in Columbia High School who are interested in current affairs of state, national, and international magnitude.

This year debates, lectures, forums, and open discussions were planned by the able program chairman, Rex Slauson, who is also the vice-president. In the annual assembly program, given in early November, the Lyceum presented a debate on the problem of Indian independence. Rex Slauson and Richard Bilder took opposing views on the matter while Phil Lindeman mediated.

At the February meeting Mrs. Alan MacCarthy, assemblywoman from Maplewood in the New Jersey State Legislature, gave a timely talk on state elections in 1943. Earlier in the year a very interesting talk was given by Mr. Sterling, head of the History Department of our high school, on "The Slacker Vote—Good Government's Biggest Enemy." Perhaps the biggest event of the year was the talk by Mr. Spencer Miller, Jr., the President of South Orange, on "New Jersey Government."

At the midyears, in conformity with the Victory Corps Program, the Lyceum decided to devote its programs primarily to the study and discussion of problems of democracy, the United Nations, post-war problems, and other subjects of a similar nature.

Other officers of the club are Pat Foley, treasurer; and Bertram Cohn, secretary.

MATHEMATICS FOR ARMY AND NAVY CLUB

The impetus for the organization of the Mathematics for Army and Navy Club was the Victory Corps program which sought to promote activities in fields that contribute to the war effort. In order to carry out this aim the club was divided into three groups to provide an opportunity for its members to gain further knowledge about the various aspects of mathematics. Under the leadership of Mr. Page, one group studies mathematics of navigation; another group, sponsored by Mr. Hughes, learns the use of fundamental instruments for calculations; the third group, directed by Mr. Jackson, concentrates on mapping, with emphasis on map reading. The officers are as follows: president, Fred Mitchell; vice-president, Bob Mende; secretary-treasurer, Bob Baynum.

METEOROLOGY CLUB

This club studies the science of weather and climate, and the importance of forecasting the weather for military purposes. The whys and wherefores of weather prediction are discussed, involving the use of such technical devices as weather maps and instruments. The club is sponsored by Mr. Erickson and Mr. Hack, and following are the officers: president, Calvin Carver; vice-president, Dwight Ramsey; treasurer, Bob Mende.

MUSIC BOX CLUB

Led by talented President Bea Tremper, the Music Box Club is achieving its purpose, the promotion of an intensified interest and appreciation of fine music. Vice-President Margery Stone, who plans the programs, has featured many outstanding meetings in which there are clever quizzes and stunts. On one occasion the entire group sang a song until a signal was given at which time one member was called upon to continue the tune as soloist. During another program a student composed to rhythms and improvised on themes suggested by the group. Throughout the year each member also contributes to the meetings by performing vocally or playing various instruments. In this way every person has an opportunity to display his talents. Aiding Bea and Margery are Secretary Pauline Stewart, Treasurer Fred Mitchell, and Sponsor Mr. Shenton.

PAN-AMERICAN CLUB

The purpose of the Spanish Club is to develop among its members a better understanding of South America and its people. In order to promote this aim the club held a typical fiesta which enabled the group to gain a knowledge of South American customs. At other meetings the members learned about Spanish music and drama. During these meetings everyone had a chance to speak Spanish and in this way seek to express himself more fluently in this language.

The new Pan-American Club, originally the Spanish Club, will strive to further this feeling of friendship between the Americas under the leadership of Anne Folger, president; Drue Whitney, vice-president; Pauline Stewart, secretary; Anita Riordan, treasurer; and Mr. Pullin, faculty adviser.

PARNASSIAN SOCIETY

The Parnassian Society, sponsored by Miss Memory, is a dramatic organization composed of one hundred members. New members showing dramatic interests are selected each fall and spring through competitive try-outs. Regular meetings are held twice each month, and the programs at each meeting are produced and directed by club members. There is also a regular program of dramatic instruction. The plays and musical programs are aided by the several committees within Parnassian. Each member belongs to at least one of these committees and thus contributes directly to the Parnassian productions. Parnassian has been organized for sixteen years and during this time has produced many plays for the student body. This year Parnassian presented "The Doctor of Lonesome Folk" in assembly, and "The Merchant of Yonkers" for the general public. The officers are Phil Lindeman, president; Gerie Genereux, vice-president; Judy Hackman, secretary; Don Davis, treasurer; and Ruth Jacoby, program committee chairman.

COLUMBIA CLUBS

PERSONALITY CLUB

The Personality Club, sponsored by Mrs. Baker, helps the pupil to analyze himself for self-improvement. Questionnaires are filled and results checked at intervals, to determine what improvement has been made. Consideration is given to those qualities which best fit one for school life now and for future careers. Four main committees—the War Service Committee, the Psychology Committee, the Social Committee, and the Program Committee, plan the activities of the club. Following are the officers: president, Lois Johnson; vice-president, Sue Carr; treasurer, Emma Gilbert; secretary, Louise Swensk.

PLANE BUILDING AND IDENTIFICATION CLUB

One of the newly organized clubs this year is the Model Plane Building and Aircraft Identification Club, sponsored by Mr. Platt. This club aims to build model planes to contribute to the war effort, to train members for jobs as civilian defense airplane spotters, and to provide information for those interested in aviation. At the meetings the members build model planes for use by the Army and Navy and learn the fundamentals of airplane identification by suspending these planes thirty-five feet in the air and by mounting outlines on slides which are projected on the wall or ceiling. In addition, theory of airplanes is arranged for the near future. Bob Williams is chairman; Joe Harmon, vice-chairman; and Ann Terry, secretary.

RADIO AND COMMUNICATION CLUB

Under the leadership of President Jack Kruse the newly organized Radio and Communication Club, originally the Kilocycle Club, is offering valuable knowledge in practice code and radio theory to its members. Often talks on radio theory, accompanied by demonstrations, are given by the more advanced students. Such information has proved of great help to many former members who are now serving as radio operators in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard. Girls as well as boys are eligible for membership in this club. Previously the club operated its own radio; however, because of government regulations, this activity has ceased. Nevertheless, the club hopes to re-establish its station after the war. The other officers working with Jack are: vice-president, Bob Baynum; secretary, Don Shephard; and treasurer, Marjorie Leutz. Mr. Chase is the sponsor.

RED CROSS SEWING SERVICE CLUB

The Red Cross Sewing Service Club, organized for the purpose of making garments greatly needed by the American Red Cross at home and abroad, is newly formed in compliance with the Victory Corps Program. At the regular meetings held each Wednesday such articles as bed jackets, Red Cross flags, flannel pajamas, and blouses have been produced under the careful supervision of Miss Zeilenbach.

SCHOOL COUNCIL

A traditional organization at Columbia, and in many respects the nerve center of our school, is the School Council. It is composed of representatives from all home rooms, and is divided into the standing committees which play so great a part in the government of the school. The Council gives opportunity for the discussion of ideas, the voicing of opinions, the initiation of changes in school government. Now more than ever it is of value as a working example of democratic government, which allows every pupil in the school that share in self-government which he must learn to use wisely in democratic living as a citizen of a free country.

SOPHOMORE DRAMATIC CLUB

One of the largest traditional clubs in Columbia, the Sophomore Dramatic Club, with an enrollment of 215, furthers any interest in dramatics evidenced by its members. Radio, make-up, acting, directing, staging, lighting, costuming, and the various phases of theatrical activity are practiced by the several divisions of the club. Plays are presented, several as assembly programs. Sponsored by Miss Alexander, the club has become one of the best known institutions of Columbia. Following are the officers: president, Bob Goldsby; vice-president, Lora Lander; secretary, Betty Brun; assistant secretary, Shirley Campbell; treasurer, Ellen Kiernan; assistant treasurer, Ann Lebo.

TABLE TENNIS CLUB

The Table Tennis Club, sponsored by Mr. Jackson, gives pupils the opportunity to play in matches and tournaments with other members of the club, thus furthering competitive spirit and social opportunity. As a contribution to the war effort, the club presented a ping pong table and a set of complete playing equipment to the Red Cross for transmission to an army camp. The officers this year are as follows: president, Gladys Ewing; vice-president, Tom Folger; secretary, Rose Perry; treasurer, Bob Taylor.

The year of 1942-43 will be long remembered by students and followers of Columbia High School. A mighty Columbia eleven chalked up a very impressive record on the gridiron, winning all but one of its games.

Now, let's see what made our team tick. First and foremost was captain "Tex" Pryor, our fleet-footed halfback, who cornered all-state honors for his sensational play; Bob Weir, rugged end, whose fighting spirit helped no end in achieving many a victory; Artie Smith, whose bullet passes accounted for score upon score; plunging Harry Zuzzuro, who picked up those needed yards; Dick Spain, our magnificent field general; big Ed Polnick, our most capable tackle; and Cal Whitehead, Don Edsall, Emil Kohn, George Padinsky, Herb Piken, Bill Mucke, Austin Smithers, Tommy Williams, Glenn Rickenbacher, Walt Benn, and Sammy Jones—all of whom helped greatly in giving Columbia one of her best seasons in the past decade.

But this glorious season certainly would not have come to pass if it weren't for our excellent coaching staff, headed by Phil Marvel. Coaches Marvel, Baker, Keen, Mellotte, Mosher, Mattis, and Brown spent many hours conditioning and instructing our boys, and to them belongs much praise for a noteworthy job.

Yet a football team does not run on players and coaches alone; it needs fellows to take care of the equipment, publicity, ticket sales, and general management. These chores were admirably looked after by John Karl, Don Sanderson, Barry Haviland, George Stratton, Malcolm West, and Joseph Bowman. Thanks, boys, for a swell job.

And the rest of you, who cheered our team to victory, have the satisfaction of knowing that our gridiron aggregation was one that you will long be proud of.

Football Review

G. A. A.

This year brought many changes to the largest club in school, the Girls' Athletic Association. In September we were confronted by three new teachers, and a fourth in February.

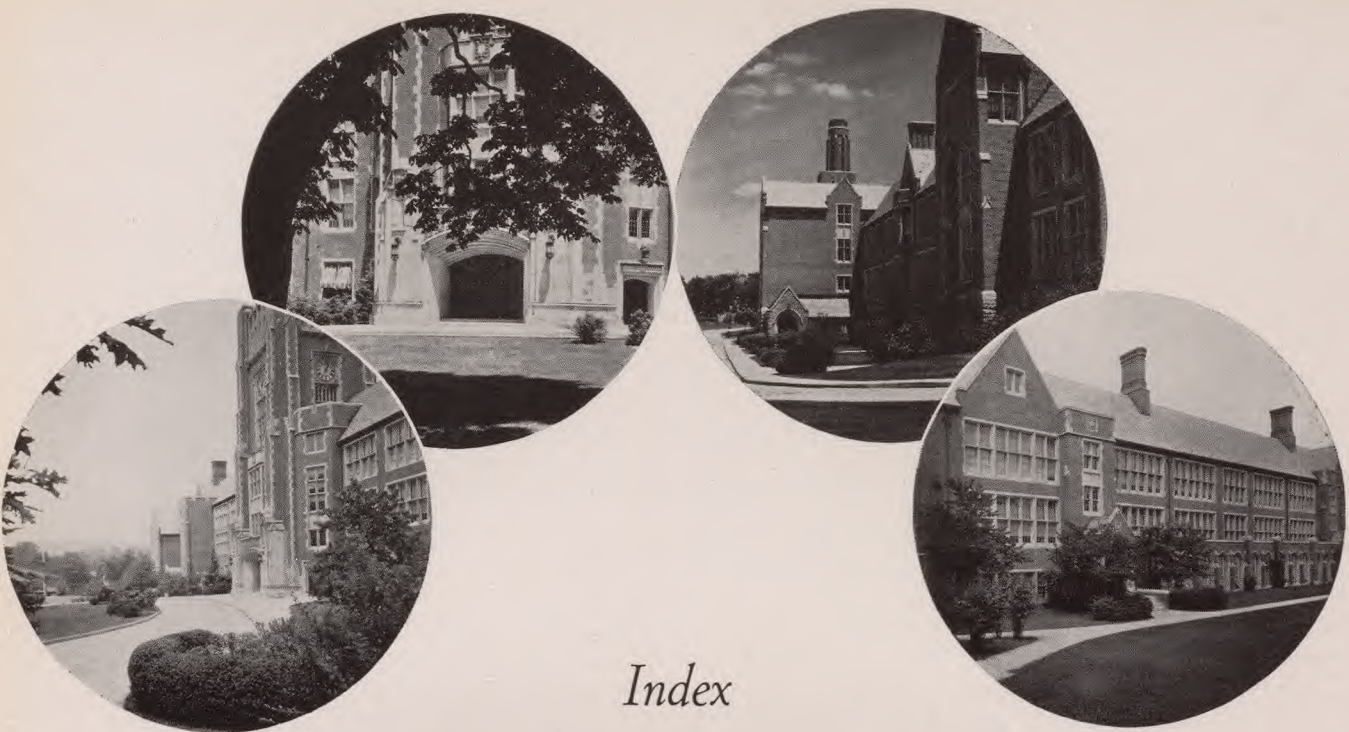

However, the soccer season got off with a bang and the final results showed a neck-and-neck tie between the seniors and the juniors. The tennis season also got under way and ardent players battled among themselves for berths in the spring tournament.

The social side of the G. A. A. was not neglected. The traditional sophomore party was held early in October. After the last soccer game of the year, sponsored by the seniors, a variety show was presented at the annual Christmas party.

Reorganization of the Physical Education Department prevented the annual home room basketball competition, but it couldn't black out basketball completely, and the inter-class games were staged successfully in March. Volleyball and swimming then occupied the minds of enthusiastic G. A. A.'ers, until spring brought them once more into the open air for the tennis finals and baseball games.

The climax of the season is always the awards supper and the assembly in which the banner is presented to the class garnering the most points in the inter-class competition.

Be Hopeful

Sometimes the journey seems rough and long on the high, steep road called Life.

But youth can make the ascent seem a lot less difficult by keeping in mind one simple, yet impressive, truth;—

The top stratum in any business or profession offers ample room for those of ability.

"Reach for the stars!"
