Burglar hits Matawan home for $3,600

Matawan Township

Police said yesterday they have no leads in the theft of approximately $3,600 worth of items from a Cliffwood Beach home.

The home of Mrs. Edith Williams, 338 Sherwood Dr., was reportedly in bed on Monday morning when a window in the rear of the house was broken.

The house was ransacked and three television sets, a calculator, diamond ring, stereo, and two cameras were taken.

The theft occurred between 1 and 10 a.m. yesterday, according to police.

The Douglas Carey's investigation is being continued by the detective division.

Matawan man faces charge in Hess heist

Matawan Borough

Albert Gallo, 39, of 10 Main St., was charged with armed robbery of the Hess gas station on Main Street.

Gallo was charged with stealing approximately $200 cash in the early morning hours.

Borough police placed a $2,500 bounty on Gallo, who is presently in Middlesex County jail on a break-in and entry charge in Madison Township.

Borough detectives acting on anonymous information, were assisted in their investigation by Matawan Township and Madison Township detectives.

Two vacant bungalows at 14th St., which neighbors say the buildings have been shuttered for some time, may be condemned tomorrow night for condensation and demolition, according to Borough Building Inspector Eugene Balestriere.

Balestriere will hold a meeting tomorrow night to determine whether the Borough Council should begin condemnation proceedings.

The bungalows, which Balestriere estimates are 30 years old, have deteriorated to the point that the Borough Council should bear the cost of demolition, according to the borough building inspector.

The dilapidated buildings are a fire hazard as well as a nuisance, Balestriere said.

Balestriere said, because youths frequently gather at the one-story dwellings, they are acquired by the township.

The township's attempt to condemn the property for use as a municipal center, has been opposed by the owner, South River Metal Products Co., in a court battle which began two years ago.

Young Ginsberg said the teen are "tired of being harassed by the police for loitering. Every time teenagers in Matawan congregate, or as the police say, 'loiter,' we are told by police officers to leave and find something constructive to do.

In a press release distributed during the council meeting, the teens said they 'came to speak to the council members and ask for their help in establishing safe areas where they can meet their friends, play their music, and hang out.

According to the press release, facilities have been made available to students interested in sports, when the teens called "the jocks."

Holmdel may add Italian to curriculum

The auditor recommended that the custodian reconcile the payroll account monthly; that proper bookkeeping methods be maintained for the Athletic Area and the student activities fund of the high school; that invoices be attached to each payment authorization in the student activities account and be made available for audit; and that a bond for custodian of school moneys be increased in accordance with the provisions of the state department's promulgated schedule.

Satz said that although the recommendations were minor, "corrective measures have been taken."

Board member John Lan­ders asked the administra­tion to consider a program of girls gymnastics in the Inter­mediate School.

The judges will be Mrs. Kathy Bishop Hawkins of the Matawan Italian-American Woman's Club, and Mrs. Thelma Strick and Mrs. Kathy Tyler, president and vice president of the Matawan Italian-American Assn., asked the board to proceed with a survey to be conducted among students as to whether Italian should be added to the high school.

Landers said he was impressed with a recent high school girls gymnastics meet that felt that girls could better prepare for the ar­duous sport in earlier grades.

Brodznick resignation loss to Matawan Township

When Melvin B. Ashley withdrew as a candidate for Matawan Township Council in 1971, Michael Brodznick was selected to replace him on the Democratic ticket. The independent staggered Republican, Mr. Brodznick didn't expect to win a seat on the council, but throughout the campaign he said privately that the only reason he might lose the race would be to help "raise some issues which needed to be raised." But when the votes were tabulated election night, the Democrats were surprised and the Republicans were shocked. Mr. Brodznick and two of his running mates won seats, with the fourth man on the ticket left by only a handful of votes.

Whether the Democrats' victory in 1971 can be attributed to luck or the issues which they raised, the fact remains that having their platform "Running on our subterfuge was to be their strategy. They accepted our manner reminiscent of their Watergate counterparts, and they carried the outcome of this important election in our county.

George Tuschman and Gerald McCann have never run for any public office like this before, yet their knowledge and dedication to their community is immense. They have been involved in many community affairs and we are confident of a victory in the township's November election. For two years, the council was made up of a model of what a local governing body should be.

Mr. Brodznick, who resigned Monday because he is moving to The Netherlands, deserves much of the credit for his bipartisan accomplishments of that council. He also deserves a large measure of credit for his excellent memory. He never forgot the issues he raised in the campaign, and he worked diligently to translate them into policies and laws.

It was a critical moment in political behavior by elected officials, responsiveness of government, and financial responsibility. He fought, for example, for better planning and the administration of the township's affairs. He fought through the final product. It seems to me, in fact, that a state loan. The limited partnership currently as they were presented to our mayor and council:

Debates challenge renewed

Sir: The Keyport Democratic candidates have proposed that the Independent and Republican candidates meet in a public debate or forum on the campaign issues. The Republicans, in an arrogant, public-be-damned manner reminiscent of their Watergate counterparts, immediately rejected our proposal. They claimed we had no intention of participating. To have their platform "Running on our subterfuge was to be their strategy. They accepted our manner reminiscent of their Watergate counterparts, and they carried the outcome of this important election in our county."

Elderly housing plan questioned

Sir: As many residents in this town know, sewer authorities have great power. Mayor (William) Ralph and Councilmen (George) Leone and (Harold) Stout are two of the most powerful figures in town. Because they control the sewer authority, the people of Hazlet and Monmouth County receive the benefits of their leadership.

Like any man who rolls up his sleeves, pitches in, and accomplishes things in his field of endeavor, Senator Goldzweig is a leader among his peers as well as his ardent supporters. Like any man who ponders ahead with what he thinks is right, Mort Saltkeld has his enemies and his friends. They have been treated by people who have been treated as enemies of the people by the established authorities. They have been treated by people who have been treated as enemies of the people by the established authorities. GOP attacks Dems' record, citing increases in spending HAYLIE Calling the Democratic controlled Township Committee "big spenders," Republican candidates for two committee seats want this week to explain the math on their track record.

The GOP candidates, Gerald McCann and George Troyer, have charged the Democratic candidate, Harold Brown, with making the local tax rate rise.

"If the Democrats keep spending in order to keep the tax rate from going down, then they have accomplished it," McCann declared.

Mayor Francis Di Rienzo, who is running for re-election, said both candidates are running for re-election. Both Democrats, are running for re-election. They both replied that although administrative costs have increased drastically, the municipal tax rate has remained constant for two years.

But the Republicans said that "the person controlled the Democratic administration and from the begining to 1973, per capita sewer rates increased 20 percent of the total township revenue in the past three years, "Troyer said that these increases for the township, such as salaries, and the township police and firefighters, were up significantly for the township as did the taxpayers. Nearly every department has requested sizable budget increases because of inflation, the mayor added.

According to the McCan and Troyer, the increase in spending since 1971 amounted to "nearly $7 million."

They also cited an increase in the amount to be caused by an increase of 50 percent in personal expenses of $54 percent and an increase in insurance cost of 50 percent, all in the short period of three years.

Neighbors want town to demolish shacks ings, drink beer and vandalize the house. Mrs. Elaine Ackerson, who says her house is five feet under, said that residents have seen rats in the overgrown weeds surrounding the property.

"The weeds are starting to grow into the house," Mrs. Ackerson said. She added that the houses, which are triched, are "just seems to draw the kids." Mrs. Ackerson said that she has "been dying to get this thing demolished" especially because of her three-month old boy.

The young woman added that she had been told by a township official that the property had already been condemned. Balestrieri said that he had been trying to condemn these buildings for several years, but the matter was put on hold until delays.

Last week, the owners said that they would demolish the buildings, Balestrieri said.

The hearing tomorrow will determine once and for all the owner's plans for the property, Balestrieri said. To avoid conflict-of-interest accusations, Balestrieri said, he sent his assistant to inspect the property. The assistant confirmed the original report. Residents have also written him complaining of rodents, Balestrieri said.

The township must hold a hearing. Balestrieri said and the borough owners may appeal any decision to condemn the small tract.

Mrs. Ackerson indicated that she is not optimistic. "I tried to have this done last year," she said. "It seems the only thing that's going to get anybody going is a little embarrassment."
Dear Sir:

What are the independent candidates really guaranteeing the voters when they say they’re running on their record? Do they mean that they’ll continue the non-enforcement of borough ordinances? or, will they blame it on the previous administration? These are some of their “accomplishments.”

We, older adults, believe it is time for “qualified” people to be allowed sidewalkers to become almost impossible because of weight growths in vacant lots.

(3) Allowed subsides to remain snow and ice-covered beyond the 24-hour limit specified in the applicable ordinances, without issuing summons.

(4) Allowed non-conforming uses for property under the zoning, ordinances, to be extended.

(5) Allowed a building in the business district to become an economic, health, fire and safety hazard.

(6) Allowed the borough clerk’s office to close for two weeks because no deputy borough clerk was appointed.

(7) Adopt a “hands-off” policy on the tax assessor’s post while they voted to put the question on the referendum.

(8) Promised a recreation building where there are much-needed street repairs and other work necessary to be done in the borough.

Can the voters afford to let them run on this record?

All of these accomplishments were cited (in the May 26 meeting) in the past at times or another but when they attend council meetings they have “nothing to report.”

If the Board of Health, sanitarian and zoning officer performed their duties, the borough would be much better place in which to live. Instead of glorious plans for the waterfront, let’s start pooling together to improve what we have and then go on.

The only way this can be done is to change the independent council control and rule for the Republican candidate “for ever” politics is not the way to run a town.

Master plan hearing
Sir:

The Matawan Township Planning Board has revised the land-use portion of the master plan. This plan designates areas to be set aside for recreation, industry, commercial and residential development.

The board will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, October 22, at 9 p.m., at the Matawan Regional High School.

The League of Women Voters of Matawan urges all residents to attend the hearing. This will be your only opportunity to express your opinions to the Planning Board on the future of Matawan Township.

The land-use plan is available for review at the Matawan Public Library or Township Hall.

Matawan President
Matawan League of Women Voters

Stan Stamaty and Clara Gee Kastrier will exhibit their paintings, prints, and drawings next month at the Guild of Creative Art, 62 Broad St., Shrewsbury.

Police radio network to link 7 towns

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY

A proposal to build an ice skating rink on Blair Rd. was approved last Wednesday by the Planning Board.

The proposed rink would be built in a light industrial area at an estimated cost of $550,000.

Construction is scheduled to start next month and be completed in April.

In addition, Phillips added, "We are headed." The chief noted, however, that a third priority was not because the state police are projecting legislation on the matter.

A unified crime reporting system, computer-adaptable, was not accomplished because the state police are considering implementing a state-wide mandatory program for all municipalities.

"It was thought by the task force that until the new system is defined and implemented it would be foolish to invest any time or money in establishing our own system," Phillips said.

"We take a lot of pride in what we've done in 1974," Phillips said.

Bayshore Task Force gives annual report

MATAWAN TOWNSHIP

A communications network linking detectives from seven municipalities will be operating by mid-November, Matawan Township Del. Sgt. Joseph Booket told the Bayshore Task Force (BTF) Thursday night.

"It cost $22,000 to get it in order," Booket said, and will assist area police to make arrests and gather intelligence information.

Mayors, councilmen, and police chiefs of the seven member towns met at the Holmdel Motor Inn, Route 35, for the second annual conference report.

BTF plans to build a transmitting tower and equipment on the Nike base site, off Telegraph Hill Road, Holmdel, according to task force president R. Bruce Phillips, Holmdel police chief.

Phillips said the tower will be erected and equipment hooked up on the site by the first of the year.

The former Nike base site was chosen because of its "height in the area and its location around the seven municipalities." Phillips said.

Besides Holmdel and Matawan Township, task force members are Matawan Borough, Keyport, Keansburg, Union Beach, and Hathel. Three other towns, Highlands, Atlantic Highlands, and Middletown, are reportedly considering joining the force.

"This system will enable the detectives to talk to other detectives in other municipalities either by direct communication or by telephone," Phillips stated.

In addition, Phillips added, "All equipment is interchangeable to meet each community's needs in any specific problem and may be expanded to include new members."

The FCC has granted the task force a licensed frequency, Phillips said.

Booket also told the group that $45,000 worth of investigative equipment is serving member municipalities who could not otherwise afford the machinery on their own municipal budgets.

The equipment, including a portable radio, business intrusion alarm system, night surveillance equipment, and sophisticated monitoring and recording equipment, "are a big asset," Booket said.

The task force sent member detectives for additional training in use of this equipment last year.

"It was amazing to me how closely we could work together, coordinate such a program, and come up with such great results," Booket said.

"It was thought by the task force that until the new system is defined and implemented it would be foolish to invest any time or money in establishing our own system," Phillips said.

"We take a lot of pride in what we've done in 1974," Phillips said.
Curtew imposed as council hears vandalism complaints

MATAMOROS BOROUGH
Concerned with increasing reports of vandalism and malicious mischief, the Borough Council has approved a 9 p.m. curfew for all youths ages 17 years of age and under from Monday through Halloween night.

Unless youths are accompanied by their parents or are on their way to or from work, they are to be off the streets, according to the resolution.

Several residents complained last week that they were already plagued by vandalism.

"But with mischift night coming up, we are really concerned," said Mrs. Carol Murray, a resident of Green and White Village.

Neighborhood youths frequently knock on the doors of homes and run away when a homeowner looks to see who it might be, Mrs. Murray said.

Residents often find their garage doors open or items of houses and run away when someone's house about 11 p.m., Mrs. Murray said.

"I think that is blackmail for the kids," said Donald Burry, 33, of the Neighborhood.

Burry, a bus driver, said someone stole an at-tache case from his car seat.

"But I didn't report it because of what I had heard," said Burry, referring to Mrs. Murray's complaint that residents were afraid of retaliation by the youths.

"A policeman should have the confidence to know he can pick up a kid," Burry said.

Patrolmen's Benevolent Association President George Magenigat said that if residents know who the vandals are, but do not sign a complaint, "there is nothing we can do."

"There is nothing we can do about three of four kids standing before someone's house about 11 p.m. at night," Magenigat said.

Magenigat also noted the lack of recreation areas for the youths, who he said are "not really kids."

Donald Walker, 51, of Danemar Drive, suggested that the township and borough councils meet with the board to discuss using the district schools for after-school recreation.

Ms. Walker said that perhaps vandalism would decrease as youths use schools in middle or high schools.

The council indicated that it would consider the suggestion, but the mayor said that parents must assume some of the responsibility for their children's behavior.

"If there is sufficient response, the center hopes to be able to remain open Tuesdays and Thursdays."

The center is a joint project of the township and the YMCA's Bayshore Multiservice Center.

Mrs. Florence Jansen and Mrs. Madeline Tracey, both members of the Recreation Commission, were instrumental in establishing the center.

Teen center to open in Union Beach school

UNION BEACH
A new teen center will open soon at the Florence Avenue School.

The center will be open Tuesdays and Thursdays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

An assortment of games, including ping pong, pool, checker, chess, cards, and electric baseball, football, basketball, and dart games, have been purchased.

The Board of Education has given permission to use one room of the two-room schoolhouse at Florence Avenue and Edmonds Street. The other room is being used for a preschool program.

Membership is open to residents of Union Beach ages 13-17. A membership card, available at the center, will be required.

If there is sufficient response, the center hopes to be able to remain open Tuesdays and Thursdays.

In local recreation projects

Carlson sees limited role for county

By Maureen Daly

FREEHOLD

Repealing a suggestion to revise the county parks system to include a proposed recreation pier for Keyport, Freeholder Axel Carlson said the county can offer the help of municipal officials in obtaining state or federal funds for the project.

Carlson rushed for a hearing on the motion to a third term as a Republican Freeholder, said the town is unable to go it alone elsewhere in the Bayshore.

Democratic Freeholder candidate Thomas Lynch recently said the county should consider revising its system to provide more diversified recreation areas, such as the proposed pier.

However, Carlson maintained that the parks within the county, such as Gateway National Park and the 17 golf courses, already provide facilities for residents with several different types of recreation.

"What the county can do," Carlson said, "is for these towns that might want other kinds of parks, to get them assistance to show them how to do it."

Carlson added, "This is the one area the municipality should try to acquire the necessary land before Green Acres (land sale) runs dry."

The latter can get matching funds for putting up the pier and this is the way it should be done," Carlson said.

The Republican, who has been a lifelong fisherman, said that smaller, central parks should be conceived and maintained by the local town.

"How can the county get involved in vest-pocket parks when it should be done by the municipality?" Carl son asked.

"Look at the problems that Gateway has brought," Carlson said.

Because the national park is a totally free recreation facility, Carlson said, traffic arteries approaching the park have become congested.

"One situation creates another problem," Carlson said.

Commenting on the Keyport pier "sounds like a great recreational program," Carlson said he welcomed any inquiries for assistance from municipal officials.

However, Carlson said that the factors involved in the program required direction and decision-making from local residents.

MRHS Band places second in contest

MATAWAN

The Matawan Regional High School Band, directed by James Truncer, placed second on Sunday in the Class B band competition held at Lenape High School, Medford, announced the director, Diemer Zimmer, band director.

The band has 85 members and 65 majorettes.

"We make ourselves available to them whenever they have problems," Carlson said. "But I can't tell them what to do."

Carlson said the responsibility for larger parks belongs to the state, State and federal parks departments fund county acquisitions of sites such as the unfinished Hartshorne Woods in Locust, and Holmdel park.

"The state is not going to build vest-pocket parks for the county," Carlson said.

"The more people, the more services are needed. It is only going to get bigger."

"The county government is regionalization," Carlson said. "Of course it will expand. We have got to provide for what is going to happen here in the future."

"For that reason," Carlson said he especially urged municipalities "to get some of these funds for parks."

Mayor stalks out of council meeting

FREEHOLD BOROUGH
"I formally plan to ask the mayor to resign at the next meeting," Councilman James W. Cullen said Monday after Mayor J. William Boyle walked out of a council meeting when the council refused to sit on an ordinance up for second reading and adoption.

The ordinance would designate certain streets as limited or no-parking areas.

Councilman C. Thomas Barkalow moved that in the next council meeting when the council holds an informal hearing on the ordinance. He wants a motion to pass the ordinance up for second reading and adoption.

"I formally plan to ask the mayor to resign at the next meeting," Boyle said, "and I want a motion to pass the ordinance." Boyle then asked O'Connor if the ordinance had been advertised, knowing that there were changes. O'Connor said that the ordinance was publicized four weeks ago. The changes, he said, came from people reviewing the ordinance. Boyle then asked O'Connor if the ordinance was passed at the last meeting.

The mayor said that the ordinance was passed at the last meeting, but that there were changes. O'Connor said that the ordinance was publicized four weeks ago. The changes, he said, came from people reviewing the ordinance.

"That's what a public meeting is for," Councilman Jacqueline Boldt said.

The ordinance would designate certain streets as limited or no-parking areas.

Mayor Boyle said: "These people came to express themselves tonight on this ordinance. They shouldn't have to come again." Boyle then asked O'Connor if the ordinance had been advertised, knowing that there were changes. O'Connor said that the ordinance was publicized four weeks ago. The changes, he said, came from people reviewing the ordinance.

"That's what a public meeting is for," Councilman Jacqueline Boldt said.

We should have a Business Administrator, no doubt at all. But any administrator should have free rein to expand his position.

He should offer a service that cannot be performed by part-time officials, not simply a glorified clerk doing simple tasks. The Mayor should act after official approval of his policies. Mr. O'Connor, when confronted with this question, stated that he didn't know if we needed a business administrator, but if he worked 8 hours a day he could go along with it. Mr. Way, what if the administrator worked 16 hours a day? Would you pay him double his present salary or double and a half? A proper administrator (John Wilson not excluded) could be a money-saving force in any town.

Concerning the waterfront—The administration promised us a marina, and now a pier for recreation. The marina hasn't materialized, why? The application for state funding did not include specific plans as required and was improperly filed, resulting in no money for the project. They now tell us that there wasn't any money available. Is that so?

The Republicans only promise more parking lots at the waterfront. They certainly have some imagination.

We, the Democrats, will plan recreational waterfront projects.

We want handstands, and a municipal recreation building in a park-like atmosphere, but only if funds can be secured from the State thru Green Acres or other programs. We are not going to burden the taxpayers with projects out of pocket, so to speak, or provide attractions for out-of-towners, such as a marina.

Regarding marinas: Perth Amboy is trying to unload its marina on the county, because it has been losing $30,000 yearly while only 20 percent of its slips are filled by local business. We want the waterfront to be enjoyed by our residents, not as a place to live for those who wish to reside here. The administration promised us a marina, and now a pier for recreation. What about the business section? We all realize it has been going downhill, except E. R.步 the rest of the line, that have any remittances been projected outside from the Republicans parking lot? No! We propose to have the local civic organizations and municipal bodies give some thought to the as yet unsolved problem. However, the business community must realize that even with all the space required for parking, if made available, the business people need new pricing and merchandising procedures and only answer the immediate needs of the citizenry, not to compete with the large chain store centers. Small-town business districts that try to answer all needs are phasing out. Look around you. And why didn't the business people form a corporation (non-profit) to establish a supermarket to answer the immediate needs of the citizenry, not to compete with the large chain stores.

We, the Democrats, will plan recreational waterfront projects.

We want handstands, and a municipal recreation building in a park-like atmosphere, but only if funds can be secured from the State thru Green Acres or other programs. We are not going to burden the taxpayers with projects out of pocket, so to speak, or provide attractions for out-of-towners, such as a marina. We, the Democrats, will plan recreational waterfront projects.

Falcons rally to edge Middletown, clinch title

By Larry Adelman

The Raritan Rockets improved their record to 5-1 Saturday by blanking Central Regional, 29-0, in their best performance this season.

Coaches Frank Spanozi's squad will play its first non-conference game Friday when the Rockets travel to Phillipsburg for an 8 p.m. clash with the Lakers.

Phillipsburg has a 2-1 record, but it's misleading. The Lakers have played one of the tougher high school football schedules in the state including Montclair, Brick, and some of the top teams in Pennsylvania.

Defensively and offensively, the Lakers resemble the Raritan team of former coach Joe Oski. They run out of the "wing-T" formation, passing only when they have to. The Lakers used the same formation with an injury at quarterback.

Middletown and most other teams use a balanced line. Defensively, they use a 4-2 setup, shifting into a 5-4 in passing situations.

The Central Regional game wasn't as close as the score indicates. Raritan dominated the contest right from the opening game.

Early in the first quarter, Danny Kirgan Allen passed to Kevin Allen and they returned it to the Central 14. It was Kirgan's third interception of the season. Four plays later, fullback Dave Marco snared 31 yards through a gaping hole on the left side of the line to score the first of his three touchdowns. Brian Young's extra point made it 7-0.

It stayed that way until the second quarter, when Eustace's twelfth touchdown pass against Pop Warner Midget football was the score of the afternoon. Quarterback Joe Smith ran for a two-point conversion.

For the Falcons, things went from bad to worse in the second half. They fumbled the kickoff, and entered the extra period without a lead for the remainder of the season.

But the Falcons' attack was impressive over the final three touchdowns. They rolled up 276 yards on offense, while the defense held Raritan to the Polecats to less than 100 yards.

The game was never in doubt for the Falcons. On the first two times it had the ball, taking the opening kickoff 51 yards for a touchdown and then marching 80 yards against Downtown N Oest Regional to pay. Brian Mendelevich, who connected in 13 of 18 passes for the afternoon, ran nine yards for the second touchdown.

Middletown was also undetested this year—and showed it defeat Middletown, 25-19, and clinch the A North division title of the Jersey Shore Pop Warner Football League.

In winning their second division championship in two years, the Falcons had their final game finish with a 130-0 lead in the second half of the game. They also held Middletown scoreless in the first two games of the season. A balanced line, manned by Bob Tomaino and Kevin Flanigan, was impressive even without the Junior Pee Wee game. It was Eustace's tenth touchdown pass of the season.

The Juniors are undefeated, and a major reason is the offensive line, manned by Tom Clancy, John Cava, Bob Sepe, Bob DeMauro, and Scott Setty.

Huskies'Hawks, Holmde hold foes scoreless

The Hawks' Pee Wee also blanked Middletown, 35-0, and the Junior Pee Wee Pees also won a 54-0 shutout over New Jersey.

Day denies he tried to buy tract for seniors housing

MATAMAW BOROUGH

Councilman Donald Day and Mrs. Kaye Rasmussen strongly disagree on whether Day ever intended to buy a 2-acre tract off Southgate Avenue, proposed for a seniors citizens apartment project.

Last week, Mayor Victor Brannen announced the plans for the 160-unit complex for two parcels near Route 35 will be reviewed by the Planning Board within five weeks.

The other site is a 7-acre tract behind the Mt. Pleasant Manor. N.A.T.S.I.N.

“Day was not a principal in the purchase or sale of the property,” Mrs. Rasmussen said. “He said he was involved in politics for 20 years and that is over twice the facts are presented. I question the project on the basis of the facts as presented. I questioned the project on the basis of the facts as presented.

According to Mrs. Rasmussen’s motives for the proposed development,” Day denied ever having talked to her properly, she said, and flatly denied ever having talked to her properly. Day denied ever having talked to her properly. Day denied ever having talked to her properly.

Teens seek gathering place

but "nothing is available for the teenager who is less sports-minded.""

Councillor Richard Wolfe said the owners of Burger Chef, Acme, and the Crown service station—all vacant buildings on Route 34—had been asked if they would lease their facilities for use as a teen center. The owners refused. Wolfe said.

Councillor Hans Froehlich said religious organizations could provide space for teens, but "they don't like to make their facilities available except to their own kind.” Predicting that his comments would be "unpopular with the religious community," Froehlich said, "I wish the religious organizations would put their money where their mouth is. They have the physical facilities where these groups could be accommodated on a rotating basis one night a week.”

Naming several churches and synagogues, Froehlich said he was "not singling out one faith or creed. They are equally in the same boat. If moral leadership is needed, it should come from them.”

Froehlich's son, Tom, was one of the teens who spoke during the meeting.

Robert Collins, Planning Board chairman, suggested that the Township Council "should get involved with the borough in a joint venture." A new state program offers funds for services jointly offered by two or more municipalities. Collins said Matawan Borough recently appointed a committee to explore the possibility of a youth center.

When several parents said that schools should be made available to the teenagers in the evening, Froehlich said, "We go to the Board of Education and the superintendent every year, and we get a very sympathetic ear, but that's as far as it goes.”
