ALMA MATER

Oh! Columbia, thou hast taught us

The path that we should tread,

By thy rules of pride and honor

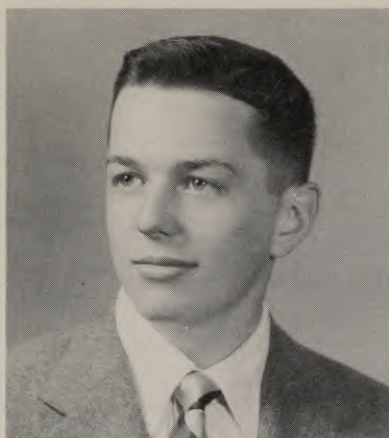

In our work and play we're led.

In the year of life's hard struggle

We care not what's in store,

For thy motto is our motto,

And our cry, "Excelsior!"

Dedication

Because we hold such implicit faith in the future; because our world needs such hope to overcome the conflicting forces bent on destroying our way of life; because our youth gives us courage to view the future so hopefully; because this wholesome outlook is guided by our parents and by the faculty of Columbia High School in its fine ideals of good citizenship, respect for God and country, and ability to live and work together, we, the class of 1954 dedicate our yearbook to the Columbia High School graduates of the future.

Class History

Our stay at Columbia has ended. As graduates, we now stand on the threshold of a bright and promising world. And yet, the memories of these past three years are the thoughts that mainly fill our minds, for only now do we realize how wonderful our sojourn here has been.

We came into Columbia one bright autumn day in 1951, a crowd of nervous, chattering sophomores. Everything was unfamiliar: the teachers, the rooms, and the other students; but we had finally "arrived." During those first few weeks we were easily distinguishable; our rushing, our desire to please, and our curiosity pointed out one word, "sophomores." In the fall and winter that followed we became a real part of the school by joining clubs, working with committees, and assuming positions of leadership.

Our first year was filled with both tragedy and victory. During the previous summer, Mr. Crehan, the principal, had died. Mr. Sheeley brilliantly assumed the responsibilities of principalship. To him go our deepest thanks. The bright spot that fall was the football team. Loyally and joyously we trooped to game after game and victory after victory. Who will ever forget that late October day when mighty Montclair was toppled, or the assembly in which the state championship trophy was presented?

April is the month of school elections. We had never seen anything like them; the fierce campaigning, the rows of posters and streamers lining the corridors, and everyone wearing the button of his candidate. No manager of "Ike" could raise such shouts as those for Peter Kasen and Jim Rose. When the hubbub had died down, Peter was the winner and successor of the capable Peter Campisi. Thus ended our sophomore year, the most tumultuous in our lives up to then.

Through the fall and winter of our junior year plans were being prepared for Junior Night. Everyone was busy writing songs, cultivating mellow voices, and perfecting his theatrical abilities. After much rehearsing and loads of fun, we proudly presented "Top Secret." It was an overnight success. For months the whole school sang and hummed "The Graduating Class of '54," "State's the Place," and all the others. "To be specific, it was terrific!"

On the heels of Junior Night came elections at which we were now old hands. After the usual furious campaigning (What an uproar there was when Martin Ritter platformed on smoking rooms!) Art Brooks came out on top. That spring, Joe Carter was elected the Senior Class President.

Perhaps the most significant happening in our junior year was the entrance of Mr. Amsden into our lives. All of us, of course, knew that he was the principal, but within an amazingly short time we learned that he was a man interested in us as individuals and desirous of our confidence. A bond of mutual respect, the healthiest of feelings, quickly grew between us.

The first days of our senior year were black. Peter Kasen, beloved and respected by all, had, on a seemingly carefree excursion through the West, taken his step into eternity. Much has been said concerning his death, but the words, "Death is swallowed up in victory," seem the most appropriate to describe the eventual effect on us. The entire student body rededicated itself so that the gap made by his passing might be filled. In October, Miss Helen Snyder, the head of the home economics department, passed away. Her loss was deeply felt for she had, in her thirty-two years of teaching here, become an integral part of the school.

One of the fondest memories of our senior year will be of a mustachioed Chilean, Señor Tomás Gray. One of several guests from foreign nations who lived, ate, and studied with us over a period of nearly six weeks, he helped us to understand better his country and people, and, more important, ourselves.

In March, as part of the New York Herald Tribune international youth program, Sergio Santiago of Madrid, Spain and Peter Hudson, of Northumberland, England, spent two weeks visiting our school.

Our last year was filled with many other important happenings. The comedy, "The Curious Savage," was chosen for our senior play. Ably acted and mounted, it received enthusiastic applause from all who saw it. After much anxiety most of us succeeded in passing our driver's license test and the college boards. In our last spring at Columbia we made definite decisions as to our future. Some of us decided to enter the armed forces, others, to enter the business world, and still more were admitted into the college of our choice.

Now we are looking forward to graduation. Soon, with the last strains of the "Alma Mater" in our ears, we shall leave Columbia as did sixty-five previous classes. Basically we will be just like those preceding ones: the same types of people, with the same likes and dislikes, and the same deep devotion to our school, our community, and our country. And yet, one fact distinguishes us: these past three years belong to us alone.

Senior Prophecy

I walked along a dusty path
When I chanced upon three mates,
And from their garb and talk I knew
That they were the Three Fates.

A conversation was started,
(For I had never wanted more
To know the brilliant future
Of the Class of '54.)

And from a dusty country road
The miles and years seemed to roll,
The Sisters sped me on to the Future
And the new State Capitol.

Elections were being celebrated,
And the halls of the House seemed to ring,
With the music of Ralph Capasso
Leading his band of swing.

Famed hostess Anne Walthart
With her fabulous personality,
And charming Dick Lowenstein
Rid the government of cold formality.

I mingled with the famous guests,
Through the crowd I could scarcely budge,
And I saw famed scientist Dick Tinus,
And Martin Steinmetz, Supreme Court Judge.

Governor Chase spied me with Soccer Star
Fred Beglietter,
And danced me onto the floor,
Where I met President Brooks, V. P. Cy Smith,
And Marty Ritter, newly elected senator.

Jan Winston, a well known diplomat
Waltzed with Judy Barnes, the nation's favorite,
While News Reporter Cinny Ackerman
Chatted with Ralph Ahlers of the Met.

I learned of the success of Don Spear
Who with business tycoon Ed Thorpe,
Was slowly but surely reaching the stars
From New York's Peterzell Airport.

They said the Olympics were shaping up well,
With Scheider, Sawicki, Engler, and Rose,
And tennis star Ted Nieman keeps
His opponents on their toes.

Bing Cherry is National Golf Champ,
(It was completely engineered by J. Betsch,)
While all the women's awards are won
By Roemmele and Groffsky (of the weaker sex?)

Football stars Iantosca, Van Cleve
And Rothauser, silver trophies bring home,
While Eric Brattstrom's baseball team
Keeps its scores high thanks to Cross and Nardone.

The National League's favorite basketball team
Loved by the nation's millions
Includes among the famous stars—Odell,
Gomillion, Rosenburgh, and Williams.

I learned of the entertainment world,
Of each and every star,
And learned that our own "Top Secret"
Was way ahead by far.

Louise Mindell and Roseanna Kelsey star,
And the audience always swoons
To the music of maestro Don Stubbs,
And when Mal McClinché croons.

The dancing is beyond compare, as proved
By Bopp, Schwimmer, Markensohn, Ziegler, and Carroll,
While Sue Fresh, Barbara Erdmann, and Diane
Schueler
Designed the show's fabulous apparel.

The show's songs are on the "Hit Parade,"
For the tunes and words are catchin',
(They're written by Sheila Wohlreich, Mariel
Whitman,
And Carnegie Hall's own, Anita Katchen.)

When the show is over,
Then midnight high society meets
At Paul Tracy's nightspot, "The Orange,"
Near Minna's Alley, and Sterling Street.

And in the throng that gathers there,
As a pedestrian wanders by,
He sees so many famous stars
From our own Columbia High.

Mary Lou Odell, Mary Lou Koehler,
And Ann Mecadon, whose crazy T. V. show
Has the nation laughing every Monday night,
Always come and go.

Sandy Scoppettone and Betty Fritts,
Whose humor in the show world
Is always in demand,
Are always there on hand.

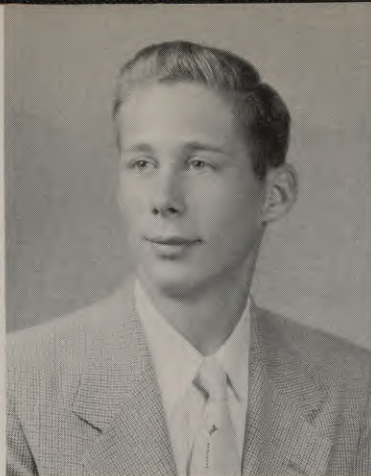

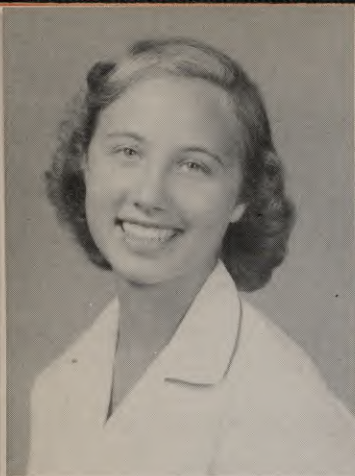

Pretty, blonde Sue Holmes
Who owns many skating rinks
Meets there, as does Ann Thompson,
Who has now progressed to minks.

Also seen are Vilma Smith, and Walt Fanburg,
Who have taken New York by storm,
Walt's a famed doctor,
Vilma's noted for her form.

Bev Ogden's always in demand,
With her one can't even sup,
And popular Shirley Mellotte's date book
For the next five years is booked up.

Sally Ehrlich and Julia Eaker now
Graduate students from their school of knowledge,
While Siegelman, Halprin, and Henston
Are the star house-party guests at Gilbert College.

Meeting there are models such as Barbara Goldberg,
And JoAnn Bausmith, whose pictures cover miles,
While Joan Mack and Jane Schutzman are seen,
(They're noted for their Paris styles.)

"To a Senior"

Pompous, arrogant, snooty soul!
 You, with the haughty stare,
 Just because you're a senior
 Must you have such a worldly air?
 You walk the halls with head
 held high,
 Aloof from all around you,
 Neither fire, earthquake, nor atom bomb
 Could possibly astound you.
 You run the school and reign
 supreme,
 (All others know your might)

And if you talk to us sophomores
 We tremble just with fright.
 You go your way, eyes straight ahead,
 No smile on that blasé mug,
 Won't you talk to us if you see us?
 Why must you be so smug?
 I'm only a miserable sophomore
 And in two years I might be meaner,
 Pompous, arrogant, snooty soul—
 Oh to be an awful senior!

An anonymous sophomore.

CURIOUS SAVAGE

On November 20 and 21 after six weeks of rehearsal, the senior class opened the curtain on a delightful comedy, "Curious Savage". This enchanting play by John Patrick, who, incidentally, is represented on Broadway now by "Teahouse of the August Moon", takes place in The Cloisters, a sanitarium. The guests there are warm, lovable characters who are suddenly invaded by the Savage Family. Mrs. Savage, who has inherited an immense fortune from her late husband is an unusual person. She has been endowed with a quick wit, charm and a deep love of people. Unfortunately the same can not be said for her three greedy step children who feel they could make better use of her fortune if she were put away. She has set up a "happiness fund", which provides money for people who wish to make their foolish dreams come true. The action centers about the struggle of Mrs. Savage to keep her fortune. By the time the last curtain falls, the audience feels quite certain that the Savage children are the ones who belong in The Cloisters, not the guests.

"Curious Savage", besides being a hilarious comedy, has some very touching moments in it. The sensitive direction of Mr. Alex Reed is apparent throughout the play. The warm reception the play received was appreciated by the many people, both students and teachers, who worked so hard to make the Senior Play of the Class of 1954 a successful one.

Class Will

We, the members of the Class of '54 being of sound mind and body, do hereby submit, present, and bequeath to the faculty and members of the student body our many diversified talents.

Item I: I, Peggy Schotland, leave my big eyes to any Junior who feels capable of using them to the best advantage.

Item II: I, Bing Cherry, leave my golfing ability to any Junior with a box of tees.

Item III: I, Claire Lu Thomas, leave my dramatic ability to Esther Hazeltine.

Item IV: I, Janet Curran, leave my address book, writing paper, envelopes, and stamps to any Junior with a pen full of ink.

Item V: I, June Blechmann, leave my petite good looks to Joan Trimble.

Item VI: I, Shirley Mellotte, leave my dimples and curly, blonde hair to Jill Miller.

Item VII: I, Bob Macdonald, leave my ability to make the floor shake when I walk down the hall to Don Rogers.

Item VIII: I, Barbara Goldberg, leave my fifteen inch waist to Bobby Schuander.

Item IX: I, Nancy Ahlgren, leave my "completely natural blonde tresses" to Lois Maguire.

Item X: We, Betsy Buecher and Dot Applegate, leave our hockey sticks and shin guards to any athletic (?) Junior girl.

Item XI: I, Judy Barnes, leave my Ipana smile and sparkling blue eyes to Ginny Zipf.

Item XII: We, Nancy Lou Waechter and Dolores Sulger, leave the short and tall of it to Elaine Rainone and Sarah Dailey.

Item XIII: I, Gail Henston, leave my "personality" to Rachel Hess.

Item XIV: I, Leo Nardone, leave my athletic ability and appeal to the opposite sex to my brother, Anthony. Carry on, Tony! You're the last of the Nardones.

Item XV: I, Susan Wylie, leave my many college weekends to any Junior equipped with enough suitcases.

Item XVI: We, Carol Bopp and Nancie Carroll, leave our dancing ability to Mary Ellen Amberg and Lois Papio.

Item XVII: I, Tom Maxfield, leave my slightly used cast and patience to sit through a football season to any Junior who has the misfortune to break his leg one week before the opening game.

Item XVIII: I, Sandra Cushman, leave my many parties to any Junior who is crazy enough to have them.

Item XIX: I, Kathy LaQue, leave my crowded lunch tray to any Junior with the strength to carry it.

Item XX: We, Anne Auerbacher, Ann Thompson, and Anne Walthart, leave our combined personalities to all the Annes in the Junior Class.

Item XXI: We, Don Miller and Tom Coffin, having faithfully tried to "sneak one" during every lunch period, leave our best wishes for success to any Junior boy who is willing to take the chance.

Item XXII: I, Winnie Sommo, leave my younger admirers to pine away in my absence.

Item XXIII: We, Lynn Berman and Shirley Pratt, leave our soprano voices and crazy antics in Choir to Anna Mae Mangieri and Sue Rogers.

Item XXIV: I, Dor Roscoe, leave my Princeton weekends to any Junior girl who can get up early enough Saturday morning.

Item XXV: We, Betty Fritts and Gretchen Hughes, leave the gym teachers. . . .

Item XXVI: I, Bobby DeRoner, leave my much envied figure to Marilyn Colucci.

Item XXVII: We, Larry Chambers and Mal McClinchie, leave our good looks and rugged builds to Don Rogers and Marty Cerza.

Item XXVIII: I, Sue Amolsky, leave my nickname, "Animolsky", to any Junior girl who fits the description.

Item XXIX: I, Leslie Hantman, leave my dark hair and lovely complexion to Barbara Tiger.

Item XXX: We, Mary Lou Koehler and Sandra Scoppettone, leave our crazy antics and our ability to make others laugh to Sue Steinberg and Dot MacKinnon.

Item XXXI: We, Myra Schwimmer, Jane Schutzman, and Mary Ann McLaughlin, leave our unwanted youth to any Junior who can wait. (—For their driver's licenses as long as we have.)

Item XXXII: I, Sheila Felzenberg, leave my "come hither figure" to any Junior girl who meets the requirements.

Item XXXIII: I, Thelma Bienstock, leave my low voice to any Junior girl who has the charm to use it.

Item XXXIV: We, Sue Goodzeit and Joan Wilson, the two little girls from Little Rock, leave our personalities to Nancy Gersten and Rhona Freitag.

Item XXXV: I, Jim Beamer, leave my secret of how to play football and maintain a high scholastic average to John Roberts.

Item XXXVI: I, Anita Katchen, leave my "top secret" of how to write music to Dick Nirenberg.

Item XXXVII: I, Bob Rose, leave my able management of school finances to next year's Treasurer.

Item XXXVIII: I, Dave Ulaner, leave my wardrobe of casual clothes and suave appearance to any appropriately dressed Junior.

Item XXXIX: We, Howard Chase and Walt Fanburg, leave several slightly used decks of cards to Alan Gray.

Item XL: We, Charlie Williams, Todd Rosenburgh, and Jim Odell, leave the worn out nets in the boy's gym to Bill Suter.

Item XLI: We, Joe Carter, Harvey Rose, and Bob Restaino, leave our ability behind the footlights to Pete DeHaas and Phil Lieberman.

Item XLII: I, Julian Sawicki, leave my torpedo-like speed in the water to Ira Kay.

We as a class bequeath:

To the Lunchroom Committee, dead silence when a plate drops.

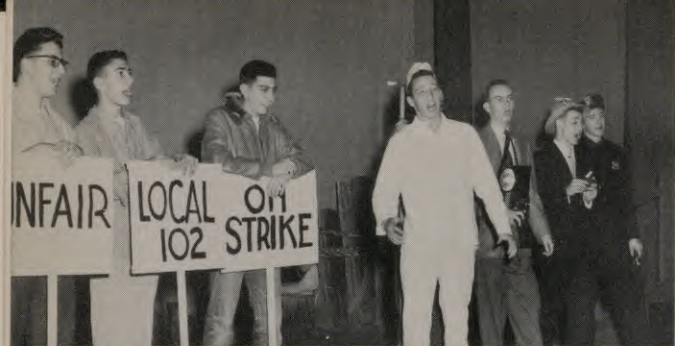

To the student body, a plan for intramural stock car racing on the parking lot.

To Mr. Petrokubi, an all-girl physics class.

To Mr. Erickson, a class that "sends them home early."

Girls' Athletic Association

Events in the Girls' Athletic Association got off to a quick start this year with a party for the new girls. Early in the fall, seniors and juniors were introduced to hockey, which is new in Columbia this year. Speedball was still played, but hockey had a larger turnout. The Council sponsored a Halloween party and even the gym teachers got into the act.

Basketball brought the freezing girls indoors, and the three classes competed in intramural games. As 1953 neared its end, the G.A.A. took time out for its annual Christmas party. Setting-up and the correct way to rotate were once more mastered when the volleyball season began.

Baseball, the final contest of the year, spurred each girl on to do her best for the Red or the Black team.

All year long, the pool was put to use by the girls of the water ballet and those who desired swimming and life-saving certificates.

The Modern Dance Club was hard at work all year perfecting new dance techniques. G.A.A. terminated its activities in May with the Awards Party. This year's officers were Lois Roemmele, President; Audrey Redfearn, Vice-President; Mary Lou Koehler, Secretary, and Sarah Dailey, Treasurer.

SENIOR LETTERMEN

FRANK HOFFMAN
Head Coach

Leo Nardone — 5'11" 153 lbs. The squad's captain, Leo did a fine job running the team as its quarterback.

John Iantosca — 5'8" 142 lbs. John was the fifth man in our opponents' backfield.

Mal McClinchie — 6'1" 190 lbs. One of the heaviest men on the team, Mal made his weight felt on the line.

Bob Macdonald — 6'2" 193 lbs. Bob was ready for everything that came his way.

Al Rothauser — 5'9" 159 lbs. Our safetyman, Al also played a good game in the backfield.

Jim Beamer — 6'1" 156 lbs. Jim was the club's second quarterback and was ready whenever needed.

Tom Maxfield — 6'1" 183 lbs. An ankle injury put Tom on the sidelines, but he was able to help the team at the end of the season.

Paul Grinwis — 6'0" 162 lbs. Paul took over as center when Tom was hurt; he proved quite capable there and at his normal position, end.

Dick Van Cleave — 6'1" 181 lbs. The horse of the team, Dick was always able to pick up the necessary yardage when needed.

Sid Berman — 6'1½" 178 lbs. Sid worked hard and was more than willing to do his share.

Mark Greenberg — 5'11" 170 lbs. When the going was rough, Mark was always in there.

Frank Lach — 5'8" 148 lbs. Frank, a back, was always ready and willing when called on.

1953 FOOTBALL TEAM

COLUMBIA 12, KEARNY 14

In a closely fought game the Cougars were sent to defeat via two blocked conversion attempts. All who saw the game were overwhelmed by the polish shown by each team.

COLUMBIA 32, PLAINFIELD 0

Showing the power of a championship team, the Gems moved with ease over a weak Plainfield eleven. The Cougar backfield showed its running strength under the smart supervision of quarterback Leo Nardone.

COLUMBIA 6, MORRISTOWN 12

After scoring the first time they had their hands on the ball, the Gems were unable to move, nor hold a spirited Colonial team. Well trained and scouted, Morristown was able to stem the Red and Black tide and turn the contest into an upset victory.

COLUMBIA 6, ORANGE 32

The Gems, starting weakly, spotted the Tornadoes 26 points in the first two periods but were unable to come back in the second half, as both Orange and Columbia scored one touchdown each in the latter half of the game.

COLUMBIA 32, WESTFIELD 6

Gaining their second win of the season, the Cougars handed Westfield a resounding defeat. The brilliance of the backfield as ground gainers was obvious as they gained yardage at will.

COLUMBIA 0, MONTCLAIR 40

Though moving the ball freely in their own territory, the Gems were unable to hold onto the pigskin inside Montclair's 20. This game marked the Cougar's first shut-out defeat since the Mounties triumph of 61-0 in 1948. During this time 44 games were played.

COLUMBIA 7, NEW BRUNSWICK 0

Closing a 27 year series in a game that was originally postponed because of the weather, the Gems defeated the Zebras by the same score which started the affair. However, in 1926, the Zebras were victorious.

COLUMBIA 6, EAST ORANGE 22

Participating in the cleanest and best played game in the Columbia schedule, the Panthers, with an eye on the state championship, stopped the Gems cold. After falling behind by two quick touchdowns in the first period, the Cougars started to play ball, holding their rivals from East Orange to nine points in the remainder of the game.

COLUMBIA 0, WEST ORANGE 0

In a series which is now 39 years old, ten thousand fans saw the Cougars and the Cowboys fight each other to a nothing-nothing tie. It was the third time in the series that the two teams have tied, all the scores being identical, 0-0.

Undefeated Season

In Memoriam

"This building, the product of many thoughtful minds and skilful hands, is an expression of the will of the people to provide full opportunity to all who enter its halls for the development of ability and character—that they may become sturdy, righteous citizens inspired by the ideal of unselfish service."

These four persons who gave tirelessly and enthusiastically of their time and efforts stand as a symbol for us. Their loyalty to our school and their constant attempts to improve the school are characteristic of countless other members of the faculty and alumni of Columbia High School.

We deeply mourn their passing.

AUTOGRAPHS

Dear Eleanor:

Those three years in dear old Columbia since we met in "Bug-ology" with Bucksbaum have certainly speeded past. It's hard to believe that the prospect of entering college is only a month or so away. We have had some real great times together + with our "gang". I shall always remember, as part of those years our "Hausenracer" Christmas parties, our sometimes "frozen" trips to NYC, - our Library "calling" with those stacks of books + magazines; + the many other hours of mutual enjoyment that we have shared. And don't forget the "piles of fuzz" we have knocked off tennis balls! In these lines of "incoherent babble" I cannot think of all our experiences which we have expressed at our "ball session" lunches. Of course "de gal (dearie) idiomatic B.M.N. Britannia" is a significant ^{+wakes} point. Our graduation does not mean the parting of the ways for us as it does for our other friends. We shall be able to continue in NYC as always. As I pause to look back on our years of friendship I can truthfully say in the popular jargon of the day that "it has been the greatest" - - - wonderbar! ^{Seriously,} I wish you all the success that you deserve in this God's world in your future endeavors as I know you do. College should hold for us just as good or even a better time. As I write this I cannot help thinking where the next yearbook we have our "mag-shots" in will find us --- you with your languages + I with my science. Mit Liebe zu meinen Freundin. Veni, vidi, vici - - and all that sort of rot!

With love always,

Bert

Dear Eleanor,

In the final days of school, we look back on the fond memories and fun we have had. This year we've had many good times together.

CONGRATULATIONS

Without you sitting next to me in German class, I probably would have to the had a boring time. Our "side-tracking" conversations added much fun to the class. The dance in Class of 1954 which we participated in for the modern language assembly on April 23 was a lot of fun. I was extremely fortunate to have you for my partner. When our dance was over, it was sad to stop our practicing. Our trips to college were very informative and interesting. Your active participation
