DEDICATION

The year of 1958-1959 has been noteworthy for Columbia High School in that it saw the completion of the beautiful and functional addition to our original fine building.

We, the senior class, wish to dedicate this book, not to the material structure alone, but to all those who contributed to the planning, the creative artistry, and the financial sacrifice which made this achievement possible.

The addition of these areas for work and recreation provides the opportunity for years of useful activities, personal satisfaction and academic progress for those who in time to come will be privileged to use them.

A world in turmoil, yet one facing horizons of hitherto undreamed of progress needs sound thinking, educated and cultured citizens. We, the students who graduate from Columbia High School, inspired by the educational and civic progress for which it stands, accept this challenge.

Senior Class History

Our faces wore uniformly forced smiles as we tried to hide a definite, though indeterminate, fear on that bright September morning, when we first entered Columbia. When finally we were seated, our first assembly got under way. We learned to salute the flag, and we heard the first of Mr. Amsden's statistical orations upon the number of girls, boys, teachers, and holes in the acoustical ceiling in the first floor hall. We were in, our nerves were soothed, and school began.

Sophomore orientation also began. We learned the mundane facts of school life, and we also learned other things which were not printed in the guide book. We learned that in the lunchroom sophs just don't save seats, especially when a junior wants to sit down. We learned to pitch pennies in study, and to hit the kettle drum four out of five times. We also learned that he who leaves his lunch in front of the library 4th is a fool. The only thing that escaped our keen eyes was what they did in that course called Modern Living.

We went out for clubs, sports, and committees. Some of us played football, some chess. We all kept busy. We bought activities books; we learned the songs and cheers; and we sat in the cheering section at football games. They even let us cheer a little. We were being oriented.

Carlos Romulo came to speak to us in assembly, and when we all came in coats and ties, Mr. Romulo thought that he was talking at Seron Hall Prep, but it all worked out. Niels and Mahgoub, the exchange students from Denmark and the Sudan, came to talk with us and to exchange ideas. The Curtis H. Threlkeld scholarship fund was established. We sat through our first year of letter assemblies, and we learned that Mr. Booth could explain anything. We plodded on; the orientation was over; we were juniors.

Our junior year started off with a bang and a sneeze. Columbia was gripped by the Asiatic flu, and classes were reduced to less than half of their normal enrollments.

Because of the new addition which was going up on the athletic fields, most of the rooms were re-numbered for our junior year, and we could mis-direct the sophomores in good conscience since we did not know where we were going either. This was the year of the German measles and the white Impala convertible. In March a princess of Siam came to speak in an assembly, and because of a minor blizzard, a mixup on radio reports, and the fact that it was Friday, most of us did not come to school that day. There was little danger that the princess would be faced by a hostile audience, for the total of herself, the stage crew, and the organist nearly outnumbered the listeners.

Our Junior Night was "Good News," and it was widely acclaimed. Tait College and the roaring twenties set the pace for a lively show filled with story, song, and Miss Hoxsie's tripping production numbers. Pooch, Babe, Marlowe, and all the crowd met with critical success and made "Good News" something to remember.

Soon it was election time. The campaign was lively and was characterized by an abundance of issues and amusing artwork. After two elections Dave Dornbusch, remaining bloody but more or less unbowed, secured the position of the only junior in the final assembly.

We took the Merit Scholarship exams, and for the first time all of us were eligible to compete. It is true that most of us weren't qualified, but we were all eligible. Many of us took the S.A.T.'s in our junior year, and four of our number—Bob Marcus, Bill Chenitz, Naida Tushnet, and Barbara Durchlag—exhibited superior intelligence by going to college one year before the rest of us.

Licenses started to come in, and year-long friendships with seniors went by the boards. We were self-sufficient. Junior girls learned the pleasures of an occasional Friday by the sea.

We sat through more letter assemblies. Our swimmers took second place in the state, and our varsity eleven under their all-round coach had another of those years of crises. 1958 faded away, and we were seniors.

We felt pretty good the first day of our senior year. We were the kings of the hill, and the gym, and the cafeteria, and, most important, the parking lot. We were a happy, carefree bunch, until the third day of school when that awesome word "college" was dropped in our laps. We applied all over the map and our gravy train had the lettering "no achievement test required" lettered on the side of it.

Our Senior Play was in reality three senior plays in one, for it was three one-act plays. "Triangle" was received with wide critical acclaim.

We sat through more letter assemblies, and saw the best Columbia football squad since the 1951 state champions. This was the year of the Montclair clock, when the final forty-five seconds lasted two minutes. The cross-country team won the Essex County Championship, and Mr. Weiner put on the best monologue a letter assembly has seen in many a day.

Because we were all thoroughly familiar with the rotating periods, and had it all figured out, the administration instituted a third lunch sandwiched between the other two. Known affectionately by those who had it as "lost lunch," it served to confuse us and the cafeteria staff. "Lost lunch" was characterized by an even more severe scarcity of anything good to eat than were the other two lunches.

The new addition was opened in our final year at Columbia.

Our assemblies were characterized by hellfire and brimstone. They ran the gamut from bongo drums to trapped miners to the State Commissioner of Education, speaking about Russian schools. The two foreign students, Nadia and Lan, spoke in an assembly and exchanged ideas with us. And so we moved forward, upward, and outward.

Miss Ruth Paine, an English teacher at Columbia, retired after many years of faithful service.

As seniors we look forward to many things: College for some, a job for others, a completely new life for all of us. Our three years at Columbia are such a fleeting period of time that it is difficult to evaluate them, but Columbia has left a distinct impression on each of us. It saddens us to leave, and yet we are happy because of the challenge that this leaving provides us. When we remember Columbia we shall always think of it with gratitude, and with pride, and with honor, for it was here that our intellect took root; it was here that we first met ourselves.

Dear Ellen,

Here we are again. The Old Vince Company is on tour for its tenth season. We were so sorry to hear that you could not join us this year, as we have a great show planned on our world tour. As you may have heard, there will be three plays presented, in addition to interesting sidelines.

First of all, at the 42nd Street Theater, we are putting on a play, which is produced and directed by the versatile Sue Leshowitz with stars Bob Zicht and Elaine Winkelman. While we are in the States, Dave Schachter will emcee the annual Jazz Concert at the Chicago Town Hall, now owned and operated by the business tycoon, Dave Lieberman. Starring in this are those "greats" of jazz, Al Scherer and Roger Mentz (It sure seems funny to see Jim Mitchell in a beard and talking "hep").

The second play we have planned is a recently discovered Marlowe comedy, written by Shakespeare, called a Mid-November Night's Dream, directed by Hanalie Waranch, starring Lady Rosemary Haness and the roguish Sir Donald Bauchner. We plan to present this play in England. It should go well there.

Our third production is to be an opera, a revival of "Gooda Newsa", starring signorina Virginia Seidler and her handsome co-star, signor Axie Kemp. It will be held in that romantic country Italy.

All our productions are, as always, in the capable hands of Joe Vasta, Doug Carter, Harry Krivit, and Stuart Ames. Our sets are designed by the world-famous Nancy Hughes. Of course, none of our musical scores and accompaniments would have been possible without our concert mistress, Emily Partridge, and her talented orchestra which includes such musical personalities as Judy Rekoon at piano, Dody Stokes on harp, and Fran Watkins on bass with Royden Jacobus on trumpet.

Our entire troupe traveled to the continent via the S.S. Nicholson, captained by Burt Rosevear. The social director on board was the lovely Heather Inlander, always seen wearing creations by that famous designer Carole Feldman. She had programs planned every evening—they included the oral reading of Marcia Kloss's latest best seller, How to Die Gracefully at Russian Roulette sponsored by the ship's library, under the supervision of capable Joyce Terrien and Ellen Vroman. There were also Cricket Giese and her all-girl orchestra, featuring Mary Denyes, Karen Schneider, Debbie Peterson, and Carole Poranski, with vocalist Toni Trobe. Alan Mintz tickled the ivories one evening; he had been hailed internationally by everyone for setting Doctor Zhivago to music. Blues singer Maxine Morris was also on hand, accompanied by that "all-American boy," Alan Christian, and his guitar.

Our meals were excellent, having been prepared in the ship's galley under the watchful eyes of Sue Schofield and John Ryan.

Approaching the continent, we heard shouts, and as we looked overboard, we could see that our own George Sodowick, Ricky Linder, Geoff Horner, and Cary Grobe were swimming the English Channel. In a nearby row boat, Ginger Orsi was cheering the fellows on to victory. She was accompanied by Harriet Shames who kept up the boys' morale.

We arrived in France and were greeted by Miss Universe Diane Drake and her lovely attendants Rosemary Coppola, Judie Truppo, Nancy Biddlecombe, and Sandy Long. While strolling down the Champs d'Elysées, we saw Phil Albert and Beth Payne playing chess. Between plays, Lois Swirsky was taking notes on Phil's latest book. They told us that we should catch the show at the Moulin Rouge where Carol Heinemeyer, Gail Bub, and Barbara Beck were featured Can Can girls.

Next stop was Merry Olde England. The results from the English Channel race had just come in . . . Ginger had won! While we witnessed the changing of the guard, Bill Schechner, the poet laureate, made history. He succeeded in making the old boys laugh. (Heaven only knows what he said to them.) Soon a familiar voice reached our ears. Edwin Stern was standing on a soap box in Hyde Park expounding the virtue of his new book, Edwin's Rules of Parliamentary Procedure. He saw us and insisted on joining our troupe. We then continued our tour.

Our next stop was Spain. But before leaving England, we had time to watch a rugby match, which starred Sandy Gallagher, Buster Lawder, and Bob Schweid.

We rushed off to get our plane for Spain. The stewardess, Pauline Kubichek greeted us warmly. We landed in Madrid just in time to see the bullfight. There was señor Ricardo Katcher, star matador, dressed in his crimson satin rights, designed by señorita Patricia Chymiy. Standing by the emergency exit was the able Sangre Squad headed by Dr. Janet Smith and her assistants, Lynn Straayer in charge of comforting the bullfighters, and Honey Quirk in charge of comforting the bulls. During the intermission, Hermine Mareiniss did her famous Mexican Hat Dance. The unique thing was that the hat was still being worn by her partner, señor Doug Crowley. Adiós España.

Next stop was Italy. Before our performance here, we saw scenic Venice from Arlene Aidekman's renowned gondola. Our premiere was that night and the party afterwards, arranged by Barbara Isaacson according to tradition, with Henry Castle as host and Frank Ross and Susie Matteson, spreading good cheer, was a huge success. Assisting Henry were the lovely Maxine Granet, the charming Marion Kurtz, and the sophisticated Joan Rose. Meg Reitman was surrounded by eligible bachelors, Dan Berkey, Jim Chanko, and Dick Ball. Before leaving, we decided that we must see Rome. We visited the Sistine Chapel, which was being redone by Inge Steglic and Mona Bleiberg. Afterwards, on our plane trip to Greece, I picked up the United States paper, the Granet-Huberman Herald in which I read of the recent Vice-Presidential election of Reggie Gittlin, the first woman in our history to be so honored.

At last Greece! It was time for the annual marathon races and we were greeted at the airport by Tom Bayer, manager and financial adviser of these world-famous racers. He personally invited us to attend the spectacle. When we arrived, the event was being eloquently announced by the distinguished Marcena Mead. Among the participants were Tommy Moore and the amazing Richard Koenigsberg, who, while running, wrote a thesis on immortality. Unfortunately we had to leave immediately, for an urgent cable had arrived from Bob Maxton, executive of our home office, saying that we had just received a bid to entertain at Columbia's twenty-fifth reunion. We would not miss that reunion for the world and so are on our way home, where we are looking forward to seeing you and the rest of our distinguished class.

Sincerely yours,

Dave Dornbusch,
Business Executive of the Old Vince
Dramatic Touring Company.

Class Will

We, the class of 1959, the most intellectual and distinguished class to graduate in 1959, despite the slurs cast upon us by our teachers, being of sound mind (usually) do hereby will and bequeath our most prized possessions in this our last will and testament.

I. To the teachers:

To Mr. Johnson, a fur cap befitting his title and a new blood-tipped spiked mace—reminiscent of the good old days—suitable for striking desks, students' heads, etc.

To Mr. Booth, a 6'8" goliath who averages 35 points a game.

To Mr. Hickman, three doctors, two physicists, four engineers, and a bushel of "neurons" and "protrons," agin, and agin, and agin.

To Mr. Fleming and Mr. Thompson, the delightful prospects of the biggest crop of incoming sophomores in a number of years.

To Mr. Frampton, a new blue sweatshirt.

To Mr. Mendelson, a ninth issue of the Columbian.

To Mr. Habel, a collection of flashy ties.

II. We, the senior girls, leave:

To the junior girls, the junior boys.

To the sophomore girls, the art of being sophisticated and the sense to grow out of it.

III. Personal

I, Larry Blumenfeld, leave my shy reticence to Barry Rosenberg.

I, Bill Schechner, leave my nose and half my wit to whoever will accept them. Wait a minute, I won't have anything left.

I, Allyn Deutel, leave my feminine name to Alix Yelen.

We, Bill Graf, Ed Stern, and Axie Kemp, leave our fine characterization ability to the fellows destined to star in next year's senior play.

I, Woody Tracy, leave my "Most Collegiate?" appellation, which never got into the yearbook, to Steve Rachlin.

I, Charles Nathan, leave my journalistic ability on the Columbian to Bryn Roberts (I'm the only one on the staff who can read and write!).

I, Pete Crowe, leave a full bottle of Wildroot Creme Oil and a new comb. If someone finds them, please return them.

We, Marilyn Becker and Wendy Stock, leave our exuberant school spirit to posterity.

I, Harry Krivit, leave my excellent singing voice (comparable to a dying moose call) to anyone willing to accept the responsibility.

I, Steve Murphy, leave my . . . do I have to say it?

I, Bob Batting, leave my innocent blush to Al Weigel.

I, Mike Biber, leave three lunches a day to those junior boys with a hearty appetite . . . just can't figure it out.

We, Hermine Mareiniss and Judy Epstein, leave our combined height to next year's basketball team.

I, Richard Dodes, leave my size 13½ twin amphibious tanks to Ben Friedland.

I, Ziggy Gostkowski, leave to the many who have had trouble in pronouncing my name the knowledge that it is pronounced just the way it sounds.

I, Jim Symons, leave my personal collection of Mr. Talbot drawings, done in trigonometry at the risk of my neck.

I, Dave Dornbusch, leave precouncil minutes, one-way stairways, and a blonde crewcut to next year's school president.

We, Sandy Gallagher and Bob Schweid, leave to next year's co-captains, Bill Davis and Richard Lipstein, the highest hopes for a victorious football team.

I, Toni Mercadante, leave my monopoly on all boy classes to any junior girl with the courage to take honors math and advanced chemistry.

We, Vicki Granet and Joel Huberman, leave our quest for original ideas to E.E. Cummings.

I, Charles Lowenstein, leave to the sound of steam engines and railroad cars. Toot-toot!

I, Herb Kestenbaum, leave my holdings in Serbian war bonds to Mr. Dobbelaar.

I, Louis Matyas, leave my crowning glory to . . . no there couldn't be another one.

I, Barbara Hubley, leave a train schedule to Dartmouth posted in the guide's office.

I, George Ringo, leave my universal popularity to Vic Damber.

I, Alan Chimacoff, leave a collection of censored cartoons which never got in the Columbian to next year's art editor.

I, Ginger Orsi, leave my passion for big parties . . . from now on it's bigger ones.

I, Leah Barhash, leave my rock and roll collection to Rebecca Bluming.

I, Dick Katcher, leave my court ability to Bucky Fader.

I, Roy Jacobus, leave my explosive personality and skill in the laboratory to my brother Earl.

I, Richard Koenigsberg, leave girls forever . . . from now on it's women.

I, Sue Matteson, (scratch) leave my (scratch) raccoon (scratch) coat to Barbara Rich.

I, Charles Lowman, leave my Jaguar to anyone willing to pay the summons.

I, Henry Castle, leave my speed on the gridiron to Neil Demby.

We, Clark Colton and Bob Lum, leave a few juicy ideas that never made it to next year's Mirror lawyers.

I, Richard Barelli, leave two strips of "peeled" rubber.

I, Bonnie Brotman, leave my "foghorn contralto" to the Metropolitan Opera.

I, Jake Iantosca, leave my wild shirts to Robert Hall.

I, Don Bauchner, leave my ability to be a great friend to all, to maintain my responsibilities, and to see a job well done, to anyone who can fill this bill and still be as modest as I am.

We, P.S., R.S., J.L., and B.B. leave the C. B. & G. to the A.B.C.

I, Fred Feldman, leave with a smile for everyone.

IV. Composite.

We, the class of '59, leave the glorious precedents set in "Good News" and "Triangle" to next year's senior class.

We, the befuddled students of Columbia, leave emergency assembly schedules, up and down one-way stairways, and middle lunch to anyone who can figure them out.

We, the outgoing class of '59, leave Columbia for the wide, wide world, the bright tomorrow, the glorious future, and the rest of that hogwash.

FIRST IN THE HISTORY
OF
C. H. S.
CLASS OF '59
PRESENTS
PLAYS

Senior Play

"Triangle" consisted of three one-act plays, The Noble Lord by Percival Wilde, The Elevator, by Herbert Gardner, and Poor Aubrey, by George Kelly. Toni Mercadante and Don Bauchner, characters in The Noble Lord, were all wet, agreed, but they certainly did a fine job. In fact, they were having so much fun that Barry Janoff joined them. Anyone coming backstage the nights of the performances saw puddles leading from the pool to the stage. When the class of '59 gives a play, they do it right—realism. At any rate, everyone enjoyed this charming exposé on "how to catch a man"—or a cold.

The Elevator provided the suspense and surprise in the evening's entertainment. I am sure no one will forget Gallento's threat, "I'll crush you like ravioli." The voice of Gallento, (Bill Graf), coming from a ladder above the stage, sent chills through everybody—especially the four trapped in the elevator, Axie Kemp, Bob Zicht, Elaine Winkleman, and Steve Scher.

Last, but hardly least, was Poor Aubrey. It seems that Eddie Stern (Aubrey) just could not keep his head about him. Ellen Asselmeyer as his very annoying mother-in-law, and Rosemary Hannes as his sarcastic and clever wife, certainly tried their best to deflate Aubrey's ego. But they could not make a pin-prick especially after Sue Collani, in the role of Mrs. Cole, did a good job of building it up.

"Triangle," a new idea carried out with new energy, produced a lot of fun, excitement, and pleasure for all. Class of '59, my wig is off to you. Oh, excuse me, Aubrey—my toupee!

FINIAN'S RAINBOW

Junior Night

The "luck o' the Irish" was certainly with the class of '60 when they presented their delightful Junior Night production, "Finian's Rainbow." Completely entrancing the audience, the juniors proved to be one of the most talented classes even in C. H. S. Wonderful singing, charming dancing, gay comedy, and serious social satire were all a part of the evening's entertainment. Highlighting the excellent cast were Andy Fiddler as Finian, Vicki Ulanet as Sharon, Lane Sarasohn as Woody, Kenny Shapiro as Og, the Leprechaun, Mimi Lenkowsky as Susan, Bill Soskin as Buzz Collins, and Eric Taylor as Senator Billboard Rawkins, and Herman Kaufman as Howard. "Finian's Rainbow," directed by Mr. Vincent Seguin, will be long remembered in Columbia; not only will the fine acting and bewitching music remain in the hearts of Columbians, but these words will remain immortal: "Fairyland was never like this!"

CHRISTMAS PLAY

Presented by the Parnassian Society

Directed by Mildred Memory

Stuart Glucksman*Martin*, a poor cobbler who knew the true meaning of brotherhood.

Jane Morris*A woman*, who was in need of warm clothes and a kind word.

Carol Platzter*The child*, who was cold and hungry.

Barry Lerner*Stephen*, a weary and old street sweeper who was full of warmth and merriment.

Andy Fiddler*A soldier*, a brusque and unthinking young man.

Paula Unger*An apple vender*, a harsh, hard-working woman who softens under Martin's influence.

Roger Halprin*A street boy* who was caught stealing from the apple vender, but who promises to reform.

Rosemary Hannes and
Kenny Harrington*Two children*, who fill Martin with the joyousness of youth.

Hanalie Waranch*A Jewish girl*, who was chased by cruel young boys for leaving her ghetto.

"I was hungered and ye gave me meat. I was thirsty and ye gave me drink. I was a stranger and ye took me in, naked and ye clothed me. In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least, these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Matthew 25:35-36.

SPORTS 1958-1959

Fourth row: Manager Lee Lozowick, John Ragusa, Alan Bonn, Richard Davey, Patrick Coyle, Joe Silvestri, Maurice Maccario, Lane Sarasohn, Burt Hoffman.

Football Team

PLAINFIELD 12 — COLUMBIA 8

Columbia took an early lead. Iantosca "raised heck" in the Plainfield offense, but a 95-yard-run late in the game spelled defeat for the Cougars.

MORRISTOWN 12 — COLUMBIA 20

Gallagher, Schweid, and Fader ground out the yardage as the Cougars controlled the entire game.

ORANGE 0 — COLUMBIA 29

In a team effort, the line giving only three yards to the Tornadoes, the Cougars began to click. Lawder, Lipstein, Meyer, and Davis played outstanding ball.

WESTFIELD 0 — COLUMBIA 20

Rain and mud did not slow Gross, Fader, Schweid, and Gallagher. The line, including Gostkowski and Hunoval, did a fine job despite the weather.

MONTCLAIR 18 — COLUMBIA 13

Columbia fought hard all the way, but bad breaks and two contested penalties late in the game proved too much to handle.

KEARNY 6 — COLUMBIA 28

Columbia's defense was at its peak. Rosevear and Gross also sparkled. The starters had a chance to watch a very eager and impressive second group play ball.

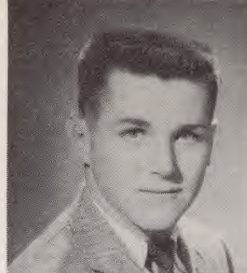

EAST ORANGE 25 — COLUMBIA 0

Up against one of the best teams in the state, bad passes and fumbles marred the otherwise good Columbia offense. Davis was outstanding defensively, and Meyer, Schweid, Gallagher, and Fader were offensive standouts.

WEST ORANGE 0 — COLUMBIA 39

Hard play payed off in a big way as the Cougars swamped their traditional rivals. Dan Berkey played his best game as a defensive and surprise ball-carrying player. The backfield excelled behind the stiff line of Davey, Castle, Hyatt, Berkey, and Meyer. The excited C.H.S. fans saw the team end its season with a 5-3 record.

1. Bob Schweid's record speaks for itself. As Co-captain of the 1958 squad, Bob held the record for both ground gained and points scored. Starring in three sports, Bob is one of Columbia's outstanding athletes.

2. Co-captain and "spirit" of the team, Sandy Gallagher could be counted on for those crucial yards. Determination and a love of the sport held Sandy when Columbia's success depended on a few yards of turf.

3. A transfer from Kentucky, Dan Berkey, after a season as an outstanding lineman, picked up a fumble and scored a surprising touchdown in the West Orange game. The husky cougar also threw key blocks in that game.

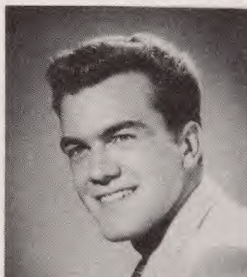

Senior Lettermen

5. This year's most improved player, Henry Castle rose from Junior Varsity Captain as a Sophomore to a letter winner as a Senior.

4. Big Drew Beifus could always be counted on, even when the chips were down, to do an outstanding job for C. H. S.

7. Ziggy Gostkowski's fierce grin and equally aggressive play made him an outstanding member of the 1958 Columbia football team.

6. Quiet Bob Davey known for his determination and tough play could always be called into action in a "clutch" situation.

9. Henry "Jumbo" Hyatt, although recognized as a quiet, easy-going giant, gave all he had to the sport, and fought hard right down to the last inch.

8. Sometimes called the team wise guy, Matt "the blond bomber" Hunoval played hard when he could, and kept the team laughing when injured.

11. Burt Rosevear, the big, smiling end, came into his own in the second half of the season. He provided a long target for Cougar quarterbacks.

10. Some Columbia fans came out only to see Jake Iantosca, a fighting example of raw determination, charge through enemy lines. He disrupted opposition offenses with his timely tackles and fumble recoveries.

13. Buster Lawder, who played one game with a broken jaw, displayed ability and determination throughout the season.

12. Al Walter's intense spirit and rough playing in all situations helped the Cougar backs gain needed yardage.

The 1958-1959 winter athletic season marked the inception of a new sport at Columbia—wrestling. Under the guidance of Coach Dave Beaver, the team began the year at the head of a storm of vigor and hard work. Throughout the winter, school interest grew and the team became increasingly impressive.

One of the most spirited groups in Columbia, the wrestling team has distinguished itself for diligence and intelligence. Coach Beaver, who believes in aggressive wrestling, has succeeded in imparting his enthusiasm for the sport to the school at large as well as to the team.

Girls' sports started this year with the swing of hockey sticks. On those nasty days we were never bored, for we had our favorite exercises to keep us busy. As soon as winter rolled around, volleyball and basketball became more apropos. After Christmas vacation the sophomores groaned at the prospect of swimming once a week, while the juniors and seniors smugly looked on. Once we had the use of the boys' gym, we began a new schedule of activities. The seniors had theory twice a week, basketball twice a week, and dancing at the end of the week. The juniors, who completed their theory during the first semester, had dancing once a week, and swimming and basketball for the remainder of the week. The sophomores began their week with dancing, had swimming and theory once during the week, and basketball twice during the week. In the spring we braved the outdoors once again for track and field and softball. In addition to the outdoor activities each group had badminton and tennis skills indoors at least once a week.

The Girls' Athletic Association began its year with a party to introduce the sophomores and new students to the G. A. A. The other parties held were at Halloween, Christmas, and the end of the year. At the final party the presentation of awards was made to the girls who had participated in our activities. As a part of the G. A. A. program, for the first time, the girls were allowed to participate in Sports Days as a complete team. For basketball and hockey our seasons went 1-1, 1-1, respectively. After the Christmas vacation two activities, recreational swimming and water ballet, were added to our schedule. The Modern Dance Club was revived this year after an absence of several years. A new program introduced was the Officials' Club. At this time many girls were able to learn the proper procedure for officiating a basketball game.

With the help of the G. A. A. Council President Sue Matteson, Vice-President Nancy Schaffer, Secretary Grace Hunoval, Treasurer Priscilla Bruschi, and the guidance of the Physical Education teachers, girls' sports were quite successful this year.

ALMA MATER

Oh! Columbia, thou hast taught us
The path that we should tread
By thy rules of pride and honor
In our work and play we're led.
In the years of life's hard struggle
We care not what's in store,
For thy motto is our motto
And our cry, "Excelsior!"
