The MIRROR

The passage of months since the tragic day, November 22, has deepened the appreciation of the American people for their thirty-fifth President. He had proven a constant source of pride, strength, and admiration. He represented a new type of political figure—not a man who found it necessary to ingratiate himself to win support, but one who attracted adherents by inspiring confidence through his breadth of learning. He offered more than “political” experience. His keen intellect combined with his decisiveness won for the nation, world respect. He was our youngest elected President; yet, tempered by learning, he had a perspective which many gain only from long and trying experience. Indeed, the greatest sorrow to the nation is that a longer life might have seen the fruition of his hopes and plans to the enrichment of America and the world. His great achievements indicate the potential power of those of our generation who, like him, strive for knowledge and are determined to aid the progress of mankind.

With the hope that his unique quality as man and statesman will serve to inspire us, we dedicate the 1964 Mirror to the memory of John F. Kennedy.

SENIORS

Class History

1961-1962

We're poor little sophomores who have lost our way . . . March 1: The School Council, stimulated by an editorial in The COLUMBIAN, the school newspaper, opens the CHS Bookstore--later to become its permanent protege -- selling more than 100 paperbacks during its first week . . . March 6, 7, 8: The Middle States Association, observing Columbia High in action, visits classes, talks with students chosen at random, and pronounces CHS a "superior school" . . . Astronaut John Glenn becomes the first American to orbit the earth . . . The picture of innocence, we cannot interpret the ominous initials CEEB . . . Responsibility has barely been unveiled.

1962-1963

October 20: PSAT's! We are introduced to the horror of waiting . . . November 2 and 3: The Administration, disgruntled by juniors garbed in potato sacks, flatly repudiates the existence of "Junior Day." On Friday and Saturday evenings, we relate the universal message of our class play, "The Skin of Our Teeth," to the Cuban crisis, from which President Kennedy carefully extricates our country . . . For 114 days, we miss The "Times" . . . February 16: Columbia's first International Folk Sing reflects the growing influence of folk music on America's youth . . . March 2 and May 18: SAT's and Achievement Tests. CEEB has made its impression.

We drive . . . College pressures are unusually tense due to the size of America's twelfth grade . . . Attempting to meet college application deadlines, we ponder questions like "Discuss the psychological and metaphysical manifestations of your extracurricular activities on your private life" . . . What's red, blue, purple, orange, yellow, green, and white? A madras elephant . . . A Supreme Court decision ends Bible reading during homeroom periods and assemblies . . . Our class produces the largest percentage of National Merit Scholarship semifinalists and letter of commendation winners in the school's history . . . November 22: Dallas, Texas. A national catastrophe on a Friday afternoon puts a second Johnson in the White House . . . December 7 and January 11: Our last hours under the fire of the College Board battery . . . Then we wait, and wait, and wait, and slump . . . Meanwhile, burnt appendages result from overambitious--or undercautious--chem lab experiments . . . May 8 and 9: The senior play, "Tiger at the Gates," reminds us of the trembling threat of war . . . June 19: We finally learn the words of the Alma Mater for our outdoor graduation.

During our three years at Columbia, we met temporary students from Argentina, Austria, Finland, France, India, Israel, Sierra Leone (Africa), South Africa, and Turkey. Prominent assembly speakers -- champion miler Jim Beatty, "Saturday Review" poetry editor John Ciardi, astronomer Harlow Shapley, Governor Richard Hughes of New Jersey, Senator Harrison A. Williams of New Jersey -- sharpened our perspective on the world. CHS courses initiated in the past few years: Twentieth Century Russian History, Electronics, Developing Nations, a combined English-Modern History course. The CHS Business Department created a successful work-study program for non-college-bound students. Student vote introduced a new dramatics production, the annual All-School Musical. Our three were "The King and I," "Brigadoon," and "Kiss Me, Kate." Student productions, in the three years we attended CHS, netted more than $6000 for the School Council Scholarship Fund. Columbia's brand-new soccer team tried hard, but found the subject difficult; wrestling, cross country, and swimming showed an outstanding degree of aptitude.

Throughout our senior high school years, we became more mature, more concerned, more aware. As sophomores, we were relatively free from care; by the time we were seniors, the bomb, civil rights, and life had started to trouble us.

Yes, we will remember Columbia, but what we will miss is the warm security of youth's friendships. We leave all we have known, for who knows what?

Leaving Columbia High School With Us are:

Mrs. Conover, whose efficiency and friendliness have been a shining example to her business-education students seeking a future in the world of high finance.

Mrs. Crosson, who has devoted the best years of her life helping us not only to be more proficient in our knowledge of the English language and literature, but also to enrich our lives with world culture.

Miss Demarest, who subscribing to the doctrine that "the art of living is a life of art," has for many years taught "perspective" in both art and living to her students.

Mrs. Gray, who has created and managed an expanding audio-visual aids department while maintaining high standards of CHS English teaching.

Miss Zielenbach, who taught girls many things besides how to cook and sew. Her seam of service to young people was stitched sturdily with affection, respect, and unselfishness.

Mr. Gray, whom many of the Class of '64 will recall as the kindly guidance counselor who assisted us with our problems in college admissions.

Mr. Johnson, whose illustrious reign as uncontended czar while a member of the history department will be recounted to the grandchildren of "all his little students."

Mr. Platt, who has given of his knowledge to hundreds of boys developing mechanical skills for successful careers and hobbies.

Mr. Thompson, whose love of life and true courtliness influenced every student with whom he came in contact, whether in an English class or in the guidance office. He loved youngsters as well as he loved good literature.

We cannot sufficiently praise the dedication, strong character, and contribution to society of these people. May they lead happy, active lives taking with them fond memories of Columbia.

Class Will

We, the Class of '64, being of sound mind and body, leave the following to our successors with the hope that they will cherish our memory:

John Hubley leaves the first potent political machine in Columbia's history, under the guise of a concert choir.

Sue Carol Hanfling leaves her clear explanations of things already clearly understood.

Kathy Pitcoff leaves 20,000 unsold copies of Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm to next year's bookstore chairman.

Michael Silverman leaves his Cassius Clay-like modesty.

Len Bierstein and Larry Hunt leave for jobs with the Colgate Toothpaste Company.

Janice Brody leaves her level-headedness to her idol, Gracie Allen.

Carol Schweid and Pat Bateman leave six ungiven victory parties.

Mike Muench leaves his two front teeth.

Dave Kaufman leaves his brown hair and his red Comet.

Bobbie Richardson leaves his hair to Rapunzel.

Emily Wasserman leaves 48,000 photographs and a diary of her trip on the Staten Island Ferry.

John Kempler leaves a pair of shoes to Smoky the Bear to help stamp out forest fires.

Alan Pollock leaves a hurrumph and a flurry of empty gesticulations.

Ken Kramer leaves his brother Neal to whom he hasn't said hello in four years.

Roy Levine leaves his wardrobe of leotards to the Maplewood All Girls' Ballet Troupe.

Max Lebersfeld, Connie Berkley and Tom Saunders can barely leave since they have been put up as collateral until the Mirror deficit is paid.

Martha Lilien leaves the Class Prophecy which is about as unintelligible as this Will.

Jack Wohlreich leaves his 10 gold rings, 4 gold bracelets, 19 gold pendants, 7 silver dollar key chains, his gold plated car and his gold plated connections in the U. S. Government to balance the gold debt.

Jane Berson, Pat Evans, and Irene Groffsky leave contented that they are at least mentioned in the Mirror for which they gave up their study period.

Susan Baime leaves to teach driver education.

Eric Cohen leaves his humble home to Jawaharlal Nehru.

Gordon Burns leaves his head to the physics department to be used as a 1 gram weight.

Bob Jacobus leaves his expressive face.

Richard Berney leaves, to the Abominable Snowman, his abominable snowjacket.

John Badanes leaves his presence of mind and 12 tickets to SAT tests which he forgot to take.

Fred Leibowitz leaves his great knowledge of everything to his equally intelligent idol, Yogi Berra.

Nozza leaves his secret first name.

Holly Smith leaves to find Evan Maurer and Billy Burke.

Karen Blumenthal leaves 14 pep rallies and 37 raving maniacs yelling "Wallop West Orange!"

Janet (Hominy Grits) Sapp leaves to join the rest of dem dere Confederates down at Duke.

Steve Schnoll leaves 100 lbs. of raw meat and his new book How to Smell Like a Cougar.

Alan Metzger leaves his efficiency which allowed him to file this Will four weeks overdue.

The football team leaves its terrific pre-season press clippings.

The soccer team leaves another consistent season.

The band leaves 58 unused tickets to the Kearny Game.

The Council leaves a million temporary committees.

The 1964 Mirror subscribers leave kudos to Mrs. Palminteri and Mr. Faust for sponsoring the most fabulous yearbook yet.

The Senior Class reluctantly leaves.

Senior Class Prophecy

Despite George Orwell's ominous warning for this year, 1984, we find many of Columbia's 1964 graduates free, healthy, and happy. Some of them, following their love of fellowman inclinations of high school years, are members of the Peace Corps, which, since its inception in 1961, has grown considerably. It is now under the leadership of Sergeant John Hubley, who after leading Columbia for a year, learned that there really are people in this world who need help. Max Lebersfeld, an active force in the Corps, may be found in Nome, Alaska, persistently trying to convince the Eskimos that they need air-conditioning in their igloos, while at the same time impressing upon them the merits of W. Somerset Maugham. On the other side of the globe we find Jon Bloom and Bob Florin helping the natives of Tahiti to understand the new school of thought, known by the "in" group as "Are-you-sure-all-is-for-the-best-in-this-the-best-of-all-possible-worlds?" formulated by the noted philosopher, Alan Metzger. The natives' attention, however, has been diverted by the eminent scientist, Bill Gordon, who is attempting to apply L'Hôpital's rule in calculus to the medical program in Tahiti. Holly Smith, our representative in Tsagaan Hamar, Mongolia, is operating a children's theater, where she is currently producing O'Neill's Desire Under the Elms, a play which the people of Tsagaan Hamar fail to understand to any degree. In the wilds of Africa, John Kempler is trying to teach the pygmies basketball and, when not dodging poison darts, is laughing at Lenny Bierstein and Tickie Hume trying to teach them to play football. Across the veldt, we find Kathy Willman planning a gala ball for the pygmies. She's busy on the drums notifying all the neighboring tribes. The jungle police, headed by Richard Cook, Bruce Bressman, and Richard Fierstein, has also been alerted. One wonders how they got their positions. Alan Pollock, a famous world orator, is speaking to the Togolandese on the subject of the Metaphysical-Theological-Cosmological-Nigological theory of modern man, translated by Cathy Vandyck. Kathy Pitcoff, with high hopes of helping the people of Northern Rhodesia to appreciate good literature, is somewhat dismayed to find the most popular book in the bookstore to be Peyton Place, recently revised and edited by Marcia Ringel and Marjorie Lowenstein. Rena Zheutlin can be found on a tree stump in Tiga, N. Borneo, wondering how she ever got there. She is supposed to be teaching psychology in Thuvu, Fiji Islands. Sue Carol Hanfling, organizer of the committee for placement of Corps members, has, by some oversight, sent Fred Hochman instead. Fred has to swim back to the States, because Bob Young, head of World Traffic, has abolished all transportation to the Islands. Donna Feller, while teaching a pas de deux to some natives in Nigeria, has become so enthralled with the native dances that she has been dancing for four days without being able to stop. That celebrated medical team, John Badanes and Bobby Richardson, was sent for; but promptly upon arrival, the boys were stung by vicious, jungle mosquitoes and are being flown back to the States, deep in a coma. Marc Fisher has declined to go to Tibet, knowing that he would be unable to take his record and book collections which now number in the three millions. Worth Barton, perhaps the most sacrificing member of the Corps, has given up his life to live in an IBM computer in the Corps headquarters. Robby Segal is somewhat disconcerted because several inhabitants of the Congo grabbed his banjo and insisted on using it to contain their ant colony. Rushing to his books to look up the historical significance of this, Robby has mistakenly picked up a book written by Steve Moss and Steve Solomon entitled How to Get Into College. John Warfield, furiously racing some antelope along a riverbed, can be heard muttering, "Gee, Warinanco Park was never like this!" Jayne Chasnow is instituting a branch of Hadassah in Nyasaland and seems to be having some success with it. The natives really like that gefilte fish. Richard Rosenhaus and Eric Cohen, living with a Ubangi tribe, are educating the Ubangi in the ways of civilized clothing. Connie Berkley, busy in the Cameroons changing her mind between Intellectualism and Anti-Intellectualism, as usual, finds life easy. Jeannie Orsi and Steve Schnoll are trying to escape from some Icelanders who have mistaken them for a bear and a lion. Nancy Finkel, a foremost dietician, is trying to find out the exact number of calories in the blue pistachio nut cultivated by Paula Werblin. Her figure, 5,027, is being refuted by mathematician Alan Weiner who found it to contain 5,025½ calories. The whole argument is being ignored by Janice Brody who insists that they have no calories. Nancy Hertz has turned her pool table into a giant hot plate, which is being used by various Laplanders, including Diane Haynes, who defected to Lapland after learning there was no Girls' Lunchroom Committee there. Two hundred miles from civilization, Sue Ann Glaser and Maddie Winfield had their paddles chewed to bits by piranhas and are now making bookbags out of wild mushrooms on the shores. Bennett Marsh plans to include the sale of these bookbags in his growing business which began when Lyn Surowitch, Marcia Chatman, and Helen Uiman introduced madras to the citizens of Madras, India.

We are glad to see Columbia's 1964 graduates continuing their magnanimous work, for if they didn't, where would the world be today?

"THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH"

Directed by

F. Frederick Trent

The Junior Night Production of the Class of 1964 was Thornton Wilder's unusual play, "The Skin of Our Teeth." The story, depicting Wilder's concept of the course of humanity, offered the audience a thought-provoking as well as entertaining play. One of the many devices, employed by Wilder to enliven the play, was the unique participation in the activity of the play by members of the "audience" and "stage crew." Heading the very talented cast were Janice Brody as Sabina; Dale Kilpatrick, Mr. Antrobus; Margo Sendler, Mrs. Antrobus; Sandy Pashelinsky, Gladys Antrobus; and Alan Pollack, Henry Antrobus. The performance, skillfully directed by Mr. F. Frederick Trent, will be remembered with pride in years to come.

"KISS ME KATE"

Directed by F. Frederick Trent

"Kiss Me Kate," presented as the 1964 All-School Production, is the story of the problems encountered by a divorced couple starring in a musical version of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew." As a result of excellent coordination of all groups contributing to the show, the audience was particularly impressed by the complex chorus numbers. Large and small scenes alike were under the deft direction of Mr. Trent. The two casts included Harvey Alter and Stuart Ockman as Fred Graham, the male divorcee; Barbara West and Mary Cross, Lilli Vanessi, Fred's estranged wife; Holly Smith and Peggy Roe, Lois Lane; John Kragen, Bill Calhoun; Jane Solomon and Sandy Pashelinsky, Hattie; Ray Blau, Paul; Marc Sauer and Lee Mandel, Harry; Stuart Ockman and Art Statman, Ralph; Ron Wallach and Bob Rich, Harrison Howell; Robert Jacobus and Jeff Brennan, the doorman; Bill Thomas and Bill Ackerman, the first man; and Steve Schnoll and Ron Wallach, the second man.

1963 Football

In 1962, the Columbia Football Team was one of the finest in recent years, the Cougar eleven winning six out of eight games. Graduation, however, carried most of Coach Frampton's starters to college campuses. In the first game of the season against a strong Plainfield team, the Cougars opened a 6-0 lead as Captain Ed Hume showed his fine running ability. In the second half, however, Plainfield caught fire and defeated the Cougars 13-7. From then on, the Cougar eleven was hampered by injuries. Columbia suffered its biggest loss in personnel when Ed Hume broke his sternum and was sidelined for most of the remaining season. With junior Mark Winick and sophomore Eric Perlmuter taking over the quarterback's position, the Cougars bounced back to defeat a weak Orange team 35-0. Winick, Hal Richardson, and Gordon Burns gave fine performances in this contest. The following week, the Cougars dropped a 20-13 decision to Wayne and then were easily beaten by perennially tough Montclair. With injuries to juniors Steve Schambach and Marc Small, the Cougar line-up was weakened, but they managed to tie Kearny 0-0 in a tight defensive battle. Then East Orange paid a visit to Underhill Field and the Cougars had an excellent first half as Ed Hume returned to the line-up. Although local fans saw a 39-13 defeat, it was one of the best fought contests of the season. In the final clash of the year, the Columbia gridders showed their real potential defeating one of the strongest West Orange teams in recent years, 27-0. Steve Price, Ed Hume, Hal Richardson, Joel Jaffe, Greg Morock and Mike Petruzzello all had an outstanding game against the Cowboys. Seniors Art Simmons, Larry Cucciniello, Pete Graham, John Kempler and Nat Gottlieb also gave spirited performances throughout the year.

1964 Basketball

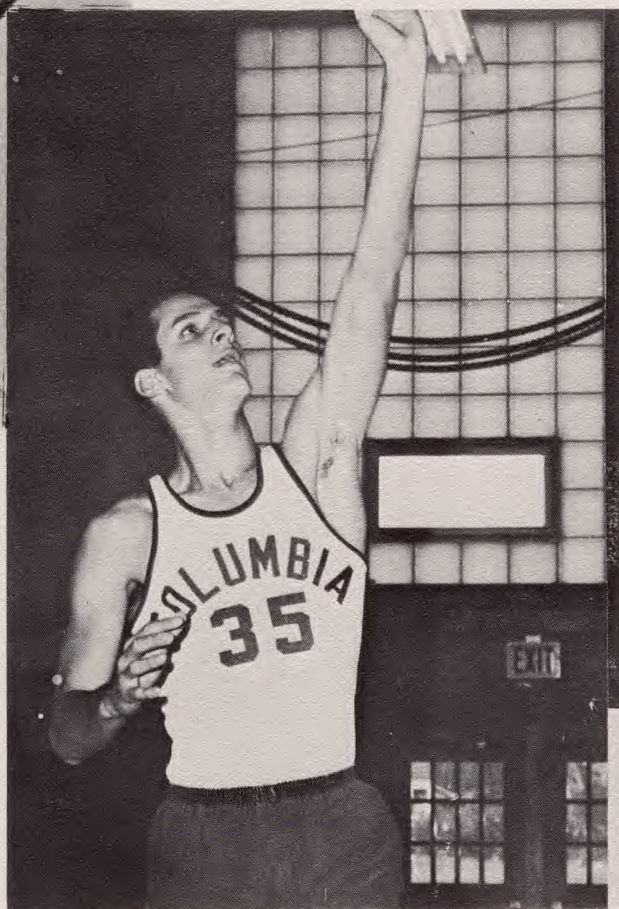

In 1963, the Columbia High School Basketball Team had the greatest season in the school's history, compiling a 16-5 won-lost record and entering the State Tournament for the first time in thirty-three years. However, only four juniors returned from that team. Rounding out the squad were members of a Jayvee squad which had won only seven of its eighteen games. The team came through with a respectable 9-9 season and created several thrilling upsets in the Big Ten Conference race. The Cougars jumped to an early lead in the conference by winning their first three games, among which were a defeat of a strong Montclair team and a last second win over Irvington. The team then dropped a close decision to Kearny, later to become Big Ten Champions. On their way to nine wins, the Cougars created one of the biggest upsets in Essex County basketball by defeating a heavily favored West Orange team. Equally comprised of juniors and seniors the team had no one star, although Tom Colligan led the team in scoring with a 16 points-per-game average. Perhaps his best single performance was in the second Irvington game in which he scored twenty-eight points. Tom received much help from his backcourt partner Bob Smith, who was another consistent scorer this year. Captain John Kempler and junior Ricky West, both 6'6", added good rebounding strength. John's finest showing was against Nutley when he hit nine of ten shots for eighteen points. Jerry Wichtel, and seniors Richy Goodwin and Doug Bergmann rounded out the forecourt as they added more height and rebounding ability. Jerry's best performance was against Belleville while Doug helped defeat Bloomfield with twelve points and fifteen rebounds. Richy played well against Kearny and hit a last second shot to help beat Irvington.

Completing the backcourt were senior Richard Deary and juniors Roger Granet, Mark Winick, and Steve Price. The fine ball handling of Deary and the hustle of Granet helped the team all year. Coach Fred Booth deserves much credit for guiding this team toward a fine season.

1964 Wrestling

Under the fine coaching of Coach Don Griesel, Columbia High School once again asserted its position as a local wrestling power. The Cougar grapplers equaled last year's fine record as they won seven and lost but two meets in dual competition. The two losses were to Union and Springfield, two strong Union County foes. Captain Ed Hume led the team all season, and became a District and Regional Champion, and placed fourth in the State. Vic Esposito, Phil Kupperman, and Mike Cylenica gave fine performances all year and led Columbia to place second in the District team standings. Seniors Peter Graham and Pete Yeskel contributed greatly to the team's fine record as did juniors Marc Small and Harold Garwin. Special credit should be given to Coach Don Griesel, who, in a few short years, has made Columbia one of the strongest wrestling powers in New Jersey.

1964 Swimming

This season, Columbia continued to uphold her reputation as one of the strongest swimming powers in New Jersey. The Cougars were 8-2 in dual meets, losing only to State Champions Westfield twice. On their way to this fine record, the Cougar mermen defeated perennial powers Mountain Lakes, Plainfield, and Trenton. There were only four seniors on the team this year, but all gave outstanding performances. Andy Stone, the Cougars' number one diver, finished fifth in the State Meet at Princeton. Co-captain Fred Hochman placed seventh in the same meet setting a new school record of 1:10.05 in the 100-yard breaststroke. Co-captain Mike Silverman copped a sixth place in the 50-yard freestyle at Princeton and helped in the relays, both of which finished third. Contributing most to the success of the mermen this season was Bruce Alston, who now holds the school record in the 50-(24.1), 100-(53.3), 200-(1:57.5), and 400-yard (4:26.9) freestyle events. He placed third in the State in both the 200 and 400, greatly aiding the Cougars in taking an overall second place in the meet. Juniors Jon Genser and Cliff Tichenor have been elected to lead next season's team of many returning record holders and lettermen. Under the continued coaching of Mr. Stephen Frampton, Columbia's swimming future appears bright.

Standing, left to right: Coach Jack Fletcher, Manager William Wilson, Brian Boyle, Jeff Schaffer, Nat Gottlieb, Larry Cucciniello, Dick Deary, Mike Petruzzello, Manager Robert Morris.

1963 Baseball

In his second year as Columbia's baseball coach, Coach Jack Fletcher compiled a fine 12-6 record in 1962. Returning from this team were several starters and it appeared as though Columbia might have its best baseball season ever. Captain Joe Siman led the team throughout the 1962 season and won all-county and all-state honors. Returning with him were first baseman Ralph Riccio, pitchers Pete O'Brien and Rich Skillman, and infielders Mike Cirasella and Jim Altengarten. Senior Bruce Reynolds and junior Alan Gemsa also contributed.

The Cougars looked good in pre-season scrimmages but dropped a 1-0 opener to a strong Jefferson team. They lost again to Irvington but won their next two contests. After losing to East Orange they won four straight on their way to a solid 10-8 record. Among the highlights of the season were a 9-6 win over a strong West Orange team and a record total of runs scored in a Cougar baseball game against Orange, 29-13.

Although many of last year's starters will be gone, Coach Fletcher can look forward to another good season with captain-elect Alan Gemsa, Tom Colligan, Don Poper, and Dick Deary returning next year.

1963 Tennis

In his last year as Columbia's golf coach, Mr. George Pontz improved upon an excellent 1962 season, and guided the 1963 golf team to a fine record of nine wins and two losses. Captain Eric Tenenbaum and senior Steve Ross were the leaders of this fine team which regained the Big Ten Championship.

The Cougars dropped the opening match to a powerful West Orange team but didn't lose another until Plainfield edged them out in the last match of the season. On the way to the Championship, the team avenged a previous West Orange defeat, and beat Bloomfield for the first time in four years.

Juniors John Cunningham and Joe Pascal, along with sophomores Dick Lowenstein and Mike Fisher, gave fine performances.

Once again in 1963, Mr. Manhard coached the tennis team to a winning season as the Cougars compiled an 8-6 dual match record. In Big Ten play, the team finished 4-3, beating Nutley, Irvington, Bloomfield, and East Orange. Captain Dave Cossman put on a fine performance and senior Larry Stephens added experience to the team. Juniors John Badanes, Ken Kramer, and Dick Cohn and sophs Andy Lesnik and Alex Keyssar also contributed many victories during the season. Among the highlights of the season were the close wins over strong Nutley and West Orange teams early in the season.

With excellent performances by a team built around sophomores and juniors, Columbia can look forward to a fine season in 1964.

Girls' Sports

The girls' gym classes this year welcomed two new gym teachers, Mrs. Jordan and Miss Rhea. The gym faculty started the year with beloved physical fitness tests. We were literally put through our paces when we did the 600-yard run; after which, we relaxed by playing a quiet game of field hockey. By the time our shins healed and our hands became calloused, the hockey season was over. Everyone looked forward to a rest as the gym program moved indoors. Immediately, however, we were whisked away to daily classes covering dance, basketball, volleyball, apparatus, and more physical fitness testing. By the time spring rolled around, we looked forward to anything but baseball and more physical fitness tests. At the rate we had been going, we would be ready for the Olympic try-outs in August. The girls participated in the boys' sports program as our splendid cheerleaders, superb twirlers, and spicy coat-girl led the student body through the football season.

The Girls' Athletic Association ran its program in conjunction with the activities in the gym classes. Under the leadership of the G.A.A. council, it started the school year with an open house and a membership drive. The fall sports sponsored by the G.A.A. were field hockey and synchronized swimming. Our hockey team participated in a field day with neighboring high schools. We met defeat but always maintained good sportsmanship. One of the outstanding events of the year was the annual synchronized swim show whose theme was "Around the World in 80 Days." The winter schedule included basketball, apparatus, volleyball, and dance. In the spring baseball was offered after school. Highlighting the entire season was the farewell party. Next year's council was announced and letters, numerals, and keys were awarded.

Pride of Possession

- ... Turning back the years is a dream that the miracle of printing has made possible.*
- ... Only the printed page can vividly perpetuate in the memory these golden school days.*
- ... Fleeting years will scatter your friends and classmates; but the treasured memories of the good companions, classroom romances, and campus gayeties are preserved in these pages.*
- ... That is why your yearbook is a rich possession to you. That is why we are proud to have supervised its printing.*
