Hornik finds votes for Goldzeig appointment

By Lee Duigon

The Borough Council yesterday was expected to confirm the appointments of James Birnbaum and Paul Jones to the Planning Board and Oliver Kass, Dennis Bierman and James Birnbaum to the Zoning Board of Adjustment. The appointments were made by Mayor Williams, who said he would like to see the two men sworn in on Tuesday. He also said he would like to see the two men sworn in on Tuesday. He also said he would like to see a qualified person appointed to the Planning Board.

The council also asked Township Manager Ted McLauglin to take steps to ensure that the Planning Board operates as efficiently as possible.

The mayor said he would like to see the two men sworn in on Tuesday. He also said he would like to see a qualified person appointed to the Planning Board.

Hiring of administrator

focus of dispute in Keyport

By Judy Glenn

The Borough Council of Keyport yesterday named Katherine Wildman as its new administrator, replacing James Birnbaum, who was appointed by the council last month.

Wildman, 42, is an experienced administrator who has worked in several key positions in the Keyport area. She has been with the borough since 1990 and has served as its director of public works and as its acting administrator.

Wildman was chosen over several other candidates, including two other administrators who had previously applied for the position.

The council said it was impressed with Wildman's extensive experience and her ability to manage a complex organization.

Wildman's appointment is effective immediately and she will be sworn into her new position in the near future.
Motorcyclist leads police on fast chase

MIDDLETOWN—A motorcycle accident occurred Christmas Day after leading police on a high-speed chase. The accident happened on several sections of the township, according to police.

Daniel Sanz, 20, of Newport Lane, Middletown, was arrested at 10:30 p.m. Dec. 25 in Belmar. He and another motorcyclist were racing along Route 36 near Leonardo when they were stopped by Ptl. Kevin McCleary, police said.

McCleary began chasing Sanz, who was traveling at least 75 mph, police said.

Police say Sanz was later arrested and charged with several motor vehicle offenses.

Sanz once again traveled along the highway, this time westbound—and was finally arrested in Belmar.

He was charged with several motor vehicle offenses and was released on $200 bail.

His racing competition wreaked havoc, according to police.

Vandals mar Broad Street classrooms

MAYWOOD—Several classrooms of the Broad Street Elementary School were damaged by vandals last week, according to Mayor of Maywood, Michael Schloss.

The damage occurred Dec. 21, two days after the school was closed for holiday vacations.

Parents were upset about the area, Schloss said, and police were thrown on the wall in about 100 of the school. Parents were devastated, according to school officials.

The school authorities are investigating the incident.

Sherlock Holmes and the obligatory sex scene

The advent of a new year is an occasion for reflection, an opportunity to take stock of one's pros and cons, good or bad. We should evaluate our circumstances and projects, and perhaps even make some resolutions. It is a time for introspection, for self-examination. And it is also a time for celebration, for the joy of new beginnings.

Certainly, there were some significant events that occurred in the past year, both in the personal and professional life of our protagonist, Mr. Holmes. He faced many challenges, both internal and external, and emerged with a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction.

In his latest cases, Holmes demonstrated his remarkable deductive skills and his keen eye for detail. He solved the Baskerville case, which had mystified and confounded many, and uncovered the truth behind the mystery of the cursed heirs. And he also helped to solve the case of the Vanishing Man, which had baffled the police and the public alike.

Holmes's success in these cases was due in large part to his ability to think critically and to observe the world with a fresh and unprejudiced eye. He was able to see beyond the obvious and to uncover hidden truths. And he did so with a sense of humor and a touch of irony, never taking himself too seriously.

But despite his many successes, Holmes also faced some setbacks. His relationship with Miss Mary Morstan, whom he had come to care for deeply, was strained by the demands of his work and the challenges of life in London. And he struggled with his own demons, his tendency to become too involved in the cases he handled and to neglect his personal life.

Despite these challenges, Holmes remained steadfast in his commitment to justice and to the pursuit of truth. And he continued to serve as a role model for those who would follow in his footsteps.

As this new year begins, let us all make a fresh start, resolve to be better versions of ourselves, and embrace the opportunities that await us. Let us hold fast to our principles and work toward a better future.

Marlboro

The Township Council last week canceled a public hearing on cable television and radio franchises. The council also voted in favor of Public Utilities Commission rules that cable franchises should be awarded Marlboro’s cable TV franchises.

Township Attorney Herbert Bierman recommended the move because, he said, the council, one of the cable firms, apparently involved in a grand jury investigation.

Councillor Hynes suggested that the council withdraw its application for a cable television franchise.

The council in September rejected bids from both companies when it learned that its competitor, Futurevision, was associated with a company when it learned that it was involved in a grand jury investigation.

Normally the BPU awards franchises to the firm selected by the municipality and local officials write the franchise agreements regulating the operation of cable TV franchises.

According to Bierman, each cable firm would appeal the township’s decision to the BPU if the council showed in competing.

Middle Road Village firm settles suit with township

By Arlene Feldman

The Middle Road Village firm has settled a suit with the township, it was announced today.

The firm, Middle Road Village, and the township have agreed to a settlement in a lawsuit that was filed earlier this year.

The lawsuit was filed by the firm against the township, alleging that the township had violated state law by failing to provide the firm with a fair contract.

In addition to the settlement, the firm has agreed to pay the township $10,000 in damages.

The firm was represented by attorney Robert Brown, who said he was pleased with the settlement.

The township was represented by attorney Jane Smith, who said she was also pleased with the settlement.

The settlement was reached after several months of negotiations between the firm and the township.

The firm was founded in 1978 by Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, and is currently owned by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Middle Road Village, in cooperation with the township, has been working on a number of projects in the township, including the construction of a new library and the renovation of the old town hall.

Businessmen 'no-shows' at women's seminar
