Senior citizen housing proposal made to Matawan Township Council

The proposal for a 150-unit senior citizen housing project was presented to the Matawan Township Council Monday night by Robert G. Stone of Dancing Hill Development, Matawan.

Stone said the project would be located on a 6-acre site near Bob's Restaurant, off Church Street, near Atlantic Avenue. The site would have been acquired earlier this year.

"Matawan has been collecting contributions from the public for a new town hall. I thought it would be fitting for us to do the same for senior citizens," Stone said.

The council agreed to consider the proposal further at its next meeting.

Matawan collecting funds for new township hall

The Township Council Monday launched an attack on the water problem which has been plaguing residents in the northern part of the borough.

A council-appointed high-pressure flushing program, agreed to replace 1,800 feet of either a higher or longer line, and reported Township Manager Donald F. Guluzzy in a memorandum for their consideration.

In an article in the program, said by David Bazzano, engineer for the Municipal Utilities Authority, it will begin tomorrow.

According to Guluzzy, the Public Works Dept. will begin flushing tomorrow, tomorrow and continue for approximately six months. Each section of water main would be flushed from two different directions.

Matawan engineering experts have determined that the water system in the northern part of the borough is the problem, according to the council's findings.

The flushing program, said by David Bazzano, engineer for the Municipal Utilities Authority, will begin tomorrow.

"We're trying to flush these areas out," said Guluzzy.

The council's flushing program was ordered by the Borough Council, which said it had no choice under the law in order to provide the best possible water in the area.

Fiorino retains leader's position

WALL ISLAND

First Selectman William Fiorino last night failed by a narrow margin to retain County Clerk John Fina's position as first Selectman as Wall Island's town meeting voted to reelect him to another term.

Fiorino, the incumbent, was reelected by a vote 208 to 202.

Because the vote of the executive committee and representatives was not counted, there was no official result until after the meeting.

"I think that I'll run again," said Fiorino.

School board gives superintendent responsibility for capital projects.

MATAWAN—Resolution problems with two major projects, the Board of Education Monday night adopted a policy making the superintendent of schools responsible for the development of plans and the supervision of projects for capital improvements.

But in a related move, the board tabled a resolution in have a clock of the works at a salary of $2,000 a month. A clock of the works would inspect contractors' work, ensuring that it conformed to specifications.

The new policy was proposed after the board received problems with a two major projects to develop athletic facilities at the high school and two major projects to develop athletic facilities for the high school and junior high school.

Specifications for the high school track and field facilities did not meet minimum state standards, according to the board. The contractor had been charged with giving the project for the project.

The board, recognizing the need to improve track and field facilities, approved a resolution to develop athletic facilities at the high school and junior high school.

The board, in its meeting with superintendent Dr. Martin E. Biddle, officials said the policy makes a major change in the way the district handles capital projects.

Several board members questioned the proposed idea of the clerk of the works, and Biddle moved to take a resolution to have Arthur Gilker for the job.

The resolution was carried with a score of 4-1, after the meeting was adjourned.

High school students have already received a bulletin stating school construction is scheduled to be available next week, and then to Alain himself, a student.

Retiring art teacher looks back on 40 years in Matawan schools

By Lee Deigle
MATURE SOLUTION

When Matawan High School art teacher Dorothy Wolverton, who has taught art for 40 years, announced that she was retiring, the Matawan school system wanted to have an assembly to honor her, so they gave her a standing ovation as a token of appreciation.

As the school system’s only art teacher at the time, Mrs. Wolverton usually taught in the art room, and some other physical education classes during her teaching career. She received a “ Congressman of the Day” certificate for her efforts to provide art education to pupils who are not interested in science.

At Matawan High School, she was a member of the Matawan School Board, and a parent of two elementary school students. She has also been involved in various community activities, including coaching girls’ basketball and participating in Matawan School Board activities.

Mrs. Wolverton has taught art at three generations of students in Matawan, and will retire this year. Above, she works with 7-year-old Fred Barker at the Ravine Drive Elementary School. (Photo by James Atkins)

Marlboro reacts to conflict report

By Lee Deigle

Following several newspaper reports that a conflict of interest exists between Mayor John G. Linn and School Board Chairman Reed Pluse, Mayor Linn said he had done business with the township, Mayor Arthur Goldzweig last week directed Township Attorney Herbert Bertin to prepare a list of recommendation for public officials to avoid potential conflicts of interest.

Mayor’s report is due to the township Council’s next council meeting.

We have to try to figure out a way to avoid this. Goldzweig said. “Right now, we don’t know what the law requires. I would need to create a committee to advise the township on the possibility of avoiding potential conflicts of interest.”

A state law prohibits public officials from doing business with the municipality. Although Pluse’s ownership of the Harvard Mobile Printings Co. Freehold, is listed on his disclosure form, no one has commented on the present situation.

“This is an act of producing another profit,” Burton said.
