Dear Ginny,

We certainly had fun these last three years. I can hardly believe that we are finally graduating.

[Let's go back a few years, when we first started going around with each other. I guess it was around the end of ~~my~~ ^{our} Sophomore year, we went to the club, but nothing was there that interested us. That year passed quickly and our Junior year came. We went to the football games you to see the twins, me to see Billy Hamber Chay. Then the summer and what a surprise. A NEW SWIMMING PRO. All four of us get a crush ^{on him.} (I think you and I had the worst crush on him though.) We must of gone swimming everyday rain or shine, just to see him. Oh yes then, Golf. You started to take golf lessons, and we started to play quite alot then. We also then had a crush on Freddy Boy. But that didn't last to long. Then we become great big Seniors. Again we go to the Football games, and all the winter activities, begin. Now Summer is approaching again and with a big disappointment. NO KELLY! I guess we will never get over him. But we do have a new tennis pro, which we all

Dedication

FREDERIC J. CREHAN

THE school year beginning September 1951 brought a deep sense of loss to returning students and faculty. Our principal, Mr. Frederic J. Crehan, died on August thirty-first after a brief illness. It was a shock to everyone in the school system, but especially to Columbia High School and to the senior class, who had known and benefited from Mr. Crehan's wise administration. It is impossible for us to place a value on the intangible qualities that Mr. Crehan possessed; to us, he was a kindly adviser and a true friend. Therefore, it is with deep respect and sincere affection that we dedicate this yearbook to his memory. He was more to us than just an able educator; he was a living embodiment of the highest ideals of our school.

At the memorial service on January 22, 1952, Mr. Threlkeld, the superintendent of schools, said: "Mr. Crehan was a scholar and a gentleman. He was a man of courage and conviction. He possessed highly developed powers of keen insight, clear analysis, and practical judgment. He had deep sympathy for the problems of other people. He shunned opportunism and related all his acts to a code of worthy principles and high ideals. Above all, his personality was tempered with a rare sense of humor."

In dedicating this book to him, the class of '52 attempts to express its appreciation for his unselfish service, kindly understanding, subtle humor, and consistent friendship.

Autumn

Bright autumn left mem'ries of football excitement,
Preparing for college, and leaves-
rustling-red,
Fall founded our pattern of working and playing,
Then faded away; — and the year lay ahead.

In the warm days of September,

Girls' Athletic Association

With the coming of the atomic age and jet propulsion, G.A.A. decided, it too, could go modern. So donning her new red bathing sack, our modern girl zooms off to steal a glance at today's woman in the athletic world.

Surprise! Surprise! Recreational swimming will now gross the channel aspirants four points per afternoon. However our senior miss leaves such strenuous activities to the more hardy sophomores, and practices dipping her face in a large bowl of water.

Speedball is neglected for the most part by this senior, since watching boys proved to be more fun and less risky. However, that is nothing new.

Basketball rules are all fixed up for this modern girl. She can now throw the ball while sitting, lying, or kicking on the floor; a position very familiar to those who claim to be athletic.

Quite carried away by bowling in the fall, seniors found it hard to resist sending volleyballs under the net instead of over. Well, almost over.

So, slightly bewildered by all these innovations and very much surprised that she didn't get her letter, or at least a numeral, our modern senior says "goodbye" regretfully and with the thought that she, after all, had fun!

Senior History

History is about to pull its proverbial stunt: it is going to repeat itself. We entered Columbia, joyful, eager, apprehensive, and curious, in the confused state of mind which usually describes that paradox known as the sophomore. Three years at Columbia have effected a miraculous change until now we feel quite self-confident, considerably more mature, perhaps a little wiser. Hence we find ourselves overjoyed at the prospect of going beyond our sheltering walls, eager for the status of adulthood, yet apprehensive of the responsibilities we must meet, and curious about our future.

Yes, in a sense we are about to become sophomores again; novices in business, lower-classmen in college, human atoms inexperienced in the complexities of life. However, thanks to our experiences at Columbia, we will never again find ourselves completely dismayed by new problems or difficult situations. Although we shall have much to learn after we leave the cloistered confines of Columbia High School, we shall be prepared to assume our responsibilities as citizens of the world and directors of its destiny.

Our energetic activities must have begun the minute we entered Columbia in September, 1949; for the upper-classmen soon discovered sophomores in the midst of Varsity sports, assembly programs, The Columbia newsroom, clubs, and council committees. Our first year at Columbia witnessed the advent of the voting machine at school elections, Traditions Week, and the teas for the parents of the sophomore class.

When we returned to school as Juniors, we found that the outbreak of the war in Korea in June of 1950 had restored the monthly air raid drill and the too familiar sight of a boy in uniform. Although the headlines were constantly filled with the progress of the war and new draft bills which affected so many of our friends and might soon affect us, we realized that we had a job to do. We had to learn how to understand the peoples of the world and their problems that we might better serve the cause of freedom and justice. We wanted to devote our best efforts to our activities and our education.

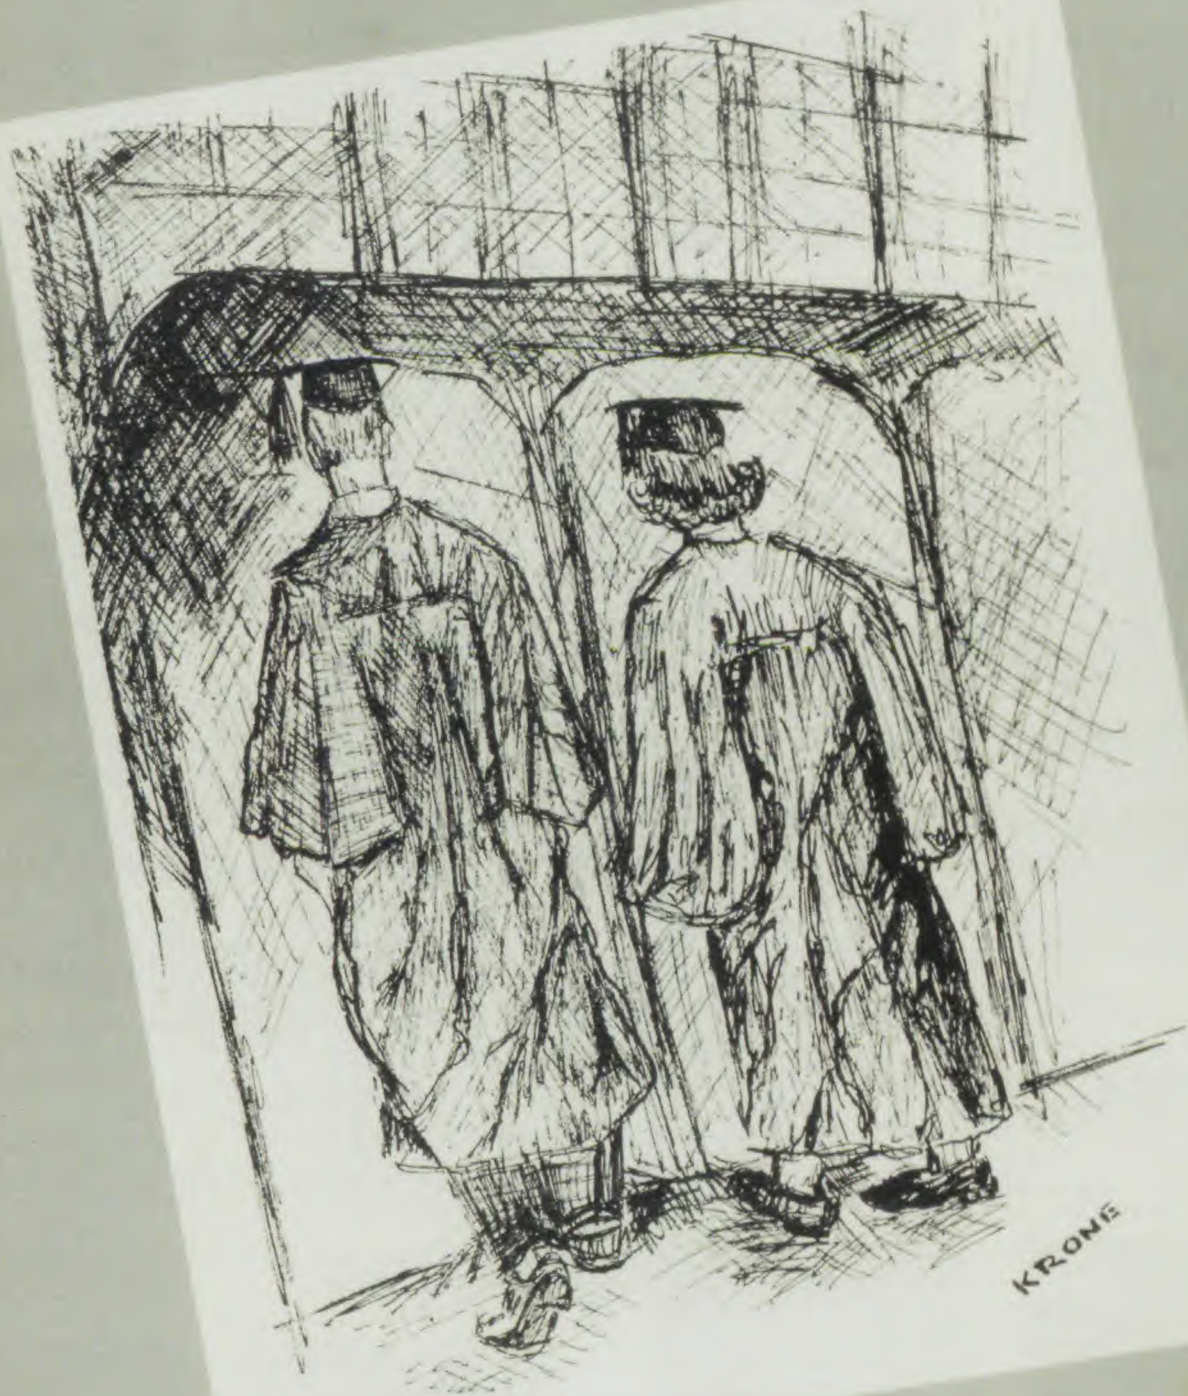

So it was with a sense of relief that we approached Junior Night with all its attendant pleasures and problems. Though it was not apparent at first, we soon found ourselves involved in a musical fantasy incorporating the treachery of Duke Dad I, the wiles of the wicked witch Clammypalm, the love of the Princess Flanella for Clancy, and the antics of a quaint little man known as The Geezix.

Spring with its posters and reams of speeches plunged us into an election campaign procedure quite different from that of the days of the side-shows and traveling bands. Our candidates had to prove themselves on the basis of their individual merits.

Coming upon us with very little warning, our senior year found us somewhat unprepared to accept our additional responsibilities. Instead of greeting it with shouts from the roof tops, "We're Seniors! Do you hear us? We're Seniors!" we sat down in the middle of the auditorium and laughed at the peculiar characters who popped out of the living room of our senior play, "You Can't Take It With You." We published the 1952 Mirror with the aid of the innovations afforded by the use of photo-offset. For the first time in the history of Columbia High School, we won the state football championship. In short, we were too busy to realize we were Seniors.

The Class of 1952 will always strive especially to follow the ideals and standards set for us by two of the most understanding friends we have had and have lost—Miss Caswell, our guide, and Mr. Crehan, our principal.

And now, as we try to snatch our days at Columbia from that miserly man called Time, deep within us we know we cannot succeed. We now realize that our progress in life will depend upon how well we adjust to the many experiences through which Time will lead us. A bit reluctantly, we are leaving Columbia, but we are taking with us the friendships and wealth of wisdom we have accumulated here.

Class Will

We, the graduating class of 1952, after three exciting years of torturing teachers, stealing note-book paper, "borrowing" lunches from the shelf outside of the library, and having one of the best football teams in the state, are now ready to pass out—from Columbia, we mean. So that you the junior class can take as good care of Columbia as we have, we bequeath, give, donate, offer, bestow, and attribute, these, our diversified talents. As we fare them well, we hope you'll wear them well.

- Item I. I, Barbara Iannicelli, leave my "I Can't Say No" voice to Jimmy Rose, because I just can't say no to you, Jimmy.
- Item II. I, Robin Ehrenkranz, give my dimples and curly hair to Sandy Samuels. Don't let this go to your head, Sandy!
- Item III. I, John Hawkins, leave my "Billy Eckstein" voice to Bill Hartke. See you on Cookie's Caravan!
- Item IV. I, Sonny Santoli, leave my purely platonic relations with the girls to any junior boy who can stand it.
- Item V. I, Judy Katchen, leave to MaryAnne McKenna my red hair and the tall cover-girl appearance that goes with it.
- Item VI. I, Susie Rhodes, leave my sister Bobbie. Don't worry, Ma, she can take care of herself.
- Item VII. I, Bonny Rauchmiller, give to Warren Davis my "Rock of Gibraltar" build, to be used both on and off the football field.
- Item VIII. I, Marie Pisciotta, leave my soiled soccer socks and my active participation in G.A.A. to Barbara Bergmann.
- Item IX. I, Frank Penn, leave my blond curly hair and dimples to Ricky Erickson.
- Item X. I, Mary Sweeney, give my long blond hair to Beverly Kapp. And ours' doesn't come out of a bottle!
- Item XI. We, the Conlin twins, leave our versatile athletic ability and our fifteen letters to all the junior boys. After all, what one junior boy could win them all?
- Item XII. I, Patty Williams, leave my love for fun and that twinkle in my eye to Claire Gormley.
- Item XIII. I, Harry Griffie leave—Ho! Ho! That's rich!!
- Item XIV. I, Jule Mulligan, will give an award to any junior girl who can sit in the back row in choir without being teased by the boys.
- Item XV. I, Frank Abt leave—please don't cry, girls! There are still a couple of nice-looking guys left in the school.
- Item XVI. I, Barbara Shehadi, leave to Ceil Nardone my pep and punch, along with a box of Wheaties.
- Item XVII. I, Marilyn Collin, leave my much-envied accomplishment of being the football captain's girlfriend to any junior girl as lucky as I am!
- Item XVIII. I, Willy Kemp, leave my terrific sense of humor to Pete Kastner.
- Item XIX. I, Jean Hannay, give my rosy cheeks and winning smile to Joan Walbrecher.
- Item XX. I, Bob Blanchard, leave my good looks which have made many a feminine heart pound to Jack Bird.
- Item XXI. I, Leigh Updike, leave to Jeanine Zusi the know-how of being a leader in every club and committee.
- Item XXII. I, Phil Hartung, leave my discus-throwing record to take up dish-throwing at my red-headed wife.
- Item XXIII. We, Lois Waud and Connie Folino, having dated each other for six years, defy any junior couple to make that statement.
- Item XXIV. I, Barbara Lentz, leave my ninety average, my looks, personality, talent, and artistic ability to any junior girl who can fill this description and be as modest as I!
- Item XXV. I, Barbara Farr, leave to Margie Behrendt my twinkle toes and an Emilie Sarles contract.
- Item XXVI. I, Dick Schechner, leave my ability to make everyone laugh and half of my wit to Jerry Tumarkin. Now that makes us both half-wits!
- Item XXVII. I, Doc Nardone, leave my all-around athletic ability to Ray VanOrden.
- Item XXVIII. I, Barbara Feller, leave my college weekends to Beth Rosenberg. Is there another junior girl that gets sick on so many Fridays?
- Item XXIX. I, Carl Salzano, leave my Italian accent to anybody else who just got off the boat!

- Item XXX. We, Miriam Deutz and Sally Robbins, leave our talent with the needle and thread to Nancy La-Kamp and Jean Sire.
- Item XXXI. I, Patsy Roskein, give my "personality" to Margie Roth. After all, Margie, it's the "personality" that gets the boys!
- Item XXXII. I, Tom Okin, leave my flare for the foot-lights to Jimmy Moss.
- Item XXXIII. I, Eddie Zipf, leave my ability at football and basketball to Sonny Scola.
- Item XXXIV. I, Lyn Hegel, leave my fifteen closet wardrobe to Paula Smith.
- Item XXXV. I, Ralph Heller, leave my ability to march around the football field carrying the glockenspiel to any junior who feels strong enough.
- Item XXXVI. I, Carol Ann Brown leave my peaches'n cream complexion to Beverly Lamor.
- Item XXXVII. We, Ed Kaplan and Claire Wolf leave our all-around popularity to Bob Calkins and Monique Kastner.
- Item XXXVIII. I, Pete Campisi, leave my esteemed position as president of the Student Council to any junior who wants to take advantage of the right of petition.
- Item XXXIX. We, Nancy Schmidt and Grace Patrick, leave the proof the "streaks" of lightning do strike twice to Marion Domber and Kathy Kearny.
- Item XL. I, Gail Asselmeyer, leave my many talents to Jacquie Hollar.
- Item XLI. I, Jim Velestin, "the Wild Horse of Plymouth Avenue" bestow this title upon Al Suter, "the Wild Horse of Turrell Avenue." (Neigh, Neigh! What da ya say? We'll get a touchdown that-a-way!)
- Item XLII. I, Muriel Pfeifer leave my know-how of catching the male members of the VanOrden family to Roberta Rehfeldt.
- Item XLIII. We, Carol Kroupa and Joan Wallace leave our busy Saturday nights to Elaine Beers and Ben Melter.
- Item XLIV. I, Amy Remondelli, leave my phony sophistication to—oh, no! There can't be another like me!
- Item XLV. I, Jordan Gruzen, leave my trips through the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Europe to any junior who owns a bicycle.
- Item XLVI. I, Mady Tiger, leave my versatility at verse to Mady Green.
- Item XLVII. I, Bev Slater, leave my knack for hooking my man permanently during my junior year to any junior who likes to wash dishes.
- Item XLVIII. I, Gary Riemer, leave my houseful of friends to Ben Feldman.
- Item XLIX. I, Carol Kauffman, leave my nose for news to any junior who wants to lead a "Merry-Go-Round" life!
- Item L. I, Amy Auerbacher, leave my interest in Mt. Holyoke to Judie Aldridge along with the wish that it were closer to the men's colleges we love so well.
- Item LI. I, Judy Frankel, leave my crazy cracks and my facial expressions to Jerry Lewis—oops, I mean June Borneman.
- Item LII. We, Helen O'Brien and Maud Hazeltine, leave our sweet sincere personalities to Gail Burkott and Joan Forkel.
- Item LIII. I, Carol Julian still haven't found anybody to leave my wiggle to!
- Item LIV. We, Perry James and Sid Kitson, leave our love for those thirst-quenching beverages in the can to Phil Douglas and Karl Henslenbach.
- Item LV. I, Toby Feldman, having never told a fib without getting caught, hope that Pat Edward can get by with her tall tales.
- Item LVI. I, Lonny Fast, leave to Paul Stille my "is there anything I can do for you?" attitude.
- Item LVII. I, Sandy Warden, when I leave CHS, take with me the last bit of Warden tan.
- Item LVIII. We, Bev Mellotte and Peter Bernard, leave our musical ability to Shirley Failla and Jack Kineke. To Mr. Johnson—A pair of brass knuckles to hang on his desk.
- To Mr. Fleming—An Oscar for his dramatic acting in class.
- We, the football team, leave the ability to smear Montclair to next year's team.
- We, the senior class, "Can't Take It With Us," but we will always have the memories of three wonderful years!

Class Prophecy

While walking down a lonely street
Just yesterday, I chanced to meet
A mystic gypsy, bent and tan.
She bade me listen, then began
Her tale of charm, as gypsies do,
Which now I shall impart to you:

"In winter, summer, spring, or fall,
While gazing through my crystal ball,
I catch a glimpse, a future view,
I see the class of 'fifty-two.

I focus first on Broadway sights;
Familiar names are up in lights.
For Silberman just wrote a play
That's really rising all the way.
And Nancy Horton made a hit
By skillfully directing it.
Or tunes and words by Asselmeyer
The music-lovers never tire.
And leading lady public choice
Is Barbara Iannicelli's voice.
The critics take a second glance
At Cinnie Mehler's modern dance;
And Ginnie Poppele looks divine
As leader of the chorus line.
A little guy who's very droll
Is always Joe Nataro's role.

Carnegie Hall is now the scene;
I see upon my crystal screen
That Rickenbacher Rhapsodies
Have won him fame on ivory keys.
The people won't let Shotwell pause;
With violin he wins applause.
And Marilyn Goetz's alto strong
Can stir the Hall by skillful song.
Another voice we can't forget
Is Barbara Taylor's—at the Met.

The lights go up, the curtain down;
It's time for all to "do the town."
Ed Kaplan's swanky "Diamond Stork"
Attracts the crowds of gay New York.
The late arrivals gladly stand
To hear Ralph Heller's famous band.
His boys have been on top for years;
They call themselves the Cavaliers.
Enthusiasts pay special tax
To hear Bob Wheeler on the sax.
Miss Joanie Wallace, vocal thrush,
Sings sweet and low. The people rush
'Cause Rudy's scheduled to appear;
He's thrilling as the trumpeteer.
And thousands cheer for Ralph's piano.

Ed's emcee is Carl Salzano.
People say the "Sal" is great
The way he can impersonate.
Let's look around the club to see
The popular celebrity.
There's Sandra Wolf, the fashion lady.
Walking in is Richard Brady,
Well-known Wall Street financier.
Miss Barbara Wadsworth, seated near,
Surrounded by admiring dates,
Was chosen Miss United States.
There's Robert Sneden, dressed up right;
As playboy now, he lives at night.
That's Marilyn Collin there, I think.
No more racoon—she's wearing mink!
There's Dottie Metcalf mod'ling clothes;
She's dressed in style where e'er she goes.
That's Nathan S. who winks his eye
As all the pretty girls go by.
And seated there is Jim Velestin.
So they say, his job is testin'
Up-and-coming football stars,
Who plan to beat the team from Mars.
His famous colleagues, "Doc" and "Penn",
Will help him train his mighty men.
Miss Kaufman, known to know the news,
Is here tonight; let's get her views:
We hear Bev Slater's settled down,
But men still beg for Carol Brown.
The latest toothpaste offers pay
For pretty smiles from Jean Hannay.
Lynn Hegel's hair rewards her, too:
She advertises Slick shampoo.
Bernard and Tupper take first place
In each Olympic swimming race.
Displaying record tennis skills,
Dick Hayes is champ of Forest Hills.
The inter-planet baseball boss
Is heavy-hitting Robert Cross.
The Men from Mars are beaten sound
When Lang is pitching from the mound.

Columbianites in Washington
Keep politicians on the run.
Dick Scheckner, King of Filibuster,
Adds to Senate wit and bluster.
Worriers can take it easy:
White House man is Pete Campisi.
Margie Greenfield's fine translations
Link the States with foreign nations.
Congresswomen, led by Leigh
With Updike capability,
Have taken government by storm.
B. Barron urges world reform.
The Abramson and Schwartz machine

Bill Laufer's essays seem to be
The height of great philosophy.
Among the books that entertain
The Kaden novels always reign.
The classic women's magazine
Is published by Arlene Levine.
Boys and girls extend their knowledge
Studying at Relles College.

Another gaze at crystal yields
A view of entertainment fields.
The TV owners really go
For Judy Frankel's crazy show.
The moony bobbie-soxers swoon
When Johnny Hawkins starts to croon.
Athletic fans are watching too—
The Albert Battle "Sports Review."
A dancing team that's strictly star
Is Barrie Lantz and Barbara Farr.
The music acts on screen are swell:
Harmonica by Bill Gnitchel;
And Onderdonk, the lady fair,
Who plays the oboe on the air.
The rapturous refrains begin
When Winthers renders violin.
Tom Okin on the ivory keys
Plays soft, Mellotte-ic melodies.

By now my gypsy's voice was low;
I knew 'twas time for her to go.
She gently slipped her crystal ball
Beneath her brightly-colored shawl.
I stood transfixed by what I'd heard,
Amazed at each revealing word;
But when I asked her, "Is it true?
Is this the fate of 'fifty-two?"
She vanished silently from view.
So now I leave it up to you.
Keeps politics in Jersey clean.
To Ellen Boland, so I see,
They turn for top efficiency.
Fred Willman frankly airs his views
As editor of Jersey News.

The scope of science, reaching wide,
Can fill Columbianites with pride.
For Doctor Handel, genius, sage,
Was hailed the master of the age;
And Madame Kroeck's discovery
Made miracles in chemistry;
While Victor Auth has found a way
To stop forever tooth decay.
We'll reach the other planets soon

"WHAT IS A JUNIOR"

One day while idly perambulating. . .
I chanced to look through a cellar grating—
A big, loud sign my glance was bating. .
So I stopped to read it and found it stating:
"What is a Junior?" Who can solve this riddle? . .
For a Junior is naught but in the middle!"
My brain I wracked for countless ages. .
My thoughts progressed in awkward stages.
Finally, however, I equaled the sages
By solving the riddle that's puzzled the ages:

"Just a little Junior . . only in-between. . . .
Below the mighty senior—above the soph-more green.
He's got a lot of worries . . his thoughts are oft-times troubled . .
Perhaps he thinks his nose too long, his chin a bit too stubbled.
He finds himself in varying moods . . . a song may make his sad. .
An unfair thrust will leave him mad . . . a well-played scrimmage glad.
He's not considered quite "all right" by "superior" adults. .
They find his escapades too gay, they frown on the results.
They see him as a scheming rogue, with many a naughty vice. . .
Cig'rettes, drink, "caritis" too, his money lost at dice.
And yet, with all his faults, 'tis true he has "beaucoup"
We must agree he can be swell, his heart and mind are true—
His aims are high and lofty . . . his head is filled with dreams. . .
His brain's devising ways and means, perpetrating schemes.
He wants to get ahead like mad in the world outside his door . . .
So our friend, the Junior, buckles down and works
then works some more"

Dear Ginny.

How can I say
how wonderful it has been,
how much fun we've had and how much you've missed you? It isn't easy, and yet we're all glad to leave our "childish" studios, but sorry to leave our good friends. Of course you must write, being so close to Leamington you will be able to give some interesting news! Much love always
For ever, as ever,
Barbara

Dear Ginny,
Finally school is over and on the 19th we graduate. It seems to me as if a good time together in the past three years
some of the things we
"stupid," but fun!!
I guess in the beginning it was the love of football that first caught our eye. It wasn't the game exactly but I guess you got the idea. Then came our rather unorthodox use of the telephone which at times had its embarrassing moments. But that was when we were baby Sophomores. The summer went by and baseball season too. But somehow we still liked the club it was the same way. Hm...?? When school started me thought we were over it but around came football and the members changed which was confusing for a while. Our original bleached blond!

I'll
we never will get over him, I guess. Of course in between
there was Al, H. S., and a few dozen others but somehow, if you have noticed, we always go back to the latest craze is Dick.
at times I don't think hill last long I really don't wonder who it will be in college???. I hope I approve of him.
because if I don't you'll have to drop him
you know.

I'll best of luck as the saying goes. It's too bad you and I can't take "them" to college with us but of course I don't know exactly where we could house them. This letter is a little abstract but I'm sure you understand it. I hope will be as good friends all our lives as we are now.

Love,
Mary.

P.S. I forgot Mickey, Richie, Allenhurst,
the greenboy, Charlie, Roller Derby,
and Asbury Park in the morning.
but I really remember them.
